Three face the test

Voters to decide on proposals

By JOE HOPPE
Staff Writer

While Proposal C, also known as the Voter's Choice Amendment is getting a lot of attention, there are two other statewide proposals on the ballot in next week's general election, Proposals A and B.

Proposal A is officially called "a proposal to allow the legislature to approve or disapprove administrative rules."

What that means is that members of the state house and senate, or in some cases committees made up of members from both houses, would be given a constitutional right to review the administrative rules written by state agencies used to enforce and interpret laws already made by the legislature. These rules would be reviewed and approved, or disapproved, before the state agencies used the rules in working with the public. Legislators would like to be able to review state agencies' laws of administration so that they can make sure the enforcement of the laws is in spirit with the laws' original intent.

The state legislature already has authority to follow the actions listed in Proposal A; the proposal is designed to guarantee this authority through a constitutional amendment.

Proposal B is a bit simpler. Officially, Proposal B is "a proposal to establish a natural resources trust fund and a board to administer it, to provide revenues for it from natural resource leases, and existing funds and to specify and limit the expenditures therefrom."

The natural resources trust fund and administrative board established by the proposal, if it is passed, will be funded by royalties, bonuses, and rentals collected by the state of Michigan from drilling oil or gas, or mining minerals on state-owned land.

Earnings from the natural resources trust fund would be used only for administering the fund itself, developing public recreations facilities, or purchasing land or rights of land for the state. Land purchased by the trust fund would be for public recreation, of environmental importance, or of particular scenic beauty.

In addition to administering monies and supervising the Natural Resources Trust Fund, the trust fund board established if the proposal passes would recommend projects to

VFW leader speaks in DeWitt

By JOE HOPPE
Staff Writer

In what was described as a "once in a lifetime opportunity" by Beverly Weden, president of the DeWitt VFW Post 671 ladies' auxiliary, VFW National Commander in Chief Billy Ray Cameron spoke to approximately 250 people at a banquet in the Edward J. Leyanna Post in DeWitt last Tuesday.

During his five-day tour of Michigan, Cameron visited 20 Veterans of Foreign Wars posts, banqueting at five of them. "We try to visit the posts that have never had a commander-in-chief there before," said Cameron.

Speaking to an audience that included 10th District Congressman Don Albosta, 87th District State Representative Francis Spaniola, and Lansing Mayor Terry McKane as well as representatives from over 20 area VFW posts, North Carolina native Cameron outlined several of the current concerns of veterans, and applauded activities the VFW was already engaged in.

"First Serving America," is Cameron's motto for the year he holds the elected commander in chief position. "This means we have to go back to basics," he said. "We have to tell the community what we're doing at VFW." Among those things are the cancer research sponsored by the women's auxiliary, the VFW national children's home located in Onondaga, and the 100 million dollars and 100 million hours VFW members have put into community service, said Cameron. The VFW is also currently pushing for a Korean Veteran memorial in Washington, D.C. "The Korean Veteran is the forgotten veteran," said Cameron.

The commander-in-chief also took time near the beginning of his speech to give his "credentials." "My grandfather served in World War I, my father served in World War II, my Uncle served in Korea, and I served in Vietnam," said Cameron, who was a marine stationed in the Da Nang area of Vietnam from August 1967 to March 1968.

Band parents pleased

To the Editor:

As band parents, we have been very pleased to see pictures and complimentary captions of some of the county bands in your recent issues.

Few people are aware of the vast amount of time and effort that goes into making a fine performing band—both on the part of the bandsmen and the director. It's gratifying to see recognition of their endeavors.

Sincerely,
 Dan and Deanna Wear

Staff changes announced

A new face has been added to the scene at the Clinton County News. According to Harold Schmaltz, general manager of the newspaper, Sharon Maybik, a former employee at Capitol Federal Savings and Loan has assumed a position at the paper as an advertising representative.

"As part of our re-building program here at the News, I believe the addition of Sharon will be most beneficial to the growth of the paper. Her genuine and sincere way with people will be a definite asset to the staff as well as to the advertising community," Schmaltz commented.

Maybik, 24, says that she first became interested in advertising when she watched her father make up ads for his business, Maybik Realty in Swartz Creek. "I used to watch him make up the ads, and I thought it was really interesting," she said.

Maybik now lays out and makes up her own ads, after working in banking in Flint, Houston Texas, and St. Johns for six years.

She came to St. Johns a year ago, at a time when Flint, which Swartz Creek is a suburb of, had the nation's highest unemployment rate. "There were no openings and it looked almost hopeless for employment in the future," Maybik said of her hometown at that time. She was told of the opening at Capitol Federal by her friend, Gil Baker, who is starting his own business here.

"I love living in St. Johns," said Maybik. "It seems like everyone I meet is so friendly. I feel like I've known them for years. It makes me feel right at home," she said.

Maybik enjoys meeting and working with all kinds of people in her new ad representative position. "I also really like the freedom of working at my own pace."

Maybik's hobbies include playing the piano, reading, tennis, and taking care of her large white Himalayan cat, Sigmund.

Sharon Maybik

Maybik is a 1978 graduate of Swartz Creek High School, and has attended Mott Community College and the Russell School of Real Estate in Flint.

Her father, Andrew M., resides in Swartz Creek and owns Maybik Realty. Her mother, Agnes, is deceased. Maybik has two brothers and a sister, all older than she.

Effective last week, Joe Hoppe assumed the editorial staff duties of former staff writer Susan Owens, announced Harold Schmaltz, general manager of the Clinton County News.

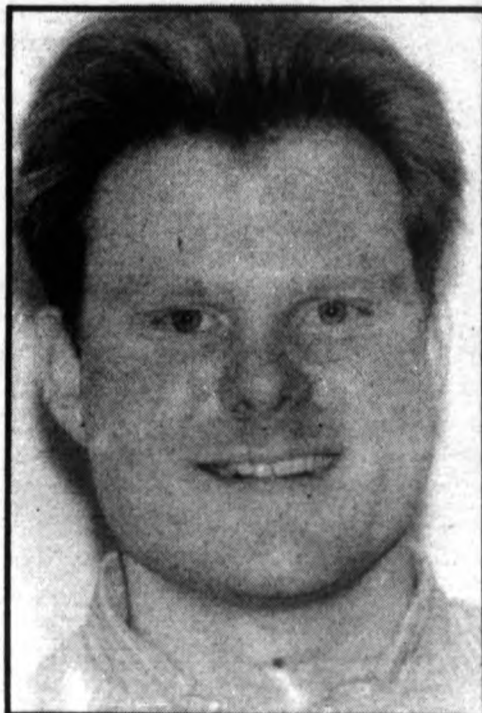

Hoppe, 22, who is a native of Jackson, Michigan and a recent graduate of the University of Michigan comes to the Clinton County News after having held an entry level position with the Lansing State Journal.

Owens first came to the Clinton County News in February of this year and became popular among her news sources throughout the county while covering local events.

"Sue came to our paper in the early stages of our rebuilding process," Schmaltz said, "and through her dedicated efforts, gained quite a following from the readership. Having been a recent graduate of Michigan State University herself, Sue indicated upon her departure that she would be exploring other avenues in the field of journalism."

Hoppe's interest in journalism started at Jackson Community College, where he worked as a features writer and features editor for the student newspaper, The Phenix.

"I started out just wanting to write," says Hoppe. "I wanted to make my living as a writer. I was thinking about going for an English degree, but the only thing that qualifies you for, really, is more schooling, and eventually becoming a teacher or working in some other academic-related field, so I decided to go the journalism route." Hoppe started out doing record reviews and features, then expanded to do other arts-type reviews, especially drama. "There were a lot of plays and productions being put on at JCC," says Hoppe, "The community college has the Michigan School for the Arts, which is mainly a drama school, on its campus."

Joe Hoppe

While attending community college, Hoppe also wrote for the Jackson Blazer, a black-oriented newspaper in Jackson.

After receiving an associates degree from Jackson Community College, Hoppe transferred to the University of Michigan, where he majored in communications. "U of M doesn't offer a journalism degree," says Hoppe. "It has a more general program which covers a lot of theory and a lot of different forms of communication. The education I received was fairly broad. I also took a lot of non-communications courses. Probably the best thing about U of M was Ann Arbor, where a lot of things were going on, lots of arts kinds of things, and lots of different kinds of music." While at the U of M, Hoppe wrote on the arts staff of the Michigan Daily, the student newspaper there, covering "mainly local and obscure rock and roll."

After graduating in April, Hoppe went to the Lansing State Journal as a part-time editorial assistant. "I wasn't writing, but I was in the field," he says. "And I did get to see how a real-life newspaper works."

"So I'm happy to be here, now, with a full time reporting position. That's been my goal for quite a while. I'm also glad I'm working at a weekly, where I'll be doing most of the reporting. Not to mention the photography, which I'm just now learning how to do."

Hoppe says that he likes the Clinton County area, that it's "real America" and he admits to being a little surprised that there is "really so much going on."

"When you think about it, though, I guess I shouldn't be," says Hoppe. "Smaller towns just have these reputations. Actually, I could guess I'm pretty lucky being here, because what I've really always wanted to write about was just life, and things that happen. Maybe some things might not seem important, but then when you spend some time writing about them and you take the time to really look into something, you can really begin to appreciate the things around you. And a weekly newspaper, especially one set up like this, gives you the opportunity to catch that 'feeling' of a community, so that hopefully, what you write can not only be about the community, but reflect an atmosphere, and be of it as well."

Hoppe's parents, William and Shirley, reside in Jackson, where his father works as a forrester for the state Department of Natural Resources and his mother works as a production systems analyst for Ladd Petroleum. His sister, Elizabeth, is enrolled in optometry school at Ferris State, in Big Rapids.

Staggering Growth

Mexico City now has a population of 16 million people. Half are under the age of 18, assuring a tremendous future growth even with a lowered birthrate.

About 400,000 rural immigrants pour into the capital to live each year. By 2000, the city may be home to 30 million people.

It is one of the world's few major cities far from a source of water. It stands on mushy, sinking soil of an old lake bed. It is girded by mountains that prevent dispersion of the smoke from 30,000 factories and nearly 3 million motor vehicles, causing what many call the world's worst pollution.

INTERNATIONAL OPPORTUNITIES FOR YOUTH

The 4-H programs will be offering several international travel opportunities for teens. Travel will be next summer but for anyone interested, now is the time to get information and make out applications.

One of the programs that involves hundreds of families each year is the LABO program. LABO is the annual exchange between Michigan and Japan. For a month, from July 21 through August 22, the 1985 LABO exchange will take place.

There are two ways for interested families to get involved in this program. During that same 5 week period, Michigan families will host Japanese youth, Michigan 4-H'ers will travel to Japan and live with Japanese families.

Families who get involved in the LABO exchange will learn a lot about the culture and lifestyle in Japan and will make many new, long-term friendships.

Obituaries

Earl John Flegler Sr.

Earl John Flegler, Sr., 63, 7422 W. Church Rd., St. Johns, passed away October 24 in St. Johns. He was born December 1, 1920 in Riley Township to Herman and Elnora (Hopp) Flegler. He married Ethel Horman in 1942. He was employed as a farmer and also as a welder at Motor Wheel Corporation, retiring in 1981. He was a member of St. Peter Lutheran Church, Fowler-Pewamo VFW Post, and had served with the U.S. Army in WW II.

He is survived by his wife, Ethel of St. Johns; three sons, Barry and Earl Jr. of Lansing, and William of St. Johns; two daughters, Brenda Flegler of Sarasota, Florida, and Mrs. Harry (Earlene) Schaub of DeWitt; one brother, Lewis of Lansing; and ten grandchildren.

Funeral services were held October 27 with Rev. Michael Martin officiating. Interment was in St. Peter Lutheran Cemetery.

The deadline to apply for participation in the Japanese exchange is February 1, 1985 and the applications and additional information is available from the Extension Office.

Youth 15 to 19 years of age who are interested in international programs might also consider participating in the IFYE (International Four H Youth Exchange) program for six weeks during next summer. They will have their choice of ten countries to visit. In the IFYE program, as in the LABO program, participants will live with different host families.

IFYE participants may visit Jamaica, Germany, United Kingdom, Netherlands, Denmark, Spain, France, Switzerland, Italy and Australia. The exchange will begin around June 20 and end near August 1.

Youth who are chosen to participate in any of these exchanges will have to pay for their own travel expenses which are estimated at $2,000-$3,000. Some financial support may be available for participants and there are several ways that interested youth could help raise money to finance the trip.

The international travel opportunities are provided for 4-H members throughout the state and give members and their families opportunities to learn about another culture in a first-hand fashion. Youth involved also find that they learn a great deal about themselves.

Young people who are interested in either the LABO program or the IFYE exchange are encouraged to contact the Cooperative Extension Service at 224-3288. "Cooperative Extension Service programs are open to all without regard to race, sex, color, national origin, or handicap."

CLINTON CAPERS DRESS REHEARSAL CLIMAXES INTO 3-NIGHT EXTRAVAGANZA-After many grueling nights of practice, Clinton Memorial Hospital Auxiliary launched another highly successful Clinton Capers musical production in three nightly performances at St. Johns High School Poscius Auditorium. Staged and directed by Frank Reynolds, choreographer and experienced stage performer from San Francisco, California, the Capers featured local citizens from Clinton County demonstrating their individual talents. Capacity crowds filled the auditorium during the three successive performances. Chairperson of this year's production was Bette Munger. At Saturday's night finale, Munger passed the chairmanship of the Capers on to Pauline Warren. Photos by Joe Hoppe, CCN.

Second graders use computers

by Bill Richards
Community Resource Volunteers

Is there interest in computers by elementary children? Mrs. Zink's first grade and Mrs. Feeman's second grade gave their answers recently after introducing a two-week program at Perrin-Palmer Elementary School in St. Johns.

Both teachers attended a computer course at Michigan State University this past summer. They promptly experimented with their new skills in preparation for their fall classes by volunteering to teach LOGO at one of the Computer-Nature Camps sponsored by Community Resource Volunteers (CRV) in July.

LOGO is a computer language for children that teaches simple problem solving techniques that can be applied to many skills. One of the neat things about LOGO is the positive approach. There are no failures, according to Mrs. Zink and Mrs. Feeman. Simple activities like how to make a peanut butter sandwich challenge children. In fact they think it is fun and do not realize the skill training that is happening as they learn to transfer their knowledge to the computer screen.

This experimental program at Perrin-Palmer utilized ten CRV Commodore computers. Children worked together in teams around each computer. Children catch on quickly and learn to help each other as they instruct the "turtle" on the screen to turn left or right or make circles as it traces out their instructions.

Both teachers were pleased with the resulting attendance at the two separate computer open houses they held for parents. Ninety-five percent of the parents attended. That kind of parent support makes the effort all worthwhile, according to Mrs. Zink. Guess who taught LOGO to parents? The children did! Who wanted to come back again? Some parents even suggested weekly classes in the evening.

According to Mrs. Feeman, thank you notes were received from several parents and other parents who could not attend the open houses, called to see if they could visit during the class time. This kind of response made both teachers feel good about the program.

What is the next step to improve computer literacy in St. Johns Elementary Schools? Mrs. Zink and Mrs. Feeman are working on curriculum that can be used in their own future programs. They are also sharing their computer instructional techniques with twenty other Clinton County teachers in a training program, jointly conducted by the Clinton and Ingham Intermediate School Districts. "Workshops are where we first became enthused about LOGO and the use of computers with children. Until that time, we were afraid of computers because we didn't understand how to use them and now we feel like explorers," said Mrs. Feeman.

Tired explorers, but happy ones who are ready to help others learn.

OTHER WINNERS IN HALLOWEEN CONTEST- These entries won prizes in the 5-8 age category. Pictured are: Rainbow Girl, Toni Litwiller; Batman, Christopher Clark and Devil Dog, Jason Fabus. The event took place Thursday night at Beck's Farm Mkt.

Should we be concerned about cholesterol?
 As producers, consumers and promoters of red meats, eggs and dairy products, the answer to the question is...YES!
 As producers of these products, we have stood by for many years while the products have taken the blame for high blood cholesterol levels leading to increased incidence of heart disease and stroke. We have stood by and watched as the image of

$10,000

The Mid-Michigan District Health Department (MMDHD) has been awarded a $10,000 grant from the Michigan Department of Public Health.

The grant, covering five years, will assist the MMDHD in providing health education and health promotion services to individuals, families, community groups and locally based industry and business.

The Healthstyle program offers an exciting dimension of health care focusing on health promotion and risk reduction.

Clients are assessed through a health history/lifestyle questionnaire and physical fitness testing. The physical assessment includes: blood pressure screening, height, weight, skinfold measurement, blood cholesterol and bike ergometer testing.

During the second session, clients meet with the nurse to discuss their computerized printout which identifies: individualized health risks, factors influencing the client's lifestyle and recommendations for lifestyle change to reduce health risks. Some examples of health risks might be: high blood pressure, being overweight, excessive smoking and drinking, high stress levels and a history of chronic disease in close family members.

A personalized health promotion plan is developed with each client for lifestyle change and health improvement. Appropriate educational services, information and materials are provided.

Preceding the healthstyle program, a community risk survey was conducted in Clinton County to identify specific health risks and educational needs and create community awareness.

The Healthstyle program started in Clinton County in March, 1983 at the MMHD. It was one of six Federal Center for Disease Control funded special demonstration programs in the state. To date, approximately 400 individuals have completed the program.

The program was successfully coordinated by Sharon Karber, R.N. who has returned to Michigan State University to complete her masters degree.

Kaye Olson, R.N., M.A. is currently coordinating the expansion of the Healthstyle program. Olson received her masters degree from M.S.U., and has worked in health promotional activities for fourteen years.

For more information regarding Healthstyle enrollment, please call (517) 224-8393 or write MMDHD at 306 Elm St., St. Johns, MI 48879.

foods, once commended for their contribution of essential nutrients to the daily diet, have had their names marred by their association with cholesterol. But what can we do?

To start with, it is important to clear up the controversy and confusion in the minds of consumers about cholesterol. We can do this by sticking to the facts.

Cholesterol is a fat-related substance found in the cells and blood of every living animal. That includes you! Cholesterol is used by our bodies for the production of cell membranes and hormones. Therefore it is essential. However, cholesterol is also a major component in plaque. Plaque can build up in arteries if the blood level of cholesterol is too high. This build up can sometimes lead to complete blockage of an artery and therefore can lead to a heart attack of a stroke. This is where cholesterol gets its bad name.

Blood cholesterol levels are determined by many factors. The primary factor is our genetic makeup. Approximately 80 percent of the cholesterol in our blood is produced by our liver. The remaining 20 percent is from dietary sources. So, although the diet contributes only a small percentage of the total cholesterol found in our bodies, it is one of the only means of varying the blood level of cholesterol. The other alternative for lowering blood cholesterol levels is the drug, cholestyramine, that was used in research by the National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute to lower blood cholesterol levels.

As promoters of products which do contain cholesterol, it is important to realize that some people do need to reduce their consumption of cholesterol. The reduction of cholesterol should not have to eliminate the consumption of meat, egg, and dairy products. We should develop ways of preparing foods that will reduce their cholesterol level, and then promote these ideas. For instance, trim the fat off of meat before you cook it. Don't insist on prime meat. The marbling is fat. Develop recipes which include more egg whites and less egg yolks. The yolks are the part that contain the cholesterol. Use skim milks.

As for the people with normal blood cholesterol levels, it is still uncertain whether reduction of dietary cholesterol would be of benefit. Remember 80 percent of the cholesterol is produced by the body.

As producers, consumers, and promoters of meat, egg, and dairy products, we should be concerned with cholesterol! It is a real and very serious problem. But if we keep up to date with the facts about cholesterol and use this knowledge to inform the consumer, we can continue to sell our delicious, nutritious products.

DeWitt City Police reported two major incidents last week.

A box of tools, valued over $100, was taken from a van owned by Arthur Fitzgerald, 417 W. Geneva. The van was parked at Fitzgerald's house when it was broken into.

All four tires were slashed on two vehicles owned by Larry Baird, DeWitt High School teacher and junior varsity football coach. The tires on Baird's '74 Pontiac were slashed early in the evening on Oct. 25, in the high school parking lot. The tires of Baird's '83 Toyota were slashed later that night, at Baird's Airport Road residence. The tires slashed had a total value of approximately $600.

The Clinton County Sheriff Department reported four major incidents for the week of Oct. 15-21.

An Eagle resident, Cheryl Ann Hammer, was killed in a single vehicle accident Oct. 18. The victim lost control of the vehicle she was driving, and it struck a tree. There were no passengers in the car. Hammer was identified through dental records.

Two handguns, a .44 calibre Luger and a .22 calibre Browning semi-automatic, were stolen from the residence of Max Lee Webster, 1447 East Steel Road, St. Johns Oct. 19. The guns are valued at $475.

Bill Merrill, 9294 East Jason, Laingsburg, reported a compound bow and eight hunting arrows stolen from his van Oct. 21.

Another larceny from a vehicle was reported by Ronald Lee McCombe Jr., 11163 S. Lowell, DeWitt, Oct. 21. An am-fm radio and cassette player valued at over $500 was stolen from McCombe's vehicle during the night.

All cases, except for the Hammer fatality, are still under investigation.

DeWitt Township and St. Johns police had no major crimes over the past week. Bath Township's report was unavailable.

Police hold auction

For the bargain hunter and the curious shopper, there's something for everyone at the annual Michigan State Police fall auction November 1.

Beginning at 9:00 a.m., items lost or abandoned at state parks and beaches and personal effects of people who have died in state institutions and left heirs will be on the auction block at the National Guard Armory, 2500 S. Washington Avenue in Lansing.

Among the hundreds of items offered are more than 20 bicycles, 136 rifles and guns, and two snowmobiles. For car repairs---there's everything from a fan belt and a hub cap to four tires and two matching car doors. A backpack with clothing, skis, and a bowling ball are available for the sports enthusiast. Numerous small appliances and larger articles for the home are up for sale. Proceeds from the auction are turned over to the state treasury.

HE JOINS THE AIR FORCE. Robert J. Price, of DeWitt, was recently enlisted in the Air Force ROTC at Boston University. A 1984 graduate of DeWitt High School, Price is a mathematics major in the University's College Arts. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Price, of Farm Road. Shown with Price above is Lt. Col. Tom Meyer of the University's Department of Aerospace Studies.

MORE USES FOR YOUR JACK-O-LANTERN

Tomorrow is Halloween and by now your house is probably decorated with glowing jack-o-lanterns. Instead of throwing your jack-o-lanterns away this year, why not turn them into a hot pumpkin pie?

A homemade pumpkin pie is easy to make and a sure hit on any dinner table. A quick word of warning however, your homemade pie will not only be a little more moist than any other pumpkin pie you have made, it will also be a little softer. The reason being that commercially canned pumpkin products are usually comprised of one-third pumpkin. So expect your all-pumpkin, homemade pumpkin pie to literally melt in your mouth.

Now, if you have decided to salvage old Jack, cook it within a day or two after carving. Otherwise, the inside of the pumpkin will soon be moldy and showing a feathery black that spells the end of that pumpkin for food.

Before cooking your pumpkin, you may want to peel it. The pumpkin usually used for carving have a hard, orange rind, which is hard to cook down. If your pumpkin happens to have the soft, thick walls, you will want to just leave the skin on. Also, wash the outside of the pumpkin completely.

Once the skin has been prepared, then you just need to make sure the inside is cleaned out. Look for any remnants of strings, seeds, dirt or candle wax.

To prepare your pumpkin for pie filling, you will want to cut the flesh into cubes. The cubes should be put in 1 inch of boiling water. Cook pumpkin over medium heat until boiling. Cover and continue cooking 25 to 30 minutes, until pumpkin can be easily mashed. Your pumpkin is then ready to use in your favorite homemade pie recipe.

If you are lucky enough to still have your pumpkin seeds left, they too can be turned into a delicious fall treat. Just separate the seeds from the stringy fibers, then wash thoroughly and let dry in a shallow layer at room temperature.

The seeds should be mature, well filled and thoroughly dry before being hulled. To hull seeds most efficiently, first break them up with a rolling pin, hammer or food chopper. Then drop seeds and hull into a large container filled with water. Stir vigorously to bring all kernels in contact with the water and to break the surface tension. Kernels will sink to the bottom. The shells will remain floating.

After the seeds have dried, they may be roasted in a heavy frying pan at low heat or toasted in a shallow pan in a 325 degree oven. Mix about 1 cup of seeds with 21 tablespoons of vegetable oil and 1 or 2 teaspoons of salt and heat; stir frequently to prevent burning. The time required will vary from 2 to 6 minutes, depending upon how dry the kernels are. The hulled, toasted seeds make tasty snacks or can be used to replace nutmeats in nut breads, cookies, and other baked products.

New phone books on way

Telephone removal and telephone jack installation instructions are included in the newest version of one of the world's more frequently referred to books, the telephone directory. The latest edition of the book is on its way to customers in Fowler, Pewamo, Maple Rapids, and St. Johns, according to Bill Buschle, division manager for the company.

The illustrated instructions for removing telephones for repair or jack conversion are contained on pages 6, 7, and 8 of the new directory. Potential money saving tips on isolating telephone problems are contained on page 5. Customers are urged to refer to this page when they encounter phone difficulties since the information can be helpful in eliminating an unnecessary service call.

Also included, for the first time, is the telephone number of the "GTE Action Line," and information on Customer Service Agency Booths and drop-off/pick-up locations. This information appears on page 2.

Emergency number listings, dialing instructions, telephone company service numbers, helpful instructions for the deaf, business office numbers and bill payment locations appear on pages 1 through 3. Included in the emergency number listings is the toll free number for Coast Guard Environmental Emergency and the collect number of the arson control center serving Michigan residents.

The name, address and telephone numbers of gas, electric and water utilities appear on page 9.

"Car of your dreams" showing at Auto World.

Editor's Note:

This is the last story in a series of features acquainting you with Six Flags AutoWorld. Less than an hour's drive east of St. Johns and just off I-75, the new entertainment complex is conditioned for year-round comfort and enjoyment.

"But first, a word from our sponsor" might well be a sub-title for an unusual film recently produced for the Six Flags AutoWorld complex in Flint.

"The Car of Your Dreams" is the actual title for the 15-minute film, a collection of excerpts from some 135 television commercials for cars from the past 35 years. There is no overall narration on the film, allowing the commercials to speak for themselves.

The "Car of Your Dreams" is the creation of California film maker Bob Rogers, an Academy Award nominee, and is produced through the Autofilm Historical Foundation.

"We wanted to use auto advertising as a retrospective look not only at the automobile, but also at America itself," said "Car of Your Dreams" associate producer, Mark Santo. "And the commercials really do that."

Santo said commercials from the 1950's reflect the era's "bigger is best philosophy," with heavy use of words like "bigger, more powerful, supercharged." The 1960's brought an era of glamor to automotive commercials, with heavy emphasis on stunning young women as models. The 1970's and its oil shortages produced smaller cars, and corresponding changes in copy, with words such as "smaller, but efficient, compact, sub-compact and gas mileage."

Thousands of old commercials were considered for the final version of the film. While hundreds of hours were spent carefully editing old film clips into the final 35mm format, a tremendous amount of time went into finding the older commercials and securing rights to use them. Payment had to be made to each performer seen on the ads, and in cases where those performers had died, payment was made to their estates. Some were surprised to receive payment.

It was a time-consuming process, according to Santo, but the original participants were quite helpful. "We received 100 per cent cooperation from all the auto companies, and there were few, if any, cases where actors or models denied us permission," he added.

The film has three distinct segments. The "Theme Line" is a collection of advertising slogans through the years—from "See the U.S.A. in Your Chevrolet," to "Ford Has a Better Idea." The "Style" sequence chronicles the changing shape of American cars—from tailfins to turbochargers. And the "Demonstrations" section includes some of the unusual things advertisers have done to show off the quality of their automobiles—from the diamond cutter in the back seat who demonstrates the smoothness of the ride, to the lighter fluid fire on the hood of the car, showing the durability of the paint.

The film has a star-studded "cast" of celebrities who have helped sell automobiles. They include John Cameron Swayze (Volvo), Dinah Shore (Chevrolet), Ricardo Montalban (Chrysler) and Ed Sullivan (Lincoln-Mercury).

"The Car of Your Dreams" is shown in a special 350-seat movie theatre, one of two at the AutoWorld complex.

Dungeon now done

The Ithaca Jaycees and the Jaycee Women have nearly completed the first phase of their preparation for the eighth presentation of Dracula's Dungeon. The group will complete construction before Halloween.

booklet.

The group will present Dracula's Dungeon VIII on Friday, October 26, Saturday, October 27, Sunday, October 28, and Wednesday, October 31, Halloween night. Friday and Saturday hours are from 7:00 to 11:00 p.m., Sunday and Wednesday hours are from 7:00 to 10:00 p.m. A donation of $1.00 for children and adults will be accepted at the door. Refreshments will be available at the site. Proceeds from the Dungeon will go towards Jaycees continuing community projects.

According to Dan Hill, Ithaca Jaycee president, construction is going very well. Well over 3,000 victims have been drawn to the dungeon each year since the move to the Gratiot County Historical Barn five years ago. It has been listed as one of the best "Haunted Houses" by the AAA travel

Nov. is National Diabetes Month

The American Diabetes Association has declared November "National Diabetes Month" in an effort to increase public awareness of the disease and its warning signs. Clinton Memorial Hospital is going a step further by offering free diabetes screenings for area residents during the first week of November. Diabetes Detection Week is designated as November 11-17.

DeWitt area residents will be offered the screenings on Tuesday, November 6, from 9:00 to 11:00 a.m. in the DeWitt Medical Center, located at 607 Turner Street. Screenings will also be offered at Clinton Memorial on Wednesday, November 7 from 1:00 to 3:00 p.m. and 6:00 to 8:00 p.m., and Thursday, November 8 from 9:00 to 11:00 a.m.

Persons urged to take advantage of the free screenings are those over forty, overweight, and related to diabetics. Diabetes is a serious disease and a major cause of heart attack, kidney failure, blindness and death. The symptoms of diabetes, when present, may include frequent urination, abnormal thirst, unusual hunger, rapid weight loss, itching, fatigue, blurred vision, and slow healing of cuts and bruises.

In addition to Clinton

be approved by the legislature.

The controversial Proposal C is officially "a proposal to amend article 9, sections 1 and 2 of the constitution relating to taxes, other revenues and voter or legislative approval of same."

If Proposal C is approved, voters would be required to approve any changes in the base rate of state or local taxes which would increase revenue for the government, and also approve the adoption of any new taxes. Under Proposal C, elections would be held for all tax changes.

Ninety days after passing, Proposal C would also roll back taxes to 1981 levels unless voters approved current tax levels, and do the same for all state licenses, permits, or user fees.

If Proposal C were adopted, tax proposals would have to state the purpose, total anticipated revenue, and expiration date of the tax proposed.

and those like them," said Cameron.

The final point Cameron made in his speech was that good communication was a necessity in the VFW, and for everyone. "It's pretty hard to solve the problem if you do not communicate," he said. The commander used several poems sent to him in letters to illustrate the point.

Cameron closed the speech by urging everyone to vote.

After his address, he was presented with a document of recognition from the State Legislature by State Rep. Francis Spaniola.

VFW Commander-in-Chief Billy Ray Cameron will spend about 340 days out of his year as commander traveling to VFW posts and meeting with people around the nation.

Yule bazaar planned

The Redeemer United Methodist Church, at the corner of Clark and Shavey Roads, DeWitt, is holding its annual "Old Fashioned Christmas" Bazaar on Friday, November 16, from 9:30 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. and on Saturday, November 17, from 9:30 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. They will be featuring many handmade items and crafts, Christmas crafts, baked goods, and a soup kitchen. The public is cordially invited to attend.

VFW commander in area

Cameron was sent back to the U.S. after stepping on a land mine and suffering extensive wounds. He is a recipient of the Purple Heart with oak leaf cluster for wounds suffered in combat. Cameron is the first VFW national commander to be a Vietnam vet.

"One of the first questions I am always asked by the media is 'Why is the Vietnam vet not joining the VFW?'" Cameron said of the position of those veterans. Vietnam veterans are joining, however, said Cameron. The VFW has 275,000 Vietnam-era veteran members, and 27 post commanders across the country are Vietnam vets.

Cameron then made mention of the VFW-sponsored Agent Orange Veteran's Compensation bill, which has been passed by Congress, and after some re-wording, also passed by the Senate. "We are now waiting for the President to sign it, and I am sure that he will," said Cameron.

In an additional issue concerning Vietnam veterans and their families, Cameron said that he has met with people in Washington D.C. and the VFW is doing "everything it can" to answer questions on Vietnam prisoners of war and soldiers missing in action.

An issue of concern to all veterans covered in Cameron's speech last Tuesday was the funding level of VA Hospitals. "The average age of the World War II Veteran is 62 1/2. This means that soon there is going to be an influx of World War II vets into the VA hospital system. We must maintain the funding level of VA hospitals," said Cameron.

The national commander finished the issue-oriented section of his speech by saying "The VFW's main ambition is to go out of business," meaning that they would like to see an end to war, and therefore there would be no more war veterans. "But we assure you that as long as there's one living veteran, the VFW will be a strong lobbyist organization to take care of your needs," he added.

Cameron's speech then went into an often-emotional personal section, as he spoke in his mild southern accent of his own Vietnam experiences.

He told of how, after being wounded and receiving 275 wire stitches, he was sent back to the states to be greeted by "three or four hundred demonstrators of my own age" at the airport. "Those 275 wire stitches didn't hurt as much as people out there spitting and calling me names," said Cameron.

Cameron joined the VFW while in a hospital bed at Camp LeJeune, North Carolina. "Laying there in that bed I looked around at the others in the ward, some missing an arm, some a leg, some missing both arms and legs, what you call basket cases, and I told the Lord that if I recovered I would do something to help the others in the ward,

Corn estimate remains same

During early September, rainfall improved the states soil moisture situation, according to the Federal/State Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service. However, the Southwest portion of the state remained drier until late September. The September rains were generally too late to benefit crops such as corn and soybeans. Freezing temperatures around October 1 ended the growing season throughout the state.

Based on conditions as of October 1, corn production is forecast at 234 million bushels, unchanged from last month's estimate, but 41 percent larger than last year. The increase is attributed to 44 percent more acreage for harvest. Yields are expected to average 90 bushels per acre, unchanged from last month, but 2 bushels below the 1983 level. Dry conditions earlier in the growing season caused problems in ear development. The 31.9 million bushel soybean forecast is unchanged from last month, but 4 percent below last year. Yield expectations of 28 bushel per acre is equal to last month, but 4 bushels below last year. Pod set and development was adversely affected by dry conditions earlier in the growing season. Dry bean production is estimated at 4.5 million hundredweight (cwt.), 1 percent below the 1983 crop. Yields are forecast at 1,150 pound per acre, 50 pounds below the September forecast. Yields are also 150 pounds below last year and the lowest since 1978.

Sugarbeet production should total 2 million tons, up 3 percent from 1983. Conditions have been good for development and sugar content is expected to be above average. Farmers harvested nearly 5.7 million tons of hay this year. Yields are unchanged from last season for alfalfa, but up for all other varieties. The first forecast of fall potato production is pegged at 11.8 million cwt., 20 percent above a year ago and the largest fall crop on record. Currently yields are estimated at 275 cwt. per acre, 35 cwt. above last fall and equal to the record set in 1977. Excellent yields and quality are reported statewide.

Nationally, corn for grain production is forecast at 7.50 billion bushels, down 1 percent from September 1, but up 80 percent from last year's crop. A crop of this size is 9 percent below the record high crop of 1982. Soybean production is forecast at 1.97 billion bushels, 3 percent less than September 1, 21 percent above last year.

4-H sells citrus

In the next few weeks, 4-H members in Clinton County will be selling citrus fruit for a pre-Christmas delivery.

4-H'ers will be selling fresh fruit from Florida. They will sell pink grapefruit, navel oranges, tangelos, and Hamlin oranges. The fruit will be trucked direct from Florida by a Shiawassee County 4-H leader.

Orders can be placed by contacting 4-H members or by contacting the Extension Office at 306 Elm St., St. Johns, 224-3288 or 669-3663, ext. 229.

Prices this year are slightly higher from last year due to the problems that Florida citrus growers have experienced in the last several weeks. This year fruit prices will be:

Florida Navel oranges...$16.50, Half boxes are..$10.25

Tangelos....$13.60, Half boxes are..$7.60

Hamlin oranges....$13.60, Half boxes are..$7.60

Grapefruit....$12.00, Half boxes are..$7.00.

Orders will be taken until December 4th and fruit will be delivered for pick up on December 14th. Proceeds from the citrus fruit sale will be used to help finance Clinton County 4-H programs this year and to fund special projects such as H.R.H. and Citizenship Shortcourse.

Fruit will be sold in whole or half cases. For the holiday season, the half boxes will be boxed for easy gift giving.

For additional information or to order fruit, contact the Extension Office.

Livestock dealer charged with writing bad checks

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has charged Gary Wessels, a livestock dealer at Galesburg, ILL., with writing bad checks and failing to pay promptly for Quarter Horses purchased in Iowa and Michigan during February and March.

Wessels was also charged with writing bad checks in payment for cattle and Quarter Horses sold on consignment at the Galesburg Horse Market and Knoxville Sale Barn, a stockyard he operated at Knoxville, Ill. The market is not operating at this time.

B.H. (Bill) Jones, head of USDA's Packers and Stockyards Administration, said Wessels was also charged with operating as a livestock dealer and market agency after his bonds were terminated in March.

Jones said Wessels

has made good on all of the bad checks and that payment has been made for all of the livestock involved.

Wessels has a right to a hearing on the administrative charges which were filed by USDA under authority of the Packers and Stockyards Act.

If the charges are proven, he will be placed under a cease and desist order, similar to a permanent injunction. Wessels' registration will also be suspended until he files a bond and he could be ordered to pay a civil penalty.

Corn check-off favored

Mark Mitchell, Grand Blanc farmer and chairman of the Corn Promotion Committee of Michigan announced the results of a survey recently conducted for that group.

Mitchell, speaking before a meeting of the Michigan Corn Growers Association stated, "I was pleasantly surprised that over 70% of those surveyed who said they would participate in the program would vote favorably on a checkoff."

This is in spite of the fact that virtually no information has been distributed about the checkoff or the program.

He went on to say though, that there were two points highlighted by the survey that need early clarification. Several of those surveyed stated that they fed their corn, and wondered if that would be subject to the checkoff. Mitchell stated emphatically that, "only corn sold for grain will be assessed. Corn produced for feed by a farmer will not."

The second point involves the laws of supply and demand, and government involvement in the agricultural marketplace.

Mitchell agreed that fluctuations in the corn market might not be as great if government was not involved, but with the importance of corn and all agricultural commodities to the U.S. balance of trade and economy in general, it is unlikely that the government will allow a free market any time soon. As Joe Sweeney, president of the Michigan Corn Growers Association stated, "If they are going to be involved, we better be in a position to help ourselves, and explain our positions to government policy makers."

"As far as supply and demand, we have the ability in Michigan, and throughout the U.S. to produce far more corn than we can sell here. There is a misconception among farmers though that every country in the world already uses corn for feed, and that is far from true."

In addition though, here at home, there are also new markets for corn sweeteners and fuel," stressed Mitchell.

The vote on the proposed 1-cent voluntary checkoff on corn sold for grain is tentatively set for early summer 1985. Primary objectives of the program will be product and market development and research activities specifically targeted toward the benefit of Michigan Corn Growers.

Dyslexia makes reading difficult

Dyslexia means difficulty with reading, but the condition is curious because it doesn't manifest itself in everyone in the same way.

Typically, a child with dyslexia coasts through pre-school and kindergarten without difficulty. Toward the end of first grade, the student starts to fall behind in reading and spelling. The child may experience a lot of reversals. The letters "b" and "d", "w" and "m" may be confused. Or, words may be reversed, such as "saw" for "was."

A lot of dyslexics also have problems with auditory processing, understanding what they hear. Some have a problem with tactile perception too.

On the other hand, many dyslexics have exceptional visual skills. Several have been great artists. The sculptor Auguste Rodin, because of his difficulty in reading and writing, could not pass the qualifying examinations for the French Academy.

Originally, children who had difficulty processing language were described as "word blind." In fact, the Netherlands still has a "word blind school."

Dyslexia in the early case reports was thought to be due to a structural abnormality in the brain. The psychological movement that came along after Freud wiped out this structural theory. Instead, dyslexia was thought to be an emotional disorder or the result of poor teaching.

More recent studies indicate that the structural theory was correct. There is a physical reason for the disorder. In 1968, the first pathology study of the brain of a dyslexic person showed that the parietal lobe was not properly formed. Then, in 1979, a study by Dr. Thomas L. Kemper of Boston City Hospital and Boston University Medical Center with Dr. Albert Galaburda of Boston's Beth Israel Hospital revealed a variety of striking abnormalities in the brain of an additional dyslexic individual.

Subsequent studies, although far from extensive, have confirmed this correlation without exception. Additionally, the more severe the malformation, the more severe the dyslexia.

Medical researchers now postulate that for an as-yet-unknown reason some minor damage occurs to the brain during the first half of pregnancy. This knowledge has helped to alleviate the guilt of parents and teachers of dyslexic children. In addition, it has pointed towards new directions in research.

Investigators now are learning which diseases or disorders cluster in families with learning disabilities. These include migraine, autoimmune diseases, premature graying without balding, many major mental illnesses, and probably genius.

A common pattern is that a dyslexic child usually has a dyslexic father. However, if the mother is dyslexic, there will be more dyslexic children than if the father has the disorder.

Dyslexia is a complex disorder, but new studies make it easier to accept and may lead to more effective learning styles for children who have difficulty with reading and writing.

St. Joseph's holds carnival

The St. Joseph School Carnival will be happening for a bunch of weekend fun this Saturday, from 5-9:30 p.m. in the St. Joseph School Gym.

Four hundred dollars will be given to the lucky winner of the carnival raffle, with a Toronto trip for two through Spartan Travel as second prize, $100 third and fourth prizes, and $75 fifth and sixth prizes. Tickets are available for $1 donations and you need not be present to win.

Chances on three Cabbage Patch dolls, all with clothes handmade by Kathy Randolph, as well as over 80 other prizes donated by area merchants can be won through St. Joe's mini-affle. Tickets for the mini raffle are $1 at Land of Oz and Creative Accents and you don't have to be present to win for this, either.

In addition to the raffles, this year's carnival features a new spook house, 17 different games for kids, all with prizes, bingo and a Capital Area Community Services, Inc. will resume the distribution of commodity surplus food in Clinton County, November 13 and 14, between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. Commodities will only be provided to families that have been previously registered and received a new blue commodity food ID card.

In Clinton County, the distribution will be at the St. Johns Church of the Nazarene, 515 N. Lansing St., St. Johns, between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m., November 13 and 14.

For Clinton County senior citizens, distribution will take place at the Clinton County Senior Citizens Center, 100 South Ottawa St., St. Johns, between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m., November 13 and 14.

Musicale focuses on South

St. John's Musicale focused its attention on the antebellum days of music in America on October 25 at the home of Mrs. Richard Jacoby.

In the pre-Civil War days, the spread of music through the frontier towns started with the steamboats plying the waters of the mighty Ohio and Mississippi Rivers carrying entertainers strumming banjos and playing tambourines. Minstrelsy on board these "floating palaces", as well as in theaters, delighted audiences. One of the most outstanding composers of this minstrel music was Stephen Collins Foster. Foster completely blended in words and music the charming love song "Beautiful Dreamer", sung for the members by Tina Trefil and accompanied by Mrs. H.A. Peterson.

The program closed with the club singing the simple, beautiful melodies of Stephen Foster and "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny" by James Bland, a black composer of that period in America's growth.

Mrs. Frederick Lewis announced the presentation of three awards to the local club by the Michigan Federation of Music Clubs at the South Central District meeting.

A guest night dinner meeting will be held November 8 at 6:30 p.m. at Uncle John's Cider Mill.

WATER MAIN INSTALLED For St. Johns residents wondering, the city crews working on Garfield Street last week were replacing a water main. Materials for the project are estimated to cost $4500. The project should be completed sometime this week.

First time in 5 years

Panthers down Marauders

It was five years in the making but DeWitt finally pulled it off. They came away from Ovid-Elsie with a 22-9 gridiron victory, a feat that had escaped them for five consecutive seasons.

Ovid-Elsie started out with a bang as an opening kickoff was returned by Marauder Dave Stoneman for 44 yards, then on the next play, Brent Ruess scampered 53 yards all the way to the DeWitt 1-yard line before being stopped. Quarterback Bob Foreback then followed with a short one-yard run into the end zone for a Marauder touchdown. With only 48 seconds gone in the first quarter, the extra point conversion try failed.

DeWitt broke into the scoring column at the 7:64 mark of the second quarter after a 52-yard, 8 play march upfield. The run for the extra points failed and the score remained deadlocked, 6-6. The touchdown was set up by the fine running of Jim McCarthy who picked up 210 yards on 32 carries for the night.

Ovid-Elsie picked up a 30-yard field goal from junior lineman Doug Wilson with only 21 seconds left before the half to take a 9-6 lead. Foreback scored his second touchdown, but a holding penalty nullified the play and O-E had to settle for the field goal instead.

DeWitt ran all over the field in the second half but O-E stopped them on downs four times inside the O-E 20-yard line, however, their strong running game set up a well executed 9-yard touchdown pass play that resulted in a touchdown, followed by a two-point conversion to give DeWitt a 14-9 lead.

Ovid-Elsie drove to the DeWitt 30-yard line before they lost the ball on downs to the Panthers. Later with a minute left in the game, McCarthy went 55 yards for the clinching touchdown, followed by another successful two-point conversion to make the final score, 22-9.

O-E coach, Russ Pope, said he felt that McCarthy was the best runner his team had faced all season and that he thought his stats spoke for themselves.

"I can't help but feel disappointed that we lost the lead in the fourth quarter for the fourth time this year to lose the game. In earlier games with Chesaning, Ionia and Corunna we had started out with leads, only to eventually fall to defeat. We even had a tie with St. Johns at halftime, then went on to lose that one too. My only explanation to all this is that we start two sophomores and six juniors. Five of them are only 15 years old and aren't too big. I think they're just worn out at the last part of the games," Pope lamented.

Pope said with all these boys coming back next year that he foresaw a good strong Marauder team developing for next season. The experience they've gained this year will certainly add to their capabilities next season, he remarked.

Wrapping up the game stats, junior Brent Ruess led the offense with 84 yards rushing in 11 carries, while sophomore quarterback Bob Foreback was 4 of 11 in passing for 44 yards. He scrambled for yet another 37 yards rushing in 10 carries.

The defense was led by junior linebacker Dave Fowler with 17 tackles. Fowler has 137 tackles in eight games thus far this year. Also, junior linebacker Steve Walker was in on 10 hits and senior Rick Grieve had 9.

The O-E junior varsity had their 5-game winning streak stopped as they lost a heartbreaker 6-0 to DeWitt. The DeWitt junior varsity are undefeated this year with an 8-0 record. Ovid-Elsie now stands at a respectable 6-2.

O-E's varsity will travel to Wyoming Rogers for their final game of the season this Friday night where they hope to gain their second victory of the season.

P-W graduate plays Ferris State volleyball

Patty Theis, a 1984 graduate of Pewamo-Westphalia High School and a resident of Fowler, is competing in her first season as a member of Ferris State College's nationally-ranked volleyball team. She is the starting middle blocker in the Bulldogs' lineup and has made a quick adjustment to the rigors of college volleyball.

Theis and the rest of the Bulldogs, under first-year coach Jill Hirschinger, raced to a 25-2 start this fall and a fourth place ranking in the national NCAA Division II poll. The Bulldogs have finished eighth in the national playoffs the past two years while winning consecutive Great Lakes Conference titles.

DEWITT'S RUSHING STAR IS BROUGHT DOWN BY MARAUDER DEFENSES-Jim McCarthy, star running back for the DeWitt Panthers, is tripped up here in first half action by Dave Fowler (53). Other players in on the scene are Marauders Rick Miller (77), Dave Stoneman (85) and Brett Ruess (42). Panthers visible in the offensive struggle are Rich Curtiss (21), James Wilson (74), Keith Shooltz (65), Mike Challis (63) and Tom Mollitor (33). DeWitt overcame a 9-6 first half deficit to overpower the host Marauders in a non-league encounter, 22-9.

MCCARTHY' FORWARD PROGRESS STOPPED BY MARAUDER TACKLER- Jim McCarthy, speedy running back for the DeWitt Panthers, found himself in a no-go situation here in first half action at Ovid-Elsie Friday night. McCarthy picked up 207 yards at his tailback slot in leading his team to a 22-9 comeback win at the expense of Coach Russ Pope's Marauders. It was the first win in five years for the Panthers against the Marauders. Steve Pingston (68) is seen at the right attempting to add some blocking along with his unidentifiable Panther teammate.

Pioszak tops again

Sophomore Paul Pioszak of St. Johns put in a strong performance for the Western Michigan University men's cross country team October 20 at the Central Collegiate Conference Championships at Milwaukee, Wisconsin. Pioszak, a graduate of St. Johns High School, placed 26th in the five mile race with a time of 25:41. The Broncos finished third with 96 points, just one point behind second place Michigan. The Broncos' next meet is at the Michigan Track Athletics Congress meet in Kalamazoo with the Mid-American Conference championship meet in Toledo, Ohio the following weekend.

Bee now Briton

Bath High School 1984 graduate Richard Lackey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lackey, 12885 Wood Road, Bath, has started his freshman football season as a starting cornerback for Albion College's junior varsity Britons. Lackey is also a back-up cornerback for the varsity squad.

The Britons are 3-3 overall and 1-1 in the MIAA, defeating Division II Wayne State 29-28, Ohio Wesleyan 20-10 and Adrian 20-7.

Second-year coach Pete Schmidt is encouraged about the remainder of the season. "We have played good football," said Schmidt. "If we continue to improve, it should be an interesting race in the MIAA. After the victory over Wayne State, we know we can compete with anyone in the league."

MARAUDER QUARTERBACK FINDS THE GOING TOUGH IN RUNNING THE BALL-DeWitt's Brad Monk (32) throws a crucial block into Ovid-Elsie's Bob Foreback as he attempts to pick up some yardage in Friday night's game at Ovid-Elsie. Other players visible on the scene are O-E's Brett Ruess (42) and DeWitt's

Keith Shooltz (65). O-E lost the game after the Panthers staged a 16-point comeback in the fourth quarter behind running back Jim McCarthy's offensive show of 207 yards rushing. Game photos by Harold Schmaltz, CCN and DBR.

Varsity coach named

Doug Parker, a math teacher at St. Johns High School, has recently been appointed varsity baseball coach for the St. Johns Redwings. A graduate of Midland High School and Kalamazoo College, Parker has considerable playing and coaching experience.

While attending Kalamazoo College, he was selected three times as a member of the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association (MIAA) All-

Conference baseball team, once as an outfielder and twice as a first baseman. In his senior year, he was voted captain of Kalamazoo's team by his teammates and finished second in the league's Most Valuable Player balloting.

Parker was head baseball coach at Marlette High School for four years, with his 1973 team reaching the district finals in the state tournament. At St. Johns, he has coached the freshmen and junior varsity teams, compiling a 64-28 record. In 1979, 1981, 1982, and 1983, his teams were Junior Varsity league champions.

His immediate goals include winning the Mid-Michigan B championship, something the baseball team has never done, and making needed improvements on the playing field. Parker remarked, "St. Johns has the potential to have an excellent baseball program. This will require a lot of work, but I feel I know what it takes to produce a winner."

Methodists mark 200 years

December 24, 1984, marks the Pan-Methodist Bicentennial, 200 years of the Methodist Church in the United States. Free Methodists, along with United Methodists and three other Methodist denominations are commemorating their beginnings in this country with a year-long celebration. First United Methodist of St. Johns had a homecoming on Sunday, Oct. 28, as part of their observance.

In the early years, Methodism was spread by circuit-riding preachers, and Clinton County was no exception. The local church was formed from the Duplain or Mapleton Circuit, which included nearly all of Clinton County in 1855. Two pastors, the Rev. Harder and the Rev. T.J. Hill traveled 300 miles each month preaching at various places including Maple Rapids, Essex, Greenbush, Rochester Colony, Plowman's in Bengal Township, Merrihew and Muskrat in Olive Township, and DeWitt.

The St. Johns group consisted of nine members with Ethan Allen, a grandson of the hero of Ticonderoga, as leader. For eight years, their number grew and they met at various places in the city. In 1863 they secured land at the head of Spring Street, and on January 14, 1864, they dedicated their first church. The gleaming white frame building had a tall steeple and was located just east of the present church, facing north down Spring Street.

Eloise Hambleton's grandmother, Miranda Newman, was one of the early members of the church. Her husband, Timothy, was not a member, but must have been sympathetic to the struggle to build a church. Timothy took his team of oxen, dubbed "White Mice," because they were so small, into the virgin timber just south of where the court house now stands. There he cut and dragged out the heavy timbers which served as the foundation for that first church.

A little stream flowed from west to northeast past the corner of the block on which the church was built. A log bridge crossed the stream from the church corner to the courthouse square. Local businessmen donated a bell for the steeple.

Besides summoning people to the church, the bell slowly tolled the years of a persons age at their funeral, or loudly called for aid when fire threatened someone in the community.

On the January morning of the dedication, the snow lay deep enough to cover the rail fence around the court house. A bob-sleigh drawn by farm horses, with bells jingling on their harness, broke the road through with the first load of folks for the service.

The Second Methodist Church

The white church in the woods served the Methodists well for 39 years, but in 1893 agitation began for a larger church. The woods were gone and the congregation, like the city, had grown. Plans were made for a church "not for the present only, but for a century." Work began in the spring of 1895, and the cornerstone was laid on May 25, 1895.

The building was an imposing structure built of red brick with high gables, stained glass windows and it nearly filled the lot. Total cost of the church and furnishings was $19,500 and $14,000 had been pledged to pay for it when it was dedicated on Oct. 27, 1895.

The children of Eliza Ann Huston Hicks gave the church the tower bells in her memory. They were cast by the McShane Bell Foundry in Baltimore, Maryland. The 11 bells weigh 11,600 pounds. The tower of the brick church was modified somewhat when the bells were installed in 1916.

On Saturday morning, Oct. 10, 1936, R.G. Becher was on Main Street early delivering ice for Schoenholtz and Pardee. Those days were before the electric refrigeration and he had a full load of ice on his truck. The beer gardens were his first customers ... they gave him keys to their establishments and he was just starting his work when the fire whistle blew. The young man was a volunteer fireman and he ran the block or so to the firehall.

Dispatch told him it was the Methodist Episcopal Church on the corner of State and Linden Streets. Since he was the first man to arrive at the firehall, R.G. took the smallest piece of equipment and started out.

The church building faced West, overlooking the Court House Square. A tall tower on the north-west corner housed the bells. R.G. pulled up to the back of the church and placed his hand flat against the wooden door. It was so hot he couldn't keep his hand there; the firemen call that a "Hot Fire." He pulled his rig away from the building to make way for the bigger equipment, on its way by this time.

Fourteen or fifteen volunteer firemen fought the fire for two hours before they reluctantly agreed it would be a total loss and concentrated on containing the fire and saving the bells. From the headway the fire had made when it was discovered, the fireman believed it had started the evening before and smoldered all night. The brick and slate construction kept out enough oxygen to prevent a blazing fire. Thanks to the fireman the bells were saved. They ran streams of water down the tower and over the bells to keep them cool. As the roof timbers burned the slate roof crashed into the basement, but the tower remained intact.

At noon, when the fire had scarcely died down, Stuart Tupper, the regular chimer, climbed the tower and ringing the chimes by hand played the hymn "Faith of Our Fathers." People in the streets stopped and listened in silence, with tears

ATTENTION FARM BUREAU MEMBERS

A message from Congressman Don Albosta

Recently a letter was sent to all Farm Bureau Members in the 10th District by Al Almy, Director of Public Affairs for Farm Bureau.

This letter contains many untrue statements which Al Almy knows are false. I want to take this opportunity to tell you the rest of the story.

VOTING RECORD - THE REST OF THE STORY

Farm Bureau wanted me to vote for $8.5 billion in extra money to the International Monetary Fund. Farm Bureau wanted me to vote against the Pay As You Go budget which would have cut over $175 billion from the deficit. Farm Bureau wanted me to vote against the Social Security Bill, that's what Farm Bureau's rating is all about. Farm Bureau forgot to mention that I have voted for a balanced budget constitutional amendment. They also forgot to tell you that I have voted against the 1982 and the 1984 Tax Bills which increased taxes by $148 billion per year.

As for ratings, the non-partisan highly respected Congressional Quarterly, which rates all members of Congress said that I am one of the most conservative members of the Michigan delegation.

LEADERSHIP FOR MICHIGAN AGRICULTURE

In 1983 I worked hard to prevent the marketing order system used by cherry producers from being destroyed. Farm Bureau thought my efforts were so important that they invited me and paid my expenses to come to the Farm Bureau State Convention in December 1983 to speak to the members about marketing order legislation.

When problems came up with the cherry marketing order again this year Al Almy asked me to arrange a meeting with the Michigan delegation to help make sure the marketing order would be used with this year's crop. In fact, Al said in a letter to me on June 11, 1984:

"Thank you again for your assistance and interest in helping the cherry industry obtain timely approval of the 1984 crop Marketing Order and a cherry purchase for the school lunch program."

As a lifelong farmer I have taken a special interest in agriculture legislation and issues before Congress. I have spoken up loud and clear for Michigan farmers and have used my knowledge of farming to convince others to support important farm bills.

Here's what Farm Bureau endorsed Michigan Congressman Bob Traxler and Dave Bonior said about Don Albosta in a recent letter:

"All of us in the Michigan delegation consult Don on farm issues because he is a lifelong farmer and knows what he is talking about. Because of his farming background, he has great credibility when he talks agriculture, especially with our urban colleagues whose votes are needed on important farm issues." October 24, 1984.

And here's what Gordon Guyer, Director of the Extension Service, has to say, "I want to let you know how thrilled I am to see some of our key Michigan congressmen stepping out with leadership in the agricultural area. I am pleased to support you and be a part whenever possible." April 24, 1984.

Best wishes,

REELECT CONGRESSMAN DON ALBOSTA

in their eyes. It was early evening when the firemen left, keeping one man and one piece of equipment there all night to make sure the fire didn't flare up again. The bells never became so hot they could not be touched, and this also saved their tones. The church suffered a stunning loss. Many valuable records were destroyed along with the building, but the original bells were saved and installed in the present United Methodist Church Tower, where they are heard every day.

The present United Methodist Church

Seventeen months would pass before the congregation could worship in their own church again. The ruins were torn down by a wrecking crew, but there was lots of clean-up done the next spring by many volunteers. Chancey Shafley, Hazel Halsey's uncle, directed the work. August Brandt had ordered a new tractor and when it came they housed it in the parsonage garage instead of taking it home to the farm. The old church was built just inside the sidewalk on the west, the new one would stand further back leaving a hole to be filled with the stone and debris from the brick church. The lawn on the south, between the church and the parsonage, was cut down some by plowing and pushing that soil into the old basement. Brandt's tractor was used for this heavy work. The bricks from the old church were cleaned and used as facing behind the limestone seen in the beautiful church today.

Many invitations to worship were extended by local churches and that first Sunday services were held in the Congregational Church. For the most part, the Clinton Theater was used each Sunday for worship, with the church school held at various places.

Many problems faced the building committee. The available space on the lot was limited and it was difficult to project how the membership and city would grow in the future, some were convinced St. Johns was as big as it would ever get. The threat of World War II made availability of labor and materials very unsure. Only three contractors submitted bids, all of them much higher than expected. After many revisions, the contractors signed in late August of 1937 and laying of the cornerstone took place Oct. 12, 1937, one year and two days after the fire. In March of 1938, 400 people worshiped in the basement and in June of 1938 the completed church was dedicated.

Although these facts are mostly about the history of the building, the true Church is the people, striving to "Proclaim Grace and Freedom" through Jesus Christ.

Marching band hosts varsity nite

St. Johns Redwing Marching Band's annual Varsity Nite program will take place Saturday November 3, 1984 in the gymnasium at St. Johns High School at 7:30 p.m. Admission is $2.

An added feature to the program this year will be the Alumni Band. Trixie's Pixies, cheerleaders, 9th grade band, and several small ensembles and individuals will be performing.

Varsity Nite is an extremely fun night for the participants as well as those who attend. The show is for all ages.

Varsity Nite is basically a wrap-up of the marching season. Songs played for all of the half-time shows will be presented, cheerleaders, flags, and percussion will be featured doing their specialties. Trixie's Pixies are always show stoppers and the individual acts will also be exciting. As usual, there will be several musical surprises.

The Alumni Band will rehearse at 3 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 3 and performs that evening.

OVID-ELSIE DRAWS FIRST BLOOD AGAINST DEWITT- Capping a brilliant 53 yard run by Dave Ruess to the DeWitt 1-yard line, Ovid-Elsie takes it over for six points in Friday night's action at Ovid-Elsie High School. Ruess (42) can be seen over the goal line just after quarterback Bob Foreback took it over for the score, while other Marauders acknowledge the touchdown being signaled by game officials. Showing his exuberance is Todd Putnam (65), while Rick Grieve (62) and Rick Miller (77) stand by for the extra point conversion try. O-E had their two-point conversion attempt squelched by alert DeWitt defenses. DeWitt players visible are Brad Monk (32), Jon Holland next to O-E's Ruess and Tom Mollitor (33).

Alumni band to play

The St. Johns High School Alumni Band performance for this year has been scheduled for November 3. Scheduling the concert for a Saturday will hopefully allow more St. Johns alums to attend.

A good turn-out of alumni is expected because in addition to the day-scheduling, musicians will be performing inside this year, along with the high school marching band at the Varsity Nite show in the high school gymnasium.

Rehearsal for the alumni band will be Saturday, from 3-5 p.m. in the high school band room. Music and instruments will be available for those without.

Alumni unable to attend rehearsal are still urged to play for the band during Varsity Nite. Organizers are also requesting that the musicians wear red.

O-E Mexico trip planned

Monday, November 5, a meeting will be held at the Ovid-Elsie High School concerning a trip to Mexico during the spring break. The meeting will be held in Mr. Barlow's room, E-6, at 7:00 p.m.

the cost will be minimal. Towns to be visited include Mexico City, Guanajuato, Guadalajara (Mexico's second largest city), and the "Love Boat" city of Puerto Vallarta.

Mr. Barlow will lead the tour, as he has many in the past. There will be several organizational meetings in the winter to prepare travelers for the warm Mexican experience.

The trip will include students and adults. Since it is a group tour, Meeting called to order by Supervisor Huntoon 7:00 p.m. Pledge given.

Roll call: present-Huntoon, Borgeson, Fraser, Gorman, Lowell; absent-Carlson and Dunnigan.
1985 Federal Revenue Sharing Budget Hearing opened at 7:03 p.m. by Supervisor Huntoon. Anticipated revenue of $14,000 and $500 interest was proposed for use on local road projects. Public comment was received that the monies be used for the proposed reassessment of the industrial and commercial properties of the Township and for matching funds for the Grant monies that are expected to be received for our park development. Hearing closed at 7:20 p.m.
Agenda approved.
1. Proposed 1985 Budget was adopted unanimously with changes as noted with the levy of 5 mills for operations and .75 mills for sewer debt.
2. The bids for reappraisal of the commercial and industrial properties were opened. Three envelopes had been received, but two contained notice of refusal to bid. The third was from Appraisal and Property Tax Services, Inc. of Okemos, which included an addendum for a total bid of $14,000. The Board voted to allow Supervisor Huntoon to abstain from voting on the bids. Clerk Borgeson moved that all bids be rejected, and the motion carried. The Board expressed their determination that the reappraisal of these properties be done during the next year.
Meeting adjourned at 9:15 p.m.

Cool Dessert Goes Well With Homework

Back to school doesn't always mean cool, crisp fall weather. Sometimes warm fall nights need cool, refreshing desserts like the Creamy Raspberry Squares featured here, to make the task of doing homework a little sweeter.

This delicious no-bake dessert is made simple with the help of Royal® Raspberry Gelatin. The Royal Gelatin is combined with evaporated milk, cream cheese and raspberries, then chilled in an Oreo® Cookie Crust. The creamy, light melt-in-your mouth taste is sensational.

Hungry students will find these Creamy Raspberry Squares a perfect accompaniment to calculus, French, science or whatever. You will find them an easy treat to prepare and a delicious way to reward diligent students.

CREAMY RASPBERRY SQUARES

Makes 8 servings

- 18 Oreo Chocolate Sandwich Cookies, finely rolled
- 1/4 cup margarine, melted
- 2 (3-ounce) packages or 1 (6-ounce) package Royal Raspberry or Strawberry Gelatin
- 1-3/4 cups boiling water
- 1 (13-ounce) can evaporated milk, chilled
- 1 (8-ounce) package cream cheese, softened
- 1 (10-ounce) package frozen raspberries in light syrup, thawed or 1 (9-ounce) package frozen sliced strawberries, thawed
- Prepared whipped topping for garnish, optional

In medium bowl, combine cookie crumbs and margarine; mix well. Press into bottom of 8 x 8-inch baking pan. Chill.

In large bowl, dissolve raspberry gelatin in boiling water. Stir in chilled evaporated milk. Pour half of mixture into blender container or food processor, add half of cream cheese. Process until smooth and creamy; pour into large bowl. Repeat with remaining gelatin mixture and cream cheese. Fold in raspberries and syrup. Chill until slightly thickened; pour into prepared crust. Chill until firm, about 3 hours.

Cut into squares to serve. If desired, garnish with prepared topping.

French Peach Of A Dessert

At one time the dessert course was always awaited with sparkling anticipation. Yet, nowadays, more and more people have misgivings about indulging in sweets. A thoughtful hostess tries to select a light, refreshing dessert that will blend with her menu. Here is one we'd like to recommend—Pêches Mont Blanc, fresh peach halves filled with a fluffy, tangy French crème and Armagnac mixture.

French triple crème cheeses—Brillat-Savarin, Explorateur, Saint-André, Boursault or plain Boursin—are delicately mild cheeses with a tart aftertaste that make a perfect flavor fillip. And Armagnac, the oldest of the French brandies, adds its spirited, distinctive accent.

For an extra-special touch, serve the famous French dessert wine, Sauternes from the Bordeaux region... a perfect companion for peaches!

PECHES MONT BLANC

(Makes about 6 servings)

- 1/4 lb. triple crème cheese
- 2 T. Armagnac
- 2 T. confectioner's sugar
- 6 fresh (or canned), peeled peach halves
- Fresh lemon juice
- 1/2 cup finely chopped pistachio nuts

Combine cheese, Armagnac and sugar. Mix until cheese is very fluffy. Use mixture to fill peach hollows. If using fresh peaches, brush all surfaces with lemon juice. Chill until ready to serve. Sprinkle with chopped nuts before serving.

News for TEA LOVERS

SENSATIONAL TAILGATE SPREAD

You'll need all the energy you can get to cheer for the big game. And pre-game tailgating is definitely a pleasurable way to gather it. By serving the tailgater's spread pictured here, you'll be the hit of the parking lot.

Instead of grilling individual burgers, barbecue one giant one with a surprise filling of shredded cheese, crisp-cooked bacon and sliced tomato in the center. It's spectacular when presented on a large "bun"—actually a round bread loaf that's split.

To wet the whistles of your hungry gang while the burger is grilling, serve refreshing Lipton Lemon Flavored Iced Tea Mix. Many people make the mistake of forgetting about iced tea once the summer is over. But offering a pitcher of thirst-quenching iced tea to your crowd and watch it disappear!

If you're adventuresome, take it a step farther and create an easy punch such as the recipe given below: Kick-Off Fruit Punch. The nice thing about this punch is you can choose the ingredients to fit the occasion. For instance, if you want a "warming" stadium punch, add Burgundy wine. Or if your team gives you a reason to celebrate, use Champagne.

Whatever the reason, whatever the season, this tailgating fare is sure to give you the energy you need to cheer your team to victory!

COLD WATER BREWED ICED TEA

6 Lipton® Flo-Thru® Tea Bags

- 1 quart cold water
- Place four-sided tea bags in glass quart jar or pitcher and fill with cold water; cover. Refrigerate at least 8 hours or overnight. Remove tea bags. Pour into ice-filled glasses. Makes 1 quart refreshing iced tea.

KICK-OFF FRUIT PUNCH

- 3/4 cup Lipton Lemon Flavored Iced Tea Mix
- 1 quart water
- 1 can (6 oz.) frozen orange juice concentrate
- 1 can (6 oz.) frozen pineapple juice concentrate
- 5 cups chopped fresh fruit
- 1 bottle (28 oz.) club soda, chilled

Combine lemon flavored iced tea mix, water, concentrates and fresh fruit. Just before serving, add club soda. Serve with ice. Makes about 20 (5 oz.) servings.

VARIATIONS:
First and Ten Punch: Substitute 1 bottle (28 oz.) chilled ginger ale for club soda.

"Warming" Stadium Punch: Substitute 1 bottle (4/5 qt.) chilled sparkling Burgundy wine for club soda.

Victory Celebration Punch: Substitute 1 bottle (4/5 qt.) chilled Champagne for club soda.

ENTERTAINING WITH EASE AND ELEGANCE

Ham goes high hat in pastry shells for company. It can be both easy and elegant when you start with frozen puff pastry sheets and a delicious mushroom sauce cooked in Mouton Cadet red wine.

HAM EN CROUTE WITH WINE MUSHROOM SAUCE

- 1 package (17-1/4 ounces) frozen puff pastry sheets
- 4 pieces (6 ounces each) smoked ham or Canadian bacon
- 2 tablespoons Dijon mustard
- 1 teaspoon curry powder
- 1 egg, well beaten

- Sauce
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 4 shallots, chopped
- 1/2 pound mushrooms trimmed and chopped
- 2 cups chicken broth
- 2 cups Mouton Cadet red wine
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons flour

Thaw pastry sheets for 20 minutes, then unfold. Cut each into 2 pieces. Spread both sides of each piece of ham with a mixture of mustard and curry powder. Roll out pastry large enough to completely enclose ham. Place packets, seam side down, on a greased shallow baking pan. Brush with egg. Chill. To prepare sauce, heat butter in a saucepan and saute shallots and mushrooms for 5 minutes. Add chicken broth, Mouton Cadet red wine and lemon juice. Simmer covered for 15 to 20 minutes or until sauce has reduced to 1/2 its original volume. Quickly whisk in flour and simmer gently until sauce has thickened slightly. Brush packets with egg again and bake in a preheated moderate oven (350-F.) for 30 to 35 minutes or until puffed and brown. Serve topped with mushroom Mouton Cadet sauce. Serves 4.

Ham en croute can get company's vote. The dish is topped with a delicious wine mushroom sauce.

Toast your culinary endeavors with the same wine that played a starring role in the preparation of your meal.

SENSIBLE SWEETS

Summer fun means summer thirst. Instead of reaching for a sugary soft drink, cool down with fun, reduced-calorie, no-alcohol drinks like Cran-Orange Spritzer, Chocolate Amaretto Cream and Tom Collins. These are "sensible sweets" for the entire family from Equal® low-calorie sweetener with Nutra-Sweet®.

Cran-Orange Spritzer is the perfect pleaser after tennis, swimming or running.

If summer brings out the iced coffee lover in you, try Chocolate Amaretto Cream. This rich tasting creation is a delicious anytime cooler, or if sour is your preference, try this low-calorie version of the spirited Tom Collins.

PACK A PERKY LOW-CAL LUNCH

If you watched your weight all summer, don't stop now that you are back into a regular routine. Keep up the calorie watch at lunchtime with Pepper Steak Salad Cups—a perky, low-calorie lunch that won't bore your taste buds. Served in an edible pepper container, the delicious filling uses bottled lite red Russian dressing as a convenient marinade that is heavy on flavor, but light on calories.

Well, That's Life

By Nancy
Fischbach

Talk about a shock!!!

The morning I got up feeling like I had been hit by a Mack truck, I thought was going to be the biggie of the day. A sore throat, teary eyes, and a drippy nose is not my idea of an ideal situation. After shifting into second gear, I managed to get my little one off to school and my husband on his way. I parked the vacuum in the middle of the floor for effect only, put the dog out, and decided the couch was the only place for me. After all, with all my errands (which are mainly for the rest of the family), housework, etc., I had been forced into missing my soaps. This was the perfect time to curl up with a box of Puffs, an afghan, and watch the tube. After an hour or so of that, I realized I hadn't missed as much as I thought I had. Maybe it was my sickly condition, but I found myself pushing the off button and settling down for a nap. Even though breathing seemed out of the question at the time, a nap seemed to fit the situation. I made sure the phone was at my finger tips since I'm always on duty and dozed off to sleep.

I finally realized it wasn't a dream, the phone was really ringing. I answered and right away knew it was my sister in Ohio, and before I realized what was happening, she announced the rabbit died. Now, you must understand, my sister and her husband have owned a Volkswagen Rabbit for years and were wanting to trade it in, because it was beyond intensive care. Now, she's telling me the rabbit died, so I immediately thought the car had made it's final trip. So, with that thought in mind, I said, "Oh, that's too bad, when are you going to get a new one?" Well, she immediately cleared up that thought when she informed me that it was a real rabbit. That got the old adrenalin going in spite of my sickly state. You must realize, this person on the other end of the phone had been married 11 years at this point, and no one ever dreamed the day would come when she would embark on this type of new career.

After the usual congrats, that's great, and I'm happy for you type conversation, we hung up and I went into a heap. My thoughts came alive with all the cute and cuddly things we could make in our waiting stage. Then, my thoughts dropped to (if she only knew)! Don't get me wrong, I love the institution of motherhood, but you and I know, it does have it's moments, days, and sometimes years. It's definitely a learning experience and builds a lot of character. There are days I feel like my character is on overload. Never the less, here we are with a new birthday to put on the calendar to remember, and if I were just a little closer, a new little person to love, enjoy, and of course, you know I wouldn't think of spoiling a child.

That's life and this too shall pass...

TIGER TRIVIA

Q. There have been a total of five no-hit games by Tiger pitchers. Who were the hurlers who pitched the gems?

A. George Mullin was the first for the Bengals, in 1912. He was followed by Virgil Trucks, who accomplished the feat twice in 1952. Jim Bunning was next, defeating Boston in 1958. And current Tiger pitching star Jack Morris did it on April 7 of this year, against the Chicago White Sox.

Teachers initiated

The Delta Kappa Gamma society for women educator's Alpha Eta Chapter recently held initiation for six area women at the Brass Bell restaurant in Chesaning.

Those honored were Sally Coohon, a teacher at Ovid-Elsie; Mary Hughey, 6th grade teacher at Ovid-Elsie; Jenny McCampbell, coordinator for gifted and talented programs for the Clinton County Intermediate School District; Gretchen Muehlenbeck, a third grade teacher in St. Johns; and Jeanette Adams, a third grade teacher at Ovid-Elsie.

Delta Kappa Gamma society for women educators focuses on service, professional growth, and fellowship.

Rathburn-Williams Double ring ceremony

Patty Jo Rathburn and Lance Damon Williams were united in marriage during a double ring ceremony July 28 at the Charlotte Congregational Church with William S. Trump Jr. officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rathburn of Vermontville. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Williams of DeWitt.

Maid of Honor was Trudy Rathburn. Bridesmaids were Teresa Kent, Gretchen Pretty, Rebecca Williams, Becky Tabor, and Lynda Balsley. Flowergirl was Kara Rathburn.

Best Man was Jeff Cox. Groomsmen were Alan Miller, Bruce Rasmussen, Steve Rathburn, Phil Rathburn, and Jim Normandin.

Soloists for the ceremony were Jeff and Nita Massey.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the American Legion Hall in Charlotte. Assisting at the reception were Mr. and Mrs. William Marsh and Mr. and Mrs. David French.

Following a honeymoon trip to Toronto, the couple now reside in East Lansing.

Apples, pears, plums, cherries, and almonds are all from the same family as the rose bush.

SENIOR CITIZEN'S CORNER HELPFUL IDEAS FOR SUCCESSFUL RETIREMENT

Tough Times

There is something to be said for the ability to remain independent well into the senior years. But, there can be problems when the desire to maintain independence overrides everything else.

Trouble comes when an individual, fiercely independent for a lifetime, becomes incapacitated by illness but stubbornly and foolishly refuses to ask for or accept assistance.

This is the type of situation that goes from bad to worse and can impose a heavy burden on family members. Sons and daughters who have children of their own to take care of can be saddled with the additional problems of dealing with a headstrong parent, who needs help, refuses it, and thus creates an atmosphere charged with apprehension, worry and fear.

One of the toughest decisions in family life is that of determining if the time has finally come to break the tradition of a lifetime and override parental wishes. Sometimes, the choice must be positive if an individual who still wants to do for himself or herself cannot do so and, in living alone, deteriorates from lack of care.

It isn't a pleasant subject, but it is one that concerns many families and can affect the lives of both family and friends.

Keeping Healthy

Eating Disorders

"A Public Primer on Eating Disorders" has been written by a specialist on anorexia, bulimia and related eating disorders. Psychiatrist, Felix E.F. Larocca, MD dedicates his soft-cover book to his patients and their families.

There are several treatment approaches used in the treatment of anorexia and bulimia and the St. Louis psychiatrist maintains that eating disorder patients cannot be treated in isolation. At least half of his book is devoted to his BASH group-Bulimia, Anorexia Self-Help groups which have served as a model for a number of others in other parts of the country.

Bulimia is characterized by compulsive overeating followed by laxatives and/or induced vomiting. Anorexia nervosa is a form of starvation characterized by inability to accept body image at anything approaching normal weight. These two eating disorders, which have been linked frequently, have produced deaths in up to one-fifth of individuals with the problem.

Calling Colleen

Dear Colleen:

Why do people make so much to do about a romance between a nineteen year old woman and man who is "fortyish?" We are very much in love and he is wonderful to me. I can't understand why my family and friends object so strongly and tell me I would be making a serious mistake to marry him. I know what I want, and he is it.

Dear Belle:

You know what you want and now he is it. But, marriage vows are made for life. Will he still be "it" when you are thirty-nine and he is "sixtyish?" Or, when you are fifty-nine and he is "eightyish?" He well could be, but this is a question that you need to answer for yourself. Your family and friends only want you to be happy—for long, long years after the honeymoon.

Dear Colleen:

How do parents convince their children that it is to their own benefit to develop the ability to stand on their own two feet? Today, children (young adults, really) reach the age of 24 years or 25 years and still look to their parents for everything. They lean on their parents for financial support even after they get married. I see no objection to this if the parents are able to provide that support, but many are not, although they continue to give it. What is it with this generation?

Belle

Bill

Dear Bill:

The generation has nothing to do with it. Since the stone age, young adults have been willing to lounge and sleep all day if their parents were willing to continue to provide for them as if they were children.

Outdoors By Dick Bradley

October is too short

October's never long enough. I take my camera and my fishing rod and head toward the river. A rabbit bursts from a high bank cover and a flight of Golden-eye ducks flies over as I wade and cast. Purple asters as dark as May violets, wink at me from a high shore. I put the rod aside and try and frame them with scrub oak leaves through the viewfinder of my camera. And what about the sumac leaves as scarlet as the wings of a tanager? Could I get them all in the same picture frame? A bass swirls after a minnow on the river's surface as I seek another camera subject. On the way back to the water the 35 millimeter is put back into its case and the spinning rod retrieved. Perfect golden maple leaves are floating on the current and the bass is nearly forgotten.

Upstream just a ways, a squirrel knocks acorns into the water with bullet-like splashes. I remember the 16 gauge and the boots and hunting vest inside the back shed door. I think of the old hound nosing among the brushy shoreside cover as I wade. A northern pike slashes at my awkward, unwatched cast.

October isn't long enough. Sunshafts peek one last time at the gaudy autumn scene. The golden willow's leaves speckle the darkening water and a haziness comes out of the deeper shadows further on. I come to the place where wild grapes grow, the place where already I've picked half a bushel for jelly and wine. I can smell them now, fermenting because the recent frost and the beaks of birds have done their work to let the juices out. And right beside the still laden vines I can see the trail, worn and cut by cloven hooves, where deer come down to drink.

But I want to fish one more pool before the sun dips so low that slippery rocks go totally unseen beneath the surface. There's a big protruding stone up there that I can lean against and cast to a current washed channel. More than once a bass has risen from this lair to strike a spinner or a plug.

The whisper of wings and I look up to see a pair of ducks at treetop level, quickly flying toward the river's source. I notice that the mist has blurred the silhouettes of trees. Where the water and the sky were clear enough a half an hour ago, now only a montage in fog remains. It's time to leave.

I climb the bank to find the path that leads back to the truck. An owl calls, something large moves off into the brush and spurs the imagination. After all there is a fine buck run right close by.

My feet trace the path from memory now, and as the last light of day is lost, a harvest moon climbs from the eastern mist. It guides my final steps and etches still another page in this day of memories.

October is never long enough.

Cornwell scores 100%

BY HAROLD SCHMALTZ

Well, what do you know....this week's Clinton County Football Contest winner was determined without the help of the tiebreaker. That means one thing. The winner got them all right! Can you believe Richard Cornwell of 300 E. Higham St., St. Johns knew Notre Dame would upset L.S.U. and that Auburn would score those vital 10 points in the last four minutes of the fourth quarter to outlast Mississippi State and how about Michigan over Illinois. However he figured it all out, he's the winner of $20.

Three others had one wrong each. They were Ted Thelen of Westphalia; Jennifer Lynn Armbrustmacher of Fowler and Andy Thelen of St. Johns. They had all the college games guessed right but they missed on three different local contests. Congratulations to them anyway!

Seven other prognosticators had two wrong. They were Jeff Casler of St. Johns; Glenn Simon of St. Johns; Thomas D. Armbrustmacher of Fowler; Jeff Wadell of Elsie; R. Mitchell of St. Johns; Carolyn Campbell of St. Johns and Andrew Hata of Ovid. Lots of others had three wrong, but many others had more than five wrong. L.S.U. and St. Johns had lots of supporters in the polls.

This next week ends the regular football contest, so hang in there at least one more time. You might win yet!
