If you have any helpful information about these people call Dale Schmidtman at 224-1912.

Schools battle deficit

The St. Johns Board of Education continued wrestling Aug. 19 with the possibility of budget cuts if voters reject a requested 3.5 mill increase in the school tax levy Sept. 10.

But the board did hear some good news when Business Manager Richard Terres in a financial report to the board revealed that the replacement of three resigning teachers with new hires will save the district about $100,000 next year.

The savings cuts the budget deficit for next year from a projected $650,000 before the staff replacement to $550,000 afterwards.

Supt. Earl Gabriel told the board that 22 people as of that date (Aug. 19) had joined a citizen committee that will campaign for approval of the millage. The committee was to meet for the first time Aug. 22.

Gabriel has said in the past he would prefer a "high campaign" emphasizing the value of education, the best interests of the students and community pride to a "low campaign" emphasizing budget cuts and other negative consequences. However, he said, the citizen committee needs to be informed of consequences in order to answer questions from voters.

The possibility of closing two elementary schools as a consequence was again discussed. The board has been reluctant to include the possible closings as a consequence because of the likelihood that they will be closed eventually even if the millage is approved. The board agreed Aug. 19 meeting that the schools will be definitely closed if the millage request is not approved while approval of the millage will delay the closings for at least a year.

The board agreed that if the millage request is not approved all co-curricular activities will be cut as of Oct. 1, and bus purchases will be reduced to zero.

Curriculum cuts continued to be a high priority item for being maintained without cutbacks. Gabriel said earlier this month that there is no room in the curriculum budget for cuts.

Administrators were to continue placing dollar amounts on each of the identified cutbacks.

ALOHA, LUAU — They came 320 strong to a Hawaiian party at the Findlay Country Manor last Friday. Residents, relatives, friends and staff danced, ate authentic Hawaiian food, hoola hooped and chatted. Pictured here are activity director Debbie Whybra, resident Bernice House and assistant activity director Margie Polus.

Schools eye day care program

St. Johns School District is considering the possibility of starting a day care program for school children.

If it is approved by the St. Johns Board of Education the program will provide day care for St. Johns elementary students before and after school. Parents would pay for their children to participate in the program and would be responsible for dropping their children off in the morning and picking them up at night.

The program (dubbed "ABC program, for "after and before care") would be housed in one or several school buildings. The school district would be responsible for providing transportation to and from the children's regular school building if that building is different from their day care building.

It would be run by the Community Education department and would continue only if it was self-supporting, administrators said Aug. 5.

The earliest possible date for the program to begin is January 6, said St. Johns School District Supt. Earl Gabriel August 19.

After some hesitancy at an Aug. 5 committee-of-the-whole meeting the board gave an informal go-ahead Aug. 19 to administrators to continue developing a proposal to bring back to the board. Several board members said at the Aug. 5 meeting that they were concerned that the school would in the future be expected to continue the program even if it is losing money.

Board member Eugene Livingston, who said Aug. 5 that he opposes the program both because of the possibility that it would be expected to continue even it loses money and because he thinks private enterprise should provide the service, repeated his opposition Aug. 19.

Board Secretary Peter Apostal, who said at the Aug. 5 meeting that he would be wary of approving the program, said at the Aug. 19 meeting that voters he had talked to in the meantime had overwhelmingly supported the program.

"Obviously there is enough concern out there and the people want it, which is enough to alleviate my concerns," he said.

Board member Gary Whitford said he was undecided.

Teaching contract ratified

The St. Johns Board of Education Aug. 19 ratified a two-year teacher's contract. The contract includes a five percent salary increase for each of the two years.

Under the terms of the contract the district will spend $270,000 more in teachers salaries than last year. However, a change in the payment plan for medical benefits for teachers realized a savings of $30,000 for the district, leaving a net increase to the district of $240,000.

During a public comment portion of the Monday night meeting a resident of the district asked why the board approved the contract when the district faces a $550,000 budget deficit next year.

Board Secretary Peter Apostal said: "We were not going to get a contract unless we settled. We didn't think we could get a millage without a contract."

The starting salary for a teacher with a bachelor's degree is now $15,331; the maximum salary for a teacher with a bachelor's degree is $26,878.

The starting salary for a teacher with a master's degree is $17,698; the maximum is $29,991.

Wickerham really enjoys job in deeds

By RICH WERTZ
Editor

Clinton County Register of Deeds Bonnie Wickerham is a woman who is enthusiastic about her job. It shows in the way she talks about her work and in the expert manner with which she shows visitors around the storage vault at the courthouse where land records dating back to 1837 are stored.

It shows in the way she mentions little known facts, such as the fact that a duplicate set of Clinton County land records are stored in a vault 83 feet below the ground in Grand Rapids, secure in case the records in St. Johns are somehow destroyed.

It may come as somewhat of a surprise to many of us to find out that records can be interesting but this is not news to the people who have over the years used the register of deeds records for genealogical research.

AND IT IS NOT news to Bonnie Wickerham herself. She joined the register of deeds staff in 1969 as a clerk. Willard Krebel, who was then Register of Deeds and the man who hired her, told her he would give her a year to learn the system. She did.

"I loved it," she says. She was later appointed assistant register of deeds. In 1976, when Krebel retired she was appointed to his post. Since then she has been elected three times.

In 1980 she was elected to the board of directors of the Michigan Association of Registers of Deeds. After serving for three years as a vice-president of the board she was elected president of the organization last year. Now that her term as president is over she will serve for two more years on the board.

BONNIE WICKERHAM — Clinton County's Register of Deeds was presented with this plaque recognizing her dedication to her work at a recent conference of Michigan Registers of Deeds.

WHEN SHE WAS ELECTED president she made a commitment to visit every register of deeds office in the state. Not only did she do that but she compiled a scrapbook about each one of Michigan's 83 counties, using information from a series of magazines called Michigan Courthouse Review and her own visits. She plans to hold on to the scrapbooks for another year, then donate the material to a library.

At the association's 71st Annual Summer conference she was presented with a plaque commemorating her dedication to her work as president of the association.

The day-to-day task of the register of deeds office is to record all information pertaining to county land deeds, titles to personal and real property, plats and other information.

The information becomes a permanent record. Therefore accuracy is a top priority. All the work is double-checked before it becomes part of the record, Wickerham says.

ALL OF THE RECORDS are open to the public, with the exception of certain details about the price paid for real estate. For landowners in the county the records represent a protection of their property rights.

Without them owners would have no proof of ownership in the event they lost the original copies of their deeds. Title insurance companies and credit agencies also use the records. To those researching family histories the information can be priceless.

Wickerham encourages the public to stop by the Register of Deeds office and will gladly arrange tours of the facilities.

"We're a service office," she says. "We're here to serve the people."

Family life

'Can we talk?'

Mona Ellard

Joan Rivers, the comedienne, is well known for her leading statement "Can we talk?" And this direct question could apply to many family situations today. The old family timeclock ticks off 24 hours whether family schedules dictate a need for additional time or not. With busy schedules and less family time, something has to give and that usually ends in less family time for talking together.

Talking together

Families who talk together usually stay together. This past winter I did a series of programs for families that consisted of one or two step-parents. One specific point they made when talking of their present marriage or their previous one was the importance of good family communications.

During the class discussions we talked about when family arguments occurred. Quite typically, they started when there had been a strain on the amount of family time together. Trying to second guess a family member's intent can create a negative situation. Conclusions are drawn on assumptions rather than fact. By talking with the family member a true understanding is achieved.

Are you providing enough time for family communications to take place? One of my friends recently purchased a dishwasher and I questioned, "Why now, after all your children are grown and gone?" She replied, "After working hard all day as a teacher it would have been easy for me to tell my daughter to fill the dishwasher, but I had to create some sharing time. So nightly, I had 30 minutes alone with my daughter as we did the dishes together. We both looked forward to that time!"

Parents, too, have a need for time alone. Alone, without an extra pair of ears, or without an interruption. This time is a planned time the two of you have to create, whether it is taking up a sport you both enjoy, recreating the dating game with one night out a week, or even getting groceries together, but alone. It's amazing how much you can get discussed in a short period of time. But it's also amazing how quickly a week passes, when you realize how little time you have had together. Healthy families need to plan times for talking.

Creating good times

Finding the time is just one element in good family communications and it doesn't have to be a big undertaking. You may want to reestablish an old communication trick, everyone eating at the same time at the same table. With hectic schedules after school and in the evening, why not try breakfast together?

When I was a teen, my parents felt it was important to have one night a week set aside for the family. So Tuesdays were deemed "Family Night." Mom decided to make the evening meal special, too. Since she had always been a cookbook reader, she came up with some interesting menus.

The first Tuesday night she started our meal with broiled grapefruit halves. I'm not sure why the Tuesday family nights died out, it could have been from indigestion more than from lack of good conversation. But I must admit the Tuesday night menus have long been remembered.

Nurturing and listening

Recently, my 8-year-old son asked my husband and me, "If we brought Travis (our full-grown German Shepard dog) into the house and kept him in the basement, would he get smaller?" When I questioned him about why he wanted to know, he again replied, "I want a smaller dog and things that live in little places

Hendrix-Van Vleet

Reside in St. Johns

Robin Marie Hendrix and Brad Jay Van Vleet exchanged marriage vows Monday, Aug. 26, at the 65th District Court with Tony Hufnagel officiating.

Maid of Honor was Marilyn Moore of St. Johns.

Best man was Eric O'Connell of St. Johns.

Eagle art fair set for Sept.

The People's Action League is hosting its third annual Art Fair at the Eagle Fairgrounds, Eagle, on Saturday, Sept. 28, from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. The Art Fair is being hosted at the Eagle Park instead of the Wacousta River Park due to traffic congestion along Wacousta Road and the need for more room.

This year, a number of antique and flea market dealers have been added to the Art Fair. This part of the fair will be held in a separate pavilion across from the Art Fair.

Over 100 artists and over 30 antique and flea market dealers have been invited and more are welcome.

For more information about the Art Fair or the antique and flea market, call Nancy Doell at 626-6602 or Nancy Coleman at 627-7196.

The Eagle Park is located directly off I-96, one quarter mile from the Eagle/Westphalia exit. The park is visible from the interstate.

stay little!"

His reasoning wasn't very sound. Or was it? Think in terms of family communications. Do you know people that only talk about the same things day in and day out? They seem to relive the same stories over and over again. Now think about the people themselves. Do they have the type of environment, that provides new ideas or are they alone with their own thoughts too often?

As my grandmother grew older, she would come and stay with us for a week. You would see her storing away all of our conversation we had, knowing full well that after arriving back home she would retell them all to her friends again and again.

People enjoy talking and having something to talk about. Being part of a conversation whether as the speaker or listener develops that person's sense of worth, continues the person's ability to communicate, and certainly stirs a sense of ownership for the conversation.

Family communications cannot be ignored for it needs constant nurturing. True communications need a group of active speakers and a group of active listeners and in a healthy family situation those duties have to be rotated on a regular basis. Why not plan today for creating some good family conversations?

Now for a recipe that will certainly create conversation — no this is not broiled grapefruit!

Lavonna and John Evans Jr.

Craig-Evans Reside in Lansing

Lavonna Lee Craig and John Clarence Evans Jr. exchanged wedding vows Friday evening, June 21, at the South Lansing Church of Christ. The double ring ceremony was performed by Reverend Sam Maxedon, a close friend of the bride, in the presence of 200 guests.

Music for the ceremony was offered by Julie Brown and Betsy Endleman. Accompaniment was by Barbara Heckman, piano, and Geri Spencer, organ.

The bride is the daughter of Barbara Craig of DeWitt and Gene Craig of Fowler. The groom is the son of Marjorie Evans and the late John Clarence Evans Sr. of Holt.

The bride wore a romantic southern belle gown of white satin and seed pearls featuring a bouffant skirt covered with white organza and ending in a sweeping cathedral train. The fitted off the shoulder bodice was covered with white floral lace and had long organza sleeves finished in a point at the wrist with floral lace. Her fingertip veil was held by a circlet of white satin flowers, accented by seed pearls. She carried a graceful fan covered with white chantilly lace and red roses.

The maid of honor was Karen Craig, sister of the bride.

Bridemaids were Kimberly Craig, sister of the bride, Shar Frye, sister of the groom, and Terry Collins, friend of the bride. Flower girls were Margo Baisly and Stacy Hicks.

Two of the bridesmaids wore gowns of pink chiffon and two wore gowns of blue chiffon. The gowns had ruffled necklines and satin ribbon sashes. The flower girls' gowns matched the bridesmaids', one pink and one blue.

The bridesmaids each carried a long stemmed red rose with satin ribbons to match their dresses. The flower girls carried baskets of pink sweetheart roses, blue carnations and white baby's tears.

Best man was Terry Mees, friend of the groom.

Groomsmen were Jonathan Craig, brother of the bride, John and Tim Simmons, cousins of the groom. Ringbearers were Jonathan Schram and Cory Hicks. The ring bearers' pillows were made of white satin and lace by Terry Collins.

The reception was held in the church and served by Sherrie Wellman and her daughters April and Gail. The cake was designed as two intertwined hearts by the bride and groom and decorated by Stanley Purvis, childhood friend of the mother of the bride. The cake featured real red roses with a church top piece and was served by Penny Jamison.

Special Guests included the bride's grandmothers, Julia Swainston from Kingsly and Reba Craig from Perrinton; the groom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Evans from Lansing; and the groom's great aunt, Millie Richey from Stanton.

The couple honeymooned in a cottage on the shores of Lake Michigan and now reside in Lansing.

The bride chose a southern belle full skirted tiered chantilly gown with a sweetheart neckline.

Attendants were Rosemary Pierson, matron of honor; Peggy Morris, Diane Kramer, Phyllis Shelters, Leslie Smith, Jody Westfall.

Serving the groom as best man was James Ernst. Groomsmen were Thomas Morris, Leop Kramer, John Ernst, Ken Natic, Terry McDiarmid.

Pesticides

Dawn Harris

Protective spray garments are designed to keep pesticides off the skin of the person applying the spray or dust. If the garments have done their job, they will be covered with residue that needs to be washed off. Before the spray garments are even brought into the home, they should be hosed off in a location where children and pets are not likely to play.

At this point the person in charge of laundering the protective garment needs to be concerned with what happens when the garment is brought in to the home. Is the spray garment contaminating living surfaces of the home as well as other clothing? Is the pesticide residue really being removed during washing?

The number one rule of laundering pesticide-contaminated clothing is to keep it separate from other clothes. Rule two is to wash it separately. Wash it as soon as possible. The longer the spray is on the garment, the harder it will be to remove. Wash the garment for the longest possible time on your machine's cycle and rinse it an extra time.

Be sure to use hot water and detergent. Research has shown that hot water — 140 degrees Fahrenheit — is the most effective in removing pesticide. Cold water washing produces unacceptable results.

There is no research showing that either bleach or ammonia helps remove the spray.

Dry the garment outdoors on the line. The exposure to sunlight will help break down any residue that laundering did not remove.

Finally, run an extra cycle of hot, sudsy water through the washer before you wash another load of clothes.

Precautions should also be taken by home gardeners. Many times home gardeners will not think about the need to launder their clothes after applying a pesticide. They may not even think about wearing protective clothing and will spray wearing shorts, a sleeveless top and sandals.

Many of the insecticides, herbicides or fungicides for home use are hazardous. Read the label. Hazard information, such as "Caution", "Warning" or "Danger" is clearly marked. The labels also carry precautions, such as "do not get on clothing", "do not get on skin", and "remove and wash clothing after use."

The home gardener needs to observe the same precautions that farmers use when handling toxic chemicals. Wear protective garments, wash the garments immediately after using them and keep them separate from other laundry. The person applying the spray should not eat, smoke or use the bathroom before washing thoroughly.

One final caution — if clothes or spray garments become saturated with pesticide they should be disposed of. They can be burned, buried or placed in a plastic bag and dumped at a landfill registered for toxic wastes.

Ask Bill Schuette

Budget deficit

Bill Schuette

Dear Congressman Bill Schuette:
I am still very concerned about the budget and the need for it being balanced.
The main reason is that it costs us in interest, trade deficits, inflation and deficit spending which means borrowing and more interest.
If you figures are correct or fairly close, in 1972 or 1973 the interest on the national debt was $20 billion. The last I heard it was $100 billion. It may be more now.
Sincerely,
D.B.
Midland, Mi

These continuing deficits and our trade deficit are directly related. Right now, the strong dollar is making our goods uncompetitive abroad, and making foreign goods cheaper here. Our foreign trading partners shy away from our products because they're too expensive and Americans are buying unprecedented quantities of foreign goods.

In the same way, the deficit weakens our financial health because our interest rates and national debt offer good returns to foreign investors. We have become a net debtor nation, which means we owe more abroad than we are owed at home and there are many indications that the situation is going to worsen before it improves.

Americans deserve a budget and need a budget. People have budgets, families have budgets and businesses do too. There is no reason why our government should not have a budget — and stick to it.

On my first day as your congressman, I co-sponsored legislation requiring a balanced budget amendment to the Constitution and granting the president line-item veto authority. I have consistently voted for cuts and freezes in federal spending programs and against pork barrel spending bills.

We must balance our budget. The American people expect it and history demands it.

Sincerely,
Bill Schuette

Dear D.B.,
As you know, the Congress recently passed the budget for next year. I did not support this budget because it cut agriculture severely, yet hardly made a dent in the deficit. We in Congress must make the tough decisions, decide to take the heat and demonstrate collective discipline as a legislative body.

Your point about the interest on the national debt is right on the mark. The interest paid by the government on its debt is the single fastest growing portion of the national budget, consuming 15 percent of a near trillion dollar budget, or about $150 billion next year. This year we will pay $129 billion in interest on the national debt.

Remembering when

By Michelle Snyder

5 YEARS AGO

A fire struck one of the Livingston barns in St. Johns. The St. Johns Fire Department with assistance from the Maple Rapids Fire Department and the Fowler Fire Department were able to save the structure with the only damages being to the roof and to a minimal amount of straw. The fire occurred on the evening of Aug. 13 and was suspected to have been started by a light bulb breaking.

25 YEARS AGO

The Village of DeWitt was the capital of Clinton County when weeks of work and planning climaxed in the 12th annual DeWitt Ox Roast. The event is a community project to raise money to equip and maintain the DeWitt Memorial Building which was erected in honor of all war veterans and to provide community recreational activities.

40 YEARS AGO

With the 12 men who left for induction Aug. 30, a total of 2,212 men entered the armed services from Clinton County during the preceding 56 months, according to the local draft board. The first group to leave Clinton County were three volunteers who were sent to Saginaw for induction Nov. 26, 1940.

Kelly should fight people mover

To the Editor:

Last year Michigan's Attorney General Frank Kelley spent hundreds of manhours and hundreds of thousands of state taxpayers' dollars to fight the proposed rate increase by Consumers Power Company to complete the Nuclear Plant in Midland. His decision to block the completion of the plant has led to the near-bankruptcy of the state's largest utility and the resultant loss of 6,000 jobs.

So where is Attorney General Frank Kelley when the state needs him to step in and put a halt to the millions of state tax dollars that are being poured into the Detroit People Mover with a cost to date of $220 million?

Transportation experts from both the Michigan Department of Transportation and the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) have publicly stated the tremendous cost overruns for the People Mover construction are simply unavoidable. Yet the Kelly-Blanchard-Young juggernaut continues to work in consort to see to it that every available tax dollar is used to help finance this transportation boondoggle that will be under-utilized and over-priced.

Frank Kelley has proven time and time again that his domain of authority includes public utility projects. The Detroit People Mover falls into this category. If he used half of the energy, manpower and state dollars that went into his crusade against Consumers Power to halt the waste of hard-earned tax dollars, he would probably emerge as one of the state's most respected public officials.

Even if you think you don't know beans about beans, I'll bet you know what a "butterbean" is.

If you knew it was a Lima bean, you were right. And if you also knew that a "butterbean" is the only real Lima bean, you may go to the head of the class!

You see, the Lima bean is having a sort of "identity crisis." It happens to be a very special bean, the only bean regularly eaten as a vegetable with such simple seasonings as salt, pepper and butter...and the only one with that distinctive, nut-like flavor that won't fit a place on royal menus as "The Queen of Beans." Yet a number of other beans are generally known as Limas, simply because they look like Limas, even though they aren't even distant cousins.

Another curious thing about Lima beans is that, although they got their name from Lima, Peru—from where they were first exported—they are not grown there commercially today. In fact, our entire U.S. crop is grown in a small area in California, where the soil and climate are most ideal. And the only other place on earth where Limas are grown on a commercial scale is on the island of Madagascar, off the coast of Africa.

Actually, Lima Beans have been grown as food since prehistoric times, and they have been found buried with the bodies of pre-Incans of Peru. But the Limas we enjoy today here in St. Johns are a hybrid developed by U.S. geneticists, and are the plumpest, tenderest, tastiest beans you could ever hope to find.

And that's my cue to remind you that the finest food values you could ever hope to find are right here at Beck's. Come see!

County 4-H youths win dairy goat prizes

By DIANA JOHNSON
Contributing Writer

Clinton County 4-H'ers took their dairy goats to Michigan State University Aug. 8 to participate in the dairy goat show. They came back winners.

At the dairy goat show 4-H'ers from all over the state competed for trophies, rosettes and ribbons. MSU paid top premiums to the winners.

The show was divided into breeds and then into classes. There was also a showmanship classes.

Showmanship is the class in which 4-H'ers are most interested. The judge looks at how well the 4-H'ers have cared for their animals and how well the animal was prepared for the show. The animal must be clipped, bathed, the hooves trimmed and polished and ears and tails properly cleaned. The judge also looks at how well the 4-H'ers can handle their animals as well as other animals. The attitude and appearance of the 4-H'ers is also important. Lastly the 4-H'ers must be able to name the parts of the animal and answer any questions the judge may want to ask.

FOR COUNTY YOUTHS the hard work and studying paid off this year. In the showmanship class Clinton County youths came out on top making their leaders and parents very proud.

The showmanship winners are:

First place trophy — Sara Ingalls from Country Cousins

Second place — Sherry Kast from Clinton Caprines

Third place — Becky Blizzard from Country Cousins

Fourth place — Cheryl Johnson from Clinton Caprines

Fifth place — Laura Ingalls from Country Cousins

Sixth place — Amy Winn from Clinton Caprines

Seventh place — Angie LeVeck from Country Cousins

Clinton County also participated in the Herd Show.

Representing the county in the show were:

Angie LeVeck with Nubian, Becky Blizzard with Alpine, Amy Winn with LaMancha and Jason Roof with Toggenburg.

Clinton County placed third in the herd show.

Clinton County had lots of winners in the breed classes also.

Amy Winn two rosettes in the LaMancha class; Cheryl Johnson won one rosette, Nubian class; Becky Blizzard won three rosettes, Alpine class; Angie LeVeck won two rosettes, Nubian class; Sara and Laura Ingalls won two rosettes, Toggenburg class.

Congratulations to the hard working 4-H'ers who brought Clinton County to the top at the MSU Dairy Goat Show. Your leaders Jim Roof and Mike Winn of the Clinton Caprines and Jan Blizzard of the Country Cousins are very proud of you.

'Grazing Day' date is set

Farmers interested in increasing the profitability of their grazing land are invited to attend a "Grazing Day," Sept. 14, to learn how controlled grazing can lower costs and increase production, announces the Extension Service.

The event will be held from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Chatham, Michigan.

Tours of controlled grazing include stops at a lactating dairy herd, growing young stock and a sheep flock.

Other stops include a snow seeding on forest land that was clear cut in August, 1984.

Gary Wright, from The Granary, Jonesville, Michigan, will discuss and demonstrate fence design and construction.

Drs. Steve Rust and Margaret Benson from Michigan State University, Animal Science Department, will respectively discuss the pasture trail at the U.P. Experiment Station and head a tour of a sheep flock-maximizing pasture.

Agricultural news Vaccination

Marilyn Loudenslager

Whether you are buying or selling feeder cattle this fall, you will want to take advantage of the Michigan Pre-Sale Vaccination (M.P.S.V.) program.

The M.P.S.V. program is a health program carried out voluntarily by the cow-calf producer no later than 21 days prior to the sale date of the feeder calves. The cow-calf producer works with the local veterinarian and vaccinates the calves for infectious Bovine Rhinotracheitis (IBR), Parainfluenza (PI3), Bovine Virus Diarrhea (BVD) and Hemophilus. The calves are also dehorned, castrated, tagged and finally M.P.S.V. certified by the veterinarian. All calves procedures have been performed on these cattle. This does not mean the veterinarian has to carry out each procedure. By vaccinating these feeder calves 21 days before the stress of weaning and moving, these calves are a "step ahead" in developing immunity against diseases.

This program certainly gives the feeder calves a head start but how can it help you as a buyer or seller of calves? Buyers should look for M.P.S.V. cattle (blue tags) because the pre-vaccinated animals have reduced incidence of shipping fever. This allows the buyer the luxury of stocking his feedlot with healthy cattle who are ready to start growing. The advantage a seller recognizes for his efforts is an increase in selling price. In previous years "blue tagged" cattle have brought an average of approximately a $1.50 to $2.00 per hundred weight premium.

If you have feeder cattle to sell and are interested in the M.P.S.V. program contact the Clinton County Cooperative Extension Office (224-3663, Ext. 229) for more details. The feeder cattle must be processed at least 21 days prior to the sale to be M.P.S.V. certified. If you are buying cattle this fall be sure to look for the "blue tag".

Marilyn Loudenslager is the Clinton County Cooperative Extension Service Agricultural Agent.

Wheat crops high in yield

Michigan's wheat harvest proceeded at a rapid pace and was ahead of schedule. Farmers were pleasantly surprised as yields were well above pre-harvest expectations. Michigan's 1985 wheat crop established record highs for both yield and production, according to Federal/State Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service. Quality of this year's crop is excellent. Yields for this year's crop averaged 64 bushels per acre and surpassed last year's record by seven bushels.

Production from this season's crop is estimated at 48 million bushels. The bumper wheat crop exceeded last year's record crop by 5 percent. Oats production is forecast at 24.7 million bushels, 14 percent above a year ago. Yields for this year's oats crop are expected to average 65 bushels per acre, a record high. Rye production at 651,000 bushels will be the largest since 1973.

Corn production, based on conditions as of Aug. 1, is forecast at 270 million bushels. This is 23 percent above last year's drought-stressed crop. Yields are expected to average 100 bushels per acre compared to 84 bushels a year ago. Soybean production is expected to total 33.8 million bushels, 5 percent above last season. Yields are expected to average 31 bushels per acre.

Septic systems

George McQueen

When properly maintained a septic system can be a simple, economical, effective and safe way to dispose of household wastes.

But if routine maintenance procedures aren't followed, septic system owners can face not only costly repair bills but also the possibility of contributing to the serious problem of non-profit source pollution.

The Michigan Department of Public Health estimates that about 30 percent of Michigan's homes use septic systems to dispose of wastes. Each year about 5 percent of those systems fail — and half of those failures can be directly related to improper maintenance of the system.

A septic system has two simple components. These are the septic tank and the soil absorption field.

The tank collects household wastes. In the tank solid wastes are partially decomposed by bacteria. The liquid effluent from the tank, which carries disease-causing components and other liquid waste products, is discharged into the soil absorption field. This field further purifies the water and the water then moves into the groundwater system. This is the last line of defense that protects groundwater from becoming polluted with potentially hazardous wastes.

If a septic system fails not only does the homeowner face a serious, expensive problem to face but also the possibility of household wastes contributing to groundwater pollution.

Groundwater polluted by household wastes can make its way into streams, rivers and lakes where it raises the nitrate levels of these bodies of water and poses certain health hazards to people by contaminating drinking water supplies. In areas where a number of homes with septic systems are near lakes the potential for poorly maintained septic systems to pollute the lake is high.

To help Michigan homeowners properly maintain their septic systems the Cooperative Extension Service offers a bulletin, "Maintaining Your Septic System", that helps homeowners keep track of annual maintenance procedures. In the form of a file folder, the bulletin explains the operation of a septic system and outlines annual maintenance tasks to be performed by the homeowner.

For a free copy of "Maintaining Your Septic System", contact the Cooperative Extension Service Office at 306 Elm Street, St. Johns, or call 224-3288.

George McQueen is the director of the Clinton County Cooperative Extension Service.

Dairy herd output rises

Dairy herds in Michigan produced 489 million pounds of milk during July, up seven percent from the previous year, according to the Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service. Milk production per cow averaged 1240 pounds, establishing a new monthly record.

"MY FUTURE BEGAN AT LCC"

Kevin Dolan is a pricing analyst with NCR in Dayton, Ohio. He credits the two years he spent at Lansing Community College as giving him the foundation he needed to go on and succeed at the University of Michigan and in his career.

"There is a wide assortment of students at LCC that makes going to school there a great experience. It's interesting to take an accounting class with someone who's trying to work his way up to foreman at Oldsmobile, because you can learn from him. I used LCC as a vehicle to go on to a four-year school, and I felt I was, in many cases, better prepared than other students in my classes when I went to the University of Michigan."

Adults are going to school too

Kids aren't the only ones "going back to school."

A new season of adult education begins Sept. 9 in St. Johns. Community Education Director John Furry encourages adults of all ages who have never completed their high school education to register soon. There are 3,500 such adults in the St. Johns school district, he says.

Last year there were 138 adult education graduates in St. Johns. The reasons people decide to go back to school are varied, Furry says.

"Your reason could be for self-satisfaction or that now you have the time you didn't have before," he says. "A better job, more earning power, a chance to get some additional technical training or a desire to go on to college are some other very good reasons."

There are two programs offered for adults: adult basic education and high school completion.

"Adult basic education deals with the needs of those adults with less than an eighth grade, or sometimes sixth grade, reading level," says Furry.

For those who already have adequate reading skills — including those who have taken basic education classes in the past — high school completion classes are offered.

Furry is especially interested in reaching those who want to take adult education classes by who have never done so because they feel they would be out of place among young people.

"It's not going to school with kids," he says. "It's going to school with other adults. The average age of my students is 32 years old."

On the other hand, he says, anyone who wants to take regular high school classes will be accommodated if there is room in the desired class.

It takes an average of about two years for adult students to complete their high school education — less if the adult has some high school credit already, Furry says.

Besides helping themselves people who return to school as adults contribute to the school system, Furry says. The district receives state aid for each adult student, much as it does for young students. The revenue from the state aid exceeds the cost of the programs and the extra money is contributed to the general fund. Community education programs generate an average of about $100,000 each year for the general fund, he says.

"We could raise a heck of a lot of money if people would give of their time to take a class," Furry says. "The potential is there in our community. You can help community education, you can help the schools, plus you can help yourselves."

The classes are free for adults in the district who do not have a high school diploma and for 18 and 19 year old graduates who want to take post-graduate classes.

Furry says over the years he has seen adults who are at first unsure of their ability to finish high school start the program and find they do have what it takes to finish.

"It's been rewarding for me," he says. "This is my 30th year in education...I went into this and it's been rewarding to work with adults."

Classes are offered both during the day and during evening hours. For more information or to register for classes, stop by or call the Community Education office at the Terest Merrill School, N. Traver St., in St. Johns. Call 224-9341, extension 158.

Fowler schools lower food price

In a effort to get the school lunch program out of the red Fowler Schools are reducing the price of the meals. The goal is to increase the number of students who participate in the lunch program from 43 percent last year to 70 percent this year.

"If this does not work we'll have to change things again — we'll have to really raise the prices substantially," says Mary Ann Chartrand, the principal at Walden School and the director of the lunch program.

For grades first through fourth the price of a single meal will be reduced from 75 cents to 65 cents. For grades fifth through eighth the reduction will be from 80 cents to 70 cents. Meals for grades ninth through twelfth will be reduced from 90 cents to 75 cents per day.

Milk is included in the school lunches. There will be no a la carte (individual) items except milk. The price for milk without a meal will be 25 cents.

A discount for those who buy meals each day during the week will be discontinued. However those students will receive a bonus, such as extra fruit or dessert.

Other changes include larger portions for high school students and an effort to provide more popular entrees.

Parents are encouraged to visit the schools to sample lunches, says Chartrand. The price of an adult lunch is $1.50.

Those who qualify for free or reduced-price lunches may apply at the principal's office of their schools.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on September 9, 1985 at 8:00 o'clock p.m. at the Administrative Office, 4179 South U.S. 27, St. Johns, Michigan, the Board of Education of the Clinton County Intermediate School District will hold a public hearing on levying in 1985 of an additional proposed millage rate of .0088 (.0088 cents per $1,000 of State Equalized Valuation) for operating purposes pursuant to Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan, 1982.

The Board of Education has the complete authority to establish that 1.7 mills be levied in 1985 from its present authorized millage rate.

The maximum additional proposed millage rate would increase revenues for operating purposes from ad valorem property tax levies in 1984 otherwise permitted by Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan, 1982, by fifty-two hundredths percent (.52%).

The figure for increases in revenue is to receive testimony and discuss the levy of this additional millage rate. Not less than seven (7) days following the public hearing, the Board of Education may approve all or any portion of the proposed additional millage rate.

This notice is given by order of the Board of Education.

Larry A. Schwartzkopf, Secretary
Clinton County Intermediate School District Board of Education

Date set for hearing on closed grainery

A public hearing to consider the revocation of the grain dealer's licenses of the Westmac, Inc. facilities in Grand Ledge and Newaygo was held Aug. 20, according to Michigan Department of Agriculture.

The formal revocation hearing follows MDA notification on Aug. 6 to Westmac that its grain dealer's licenses were suspended and that all wheat, corn, or other farm produce was being placed under department seizure according to provisions of the Michigan Grain Dealers Act.

Westmac's president and vice president met with MDA staff on July 15 and on July 16 the corporation voluntarily suspended receiving or distributing farm produce. MDA granted Westmac a two-week grace period before suspending its licenses on Aug. 6, to allow the company time to refinance or reorganize in order to meet the requirements of the Grain Dealers Act.

A July 17 grain audit of the Westmac facilities at Grand Ledge and Newaygo disclosed sufficient grain on hand to cover warehouse receipts, but insufficient grain on hand or financial security to cover price-later agreements.

The Michigan Grain Dealers Act requires, in part, that a grain dealer who issues price-later agreements comply with one or more of the following:

1. Keep the farm produce, fungible farm produce, or farm produce of equivalent value on hand as the dealer's own property.
2. Procure and maintain price-later agreements or warehouse receipts in other dealers' facilities as approved by the director.
3. Maintain sufficient cash or other short-term secured investments in an escrow account in an amount equal to 80 percent of the value of any deficiency in the price-later agreements.

Aldrich wins number eight

Jim Aldrich of Ovid captured his seventh late model feature victory at Spartan Speedway on August 16.

However, the victory did not come easy.

Ben Snide of Brooklyn moved out in front at the start with Tim Felver, Will Terry, and Aldrich battling for position.

Terry dropped out, and Snider increased his lead while Felver and Aldrich fought for second.

Felver was black-flagged late in the race for mechanical problems, making it a race between Aldrich and Snider.

Aldrich sped past Snider with the white flag waving and held on for victory.

Mike Luick, Kevin Bater, and Jeff Finley rounded out the top five.

Marty Babbitt garnered his second feature victory in the Spartan Stock division. Babbitt took the lead from Harry Kelley on the fifth lap, and then held off a late-race charge by Al Kukla for the win.

Mike Creed, Dean Caltrider, and Mike Wahlstrom completed the top five.

Brad Rinckney made it feature victory number eight in the factory stock division. Rinckney sped past early leader Joe Merritt at the halfway mark and cruised to an easy victory. Merritt finished second followed by Joe Whitford, George Speer, and Gary Neveau.

Lions return favor to fans

The Detroit Lions of the National Football League will provide special financial support to the United Way of Michigan through a unique plan that will include $100 per point scored this season.

According to Russ Thomas, executive vice president and general manager of the club, the support of the United Way of Michigan is in keeping with the Lions' commitment to all the people of Michigan.

"We feel strongly as an organization that we must support the needs of the people of this state as they have continued to support the Lions," Thomas said.

Over the years, Thomas noted, the Detroit Lions' employee contributions to the Pontiac-North Oakland United Way have ranked the organization as one of the top two in the National Football League for United Way contributions.

"Clearly, we are very appreciative of the Detroit Lions for their interest in the United Way of Michigan, its member agencies and the 105 United Ways throughout Michigan," said Helen Philpott, UWM board president.

"The funds given by the Lions' organization will be used to respond to new and unmet human service needs within the state."

The United Way of Michigan is a voluntary, not-for-profit, statewide federation of 22 state and national agencies which provide direct and indirect human care services to Michigan citizens.

It is the oldest and one of the most comprehensive statewide United Way organizations in the country due to its number of member agencies, as well as the diversity of services offered to local United Ways and member agencies.

In 1985, the United Way of Michigan received over $7.5 million in support from the 105 local organizations.

The Kjolhede plan

'Wings learn new system

By JON RISING
Sports Editor

Heads are spinning these days over on the St. Johns Redwings' practice fields. But, new head coach Bart Kjolhede hopes that when the heads settle they will be pointed in the right direction.

Kjolhede has introduced a new system of football that he feels will keep the Redwings winners. But, it takes time to get players and assistant coaches accustomed to a new system. Most of Kjolhede's plans are quite different than those of his successor, Joe Gonzales.

"Joe was a winner. He won like 67 percent of his ball games here.

"Let's say we're re-styling the program, and it's going to fit towards me. That might sound egotistical, but I'm the head coach. We're going to do what I like to do.

"I don't like to be bored. I like things exciting."

Kjolhede's game plan calls for a variety of dives, options, and passes. He will be using a split end and flanker on most every play.

That's not only for the passing attack, he says.

"It's for the running, too. You spread them out like that and you've got a better chance of breaking one," Kjolhede said.

Kjolhede arrives in St. Johns after serving as head coach in Wellsville, Kansas, where making the state playoffs was a routine matter for him and his charges.

Success has a way of making you believe in your formulas, and Kjolhede believes in his.

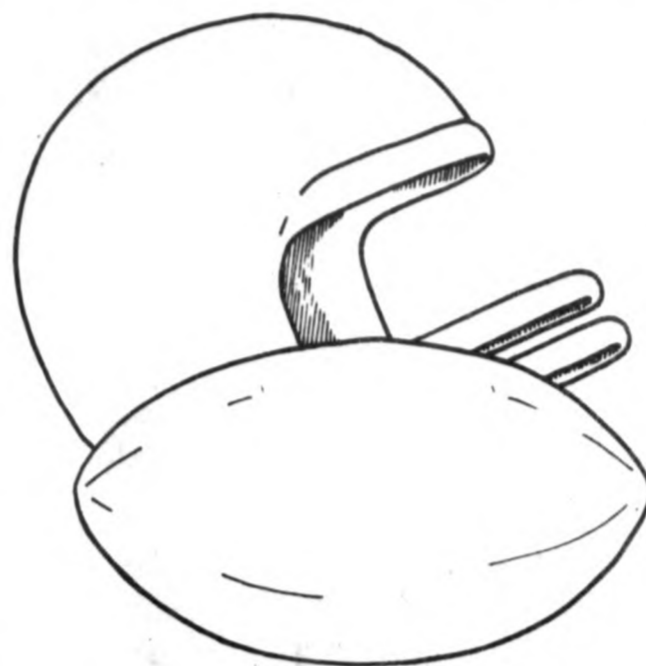

"I was a little down after the first day," Kjolhede said. "I had forgotten what it was like to teach a whole new system. But, things have picked up."

However, implementing a new system is not where Kjolhede's toils end. He has to figure out how to best use the small squad of 32 that has turned out for football at St. Johns.

"We're going to have 4-6 guys going both ways for us," he said.

Three of the team's four captains will be seeing double duty.

Senior quarterback Jim Caudy will be the exception, at least for the Redwings' first game September 6 at Owosso.

"We're going to try to keep Jim off defense," Kjolhede said. "He's got to understand our system — and we audible."

"He played at defensive back last year and he was in at quarterback some. We need him to be a leader physically and mentally."

The team's other three captains are junior Bill Keenoy, senior Jeff Maurer, and senior Rick Myszak.

Keenoy will play fullback and linebacker. At linebacker he will share time with Maurer and junior Terry Rossow. Since Kjolhede's system only calls for two linebackers on the field at the same time, some of the double duty will be cut down as he spells one of three.

Kjolhede is impressed with Keenoy's speed. The former defensive tackle is the Redwings' fastest 40-yard dash man.

Maurer, who has been a running back in the past, will also play at offensive tackle. He is 5-11 and weighs 210 pounds.

Myszak will play both fullback and nose guard. He is expected to be a strong blocking back because of his experience at center last season.

Kjolhede also said he expects Myszak "to really give people some problems" from his nose guard position.

Kjolhede noted that tight end Brent Irner, offensive guard-defensive tackle Doug Bush, and Mike Schafer have also been impressive at their positions, so far.

Of lineman Bush, Kjolhede said, "He's not big, but he's quick."

He's been pleased to see Schafer, a senior place kicker, "working extra."

"I don't know how far he's been kicking his extra points and field goals, but he booms 'em."

Kjolhede said the object of the new Redwing attack "is to make sure the other coach is doing his job. We want to make them cover the whole field — that's what you do with the option, you make them cover the quarterback. If they have a weakness, we want to find it."

Spicer blends young troops

By JON RISING
Sports Editor

Like a gourmet chef blending just the right pinch of this and the right pinch of that, Fowler head coach Steve Spicer is looking at fielding a balanced Eagle attack.

This is Spicer's 15th year on the job, and he says this squad — although a little short on experience — is probably as balanced as any he has had.

That can't be really encouraging news for the Eagles' Central Michigan Athletic Conference rivals. The Eagles were 5-1 last year in CMAC play, and sported an overall mark of 7-1-1.

Pewamo-Westphalia thrashed the Eagles last season, and Maple Valley played them to an 8-8 tie. The Eagles will open the 1985 season on September 6 in Maple Valley.

For an example of the Eagle balance, check out the backfield. You like brawny, bulldozing backs? The Eagles have two. Let's say you also like speedy, darting upbacks. The Eagles have a couple of those, too.

Fowler has just what every coach dreams about, as well, a fine athlete that can run the option — senior Dean Koenigsnecht.

Not only does Koenigsnecht play the demanding position of quarterback, he also handles defensive secondary chores.

The 5-10, 165-pounder is also an Eagle basketball player and ran sprints for the state champion Eagles in track.

But, in case you start thinking Steve Spicer is life just the way he wants it, let's consider experience.

Besides Koenigsnecht, Spicer only has four returning starters. Seniors Dave Thelen, Kevin and Bruce Schmitt, and Brian Schueller are the Eagle veterans.

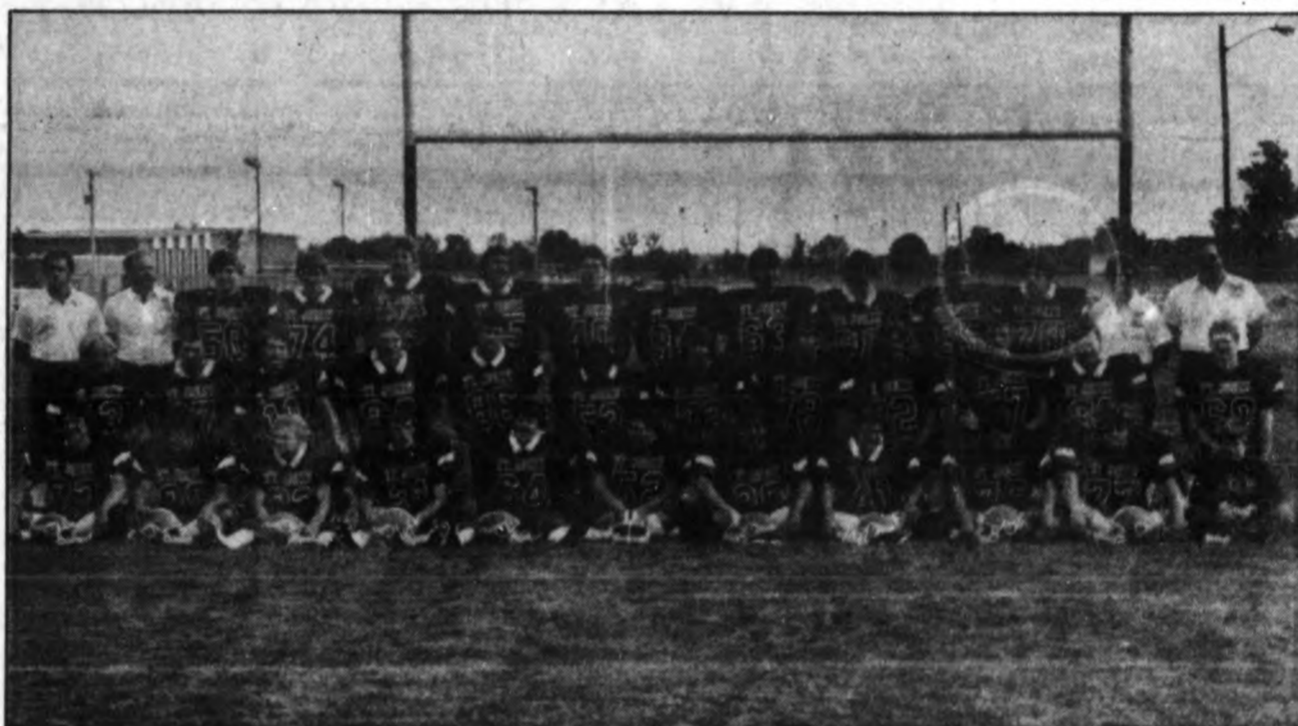

All play on the offensive line — with Kevin Schmitt the biggest at 6-1, 225 pounds — while Thelen doubles as a defensive tackle.

Spicer points out a pair of keys for the Eagles success this season. He says they must stay clear of injuries and they must rebuild the defense, which has only Koenigsnecht and Thelen returning.

Those bruisers in the offensive backfield are junior Rex Thelen and senior Dave Miller. Thelen weighs 185 and Miller is 190.

Spicer also mentioned junior Joe Simon, a tackle, as one of the Eagles to watch.

The veteran coach thinks that his squad, Pewamo-Westphalia, and Laingsburg will be the most likely to capture the CMAC crown, but he isn't ruling out darkhorses, either.

Smaller basketball coming

Jon Rising

Next fall, girls basketball in the state of Michigan will have a new look. But, you'll have to look hard to see it.

The Michigan High School Athletic Association announced last week at a local rules meeting that it will be switching to a slightly smaller and lighter ball for girls

Tourney time for City Rec

Tournament play began last night in the St. Johns City Recreation slo-pitch leagues and continues through Tuesday, September 3.

In the four divisions — women's competitive and recreation and men's A and B — Murton's Rawleigh of the women's competitive is the only clear cut favorite.

Murton's has compiled an 8-1 record and its nearest competition was Wheel Inn (5-3).

Murton's plays its first game Thursday at 6 p.m. against Dave Fry Realty (1-8) on the main city diamond.

Since the tournament is single elimination, if Murton's wins that one it will play in the championship game at 9 p.m. against the St. Johns Ford-Mercury-Wheel Inn winner.

Games will be played on the main diamond, Sickles Field, and the women's field Monday through Thursday of this week.

Dates and times of the four championship games are as follows — August 29, 9 p.m., main diamond, (women's competitive); August 29, 7:30 p.m., women's field, (women's recreation); September 3, 7:30 p.m., main diamond, (men's division B); and September 3, 9 p.m., main diamond, (men's division A).

basketball play.

The new ball (most likely the MacGregor X10L), is to be pumped up to a maximum of 20 ounces and 29 inches in diameter.

Those dimensions are two ounces and one inch smaller than the basketball used in boys play.

The ball is already used at the college level in women's play and by high schools in five states.

The National Federation of Boys and Girls Basketball, which has decreed the implementation of the new ball by the 1988-9 season, says the change is "positive" for the girls game.

It notes that the smaller ball is easier to handle for girls, who generally have a smaller hand size than boys, and that all the basic skills are easier for girls to execute when it is used.

The philosophical ramifications are put in a nutshell by St. Johns Redwing girls basketball coach Beth Swears.

"Women have fought and fought for equality and now they want a smaller basketball," Swears said.

Swears is also concise in evaluating the financial ramifications.

"At forty dollars a basketball, and you're talking a dozen of them to get started, that's about five hundred dollars," she said. "That's why the state has tried to give some time in making the change."

"A poll of the Michigan high school coaches association indicated that most coaches were in favor of the change, though."

"It won't be a bad transition to make."

Swears says that the final evaluation will have to be made after next season's statistics are in, of course.

Fowler girls basketball coach Tom O'Rourke is also in favor of the change.

"I like it. Skills will improve — passing and dribbling — and it's much easier to shoot," he said.

If coaches so desire, the ball can be used by girls this season at the junior high level.

VETERAN COACH — Steve Spicer is getting set to coach his 15th season of Fowler High School football. Spicer says that this year's Eagles are probably as balanced as any team he has coached. The Eagles open their season September 6 at Maple Valley. Last year, the two teams played to an 8-8 tie in the opener.

NEEDING THE COACH — That's the position young Nicky Kjolhede finds himself in as his father, new St. Johns football coach Bart Kjolhede, lines his players up for photo day.

The elder Kjolhede, in addition to tending to Nicky, is preparing the Redwings for their season opener, September 6 in Owosso.

Wing's steady hand takes feature victory

Twenty-seven late models were in competition and the steady man with the steady hand came through again at Crystal Raceway on August 17.

Steady Roger Wing took his sixth victory of the 1985 season in his usual style — with calculated skill, biding his time until track conditions and opportunity went his way.

After chasing Eric Chant and Jeff Finley for 16 laps, Wing slid by Finley and overtook Chant on lap 19. He then surged toward the 30th lap and the checkered flag with ease.

Chant took second after a strong early showing, followed by Dave Spaulding, Gene Playter, Finley, Andy Piercefield, Larry Aldrich, Glen Guernsey, Bob Nieman, and Bryan Hull.

Playter had the fast time (17.36) and Wing won the dash earlier. Heats were won by Rusty Ziegler, Aldrich, and Chant. Tom Williams got B-feature's winner's credit when Bob Lynn, Ken Eveingham, Ziegler, and Bill Horton moved up to the A feature.

For the fourth week in a row, Rick Stout won the pro stock feature even though the field was totally inverted and he had started in the 19th spot.

Can Stout be stopped? It seemed so when Roger Sowles powered himself into a very healthy lead, only to run lap after lap over two seconds under his qualifying time. He was disqualified, giving Stout the lead.

Stan Rohn was running very well early in the race but began to fade in lap 11 and finished third after Gene Carson.

Bill Hendricks, Troy VanderVeen, Jeff Reist, Rodger Carman, Dana Dennis, Dave Harris, and Bill Simpson rounded out the top ten.

In earlier events, Hendricks had the fast time (18.82). Reist took the dash, and heats were won by Ron Szelle, Fred Wallace, Dennis, and Reist.

The Consie credit went to Paul Lazarus after Delbert Brigner moved up. Wallace got the B feature after Ed Dennis and Jeff Von Bonn moved up.

A newly formed racing group, Western Michigan Mini-modifieds, based in Muskegon was part of the night's program. Ten of the machines showed up for their only appearance of the year.

Their dash was won by Vance Collins. Corval Tollivar won the heat and the feature. In the feature, second place went to John Kruszinsky and third to Art Kelly.

Powder puff action was exciting again for the fourth and last point attempt. These ladies were most successful: first heat — Robin Thompson, Tammy Doolittle, and Tammy Lathrup; second heat — Sue Rinard, Rose Olsen, and Pam Hopkins.

Junior fan club trophies went to Phillip McCambridge of Morley and Becky Townsend of MUIR who rode with late model drivers Eric Chant and Andy Piercefield, respectively.

Mythical pike

Dick Bradley

Esox Lucius, better known as the northern pike, has enough stories, legends, myths, and quirks of habits surrounding his behavior to qualify as the subject for a book of short stories. Separating truth from fiction, where this game fish is concerned, is a chore in its own right.

Right about now, as the waters of the state reach their warmest and when we are emersed in that period known as the "dog days" of summer, the northern pike becomes a less frequent species on the stringer. A popular myth about him is that his teeth fall out during the warmest days of summer. A more probable explanation for the slow down of his usual ferocious feeding habits is that he thrives in cold water. Understandably then, he slows down when conditions get uncomfortable and eats those things that come to him rather than what he chases down. About Labor Day he begins to act like himself again.

Answers to questions like "How big do northern pike get?" have been pondered for years. While most fishermen are elated with a five- to 10-pound specimen, written accounts and oldtimers' tales are full of stories which sometimes equate the pike to a Mako, man-eating shark. I have read of two fish in excess of 50 pounds which were reportedly caught in Scotland. One was supposed to have contained a 6-pound piglet when cleaned. In recent years, American newspapers have carried articles of giant northern pikes that had inflicted painful bites on the legs of swimmers in Wisconsin and New York.

Personally, I have had experiences of observing some members of the northern pike species that make me "almsb" believe much of what I've heard or read. There was a huge wake and swirl near a hen mallard and her brood that left the family one child short. There was the "railroad tie" looking fish that rose from a Canadian lake to attack a respectable walleye I had tied on a stringer. These two encounters I'll never forget.

A little more usual are the stories of fly-fishermen fighting nice blue gills in the shallows only to have their prizes engulfed by a feeding pike. I also had that happen on one occasion.

This summer my thoughts about pike were re-awakened when two of my companions on a fishing trip caught northern pikes apparently without sinking a hook into them. In both cases small but active walleyes were being reeled toward the boat when they were grabbed by 4- to 6-pound fish. The pike simply clamped down on the walleyes, refusing to let go even when they were led into landing nets.

Take a close look at old esox the next time you get a chance. Change the shape of the tail, replace the four under-belly fins with feet and you have an alligator look-alike. Is there any wonder that stories about this fish enjoy as much imagination and as many tellings as they do?

He's moving a house — one brick at a time

By RICH WERTZ
Editor

Some people would say Thomas Partee has an unusual hobby. He's moving a house, brick by brick, from one place to another.

"Sometimes," he says, "I think I bit off more of a project than I want to chew. But I hate to see a bulldozer come in, which is what would happen."

The house in question is on Chandler Road, not far from where Partee and his family live at 1402 N. Chandler. It is a large house made of pale buff-colored brick. It has a cupola and, for reasons unknown to Partee, a sign on one wall asking callers to use a non-existent side door. He estimates it was built in the early 1800s.

"There's not a round nail in the place," he says. Partee has not learned a lot else about the history of the house but has asked the Historical Commission to see what they can find.

He bought the house from The Martin Block company in Lansing for what he says was an exceptionally reasonable price. However, the land the house is on was not part of the deal, which is why Partee is moving it. He decided to do his way when house moving companies quoted him a $30 thousand to $40 thousand price tag for moving it whole. There is a minimum of 60,000 bricks in the house, which would make it a weighty task indeed to move the house whole, Partee says.

"I have people say 'You're going to move all that brick with a half-ton pick-up?'" he says. "I say 'Well, I guess they moved it all here with just a horse and wagon.'"

In order to get the house back together again Partee has taken lots of pictures and careful measurements. He is looking at several different property lots on which to locate the reconstruction. In the meantime he is storing the brick in his barn. When the time comes to accommodate modern conveniences like indoor bathrooms.

MOVING OUT — Thomas Partee likes this old house. He is going to pick it up and move it away.

"The outside will be the same," Partee says. "The inside will be updated."

Partee says he will not have to worry about not having enough brick to rebuild the house. For one thing he says, while the mortar between the bricks has deteriorated, the actual bricks are in good shape. For another thing, the original construction has two thickness of brick while he is going to rebuild it with only one thickness and modern insulation materials, he says.

He hopes to be through tearing down the house by this winter, Partee says. He's looking at the summer of 1987, as the completion date for the project.

He's not sure what he will do with the house then — either live in it or sell it, he says.

"I just want to see that it perpetuates through the years and is not demolished," he says.

Tracing family history can be easy in DeWitt

Tracing one's family history conjures up endless hours of poring through old records, double checking tedious facts and cross-referencing names.

But a visit to Clinton County's geneological room located in the DeWitt Township Hall will quickly dispel any of those notions.

Visitors are greeted by the smiling face of Librarian Wilma Soule, who has catalogued all the information and clearly labeled it on the shelves so that it's easier to find. And if first-time geneologists can't find it, she can.

"One of the reasons it takes so long to find things sometimes is that you get sidetracked reading something interesting along the way," she laughs.

Clearly, Soule finds all the information in the room interesting. She is a member of the Clinton County Historical Society and the Geneological Society who has traced her husband's family back to the Mayflower.

MANY OF THE materials in the room are donated by people who want to get rid of "junk" that they have accumulated through the years. Other items are purchased or given by the historical society.

The equipment, too, is donated, or given by the historical society. The biggest piece of equipment is the microfilm reader, which was given by the society.

But what kind of information can be found on microfilm and on the shelves?

First of all, Soule says, although the information pertains mainly to Clinton County, there are many records from other counties as well.

"You can't stick to Clinton County because all the people here came from somewhere else," she says.

The geneology room contains cemetery records from Clinton, Gratiot, Ingham, and Shiawassee counties. Family files are kept according to common family names in the area, and bound family history books are on the shelves from as far away as Maine.

BOUND COUNTY histories, war records (including the Civil War and the War of 1812), and school records are other sources of information. Some of the documents are originals; others are copies.

Newspapers are available dating as far back as 1863. One of Soule's favorite source of information is the 72 scrapbooks that have been acquired over the years. She says these are valuable because they have so much varied information.

She says if six people are in the room tracing information at one time, it's too many for her to help. She is the only worker at the geneology room, because she can find no one to volunteer.

The volume of material in the library has increased within the past few years, which means Soule has spent more of her time cataloging and shelving information. Not only time, but space is becoming scarce around the geneology room.

"WE'RE OUTGROWING this place fast," she says. The Clinton County geneology room has some information that the state library in Lansing doesn't have, Soule says, although the reverse is also true. Many researchers go back and forth between the two.

Soule is worried about what will happen to the room if she were no longer around to tend to it. People who have donated materials also want to be reassured that they will be taken care of and used, she says.

"But no one else seems to worry," she says, "I guess they think I'm going to be around forever."

The geneology room, located in the DeWitt Township Hall, is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

transport the brick to the site he will hire a larger truck, he says.

His intention is to restore the house to much of its original construction while upgrading certain parts. The reconstructed house will be more energy efficient and there will be some changes made in the interior to

Remember school safety

To cut down on traffic mishaps involving school buses, AAA and the Michigan Association for Pupil Transportation are co-sponsoring a series of statewide traffic safety education programs on school bus safety.

Michigan law requires motorists in both directions to halt 10 feet on either side of a stopped school bus displaying flashing red lights. Students should always cross at least six feet in front of the bus in clear view of the bus driver and be alert for all traffic.

Seven persons died in accidents involving school buses during the 1894-85

IF YOU DON'T READ THIS, YOU'D BETTER HOPE SOMEONE ELSE DOES.

Suppose someone sitting across from you at lunch was having a heart attack. Would you know what to do?

If you, or someone else, didn't act quickly, that person might die. And how can you act quickly, if you don't know what to do?

That's why the Red Cross offers CPR and First Aid courses that teach you what to do in an emergency.

Because one day someone's life may depend on the techniques the Red Cross can teach you now.

So call them. Because you never know when you'll be glad you did.

American Red Cross
We'll help. Will you?

Melting snow over the heated portion of the house runs down to the roof edge it freezes and an ice dam begins to form, preventing drainage.

As the ice dam grows, water is trapped behind it and backs up under the shingles. Eventually it reaches the roof deck (which is not waterproof) and leaks through damaging the interior structure.

Ice & Water Shield waterproofs the roof deck preventing melted snow from leaking into structure. The interior and its contents are protected.
