Appliance disposal

Board of Commissioners approve measure

By Kimberly Marshall,
staff writer

The Clinton County Board of Commissioners approved a temporary measure to help ease the problem of appliance disposal at their meeting Feb. 25.

After discussing several alternatives, the board decided on the resident pass system. Any city resident having an appliance to dispose of, must now get a pass at the Municipal Building. They then take, or have someone else take, the appliance to the local transfer station. The transfer station is then paid with the coupon and the city will be billed. The billing price will be negotiated between the city and the transfer station.

This system will allow the city to continue an appliance disposal service for all city (garbage-fee paying) residents. Other advantages include the elimination of the mess at the DPW, no capitol expenditures, will not require the use of city equipment or labor, and it will be open longer. In addition, it will be easier to make sure the city isn't spending city residents' garbage fee dollars to dispose of non-city residents' appliances.

"Right now 70 appliances are being dropped off per month, with 60 percent coming from city residents," said

Richard L. Coletta, city clerk.

The disadvantages of the new system will be requiring residents to make an extra trip to the Municipal Building and the potential for abuse of the system by out-of-towners using friends in the city to dispose of their appliances.

In other business, the annual fire department report was presented by Chief Clare Maier. The biggest change from 1973 was in the number of car and truck fires, which rose to 24 incidents in 1974.

Total city fire runs numbered 62, up 17 from 1973. Total country fire runs numbered 44, down four from 1973.

According to Chief Maier, total losses are fairly consistent from year to year, excluding the one or two major fires that occur every year.

With the recent promotion of Todd Dietrich from auxiliary to regular fireman, there are now 20 certified firemen on the force.

There will be an increase in rates for rural fire and Jaws-of-Life contracts, when the present contracts expire July 1.

Individual townships will be contacted to see if there are alternative ways to distribute cost.

The Board approved of an acquisition request for a new auger for $1,800. It will work in tandem with the auger the city presently owns to put in water service lines underneath Clinton Street.

Diane Edwards, zoning administrator, reported that building permits for 1984 were down for both residential and commercial/industrial. She also announced that the city has been successful in reducing the portable signs problem. Everyone who has a sign has either contacted the city or complied with the ordinance.

A public hearing was set for March 11 to decide on the Sealed Powers Facilities tax exemption request.

Sealed Power is in an industrial rehabilitation and development district which allows the industry the opportunity to apply for this exemption to expand or remodel their operations. The exemption, if granted, would allow payment of one-half the usual property tax for the new equipment and addition for a 12 year period.

Sealed Power is estimating spending $1.9 million on equipment and expansion, creating 20 new jobs.

A March 25th public hearing was set for the first reading of proposed Ordinance No. 357, which provides for the M-21, parking lot rezoning for St. Joseph Church.

St. Johns has medalists

Students in Winter Olympics

By Kimberly Marshall,
staff writer

In early February, a team of contenders representing Clinton Intermediate School District spent four days at Sugar Loaf Mountain, Traverse City, for the Winter Special Olympics.

Mike Spitzley won a silver and a second place medal for cross-country skiing. Mart Nurenberg won a bronze and an additional medal for snowshoeing. Mike Schafer earned two medals for snowshoeing. Mike Becker was an assistant coach to Nurenberg and Cheryl Hurst was a contestant.

There were over 600 participants at the games. Student helpers, 150 from Central Michigan University and 100 from Michigan State University, were on hand for the competitions including downhill and cross-country skiing, tubing, snowshoeing and broomball.

There were social activities the olympians could participate in including a dance, games, movies and an outdoor swimming pool. One night, 45 snowmobilers, with lights on, traveled down the mountain creating a spectacular sight.

The snowmobilers were traveling from Detroit to the Mackinac Straits raising money for Special Olympics.

The Clinton Intermediate School District needs recreational equipment, including skis and snowshoes. If anyone is interested in donating these, or other items, contact Mike Watson or Janet Jakus at the school.

By Kimberly Marshall, staff writer

Willis Hettler, Sr., 79, was honored for his 59 years in business in St. Johns at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon Feb. 21.

Hettler moved to St. Johns from Dallas township in 1926. He went into business with his uncle, Louie Hettler, until 1929. At that time, he bought his uncle's share in the business and opened Hettler's Super Station, on the corner of Baker and State Streets.

In 1945, the Hettler's Super Station became a DeSoto dealership. Since 1961, it has been Willis Hettler's Motor Sales, Inc., a Chrysler-Plymouth dealership, including a wrecker and general repair service.

Hettler lives at 805 Twinbrook Dr., DeWitt.

St. Johns citizens may soon voice school opinions

Citizens in the St. Johns School District will soon have a chance to express their opinions and attitudes about their local public schools.

The occasion is an upcoming public opinion survey, scheduled for the week of March 4. The survey is one of about two dozen such local school district efforts to be conducted this year through the assistance of Project Outreach, of the Michigan State Board of Education.

"It's important that school officials seek citizen opinion on their satisfaction with their public schools," said Earl Gabriel, superintendent of schools.

"This survey is one way of meeting one of the important goals for the district established by the board of education."

AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY VOLUNTEERS-Fifteen residents of the Suntree Apartments stuffed over 1,000 envelopes for the American Cancer Society.

Senior citizens volunteer work

By Kimberly Marshall, staff writer

Senior citizens at the Suntree Apartments spent Feb. 22 stuffing envelopes for the American Cancer Society.

Evelyn Cogswell, 84, contacted the Cancer Society to inquire if there was volunteer work she and her fellow residents could do.

Approximately 15 senior citizens helped stuff over 1,000

Music computer class set

Making music with computers will be the subject of a spring term class offered by the music program of Lansing Community College.

Computers can be used to create a variety of music from rock to classical. Although computers do not write music, they are instruments on which musicians can compose music just as they can on a violin, a piano, or any other musical instrument.

The class, an introduction to the role of computers in music, will illustrate how computers can be used to write and analyze music, measure sound and generate pitches and rhythms. Students will receive hands-on experience on several types of microcomputers and music synthesizers while learning the differences and similarities between computers and more traditional instruments. The course title is MUS 297; "Computers 1/2 Music" and will be taught by Dr. Mary Simoni. Instructor approval is the only prerequisite for the class.

Telephone registration begins March 6; on-campus registration runs from March 25-28. LCC's spring term begins April 1.

tion, and we're looking forward to the project," he added.

Approximately 350 registered voters of the school district will be scientifically selected at random, under the direction of Project Outreach staff members. Such selection will follow systematic random sampling procedures and will rely on the efforts of trained, local volunteer citizens.

The survey questionnaire is now being developed, assisted by Ned S. Hubbell, director of Project Outreach. He is working with a local committee of board members, teachers, administrators and citizens, to determine the questionnaire content.

The polling itself will take place on three evenings, March 5-7, from a central telephone site.

Gabriel said the survey results will be presented to the board of education in about four weeks, after the field interviewing is completed.

Each interview will be approximately 15 minutes in length, depending upon respondents.

Project Outreach is a statewide public/student opinion effort of the Michigan Department of Education, and is now in its fourth year.

Almost all of the funding for the project is made possible by an appropriation of the state legislature. Local districts help by assuming only part of the costs of an opinion survey. Such costs are not to exceed $1,500 and will pay for the coding, keypunching, and tabulating of the data by computer.

Fast drivers should think of children and pets safety

Dear Editor,

Some people seem to think that the death of an animal is such a trivial thing to be upset about. But what about when that animal belonged to a small child? How do you tell your child that it doesn't matter? At least in everyone else's eyes. As in my case, my daughter is not yet old enough to understand such things. And she doesn't yet understand that she goes from room to room looking for her kitty, that she isn't going to find him anymore. Thanks to one of many speeding drivers that fly down Giles Street.

She used to spend many hours a day playing with her kitten. Now she just spends the hours looking for him.

People seem to think that Giles Street was put here just to see how fast they can get their cars going in a three block stretch.

The sad part is that nobody seems to care. Some concerned friends called the local police after the incident. The police officer answered the call. Upon arrival, he took it upon himself to list the kitten as critical and struck it in the head with his club. And then left it there. I arrived home approximately two hours later and found the kitten on the side of the road gasping for air. We took him into the house and we kept him alive for about an hour. The vet informed us that if it hadn't been for the blow to the head, the kitten would have had a chance of surviving.

It's really sad to think about all the kids that lose their pets because of careless drivers. I realize that accidents do happen, but if people would start being more careful, maybe some could be avoided.

And to the person that was behind the wheel of that speeding car, I hope that every time you go down Giles Street you remember back about that kitten and be careful of animals.

After all, you broke the heart of one child. Isn't that enough? Slow down or maybe next time it won't be a child's pet, but a child!

Citizen continues battle against license

Dear Editor,

I think the public should know that the St. Johns City Commission unanimously voted to send a letter of support to the Michigan Liquor Control Commission regarding Little Caesar's request.

I believe that Arehart, Starck, Wiseman, Munger and Parr did not vote in the best interests of this community. That Little Caesar's wants to expand and have a sit-down restaurant sounds like a good idea. I could see it as a wholesome place for young people and families to congregate. Serving alcohol, I believe, would send the wrong message to our citizens--the message that it's necessary to drink to have a good time, and that it's O.K.

to have drinking drivers on the road.

The City Commission can reject the proposed liquor license at any point in the application process. I suggest that persons who care about the preciousness of human life write to their commissioners and to the Michigan Liquor Control Commission, Roger Rosendale, 7150 Harris Drive, Box 30005, Lansing 48909. You can make the difference!

RAVE organization on the rise in Clinton

By Kimberly Marshall, staff writer

Relief After Violent Encounter (RAVE) is a community-based non-profit organization providing confidential services to the families involved in domestic violence throughout Clinton County.

RAVE's most recent service is the crisis hotline. Since February, callers have received crisis counseling, information and referral, legal referral and advocacy from specially trained RAVE volunteers.

"Our current short-range goal is to get enough volunteers to warrant the purchase of a diverter machine," said Bruce Kintigh, vice-president of RAVE's board of directors. "The machine will allow us to operate a 24 hour crisis line, by diverting calls to the home phones of volunteers. Since many of our volunteers live outside of St. Johns, we need a machine that has long-distance diversion capabilities. It will cost approximately $600."

"We have 35 trained volunteers right now. In order for the diverter machine to be practical, we need to build up a core of 90 volunteers," Kintigh said.

The goal of 90 volunteers seems to be within reach, as they have an average of two inquiries each week. On February 8, five new volunteers had completed their training and were ready to start monitoring the phones.

Currently, there are three volunteers from 3 p.m. to 11 p.m. daily, operating the crisis line at 224-6990. The names of these volunteers are kept confidential.

Until RAVE can install their own 24 hour crisis line, Harbor Line is available. Victims needing help or information can call this toll free number 1-800-292-3925.

Being a RAVE volunteer does not mean you have to work on the crisis hotline. Volunteers are needed for community education, fund-raising activities, secretarial duties, transportation and safe homes.

Crisis intervention training is required for volunteers interested in community education, crisis hotline and safe homes.

Safe homes provide an emergency shelter for clients and their minor children for up to three days. Currently, there are two safe homes in Clinton County. Their location is kept very confidential.

"For a safe home we look for a place where someone will be home all the time. Homes are screened and visited before they are approved," said Janet Holden, president of the board of directors for RAVE.

Crisis intervention training consists of 40 hours of formal and on-the-job training under the direction of trained volunteers.

These training hours will include orientation to RAVE; crisis intervention; empathy training; problem-solving; decision-making; listening skills; value clarification; RAVE philosophies, operations and policies; and specific information about spouse assault. All volunteers must sign a six month commitment contract with RAVE agreeing to work at least one on-call shift per week.

Because the volunteer program offers practical work experience, volunteers are encouraged to view this work as a valid employment responsibility. They may, if applicable, apply it on their resume and cite it when dealing with future employers.

Crisis hotline volunteers are trained to take calls on sexual, mental and physical abuse, assault and suicide. Victims of abuse, other than domestic violence, who call in will find a helpful listener and, if necessary, a referral to the proper organization.

According to Holden, their long-range goal is to have a shelter for Clinton County, similar to the shelter in Mt. Pleasant for Isabella County.

"The Mt. Pleasant shelter has five bedrooms, three bathrooms and a basement set up especially for children with games and toys," said Holden. "Clients and their children can stay for 15 days. There is 24 hour supervision and group counseling."

Shelter houses are regulated and inspected for cleanliness and overcrowding conditions.

RAVE is operating on donations from the local community.

"The community has been very supportive and we appreciate that. The police and sheriffs departments have been very helpful by transporting clients and watching the building," said Holden.

Anyone interested in finding out more about RAVE, can contact Holden or Kintigh at 224-6990 between 3 p.m. and 11 p.m.

Caulkins

Airman Robert Caulkins, son of Bruce and Joyce Caulkins of St. Johns, has been assigned to Lowry Air Force Base, Colorado, after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the avionics systems field.

He is a 1984 graduate of St. Johns High School.

Keenoy reveals outlook

By Richard T. Droste, contributing writer

Wednesday, Feb. 13 brought snow and high winds to the Clinton County area and St. Johns resident John Keenoy had a cold. He had reason to feel good, however.

That day, Keenoy, 6-foot 6-inch, 240-pound football player from St. Johns High School, had signed a binding letter of intent to attend Michigan State University. It was an important day for MSU and its head coach George Perles.

Keenoy, offensive lineman and linebacker at St. Johns, was one of 21 talented young men to accept a football scholarship from the Spartans.

Keenoy had two reasons for choosing the green and white. "I really like coach Perles," said Keenoy. "It helps that MSU is close to home, too."

Keenoy was contacted by 35 schools before narrowing his choices to MSU, U of M, and Central Michigan. The final choice was difficult, and the pressure built as the signing date neared. "There's a lot of pressure," Keenoy said. "A lot of guys think the attention would be fun, but it isn't always that way."

Recruiters called the Keenoy home at least once a night before Keenoy made his decision. He said it was especially hard for him to turn down the University of Michigan and coach Bo Schembechler, who enjoyed an excellent recruiting year himself. "Everybody was so nice," said Keenoy's father, whose name is also John. "I think John's hardest part about the whole thing (recruiting) was saying no to the other schools. John is just glad the pressure is off so things can get back to normal."

Keenoy follows former St. Johns teammate Tim Moore to MSU. Moore was a senior when Keenoy first appeared in the Red Wing starting lineup as a sophomore. "I think Tim

There are many people who have microcomputers that don't realize the computers full capabilities. This may be for any number of reasons ranging from not being able to locate the appropriate software for the task, to not being able to find a "bug." What ever the reason for not reaching the computers potential may be, a users group may help.

Since microcomputers became available to the general public, computer users groups have provided an excellent source of information to its members.

members want to share their computer knowledge with others. In fact, the sharing of information is the backbone of the users group. Ideas are shared on types of hardware, varieties of software and different software applications.

Anyone interested in joining a computer users group to share the experiences they have had in the world of computers, should come to the Extension Office at 306 Elm Street, St. Johns, on March 14, at 1:30 p.m. We will look at how computer users can help each other make better use of their software and hardware.

How do you stalk a whitetail deer, take a scenic hike through the woods or determine the lines of clothing that look best on you? With a computer, of course.

Over a dozen microcomputer software programs are available through the Michigan 4-H Youth Program, and more are being planned.

Computer projects help 4-H members and leaders develop skills in computer application and computer programming, and they help add a new dimension to your 4-H project club.

Software programs are available in the areas of wildlife and land management, analyzing environmental influences, forestry, landscaping, conservation, collecting folklore information, clothing, Coturnix and cash crop production.

Michigan to be promoted

Two of Michigan's top three industries--tourism and agriculture--can be combined to improve the state's economy.

A variety of speakers will probe ideas on how to expand business opportunities by promoting Michigan agriculture as a tourist attraction at a conference March 19 in conjunction with Agriculture and Natural Resources (ANR) Week at Michigan State University.

Cattle numbers continue to decline in 1984

The downtrend in cattle numbers continued in Michigan during 1984. The January 1, 1985 inventory, at 1,450,000 head, was down 2 percent from a year earlier, according to the Federal/State Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service. Milk cow numbers were estimated at 390,000 head, down 3 percent from the previous year. Beef cow numbers, at 160,000 head, were virtually unchanged from a year ago. The 1984 Michigan calf crop, at 525,000 head, was unchanged from the previous year. There are a number of factors contributing to the decline in the Michigan cattle population. Dairy producers cut back cow numbers in response to the paid milk diversion program and lower milk prices. Current high interest rates and poor returns to cattle feeders and cow-calf producers over the past several years have led to additional cutbacks in cattle numbers.

Beef cow numbers may decline as the inventory of beef replacement heifers, at 32,000 head, was off 11 percent from last year. Milk cow replacement heifers increased 8 percent to 195,000 head. This indicates potential for expansion of milk cow herds during the coming year. The inventory of other heifers (non-replacement animals) was down 29 percent from last year. Steers weighing 500 pounds and over were down 9 percent. The inventory of calves weighing less than 500 pounds increased 4 percent to 394,000 head. The calf inventory was up while cow numbers were down. Some cows which calved on Michigan farms during 1984 were culled before the end of the year. Michigan cattle feedlots held 165,000 head of cattle and calves on full feed for slaughter market on January 1, a drop of 6 percent from a year ago.

Nationally, all cattle and calves as of January 1, 1985 totaled 110 million head, down 3 percent from the previous year inventory of 114 million head. Cattle numbers were down in 37 of the 50 states. This continues the recent downward trend in cattle inventories begun 2 years ago. Total cow numbers, at 46.2 million, were down 5 percent. Beef cow numbers declined 6 percent and milk cow numbers were down 3 percent. Milk replacement heifer numbers were up 5 percent. The 1984 calf crop, at 42.5 million head, was down 3 percent. Cattle and calves on feed for slaughter on January 1, at 12.4 million head, were up 7 percent.

New economic programs available from MSU Extension

New Economic Realities in Michigan Agriculture is a program sponsored by Michigan State University and the Cooperative Extension Service to aid farmers in examining the changing economic conditions and help them determine what changes they must make in their farm to contend with the present economic condition.

You may choose from two programs offered in this area. One will be held March 6 at the Saginaw Civic Center from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Michigan State University Specialists and Extension Agents will address the following topics:

--Implications of Economic Scenarios on

- Agriculture
- Commodity Prices and Cost and Market Outlook
- Analyzing Your Financial Situation
- Managing Your Farm for Profit
- Financial Plans for Change on Your Farm
- Implications of the 1985 Farm Bill
- Putting It All Together

Another view of our economic conditions can be gained March 12 in Clare, Michigan at the Town and Country Restaurant from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. This program features U.S. Representative, Bill Schuette, MSU Specialists, Extension Agents and a representative from a lending institution.

The agenda is: --1985 Farm Bill--Its Im-

- pact on Michigan Agriculture
- Philosophy and Availability of Credit
- Risk Management...Importance in terms of growing uncertainties
- Implications of Economic Outlook on Agriculture
- Putting it Together for Mid-Michigan
- Alternatives on the Farm to reduce Financial Stress.

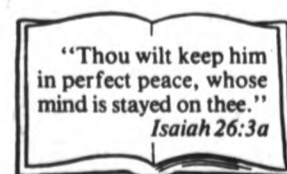

Choose the meeting that best meets your interests, and plan to attend!

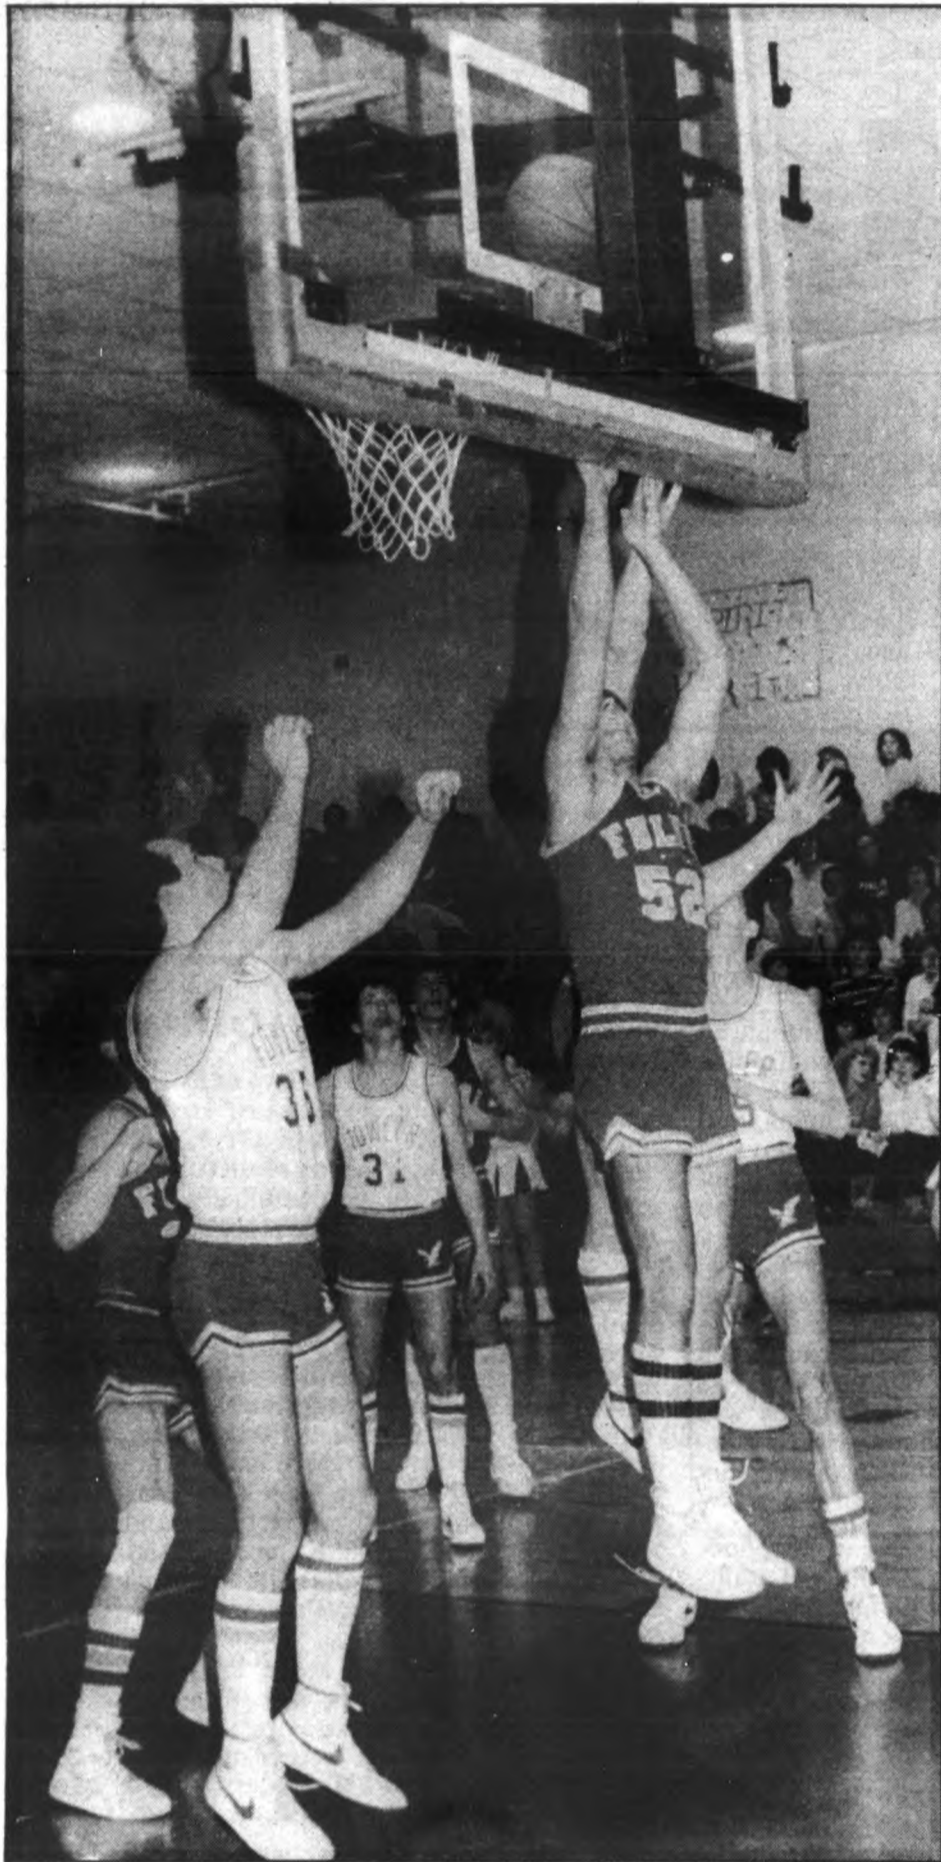

Further details on the programs are available at the Clinton County Cooperative Extension Service Office.

helped my game," said Keenoy. "The (opposing) offense would always run the ball away from Tim and come straight at me. I think it helped me improve."

Moore is a linebacker at MSU and started a couple of games last season, including the Cherry Bowl at the Pontiac Silverdome.

Keenoy's goal as an incoming freshman is to make the traveling team. Until then he will undertake a rigorous weight lifting program. "We would like to get John up to about 255 (pounds) before next season," said Perles, adding that he sees Keenoy as an offensive lineman on the Spartan squad. The Spartans lose three players from the team's offensive line because they will have used up their four years of eligibility, Perles said.

Keenoy hopes the opportunity to score his first touchdown comes during his collegiate career. He had a chance to register his first six-pointer in 10 years of organized football after intercepting a pass in a high school game last fall.

With nothing but 20 yards of grass between him and the goal line, Keenoy was accidentally tackled by a teammate. The tackler turned out to be Keenoy's brother Bill, who was attempting to block an opponent chasing John.

It was a minor setback in a stellar season for Keenoy. His best game statistically was a 23 tackle effort against league title winner, Chesaning. His ef-

The opportunity to play in front of St. Johns fans has been an enjoyable experience, said Keenoy. He will also miss playing for his high school football coach, Joe Gonzales, who Keenoy credits for his opportunity to play Big Ten football.

Fortunately, Red Wing fans will have the opportunity to watch a Keenoy play football for two more seasons. Bill Keenoy will return as a junior in the 1985 season to captain the St. Johns team.

John Keenoy plans to study secondary education at MSU. He would like to teach some day and get into coaching.

Keenoy lives with his brother Bill, and mother and father, Kathie and John on Loomis Road, southwest of St. Johns.

Sports medicine clinic set for Mar. 14

All athletes, coaches, officials, trainers, and sports fans are invited to a Sports Medicine Clinic to be held Thursday, March 14. The clinic is scheduled from 6:00 to 9:00 p.m. at the Carson City Elementary School and is being sponsored by Carson City Hospital.

Planned for the evening are:

David Larsen, D.O., orthopedic surgeon at Carson City Hospital will be speaking on the subject of lower extremity injuries. Dr. Larsen completed specialized studies in Athletic Medicine at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit. Since joining the staff of CCH in September 1983, Dr. Larsen has treated many area citizens for sports related injuries. A large number of these have been lower extremity or knee injuries requiring arthroscopic surgery.

Care of acute sprains will be presented by Ms. Deb Knight, Head Women's Athletic Trainer at Central Michigan University. Ms. Knight served as assistant coordinator of the Medical Staff for Track and Field Competition at the 1984 Olympics in Los Angeles. Her future plans include traveling to Portugal as Head Athletic Trainer for the United States Track Team at the Cross Country World Championship in March of this year.

Larry Bielat, assistant football coach (running backs) at Michigan State University will be on hand to offer proper blocking techniques. Bielat's background ranges from high school coaching to an assistantship in the professional ranks with the Philadelphia Stars of the United States Football League.

Proper tackling techniques will be addressed by Steve Furness, also from Michigan State University. He serves as assistant football coach for defensive linemen. Furness, a defensive tackle standout over a 10-year career with the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Detroit Lions, has completed two coaching seasons at Michigan State University.

CCH dietitian, Judith Wisk, R.D., will be addressing nutrition and the athlete. Ms. Wisk graduated from Mercy College of Detroit with a bachelor of science in Dietetics and has been with Carson City Hospital since December 1982.

Ambulance attendants from the Montcalm County Ambulance Service will also be present to offer cardiopulmonary resuscitation instruction.

All instruction will be offered on an informal basis. There will be separate areas for small groups and individual demonstrations.

Other information will be available on sprains, blisters, abrasions, con-

FULTON CHEERLEADERS DELIVER SPIRITED YELLS AT FOWLER-in spite of their team's losing effort at Fowler, the Fulton cheerleaders delivered peppy performances, such as this one, through the evening. The visiting Pirates dropped the CMAC contest, 80-38. Photo by Harold Schmaltz, CCN.

I like my house.
It's special.
Sure... the kids haven't been too kind to it.
But the carpet can be replaced. Walls can be painted. Could use some new tile for the bathroom, too. Maybe a new sundeck. Guess that's part of the charm.
Boy, is my house charming. Too charming.
Glad I found out about a Clinton Bank home improvement loan. Up to ten thousand dollars... and no second mortgage.
Thanks, Clinton Bank.

Redwing gymnasts chalk up eighth win

The St. Johns Redwing gymnasts chalked up their eighth straight victory (8-0) Thursday evening in a meet at Haslett High School. The final score was 119.05 to 107.3.

In their best event, vaulting, Christine Ebert placed first (8.6), Missy Vitek was second (8.35), and Theresa DeSander placed third (8.3).

Against Haslett's strong uneven bar team, St. Johns only managed a second place by Tami Sudau with 7.35.

On balance beam, Cris Wright was the lone winner, taking first place with a 7.85.

Floor exercise winners were Christine Ebert (first) and Tami Sudau (second).

On Monday, the team traveled to Sexton and on Wednesday to the Ionia Invitational, where they are the defending champions for the past five seasons.

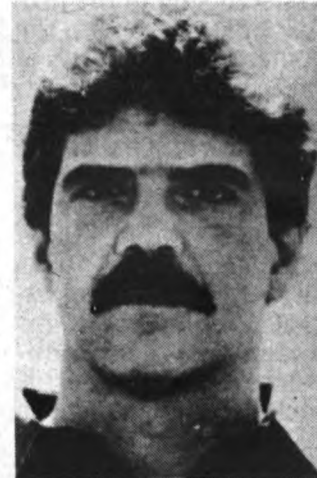

The season finished March 4 with a Varsity-JayVee meet against East Lansing. This was the community's last chance to see this undefeated team perform.

Qualifiers for regional competition in Freeland on March 9 include Christine Ebert, Cris Wright, Theresa DeSander, Tami Sudau, Missy Vitek, and Gwynn Sharick. Rounding out the team for that competition will be Penny Evans and Linda Strickland.

RANDALL JOINS IN ON BILL SIGNING CEREMONY-Landmark legislation aimed at protecting Michigan children from child abuse, approved late last year by the Michigan Legislature, was formally signed into law by Governor James J. Blanchard, State Representative Gary Randall, the sponsor of the bill, reported today. Randall, seated at left with Governor Blanchard, explained that the new law extends greater protection to abused children by requiring schools and hospitals to cooperate more fully with the Department of Social Services in investigations of suspected abuse. "For the first time, the law requires people licensed to provide emergency medical care, psychologists and family therapists to report suspected cases of abuse and neglect," Randall stated. County DSS offices would also be required to transfer records of unsubstantiated reports of abuse and neglect that are under investigation to another county DSS office if a child moves.

Republicans report on upcoming plans

Nationwide farm survey to be held

A nationwide survey will be conducted in February and early March by the USDA to determine 1984 farm costs and returns. About 630 of the estimated 63,000 Michigan farms will be contacted by representatives of the Federal/State Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service for participation in this year's survey. These enumerators will be asking farmers about their 1984 farm production expenses, debts and assets, income, production practices and for additional data on the costs of producing sugarbeets, hay and forage crops.

Farm costs and returns need to be gathered to establish farmers current financial well-being compared to other sectors of the Nation's economy. The survey results that emerge will help farm analysts, lawmakers, product groups, and farm input industries understand the needs and problems within the farm sector and how those needs and problems vary from one type of farm and region to another. This data will also be used to compute the parity price index and to help establish estimates of net farm income.

With the current concern over debt/asset ratios in the farm sector, it is vitally important that every selected farmer participate in this year's survey. All responses will be kept strictly confidential and only used to provide Regional and National summaries of the 1984 farm financial situation.

Index prices reported for Jan.

The index of prices received by Michigan farmers for all products was 122 percent of its 1977 base for the month ending January 15, according to the Federal/State Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service. This represents a 1 percent increase from the December level. Despite the marginal increase in the monthly index, prices averaged 13 percent below the January 1984 level. The index of prices paid by farmers, nationwide, for commodities and services, interest, taxes and farm wage rates for January 1985 was 164 percent of its 1977 base. Declines in the fuels and energy and interest indexes were offset by the increases in the feeder livestock, feed and tax components. Compared to a year earlier, the index was up about 1 percent.

Individual commodities showing price gains since December were corn, winter wheat, oats, soybeans, potatoes, all hay, slaughter cows and calves. Lower prices were noted for steers and heifers, hogs and eggs. Dry beans and milk prices were unchanged from the December level. Winter wheat and slaughter cows were the only commodities with higher prices than recorded during January 1984.

Nationally, the January all farm products index of prices received by farmers decreased 1 percent from December to 134 percent of its 1977 higher prices for lettuce, broilers, corn, for eggs, apples, calves and lemons. The index was nearly 8 percent below a year ago.

LOOKING GLASS PRETTY-The Looking Glass River flows several miles south of this house on Price Road about a half-mile west of U.S. 27. The house was reflected, looking glass pretty, in a river of it's own that formed alongside it when the thaw came early last week. Such temporary rivers and lakes dotted the countryside as temperatures "soared" into the mid-40's following a week of snow that shut most schools the previous week. Photo special to the CCN by Jack Minsky.

Valuable tips on tornado activity watch

Each year tornadoes injure and kill hundreds of people and cause millions of dollars in damage. These violent storms can occur in any state, at any time, but few areas are more favorable to their formation than the continental plains and Gulf coast. This area is often called "tornado alley". Michigan is not immune, as we are on the northern edge of tornado alley.

Tornadoes occur more frequently where the warm, moist air from the Gulf coast meets the cool, dry air of the north and northwest. The tornado season can begin as early as February when this center moves to the southeast Atlantic coast states where, in April, tornadoes frequently move to the southern plains states, and then northward to the northern plains and Great Lakes area.

A tornado usually develops from a severe thunderstorm. Tornado winds turn counterclockwise at speeds that vary from under 100 miles per hour to nearly 300 miles per hour. A tornado's destructive force works through the combined action of strong rotary winds, causing a vacuum, and flying debris.

The distinctive, funnel-shaped cloud is easy to recognize. As it touches the earth, it writhes and twists, throwing debris in all directions. It is usually accompanied by hail, violent thunderstorms, and strong winds.

The width of a tornado cloud can vary from a few feet to over a mile, but the average width is one quarter of a mile. Tornadoes have stayed on the ground from a few seconds to nearly three hours, covering distances of a few yards to more than 200 miles.

Tornadoes are classified as weak, strong or violent. Weak tornadoes comprise 62 percent of all tornadoes but cause only two percent of the fatalities. Strong tornadoes comprise 36 percent and cause 30 percent of the deaths. Only two percent of all tornadoes are classified as violent, yet they cause 68 percent of the deaths reported from these storms.

MEMBERSHIP REGIONAL CHAIRMAN ART LINCOLN

What are the Eagles?

Dear Citizens:

The Fraternal Order of Eagles has a membership of one million, and their motto is: PEOPLE HELPING PEOPLE.

An Eagle Aerie is an active vehicle for building constructive civic achievement through fellowship, friendship and harmonious cooperation.

An Eagle-Aerie can be the backbone of any community with enjoyment for the whole family, with dances, sports, bowling, dinners, picnics, etc.

The Eagle Aeries traditionally seek to do those things, which almost everybody agrees needs doing, PEOPLE HELPING PEOPLE, unhampered by religion, partisan politics or legislative pressure. Community service is their byword, objective and creed. More often than not they accomplish a multitude of things ignored by government and tolerated by the indifferent. Almost no problem or challenge is too great to daunt the hundreds of Aeries which annually execute community service projects to the benefit of the sick, the needy, the unfortunate, youth and entire communities.

The Eagles support Servicemen, Firemen and Law Enforcement men, who are Eagle members, and if they are killed in the line of duty, their children are guaranteed a scholarship and medical expenses by the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

Membership is made up of self-less men, drawn from a cross section of business, industry and the professions, who, recognizing their responsibilities, have banded together in the democratic tradition for progressive constructive thought and action in community service.

LADIES AUXILIARIES: Many Aeries are aided by Ladies Auxiliaries. There are more than 1200 Auxiliaries, with membership of more than 350,000. Membership includes a subscription to "Mrs. Eagle", a magazine devoted to Auxiliary activities, social and beneficial features.

I sincerely hope you will be able to become a member.

GONE FISHIN'-Robert Jones, 12, really was fishing last week in Stoney Creek. The son of Wayne and Dolores Weber of 1425 W. He took advantage of the warm weather to get in a little "fishing-practice" for a planned trip up north next summer. Photo special to the CCN by Jack Minsky.

COOL, COOL WATER-And there was plenty of it when the early spring thaw formed ponds on many farms last week. These cattle on a farm along Airport Road had their own huge drinking fountain formed by run off from the thaw. Photo special to the CCN by Jack Minsky.

Fowler to host Band festival

On March 16 Fowler High School will host the 1985 District 5 Middle School Band and Orchestra Festival.

This event will feature 15 bands from the mid-Michigan area, competing for ratings from a 1 Division (excellent) down to a 5 Division (poor).

The performing group plays three prepared pieces in front of three judges. Each judge rates all three numbers. After the concert performance, each band moves to another room with another judge for a sight-reading rating.

Sight-reading is the performance of two pieces of music never before seen by the group.

A combination of the four ratings (three in concert and one in sight-reading), determines the groups final over-all rating.

These performances will begin at 8 a.m. and continue throughout the day. The festival is open free to the public.

Following is a list of groups and times:

Techniques for alleviating stress and health problems for office workers, VDT operators

As technology changes the ways in which Americans do business, the workplace is undergoing a radical transformation. Computers and their video display terminals (VDTs) are replacing typewriters and other office equipment. One study has concluded that, by 1990, 75 percent of all office jobs will involve VDTs.

Though the computer may make office tasks easier, recent studies indicating that the health of VDT operators is in jeopardy. A report in the Harvard Medical School Health Letter (April 1983) cites numerous hazards including musculoskeletal difficulties and job stress — the latter reported by 75 percent of VDT workers.

VDT operators, and many other office workers, must remain stationary for long periods, often with little of no break from routine, and often in poorly designed chairs.

Neck, shoulder and lower back pains, headaches, irritability and insomnia are stress-related symptoms brought on by tedium, and these often result in increased absenteeism and decreased productivity.

Corporations are examining the plight of the sedentary office worker in the 1980s. Many states have legislation pending which will provide safeguards for workers, and a bill before the U.S. Senate recommends tax credits for companies with preventive health programs.

Robert L. Gedaliah, president of Productivity Effectiveness Programs, Inc., has developed one simple cost-effective approach to alleviating these health hazards.

Program of exercises

In his book P.E.P.: The Productivity Effectiveness Program, Gedaliah presents the complete program of exercises he has designed, which office workers do while seated at their desks. The program is easy to learn and can be performed in just nine minutes a day.

Everyone unconsciously stretches to revive flagging alertness or to relieve tension. PEP is structured on these natural responses, making the most of the body's inherent ability to energize itself. After learning proper breathing and posture, the participant can perform the 10 PEP Energizers with no difficulty.

Gedaliah provides ample line drawings which guide the reader through PEP. An "Rx Index" examines specific problems and regions of the bodily train, guiding an individual to the proper exercise for his or her particular pains.

Keep your seat

The uniqueness of PEP is that all the exercises are done while seated at a desk. Each is subtle enough so that co-workers will not know an individual is working out.

In our age of automation, PEP considers the human factor. All office workers, not just VDT operators, will benefit from PEP. The program is the perfect "no-calories" alternative to the coffee break.

The exercises can also be done while commuting by car, train or bus, on airplanes — anywhere, and by anyone who must sit for long periods.

PEP ENERGIZER

THE CAT TO EASE LOWER BACK AND NECK TENSION.

Keep your spine upright but not stiff. Keep your chin up without thrusting it out.

While sitting upright, put both feet flat on the floor in front of you, with your palms resting comfortably on your knees, elbows slightly bent.

Now, take a deep breath as you slowly arch your back while lifting your chin up until your gaze is on the ceiling.

Hold this position while counting to 3 slowly.

Now, slowly exhale as you round your back while dropping your chin to your chest until your gaze is on the floor.

Keep your shoulders relaxed throughout the movement. Imagine a cat taking a luxuriant stretch.

Repeat THE CAT 5 times.

Computer programming skills

First, the Industrial Revolution created tremendous changes in all our lives, and now the Computer Age is upon us, bringing even bigger changes. We will all have to adapt to these new machines.

The problem is that, while children have taken to working with computers with the greatest of ease, many adults have resisted, fearing the new technology beyond them.

With today's simplified computers and easy-to-use software, no such fears are necessary. Virtually anyone can learn. People of all ages are now working with these new tools that will make their lives so much richer and easier.

One way to better understand how computers function is to learn how to program. Program Design, Inc. (PDI), a publisher of educational software, introduced Step by Step for the Apple Computer, the first course that taught beginning BASIC (Beginner's All Purpose Symbolic Instruction Code), the most commonly used language on personal computers.

The New Step By Step, introduced shortly thereafter, combined a voice narration with the course. Then PDI introduced Step By Step 2, which teaches intermediate BASIC, and now it has introduced Step By Step 3 for the advanced course.

The latest course focuses on teaching the disk operating system (DOS). Included are clear explanations of: learning more about the internal workings of computer and disk drive, discovering new ways of "debugging" programs, taking apart a disk, and learning how information is stored, designing mailing lists and creating and storing files of information on disk.

Each Step By Step program has voice, animation and graphics, and allows users to learn at their own pace. All three programs are unique in that they combine the best features of how-to book, classroom and film.

Each course requires 48K of memory and retails for $99.95.

CHILD'S PLAY . . . or so it seems as these youngsters learn with ease the many wonderful and diverse uses of the computer. (Photo courtesy of the National Association for the Education of Young Children)

Introducing young children to computers: a wise move?

What do parents, teachers and schools expect young children to accomplish by using computers? Can the high cost of the equipment be justified in programs operated on tight budgets? What do teachers need to know before they can use computers appropriately with young children? How does computer use affect children's social and intellectual development? Do computers tend to displace essential life experiences?

Two articles in a recent issue of Young Children, the professional journal of the National Association for the Education of Young Children, highlighted critical issues in introducing preschool and primary children to computers.

Elizabeth Brady and Shirley Hill reviewed research directions, while Karen Burg described a model kindergarten program. These experienced early childhood educators offer a thought-provoking glimpse into questions parents, teachers and schools must answer before plunging into the computer adventure.

"Somehow computer play doesn't match the colorful conversations of dramatic play, the creative shapes of block play or the mysterious touch of finger paint ... or does it?"

NAEYC is a nonprofit organization with nearly 40,000 members working to improve the quality of education for young children. From budgeting to record-keeping...

Popular computer program helps families to plan, manage finances

Taking the initiative in planning and managing family finances is more important than ever — but, for many people today, budget management can sometimes become an overwhelming task.

That may be one reason why "financial management software" — computer programs that help families organize and track their personal money matters — is today's fastest-growing segment of the computer software industry.

Connie Chen, president of Chen Planning Consultants, a leading New York financial planner, says such tools as computer software can play a valuable part in helping families get organized financially — and organization, she says, is a basic ingredient of good economic health.

Changing Guidelines

Twenty years ago, a few time-honored rules of thumb — "A penny saved is a penny earned!" . . . "Spend 25 percent of your income for housing!" . . . "Never borrow when you can pay cash!" — were reliable guidelines for household budget planning, Chen says. But today, she warns, changing economic forces and changing lifestyles have made those rules of thumb, and many others like them, obsolete.

"There really aren't simple, universal rules like that anymore," she says. "You can't compare yourself or your family against some artificial national norm."

"You have to make your own financial plan, think it through, and set your own goals. Then measure your financial progress by comparing what you did this year versus last year."

Program Offers aid

One popular computer program to help any family plan and manage its finances wisely is "Your Personal Net Worth," published by Scarborough Systems in versions for the Atari, Commodore-64, IBM-PC and Apple.

A program that is powerful and versatile, yet very easy to use, "Your Personal Net Worth" is written in clear, simple language without any technical computer or accounting terms.

Among the many uses of the program are:

- Setting up a budget, then comparing actual income and expenses to that budget.

- Keeping records of every banking and credit card transaction and reconciling these monthly statements instantly. (The program prints checks too.)

- Maintaining an up-to-date record of your family's assets and liabilities — your own "personal net worth."

- Recording every tax deductible expenditure, for instant recall at tax time.

- Analyzing interest rates on savings plans and loans, to make your money work harder.

- Documenting household valuables.

- Displaying and printing financial reports.

- Recording stocks, bonds and other investment transactions.

Instant Identification

Available at retail stores nationwide, "Your Personal Net Worth" can be identified by its snappy blue and silver box, that includes an Eisenhower silver dollar and an excerpted copy of Sylvia Porter's "New Money Book for the 80's."

Whatever your family's income and lifestyle, financial planning and management is an investment that can pay big dividends today and in the years to come.

Sensible approach to shopping for your personal computer

In a year, maybe two, your home videogame will be obsolete. The history books will record 1981 and 1982 as the years of videogame, a rudimentary ancestor of the home computer.

You can walk into a store today, and buy any one of several home computers, for the cost of a videogame console. Using these computers is easy — many of the in-expensive systems accept videogame-style cartridges.

Just pop in the cartridge and suddenly you're among the "computer literate." You can create your own programs with these starter computers, but most people simply buy the best programs (about $30 for starter systems) at a neighborhood computer store.

Which computer is right for you? That's a question best answered with a little research. Howard J. Blumenthal, author of Everyone's Guide to Personal Computers (Ballantine, $9.95) makes the decision easier.

"Look at the software, the programs. Don't be impressed by the way the hardware looks. Visit a computer store and ask to see a few programs in action. If you're a game player, find the best games in the store and then select a computer system that can run those games.

"Programs are designed for use with specific system — always consider the software first — whether you're looking for a word processor or for learning games. Hardware should always be your second decision."

Blumenthal believes that each of the home computers is particularly good for specific kinds of programs. His recommendations, detailed in an extensive appendix to the book, include some negatives as well.

When shopping for a home computer, he advises, it is wise to do some homework. Think about which of these categories best describes your needs: 1) Games, 2) Word Processing, 3) Accounting, 4) Information Storage and Retrieval, 5) Education, or 6) Programming.

Seek out salespeople who are software oriented; you will find only subtle differences between hardware systems. It is the quantity, and quality, of the available programs that should guide your purchase decision. As with videogames, the ready availability of a wide variety of programs is essential.

A knowledgeable consumer is the best customer. Read a few of the computer magazines. If you are considering serious computing, read up on computer languages (most computers come with a version of BASIC, but new languages like LOGO and PILOT are better for children), and accessory devices like printers (essential for word processing), and modems (which permit connection to telephone program services).

Blumenthal's book is written for beginners, as are several others available at your local bookstore. Stick to the current titles — the personal computers industry changes very quickly.

Finally, here's a tip for computer shopping — visit the computer stores of off-hours, like weekday mornings, to ensure personal attention.

Family Focus

By Dawn Harris
Extension Home Economist

With the recent warm weather, a lot of homes are having problems with flooded basements. In areas of homes where humidity is high, such as basements, bathrooms and possibly closets, mildew may be a problem. Molds that cause mildew are always in the air but need moisture to grow. Mildew leaves a musty odor and discolors fabrics, sometimes causing them to rot.

Damp, dark, warm and poorly aired cellars, crawl spaces and clothes closets; draperies and rugs in basements; shower curtains; and clothes stored when damp and/or dirty are all perfect places for mildew growth.

The spread of mildew in moist environments can be prevented or remedied with water-proffing, ventilation, and suds and water care. Here are a few mildew prevention tips:

--Control causes of dampness. Replace cracked or defective mortar around the house. Check to make sure drainage is adequate. Consider waterproofing concrete and other masonry walls above grounds. Seal absorbent brick and other surfaces. Prevent moisture from entering crawl spaces by spreading a layer of moisture barrier material over the soil under the building.

--Good ventilation helps remove moisture. When outside air is drier than inside air, the air outside absorbs excess moisture. Use an electric fan to circulate air, if natural breezes are not sufficient. In hot, humid weather, air conditioners remove warm air, cool it and circulate the cool air back into a room. A dehumidifier helps control humidity. When using an air conditioner or dehumidifier, keep windows and doors closed. Don't operate dehumidifiers below 65 degrees -F, frost may form in the coils and damage them.

If the house is very damp, turning the heat on for a short time may help. Then open doors and windows to let moist air out. A light burned in a closet will help dry that area.

--Keep closets, basements, bathrooms and other susceptible areas as clean as possible. The method will depend on the surface. Some surfaces may require regular care with detergent suds, while others may require special cleaners or disinfectants, such as chlorine bleach.

--Prevent mildew growth on home furnishings. Store furnishings only when clean and dry. Even many synthetic fibers that resist mildew must be kept clean. Under the right conditions, soil on these textiles can start mildew growth on other fabrics they come in contact with.

--Water repellent sprays, mildew inhibitors, fungicides and chemicals to absorb moisture help keep fabrics and surfaces moisture and mold free. Available in department, drug or building supply stores, these products are sold under various trade names. Always use them according to directions and keep them out of the reach of children and pets.

--Upholstered pieces, mattresses, rugs and carpets need to be treated differently because mildew can penetrate deeply. When possible, start by taking the mildewed item outside and brush mold away with a broom. Run the upholstery attachment of a vacuum cleaner over the surface to draw out more mold. Dispose of the bag or sweepings outside to avoid scattering mold spores through the house.

If the item is still damp, dry it with an electric heater or fan. Sun and air thoroughly to stop mold growth.

If mildew remains on upholstered furniture, wipe it with a cloth dampened in a diluted alcohol solution (1 cup denatured or rubbing alcohol to 1 cup of water). Dry the item thoroughly.

Sponge mildewed rugs and carpets with a rug shampoo, or use an electric shampoo machine. If possible, let the article dry in the sun.

--Mildew on leather may also be wiped away with a cloth dampened in an alcohol solution. Dry in a current of air or use a fan for better circulation. If mildew remains, wash with saddle soap. Wipe with a damp cloth and dry in an airy place.

More complete directions on preventing and removing mildew may be found in Extension bulletin HG-68, "How to Prevent and Remove Mildew," available from the county Cooperative Extension Service office.

SLOWLY-There's a muddy road ahead, but first this driver has to make it through the temporary lake formed by the early spring thaw. This scene was on Cutler Road just west of Airport Road, but it was typical of many small, and some large, ponds that formed when temperatures prematurely soared last week. Local farmers join protest group

Tony Thelen, of Pewamo and Lee Ormston, of St. Johns, joined a group of farmers and cooperative officials who traveled to Washington, D.C., March 6-8, to lobby Congress for legislation to ease farm credit problems.

More than 120 farmer-members, directors and officials from the 12 districts of the national Farm Credit System will take part in the Washington legislative fly-in.

A 30-member delegation will represent the Seventh District, headquartered in St. Paul, Minn., which provides credit and financial services to farmers and their cooperatives in North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan.

The fly-in is being organized by the Farm Credit Council, the System's national trade association.

"Our goal is to bring more grassroots voices from rural America to Washington to urge congress and the Administration to agree on consistent long-term agricultural and economic policies," said Phil Hein, Farm Credit Services, St. Paul District board chairman and dairy farmer from Stratford, Wis.

"The ability of Federal Land Bank Associations, Production Credit Associations and other lenders to provide credit to agriculture is dependent on a strong farm income," Hein said. "Farm income is directly affected by national economic policies."

Kindergarten students need to enroll

The St. Johns Public Schools are once again starting the search for children who will be ready to enter kindergarten in the fall. A child's age is the factor which usually prompts parents and schools to begin anticipating a child's entrance into a kindergarten classroom.

State law specifies that a child must be five years of age by Dec. 1 to qualify for school registration. However, age is not an infallible guide, nor the sole criterion used in this district to help parents make the decision as to the best time for their child to begin the school program.

The school will help parents examine their child's social, physical and emotional maturity as it relates to school readiness.

Before scheduling, parents should contact Central Elementary School by March 18 at 224-9341, ext. 150.

Parents will be scheduled and notified of a registration time and date during the week of April 8. During this initial registration time, each student's vision and hearing will be checked, the school nurse will talk to parents about physical examination and immunization requirements, plus any other special "individual health circumstances" that might be of concern. Students will also be screened by a professional staff to assist parents in determining school readiness.

Final school

assignments will be made during the summer.

Parents will be notified of the school their child is to attend, along with other necessary school opening information as soon as the summer scheduling is completed.

Kindergarten registration dates have been set for April 16, 18, 23 and 25.

Law officials complete marijuana investigation

A mother and her two children were arrested on alleged drug charges during the execution of a search warrant at 607 N. Ottawa, St. Johns, March 1 at 7:30 p.m., according to St. Johns Chief of Police, Lyle French.

Ida Kay Croley, 46, and two of her children, Darlene Kay Rhynard, 25, and Alvin James Rhynard, 24, were arrested at the scene on warrants that had been issued charging four adults with delivery of marijuana and conspiracy to deliver marijuana.

Another arrest warrant will be executed later.

According to French, the warrants were issued as a result of several months of investigation.

"A small amount of marijuana was seized during the search as well as numerous pieces of paraphernalia," said French.

Assisting the St. Johns Police Department were the Clinton County Sheriffs Department, Clinton County prosecutor and DeWitt Township Police Department.

Martlew shares insight into judgeship

By KIMBERLY MARSHALL
Staff Writer

District Court Judge Jeffrey Martlew has implemented plans to get the current backlog of cases under control within a year, and plans to initiate a new scheduling system April 1, to avoid backlog problems in the future.

In the new system, each day of the week is designated to handle certain cases, with time set aside for urgent matters that come up unexpectedly.

"The new system will allow us to process more cases quicker," said Martlew.

Martlew is impartial in levying stiff fines and sentences in drunk driving cases.

"When people see the fines levied and names of offenders in the paper, it has a deterring effect," said Martlew. "One of the purposes of sentencing, aside from rehabilitation, is to act as a deterrent on society. It's not just to punish, but to help correct conduct, and hopefully to reduce problems."

Martlew is having an easier time adjusting to his new job than he thought he would.

"Fred Lewis, former district court judge, had a very good staff put together," said Martlew. "I'm glad they decided to stay on. We work very well together."

Martlew feels that cooperation and good communication is essential with the prosecutors office. He and Jon Newman, city prosecutor, are developing just that kind of a relationship, according to Martlew.

Martlew welcomes the public into the courroom.

"The courtroom is in a public building. Almost all district court trials are open to the public. The public is welcome to come and observe."

"I want to bring sentencing within the expectations of the public," said Martlew.

MOCK INTERVIEWS CONDUCTED AT HIGH SCHOOL-(l-r) Kathy Mion, of Elias Brothers Restaurant, and Penny Overmyer, 17, St. Johns High School senior, are involved in an interview. Picture by Kimberly Marshall, CCN.

Interview day held locally

By KIMBERLY MARSHALL
Staff Writer

St. Johns High School Career Interview Day, March 6, provides a student with an opportunity to encounter an employer in the interview process.

The students are first trained in resume writing and filling out applications. This year 280 out of 300 seniors volunteered for the interview experience.

The opportunity to practice and then receive suggestions from the interviewer is designed to add to their skill level and help them develop self confidence for future interviews, that may have vital impact on their career.

Penny Overmyer, 17, believes that the interviews are a good experience.

"The interviewer asked good questions-ones I really had to think about," said Overmyer. "They point out things to help you in interviews and in writing resumes."

In preparing for the interview Overmyer worked on a resume and dressed well.

"The interviews are taken very seriously by the students," she said.

Geoff Washburn, of Clinton Memorial Hospital, has participated as an interviewer for three years.

"It's a good opportunity for the seniors as well as the employers. Every year I'm more impressed as students are better prepared. The resumes that have come through are very good," said Washburn. "The interviews are taken seriously by the students."

Interviews

Washburn tries to create the exact same situation that the students might face in the future.

"The interviews help students realize exactly what's out here for them. I like to ask them what characteristics they have that will fit in best with the organization," said Washburn. "I intentionally create silent moments to see if students will take the initiative and begin a conversation."

The interviews are a chance for potential employers to see what talents the graduating seniors possess.

"Every year at least one real job interview results from this program," said Charlotte Grady, counselor and coordinator for the fourth annual career interview day.

"The program went very well—all 30 of the interviewers were able to participate and when the day was over, they all indicated they wanted to return next year," said Grady. "One of the interviewers told me that he found it 'very refreshing' to talk with the seniors."

Woman's club meets

Members of the St. Johns Woman's Club met March 6 at the home of Iva Schafer. Mary Lenon and Jean Leon were co-hostesses.

Reports were made by Dorie Barnes, Dee Morriss, Adele Jones, Mary Lenon and Jean Leon, who attended the GFWC Michigan State Federation of Women's Clubs Legislation Day held at the Capital Park Hotel in Lansing, February 26.

Highlights of the Legislative program were talks by Attorney General Frank Kelly on the office and role of Attorney General; Health Care for Seniors by Sue Haviland, Gerontological Clinical Nurse Specialist faculty member at MSU College of Nursing; Social Services in Michigan by Dr. Agnes Mansour, Department of Social Services director; a panel discussion about Michigan utilities with Roger Fischer, chief of staff of the Michigan Public Service Commission; Joseph Yuchinsky, Michigan Citizens Lobby; and a panel discussion on becoming a candidate for public office by Susan Kuhn, County Commissioner, Kathy Horste, Constable, Senator Harry DeMaso, and Ieva Inglis, a candidate's wife.

The meeting concluded with the election of officers for the year 1985-1986. The new officers will be: Dorothy Lawrence, president; Dee Morriss, vice president; Mary Lenon, recording secretary; Dorothea Barnes, treasurer; Jean Leon, corresponding secretary; and Directors, Hilda Hufnagel, Etta Smith, Martha Foust, Virginia Jones, Jean Staley, and Marta Giesecke.

The next meeting will be at the home of Marta Giesecke on March 20 and the program will be a talk about RAVE presented by its founder and St. Johns Woman's Club member, Janet Holden.

Robertson appointed to abuse group

The Honorable Marvin Robertson, Probate Judge of Clinton County, has been appointed to a State Work Group on Elder Abuse by Olivia P. Maynard, director of the Office of Services to the Aging. The work group was formed from the State Advisory Council on Aging.

Recognizing that elder abuse is a growing problem, the State Advisory Council is endeavoring to identify potential resources to address and prevent this abuse. Following intensive study of the needs of older Americans who are vulnerable to abuse, neglect, and exploitation, the Elder Abuse Work Group will present its findings and recommendations to the State Commission on Aging for action.

While studying all areas of elder abuse, the work group will emphasize the area of unintentional neglect. To date, statistics reporting this much misunderstood area of elder abuse, have not been compiled. But, it is estimated that in addition to the one million reported cases of intentional abuse, physical, psychological, or financial, many other older Americans are unintentionally neglected by their families and the community in which they live because of a lack of awareness of their physical and psychological needs. "Much in the way of educating the public is needed to detect unintentional neglect," says Maynard, head of the agency responsible for the work of the Council. "With the trend for greater longevity, it is believed that cases of elder abuse will rise," she cautions.

The State Advisory Council on Aging is comprised of 39 members who study aging problems and make recommendations to the State Commission.

An equal opportunity, affirmative action college

I like my house.
It's special.
Sure... the kids haven't been too kind to it.
But the carpet can be replaced. Walls can be painted. Could use some new tile for the bathroom, too. Maybe a new sundeck. Guess that's part of the charm.
Boy, is my house charming. Too charming.
Glad I found out about a Clinton Bank home improvement loan. Up to ten thousand dollars... and no second mortgage.
Thanks, Clinton Bank.

CORUNNA ATTEMPTS BLOCK AGAINST MARTENS-This Cavalier found he had to jump a lot higher to keep Redwing star, Marty Martens, from scoring two of his game-high 32 points in a game which took place at St. Johns, Friday, March 1. In the background is John Keenoy awaiting a possible rebound. Keenoy (54), numbers partially hidden, accounted for 12 of his team's rebounds as the Redwings came alive in the second half and bombed the hapless Cavaliers, 80-54. Adding points to the season closeout game was Dennis Faivor with 13 points and 11 rebounds, while Brian Bates added 10 points. Photo by Harold Schmaltz, CCN.

The onslaught of inclement weather may leave some area residents in need of emergency services. The Clinton Memorial Hospital Homebound Meals program may be able to assist shut-in senior citizens in Clinton County.

Michaeline Raczka, registered dietitian at Clinton Memorial and Homebound Meals director, emphasized that when a homebound resident is in need of meals, particularly during the kind of weather mid-Michigan has experienced lately, hospital prepared meals may be a solution that will help ease the situation. The meals are prepared at Clinton Memorial and delivered to several drop-off points throughout the county. Volunteer drivers then deliver the meals to clients of the Homebound Meals program. Over 130

volunteers provide the meal delivery service, reaching most areas of Clinton County, including Bath, DeWitt, Ovid, Elsie, Fowler, Westphalia, and St. Johns.

"No one should be without balanced meals, even during inclement weather. Our drivers are extremely dedicated individuals and make every effort to get the meals out daily," explained Raczka. The program includes delivery of hot and cold meals throughout the week, and delivery of meals on Friday for the weekends.

"If you, or someone you know, has been hindered by the weather and cannot get out, please call our Homebound office. Our main concern is that the homebound individual's needs be taken care of now. We'll work out the details later." For more information on the Homebound Meals Program, county residents are urged to contact the Dietary Department at Clinton Memorial Hospital, 224-6881, Extension 357.

Beck's Farm Market celebrates

"Our first year in the business, all we had was a horse trailer full of strawberries," said Ben Beck, owner of Beck's Farm Market on U.S. 27. "The next year, we had a little roadside stand. We've added on every year since.

This week, Ben and Barb Beck are celebrating their 27th anniversary in the farm market business. Since their meager beginnings in 1958, the Beck's have advanced to a fully staffed, fully stocked market, complete with their own scratch bakery, lunch counter, and meat and sausage department.

According to Beck, their sausage department is one of the more unique additions to the market. Their sausage maker, Svend Albrechtsen, a native of Denmark, makes up to 20 different kinds of sausage, as well as smokes his own hams and bacon.

Beck attributes his continuing growth to his desire to meet the needs of his regular customers, something he has made a long standing practice.

"Back then, customers would come in and tell us to get certain products," he said. "They wanted us to save them a trip into town. From there, we just kept growing into it."

Today, Beck has a staff of 45 full and part-time employees. The facilities are complete with modern computers and an energy management program. In the near future, he is planning to add a cash register scanning system.

This spring, Beck is planning to continue offering his full fledged garden center at the market. Such added seasonal departments have not only increased his popularity for the seasonal travelers, but has also met one of his needs to be a part of his community as a whole.

He says he feels that it's important to remain on a personal level with his customers. His way of creating a friendlier environment each year is to sponsor several events, including an annual Halloween bash and this week's anniversary party.

As part of this week's four-day celebration, the Becks are offering free cake and ice cream from "the largest anniversary cake in the mid-west." The public is invited to stop by the market Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday to take part in the celebration and register for 27 bags of groceries to be given away.

According to Beck, the groceries and other free prizes will be distributed at the conclusion of the two-week anniversary sale, which begins Tuesday.

Beck's Farm Market is open seven days a week from 8:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m.

"OUR FIRST YEAR in business is represented by this picture. All we had was a horse trailer full of strawberries," said Ben Beck, owner of Beck's Farm Market. The following year, they made their first roadside stand, shown above. Beck's has become a county landmark and rest stop for many travelers going up and down US-27 north of St. Johns.

Country music jam session

For those who missed the country music jam session March 3 at the Oakwood Lounge, Pewamo, another one has been scheduled for March 31, 4-10 p.m.

More than 100 people turned out to listen to the music. Musicians were changed every 15 minutes to add a variety of music to the jam session.

"The idea of a jam session is to bring musicians together to share their talent with each other and an audience," said Bill Trommater, local country musician, who coordinated the event with his wife, Pat. "One part of the session is just taking turns playing music for the audience. Musicians also meet and form new groups on the spot; or after the microphones are turned off, we may just sit around the tables and play, sing songs, and just pick-up new ideas from each other."

Promising new musicians to seasoned professionals played bluegrass, old-time country, new country, folk, country rock and original music, during the jam session which ran from 2-10 p.m.

"Two dozen musicians took turns performing on the Oakwood stage. They kept the audience thoroughly entertained all Sunday afternoon and evening," said just love to play country music for fun," said Trommater.

The musicians who performed were: Pat and Bill Trommater, Greg McAllister, McKay, Greenville; and Touch of Country Band, Owosso.

"This session went so well that another has already been scheduled for March 31, 4-10 p.m., at the Oakwood Lounge, Pewamo; all country musicians are welcome," said Trommater.

TRIO HARMONIZES EASILY-Bill and Pat Trommater, of Lyons, and John Fischer, of East Lansing, show their ability to sing in harmony at the jam session.

Steelhead fishing returns

Good natural reproduction and increased plantings should make the spring steelhead season a repeat of 1984, when catches were the best in a decade, reports the AAA Michigan.

Most state fishery biologists contacted by AAA expect results to equal last year. However, a significant number—at Clare, Imlay City, Roscommon, Plainwell and Escanaba—predict generally better results for 1985 in their areas.

Peak runs are expected in early to mid-April in West Michigan, early April to mid-May in East Michigan, early April in Southeast Michigan and late April to mid-May in the Upper Peninsula.

More than 1.7 million steelhead were planted by the Department of Natural Resources in 1983, a 13 percent increase over 1982. Lake Michigan received 485,000 yearlings and 850,000 fall fingerlings two years ago. About 210,000 yearlings and 150,000 fall fingerlings were planted in Lake Huron. Lake Superior received 85,000 yearlings in 1983 and 90,000 more yearlings were planted in the Huron River at Flat Rock and in St. Clair County rivers in Southeast Michigan.

Steelhead planted in 1983 now should weigh between 2½ to 5 pounds. D.N.R. officials said the 1982 plants would range from 6 to 9 pounds. Four-year-old steelhead generally should vary from 9 to 12 pounds.

A major factor in a steelhead's size is the length of time it has spent in one of the Great Lakes or a stream. The more time spent in a great lake, the larger the fish will be because food is more readily available.

The 1985 AAA

Steelhead Guide lists 43 Michigan rivers and streams where the best steelhead fishing can be expected.

In West Michigan, the Muskegon, St. Joseph and Big and Little Manistee rivers are ranked as the best for steelhead fishing.

The East Branch of the Au Gres River and the Au Sable River should be the top spots for East Michigan fishermen. Most Thumb area steelheading is done from banks and piers.

Best steelhead results for fishermen in Southeast Michigan should be trolling on the St. Clair River while the Huron River should provide the best results for those wading or along the shore.

Steelhead action in the U.P. will be strong on the Big Cedar and Manistique rivers along Lake Michigan; the Huron, Rock and Sucker rivers off Lake Superior, and the Carp River along Lake Huron.

In spring, stream fishermen who prefer using bait should find good results from salmon eggs or roe from a captured steelhead. Tuck the eggs into a piece of cheesecloth or old nylon stocking to make a sack one-half in diameter. Place the little bag, called a spawn bag, on a hook and allow it to bump along the bottom, either by casting upstream or by letting it drift down into the upper end of likely looking holes.

Like their cousins, the brook trout, steelhead like deep holes, dark pockets under stream banks and secret little places behind logs or under stumps or rock ledges. Good catches also can be found on spawning beds with spawn bags, spinners or flies.

Sportsmen should check specific rules for individual rivers in the 1985-86 Michigan Fishing Guide because some upstream limits and other specifics may have changed since last season. Some rivers are open all year while others open April 1 or April 27, the start of the general trout season. The guide is free when purchasing a new fishing license.

Californians say that more people visit the Golden Gate Bridge, which spans San Francisco Bay in California, than any other man-made wonder.

Agriculture and Natural Resources (ANR) Week formerly known as Farmers Week will be held March 18-22 at Michigan State University.

At ANR Week you have the opportunity to choose from more than 200 educational sessions ranging from Family Health and Home to Farm Management. In addition to the educational program, ANR Week also provides tours of the University Farms and Research centers, special programs on tourism and recreation and hundreds of commercial and education exhibits.

While browsing through the ANR Week program, I found several sessions that might be of interest to the readers.

There is a short course, "Farm Financial Planning Using Microcomputers," to aid farmers in the calculation and interpretation of long run farm financial planning and decision making techniques such as discounted cash-flows, break-even analysis and budgeting. Pre-registration is required.

Anyone who has been contemplating forming a partnership or a cooperation, the program "Inside the Family Farm-A Partnership or a Cooperation?" is a must. Topics on the economic feasibility, how to function within the partnership and what assets should be included in the agreement are all subjects that will be covered at this meeting.

Interested in Telfarm, but not sure how the entire system works? ANR Week is the perfect opportunity for you to look into it. A Telfarm Open House will be held on Wednesday and Thursday at the computer center.

Thinking of incorporating integrated pest management into your cropping program? A field crop scout training session offers intensive training in this area. Pre-registration is required.

Be at the Beef Cattle Research Center Tuesday from 9:00 a.m. to noon for demonstrations on various management skills that are important in commercial cow-calf herds, purebred herds, and in feed lot operations. Also take time to tour the facility and the exhibits of the MSU purebred cattle and beef cattle research projects.

"Environmental Conditions in Swine Production" is a series of presentations on the effects of environment on various aspects of swine production. This series addresses economic concerns, proper environment and how to recognize poor conditions among other topics.

Dairy farmers should plan to attend the many sessions on dairy including "Survival For Michigan Dairy Farmers-Sell More Milk," and the "Dairy Herd Management Workshops."

This is only a small sample of the wide range of sessions available during ANR Week. You will also find sessions on sheep, goats and horses. There are youth programs, nutrition programs, gardening sessions and more.

For more information on the opportunities waiting for you during ANR Week, pick up a program at the Extension Office.

Westphalia's will celebrate 150 years

EDITORS NOTE: The following story was provided by the Westphalia, Missouri Sesquicentennial Committee.

As plans are underway in the Clinton County community of Westphalia, Michigan, to celebrate its 150th anniversary in 1986, similar plans are presently underway in a Missouri community by the same name of "Westphalia". The difference between the two is that the Missouri Community will celebrate its 150th anniversary on Aug. 5, 1985, one year before the Clinton County Westphalia.

Westphalia, Missouri is located in the northern foothills of the Ozark Mountains. In central Osage County, it is situated 15 miles south-east of Jefferson City, the state capitol. The establishment of the community dates back to the mid-1830's when families from Paderborn and Oelde, both in Westfalen Province of Germany settled on the area of the Maries River. In 1835, the first Mass was celebrated by a diocesan priest from the Rhieland Province. He was later replaced by a group of Jesuit missionary priests who made Westphalia their headquarters for central Missouri.

Fr. Ferdinand Helia S.J. was the leader of this missionary adventure and today bears the distinction of being the "Apostle of Central Missouri". An inter-parish high school in nearby Jefferson City bears his name and presently enrolls some 800 students.

A landmark in the community of 311 households is the limestone St. Joseph's Church, begun in 1848 with alterations in 1883 and in 1905. It was placed on the National Register of Historic Places in 1972.

In the farming community today, livestock (beef and hogs) is the basis of the economy. Much of the area is oak covered hills. In addition to farming, the community is home to many who work in the factories and offices of the nearby state capitol city.

Among the plans for celebrating the town's Sesquicentennial are a published history of the community, and a celebration on August 5, 1985. This celebration will include a parade with the famous "Marching Commets" of Westphalia's Fatima High School. This regional high school enrolls students from some eight towns found ed from the original Westphalia Colony of Germany immigration. The band, which recently participated in the New Orleans Mardi Gras, is well known for its large numbers (several hundred students) and quality. The parade and festivities will be held in the town's uptown area.

On Pentecost Sunday, 1974, some 15,000 persons attended a similar parade and festival commemorating the 100th anniversary of the death of the Jesuit, Fr. Ferdinand Helias (1874-1974).

Anyone desiring more information on the Sesquicentennial may write to the Sesquicentennial Committee, Westphalia, Missouri, 65085.

Deadline set for farm grain loans

Price support loans on 1984 wheat, oats and barley may be obtained until March 31, Pete LoDico, County Executive Director of ASCS office said. Loans on corn and soybeans may be made until May 31.

The ASCS commodity loan program is used by many farmers as a tool for marketing their grain. It provides interim capital for operating costs while farmers look for better markets. As of Feb. 26, local producers had obtained federal price support loans on more than 703,000 bushels of their 1984 grain crops. County loan rates per bushel are: wheat $3.23, oats $1.39, barley $2.07, corn $2.50 and soybeans $4.95. Regular loans have a nine-month maturity date with variable monthly interest rates. LoDico said farmers must participate in the acreage reduction program to be eligible for price support loans. "In addition to loans, they are eligible for deficiency payments and use of the grain reserve." Strong participation is necessary to help increase grain prices and continue balancing supply with demand. He said the grain reserve is open for 1984 wheat, corn and barley. The crops may be placed in the reserve on maturity of regular price support loans. The reserve release levels will be $4.45 per bushel for wheat, $3.25 for corn, and $2.65 for barley. Storage payments will be 26.5 cents per bushel for wheat, corn and barley.

Farmers interested in obtaining a loan on their 1984 small grains should contact the Clinton County ASCS office, 306 Elm Street, St. Johns, MI 48879 on or before March 31.

St. Johns farmer to be honored

F. Dale Kuenzli, St. Johns, will be presented an award for distinguished service from the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources, Michigan State University, March 21.

The award will be presented at the President's Luncheon during Agriculture and Natural

Dale Kuenzli

Resources Week, March 18-22, MSU.

"Dale Kuenzli stands as a monument among his colleagues and peers in the Michigan bean industry," says Larry Copeland, MSU crop specialist. "He has received virtually every honor and recognition possible as a leader in the dry bean industry, a commodity which holds a special place in Michigan agriculture. However, his stature and influence go far beyond his role in the bean industry and impacts all of agriculture. Wherever Michigan Agricultural leaders congregate, Dale Kuenzli will be found and sought out—not only because he represents an authentic and credible voice of a very important Michigan agricultural commodity, but also because of the sphere of his influence which transcends the importance of a single commodity."

Kuenzli is currently president of the St. Johns Lions Club. He has been a 4-H Leader for more than 14 years and chairs the Beef Committee, Livestock Sale Committee and Carcass Class Evaluation Committee for Clinton County.

According to Copeland, Kuenzli has had success in every professional endeavor in which he has engaged since his graduation from MSU with a B.S. in Agricultural Education in 1959.

His professional career started when he accepted a position teaching vocational agriculture and as FFA advisor at Elkton-Pigeon-Bayport High School in March, 1959. He was active in the county livestock program for Huron County youth along with his regular teaching activities. He also had time to train state championship teams in Parliamentary Procedure and Farm Forum. During this time, he attended evening and summer classes at MSU, obtaining his M.A. degree in March of 1964.

In June of 1964, Kuenzli left teaching to take a position as a bean trader with Michigan Elevator Exchange, he not only was a part of a growing Bean Department, but was also instrumental in building programs that are a vital part of today's Michigan bean industry. He worked in a substantial way to develop seed and commercial bean marketing for the Northern Michigan Bean Growers Cooperative. This organization, originally established as a seed marketing cooperative for the Charlevoix dark red kidney bean industry, under Kuenzli's guidance developed a vigorous commercial market as well for northern Michigan bean growers that continues to the present time.

This program has made the northeast Michigan area a strong force in the northern Michigan Farm economy. It was during this time that Kuenzli served on the advisory committee for the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission Bean Project which successfully developed and demonstrated a seed and commercial bean drying capacity for the northern Michigan bean industry.

While still manager of the Michigan Elevator Exchange, Kuenzli became widely recognized as a leader in the Michigan bean industry, and became highly sought as a spokesperson for the bean industry and for Michigan agriculture by various statewide agricultural organizations.

He served six years as industry representative on the board of directors of the Michigan Crop Improvement Association (MCIA). As a member of the MCIA Building Committee, he was instrumental in the building of the Association's new office and laboratory facilities near MSU.

He is highly valued as an industry spokesperson for the Michigan Bean Industry, not only on bean and seed-related issues, but a wide range of agricultural concerns.

During this time, Kuenzli continued to develop as one of the foremost leaders in the bean industry. He served for several years on the board of the Michigan Bean Shippers Association (MBSA) and served this organization in many capacities, including terms as its vice-president and president. He also served the MBSA for six years as the industry representative on the Michigan Bean Commission.

In 1978, Kuenzli became president of a new corporation, Valley Marketing cooperative, Inc. This organization has grown to become the largest single handler of dry beans in Michigan, marketing about 25 percent of the total navy bean crop and 75 percent of the dry beans sold through cooperative elevators in Michigan.

In 1978, Kuenzli was awarded one of two citations given by MSU College of Agriculture and Natural Resources. This citation, presented by Dean James Anderson, cited Kuenzli as one of the College's two outstanding alumnus for 1978.

In 1979, an additional cooperation, ANV Corporation, was established. As president of ANV, Kuenzli was instrumental in negotiating $234 million of sales of dry edible beans from the United States to the government of Mexico, more than one-half of which comes from Michigan. This was the

"The purpose of the event is to provide 4-H'ers with the opportunity to compare their animals with those of other 4-H members and professional breeders and to be recognized for their accomplishments," said Theresa Silm, Clinton County 4-H youth agent.

All 4-H'ers will receive participation ribbons.

Morning musicale holds meet

Members of St. Johns Morning Musicales met on Thursday, February 28, at the home of Evangeline Caudy to continue their study of American music.

They enjoyed a program of contemporary music presented by three young people from St. Johns High School Music Department. Colleen McCarthy and Rodney Peck, singers, accompanied by Julie Stapleman, pianist, performed a group of songs from several of the musicals the high school has presented. Selections were from "Godspell," "Charlie Brown," "Tin-Type," "Annie," and from this year's award-winning musical, "Guys & Dolls."

To conclude the program, Mrs. Caudy played a piano solo, "Rigaudin" by Edward MacDowell, the first American composer to receive recognition in Europe.

The next meeting of the Morning Musicales will be March 14 at the home of Jean Woodbury. The St. Johns Morning Musicales is affiliated with the National Federation of Music Clubs.

Sheriffs Department Report

The Clinton County Sheriffs Department investigated a personal injury accident that occurred on US-27 north of Parks Road, March 1.

A vehicle driven by 25 year-old Robert J. Minott of St. Johns struck the back end of another vehicle, also north bound, driven by

Tornado designation termed

Do you know the difference between a tornado WATCH and a tornado WARNING? These are terms used by the National Weather Service, and knowing what they mean can save your life.

A tornado WATCH means that weather conditions are right for the development of tornadoes. If a tornado WATCH is broadcast by your local radio or television station, stay tuned for further advisories and be prepared to take cover.

If a tornado WARNING is issued, it means a tornado has actually been sighted. WARNINGS are issued for individual counties, and include the tornado's location and its direction and speed. If you are in or near its path, take cover immediately.

A tornado usually develops from a severe thunderstorm. During such weather, be alert for violent winds, hail, heavy rain, frequent lightning, funnel-shaped clouds, and a roaring noise. When in doubt, take cover; tornadoes are often hidden by rain or dust and can occur at night.

Both tornado WATCHES and WARNINGS are issued by the National Weather Service through local radio and television stations. Many communities also have special warning systems such as sirens. Be alert to weather advisories, and be prepared to take immediate action.

Goat club meetings are to continue

EDITORS NOTE: The following report was provided by Diana Johnson, club news reporter.

Monthly meetings are now underway with the Clinton Caprine 4-H Goat Club. The club again this year will feature seven different breeds of goats. Members will be learning about Toggenburg, Saanen, LaMancha, Alpine, Nubian, Pygmy and Angora goats.

This year the officers for the club will be: Aaron Dault--president, Ian Houston--vice-president, Cheryle Johnson--secretary, and Jason Roof--treasurer.

Because of the growing interest in the club, and due to the fact that members are now coming from all over Clinton County to the meetings, the club meetings will be held at the Capitol Federal Savings Community Room, downtown St. Johns.

Meetings are held the last Monday of every month at 7 p.m.

New membership will take place in March and April for the spring sign-up. If you are thinking of doing a 4-H Goat Project this year you may call Jim Roof at 224-7751, or Mike Winn at 224-7785, the club leaders.

For more information on 4-H contact the Clinton County Cooperative Extension Service, 306 Elm St., St. Johns, or call 224-3288.

largest single sale of dry edible beans in history and contributed substantially to the welfare of mid-Michigan farmers and elevators aside from its impact in other U.S. bean production regions.

Kuenzli's stature in Michigan agriculture is further attested by his selection in 1980 as an industry in the five-year review of the Department of Crop and Soil Sciences, a role that he carried out with his characteristic perception and business-like approach.

In 1980, Kuenzli was asked to chair a committee formed jointly by the Michigan Crop Improvement Association and the Michigan Foundation Seed Association to help generate support for the proposed Plant and Soil Sciences Building for the MSU Departments of Horticulture and Crop and Soil Sciences.

Kuenzli worked tirelessly on behalf of this proposed building, and was instrumental in helping the proposal to become a reality.

In February of 1984, Kuenzli was selected by MSU Dean James Anderson to be the spokesperson for Michigan Agriculture at the groundbreaking ceremony on the MSU Campus. His selection by Dean Anderson was a tribute to his efforts on behalf of the new building as well as his preeminence as a spokesperson for Michigan agriculture.

Kuenzli and his wife, Pat, have raised their family of four daughters (Leslie, Lisa, Jolene and Jennifer) and one son (John) on a farm near St. Johns. The family has lived in this area since 1967. Like Dale, Pat is also a graduate of MSU with B.A. and M.A. degrees in elementary education and teaches elementary school in the St. Johns school system. Two daughters (Lisa and Jolene) have earned degrees at MSU and a third is a graduate of Central Michigan University. Two children are presently in high school at St. Johns and are planning to enroll in MSU after graduation.

Stress discussed

During periods of financial strain, farm families often experience emotional stress.

Stress is fast becoming a major concern in the farm community, as financial pressure experiences by farmers in recent years has taken its toll. There are several methods for coping with stress, but people experiencing stress need to realize before they can start dealing with it.

Reducing stress can be as simple as giving yourself a pep talk. Try to eliminate negative thoughts about the situation causing stress, and concentrate on what can be done to solve the problem.

Others find it helpful to imagine a worst-case scenario for the stress-inducing situation and then plan what to do if the worst should happen. This bolsters the person's confidence in resolving the problem. Usually people exaggerate the severity of their problems and are relieved when things don't turn out that bad.

Exercising is a common method of alleviating stress. Just going for a brisk walk can be enough to prompt relaxation. These exercise times also offer a person the chance to think, and many people resolve their problems during these sessions.

Helping someone else often relieves stress by taking the person's mind off of his or her own problems for a while. Avoid letting anger and frustration boil inside. People feeling stressed should try to express their feelings and talk over their problems with friends or family members.

People also need to recognize when they can no longer deal with their stress alone and then seek assistance. At that point, talking to a priest or minister, a counselor or some other person trained in stress management is the best action to take. Remember, it is a sign of strength to know that you need help.

Projects recommended

What 4-H project teaches self-sufficiency, saves families money, beautifies communities and makes you feel needed? Four-H horticulture projects do and now is the time of year to consider getting involved.

You can have a flower or vegetable garden if you live in the city, in the suburbs or on a farm. Gardening projects can bring families, friends, and even whole communities together with a common goal.

"It's very rewarding to see your hard work take shape before your eyes and produce that first blossom, fruit or vegetable," said one excited 4-H member last summer. "It even taught me patience."

Gardening projects can lead to improved confidence and self-esteem. Gardening can be therapeutic too—working in a garden can relieve tension and frustration.

The fruits and vegetables grown will save food dollars, and surplus crops can be sold to raise money too.

But there's still snow on the ground you say? What's the use in getting excited about gardening when it will be weeks yet before you can start to plant your garden? There's a lot you can do now to begin 4-H garden meetings or planning for your home garden. If you haven't gotten them already, send for a variety of garden and seed catalogs.

Now is the time to think about what you want to grow in your garden and to decide how much of each item you'll need. Once you've decided what you want to grow, make a "shopping list." Then you can order seeds from the catalogs or buy them at the various garden centers.

If you'll be starting some of your own plants, decide when is the appropriate time to start them and make plans to do so.

Know the size of your garden plot and what you want to plant, then set down and sketch out a garden plan for your plot. Consider heights of various items, the room each plant needs to spread, and be sure to allow room for transplants when you sketch your plan.

Gardening is a project everyone can enjoy and there really are some things you can do to get started while the snow is still on the ground.

If you want to join a 4-H gardening club or volunteer to be a gardening leader and don't know who to contact in your neighborhood, call the Cooperative Extension Service at 224-3288.

Participants sought for broiler contest

Four-H'ers are invited to participate in the 1985 Michigan 4-H Broiler Contest, June 14 at Michigan State University.

Young people who wish to participate should contact the Cooperative Extension Service Office by March

Makeup day schedule set at Fulton

Students in the Fulton School District will be making up days during the originally scheduled spring break and at the end of the school year. These days are being rescheduled due to time lost for inclement weather.

The new calendar was determined by a six person committee who sought input from many parents in the community.

The new calendar is as follows:
Spring Recess—April 5
Classes Resume—April 8
Memorial Day Recess—May 27
Last Day for Students—June 4
No School/Teacher Record Day—June 5

It should also be noted that if any further time is missed due to inclement weather, these days will be added to the end of the calendar.

15 to order chicks. All participants will be provided with a minimum of 15 chicks at the beginning of the project and must bring four to enter in the state contest in June.

"Raising broilers requires little investment and facilities and takes only seven weeks," says Theresa Silm, Clinton County 4-H youth agent. "Along the way, 4-H'ers can enjoy the challenge and excitement of watching young chicks mature to marketable broilers.

Youths may enter in one of three divisions: Junior Division, ages 9-11; Intermediate Division, ages 12-14; and Senior Division, ages 15-

19. Entrants in each division will be judged on an essay and records kept on growth, amount of feed used and mortality rate, and will answer questions on their projects.

For more information about this or other 4-H activities, contact the Cooperative Extension Service, or call 224-3288.
