County discusses Phase 3 of transportation study

By Sue Kiley White

CLINTON COUNTY-Jason Cherry, newly funded transportation director here presented county commissioners with Phase 3 of a six part transportation study he has been conducting in recent months. Phase 3 is a transportation data analysis.

The first two phases involved finding the status of existing transportation in the county and then coming up with policies and priorities, according to Cherry.

"There isn't a whole lot of public transportation in this county," he said, "but there are a lot of possibilities for a system."

A transportation committee had been established by the county board several months ago as a sub-committee of Human Services. Community Resource Volunteers, a volunteer group based in St. Johns, is also doing a transportation survey through a separate grant, and Cherry utilized their efforts.

The county has been allocated five vehicles from the state for inter-county transportation. These vehicles are idled in Lansing until the county decides if they want to use them.

Cherry indicated a lot depends on demands of the public for transportation and service. He also added that although there are five vans presently available, "the state isn't promising anything anymore."

He explained the vans would be funded for a two-year period above fares, but then, state funding may end suddenly, also.

"This is not like CATA," the young man further explained. "It's more of a community service type of system."

Indicating that approximately 8,000 people in Clinton County travel to Lansing daily for work, Cherry added the new vans wouldn't help commuter traffic at all. He did say however, that it might help Ovid people, for example, to get to St. Johns so they can car pool.

At this time the cost of operating the five vans in the county is estimated at $150,000.

When questioned whether the proposed Clinton system would be like Eaton County's new transportation plan, Cherry said, "no."

"First, their system is much larger than we'll probably have, at least in the beginning," he said. "The only thing we could say in the beginning is that we could get people in Clinton County from one point to another and then maybe not everyday either."

Commissioner Earl Lancaster, who is chairman of the Human Services Committee along with the transportation committee explained that Clinton County started with a planning stage first. "Eaton County jumped in right away and got eight buses and then they planned," he said. "They also had a Dial-A-Ride system in Eaton Rapids they could go by too."

Cherry also indicated the county is seeking an additional $35,000 grant to study the situation further.

"We just didn't want to ask for five buses and then park them," said Lancaster.

It was explained the county would not be obligated for funding during the first two years. By the third year the county would need to come up with 75 percent of the funding and then by the end of five years would maintain the system 100 percent.

Other transportation services might be eliminated if the county took the five buses. The county commissioners indicated they did not want to take over a system, fail and then be without any transportation services for residents.

Board chairman Roger Overway indicated he was upset that presently Clinton County senior citizen buses are taking the elderly riders to Lansing to do their shopping. "They should be doing it right here in St. Johns or in Bath," he said. "not at Meijers or K-Mart."

Tom Woodruff, Bath Township supervisor also mentioned that senior citizens might have to pay $1 for a one-way trip starting in November.

"The county board should look into letting them ride the buses for free," he said.

Board signs contract for sewer project

By Sue Kiley White

CLINTON COUNTY-A public hearing on a contractual agreement between the Southern Clinton County Sanitary Sewer System Authority and Watertown Charter Township was held at the Board of Commissioners monthly meeting last Tuesday. The project which was unanimously approved by the Watertown Board is for a forced main and an extension from Airport Road to the new sewer treatment plant on Herbison Road.

The total cost of the project is $2,726,100. Broken down this is $1,710,600 for the Airport Road extension and $1,015,500 for the Grand River forced main. The cost to the county is $1,384,180.

The Grand River section will extend for about one mile connecting the sewer plant with the John Henry Corporation.

Construction on the project will begin around Jan. 1, 1981 and will be in construction stages for nine months to a year.

The Commissioners unanimously agreed to okay the project.

In other action taken at Tuesday's board of commissioners meeting several zoning requests were approved. Those requests approved by the board included:

A petition for rezoning from M1-light industry to A-1, Agriculture was approved for Leon and Margaret Garlock, 7525 Eaton Highway, Grand Lodge.

The second case approved was a request to rezone a parcel from R-1A, one family residential to A-1 Agriculture, which was filed by Duane M. Bird a contractor working on a section of land in Bingham Township. This request complies with the future land use map of Clinton County.

A renewal of a special use permit to operate a dog kennel in conjunction with a security detective agency was approved for Ron Golota of Intercept Security on 15621 S. Chandler Rd., in Bath Township.

Another issuance of a special use permit was granted to LA Wilson and Son, Inc. of Chadwick Road in DeWitt. Wilson is an operator of a sand pit on land owned by Ernest Thelen, West Herbison Road, also of DeWitt. Special restrictions were placed on the pit however. Hours of operation are from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. and no work will be done on Saturdays, Sundays, or holidays. The expiration date is three years and bond is set at $20,000.

Holloway Sand and Gravel Co., of Wixom was also granted a special use permit for another parcel of land in Bath Township allowing the extraction of sand which is expected to be used in the construction of I-69 in Watertown Township. This land is owned by Arnold and Ursula Burke.

Commissioners voted six to five in favor of allowing Harold Reedy, 16550 Center Rd., Bath to rezone a parcel from A-1 Agriculture to R-1D, two-family residential for the construction of four duplexes.

Roger Overway commented he voted against the rezoning because, "you are adding density to an area with no sewer system...it doesn't make any sense."

Several letters were submitted objecting to the rezoning were lodged following approval given by the Bath Township Board.

A public hearing was also held concerning the Bath Shopping Center project which states what must be in the project Corporation the project is estimated at $800,000 and is being built in one construction stage. The complex is expected to be completed by the end of the year.

The project is located at the corner of Clark and Webster Roads in Bath and is being built and managed by Daryl Kessler. The project is being financed through American Bank and Trust on a $500,000 loan for 20 years.

Tom Woodruff, Bath Township supervisor said the development is probably the first good community development in 53 years.

"This is one of the best things to happen to Bath Township," he commented.

Artist Gijbert van Frankenhuyzen's acrylic painting of this red fox was judged the best of nearly 90 paintings entered in Michigan's first "Wildlife Artist of the Year" competition. For more about the artist and his little fox see today's Personality Profile on p. 7.

Climbing up

United Way committee chairmen recorded 75 percent of their $51,000 goal, Friday as the campaign enters its final week. Determined to see the tally peak are l to r, United Way Chairman Matt Armitage, Virginia Shawnee, Terry Hall, Steve Bakita, Co-chairman Gayle Despres and Hugh Banniga. Armitage said the goal was set lower this year due to unemployment and overall economic conditions. "We still need the support of those who are yet uncommitted to be especially generous this year," he said. If you have not been contacted by United Way volunteers give Armitage a call at Federal-Mogul, 224-3221, extension 204.

Home health care discussed

By Jean Martin

ST. JOHNS- A few Clinton County residents were on hand to hear more about the kinds of home health care available to them now that the Mid-Michigan District Health Department no longer provides such services.

An open meeting was conducted by Jacqueline Mollema of In Home Health Care Services, a private non-profit agency from Lansing. Her agency, she said, had been licensed to provide Medicare home care to Ingham Co. residents since 1977.

Now the agency also cares for Medicaid patients, those having some kinds of health insurance, and those who are able to pay for the expenses out of their own pockets. As of now In Home Health Care is not certified to provide care for those insured by Blue Cross.

"Whenever we have a meeting like this someone asks about charity cases," said Mollema.

"Someone will call and say, 'When I was with the Clinton County Health Department (MMDHD), I was a charity case. I paid on a sliding scale.'"

"Remember," she cautioned. "Someone has to pay for these services. In the county, the commissioners had to kick in the rest. Greater Lansing Visiting Nurses is a voluntary organization; they get United Way Funds. In Home Health has no extra funds to pay for charity cases."

According to Mollema, the staff of In Home Health currently includes eight registered nurses, four physical therapists, two occupational therapists, one speech therapist, one dietitian, eight home health aides, and one medical social worker. Two physicians serve as medical directors and review cases for the agency.

At the present time Mollema says that the agency has 25 active patients in Clinton County. Six people from MMDHD are now working for In Home Health, and some are servicing the same clients.

According to Mollema, one patient said, "Boy, you never missed a step. All that has changed is the uniform." "We started taking patients on Oct. 3," said Mollema. "We wouldn't have expanded into Clinton County as long as they had a viable home health care agency. We're not interested in competing with anyone. We can easily gear down again if another viable agency should appear."

"Is home care designed to reduce hospital costs?" asked a Clinton Co. resident.

"Yes," answered Mollema. "Comparing home care with nursing home care is like comparing apples and oranges."

The costs of full-time nursing home care are much less because an RN can supervise a number of patients. With home health care one nurse can service only one patient at a time, she said.

The costs of home care do, however, compare quite favorably with hospital treatment which can run up to $200-$250 per day, according to Mollema.

"Right now, I will provide service for any person who has a billable source," said Mollema.

Election results coming Nov 12

The results of the November 4 election will be brought to Clinton County News' readers in the Nov. 12 issue.

We will publish a tally of winners for county posts and look at how county voters felt about the various ballot proposals as well as state and national congressional posts.

DeWitt Twp. adopts 1981 budget

By Sue Kiley White

DEWITT TWP.-DeWitt Township trustees adopted the 1981 budget of $1,288,239 last Monday night and in the process reduced taxes by two mills in an effort to minimize a 1980 carry over of $220,000. The 1981 projected carry over before the board decided to reduce the maximum levied five mills to three mills was $228,000. The carry over of funds for 1981 is now expected to be an estimated $88,000.

According to Walt Kyes, township superintendent this is the least amount of carry over in recent years and the township's largest budget.

"By lowering the millage it will reflect the trend in the economy," said Trustee Karen Williams. "I don't feel comfortable with the township having a $220,000 carry over, when township residents are dipping in their own savings accounts."

Arnold's employees still on strike

By Jean Martin

ST. JOHNS-It has been six weeks since employees of Arnold's Drugs in the Southgate Plaza first went on strike.

They have maintained their vigil as the weather turned from warm sunshine to chilly breezes.

According to strikers, members of the Retail Store Employees Union, AFL-CIO, the company has refused to talk with union representatives the past two weeks.

"I can't comment," said Tim Mitchell, manager of the local store. "I wish I could, but I can't."

Since the strike began, Arnold's has been trying to do business as usual. The strikers say that they have hired other employees.

"We have cut down on their business, there's no doubt about that," said one striker.

"What really hurts," she continued, "is to see union people going in to shop. They just laugh and go in. I guess they think we're nothing because we are such a small union."

The company, a subsidiary of Borman's Inc. in Detroit, also owns the Farmer Jack Supermarkets and other businesses in the Detroit area. The strike involves employees in 42 Arnold's stores around the state.

Union Savings & Loan builds on Grost site

By Sharon Randall

ST JOHNS—Construction is underway on a branch office of Union Savings and Loan on the east corner of US-27 and Sturgis Street to be completed by April, 1981.

The site is the controversial property formerly owned by Dr. James Grost who asked for rezoning in order to build a doctor's office. Protesting neighbors requested that the rezoning be brought before city voters in a referendum vote which passed in August of 1979. In the meantime, Grost had been asked to consider building his clinic adjacent to Clinton Memorial Hospital, and had accepted. He sold the US-27 property to the Lansing based Union Savings and Loan business this summer.

Union Savings and Loan spokesman Rod Weaver said the business will offer typical savings and loan ser-VICES. The institution is also planning to offer a checking account service starting the first of the year at its locations throughout this area of the state.

Weaver said the savings and loan services will include a variety of savings programs including passbook and certificates and will also offer home mortgage loans.

The new building will be about 1,300 square feet according to Weaver and employ about two local persons when it opens. A branch manager will be appointed from the Union Savings and Loan's present staff.

The St. Johns branch is to be open from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays and from nine until noon on Saturdays. Weaver indicated that a detailed market analysis of the Clinton County area indicated that this was an area of potential growth and the Union Savings and Loan, which has its headquarters on West Allegan Street Lansing, wanted to be part of that growth.

Grost said he was approached by the savings and loan business through a local realtor when they sought highway property here. He said the savings and loan business had been careful to leave the trees during their construction and "would be a good neighbor." He described it as a "conservative, cautious company" and said it would not be a high traffic business.

Grost's plans for a clinic at Clinton Memorial call for a two story addition to the south end of the hospital.

Drivers' road tests eliminated

Drivers who pass a state-approved drivers' education course and written examination will no longer have to pass a road test in order to earn their first drivers' license, under legislation which took effect in October.

State Representative Alan Cropsey said the House and Senate approved the bill as a result of "recent tough times in Michigan." Cropsey said in a news release, that the bill was designed to save the state about $500,000 a year.

Approximately, 165,000 road tests would be eliminated each year, under the new law, which took effect when it was signed by Governor William Milliken the middle of October.

Cropsey said the Governor has directed the Office of Highway Safety Planning to monitor the impact of the new law and make sure it has no adverse effect on traffic safety.

Support the arts

When this issue of the Clinton County News comes to your door the 1980 General Election will be over and chances are pretty good that Alan Cropsey will remain the 88th District State Representative.

As he starts his second term in the State House, we believe that it should be brought to his attention that supporting the arts is a thing to fight for, rather than against.

Cropsey said in campaign advertising that he "fought to keep 6 1/2 million dollars from 'the arts'" but we feel this fight was in bad judgment and not truly representative of the people of the district.

There is nothing more inherent to the nature of mankind than "the arts". Art was with us at the beginning and as we struggle through hard times, nothing can offer us more comfort, challenge and encouragement.

That we must justify the value of the arts to a State Representative, is even more of an argument for the need to support them in the state budget. The arts are synonymous with civilization and we must encourage and support an understanding and appreciation for them. Be it music, painting, dance, theater or sculpture, all are creations of man to express his real functioning thoughts.

Only art allows us to hold hands with the past and reach ahead to the future. Support of the arts must continue.

3 cheers for our 4-H leaders

October marked the recognition of Clinton County 4-H leaders. They were honored at a special dinner hosted by the 4-H Council and Clinton Bank and Trust. Nine of them had a combined total of 175 years of service to youth.

Thirty years, 25, 15, 10, special people continue to give, long after their own children are out of the program. There's not really an adequate way to thank them but they say they receive rewards through their relationship with children. The hours they put in cannot be counted and yet they return each year at sign up time, ready for more.

Annabelle Faivor, Louis Feldpausch, Karl Schaefer, Betty Schwark and Marie Thelen have devoted 15 years each. Mildred Whitaker has been a 4-H leader for 20 years and Dorothy Ballantine and Bob Kissane were recognized for having worked with 4-H members for 25 years. Mrs. Verna Peck, Nimble Fingers 4-H Club, was honored for thirty years of devotion.

4-H remains a family affair; many of today's young leaders were 4-H members themselves under the leadership of their parents.

Today's 4-H program goes beyond the traditional rural projects of beef, dairy, vegetables and sewing, but those also remain strong.

4-H strives to make a multitude of experiences available to county youth. Photography arts and crafts, cake decorating, wood working, small engines, leathercraft, dog obedience, goats, rabbits and clowning projects give our young people a chance to try something new and "Expand their horizons" which is this year's 4-H theme.

Under the leadership of the dedicated folks honored at the October banquet, town and country youngsters can try just about anything.

Of course these special volunteers are stretched pretty thin and the 4-H program is always looking for more people with time to give. Join up and we'll see you next year at the leader recognition party.

How do you measure a teacher?

By Superintendent Kenneth Dyer, Bath

How can you tell whether your child is being taught by a good teacher?

You can't do it by the methods used to tell a good used car from a lemon; looking at the tread on the tires, lifting the hood and seeing whether everything is clean, starting the motor and finally driving the car a few blocks to see how it rides and to see if the brakes work.

Yet a good teacher is more important than a good car and a poor teacher doesn't involve expense for repairs. If a poor teacher teaches at a crucial point in your child's education, it can mean your child will make little or no progress for a year. Still worse, your child may come to hate or dislike school and the work involved in learning reading, writing or some other basic skill.

Here are some ways you find out whether your child has a good teacher or is meeting their needs.

You can ask your child, "Do you like your teacher?" If you get a positive answer, you'll have some assurances, but don't ask too often.

Instead of the general question, "Do you like Mrs. Smith?" You might be more specific. For instance, you might ask: "What do you like most about Mrs. Smith?" "Does Mrs. Smith work you hard?" "Do you enjoy Mrs. Smith's class?" Still asking your child, you might put it on a learning basis. "Do you think you learned more with Mrs. Smith than you did last year with Mrs. Brown?" Or "What's the most important thing you've learned from Mrs. Smith?" Or "Would you like to have Mrs. Smith as your teacher next year, when the work will be harder?"

Your child's responses and feelings may raise some questions such as, "Is she likeable because she's easy?" or cccccc...BLANK.

What is that piece of garbage you might ask. Is it a new kind of journalism code? Is it the explanation to some sort of scientific question? Or could it be part of a new chocolate chip cookie recipe?

The answer to all of the above is no. It is just Sue learning to use a newfangled contraption called a VDT otherwise known as a Visual Display Terminal. Sometimes it is even referred to in such terms as a pain in the neck, Excedrin Headache No. 982, or "that thing over there."

Most of you probably already have some idea of what a VDT is if you watch the Lou Grant program on Monday nights. However, their staff makes it look a lot easier than it really is.

I mean after all, you never see Billie Newman fighting off pieces of spewing paper from a temperamental tape dispatching machine, or Joe Rossi thumbing through his dictionary while three other people are clamoring to use the machine as deadline fast approaches.

"Has she favorites, giving attention to some while neglecting others?" You might supplement or check with other parents by asking friends who have children in the same class and see what they're told.

The best way to find out more, the really firsthand way, is to know the teacher personally and make some judgements of your own.

Have you visited the class while actual instruction is taking place?

Do you attend the parent conferences on a regular basis? Have you taken time to talk to the teacher on an informal basis?

Do you take part in the school PTA activities and the like? Does the school need parent volunteers as an aide? This brings you into the classroom as a helper.

Our schools today are fortunate in having many good and talented teachers to work with our children. Teachers vary in their approaches to the learning process and get results in any number of ways—by fear, by friendliness, by enthusiasm, by patience, by reputation, or by some special wizardry. The more you know the teacher, the better your understanding and evaluation.

Parents need to know for themselves and not by the rumor mill, what your child has learned and what progress has been made. Your child may be the kind who will learn no matter what the teacher is like.

Hopefully your child is our most important product. By taking an active interest in school, your child, the activities, the program, you will only help serve your child's needs, your needs and the needs of the school district.

Finally—"A poor teacher needs help; a good teacher deserves help."

We (members of the Review and County News staff) received these nifty little machines almost two weeks ago, however, it took us about that long just to get used to the idea. The new machines I might add did not take an immediate liking to us either, as one had a nervous breakdown on Monday, and as of Tuesday was suffering from a terminal blackout.

These new machines are a little like Christmas presents in a way. They are neat new gadgets that are like playing a "Space Invaders" game only with words.

There is a little green flashing rectangle (appropriately called a cursor) which guides a reporter through a story. However, this little box can become a real killer when he takes a notion to be.

You see, you can take this little gizmo to the top of the screen or to the side or just about anywhere. Yet, if you push the wrong button, the ballgame could be all over.

I live in constant fear of hitting a little blue key along with an X and losing my entire story. The terminal has no memory bank so there goes a couple of hours work down the tubes, so to speak.

The machine has a few good features my old trustworthy typewriter Neil didn't, such as a bold face feature. This also has a way to center a word with the touch of a button. It can also take out a whole word with the touch of your baby finger.

This thing doesn't always do what you think it should do either. I mean in the age of computerization, you'd think it would think for you. This machine should know when you are at the end of a paragraph so you don't end up with something that might look like t h i s without pushing a little button!

Then there is this little thing called a memory alert light that comes on to tell you you've written too much. In other words, it's taken about as much of your writing as it can stand and if you don't stop typing now it's not going to do anymore. I know I write too much a lot of the time, but I don't need a little machine to tell me.

So before this VDT tells me to sign off I think I'll beat him to the punch.

St. Johns keeps growing

By Jody Smith
Manager

The downtown areas of small communities have come a long way in the past 20 years. From a continuing degeneration to a general revitalization, the downtown areas are holding their own.

The downtown area of St. Johns is no exception. The repainting and remodeling of several of the mainstreet stores have spruced up the City.

The painting of Dean True Value Hardware and the remodeling of Green Printing in the third block are notable examples. Also in the third block, the Clinton Home Center has done some extensive remodeling and decorating. Further up the street the YarnWinder, Lambert's and the Body Shop as well as Norm Henry and Wildwood have been working on the appearances of their store fronts. All of these improvements make our community an attractive place to shop, visit and live.

The perennial problem for downtown is parking, and the building owners in the first block have contributed equally to the paving of the alley behind their buildings. Much of this work was done under the supervision of City police officer Robert Ott and provides for a paved alley way and adjacent free parking behind the offices and stores of the east side of the first city block.

This same block has been working to create a uniform look for the backs of the buildings and Jim Glass has come up with ideas which high school students will implement in the near future.

In addition to the downtown changes, the edges of town are making changes of their own. The Capri Motel is building a covered outdoor swimming pool, the first in our area. The enclosed pool will be available to Capri Motel guests in the spring of 1981. At this time there are no plans for public use or any kind of membership program. The pool will be open from the spring until late in the fall once it is operational.

The Grand Opening Sale for the Ben Franklin Store in Southgate Plaza started Wednesday, Oct. 29. The owners, Mr. and Mrs. John Overley awarded gift certificates and held a sale to mark the beginning of their expanded merchandise areas. Departments enlarged are shoes, live plants, home accents, art supplies and crafts and hobbies. Mrs. Overley gives craft demonstrations in macrame, flower arranging and other hobby areas. The layout of the store has been revamped and customer services have been enlarged to provide a complete shopping center for the area.

Our community is changing and improving in many directions and the expansion and redecoration of these businesses is mentioned to inform the community of goods and services available right here at home.

SENIOR CITIZEN UPDATE

By Ruth Delo

Reach out and touch someone

Have you heard the commercial on T.V., "Reach out and touch someone?"

I have always been so concerned with people being alone, someone needing just a friend or someone who just needs a thought or two turned in their direction.

I have written about the "Togetherness" of Clinton County. Are you doing your share? What are you doing to make people happier?

There are many people in our area who need someone like you. Why don't you look around your own neighborhood, find out who the people are, what their need might be and see what you can do to make their life better and happier.

One person I know lives in a very nice home, has a nice car but is unable to drive, looks well dressed, but was so terribly alone. Another person recognized this fact and began to call her once in a while. Then when she went out for lunch she called her and took her along. She was so determined to be on her own, they went Dutch treat. A few cookies now and then, or a bit of casserole once in a while and they became real friends and no longer was this a lonesome, bored person.

This shows that people aren't necessarily needy, in regards to money or monetary things, but are needy by being alone. So it isn't necessary to try to find someone who is having difficulties with making ends meet, look for the ones who need a friend.

If you are one who is having difficulty getting "by" financially, you still have much to give to another person. Your love, your concern, your interest in them are free to give at any time. If you are having problems, it will take your mind off your own if you help another person.

Even young people can find someone who needs them. Running errands, like grocery shopping, filling prescriptions, doing dishes, so many things to do. It won't cost a cent but how happy you can make someone. Find that person, it will be worthwhile.

Soon we will come to the so-called Holiday Season. Plan ahead just a little. Small jars of candy or snacks, a coffee cake all frosted and munchy looking, a bit of fruit cake, a few cookies or how about a hand-made holder, or doily, well you name it and it will be something with which you can make someone else happy.

I do this and it really makes me as happy as it does those I remember. I've already been saving small containers which I will trim with Christmas paper.

It isn't always someone alone or lonely that I remember in this way. For those people who I have been friends with during the year, or those I work with, it's a pleasure to remember them in this way.

There are very few of us who really do everything we can for those who might need us. Try a little harder, put forth just a little more effort, spend just a few minutes each day for someone else. You'll love it.

So, until next time.....

Suit termed misunderstanding; DeWitt rehires woman officer

By Sue Kiley White

DEWITT CITY—It was much ado about nothing. This is what Wendell Myers, DeWitt City Police Chief and his attorney Sheila Kinney, felt anyway, concerning a $1.2 million lawsuit filed by a parttime police officer Marie Howe. According to the pair the suit was nothing more than a "misunderstanding."

Much publicity area which was the suit alleged employment or notice or with that Howe's discrimination b justification.

However, on Oct. 27 a release and stipulation for dismissal was filed in Judge Randy Tahvonen's court. Taken directly from court files the statement reads, "...3. 'Shortly after initiation of the lawsuit, all the above (Howe, Myers etc.) named parties, by and through their respective attorneys, investigated Plaintiff's (Howe) complaint and concluded the lawsuit arose from a mutual misunderstanding which could be cured to the satisfaction of all the named parties by entering into this stipulation and without the need for formal proceedings or litigation.'

"The issue was settled before the first story appeared in the papers," said Ms. Kinney. "I guess I just don't want to believe anything carried on anymore through the newspapers."

The bride chose a full length Princess-style gown trimmed with ivory lace.

Howe began her employment with the DeWitt City police force in September of 1979. She was hired as a parttime patrolman for $4 per hour.

In the initial complaint Ms. Howe alleged that Myers referred to female attire worn by woman officers, frailty and that they are watched more closely. It said in the first document she was terminated from her job for derelictions of du-the fact that Myers signed the given to Howe for damaged anything innocently or I've been misquoted the mad."

in that the document w or liability on the part admission by any defendant that Plaintiff's complaint a legal claim for relief."

The stipulation further comments that Howe terminated until such time in the future, if she may be warranted by other future circumstances prompting the initial unexecuted. Howe's employment will be oral she resumes work. Howe accepted be scheduled to work each hours plus or minus eight time officers in the city and Thomas Rasmussen to comment on r

Special guests included Minnie Smith, great aunt of the bride's from Romulus Michigan and the groom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Conklin of Maple Rapids.

The couple went on a wedding trip to Copper Harbor and are now making their home in Shepardsville. The bride and groom are both graduates of St. Johns High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Sipkovsky

Eisler, Sipkovsky wed

Shirley Eisler and Michael Steven Sipkovsky exchanged wedding vows at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in St. Johns Sept. 12, 1980. The bride was given in marriage at the 6 p.m. ceremony by her father. The double ring service was performed by the Rev. Fr. William G. Hanker. Music was provided by organist David Wiseman.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Eisler. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Louie Sipkovsky. Both families are from St. Johns.

The bride chose an ivory floor-length gown of Qiana trimmed with Chantilly lace.

A V-neckline of lace accented both the front and back. The gown also featured a high neck and a full-length capelike train which was trimmed with lace.

A headpiece of white daisies, yellow roses, and baby's breath completed the bride's ensemble. She carried a matching bouquet of the same flowers.

Linda Marie Arent of Lansing attended the bride in a rust colored floor-length gown trimmed with ivory lace. The gown featured a stand-up collar. Her headpiece and bouquet were both of yellow daisies, ivory roses, and baby's breath.

Both mothers wore apricot colored floor-length gowns. Their corsages were made of white carnations and coral roses.

Pat Sipkovsky served as his brother's best man. Dean Eisler, the brother of the bride, and Bob Andrews a brother-in-law of the groom were ushers. Immediately following the wedding, a reception was held at the K of C Hall in St. Johns. Host and hostess for the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Dick Shaul and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Schomisch. The wedding cake was served by Janet Sipkovsky and Diane White. Sandy Boling attended the guest book. Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Flowers and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Emmons and their daughter, Marcy, served the catered dinner.

Special guests came from Dallas, Texas; Collins, Colorado; and Long Island, New York.

Following a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Long Island, the couple will be making their home in Lansing.

DeWitt family boasts six Eagle Scouts

The Paul Schaefer family of DeWitt has devoted a large share of the past 17 years to scouting, and the results are impressive.

As 14-year-old Kevin Schaefer was awarded scouting's prestigious Eagle honor in October, he became the sixth son of the Schaefers to claim the rank.

The Grand Ledge High School freshman, a member of Boy Scout Troop 60 from Wacousta Methodist Church, was in the limelight at a special Court of Honor ceremony at the Wacousta School gym October 4 - a ceremony that brought out relatives, friends, scout affiliates and the family, including the five older brothers who were tapped as Eagles before Kevin.

On hand for the occasion and outfitted in their scouting apparel were Terry and Jerry, 26-year-old twins, Tim 22, Tom 20 and Doug 18, all of whom were Grand Ledge High School students when they attained Eagle ranks. Jerry is still involved in scouting in Midland where he now lives, serving as a scoutmaster for a troop there. And Doug, who lives at home, is in an Explorer Scout troop at the Wacousta church.

The Schaefers, who live at 7041 Howe Rd., DeWitt - "on the border of the Grand Ledge and DeWitt school districts" - also have two daughters, Karen 24 and Mary Jo 11. The girls have also been involved in scouts, according to Mrs. Schaefer, who feels she has given a lot of time and energy to scouting interests.

"Scouting has been something good for the family," Joan Schaefer says. "Kids have to have something to do, and when we moved out of the city, it was just what they needed."

She hasn't been involved to the extent her husband has, she says. He's held a variety of adult scouting jobs throughout the 17 years the family has had someone participating.

All the Schaefers' sons have been members of Troop 60, which currently is headed by Scoutmaster Delmer Gowing, with Donald Gowing as assistant scoutmaster. It was under their leadership coordination Kevin took on his service project of making bicycle racks for the parks in Wacousta - a project that culminated long-ranging efforts aimed at Eagle Scout status.

Suit termed misunderstanding; DeWitt rehires woman officer

By Sue Kiley White

DEWITT CITY—It was much ado about nothing. This is what Wendell Myers, DeWitt City Police Chief and his attorney Sheila Kinney, felt anyway, concerning a $1.2 million lawsuit filed by a parttime police officer Marie Howe. According to the pair the suit was nothing more than a "misunderstanding" between Myers and Ms. Howe.

Much publicity was given to the suit by daily papers in the area which was filed Oct. 6 in Clinton County Circuit Court. The suit alleged that Ms. Howe was terminated from her employment unlawfully, unconstitutionally and without notice or with due process. It was also stated in the first suit that Howe's termination was based on sex, age, and sexual discrimination by harassment and differentiation without legal justification.

However, on Oct. 27 a release and stipulation for dismissal was filed in Judge Randy Tahvonen's court. Taken directly from court files the statement reads, "3. 'Shortly after initiation of the lawsuit, all the above (Howe, Myers etc.) named parties, by and through their respective attorneys, investigated Plaintiff's (Howe) complaint and concluded the lawsuit arose from a mutual misunderstanding which could be cured to the satisfaction of all the named parties by entering into this stipulation and without the need for formal proceedings or litigation.'

"The issue was settled before the first story appeared in the papers," said Ms. Kinney. "I guess I just don't want to see this thing carried on anymore through the newspapers."

Howe began her employment with the DeWitt City police force in September of 1979. She was hired as a parttime patrolman for $4 per hour.

In the initial complaint Ms. Howe alleged that Myers referred to female attire worn by woman officers, frailty and that they are watched more closely. It said in the first document she was terminated from her job for derelictions of duty and neglect.

Much attention was given to the fact that Myers signed the suit agreeing to $1.2 million to be given to Howe for damages.

"I never said my client signed anything innocently or ignorantly," said Ms. Kinney. "I've been misquoted through this whole thing and it makes me mad."

It also stated in the stipulation that the document was not an admission of wrongdoing or liability on the part of any or all defendants. Neither does this stipulation constitute an admission by any defendant that Plaintiff's complaint states a legal claim for relief.

The stipulation further comments that Howe will not be terminated until such time in the future, if any, as termination may be warranted by other future circumstances. The event prompting the initial unexecuted decision to terminate Howe's employment will be orally discussed with her when she resumes work. Howe according to the document will be scheduled to work each month the average number of hours plus or minus eight hours that other irregular part-time officers in the city are scheduled to work.

Thomas Rasmussen, attorney for Ms. Howe did not choose to comment on matter.

Participate in seminar

Energy workshop available to teachers

Clinton County teachers of grades kindergarten through eighth have been invited to participate in an Energy Education Workshop, Nov. 18 from 4 to 6 p.m. at the Clinton Intermediate School District building on South US27.

The workshop is being arranged by the Clinton County Consortium for Professional Staff Development, organized through a state grant last year. The consortium has representatives from each of the schools in the county and has been involved in a study of inservice needs.

The energy inservice workshop will provide teachers with background information about energy and energy conservation. It will introduce teachers to newly developed energy education curriculum materials.

Teachers will be able to pick up information on where to find new materials to use in their classrooms. Many free materials will also be available.

The workshop is limited to 50 county teachers. Those interested should call the intermediate office for reservations.

Teen group starts

If you are between 13 and 18, you can join a brand new 4-H group planned for and by participating teens. You don't even need to be in 4-H already.

This group will be meeting each month and will plan community service activities as well as fun activities.

The first meeting will be

Wednesday, Nov. 19 at 7 p.m. in Smith Hall, St. Johns.

The group will meet alternately on the third Monday and Wednesday of each month at 7 p.m. The date and time were chosen as a result of a recent survey of teen interests.

Clinton youth make it with wool

Clinton County was well represented at the "Make It Yourself With Wool" Contest held Saturday morning, Oct. 25 at the Alma Community Center. Laura Bauerle from Bath participated in the Senior division and Theresa Koenigsnecht and Jamie Becker, both of St. Johns, participated in the pre-teen division.

In the afternoon, all contestants put on a Style Show at the Fabric Center Store in Alma, where the first and second place winners were announced.

Jamie Becker took second place in the pre-teen division. All contestants were awarded yard goods from Pendleton Woolen Mills in Portland, Oregon.

Make It Yourself With Wool is more than just a sewing, knitting or crocheting contest. It is also a fashion competition. Judges look for coordination of the fabric to the pattern, poise and presentation, suitability of the garment to the contestant's age and way of life, as well as skill in sewing, knitting or crocheting. All entries must be made from loomed, knitted or felted fabric or yarn of 100 percent wool or of a minimum of 60 percent wool and no more than 40 percent synthetic fiber.

Bond shines in Fulton win

By Tim Jeffery

Fulton closed out the season Friday night with its fourth straight win, a 28-8 trouncing of Ithaca. The Pirates rushed for better than 400 yards for the second week in a row, while limiting Ithaca to just 37.

Wayne Bond, Fulton's fine tailback was the main cog in the attack, collecting four touchdowns. Only a junior, Bond went over the 200-yard mark for the second time this season. If he can avoid the nagging injuries which plagued him throughout much of the year, next season could be one filled with brilliant performances.

The Pirates opened the scoring with 7:29 left in the first quarter, after fumbling away a golden opportunity on their first series, at the Yellow Jacket 15-yard-line. Bond got the touchdown by rambling 4 yards to cap a 60-yard march. The two-point conversion attempt failed.

Fulton made it 14-0 less than two minutes into the second quarter. Bond broke off a long touchdown run of 55 yards to complete a five play, 80-yard drive. Fullback Rod Robbe went in on the conversion run.

The visitors stretched it to 20-0 with 1:46 remaining in the half. Bond again scored the touchdown, from 4 yards out to complete a 50-yard drive.

Fulton failed to cash in on the only scoring chance of the third period, when, for the second time in the game, a fumble was lost inside the Yellow Jacket 15.

Scott Williams, the Ithaca quarterback completed five passes in the midst of a 64-yard drive, early in the fourth quarter. Steve Heimberger capped the march by slamming in from a yard out. Williams then hit Kevin Gantz with an aerial, for the conversion.

Bond completed his tremendous evening with 6:02 to play when he scored on a 2-yard run. The march consisted of 10 plays and covered 61 yards. Quarterback Scott Winsor passed to Steve Moon for the two-point conversion.

The Pirates wound up with 417 yards rushing, as Bond totaled 224 on 31 carries. Winsor rushed for 108 yards on 11 tries and completed three of five passes for 51 yards. Mark LaLone added 44 on the ground and caught a pair of passes for 48 yards. Fulton was never forced to punt during the contest.

Jeff Waldron and Jim Fricke, a pair of Fulton defensive standouts all season long, were the leading tacklers with eight apiece.

The win for the Pirates left them with a final mark of 6-3, while Ithaca dropped to 3-6.

Sheperd crushes Marauders

By Tim Jeffery

The Ovid-Elsie Marauders simply ran into a highly polished football team in Sheperd Friday night and paid the price by coming out on the short end of a 21-7 score. The Blue Jays came in with a 7-1 mark and had surrendered only 21 points. They ended up tied for the top spot in their league with St. Charles, but because of a win over St. Charles, the Jays were the league champs.

The Marauders made a mistake early in the contest and it resulted in a blocked punt by Sheperd. Bruce Curtis picked up the ball and ran 17 yards into the end zone. The kick was good and Sheperd was quickly out in front 7-0.

The Blue Jays drove in for the second touchdown of the game with 7:44 left in the second quarter. Quarterback Steve Eisenberger scored on a 1-yard run and the extra point was good to make it 14-0.

O-E came storming back, when Rick Winkler hit Mark Miller with an 80-yard scoring strike. The play came with just under five minutes remaining in the half. Kicker Jim Chapko was perfect on the extra point.

The Marauders held Sheperd after the kickoff and got it back when the Jays punted. Battling the clock, O-E appeared to be on the way to tying the game when a drive took it to Sheperd's 4-yard-line. From there the Marauders were turned back and the half ended 14-7.

Neither team could score in the third period, although both squads did move the football. Finally, Pat Lynch hauled in a 26-yard scoring pass from Eisenberger with 7:40 showing on the clock to give the Blue Jays a 21-7 lead.

The score remained the same as O-E fell to 4-5 and Sheperd moved to 8-1. The hosts outgained O-E on the ground 172-84, while the Marauders held the edge in passing yardage 152-135. Sheperd totaled 15 first downs to eight for O-E.

Brad Byrnes was the leading ground gainer with 35 yards on nine attempts. Winkler played well, completing 7 of 15 passes for the evening.

Dave Randolph was a thorn in O-E's side, as he has been to most teams. Randolph caught five passes for 88 yards. The receptions brought his season total for the nine games to 48.

Marauder coach Russ

Pope was impressed with the Sheperd ball club and wasn't critical of his team's performance. 'I told the kids not to hang their heads. This is one of the better teams in the state in Class C that beat us,' he stated.

Ovid-Elsie was again led by Ryan Ackels on defense. He totaled 23 tackles and wound up the year as the record-holder for most tackles in a season. Dean Bendt chipped in with 11 tackles.

Redwing Cagers now 13-0

The awesome St. Johns girls' basketball team recorded wins 12 and 13 last week and drew ever closer to winning the Mid-Michigan B Conference.

On Tuesday night, the Redwings played host to Cornuna and came out on top 57-37. Defense was a big factor in the victory as St. Johns held the Cavaliers to six points in the first quarter and five points in the final stanza.

Center Lori Kus led all scorers with 17 points and was also the leading rebounder with 16. Denise Thelen was next in scoring with 11 points. She also dished out five assists and had eight steals.

Ann Purtilt tossed in seven points and hauled in eight rebounds. Anne Stafford had 11 Redwing rebounds.

DeWitt played St. Johns tough for three quarters in Thursday's game, but couldn't stay with the Wings in the final period. At one point in the third stanza, DeWitt pulled to within five, but eventually fell by a score of 56-38.

Kus tossed in 27 points and grabbed 18 rebounds as St. Johns stayed unbeaten. Sue Pearsall was next with 13 points and 10 rebounds. Thelen handed out eight assists and came away with three steals. Kus was tops in steals with a total of six.

DeWitt was paced by Jeanne Marriott with 21 points.

Fowler girls roar

The Fowler Eagles enjoyed a big week of action with wins over Bellevue and Portland St. Pat's last Monday and Wednesday respectively, to raise their season's record to 7-7.

The Eagles came out on top against Bellevue Monday night in a very tight defensive struggle 27-25. Fowler led 10-2 after one quarter but had the margin sliced to 14-12 at the half. The Eagles finally did pull it out in the fourth quarter.

Jane Goerge was the leading scorer with 12 points. Connie Feldpausch was next with five and Kay Snyder had four. Lana Hafner and Feldpausch each grabbed 11 rebounds.

Two nights later, the contest was much different. Fowler opened up a 16-8 lead after one quarter and held the eight point margin at halftime 31-23.

The Shamrocks fought back in the third quarter and eventually tied it up at 41 apiece. The Eagles outscored the tough St. Pat's team nine to six in the final quarter to win it 50-47.

Hafner was the leading point producer with 12. She was also tops in rebounding with 13. Feldpausch played a strong game, scoring 10 points and collecting 11 rebounds.

Becky Klein, Kay Snyder and Goerge all scored eight points for Fowler, now 5-5 in the league.

All-county next week

Next week's Clinton County News will feature the all-county selections. A first and second team offense and a first and second team defense will be announced, complete with pictures and statistics. There will also be honorable mention picks as well.

In addition to the all-county team, a most valuable player will be announced. The selections will be made from Bath, DeWitt, Fowler, Fulton, Ovid-Elsie, Pewamo-Westphalia and St. Johns.

DeWitt rolls over Bath 24-13

By Tim Jeffery

Saturday night's 24-13 DeWitt victory closed out a very respectable season for the Panthers, while for Bath, the loss left the team with a hollow feeling and a somewhat disappointing 6-3 mark to go with it.

Winning six of nine games is nothing to be ashamed of, but earlier in the year slogans such as 'league champs' and 'playoffs' were frequently heard around Bath High School. The Bees opened the season with four straight shutout victories, before a surprising loss to Stockbridge started them on the way to dropping three of the final five contests.

The loss also marked the final game for the Bees under the direction of Gary Grady. The Bath head man announced his resignation to his players on Monday.

The scene in DeWitt turned out to be a much more pleasant one. For starters, junior quarterback Scott Milner looked outstanding against the highly touted Bath defense, in just his second start of the year at the position. Secondly, the Panthers played very well defensively in the final two quarters, although much of the success in keeping the Bees off the scoreboard in the second half could be attributed to DeWitt's ability to control the football on offense. Finally, the win marked the fourth of the year which is much better than many figured for first-year coach Gall Thornton's forces.

Bath opened the scoring with 5:54 left in the first quarter by going 47 yards in eight plays. Kevin Jackson registered the touchdown on a run of 2 yards. Quarterback Chris Foote kept it himself on the successful two-point conversion.

DeWitt didn't take long to answer as Scott Kinney burst through Bath's line and raced untouched for a 64-yard touchdown. The play was the third from scrimmage, following the kickoff. Gary Challis hit the extra point to make it 8-7.

A big play by Mike Phillips set up the next score. Milner dropped back to throw what was to be a screen pass, but Phillips was positioned perfectly to make an interception. The ball hit the Bath defensive end squarely in the hands. Phillips made no mistakes as he brought the ball to the DeWitt 36-yard-line.

The Bees moved in, using nine plays to do so. Jackson scored the touchdown on a 5-yard burst with 37 seconds left in the opening quarter.

Neither team could score again before halftime, although Bath had a long Foote to George Escojido touchdown strike wiped out by a clipping penalty after Escojido had made the catch and was well behind the secondary.

The penalty bug hit DeWitt twice in the third quarter when two apparent touchdowns were called back. First it was a 49-yard run by Kinney and then a 20-yard jaunt by Milner which were nullified.

Despite being turned away twice on the same drive, Milner finally hit Pat Toune with a 10-yard scoring strike on a play that was penalty free. Challis lined up to kick the point after to tie the contest. His kick was perfect, but again a yellow marker indicated an infraction against DeWitt. Challis' second try was blocked and Bath remained on top 14-13.

Determined not to let the blocked point after haunt them, the Panthers got it going once again early in the fourth quarter. Milner directed the team 63 yards in nine plays to set up a 19-yard Challis field goal that gave DeWitt a 16-14 edge with 6:17 to play.

The hosts put the game on ice, going 44 yards in three plays. The capper was a Kinney run of 20 yards. Challis kicked the extra point to make it 23-14.

Foote's right arm moved Bath back down the field in the final minute, but time expired before the Bees could punch it in.

DeWitt finished the evening with 302 yards rushing to 107 for Bath. Kinney was the game's leading ground gainer with 149 yards on 16 attempts.

Foote completed 5 of 14 passes for 100 yards. A couple of well thrown Foote aeriels were dropped which makes the completion ratio misleading. The Bath standout also excelled on defense and caused DeWitt to change its blocking assignments at halftime.

4-H leaders recognized for long years of service

Verna Peck, Nimble Fingers, was honored for her 30 years of volunteer 4-H leadership. Verna and her husband, Clyde, have been the mainstay of this St. Johns club for many years. Their efforts at the annual 4-H Fair are also invaluable. (Photo by Jean Martin)

ST JOHNS - Nearly 300 leaders, spouses and guests met for an evening of food, fellowship and fun at the annual 4-H leader Recognition Banquet in October.

Special guests were John and Pam Pearson and Brandon and Annette White representing Clinton Bank and Trust, long-time sponsor of this event. Each year the banquet is put on by the bank and the 4-H Council.

Ted Ashley, council president, served as master of ceremonies for the evening and conducted a brief business meeting during which Janet Becker, Pat Martin, Dennis Koenigsnecht and Ashley were elected to represent leaders in their district on the 4-H Council for the next three years.

Organizational leaders were recognized for their volunteer time commitment and each were honored and presented with either a rose or a box of candy.

First year leaders were recognized and awards were presented to three, five, 10, 15, 20, 25, and 30 year leaders.

Ten year leaders honored were: Gert Arens, Hilda Bancroft, Joyce Davis, Janice Feldpausch, Ruth Feldpausch, Joyce George, Mary Ann Hengesbach, Joann Lehman, Janice Todociuk, Nellie Washburn, Irmina Weber. Five 15-year leaders were honored. They were: Annabelle Faivor, Louise Feldpausch, Karl Schaefer, Betty Schwark, Marie Thelen.

Mildred Whitaker received an award for having been a 4-H leader for 20 years, and Bob Kissane and Dorothy Ballantine were honored for 25 years of leadership. Verna Peck received a standing ovation when she was honored for 30 years of volunteer service to youth in Clinton County.

A 4-H Alumni Award was presented to Janice Todociuk, Eureka Go-Getters. She is also active in her church and other community activities and has been involved with both Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts.

Dennis Koenigsnecht, council vice-president, presented this year's Friend of 4-H award to the St. Johns Public Schools. Accepting the award on behalf of the school was Superintendent Donald Burns. The St. Johns schools were honored because of their support of and cooperation with Cooperative Extension 4-H Youth Program's efforts to serve youth in the community.

Performing arts program made available to 4-H members

4-H and The Arts Expanding Horizons Performing Arts program begins its second year Nov. 15. The success of the pilot project, supported by a grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts, was overwhelming. Thousands of Michigan residents have seen the 1979-80 4-H Performing Arts Troupe at fairs and festivals throughout the state.

4-H and The Arts'Expanding Horizons is a comprehensive performing arts program which explores the arts in a series of nine multi-discipline workshops. Areas to be studied include dance (tap, music comedy, jazz, ballet, and modern); drama (mime, make-up, stage movement, diction); and vocal music. Each participant will have the opportunity to work in all areas.

In the late spring the 1981 4-H Performing Arts Troupe will be formed from the participants involved in the workshops. The Arts Troupe will perform at Exploration Days, an annual statewide 4-H event, June 17, 1981, on the Michigan State University campus and at fairs and festivals during the summer.

This year's program has been expanded from 11 to 18 counties. The counties included are (North)-Manistee, Wexford, Missaukee, Mason, Lake, Osceola, Mecosta, Clare, and Isabella; (South)-Muskegon, Oceana, Newaygo, Ottawa, Kent, Montcalm, Gratiot, Clinton, and Ionia.

4-H and The Arts Expanding Horizons is open to any young person 13-18 years old who resides within any of the 18 counties. The program is not exclusively for present 4-H'ers. Youth should have a high interest in the performing arts and the desire to further develop their skills. Extensive experience is not required.

A member of the 1980 4-H Performing Arts Troupe says it best, "I had never performed before. It's hard work. In the beginning there was no way it could be a reality, but it all came together. It's a terrific, fantastic, great, project. I can't live without it."

Anyone interested in becoming a member of the 4-H and the Arts Expanding Horizons Performing Arts program should contact the Cooperative Extension Office at 306 Elm Street, St. Johns or call 224-3288. Call now. Workshops begin Nov. 15.

Chimney fires pose dangers

CLINTON CO.- As more and more homeowners are turning to wood burners for at least a part of their winter heat, the danger of chimney fires increases.

According to the people at the Clinton County Cooperative Extension Service, no woodburning system is 100 percent safe and fireproof.

The smoke from a wood fire usually contains a tar-like substance called creosote. This can be found almost anywhere in a wood heating system.

A serious fire may be ignited if creosote is allowed to build up. The low rate of burning when little heat is needed in the fall and spring months is a contributor to creosote buildup.

When burning temperatures get below 150 degrees F the creosote deposit will be thick, sticky, and similar to tar.

Creosote problems can be reduced several ways, say the Extension people.

Smoke density can be lowered somewhat in an airtight stove by using larger pieces of wood.

Draft can be increased by having as few bends as possible between the appliance and the chimney and by having a separate flue for each appliance.

Vapor in the flue gases may be controlled by using the driest wood possible and by using only small pieces of wood during mild weather.

Everyone in the house should be familiar with the warning signs of a chimney fire. Among these are sucking sounds, a loud roar, and shaking pipes.

If a chimney fire does start, the fire department should be called immediately. Younger family members should be put to work outside watching for sparks or signs of fire on the roof. Meanwhile one adult should stay in the house to check the attic and upper floors for signs of fire.

Close all openings and draft controls if you have an airtight stove. Close the stove pipe damper in a non-airtight stove. If you have a leaky stove or fireplace, you may have to wait for the fire to burn out.

The problem with frequent chimney fires, say the experts, is the possibility of the house catching on fire. The ignition temperature of new house framing is about 500 degrees F. Over a period of years, as this wood is repeatedly heated by chimney fires, it will ignite at a much lower temperature.

The only efficient method of cleaning is to use a chimney brush, since the brush scrubs the entire surface uniformly.

If you plan to clean the chimney yourself, the Extension experts suggest that some or all of the following tools will be needed: a drop cloth, a trouble light, leather gloves, a hand wire brush, a stiff putty knife, a heavy duty vacuum cleaner, a metal bucket, a can of furnace cement, a chimney brush, and a rope and weight.

Before starting to clean the chimney, all doors and windows must be shut to prevent any drafts. When cleaning the chimney from the roof, they say that the easiest method is to attach a line to the brush with a weight on the opposite end.

Another method is to attach a rope at each end of the brush with a person at the top of the chimney and one at the bottom. The two then take turns pulling the rope.

The use of rigid extensions such as a pipe is perhaps more effective. This allows the homeowner to control and feel the scrubbing action of the brush in the chimney.

This is the method used by most professional chimney sweeps.

Varsity night show sparks with big band pizzazz

The flag corps performs in style to the music of the Redwing Marching Band in special activities for Varsity Night last Saturday.

Senior members of the band and flag corps are honored at this festivity that started 18 years ago. (Photo by Robert Dickman)

On the field for the last football game of the season, the Redwing Marching Band played with enthusiasm and style. For senior members of the band this was their last marching band performance.

It's the seniors last hurrah

ST JOHNS-The Redwing Bands 18th annual Varsity Night was presented Saturday night in the school gym, showing off the band, flag corps and cheerleaders. Senior members of the band were honored as were the Marching Band directors Walter Cole and Robert Koger.

Some 230 high school students from the upper three grades are involved in the band program. Senior students have had seven years of band and Varsity Night has traditionally been their "last hurrah," according to Cole.

Also performing this weekend were the ninth grade band and Trixie's Pixies. The flag corps, cheerleaders and the senior band students all gave special performances.

Cole describes the evening as a variety show saying it is a "big, fun evening."

Exciting music and routines were par for the evening. The Redwing Band performed three of its marching numbers from the fall season and the flag corps performed routines.

The local group, Trixie's Pixies impressed the audience with a twirling routine and an acrobatic number. The ninth grade band's performance was sparked with a dance routine by several of its members.

Beauty was also on the program and the Band Sweetheart, Becky Marten was recognized along with the Homecoming Queen, Beth Buckley.

Cole and Koger were honored by band members with special flowers for them and their wives and the senior band also presented the pair with a plaque and personal gifts.

In charge of the Varsity Night activities was Kevin Redman, student council president who also acted as master of ceremonies.

Alumni perform

ST JOHNS-Thirty members from past St. Johns High School bands showed up at Friday night's football game to renew old acquaintances and perform at halftime.

The Alumni Band met early in the choir room for a rehearsal and marched to the field together to watch the present Redwing Band perform at the football game.

Halftime was a special event for the 1980 Marching Band; senior members were recognized and the Band Sweetheart, Becky Marten was announced.

The Alumni Band

members showed off with a performance of "Night Train" and then joined the Redwing Band for the St. Johns fight song.

Alumni recognized were twirler, Mary Rademacher Moore and Ross Mayers, oldest members present from the class of '54; two celebrating their 25th year, Marcia Davis and Gayle Desprez; and Bruce Campbell for "traveling the farthest."

Continued efforts by the directors, Walt Cole and Robert Koger and Cheryl Cole Shannon to have the Alumni at a game each year is to continue.

Music department hold fruit sale

ST JOHNS-The St. Johns High School Music Department is sponsoring a citrus fruit sale. Band, choir and orchestra members are involved in this fund raising project to earn money for equipment needed by all three groups.

The fruit is Florida citrus and comes from the famous Indian River area. Large, top quality navel oranges, pink grapefruit and tangelos will be delivered fresh directly to St. Johns in four-fifths and two-fifths bushel boxes. The fruit is fully guaranteed according to Orchestra Director Bill Tennant.

The sale will begin Thursday, Nov. 6 and end Wednesday, Nov. 19. The fruit is to be delivered here around Dec. 6.

More information can be obtained and orders placed with any high school music student or by calling 224-2394, extension 29, daily between 8:30 and 10:30 a.m. and noon and 3 p.m.
