

Church section is planned

As a public service to the people of the Clinton County area, the County News would like to publish a special section honoring all of the churches in the county. This would be included in our Dec. 24 Christmas edition.

Churches may choose among three degrees of participation including a simple listing, an additional listing of worship services, and a photo of the church.

All churches will receive a simple listing. Those who are interested may opt for the more complete listing and photo.

A mailing has been made to many churches. If we have missed anyone, we would like to know about it before Dec. 8.

The topic of discussion for the meeting, to be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Room of the Central National Bank, will be the restoration and preservation of old books and family records. Included will be directions for repairing torn pages and cloth and leather bindings, Scotch tape removal, and cleaning pages and bindings following mildew and water damage. The public is invited to attend.

Toy skate on again

This year the event, sponsored by Clinton County Community Services, will be held Dec. 1 from 6:30 to 9 p.m. Admission will be a new toy which cost at least $1. Proceeds will be placed in Christmas baskets for needy families in Clinton County.

More report deer success

Two more area deer hunters reported getting 10 point bucks this season.

Dennis Ritz of Route Three, St. Johns got his 10 point buck in the Upper Peninsula. He said it dressed out at 190 pounds.

Charles Almy of Dexter Trail, Fowler shot his buck east of Holt on Sunday, Nov. 16. This 10 point dressed out at 247 pounds.

Bath voters say "Yes"

BATH- Voters in the Bath School District turned out in large numbers Monday to pass all three parts of a 23.68 mill package.

Unofficial totals indicated that the basic 20.68 mills passed by an overwhelming margin. Proposals B and C, asking for 2 and 1 mill respectively, also passed by much narrower margins. Voters approved B by a vote of 688 to 613. C passed by a vote of 690 to 605.

The millage package which was approved by Bath voters Monday is essentially the same request that has been turned down in three previous elections. In the earlier elections, however, the overall 23.68 millage request had been presented as a single question.

In action taken at a special meeting convened after unofficial totals were available, the Bath Board of Education voted unanimously to reinstate the position of the K-8 librarian, a full schedule of winter athletics which already had been started on an interim basis, and all extra curricular activities.

In conjunction with the reinstated athletic programs, the athletic director was granted time to attend to his new duties. The board also voted to place an order for new science books immediately. Reinstatement of second semester programs will be discussed at the next regularly scheduled meeting of the board Dec. 8.

Ovid turns down millage

OVID-ELSIE-A three mill request to help alleviate a $300,000 financial crisis in the Ovid-Elsie School district was defeated by 581 votes Monday, according to Superintendent David Porrell. A record number of voters cast 1,099 votes in favor of the millage and 1,680 people cast no votes with 23 ballots reported spoiled.

As a result of this millage defeat 12 teachers will be laid-off, along with the school nurse. In addition, all winter and spring inter-scholastic sports except varsity and junior varsity boys basketball (which are self-supporting) have been cancelled. The lay-offs are effective Friday, Dec. 5.

Elsie elementary will be losing one and a half kindergarten teachers while Ovid elementary will be losing a first grade teacher. Two Ovid elementary positions for music and physical education will be cut in addition to a half-time music teacher and a librarian for the elementary and junior high school.

The Ovid junior high school will also be losing a physical education teacher and a special education teacher.

The high school will lose a total of four teachers in business, art, agriculture and physical education.

Three veteran teachers have voluntarily taken lay-offs enabling other teachers to retain their positions according to Porrell.

"We will definitely have to come back in June," said the superintendent. "We are disappointed in the results, but grateful for the largest voter turn-out in the history of this school district."

At this point the district is still unsure of what state aid cuts will be made and what the impact will be on the local district. If the state makes too many cuts, then more cuts will have to be made in the Ovid-Elsie district.

Porrell indicated hard economic times and the recent financial uncertainties in the district might have been two reasons for the defeat.

"Now we need to keep a positive attitude and do the best we can with what we have to work with," he concluded.

St. Johns acquires industrial park site

ST. JOHNS-At long last the St. Johns City Commissioner's goal of an Industrial Park has become a reality. The five commissioners voted, Monday night, to purchase a 20.65 acre site on the north side of the city, fronting on US-27 and Walker Road, adjacent to the Department of Public Works and the Wastewater Treatment plant.

The city obtained an option on the land last June but held off approval to purchase because of a concern on the status of Federal Revenue Sharing and a fear that money would not be available if the Tisch Amendment passed.

Work program saves money

More than $10 million was "earned back" or saved last fiscal year as a result of work projects for state General Assistance recipients and benefit sanctions for those who were able to work but refused, Michigan

Department of Social Services personnel have announced.

In Clinton County alone, welfare recipients worked 1,082 hours last month which are compiled at $3.50 an hour. Local Social Services Director George Eberhart said there is no doubt as to the success of the program.

Workers here are placed through the Clinton Development Corporation, a CETA program, that finds work for them with public municipalities, the county and area schools. They do such jobs as brush cutting, cleaning ditches, painting of public buildings, and leaf removing. They have done jobs at Sleepy Hollow State park and the Community Living Center. There are positions in the Child Care room at Social Services in St. Johns. All the jobs are additional, according to Eberhart who said the work project employees cannot replace a regular position. "They do the additional things the county can't afford to do," he explained. An additional benefit is that it keeps the recipients themselves in the work world and sometimes helps make them eligible for a regular or CETA job.

Eberhart said the program's biggest problem is to find placements in all parts of the county as some of the recipients do not have transportation.

This month, 29 people reported, 24 are working, 3 are excused and 10 did not comply so they lost benefits.

Looking at the work relief program figures for the state, the Michigan Department of Social Services reported that the estimated value of work actually performed by General Assistance clients plus the amount of money not spent on grants to those who did not report for work totalled $10,562,752.

These recipients were assigned jobs on 7,823 work projects around the state between October 1979 and September 1980.

Recipients are asked to work sufficient hours each month at a prevailing wage (usually at or above minimum wage) for the job until the value of the grant is "earned". The average grant last year was about $189 per month.

Some 18,519 clients who were determined capable of working but who refused to participate in the jobs program had their cases closed during the last fiscal year.

Another 2,445 GA clients entered regular jobs during the same 12 months and left the welfare rolls.

Through the woods

Nothing could be more appropriate on a Thanksgiving Day than Grandpa and Grandma taking the kids for a wagon ride with frisky Doll and Velvet. These ponies are kept and loved on the Ron Hubbard farm on East Marshall Road because horses once helped farm this land. With Ron and Mona Hubbard in the wagon she gave him recently as a 25th wedding anniversary gift, are grandchildren, Sherry and Katina Green and friend, Jan Smith. These ponies "work beautifully together" according to Hubbard who uses them for Sunday rides around the farm.

I-69 bids postponed because of money

CLINTON COUNTY-Uncertainty over the availability of funds has prompted a change in the proposed letting of bids for construction on 3.7 miles of Interstate 69 Freeway in Clinton County.

Earlier, Michigan Department of Transportation spokesmen said bids would be taken last week for the 3.7 mile project, including construction of five bridges and paving. Estimated cost for the entire project, extending from I-96 east to Airport Road, was $14 million.

"In view of some uncertainty of available funds at the state level, and some question of obligational authority at the federal level, we believe it more desirable at this time to break up the project into a number of smaller projects," a news release from MDOT announced.

The project is to continue with bids for the bridge construction to be taken early next year. Bids on the freeway work will be postponed until later in 1981.

The 3.7 miles of the new I-69 Freeway extends north of Grand River Avenue and west of Francis Road in Watertown Township, northeast to just east of Airport Road in DeWitt Township and is to adjoin a project now under construction from US-27 west to Airport Road. The five bridges include a two-span plate girder to carry Airport Road over I-69; four-span plate girder to carry Lowell Road over I-69; three-span plate girder to carry westbound I-69 over a new connector road from I-69; three-span plate girder to carry eastbound I-69 over the new connector road from I-96 and a six span plate girder to carry Francis Road over both the eastbound and west bound lanes of the new connector from I-96.

Santa arrives Dec. 5

ST. JOHNS-The St. Johns Chamber of Commerce and civic groups have put together a gift package of Christmas activities, they call "Hometown Christmas".

They start with Santa's arrival, Friday, Dec. 5 in the Jaycee's Santa Claus Parade at 7 p.m. featuring the winners of the Chamber coloring contest.

In a special Chamber sponsored ceremony the giant tree on the courthouse lawn will be lit and caroling will follow.

A city firetruck will take Santa to the Municipal Building after the parade where he will greet visitors. Later in month on Dec. 9, 10, 11, 16, 17 and 18, he will hold court at Capitol Savings and Loan's community room.

The jolly old elf will also be in town on Saturday, Dec. 6 and Saturday, Dec. 13 to have lunch with area children at the Jaycettes "Lunch with Santa" program from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Municipal Building.

Free movies are scheduled for children at Clinton Theatre so parents can go shopping, on Dec. 6 and 13 from 1 to 3 p.m. Tickets are available from downtown merchants.

Watch the downtown windows after Thanksgiving to see special displays to put strollers and shoppers in the Christmas mood for a "Hometown holiday."

SJ school board reviews principalship

ST. JOHNS-The board of education here was to meet in a special session last night to review and act on Superintendent Donald Burn's recommendations for the principalship vacancy at Eureka and Perrin-Palmer Elementary Schools.

The vacancy occurred, Nov. 4, when former principal J. Michael O'Connor was killed in an automobile-tractor collision as he traveled between the two schools.

A total of nine candidates from both inside and outside the school district have been interviewed for a combination of positions asked for by the board. Administrative Assistant Gordon Vandemark said the board asked for two options, two teaching prin-cipalships which would combine a kindergarten teaching position with a half-time principalship, and a full time position such as held by O'Connor.

Of the nine applicants, three are from outside of the school district, Vandemark said.

Also on the agenda for last night's meeting were presentations by two of the three architectural firms under final consideration by the board for the task of renovating and preserving Central Elementary School.

The firms, Steenwyk-Thrall Architects, Inc. of Grand Rapids and Freeman and Smith Architects, Inc., of Lansing, have both had experience in remodeling existing schools.

Museum is ready for Christmas

ST JOHNS—Paine-Gillam-Scott Museum is being decked out by volunteer workers bringing a Victorian Christmas to Clinton County starting Sunday, Nov. 30 and running through Wednesday, Jan. 7.

The historical museum, a project of the Clinton County Historical Society will be open for touring on Wednesdays from 2 to 8 p.m. and Sundays from noon until 4 p.m. Wednesday's activities include candlelight tours during the evening hours with special Christmas music. Exhibits include a cedar Victorian Christmas tree and toys, antique dolls, Victorian silver and Christmas postcards. A reproduction Victorian doll house will make up a unique display and demonstrations of old fashioned paper ornaments will be given on Sundays.

Wednesday evening features of special music and a tour by candlelight will also include a "Magic Lantern" slide presentation. The "Magic Lantern" was a very popular toy of Victorian times, manufactured from 1890 to 1910. It was lighted with an oil lamp in a chimney tower; slides were hand painted scenes on glass. The music presentations will be "Carols by Candlelight" by the Lowe Methodist Church choir on Dec. 3; The St. Johns High School string quartet on Dec. 10 and a strings and woodwind ensemble on Dec. 17.

Guests will see many new improvements in the Paine-Gillam-Scott House Museum, located across from the Clinton County Courthouse in St. Johns. The kitchen restoration is nearing completion including the fireplace discovered under the plaster of the west wall. The new wallpaper in this room is in the same brick red and tan colors of a piece found under the plaster and believed to be the first used in the home. The cupboards, which were stripped of many coats of paint have been repainted and will be filled with special displays. Old latches and handles have been found to match the style of the times. More than 3,500 volunteer hours have gone into the restoration project at the historical museum and continue. The museum is staffed and directed by volunteers and displays and decorating projects still involve community members. The organ was recently restored by volunteer, Leslie McConkey, a county resident from Shepardsville who collects and restores organs as a hobby.

Families interested in an intriguing Christmas experience will find one at the museum on both Wednesdays and Sundays, viewing a Christmas past. There is no charge to tour the museum but donations are welcome and help with upkeep and the acquisition of new display items.

There will be no tours on Wednesday, Dec. 24 and the museum will be open on Wednesday, Dec. 31 from 2 to 5 p.m. only.

For special tour groups, contact Directors John and Catherine Rumbaugh, 425 Meadowview Dr., St. Johns.

Volunteers indispensable to social services

ST JOHNS—When Social Services Volunteer director Hugh Banninga looks over his records for the past year he finds Clinton County volunteers giving $46,420 worth of services to the program.

The $46,420 figure is from legislative terms which counts $10 for each hour of volunteer work. Banninga's 77 volunteers spent 4,642 hours working for social services clients and programs last year. They provided services above and beyond what social service workers are able to do. "They have helped a lot of people in basic ways," Banninga said. "They have shown a lot of friendship, caring and concern for the people they serve and they aren't getting paid one dollar," he said. The reports Banninga gets back from clients about volunteers is "warm and terrific" he said. The volunteer program allows Social Services to offer "so much more at no cost," Banninga reported.

These amazing and giving people are providing child care both at the Social Services offices in Uncle Huey's Romper Room and at the Family Center Parent Education classes, they serve as parent aides and work with families who have abused or neglected their children, they perform clerical services, doing paper work and setting up appointments. Volunteer drivers took children to camp at Youth Haven for winter weekends and summer camping. Drivers also volunteer to pick people up and take them to medical appointments and grocery shopping. Other drivers have volunteered to pick up and deliver furniture to needy families.

A special volunteer service is the "Friendly Visitors" who visit one or two people on a regular basis who are confined to area nursing and adult foster care homes in the county. The friendly visitor is visiting people who do not have any regular visitations from family or friends.

Banninga's list goes on and on, including a middle aged volunteer who provides housing for battered spouses and another who acts as a third party payee and takes care of an elderly woman's financial business.

There are volunteers who collect, organize and pass out clothing at the clothing center and make arrangements for the Volunteers of America to pick up the surplus.

Someone knits hats for children and someone else helped distribute materials for food stamp outreach all over the county. Banninga's volunteers do home repairs like skirting a trailer for a needy person or painting.

During the summer teen volunteers helped at the Drop-in Center where nutritious meals are served and held special parties at the Community Living Center. They also went to nursing homes and adult foster care homes in St. Johns.

Donations also come into Social Services, over the past year from 140 individuals and 13 groups, giving an estimated $5,886.

Banninga said the clothing center services up to 25 clients a month and the Romper Room at least 20 children a week. Transportation requests average 15 a week.

Volunteer services at the department are still growing under Banninga's guidance. His latest program is a special two hour program every week for people from Adult Foster Care homes in the county. About 11 people have started coming to the get togethers at the Senior Drop-in Center for socialization and exercises. "It's just an attempt to get them out of the home and let them meet others who are in the same situation that they are," Banninga explained. Special programs, such as arts and crafts and films are planned for these days which will continue until bad weather sets in.

Just starting is a blanket bank that the director said will fill many needs. He is also planning to start an emergency food bank so food would be available at a moment's notice.

Volunteerism is helping Social Services all over the state of Michigan, according to Banninga.

Our Opinion

Protest new farm labor rules

Many local farms, especially family farms, depend heavily on the work of youths. That could be taken away if the Michigan Department of Labor has its way with proposed state farm youth safety standards.

Citizens will have a final opportunity to comment on the new standards at a public hearing scheduled for Thursday, Dec. 4 in Lansing.

The proposed standards, which the department wants to replace federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) rules, have been opposed by a long list of safety experts. Among the opponents are a Michigan State University Cooperative Extension safety specialist, the Michigan Department of Labor's own Agricultural Labor Commission and the manager of the Michigan Agricultural Services Association.

The experts say the OSHA standards are sufficient and the proposed new standards would only contribute toward securing Michigan's place among states with the highest youth unemployment rates in the nation. In fact, MSU farm safety specialist Richard Pfister says that the new rules would virtually exclude 16 and 17-year olds from doing any productive farm work.

The federal standards governing employment of youth in agriculture have been in effect since 1970. The proposed standards would impose new rules on training, supervision and employment of youth.

Why the labor department is pressing for the new standards is mystifying. Five hearings last spring produced reams of testimony and correspondence overwhelmingly in favor of keeping OSHA rules.

Citizens can protest the proposed standards by registering to testify at 10 a.m. Thursday, Dec. 4 in Rooms 1B and C, Olin Baker West Building, Michigan Department of Health complex, 3500 N. Logan St., Lansing. Written comments should be mailed before Dec. 1 to the Wage Hour Division, Department of Labor, State Secondary Complex, Second Floor B-Wing, 7150 Harris Drive, Lansing, 48909.

It has become a cliché that government regulations are strangling the private sector. Actually, many regulations, including the present OSHA standards for farm youth employment, serve a needed role.

Examples like the proposed new state standards, however, give meaning to the cliché.

There's nothing like a pat on the back

There's nothing like being appreciated. Too often we don't appreciate ourselves or we are too close to a job or situation and too familiar with its failures and mistakes to see its achievements.

It happens here at the Clinton County News sometimes and it takes an invitation to a warm and friendly meeting and the presentation of a handsome appreciation plaque to get us back on the track again. That's what happened at the St. Johns Lions Club's Professional Night earlier this month when they said thank you and paid tribute to 14 community business people.

It was a simple dinner featuring a stimulating program on the economy. The Lions thank you plaques went home with representatives from The Briggs Co., Krogers, Andy's, Bee's, Federal Mogul, Capitol Savings and Loan, the city of St. Johns, St. Johns Oil Co., the Wheel Inn, the Chamber of Commerce, The Reminder and the Clinton County News.

A thank you doesn't have to be in the form of a walnut and bronze plaque. It can be a simple phone call or a swift note. They all do the same thing - warm our hearts and keep us plunging on.

I realized recently how much those appreciation tokens mean. In the midst of our production change overs, mistakes and disappointments have too often taken the front seat and dampened our attitudes. Positive responses both in the form of thank you calls and notes and in simple understanding and forgiveness for mistakes, have bolstered our spirits and made us determined to carry on.

This column is a Thanksgiving thank you for your thank yous. They help keep us in perspective and realizing what we are all about at the Clinton County News. While we must face the reality that this is indeed a business and it is the advertising dollar that keeps us in the news end of the business, our goal as an editorial staff is to provide Clinton County with a blend of community information and people related features.

In January the style and format of the Clinton County News is going to change and we'll be telling you more about that during December. Now, at Thanksgiving, we issue a special thanks to all of you who appreciate us, all of you who call us and let us know what's happening, all of you who support and help us better serve the county community.

"The whole idea of the Industrial Park is that it is going to act as a stimulus and provide more jobs and bring more money into the area," Mayor John Arehart said.

The park has been a three year dream of commissioner Richard Starck whose campaign platform was the city's need of more of tax base, more jobs, more industry. He has worked actively with the non-profit Industrial Development Corporation set up by the city to institute the project. They have investigated proposed layouts, potential industries and the feasibility of receiving a federal grant to assist in development of the park. Starck said obtaining the site would give the city a better chance at grants, saying that they would not even be considered without an actual site.

"Given the competition for industries in Michigan we are at a disadvantage if we don't have an industrial park," Arehart said.

The city is purchasing the $295,000 piece of land from Mid-Michigan Investments of Lansing. Payment calls for a down payment of $20,000 with annual payments thereafter. The closing is scheduled to be held the first part of December.

Arehart explained that it is the intention of the Industrial Development Corporation to sell parcels to industries, using the sale money to pay off the balance of the contract as to not burden the city's general fund. The largest payment is to come in the fifth and final year of the contract, Arehart explained. He said the city will be able to pay off the contract out of general funds if parcels are not sold.

The city's goal for an Industrial Park centers mostly around concern that the local tax base is too heavily residential. At present, Arehart said, St. Johns is dependent on residents for 60 percent of its taxes with business and industry providing only 40 percent. "We would like to turn those figures around," he said.

Starck said the purchase of the site takes the Industrial Development Corporation "a little further along the road." The next steps will be to aggressively solicit small industries to move into the area.

City Manager Randy Humphrey said an additional benefit of obtaining the site was its location next to the city's DPW and Wastewater plant, which gives the city room to expand for park-

Chamber notes

It's a hometown Christmas

Remember when you were a child and some of the most exciting time before Christmas was spent looking at the lights and displays in store windows? The things in those windows were exotic and wonderful. I especially remember, the electric train sets. To see those brightly colored engines shooting in and out of their tunnels and over the bridges was the first sign that Christmas was really on its way. This year the Retail Committee of the Chamber of Commerce is encouraging window decorations along these lines with the theme of "Hometown Christmas." Many of the Christmas activities planned for this year reinforce this idea.

The trees on Clinton Avenue will be lit Nov. 28, the day after Thanksgiving and the next Friday, Dec. 5. Santa will come to town leading the Santa Claus Parade. The lucky winners of the Chamber of Commerce Coloring Contest will be riding right along with Santa and will enjoy the parade from a front row seat.

After the parade the entire community is invited to come up to the Courthouse lawn for an old fashioned sing around the Christmas tree. The caroling will be led by the Jaycees and will highlight the lighting of the Christmas tree and Nativity Scene.

Santa will be back in town on Dec. 9, 10 and 11 and the next week on 16, 17 and 18, from 6:30 p.m. and 8 p.m. to talk with children. The Jaycees have invited Santa to come for lunch on Dec. 6 and Dec. 13, so don't forget. Lunch with Santa is coordinated with Free Movies which will run from 1 to 3 p.m. and 3 to 5 p.m. on those same Saturdays. Children may pick up their free movie passes at any Chamber of Commerce member business.

Participating merchants will be holding drawings in individual stores and prize winners will be selected, Dec. 20.

The spirit of Christmas is peace, fellowship and goodwill and with the activities planned for the coming weeks here in St. Johns, we hope everyone will share in the warmth and glow of the season and this "hometown's" Christmas.

Care Center News and Views

By Jeanne Rand

The Clinton Area Care Center board of directors met with the architect, Davenport Associates, last week to approve final drawings and specifications for the new nursing home to be located on Scott Road.

The final approval is another giant step forward, as those plans represent months of concentrated work by countless people.

Farmers Home Administration requires, as one of their conditions of loan, that a management overseer, representing the corporation be hired. Norman Radamacher, a local builder has been selected to fill this position. Radamacher is highly respected in the building trades in Clinton County. His duties for the Care Center will require that he inspect the project on a daily basis during construction.

SENIOR CITIZEN UPDATE

By Sharon Randall

By Ruth Delo

How many people?

"Come, ye thankful people, come." Those are the words of a song, but they say what Thanksgiving is all about.

If you remember history you will know the Pilgrims were the start of Thanksgiving Day. They were so grateful for the bountiful harvest that they decided to have a great feast and invite the Indians, with whom they had become friends. Wild turkey has become tradition for this day. Many families now prefer other meats but the majority of people still have turkey.

We should be so thankful for what we have. What other nation has more freedom and abundance than we, in these United States, have? A dream fulfilled? The abundance of food available to us? Be thankful for the right to live and be happy here.

It's true nothing is perfect, but think of all you have to be thankful for. If you don't believe this just start a list; one list for the good things in your life and another list for the bad things. Try it and you will see that very soon the "good list" is getting longer and longer. Another song is brought to mind, "Count your Blessings."

So many nations have been ravished by war and so far we are so fortunate to have had our country safe. Yes, we had the Civil War, but no other country has come within our boundaries for many, many years. Thankful? Oh, yes!!

Many of you know that one of my most cherished thoughts is help a lonely person. Now at Thanksgiving time, let this be a goal of yours. When you are preparing your Thanksgiving dinner, make plans with a lonely person to take their dinner to them, include them in your group, or somehow make this their "Thanksgiving" Day also. You will find it's a most gratifying thing to do.

My plans are not as yet made for Thanksgiving, but I don't need to worry, as I've told you before, the Rudy family will include me in their plans. What a nice feeling it is to know that someone (outside my own family) really cares. I won't be lonely. That's a big "I" thanks.

Be thankful for everything and praise God. So.....until next time.

Mother, daughter make an award winning team

By Jean Martin

Winning awards is nothing new to Marie Thelen and her family; but when 12 year old Sandy got a phone call from New York a few weeks ago, other family projects had to take a back seat for a while. It seems that Sandy had taken first place in her class in the nationwide sewing contest sponsored by the Grange.

"I think I was just as excited as she was," recalled Marie. Sandy had originally made her dress and coat outfit for a 4-H project with the idea of entering it in the Grange contest also.

There are certain specific requirements for Grange entries, according to Sandy. For instance Symplicity patterns must be used because such companies are interested sponsors and donate special prizes of their own to contest winners.

Among the prizes Sandy collected when she went to Cedar Rapids, Iowa to receive her awards were a black and white television and one of Singer's new computerized sewing machines.

Sandy is especially taken with the new sewing machine. "The lady who presented the machine to me showed me how it works," she said. "I like the decorative stitches."

Sandy says that she likes the heart pattern best, but Marie said that Sandy can make the little train run along the fabric on either side of the track. This impresses even Marie who is herself an excellent seamstress.

"I've been in Grange since I was 14," said Marie. "Before that I started in Junior Grange when I was five."

She and her family have always been members of the Olive Grange.

The grange movement, which seems to be weaker in central Michigan than in most parts of the country, is the oldest farm organization in the country. According to Marie, membership in the Grange gives young and old alike the chance to use their talents in art, photography, music, public speaking, and arts and crafts as well as in sewing.

"I really promote the sewing contest in the Grange," commented Marie.

One of her favorite sewing projects is the annual stuffed toy contest. This year, under her direction, 2824 toys were made in Michigan to be donated to handicapped children.

This year Marie also received another national award, an engraved silver tray in recognition of her work as women's activities director.

"They name one a year, and I'm the one," she said simply.

The family has also been active in 4-H. Marie has been a sewing, knitting, and macrame leader in the Bengal Community 4-H club and recently received an award for 15 years of service.

While she is qualified to teach home economics on the college level, Marie has only substituted at MSU from time to time.

"I guess I was just too busy having kids to teach full time," she laughed.

Those kids include Steve, now 26; Vickie, 25; Debbie 24; Doug, 20; Jim 18; and Sandy 12. Vickie is married and has a new baby girl. Debbie, who won best of show in the National Grange sewing contest in 1978, is now in Europe; and Jim is in California working for a florist and waiting for the surf to come up. Only Sandy, who is in the seventh grade, is still living at home.

Marie tried to remember some of the other activities in which she had been involved over the years. Finally she got out her 1966 edition of "Outstanding Young Women of America" in which she is listed.

Marie has always been active in church work and has served St. Joseph's Parish as president of both the Rosary Altar Society and St. Patricia's guild. For years she helped organize the annual garage sale. She also served a term on the Parish Council as head of the Christian Service Commission. She and her husband Alvin have served as a husband and wife commentator team during Sunday masses.

Within the diocese she has served as president of Catholic Women on the deanery level and just left the diocesan board of Catholic Women.

"I was slated to become president, but I had to pass it up when this cancer thing came along," she explained.

The cancer thing Marie refers to is cancer of the lymph glands that was discovered last spring.

"It was kind of ridiculous," she began. "I was going into the hospital for a little corrective surgery when I happened to discover a small nodule on my neck. I thought it was nothing, but the surgeon decided to take a biopsy anyway."

"When they told me what it was," she continued, "I thought the bottom of the world had dropped out."

"Then I came home and called all of my relatives and decided the world would go on," she smiled.

Marie learned of her cancer on March 11 and began treatments on March 27.

"I never had any of the seven warning signals of cancer," Marie said. "I just want to tell people never to ignore anything unusual because these things have to be stopped early. They should get right to the doctor."

As of now the chemotherapy treatments are continuing.

"I may get it into remission, but I'll never be free of it," she commented.

"When it first came out, the doctors didn't know anything about it," she commented. "I think that's why so many people are still so afraid of cancer."

"I felt right from the beginning that if I could I wanted to help someone else. I wanted to help educate people about cancer," she concluded.

DeWitt teen skates her way to Holiday on Ice

By Sue Kiley White

DEWITT CITY—Two years ago Shelly Kruger had her sights set for the Olympics. Now, as she enters her second semester as a senior in high school, Shelly has set her sights on a different goal. In June of 1981, Shelly Kruger will become a professional ice skater.

About three weeks ago, Ms. Kruger tried out for spot on the Holiday on Ice skating team. She won the position with ease and now must play the waiting game until June.

"My mind was strictly set on going to college after I stopped skating pairs," she said. "Then one of my friends told me I might like skating professionally so I gave it a try."

Shelly had her try-out at about 10 p.m. after one of the Holiday on Ice performances held in Lansing a month ago. Her routine included stroking in all directions, some fancy foot work, bracketing and then some free style skating.

"Three people were watching me as I skated," she said. "I just did what I wanted to do...some spins and jumps. I was really excited."

The young woman is not really sure what happens next. All she really knows is that she'll be skating in the line to start and will be a member of one of three companies. Her base, she thinks, will be in Colorado.

"My dad is really happy for me," she said. "My mom isn't too excited about it though because I won't be home very much."

Mrs. Kruger is the one who really got Shelly started in skating. Being a former roller skater, Mrs. Kruger felt her young daughter should have an outside interest also. Shelly began her skating career at age eight.

The only time in the beginning that she could use a skating rink was at Michigan State University from midnight to 2 a.m. on weekends. The hard work and long hours paid off however.

Two years ago Shelly and her partner Christopher Bushell qualified for the Midwestern Figure Skating Championships in Colorado Springs in the junior pairs division. That was when she had dreams of going to the Olympics.

"Everyone has their mind on the Olympics at one time or another," she said with a new kind of maturity. "This is more of a reality, than the Olympics could ever be."

Skating professionally means a lot of hard and long hours of practice, staying in motels, eating out, and growing up. For Shelly this will be her first time away from home.

Right now she really isn't sure what she wants to do with her life. So getting out on her own and taking a year to think seems to be the best thing to do at this point.

Already she is thinking how she can become a skating soloist or be an understudy for pairs. Skating the line won't be good enough for Shelly after a while.

Shelly has achieved a gold medal in pairs and a gold medal in dance. She is presently working on her gold medal in freestyle skating practicing an hour a day after school.

Most of her friends are excited about her new venture and can't wait for Shelly to skate in Lansing so they can come to watch. The only one who isn't too happy about her pending career is her boyfriend.

Gene Heffron, a former professional skater, has been Shelly's coach for the past seven years. He thinks the move to the professionals, "will be good for her."

Right now Ms. Kruger is classified as an amateur. However, once she starts getting paid for her work, she becomes a professional...instantly.

Working for Holiday on Ice will give the high school senior the credits she needs if she ever decides to teach or coach skating. It might even lead her into becoming a physical therapist.

However, for right now, Shelly Kruger has her mind set on one thing...skating in the big leagues.

Music study attracts members

ST. JOHNS—Seventeen members of St. Johns Morning Musicales met at the home of Mrs. Roy Briggs on Thursday, Nov. 20. The president Mrs. Richard Jacoby, conducted the business meeting and then introduced Mrs. Lloyd Campbell as honorary chairman of the day, in recognition of her presidency during 1963-64 and also in 1979-80. Mrs. Campbell shared information about the history and background of the bagpipe, before welcoming Fred Lewis, District Court Judge and bagpiper. The bagpipe is one of the oldest known instruments, and it is said that Nero played upon one in ancient Rome. The most familiar type, played by the Scottish Highlanders, consists of an airtight leather bag which the player fills with wind blown through a blow pipe. The wind is then forced through reed pipes. One of the pipes called the chanter provides melody. The other pipes called drones, are each pitched into a single note.

According to Judge Lewis, the pipes are a "cussed instrument" with a mind of their own. Tuning is very critical for each piper. It is not a fun instrument, and is extremely difficult to learn to play well. Piping really knows no ethnic boundaries, although we tend to think of it as Scottish. Actually they are used by everyone from the Yugoslavs to the Normans of France. The visiting piper played examples of several types of pipe music.

The influence of nature upon music was the next topic of discussion. Composers in all periods of music have derived many ideas from nature, and have provided the central ideas for operas, ballets, symphonies, hymns and countless songs of both a classical and popular nature. Mrs. Briggs performed Troika, Tchaikovsky, which depicts a Russian carriage or sleigh being drawn through the snow by horses. This is typical of a great myriad of works written for piano.

Completing the program were hymns sung by the entire group, which depicted nature. Included in the selections were Fairest Lord Jesus, For the Beauty of the Young performers are eligible for training

CLINTON CO-County young people, ages 13 to 18, have a unique opportunity to become part of a performing arts program, "4-H and the Arts" and they do not have to be a 4-H member.

Extension 4-H Youth Agent Theresa Dow Silm said the innovative new program is an off shoot of a pilot run last year through a grant through Michigan Council for the Arts.

"All you need is an interest in dance, drama, or vocal music," she said, to participate in the series of intensive workshops to be held across the state. Instructors for the workshops are professional artists-performers-educators from all over Michigan who volunteer to share their time with budding young performers.

Last year this group known as the "Wizard of Arts," performed at Exploration Days and at Fairs all over the state. The public responded with dozens of standing ovations.

The first workshop begins in December. Those interested should contact Mrs. Silm at the Extension office, 224-3288.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Bailey

Michelle English marries Eric Bailey

St. Joseph Catholic Church, St. Johns was the setting for the Oct. 18, 1980 afternoon wedding of Michelle Julyann English and Eric Allen Bailey in a ceremony performed by the Rev. Father Louis Martin.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicky Knight and the late Chester English. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Chant and the late Menlo Bailey.

David Wiseman, organist and Anne Holm, soloist, provided the music with "Longer," "Wedding Song" and "We Too".

The bride's father, Nicky Knight, gave her in marriage during the double ring ceremony. She chose a gown of nylon over tafetta with a high neckline and ruffled lace trimmed bodice featuring sheer bishop sleeves with dainty lace and ruffled cuffs.

The skirt had an empire waist and led to a cathedral train ending in lace and ruffles. A matching walking length veil with identical lace trimming was worn. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, pink sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

The maid of honor was Teresa Barker, of St. Johns, a student at Western Michigan University, friend of the bride. Bridesmaids were the bride's sister, Melinda English, her aunts, Deb French of St. Johns and Phyllis Ochis of San Angelo, Texas, and friends, Sheryl Brussel and Bonnie Myers. Shannon Lynn French, a cousin, was flower girl.

Miss Barker wore a gown of dusty rose and the other attendants were gowned in rose mauve. The dresses were knit with a yoke bodice of hand embroidered French lace. The flower girl wore a white gown with a square neckline trimmed in lace. Pink bows were featured at the sleeves, neckline and waist.

All attendants wore picture hats with white French lace on the brim and a silk rose trim. The flower girl wore daisies and baby's breath in her hair with pink ribbons flowing down the back. The maid of honor carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations, white daisy breath, The bridesmaids carried similar bouquets.

The bride's mother chose a light blue gown with matching jacket and a wrist corsage of stephanotis, blue roses and baby's breath. The groom's mother wore a yellow knit dress with a flowing chiffon cape. Her corsage was of yellow roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Best man was Greg Hunt of DeWitt assisted by Kevin

Bailey, brother of the groom, John Mueller, Bart Frayer, Jeff Motz and Tim Beaufore all from St. Johns as groomsmen. Matt Halitsky of St. Johns was ring bearer.

Ushers were Jeff and Gary Chant, brothers of the groom and Bill Hendershot and Jason Wilberding, cousins of the bride.

A dinner and dance at St. Joseph gym was held later in the evening. The dinner was prepared by the bride's Godfather, Tobe Castner. Attending the guest book was Marylou Hendershot, Godmother of the bride and Jim Gorsline, friend of the bride and groom.

The bride's five great-aunts, Jeanette Durbin, Kay Myers, Joann Brunner, Ellen Pfeuffer and Doris Bauman served the bridal table. Helping at the reception were also Laurie McNamara, Marcia Geller, Susan Chant, Lori Thelen, Cindy Knight, Jan Whitford, Cora Price, Dorothy Ashenfelter, Shirley Rasmussen and Connie Hankins.

Host and hostesses were Shirley and Tobe Castner and Shirley and Adam Bailey.

Special guests were the bride's uncle, John Burch from Germany, and Sheryl Pfeuffer from Las Vegas, cousin of the bride.

The couple went to Florida for a wedding trip and now make their home at 1009 S. Lansing St., St. Johns. They are both St. Johns High School graduates.

Why not give your teenager an extension phone for Christmas?

Seems teenagers will do anything to get a little privacy on the phone. So give them their privacy—for Christmas. Just give your GTE business office a call and order the Styleline® phone that goes best with little Larry's beanbag furniture. Or Charlotte's mess. The price of privacy is much less than you'd expect.

Pewamo Elementary School's third graders learned by experience what it was like to work like a Pilgrim child. Churning butter and grinding corn are l to r, Darrin Heckman, Judy Williams, Eddie Conley, Vicki Vanzee, Adam Franklin and Veronica Schrauben.

Pewamo students live like Pilgrim children

PEWAMO-Third graders at Pewamo Elementary School have a better idea of what it must have been like to be a Pilgrim child during the time of our first Thanksgiving.

They have spent the last week, dressed in paper bonnets, aprons, hats and cuffs, planning their own meal which is to be served today by their teacher, Mrs. Kathie McDonald and her grandmother, Mrs. Catherine Shepard of Eagle.

What the student's also learned was how Pilgrim children worked all day, helping their parents in Plymouth. They know that it was a child's job to turn the meat spit, shoo the birds from the cornfields and make butter with a churn. They have been churning their own butter, this week with cream provided by Mrs. Ronald VanZee. Field corn was ground between two rocks, making corn flour for the cornbread, just like the Indians did.

St. Joseph children hold bountiful feast

By Matt Wilcox

On Fri., Nov. 21 at St. Joseph School in St. Johns the third and fourth division with their teacher Miss Susan Houser celebrated a Thanksgiving dinner. The 27 students got together to have a feast and to dress up like Indians and Pilgrims. Their dinner was just like the one the Pilgrims had 280 years ago. We celebrate Thanksgiving in memory of these true Americans.

Michael Palmer and Kevin Gross (Running Bear), fourth year students at St. Joseph School, enjoy the Thanksgiving dinner the class planned together with their teacher Susan Houser.

The members of Den 1 performed a version of the "Legend of Sleepy Hollow" which was especially adapted for the group from the original Washington Irving story. The cast included Dale Feldpausch, Ben Huton, and Kevin Gross as narrators; Patrick McNamara as Brom Bones, Tommy Burkhardt as Ichabod Crane, and T. J. Martin as Baltus VanTassell. Charlie Langlois and Mike Feldpausch were responsible for set design and special effects.

P-W loses cliff hanger to LCC 28-27

P-W's Patty Spencer prepares to toss in a short jumper early in the fourth quarter in the 28-27 loss to LCC Monday night.

The contest was one which could have gone in either direction, as both teams missed out on numerous occasions during the game's final four minutes.

A baseline shot by Lansing Catholic Central's Kathy McCauley with just over four minutes to play in Monday night's district game with Pewamo-Westphalia, hardly seemed as though it would prove to be the difference. However, her bucket put the Cougars on top 28-27 and that's the way it remained.

Both ball clubs had plenty of opportunities to put more points on the board, but time after time each came away empty.

Early on, it became evident P-W was a step quicker than LCC as the Pirate half-court trap led to a pair of quick baskets, snapping a 2-2 tie.

Catholic Central answered with two straight field goals of its own, making it 6-6.

Shawn Thelen put P-W back on top with a bucket and was fouled in the process. Her free throw was no good, but 12 seconds later, Therese Simon stole the ball and went in for a layup.

LCC's Mary Sue Stornant brought her team back within two, before Donna Heckman found the mark with a beautiful baseline move for the Pirates.

Jane Cotter upped the lead to six, but McCauley banked home a shot with one tick left on the first quarter clock.

The Pirates turned cold in stanza number two and were able to score only three points. The Cougars scored eight in the period to go on top 18-17.

The lead could have been bigger, however LCC missed the front end of one and one free throw situations twice in the final minute. One of the fouls which gave the Cougars an opportunity was charged to Simon. The foul was the P-W leader's third and came with just 10 seconds left in the half.

The first four minutes following intermission were nightmarish for both teams. Neither scored until Simon hit a shot with 3:45 showing on the clock, putting P-W ahead 19-18.

Simon's bucket seemed to awaken the Cougars as they scored six straight points, to claim a 24-19 advantage after three.

Patty Spencer found the mark half a minute into the final quarter, cutting the lead to 24-21. Heckman followed with another Pirate basket and was fouled on the play. Her free throw attempt which would have tied it was no good.

P-W eventually took the lead on a basket by Cotter, but McCauley's shot proved to be the difference when both teams missed out on several chances in the end.

Pirate coach Bonnie Somero called time out with 1:38 showing on the clock, to discuss defensive strategies. The talk almost paid off when Cotter came up with a big steal 33 seconds later.

P-W held onto the ball, until taking another time out with 38 seconds to play. The ball was inbounded, but a shot by Cotter with 28 seconds remaining was off the mark and LCC came away with it.

Again the aggressive Pirate defense paid off as Spencer tied up a Cougar player, forcing a jump. P-W controlled the tap, however Simon was called for travelling amongst a scramble of bodies.

With just two seconds left, Simon picked up her fifth foul, sending Stornant to the line. P-W placed three players in LCC's end of the court, leaving two underneath for a rebound in case of a missed free throw.

Stornant obliged by missing, but the Pirates were unable to get off a shot in time as the buzzer sounded, giving LCC a berth in the district championship game with Olivet.

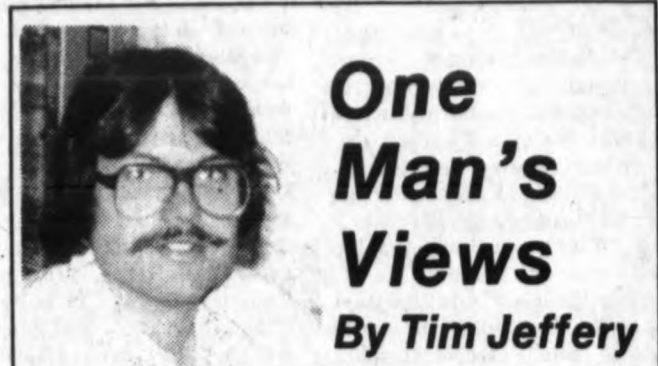

Heckman led P-W with nine points, while Simon totalled six. Spencer, Cotter and Thelen rounded out the Pirate scoring, netting four apiece. Heckman, only a junior and one who figures to be outstanding next year, was tops in rebounding with 12. Spencer was next with six.

For Catholic Central, McCauley paced the attack with 12 points. Eileen Kennedy was right behind her with eight.

The foul shooting by both teams was certainly nothing to write home about. Somero saw her team hit only 3 of 10 charity tosses (LCC was 0 for 5), which left her somewhat bewildered.

"I told the kids before the game our specific goals were to rebound well and to play defense. Then of course we had to put the ball in the hole, which we just weren't able to do. We missed so many chances at the free throw line," Somero stated.

The championship takes place tonight with LCC figuring to have its hands full against CMAC co-champion Olivet.

One Man's Views

By Tim Jeffery

The importance of playing tougher competition has again been brought to light during the girls' basketball tournaments. First, Fowler's football team benefited by winning two playoff games and reaching the state championship game, while on the other hand St. Johns' basketball team has suffered.

Flint Carmen competed in a much tougher league than the MMB, a league the Redwings waltzed through with a perfect record. This isn't to take anything away from Beth Swears and her tremendous ball club as even with the disappointing loss, the year was still a great one. However, Swears would be the first to admit the superior competition Carmen faced throughout the season was a big edge....DeWitt's girls also were helped by a tougher schedule in preparing for Maple Valley. The Panthers went into the contest at 9-9 after competing in a tough Capital Circuit race. The Maple Valley team carried a 15-4 slate prior to the clash with DeWitt, but the impressive record was compiled against lesser foes than those the Panthers had faced. The contest was close at times, but in the end DeWitt won going away.

Want an explanation for Houston's upset loss to the Jets Sunday? Last week the Oilers won a tough one against the Bears. Teams are now 3-7-1 in games played the week after facing the Bears. They may only be 4-8, but the Bears are notoriously a very physical team and often literally beat up their opponents. It's an interesting statistic and one that was even worse last year for team's who'd faced Chicago the week before....Kentucky is the early season favorite to win it in college basketball. The Wildcats may have the great Sam Bowie and back-to-back recruiting years that stand out, but Virginia has to be the most awesome team around. All five starters return from last year's NIT Champions, including the most dominant player in the college game, Ralph Sampson. Had he went pro, he'd surely be starting right now for the Boston Celtics.

With players such as Donna Heckman and Patty Theis to build a front court around, Bonnie Somero could have a powerful Pewamo-Westphalia girls' basketball team next year....Charlotte has indicated it won't play St. Johns in football next season, leaving a vacancy for the Redwing opener. DeWitt is in the same boat after its two-year agreement with Swan Valley expired. A DeWitt-St. Johns clash would be a beauty for fan interest, but as long as the Panthers are a Class C school and St. Johns is an "A", it won't happen. Too much to lose for St. Johns and too little to gain.

Why do I find myself hoping Dave Winfield signs with the Yankees and hits .220 with maybe 12 home runs? Probably because, he's trying to reconstruct the free agent draft process. Those teams Winfield wasn't interested in playing for received letters shortly before the draft was held, informing them he didn't care to sign with their particular organization. All he wants is $13 million, he's surely worth that drop in the bucket huh?...Michigan looked outstanding against Ohio State, but should have put more points on the board. Two questions come immediately to mind: On fourth down late in the contest, why doesn't Michigan elect to go for the field goal rather than take a delay of game penalty, then try a fake punt? They were up by six and three more would've iced it. One miracle play by the Buckeyes and everyone would've forgotten who won the battle of statistics.

The second question is: on Butch Woolfolk's halfback option pass that was picked off, why doesn't Allen Mitchell, the intended receiver come back for the ball the way all pass catchers are taught? He just stood there and watched the ball be intercepted.

A pair of fine girls' basketball coaches have indicated this will be their last year on the job. DeWitt's Dave O'Dell and Fulton's Bill Parker are calling it quits. Now maybe they'll be able to say more than just "hello and goodbye" to their families each day. Coaching takes up much more time than most people realize, which isn't to say O'Dell and Parker won't be sorely missed by their respective schools....Yes, rookies Larry Drew and Keith Herron are playing better every day for the Pistons and yes, they have their own first pick in the next NBA draft. They also have Kansas City's first choice. Players that will be amongst those Detroit can choose from include; Mark Aguirre, Albert King, Gene Banks, Steve Johnson, Kelly Tripuka, probably Ralph Sampson, Herb Williams, Mike McGee and several other stars. Now if they just don't pull another deal such as the one that sent a pair of first round choices to Boston for Bob McAdoo.

Flint Carmen stuns St. Johns

A season that only three days earlier, saw the St. Johns cagers move their mark to 16-0 came to a rather abrupt halt in Owosso Friday night. Facing a tough Flint Carmen team in the opening round of district play, the Redwings were ambushed 48-35.

Much of the credit must go to Carmen for an outstanding effort, but St. Johns suffered as poorly or poorer than at any time during the regular season.

The Redwings hit only 13 of 46 field goal tries which figures to a horrendous 28 percent, their worst effort of the year in that category. The 46 shots was also the fewest attempts of any game but one for the usually dominant Redwings.

Rebounding, a key to most of their 16 victories, was not to be on this particular evening. The Cougars out rebounded St. Johns 37-35.

After trailing by six after one quarter, the Redwings narrowed it to five at the intermission, then rallied to claim a five-point margin of their own after three stanzas.

Lori Kus, the 6-foot-3 standout for St. Johns, was plagued by foul trouble for much of the contest and eventually picked up her fifth and final foul with six minutes to play. From there it was all downhill for Beth Swear's ball club as Carmen outscored the Wings 21-5 during the fourth quarter.

Kus and Sue Pearsall took scoring honors for St. Johns with 11 points apiece. Denise Thelen and Anne Stafford each totaled five, while Kim Kloeckner finished with three.

Flint Carmen's outstanding center, Dana Johnson led all scorers with 16. Shelley Fox had 10, followed by Karen Hutchins with nine and Ann Zinn's seven.

Pearsall grabbed 11 rebounds to lead the Redwings. Stafford and Kus had nine caroms apiece. Johnson, in addition to leading all scorers, was chairman of the boards as well with 13 grabs.

The loss was a tough one for Swears and her troops, but the coach put the happenings into perspective. "The lack of pressure games during the season hurt us. Flint Carmen plays in a strong league and their record was not an indication of the ability of the team. They have five seniors who start and they all have plenty of experience," she stated.

Flint Carmen faces Flushing tonight in the title game.

Fowler girls lose to St. Pat's 57-48

The Fowler Eagles, hosting the districts, were eliminated Thursday night by Portland St. Patrick 57-48. Fowler led at halftime 28-24, but was unable to sustain the margin as Karen Kramer tossed in 19 points for the Shamrocks.

Quarter number three saw St. Pat's outscore Fowler 14-8 to take a 38-36 lead. The Shamrocks put 19 more on the board during the final stanza to record the victory.

A substantial edge in free throw shooting made the difference. Fowler had 15 chances, making eight. St. Pat's went to the line for 25 tries, connecting on 17.

The Eagles' fine senior guard, Jane Goerge led all scorers with 21 points. Goerge hit on all five of her charity tosses. Becky Klein added 19 to the Fowler cause, while Kay Snyder totaled eight.

In addition to Kramer's 19, the Shamrocks were paced by Carolyn Snitgen with 16 points and Lori Leik with 10.

DeWitt takes tough loss

By Tim Jeffery

The DeWitt Panthers gave it everything they had and then some in a big win over Maple Valley Thursday night and a tough 53-48 loss to Olivet Saturday night at Lansing Catholic Central in girls' basketball district action.

DeWitt came out hitting everything in the win over Maple Valley, a 15-4 team coming in. Jeanne Marriott hit her first three shots of the evening, while DeWitt as a whole connected on its first six and seven of its first eight. The Panthers led it at that time 14-5.

The lead reached 27-12 with 5:25 left in the second quarter, when Maple Valley, on the verge of being blown out, called time.

DeWitt saw its lead sliced just a bit before halftime, taking a 35-23 edge into the lockerroom.

Suzi Dalman, who would finish the night with 12 of 14 shooting from the floor, started the second half with a short jumper to make it a 14-point lead.

Maple Valley was determined not to be counted out however, as a series of Panther turnovers and miscues led to eight straight points and a brand new ball game.

Panther coach Dave O'Dell, not liking what he was witnessing called time with 4:47 showing on the third quarter clock.

During the next two and a half minutes, Maple Valley closed to within four, before Marriott, Dalman and Linda Noch hit successive baskets to again make it a 10-point lead. The period ended with DeWitt up 45-37.

The closest Maple Valley could come during the remainder of the contest was within seven as Dalman took charge before fouling out with 2:37 left. The Panthers coasted to a final margin of 61-43.

Dalman finished with 24 points while Marriott added 18 markers for the Panthers.

Two nights later against CMAC co-champion Olivet, the Panthers converted on only 12 of 24 free throws, while the Eagles made good on 21 of 26 tries. The huge difference in accuracy spelled defeat for DeWitt.

The Panthers jumped on top first and led throughout the first quarter, once 11-4, before Dalman's jumper with two seconds left in the period made it 14-8.

A Noch bucket and a free throw by Dalman upped the lead to 17-8, however DeWitt already began finding itself in foul trouble with Dalman picking up her third with 5:14 left in the half. Jennifer Pritchard connected on both charity tosses to narrow the gap to 19-16.

Marriott scored four straight points for DeWitt to push the margin back to seven, before Olivet came back with five unanswered points.

Pritchard, the Olivet center picked up her third foul with 3:23 remaining in the stanza, causing her to sit down.

Noch hit a 15-footer with 1:48 on the clock to make it 25-21, but then picked up a costly foul with only one tick left in the half. The foul was Noch's third.

The Eagles scored the first nine points in the third quarter to go up by five 30-25. DeWitt closed back to within one with 2:38 left in the period: Noch, Dalman and Pritchard all had picked up their fourth fouls by that time.

Dalman scored 18 seconds later to put DeWitt back up by a point. Mary Davidson converted two free throws at the 1:58 mark to put Olivet back on top.

Just four seconds later, Noch committed her fifth foul and O'Dell was forced to go back to Dalman, who had been sitting on the bench because of foul trouble.

Olivet scored the next four points to take a 36-31 lead. With 53 seconds left in the quarter, Patty Lusty, doing a tremendous job off the bench, sank a pair of clutch free throws. Dalman hit a jumper 25 seconds later and the period ended with the Eagles up 36-35.

The teams traded hoops well into the fourth quarter.

First Dalman scored to put DeWitt up, but Davidson answered for Olivet. Pritchard scored next to make it a three point lead, however Lusty connected 20 seconds later to pull the Panthers back within one, with 5:02 left.

Dalman then picked up her fifth foul to make DeWitt's chances even tougher. Both free throws were good and Olivet led by three.

Cindy Faggion pulled DeWitt back to within one at the 2:14 mark. Ten seconds later however, Davidson scored and was fouled. Her three point play made it 47-43.

Brenda Lass and Faggion each scored hoops to pull DeWitt back within two on separate occasions, but that was the closest the Panthers could come and finally lost by five.

O'Dell was pleased with his team's effort, but had hoped his team would avoid the fouls. "We knew we had to stay out of foul trouble to win, but obviously we didn't do that. We had to press from start to finish and we forced a few shots but I guess that's basketball," he explained.

The Panther mentor went on to talk about the edge Olivet had in the rebounding category. "We're not a good rebounding club. Our front line is 5-foot-11, 5-foot-7 and 5-foot-5, so we tried crashing everybody. Their front line is awesome, but give them a lot of credit, they're a good ball club."

Fulton cagers to try for district crown

A pair of clutch free throws by Nancy Kresge with 10 seconds to play provided the necessary margin for Fulton Saturday night against Ithaca in girls' basketball district action.

The Yellow Jackets staged a furious comeback in the final quarter, but were unable to overtake the CMAC co-champion Pirates.

Fulton led it 15-11 after the first quarter and stretched the lead to 32-21 at halftime. Ithaca cut the advantage to eight after period number three, before outscoring Fulton 12-6 during the final eight minutes. The rally left Ithaca two points shy at 45-43.

The Pirates nearly surrendered their once comfortable lead, with poor free throw shooting. Kresge connected on 9 of 10 tries, however the rest of the team made just 4 of 17 attempts. The subpar marksmanship left Fulton coach Bill Parker wondering what had happened.

"We'd beat their press down the floor and then they'd foul us, but we couldn't hit the free throws. I can't explain it, we've never had this much trouble from the line before," Parker pointed out.

Often times, the mark of a good ball club is how well it can overcome such adversities and despite not playing up to its capabilities, Fulton appears to be getting into high gear. The Pirates played outstanding ball during the second half of the regular season and eventually tied Olivet for the league championship. However, the longer a team lasts in tournament play, its guaranteed that games will become tougher.

Fulton played Carson City-Crystal last night for the championship of the Ithaca district. The winner stays at Ithaca for regional play. One of the teams which figures to be amongst the four on hand for the regionals is last year's state champs, Saginaw Carrolton. Parker remembers the Saginaw team well, for his outstanding 1979 ball club was ousted by Carrolton.

Kresge's outstanding

All-County set

Next week's Clinton County News will feature the All-County girls' basketball team. A first, second, and third team will be presented as well as honorable mention selections.

All told, 23 players have been named. Look for pictures of each of the first three teams and statistics on every player.

evening from the charity stripe against Ithaca helped her to lead in scoring with 19 points. Marti McVannel was next with 10.

Kris Hirschman paced the Yellow Jackets with 18, followed by sophomore Lisa Chaffin's 15.

Fulton held a slight edge in rebounding with Brenda Ondrus grabbing off 14 and Nancy Kresge pulling down eight offensive caroms.

Litomisky paces O-E

A fourth quarter comeback attempt by Corunna in Saturday's district clash with Ovid-Elsie fell six points short, marking the third time this year that O-E has defeated Corunna.

The Cavaliers led it 7-6 after the opening eight minutes, but O-E, behind Jennifer Litomisky broke it open in the second quarter. The Marauders outscored their foes 19-6 to take a 25-13 lead at intermission.

The teams traded buckets throughout the third stanza as O-E scored 12 points to the Cavaliers' 11.

Corunna tossed in 15 fourth quarter points to close the final margin to 45-39. Marauder coach Mary Hudecek explained the reason for the Cavs getting back into the contest, stating, "We simply got too conservative which we shouldn't have done."

Hudecek also called it a total team effort and credited everyone for chipping in. Litomisky was tops with 25 points, followed by balanced scoring from her teammates. Shawn Barclay and Brenda Huges each netted five, while Connie Warfle had four. Lori Len and Brenda Selhke rounded out the attack with three apiece.

Sisters Alicia and Marshon Honke led Corunna with eight points each.

Litomisky played her usual strong game on the boards, getting 15 rebounds. Selhke chipped in with eight caroms.

Both teams were busy from the free throw line, but neither could shoot better than 50 percent. The Marauders converted on 15 of 30 tries, while Corunna hit half of its 22 attempts.

The victory put Ovid-Elsie into the championship game of the district. The Marauders faced Montrose last night at 7 p.m. The winner moves onto the regionals at Lakewood-Lake Odessa.

A sizzling evening for Dalman

DeWitt's Suzi Dalman was virtually unstoppable in the Panthers opening round win over Maple Valley Thursday night. Here the 5-foot-7 senior goes up to bank a shot off the glass. She finished with 24 points, hitting on 12 of 14 field goal tries.

Unfortunately, the season came to an end Saturday for DeWitt, when Olivet managed to escape with a narrow five-point victory. (Photo by Tim Jeffery)

Arch-flow Conduit

a revolution in farm drainage performance...from Hancor

It's stronger in the ground. It drains better in the ground. In fact, Arch-flow Conduit is scientifically designed for maximum sub-surface drainage efficiency. It offers a tested and proven level of superior farm drainage performance that no equivalent size tile or tubing can match. And if that isn't enough, Arch-flow folds and coils in half the space round tubing takes up. It doesn't stretch during installation like round tubing. And it reduces drain sedimentation in many soil types.

To insure the superior level of Arch-flow Conduit drainage performance, installation is available only from selected, Hancor-certified installers in this area.

A special thanks to Linda Tingay for helping every night after a hard day's work. Thanks to Rev. Eastman for a short and down to earth sermon, told of Albert's jokes, lifted my heart. Impressive project explores energy at Most Holy Trinity school FOWLER- There are some exciting things going on at Most Holy Trinity School in Fowler these days. Students there are busy completing an all-school energy unit planned for them by their teachers.

"The rationale behind the all-school unit," said principal Barbara Valentine, "is that students can work on activities that interest them."

What is unique about the Fowler plan, according to Mrs. Valentine, is that students in grades four through eight all work in the same learning center.

"They can see, feel, and experience the energy situation without being restricted to one particular grade level of difficulty," she explained.

The learning center classroom is divided into several work areas. Study carrels made of cardboard dot the room. In these partial enclosures students can work individually or in small groups.

One day last week eighth graders were working in the learning center. While Joe George and Joe Bertram were making paper airplanes to use in wind experiments, Glenn Jandernoa behind them was answering energy questions on an electronic quiz box made by seventh graders. Every time Glenn answered a question correctly, a battery powered light went on.

On the other side of the cardboard partition Nancy Klein and Kevin Miller were listening to a tape recorded discussion of petroleum substitutes.

Across the room Dan Wolfert and some companions were graphing speed limit and traffic fatality statistics. Other students nearby were listening to a taped debate concerning the use of nuclear energy.

In a room across the hall Colette Pung was working with small wooden boats in a wading pool. Using an electric fan she was able to discover which keel placements and sail shapes and sizes would be most energy-efficient. In the same room is a floor chart. Earlier in the week students used it to reenact the use and loss of natural resources over the past 200 years in America. "From the study of this unit, the staff of Holy Trinity hopes that the students will become effective decision-makers concerning energy problems now and in the future," concluded Mrs. Valentine.

East Olive says goodbye

Parents and students at East Olive Elementary School, St. Johns held an open house last week honoring former principal Roger Feeman and retired secretary Betty Wilbur, right, and aide Elaine Dilday, left. Mrs. Wilbur and Mrs. Dilday had been at the school for the 12 years since its opening and both retired this summer. Feeman came shortly after them, leaving for a new assignment at Central School this fall. Parent Steve Powers said the trio "went beyond the call of duty in dealing with children and parents." He presented them with engraved plaques from the students and parent group, saying that they had become a part of the East Olive School community and would be greatly missed.
