Six alarm fire

Six area fire departments fought an all day battle, as a large barn at Livingston Farms, North US-27, burned Monday. Firemen were able to save the west wing of the structure which contained hay and milking equipment and the Livingston's 30 head of cattle were milked there while firemen still worked at stopping the fire. Owners, Alden and Eugene Livingston were unable to place a dollar figure on the loss of the east side of their major barn building, but said the roof structure is completely destroyed and 350 tons of hay stored there suffered both fire and water damage.

Fire chief Clare Maier said St. Johns was assisted by Ovid, Maple Rapids, Fowler, DeWitt city and Lansing fire departments. (Photos by David Olds)

Commission approves landfill expansion

By SUE KILEY WHITE

The controversy over the Granger Landfill expansion is far from being dead and buried.

Angry Watertown Township residents vowed to take legal actions following approval of a 10-year special use permit for Granger by the Clinton County Board of Commissioners Tuesday morning.

"You wait until the next election, Mr. DePond," shouted one resident following the seven to four vote in favor of Granger's landfill.

County Commissioner Richard DePond said he could not advocate denial of the special use permit because he felt the landfill was operating safely and providing a service to people not only in Clinton County but also in surrounding counties. DePond suggested the SUP be approved with added restrictions.

Some of the restrictions included: ...any subsequent owner or operator assumes the obligation of the former operator with reference to operation activities. The operator shall agree to operate a Type I Sanitary Landfill (hazardous wastes) only within the 26 acres which includes setbacks of the total 180.99 acres.

The operator further agrees to pay seven cents per cubic yard of Type II waste disposed of in the landfill to a trust fund for the life of the SUP. Expenditures from this fund will be managed by a committee consisting of one citizen representative appointed by the county board, the Watertown Township supervisor, one county commissioner and one representative of the operator. This fund may be used for off-site litter control, ground and surface water monitoring, statistical assessment of incoming trash, construction inspection or a post closure fund. The trust fund would begin July 1, 1982.

Also prior to the issuance of the special use permit, the owner-operator will post a performance bond for $75,000.

The conditions of the SUP are subject to the county, the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and Granger signing a formal agreement.

The debate over the landfill began six months ago when Jerry Granger, owner of the dump, asked for a renewal of the SUP in addition to an expansion. There have been dozens of heated and emotional public hearings regarding the landfill.

Commissioner Robert Steinman took an opposite position from DePond and recommended denial of the SUP, saying that the landfill, "...may well be a hazardous problem in the future."

"What we have at stake is the integrity of government," he said. "These people were made promises in the past with regards to the life span of this landfill. They were told in five years it would be filled up and turned into a golf course."

Steinman also said the landfill is a deterrent to future growth. He suggested the people living adjacent to the landfill be given some kind of aid for having their properties devalued by the dumping site.

"Has property devalued?" questioned DePond. Roger Overway, board chairman added, "I can't believe people would move or build near a landfill thinking it would turn into a golf course."

The People's Action League (PAL) will be having a meeting Thursday (tonight) to decide which course of action they want to take.

"We got snowballed under," said Pete Clark, a farmer in the area. "The commissioners took the easy way out."

Clark used to farm in the landfill area before it was turned into a dumping site.

Ovid-Elsie school district fights additional budgeting difficulties

By SHARON RANDALL

Ovid-Elsie School District is having trouble borrowing money to meet payroll and other expenses that will arise between now and October when the next state aid payment is due.

Superintendent David Porrell said local banks have agreed to bid on a $298,000 state aid note for the school but have asked that they pursue a second loan against anticipated taxes, which demands a higher interest rate. The problem is compounded for the school district because after voters turned down a June millage request, the only millage available to borrow against is the 7.9215 allocated through the county.

Voters return to the polls, Aug. 10 to vote on three proposals which would give the district 21 mills for operation, 1.5 mills for deficit retirement and .5 mill for roof repairs and maintenance.

Saying the district is down to $529 in available cash, Porrell said the Board of Education had received state approval to borrow $692,000 against state aid but could not obtain bids from either local or Detroit banks.

"This isn't unusual, this year," Porrell explained. "Banks are already at the maximum on tax sheltered notes."

Porrell said the district is seeking approval to borrow $298,000 against taxes anticipated from the district's allocated millage and that lending institutions are more apt to bid on those notes because they can demand a higher interest rate. He explained that loans made against state aid are held to 12 percent interest while those against tax revenues can be made at 14.5 percent.

The problem facing the district is that it will be the end of August before any funds can be realized from loans made against anticipated taxes, Porrell explained, and cash is needed to meet an Aug. 7 payroll.

"What local banks have agreed to do," he explained, "is bid on notes against our state aid totaling $298,000, but will only make $125,000 available to us before the Aug. 10 election." If the millage passes, the district will get the remainder to carry them through until a loan is

DeWitt man seriously hurt in accident

A DeWitt man received serious injuries in a one-car accident on U.S. 27, just north of Cutler Road, in the early morning hours of Tuesday, July 21, Clinton County Sheriff's deputies report. John Vanbuskirk, 18, of 247 W. Herbison Road, DeWitt, was taken to Sparrow Hospital in Lansing to be treated for injuries sustained in the accident, deputies said.

Vanbuskirk was southbound on U.S. 27 when he apparently lost control of the car he was driving, crossing the northbound lanes of U.S. 27. The car struck a ditch and then slid backwards, striking a pine tree, deputies said.

Tools valued at $10,000 were stolen from a truck belonging to Brown Brothers Construction on July 22, sheriff's deputies report. The truck had been broken into and several tools were stolen and a fuel tank removed from the truck, deputies said.

Antonio Rosales, 41, of 3638 Twilight Lane, Lansing, received serious injuries in a one-car accident on Airport Road, one-half mile north of Grand River, on July 25, deputies report.

Rosales was northbound on Airport Road when an animal ran across the road in front of his car. Rosales lost control of the car when it struck the animal, deputies said. Rosales was taken to St. Lawrence Hospital in Lansing.

Mrs. Jerome Corr of 12940 Forest Hill Road reported a 94-piece silver set and $30 in cash were taken from her home on July 23, deputies said. Mrs. Corr said they were away on vacation and when they returned they found the items missing, deputies report.

Search continues for assault suspect

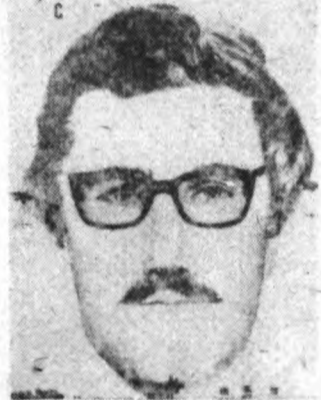

The DeWitt Township Police are looking for a white male, in his 20's, with average height and build, dark brown hair, and glasses with flip up sunglasses, in connection with an attempted sexual assault on a seven-year-old St. Johns girl on July 21. A composite picture of the suspect has been forwarded to all Lansing area police departments.

The man was wearing blue jeans and a blue shirt and drove away in a black, late model, sports-type car with an open "T" roof. It was clean and good condition and could have possibly been a Camaro or Trans Am, police said.

The suspect approached the seven-year old girl and her five-year-old male cousin as they played in the parking lot of the Calvary Baptist Church at 14769 Wood Road, DeWitt, police said. The suspect then lured the girl into the basement of the church where he offered her money to remove her clothing, police report. When the victim refused the money, the suspect forcibly molested the child and attempted to remove her clothing, police said. On being interrupted by the entry of the cousin, the suspect fled the scene in the vehicle, police report.

Anyone with information is asked to call the DeWitt Township Police at 372-3582 or the Clinton County Detective Bureau at 372-2039.

This composite drawing was created from a description of the suspect by witnesses.

Criteria set for mobile homes

By SUE KILEY WHITE

In an effort to conform with a recent Supreme Court decision regarding mobile homes on private property Clinton County Board of Commissioners adopted a text amendment at their Tuesday meeting.

In February, the Michigan Supreme Court held that a per se exclusion of mobile homes from all areas not designated as mobile home parks has no reasonable basis under the police power and is therefore unconstitutional.

This reverses a decision made by the court 30-years-ago according to Jack Nelson, director of the the department of development control, which held that a municipality may constitutionally limit the use of trailers to trailer parks.

Tuesday commissioners adopted criteria which must followed for both site-built and mobile homes.

The criteria precludes the 14-foot wide mobile home, which means mobile homes outside a park must be of the "double wide" variety.

"There should be a provision in there for smaller mobile homes," commented Commissioner Glenn Webster. "I can't see why a young couple just starting out should be denied a mobile home on private property just because they can't afford a double wide."

The list of criteria is available at the department of developmental control in the court house annex on Oak Street in St. Johns.

Teenager injured

A teenager from St. Johns received minor injuries in an accident at the intersection of US-27 and Gibb Street at 5 p.m. on July 15, St. Johns City Police said.

Phillip Thompson, 16, of 1610 S. Lansing, was eastbound on Gibb Street, crossing US-27, when the car he was driving was struck by a car driven by Mary Jo Truesdale, 29, of 12540 Shaftsbury Road, Perry, police said.

A tool box and tools belonging to Dan Eckley of 205 E. Elm, St. Johns were reported stolen from the back his pick up truck on July 17, police said. The tools and box valued at $900 were stolen between July 10 and 11, police report.

The police also said a number of bicycles were stolen last week.

Eleanor Bancroft of 609 N. Morton reported her grandsons black Schwinn bike was stolen on July 15, police said. The license number on the bike is 0038.

Mrs. James Sweeney of 907 S. Swegles reported a boys vista three-speed bike stolen on July 16, police report. The bike was taken sometime between July 3 and July 6 and is a reddish-orange color, police said.

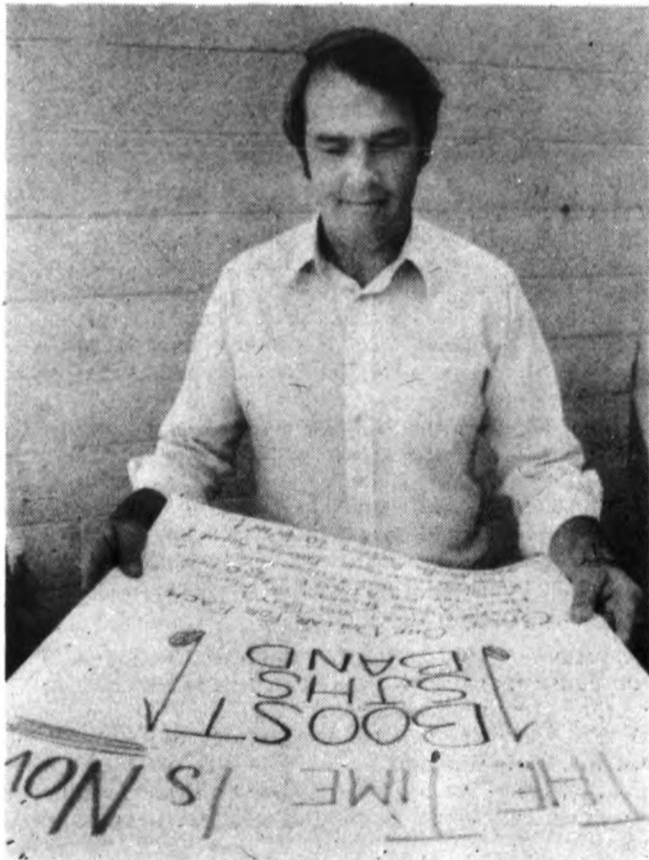

Charles and Ellen Dunn of 407 S. Lansing reported their son's 10-speed red huffy bike was stolen on July 17, police said.

Gerald Latimer of 608 Church St. reported his daughter's yellow 10-speed Western Flyer was stolen on July 18, police said.

Elsie agent is honored

Stephen R. Melvin of the Carter-Melvin Insurance Agency, Elsie, and Independent insurance representative, has been honored as a 1980 Merit Award Winner by the Board of Time Insurance Company, Milwaukee-based life and health insurer.

This year, approximately 650 of the 4,700 Independent agencies which represent Time qualified for the award, according to W.E. Jordens, senior vice president and director of marketing. The Merit Award is presented annually to those agents who have shown exceptional ability in the areas of service to clients, product knowledge and sales activity during the previous year.

St. Johns Band Boosters are still pushing tickets for a cash drawing during Sidewalk Sales Days. Co-chairman of ticket sales, Herb Brown, said band supporters can still get in on the drawing by buying a ticket at the booth in front of the D and C store, or from any band parent. Proceeds will help send St. Johns band members to music camp in August and help support next year's program.

Farm bills, 'disasters' to farmers

By SHARON RANDALL

Calling farm bills currently awaiting action in Washington D.C., "disasters," a National Farmers Union lobbyist warned area farmers that they must "get the word out" to congressmen or "a lot of producers won't be in business when the next farm bill is written."

NFU Director of Legislative Services Robert Mullins spoke to Clinton County farmers in St. Johns, Monday evening. He said proposed farm bills in both the U.S. Senate and House were the weakest farm legislation to ever be seriously considered by the congress, "and to make matters worse, the administration will try to make it even weaker."

Mullins said congressmen will be coming home in a few weeks and Michigan farmers "have to send the word back with these guys." NFU's Washington staff, working with the heads of other farm organizations (National Farmer's Organization and American Agriculture Movement) will lead a fight to keep the bill from getting any weaker, he said, but congressmen have to know that their constituent farmers are alarmed.

He told the Clinton County gathering that Secretary of Agriculture John Block recently said he would recommend a veto if the legislation reaching the president's desk contained all the provisions proposed in the current mark-up of the farm bill.

Secretary Block has specifically singled out the dairy price support program as the most unacceptable provision of the bill. Block further said that the target price program as well as the sugar and peanut sections would also give him reason to recommend a veto, Mullins reported.

Clinton County's NFU president, Jim Graham, a dairy farmer, said area dairy farmers are already worried. Milk prices have dropped 27 cents a hundred weight since April.

Graham, who is also second vice-president of the state NFU group, said milk price support is "lower than it's been in quite a few years."

The loan levels in both bills are unacceptably low to the Farmers Union, Mullins said. "They don't even come close to the cost of production for any commodity. We're going to take this fight to the floor in both houses so the people can see in black and white what their representatives of Congress have done."

Mullins recommended that farmers push to have the bill made stronger and "let the president veto it." He said the NFU will be supporting amendments to the bills which will raise loan rates on the basic commodities to reflect at least the cost of production and be indexed annually to reflect increases in those costs.

He said he was "not very optimistic" that any improvements would result and expressed displeasure in the Reagan administration. "An awful lot of farmers voted for him," he said.

Mullins said he rejects Reagan's "supply side economics" theory which puts the money at the top of the economic scale, giving benefits to big corporations, believing that it will "trickle down" to the people at the bottom.

"The only way we are going to improve this economy," he said, "is by a demand type economics, putting people to work so they have money to spend." He said Reagan's tax package would only help people who make more than $50,000. "The people who need help, the people who make less than $15,000, won't get any benefit at all," he insisted. "Those in the middle

Residents petition for city water

By SUE KILEY WHITE

St. Johns residents living on South Lansing Street might have city water by this winter depending on how fast plans proceed.

Monday night the St. Johns City Commission decided to turn the matter over to Randy Humphrey, city manager for further study. It was the consensus of the commission however, that the South Lansing Street area should be connected with city water.

Frank Gilmore, 1511 S. Lansing was one of 29 people signing a petition requesting improvements to South Lansing Street including curb, gutter, water, sewer and paving.

"We want water right away," said Gilmore. "We're already having trouble with our well."

The trouble Gilmore is referring to is a decrease in water pressure. Gilmore contends the city's new well just off Townsend Road is drawing water out of neighborhood wells. The well is not completed yet, but is expected to be operational within a month.

A memo to the commission by Richard Coletta, city clerk indicated the people who circulated these petitions were informed it may be a few years before all the requested improvements could be started.

Mayor John Arehart did indicate that adding South Lansing Street to the city water lines would get the project started and help alleviate any water problems residents might be experiencing.

Because the project is considered a rather large one by the city, it will probably take several years to get enough money to do everything according to Coletta's memo.

After the city manager gives his report (which is expected sometime in August), the next phase of the project will be to have two public hearings.

Residents will be special assessed for the water project. Presently city water goes to about the 1300 block of Lansing Street.

The city commission also decided to boost police patrols on North Lansing Street following a complaint from James Fox, 907 N. Lansing concerning speeding on the north edge of town.

"There's a tremendous amount of speeding going on all the time," said Fox. "I don't mean five or 10 miles over the limit. It's more like 15 to 20 miles over, the majority of the time."

Fox also reported the problem is compounded on the weekends with travelers using Lansing Street as a by-pass for US-27.

Commissioners also voted in favor of approving Robert Blastic's final preliminary plat for Orchard Estates, located in the Hampshire-Lincolnshire area, provided the petitioner loops the water lines with the city's instead of installing fire hydrants.

John Hannah, commissioner, explained the hydrants would cause more work for city crews in addition to more time spent in administration.

"You're also going to get complaints of rusty water at times, too," said Hannah.

Commissioner Don Roesner noted the looping of the water lines was going to have to be done eventually anyway.

A rezoning request by Gordon Long, new owner of the proposed mall adjacent to Fisher's Big Wheel on US-27, was also approved by the commission. A little over an acre was rezoned from high density residential to residential commercial. The land was purchased for additional parking.

A public hearing on Long's project is scheduled for Aug. 24 at 7:45 p.m. in the commission chambers.

The next meeting of the St. Johns City Commission will be Aug. 10 at 7:30 p.m. at city hall.

Substance abuse shows up on the job

(This is the seventh in a series of 12 articles dealing with monthly topics being discussed at public meetings by members of the Clinton County Substance Abuse staff. If your club or organization is interested in obtaining a speaker, contact the center in St. Johns.)

By SHARON RANDALL

There's no way to separate substance abuse and a person's occupation, and business and industry must start taking a look at what they can do to help alleviate the problem, says Tom Dietiker of the Clinton County Substance Abuse Center staff.

While it is difficult to put dollar figures on the amount of loss to a company or business, Dietiker said that if substance abuse can be arrested, the gross national product will increase 20 percent Dietiker said use becomes abuse whenever the use of alcohol or drugs begins to negatively affect a person's physical health, social and family relationships, his self concept and his occupation or school or homework.

"Companies must make a decision as to whether they should be involved in treating alcohol and other substance abuse," Dietiker said, "and it is becoming unrealistic to decide not to."

The costs that generate from doing nothing include the losses while the worker's productivity decreases, the cost of replacing him when absent and usually the cost of sick time, too. Eventually the cost of replacing the substance abuser with a newly trained person is added to the list.

Dietiker said a hidden cost lies in the untreated person who goes from job to job to job, causing the same expense to different companies. "This happens because there is always a pool of people with alcohol and other substance abuse related patterns who move from job to job," he said. "And there is no way to avoid cost due to this problem," he insisted. "Companies realizing this often look for ways of treating or reacting to the abuse that minimize the costs as much as possible."

There are specific signs that are indicators of ensuing or on-going alcohol and other substance abuse, according to Dietiker. Alcohol use prior to or during the work time, gradual or sudden drop in work output and gradual or sudden increase in absences, are signs that may indicate an abuse problem, he said.

"Hangovers and intoxication are not the only factors that might indicate a substance abuse problem," he said. "Employers should look for absences due to problems in the family and legal problems, which are also indicators."

Dietiker said it is important to realize that these factors might indicate other things as well, and that to be sure an employer must ask.

While there is not an established employee assistance program in Clinton County, the Substance Abuse Center will give talks and assist by determining what kind of treatment might be necessary for a particular individual. "We could treat them here," Dietiker indicated, "or send them where they can get help."

He said companies should keep in mind that treatment for substance abuse is covered in most benefit packages carried on employees.

The center will also assist in setting up an employee assistance program, he informed. These programs are usually a cooperative venture between unions and management and operate out of the personnel office. Goals are set in terms of worker output and attendance and the union and management teams agree to encourage employees to use the program.

Senior finance forum designed to inform

A special forum on finance has been planned for tri-county citizens who want to learn more about money management both before and after retirement.

Sponsored by the Tri-county Office on Aging, Monday, Aug. 3, the all day session will be held at Prudden Hall at the Lansing Civic Center.

Topics are aimed at providing an educational opportunity for persons who want to be better money managers, said Shirley Maher, paralegal for the tri-county senior office.

Sessions start at 10 a.m. and run until 3 p.m. and lunch is available if reservations are in by Monday, Aug. 3.

Ms. Maher said the forum is the result of questions and concerns expressed by seniors through her office. "We are hoping to attract people who are planning to retire so we can help them make arrangements and know what to expect," she said.

Included in the sessions is a short presentation on what happens when a person stops working. "It's designed to make those thinking about retiring more aware of what happens when they stop working and the kind of adjustments that will have to be made," she said.

Other topics include help with buying, shopping carefully and knowing how to do seasonal shopping.

The major speaker is an expert in money management, according to Ms. Maher, who will speak on the issue of "how to manage the little bit of money you have on a fixed income." She said that advice will be given on how to satisfy creditors.

Expert advice will also be offered in estate planning and security investments which Ms. Maher said is not just for the wealthy senior. "We will be looking at how to best invest the little you have," she said, "how to plan ahead and set up trusts, avoid probate and avoid certain kinds of taxation."

To make reservations for the forum and lunch call your local senior citizen office. In Clinton County call 224-7998; in Eaton County call 543-6075.

On with the show

St. Johns new Summer Civic Players stage their production of "You Can't Take it With You" Friday and Saturday evenings at Pocus Auditorium, St. Johns High School. Bob Koger and Carol Sholty direct the comedy about the Cobb family.

Brent Laidler as Grandpa and Carol Field (center) as Penny, argue with Gaye Cobb as Miss Henderson, who comes to collect on Grandpa's income tax for the past 24 years. Tickets are available at the door for $1. The show starts at 8 p.m.

Fowler contacts food service

Hoping to pull it's faltering hot lunch program out of the red, Fowler's Board of Education agreed to contract a food service company to run the program on a trial basis at a meeting Monday evening.

Board members opted to go with Canteen Food Services and will share a manager from the company with nearby Fulton Schools who recently chose the same organization for their program.

Fowler will maintain their own cooks but food purchasing and management will be handled by the company. They will also be responsible for a campaign to increase participation which is one reason the program is not successful according to Jackson.

The Canteen company has pledged a better selection of meals with more variety.

Two other county schools, Bath and DeWitt, also made decisions this summer to try outside administration for their hot lunch programs.

St Joseph addition construction starts soon

By JEAN MARTIN

Plans are underway for a new addition to St. Joseph's Catholic Church in St. Johns. Bids for the new building project were opened in Lansing Wednesday, and construction is slated to begin early in August.

According to St. Joseph's pastor, Fr. William G. Hankerd, the new wing will provide for some of the parish's most pressing needs. Seating for about 188 will be added to the ground level of the existing 480-seat sanctuary. The addition will also provide offices, records rooms, and a large meeting room.

Fr. Hankerd said that the local parish council had been looking at alternatives for the growth of the parish which numbers over 1100 families. Among the choices was the prospect of building a whole new church.

"We would have had to move out in the country," said Fr. Hankerd. "We were probably talking about a million and a half (dollars)."

An ad hoc building committee was appointed by the council to study the question further. Members of the study committee included Richard Smith, then chairman of the council's administrative commission; Charles Coletta, Norman Rademacher, Jerry Hufnagel, Harry Goerge, and parish secretary Ruth Henning.

This year the study committee returned to the parish council with the recommendation that the north yard between the church and the rectory be used to build an addition. Plans from the architectural firm of Mayotte, Dhaene, and Associates were accepted by the council.

Another feature of the new addition, a barrier-free ramp to the rear entrance, will provide easy access from the handicapped parking spaces in the north parking lot. A chair lift will provide access to the basement offices, meeting rooms, and restrooms.

Great care has been taken, says Fr. Hankerd, to see that the new addition fits in architecturally with the rest of the parish plant.

"We want to save what we have," he began. "This proposed addition - st. joseph church church has an awful lot of memories for a lot of people."

Among the things which will be preserved are the three bays of stained glass windows on the north wall of the sanctuary which will have to be removed to house the new seating. They will be used in the front and rear of the new construction. Those facing the ramp area will be illuminated with wash lights.

The bricks to be used in the new wing have been carefully chosen to match those used in the church and rectory which were completed in 1908 and 1910 respectively. Those bricks are longer than bricks used in ordinary construction today and have been specially made for restoration work.

Seating in the new section will face the altar at a 30 degree angle, and no changes in the present chancel are planned. Wainscoting from the present north wall and matching oak trim will be used in the addition to lend an air of harmony to the whole nave.

"Fr. Martin's office will be the new sacristy. We won't have to leave the building to say Mass now," explained Fr. Hankerd. "This whole side porch will go too."

"There will be a new confessional right there in my garden," he laughed. "Clinton County will be losing some good farm land, but I guess it's for a good cause."

Profiles will make students more employable

By SHARON RANDALL

Clinton County Intermediate School District has been chosen for an employability development plan study and awarded a $17,000 grant to organize a student credentials file that will help them obtain employment.

Superintendent Larry Schwartzkopf said the Department of Education and the U.S. Department of Labor has funded five or six sites in the state asking them to come up with different plans for making students "more employable." He said all plans will then be reviewed and perhaps receive additional funding to operate as a model.

Clinton's plan is being developed under Bill Richards, director of Clinton's education council and Community Resource Volunteers. Schwartzkopf said Clinton has been working under a separate grant with education councils in Gratiot and Isabella counties to develop a student profile record and the new grant would enable them to expand upon the plan. "We were selected because we are rural and because we are a three-county group," he explained.

The Clinton plan depends upon a computer service and encourages students to develop a profile on themselves, listing career goals, work experience, academic majors, references, extra curricular activities and any other kinds of information that may interest a future employer.

The new grant project will utilize a task force of students, business and industry people, educators, parents and counselors to help decide what really should be listed in the student profile. "We'll be trying to discover what employers are looking for," Richards explained. "What should go on a student credentials file and how all that information should eventually be used." He said all three counties will have a separate task force.

He said that part of the study will be used to develop a concept for encouraging students to plan ahead in developing their profiles. "The employability development plan concept is that the student will be asking what he should be doing to build a good profile," Richards said.

He said the profile does not include the student's confidential record or his grades; those would continue to be handled as they always have been.

He said the employability plan is aimed at students who plan to go into the work force when they complete high school. "Preparing students for jobs is an important, critical goal of the schools," he said, "and schools must tailor this preparation to the individual."

Next Thursday, Aug. 6, Dr. Robert Weishaj, director of the Michigan Department of Career Education will be in St. Johns to speak to area residents interested in helping with the task force. Weishaj will speak at the Intermediate School District's Shared-Time building, downtown St. Johns at 8:15 a.m.

Those interested should call the CRV office, 224-8285.

Clinton Farmer

Bacon on the hoof

Michigan farmers are raising fewer hogs, according to statistics from the Michigan Agriculture Reporting Service, down 13 percent from last year. Poor hog prices as well as rising production costs have driven producers to make drastic cutbacks in their breeding stock which is down 20 percent from a year ago. The spring pig crop totalled 662,000 pigs saved, 14 percent less than last spring. Aided by mild winter temperatures, average litter size swelled to a record 7.7 pigs per litter, the service reported.

Grain elevator approved despite public opposition

By SUE KILEY WHITE

Despite some public opposition to the Westmac Grain Elevator project plan, Clinton County Board of Commissioners approved the Economic Development Corporation (EDC) funded project by a seven to three vote.

Westmac is a $4.3 million grain elevator project which will be located on Clinton County's southwestern corner near Grand Ledge. Only $4 million will be financed through EDC funding.

The project approved is a high-speed elevator, drying and storage facility, together with related office facilities. The elevator facility will have storage capacity of about two million bushels and will have railroad car loading facilities for use in conjunction with the adjacent C'O Railroad track.

Construction is expected to be completed in October of this year. The construction of this elevator is expected to decrease the number of farmers having to haul their grain to Toledo.

Doug Inglis, attorney for the Mid-Michigan Farm and Grain Association (MMFGA) which represents elevator operators in Eaton and Clinton Counties addressed the commissioners saying he questioned the vagueness of the project plan and the new elevator's "public purpose."

"What are your standards for determining public purpose?" he questioned. "Isn't this really a private purpose?"

Inglis went on to say that private enterprises have done a good job in the past and what his group really objects to is government financing of this project.

"Other grain elevators already in existence had to do it on their own with no government assistance," Inglis commented.

Lon Smith, president of the MMFGA from Sunfield asked if the new elevator would be a "job creator."

"Right now there are about 24,000 manhours for truckers going to Toledo," he said. "You are taking away at least six hours of work away from the truckers."

He also explained that the same amount of grain was going to be going into the pie, so in essence the new elevator will be taking business away from existing elevators according to Smith.

"There won't be any enhancement of business for the state," said Smith. "There will be no more jobs, no more business...you're only jeopardizing existing businesses that are already paying taxes."

He added, "This is a slap in the face to the fellow who has been paying the load all along."

Blake Kreager, bond council for the project, said the biggest benefit will be the increased price farmers will be getting for grain. This money he contends will later be spent in the county.

"You're always going to be in competition in some way with somebody," said Kreager.

David Morriss of Eagle Township commented, "If this state needs anything, it's business incentive."

Morriss said it's better to keep business in Michigan rather than giving it to out-of-state enterprises.

"EDC is not the answer to our problem," said Commissioner Walter (Bud) Nobis. "There's a wide gap between the number of businesses that are closing up in Michigan and those that are starting with EDC funds."

Commissioner Harold Martin also commented that he knew of at least seven families that would be hurt by the creation of a new grain elevator.

"Its (Westmac) of little benefit to the little farmer, but of big benefit to the big farmer," Martin said.

Voting no on the project was Nobis, Martin and Glenn Webster. Commissioner Richard DePond abstained from voting.

available on anticipated taxes. Porrell said the agreement is that the loan against state aid would be a short term loan, until the school receives approval for a loan against anticipated taxes.

Ovid-Elsie is the only school district in the county, still seeking operating millage. While Fowler, Bath and St. Johns are also going back to voters, Aug. 10, they have all passed renewal proposals. Ovid-Elsie voters turned down a total package in June which included their renewal.

Porrell said the district is "not talking about a great increase" in mills levied if their three millage proposals pass. Because of an anticipated 1.8 mills reduction in debt retirement, the net increase in millage will only be about 1.5 mills, he said.

Porrell explained that this year's total millage (if all three proposals pass) will be 32.9215 as opposed to 31.392 last year.

This will allow the district to at least provide a program similar to last year's, the superintendent reported.

Exploring the 'no' vote mystique

With the educational fate of Clinton County youngsters at four area schools hanging in limbo, waiting for the results of a special election, Aug. 10, the nagging forever unanswered question hangs in the air. "Who's voting, no?"

Where voters had a choice on June school election ballots, (in St. Johns, Fowler and Bath,) they said "no" to additional mills but passed renewal requests. Where school district's combined their renewal and extra requests, (in Ovid-Elsie and Pewamo-Westphalia,) voting was split. Pewamo-Westphalia passed their combination package but Ovid-Elsie voters turned their package down.

Several years ago, St. Johns schools used a poignant question to illustrate information distributed to parents before the election. "Who votes for school millages?" it asked. "No one," was the answer.

People don't vote for extra millage or extra taxes, it theorized, they vote for programs, for education, for children, for the future of a community.

So who are these people turning their backs on good school programs and the future of our community? And why are they?

I'm not so sure that even the "no" voters themselves know why.

Rumors are on the rampage, spread by people determined to assure themselves and others that it's okay to cut education programs for their own children and grandchildren and the children of their friends and neighbors.

Their reasons for voting "no" are based on grudges and misunderstandings with a particular teacher or administrator, forgetting the thousands of positive experiences children are having with special school people.

They vote "no" because they can give an example of a child who came through the system, unable to read well or spell correctly, forgetting the thousands who were well prepared by the system and met the challenge of jobs and college.

People vote "no" because there are too many sports programs and they vote "no" because there are too few.

They vote against millage because their children aren't in the system any longer, forgetting that they once were. They vote "no" because their children aren't in school yet, not realizing that it takes years to re-build a program after it's hit bottom.

People vote "no" because of misinterpretation and misunderstanding of facts and figures.

Last week on WRBJ's "Hotline" program, a caller complained about voting for additional millage saying there were too many administrators in St. Johns and that it was wasteful to furnish the superintendent with a car and membership in the country club.

Some superintendents do have these fringes as part of their contract but it isn't true in St. Johns. It is a common practice to furnish a superintendent with a car, but it has never been done in this district. Country club memberships are more common in larger school districts and have an advantage in the contacts they provide a school administrator, but in St. Johns this benefit is not part of the superintendent's salary arrangement.

If anything, administrative costs in the St. Johns district are below the state averages. Per pupil costs for administrative and business expenses for the 1979-80

By Sharon
Randall

school year were $489. Out of 531 Michigan school districts, St. Johns ranks 418th in these expenses. Bath, Ovid-Elsie and Fowler are near or below the state average.

Some people vote "no" because teachers "earn too much money." Fact is, while St. Johns teachers are the highest paid in the county, (as is typical for an area's largest school district,) St. Johns is still below state averages.

Other state figures show St. Johns below the average per pupil cost compared to other districts of the same size. The state average for the 17 Michigan schools the same size as St. Johns was $2,015, while this district spent $1,763 per pupil.

I wonder if a rumor about a superintendent's membership in the country club can make someone vote against millage, will knowing it isn't true make them vote "yes?"

Is there life after General Hospital?

General Hospital is number one among daytime TV audiences. It seems no matter where you go anymore, people are talking about it. Here then is the question we asked people on the streets of St. Johns: Do you watch General Hospital and do you feel it is worthy of all the attention it has gotten?

Becky Ruppert of St. Johns: I think it's good, real good. I guess it's just all the action and conversation. I'd say it's the best one on the air.

Teresa McClintic of St. Johns: I watch it now and then. It's getting really boring with what's going on now. Of course, I'm not home much to watch it in the summer anyway.

Keith Peterson of St. Johns: No, as a matter of fact I watch the other network. I try to catch The Young and The Restless when I'm home on my lunch break. I think soaps in general are underrated. They seem to have a bad rap as a waste of time, but they're a good mental exercise. I used to watch them regularly in college.

Alayne Blaylock of St. Johns: No, I don't watch it. Soaps are a waste of time I guess. I just wouldn't spend my time watching them. I don't watch much TV at all anyway.

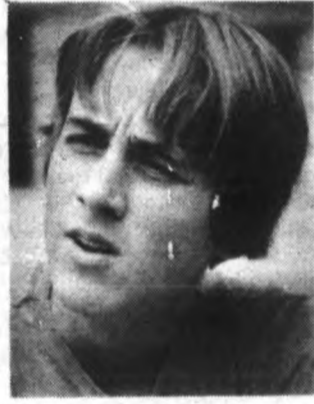

Julie Bedaux of St. Johns: Well, when I'm not working I watch it, but that's only once a week, so I

Julie Webster

Julie Bedaux

Scott Tarnosky

can't really keep up with the story. It doesn't interest me that much, besides I watch The Young and The Restless. I like soaps though, and I wish I could watch them all day.

Debbie Jones of Eureka: I only see it occasionally. I wouldn't really say it's my number one, so I'm really not caught up in it. Being a pastor's wife and busy all the time, I just feel like there are better things to do with my time.

Yvonne Barin of Fowler: Yes, of course. I think it's a great show. It's different, I love it. I think it's great how Heather and Laura act like they're tougher than the guys and we love to watch it because Rick Springfield is on it. It's definitely the best one on TV.

Julie Webster of St. Johns: I love to watch it. I rush home from school so I can see it. I like Rick Springfield and I like Hutch. They're letting Hutch stay in the hospital because they think somebody is going to kill him. I watch it everyday.

Scott Tarnosky of St. Johns: Yeah, I think it's a good show. I watch it quite a bit and so does most of my family. But, I don't think it's worthy of all kinds of people talking about it all the time and for things like Luke and Laura being on the Phil Donahue Show.

Lisa Smith of St. Johns: Yes, I do. I like General Hospital, it's the only one I watch. It doesn't have a bunch of sexy, smutty stuff. It does have that stuff sometimes, but it's adventurous.

Mothers protest time change for 'captain'

To the editor:

It has been brought to our attention that the Captain Kangaroo Show will be moving in September from 8 a.m. to 7 a.m. Not many of our pre-schoolers are up at that hour — it is as good as taking him off the air.

We, as interested mothers and devoted viewers, are concerned about the move. There is not enough television programming for children and this quality program is both educational and entertaining. The Captain has been on for over 25 years now. We have grown up with him and he is as much a part of our daily lives as that morning cup of coffee.

We do not need another adult talk show. CBS may be losing much of its viewing public with a move such as this.

We invite any other concerned parents to send a letter to:

Personality Profile

Chief Gene Reno: Pride is his department

By NANCY ZEIMEN

When you first walk into his office at the back of the Bath Township Hall the thought of what Gene Reno might be like had he just pulled you over for speeding doesn't hit you at first. Later, the large, smiling man with bright, blue eyes and wavy hair will admit under that "nice guy" image is a tough cop.

"I can smile at a guy, buy him dinner and then arrest him," he said. "With police work, do it easy, but do it."

Chief Reno came to head Bath's police department back in May of 1975. He arrived, soaked to the gills, during the flood that covered the area. The department, as he describes it, was a "mickey mouse" outfit and he was hired to turn it around. He admits he is a strict disciplinarian, believing strongly in enforcement of the law and professionalism from his officers.

"I'm saddled with the responsibility of providing good, decent, and fair law enforcement," Reno said. "Here in Bath it becomes a very personal thing because you're on a first name basis with almost everyone. The danger is in not being objective."

Reno more than enjoys Bath though, he identifies with it.

"Maybe I was born to be a policeman in Bath," he confides. "We are both rough cobs, not spongy, but more like a rock that when you rub it, it will take a polish. A sponge would fall into pieces."

Reno was born and raised in North Carolina, moving to Detroit when he was 14. He was a school crossing guard when he was 10, but didn't start a serious law enforcement career until he was in his early 20's.

"I've been an officer 35 years now and everyday I've learned something new. It's the most unique job in the world."

Reno's police career began at the end of World War II in a city of over 100,000 people on the island of Japan. A member of the first U.S. troops to enter the country after the bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, he was a sergeant in his early 20's when he became a member of the military police.

In a ceremony Reno recalls, while the mayor of the Japanese city relinquished his control to the military general of the U.S. troops stationed on the island, the Japanese sergeant handed his command to Reno.

"He had his men line up and as he handed me his sword he said 'with this goes my command.'"

The gold hilted sword Reno brought back with him is a reminder of how he became interested in police work. He came home to Detroit from Japan on New Year's Eve, 1945 and applied for the Detroit Police Department. He had malaria, but signed off his disability and for the next 27 years served with that department.

Gene married his wife, Kay, in August of 1947, two months before he joined the police. They had met at a wedding of one of Gene's army buddies, he was the best man and she, the maid of honor.

"She's the best thing in my life," he said.

His first four years were spent at the Petosky Station where he passed the detective test. He then stayed three years in Palmer Park as a detective before being transferred to the Criminal Intelligence Squad (CIB).

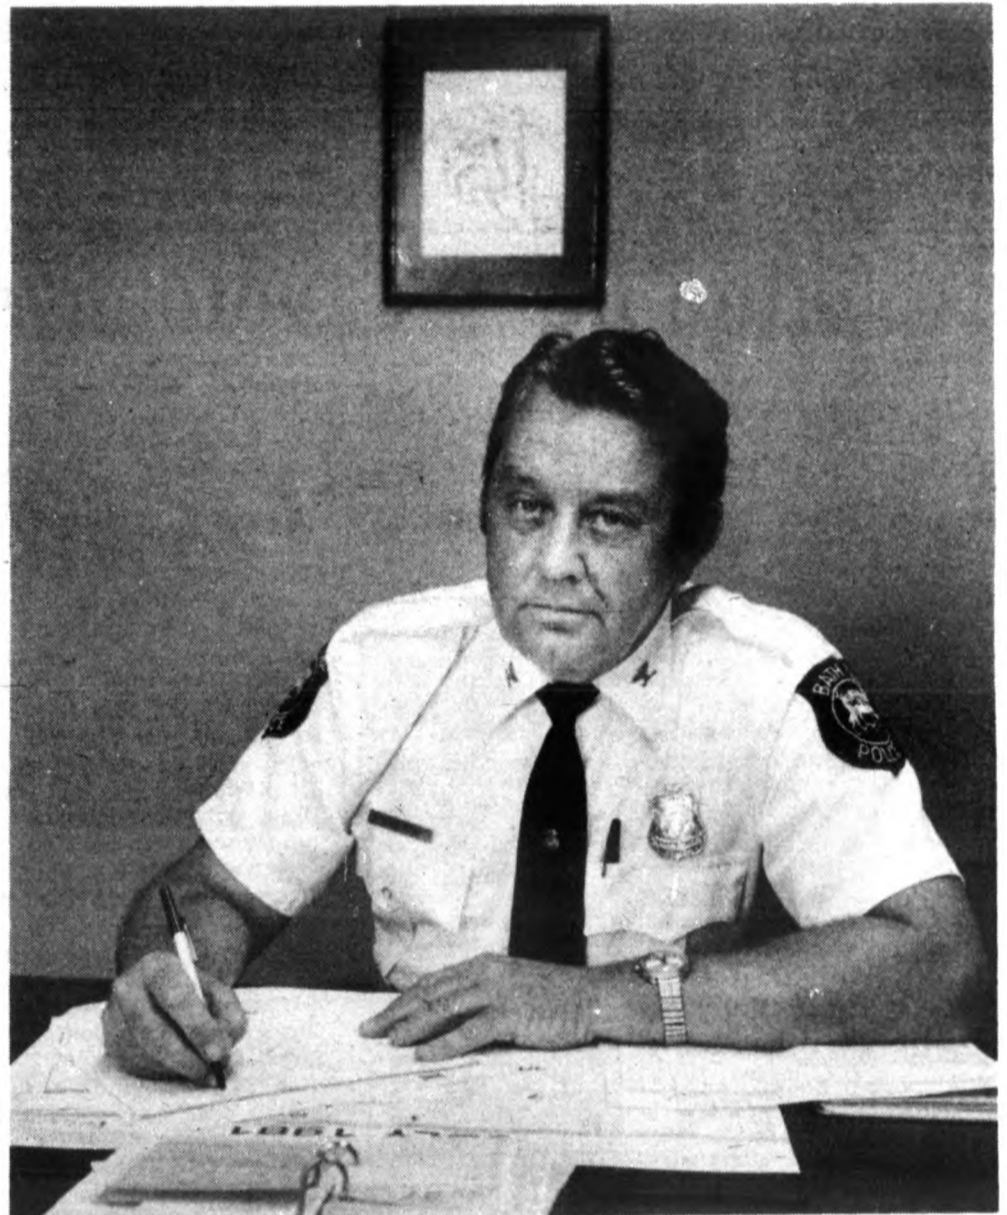

Surveillance of organized crime required the officers to work around the clock in order to get their man. As part of their work, Reno, "the Bulldog," and his partner, "the Flea," would disguise themselves as a couple and park along the dark streets of Detroit when staking out a home of a suspected mobster.

After the CIB, Reno went back to the detective division, where he did general crime investigation, his favorite kind of police work. The homicide bureau was also a part of Reno's career. He enjoyed this work as well, except for the autopsies.

If he was younger, Reno said he would like to go back to a big metropolitan department.

"I miss the heavy police work, the clamor of the big city. I worked vice and I miss that too," he said.

But Reno is settled in Bath, in fact, he calls it a paradise. In a recent issue of the township newsletter in his column, "The Thin Blue Line," Reno wrote about building pride in the Bath police department. A special shield (The Pride) has been added to the police cars and a shoulder patch to the uniforms. In his column, Reno wrote: "Pride is not come by readily or easily, but if we earn yours we have ours."

Gene Reno

He takes his work seriously, but there is time for kidding around too. Like a water pistol with a plaque for distinguishing himself as the worst shot among county law enforcement officials.

As he tells the story of the one and only time he shot a man, Reno removes his gun from his holster. It's the one he wore during his years in Detroit.

"The bullet sang about seven times," Reno recalls. "The man shouted he was hit, but I couldn't find a mark on him so I handcuffed him and took him to the station."

After they arrived at the station, the man was still saying he was shot, but the only mark was a bruise on his upper arm, Reno remembers.

"When they found the bullet it was flat as a pancake between his shirt and jacket," he added.

When Reno's not working, he takes special police classes at MSU or LCC, and enjoys playing golf, or working in his yard, but retirement doesn't interest him.

"I like being a police officer," he said. "I'm at the finest thing I could be doing."

Swanchara, Brunner join hands in Eureka

Julia Ann Swanchara and Terry Allen Brunner were united as one in a candlelight ceremony at the Eureka Congregational Christian Church on May, 16, 1981. The Rev. Doug Jones officiated the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Bancroft of St. Johns and Mr. Stephen Swanchara of Ashley. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Brunner of Fife Lake, formerly of St. Johns.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and step-father. Deb Jones sang "The Wedding Song," "If," and "We've Only Just Begun." She also served as organist and pianist.

The bride chose a Victorian effect, sleeveless gown of ivory nylon over taffeta, with a bodice of Venace lace trimmed with a ruffle, bib effect, and a high illusion neckline. The gown had an empire waistline with a full A-line skirt that trailed off into a cathedral length train edged with Venice lace.

For her headpiece, she wore a Victorian style hat trimmed with Venice lace and an attached veil that traveled to the middle of her back. She carried a silk bouquet of apricot colored roses, daisies, and Tiger lilies, accented by ivory angels lace and daisies.

The wedding party flowers were made by Deb French.

Brenda Strpko of Ashley served as maid of honor. She wore a Victorian style, apricot dress with a detailed lace attached cape and a matching hat. Kathy Scharnweber and Janice Slavik of Ashley, and Cindy Swanchara of St. Johns served as bridesmaids. They wore matching apricot dresses.

Larry Brunner of Lansing served as best man. Groomsmen were Richard Brunner of St. Johns, Robert Pfeuffer of Traverse City, and Roger Durbin of St. Johns. Steve, Eugene, and Doug Swanchara, and Bruce Durbin served as ushers.

The bride's mother wore a maize, floor-length gown of nylon over tafetta with a matching cape. The groom's mother wore a blue, floor-length gown with a matching jacket. Both wore wrist corsages of roses and angels lace.

Shannon French served as flower girl. Shw wore an ivory dress and a hat similar to the bride's and carried a basket of apricot daisies. Justin Bancroft served as ring bearer. He wore an ivory, long-tailed tuxedo similar to the groom's.

A reception for approximately 400 guests was held at the VFW Hall in St. Johns following the wedding.

Assisting in serving were Joyce Ann Stoddard, Diane Cunningham, Sharon Stoddard, Lori Sutberry, Melinda English, Michele Bailey, and Deb Brunner. Cake servers were Joyce Sutberry and Virginia Hibbard, aunts of the bride. Attending the guest book was Deb French. Hosts and hostesses were Ben and Jane Swanchara and Frank and Doris Bauman.

After a honeymoon trip to the upper peninsula, the couple now resides in St. Johns.

Mrs. Edwin Garner

Mohnke, Garner wed in June

The Laingsburg Church of the Nazarene was the scene of the wedding of Susan Marie Mohnke and Edwin Garner on the afternoon of June 20, 1981. The Rev. Wilfred Baker Jr., officiated at the double ring service.

The bride is the daughter of E. James and Marietta Mohnke of 6402 W. Parks Road, St. Johns. The groom is the son of Dorothy Garner of Tampa, Fla., and the late Henry Garner.

The altar was decorated with hurricane candelabras and arrangements of white daisies, yellow rose buds, baby's breath, and greens. "The Wedding Song," "The Wedding Prayer," and "Through the Eyes of Love," were sung by Shirley Rennels of St. Johns, while Janice Holcomb of Laingsburg accompanied her on the organ.

The bride wore a gown of Qiana knit with a bodice highlighted by a Queen Anne's neckline accented with a flower pattern of silk venetian lace. The border of the sunburst-pleated, full A-line skirt with semi-cathedral length train and fitted sleeves also featured matching lace. Matching lace and beads accented the fingertip veil. The bride's bouquet was a cascade of white daisies, yellow rose buds, and baby's breath.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Fran Mohnke, sister-in-law of the bride. Her gown was a soft yellow, polyester knit with a sunburst-pleated skirt. It featured a bodice that was flounced with a blouson at the waist and short, open sleeves. She carried a basket of white daisies, yellow rose buds, baby's breath, and greens.

Gene Andress, brother-in-law of the groom, served as best man. Ushers were Eric and Dan Mohnke, brother of the bride, and Tom Garner, nephew of the groom.

The reception was held in the Church Fellowship Hall. Special guests present were Mrs. Marion Emmons and Mr. Rudolph Monke, grandparents of the bride.

The couple traveled to Niagara Falls and New York for their honeymoon and now reside in Charlotte.

Andrea Harris weds Alfred Miller in St. Johns

Andrea Rene Harris and Alfred James Miller were married in a double ring ceremony at the Pilgrim United Methodist Church in St. Johns on May 23, 1981. The Rev. Curtis Runkel officiated the service. Music was provided by Ann Holm and Eleanor Williams. The bride is the daughter of Kenneth and Johonna Harris of 4551 S. Chandler, St. Johns. She is a 1978 graduate of St. Johns High School.

The groom is the son of Arthur and Dorothy Miller of 2830 Sandra Terrace, St. Joseph. He graduate from St. Joseph High School in 1974 and Michigan State University in 1978.

The bride wore a white gown of nylon over taffeta with a high neckline of embroidered lace. Ruffled lace accented the bodice of the gown, while its sheer bishop sleeves were also touched with lace. The gown featured an empire waistline which led to an A-line pleated skirt. A wide ruffle of embroidered lace lead into a cathedral-length train. The bride chose a matching fingertip veil accented with pearls.

Her bouquet was a cascade of white daisies, yellow roses and baby's breath accented with yellow ribbon.

Sallie McNamara of Potterville was maid of honor. Tammy Ashley, Cam and Chris Stiffler, all of St. Johns, and Trudy Miller of Enid, Okla., were bridesmaids. Christibeth

Miller served as flower girl. They wore gowns of white eyelet with light blue flowers and carried nosegays of light blue, white, and yellow daisies accented with baby's breath and light blue streamers.

The bride's mother wore a floor-length, mauve colored gown with a softly draped, sleeveless jacket. The groom's mother wore a soft gray, floor-length gown with long sleeves. Both wore corsages of multicolored spring flowers.

Best man was John Steeb. Groomsmen were Ken Harris, Art Miller, Tom Smits, and Matt Zimmerman. Ted Ashley, Rick Kinney, Jim Satchell, and Nathan Harris were ushers.

The reception for 300 guests was held at Smith Hall in St. Johns. Host and hostess were Bruce and Cindy Irish. Jamie and Jodie Boyd attended the guest book, Cherie Harris and Bernadette Barks cut and served the cake, while Amy Tremper and Teresa Boyd attended the gifts. Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Keith Harris, godparents of the bride; Alfred Miller, godparent of the groom; and Mrs. Mary Alice LuMunior, god parent of the groom. The couple spent their honeymoon cruising the Bahamas and now reside at 5000 Connors Ave., Lansing.

Cardinals romp again, await clash

The Bath Cardinals redeemed themselves Saturday night in strong fashion, crushing Battle Creek 43-3, after losing in the final minute two weeks ago to Grand Rapids 14-13.

The romp over Battle Creek leaves the Cardinals with a 6-1 record and sets the stage for the long-awaited showdown between arch rivals Bath and the Lansing Crusaders.

The Lansing ball club won its seventh without a loss Saturday, turning back the Detroit Bucks. The Crusaders invade Bath Saturday for a 7 p.m. kickoff, then the following weekend, the Michigan Charity Football League starts its playoffs.

Chuck Beckman's passing provided most of the spark or the Cardinals in the win over Battle Creek. He threw for 290 yards and a pair of touchdowns.

The first score came just four and a half minutes into the first quarter. Beckman connected with Tom Gooden for a 24-yard TD strike and Steve Ljubicic's extra point made it 7-0.

Two minutes later, with Battle Creek in punt formation deep in its own territory, the snap sailed over the head of the punter, who managed to fall on the ball in the end zone, giving Bath a safety.

The lead reached 16-0 when Curtis Long was on the receiving end of a 61-yard scoring strike, with three minutes left in the quarter. Ljubicic connected on the point after.

Battle Creek's Keith Favreau recorded the lone points of the second quarter when he kicked a 40-yard field goal, early in the period.

Bath's Dan Taylor came up with a big play late in the third quarter as he scooped up a blocked field goal and raced 60 yards for a touchdown. The point-after was no good, leaving the margin at 22-3.

Jim Heldmeyer took over at quarterback in the final period. He hit Gooden for a 28-yard touchdown pass, with just under nine minutes remaining.

The Cardinals continued the onslaught, three minutes later as Greg King recovered a fumble on the Battle Creek 15-yard line. Ron Thompson took two plays to carry the ball into the end zone, the capper being a 1-yard plunge. Ljubicic kicked the extra point, making the score 36-3.

Finally, with 59 seconds left, Heldmeyer kept the ball on an option and scampered 18 yards for a touchdown. Ljubicic capped the scoring with his fifth point-after of the day.

Long was tops in rushing for the Cards with 68 yards. The Bath running back also had five receptions.

Defensively, Gary Feaster, Tom Peifer and Bob Peifer each had 10 tackles. Bob Peifer also came up with an interception.

Errors hurt oilers

A combination of costly errors and good pitching stopped the Snyder's Oilers womens' fastpitch softball team from capturing second place in the Fowler Snyder Memorial Tournament last weekend.

The Oilers committed a total of 22 errors in four contests and in the final game of the tourney, a battle for second place between Fowler and the Birmingham Golden Eagles, they had seven miscues.

The Golden Eagles scored four times in the opening inning of that game and went on to post a 7-3 triumph behind Kim Preston's four-hitter.

One of the hits was a solo home run by Mindy McKean in the fourth inning. A two-run single by Kathy Kramer in the following stanza pulled the Oilers to within a run at 4-3, but Birmingham answered with three of its own in the bottom of the fifth to sew up the win.

The activity got underway Saturday, with the Portage Metros handing the Oilers a 3-1 setback. Sheri Schuhardt worked out of a couple tight jams, scattering eight hits, to gain the victory. Kelly Williams took the loss, also allowing eight hits.

Sherri Lotre, Kat Schmitt and McKean paced the Oilers with two hits apiece, while Kramer drove in the lone run with a third inning base hit

JoMac's of Flint, the eventual tourney champs, bet-

The shortstop for Chris and Tom's womens softball team tosses over to second to complete a force out during Monday night's game.

The battle was supposed to break a first-place tie between Chris and Tom's and Taylor Fabricating, both 7-0 and atop the standings in the St. Johns Womens Recreational League.

However, there was a problem with the lights and the game had to be suspended after five innings. The teams will pick up where they left off, with Chris and Tom's in front 9-7. (Photo by David Olds)

Speedway results set

Gordon Klotz of Holt claimed the late model feature Friday at Spartan Speedway with Bob Hayden of Flint taking the Spartan Stock main event.

Chasing Klotz to victory were Jim Aldrich of Ovid, Gayle Hanes of Flint, Ken Buchner of Jackson and Dave Mulder of Ovid. In other late model action, Klotz had fast time trial of 14.93 seconds. Steve Skoczylas of Lansing won the dash. Leslie's Charlie Ryan and Ovid's Al Taft were heat winners. Aldrich won the pursuit and Hanes topped the semi-feature.

Following Hayden to his feature win were Charlie Clark, Tom Newman, Bryan Martin and Dave Parker. Clark had fast time trial of 16.38 seconds. Heat winners were Parker and Ken Ecker. Parker came back to win the pursuit and Don Slusser won the semi feature.

Friday, Spartan Speedway will host a street stock invitational with a 50-lap main event along with a full late model racing card.

Mike Folk, the P-W football coach warns fans the coming season won't be as easy as many seem to believe, as the start of practice draws near.

"We'll be big and strong and a lot of people base football on that, but our quickness won't be near what it was last year, he pointed out.

The Pirate JV squad was undefeated last season, which Folk believes leads people to thinking the same will happen at the varsity level.

I said it before in defending Joe Gonzales and the criticism he took for a 5-4 season last year, so I'll point it out again about P-W. There's a world of difference between JV and varsity football, so actually Folk has no real idea of what to expect.

Of the 20 who had significant playing time last year, just three return for P-W and none of the three were starters at the skilled positions. Folk has to replace the entire backfield and while several of the linemen are big and have potential, most are virtually untested.

A key for the Pirates lies in week two of the season, a date with last year's conference champs, Olivet. The Screaming Eagles have also been hit hard by graduation, although speedster Rob Bramer returns. Should P-W knock off Olivet, the tone could be set for the banner year many expect, but like the coach said, it won't be easy....DeWitt's baseball and basketball teams have each suffered a serious blow. Doug Noch, winner of nine games on the baseball diamond and a bright cage prospect, has moved out of town.

How often do we see races in the various National Football League's six divisions come down to the final weeks of the season, before a winner is decided? Quite often, thus it's interesting to note Minnesota and Detroit have common foes in three of their final four games. Besides a clash between each other, they'll both face Green Bay and Kansas City. The lone difference pits the Lions at home against Tampa Bay in the season finale, while the Vikes tackle Chicago at Soldier Field on Dec. 6....Looking further at the NFL schedule, games two through seven are murderous for the Lions; at San Diego, at Minnesota, home for Oakland, at Tampa Bay, at Denver and home against Chicago. Dallas and Los Angeles appear as later dates as well. What a difference a year makes, huh.

Wonder how ex-Haslett grid coach Glen Stephenson landed an assistant's job at Olivet College, when his high school record was under .500?....I read recently where there is serious discussion as to whether or not the networks will even be interested in airing the playoffs and World Series, should they take place. I don't believe that garbage for a minute. As soon as the baseball strike is settled, the game will return to the airways, regardless of what is left of the season. People forgive in a hurry and will watch on TV and flock to the stadiums.

A survey was held recently in Cleveland as to whether or not fans are angry enough to boycott baseball games. Seventy-nine percent of all males and 66 percent of all females said they would. So I probably would too if I were an Indians fan. Why not a survey nationwide?.

★ Oilers

tered Birmingham 3-0 in the next affair. Linda Allen, a hurler for the University of Michigan softball team, threw a four-hit shutout, while striking out eight. Preston took the loss as all three runs by JoMac's were of the unearned variety.

Fowler got into the win column in the day's fourth game as Debbie Kent came on in relief to thwart a seventh inning rally by Birmingham. Jo Ann McKim worked the first six innings for the Oilers, then after the first two batters reached safely to open the seventh, Williams took over.

Williams pitched to two batters, both of which reached on errors, before Kent got the call and worked out of a bases loaded jam with the tying run at third.

Schmitt and Kramer had two hits and two RBIs apiece for Fowler. Gail Francis picked up a single and two walks, and scored three runs in the 5-4 triump.

The Golden Eagles dealt Portage another shutout loss in the next game. Sue McGovern tossed a two-hitter as the Birmingham club won it 3-0.

Game six of the day, pitted Fowler against JoMac's and star pitcher, Allen. She allowed a run in the top of the first when Francis ledoff with a triple and scored on a squeeze bunt by Lotre, but then settled down, giving up only four more hits, while fanning 10 in gaining a 7-1 victory.

Fowler and Birmingham then closed out the day with the 7-3 loss to the Golden Eagles for second place.

The state tournament gets started this weekend. The Oilers play Friday night in Petosky against the Bay City Womens Athletic Club.

Former resident running marathons

Thomas Rasdale, a 1971 graduate of St. Johns High School, now living in Bay City, is currently working toward gaining a spot in the Boston Marathon next spring.

Rasdale recently bettered the qualifying score for the Boston race, turning in a time of 2:45.21 in a marathon held in Breckenridge. He was running in only his third race of 26 miles, 385 yards and wound up in sixth place.

However, there is controversy brewing as to whether or not the Breckenridge affair was sanctioned, thus Rasdale will attempt to qualify again.

He will compete in the Skylon Marathon Oct. 17, the site of the 1980 Olympic Trials. The race goes from Buffalo, N.Y. and to Niagara Falls, Canada.

Rasdale has been run-

ing for three years, taking part in up to 12 races per year, with distances ranging from five miles to the 26-mile marathon.

bracket will stay about the same." He said Reagan's proposals "ignore the farmer and the laborer."

In a question and answer session, Mullins could not express any optimism for the farm situation. "I don't see any indicator that the farm situation is going to improve," he said.

Leonard Harrington of Diamondahe, president of the Michigan National Farmer's Organization, who was a guest at the Monday night meeting, echoed Mullin's opinion.

"If we don't see any recovery in prices this next month (August), brace yourselves," he said. Harrington advised farmers to sell whenever they see "any little rise in the market."

Class of '25

St. Johns' graduating class of 1925 enjoyed themselves so much when they met for their 50th anniversary last year that they decided to do it again this year.

Among those present for this picture were Margaret Huey, Birdie Curren Buss, Thelma Woodbury, Glenna Brown Plunkett, Jennie Britten, Margaret Andrews Puetz, Nellie McDaniel, Robert Gilson, Helen Flynn Young, Francis Barnhart, Gale Boron, Lawrence Kuhns, Grace Wilkie Hill, Edith Stevens Stockwell, Ella Blunt Dilts, Nolan Walker, Lloyd Atkinson, Milo Burl, Sid Keys, Warren Coffman, and Stanley Rathbun.

This year the class had members of the 1926 graduating class of the County Normal as their guests. Another reunion is planned for next year.

Kay Mishler earns state Legion office

Kay Mishler of St. Johns was installed as Second Vice President of the American Legion Auxiliary, Department of Michigan, at the annual convention held in Dearborn at the Hyatt Regency July 16 - 19. She will also represent the department as the Legislative Chairman for the year. Mrs. Mishler is a member of the Edwin T. Stiles Unit 153 of St. Johns.

Awards were won by two Junior Auxiliary members of Unit 153. Nicole Beaufore, a junior at St. Johns High School won third prize for class four in the Poppy poster drawing contest and took first prize for class four in the Junior Activities doll dressing contest.

Andrea, Beaufore, a student at Rodney B. Wilson Junior High School, won first prize for class two in the Junior Activities doll dressing contest. Her doll has been sent on to the Central Division Contest Chairman for national competition.

Ted Suidgeest, a student at Rodney B. Wilson Junior High School, won third prize in the Americanism Essay contest in the Junior Group for the state.

All contests are American Legion Auxiliary Programs and were sponsored by Edwin T. Stiles Unit 153 of St. Johns.
