Vandals were at it again. This time they cut General Telephone wires between Alma and Ithaca knocking out long distance service to residents in St. Johns, Fowler, and Pewamo-Westphalia for a short time Tuesday.

PROFILE

The Kissanes never know what a phone call may bring. However, most times it is a child. See Personality Profile on Page 7A.

Pool opens

St. Johns Veteran's Memorial Pool will open for the season on Saturday, June 17, at 2:30 p.m. swimming will be free to everyone until 5:30 p.m. on Saturday. Regular hours for recreational swim from June 17 through Labor Day are: Monday-Saturday, 2:30 to 5:30 and 7:00 to 8:45. (Sat. evenings-families only); and Sunday, 2 to 6 p.m. For more information on other programs, call the pool at 224-6950.

Word omitted

A word left out of a sentence can cause a lot of confusion. The word "out" was not typed in the story on the six-year-old boy drowning in a St. Johns homeowner's pool in last week's Clinton County News. The sentence should have read, "...two boys, ages 10 and six, had entered the fenced-in area around the pool without the owner's (Freda Robbins) permission and were playing in the pool area." The News regrets having made this error.

Students who ride bus 9 in St. Johns may think their bus driver, Mrs. Leona Ettinger, is someone special but after last weekend, they know she is special—she is the top school bus driver in Michigan.

Mrs. Ettinger, a nine-year veteran St. Johns bus driver, won the first Michigan Championship School Bus Rodeo sponsored by AAA and the Michigan Association of People Transportation at Harry Hill High School Saturday.

She and 22 other regional bus driving winners competed in written, oral and driving tests as well as physical examination of the buses. When it was all over, Leona scored 420 points out of a possible 425, setting a new record nationally.

"I was nervous from the time I won the regional (May 27) until Friday evening and then I was calm until I actually started the test," she said.

Now she has to look forward to the nationals June 27 at Niagara Falls.

Ever since she won the regional competition, she has been practicing for the state finals. Her sons, Russell and Ricky, set up barriers and straightened up obstacles as she knocked them over with her bus. Meanwhile, her husband, Richard, was lending support.

By Patrice Hornak

Clinton County Because the Clinton County News went to the press before the filing deadline for Clinton County Commissioner expired, a partial list of persons seeking Commission seats was available in last week's paper.

A complete overview of the Commission races, however, shows 18 men and one woman seeking a seat on the 11-member board which governs the county.

Six Democrats are vying for Commission positions. Presently the Board of Commissioners is made up solely of Republicans.

Democrat Robert Cross of 7749 Island Rd., Elsie is challenging Republican incumbent Glenn Webster in District 1; and Democrat Richard Divine of 4780 Round Lake Rd., Laingsburg, is going to find opposition from newcomers Claude Underhill of 6512 Shepardville Rd., Laingsburg or Richard DePond of 142 W. Front St., Ovid.

Republicans Underhill and DePond will square off in the Aug. 8 primary and the winner of that election will oppose Divine in the November election.

Sheriff Dept negotiations end, contracts yet to be signed

By Sue Kiley

Clinton County

It took six months, but at least now Clinton County sheriff's deputies know what the future holds for them, for the next two years anyway.

Sheriff's deputies and Clinton County began negotiating for a new contract last year. When mediation failed to produce a new agreement between the two units (Clinton County and Fraternal Order of Police, No. 141) arbitration proceedings began.

The arbitration panel consisting of Thomas Drenth, attorney for the county; Floyd Berkimer, president of the local FOP who has since quit the department; and Daniel Kruger, arbitrator. They met for the first time Feb. 1. A hearing was later held April 11 and the panel reconvened May 12.

After the last meeting in May the arbitrator had 45 days to make his decision.

Of the eight economic issues, the county's last best offer was accepted on seven of the proposals. The deputies were awarded their requests on the questions of vacations and the non-economic issue of union personnel doing their own specified jobs as opposed to non-union personnel performing these functions.

The first issue dealt with vacations. In the old contract, the union had 10 days paid vacation. (Re: Christmas, Thanksgiving, etc.) They wanted two extra days to be counted as holidays (Martin Luther King's birthday and the employee's birthday.) The arbitrator awarded the issue to the county keeping the status quo.

The local FOP wanted between two and four personal days instead of the two they were given in the old contract. The county offered two days which the arbitrator awarded.

The local FOP has put in a request for air conditioning in the patrol cars. The county proposed no mandatory air conditioning for the cars, but would install it at their discretion.

As it stands now, the lieutenant, sergeants, deputies, sheriff, and detective each have one air conditioned car. The 13 road patrol deputies use five cars, one of which has air conditioning.

According to Dan Polzein, newly appointed FOP president, the arbitrator awarded the county's offer although the panel did encourage the employer to purchase air conditioned cars for the deputies.

The union proposed an increase in longevity pay from $400 for five years of service to $1,000 for 25 years of service. The county stayed with its old agreement offer of $200 for five years of service to $700 for 25 years of service. The arbitrator agreed with the county's offer on this proposal, also.

Guidelines were set up for the future training of the FOP members. The arbitrator did say a training committee should establish a letter of understanding on what the needs of the department are and how they will be met.

The county offered one additional sick day a year, going from 12 to 13 days. The FOP members will be able to accumulate 85 days of sick leave instead of the original 60 days.

Currently deputies wages begin at $5.60 per hour. The union asked for an increase of 56 cents an hour, a starting wage of $6.16 per hour. By the fourth year of employment the deputy would be making $7.57 per hour.

The county offered an increase of 31 cents an hour or a starting wage of $5.91. By the fourth year of employment the deputies would be making $7.26 per hour.

What's in a name? Students investigate

By Patrice Hornak
Editor

Clinton County
What's in a name? That is what students in Clinton County set out to discover in the fourth annual essay contest sponsored by the Clinton County Historical Society.

Essays describing how certain roads, townships, cities and villages got their present names were submitted to judges Donna Carter and Millie Brown.

More than 80 essays were read and judged on content as well as how information was obtained for the essay. "We wanted children to learn history from adults and gain knowledge from their parents," said Betty Moore, chairman of the Publications Committee which organized the essay contest.

Steven Stump, a Pewamo-Westphalia High School student, submitted the grand prize essay entitled, "Eureka found it!"

He also took first place in the senior high division with Bob Schmitt and Cathy Sanders placing second and third, respectively. All were PWHS students.

In the elementary division, Amy Apostol of St. Joseph's Catholic School in St. Johns placed first with her essay about French's Corners.

Vicky Feldpausch of Waldron Elementary in Fowler and St. Joe's student Barb Gallagher tied for second place; and Lisa Vitek of St. Joe's took third place.

According to Mrs. Moore, the essays from the 1978 contest, as well as prior contests, will be bound in 16 notebooks and made available to the public in July. Notebooks will be categorized by township.

Following is the grand prize essay.

Eureka found it!

By Steven Stump

The town of Eureka finally found its present labeling after five names and two locations in 113 years of changes.

"Most northern Michigan towns were so isolated during the lumbering days that unknowingly, the founders often named several villages the same names as those the first settlers moved from in lower Michigan, to make it more like home. When postoffices were established the postal authorities used different names to avoid confusion in mail delivery."

The beginnings of Eureka were typical of the early pioneering in Michigan. The original settlement was founded around David Richman's house when a post office opened there in 1843. However, an J.A. Barrington built up a saw mill about a mile east of Richman's house in 1855. This became the present site of Eureka. This, also, led to the title of Barrington for the new town in honor of the founder Mr. Barrington.

The town's name was to change after Barrington and his two partners, Clark Williams and Dr. Rigdon Potter laid out lots for a village. The new title was Williamsport, which undoubtedly came from Clark Williams and his friends. However, when the plot was recorded the legal name was to become 'Greenbush'. This might have been to eliminate any jealousies between the two partners, Barrington and Williams, and to quiet any ill feelings among their friends.

Although, Greenbush was the legal name of the new town, another popular name was 'Swizzletown'. This was because many people believed the villagers had a taste for strong drink. Furthermore, the name of Swizzletown became the most accepted for the village, though it caused embarrassment to the villagers, and like dictionary form swizzle, Swizzletown has an unknown origin.

When the town was finally plotted, the post office was moved to its final location in the new village of Greenbush. However, another town in Alcona county was also entitled as Greenbush. The villagers knew that this similarity would only lead to confusion in deliveries, so the villagers decided to pick a new name. The villagers also hoped to lose the title of Swizzletown in the process of changing their name.

Edward Stark, who was the postmaster of the new town, suggested the name Eureka. This is Latin for "I have found it". However, it wasn't until one of the village's citizens took more drastic action that the name Eureka caught on. Nevertheless, Stephen Pearl, a merchant, erected a huge sign over his storefront which in bold letters spelled out the word: E-U-R-E-K-A. Therefore, with Pearl's determination the new name caught on and has stayed until this very day.

Clinton County Historical Society will hold its June meeting at the V.F.W. Hall in DeWitt, June 15 at 8 p.m. The V.F.W. Hall is the old Community Church Building in DeWitt. It is north of the light on Bridge Street and is on the east side of the street.

Ken Coin, who has been an industrious member of the Society since its organization and is currently serving as a member of the Board of Directors, will present a program on daguerreotypes and tin types.

Ken has an extensive collection of these and will show them and also explain the process of earliest photography. Also on the program will be the Alvy Hartman family singers who will sing "old time" songs and even encourage members to "sing along."

Clinton County Historic Commission will meet at the museum June 22 at 7:30 p.m.

The essay winners were presented their prizes at the May meeting. The winners are: "Eureka Found It" by Steven Stump; "Westphalia: A Tribute to our Ancestors' Homeland" by Cathy Sanders; "A Step into the Past" by Bob Schmitt. These are all students of Mr. Jim Philmore's Senior English class at Pewamo-Westphalia High School. Steve's essay was also the grand prize winner. Grade school winners were "Frenches' Corners" by Amy Apostol, a fifth grader at St. Joseph's in St. Johns; "The Round-School House" by Barbara Gallagher, a sixth-grader at St. Joseph's; "Maple Rapids" by Vicky Feldpausch, a sixth grader at Waldron School in Fowler; "The Old Cider Mill" by Lisa Vitek a fifth grader at St. Joseph's School. The students who attended were able to read their essays. Mr. Pilmore filled in as did Millie Brown who was a judge. These essays will be reprinted in the county news and also in this newsletter. A special thanks to Donna Carter and Millie Brown of St. Johns for judging the essays. A thank you to all those who entered the contest. There will be a Board of Directors meeting at the Museum on June 19. All interested members of the Society are cordially welcome. The Board meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

De Witt Twp parcel rezoned for apartments

By Sue Kiley
Staff Writer

DeWitt Twp

Rezoning of an eight-acre parcel in DeWitt Township was approved by the Board despite opposition from a citizen's group.

The property was okayed for rezoning from Residential Medium to Multiple High status. This would allow the building of some apartment complexes in the area. The request for the rezoning came from Kuesch Brothers.

Roger Pline, member of the DeWitt Township Planning Commission and the Board noted this rezoning would be the best usage of the land, the area would be serviced by sewers and utilities, a good area for access of emergency services, and would serve as a natural buffer between the trunkline and residential district.

Gary Hornbacher, a resident in Walnut Estates, a subdivision adjacent to the parcel, gave a 10-minute presentation to the Board citing why he felt the area should not be rezoned.

He noted there are no sidewalks in the subdivision and the children have to ride their bikes and walk in the streets as it stands now. He contends that added traffic of the apartment development would create more problems.

He added, homeowners would be in a minority; odors, dust and dirt problems would increase; and there would be more congestion getting in and out of the subdivision.

"An abrupt and immediate change like this is not a healthy situation," Hornbacher said. "We need the Board's consideration with this question."

Pline reacted to Hornbacher's statements saying most of the problems he cited would be corrected before actual construction would begin.

Pline added the concerns brought up by Hornbacher should be brought up when the site plan is discussed.

"I agree there is a need for some concern, but I also feel it is a little premature," Pline commented.

"You can't shut off all types of development until all the problems are corrected," Trustee Jack Kzeski said.

The Board unanimously agreed to rezone the property. Pline did add that it be suggested to the developers to discuss his plans with the residents of Walnut Estates for their input.

Moto-cross added to Owosso speedway

Last Friday night the Owosso Speedway joined the very few tracks that are equipped to run night Moto-Cross. Operating under the sanction of the American Motorcycle Association District 14, the Speedway hosted the first event on the newly constructed racing facility.

Over 100 riders took advantage of the opportunity to collect AMA points and to add trophies to their personal trophy collections.

In all 10 different classes each rider got two opportuities to try out the Speedway course which is located within the confines of the highbanked auto race track.

Open Class - Mark Hinkle, of South Haven; and in the Woods Class, Keith Boyle of Alma.

The "two-wheeled rough riders" are scheduled to return to the new Speedway course next Friday evening and every Friday evening for the remainder of the summer. Registration for the events begins at 4 p.m. with the first racing event scheduled for 8 p.m.

New record set at Crystal Raceway

Crystal Ritt Newland of Cedar Springs set a new track record of 18:00 Saturday night at Crystal Raceway for the Limited Sportsman class. He broke Gene Playter's record set May 27.

Playter beat last year's record by two-tenths of a second, setting it at 18:10. Newland went on to win the feature race, with Kris Patterson of St. Johns, Bud Playter of Greenville and Mike Daggett of Lansing in close pursuit. Heats were won by Patterson, Bill Hopkins of Greenville, and John Lalonde of Sumner.

Patterson and Newland eliminated the entire field in the first Australian Pursuit of the year bringing the crowd to their feet. Bob Lynn held Patterson and Newland off until the white flag lap to place third.

What's happening to the family?

What is happening to the American family?

That question was asked of Better Homes and Gardens readers and a total of 302,602 persons responded to the questionnaires. Of this number, 10,000 answers were randomly selected.

Tabulated answers, in the form of a report, were recently sent to all newspapers across the nation. Following are some of the highlights of that survey of the American family.

1. A life in which physical well-being, raising children and intellectual and spiritual growth is far more important than recognition by others, influence over others or social status.

2. A lifetime marriage commitment to one spouse with love remains the main reason for staying married.

3. Those surveyed believed in a husband-wife relationship in which the partners are in agreement about their marriage goals, are having their expectations of happiness fulfilled, and are sharing their personal problems.

On the other hand, a number of concerns were also pinpointed:

1. A majority of the respondents said American family life is in trouble and they place much of the blame on inattentive parents and the absence of a religious and spiritual foundation.

2. The high rate of marriage failure disturbs respondents, who attribute the increase to the marriage partners' immaturity, selfishness and lack of mutual interests and goals.

3. The elderly are generally forgotten by their families, say many respondents, and young children are growing up today without enough contact with older people.

4. Television programming and movies are sources of concern because of poor quality and overemphasis on sex and violence. Also, respondents feel there is too much emphasis on sex and youth in all aspects of society.

Some changes which the Better Homes and Gardens readers reflected in today's society included:

1. A rejection of the stereotyped roles of the husband as breadwinner and the wife as homemaker.

2. Awareness of women's rights.

3. Smaller families.

What else did the respondents say in this national survey?

Only nine per cent said they would demand a divorce if they found out their spouse was unfaithful.

An overwhelming majority (91 per cent) who are parents say they would have children if they had it to do over.

Eighty-seven per cent felt most parents are too permissive with their children.

Thirty-four per cent say they themselves would consider an abortion for an unplanned pregnancy.

Seventy-one per cent say they are better off materially than their parents, but only 48 per cent say they are happier.

The belief that hard work and self-sacrifice usually lead to success has slipped to 39 per cent.

If they were going to move, the most important consideration for 42 per cent of the respondents would be a more energy-efficient house.

By Patrice Hornak

Sixty per cent rate the quality of education being offered in their community as very good or good.

It is likely there will be a major economic depression in the next 10 years believes 59 per cent of the respondents.

Fully 85 per cent think the energy crisis is here to stay.

Do you agree with the majority of these statements? It will be interesting to come back to this survey in 10 years and compare tomorrow's thoughts with today's thoughts.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Wipe out cancer in your lifetime

Clinton County has a couple of business people dedicated to "Wiping out Cancer in Your Life Time". Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Crowell, owners and operators of the Twin Oaks Golf Club on US-27 north of St. Johns are planning their sixth annual Memorial Golf Day, Saturday, June 17. On this day the club facilities are used to raise money for the Clinton County Unit of the American Cancer Society. The Crowells do this as a memorial to their daughter, Penny, who lost her life to cancer at age 20.

All green fees are donated to the American Cancer Society. Businesses in Clinton County donate golf prizes. American Cancer Society volunteers serve refreshments and food.

A gourmet bake sale is held in the club house that morning. It is a fun day for all who work or participate.

June 17 is an opportunity for all people who want to "MAKE THOSE MIRACLES HAPPEN" in the fight against cancer to join the Crowells for a gala day.

If all the families who have lost a loved one to cancer, came out to join the Crowells as a memorial, wouldn't the crowd be huge? Let's try it this year.

I am one of the lucky ones, a cured cancer patient.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Audrey Fruchtl,
ACS Volunteer

Imported food facts turn stomach

Dear Editor,

The following article appeared in the American Agriculture News in the May 16 edition. Having been an active follower of the AAM since it began in our area, I have found that the General public is not informed as to many of the things which concern them a great deal.

We have found out about imported food which I am sure the average consumer does not know and I think it's about time they knew what they are eating. The title of the article is, "Import Facts Turn Stomach, Especially If You Eat Hamburger."

The international bridge at Nogales, Arizona, was blockaded to point out the amount of imported vegetables and beef that come across the border daily. The demonstration was peaceful, with the full cooperation of authorities.

American Agriculture had two reasons for this demonstration. First, to protest imported produce and beef which does not have to meet the standards and inspection as U.S. products. Second, to gain news media attention so we could tell our story of American Farmers in trouble.

Trucks roll through the port of entry at the rate of one truck per minute. Ten hour days are common. That means 600 trucks full of imported vegetables per day. On the day before the blockade, trucks continued rolling until four a.m. in the morning.

None of the trucks entering the U.S. with vegetables were inspected the day AAM's advance team was there. None were inspected the day of the blockade. A great deal of DDT is used in Mexico. It is manufactured in the U.S. and shipped there. These vegetables were not tested for DDT.

Live cattle entering the U.S. amount to 44,000 head per year at the Nogales port, and 41,800 at the Agua Prieta port. These cattle are not inspected for disease. A chemical bath is the only protection for the U.S. consumers.

There is no federal meat inspector at the border to check boned and frozen beef. These trucks are SUPPOSED to go half way across the state to Phoenix before being unlocked. "Maybe 10 per cent" is inspected, says Arizona State Veterinarian and Meat Inspector, Dr. McCloud.

The Mexican packing houses have dirt floors. They are not refrigerated. No stainless steel tables and equipment. Standards of cleanliness are far inferior to U.S. standards. There are flies. Beef which is processed in these places is what Americans are eating in their hamburgers.

Cattle with cancer are purchased in the U.S., driven across the border at Agua Prieta (Douglas, Arizona) and killed on a big concrete slab. When they get too many cattle, they are shot in the dirt and dragged onto the slab. The carcasses are hung and wait for a refrigerated truck to arrive. The wait may be an hour, two hours, maybe two days. This is a possible source of the tainted beef that has been turning up across the country.

Cattle with diseases (such as beef measles) which cannot be used for meat in the U.S. are taken to Mexico, killed and cooked. Then the meat can be shipped back into the U.S. as pre-cooked roasts, etc.

Regarding pesticides, farmers say "At least give us an even break. If Mexico is allowed to use DDT, Americans eat the vegetables, let U.S. farmers use DDT also. Then we can compete with the imports." We should also remember that these Mexican companies are exempt from U.S. income tax, even though the products are consumed in the U.S. Because of these two breaks, Mexico can produce more cheaply.

Yours for better food,
Sue Heinlen

Group trying to raise drinking age to 21

Dear Editor:

As one of the Co-Chairmen of the Coalition for 21, the broad based group of Michigan citizens who have organized for the purpose of raising the state's legal drinking age to 21, I want to take this means to tell your readers that signatures may still be sent in to the addresses on the petition forms.

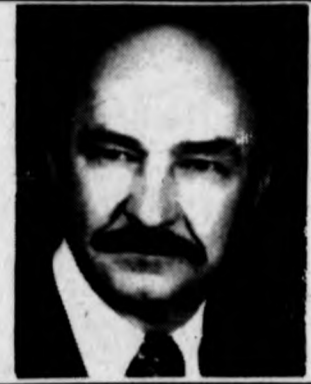

We have set July 1 as the last goal to reach the required number of signatures on the "drinking age to 21" petitions. Then we will have until July 10 to process, check and submit the signatures to the Election Division of the Secretary of State Office.

Rumors that the drive to put the drinking age question on the ballot is ended are not true. Such stories are false

Blame the media: Why not?

By Richard L. Milliman

Most of us involved in what is broadly called "the media" quiver little - if, indeed, at all - when a politician broadsides some criticism because of something the media have done which the politician perceives as scurrilous.

In fact, many of us wear such criticism as a badge of honor, especially when it comes from a petty political crook who has been exposed by some digging, shoe-leather reporting and some needed exposure in the public press.

Sometimes, however, I have to admit I become a bit weary of the public flogging administered to the press by politicians. Sure, I can shrug it off; but like the fruits of the propaganda machines in Hitler's Third Reich, sooner or later somebody may come to believe it.

Consider, for example, the plight of former Michigan State Sen. Arthur Cartwright of Detroit, who was caught with his hand in the public cookie jar and copped a plea with the attorney general. The plea bargain deal included Cartwright's agreement to resign from the Senate and not run for his seat again, while the original felony charge was reduced to the misdemeanor level of cheating on his state expense account.

Naturally, Cartwright blamed the press. According to a report in one Detroit newspaper, when Cartwright bowed out of the Senate, he did so with both guns blazing at the media, claiming he had been "persecuted.....nailed to the cross....." by adverse "overpublicity," to use his term.

"I couldn't have bought that much exposure if I had been running for president," Cartwright is quoted. "It put me in a line with John Dillinger - boom, boom, boom, shooting out everybody and killing babies and children."

What now? He was going to "rest.....if the media will let me."

Cartwright obviously felt himself a martyr; "I'm no angel. I'm not perfect. Everybody makes mistakes. But I don't have a damn thing to be ashamed of."

Well, perhaps he doesn't know how to feel shame. He should be ashamed of his conduct as a custodian of public trust. Originally he was charged with padding his expense account by some $600; what he finally was convicted of was kiting a single meal ticket from $4.16 which was on the dinner tab, to $45.80 which he turned into the state.

Those are things you shouldn't do. Stealing $41.64 perhaps isn't a federal crime, but it should be enough to cause shame in a state senator.

One point that the former senator overlooks is that he's been around a long time in the public service, having first been elected to the Legislature in 1962. Since then he has turned in hundreds of expense accounts, and taken hundreds of trips at taxpayers expense. It is reasonable to assume that if he is convicted of stealing $41.64 on one dinner ticket in Atlanta, the balance of his expense accounts over the years might bear some scrutiny as well.

It does seem to me that forced resignation from the senate is a rather severe penalty for stealing $45.16; it also seems to me that if a conscientious state senator was sure of his ground, he would have declined to plea bargain, and would have refused to resign over a $45.16 dinner tab kiting charge.

But back to the point of this essay: Cartwright blames the press.

However, it was not the press which took the state-paid trip to Atlanta. It was not the press which juggled the figures on the dinner tab. It was not the press which turned in the kited figures to the senate secretary for payment. It was not the press which decided the easiest road was to cut a deal with the attorney general. It was not the press which agreed to resign and not run again.

All of these actions which made up the Cartwright scenario are the actions of Arthur Cartwright, not some reporter.

There's only one person responsible for Arthur Cartwright's problems with the courts, and that person is Cartwright himself.

In most cases where the press is accused of hounding someone out of office or out of public favor, the same principle holds true - and that's regardless of whether the public figure is Arthur Cartwright, or Bert Lance, or Wayne Hays or even Richard Nixon and the Watergate crew. The point is this:

It is the public figure who digs his own grave, not the press. In most cases, the press reports and reflects, but it does not create.

Instead of being the target of political criticism in times like those mentioned above, the press should be praised for its role of vigilance and diligence.

As an individual involved in the same line of work, I know I bask just a bit in a small patch of reflected glory for the role of the press in the Cartwright case.

Sewer concerns DeWitt residents

An open letter to The City Council City of DeWitt:

Gentlemen:

As residents, taxpayers, and voters in DeWitt, we have several comments and questions concerning the sanitary sewer system which is to be built and/or upgraded to meet federal criteria.

Since all taxpayers in the city contribute to the cost, the entire plan should be presented in detail to all, with maps made available, at cost of reproduction, showing both present and projected lines and direction of flow.

The maps also should show which land now is occupied and which is vacant. If any land outside the present city limits is to be serviced by the lines, that should also be shown on the map and explained at a general meeting.

The possibility of any private property being torn up in future years for installation of other utilities (water systems, underground electric and telephone lines) should be considered in relation to the projected sewer lines and to the zoning master plan, including any possible new streets, roads, and parks.

All owners (not just one spouse) of land to be taken for easements should be notified at the same time, as well as those with existing easements where deepening of the pipes or other changes are to be made.

If one particular alignment of the system is presented to home owners as "cheapest," certainly figures should be available for other possible routes, and some estimate of the cost of easements on any given route should be made.

Since the appearance of the looking Glass River, possibly the city's most valuable asset, would be affected by having a strip of land a minimum of 30 feet wide "free from any obstructions," (including trees) lying along the river, all residents of the city would be affected and should have an opportunity to express their views on the question.

Residents along the river who maintain at least a portion of their yard in a natural state would be most adversely affected by some proposed lines, but all riverside homeowners would be affected by runoff, since tree and shrub roots hold more water, longer, than does an open strip of grass, no matter how lush. Runoff also contributes to lowering of the land's water tables.

More of the "nitty-gritty" facts of installation or upgrading should be volunteered at any meeting, since there is no way most homeowners can be aware of all details involved in, and requiring their asset to, the taking of an easement by the city for such uses as sewer lines.

One easement, taken by the city from local property owners in 1963, for a strip 20 feet wide (as opposed to the minimum of 30 feet now asked), also stipulates that "during the period required to install sewer lines, permission to temporarily enter upon and use for said purposes only a strip of land 50 feet wide lying 25 feet on either side of the center line" of the easement, is granted."

If this extra land use is to be for the movement and parking of heavy digging equipment, the storing of supplies such as pipe, and the piling up of removed soil, any lawns or ground would be impacted and any plantings probably damaged.

If the proposed minimum for new easements is to be 30 feet, what will be the maximum? Which sections will require the maximum width? Will the extra land on each side still be required while the work is being done, and if so, how much? What sections of existing pipe will have to be lowered and how much? How long will each owner's yard be torn up before it is "restored?" Any land and plant damage would depend on these points. And if one mentions "trash trees" as was done at one meeting, we would suggest that one man's trash is another man's treasure, and nature tends not to discriminate.

We believe all DeWitt property owners and voters are involved in any decisions made regarding sewer lines or any other lines for which easements may be taken in the future, and that no informed and intelligent suggestions can be made by the voters on the above or any other questions involving the city without full disclosure of all facts pertinent to the question.

As Lyle R. Raines, city attorney, explained at a recent meeting of a few of the property owners involved with the current sewer questions, it is not an adversary problem between the property owners and the city, we ARE the city.

Very truly yours,

PERSONALITY PROFILE

There's always room for one more

By Sue Kiley
Staff Writer

St. Johns

There's always room for one more at the home of Bill and Judy Kissane. Especially if they are children.

The Kissanes have four adopted children, ranging in age from seven years to 17 months old, and during the past couple of months they have also taken in two foster babies. That's the size of the family now, but Bill quickly added, "Well, at this time anyway."

The Kissane household was bustling with activity with Bill putting their youngest child down for a nap and Judy in the other room changing their foster child's diapers.

Although they already have four children under 10 years old, they decided to become foster parents also. "... Just to have kids around the house," according to Judy.

The Kissanes are expecting another child from Korea shortly. "We thought Leilani should have a sister," Judy said.

The Kissanes went to adopting foreign children after they had adopted two children through a local agency.

"We wanted more than two children," Mrs. Kissane explained. "There just aren't enough white children to go around and we knew some other people who had adopted foreign children so we thought we would too."

Their family doubled in size in one year from two to four children. "The way we're going it might double again," Bill said with a grin.

Children aren't the only activity keeping Bill and Judy busy. They own a 530-acre farm which Bill works by himself since his father died in February.

He also instructs a 4-H class in photography, his favorite hobby, and Judy teaches cooking.

The Kissanes have also taken exchange farmers into their home on various occasions. One such young man just left last week. Kissane was an exchange farmer to Ireland 18 years ago and he feels this is his way of paying them back.

The babies the Kissanes are caring for now are only kept about a month. This gives the mother of the child time to reconsider before the baby is adopted.

"This is only our second baby, but it is really hard to give them up," Judy said. "When the first one was given to its parents, it was like I actually lost a child."

When the phone rings at the Kissane home, they never know what to expect as it could be anything from taking in another baby, to finding out another young exchange farmer is on his way over.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Kissane are extremely active in Farm Bureau activities. Bill served as president of the organization for three years. Judy is involved with the communications aspect of the women's group.

Kissane is a member of the Sleepy Hollow Conservation Club, and a member of the Clinton County Planning Commission.

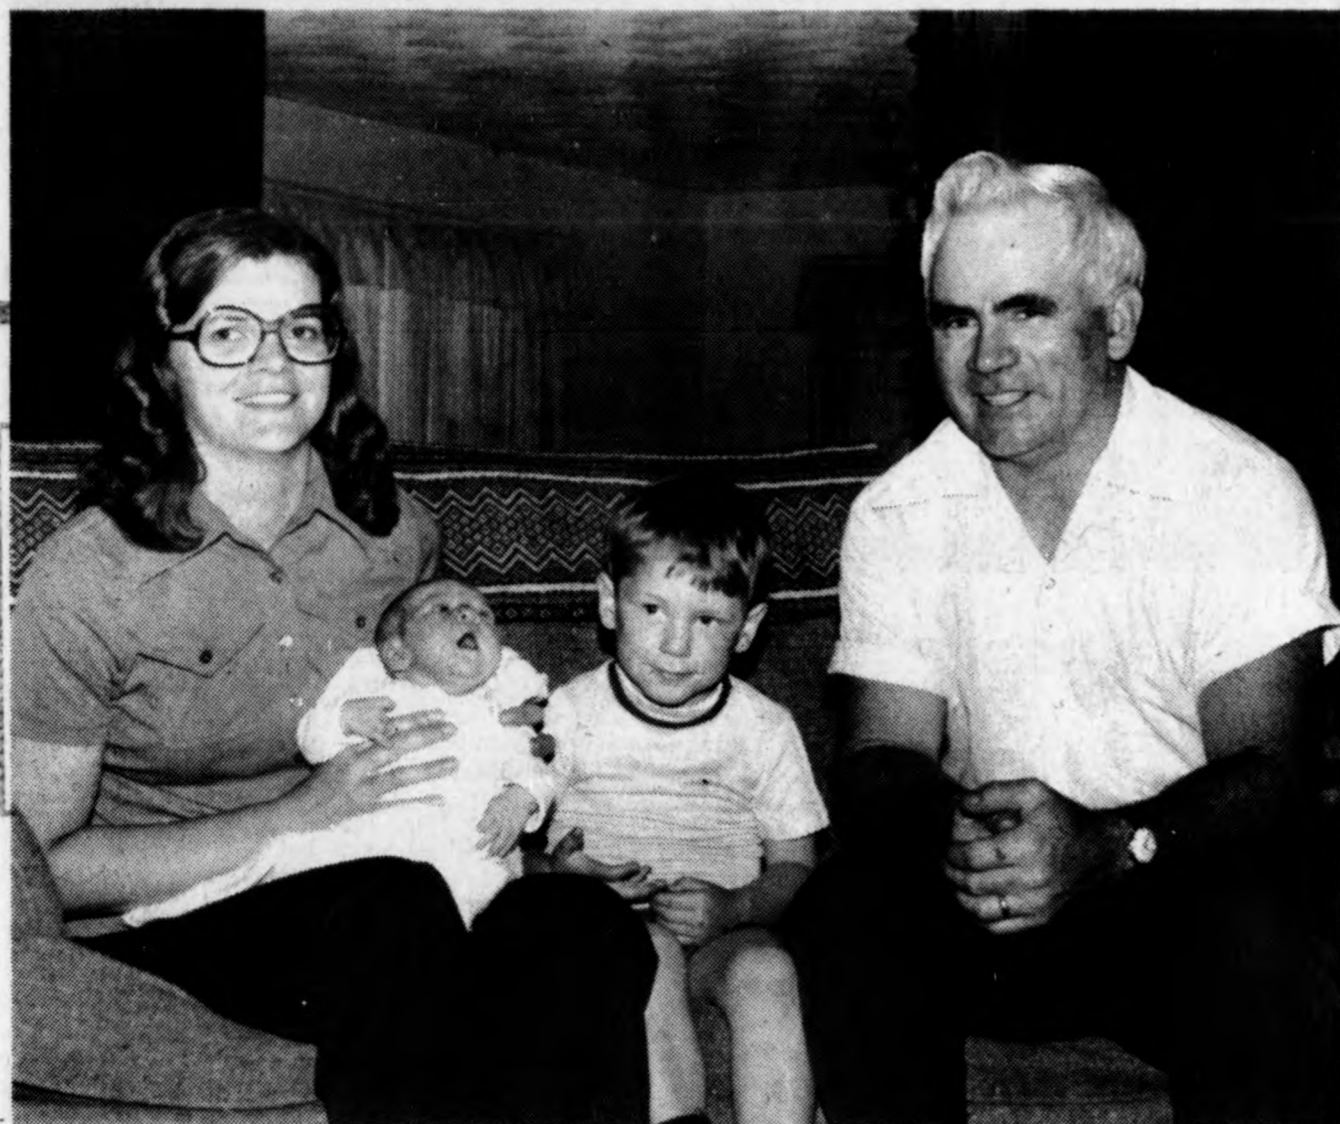

"When you are involved in too many things you just can't do justice to them all," Kissane noted. He added, however, once his children get into school, he will become more involved with that part of the community.

Judy not only handles the indoor activities like taking care of children, but she also freezes and cans all of the family's fruits and vegetables, occasionally drives tractor.

"Free time? Yes, that's between the hours of 1 and 3 a.m.," she said with a laugh as she continued to feed the baby her bottle.

Kissane never thought of being anything else except being a farmer. "Sure there are hard times," he began. "But you have to sacrifice a few things in order to do what you like to do."

The Kissanes are a happy, active family. The only trouble is they keep getting bigger and bigger all the time.

CRV recognizes workers at 'Thank you' reception

Clinton County

"The purpose of living is giving and sharing," Bernard Feldpausch said Thursday, sharing his views on volunteerism at Community Resource Volunteers' "Thank You" reception.

Since September, more than 175 different volunteers have given more than 4,000 hours of time in Clinton County schools and community institutions and for service clubs and organizations.

From end of the year tutoring for kindergarten children to cooking pancakes for an entire elementary school over an old wood stove; from yarn flowers and plastic cup art to Spanish lessons, CRV volunteers offered a wide range of talents and topics.

A stamp collection program for Cub Scouts, a nature program and a talk on Indian artifacts for Girl Scouts, after school classes in "feelings" and "science fiction" or skateboard safety and instruction, were among the variety of CRV volunteer service this school year.

Students heard from a cobbler, newspaper editor, mechanic, crime prevention and first aid specialists, antique expert, beautician, dancing, dental health, fire chief, printer and florist.

They learned of countries like Mexico and Africa, heard about Alaska, Israel, Pakistan, Europe, Haiti and China.

Some volunteers independently logged as many as 350 hours, either in special classroom help or tutoring or sharing a particular specialized interest.

At St. Joseph School and East Essex volunteers helped with a series of mini-classes, held the last period of the day, once a week, for eight weeks. Volunteers worked with small groups of children, learning some special craft or interest such as crocheting, chess, Spanish, travel, first aid and careers.

One volunteer has given two full days a week, since January, to help set up and run a Career Resource Center at St. Johns High School. The center helps students with career exploration.

As a follow up, CRV career volunteers talked to small groups of students with a particular interest, explaining their work and education. Career resource people spoke on banking, secretarial positions, office management, photography, advertising, child care, designing, acting, flying and accounting.

Bath Schools used 22 CRV volunteers in programs that ranged from a Michigan Week pancake feast and old tools display to a series of talks from different media persons.

Ovid-Elsie welcomed 36 CRV volunteers for square dancing, career presentations and Michigan Week activities.

Fowler schools called CRV volunteers to speak on shoplifting and careers including a special "shadow day" where the student spent the day with a person on his job. Volunteers logged some 60 hours there.

Through a request received from the Gratiot County career Resource Center, 10 volunteers took their work explanations to Maple Rapids School. DeWitt, used six volunteers from the CRV program for tutoring careers and travel.

It's a reciprocal thing, volunteering, say CRV members. They site children running up to them on the street to say "Thank You" or "I remember you" or "Are you coming to our room again?" They tell of special thanks or notes or pictures received from appreciative teachers. "That's what it's all about," says Mr. Feldpausch.

The CRV program is funded through a grant from the C.S. Mott Foundation.

Whily many CRV volunteers will be off for the summer, Addie McHenry of Spring Street will keep up her volunteering twice a week at the Community Living Center. Addie and other CRV volunteers go to the Center to play bingo, talk, visit, play music and do crafts with the residents. She was among other CRV volunteers feted at a "Thank You" reception Thursday. ## ★ Deputies contract Wage increases have been accounted for and raised in the new contract and include a raise for the year 1979.

Following the county's proposal which was accepted by the arbitrator, deputies will have a starting wage of $6.29 per hour and upon the fourth year of employment will make $7.73 per hour.

Dispatch-corrections officers will go from the present starting wage of $4.71 per hour to $5.02. Matrons will go from the current $3.64 starting wage to $4.19 per hour.

The matrons took the largest increase in pay of slightly over 15 percent. The union has requested almost a 35 percent increase in pay for the matrons.

The only economic issue awarded to the union was vacations. Union employees will now receive 10 days for under four years of employment and up to 20 days of vacation for over 10 years of employment.

The local FOP union could appeal the awards made by the arbitrator but are considering no such action. "I think everybody expected it to go this way," Polzien said. "Let's just say it's a better contract than if we wouldn't have gone to arbitration."

The contract is expected to be signed by both the county and union within a month.

We don't like high insurance rates either.

Rates on most insurance you buy — home, auto or business — are increasing.

Economic inflation is one reason. The cost of just about everything has risen. Like the cost of fixing banged up cars. The cost of medical care and hospital care. And so on.

"Social inflation" is another reason. In recent years, people have come to expect more from insurance than reimbursement for economic losses such as loss of income and property damage.

More and more people now sue for and receive large settlements for pain and suffering on top of compensation for economic losses.

Most claims have a reasonable basis and are settled fairly. But, many people now expect compensation from insurance even when they are at fault.

Who pays for unwarranted or excessive awards? We all do. In the form of higher and higher insurance rates.

S J woman meets England pen pal after writing for 25 years

By Sue Kiley
Staff Writer

St. Johns

After 25 years of corresponding through letters Sybil (Briggs) Werbish and Christine Bickley-Parton met each other.

Sybil, a St. Johns resident, and Christine from England, became pen pals a quarter of a century ago when they were both Girl Scouts.

Through letters they have gone through the normal teen-age trials, graduations, marriages, and children. At times they both admit it was hard to keep writing.

"It's especially hard when you've never met and don't really know each other," Christine commented. Now it will be a lot easier to keep in contact with each other.

Soon after the two girls began writing to each other, their mothers began corresponding, too. "I think we did to keep the girls writing," Mrs. Illah Briggs said. "In fact, Nellie (Christine's mother) is just like a sister to me."

This is Christine's first trip to America although her parents, who she is traveling with, came to visit Mrs. Briggs in 1966. Mrs. Briggs also traveled to England to visit the Bluck's.

"I'm really impressed by the friendliness in the states," Mrs. Bickley-Parton said, "although I am amazed at the grocery stores. We really don't have them like you do here."

There has been little difficulty with the language although some words have highly different meanings.

Christine was going out to the garden to work and told me she was going to put on her pumps," Mrs. Werbish said. "I couldn't believe she was going to do that until I found out she meant tennis shoes."

The two women have found a lot in common and are even similar in height and weight. They both like to arrange flowers and listen to classical music.

"We haven't found any difficulties yet," Mrs. Werbish said. "I found out she had messy drawers too and everything was okay."

The English visitors brought homemade teddy bears for the Werbish family as gifts from their country.

"We're just having a jolly good time," Mrs. Bluck concluded.

Fowler news

Immediately following the Sunday morning worship service at the United Methodist Church in Elsie, the congregation was invited by the United Methodist

Youth Fellowship and Freedom Singers to witness the planting of a beautiful Blue Spruce tree at the northside of Fellowship Hall with the Rev. David L. Miles and Carl

Olson, liturgist assisting with the brief service. The tree was planted in memory of 12-year-old Harold Dunham, the youngest member of the church, who recently lost his life in an accident. He had been an active member of the Youth Group.

Combine the abilities of a housekeeper, nurse, purchasing agent, cook, chauffeur, economist and more.

Chauffeur—2 hours at $10.00—$20.00 a week.

Overall, her 99.6 hour work week is worth $333.69.

Mix with tender loving care and maternal instinct.

Presto. You are face-to-face with the modern-day wife and mother.

Part of the magic here, though, is that her value to her family is probably a lot greater than most people realize—until they think about it.

Statistical Data That's what statisticians of the American Council of Life Insurance found.

In their research they calculated her tasks, the time she spends on each and the wage rate for these jobs based on averages of a large East coast city.

Then they compared their figures with that of other studies on the worth of homemaker with two children and came to this conclusion: $17,000 per year.

In terms of cold cash around the home, today's average housewife is worth exactly $17,351.88 per year, conservatively speaking.

The figures are based on the assumption that she performs her tasks for about 100 hours each week, seven days a week.

Here's a breakdown:
Nursemaid duties—45.1 hours at $2.70 per—$121.77 a week.

Dietitian—1.2 hours at $4.00 per—$4.80 a week.

Food buyer—3.3 hours at $2.70—$8.91 a week.

Cook—13.1 hours at $3.50—$45.85 a week.

Dishwasher—6.2 hours at $2.80—$17.36 a week.

Housekeeper—17.5 hours at $4.50—$78.75 a week.

Laundress—5.9 hours at $3.00—$17.70 a week.

Seamstress—1.3 hours at $3.50—$4.55 a week.

Maintenance man—1.7 hours at $3.50—$5.95 a week.
Gardener—2.3 hours at $3.50—$8.05 a week.

Eureka pastor loses bargain; will preach from roof

Eureka
Pastor Doug Jones of the Eureka Congregational Christian Church will be preaching from the roof of the church this Sunday, June 18, because he lost a bargain with his parishioners.

Two and one-half years ago, Pastor Jones came to Eureka. At that time, about 75 persons were attending Sunday service. As the church began to grow, plans were made for the new sanctuary which has a seating capacity of 300.

In the early stages of planning, Pastor Jones made a bargain with the Church Board that if they could have three Sundays in a row with 150 or more people present and then reach 200 in any other service, he would preach from the roof.

Since being in the new sanctuary, the Eureka church has continued to grow until the 150 goal average was easily met. On Easter Sunday, the attendance was 219 and so this Sunday, June 18, Pastor Jones is fulfilling his commitment.

The service will be centered around "Eureka" which means "I found it."

The public is welcome to attend this outdoor service at 10:30 a.m. at the Eureka Congregational Christian Church, 2619 E. Maple Rapids Rd., Eureka.

Rev Sheen elected president

St. Johns
The St. John's Ministerial Association at their June 7 meeting elected a new slate of officers for 1978-79.

Church, and Treasurer Rev. David Lord, of First Congregational Church.

The outgoing officers were Rev. Hugh Banninga, Rev. Michael Ruhl, and Rev. Peter Nieuwkoop, president, secretary and treasurer, respectively.

The Association is cooperatively involved in the community through the jail ministry, Rivard's worship service, the hospital chaplaincy program and the union services at Thanksgiving and Eastertide.

There are plans for the clergy families to have a summer picnic get-together in August. The next business meeting is not until the first part of September.

Some home repairs not taxed

If you're a typical homeowner, you've probably been prompted by warm spring weather to get out and make needed routine repairs on your home.

However, homeowners should be aware they can perform routine repairs and maintenance on their homes without increasing their property tax assessments.

Under a clarifying bill passed by the Legislature this year, routine repairs and maintenance cannot be considered when assessments are evaluated. The aim of the law was to encourage people to keep their homes in good shape, without being penalized by higher property taxes for putting forth this effort.

Homeowners must fill out a "Request for non consideration of normal repair and maintenance expenditures", available at their local assessor's office. The request must be completed and returned to the assessor's office before the end of the year in which the repairs are made.

Under the law, the following routine repairs are excluded from increased assessments: inside or outside painting; repainting, repairing or replacing existing masonry; repairing or replacing siding, roof, porches, steps, sidewalks and drives; replacing awnings, storm windows or doors, water heater, dated interior woodwork, plumbing or light fixtures; ceilings, walls or floor surfaces, and furnaces; adding or replacing gutters and downspouts; rewiring; removing partitions; and insulation or weatherstripping. Structural additions, however, such as the addition of a new room or garage, are subject to increased assessments. The law applies solely to residential property.

Bids taken on airport

Bids will be taken June 21 in Lansing on an airport maintenance and construction project in Clinton County.

The project involves the extension of runway 27L and Taxiway B, construction of a new general aviation runway and parallel taxiway, and extension of taxiway and fencing at Lansing's Capital City Airport. Scheduled completion date is May, 1979.

Bids on this project will be taken by the State Highway Commission 10:30 a.m., on Wednesday, June 21, at the Lansing Civic Center's Prudden Auditorium.

Coming event

June 25—Sunday the Senior High MYF will show the movie, "Jill", the story of a talented and attractive young Christian girl who is dying of cancer. Everyone is welcome to the movie which will be shown at the First United Methodist Church at 7:30 p.m.

Police cracking down on speeders

By Sue Kiley
Staff Writer

Motorists on Michigan highways are learning the hard way that police officers are cracking down on speed violators.

It seems that no matter where you travel, motorists are seeing more and more police cars, with officers stopping more and more people for disobeying the 55 mph speed limit.

Traffic has been a problem since the early 1900's with the invention of the automobile. The problem has increased steadily through the decades with more people, more cars, and a greater mobility of the American population. Because of these increased problems law enforcement officials have found it necessary to devise new ways of enforcing laws to correct violations and reduce the frequency of these infractions.

Thus, the birth of a "Selective Traffic Enforcement" (SE) program.

The types of activity the law enforcement officer uses are giving verbal warnings; issuing tickets; or even making an arrest for the offense. Patrol activities are a big factor in deterring traffic offenses from occurring using either marked or unmarked vehicles and by the application of radar.

The objectives of SE on the whole is to deter the potential violator with the long range effect being to increase the level of voluntary compliance to traffic regulations.

More and more departments throughout the state are going to various types of selective traffic enforcement programs. The Eaton County Sheriff's Department is one such agency.

According to Captain Joseph Jaeger, ECSO, a federal grant for $19,000 was recently obtained and a S.E. program went into effect June 1, on a one-year trial basis. The entire amount of the grant is being used for equipment with the department utilizing the present manpower.

Capt. Jaeger noted the SE program is hoped to be self-sustaining regardless of whether the department receives future federal funding or not.

The full-time officers will be working in target areas in both Delta Township and county-wide. A third deputy will work traffic 20 hours a week in the Eaton Rapids area.

"The officers will be working the high accident districts and will be writing tickets for violations," Capt. Jaeger emphasized. "This will be different than just 'running traffic' because the officer will know if he is having any effect or not. It's more than just a hit and miss operation now."

Jaeger noted the accident rate is going up all the time in the county with speeding being the primary cause. He indicated the hours of 1 p.m. to 10 p.m. are when the bulk of the property damage and personal injury accidents occur, after 10 p.m. being when most fatalities happen.

Eaton County will be utilizing the Michigan State Police computer system called the Michigan Accident Location Index (MALI) making it easier to grasp the traffic problem by knowing where the major trouble areas lie. ESCS Selective Enforcement officers will also be using new K-bar radar units which are both directional and audible.

MALI is instrumental in any S.E. program because it points out and pinpoints accident locations within each county and generates a ranking of high accident areas. MALI applications aid law enforcement agencies in assigning available manpower to high accident areas.

Presently there are six MSP troopers working traffic extensively in the Lansing area.

"MALI" is the instrument used to place the officer in a high accident area," Sergeant R.W. Hilderley, of the MSP commented.

He noted in his experience that visibility of a police vehicle works to a certain extent but it is necessary to use some seclusion with the advent of C.B.'s and "fuzz-busters."

In conclusion, Sgt. Hilderley said, "The 55 mph speed limit is unrealistic on the highways, but it will still be enforced."

DeWitt Township in Clinton County is using S.E. presently which was developed in January of 1978 under the direction and supervision of former chief Michael Ferrence. Two officers were originally assigned to the special traffic unit.

Patrolman Larry Jones, of DTPD explained the S.E. team was formed with regard to high accident areas which included speed surveys. The department worked directly with the MSP highway traffic safety division. He noted MALI was also extremely effective in locating high accident areas helping the officer determine the cause of the incidents.

In one case he mentioned speed was not the cause but high bushes at an intersection. The bushes were cut down and the accident incidence decreased measurably.

The DeWitt Township S.E. team concentrates heavily on US-27 as does Eaton County using radar extensively.

"Since we've been doing S.E. we have really knocked down the accident rate," Jones said. "Visibility of a police car has been the biggest impact on the problem."

He added, "Since we have been using S.E., word has got out to stay out of DeWitt Township."

The township has already purchased a fully equipped car for the police department. They are presently in the process of applying for a grant to be used to secure two officers plus a part-time secretary for the S.E. team.

Officer Jones indicated the death rate in one particular area of the township for one year was five persons. The year the department started using radar in that area the death rate dropped to zero.

"You have to let people know you're out there... it works," Jones asserted.

The goals of the DTPD hopes to fulfill through its S.E. team is two-fold. One is to cut down the rate of speed traveled in the township and the other is failure to yield the right of way offenses which are the two major crimes occurring in the township causing accidents.

"Thirty per cent of all township residents are involved in accidents here," Jones said. "This is just too high for a 36-mile radius. Hopefully the S.E. team will bring this percentage down dramatically."

Another point brought out by all the law enforcement officials interviewed was the S.E. program not only shows a decrease in accidents and lower speeds but also other crimes like breaking and entering and larcenies in the area enforced have dropped off substantially.

MSP Sgt. Gary L. McGhee, head of the 1st Division S.E. Unit explained the origin of its program which began in 1974.

"The captain was receiving a number of complaints of the lack of visibility of marked police units and from Triple A on noncompliance with the 55 mph speed limit," Sgt. McGhee said. "We then began the pure type of S.E. program in the 1st District."

After obtaining accident information and taking speed surveys in 15 different locations, a six-man "wolf-pack" S.E. team was formed. According to Sgt. McGhee, the S.E. team's mission is to be highly visible and strictly enforce the 55 mph speed limit.

"You put the red light on as much as possible," he added.

In 1977 the S.E. team headed by Sgt. McGhee wrote 22,057 traffic tickets and traveled a total of 152,730 patrol miles. Only 50 per cent of the officers' time was spent on pure traffic patrol, however. Other arrests were made for offenses ranging from drunk driving to making drug busts. These troopers are also an Emergency Strike Force.

"We aren't after accident reduction as much as speed reduction," Sgt. McGhee explained.

Prior to S.E. efforts, the 85th percentiles (the average driver) the average speed on the highways was 66.8 mph. In 1976, after S.E. was in operation almost two years, the average speed was reduced to 63.8 mph. In 1977 however, the speed climbed back up to 64.6 mph in the 1st District.

"Six men just aren't enough to do the job," Sgt. McGhee said in an attempt to explain the increase.

The MSP hand pick the S.E. team making sure each man is certified in radar operations, has excellent driving skills, and has road patrol experience. Each man has his own car and radar unit. Most of the men on the S.E. team are volunteers.

How do the men on the S.E. team view their job?

"It may sound corny," Sgt. McGhee said, "but we believe in saving lives and that's why we're out there."

'Psychology of Sport' gets in athletes' heads

By Tom Nowak
Staff Writer

Bath
Most coaches believe that what goes on inside an athlete's head can be as important to his performance as physical factors.

So at Bath High School, 19 students have just finished a course which may have given them some insight into how the mind affects athletic performance.

The class, the psychology of Sport, was taught by Dave Messner, Bath athletic director. Messner said that he got the idea from the class from a similar course at Lansing Community College, and after talking with the LCC instructor, Messner began the course at Bath in January.

Messner said one of the major topics covered in the class was goal-orientation.

"Setting goals for one's self in important in sport, as well as in life," he said. "And one must set short term goals as well as long-term goals. You're not just aimlessly getting through, but you have a purpose. You waste less energy that way."

Another of the topics covered was "getting in touch with the inner self." For this, Messner used the program devised by tennis instructor Tim Galleway, who developed the technique of instruction called "inner tennis."

"Inner tennis gets you in touch with your internal feelings," Messner said. "It's supposed to let you do what you want; the lessons are low on technique and high on inner feelings."

Drugs and athletic performance was another major area covered. Messner said that contrary to the belief of many, drugs diminish, not enhance performance.

He told of a professional football player who took drugs before a game to help his performance. The player thought he was playing well, but game films showed his reaction time was half a second slower than normal. The player was penalized twice for late hits which wouldn't have been made if he wasn't drugged, Messner said.

The class also covered the psychology behind the "psyche-out."

"The intent of the psyche-out," Messner said, "is to distract the opponent from what it should be doing. We also went over the defenses against psyche-outs, but they're easier to say than to do."

Other topics covered included mind consciousness levels, the phenomenon of physical fitness, Title IX and the way individual athletes deal with pressure and failure.

No text was available for this unconventional course, so Messner drew on a variety of sources, including journals, outside seminars, magazines, records and films.

Outside speakers also contributed to the discussions. Jon Mauro, a defensive lineman at the University of Alabama and brother of DeWitt cross country coach Tom Mauro, spoke on the importance of team goals and individual goals for success in sports and in life. Besides that, Mauro helped students set up weight programs.

Another visitor was Hans

Schuler, son of Win Schuler of restaurant and bar cheese fame. He talked on a different kind of athletic experience, his experiences mountain climbing and rafting down the Colorado River.

Messner said the class was intended to be a practical help for students, and to that end each did a term project—setting up a program which would improve their athletic performances.

These projects varied as much as the students. One basketball player tried to break his habit of bringing the ball down to his waist. A pitcher added a pitch to his repertoire, while bowlers, runners and tennis players all tried to improve their games.

"They'd start with an outline of the project," Messner said, "Saying what they wanted to do and how they were going to do it. Then as they got into it they would report on what they were doing. Finally they'd assess the change."

Messner said the class drew a favorable response from the students, and that through the discussions and the term project, most of the students have improved their athletic skills.

MMB 1st, 2nd teams named

Two St. Johns and two Ovid-Elsie baseball players were named to the Mid-Michigan B All-Conference first team including Redwing pitcher Dan Lee, Redwing infielder Pat Sipkovsky, O-E's Matt Fabus who is an infielder and O-E outfielder Brad Hudecek.

Also named to the first team were Mark Ward, Todd Hansen, Mike Ward and Derek Brink, all from Alma; Jeff Stone from Bullock Creek; Tom Nixon from Chesaning; and Steve Baumann from Hemlock.

Selected to the second All-Conference team were Alma's Jeff Catlin and Lee Schaeffer; Bullock Creek's Brian Burch and Kevin Krenzke; Chesaning's Steve Hemgesberg; Corunna's Mike Annese and Tom Laurin; and Hemlock's Dave Palmer and Gary Graf.

The winning Coach was Ron Gooding. Alma won the conference baseball title with an 11-3 record. Bullock Creek (8-5-1) was second followed by Chesaning (8-6), Corunna (7-6-1), Swan Valley (7-7), St. Johns (6-8), Hemlock (5-9) and Ovid-Elsie (3-11).

Local teams failed to put anyone on the All-Conference first or second softball teams in the MMB. St. Johns did not have a girls' softball team this past season and Ovid-Elsie finished last in the league. Swan Valley compiled a 12-0 record to win the league crown.

Oilers tromp Stylerites

Snyder's Oilers started the local women's fastpitch softball season with a 10-4 win over the Stylerites from Lansing Sunday in Pewamo.

Mindy McKean, with a single and a grand slam home run, and Sherri Lotre, with a single and triple, paced the Oilers' attack.

The Oilers, with six players from the NJCAA, National Junior College Athletic Association, (NJCAA) state and regional championship team from Lansing Community College, including pitchers Jo McKim and Berta Goff, served notice they are a team to be reasoned with.

League play starts Thursday, June 15, at Fink Field in Fowler with a doubleheader starting at 6:30 p.m. The Oilers will play Carlton's RV Sales in the opener, followed by a game between Stylerite and the Lansing Lasers.

All games of the Mid-Michigan Women's Softball League are scheduled for Fowler's Fink Field every Thursday night.

Fulton camp set for July 10-14

Fulton School will be sponsoring a basketball camp for students in grades five through eight between July 10 and 14. The camp hours are 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and will be run by Kim Lathwell.

Registration has to be completed by June 24. Cost is $10, five of that has to be included when the registration is sent in to the high school.

Checks should be made payable to Lathwell and include the child's name and grade.

Registration costs cover T-shirts, trophies and certificates.

Anyone having questions should contact Lathwell at 236-7741.

Hole-in-one recorded

A hole-in-one on the 160-yard seventh hole at Twin Oaks Golf Course was recorded by Jeff Barnes, teenage son of Mr. and Mrs.

Robert Barnes of St. Johns on June 9.

This was the first hole-in-one at Twin Oaks this season.

Tissot named Redwing coach

St. Johns Bob Tissot, junior varsity basketball coach at St. Johns High School for the past three years, was named varsity basketball coach Wednesday, June 7.

Tissot, who recently finished his fifth year as a St. Johns teacher, said Wednesday, "I am excited about the opportunity that is there."

"It is kind of rewarding and kind of a relief," he said adding, "I've been close before... I finally made it." Tissot, who hails from Corunna, lettered his junior and senior years in high school in basketball before entering Wheaton College in Wheaton, Ill. His major sport in high school and college, however, was football.

Tissot replaces Doug McKenzie who was the Redwing varsity coach for one season and is leaving the teaching field to pursue a career in business.

DeWitt, Fulton bumped out

Both DeWitt and Fulton lost their bids for the state softball and baseball crowns, respectively, when they were bumped at the regionals last weekend.

DeWitt, the Class C state champs last spring, put down Clinton 3-0 in the semifinal but then dropped a 9-2 verdict to Manchester in the finals held at Napoleon.

Pitcher Cindy White have up two hits and 15 walks in the second game in the losing attempt. Teammates Sue and Linda Noch got two hits each, as the Panthers outthit their opponents 8-2.

DeWitt ended their season with an admirable 21-2 record. Manchester advances to the state softball finals in Clare.

Fulton dropped its regional final to Bay City all Saints in Class C competition in Midland last Saturday, 9-1 but managed to put down the Sanford-Meridian team 2-0 in the semifinal.

All Saints captured seven runs in the fifth inning to rally their cause led by twice home run hitter Brad Walraven. Fulton's batting was led by Jerry Winsor and Terry Hnetyka who collected doubles in the sixth inning.

All Saints moves on to Marshall for the State baseball finals.

basis of their spelling grades for the year. Scott received a Webster's Collegiate Dictionary as his prize. Runners up in the contest were Kim Claycomb, Gary Ernst, Dan Glowicki and Beth Eberhard. The runners up each received a thesaurus as their prize.

Powder from Ovid going to Mexico

Ovid MMPA-member milk in the form of up to 800,000 pounds of non-fat dry milk made at the Association's manufacturing plant in Ovid will be part of a U.S. government shipment to Mexico in July according to plant marketing manager Richard King.

The shipment was to have been made in June but it was delayed. The powdered milk is shipped from the Ovid plant to Saginaw where samples will be taken by the USDA before shipment to Mexico.

The Ovid powder is part of 30,000 metric tons—about 60 million pounds—which the government's Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) recently said it will sell to Mexico.

The Ovid plant offered the power for 71.5 cents a pound, one-half cent over the support price for that commodity.

Purchase from CCC was made by Conasupo, a Mexican government agency, for the agency's social programs in the Republic of Mexico.

The sale is applauded by the dairy industry as one way to use surpluses of government dairy stocks under the price support program.

It's almost time to pick-your-own in Clinton

Clinton County

One way to keep your fresh fruit and vegetable bills down this summer is to pick your own foods or select them from various fresh fruit and vegetable stands within the county.

Sure, you may spend a little more time picking your fruits and vegetables, you may have to give yourself a complete manicure, and you may need to retouch your hairdo, but the money you save by picking your own should be worth your trouble.

In a recent published booklet entitled, "County Carousels—A Guide to Pick-Your-Own Farms and Roadside Markets," nine pick-your-own farms and markets were outlined in Clinton County.

First, there was Beck's Fruit Farm located seven miles north of St. Johns on US-27, then one-fourth mile east on Maple Rapids Road. You can pick apples and tart cherries and the phone number is 224-4309

Red and Golden Delicious apples may be picked at Golden Knob Orchards located at 4387 E. Pratt Road, St. Johns. The orchard is located three miles east of US-27 on Alward Road, then one-half mile north on Chandler Road and one-half mile east on Pratt Road. They also have a roadside market. Phone number is 651-5435.

Good-Rich Acres Strawberry Farm is located four miles north of St. Johns on US-27 to French Road, one mile west on French Road to DeWitt Road, and then it is the first house on the left on DeWitt Road.

By June 15, those seeking strawberries can journey out to Good-Rich Acres. Though no reservations are taken for local residents, according to owner Bea Goodrich, persons should call ahead to see if there will be strawberries to pick.

Organic vegetables may be obtained at the Green Earth Farm located at 9869 M-78, Haslett. To get to this farm, travel eight miles east of Lansing on temporary I-69 and the farm will be on the north side of the road. Phone number is 339-9531.

Montague's Apiaries and Orchards also offers strawberries, as well as Red and Yellow Delicious apples and Jonathon and Northern Spy apples. Those who like homemade honey will also enjoy visiting Montague's which is located 10 miles east of St. Johns on M-21 to the blinker light at Ovid, then turn north 1.4 miles. Phone number is 834-2628. Round Lake Fruit Farm located at 7304 Round Lake Rd., or 10 miles east of Lansing between Upton and Shepardsville Roads, features U-pick strawberries, a limited amount in June; and U-pick everbearing strawberries and raspberry varieties through the summer and fall.

Almost everyone has heard of Uncle John's Cider Mill located 7.5 miles north of St. Johns on US-27. Besides the cider, fresh donuts, caramel apples and pumpkins in the fall, Uncle John also has sweet and tart cherries as well as apples that can be picked by hand. Phone number is 224-3686.

Apples, prunes, plums, pears, squash and onions can be purchased at the Wyrick Brothers market located three miles west of Ovid, two miles south of M-21 on St. Clair Road and then one-fourth mile west of Parks Road. It is open daily from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. from mid-September to November 28. Phone is 834-2356.

The last entry under Clinton County is Zig's Centennial Market located five miles north of Lansing on US-27. It features cider, cheese, bakery goods, gifts, snack bar, apples and other fruit and vegetables in season. It is open year round and the phone number is 669-3157.

Why the interest in U-pick foods?

"They can pick what they want," says Mrs. Goodrich, referring to her strawberry business which has grown from a quarter-acre five years ago to four acres of strawberries offered this year. Additionally, 1.5 acres will be ready next year.

Freshness also entices some customers as they know the fruits have been picked recently. But, one of the main reasons for picking-your-own has got to be price. Mrs. Goodrich says her strawberries will be going for 50 cents a quart this spring, a considerable savings as opposed to supermarket prices.

This year's crop looks good, she points out and she expects to begin picking June 15 and continue for four to five weeks.

Persons wishing to obtain a free booklet of U-pick farms and markets may write to the Michigan Department of Agriculture, Information and Education Division, Lewis Cass Building, Lansing, Mich. 48909.

CMH Auxiliary readies for Flea Market

dise from the D & C Store, $170 in merchandise from the Treasure Chest, a $65 steeple clock from St. Johns Furniture and a $45 clock from Bennett Jewelry.

The list also includes an Am-FM radio from Bailey Music, over $100 in groceries from Beck's Farm Market, an electric blanket from JC Penney, two steak dinners from the Dutch House of Beef, two Sunday buffet dinners from the Colonial Restaurant, $25 savings account donated by Clinton National Bank and Trust, Central National Bank, and Capitol Savings and Loan, a C.B. radio from Keelean Buick, and a host of other merchandise and gift certificates.

Volunteer auctioneer will be Milton Sharick and proceeds from the day's activities which begin at 10 a.m. will go toward the purchase of a $25,000 monitoring system for the Special Care Unit at the hospital.

June 24 has been slated as a rain date for the flea market and auction.

Jim's Column

By Jim Pelham

A flock of sheep can provide an extra income for people with limited land, buildings and equipment.

Stephen Baertsche, Michigan State University Extension sheep specialist, says there are four components necessary for starting a ewe flock.

First, you should have a good woven wire fence between you and your neighbor and along road right-of-ways. Other sources of less expensive fencing are also possible. Electric fencing may be used within your own property if it is properly constructed and the sheep are trained to it in short fleeces.

Secondly, a source of good, clean water should be available at all times. Sheep and lambs will drink approximately one quart of water for each pound of air-dry feed they eat. Therefore, ewes eating four pounds of hay per day will drink about one gallon of water and up to two or three gallons during gestation and lactation.

The sheep will also need adequate shelter and floor space. For optimum performance, a ewe requires 10 to 12 feet of barn floor space. Existing barns or sheds are sufficient as long as they provide ventilation and shade. Naturally, lambing during the winter would require more protection in the barn from drafts and cold than lambing during late March and April.

Finally, you will need gates or hurdles to use as lambing pens and for sorting chutes when treating for parasites.

The number of ewes to start with depends on the quality and amount of hay and pasture you have, your previous experience with sheep or other livestock and the amount of time available. A 40-ewe unit is large enough to give a proper economic return and some idea of whether or not you will enjoy raising sheep. A profitable flock will require good management and hard work.

The annual requirements for the average 40-ewe unit are:

1. 10 tons of legume hay
2. 3,000 pounds of grain
3. 10 to 20 acres of pasture (depends on the quality)
4. One ram

5. 60 feet of feed rack space
6. 500 square feet of floor space in a shed or shelter, (if lambs are born in May, only a windbreak is needed)

7. One two-to-four-ounce drenching syringe
8. One salt box
9. 500 pounds of trace mineralized salt
10. One pair of hoof trimmers
11. One pair of hand sheep shears for trimming wool
12. 8 to 10 lightweight, hinged gates 4 feet long and 30 inches high for lambing pens
13. Two, 250-watt heat lamps and heavy duty extension cord
14. Two gates, three feet by eight feet to aid in sorting and handling.

For more information, see Extension bulletin 843 available at your county Cooperative Extension office.

Ag Advice

By Mark Hansen

If you're wondering how you can combat the hoards of mosquitoes this year, read on.

Because of the wet spring, mosquitoes seem to be thicker than ever. That's because this pest needs water to reproduce. The female mosquito, after a meal of blood, will lay 200 or 300 eggs in a pond, marsh, puddle, or tin can - anywhere that there is standing water. These eggs hatch and the larva float just under the surface of the water, siphoning air from above through a breathing tube. If the puddle does not dry up, the larva will live to be an adult mosquito.

The easiest control method is to simply remove old cans, tires, and other objects which can hold water. Use concrete to fill in tree cavities which catch water. Empty the bird bath weekly.

Do not kill toads, frogs, spiders, or dragonflies. These all feed on mosquitoes. Fish and ducks also can keep on a pond free of this critter. Foggers and aerosol bombs will give temporary relief but more mosquitoes will invade within hours.

Mosquitoes dislike sunny dry areas and often spend the daylight hours hiding in tall grass where it is cool, dark and damp. Keep these areas mowed if possible.

Other than these measures, the only other control is quick reflexes. Kill mosquitoes even after they bite, for this is when they leave to lay eggs. Although humans are a second rate meal compared to animals, a drop of blood still equals several hundred mosquito eggs.

Area happening

June 24—Fifty artists and craftsmen from five states will display their work at the Logan's Landing Fourth Annual Invitational Art Fair to be held at Logan's Landing in Traverse City. Sponsored by a local merchant's association, the fair will be held from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and is open to the public free of charge.

Machine stops frost

Creating their own wind seemed a logical step to Dennis and Palmer Phillips' Centennial Orchard. Palmer (that small shadow at the base of the tower) said that the "wind machine" is 30 feet tall and the props have a span of 15'6". It is activated early in the spring to draw down warm air and prevent frost from killing the apple blossoms in the orchard. Phillips said that it is placed to protect a low-lying ravine at the orchard. The prop revolves 360-degrees at the top of the tower and according to the manufacturer in Oregon, would cover 15 acres. Phillips said that they had considered sprinklers to prevent frost, but were afraid that the susceptibility of dwarf trees to collar rot and the clay soils at the orchard that would not work well. Phillips also said they felt that considering the price of apples last year and the problems with frost, the orchard would have saved the price of the machine, had it been installed last year. ## School slated

A fitting and grooming school for beef cattle will take place June 20 at St. Johns Fairgrounds.

The school, which is sponsored by St. Johns Co-op, is designed to help local 4-H and FFA members improve their cattle fitting and showing skills. There will be live demonstrations on subjects ranging from blocking and clipping to grooming and hoof trimming.

The school will be conducted by Russ Brannen of Kent Feeds, Inc., Muscatine, Iowa. Brannen has put on hundreds of cattle fitting schools during his 29-year association with Kent and is widely recognized as one of the top fitting, grooming and showing experts in the Midwest. Brannen, who retired from the firm in 1976, is a consultant for the Kent feeder department.

The school is open to the public and will run from 10:00 a.m. to noon.

Lunch will be furnished courtesy of St. Johns Co-op and Kent Feeds.

Your loving smile and gentle face, No one else can ever take you place. Though you're no longer here for me to touch, I love you still Dear Frank, so very much.

In loving memory of our dad and grandfather Frank Palatka who God called home one year ago June 12, 1977.

In loving memory of my dear husband Frank Palatka, who God called home one year ago June 12, 1977. God took you home, it was His will, But in my heart I love you still. The blow was hard, the shock severe, I never thought your death so near. Only those so close to you can tell The pain of parting without farewell. You live on in my memory Dear, so close in many ways, You're no farther than a picture, a smile or a phrase. It broke my heart to lose you Dear, but you did not go alone, For a part of me went with you that day God Called you home. The days we shared together are the memories I hold dear, And the happiness you gave me keeps you forever here. You meant so much to me, there's nothing I can say, To stop these tears I shed for you as I think of you every day.

I wish to thank Dr. Grost and the third floor nurses for the excellent care and my family, friends, and neighbors for the calls, cards, flowers, gifts and all other remembrances while in the hospital and at home.

Our home is not the same place anymore since our dad was called to Heaven with the Lord. We still see him sitting there, we can hear his humble prayer, Everytime we look and see Day's empty chair. Dad was not the kind of man to set the world aflame, But Dad was an honest man and we're glad to bear his name. Dad worked hard all his life, and at the close of day, He would call us and ask how things had gone that day. God broke our hearts to prove to us He only takes the best, Now he is in Glory up in Heaven bright and fair, But we miss him we really miss him every time we think of Dad and see his empty chair.

How does new SJ city budget affect taxes?

By Patrice Hornak
Editor

St. Johns

Last summer the St. Johns tax rate was 15.258 mills. This summer it will raise to 19.00 mills. How will this affect summer taxes?

Approximately three mills have been added to the 1978-79 budget as approved by the City Commission a month ago. These three mills will primarily be used to pay for the wastewater treatment program, adding General Obligation Bond 3 (G.O. No. 3) and General Obligation Bond 4 (G.O. No. 4) to the 1978 tax statement to be sent out June 30.

According to figures compiled by City Clerk Bruce Wood, a person with a $15,000 home assessed at $7,500 will see a $32.25 increase in their summer taxes and a person with a $60,000 home assessed at $30,000 will realize a $129.04 increase.

Consulting his table of figures, a home assessed at $10,000 will see an increase of $43 in taxes; $64.52 increase in $15,000 assessed valuation; $86 for $20,000 assessed value; and $107.53 for $25,000 assessed value.

Assessed valuation is one-half the true value of the home.

Taxes on a home assessed at $7,500 will be $152.76 for 1978, utilizing a factor of 1.072; and one the $30,000 assessed value home, taxes will be $611.

Or the $152.76 in taxes to be paid by the $7,500 homeowner, $28.14 will go toward G.O. No. 3 and G.O. No. 4. For the $30,000 homeowner, $112.56 will go toward G.O. No. 3 and No. 4.

If G.O. No. 3 and 4 had been levied in 1977, the total taxes on the $7,500 home would have been $148.15 compared to $152.76 for 1978. On the $30,000 home, a total tax figure for 1977 with G.O. 3 and 4 would have been $592.57, as opposed to $611 for 1978.

What this means, in essence, is that had G.O. 3 and 4 not been added to the 1978-79 budget, there would only be a $4.61 difference in taxes from 1977 to 1978 for the $7,500 homeowner and an increase of $18.47 for the $30,000 homeowner.

Checks for Arts for All Ages

Local support bolstered the "Arts for all Ages" program sponsored in Clinton County by a grant from Michigan Council for the Arts. ## 'Art in the Park' offers varied art experiences

Clinton County

Two summer weeks of "Art in the Park" and a big Saturday Clothesline Art Show will end the Arts for All Ages program sponsored by a grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts and local supporters.

The county-wide program has brought art experiences to both children and adults throughout Clinton County since the first of the year.

County residents of all ages can participate in both afternoon and evening sessions in a wide range of art projects that include such topics as perspective study, basic design, clay sculpture and print making.

Local support for the program was provided by both the St. Johns Child Study Club and St. Johns Rotary Club with $50 donations. Capital Savings and Loan provided a $50 prize for the recent Michigan Week Art Show, sponsored by the St. Johns Men's Art Club. Supply fees were collected at all workshops and after school sessions. Kay Arehart has acted as chairman of the program. It was directed by Stuart Openlander.

"Art in the Park" will take place at the St. Johns City Park and is open to all county residents, adults and children.

They can choose from such programs as basic design, June 19; playing with color, June 20; plaster-sand casting, June 21 (bring a shoe box); figure drawing, June 22, for ages 10 and up; wire sculpture, June 23.

The next week will feature, clay sculpture heads, June 26; perspective, June 27 (age 10 and up); perspective, June 28, no age limit (meet on the court house lawn; original composition in pastel and/or watercolors, June 29; and print making, June 30.

On each day the same program will be offered as an afternoon session from 1-3 p.m. and again as an evening session from 7-9 p.m. There will be a 50 cent supply fee for each two-hour session.

Persons wishing a more in-depth art program this summer should call Jenny McCampbell at 224-6134.

A Clothesline Art Show at the Park Pavilion, July 1 from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., will end the Arts for All Ages summer program. The Saturday show will be for everyone, adults and children, those who participated in the Arts for All Ages program and those who did not. "We want everyone to come and show off their creations, just for fun," Kay Arehart said.

★ Bus driver

which she had to complete at the state finals.

What was the course like? First there was "offset alley" featuring a pair of 10-foot wide walls that she had to drive through. However, the path curved and she was the only driver at Harry Hill to successfully negotiate that first challenge.

Then there was a railroad crossing and an elementary student loading area. Besides executing the proper moves, she also had to say, out loud, what she was doing. "I have spent the last six weeks talking," says Leona who is sure some of her bus passengers in St. Johns thought she must be losing her marbles.

There were also a diminishing clearance test and a stop line. She had to stop the bus within two inches of a line drawn on the pavement. During the entire obstacle course, she had to go forward and never stop the bus except where directed.

"I put it in creeper and I went around the whole course in creeper," she exclaimed.

"It was fun," she summed up. It also brought Mrs. Ettinger a 33.5 inch trophy with—what else—a bus at the top of it.

Pohl out of race

Fowler

It was back on March 1 that Republican Dave Pohl of Fowler officially announced his candidacy for state Representative for the 88th District seat currently held by Stanley Powell.

However, it was June 5 that he officially dropped out of the race which has also attracted Republicans Jim Koenigsnecht, John Fox, Alan Cropsey and Max Tullis. Pohl failed to file his nominating petitions by 4 p.m. on June 5 in Lansing.

"I don't feel badly about missing it," said Pohl who went to the wrong office in Lansing to file and then, after being directed to the proper office, missed the 4 p.m. deadline by seconds.

"Due to some problems that developed on the farm, I was very undecided," said Pohl adding, "If I had been dead serious, I would have filed earlier."

Pohl's farm manager had accepted another position. "It wasn't his choice to resign now," said Pohl who knew there was a possibility of losing the farm manager before Pohl announced his candidacy.

The Fowler Republican said he is not abandoning political life and said, "The idea of contributing something to the state or country appeals to me."

He wished to extend sincere thanks to the people who circulated petitions on his behalf.
