Clinton may get new center

School officials study new vocational ed plan

By TIM YOUNKMAN

ST. JOHNS—Clinton County may be getting a vocational training center. At least it could, if the county intermediate office and the state can agree on a proposal.

Representatives from the six Clinton County boards of education met last week with the intermediate board and superintendent and voted to go ahead with plans to develop a county-wide vocational school.

B. Stanley Pocus, intermediate district superintendent, said the recommendation followed a joint meeting of school superintendents and board presidents and members of the intermediate board.

The 20 school officials met to discuss the findings and recommendations of the Ad Hoc Committee of the Tri-County Coordinating Committee on Vocational Education.

Pocus said the vocational education facility would have a program designed specifically for career education for 11th and 12th grade high school students from the six constituent districts in the county. The districts include St. Johns, Fowler, Pewamo-Westphalia, Ovid-Elsie, DeWitt and Bath.

It was pointed out during the meeting that the intermediate district can act only as a coordinating agency for vocational education and cannot operate a vocational program on its own. It can enter into contractual arrangements with school districts if vocational programs are needed and cannot be established to levy taxes and coordinate a program.

Pocus said the state department of education must approve any plan decided at the local level and establish guidelines or directives for future planning. He said the formal agreement by the Clinton County board could come during their regular meeting Nov. 11.

The school officials also pointed out the inadequate facilities which house the intermediate offices, currently located across from the county courthouse. They expressed an interest in investigating the possibility of finding more adequate facilities for the intermediate staff.

"It is strongly felt by local school officials that the growth of the intermediate staff and programs in recent years makes it essential that additional facilities be obtained," Pocus said.

The two recommendations have been taken under advisement by the intermediate board of education and a decision regarding them "will be reached in the near future," Pocus said.

LANSING—A state vocational education department official has vowed there will be some changes made in the planning of vocational education in Clinton County.

A new concept in vocational education will be the establishment of a series of planning districts, following a master plan beginning in 1972. One of the problems facing the department is what to do with Clinton County.

State and county intermediate school officials met recently in Lansing to discuss directions for Clinton's vocational program. The individual school superintendents were represented by Donald Kenney, Ovid-Elsie's superintendent.

Edwin St. John of the vocational department said last week that the officials were told to coordinate their efforts at a local level and present their plans to a tri-county coordinating council.

He pointed out that Clinton County currently had no vocational training facilities to serve all of the six county school districts and may be asked to join a regional district, most likely located in Ingham County.

School officials were asked to establish a plan to present to the tri-county group by Nov. 19. There will be a special meeting Nov. 30 for all 49 coordinators in this area to lay out detailed plans on vocational education centers.

Final plans will then be worked out establishing programs now offered and those discussed but not operational to be submitted to the state board of education for final approval.

St. Johns said there was a possibility of Clinton County students being attached to the Ingham Vocational Skill Center, one of 90 different area centers throughout Michigan.

"Many areas such as Clinton County have not identified exactly what they are going to do," St. John said. If the local districts decide to set up a vocational center for the county, Clinton voters will get a chance to give the ultimate approval or rejection. The intermediate district will have to pay from .5 to three mills to pay for half of the program with the remainder coming in federal funding. The Ingham and Genesee counties' vocational ed programs were established in this manner.

Whatever plan is decided, the state board of education must approve the move.

But Clinton County does have a coordinator for establishing a link between various school districts. He is Ken Lashaway, currently vocational director at St. Johns High School.

Lashaway, who helped institute a building trades program at the high school where students built modern ranch homes on assignment, also works part time with other districts to coordinate vocational training

Hospital honors late Dr. Stoller

By TOM DEWITT

ST. JOHNS—"Because of his great interest and love of children," the Pediatrics Department of Clinton Memorial Hospital will be known as the P. F. Stoller Pediatric Department.

The announcement was made Monday following a meeting of the medical staff of the hospital. They acted after the late Dr. P. F. Stoller's widow requested they so be used.

In a letter Mrs. Stoller said, "After considering the various uses of the funds so kindly given in memory of Dr. Stoller, at the time of his death, it is our desire that if possible the funds which are not otherwise specified, be used in the Pediatric Department. We feel this would be particularly fitting because of his great interest and love of children."

The medical staff statement said: "In recognition of the long years that Dr. Stoller acted as chief of pediatrics at this hospital and served as school physician to the children of this community, the medical staff of Clinton Memorial Hospital, in a special meeting on Oct. 29, recognized the request from the family of Dr. P. F. Stoller that memorial funds donated at the time of his death without specific indication of their use be included in remodeling and provision of new furnishings and equipment in the pediatric department."

DR. STOLLER

IT WAS FURTHER recommended that the department of pediatrics be known as the P. F. Stoller Pediatric Department and that an appropriate memorial plaque be placed to signify this action.

The medical staff said anyone wishing to participate in the memorial may do so by sending contributions to the Stoller Memorial Fund in care of the hospital.

The staff is planning on a public dedication of the department when the project is completed.

The revamping of the department would include a playroom, new furnishings, painting and fixing up of the walls with decals and other pictures. It would involve revamping of five existing rooms and creation of a playroom.

Work program offers new hope

By TOM DEWITT
Co-Editor

ST. JOHNS—There's new hope for unemployed persons on the public assistance rolls in Clinton County.

The Michigan Employment Security Commission announced the opening of a work incentive program within the county to be headed by Donald O. Berndt of Owosso. The announcement was made by Fred Hanes, branch manager of the Lansing MESC office.

The work incentive program (WIN) hopes to move men and women and out of school youths 16 or older off the public assistance rolls and into productive employment.

Berndt has set up an office at 1002 E. State St. (in front of the Schmitt Electric Warehouse) and he is open for business.

"THE MAIN GOAL of the local office is satisfactory employment of all WIN enrollees as a result of this service," Berndt said. "At the present time, services at the local office will be limited to those enrollees who are employable."

Persons considered employable are those who have no health and child care problems and also have transportation.

"We feel there are approximately 50 such persons now on the public assistance rolls in Clinton County," Berndt said. "The target will be to place all employable enrollees in jobs and get them off of the public assistance rolls."

The WIN program, which went into effect in 1967 as part of amendments of the social security act, works the same as an employment service but deals with persons being serviced by the Clinton County Department of Social Services. Berndt said the office was established in Clinton County because there were persons who wanted to work but did not have transportation to Owosso or Lansing to enroll at the offices there, or to look for jobs. Also, clients won't have to call long distance anymore.

"WE ALREADY HAVE a couple of them working," he said.

Social Services Director Roger Schutes said he was very happy with the opening of the office and was looking forward to its success.

"In the past, we have not had the staff available to provide this type of service," Schutes said.

Schutes said every effort would be made to employ those persons on the public assistance rolls as long as they meet the requirements.

"HOWEVER, if someone should refuse to enter into employment their assistance could be cut off," Schutes said. "But there are many things taken into consideration before that extreme would be taken."

In some cases, persons could both work and receive public assistance. ADC cases could be considered in this area. Again, there are many things taken into consideration.

"There are people receiving public as-

Auxiliary in 1967 is in the process of being updated. To date the revised list includes Helping Hands in some 240 homes in the city of St. Johns.

Chairman of the committee is Mrs. Donna Humenik and other members working on the project are Mrs. Roberta O'Connor and Mrs. Martha Wyles.

These hands are wordless signs which children can "read" as symbols of help and haven when in trouble outside their own homes. If they have an injury, are being bullied by other children, become lost or, more terrifying are threatened by a child molester, the youngsters know they can run to a home displaying a hand to receive aid.

The signs are posted two to a block by the St. Johns Jaycee Auxiliary for a program appropriately called Helping Hands. Children in the neighborhood are instructed to go to homes posting the signs when in need of help. These homes have been recommended by civic leaders prior to placing the symbol in their window.

Persons displaying this emblem are instructed to assist the child by summoning the parents and the proper emergency agency. They are advised against any application of medication.

The symbol of help is a 8 inch by nine inch card on which a dark blue hand has been placed. On the back of the placard are listed the local emergency telephone numbers and instructions to volunteers.

Internal med specialist due here Dec.1

ST. JOHNS—By the first of December, St. Johns will have a new doctor.

He is Dr. Herand Garapetian, 35, an internal medicine specialist currently working at McClaron General Hospital in Flint.

The announcement was made Tuesday morning by Brandon C. White, chairman of the Doctor Search Committee.

Dr. Garapetian graduated from Tehran Medical Facility in Iran and did post graduate work in England for five years. He arrived in the United States about a year and a half ago and has resided in Flint since that time.

HE IS MARRIED and has four daughters, Irenna, 8, Juliet, 6, Odette, 4 and Lisa, 1 1/2.

The Doctor Search Committee raised approximately $5,000 to bring in a new physician to the Clinton Memorial Hospital. The money was raised through contributions to the fund and will be used to provide heat, lights, rental of office space and secretarial help for the first 90 days. It will also pay for malpractice insurance premium.

White said Dr. Garapetian will arrive on or around Dec. 1 in St. Johns.

Double Exposure twice this week

ST. JOHNS—Double Exposure is usually a big goof you make with a camera. And usually it involves at least one, if not two of the best pictures on a roll of film.

Double Exposure has another meaning. At least this week, right here in beautiful downtown St. Johns.

Double Exposure is a big spoof, or a farce if you prefer. It is the title of the first production of the winter series of plays being brought to you by your friendly neighborhood thespians, the First Nighters. The play opens Thursday night at Rodney B. Wilson auditorium for two performances. The second will be Saturday night.

THE PLOT REVOLVES around a psychiatrist and his nephew. The nephew is in need of money and goes to all lengths to get it. And he has a group of theatrical friends to help him out.

Jim McQueen is Mark Carruthers, the nephew. He shares the lead with four others, Rachel Houska as Maldee Holmes, Roger Glumm as Curt Ellis and Sharon Speck, as Mrs. Darlene Phipps Housington.

The play is under the direction of Duane Miller and is being produced by Mrs. Jeannie Moon. There are 13 members in the cast.

Other members are John Speck, Steve Thelen, Henry Dellar, Teresa Smith Freed, Diane Goodknecht, Bonnie Kimball, Diane Rademacher, Carla Kurnez and Betty Stone.

TICKETS ARE $1.50 for adults and $1 for students. Curtain time for Double Exposure will be 8 p.m. Thursday and the second exposure at the same time Saturday.

Rehearsing a scene from the upcoming production of the First Nighters are Jim McQueen, Teresa Freed, Steve Thelen and Carla Kurnez. The play will be presented Thursday and Saturday at Rodney B. starting at 8 p.m.

New fire truck shows need for expansion

ST. JOHNS—The City will be getting a new shiny red fire truck within the next month. But there is no place to put it.

City Manager Harvey Weatherwax told City Commissioners Tuesday the truck would be arriving within a few weeks but one of the older trucks would have to be moved out to the DPW garage to make room for it.

This prompted a discussion of building an addition onto the fire hall at the rear of the building.

Weatherwax said a basic cement block building could be constructed for about $8,000 to $10,000 to provide space for the grass fire truck and the oldest fire rig.

He also said an architect's study would cost about $2,000. The commission agreed that was too expensive and ordered Weatherwax to proceed with his own study.

In other commission action, residents of Garfield St. do not seem to be having as much trouble with the water anymore.

The city installed some temporary catch basins for study. If they prove out, permanent ones will be installed. The residents thanked the commission for their prompt attention to the matter.

The Commission adopted Ordinance 243, the new building code and discussed Planning Commission recommendations. They tabled the recommendations and ordered the city attorney to attend all regular meetings of the planners to help in their decisions.

Another visit by a young man over Our House prompted further discussion of the probable closing of the teen center.

The young man, who did not give his name, said he was 15 and after the stores closed downtown there was nothing for him to do.

Commissioner Roy Ebert asked him if he belonged to any organizations, or visited the schools, the park or the library.

"In the beginning you people ignored this body in planning the teen center," Ebert said. "Maybe then we could have helped you organize, but you didn't ask. Now you get in a bind and come to us for help."

He explained the recreation budget had already been relegated to provide slow pitch softball in the summer, ice skating, badminton, and basketball in the winter.

Ebert suggested Our House approach the service clubs for help or go out and earn the needed money.

The youth said they were trying this method, having held a rummage sale and a bake sale recently.

Larger stop signs and stop ahead signs have been installed at Oakland and Sturgis in an effort to cut down on accidents there.

Bids were accepted for a stake rack truck and a 3/4 ton pickup truck. Low bidder in both cases was Montague International, with bids of $3,580 and $2,337.

assistance that do want to work," Schutes said.

Clinton County is one of the lowest counties in Michigan with persons receiving public assistance based on the county population. Per thousand population, 22 persons receive public assistance in Clinton. The county is one of six under 25 per thousand. Clinton spends $10.44 per inhabitant of the county while the state average is $30.

BERNDT SAID THE job picture appears to be brightening in the county.

"We now have more jobs on our board than we have had in the past," he said.

However, in order to reach the goal of employing all employable persons, cooperation is needed.

"In order for this program to work we need full cooperation between employers, Department of Social Services, community and county leaders with the WIN office," Berndt said.

IN ADDITION, SERVICES at the Lansing center will also be available to the Clinton office.

Berndt comes to Clinton County with a background of 26 years working for the MESO. He was a placement interviewer and veterans employment representative in the Owosso office of the Commission.

Vocational

Owosso's program in Shiawassee County's vocational plan, but O-E school officials have taken a "wait and see" attitude on determining just where the district will participate. Kenney said if a new vocational center is located in Clinton County, ideally somewhere between St. Johns and the DeWitt-Bath area, Ovid-Elsie would join the Clinton program.

At the present time, O-E offers home economics and a top flight agricultural program as part of its expanding career planning courses.

He said he would like to expand the program into such areas as die casting, sod farming and landscaping, graphic arts and auto mechanics. Plans are currently being worked out to start a mechanic program utilizing the bus garage and equipment. This could be accomplished by next year.

Officials are worried that voters will not encourage a new vocational arts program from the intermediate district nor be willing to fund it. If that happens, other areas of Michigan, officials say, will advance much more rapidly with vocational training, leaving St. Johns and Clinton County disorganized and ripe for controls from a higher level.

Methodists to host lay witness mission

"Renewal by laymen" is the key to renewing the church in today's world. This is the conviction expressed by many outstanding leaders within the church. Spiritual poverty is caused not so much by materialism, secularism, and skepticism from without, as blight on the spirit within the church. For this reason Archbishop William Temple once said, "The Church is no longer a force, but a field to evangelism."

single offensive the Church has ever launched.

St. Johns United Methodist Church is hosting a Lay Witness Mission this weekend, Nov. 5-6-7, that laymen may have an opportunity of sharing their faith. MR. AND MRS. MICHAEL M. NOBACH

FOWLER—White gladiolus and yellow and orange daisy mums decorated the altar of Holy Trinity Church for the 11 a.m. ceremony uniting in marriage Virginia D. Bertram and Michael M. Nobach. Rev. Albert Schmitt performed the double ring Oct. 18 service.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bertram of R-1, Fowler and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Nobach of R-2, Fowler.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents and approached the altar wearing an empire-style gown of white satin featuring long full sleeves and a high collar. The bodice, cuffs and collar were accented with heavy cotton lace. A daisy lace Juliet cap secured her chapel-length veil and she carried a bouquet of yellow sweetheart roses and white baby breath.

Allied Bertram of Fowler was maid of honor and serving as bridesmaids were Mrs. Gary L. Brown of St. Johns and Mrs. Albert Arens of Westphalia, all sisters of the bride. The attendants wore empire-style gowns with large full sleeves trimmed with full matching the skirt. The bodice was done in yellow and the skirt was made of an acrylic print in fall colors of green, yellow, orange, brown and rust. The gowns were made by the mother of the bride and the bride's sister, Mrs. Brown. They wore yellow and orange flowers in their hair and carried bouquets of yellow and orange daisy mums centered with a yellow rose.

Best man was Tom Nobach of Fowler and serving as groomsmen were Roger Nobach and Russ Nobach of Fowler, all brothers of the groom. Seating the guests were ushers Kenneth Bertram and Steve Nobach.

A 5 p.m. reception was held at the Fowler Conservation Club

HOSPITAL NOTES

The Hospital Auxiliary Board met on Wednesday, Oct. 19, in the hospital dining room.

Mrs. Cyrus Waldron, chairman, introduced Mrs. Charles Mathews, of Fowler, a new board member.

Mrs. Gifford Pease reported the serving committee had made 218 new articles this year and Mrs. Oliver Montague reported the Puppet Committee had the Christmas red flannelstockings and hats ready for the December babies to wear home.

Mrs. Virgil Zeeb reported on the success of the theatre party. Of the 41 persons attending, 18 were from the City of St. Johns, and the rest were from the environs, one from as far as Clare. A spring theatre party is to be planned, possibly with two buses.

The installation of TV brackets for each room is being done. Hopefully, this project will be completed in all parts shortly.

The Fathers' Waiting Room on the second floor came under the critical eye of the Hospital Auxiliary Board. It is now taking on a new look. Mrs. Ted Dault and Mrs. Fred Ferris applied a fresh coat of paint, Mrs. Albert Nelson donated a pole lamp, which softens the lighting, and new draperies are being hung.

Agents are on the lookout for more useful furniture that might be borrowed from a less popular area of the hospital.

Friday, Dec. 10 is the tentative date set for the Christmas cookie sale. At this time, the hand knitted afghan will be awarded to a donor. All Auxiliary members are soliciting donations of 50 cents each, or 3 for $1. The afghan will be on public display before Dec. 10.

The Hospital Auxiliary Board voted to purchase a memorial book in which to record the Heart Monitor Memorial names. It will be placed in the prayer room.

The Auxiliary Board constitution is to be reviewed, with probable revision. Mrs. Waldron gave all members present take-home copies.

CHURCH NEWS

Church Women United in Clinton County will celebrate World Community Day on Friday, Nov. 5, at 1 p.m. at the West Pilgrim United Methodist Church joining with church women in more than 5,000 other communities across the nation. The 1971 emphasis will be on the deterioration of the environment which has become one of the most important problems facing mankind today.

In facing the realities which this crisis presents, women of all churches are invited to participate in a united service on the theme "Build a New Earth!" World Community Day is more than just one day of special emphasis for church women. They, in their own communities, will seek to catalyze existing groups into concerned action to design programs to educate the upcoming generation about the environment, help educate the public and provide a channel for involving women in the current crisis.

Since 1942, World Community Day has been sponsored by Church Women United to emphasize corporate action for justice and peace. Church women have always worked together across racial, denominational, and economic lines to meet human needs.

Church Women United has always responded generously to material aid programs for refugees, victims of disaster, and other needy people, in cooperation with Church World Service. This takes place all through the year, but it receives special emphasis on World Community Day.

They participate in the Clothing Appeal of Church World Service, local CROP committees (CROP is the Community Hunger Appeal of CWS), and in the sale of Gift Certificates.

In 1971 funds obtained from the sale of $3 gift certificates will be used as follows: Blankets will be sent to disaster areas (part of the 1970 funds were responsible for the first blankets to reach Peru). School supplies will be distributed in developing nations. Tools and materials will be provided for home-building and rebuilding in poverty areas of Appalachia, Mississippi and Southwest Texas. Gift Certificates marked "Where most needed" provide funds for a wide variety of purposes such as nutrition, family service centers, equipment for self-help projects, and all sorts of aid in sudden emergencies.

Offerings received from World Community Day church services will go toward Intercontinental Mission, which serves people's needs in this country and abroad. Of special concern will be ecological causes. For example, new ministries in national parks, through experimental Internships, Christian education materials and help in establishing ecology training centers.

The local gathering will begin with a tea at 1 p.m. Featured at the 1:30 p.m. program will be Bruce Campbell of St. Johns who will show films and be the guest speaker.

All women in Clinton County are invited to attend and a nursery will be provided for small children.

The West Pilgrim United Methodist Church is located at the corner of Parks and Grove Road, south and west of St. Johns.

The First Congregational Church in St. Johns will hold its annual church fair on Thursday, Nov. 11 from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. The theme used by the committee, Barbara Kuhns, chairman, Janice Crowell, Kaye Ebert, Wilda Becker, Sharie Cressman and Mardell Nelson, is "Mother Goose A Go-Go."

Featured at the event will be several booths which include baked goods, candy, rugs, needlework, boutique and Christmas items, country store and frozen foods.

A luncheon smorgasbord will be served from 11:30 to 1 p.m. with soup, turkey casserole, baked beans, hot sandwiches, desserts and salads.

Dinner will be served from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. and the menu will include a choice of swiss steak or ham loaf. Price is adults, $1.50, children, five to ten years old, $1 and children under five, free.

Mrs. Frances Diebart and Mrs. Alice Holbeck are in charge of the meals.

In other business, Della Corkin reported that 47 pair of mittens are now ready for Christmas distribution. A mitten tree is scheduled for display around Nov. 15.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. Woods reported on her trip to the National Convention which was held in Anaheim, Calif. She announced the Michigan Chapters had received the first place award for Americanism. It was also reported that the Blue Star Mothers have done more to aid the veterans than any other organization in America.

On Wednesday, Oct. 27 Eloise Pease, hospital chairman, was accompanied by Pauline Burk, Ruth Barrett, Bertha Henning, Rose Randolph, Rose Wilkie and Edna Eldred on a trip to the Grand Rapids Facility where a party for the veterans was held.

ST. JOHNS(c)—Dr. and Mrs. L. Linton Budd plan to leave Carson City, where they have made their home since their marriage in 1948, and move to Kirksville, Mo. Dr. Budd's resignation as chairman of the department of obstetrics at Carson City Hospital, will become effective Nov. 18.

He has accepted a position as chairman of obstetrics and gynecology at Kirksville College of Osteopathic Medicine and Hospital, and will be clinical professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the college, which is located in Kirksville.

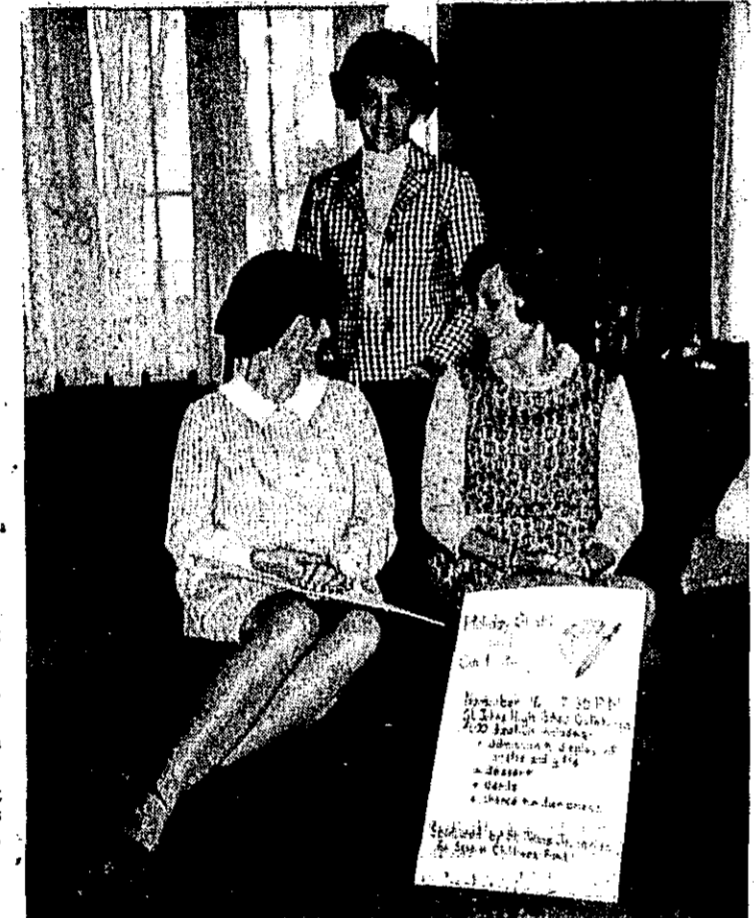

Dr. Budd is the son of Mrs. R. E. Benson of St. Johns, and the late Leon L. Budd. He graduated from Rodney B. Wilson High School in 1930, and attended Albion College for two years before going to Kirksville College of Osteopathic Medicine, from which he graduated in 1942. He interned at Graceland Hospital before joining the staff of the Carson City Hospital as an intern in 1943.

In 1948 he established the Carson Clinic, which is now staffed by five doctors. Since starting practice, Dr. Budd has delivered 3,600 babies, in addition to serving as assistant or consultant on many other obstetrical cases. In 1966 he took a year's leave of absence to complete specialty training in Obstetrics at Grand Rapids Osteopathic Hospital.

DeWitt board issues quiz on building expansion

DeWITT—The Board of Education here is considering expansion facilities according to a master plan submitted recently by Supt. James Ritchie and Middle School Principal Jack Enderle. In an effort to determine just what district residents know about their schools the board has issued a questionnaire as part of a citizen committee study on public school needs.

The questionnaire asks the resident such questions as how far their children are planning to advance their education, high school or beyond; what the resident thinks the capacity of each school building is; if the present courses and methods of education adequately prepare students for college, business-industry and to meet their social responsibilities.

There is a question on the adequacy of the physical education plant at the various grade levels. Another one asks if such programs as foreign language, home decorating, adult recreation and cultural needs are satisfied by the current facilities.

An interesting question considers the possibility of expanding the nine-month school year to a full 12-month program, and whether or not the parents would go along with such an idea.

Supt. Ritchie said it was a chance for the people of DeWitt's school district to speak out on the needs for expansion and a tool for the board of education to determine public sentiment.

The questionnaires will be mailed out and residents are asked to fill them out and return them in the enclosed self-addressed envelope.

Members of the citizen committee include George Moody, chairman, Dale Brown, Gordon Brown, Elizabeth Devereaux, Muri Eastman, Dave Ferl and David Franzmeyer, Linda Franzmeyer, Rolland Lewis, Dan Matson, Ron Simon, Jack Slagle, Evert Stevens and Jela Voelkers.

Carl Falor took the 4-Square Sunday School and their guests on a hay ride Sunday evening. They returned to the Falor home for a hot dog roast. Thirty-seven young people attended.

The 4-H Group had its Halloween party at the Eagle Town Hall Monday night. This is the end of their summer projects and the beginning of their winter projects. The money from the Fair prizes was presented to the winners at the party.

Rev. Ann Burnett flew to Florida for an eight-day visit. She is accompanying her husband's sister on her return trip to Florida after a visit here.

The Carl Falor and the John Cooper families went to Evert Sunday to help Mrs. Cooper's parents celebrate their 47th wedding anniversary.

The Helping Hand Club held its annual meeting for the installation of officers at the Eagle Restaurant Tuesday night. The new officers are: Grace Babbitt, president; Ann Burnett, vice-president; Georgia Ennas, secretary; Pat Hazen, hospital hostess.

Carl Lietzke was taken to Lansing General Hospital at 6 a.m. Wednesday morning. He is in intensive care and under observation.

Martha Volk is being cared for at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Bruce Mayer and her condition remains about the same.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle McCrumb of Bridgeport and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin McCrumb of South Haven visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Victor McCrumb Sunday. Foster Newman, a former resident of Eagle passed away last Tuesday and was buried near his new home at Rapid River in the U.S.

The Builders and Come Double Class of Eagle Methodist Church are sponsoring a family-style Chicken supper Saturday, Nov. 6. Serving from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. in the church dining room. The public is invited.

Panthers assured of title share

DeWITT—The DeWitt Panthers are assured of their third straight Central Michigan Athletic Conference title after drubbing Portland St. Patrick's Shamrocks 14-8 Friday night in the CMAC season finale.

The title is a bit tarnished this time, since their 5-1 league record might not be good enough to take the title outright. Porterville and Laingsburg both have 4-1 records this year in CMAC play and they will clash Friday night. Only if the two teams tie could DeWitt win the title alone, otherwise they will have to settle for half share.

The Panthers hammered away at the Shamrocks all night, but bogged down on five different occasions inside the Portland 15-yard-line.

Dan Davis put DeWitt on the board early with a two-yard run capping a long drive engineered by quarterback Ron Wilcox. Wilcox jumped across for the two-point conversion.

A razzle-dazzle attack led to the other Panther TD, when Wilcox rolled out on an option play keeping the ball for 15 yards and then lateraled to Duane Shooltz who traveled the other 15 yards for the score.

Portland's only TD came when Tom Ausustini passed 20 yards to Al Schrauben for the score. Schrauben dashed over with the two-point conversion.

The Panthers, who are now 5-2 overall, will finish the season against Parma Western at home Friday night.

Comet's steamroller Redwings 41-0

ST. JOHNS—Grand Ledge won the West Central Conference Championship Friday night at the expense of the Redwings. It was a 41-0 shutout.

Riding on the excellent game the week before, Redwing hopes were dashed in the first quarter when their only sustained drive of the night sputtered out to a penalty on the Grand Ledge four yard line.

The Redwings entrance onto the field was magnificent. The band and student body, and even some of the adult fans formed a 100 yard-long corridor for the team. They charged through about 10 feet off the ground. A young boy was knocked down in the wild rush, but a team doctor said he was more "embarrassed than hurt."

THE REDWINGS TOOK the opening kick off and moved well. jumped off sides on fourth down. The defense took over and stopped the Comet attack in four downs.

THE REDWING fans continued to roar.

An overeager player for the Wings made it 12 instead of 13 in three downs they had about one yard left for a first down. Coach Ernie Becker gave the high sign and Ken Schueller plowed his way for more than enough yardage.

The hometown fans roared their approval. Schueller pulled the same trick twice more before hitting Sam Staley with a 10 yard pass to about the seven yard line. The Wings ground it out to the four before an overeager lineman 11 men on the field for the Comet kick. It was Grand Ledge's first of 21 first downs for the night. And the Redwing fans had their last hurrah.

The Comets moved the ball down the field and scored early in the second quarter when Joe Hughes ran for six yards and a score. Soccer style kicker, Loren Jensen, an exchange student, booted his first of five extra points for the night.

IT WAS HUGHES again in the second quarter, scoring again on a long drive making it 14-0 at the half with Jensen's kick. In the third period, the Comets'

Tim Cosper scored on a 1-yard run. A fake kick failed as the Redwings threw quarterback Lynn VanderSteen for a loss—his only one of the night.

VanderSteen was a hero in the same quarter when he returned a punt 65 yards for another score and Jensen kicked again.

In the fourth quarter, Gary Bashore and Cosper each scored again, with Bashore on a two yard run and Cosper, a 13-yard run. Both kicks were good.

OH YES, JENSEN did miss a field goal attempt in the fourth quarter.

VanderSteen passed through the St. Johns secondary like it wasn't even there. He hit 11 of 20 attempts for 129 yards. The Comets rushed for a total of 256 yards. They had 21 first downs, four by passing, two by penalties and 15 by rushing for a total of 385 yards.

The Redwings had 12 first downs, 173 yards rushing, 17 passing as Schueller hit two of six attempts for a total of 190 yards.

Bruce Cameron was the leading rusher with 105 yards, Schueller had 28 yards and Gary Mankey, 24.

Defensively Gary Koenigs-knecht had 13 solo tackles and Bruce Irish 10. Rudy Rosner added eight.

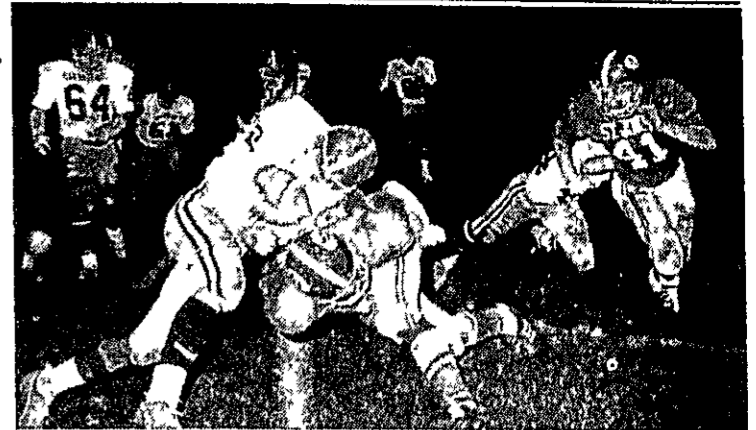

GEORGE ROSNER was the only casualty with a shoulder injury. It is unknown if he will play Friday against Alma.

The loss dropped the Wings to a 2-3 record in the conference and a 2-5 mark overall.

They hope to finish at 500 per cent by beating Alma, the dormat of the WCC this year, Friday night. Alma has yet to win a game.

"Our scouting reports indicate Alma has been rapidly improving and they should be at their best Friday night," Becker said.

THEY HAVE A junior quarterback and a new offense and a big team size. As freshmen, the Alma team was undefeated. Game time at Alma Friday night is 8 p.m.

The Redwings' Ken Schueller was too late with this blocking tackle on Joe Hughes. Hughes went over the goal line for the first Comet score of the night.

Top state boxing card Saturday

ST. JOHNS—Boxing returns to Clinton County Saturday night when the Clinton County Boys Club sponsors a 14-bout state Golden Glove and state A.A.U. championship card.

Clinton area fans will be able to witness some of the best fighters in the state of Michigan and possibly the nation as several local boys will be trying for national ranking as a prelude to an invitation to the 1972 Olympic Games.

The A.A.U. sanctioned card will get underway at 7:30 p.m. at the St. Johns High School gymnasium. Admission will be $1.50 and ringside seats will be $2.50.

The card features a flyweight rematch between Mike San Miguel of St. Johns, the 1971 Lansing District Golden Gloves champion and the 1971 Michigan Flyweight champ Larry Gilliam of Grand Rapids. Both fighters hope they will see action in the Olympic Games.

Another featured bout will be between Doug Brya of St. Johns, 1971 state A.A.U. champ in the 134-pound division, and Harvey Kingsbury of Grand Blanc, the 1971 Flint Division champ in that division.

Another St. Johns standout will see action Saturday night, Armondo Rostias, 1970 featherweight Golden Gloves champ, will be featured.

Other St. Johns fighters who will see plenty of action are Richard Blemaster, Bill Matice, Fred Moore, Chuck Stewart, Mike Burgess and Gene Burgess.

Boys Club spokesmen indicated the card will be one of the best offered anywhere in Michigan and has been lauded by boxing officials for its exciting featured attractions.

The Redwings' Sam Staley (80) caught this pass for another St. Johns first down in the initial drive.

Pirates felled by rugged Wolves

PEWAMO—WESTPHALIA—Running was the name of the game Friday night as Laingsburg's Wolfpack devoured the Pewamo-Westphalia Pirates 34-20 to position themselves in line for the league co-championship title shot this week against Potterville.

The Pack rushed past the Pirates for 240 yards and passed for 129 more during a wild see-saw game.

The Pirates opened the scoring in the first quarter, switching quarterback Roy Piggott to end and Randy Walter from end to quarterback. The momentary confusion brought about a 65-yard TD pass from Walter to Piggott.

But the hometown fans were stunned as the visiting Pack rolled over the Pirates for 20 points in the second quarter. Ron Goetschy capped the first Wolfpack drive with a two-yard run.

They scored the next time they got their hands on the ball when Dan Doyle dashed across the goal line from the one-yard line.

Then on the next Laingsburg series, Randy Wrobel passed on an end around play to Goetschy for a 65-yard TD. After falling on the previous two conversion attempts Hürst hit Wrobel across the line for a two-point conversion to take the Pack into the locker room with a 20-6 halftime lead.

The Hurst to Wrobel combination worked again in the third quarter when Hürst found Wrobel for a 37-yard scoring bomb. Charlie Ordway ran over the conversion to give the Pack the game-winning lead.

Laingsburg added another TD in the final period when Goetschy ended another Pack drive with a 15-yard run. The conversion failed but Laingsburg was never to be bested from that point.

P-W added two touchdowns in the third quarter to build up the local fans' hopes when Piggott dove over from the one-yard line and Mike Gross added the PAT. Piggott then hit end Al Fedewa for another TD from 25 yards out, but the conversion failed.

The Wolfpack managed to hold off the threatening Pirates the rest of the way.

"We played a decent game," Laingsburg Coach John Wachsmuth said. "We made some errors but we still played a spirited game. There were some big mistakes and we had some penalties that hurt us."

Wachsmuth said he has a lot of respect for Pewamo-Westphalia. "They have one heck of a football team. They are the most physical team that we've faced this year."

He cited the size of Laingsburg compared with P-W. "Our biggest boy here is about 190 pounds." The biggest P-W player weighs 255 pounds.

"We moved the ball well on the ground and we did well in the passing game," the Laingsburg coach said. "We gave them some opportunities but we have a good defense and it has been improving each week. We have always had a strong offensive team."

The Wolfpack will face Potterville Friday night at home to determine who gets a share of the Central Michigan Athletic Conference championship with DeWitt. Both Laingsburg and Potterville have 4-1 league records and the winner will share the CMAC crown. A tie, of course, would give the title to DeWitt, the current defending champions.

Wachsmuth also respects the flashy Vikings. "They are fast, but I think we can score against them. Our defense is just improving and could peak with this game. We have been pretty even with Potterville—we beat them last year and they beat us the time before."

It is doubtful if either Laingsburg's Wachsmuth or Potterville's coach Tom Truscott would be willing to settle for a tie. Scoring by quarters: Laingsburg 0 20 8 6 34 P-W 6 0 14 0 20

Little Pirates win again 40-6

LAINGSBURG—The Pewamo-Westphalia Little Pirates made it 6 in a row last week when they romped over the Laingsburg Little Wolfpack by a score of 40-6.

For the Pirates, Steve Simon scored two touchdowns and one PAT as did Dan May. Randy Walter also added two touchdowns.

May scored one TD on a 55-yard pass interception and Walters also had two interceptions. The Little Pirates had 17 first downs, while allowing 10 yards on the ground and 217 yards through the air completing 12 of 22 pass attempts. They also intercepted three. Mark Spitzley had 12 solo tackles.

THEY WILL MEET Webberville at home Thursday night for the final game.

The only sports snowmobile of its kind made in the U.S.A.

Speedway. Completely new. It's unlike anything on the market. It's as snowmobile as a snowmobile can be. But it's more. It's a snowmobile built in the tradition of Ferrari, Corvette and Jaguar. A sports machine with flair and integrity. In design. In engineering. In performance.

Speedway. America's first true sport snowmobile. It's a snowmobile with decidedly crisp, clean, and functional lines. Its styling and pacesetting engineering share as much design finesse with Italy as with California.

"As you'd expect from a thoroughbred, you get fiscal integrity. You get a speedometer and tachometer. Standard. A fuel gauge. Standard. Dual sprocket track drive. Standard. Ram-air induction hood with racing lock pins. Standard. Slider suspension. Standard. Shock absorber ski suspension. Standard. There's even an adjustable thumb/hand throttle control. You guessed it. Standard.

The slide rail suspension, plus the quad-leaf/shock absorber ski suspension means agility. The Speedway carves through slaloms like clay and comes out as straight as a Trevino tee shot. Power abounds throughout the three model line but dyed-in-the-wool competitors will really respond to the nearly limitless power in the Speedway 650. Fantastic!

Now if all this doesn't trigger a flow of adrenalin, maybe you'd better look over the entire 3 model line. 340, 440, and 650. Buy any other snowmobile and all you get is today's snowmobile. Buy a Speedway and you get a piece of tomorrow.

Pastured beef and dairy cattle pick up infective worm larvae from grass. (Feeders bring worms with them to the feedlot.) From egg to adult to egg, the entire life cycle of most roundworms takes only a few weeks. Result: Damaging infections build up fast.

Marauders scalp Indians for Mid-Michigan crown

By TIM YOUNKMAN
Co-Editor

CHESANING—A battle of defenses here Friday night provided the Ovid-Elsie Marauders with their 14th straight win and a second consecutive Mid-Michigan B Conference title as they shut out the Chesaning Indians 12-0.

The tough defensive effort was Ovid-Elsie's third league shutout this year and fifth whitewash in overall competition. Thus far, only 12 points have been scored against the Marauders—six by St. Louis and six by Midland Bullock Creek.

The defensive unit drove Chesaning into a shotgun formation for most of the game forcing 19 incomplete passes and limiting the Indians to only 69 yards on the ground and 45 in the air.

The defense also set up both Marauder touchdowns. After a scoreless first half, the Marauders halted a Chesaning drive, forcing the Indians to punt from about their own 20-yard line. O-E's Jeff Baker burst through the Indian line and blocked the punt and then raced 15 yards with the ball.

Quarterback Tom Kirlinovic capped the explosion with a one-yard plunge to put Ovid-Elsie ahead. The TD came at 7:44 of the third quarter.

The extra point attempt failed as Bill Foran was trying to kick his 12th consecutive PAT.

With 9:40 remaining in the game the Marauders were knocking on the door again with a 4th and goal situation from the four-yard-line, but an end sweep failed to gain a score and Chesaning took over—and so did the Marauder defense.

On the first play from scrimmage, the Indian halfback took a pitchout and dropped the ball on the three-yard-line. Ovid-Elsie recovered and Kirlinovic tossed a three-yard TD pass to Ron Mead for the final score. The point after attempt failed as Foran faked a place-kick and tried to get into the end zone, but was cut down at the five-yard-line.

The Marauders were then placed in a prevent-defense formation, forcing the Chesaning quarterback to operate from the shotgun in an attempt to complete some passes. But the Indians couldn't get close to the ball after O-E's second TD.

"Chesaning was the toughest defensive team we've played all year," Marauder Coach Mark O'Donnell said. "We scouted them for several games and knew they'd be tough. Corunna played the same type of game against them and could only score on a punt return and an interception." Ovid-Elsie defeated Corunna a week ago 15-0.

"They used a shotgun wuita a bit because we forced them out of their regular formation," O'Donnell said. "They will complete a pass now and then, but we did pretty well."

"We were only rushing four men in our prevent defense, but we got to him," the coach said of the Chesaning signal caller.

O'Donnell said it was the first time Ovid-Elsie has ever defeated Chesaning at the Indian's Morningstar Memorial Field. "I don't know what it was, but we just couldn't beat them there."

The win gives Ovid-Elsie undisputed title to the Mid-Michigan B Conference championship for the second season in a row. Last year, the Marauders had a 4-1 league record to take the crown. This time, they have an unblemished 5-0 mark. Overall the Marauders are 7-0.

Ovid-Elsie will travel to Swartz Creek to take on the tough Class A league champs of one-year ago. The Marauders defeated Swartz Creek last year in a mud and rain battle 6-3.

This time the Flint Metro defending champions have a 2-3-1 record and O'Donnell expects another Chesaning-type game.

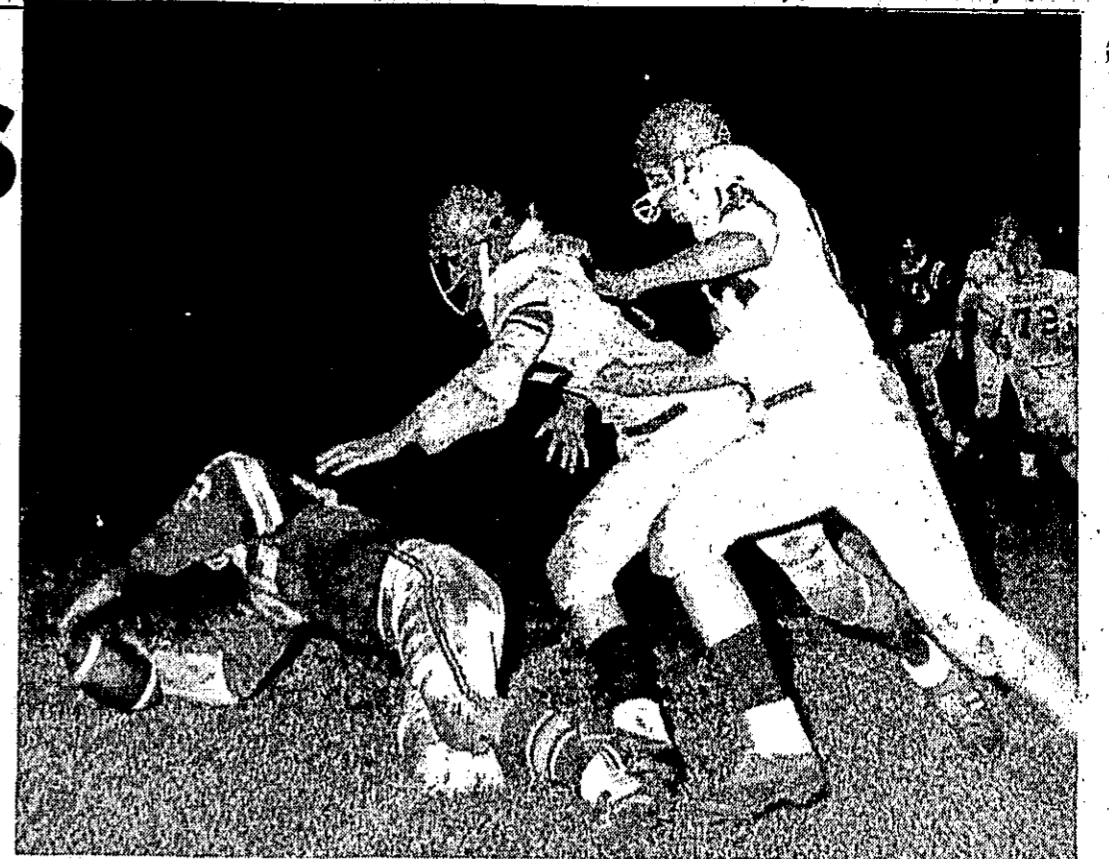

"They have gone to a shotgun this year so we will probably see more of the shotgun-type game this time."

"The league games are over now," the coach said. "But we want to win for prestige and to preserve our winning streak. I guess you would call that pride."

Ovid-Elsie will close out the season against St. Johns Nov. 12 in an intra-county finale.

Scoring by quarters:

Ovid-Elsie 0 0 6 6—12

Marauder Bill Foran (dark uniform) jumps on the ball to avoid a possible turnover during Ovid-Elsie's stunning shut-out of Chesaning 12-0.

Bath's unbeaten dream ends in 14-8 loss

BATH—Bath area football fans had been hoping their dream would never end. But the dream of an undefeated season was dashed at the hands of Fowlerville Friday night 14-8.

Bath, which had been rated number nine in the state's class C rankings, dropped behind the Gladiators after Fowlerville took the kickoff down to the 34 yard line and halfback Mike McClure scampered the rest of the way for a TD.

The Bees came right back in the second quarter for their only score of the night when Joe Mitchell topped a drive with a one-yard plunge. An 11-league quarterback Paul Stoll, who was frustrated most of the night by Fowlerville's pass defense, completed a toss to end Fritz Ordway for the conversion.

It was a disheartening third quarter for Bath as the Bees saw their slim two-point half-time lead went down the drain when George Smith dashed 17 yards for another Gladiator touchdown.

Bath could only manage 85 yards on the ground while Stoll completed eight of 24 pass attempts, but two of his passes were intercepted by the Gladiator defensive backs.

The loss drops Bath into second place in the Ingham County League with a 5-1 conference mark, trailing Fowlerville and Perry who are tied for first with identical 5-0-1 record.

The Bees will have a chance to change all of that Friday night when they face Perry for the final league contest.

Scoring by quarters:
Bath 0 8 0 0—8
Fowlerville 6 0 8 0—14

Fowler shades Spartans

FWLER—The Fowler Eagles upped their win record to 2 this past Friday as they shaded Webberville 8-6 in a Central Michigan Athletic Conference game.

The Eagles came from behind in the third quarter when Leon Schneider romped 22 yards into the end zone for the score. Denny Kramer was the hero as he added the game winning PAT two point run.

Webberville scored in the second period on a 60 yard drive which was capped by a two yard run by Dan Ansel. They did not make their PAT, and the Eagles won 8-6.

The victory gives the Eagles a

2-5 record for the season and a 1-4 mark in the conference.

LARRY HALFMANN was the leading rusher for the Eagles as he picked up 75 yards in six carries. They included two runs of 25 yards each and one of 20 yards.

In addition to scoring the touchdown, Schneider had 44 yards in four carries.

Webberville had 13 first downs to Fowler's 10, but the Eagles picked up 145 yards on the ground while holding the visitors to 61 on the ground. Webberville had 65 yards on nine of 18 pass attempts while the Eagles had 22 yards on three of 16 attempts. Each team intercepted twice. Fowler fumbled six times and lost four of them. Webberville fumbled twice and recovered both of the loose balls.

Coach Steve Spicer was pleased with the victory and credited some of his defensive men with playing a fine game.

GETTING PRAISE FROM the coach were sophomore defensive ends Frank Koenigsmecht and Bill Feldpausch and interior linemen Al Simon and Dave Osborne.

The Eagles will meet Portland St. Pat's in a league game Saturday at Portland with the game getting underway at 8 p.m.

Robert Pratt retires from local post office

ST. JOHNS—Robert J. Pratt called it a day Friday—and a career.
 He worked his last day Friday after 30 years of government service to his credit. He began working for the St. Johns post office in 1946 as a substitute clerk-carrier and has been working here ever since.
 His government service started officially with the U.S. Army and after almost five years of service he began working for the post office.
 In 1949 he was promoted to regular city carrier and served

Robert Pratt pauses to look at the familiar sights of the St. Johns post office after his last day on the job which he has held for nearly 30 years.

WHO STOLE MY FLAG?

Ed Schmitt, of Schmitt Electric is a bit upset this week. Someone stole his Stars and Stripes. It isn't the first time it has happened in Clinton County either. Schmitt isn't the only one. So is the American Legion and the VFW. Between the three parties, they have offered a $75 reward leading to the arrest and conviction of the flagstealers. "It's not the money cost of the flag; but what it means to our country. I am afraid of what I would do if I caught them in the act," Schmitt said.

Counselor's Corner Guidance in the junior high Inside school counseling

Since school guidance has its origins, its greatest emphasis was in the secondary schools. From time to time we as counselors reexamine the changes in children, in school demands, and in life demands which children in the secondary schools face. While not entirely unique or different from what they faced in the elementary school, the junior high does impose some significant new learning needs upon the students. It will be these needs that we as counselors will help to satisfy.

This article will deal basically with three learning needs that each new junior high student must satisfy in order for the junior high years to be satisfying and rewarding. The first is the increased need to make choices, demands for decision, especially decisions regarding choice of subjects. As the student enters the seventh grade his choices will be minimal. However, as he moves along especially from eighth to ninth grade, he may even be asked to choose a curriculum-College, Commercial, General, Vocational. We as counselors try to provide the necessary information, so that the student will be able to make the decision that best fits his needs.

Secondly, the student must be able to make the transition from elementary to secondary school. Each year these students are seeking means to effect a smooth transition from the self-contained classroom to the new, exciting and sometimes terrifying experiences of the secondary school. The shift to the secondary school is still entrenched with many new scenes, many new practices, and a host of new faces for the student. In the junior high we feel we have alleviated this transition by spending a half day, or a day, showing the prospective seventh graders around the junior high school building reviewing the subjects they will be taking next year, and having them meet a few of the junior high school leaders. We try to show the student that these learnings do begin early and develop thru the junior high years. The student comes to the secondary school as a seventh grader bringing many ideas, many attitudes, a host of values that will affect profoundly how well and in what ways we can guide him in the secondary school setting.

OUR LAST CONCERN deals with the identity of each new student. As the student experiences greater freedom, and a more diversified student body, the youngster becomes a more perceptive person. He will experience more and more the need for a fresh look at the values he brings with him. Things that seemed important to him, he now finds challenged by others. This takes place in the classroom and in his association with other students. Thus he will sometimes need the most skillful understanding and counseling as he seeks to sort out these value conflicts. Some of the most difficult conflicts involve differences in values that have sprung from home training and those he experiences from "outside" sources.

There can be little doubt that a typical junior high today imposes greater study demands on its students than it did ten years ago. If these demands are accompanied by (1) proper aligning of course offerings to fit each student's abilities and needs and by (2) effective guidance so that each student is provided with the necessary information and skills needed to make each decision. If these conditions are present, the student in today's junior high will get an education much better suited to his needs than formerly.

Saylor-Beall markets internationally

ST. JOHNS—During the war, they made trucks in St. Johns. That was the Great War. The war to end all wars.

And St. Johns contributed to the effort by building trucks at the Triangle Truck Co. When the war ended, so did the need for trucks. The former factory stood vacant for several years. During the Great War in another part of the state, two men went into business for themselves making accessories for the automobile industry.

In 1916, Norman Saylor and Frank Beall organized a company known as Detroit Accessories Corp. They set up business in Detroit making water and fuel pumps for the fledgling auto industry.

THEY WERE ALSO pioneers in the manufacture of air compressors.

In 1940, the Allman family acquired stock in the company. At the same time, the former name of Detroit Accessories was dropped and the company became known as Saylor-Beall.

In 1942, the company began operations in St. Johns in the former Triangle Truck factory. The company name here was Triangle Engineering. They manufactured hydraulic actuators for Vought-Sikorsky and Sperry Aircraft.

In 1946, Triangle Engineering dissolved and operations of the Saylor-Beall Manufacturing Company were moved from Detroit to St. Johns.

Construction bids announced

LANSING — Holloway Construction Co. of Wixom was lowest of 14 bidders with a bid of $7.3 million for completion of the US-127 freeway north of Lansing, the State Highway Commission announced today.

The US-127 project was among seven construction and maintenance projects on which low bids totaling $10.8 million were taken in Lansing.

The construction of 4.5 miles of the US-127 Freeway from the Clinton-Ingham county line north and west to join US-27 north of Clark Road in Clinton County. Work includes grading and drainage structures; seven bridges, construction of interchanges with present US-27 near DeWitt and future I-69 between Clark and Stoll roads and paving; September, 1973. Lowest of 14 bidders, Holloway Construction Co., Wixom, $7,309,645.

IN THOSE EARLY days, 100 persons were initially employed at the plant. And the principal products were air compressors and spray equipment.

Growth during the early years in St. Johns necessitated the construction of five additions to the original plant over an 11-year period.

Things were going great in the early summer of 1953. That is until the 27th day of June.

At 8:30 p.m., a St. Johns resident enjoying the warm summer night noticed the night light blinking on and off. He also noticed sparks flying above the roof.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT was summoned and firemen found a small pile of pasteboard cartons ablaze when they arrived. They soon had the small fire under control.

However, unknown at the time, the blaze had crept into a false ceiling and gained headway. It was soon apparent help would be needed and the St. Johns firemen summoned men and equipment from Fowler and Ovid.

The blaze raged into the night as paint, lacquer and magnesium sent flames skyward which were seen for miles.

Sunday morning dawned bright and clear, but it was a sad lot of workers who came to see their former place of employment a smoldering rubble of twisted steel and devastated machinery. The loss was estimated at $500,000.

RUSSELL V. ALLMAN Sr. said at the time, "Plans for rebuilding are indefinite at this time."

For the next five and one half years, the company continued to operate in makeshift plants in the city. At one time, production was being carried on in five separate buildings.

Then on Sept. 27, 1957, ground was broken for a new plant to be located at the same location of the old plant. And in February of 1959, the plant reopened.

Today, Saylor-Beall is still in the air compressor business with average monthly sales of $250,000 to an international market.

THE MAJOR CUSTOMERS are car dealers, service stations, the automotive and oil industries and light industry.

The compressors range in size from the original 1/4 horse power to a new 30 horse power which will be introduced in early 1972. Some of the larger 30 horse power compressors are already in use undergoing field tests.

The product line was expanded to two horse power through 10 horse power in the 1950's and 15 through 20 in the 60's. The 70's have seen the introduction of the 25 and 30 horse power models. Plant owner Russell Allman Jr. says the future outlook is pretty good.

"THE PRICE FREEZE caught us, but our volume is up and it doesn't look too bad," he said. "We should have a fairly average year."

The plant employs 100 persons who work a single day shift. The compressors are made at the plant from rough castings made at a foundry. But castings, heads, pistons and connecting rods are turned out of the castings and assembled into a completed compressor. About 25 units a day are turned out in eight hours.

Business notes

By MIKE PREVILE
News Advertising Manager

Paul Hurst of St. Johns is $20 richer because he picked the upsets in the County News' Football Contest. Kansas City and Oakland played to a 20-20 tie so everyone had at least one wrong and Paul misfired only on the Syracuse-Pittsburgh game to earn the $20 and the title "Football Expert."

How often have you heard the expression, "There's nothing worse than a sick man." Usually such words come from the poor guy's wife. And she says it in such a way that you get the feeling she has done the housework, plowed the fields, roofed the house, cooked for the Third Army the same day she broke both arms and a leg and gave birth. But, let the old man get a splinter in his pinkie and he can't feed himself.

Now, I'm not denying that this is the case . . . it probably is. What I maintain is that it's the wife's fault.

I can remember standing before the minister and hearing the "in sickness and in health" bit. And I can remember how a sneeze would get me more loving attention during the first years of wedded bliss than double pneumonia would today.

New wives can hardly wait for their mate to get sick . . . just so they can shower attention and care on him to really show him how lucky he is.

But things change. I have a head cold. A bad one with sinus trouble to boot. I feel miserable.

A few years ago I would have spent the weekend in bed resting. The Big M would have made sure nothing or no-one would have disturbed me. She would have nursed me back to health . . . waited on me hand and foot . . . even turned the pages of the book I was reading.

But things change. Saturday morning the only thing I wanted to do was dictate my will. (I didn't have the strength to write it).

Not only was I rudely ousted from my sick bed but forced to drive the family to Beck's Orchard and pick apples.

Three and a half bushels of apples. From the trees she selected. Tall trees that required tall ladders that I'm sure she shook.

But her day is coming. I'll get revenge some cold January morning when I roust her out to shovel snow.

F.C. Mason President John Pennell and Executive Vice President, Ed Idzkowski have just returned from Denver, Colo. where they participated in the annual Farm Equipment Manufacturer's Association meeting.

The purpose of this meeting was to inform the members of the latest innovations in the agricultural implement field.

In addition there were meetings with people for the purpose of obtaining manufacturing orders for component parts and the assignment of distribution franchises.

This meeting was attended by approximately 450 firm members along with representatives from Great Britain, Canada, France, Germany, Spain, Mexico and Africa.

THE MASON COMPANY has presently developed a new designed bean harvester knife which has proven superior in performance to that of Original Equipment Manufacture design.

The sales of this bean knife have shown strong growth in our domestic market and Canada.

During the course of this meeting, Pennell and Idzkowski met with a major distributor from Mexico who expressed a vital need for this type of bean knife in his country.

Samples of this knife are being shipped for approval and could result in substantial increased sales for Mason Co.

The original Saylor-Beall plant.

Ruined machines greeted workers when they came to the plant the morning after the fire.

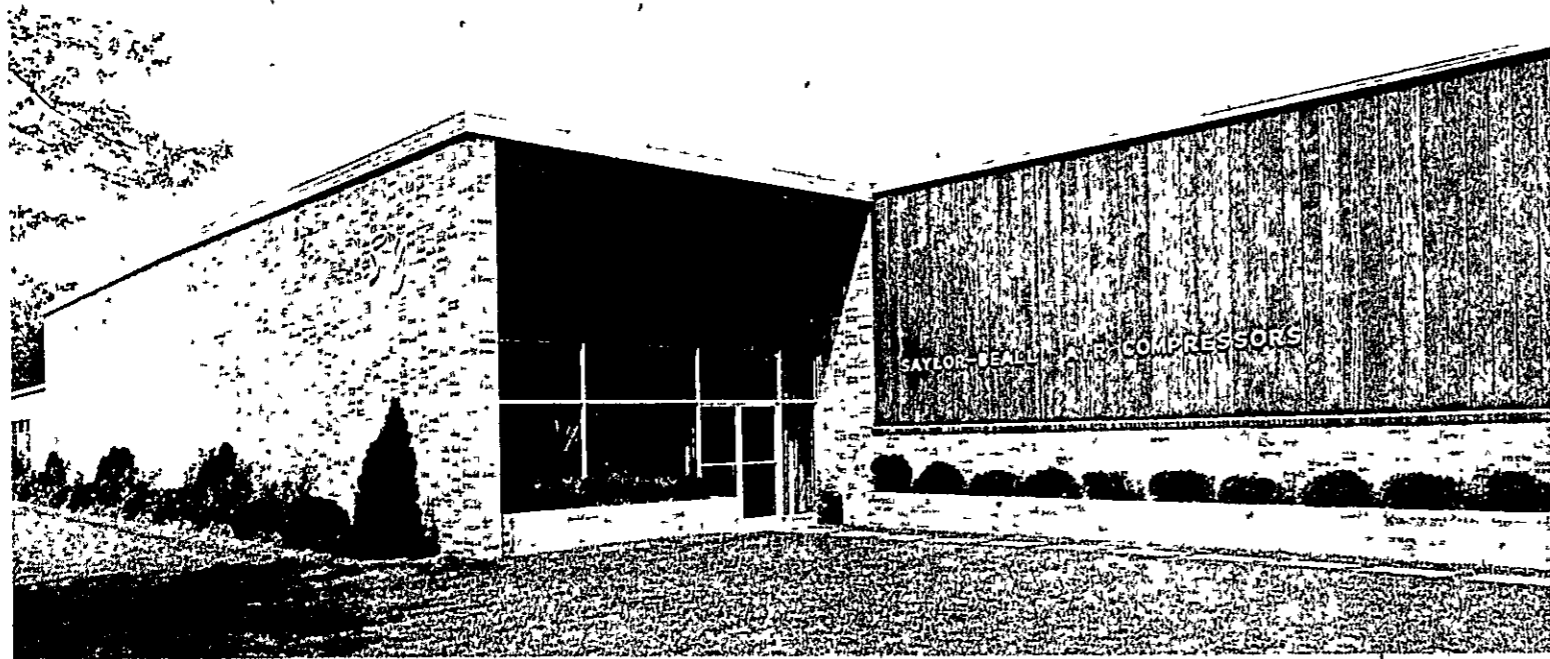

June 27th, 1953 . . . . .

Beginning operations in St. Johns in 1942 in the former Triangle Truck Factory, Saylor-Beall was then known as Triangle Engineering.
In 1946, the operations of Saylor-Beall were moved from Detroit to St. Johns under the direction of Russell Allman Sr. Steady growth in St. Johns followed for the next several years. . . . .
Then in 1953 Saylor-Beall was destroyed by fire.
For the next 5 1/2 years, the company continued to operate in makeshift plants in the city.
Thru the efforts of Russell Allman Jr. and many others ground for the new plant was broken in 1957.
Today, Saylor-Beall employs over 100 workers and is an unquestioned leader in the industry.

meet Charlie Mathews, a CNB&T director and employee

When it comes to wearing different hats it's a bit hard to top Charlie Mathews. His rack is full and he dons a different one for each of his rolls as board member, assistant cashier and manager of our Fowler office. And if this isn't enough, we can throw in another which he wears for serving as secretary of the board of directors of Builders Lumber and Supply Co., of Portland.

Charlie has been associated with Clinton National since 1969 when he was named to the board of directors. That was two years after he began operating Mathews Elevator in Fowler which he opened after serving a number of years as manager of an elevator at Portland. After serving as a CNB&T director for nearly 13 years he joined the staff and since January 1969 has been working in our Fowler office.

Charlie and his wife, Evelyn, live in Fowler and have five children. Janice (Mueller) now resides in Fairhaven while Barbara (Tichvon) and Ann (Donaghy) now live in Portland and Grand Rapids, respectively. Jane (Platte) remains in Fowler as does son John, a graduate of Fowler High School who lives at home.

A native of Portland, Charlie graduated from high school there and later completed studies at Argubright Business College in Battle Creek. He has completed a course in marketing and public relations under the American Institute of Banking study program.

Since moving to Fowler he has been active in community affairs as a former Lions club member and a present member of the Knights of Columbus and Holy Trinity Church.

Charlie recently completed a little remodeling in Fowler office and we're told he's added an extra hat rack. The new one is for the customers. Try it sometime.

Evening sessions

A member of the Montcalm County Board of Commissioners has suggested the board should change its policy and meet in evenings instead of daytime.

Publisher John Stafford, writing in the Daily News of Greenville, says "This makes sense." John quoted the commissioner as saying: "Evening meetings would make it possible for more interested citizens to attend."

The editorial continues: "But there is an even more important benefit. If the board met at night, more citizens could be prospective candidates at election time. As things stand now, daytime meetings mean board members must be able to walk away from jobs during working hours."

Two groups can do this. First, of course, are those who are self employed. A much smaller element includes those with employers who don't object to employees being gone two, three or four days a month.

These are unnecessary restrictions. . . . The idea deserves a look. We have no doubts that colleagues on the board take a dim view of such an idea, and prefer the status quo that gives them an advantage at election time since most fall into one of the exclusive groups we have mentioned above.

Woman's side of TV football

In this day of women's lib, equal rights, etc., the Little Woman at our house has asked for space to tell HER side of the story. More than 40 years of wedded bliss builds in one a desire for continued harmony.

This Letter to The Editor was on the desk today bearing the title Three Months of Loud Silence or Is It Four?

"I am being maligned by those nearest and dearest to me. I have nothing against football on television except that I did not learn to play the game.

"Take football—with the Kennedys, even. They wouldn't have allowed me to play with them even had we lived in Palm Beach or Hyannis Port in the house next door.

"My trouble is I never find the fellow with the ball. And this is important. I've gone to some of the best games ever as well as watching on what the British call "telly." But never can I find the fellow with the ball.

"This leads eventually to discouragement. I used to attend the Tiger baseball games, even squirming through a double-header. I'd ask the fellow I married what's happening there. He'd say 'Shush and I'll explain after it's over.' By that time I'd forgotten what I wanted to ask.

"These Sunday afternoons we sit in deadly silence except for the voices from the air. It takes education to plan meals, etc. I've found the hideaways around the house to which I can take my books and retire.

"I guess we're in for a long season. There was talk of a new development about a Super Super Bowl game which would take place sometime in March. This is about the time the kids are getting out to throw and catch baseballs.

"Is there no end to my unfavorable shows?"

A. No! Not as long as the networks can sell those commercials.

NOTES: The person on the state payroll who impresses this department more than anyone else is Robert Briggs, Michigan's banking commissioner.

Bob had one career in which he was the business vice president of University of Michigan. Next, he joined Consumers Power Co. and wound up as executive vice president. Happily, Gov. George W. Romney induced him to take over at Lansing.

With wisdom Briggs has handled problems that could have brought horrible results if in less capable hands.

The word is out that Bob is thinking of calling it a day on regular work. This was a non-political appointment, one of the few ever made to this critical post. Regrettably, the next banking commissioner will probably be named for political considerations. Which is too bad for all of us.

The department keeps eyes on banks, savings and loan associations and credit unions, among other things.

Another test, another mistake

By TIM YOUNKMAN

Another test. Another in a series of clashes between the Administration and environmentalists. Another standoff—perhaps.

The Atomic Energy Commission last week received President Nixon's approval to detonate a five-megaton atomic warhead beneath the Aleutian Islands area of Amchitka. The test had been put off in September unless the President would authorize the detonation.

As usual, the common folk have nothing to say—nor probably any interest at all—in the Pacific region.

The situation becomes more distressing when one realizes that the "environmentalists" are making a game of the test. If they lose a decision in court to halt the bombing, they will turn around and look elsewhere for something to do. The failure to halt the test will be a bad dream, but, they reason, there may be hope for the future.

It is an interesting approach. None of us should condemn them for trying to do something about the situations that have been created for us by our government. But their initiative should be taken one step further.

Those of us who agree that something needs to be done to prevent such events as nuclear underground testing, that achieves only a minuscule amount of information and could (some predict) touch off tidal waves, earthquakes or radiation poisoning of aquatic life, should express these views to the legislators.

These men, while they wheel and deal in the state and national assemblies, want to come back again next year. They want to keep their job. If it would be made clear to them that their continued approval of such decisions would result in their losing an election—then our interest might be reflected.

But it takes an informed public and an interested mass of voters to move Congressional mountains. If the President knew he would be literally blasted by a majority of the legislators over such a decision, it would tend to temper his judgment. It seems obvious that someone has his ear at the moment and it is most likely a member of the Commission.

But we are not the only entities that must be considered by the Administration when this decision was made. Both Canada and Japan have lodged formal protests against the test. They both have a stake in the damage that could be caused by such a blast.

We have heard the AEC indicate that there could not be any damage resulting from a five-megaton blast. Where that truth may be supported, it should be remembered that other blasts have occurred in the same region. How much damage could a series of tests bring? When should we quit testing in a region to insure the safety of life in the area? Who can determine when an earthquake or tidal wave could be triggered by a five-megaton blast? Who will answer for the destruction if that minor percentage of error comes true? What can the Administration say when that happens? Is that what it takes to make the leaders see the mistake that is being built year by year through "minor" testing?

Whether the courts ban this test or not is really not the issue. We are slipping into a situation where our government is telling us what is best for us when we can see the harm that such decision will bring. I think it's time we notified those in charge and remind them that they are working for us—not the other way around.

'IF IT FITZ . . .

One of those days

By JIM FITZGERALD

It was another one of those days when nothing went right and I knew the world was against me.

For one thing, Michigan State lost another football game.

It has been 20 years since I left that school. It has grown way too big. Its fancy buildings are full of youngsters learning "business administration," whatever that is, while what the world needs now is more plumbers. I resent the expensive brochures which come regularly through the mail, seeking cash from alumni. The football players are nothing more than paid assassins, trading their muscle and speed for a diploma and a chance to pull the brass ring out of the Super Bowl.

But yet, every autumn Saturday, I agonize along with old MSU, exulting in its touchdowns and despairing in its fumbles. I can't help it. Why is that, doctor?

After the game dinner in a fancy restaurant, the waitress took our drink order and became invisible. I had yearned for a drunk since MSU fell 2 TD's behind in the 2nd quarter. "Where is that waitress," I whispered to my wife. "Don't scream," she said. "People are looking, and it isn't her fault Michigan State has a terrible team."

About a week later, the waitress materialized. I welcomed her back and asked her why she hadn't dropped us a postcard. She smiled and handed me a glass containing whiskey and water. I started to sob.

The steak wasn't rare enough and the people at the next table were loudmouthed Notre Dame fanatics. I dropped soft butter on my new suit and the most obnoxious bore in the place was an old schoolmate who wanted to relieve the days when he was a basketball star and I had 500 pimples on my nose. It was that kind of a day . . .

And that's not the worst of it. The worst part had been getting out of the house, 5 hours earlier. At the last minute our 2 teenage kids had informed us we couldn't leave because they needed chauffeuring. Chris had singing rehearsal in the afternoon and a church supper in the evening. Eddie had to go to a shopping center and to a football game. How were they going to get there if their selfish parents took the car and left town?

I told them I didn't care, so goodbye. I was a real grump and I didn't even look back as I drove away. As I explained to my wife, those darn kids expect too much. They're not going to run my life, by God. As usual, my wife wasn't convinced. Throughout the day she kept muttering little worry-words about the wheel-less plight of her poor little children, which just made my grumpier. By the end of dinner I had made it clear the "white" day had been a pain and the biggest pain of all was caused by those damn kids.

As we left the restaurant, a young boy sped out of the door ahead of us. He was racing his

From the State House Of powder liberals

By REP. DICK ALLEN

The liberals take a powder!! The Legislature's back in session. Will we now face such hot issues as property tax relief, no fault insurance, lower the "drunk driving" blood alcohol level and abortion law reform?

Nope.

TWO REASONS. THIS Legislature has already proven itself unwilling to vote on these hot ones. As Pogo says, "We have met the enemy and they is us."

Second reason. We have found a red hot and generally safe issue to entertain ourselves and satisfy the public!

Busing! Should kids get on buses in city and suburbs to insure each the excellence of attending school with black kids and white, poor kids and rich, ADC kids and banker's sons?

YES, SAY THE courts. This is the democratic ideal and the foundation of our country.

No, a resounding no, say the parents and local citizens in every white school area where it has been tried.

We had a vote on the issue last week and we will have more as the session goes on. I have to chuckle as suburban "liberals" jump on the bandwagon declaring they still favor "integration," they are just against "busing."

Well, these same liberals have been voting for busing in our state's small towns and rural areas for decades. "My gosh, Allen," these guys have been saying to me in the past, "Don't those people in Ashley or Fowler or Coleman realize their kids would get a better education in a bigger school? A little bus ride won't hurt them."

NOW THEY'RE EATING their words, loudly proclaiming against bus rides—shorter than those endured by a great many rural and small town kids in our area. Some few take what seems to parents to their car. They were all laughing and having a great time. The boy was about 13, the same age as our son.

And this laughing boy was doing his racing in a wheel-chair. He didn't have any legs.

It was another one of those days when nothing went wrong and I knew the world had been so very kind to me.

be the most forthright approach. Both against busing and against the forced integration. It is designed to "achieve" some satisfied their constituents by voting against busing and their consciences by declaring themselves for "integration."

But as the lights went on the voting board, the most interesting group to me was neither the green lights or the red lights. It was the no lights! A group of eight of the most liberal of white city democrats refused to vote!

The list of those present but not voting included such consistent liberals as Speaker Ryan of Detroit, Dale Kildee of Flint, J. Bob Traxler of Bay City and Vern Harper of Muskegon!

A clergyman tells about an experience he had in a restaurant. He says, "I was enjoying myself thoroughly when suddenly I looked up, and across the room, sitting in a corner with his back to the main entrance but facing me, was a man whose face made me shudder. I could not describe it to you if I would, and I would not if I could. It is enough to say that it was a face that had been completely shattered and misshapen. I could not keep my eyes off him. I kept looking at him and thinking and wondering—what? when? how? why? I noticed that one of the waiters stood and talked to him as he ate. I thought to myself, "How kind of him; but how could he? Why couldn't it?"

"As I left the restaurant, I was unhappy and upset. I kept thinking to myself, "If I, a person who normally has kind and generous instincts, and as a Christian professes to be a lover of mankind, and if I am a victim of such instinctive aversions that I turn away from a man whom I ought to have turned toward, what can we expect from the other people who neither by profession nor natural inclination are moved to be kind?"

Have you ever had an experience like that? Have you turned away from someone, because of his extreme physical ugliness? Did you then experience guilt feelings after you missed the opportunity to bring some happiness and love into that person's life?

ST. FRANCIS OF ASSISI had a particular aversion to lepers. One day, as he was riding along on his donkey, he saw a leper come out from a cave and come toward him. The leper then stood in front of him. Instinctively he spurred his donkey to go on. Yet, when he got by, he knew that he had done something profoundly wrong, and he went back and kissed that leper on the lips. As he went on his way, "it seemed as if the very heavens sang for joy."

To what kind of person do you have an aversion? What kind of person makes you turn away from him—the "know-it-all"? the "loud-mouth"? the Negro? the Oriental? the physically handicapped? the scurvy-looking bum? the alcoholic? the mentally retarded?

St. Peter had an aversion to the Gentiles. Peter was a Christian, but he was also a Jew and quite prejudiced against non-Jews. But a certain experience changed his mind. In the book of Acts you can read about that experience (chapter 10).

Peter had a vision which resulted in his answering a call from a Gentile by the name of Cornelius. Jewish law forbade a Jew to associate with or visit a Gentile, but Peter went anyway. When Cornelius told Peter he wanted to hear everything he had to say concerning the Lord, Peter told him, "Truly I perceive that God shows no partiality, but in every nation anyone who fears Him and does what is right is acceptable to Him."

PETER LEARNED how narrow-minded he had been and as a result of his experience, he gained in the knowledge and the love of God.

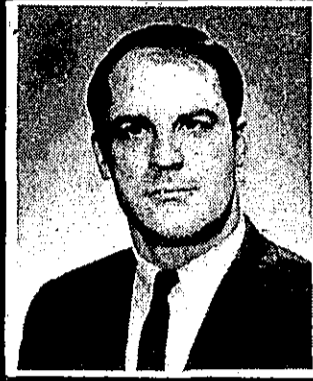

Now what can a Christian today do to overcome his aversion to particular people? For one thing, he can drag out his prejudices and ignorances and take a good look at them. He can find out why he has them and why he insists upon holding on to them. This requires honesty and the "guts" to accept the truth about himself.

The next thing the Christian can do is this. The next time he runs into one of the people who instinctively makes him turn away, he can check himself and try to turn toward that person in humble outgoing love.

Before a Christian can do this, of course, he must have a lot of God's love to begin with. He gets God's love by associating with Christ who reached out His hand and touched a leper; who never turned away from people.

YOU CAN ASSOCIATE with Jesus of Nazareth and let some of His Spirit rub off on you. You can catch His Spirit of love which will enable you to turn to others who are unlovely and perform humble service to them in His Name.

Dedication

By SEN. WILLIAM S. BALLENGER

Announcement of honors to this year's three top Michigan state employees (one of them from the 30th Senatorial District) and the indicated resignation of one of Michigan's most admired department heads has turned the spotlight on the dedication which most of Michigan's 50,000 public servants bring to their jobs.

The Governor's Commission for Distinguished Public Employees has announced that the state's three outstanding career public employees for 1971 are State Police Detective Darrell H. Pope of St. Johns, John P. Woodford of Okemos, and Mrs. Clarissa Love of Detroit.

They received appropriate awards from Governor Milliken last week at a luncheon in Lansing.

DETECTIVE POPE, who I am proud to claim as a constituent, was cited for devising a central computerized State Police file which analyzed reports of armed robberies from police departments throughout the state by comparing the methods used with suggested suspects known to utilize the techniques involved.

Woodford was cited for reducing the number of State Highway Department employees from 4,907 in 1967 to 4,327 this year, the lowest level of employment in 10 years.

Mrs. Love was cited for suggesting ways of improving the handling of medical and medicare claims by welfare recipients in the Social Services Department's Detroit office and for improving efficiency in the Detroit office.

At almost the same time came an indication that Gus Harrison, one of Michigan state government's most dedicated and highly respected department heads, intends to step down as director of the State Department of Corrections.

HARRISON, WHO STARTED working as a counselor at the Ionia Reformatory in 1938 and who became director of the Department in 1953, has said he wishes to step down from his present $29,000-a-year unclassified job to a lower salary as an assistant director under civil service.

He gives "personal reasons" as the principal factor behind his decision to shift into a lower gear.

In his years in one of the toughest jobs in state government, Harrison has won the respect of his fellow workers, of the inmates of Michigan's prisons and of legislators of both major political parties.

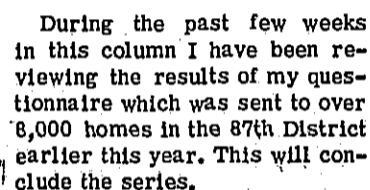

Over the years Michigan has had many dedicated department heads, but the two who will rank among the highest in the respect of the Legislature are Harrison and the late Bill Maxey, for years head of the State Social Services Department.

IN THEIR ANNUAL budget negotiations with the Legislature, their word was always respected. Their philosophy was much the same. In essence, they said to the Legislature:

"This is the amount of money we need to do the job. But we will do the best job we can with the money you think the taxpayers will provide."

Although Harrison wants to step down as director, Michigan will be fortunate if it is able to keep him in the corrections system, even in a lesser capacity.

Michigan is fortunate, too, in having many more people like Gus Harrison, Darrell H. Pope, John P. Woodford, and Clarissa Love as dedicated state employees.

Abortion reform

Rep. Douglas Trezise
87th District

During the past few weeks in this column I have been reviewing the results of my questionnaire which was sent to over 8,000 homes in the 87th District earlier this year. This will conclude the series.

Previous columns have included discussions on Spending and Taxation, Education, Drug Abuse and the Environment to which those responding indicated were their major areas of concern, in that order. This week I would like to cover attitudes toward abortion law reform, transportation, safety and consumer affairs, the other subjects of the questionnaire.

Incidentally, if any of you would like copies of previous reports on the results of the questionnaire either call me or drop me a note at the Capitol, Box 119, in Lansing and I'll be glad to send you a copy.

CONCERNING ABORTION law reform, residents of the 87th District favor a change but not to the point of removing all controls. The questions asked and the responses were:

Do you favor complete repeal of all laws concerning abortion? Yes—42 per cent; No—58 per cent

Do you favor allowing termination of pregnancies resulting from rape or incest or whether the child is likely to be severely physically or mentally handicapped? Yes—85 per cent; No—15 per cent

Somewhere between these two attitudes is the philosophy of Senate Bill 3, which would allow physicians to perform abortions under certain conditions. No one has proposed legislation as liberal as outright repeal of all laws dealing with abortions (question 1) and I think it is significant that such a large percentage supported the change concerning the potentially physically handicapped child.

It is impossible to say at this time if we in the House will have the opportunity to vote on Senate Bill 3 this year. I personally feel we should face our legislative duty and vote it up or down, but at least we should act. If it is placed before us you can be sure I will discuss the entire subject more completely in this column. It has been reported out of the Social Services Committee but it has been tabled, meaning that a majority (58) vote is needed to bring it up for debate and question of passage.

ONE MEASURE CERTAIN to be placed before us this fall is a proposal to increase gasoline taxes and designate a portion of that increase for mass transit systems. Respondents to the questionnaire seem lukewarm to the proposal with only 40 per cent favoring the use of highway tax money in this manner while 60 per cent opposed. There is considerably more involved in the package of bills to be introduced and I will report in depth on these bills later in the session.

But two areas of substantial agreement are in reducing the alcohol percentage of presumed drunk driving under the implied consent law from .15 per cent to .10 per cent (74 per cent—yes 26 per cent—no) and there should be a minimum legal age for the operation of a snowmobile (79 per cent—yes 21 per cent—no).

In the first case, Senate Bill 39 has already passed the Senate, reducing the drunk driving level to .10 per cent and is on the House calendar. Hopefully, we can complete action on that bill this fall.

In the second instance, House Bill 4011, which is a comprehensive snowmobile control measure, has passed the House and is in a Senate committee. If enacted, this bill would set a minimum age of 14 for general operation of a snowmobile and strengthen the rules on how snowmobiles may be used. For instance, hunting with a snowmobile would be prohibited.

RESIDENTS OF OUR district favor some form of no-fault auto insurance as indicated by the following question:

Would you favor amending the auto insurance law to require prompt payment of property damage and personal injury claims regardless of who was at fault? Yes—70 per cent; No—30 per cent

This is another measure high on the list of items to be considered by the Legislature, although probably not until after the first of the year.

Continued cold

U.S. REPRESENTATIVE

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The Administration last week submitted legislation to Congress to extend its authority to control wages and prices for an additional year beyond next April 30. It also asked for a number of refinements in the present law.

Hearings on this legislation which will provide the legal foundation for Phase II of the President's program begin this week before the House Banking and Currency Committee on which I serve.

Proposed Administration refinements in the present law include:

I. Excusing all but the chairmen of the Pay Board and the Price Commission from existing conflict-of-interest laws. The rationale is that by the very nature of the boards, which will have members from industry, labor, and the general public, they will be loaded with conflicts of interest.

II. Adding civil penalties of $2,500 per offense to the existing fine of $5,000 for criminal convictions. It is thought that the government would have a better chance of winning such cases in the civil courts, thus providing the means for the strongest possible enforcement of the board's decisions.

III. Including language in the legislation which would make clear the power of the Administration to seek court injunctions against wage and price increases that the two boards consider inflationary.

VI. Deletion of a subsection of the present act prohibiting controls on a particular sector of the economy unless prices or wages have increased at a rate "grossly disproportionate" to that of the general economy. This is considered important if the Administration is to act on an industry-by-industry basis during Phase II.

ALSO LAST WEEK, the House approved settlement of the Alaska Natives' Land Claims by passing legislation giving Alaska natives 40 million acres of land and $25 million as their rightful share of the state.

Intended to settle for all time the land claims of the 55,000

Eskimos, Indians, and Aleuts whose ancestors lived in Alaska before the United States bought it from Russia in 1867, the bill now goes to the Senate.

The natives would receive their land in two steps.

They first would choose 18 million acres around their villages. Then the State would have until 1984 to pick nearly 100 million acres still due it from the statehood act of 1958 but frozen for the last five years until the native claims were settled. The natives would then be allowed to select another 22 million acres.

THE MONEY PAYMENT—$425 million from the Federal Government and $500 million from the State mineral revenues—would be paid into corporations in which natives would hold shares. These could not be sold to non-natives for 20 years.

This week in the House, votes are scheduled on the controversial High Education Bill, the Pesticide Control Act and military construction appropriation measure among other pieces of legislation.

Among other things, the Higher Education Bill would continue the present Educational Opportunities Grant Program under which money is allocated to states and then to colleges who, in turn, give it to students who meet their tests of need.

Sweater knits

By LORRAINE SPRAGUE Extension Home Economist

Sweater knits until recently were available only to the ready-made garment industry. Now the home sewer can enjoy the use of these knitted fabrics which usually come in tubular form with a flat, ribbed or textured surface.

Selected patterns should have only a minimum of seams and no darts. Buttonholes and circular skirts are best avoided and a waistband casing with elastic will be more satisfactory than a fitted waistband. Because this knit has more stretch, less ease is needed in the side seams. However, a pattern adjustment in the waist and hip area is recommended over buying a smaller size to compensate for this ease. Unnecessary front seams may be eliminated by placing the pattern on a fold.

Sweater knits should be carefully stay-stitched on the seam line of each piece immediately after cutting, because of the stretching possibility. Synthetic thread, loose tension and more stitches per inch (about 15) should work fine. Avoid stretching seams as they are sewn. Edges should be overcast with a zig-zag machine. Care should be taken to keep sweater knits flat when working with them. Pat seams into place to minimize stretching.

When pressing, leave the garment flat until cool. The garment will stretch if handled when it is moist.

An underlining in the entire neck and shoulder areas prolongs wear-life. For a stable knit, tape in the seams works fine.

Sweater knits are not to be underlined if they are to maintain their major feature of softness. If they are to be underlined, synthetic fabric is more satisfactory than self-fabric in the heavy knits.

IF A BUTTONHOLE is to be essential, a hand crocheted loop is best. With care, some knits will take a machine - made buttonhole. In best experience, before making your decisions to the type of buttonhole you'll use.

4-H Chatter

THE 4-H FROSTERS, a new cake decorating group of 8 members held their first organizational meeting under the leadership of Mrs. Arnold Stevens. Officers elected are as follows: Linda Stevens, president; Debbie Jaquish, vice-president; Arlene Galbavi, secretary; Sherry Desprez, treasurer and Effie Wise as news reporter. The group will hold a Halloween Bake Sale Oct. 30 from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. The members discussed the possibility of taking a trip to Cedar Point in the spring. Their next meeting will be Nov. 13.

THE TERMITES 4-H club members are learning more than just making their projects as they are learning to draw their plans. They practiced drafting, discussed their jobs and plans for their 4-H projects. The Termites are under the leadership of Howard Hanson at Bath.

THE NIMBLE FINGERS 4-H club members organized for the winter program and elected the following officers: Lance Parmelee, president; Harry Moldenhauer, vice-president; Lori Lashaway, secretary; Cheryl Bancroft, treasurer; Julie Snyder, news reporter; Rhonda Kanaski, health chairman; Lenny Kanaski, safety chairman; Lori McQueen, song leader; Denise Cerny and Bonnie Elsler, recreation leaders. The members voted to "adopt" a couple to care for this coming year for a community service project. The honor roll, trip awards and pins were announced.

Hilda and Cheryl Bancroft gave a talk on gun safety. It was quite appropriate with pheasant, rabbit and deer hunting seasons opening soon.

CHARLIE'S GANG 4-H members have elected Dan Barz as their President for the coming year. Other officers include: Charles Sillman, vice-president; Jim Eaton, secretary; Timothy Barz, treasurer; Allen Sehlike, news reporter. The members completed their enrollment blanks, voted to go roller skating in November, January and March.

Their leader Charles Sillm reported that next year's 4-H softball playoff would be double elimination with each game to go 5 innings. The next meeting will be Nov. 9 at Riley School.

CMU plans day for civic clubs

MT. PLEASANT-- A newly initiated "special" day at a Central Michigan University football game this fall will give service and civic clubs throughout the state an opportunity to visit the CMU campus or to honor youngsters in their communities.

CMU's first football "Club Day" will be held in conjunction with the Central-Akron game on Oct. 30 and will include a coffee hour and reception, campus tours, special entertainment and a scouting report before the game, buffet luncheon, and the game itself.

"We think our program provides an excellent and inexpensive outing for clubs throughout the state," says CMU football Coach Roy Kramer. "We have planned it to meet a variety of uses that individual clubs might want to make of it, but we're emphasizing the potential for father-son and wives day outings and as an appropriate way to honor local high school football teams," Kramer says.

The outing is available to individual club members as well as entire clubs, Kramer adds. The price of the entire package is $6.50 per person. That includes a reserved seat for the game, a buffet luncheon in Finch Fieldhouse, a coffee hour, game program and entertainment.

The coffee hour and reception in the University Center runs from 9:30 to 11 a.m., with campus tours available during that time. Special entertainment in Finch Fieldhouse begins at 11 a.m. and will include a live band, a gymnastics exhibition and Kramer's scouting report on the game.

The buffet luncheon will run from noon until 1 p.m. with kickoff time set for 1:30 p.m.

Tickets may be ordered by writing the Football Office, CMU, Mt. Pleasant 48858. Orders must be postmarked no later than Oct. 25 to receive tickets by mail. For orders received after that date, tickets will be held at the Finch Fieldhouse ticket office.

CP seeks new gas procedure

JACKSON--Consumers Power Company asked the Michigan Public Service Commission today to authorize a new gas allocation procedure to insure equitable distribution of additional supplies of natural gas as they become available.

In its application, the Company said that construction of new pipeline facilities in the northern part of Michigan's lower peninsula, authorized this week by the Commission, would bring incremental supplies of 60 million cubic feet daily to the Company's service area by the summer of 1972. The gas will come from newly discovered reserves near Kalkaska.

The proposed allocation procedure established five priorities. The first of these is gas for residential use, continuing the preference already existing for space heating and other uses in the home.

Second priority is for small commercial and industrial loads of 6,600 cubic feet per hour, or less. This priority includes air and water pollution abatement uses not requiring more than 6,600 cubic feet per hour.

A SPOKESMAN for the Company said that this second priority covers 90 per cent of all pending applications for natural gas.

The remaining priorities—which would receive gas after all needs of the first two are met—are

Third priority—commercial and industrial loads greater than 6,600 cubic feet an hour, but not more than 50,000.

Fourth priority—commercial and industrial loads greater than 50,000 cubic feet an hour, excluding steam generation, electric generation, and kilns.

Fifth priority—Large steam generating, electric generating, and kiln loads exceeding 50,000 cubic feet an hour, to be served on an interruptible rate.

The new allocating procedure contemplates that gas will be available to fully utilize all equipment presently being used by customers, in which gas is the primary fuel, except equipment using more than 50,000 cubic feet an hour for steam generating, electric generating, and kilns.

Restrictions on gas sales were authorized by the Public Service Commission a year ago, when it became apparent that the national shortage of natural gas would prevent the Company from obtaining enough additional gas to meet expanding needs of its customers. Existing customers were assured adequate supplies, and new residential customers continued to be added within the limits of available supplies. Discoveries of new gas reserves in Northern Michigan, which will begin to reach the market shortly, now make possible the modifications now proposed by the Company.

Exports of American farm products reached a new all-time high in 1970. This is good news to all farmers; not just those who produce the grains, cotton, soybeans, tobacco, livestock products and all other commodities that move into the world market. It's especially good news to cattlemen, dairymen and vegetable growers who would face much greater competition in the domestic market if foreign nations did not take the crop production of nearly one acre in four in America.

During 1970 American farm product exports rose to a record 7.2 billion dollars. This is 20 per cent higher than in 1969. Soybeans was the leader for the year with a record export of 435 million bushels. Exports of wheat, cotton, corn and grain sorghums were up substantially even if they didn't reach record-breaking levels.

IN TERMS OF dollar value, the farm products exported included about 2.6 billion dollars worth of oil seeds, 817 million dollars in animals and products and 372 million dollars in cotton.

That's a lot of money and a lot of farm products. It also makes a big difference in the market place to our nation's agriculture producers. As agricultural production increases, a market must be found for the commodities. There are only two markets for agricultural products—domestic and foreign.

Last year the U.S. House of Representatives passed a bill setting quotas on imports of textiles and shoes. The U.S. Senate didn't pass the quota bill, but the same type of legislation has been introduced this year. Most agriculture producers won't complain if Congress leaves it on the shelf and takes no action.

Farm exports play a vital part in our national economy.

LANSING — "We cannot write off our Great Lakes fishery programs and many, if not most, of our inland fishery resources because of environmental contamination."

The words were spoken by a Department of Natural Resources fisheries specialist at last week's hearing before the House Conservation and Recreation Committee in Ann Arbor, which was called to shed more thinking upon the latest development of fish contamination by polychlorinated biphenyls (PCBs).

Jake Balls, sounding the DNR's concern over the total spectre of environmental contamination stressed that the problem should be met through the coordinated action of federal agencies which are charged with regulating and setting standards for pesticides and water quality, as well as for consumer food products.

"It seems incredible," he said, "that we wait to react to an environmental problem until it becomes important to human health." At that point, Balls continued: "All our energies and all the concern centers around protecting the public from eating the fish rather than insuring better protection for our environment."

The crux of the situation, Balls explained, is that preventive action against environmental pollution should be mounted first as the best line of defense against potential human health hazards.

Balls emphasized that current water quality standards must be expanded in scope to adequately control persistent and potentially harmful pollutants such as DDT, PCB's, and mercury.

The DNR's fisheries specialist explained that water quality standards should be keyed to fish and other sensitive forms of wildlife, which readily build up concentrations of pesticides and chemicals, so that controls can be initiated before natural resource products are condemned.

He said that waste effluent standards probably offer the most appropriate control measures for substances such as mercury.

In the cases of DDT, PCB's, and other similar compounds, the DNR would like to see controls placed on the sale, use, and eventual disposal of these manufactured products.

The DNR, supporting a recommendation made by Governor Milliken more than a year ago, favors the establishment of a national clearing house to ride herd on these products from manufacture through disposal, and to determine their impact on humans and the environment.

Balls explained: "The creation of new products or manufacturing processes could be controlled immediately through such a clearing house, and we could at least begin the admittedly difficult task of evaluating existing products and manufacturing processes that may have contaminated our environment."

He noted that Michigan has taken a "giant step" in the right direction by passing the recent "Truth in Pollution Bill."

"However," Balls added, "it is impractical to think that the states can do the whole job alone."

The DNR's spokesman said efforts must be concentrated at identifying and controlling all the environmental contaminants which have been dumped into the environment "for the last 150 years." At the same time, he observed, everyone must accept human health guidelines, laid down by public health authorities, which bear upon the consumption of wild fish and game.

Balls noted that there is, unfortunately, a tendency to forget about the problem of contamination once consumer food products have been removed from the markets. However, he observed, such action does not clear up the problem of environmental contamination. "We still have mercury, DDT, dieldrin and PCB's in our fish."

That being the case, the DNR strongly urges further research to clarify public health concerns.

Balls told the House Conservation and Recreation Committee: "If the levels of contaminants found in fish are determined to be a serious public health hazard, more stringent warnings may be in order. If, on the other hand, the risk is not as great as we now assume, we can utilize millions of pounds of weir-caught salmon instead of burying them; and we need not close several species to commercial fishing."

Despite the stark soundings which have been made on DDT, mercury, and other contaminants in recent months, Michigan has made significant progress in water pollution control, said Balls.

"Our Great Lakes and tributary anadromous streams offer some of the highest quality freshwater found anywhere in the world."

Supporting that statement is the fact that those water yielded a sport catch of more than 1.7 million trout and salmon and over 3 million days of recreation in 1970.

Ironically, the publicity which has been stirred by the resurgence of Michigan's Great Lakes sport fishery has also headlined environmental problems in those waters.

Balls concluded: "The Great Lakes are not unique; most other watercourses in our country or in near populated areas have similar problems with PCB's, DDT and/or mercury. Our Department will continue to urge the development of our Great Lakes fishery resources so that we can retain the public incentive to clean up our environment while, at the same time, supplying a large part of our public's recreation demands."

FALL PROGRAM BEGINS

The Elsie United Methodist Church opened its fall program Sunday morning with the 1971 World Communion theme "draw near with faith" to participate in the World Communion offering.

Rev. David Litchfield is the pastor of the Elsie and Duplain United Methodist Circuit. The program offers support to Crusade Scholarships and scholarships to minority students in the United States and a ministry to servicemen and their families.

The Crusade Scholarship program was established 25 years ago and more than 1,860 Christian young adults from the United States and other countries have had the opportunity for advanced education.

Minority students in the U.S. still need educational opportunities for new doors that are opening. Twenty-five per cent of the World Communion offering support U.S. students apart from the Crusade Scholarships.

The Commission on Chaplains and Related Ministers receives its full support from the offering and recruits, screens and provides continuing leadership and personal guidance to more than 700 Chaplains in federal prisons, in V.A. Hospitals and various branches of the military.

The W.S.C.S. of the Elsie United Methodist Church will serve its annual turkey supper at the Fellowship Hall, Wednesday, Oct. 13. The serving will also be a bazaar. Tickets may be purchased at the door or from any W.S.C.S. member.

This is a reminder that the Elsie P.T.A. Carnival will be held at the Junior High Building with Larry Nicholas as general chairman on Saturday, Oct. 16 from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. Instead of 9:30 p.m. as previously announced.
