The bike licenses are 50 cents and are good for three years.

Fowler millage passes; Bath, SJ, P-W's fail

By Sharon Randall

Citizen campaigns pushed voter turnout up but only Fowler Public School supporters pulled off a positive vote for school millage Monday in a second time around election for Fowler, St. Johns, Bath and Pewamo-Westphalia.

Bath and St. Johns School Districts now face school openings with no operating millages. Pewamo-Westphalia voters passed a renewal of 18.5 mills in June.

Fowler supporters passed their major proposal asking for a 17 mill renewal plus two extra mills with 357 yes votes to 344 no. Their second proposal for an additional 1.5 mills increase was turned down, 510, no to 190, yes.

Superintendent Gary Jackson praised an all out community effort that included registration of new voters, public meetings and a speakers' bureau. "They put in a lot of hard hours," he said. "That's why we made it, there's no doubt in my mind. The committee consisted of nearly 75 persons including school board members, administrators, teachers, citizens, parents and students."

Voter turnout was up by 150 persons, more than election workers had ever seen before, Jackson said.

Cuts must still be made because of the 1.5 mill refusal. They include an elementary teacher, a special education teacher, curriculum development funds, two teacher aides, a library aide and miscellaneous equipment.

Bath school officials were crushed with a loss by only nine votes for their number one request that included a renewal of 20 mills, three additional mills and release from the Headlee Amendment. The proposal went down 438 to 429. Voter turnout was up nearly 200 voters.

Proposal two, asking for one additional mill lost by 72 votes.

Faced with opening school with no operating millage, Superintendent Ken Dyer said the Board of Education has approved an alternative plan that calls for cuts in staff, custodians, transportation, shared-time programs, field trips and athletics. Dyer said the only fall athletics will be varsity football and varsity girls' basketball. There will be no freshmen or junior varsity sports and no middle school sports.

The Bath Board of Education will meet, Monday, Aug. 18 at 8 p.m. in the Elementary All-Purpose Room for a special meeting. Dyer said there must be some staff re-assignments and reshuffling "until we can get back to the voters." Dyer said another election date will be set late in September or early October.

Voter turnout was high in St. Johns where voters said no, 1,565 to 1,482 for proposal I which represented a renewal of 17.5 mills plus 2.45 extra mills for operation. Also defeated was proposal II, 1,540 to 1,504 which asked for release from the Headlee Amendment roll back was turned down by 1,697, no votes to 1,356, yes votes.

St. Johns Superintendent Don Burns said the Board of Education is to meet in regular session tonight. "I'm just assuming that the board will be coming back for the renewal," he said. "The people have spoken, now, so we will move ahead and open school and provide the best program that we can."

"Needless to say, we are disappointed," Burns added, "but we will do our best to make do." He indicated that administrators had already been meeting to start implementing the necessary cuts.

It's going to be a grandiose three days of bargains. Clinton Bank and Trust's special loan rates will be good for three days only. Deals will be offered by four local dealerships, Keellean Buick Pontiac; St. Johns Ford Mercury, Bee's Chevy Olds and Moore Chevrolet of Ovid.

Train derails at Fowler

Luckily no one was injured when a Grand Trunk Railroad train derailed at 6:55 a.m. Tuesday morning in Fowler after a switch was broken off by a vehicle during the night. The train hit the switch forcing part of the train to take a side track causing the derailment of four cars and the engine. The diesel fuel tank caught on fire but was quickly put out by the train crew. "It's a big mess," one sheriff's deputy was quoted as saying. (Photo by Bob Dickman)

Hufnagel squeaks into sheriff slot; DeWitt Twp incumbents ousted

By Sharon Randall and Sue Kiley White
Clinton County

The race for Clinton County Sheriff in last Tuesday's August primary resulted in a newcomer giving the incumbent a real fight for the position. However, incumbent Sheriff Tony Hufnagel came out as the victor with 3,491 votes as compared to Erban Royce Brown's 3,200.

"I felt it was going to be a close race all along," said Hufnagel. "One of the reasons is that in a primary election a lot of people don't get out to vote."

He added he was going to continue to handle the day to day operations of the department and try to work with the Board of Commissioners.

"We've got some trying times ahead," indicated Hufnagel. "If the county has to tighten its belt and scale down some programs, we'll have some sort of contingency plan prepared."

Brown indicated Monday afternoon he is considering running as a write-in candidate in the November election. He will decide in about a month. However, either way he will be running again for sheriff four years from now.

"The people definitely want a change or I wouldn't have carried better than 10 townships," commented Brown. "All my efforts haven't been in vain." He continued by saying those 10 townships represent rural people who don't have their own police department, yet they aren't able to count or carry an election with a rural vote.

"I still feel changes are needed, especially in supervision and management," he said.

In DeWitt Township, the slate of candidates known as Citizens for Better Government came out as victors over the incumbents running on the Don't Be Buffaloed ticket. Supervisor Alta C. Reed was the only incumbent to survive in the election. She was a member of the CBG.

Mrs. Reed would not run for supervisor this year hiring a superintendent which would make the supervisor's position a part-time job with a reduced salary. She stated publicly from the very beginning she would not run for a "figurehead" type post.

Mrs. Reed won the slot for township treasurer, defeating incumbent Eileen Corr 866 to 399.

The new township supervisor will be Leonard Pung who beat incumbent Jack Kzeski by a 791 to 422 margin.

Newly hired Clerk John Hart who is filling the unexpired term of Betty Churchill lost his job to Gregory Whitlock in one of the closer contests. Hart received 558 votes while Whitlock received 654 votes.

Two Democrats, Sharon Garrage and Byron Wright received 90 and 99 votes respectively and will face the Republican victors in the November election. David Vance a write-in candidate received three votes.

Republican winners in the primary race included Douglas Hammond with 668 votes; Ernest Krause with

Bank saves woman from losing $8,000

St. Johns

An 83-year-old Clinton County woman nearly lost $8,000 to a shyster if it hadn't been for some quick thinking on the part of a Clinton Bank and Trust employee.

A pigeon scam as it is more commonly referred to was reported to St. Johns police on Aug. 1.

The elderly Clinton County woman was shopping in Lansing at JoAnn's Fabrics when a young lady came into the store and struck up a friendship with the woman. At this time another woman entered the store and told the pair she had found some money on the sidewalk and would split the amount with them if they in turn gave her some money.

One of the women came back to St. Johns with the Clinton County woman where she tried to withdraw the $8,000 from CB&T.

The bank official informed the woman because it was such a large amount she would have to wait 10 days in order to get her money. The young woman apparently tired of waiting left the scene and was not apprehended.

Police arrest 5 for drive-in drinking

DeWitt Twp.

Four teenagers were cited for being minors in possession of alcohol during last Wednesday night's weekly Buck Night held at the Northside Drive-In by DeWitt Township officers. One adult was cited for furnishing alcohol to minors.

Police Chief Tom Aranow indicated this week only about three-fourths of the normal group came to the drive-in.

"They were prepared to party," said Aranow. "They even asked us when we were going to leave."

There were two Clinton County officers manned inside the drive-in while five township officers and two state police troopers were stationed outside the facility. "It was fairly quiet," he added.

After 1 a.m. it was reported the concession stand was broken into with an undetermined amount of candy being taken.

AFTER THE STORMS...

A note of thanks to our customers.

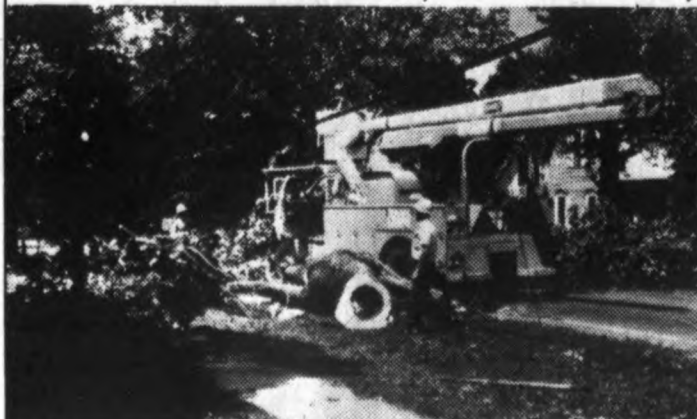

Disaster struck Michigan.

Four separate storms with winds of up to 80 miles per hour rocked the Consumers Power Company service area between July 15 and July 20. More than 250,000 of our customers were without electric power at some time during the week. The storms brought down some 2,100 spans of high-voltage wire, damaged almost 200 utility poles, burned out some 275 transformers and affected more than 10,000 secondary and service wires.

To deal with the storms, line and tree-trimming crews moved around the state from one damaged area to another and put in exhausting hours in each. Crewmen worked with only 4 or 5 hours rest. Some slept on cots in meeting rooms and school auditoriums. Meals were fast, clean clothes a luxury.

There was much to do. In some cases, a single repair restored power to many customers, but in other areas, restoration work was a lengthy, almost house-to-house effort.

Even now, with power flowing again to all our customers, the cleanup is continuing. Temporary connections must be made permanent and the diversion of Company crews to that effort will mean delays of up to four weeks for new customers awaiting service.

To our new customers — and to all our customers affected by the Week of Storms — we express sincere gratitude for your patience and cooperation. Efficient, reliable service is what our business is about — especially in times of trouble.

The Week of Storms was one of those times.

Chamber hires part-time manager

St. Johns
The St. Johns Chamber of Commerce has hired a part-time manager, Jody Smith, to plan and manage chamber activities, it has been announced by Diane Edwards, chairperson of the manager search committee. Mrs. Edwards said that Mrs. Smith started work

Monday. She is to be responsible for all Chamber activities and the budget operation and keeping the Board of Directors and the general membership informed of Chamber affairs. Included in her job description are public relations, solicitation of new members and publishing a community informational booklet with the aid of committee workers. Mrs. Smith and her husband David recently started a plumbing and heating business in their home in Essex Township. She has worked in various secretarial and administrative roles including a stint with the Michigan State University Forestry Department that involved setting up

Cooperative Extension workshops and courses throughout the state of Michigan. Most recently she worked a temporary job in the County Clerk's office. Mrs. Smith said that the new job is a challenge. "I think it is going to be hard work but I also think it is going to be fun," she said. "A cohesive Chamber will benefit everybody," she said. "I hope I can help bring it together." The search committee narrowed down applicants to two and Mrs. Smith was chosen by a vote of the Chamber's Board of Directors. Serving on the search committee were Mrs. Edwards, Ken Kralik, Gary Reichert, Paul McNamara and Barry Dean.

Mrs. Edwards said the Chamber's goal in hiring Mrs. Smith was "to get everybody organized and show them the Chamber can help them as businesses." She said that Mrs. Smith will spend some time with other area Chamber of Commerce managers getting a feel for the job.

Pies will make success of Saturday's Ox Roast

The great pie-plate giveaway is over in DeWitt and all that remains is for DeWitt residents to fill them up and deliver them to the Food Tent at the annual Ox Roast Saturday, Aug. 16. Terry Gartside, chairperson of the pie-plate giveaway, said 51 children, ages 10 to 14, helped canvass DeWitt, passing out pie plates for donations to the annual community Ox Roast. The children who attended an "all-you-can-eat" ice cream party the next evening, had 356 signatures from people who said they would bake a pie. Pies are sold for 50 cents a slice at the community money making activity. One child gave away 51 pie plates and another 31. "The children who helped were great," Gartside said. "We feel that this was a unique experience for them and opened up a door of responsibility where they had to deal with adults in a volunteer role. He said their participation added "a plus to their personalities."

Pie plates were also distributed by the Senior Citizens to their own members to receive at least 600 pies Saturday. The party drew 30 youngsters to consume eight gallons of ice cream and 40 summer fruit drinks. People can still pick up plates at the Pizza Place, IGA, Shop Rite, the A.B.&T. Bank and Terranova's Market.

"The pie effort is crucial to the financial success of the Ox Roast," Gartside said. Total circulation of the publications is approximately 75,000, Fox said. Ray, 30, has been managing editor of The South Lyon Herald, an Oakland County newspaper owned by SCC, since June. Total deposits were $48,930,886 as of June 30, compared to $45,196,615 for the same period in 1979, producing an 8 per cent growth factor. Total assets grew 10 per cent during the first six months, to reach an all-time high of $57,154,378. Wellman said that it was particularly noteworthy that the interest the bank paid to

4-H tractor contest to be held in Elsie Aug 15

Ovid-Elsie

The State 4-H Tractor Operator's Contest will be held here, Friday, Aug. 15 in the parking lot at the Ovid-Elsie High School starting at 1 p.m.

Competing will be 4-H members from all over Michigan in the event that is open to the public at no charge. Entrants will be judged by Clinton County Farmers.

Contestants qualified for the annual event by winning competitions in their home counties. At the state-wide event, the 4-H'ers will be judged in four categories, including a written exam, driving safety, backing both a two-wheeled implement and a four-wheeled wagon through an obstacle course, and identifying parts of a tractor engine. The winner will compete in the Eastern Regional Tractor Operator's Contest in Richmond, Va., in September.

"The competition gives the youngsters an opportunity to demonstrate skills they need to safely operate a farm tractor and a chance to be recognized for their skills," said John Alysforth, Michigan 4-H Youth program leader and event coordinator.

YCC gives teens summer education

By Sue Kiley White

Bath Twp.

For some kids working with the Youth Conservation Corps at Rose Lake Wildlife Research Center the summer has gone by fast. Yet others say it's the hardest they ever worked in their lives.

The youths, ages 15 and 16-years-old are in the seventh week of an eight week program. They come from all walks of life, regardless of social or economic backgrounds. In the Rose Lake YCC program the teenagers are primarily from the Bath area with one each coming from Perry, Laingsburg, Holt, and Haslett.

The purpose of the program is three fold according to Carol Retan, crew leader. The goals are: to accomplish needed work on public land, provide jobs for young adults, and to increase the understanding of the natural environment and responsible management methods through education.

Any youths between the ages of 15 and 18-years-old are eligible for the YCC program. They are selected randomly and can only work one summer as a youth worker.

YCC camps are a nationwide project. The youths make a 40 hour per week commitment and are paid minimum wage. They work 30 hours being paid for this work. The next 10 hours are devoted to environmental education or awareness. The kids affectionately call it "EA."

Some of the projects they were involved with this summer at Rose Lake were: building a rifle range bench including one which will accommodate wheelchairs; built brush piles for rabbit habitat, maintained the parking lot entrance, painted trail gates, and cleared overgrown trails.

"They told us we built the only handicap bench in the state," said one of the youths. "The head of the club said it should really increase their membership."

In addition to their other projects this group of young men and women made duck boxes, blue jay nesting boxes and hoed 700 shrubs to insure proper growth. Of these shrubs they also took a survival count.

Their day begins at 7:30 a.m. and ends at 5 p.m. For some of those who have to travel any distance it means getting up at about 6 a.m.

An orientation session was held prior to the camp to initiate both parents and the crew members as to what the summer job would entail.

"We didn't lose any of the crew," said Ms. Retan. "They all worked hard and well together."

The work crew opened a lot of trails which will aid both sportsmen and the Department of Natural Resources. In fact, visitors to the wildlife research center can now see Rose Lake from the parking lot in addition to the rabbit hutches the crew built.

"Some of that stuff you can barely walk through, let alone get a vehicle through," said Scott Berg, 16, of Haslett.

"We've really learned a lot," said 15-year-old Bob Briggs of Bath. "I'd do it again if I could."

Environmental Education included learning the principles of wildlife management, ecology and energy. They took field trips to the Shiawassee Wilderness Center, viewed a solar energy facility, visited a deer herd and a pheasant farm. They also took a canoe trip down the Muskegon River.

"We try to mix education with a little fun too," said

Ms. Retan.

There are eight local enrollees in the program. This is Ms. Retan's third year as a crew leader, although previous summers were spent at different camps.

"We've accomplished our goals and more," she indicated. "Especially when you consider how much swamp land we've had to contend with."

There are specific rules concerning clothing and safety which must be followed. Every member of the crew must wear a helmet, work boots and clothes. They must also wear seat belts when they are traveling in a motor vehicle.

Another learning experience was making sassafras tea. Most of the girls liked the taste, but the boys had different opinions.

"Either I don't like it or we didn't make it right," one of the younger boys announced.

The crew leader indicated her young charges look at the projects with a more positive attitude now than when they first arrived. She smiled when she said, "They can do more than they think they can." Continuing she added, "We can look back and see a lot of good we have done."

Ms. Retan noted this 10-year program is one of the most successful youth programs in the country.

"It's been called the Cadillac of youth programs," she said. "It works."

For one of the young women working as a member of YCC was a lot better than babysitting, a job she would have had if not for the federal youth program.

"I've learned not to throw trash anymore," said Lorie Crippen, 16, of St. Johns.

Briggs added, "I have a lot more respect now for nature than I ever did before."

Other members of the YCC work crew are: Mike McCann, youth leader; Jim Parker, 15, Bath; Becky Smith, 16, Bath; Deb Presley, 16, Laingsburg; Jeff Roseberry, 15, Perry; and Theresa Nuget, 15, Bath.

"I'm really tired when I get home," Ms. Crippen concluded. "I never knew it would be so much work."

Pretty proud

Aid given for crop loss

Farmers in Shiawassee County and Clinton County whose property or crops were destroyed by storms last summer may now apply for disaster assistance through the Farmer's Home Administration, Rep. Don Albosta has announced.

The State Director of Farmer's Home Administration, Phil Roberts, has designated Clinton and Shiawassee Counties as disaster areas because of storms, high winds, heavy rainfall, and extreme temperatures from May 29 to Aug. 3 of this year.

Residents of Shiawassee and Clinton Counties who suffered losses of property and crops during the summer may apply for disaster relief loans at a low interest rate of five percent.

Any residents wishing to apply for a loan should contact the Farmer's Home Administration County Supervisor in his area. Shiawassee and Clinton County residents have until May 6, 1981, to determine their losses and apply for disaster relief.

A positive move

By Sharon Randall

The St. Johns Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors took a big step forward last week with the hiring of part-time Chamber Manager Jody Smith.

Everyone involved knows that viewing this position as part-time is not an honest assessment of the job's needs, but it is an important first step.

The possibilities ahead are all positive ones. St. Johns can go far with a strong chamber; it's a need we have called attention to before.

Our hats are off to those special few who have kept the Chamber limping along and who have taken this bold new step forward with the hiring of Mrs. Smith.

We share their dream of a united and cohesive business community that works together for the betterment of St. Johns and its people.

Mrs. Smith jumps into the job of super saleswoman. Her first job will be to sell the idea of a Chamber of Commerce to those who have tried it before and became disinterested. She must convince them and newcomers that joining the Chamber is a positive and worthwhile step and that an efficient organization of local business people is a necessity in a community this size.

We would hope that the part-time definition of this job is temporary and that as Mrs. Smith sells the idea and need of a strong and united business community to our area merchants, she can sell the idea of a full-time position to the Chamber officers.

We see a need for a description of St. Johns, an assessment and a reminder of all its good points.

With transportation costs escalating, people must be aware of the goods and services that are available here at home. The time is ripe for banding together and selling the community on local businesses. A strong Chamber can provide a positive view of St. Johns and what it has to offer. It can sell the people on themselves and their home community.

We see good things ahead for the area of St. Johns as businessmen join together and push for a common identification and a common goal.

Care Center News and Views

By Jeanne Rand

There are those in Clinton County who still are not knowledgeable of what the Clinton Area Care Center is all about.

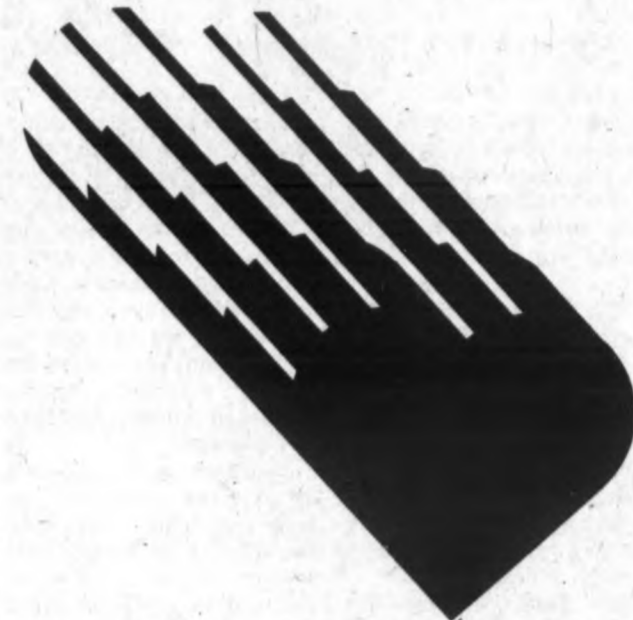

For those that have been so closely involved that seems impossible, but it's true.

The Care Center will be an 108-bed extended health care facility. There will be 43 foster care beds, 47 basic beds and 18 skilled beds. It will be located on Scott road, across from the Wheel Inn in St. Johns.

A non-profit corporation, with a 10 member board of directors has been actively involved in the ground work of this project for over two and a half years. To itemize a few of the necessary steps that have been completed, I list the following:

1. Formulating a non-profit corporation.
2. Acquiring a tax exempt status.
3. Acquisition of a site, annexing and rezoning.
4. The many steps of proving and finally receiving the Certificate of Need.
5. Fund raising drive.
6. Selection of an architect.
7. The pre-application and finally the application for funding through Farmers Home Administration.
8. Other details too numerous to mention.

If the people have not been properly informed it would not be from a lack of effort. There have been many news releases to both county and state papers, radio public service announcements, plus interviews and news items and speaking engagements to civic and service groups.

If you have any questions, please call the Clinton Area Care Center office at 1003 S. Oakland. The number is 224-6808.

See you at the Ox Roast

By Sue Kiley White

The 34th annual DeWitt Ox Roast is almost here. The townspeople are getting ready for Saturday's super event and according to some of the chairpeople there hasn't been this much cooperation and enthusiasm in a long time.

To me this shows some positive thinking and some concern for carrying on tradition. The Ox Roast has been popular not only with DeWitt residents and Clinton County people, but also outlying areas including Lansing, Grand Ledge and Charlotte to name a few.

In some ways the Ox Roast has drawn some controversy with regards to its location. Some felt it would be better to hold it at the high school enabling more parking and more room for displays and the carnival.

It seems there are always some kind of disadvantages associated with special projects; however, I really feel the spirit of the Ox Roast would have lost some of its flavor being placed in another location.

Being a relative newcomer to the Clinton County area, I found the Ox Roast to be one of the most exciting and special events to cover as a reporter/photographer.

It seems everyone tends to forget their troubles for the day and is intent on having fun. For young people it is a time to roam the streets without having to watch out for motorists. They are able to enjoy the carnival rides and play all sorts of games. In most cases it is truly a family kind of day.

For the older folks it is a time to reminisce with old friends, remembering the "good ole days," and what DeWitt used to be like.

For all ages there is the fabulous food tent with the famous Oxburgers and homemade pies. There is something to tickle everyone's palate. The only bad thing about the food tent is the possibility of its patrons gaining a few extra pounds.

If you are looking for a fun day filled with food and merriment try the DeWitt Ox Roast this Saturday, Aug. 16.

In addition to all the other activities there will be a chance to win $1,000 in a lottery or dunk the city assessor for raising your taxes.

See you Saturday at the Ox Roast.

★ Election results

694; Charles Mann with 748; and Michael Verlinde with 641. Incumbents Jim Soule and Karen Williams received 441 and 467 votes respectively in a losing effort while Tom Maier a newcomer received 363 votes.

The top four Republicans will face Garrage and Wright in November. Four trustees will be selected.

Bath Township is the only Clinton County Township where Democrats outnumber Republicans in primary races with voters writing in their favorite Democrats into Republican slots.

Township clerk and Democrat, June Burnett, who chose not to run for health reasons, won the Republican slot for the position with write-in votes. Although 18 Bath Township voters wrote-in Mrs. Burnett's name, she said Sunday evening that she would withdraw her name.

"It hurts me to leave," she said, "I feel that we have accomplished a lot of things, and I have enjoyed working in the clerk's position."

Mrs. Burnett was ill through the winter and said she is still not back to working 100 percent. She said she and her husband would like to spend time in Florida this year. She took over the clerk position in November of 1972.

When Mrs. Burnett withdraws her name, that will leave top vote getter, Kathleen (Kathy) McQueen alone on the November ballot. Ms. McQueen, who is now serving as Deputy Township Clerk, tallied 197 votes and Shirley Kerckaert who drew in 95.

Four trustees are to be selected in November and last week's primary put newcomer, Daniel Carleton, with 287 votes, in one of the Democrat slots along with incumbents, Robert Leiby (251 votes), Robert Sober (258 votes) and Elon Pardee (217 votes.) Incumbent Paul Shaheen, who has been on the township board for two years lost the bid with 210 votes.

Opposing the four will be two Republicans, Robert Casler who received 143 votes and Chuck Gutzki who received 173 votes as a write-in.

Incumbent Bath Township supervisor, Thomas Woodruff was challenged in the primary by a Republican write-in candidate, Richard Brook, who received 14 votes and will now oppose him in November. Woodruff drew in 279 votes.

Republican Robert Steinman took the district 10 Clinton County Board of Commissioners seat in District 10 in Aug. 5 Primary Election with 365 votes. Running second was Republican Bruce Angell with 225 votes.

Steinman, a St. Johns Attorney, will take over the seat vacated by William Gnodtke who chose not to run for re-election.

District 10 includes Precincts 1 and 3 of DeWitt Township.

District 9 had both a Republican and Democrat in the Primary and both will appear again in the November ballot. Incumbent Max Calder, a Democrat, drew 40 votes in the primary and Republican John McNalley, 334 votes.

District 7's incumbent commissioner, Roger Overway, a Republican, received 479 primary votes and Democrat Harold McCastle, 50. Both will appear again on the November ballot.

In Bengal Township Mary Rademacher took the Republican spot for treasurer with 114 votes. Others running were Charles Hazel, 50; Alice Hicks, 40; and Louis Schneider, 33.

Incumbent trustee Robert Murton lost his spot to newcomer Lester Miller who received 123 votes. Running with him will be incumbent Donald Irrer who had 129 votes. Murton received 91 votes.

Dallas Township Republican voters opted for David Pohl as their choice for supervisor. He received 204 votes. John Rademacher drew in 164 votes. Paul Thelen, present supervisor of the township chose not to run for re-election. The only race in Essex township was that of treasurer and Charlyss Anderson who has been serving in that capacity as an appointee will go on the November ballot. She received 167 votes to Donna Smith's 100.

In Victor Township, 241 voters turned out for the Primary election but they have left the choice for one Republican candidate for trustee to the flip of a coin. Supervisor Robert Remus said that long-time trustee Arlo Stiehler and newcomer R. Byron Prange each received 83 votes. "We will wait until the Board of Canvassers finish, then flip a coin," he explained. The other trustee spot sent to Daniel Morris with 99 votes.

Victor voters gave Larry Kruger 89 votes for the Republican treasurer spot. Incumbent Janet Malkin lost with 76 votes.

In Watertown incumbent treasurer Syver Thingstad drew in 178 votes to 88 given to Richard Ackerman, thus saving his Republican slot on the November ballot.

In Westphalia Township Roman Platte took the Republican nomination for clerk and Aloysius Smith for treasurer. They will appear on the November ballot.

Senior Citizen Update

KEEPING TRACK OF YOUR MEDICINES

Do you ever have trouble—

*Remembering HOW to take a number of different medicines?

*Remembering WHEN to take your medicine?

*Remembering WHETHER you took a particular medicine when you were supposed to?

*Reading the labels on your prescriptions?

If so you may want to use a system to help you solve these problems.

Problem: I take several different medicines, and it's hard to remember how I'm supposed to take each one.

Suggestion: Make a list.

*The names of the drugs and what you take them for.

*The color and shape or other useful descriptions of each drug.

*The directions and any special cautions ("three times a day with meals," "every four hours," "do not drink alcohol," "do not drive," etc.)

The actual time of day to take each medicine, for example if you are supposed to take a medicine every four hours, you might write in 8 a.m., noon, 4 p.m., and 8 p.m.

Problem: "I don't take many medicines, but sometimes I forget whether I've taken them or not."

Suggestion No. 1: If you only take one dose of medicine per day, you can turn the bottle upside down after you take it, or move it from the left to the right side of the dresser.

Suggestion No. 2: If your medicine does not need to be stored in airtight containers (ask your doctor or pharmacist first if you're not sure), you can count out your whole day's dosage of pills in the morning and put them in another container. Then you can tell whether you took a particular pill by counting the ones that are left.

Suggestion No. 3: Many pharmacists have special containers with one pocket for each day of the week so you can set out all your pills for a week at once. This can be especially helpful if you took medicine every other day. However, be sure to ask your doctor or pharmacist if storing medicines in such a container will affect their potency.

Problem: "I take several medicines and sometimes I forget whether I've taken them and when to take them."

Suggestion No. 1: If your medicines do not need to be stored in airtight containers (again, ask your doctor or pharmacist) you can make cups of an egg carton, with the twelve daytime hours. In the morning, put the pills you take at 8 a.m. in the 8 o'clock cup, your noon pills in the noon cup, etc. The cup tells you what time to take a medicine, and if you forget whether you took it, all you have to do is look in the appropriate cup to see if the pills are still there.

Suggestion No. 2: You can make a chart with a place to check off your medicine as you take it. To use this chart, just fill in—

*The times that you take your medicine, for example, the patient takes some kind of medicine at 8, 12, and 5.

The names of the medicines that should be taken each time. (List your drugs by name)

A column for each day of the week, so you can check off each dose of medicine as you take it.

You can put this chart on a cord and carry it with you if you're away from home a lot. Be sure to check it off if you take a pill, you might take another dose too soon because the last one wasn't checked off.

Problem: "I can't read the labels on my prescriptions, and sometimes I get my medicine confused."

Suggestion No. 1: If you only take two or three prescriptions, try wrapping one rubber band around one bottle, two rubber bands (spaced apart) around the second bottle, and leave the third one with no rubber bands. You can easily identify which medicine is which by feeling for the rubber bands.

Suggestion No. 2: If you also have trouble remembering when to take a medicine, a color coding system might help. Make a chart like we earlier described except that you use colored stickers or marks to identify the medicines. Put a different colored sticker or magic marker dot on each of your medicine bottles, and then put the same colored sticker or dot on the chart next to the times you take that medicine.

Suggestion No. 3: Instead of colors, you might want to use letters of the alphabet to code your medicine.

Problem: "I take several medicines, and it's really confusing to remember which one is which, when to take them, and whether I've taken a particular one."

Suggestion: Make a chart on a large piece of paper and fill in:

*The color or shape or other description of each drug and its name.

Ruth Delo

*The directions for taking it and any special cautions.

Columns for the days of the week as you can mark down the times of the day for taking each dose and check them. Hang this chart near the place where you keep your medicines. Keep a pencil handy and be sure to check them off as you take them.

This information was taken from a booklet by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (Public Health Service).

So.....until next time.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Windfall profits tax a detriment

To the Editor:

Recently the attention of Americans and of the Congress has been directed toward our deplorable military situation. Hopefully steps are being taken to improve matters.

However there is one important requirement for a resource that is overlooked - the need for adequate supplies of fuel. Ships, planes, tanks, trucks - all need oil. In the event of hostilities the military consumption of fuels would increase greatly. And we may be reasonably sure that the enemy would make every effort to stop the deliveries of overseas oil to us. The USSR now has satellite states and air and naval base facilities close to the entire route of tankers bringing oil from the Persian Gulf. Whereas we now import approximately one-half our oil, in the event of war our country might have to depend almost entirely on oil produced in North America.

The easily found and easily produced oil has long since been used. Exploration and production today is involved and costly. The oil producers make good profits, much of which goes into further search for new sources of oil. Instead of encouraging these efforts the president and the congress have labeled oil company profits as "windfall" and have now levied a steep tax on such profits. Actually the gasoline which may cost us $1.20 at the pump yields the producing company probably 3 to 5 cents per gallon.

The so-called "windfall profits" tax would seem to be detrimental to national defense. The congress should give some thought to its repeal.

Very truly yours,
Bruce R. Bacon

DeWitt library will try again for millage

DeWitt

The DeWitt Public Library district lost its first bid for millage in last week's primary but because of a desperate need and the close margin, will probably go back to the voters again in November, according to librarian Faye Hansen.

City and township voters as a total turned down the request 778 to 632 for three-tenths of a mill [.30] or 30 cents on each $1,000 of State Equalized Valuation for a five year period. Mrs. Hansen said the package would have cost the average tax payer from $3 to $7 a year.

Mrs. Hansen laid part of the blame for the refusal on the "angry voters in the township." She said that she feels the "new township board" to be elected in November from a slate of newcomers who ousted all but one of the incumbents in last Tuesday's primary, will be "behind the library." She said that one candidate has even offered his township salary to the library fund.

"In November we won't have the angry voters we had last week," Mrs. Hansen said. She said the final verdict for going back to the voters rests with the library board and they will meet soon to make that decision.

Joe Gonzales: A coach for all seasons

Joe Gonzales

By Tim Jeffery

Coaching football simply isn't enough. Leading the St. Johns gridders is only a fraction of the activities in which Joe Gonzales is involved.

While it seems the gridiron field is his favorite place to be, Gonzales also has coached the freshman basketball team for nine years, served as the varsity baseball coach for a three year period, coached the JV baseball team, and handles duties as the high school's assistant principal. He is also the director of the summer migrant education project in Clinton County.

While at Delta College, Gonzales accepted his first coaching job. He took the freshman football team at nearby Freeland High School. This was to be the beginning of what has become a very successful 16 year coaching career.

Gonzales left Delta College and moved on to Michigan State University where he received a Master's Degree in general administration. He is currently finishing work on a Specialist Degree at Central Michigan University and will follow this with work toward a Ph.D from MSU.

The second stop along the coaching line was at Lake Orion High School. Here Gonzales coached both baseball and basketball in addition to football. From that school, just outside Pontiac, he moved on to St. Johns.

The St. Johns head football coach has enjoyed several outstanding seasons. In fact, he has experienced only one losing team during his 16 years of coaching various sports. This year's Redwing football team should be no exception to the rule. While he has described his 1980 team as one that will be young, quickness abounds and undoubtedly will make for an exciting season.

Gonzales coached teams are very well disciplined. This is his main objective. "The first thing we want is to have an over-all disciplined team. It's the number one priority. The reason being, if you are disciplined you don't have to worry about people blowing the assignments consistently," he explained.

The St. Johns coach also has a theory about winning and losing ball games. He stated, "People don't win ball games, people lose ball games. If you can avoid making mistakes, especially mental ones, you'll win your share of games. Wait for the opponent to make a mistake and then capitalize."

Outstanding occurrences fill Gonzales's memory, but one particular game which stands out in his list of favorites, was during the final year of the West Central Conference. The Redwings entertained Grand Ledge in the ballgame to decide first place. With over 5,000 people in attendance, St. Johns was a 26-0 winner.

While football calls for much of his time, Gonzales also heads up a summer basketball camp held each year at St. Johns High School. The camp has been very successful in helping individuals improve their basketball skills.

Gonzales plays a huge role in the community. His leadership has brought happiness to large numbers of players and fans alike. He continues to put winning teams on the field and as long as this continues, so should the outstanding list of memories.

He best summed up his way of coming across to his players with the final statement, "I'm not mean, but believe me, they know what I want."

One Man's Views

By Tim Jeffery

Monday morning marked the start of the high school football season. For the county's coaches it is a time for being overly optimistic. Dreams of league championships dance through their minds. With the right breaks anything is possible.

For one such coach, league crowns aren't necessarily the key issue at hand. Instead, picking up the pieces might be a better way of looking at Gail Thornton's task, as DeWitt's new head man.

Thornton started practice Monday without officially being named to his new position. Sadly, DeWitt has found himself in the same boat as last season, with its coaching situation. At a time when the program needs stability more than anything else, they've once again waited too long to fill the bill.

After reaching the class C playoffs in 1978, Ron Mead gave up coaching duties to become the athletic director. His replacement was not named until just before the start of last season. The team went on to win only two ball games under Larry Baird. Surely the victory total isn't a reflection on Baird's ability to coach football, but more likely a result of confusion amongst players and coaches stemming from a last-minute selection.

Baird denied this as the reason for the poor season. He indicated the team was hurt drastically by penalties early in the year. However at season's end Baird was quoted as saying, "The team didn't have enough guys out there with heart."

His statement leads to wondering why there wasn't

Assistant coach, Bill Abbey has made an effort to conduct such a program. However, the turn-out has not been good. The ball players weren't aware of who would be the head coach and failed to show. Abbey made the effort and should be praised for doing so. The bottom line is, with a head coach to encourage weight training, participation may have been much greater.

Exactly how much the long delay in hiring Thornton will affect the team is yet to be seen. Rumors have indicated that a couple key football players may opt for cross country rather than the grid field. This could be a crucial blow to the Panther's cause.

Hopefully, Thornton will get the turn-out he's counting on. Abby, Baird, Thornton and JV coach Bob Elliot are capable leaders. Unfortunately, the situation they are facing may be difficult. Naming a football coach on the first day of practice doesn't encourage, it hurts.

Come the first ballgame in September, a quality performance will be expected from the Panther team. Under the circumstances, this won't be easy, but if anyone is capable of turning the team back in the right direction, Thornton and his braintrust appear to be competent.

enough heart on the field? It's highly possible the players just weren't ready to put forth the effort it took, after being left hanging as to who would coach.

Thornton is not new to the DeWitt system. He served as the defensive coordinator on the 1978 team, which surrendered only 37 points during the regular season. During one phenomenal stretch the defense went 22 quarters without allowing a score. Undoubtedly, the new boss has an outstanding football mind.

Baird will direct the offense. He has also proven in the past that he can generate a wide-open attack. Given the players to work with, Baird will light up the scoreboard.

Weight training during the off-season has become an important aspect of high school programs. The Capital Circuit isn't a league to be taken lightly. You can be sure teams such as Mason and Okemos have the weight training working in full force. This has not been the case with the Panthers.

Youth baseball enjoys fast and furious season

By Tim Jeffery

The St. Johns summer baseball program has concluded. Participants enjoyed an exciting and fun-filled year as parents, players and fans combined to make the action fast and furious.

A new addition to the program made its debut this season. The minor league, in which coaches pitch to the players, marked the season's biggest happening.

The new league had been talked about for approximately three years, but was finally put into effect this spring. It placed roughly 135-140 kids into their own separate league.

In years past these younger kids were simply overmatched. By bringing the minor league into effect the overall youth baseball program became more competitive as the experienced players were in an older program.

The new league held its games on a new field, built by the Lions club.

Plans for next year include improvements to the parking lot at the minor league field and lights at the pony league field. The poles must still be purchased but this should take place before the start of next season.

The youth program received a helpful contribution through the Kiwanis Club's selling of trash bags in the community. Participants in the Youth Baseball went door to door in the promotion and won prizes for their efforts.

The Jaycees held a Youth Baseball benefit tournament during the month of July, which also brought in money for the program.

There is a Labor Day Weekend package put on by the Jaycees, which will include men's and women's softball tournaments, a beer tent, volleyball, a dance, horseshoes and a game tent for the kids.

The biggest item taking place seems to be more of a total community involvement. The Kiwanis Club and the Lions Club in addition to many residents in St. Johns have become very active in helping the program.

It appears as though the program can only show great improvement in future years. With T-ball finishing up its first season and the minor league having a successful start, the quality should be even better in the future.

Jaycee member Lee VanCamp said "a special thank you goes out to all the coaches and umpires.

We thank the Coaches of the Little & Minor Leagues and the Umpires of the Youth Baseball Program

Couple enjoys making rag dolls and wooden toys

By Sue Gladstone
Student Intern

When Thomas and Barbara Carter became grandparents they decided to make their grandchildren toys that they could cherish.

Grandma Carter started making rag dolls and Grandpa Carter started producing wooden trucks.

The Carters now have grandchildren ranging from eight months to ten years old and they are still making their grandchildren happy with rag dolls, wooden cradles and trucks.

But now the toys outnumber the grandchildren so the Carters have been going to area fairs and art displays selling their toys. They were encouraged by neighbor, Shirley Spencer, who insisted that they share their talent with others.

Mrs Carter said that she has always liked dolls and she enjoys seeing how they come out after finishing one.

"I test all of my dolls out on my grandchildren," she said. "One of my grandchildren likes the ugly ones. The uglier they are, the more she enjoys them," she said with a smile.

From Raggedy Ann and Andy to Little Orphan Annie and Sandy, Mrs Carter makes several of these favorite cartoon and storybook characters, along with redhead ball players with freckles to granny dolls, she can make them all.

All of Mrs Carter's dolls are made of durable and washable materials.

There is nothing like wood for toys," Mr Carter expressed while standing on one of his many trucks. He said he tries to make the toy entirely out of wood and uses wood pegs, avoiding nails and screws when possible. Along with wooden trucks, cars and helicopters he also makes children's furniture for Mrs Carter's dolls.

The toys that Mr Carter makes are made of top grade lumber and varnished with child safe varnish.

The Carters added that they are not in this to make a fortune and what money they do make goes right back into making more dolls and toys.

"We enjoy selling our toys so some child can enjoy them," Mrs. Carter said. Our kids still get a kick out of it."

The Carters will be displaying their creations during the Home Tour at the Arts and Crafts Show and Sell on the east side of the Courthouse lawn, September 13.

"We are always happy to have people over and happy to take orders," Mr Carter said. To get ahold of the Carters call 224-3173.

August means sweet corn

By George McQueen
Extension Director

If your idea of heaven is freshly picked sweet corn, August is a heavenly month. This month the best varieties of sweet corn come to harvest. Whether you grew your own or patronize the local farmers' market or roadside stand, this is your time to enjoy.

Sweet corn isn't hard to grow. Horticulturists at Michigan State University suggest that the major limiting factor on sweet corn in home gardens is space: corn takes a lot of it. Each stalk produces only one or two ears, so a sizable planting is needed to provide a family with corn for fresh eating and preserving.

Unlike most other garden crops, which can be dotted around the landscape wherever you have a free bit of land, corn must be planted in blocks. This is necessary because corn relies on the wind to carry pollen from the tassels to the silks. Block planting improves the chances of good pollination, which in turn gives you fully filled out ears.

Planting sweet corn much before May 20 in central Michigan can be a risky business. Sweet corn is a warm-season crop — its seeds will rot in cool, moist ground, and seedlings can be damaged by late spring frosts. An early planted crop that makes it, of course, will give you an early harvest.

To stretch your enjoyment of the sweet corn harvest, plant several blocks of the same variety at two-week intervals or plant early, midseason and late varieties at the same time. A double planting might be made to give you some surplus for canning or freezing.

Avoid planting sweet corn next to field corn, popcorn or ornamental corn. All types of corn will cross-pollinate. This affects the flavor, texture and general edibility of the sweet corn. Only varieties which mature 10 to 15 days apart (check your seed packets!) may safely be planted near one another on the same day.

Sweet corn will grow in most well drained soils. Heavy clay or highly sandy soils can be improved before planting with the addition of compost, peat moss, grass clippings, leaves or other organic material.

Plant seeds about 2 inches deep and 10 to 12 inches apart in rows 3 feet apart. Overcrowding will cause fewer and poorer ears to be formed. Fertilizing with a complete garden fertilizer like 12-12-12 before planting will help the young corn plants get off to a good start. Use 1 cup of fertilizer for every 25 feet of row. Spread it on the soil and mix it in with a rake. Apply a high nitrogen fertilizer when the corn is knee-high and again when tassels appear. Use 1 cup fertilizer per 50 feet of row. Apply it in a 1-inch band on each side of the rows, near the bases of the stalks.

Corn produces best when it's kept weed free. A combination of mulching and cultivating is a fairly effective strategy. Mulching with several inches of grass clippings, leaves or similar material will also help conserve soil moisture. Though plenty of water is especially important from tasseling to picking, growing corn will benefit from watering any time temperatures are high and rainfall hasn't amounted to an inch in the past week.

Harvest corn when kernels reach the milk stage — kernels contain a milky juice and pop readily when pushed with a thumbnail. Clear juice means the corn is still immature. A doughy substance indicates the corn is past its peak. Corn passes the prime edible stage in seven to 10 days — or sooner when the weather is very hot — so it's important to check the garden frequently and harvest ears that are ready. The lower ears on a stalk usually mature one or two days earlier than the top ones.

After picking, cook and eat, refrigerate or preserve corn as soon as possible. It loses quality very rapidly.

Probably the most destructive and hard to control pest of sweet corn is the raccoon. Raccoons will return to a sweet corn patch night after night to feed on the mature ears. A chicken wire fence bent into a "C" shape facing outward from the garden is about the only effective control.

Corn earworms feed on the kernels near the tips of developing ears. Damaged portions can be cut away before cooking. Corn borers may tunnel into stalks and ears. Protective chemical sprays are about the only way to keep them out.

Corn smut, a fungus disease, carries over in the soil from year to year. Remove the gray growths as they appear on the ears and stalks this year and rotate the corn to another part of the garden next year.
