150 years

EAGLE The Clinton County Historical Commission will lead the State of Michigan in its first official event to recognize a family who has owned a farm for 150 years.

Focus of event will be the David Clark family of Eagle Township. The program includes Michael Scieszka of the Resource Division of the Dept. of Natural Resources, resolutions of tribute, an exhibit of heirlooms, a tree planting and symbolic gifts of seed for the next century and a half. Music for the afternoon will be produced by Gail F. Foerch of Fowler.

Among the items to be exhibited will be the deed, dated 1835. This document transferred ownership from the U.S. Government to David Clark Sr. It is signed by Andrew Jackson.

In 1935 David Clark Jr., transferred the land to his four sons: Stanley, Victor, Donald and Leon. The farm is now owned by Leon Clark Jr., great-grandson of the first purchaser.

The program will be held Saturday, Oct. 5th, beginning at 3 p.m.

Violence

LANSING The week of October 6 is Domestic Violence Awareness Week, reports the Council Against Domestic Assault (CADA).

The purpose of the annual observance, CADA reports, is to celebrate women who have survived battering relationships and have gone on to live lives free of violence, to mourn those who have been killed by battering and to educate the public about the extent of the problem.

CADA released a number of statistics about domestic violence, including:

- The U.S. Dept. of Justice reports that men commit 95 percent of assaults on spouses.

- One in every four female murder victims is killed by her husband or boyfriend.

- Over 20,000 women and children were served by battered women's shelters in Michigan during the 1984 fiscal year.

CADA, a non-profit organization that provides shelter and services to battered women and their children, is planning a series of community forums and other activities during the week. For more information call 372-5572.

Farm bill backed

By RICH WERTZ
Editor

Two of Michigan's largest farming organizations are at odds on the the U.S. House Agriculture Committee's farm bill sent to the floor of the House recently.

The Michigan Milk Producers Association (MMPA) has cast its support behind the dairy provisions in the committee's version of the bill.

A statement issued by the MMPA said that version "offers the only program to reduce surplus milk production and sharply cut federal budget outlays without forcing thousands of farm families out of business."

The Michigan Farm Bureau criticized the committee's version of the bill when it was approved by the committee Sept. 10. The Farm Bureau supports an alternative bill similar to the one it originally proposed.

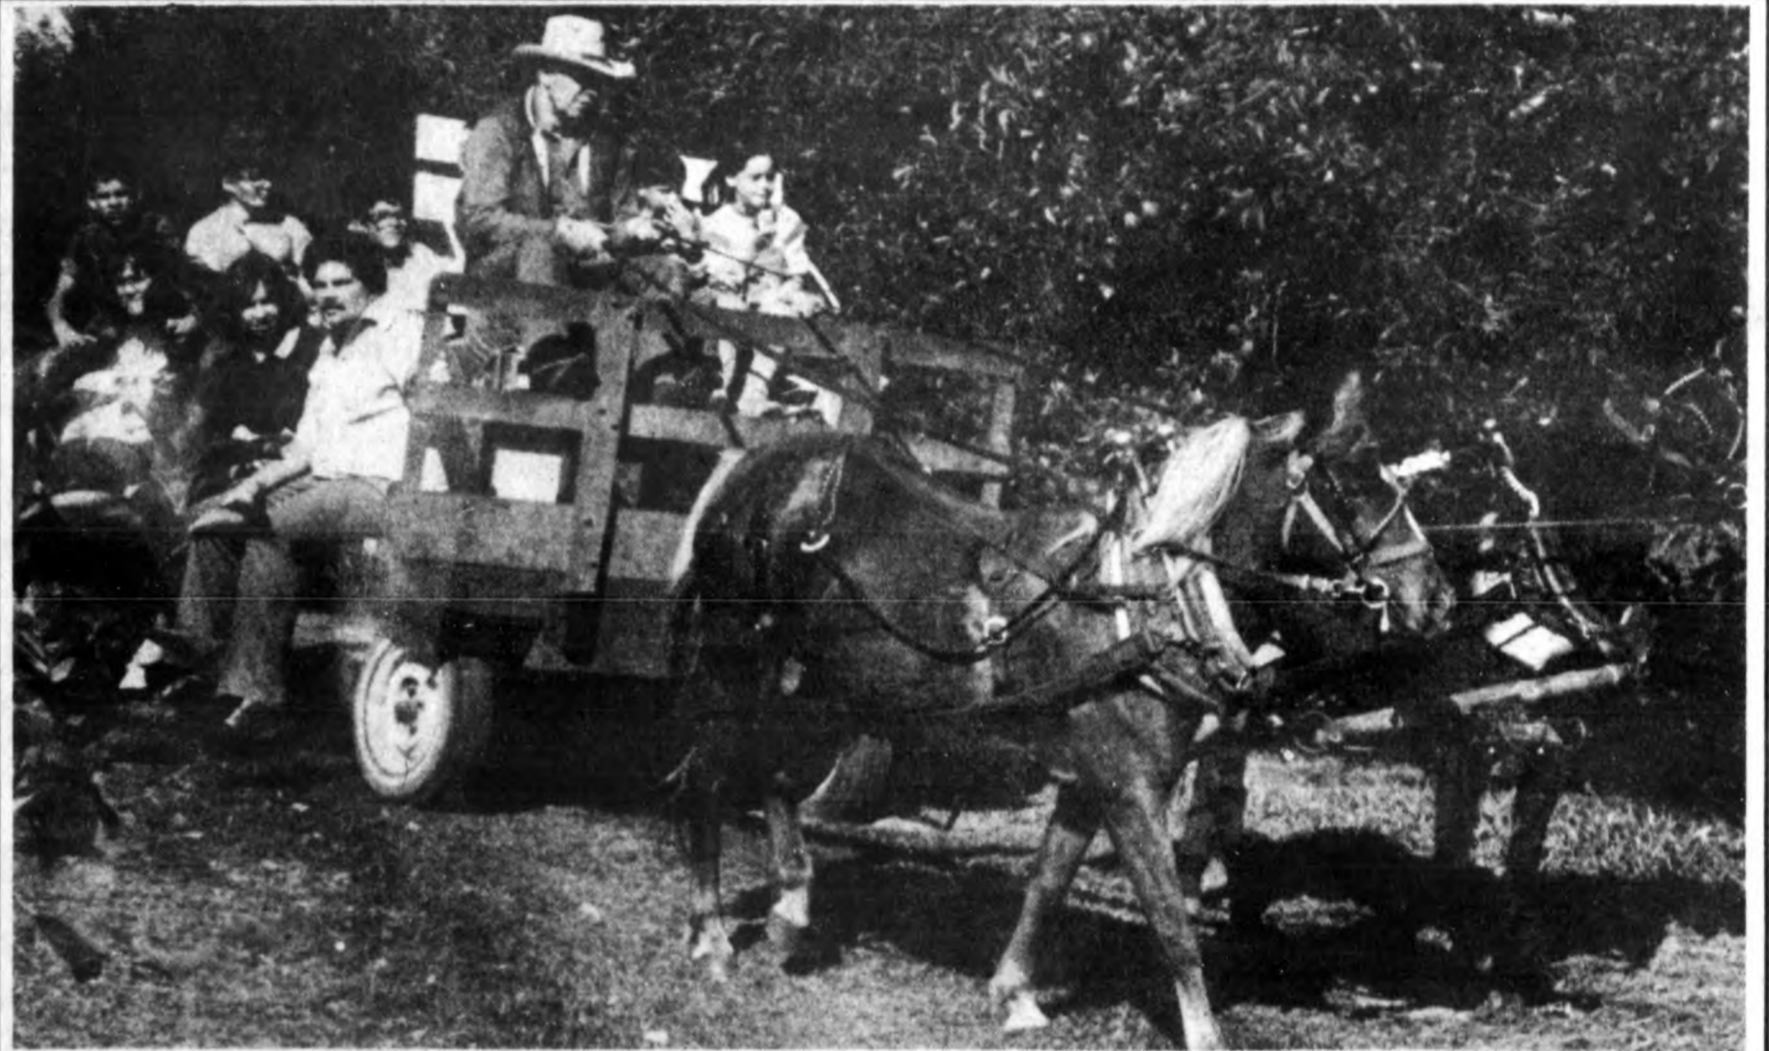

Included in the committee's bill supported by the MMPA is a provision for a dairy diversion program financed by assessments on dairy producers. In fiscal 1986 dairy farmers would pay an estimated 40 cents per pound of production. The money would be used to pay farmers who reduce production by five to 30 percent at the rate of $10 for each hundred-pound reduction.

Another provision of the bill would require the Secretary of Agriculture to offer bids to farmers willing to take entire herds out of production. That program would also be financed by the assessments on producers.

Both programs would be enacted if projected government purchases of surplus dairy products reach seven billion pounds. The Secretary of Agriculture could enact the programs at his discretion if projected government surplus purchases reach five billion pounds.

"We're satisfied with the Agriculture Committee's version of the bill as it is written," said Clinton County dairy farm Velmar Green, an MMPA spokesman, last week.

The Michigan Farm Bureau said in a press release last month that the program would not be effective in reducing production. The farm bill supported by the Farm Bureau would reduce government price supports as government surplus purchases grew larger. The bill would also increase price supports if the projected purchases were less than two billion pounds.

OPEN ORCHARD Hundreds of Clinton County residents and others visited Beck's Orchard on E. Maple Rd. last weekend. Three different antique car clubs displayed their vintage automobiles while visitors took free pony rides through the 80-acre orchard, munched cider donuts and bratwurst, drank cold apple cider and watched apples being pressed into cider.

Committee makes report

Schools study future plans

A committee formed to study the long range plans of the St. Johns School District presented a preliminary plan to the Board of Education Sept. 23.

The 37-page report, which has not been adopted by the Board, examines the goals, financial forecasts, staffing needs and other aspects of the district for the period 1985-90.

"This is not the kind of report you can look at and say ho-hum," said Administrator Steve Bakita.

The proposed plan was put together by a committee of 19 people, including two Board members. Until it is adopted, the plan is subject to any number of changes. Once the plan is approved it will become in effect the Board's plan, Bakita said. He said eventual adoption of the plan could come in November or December.

In briefly going over the preliminary plan with the Board, Bakita emphasized that technology will be a "crucial concern" in the coming years.

The preliminary plan includes the creation of a Technology Advisory Committee" (TAC) as one of five goals proposed for emphasis in the period of 1985-90.

That section of the preliminary plan includes recommendations for TAC activity. They include:

- reviewing technological services currently available to the district.
- forming a list of guidelines for the purchase and use of all equipment.
- providing training and resources for raising staff "awareness and concern" regarding technology and its role in education.

- exploring the merits of emerging technologies, implementing those which best meet the goals of the district.
- purchasing equipment necessary for updating the present technological system.

Other goals proposed in the "Goal Emphasis for 1985-90" section of the plan include reviewing class size and curriculum; continuing staff development opportunities; improving the public and staff perception of the school district; and others.

Other sections of the preliminary plan propose a variety of improvements in special education and guidance services, including:

- providing psychological, social work and speech therapy within the district. Currently those services are provided by the Clinton Intermediate School District.
- developing a program for deterring substance abuse.

The preliminary plan generally does not go into detail about the cost of the various proposals. The emphasis is upon evaluating where improvements are needed.

However, the forward states that "every good idea...cannot be afforded," and that the Board "recognizes its obligation to project the cost of an instructional program...and, consequently, its responsibility to identify and support the necessary millage to support that program."

Administrator raps Sheriff's Dept.

By RICH WERTZ
Editor

Relations between the Clinton County Sheriff's Department and other branches of the county government took a turn for the worse Sept. 17 when County Administrator William LeFevre charged that Sheriff Terry Hanekow "specifically lied to me in an attempt to disguise the truth."

The charge was made following an investigation by LeFevre into a complaint against the department by an Eaton Rapid's woman. The woman charged that a patrol car driven by Undersheriff William Page on Labor Day disrupted traffic outside the county on US-27.

The woman charged that Page, driving in the left lane near Waters, Mich., was deliberately slowing traffic. She said, "when someone would come up behind him, hoping he would get over, out of the left lane, he would suddenly brake and of course the whole 10 miles of traffic held up behind him would have to brake."

SHE CHARGED THAT Page speeded up when traffic attempted to pass him in the right-hand lane.

Thw complaint mentioned that a woman passenger was also in the patrol car.

Page, in a Sept. 26 telephone interview, said he regretted the incident because of the problems it caused Hanekow but that he thought the incident was blown out of proportion.

"I don't feel it was really as big a deal as they're saying it is," he said. "I was probably travelling about 57 to 58 miles per hour. They apparently felt the need to travel faster than that."

Hanekow said it was his understanding of the incident that Page intentionally slowed one driver but that his actions were not as extreme as was claimed in the complaint.

Hanekow said the complaint would have been more appropriately lodged with law enforcement officials in whose jurisdiction the incident occurred.

However, he said, Page "was out of line because he was out of his jurisdiction. If he was in Clinton County he would have had a legal right to do it."

HANEKOW SUBSEQUENTLY wrote to the woman who complained, saying Page had been "counseled" about his actions and a copy of the complaint placed in his personal file. He apologized for "the misconduct that you were subjected to."

Page said the woman passenger in the patrol car was his wife. He said he was driving to pick up a prisoner in Pelston, Mich. The prisoner was a trustee who did not pose an escape risk and the presence of his wife in the car was not a violation of regulations, he said.

He said the prisoner could not be located when he arrived in Pelston and that he believed the court date for the prisoner had been postponed.

In his memo to Board Chairman

Roger Overway, LeFevre charged that his own investigation of the incident was hampered by Hanekow. LeFevre wrote: "My attempts to obtain a reasonable explanation have been frustrated by Sheriff Hanekow who has informed me that it's none of my business, none of your business, and that no information will be provided!"

LEFEVERE INCLUDED a summary of his contact with Hanekow regarding the incident. In it he wrote that on Sept. 10 Hanekow informed him that the woman passenger in the patrol car was a prisoner that Page was transporting from Sault St. Marie.

Leverve wrote that he asked Hanekow to confirm the information on Sept. 17 and that the Sheriff refused.

Hanekow said in a Sept. 26 telephone interview that after he had talked to Page about the incident and apologized to the woman who complained he wanted to let the matter lay.

"I thought I did the proper thing by warning the officer involved and apologizing to the lady," he said.

He said he refused to confirm his earlier statement to LeFevre on Sept. 17 because he considered the case closed.

"I WAS NOT GOING to get any more involved a week later," he said. "As far as I was concerned it was settled and I felt he was on a witchhunt."

LeFevre ended his Sept. 17 memo with two conclusions he said were the result of the "Sheriff's lack of cooperation." They were:

- "Either he has no idea what happened, or that he is covering up the truth to protect the Undersheriff for reasons that would presumably be more embarrassing to him than his present position on the matters."
- "That the other versions of this incident differ substantially from the Sheriff's and I must conclude (from the extent of the discrepancies) that the Sheriff has specifically lied to me in an attempt to disguise the truth."

THE RIFT BETWEEN LeFevre and Hanekow follows other recent standoffs between the Sheriff's Department and the Board of Commissioners. They have been at odds about whether sheriff's deputies should be allowed to drive patrol cars to and from work, the appropriateness of the purchase by the department of new "smokey" style hats and the legitimacy of time off and overtime wages granted to deputies, said Board Chairman Roger Overway.

"Some of us on the Commission feel that there's things going on over there that indicate a lack of administration," he said.

Overway said the Sheriff has requested a substantially larger budget for next year than this year. He said some commissioners are skeptical of the request.

"We don't have any hard feelings," he said when asked if he thought

Ask Bill Schuette

Fringe benefits

Bill Schuette

Bill Schuette is the 10th District Representative to the U.S. House of Representatives.

Hospital Auxiliary plans fundraisers

Clinton Memorial Hospital Auxiliary members were presented with two fundraising projects to choose between at their first meeting of the new year, Sept. 18.

Project A involves the addition of a new, larger conference area to the hospital outside of the former laundry building.

Project B would renovate the obstetrics ward, including the addition of two birthing rooms and a birthing suite, a dining room for the hospital candlelight dinner program, and a new, larger waiting room.

There has been much debate about the proposed taxation of employer-provided fringe benefits. I know how valuable these benefits are to working Americans and I oppose the taxation of these benefits.

Those who propose this new taxation point out that fringe benefits are substitutes for cash compensation and should be at least partially taxed as income. They argue that allowing fringe benefits to remain untaxed is unfair to those who must purchase health insurance with previously taxed income and that the rapid growth of fringe benefit plans has seriously eroded the federal tax base.

My opposition is based upon several factors, among them a belief that such governmental intervention between employer and employee is unnecessary and burdensome. But there are other reasons as well.

The American people do not want a tax increase of any sort, and this is particularly true in mid-Michigan. The answer to federal deficits is not higher taxes, but lower spending, and Washington is receiving that message loud and clear.

The federal spending issue is important too, because many of the benefits provided by employers would not otherwise be paid for by individual employees and this leads to greater social costs further down the road. If we're not going to allow an employer to provide an attractive retirement or health plan, we may find ourselves paying the higher costs of federal retirement or health supplements in the future.

The tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee has held 30 days of hearings and taken testimony from 450 individuals. The opposition to the taxation of fringe benefits has been strongly advocated in the Congress. At this point, it is difficult to gauge what the final tax reform package will look like or when it will be reported to the House for a vote. Active consideration of a tax reform bill seems likely, but it is also competing with many other pressing issues.

"It's in the Bag"
by Bob Beck

Long ago, according to scholars, some prehistoric nomadic herdsman took the milk from a cow, poured it into a bag made from the skin of a goat, and slung it on the back of a camel, to take it somewhere or other.

But when he got there he didn't have milk any more. The rhythmic movement of the camel had "churned" it, and he had accidentally invented butter!

Be that as it may, butter has been around a long time. The ancient Greeks and Romans used it, not only as a food but also as an ointment for burns ... and as a hair dressing! They are also said to have preferred their butter rancid, which may be about all you could expect of people who would rub it in their hair.

In this country, butter wasn't made commercially until around 1850. Before that --- and for a long time after, for that matter --- most families churned their own butter. And many families, instead of just slapping their butter into blocks or rolls with a butter paddle, designed their own decorative molds. These hand-carved molds were treasured family possessions, and the decorative designs were regarded with as much pride as a family coat of arms.

Finally, a fashion note. I have it on excellent authority that the people in some South American countries color their butter brilliant orange and red. What an eye-opener at breakfast time!

Well, I know which side my bread is buttered on, so I'll close by inviting you to shop at Beck's. And I promise that we'll try to "butter you up" with some very Attractive prices!

St. Johns suffers insurance cost rise

St. Johns joined other state governmental units last week when its cost for liability insurance soared to almost double the cost for last year.

City Clerk Richard Coletta said two bids accepted by the City Commission on Friday set the city's premium for the year at a total of $96,000. The same insurance last year cost the city $52,000.

A policy purchased from the Meadowbrook Insurance Group, which handles an insurance pool for the Michigan Municipal League, provides general liability insurance. The policy, purchased for $71,000, includes coverage of city property and automobiles.

An additional policy purchased from the Albion Brubaker Agency provides additional liability protection at a cost of $25,000.

Governmental units across the state have been hit by skyrocketing insurance costs in the past year. The increase has been blamed on big money settlements in liability suits against governments and on lowered interest rates that decrease returns on investments by insurance companies.

In other city business the City Commission Sept. 23 denied a request by the Knights of Columbus that they be allowed to use the city industrial park property for recreational vehicles during the 1986 Mint Festival.

Coletta said the request was denied following concerns that that allowing the vehicles to camp on the property would leave the city vulnerable to liability suits, could have an adverse affect on sale of the land, would violate city ordinances and would set a precedent for similar requests in the future.

In other action the Commission agreed to post a letter of intent to vacate an alley behind W. Steel Street. A resident made the request that the city give up its right to the alley.

Coletta said there is a lengthy process involved before that can happen, including public notice in newspapers and a public hearing. The Commission agreed Monday to the first step of the process, which is to publish a letter-of-intent, he said.

Bath man sentenced to jail for conviction of arson

A Bath man has been sentenced to one year in the county jail with three years probation for arson of his Dutch Hills mobile home last January.

In addition to the jail sentence, Corey Raymond May, 41, will pay a $240 fine, $300 in court costs, and will reimburse the township $2,683 for the cost of putting out the fire which destroyed his mobile home at 16400 Upton Road, according to Clinton County Prosecutor Jon Newman.

May received his sentence Monday, Oct. 23 in circuit court.

DeWitt man is a hero

Wilford (Pete) Pelkey of DeWitt insists that when he rescued three people from an elevator during a fire at Michigan State University's Clinical Center last May, he was just doing his job.

But he was given an award last week by the university for his bravery during the lifesaving effort.

Pelkey, who lives on Airport Road, has worked for the university for 34 years in electrical maintenance, and says he often has ushered people from one of the university's 200 elevators when they have stalled.

"It was just a routine thing, it was something you did," he says.

In May, an elevator motor short-circuited in the basement of the Clinical Center and exploded, igniting a nearby 200-gallon hydrolic oil reservoir.

A man, a woman, and a child were trapped in an elevator between the first and second floors of the building. Pelkey says the normal procedure would be to let the elevator down into the basement and get the people out.

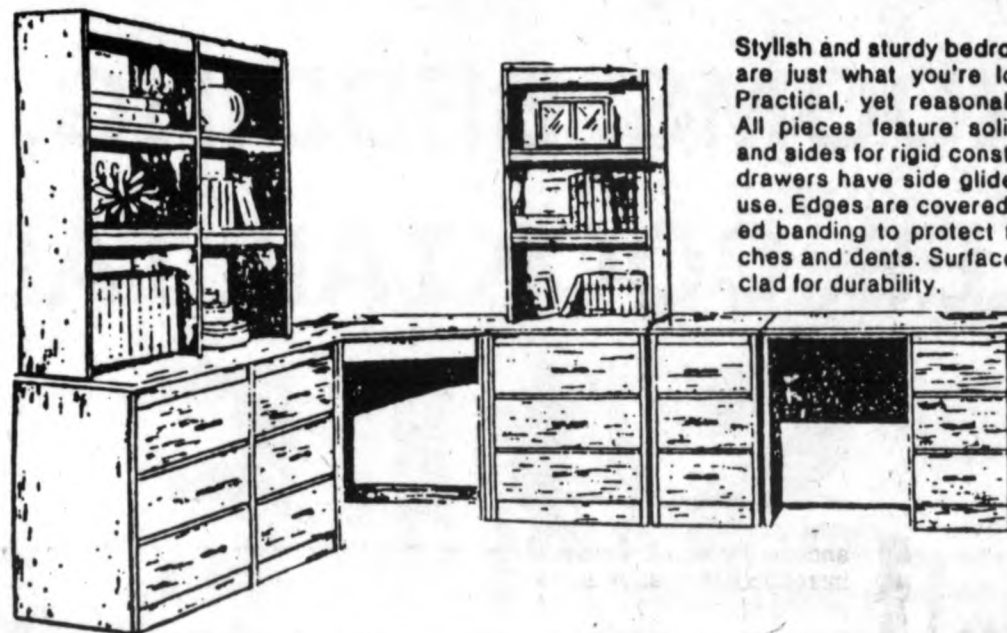

Pelkey's family joined him at the lifesaving award presentation Sept. 17. Richard Bernitt, MSU's public safety director, presented the awards to Pelkey and Rhodes.

Rep. Gary Randall confers with residents

There was a small turnout to discuss some big issues at 89th District Representative Gary Randall's town hall meeting in Bath Sept. 17.

One citizen complained about the inequity of funding schools with property tax revenue and asked if there was a way to fund the schools more fairly.

Randall agreed that a more equitable method should be sought, but emphasized that the property tax can't be removed unless it is replaced with another source of revenue for the schools.

He said the most equitable way to fund the schools would be to use sales tax, because people only pay tax on items they choose to buy.

But when an additional one percent sales tax was on the ballot for the public's approval, it didn't pass.

Randall says he was disappointed that the issue failed, but says it is out of the legislature's hands. It would require an amendment to the constitution to increase the sales tax.

David Freville of Chadwell Road approached Randall about a problem he took to the township board the night before: raw sewage allegedly being dumped in the area of Chadwell and I-69.

Chadwell is a private road, and located on its length between I-69 and Coleman Road is a restaurant, motel, and apartment complex owned by the same man.

Freville alleges that the owner dumps sewage into a nearby pond and the surrounding area. Daniel Sandahl from the Mid-Michigan Health Department was at the meeting and told Freville that the area has been inspected on numerous occasions, but that no contamination has been found either in the pond or the surrounding area.

Bath Supervisor Richard Brook says the soil in that area is absorbent, and it is possible that by the time the health department was alerted of a possible problem and came out to check, the sewage had been absorbed into the ground.

"They can't find proof," Brook says.

The supervisor says he discovered later that the township's sewer ordinance prohibits persons anywhere in the township, whether it is on private property or not, from dumping anything on the ground or into water without a permit.

He says he instructed the police department to be observant in the area of Freville's complaint to any violation of the ordinance.

Randall told Freville he would contact the state Department of Natural Resources to see what they could do to assist the health department in checking for possible illegal dumping.

There are many ways to make career decisions, some good and some bad, says a notice from the St. Johns High School.

There will be mini-workshops on career planning, two-year colleges, trade schools, four-year colleges and military service. The evening will conclude with an overview of how to obtain financial aid.

The Japan Adventure

An academic work-study program

Learn more about Lansing Community College's fifth academic/work-study program in Japan by attending a special informational meeting Sunday, Oct. 6, at 2 p.m. in Dart Auditorium.

LCC's Japan Adventure is the only program of its type in Japan for U.S. college students. We are looking for highly motivated participants with excellent academic records to study abroad and successfully meet rigorous academic and work-ethic standards.

Selected candidates will:

- gain a knowledge of the Japanese language, both written and spoken, and learn about the culture, geography, history, politics and economy of Japan, and
- attend classes approximately 12 hours per week and work about 30 hours a week aboard the modern sternwheeler, "Michigan," which offers daily cruises and is a major Japanese tourist attraction.

Student benefits include round-trip travel from Lansing to Japan, room and board and weekly compensation for work aboard the "Michigan." Students are responsible for tuition, fees and books, personal expenses and a refundable deposit.

Application deadline is Oct. 26. The program begins in January with a two-month orientation at LCC. Students depart for a nine-month stay in Japan in March. For more information, or for an application, call "Japan Adventure 1986" at 483-1741, or visit the LCC Business and Industry Institute at 534 N. Capitol, second floor.

Special informational meeting Oct. 6.

Child protection plan is pushed by state leaders

Attorney General Frank J. Kelley and State School Superintendent Phillip E. Runkel announced the start today of a comprehensive "Protect Our Children" program for parents and children to learn about preventing child abduction.

"The Protect Our Children program was developed during the last few months to heighten awareness in the schools and homes of our state about how to prevent child abduction," Kelley said. "While the numbers may vary on just how many children are abducted each year, this program is designed as a preventative measure encouraging parents and children to sit down and discuss the matter together."

"This is an educational program," Runkel said, "it is not intended to scare anyone. It is intended to remind parents and children that child abduction is a serious matter, or that it should be discussed. The more that both parents and children learn about prevention, the better off we all are."

The program developed by the Office of Attorney General, in cooperation with the Michigan Department of Education, will enable children in both public and non-public schools to obtain the brochure.

Optometrist to give lecture

Area residents will get an opportunity to discuss the innovative treatment of Dr. Edwin Novak at Clinton Memorial Hospital's Oct. 1 Diabetic Club meeting.

Dr. Novak, an optometrist who operates a "low-vision" clinic in Flint, is noted for his treatment of visually handicapped and legally blind persons. Dr. Novak defines a low-vision person as one who can't perform visually up to his needs with ordinary glasses or contact lenses.

Low-vision and blindness are complications of diabetes, and many of the 10 million diabetics in America afflicted with these complications have taken a special interest in Novak's treatment.

Still, according to Novak, only 1 to 2 percent of those people needing help are currently receiving it.

"And yet," says Novak, "statistics indicate that of the people who are now being classified as legally blind, 75 percent could be rehabilitated through some very sophisticated instruments."

It's his work with these head-borne instruments — telescopes, microscopes, and telemicroscopic systems — that has allowed people from all walks of life to lead a normal life with the restoration of their visual efficiency.

Bierstetel sets new CC marks

By JON RISING
Sports Editor

Junior Steve Bierstetel continued his assault on cross country records at Fowler High School last week — breaking two more.

Bierstetel paced the Eagles, who are ranked third in the state in Class D, to a first-place finish at the Carson City Invitational and won a race against ninth-ranked Lansing Christian High School.

He ran a 16:01 in the Carson City meet to break the school record in the three-mile, and strode to a 16:47.6 time to set a Fowler course record.

"That's a super time on our course because it's pretty tough," Eagle coach Kim Spalsbury said.

Other medalists for the Eagles at Carson City on Saturday were: Darrin Feldpausch 16:34 (sixth), Rick Klein 16:38 (eighth), and sophomore Troy Irrer 16:39 (ninth).

The Eagles were first among ten teams in that event.

"It was the first time that a Fowler cross country has won a first-place trophy anywhere," Spalsbury said.

The Lady Eagles finished ninth among 12 teams, the lone Fowler medalist being Stacie Rowell, who was 14th with her 20:19.0 time.

Asked if the third-ranked Eagles have a genuine shot at the state title in Class D, Spalsbury said, "We're going to be right there. This is the best team I've coached and the guys have got a lot of desire."

This week, Fowler travels to a meet with Carson City on Wednesday and to the Pottersville Invitational Saturday.

Fowler girls win 4th game

The Fowler Eagles brought their record to 4-2 in girls basketball last week by splitting a pair of decisions.

The Eagles dropped Carson City Crystal 48-43, but were defeated by Pottersville 45-31.

Cindy Schneider led the Eagles in the win by scoring 15 points, including a seven-for-10 performance at the free throw line.

Mary Theis added nine points, while Amy Witchen and Cindy Feldpausch had eight points apiece.

"It was a very close game all the way," Eagle coach Tom O'Rourke said. "We took the lead in the second quarter and the lead ranged from four to eight points."

Senior forward Nancy Sillman had the most rebounds, pulling down 11. Witchen, a junior guard, had five assists and five steals.

"She is very quick," O'Rourke said. "Not only her feet, but her hands." Of the Pottersville game, O'Rourke said, "I don't think either one of us played very well."

The Eagles scored on just three of their 25 shots in the first half.

Sillman led the Eagles in scoring with 11 points and Schneider chipped with seven.

REDWING LEADER — Senior Kerry Humphrey leads the St. Johns girls tennis team with a 7-2 record at the first singles position. Humphrey and the Redwings will try to win their seventh straight MMB title on Saturday.

Golfers try to repeat as MMB champions

By JON RISING

Having lost to Alma last week, the St. Johns golf team has an uphill battle ahead of it this week if it is to repeat as champion of the Mid-Michigan B Conference.

Alma edged the Redwings 170-172, but the Redwings soundly defeated Ionia 149-183.

The Redwings will play on four days this week, culminating with the conference tournament Saturday at Michigan State University's Forest Akers Golf Course.

Today the Redwings play at Chesaning, Wednesday they play against Owosso and Ovid-Elsie, and Thursday they travel to the Royal Scot course to play Lansing Sexton and powerful Pewamo-Westphalia.

'Alma was ripe for the picking. We have nobody to blame but ourselves' — Paul Sternburgh.

"Alma was ripe for the picking," Redwing coach Paul Sternburgh said. "We have nobody to blame but ourselves."

"We played really terribly last Tuesday. It was cold and windy. There was just one 38 and everybody else shot over 40."

Jim Teigert was the low scorer for St. Johns with his 41. Usual leader, sophomore Jeff Dean managed a 43.

Dean will have to score much better than that to repeat as the MMB champion and lead the Redwings to the team title next Saturday at Forest Akers. "He's ready for it," Sternburgh said. "He told me the other day he's going to do everything possible to win next Saturday."

READY FOR SATURDAY — Redwing golf coach Paul Sternburgh says he and his charges are ready for the MMB golf tournament Saturday at Forest Akers. The Redwings won the MMB last year, with Jeff Dean being the low scorer.

freshman. This year the three leaders from Alma will probably provided his stiffest challenge.

"It will be a real test of our two teams on a neutral course," Sternburgh said. "An average golfer can't get away with mistakes on Forest Akers."

Sternburgh feels that his team's heavy schedule is to its advantage.

"We had a weak early schedule and the guys just got bored," he said. "They're ready to play some golf."

Pioszak runs well

Paul Pioszak continued to establish himself as Western Michigan University's second-leading runner with a pair of recent performances.

Saturday, the St. Johns native, helped the Broncos to a seventh-place finish among 12 teams at the Illinois Invitational.

He was the second Bronco to finish the 10,000-meter race. He finished 33rd overall with his time of 32:34.0. On Sept. 21, he finished 11th in the five-mile Michigan Intecollegiate Invitational at East Lansing. His time was 25:23.

Michigan State won the meet with 41 points, while WMU was fifth with 86.

Redwings are undefeated

By JON RISING
Sports Editor

The Mid-Michigan B Conference tennis meet will be held in St. Johns this Saturday.

That is fitting, because when you talk about MMB tennis, you're talking about St. Johns.

The Redwings, who are undefeated this season at 9-0, will be after their seventh consecutive MMB title.

Coach Melanie Humphrey characteristically understates her team's chances of winning the title when she says, "Well, it depends on what kind of day it is, you never know. But, since we've beaten all the teams so far, I guess our chances are pretty good."

The truth is, the Redwings are going to clean up. Three of their singles players are undefeated as well their number one doubles team.

Becky Brown is 9-0 at second singles, as is Odette Garapetian at third singles, and Lisa Ebert at fourth singles.

The first doubles team of Janice Rademacher and Sarah Humphrey also has a perfect 9-0 mark.

Second doubles duo Tracey Hundy and Laura Tetens are 7-2, and a trio of players have combined at third doubles for an 8-1 record. The players are: Jennifer Pearsal, Karen Tetens, and Becky Cornwall.

Despite the fact that she is not among the undefeated, the team leader is senior Kerry Humphrey. Humphrey is 7-2 at first singles.

But it must be noted, first singles is the "hot spot" in high school tennis. Other positions may be juggled and shuffled, but first singles is clearly the showcase for a team's finest player.

It doesn't take much observation to realize that Humphrey is an outstanding high school tennis player.

The volleys are hard and close to the net, the expression on the face is intent, and the first services are disgustingly consistent in their accuracy.

And well they should be, Humphrey has been playing tennis since she was four years old.

She not only began her early years with tennis, it is also her career ambition.

"When I get through with college, I'd like to teach it (tennis) at someplace like a racquet club. I'd really like that," Kerry said.

Coach and mother Melanie is pleased with that. "There's always a job open for a good tennis instructor," she said.

However, mother is hoping that daughter will make an equally favorable choice in where to attend college.

Currently, Kerry is undecided between Eastern Michigan University and her parents' alma mater, Central Michigan University.

Current business at hand has Kerry headed toward the singles championship in the MMB, then on to the regionals Oct. 11 and 12.

Kerry departed from her tennis concentration to play basketball in junior high.

"We didn't care what she did (in sports)," Melanie said. "But it discouraged her when they told her she'd never be tall enough to play."

The was good enough for Kerry, who says she enjoys tennis because, "it's a game you can play forever."

She regards volleys as the strong point in her game. As far as weaknesses, Kerry confesses her main one to be, "getting up to a certain point in a match, then letting off a little bit."

Her two losses this season have come at the hands of opponents from Lansing Eastern and Haslet.

But what about this matter of being a team leader? Is there truly a team concept in a sport like tennis?

"Our tennis team has a lot of team spirit," Kerry said. "We'll go play the schools in Lansing and their players will play then leave when their match is done. We stick around and support each other."

Coach does a lot to promote the team attitude, too.

"Before winning or losing, we emphasize the girls working as a family," Melanie said. "They stay here and help each other."

"They come out here and practice without being told to — that's a good athlete."

"They make signs for each other, signs no one else understands, like inside jokes among themselves."

"Mrs. Cornwall and I got together and stuffed about 25 tennis balls in each of their lockers the other day. Just little things to keep involved with each other."

The work, the attitude, and the fun have paid off — just watch on Saturday.

City Recreation

Jon Rising

After hearing several complaints that the City Recreation Department in St. Johns was failing to respond to the needs of the community, I decided to get the record straight for myself and our readers.

I arranged an interview with Diane Edwards, the city tax assessor who oversees the city rec program. I found Diane cooperative and prepared with satisfactory answers for the questions that sometimes beset city rec.

Early in our talk, Diane stated the clear, well-balanced view that the city takes concerning recreation.

"Our objective is to provide activities that are fun, exercise, and enjoyable — for anyone," she said. "We try to shun the high competitive things and go for what is real recreation for most of the public."

Well, you really can't find fault in that can you?

If we understand that this is the objective that the St. Johns' city rec program is hinged on, we can better understand some of the decisions that are made.

For instance, the charge has been made that the city rec department has neglected the city's softball diamonds in favor of improving the less-used tennis courts.

Firstly, Edwards is honest in saying of the diamonds, "there is always room for improvement."

She goes on to say that each year the city recreation department attempts to do more upgrading of the playing fields.

She, like the people who play on the fields, would like to make them perfect in one fell swoop, but there are financial realities to be considered.

Softball players must consider that the total expense of their program is about $9,000 annually. This year the exact amount was $9,472.06 (broken down this way — umpires $3,360, director $2,160, trophies $1,145.22, balls $807.84, assistant director $804, scorekeepers $525, crusher dust $400, equipment $171, and field chalk $99.)

However, only 56 percent of that was recovered from those in the program. Between team fees and non-resident fees only $5,386 was brought in.

Those expense figures do not include advertising, mailing expenses, lights, and other administrative costs.

One of the ways to cut costs and yet improve the diamonds has been suggested by city rec's detractors. That is, use volunteer help as the manpower, as has been done in the past.

Edwards is willing to work with such volunteers who present themselves and their ideas.

In fact, it is important to note here that Edwards' policy is definitely "open door."

She says that in the six years she has held the position, city rec has never turned down a proposal brought forward from the community.

"I'm open for some ideas," she said, "I'm always willing to listen. They can come in here anytime with

Baird is MHSCCA head

DeWitt softball Coach Larry Baird has been elected as president of the Michigan High School Softball Coaches' Association.

Baird, who received the honor last June, will preside over the more than 400 coaches that belong to the association.

He feels his involvement in the association as a region representative for suggestions, but with softball, that is why we have the director so that he can handle the complaints and if he can't, he can bring them to me.

"If someone comes to us with an idea, we'll listen and if it sounds good we'll put some money into it. Now, we might not put as much as they want into it, but we'll try one season and see what it happens. You'd hate to put a lot of money into something and then have nobody be interested the next year."

This year, Edwards is considering the proposal by a city resident to have a dart league.

So volunteers are welcome by the city to help improve any program and need only make Edwards aware of their willingness.

Detractors of the department must remember, however, the basic thrust of city rec — a balanced recreation program for everyone, not just the avid sports buff.

Edwards brings up this point, when it is mentioned that some softball players and teams have left St. Johns for greener, plusher pastures in Bath and Lansing.

"We're not trying to compete with anything like that," Edwards says of the high-powered programs offered in those places.

As far as the purported over-emphasis given tennis, Edwards notes that the tennis courts are resurfaced at about "four or five thousand dollars," but that only occurs "every six or seven years."

Annually, she says, "tennis only costs us a few trophies."

This winter city rec will be offering volleyball, basketball, ice skating, a chess league, a sledging hill, and the dart league if the supporters can present a workable plan.

Obviously, Edwards is content that the program she oversees is meeting the known needs within the community.

"I did some checking around in cities our size, and very few have any recreation program," she said.

MORE THAN CASUAL INTEREST — Fowler coach Steve Spicer and some of his Eagles look on as Laingsburg gives them their toughest challenge this season. The Eagles were equal to it though, defeating the Wolfpack 20-9 before a large Laingsburg crowd. The Eagles are ranked among the state's top ten Class D football teams.

Fowler drops Laingsburg

By JON RISING
Sports Editor

Laingsburg did what was becoming unthinkable. No, the Wolfpack didn't defeat the Fowler Eagles, it merely scored on them.

Before a large crowd in Laingsburg last Friday night, the Wolfpack ended the Eagles' string of shutout quarters at 15 when it put over a touchdown in the fourth quarter.

It wasn't nearly enough to stop the Eagles from keeping their winning streak alive, though, as they went on to defeat the Wolfpack 20-9.

Fowler is 4-0 overall and 2-0 in Central Michigan Athletic Conference play.

Eagle coach Steve Spicer that the pressure of shutout quarters is "good to get off your back. It's too bad that Rick (Baughman, the Wolfpack coach) said that in the paper that nobody would score against us the rest of the year.

"I don't think that's true. There are some good teams in the conference."

Before the game, Spicer says he told his players that a shutout "would be nice, be I didn't think it was going to happen."

That the game was well-attended can be proven in dollars and cents. "The gate was over $3,000," Spicer said.

Spicer once more extolled the balance of his state-ranked team. "It was a tremendous team-game all the way around. You've got a back like Rex Thelen, who doesn't get a lot of yardage but he does a lot with his blocking," he said.

Defensively, Kevin Schmitt was a standout with his 14 tackles.

The Eagles may improve this week in their ranking in the Class D coaches' poll, but that is something that Spicer says he never looks at.

"We don't worry about that until the ninth game of the season," he said.

The Eagles will host Pottersville this Friday night on Homecoming Night.

THE DEAN OF FOWLER — Eagle quarterback Dean Koenigsnecht attempts to elude a Laingsburg defender last Friday night in a tough Central Michigan Athletic Conference football game. The Eagles won the struggle and now sport a 4-0 overall record and are 2-0 in CMAC play.

Redwings beat Marauders

By JON RISING
Sports Editor

They did not display all the facets of their option offense Friday night. The St. Johns Redwings simply used what was necessary to defeat Ovid-Elsie.

The Redwings evened their Mid-Michigan B Conference and overall records with the 27-7 win over Ovid-Elsie in St. Johns.

The Redwings have 1-1 and 2-2 marks, while the Marauders fell to 0-2 and 1-3.

Commenting on the fact that there were only 12 passes in the game, Redwing coach Bart Kjolhede said, "They don't like to and we didn't need to."

Marauder coach Dennis Baratono said, "They've just got too much offense to throw at you. We seen the tapes (of Redwing games) and they ran a lot of different things. They didn't do all that against us, but they show you a lot."

It didn't help Ovid-Elsie that the Redwings are improving their execution of the option.

"We got some big yards off the option," Kjolhede said. "Jim (Caudy, the quarterback) had a lot better pitches than he's had all year."

"They ran it much better," Baratono said. "They seemingly pitched the ball better. He (Caudy) would have a couple guys on him and he'd throw the ball way up in the air and a guy would jump up and get it. A couple of times it just blew me away."

Baratono pointed out the main Redwing weapons — the counter and the pitch.

"We're still running after the first fake," he said. "I think it's just that some of our guys are having to play both ways and they are getting mentally tired."

In the second half, which both coaches agree the Redwings dominated, Baratono said his defense had "a complete breakdown — technique-wise and assignment-wise."

The Marauders were successful at stopping fullback Bill Keenoy, but Paul Travis was another matter.

Travis rushed for 169 yards in 13 carries, while Keenoy managed just 17 yards in nine carries.

"I told Billy that he made his contribution on the fakes," Kjolhede said.

The Ovid-Elsie offense had a couple of players with more than 60 yards. Senior Brett Reuss carried 17 times, while speedy Neil Putnam carried 14 times.

After playing some very close games, Kjolhede used the breather to get playing time for all his players.

"Everybody played for us. We had 26 players with tackles or assists out of 34 people who played. We had eight different people carry the ball," he said.

This week, the Redwings travel to Chesaning for a game with the Indians.

"I'm a never-say-die kind of person. I think if you're in sports you have to be," Kjolhede said. "I envision us beating Chesaning and Chesaning beating Ionia, and three of us ending up in a three-way tie for the league title. It would be pretty tough for us to win the title outright at this point."

Kjolhede assessed the Indian attack this way: "The play a wing-T or a full-house T and they aren't passing much. But you've got to watch them along the line of scrimmage, because they will show you a lot of traps, counters, and power. Our front seven are going to have to be ready."

Meanwhile, the Marauders head for another tough contest when they play at Ionia.

PREPARING FOR THE TRIBE — That's what Bart Kjolhede and his St. Johns Redwings are doing these days. The Redwings travel to Chesaning Friday night where they will attempt to move above the .500 mark for the first time this season. Last week they defeated Ovid-Elsie 27-7.

Dove controversy

Dick Bradley

As the subtleties of autumn grow more obvious and the opening of hunting seasons began to occur, I thought I had escaped the dove controversy. I thought I had avoided the argument that seems to have embroiled not just the hunting community and its opponents, but housewives, school children, and virtually every element of our society.

"What do you think?" they asked from every side.

OK, with reluctance, here goes. This is that I think: First, let's consider who initiated the idea of a dove season in Michigan and why they did it. It wasn't a bloodthirsty mob of gun-happy criminals as an emotional element of our society would have us believe. And it wasn't the result of a heartless and uninformed "snap" decision.

Responding to the need to provide a growing population with some additional hunting days in the field, the Department of Natural Resources concluded that dove hunting could and perhaps should be allowed in our state.

Is there another group that knows more about wild creatures, their habitat and their numbers? The DNR concluded that since some 32 other states have a dove season and are responding to the wishes of sportsmen in those states that we might also become involved. After all, they also discovered, some 70 percent of all Michigan doves were and are currently dying every year of "natural causes." Why not harvest them?

Second, the opponents of dove hunting seem to be an uninformed, if very vocal group, who are using their objection more against hunting in general than against doves in particular. Pointing to the "cuteness" of the dove or to the fact that it is a peace symbol, they cry that this bird should be an exception. What about the "cuteness" of rabbits and deer that we allow to be killed by the hundreds of thousands by our house pets and by poaching? If there was a consistency of concern on their part their arguments would be strengthened.

Thirdly, it is the hunters and the DNR who must be credited with the presence of doves in large numbers in the first place. Just as is true with all fish, game, and most of our existing habitat, it is the license fees of sportsmen and the management of the DNR that makes most of our fishing, hunting, and even "viewing" of wild things possible. Without them the vast majority of anti-dove hunters and anti-hunters in general, would allow a speedy end to all they would have us believe that they defend.

One last thing, dove hunting desenters! Rise up and protest against water pollution, poaching, roadside chemical spraying, and acid rain and I'll know you care. Put up money to avoid the extinction of endangered species and for the protection of environment and I'll champion your cause. But let the DNR administer the hunting and fishing in our state and give them your support as they deserve.

There, I've said it and I'm glad. You know how I feel and you may be sorry you asked. I probably won't broach the subject again.

Pirates fall to 2-2 with loss to P-W

Pewamo-Westphalia came out on top in the battle of the Pirates last Friday night in Fulton.

The Pewamo-Westphalia Pirates blanked the Fulton Pirates 20-0 to spoil Fulton's homecoming.

"Defensively we played very good," Fulton coach Leo Rosencrants said. "We just couldn't move the ball against them. Our kids played real well as far as hitting and intensity and things like that go."

Pewamo-Westphalia kept Fulton on defense much of the night and Dave Stephens and Todd Waldon gave Rosencrants outstanding efforts there.

Stephens, a senior linebacker, led the Fulton defense with 17 tackles, two pass interceptions, and a fumble recovery.

Waldon was in on 12 tackles for Fulton.

This Friday, Fulton (2-2, 1-1) travels to Laingsburg to play the Wolfpack.

Applications taken for sports exchange

Sports for Understanding (SFU), a non-profit international sports exchange program, is now accepting applications for its 1986 teams which will be traveling to Europe, Australia, Latin America, and Asia.

SFU is a program of Youth for Understanding, one of the largest non-profit international educational organizations, which has exchanged over 100,000 students during its 34 years of operation.

This past summer, some 300 high school students, ages 14-19, traveled abroad in teams of 12-18 players accompanied by a volunteer coach. Each team embarked on a four-week program between June 15-August 30, and all teams were officially sanctioned to travel by the respective sports governing body and high school athletic association.

"We are planning a further expansion of the program next summer," SFU executive director Dick Willard said. "We will offer 40 teams covering 17 different sports ranging from soccer to gymnastics, judo to water polo."

"In addition, we are introducing a 1985 winter season of ice hockey to Finland, and Alpine ski touring to Austria; and a recreational pursuit program involving scuba in the Caribbean, bicycle touring to England and France, trekking in Austria, and 'Tall Ship' sailing off the coast of Holland."

The SFU program is designed for the average of better athlete. Participants must have a 2.0 or better GPA. Program fees range from $1150 to $1975, depending upon destination.

Interested coaches and players should write to SFU, Department 101, 3501 Newark Street, N. W., Washington, D.C. 20016.

Bath harriers state ranked

The Bath girls' cross country team is ranked as the top Class C team in the state, and the boys are the number six team. Coach Mel Comeau says the season is progressing pretty much as he expected, although the boys, especially, have had a lot of illness and injuries. In addition, he says, there's been "a few good surprises."

Both the boys and the girls came out on top against a dozen other teams in the DeWitt Invitational Saturday, Sept. 21, but the boys had to work harder. Both teams also won in a league meet at Bath Tuesday, Sept. 24.

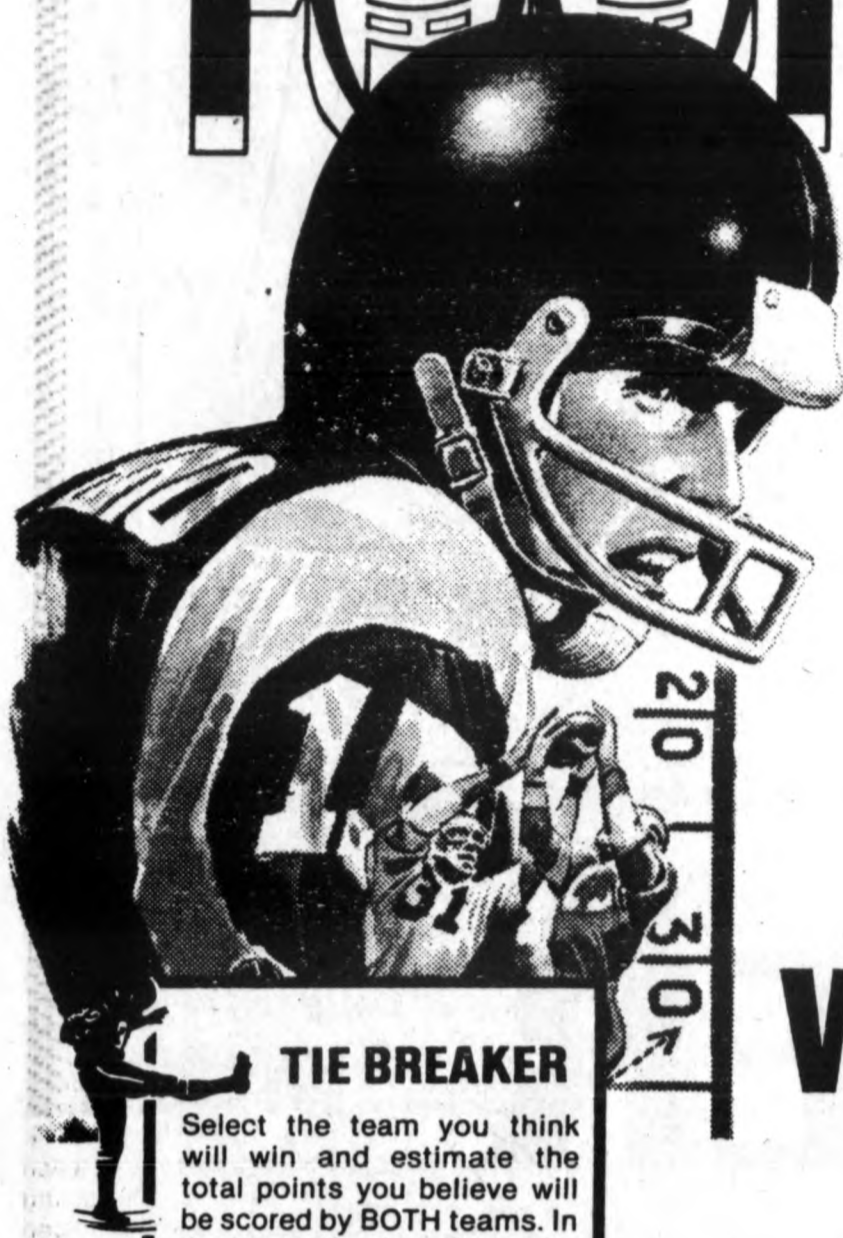

GIRLS — In the invitational, Bath's top runner was Debbie Nichols, who ran her personal best of 19:42 to place second in the race. Chris Abendroth came in fourth, Tammy McDonald placed 14th, Amy Belyea came in 16th, and Nikki Vondrosek grabbed 20th place. The girls had 56 points, and second-place Portland had 74. DeWitt came in third.

In the league meet, although both Stockbridge and Fowlerville competed, Stockbridge did not have a complete girls team to the Bees just competed against Fowlerville. Nichols was the race winner, Abendroth came in second, Alicia Wittchell, running again after an illness, grabbed third place, McDonald took fourth place, Belyea was sixth, Vondrosek came in seventh, and Annie Risch was ninth.

BOYS — At DeWitt, the boys with 62 points edged Williamston with 65 and Fowlerville with 67. Ron Fuller placed fourth, Luke Barrone was fifth, Brad Pullman was 11th, Burke Mays placed 15th, and Todd Bovee grabbed 27th place.

At Bath, Fuller was the race winner, Barrone came in second, Mays placed fifth, Pullman grabbed seventh, Bovee was eighth, and Dave Ramseyer came in ninth place.

Tractor safety

Marilyn Loudenslager

Installing a roll-over protective structure (ROPS) is a onetime accident insurance premium that is worth the investment.

A 20 to 30 horsepower tractor can be equipped with ROPS for as little as $300, protecting drivers from disabling injuries or death. Considering the cost of hospital expenses, time lost and losses from untended crops — safety saves money.

Most tractors built less than 12 years ago can be fitted with roll-over protection by local equipment dealers. In fact, tractors built after 1976 are required to be equipped with roll-over protection if used by employees.

Though this law does not apply to family members, the benefits of installing a ROPS for your family's safety remain greater than the cost. Since ROPS have become mandatory on tractors used by employees, some states have seen a 50 percent decrease in fatalities due to tractor upsets over a 10 year period.

Tractor cabs are a more expensive form of roll-over protection than a ROPS frame, but can provide protection from other potential health hazards, such as dust and chemical inhalation, as well as improved operator comforts, such as heating, air conditioning and a sound system. When purchasing a tractor cab, check for a decal stating the cab meets the safety standards set by the American Society of Agricultural Engineers.

Manufacturers are getting involved with tractor safety this year by providing some tractors with ROPS as standard equipment and many dealers are informing farmers that older tractors can be fitted with ROPS.

When operators use ROPS and the safety belt, a tractor upset seldom results in death. Isn't this one-time investment and protection worthwhile insurance

Interested in joining, there are a wide variety of project areas to choose from. Animals, clowning, crafts, sewing, cooking, leadership, communications, woodworking, models and almost 75 more possibilities are available for members to choose from.

For more information about the local and county 4-H Youth Program, contact the Cooperative Extension Service at 224-3288 or stop in at 306 Elm Street, St. Johns. 4-H can make a world of difference in your life. Theresa Silm is the Clinton County Cooperative Extension Service 4-H Youth Agent.

"4-H Makes a World of Difference" is the national 4-H theme for this year and it is certainly a true statement. 4-H can make a big difference in the lives of young people and indeed in the community and in the country.

The 4-H pledge says that members promise to use their skills and their energy for their "club, community, country and world" and local 4-H programs provide the means for doing that.

4-H membes can learn new skills, meet new friends and at the same time get involved in their community, learning about government or doing a community service project.

4-H members were involved last year in a county roadside clean up project, studied local, state and national government, visited nursing homes, did improvement projects at their township halls and many other things.

Through their involvement in the 4-H program young people have an opportunity to learn about interests and concerns of others in their neighborhood, to serve as a teen leaders and assist younger members, to develop strong leadership skills, to improve their communication skills, to practice accepting responsibility.

The Clinton County 4-H Youth Program is open to all young people between the ages of nine and nineteen regardless of race, sex, physical handicap, religion or national origin. For those youth who are

Future pesticides will be microbes

Pesticides of the future will be manufactured by microbes, according to a Michigan State University horticulturist.

Alan Putman talked about the impact of allelochemical — natural pesticides — Sept. 11 during the annual meeting of the American Chemical Society in Chicago.

Putman, an MSU Agricultural Experiment Station researcher, delivered the 1985 Sterling B. Hendricks Lecture, one of three lectures sponsored by USDA Agricultural Research Service in areas of agriculture, nutrition and environmental research.

Allelochemicals, toxic substances produced by certain plants and micro-organisms, cause billions of dollars in crop losses each year. Scientists like Putman would like to turn these losses into gains by exploiting natural chemicals to control weeds in field crops, manage aquatic plants and encourage reforestation.

Little is known about how these chemicals are produced and released.

"By gaining an understanding of these natural mechanisms, we could put them to work to benefit agriculture," Putman said. "This may allow us to reduce some costly fuel and chemical inputs."

Research by Putman and other scientists has shown that allelochemicals work much like synthetic herbicides in controlling weeds. Natural herbicides are produced by some 70 weed species and certain crop plants, such as alfalfa, barley, oats, rye and wheat.

Putman is looking for ways to use residues of allelopathic crops, planted in rotation with other crops, to control weeds. In field experiments, he has controlled nearly 20 percent of important weeds for several months by using allelopathic residues.

Ovid-Elsie High broadcasts live!

By RICH WERTZ
Editor

So there you are cruising down the highway and you tune your radio to 91.3 on your FM dial and you're taking in a little easy listening music or a newscast and you think to yourself: "This is a pretty good radio station and I wonder where it comes from."

The station is WOES and it comes from Ovid-Elsie High School. Those deejays and newscasters are students. Most of what you're listening to was, in fact, produced by students. While WOES is a training facility, it is no bush league operation with a broadcast area of only, say, a couple hundred feet. The station sends out a 535 watt signal that can be picked up as far east as Owosso and Flint.

'We're the highest powered high school radio station in the state.'

"At the moment we're the highest powered high school radio station in the state at 535 watts," says George Bishop, the school librarian and the general manager of the radio station. "So it is kind of a rare commodity."

Bishop and operations manager Jon Heinlen, along with one part-time engineer and assorted teachers and administrators who do special shows and sport-casts, are the non-student component of the station.

THE DAY-TO-DAY routine of the station — spinning the discs, writing news copy and public service announcements, producing recordings for later broadcast — is handled by the students.

In order to work at the radio station students first have to complete an introduction to broadcasting class. The class, developed and taught by Bishop, covers the numerous skills and the knowledge needed to work in broadcasting.

"It is not an easy course," Bishop says. "It's something you really have to work at."

After successfully completing the course, the students begin working at the station under the direction of Heinlen. Each student works at least one air shift each week. Heinlen says, as well as writing one news story, producing one newscast and producing one tape recording of sports news, station promos or public service announcements.

Everything the students do on the air is recorded and critiqued later. The work requires a lot of commitment, Heinlen says, and includes working extra hours when school is out for the day but the station still on the air.

THE IMMACULATE and stylish WOES office does not look like a typical room in a high school. With its carpeted walls, its posters of recording artists, its two soundbooths, its record library and hanging plants, it looks like...well, a radio station.

Sophomore Brad Walker can be seen talking into a microphone in the "on-the-air" soundbooth and his voice, in the fluid cadences of a professional broadcaster, can be heard coming quietly over the office speakers.

One student is sitting at a typewriter working on copy while another waits patiently for his turn on the air.

This is sophomore Chris Good's first year at the station. A guitar player, it is his love of music — "I basically like anything that involves music," he says — that attracts him to radio work.

And, he says, it is good experience in other ways. "WHEN YOU DON'T know someone — it gives you experience in public speaking. It makes it easier to communicate."

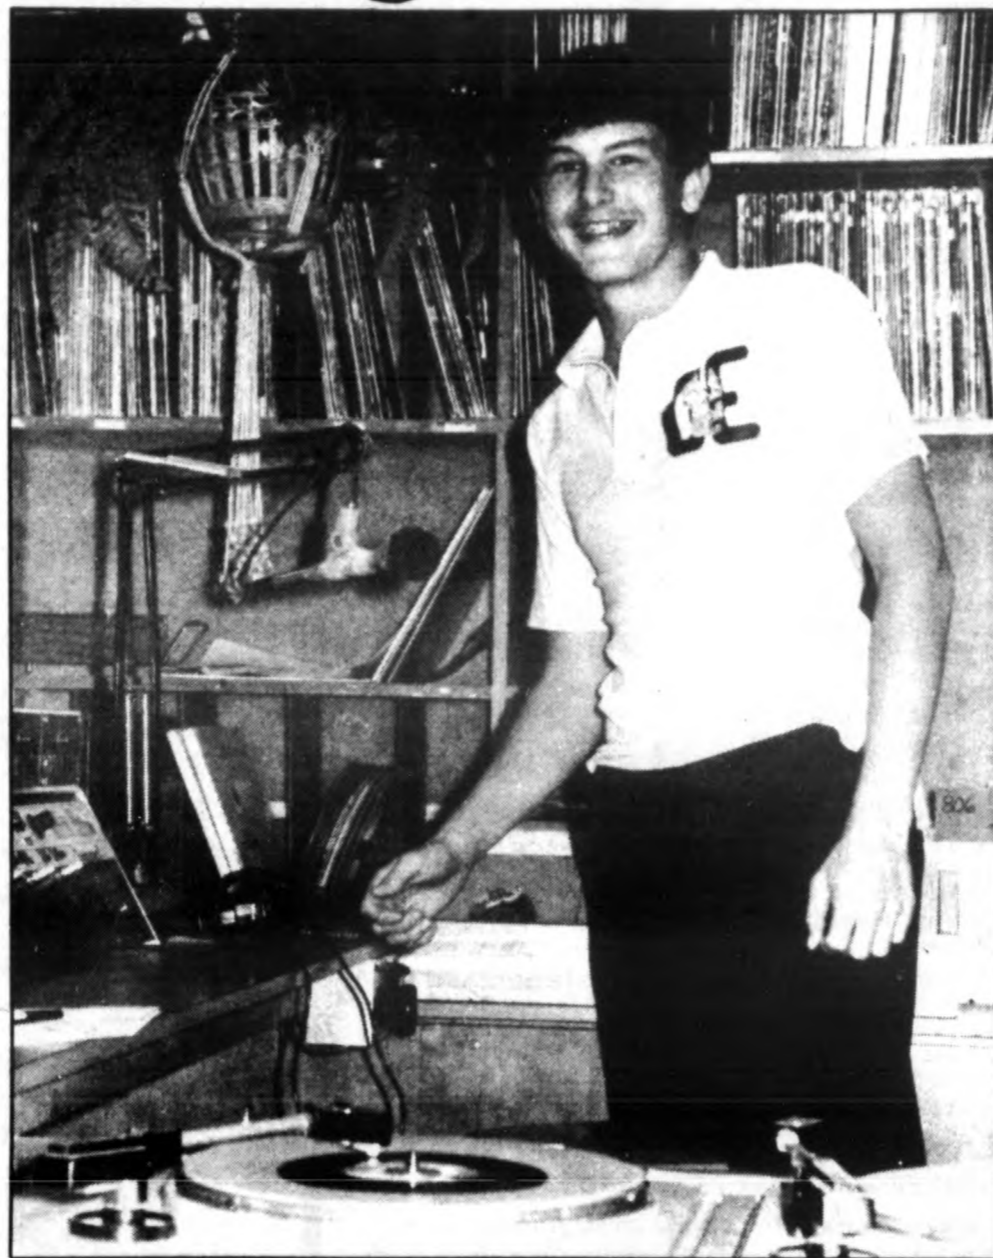

Good is not sure if he will pursue a career in radio — "definitely something in music" — but in the meantime his favorite part of working at the station is working as a disc jockey.

"A combination of things," says Sophomore Jim Garlock, when asked why he works at the station. Garlock says he would like to make a career in radio. "I like music. I enjoy talking in front of people."

For senior Tony Coble radio is secondary to his career goal of working in computer electronics.

"I'll probably use radio as a back-up," he says.

Andrew Porubsky, a 1984 Ovid-Elsie graduate, listens to his former radio teachers and classmates talk about the station. After his graduation Porubsky worked several odd jobs before landing one running a transmitter at WLMZ in St. Johns. His experience at WOES alone qualified him for the job. Now he comes back every now and then just to visit.

THE EASY listening music that is at the forefront of the station's format is geared more toward the parents of the students who work at the station than toward the students themselves. The students are in school for most of the station's 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. broadcast day.

However, there is a two-hour hard rock show each day at 3 p.m. — beginning right at the time students are leaving school for the day.

WOES broadcasts live coverage of all Ovid-Elsie varsity boys' football and basketball games, as well as girls' basketball conference games. The sport-casts are done mostly by teachers and administrators because, Bishop says, most of the students who are interested in the sports are playing in the games.

there is teacher Bob Laney's "Reminiscing '85," broadcast until midnight following most Friday night football games. The show features music from the 1950s and '60s.

THE STATION airs one newscast each day, which includes both local and state and national news. The students gather the local news from local sources. The state and national news they compile from daily newspapers.

WOES went on the air for the first time on April 4, 1978. At that time it was putting out a 10 watt signal. In November of 1981, the station boosted its output to the current 535 watts.

Originally subsidized by the Board of Education, the station has been self-supporting since 1982. All funds are raised by the WOES staff from donations and other activities. The station is non-commercial, meaning that it can not sell air time for commercials. However, businesses that make donations can be mentioned by name on the air.

'It is not an easy course. You really have to work at it.'

At the forefront of WOES fundraising activities is its annual radio auction. Area retailers donate merchandise to the station and listeners bid in the merchandise by telephone. Last year, Bishop said, over $40,000 in merchandise as donated to the station and netted the station about $16,000.

The money is needed. The cost of telephone lines for remote sportcasts has increased ten-fold since the station went on the air.

Even so Ovid-Elsie is in an enviable situation compared to other area high schools. There is no radio band space left in the Lansing area market. That means Ovid-Elsie is likely to remain for quite some time the only area high school where you will see the sign "On the air."

Police chiefs warn of pressure tactics

Clinton County Sheriff Terry Hanekow and St. Johns Police Chief Lyle French have released the following notice:

Be advised that solicitations for money are again being made by telephone from the Michigan Police Association and the Deputy Sheriff's Association of Michigan.

These organizations are soliciting funds for projects that have no benefit to the citizens of Clinton County.

They are using high pressure tactics, are very offensive and rude if they feel they can't get you to contribute, and they are misrepresenting themselves to be other than they are.

They do not represent the Clinton County Sheriff, the Clinton County Deputy Sheriff's Association, the Clinton County Sheriff's Posse, nor the St. Johns Police Department.

Currently the solicitations being done in Clinton County for the Sheriff's Department is being done by Clark Carr and Don Hinkley for the "Drugs of Abuse" education program. Additionally, solicitations are being done by the Country Western Show sponsored by the Clinton County Deputy Sheriff's Association.

No high pressure tactics are being used for these two solicitations.

Please call the Clinton County Sheriff's Department or the St. Johns Police Department if you are solicited or pressured by either the Michigan Police Association or the Deputy Sheriff's Association of Michigan. We urge you not to donate or encourage these organizations in any way.

Such written comments should be received at the address of the undersigned on or before October 23, 1985.
