St. Johns Board of Education

School to try again on millage increase

The St. Johns Board of Education will hold another millage election in August to try and get a millage increase in addition to the four-year, three and one-half millage renewal approved by voters June 10.

That decision was made at the schoolboard meeting June 17.

According to Earl Gabriel, superintendent, the district is operating on 29.75 mills right now, and that will not be enough to keep the schools operating.

If requests for increasing the millage continue to fail, one of the most drastic measures the board could take would include opening the schools in the fall and operating them until funds no longer existed to keep them open.

Other plans for saving the district money, if the increase fails, includes closing two of the seven elementary schools in the district. This would save the schools $100,000 to $115,000.

In respect to cutting extra-curricular activities Gabriel said, "The small amount of money saved by cutting extra-curricular activities would not be worth the results. Many of these activities have large support groups who could raise the money to keep these activities going, and the administration then loses control."

The board will be discussing millage resolutions at a meeting June 24 and approving the final proposals, to go before the voters, at the July 1 meeting.

Both meetings will be held in the St. Johns High School Board Room, beginning at 8 p.m. The public is welcome to attend.

Before the election takes place, settlements will be completed with teachers, secretaries and cutodians, so the board will have an even better idea of what expenditures they will need to budget.

After the millage resolutions are decided on, an 80-member citizen support team will be formed to make a person-to-person campaign effort to inform people of the reasons the millage increase is needed.

"If the August election fails, we will have to try again in December," said Gabriel.

In other action, the board approved the resignation of Walter Cole for the purposes of retirement. In addition, they approved of drawing-up a consulting contract for Cole so he could assist with setting-up band camp and helping with the transition to a new instructor.

The contract will be voted on at the June 24 meeting.

Teacher retires after 29 years

John Takis

At a gala and spirited retirement luncheon at Bonnie Brooke Golf Club in Detroit, John P. Takis of St. Johns said farewell to his colleagues at Ferndale High School, Ferndale, after 29 years as vocational educator.

Takis, a former tool and die maker, earned his BS, MA and EdD degrees from Wayne State University. He served for nine years as editor of the Michigan Industrial Education Journal. He also was named "Master Teacher" by the Michigan Industrial Education Society.

In 1977, he was honored by being selected as Michigan Industrial Teacher of the Year. The following year, Takis received national honors in Des Moines, Iowa.

Takis and his wife, Alexandria have now both retired to their farm at 5503 South St. Clair Road, St. Johns, purchased 11 years ago.

Having spent weekends, vacations, and summers at their St. Johns residence, John and Alexandria are well known in the community.

James Edwin Crosby

Founder of Crosby Mint Farms' personal history

Editors note: this is a copy of the theme Robert Dale Crosby wrote about his grandfather, James Edwin Crosby, while in grade school. It was submitted by Ginger Crosby, Robert's wife.

James Edwin Crosby was born September 25th, 1868 in Montgomery County, Dayton, Ohio.

He lived in a log house while going to school. He went to school until he was 20, but went only in the winter, because he had to work on the farm the rest of the time.

When he finished school he had an education equal to a college one today.

When he was 22 he married Loretta M. Johnson. They were both members of the United Brothers Church. They raised four children.

After he was married, he worked four years for a farmer at $18 a month. Then he bought a farm and raised tobacco as a main cash crop. He did that for eight years and then moved from his farm to Dayton, where he hired out with his team to a cement contractor for four years.

A little while later, he was deputized as a sheriff, and was a nightwatchman for two years. After a short time, he rented his father's farm and operated a retail dairy farm until the flood of 1913, which broke up his business.

In 1916, he came to Clinton County, Michigan by way of train. He bought a muck farm and a little up-land and started in the peppermint business, which was the first in Clinton County.

He worked the farm until the summer of 1927, and then retired on account of ill health. It was that summer that there was an awful heat spell. Horses and mules died. It was at this time that he had a sun stroke and went blind for three days. After that his health was poor and he could hardly stand the heat.

It wasn't long before he bought a piece of land up north on Glen Lake, and built a cottage.

He spent his summers there until the summer of 1944, when he passed away.

He served as an active member of the Bingham and Pomona Grange and of the Farm Bureau. He was also a member of the Masonic Lodge.

He died August 27, 1944 in Traverse City, Michigan.

tion ever hosted on the Indiana University campus.

The winners included East DeWitt Baptist School, who overall, placed third in the PACE Bowl; and Tim Wineland placed third in Color Photography.

Sheriff's Department Report

Clinton County Sheriff's Deputies investigated two personal injury accidents this past week.

Grant LeDuke, St. Johns, was eastbound on Ridge Road, west of St. Clair, when he apparently lost control of his vehicle June 10.

The vehicle was going through "S" curves and the driver lost control on the second curve. The vehicle went off the road, struck a tree stump and rolled over.

LeDuke was taken to Clinton Memorial by Elsie Ambulance.

Two passengers, Steven LeDuke, age 3 and Jessica LeDuke, age 2, were in car restraints. Grant was not wearing a seatbelt.

He was cited for going too fast for conditions.

A vehicle driven by

Myron Reddin, 26, East Lansing, was southbound on Wacousta when he failed to negotiate a turn onto Stone and went into a ditch June 12.

Reddin and his passenger, James Kost, 25, of East Lansing were both transported to Clinton Memorial by Clinton area ambulance.

Kost was cited for violation of basic speed.

The Sheriff's Department has handled several complaints of trespassing. This includes people fishing, partying or using three-wheel vehicles. Remember that you are supposed to have WRITTEN permission to be on private property. The Sheriff's department is issuing tickets to those people found in violation.

During the past week the Sheriff's Department has handled a total of 111 complaints, some of which were: one alarm, two domestics, 21 property damage accidents, two reckless drivers, five reports of suspicious activity or vehicles, two larcenies, eight malicious destruction of property's, one runaway, three loud parties and seven assists to other departments. There have been 28 people booked into the county jail, seven for drunk driving. Current jail count is 39.

Sheriff reminds county residents that the law to "buckle-up" begins July 1

Clinton County residents must "buckle up" as of June 1, due to a new statewide safety belt law signed recently by Governor James J. Balchard.

Terry Haneckow, Clinton County Sheriff reminds citizens that the law requires front seat passengers to fasten their seat belts or face a $10 fine between

June 1 and December 31, 1985.

After December 31, the fine increases to $25.

Violators of the new safety belt law will have no points added to their records, and police cannot stop motorists simply to check them for compliance with the law, according to Sheriff Haneckow.

"The new law will cut down on traffic fatalities," Sheriff Haneckow said.

Figures released by the state of New York revealed that as a result of safety belt laws in that state, traffic deaths in the month of January 1985 decreased by 38 percent from the same month in 1984.

Sheriff Haneckow also reminds citizens that Michigan law requires children to be strapped securely in a seat belt or child safety seat.

"We hope all of the Clinton county residents will comply with the new safety belt law," Sheriff Haneckow added. "It could save your life."

Cal's Merchandise showroom to open

Cal's Merchandise, 1112 N. Meridian Road, Ovid, is preparing for its grand opening to be held in July.

It all began last November when business became so good that Larry VanDeusen and his brother Cal, decided to construct a 40 by 80 foot commercial building to serve customers better.

"We decided to expand our business because our competitive prices, good service and well-known products has made our business the success it is today," said Larry.

When the business started in 1970, they carried one item and operated out of a small garage. They now feature over 500 items and services numerous area restaurants, factories, churches, retail stores and schools.

Cal's carries a complete line of colored tissue wedding bells, streamers, table covers, napkins and other paper products. The company will be extending its wedding items, and a new showroom will encourage customers to come in and take a look.

The new building will house a storeroom, showroom and office.

"We want people to know we are more than just a wholesale business. Anyone is welcome to walk in and look around," said Larry.

Paula Blanchard

I used to think that if you've seen one bowling ball--or one bowling center, for that matter--you've seen them all. But no more. Bowling, you see, has gone high-tech.

I know that because I recently toured the giant Brunswick Corporation plant in Muskegon and watched the workers that manufacture the bowling lanes of the future.

I also rolled a lane in the company's in-plant rec room--a six-lane bowling facility that is a showcase of Brunswick bowling equipment and supplies. My score, incidentally, was something less (I decline to be more specific) than the age of the plant, which was built in 1906.

The plant may chronicle the history of bowling, but the balls, pins and other bowling equipment made there are strictly high-tech. In that Brunswick-equipped in-house bowling facility you can see it all--scores automatically computed and displayed on color television sets (if you roll three strikes in a row a fancy graphic flashes on the screen); roboticized pinsetters with optical scanners to ensure an accurate pin-count (can you imagine the arguments that averts?); and television monitors showing instant replays of those great shots, like picking up a 7-10 spilt.

Remember when bowling balls, like Model T's, came in any color you wanted--as long as it was black? Brunswick's technology now offers "pearlized" balls, covered with polyester instead of the traditional rubber, in colors such as cranberry, ginger, charcoal gray, red-bronze and, my favorite, midnight blue. Brunswick also makes bowling accessories, shoes and bags, to match--even if your ball of choice still is basic black.

As sometimes happens the onrush of technology leaves casualties in its wake, the price of progress. Consider the "pinboys" who, when we were all yet young, labored at the ends of the lanes in eager anticipation of 25-cent tip. You won't find them in the bowling lanes of the future. Optical scanners aside, the robots, not programmed for eager anticipation, just plain don't care.

In any case, let's keep making it--and buying it--in Michigan!

Baby's health is influenced by pre-natal care

Good prenatal care throughout a woman's pregnancy is a major factor influencing the health of the baby and the mother.

A baby's health is influenced by many things during pregnancy such as: what the mother eats and drinks, exercise, stress, drugs, alcohol, smoking and safety habits.

Good prenatal care decreases the chances of have low birth weight babies, birth defects, premature babies, miscarriages and stillborn babies.

The ideal prenatal care should include: periodic physical exams, lab tests, vitamins, information on nutrition, growth and development and child birth classes.

Although prenatal care is so important, many families do not have insurance or medicaid and can't afford to pay for it.

The Mid-Michigan District Health Department provides free prenatal care for women who are in this category. Women who qualify for this program can not have medicaid or prenatal insurance coverage at the time of enrollment in the prenatal/postpartum clinic.

The prenatal program offers the best of personal care by a certified nurse practitioner, public health nurses, public health educators and a nutritionist. Also, expectant partent classes are available.

The Mid-Michigan District Health Department offers information and guidance on breast feeding vs. formula, family planning services, parenting information, nutrition, weight control, health assessments, child safety seats, WIC and immunizations.

For you and your baby's sake, please call to determine whether you qualify for this program.

New store is unique

"On foggy mornings, Charlotte's web was truly a thing of beauty. The web glistened in the light and made a pattern of loveliness and mystery..."

- E.B. White, from 'Charlotte's Web'

When Charlotte McGonigal opened her craft and variety goods store in downtown Bath, it seemed only natural to take the name from the title of a book her five daughters loved when they were little: E.B. White's 'Charlotte's Web.' After all, her name is Charlotte, and the store is her handiwork.

"It's something I've always wanted to do," she says, "I had the whole thing in mind when I started."

The idea came to her when she was managing a General Nutrition Center in Meridian Mall that she was building someone else's business when she could be building her own.

"So I borrowed a little money and took a chance," she says.

The building at 13623 Main St. had been empty for at least two years before McGonigal set up shop in November, 1983. "It was really unsightly," she says, "and it took us six weeks just to get it into livable shape."

The bulk of the store is dedicated to sewing and crafts - it is both a place to buy yard goods and craft supplies, and a place to sell the finished product. About 10 local craftspeople sell their goods on consignment, and McGonigal is open to having more.

McGonigal herself makes many of the goods that are sold. "I like material, I have a feel for it," she says. She sews clothes for her entire family, and loves giving advice to people who have questions about a project. Her husband, Lynwood, sometimes makes wood-worked items to sell in the shop.

In addition to the craft and sewing supplies, the store sells many gift items, including handmade baby clothes. McGonigal says she wanted to carry such things so people didn't have to run into Lansing when they needed a gift. "I really like to be of service...I think it's nice to have a little store like that in the neighborhood," she says.

"When someone comes in and says, 'Oh, I forgot you were here, and I just ran all the way into Lansing to get something,' it just breaks my heart," McGonigal says.

"I love browsers," she says, "because then they know what I've got."

OUR KIND OF PEOPLE...

Stewardship. Alive and well.

To be a dairy farmer takes something special. Each day begins at 5 a.m. It ends late in the evening. Throughout each day of the year, the dairy farmer manages a sophisticated business, tends to daily chores, and all the while devotes personal attention to the delicate needs of each cow and calf in the herd. They are the key link in an integrated natural system of land, crops, livestock and food.

Stewardship describes it best—the care and nurturing of resources to insure their health for future use. Despite all the changes in agriculture, it's one of the basic values that has always been held by farmers.

During June Dairy Month, it's heartening to note that throughout agriculture stewardship is alive and well.

It's one more reason why we're confident about the future of American agriculture.

By George McQueen,
County Extension Director

Clinton Commissioners visit MSU for Commissioners day

Clinton County commissioners Roger Overway, Richard Hawks, and Lois Bracey, visited Michigan State University June 11 for county Commissioner's Day. They were accompanied by George McQueen, Clinton County Extension Director.

While on campus, the commissioners had a choice of 13 workshops and tours. The 90 minute sessions covered such topics as managing hazardous and solid waste, protecting water quality, gearing up for tourism, animal research and human health, and county budgeting and finance. Commissioners also had the opportunity to tour the MSU greenhouses, the Pesticide Research Center, the Communication Arts Building, The Wharton Center for Performing Arts and the MSU research farms.

The program for the event was designed to focus on policy issues of current concern to county commissioners, says Beth Moore, chairperson of the event. The topics selected also demonstrated the linkages between Michigan State University and the counties through on-campus research, Extension and teaching.

"Many of the topics on the day's agenda were issues that county commissioners are dealing with in their counties on a daily basis," Moore says. "Through these workshops, we brought teams of on-campus and field specialists together to help county commissioners learn about how to deal with these issues, and to make them aware that there are resources in Extension that they can use".

Some of the most popular workshops were those that dealt with solid waste disposal, water quality, computers and budgeting.

County Commissioner's Day is held every other year and is co-sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service, the Agricultural Experiment Station and the MSU college of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

The first nationally televised "Farm Days" news program celebrates half-year mark

"Farm Day," the nation's first nationally televised farm news program, celebrated its six-month anniversary this month. The program is under-written by the national Farm Credit System and airs on public television stations throughout the nation.

Hosted by veteran farm reporters Glenn Tolbert and Charlotte Nichols, "Farm Day" airs daily at 8:15 a.m. on WKAR, Channel 23, East Lansing, and provides a 15-minute round-up of agricultural news, including market prices and industry features.

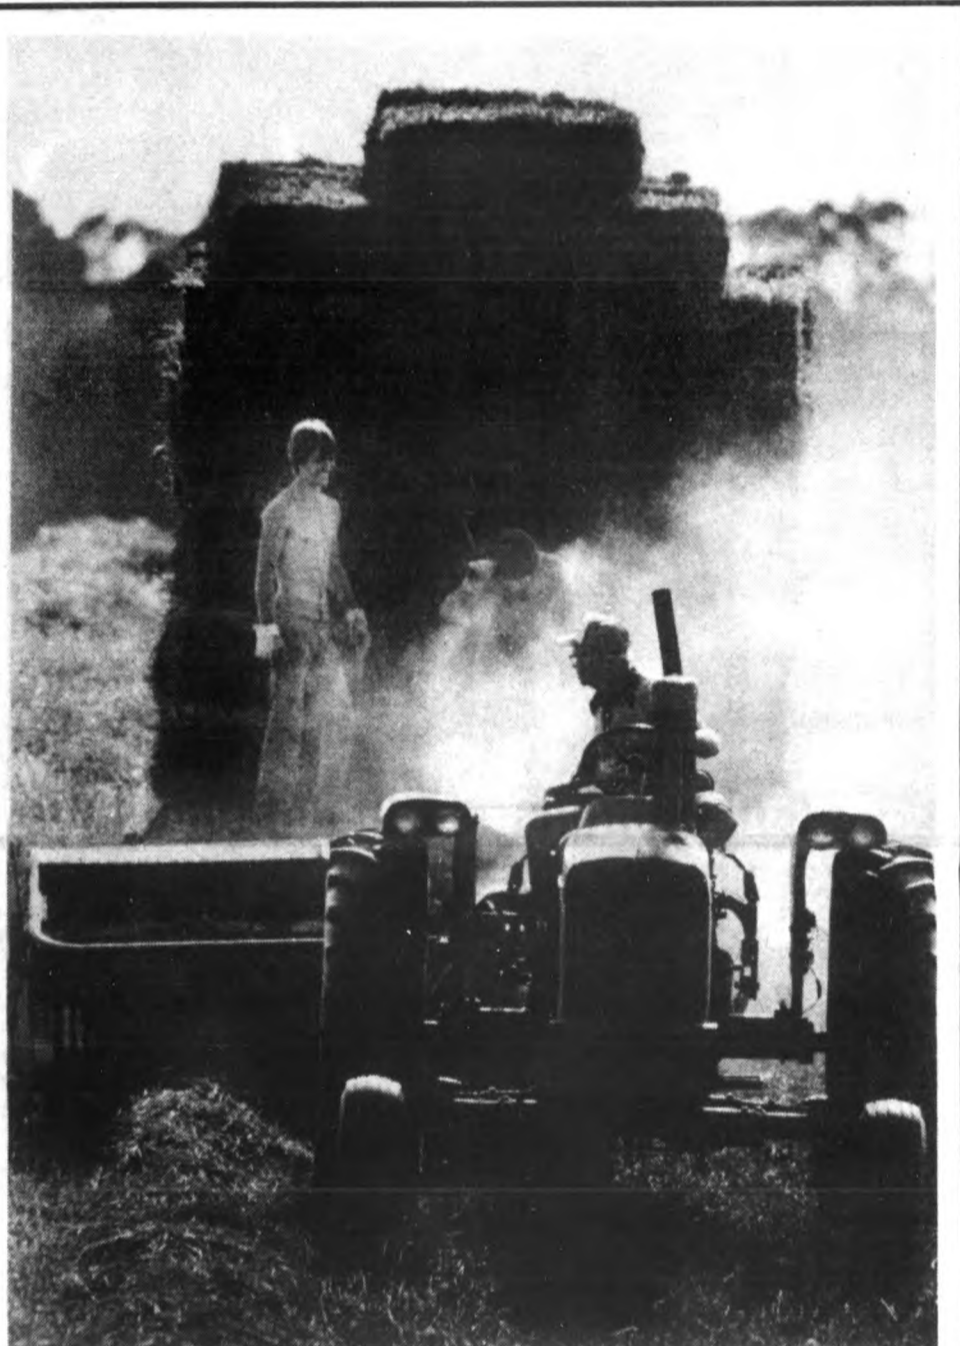

"We view the program as an important source of information not only for farmers and farm-related business, but also for policy-makers whose decisions about agriculture depend on accurate and up-to-date information," said Dennis McDonald, President, at the St. Johns Federal Land Bank Association.

"Farm Day" also provides analyses by commodity brokers and forecasters and a breakdown of factors which may affect major markets. Financial experts are regular guests on the program, according to McDonald.

The program is being broadcast by about 25 public television stations in the Seventh Farm Credit District—Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota and Wisconsin.

Federal Land Bank Association and Production Credit Associations, together with the Bank for Cooperatives, are part of Farm Credit Services, providing credit and financial services to farmers, ranchers and their cooperatives in the Seventh Farm Credit District.

MAKE HAY WHILE THE SUN SHINES—Area farmers have been doing just that the past few weeks. While round bales are becoming a more common sight, many farmers still use the traditional square bales pictured here.

Senator Donald Riegle

Riegle joins as co-sponsor of Farm Bureau Bill

Michigan Farm Bureau president Elton Smith said Sen. Donald Riegle's recent announcement that he has joined as a co-sponsor of Senate Bill 908 "is welcome news for Michigan agriculture and for the many Michigan Farm Bureau members who have contacted Sen. Riegle to urge his support of the Farm Bureau farm bill proposal."

legislation that will affect the agricultural industry for many years to come is an awesome responsibility," Smith said. "Farm Bureau members set their policy only after careful examination of all aspects of the issue, and after much discussion at the county, state and national level. Therefore, we appreciate the fact that Sen. Riegle's support was earned after careful study of the proposal drafted by Farm Bureau."

Smith said the senator shares Farm Bureau's belief that federal farm supports cannot be withdrawn abruptly without tremendous harm occurring in the farm sector. "Through his support of the Farm Bureau Farm bill proposal, he has shown a sincere concern in developing a farm policy that is fair, effective and which will ensure agriculture's strength in the future."

4-H'er to enter prize-winning pygmy goat in Fair

Submitted By Diana Johnson,
Club Reporter

Pygmy goats are a small compact little goat. They have a distinct appearance all of their own.

The adult pygmy goat measures between 16 to 23 inches at the withers. They have a nice full barreled bodies and short muscular legs, this gives them a sturdy appearance. They make good pets that are responsive and loyal. They are very good with children.

Pygmy goats can also be used for milking, some can give up to four pounds of milk a day.

Katina Schaub, 11, daughter of Harry and Earlen Schaub of DeWitt, was the first to receive a baby pygmy goat through the 4-H Pygmy Goat adoption program.

Katina is a second year 4-H'er and a member of the Clinton Caprines and also an active member in Charlies Gang, in which she also has several different activities, such as rabbits, foods, ceramics and latch hooking.

Schaub's goat is named Soix (Sue). The goat was donated to the Clinton County 4-H program by Frank and Pat Galbavi of St. Johns. Suix is registered with the NPGA and the AGA.

Katina is looking for a little competition this year at the Clinton County Fair. She would like to encourage other pygmy goats to be entered in the 4-H Fair.

Schaub and Suix have already been in several shows this year. They have been in the winners circle, and have one trophy and four ribbons.

Persons interested in pygmy goats or in the pygmy goat adoption program should feel free to contact the 4-H office at 224-3288. Or they may contact the Clinton Caprines leaders Jim Roof at 224-7751 or Mike Winn at 224-7785.

Dairy foods--such as milk, cheese, yogurt and ice cream--are a vital and delicious part of a well balanced diet. These foods are good sources of calcium and many other nutrients.

Much has been in the news recently about calcium and bone health. June is Dairy month and therefore a good time to become acquainted with the importance of calcium for building a better body.

Bone tissue changes every day, and calcium and other nutrients make up parts of your bones. your body depends on you to supply the calcium it needs. Lack of calcium in the diet can lead to bone disease.

Osteoporosis is a bone disease that can be caused by lack of calcium in the diet. It is a slowly developing condition that causes the bones to become thin and break easily. It is most common in women over 40, but it's important to start building strong bones when you are young.

Unfortunately, U.S. teen-agers do not get enough calcium. Because they are growing so rapidly, it's critical that they get the right quantities of nutrients every day. Teens should eat four servings of milk group foods daily for strong bone development and healthy teeth. Once the habit of eating calcium-rich foods is formed at a young age, it can last a lifetime. This is important, because you never outgrow your need for calcium.

Regular exercise is also important for keeping bones healthy. "Join the Fitness Team" is a 4-H dairy foods project for early teens that offers fitness activities, recipes and the latest information on selecting, storing and cooking with dairy foods.

For more information on this and other 4-H projects, contact the Cooperative Extension Service at 224-3288.

Nothing beats a picnic and making sure you actually have as much fun as it sounds might be a matter of planning. Here are some tips on packing your picnic basket.

--Pack in reverse order of unloading with the tablecloth on top.

--Next, pack crushable food items such as potato chips, cake, and marshmallows.

--Eating and cooking utensils can be wrapped in napkins and packed on top of heavier items.

--Carry extra foil to cover your tablecloth at one end. This will protect your tablecloth as you prepare the food you are serving. The same foil may be used to wrap up dirty utensils before returning home.and if you're planning to grill out--allow plenty of time and follow these ideas:

--If transporting your grill to the picnic site in a camper or recreation vehicle, line the grill with a heavy duty foil. Burned charcoal can then be easily removed after cooling and leave you with a clean grill for carrying home.

--Wrap the cooled grid from your grill in heavy duty foil to protect your vehicle from greasy stains.

--An evenly burning bed of coals is the secret to maintaining control over your cookout. Ashy grey coals by day mean a fire is hot and it's time to cook. Glowing red by night--it's time to cook.

....here's an idea for an out of the ordinary picnic.

PICNIC TACOS

For this outdoor main dish, place a large thermos filled with your favorite taco-meat mixture (try 1 pound hamburger cooked with 1/2 cup chopped onions and 2 to 3 tablespoons chopped greeb chillis, mixed with tomato sauce to taste). In separate plastic sandwich bags, pack grated cheese, chopped olives, shredded lettuce, chopped onions, and dice tomatoes. Take along a large bag of taco or corn chips. To serve, place a layer of corn chips on a paper plate. Spoon meat mixture over the chips, then top with your choice of ingredients. Leftover ingredients present no problem--just re-seal the sandwich bags and repack to use at home.

Agricultural News

Producing high quality silage depends on quickly getting it out of the field and into the silo.

"There is probably no other feed crop that is as susceptible to undesirable nutrient changes as haylage," says Herbert Bucholtz, MSU Extension dairy specialist. "Most of these quality changes can be controlled by the farmer."

Cutting such forages as alfalfa, clover and trefoil when they are in the first bud stage is the first step to ensuring high quality silage, Bucholtz says. Studies show haylage should be cut 3/8 inch long. More finely chopped feeds have resulted in animal health problems, such as displaced abomasum.

After cutting, forage needs to be dried to a 60 to 65 percent moisture content before being storage in most types of facilities. Sealed, oxygen-limiting silos require a lower storage moisture content, but bunker silos can hold silage with a 65 to 70 percent moisture level.

Maintain feed quality by filling silos rapidly, Bucholtz says. Rapid filling forces air out of the silage, reducing the potential for heat damage. Air in silage can lead to a chemical reaction that produces heat damage and mold.

Once the silo is filled, place a few feet of wetter, heavier silage on top to compress silage in the lower part of the silo, Bucholtz explains. The moisture content of the top silage should not exceed 70 percent.

Air leaking into silos from doors and other cracks in the structure causes silage heat damage. Keeping doors in good repair and resurfacing older concrete silos will reduce air leakage. Be sure to close filling doors in oxygen-limiting silos after each day's use, Bucholtz cautions.

Silage should always be covered with plastic to prevent air from infiltrating the material.

Keeping moisture content at optimum levels is another key to maintaining good haylage, so monitor moisture regularly, Bucholtz says.

Forced-air moisture testers have proven to be the most effective for silage. This tester uses a fan and electric heater to blow air through a forage sample to measure moisture levels. Many of the newer electronic testers work well on grains but are not accurate with silage. Forced-air moisture testers can be used to check the accuracy of an electronic tester, however, Bucholtz says.

It's Time to Get Outdoors

Welcome to the splendors of the Great Outdoors

By THAYNE SMITH

"You should tell the world of your outdoor freedoms!"

The statement came from one of a group of foreign outdoor journalists recently touring the United States and Canada.

With the muscles in his powerful arms quivering with strain, he landed his fourth fish of the day from a sleek charter boat plying the clear blue waters of Lake Michigan.

They came in a period of two hours while fishing with a prominent charter captain and first mate and three U.S. journalists. In all, more than a dozen excellent fish were landed.

The visitor had scored well. An expert angler, with visits to most waters of the world to his credit, he was in the United States for the first time.

Fishing out of New Buffalo, Mi., first he landed a 15-pound steelhead (Skamania), followed by a silver coho salmon of about 10-pounds. A king salmon (chinook) of 14 pounds followed.

There was speculation as to whether he might score on a fourth species as he took the rod and started battling the surging fish on the end of the line.

"It's a good fighter," he said. "Powerful, but perhaps not quite as large as some of the others."

After a lengthy battle, the fish was brought to net and lay gleaming on the deck, its prominent dots and silver underside and other features confirming it a brown trout. About six pounds, it was not a trophy, but a fine fish.

With the fourth fish aboard, it was only fitting that the group seek a "grand slam" for the visitor—an extraordinary feat for any angler in a single outing—striving to catch a lake trout to add to his four others.

While several more fish in the same species were caught, the grand slam did not materialize. The writer marveled, however, that several large lake trout were caught by others in his group, fishing on other boats nearby. He was the only one, however, to take four of the five species available in the lake.

"You know," he said, playing another chinook to the boat, "my friends told me that I would have to spend at least six weeks in North America to know the people and have good experiences."

"I would like to tell them right now," he laughed, "that I have found it all right here, and I could spend six weeks in this spot."

Similar words followed from others as the group continued its tour from Lake Michigan to several Canadian provinces, back to the United States.

Anglers all, they caught trout and grayling and smallmouth bass from the swift-running rivers of British Columbia and northern Saskatchewan, and the azure blue lakes of Ontario.

They hiked wilderness trails in Minnesota, and marveled at the snow-capped mountains of Colorado and the hundreds of recreational vehicles and tents and backpackers in the National Parks.

An Australian magazine columnist, fondling a new rod and reel, observed that "this is 30 years ahead of our progress" in the outdoor field.

A pair of prominent French newspaper and magazine editors noted that the electronic gear on a bass boat in Oklahoma, "is finer than we have on the largest of yachts in our country."

They toured campgrounds, examining carefully the fine canvas in tents, the latest in motor homes and camping trailers and allied equipment.

Along with the equipment, they envied the open spaces of the parks, the numbers of camping areas and facilities provided either free of charge or at nominal costs.

"What a wonderful world," one writer exclaimed. "Our camps are limited, and mostly there is tenting in our country."

A German editor-writer-photographer caught five species of fish from an Oklahoma lake, fishing from a modern-day bass boat fully rigged with the latest in outdoor motors, electronic gear and the finest tackle.

"We have only a few fish in Germany," he said, "and the carp (considered a trash fish in North American waters) is the most prominent. To catch just one or two is a real feat. The state (government) does little to provide outdoor recreation, or fish, for the people."

"You are blessed," he added. "You have so much, and it's good."

Other European writers noted the lack of hunting in their countries, while marveling at the millions of acres of wildlife management lands provided by the federal and state governments in the U.S.

"It's marvelous," one said, "that you can own guns for sporting purposes, and have the freedom to hunt without many stringent regulations."

While here, he made plans to return to the U.S. in two years, during autumn months, to hunt deer and wild turkey in Oklahoma, and pheasant and quail in Kansas.

"Where but in North America," he said, "can you find the freedom to hunt and fish and camp, and enjoy all the facilities and lands provided, at your choosing. It is truly a remarkable thing that you have here."

Folding Trailers: Versatile and affordable

More and more recreational vehicle shoppers are discovering that the folding trailer is difficult to beat for versatility, affordability and efficiency. Light and easy to tow, the folding trailer is less expensive than other RVs and can be stored easily between trips.

The modern folding camping trailer actually is an engineering marvel. In its closed position it provides a very low profile for towing and in the open position offers spacious interiors, comfortable beds and conveniences usually associated with larger more expensive models.

People are usually surprised to find camping trailers with running water, electrical power sources, stoves, an electric or propane furnace and refrigerators. The latest camping trailers now boast showers and air conditioning.

Low profile camping trailers offer good rear window visibility and little wind resistance. Combining lightweight construction with the low profile design translates into fuel-efficient towing. The Coleman Company, the leading manufacturer of camping trailers, has conducted a test which found that towing one of its trailers adds only about one gallon of fuel consumption per 100 miles traveled.

Another camping trailer advantage is apparent at the campsite. You can detach the trailer from your vehicle, push to the location of your choice, set up the trailer and have a stable and stationary living site. And when you go to market or off to your favorite fishing hole, there is no need to worry that someone will take your space.

Unlike other RVs, the folding camping trailer allows you to enjoy the outdoors in ways hard-sided vehicles cannot. In warm weather clear vinyl windows can be unzipped and lowered, permitting cool breezes to flow gently through the trailer while you enjoy the sounds and aromas of nature under the protection of a hard top.

Should you decide that a camping trailer is for you, take the time to compare what various manufacturers have to offer. Size, weight, styles, accessories and interiors vary greatly to provide a choice that is just right for you and your family.

For a free brochure that can help you ask the right questions before you buy a camping trailer, write to "Come Alive Outdoors," The Coleman Company, Camping Trailer Division, Somerset, PA 15501.

Enjoy all-season adventures in your RV

If you've always thought RVing was limited to summertime fun, you're in for a pleasant surprise.

When your second home is a Shasta Regency travel trailer, camping is a 12-month adventure and only extremes in weather should keep you home.

A Shasta Regency is built to use ... anytime. A 32,000 BTU furnace will keep you warm in the cold months, and an optional roof air conditioner permits you to enjoy even 100 plus temperatures.

Designed for living, Regency floorplans combine luxurious living rooms, convenient galleys, comfortable sleeping for up to six and a complete bath for year 'round outdoor fun.

Warm weather camping is easy: just pack up and go. Your choice is endless. Consider a mushroom hunting expedition, or search out elusive wildflowers when the forest is fresh and new in the springtime.

Weekend trips to visit historical sites in your area will prove fun and educational for both you and the children, and make learning a pleasure instead of a chore.

If you want to share your camping weekends with other people who also have your love for the carefree RV lifestyle, consider joining a camping club.

Wings of Shasta, the camping club sponsored by Shasta Industries, has chapters in almost every state, and rallies and campouts, both large and small, are scheduled on a regular basis.

Trips to pick the fruits and vegetables of the season make a weekend both fun and economical if you preserve or freeze the bounty you find.

Autumn has treats in store, too. When the foliage is at its peak, the color alone makes a trip to the countryside worthwhile. Combine it with a search for nuts ... walnuts, hickory nuts, whatever is found in your area.

Pick out and carve a giant jack o' lantern for the kids and tell ghost stories at night around a blazing campfire. For adults only, make your Shasta headquarters for a football tailgate party that will be the talk of the season.

EVERY WEEKEND CAN BE A FAMILY ADVENTURE when you have a Shasta travel trailer for a second home. Designed to accommodate a large family, the Shasta Regency sleeps six, has a complete galley and is self-contained to provide all you need any place in the Great Outdoors.

When winter winds blow, your camping requires a bit more preparation but it's well worth the time.

You are already ahead of the game because your Shasta was insulated during construction to provide a snug haven during low temperatures, and its furnace was engineered to give out cozy warmth when cold winds howl outside.

Check your propane tank to be sure it's full, and examine the lines to make sure they're clean and leak-free.

Inexpensive windshield solvent is ideal to keep both the gray and black water tanks from freezing. And the easiest way to have a fresh water supply in winter is to carry water bottles.

There are some basic items that could prove invaluable for winter camping and there's plenty of storage space in your Shasta.

The list includes flares, a sturdy snow shovel, sand or traction mats which could be old pieces of carpet, flashlight and extra batteries and windshield de-icer. Stock lots of hearty food, too, to satisfy winter-whetted appetites!

Properly equipped, your Shasta Regency can be home-base for cross-country or downhill skiing trips, snowmobile tours, ice skating weekends, or a special trip to find and cut the perfect Christmas tree.

Even the nearby lake you enjoy all summer will be a whole new adventure when it's covered with ice, and fish will never taste so good as they will when you've caught them through a hole in the ice.

It's all out there for you to enjoy, 12 months of the year. And it's fun in a Shasta.

Getting there and back on enough fuel

The modern two-stroke outboards powering today's boats are marvels of engineering, generating more horsepower per square inch than conventional engines. But even with fuel-saving features like loop-scavenging, computer-designed propellers, and micro-computer controlled ignition, you can still run out of gas.

Yamaha Outboards recommends that boaters follow the "1/2" rule. Plan your trip so that you use 1/2 of your fuel to go, 1/2 to get back, and 1/2 for reserve.

Boat camping: it's a great way to get away from it all

Having a boat affords the boat owner many varied uses of his craft which other types of recreational pursuits don't offer.

Besides transportation, the boat is also the main means for water skiing, fishing, skin diving or just cruising to other areas for exploring.

But when it comes to "getting away from it all" boat camping is the consideration of many small craft owners.

It's a great way to get a change in environment and a change in life's pace. You're away from the phones, from stress, from traffic. For many it's the escape to solitude.

You can do it alone, with a friend or family. It can be an organized group like the many Sea Ray Boat owners' clubs around the nation.

No formal campgrounds like the automotive set where your unit is only several feet from that of your nearest neighbors. You get that at home.

Instead, boat camping allows you a better opportunity of exploring sections of America that very few Americans have an opportunity of ever seeing.

One of the experts at Sea Ray Boats who enjoys his weekends on the water said the means can be as simple or as deluxe as the campers want to make it.

"We see a lot of people using their runabouts to carry sleeping bags and tents along with other essentials like skis and fishing poles to a secluded beach," said Roger Giles. "They set up camp and then take off for that fishing hole or to spend some time skiing."

For some a sleeping bag is all that is needed for settling down at night under the stars, said Giles. For others a tarp or a tent affords enough protection to get under, away from the midday sun or a passing rain. And then there are those who want their cover a little more elaborate, like a cuddly or cabin cruiser.

"We spend as much time as possible aboard our 27-foot Sundancer," said Giles, who does most of his boating (and boat camping) on several Arizona lakes and rivers.

"Some of the most magnificent and breathtaking sites can only be reached by boat," Giles said.

"Whether you do your camping on the beach, anchored off the main channel or simply tied up in your slip, you can't beat the solitude. My wife and I simply enjoy just settling back in the cabin and reading while the sound of the lapping of the water on the hull completely relaxes us."

"There's over 40 million surface acres of inland boating water in the U.S.," said Giles. "There's 89,000 miles of ocean shoreline and another 23,000 miles of navigable rivers. It really doesn't matter where you live. There's plenty of recreational boating waters just waiting for you for your escape to the great outdoors."

"For us and many people who have gotten into boating, boat camping is the ticket," he said.

One popular activity that boat owners are finding as a means of "getting away from it all" is boat camping. Using their trailerable boats to get them to a remote on-the-water location, boaters are discovering it's a great way for a change in environment and a change in life's fast pace. Listening to the water lapping on the hull of your boat while gazing at the stars is a perfect form of solitude. Sleeping on the beach in a tent, in a sleeping bag on the fold-down seats like that on the Seville runabout in the foreground or in the cabin of the Seville cuddly in the background; no matter which way, boat camping is a great experience.

Build fond memories on family camping trips

Ⓜ "Remember when?" ... you always hear these familiar words when families or old friends get together. A lot has been written lately about the resurgence of "nostalgia." It's never been out of style; it's just another way of saying memories.

You can build memories for your family when you go camping together. It's easy and surprisingly economical.

Let's face it; vacations are expensive. The cost of motels is almost prohibitive for a young family. Food—three meals a day and those inevitable snack stops—take another big chunk of cash.

Add those costs to the expense of getting there, and many cost-conscious families must regretfully choose a "backyard" vacation.

There is a way to vacation, however, that's within the reach of almost everyone. Shasta's Revere travel trailer, designed and priced for the value-minded, opens a whole new world of family fun to make tomorrow's memories today.

There's no need to wait for a two-week vacation either. Any weekend is long enough for exciting short trips near home.

Any lake, any campground, a backwoods trail, a historic spot—all can be yours when you take your home with you.

Everything you need comes in one convenient package when you hook up your Shasta to the family car. There's room for even a big family because all models of Shasta Revere travel trailers sleep six, some eight.

VALUE-PRICED AND SELF-CONTAINED, with room for the whole family, the Shasta Revere travel trailer brings the cost of year 'round camping within the reach of most everyone. Make every weekend a family camp-out with all the comforts of a second home, even in a wilderness campsite.

Fixing food for the hungry gang is easy, too. Full galleys have a three-burner range with oven, ample two-way refrigerator, deep double stainless steel sink, and plenty of cupboard space to store dishes and fixings.

Convenient baths have a marine toilet, shower or tub/shower combination, ample storage and a lavatory. A fast recovery water heater assures plenty of hot water for bathing and chores.

New vistas will open for the whole family when you camp in your Shasta. Wilderness areas abound where an afternoon's hike through the woods might mean sighting a timid deer poised for escape, a fat groundhog lumbering through the underbrush, or maybe even a glistening blue racer coiled in the hot sun.

And when evening falls, you build a roaring campfire, toast marshmallows, tell stories, maybe harmonize a bit ... that's when memories are made.

The bugs of summer

Mosquitoes may bug most people the most. But there are other insects that leave their unwelcome and irritating marks on outdoor lovers everywhere. Cutter Insect Repellent's famous formula repels a whole host of biting insects as well as mosquitoes. The most common are:

- Blackflies: well-known in New England, the lower South and the Pacific Northwest. They abrade the skin, instead of piercing it, leaving a messy, open wound.

- Horseflies and their cousins, Deerflies: usually found near water throughout the United States. You'll feel the stings of these flies most on warm, sunny days.

- From the mite family, Chiggers and Itch Mites: they hide in bushy areas, tall grass and the edges of clearings in the Midwest and South. The Itch Mite actually burrows under the skin to lay eggs, dissolving skin with her saliva as she goes.

- Ticks: the most dangerous mites which feed on the victim's blood for several hours by inserting barbed mouth parts into the skin.

First, think about your trip before you go. What's the weather forecast? What will you fish for? What other species are available? How long will you be there? And what facilities are nearby? Answers to these questions will aid you in deciding what to bring and what to leave behind.

Hide ugly stoop with a deck

Does that concrete stoop at your home look like something from a construction site? Do discolored, uneven chunks of cement leading up to the doorway mar the beauty of your family's residence?

Breaking up and removing a stoop can be hard work, so consider something easier. Make it disappear beneath a deck of pressure-treated lumber.

A wooden deck is a much more inviting entry, and can be constructed at little cost and only a small investment of your time.

Pressure-treated lumber is surprisingly low in cost. You get all the usual advantages of wood — durability and natural attractiveness that blends in so well — plus the extra advantage of pressure treating: Built-in resistance to decay and moisture.

You may wonder just what pressure treating means. Simply put, the lumber has been protected by a vacuum process that forces preservatives deep into the cells of the wood. When you first see pressure-treated lumber it may have a yellow or green color. That's a result of the special treatment.

Pressure-treated lumber will fade to silver-grey when exposed to weather. You can allow it to go gray or stain it.

A few things to remember:

- Use and maintain an effective sealer on all pressure-treated lumber projects. Georgia-Pacific, the nation's largest manufacturer and distributor of construction materials, recommends only CCA or ACA type pressure treatment — the type is stamped on the lumber.

- Dispose of treated wood scraps in trash collection or burial, don't burn it.

- When choosing hardware, know that non-galvanized nails rust if exposed to rain and snow. To prevent rust stains, use galvanized nails.

- Check local building codes and follow common sense safety rules when undertaking any construction project.

NOTICE OF RIGHT TO REFERENDUM ON BECOMING A CHARTER TOWNSHIP

Official certification has been received from the Michigan Secretary of State that the township of Victor has a population of 2,000 or more and the township board has the right to exercise one of three options concerning status as a charter township under the provisions of Act 359, Public Acts of 1947, as amended:

1. Adopt by majority vote a resolution opposed to incorporation as a charter township.
2. Adopt by majority vote a resolution of intent to approve incorporation as a charter township.
3. Adopt by majority vote a resolution to place before the electorate at the next regular or special township election the question of incorporation as a charter township.

In the event option 2 is adopted by the township board, the citizens of the township have the right to file a "Right to Referendum Petition". This petition must be filed within the 60 days which must lapse between passage of a resolution of intent to incorporate and final passage of the resolution to incorporate as a charter township.

The petition will follow, in general form, the nominating petition form as prescribed in the Michigan Election Law, and in the heading will indicate Disagreement of Intent to Incorporate as a Charter Township. The petition must be signed by not less than 10% of the registered voters of the township based on the vote cast for all candidates for supervisor at the last election at which a supervisor was elected.

If the petition is successful, the question of incorporation will be placed on the ballot at the next general or special township election.

Minutes, June 1985

On June 6, 1985 the Victor Township monthly meeting opened with the pledge to the flag and a prayer by Prange. The minutes were read and approved as read.

Bob Remus reported that he had been in touch with the Chadwicks concerning the old townhall and its use by Laingsburg Volunteers. The Chadwicks were happy to grant permission for the project of clothes for the needy.

Remus also reported that the Road Commission has applied one application of chloride to the gravel roads in the township, with one more application to come.

The Ambulance Committee met May 16, 1985. The question as to whether to incorporate the Ambulance Service would be posed to the Townships. Remus got in contact with the M.T.A. concerning the issue and they saw no problem as long as the Township contracted the services of the Ambulance Service. Ted Ashley moved that Victor Township support the incorporation of the Ambulance Service. Support Dan Morris, vote Unanimous. Expense for the Ambulance Service will be divided 2/7, 2/7, 2/7, 1/7, and one man one vote for each of the four entities. Motion to this effect was made by Prange, support by Ashley, vote unanimous.

Bids for mowing the grounds at the hall were opened and the bid from Mark Brinks was accepted.

Bath Cablevision has notified the Township that they have merged with Total Management, Inc. and desire that Victor Township No. 9, be amended to read accordingly. Ted Ashley moved that we accept the name change, Dan Morris support, vote unanimous.

The Michigan Dept. of State has sent a declaration that Victor Township is eligible to become a Charter Township and must publish a notification to this effect. Dan Morris moved that Victor Township not become a Charter Township, support Pat Brown, and in a roll call vote (yes, in support of charter-no, not to charter) all voted No.

Dan Morris moved that the July meeting be moved to July 11, 1985, due to the fact that the first Thursday falls on July 4, 1985. Ted Ashley support, vote Unanimous.

Dan Morris moved to pay all bills, Ted Ashley support, Vote unanimous. Ted Ashley moved to pay $54.60 to the M.T.A. Legal Defense Fund. Support Brown, vote unanimous.

Ted Ashley moved that funds be approved schooling for Brown and Prange. Support Morris, vote unanimous.

Motion by Morris not to loan out any new tables and chairs, effective after June 9, 1985. All wooden folding chairs will require a .50* deposit each in order to be loaned. All other materials will not be loaned. Support Pat Brown, vote unanimous.

Motion to adjourn by Remus, support Prange, vote unanimous. Meeting adjourned 9:09 P.M. All board members present as well as 6 citizens.
