Schuette speaks at dinner

Bill Schuette

By KIMBERLY MARSHALL
Staff Writer

Being a new congressman is thrilling, exhilarating and humbling, according to Bill Schuette.

Congressman Bill Schuette and state legislators Senator Allen Cropsey and Representative Gary Randall, attended the Clinton County Lincoln Appreciation Dinner April 11, in the St. Johns High School cafeteria.

When Schuette was sworn in as a congressman he said three things went through his thoughts, "We are fortunate to live in a country where we can elect our own representatives and what a solemn responsibility it is to represent you and to be your voice. The third thought that occurred to me was the political irony of after having campaigned against big spending and democrats, that I was sworn in by Tip O'Neill. It could only happen in America."

"When people ask me why I voted for the MX missile, I tell them we need to have a strong America. We need to bargain with the Soviets from a position of strength, not weakness. I remember Afghanistan, when that passenger plane was shot down and most recently, when an unarmed serviceman was shot and allowed to bleed without medical assistance for a half-hour."

Schuette is also a co-sponsor of the recently introduced Farm Bureau Farm Bill.

"The bill is an effort to put as much information as possible in front of the Agriculture Committee (of which Schuette is a member) for discussion and debate. I feel it is a positive and different alternative to administrative proposals. I like it because it doesn't call for sudden and severe action. It is also export-oriented, against unfair foreign subsidies and anti-embargo."

Kevin Redman, of St. Johns, was introduced during the dinner. He is a student at Albion College. Redman plans to organize a Young Republicans club for Clinton County this June when he returns to St.

Johns for the summer. Paul and Liz No received a special plaque honoring them for their years of service to the Republican Party. The dinner was planned this year by Richard L. Koenigsnecht, a prosecutor.

Special acknowledgements went to Herbruc Cheese Counter, Johns for the headquarters at the reception and to the Floral Petal, St. Johns, for table arrangements.

Firehall addition underway soon

By KIMBERLY MARSHALL
Staff Writer

St. Johns city commissioners accepted an $99,634 bid from V.A. Bliesener Construction, Lansing, to begin construction of the St. Johns Fire Hall addition.

The base bid submitted by V. A. Bliesener Construction was $82,503. With the addition of three alternatives, including the hose tower, police department alterations and an additional eight feet, Bliesener's bid was lowest.

Randy Humphrey, city manager, said the fire hall addition will hopefully be done by August.

Humphrey spoke about the fire hall during the March Chamber of Commerce meeting.

"There will be no additional bonds and taxes for the purpose of building the addition. The commission has been saving money for 10 years for this project," said Humphrey. "Basically, the city will be paying a construction company to build a shell and install plumbing. The city will then provide materials for the completion of the fire hall and firemen and community volunteer will provide the labor."

The fire hall will have four bays, with a capacity for seven trucks. It will cover a total of 5,000 square feet.

"A parking plan has been devised for the firemen, so there will no longer be cars and trucks parked all over the road," said Humphrey.

In other business, the commission approved a $2,000 plan to repair the outdoor swimming pool at St. Johns City Park.

According to Diane Edwards, city assessor, the pool lost six inches of water a day last summer. This increased the cost of keeping it filled, heated and treated.

Bornor Restoration Incorporated, of Lansing, who are skilled in pool restoration, will saw cut all cracks to one-half inch wide and one half-inch deep, then sand blast clean. Polysulfide elastic compound will be used to fill the cracks.

The Downtown Merchant's Association requested the city's assistance in their effort to lay the conduit for future new street lights.

The association feels that this is a good time to lay the conduit since the streets and sidewalks are going to be torn up anyway for the downtown restoration project. The project is estimated to cost $10,000. They would like the city to pay half and the association would pay the other half.

The commission decided they would investigate the proposal and make a decision later.

A public hearing been set for April 7:50 p.m., on the proposal to establish the Industrial Park as an Industrial Development District.

As an established district, it would allow the city to grant property tax incentives to provide a stimulus for industrial establishments.

Aco to open doors soon

Michigan's largest retail hardware chain, opened its 45th store in St. Johns at South Point Mall, April 16.

According to William Aiken, president and chief executive officer of ACO Inc., the St. Johns area and particularly a mall like South Point, offers an ideal site for an ACO Inc. store.

"The public and private sector of St. Johns have worked together to build a community with great vitality. Our location at South Point Mall provides excellent access for our many 'do-it-yourself' customers who appreciate the convenient parking within close proximity of the store entrance," said Aiken.

ACO Inc. has set a standard throughout Michigan by offering its customers a large variety of quality products at low prices.

ACO, Inc. has also developed a comprehensive training program for its sales and service personnel to enable them to assist the chain's many "do-it-yourself" customers with cost-saving and efficient methods for accomplishing home improvement projects.

Substance abuse program held

During the week of April 9-12, an extensive drug education program was taught to about 350 ninth grade students at St. Johns High School.

The instructors were Officer Gary Markman from the City Police Department, high school teachers Wayne Morrison and Linda Brown, and student teacher Joe Cook.

During the week, guest speakers, lectures, movies, handout material, displays, and a final quiz were the format of the unit.

Guest speakers were Suzy Endora de Clipp, from Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) and Joan Grant, from the Clinton County Substance Abuse Center.

SADD program to be started

The Fowler Students Against Drinking and Driving (SADD) will be presenting an assembly May 17 during the morning for students and at 8 p.m. in the evening for all who are interested.

The program will include a film, presentation by some of the members, a doctor and County Deputy. There will also be a chance to see and discuss the three "Contracts for Life".

The program is being presented by people concerned about their friends and relatives being involved in an accident.

Sheriff's Report

A man was booked into the county jail for entering without permission after he had broken into a house to use the phone after his car broke down April 5.

Upon further investigation by Clinton County Sheriff's deputies, it was discovered that the person was also involved in a hit and run accident in DeWitt township. He was also charged for drunk driving.

Vernon T. Barnhart, 9617 Riverside Dr., Grand Ledge, was not hurt April 5 when he went to pass some cars on W. Grand River near Francis Rd. and collided with a vehicle that was parked in the left lane with out lights on.

Deputies handled a total of 97 complaints over the week including, three personal injury accidents, 12 property damage accidents, one car/deer accident, one breaking and entering, six domestics, two malicious destruction of properties, 12 suspicious activities checked out. A total of 30 people were booked into jail, nine of them for drunk driving. Jail census is 51.

Superintendent asked to resign

By KIMBERLY MARSHALL
Staff Writer

A petition calling for the resignation of Ned Curtis, Fulton School Board Superintendent, was presented during the schoolboard meeting April 8.

The petition, which had approximately 250 signatures, was turned over to the school bookkeeper to make sure all signatures were those of registered voters.

According to schoolboard regulations, only board members themselves can fire a superintendent, not the public.

The citizens who signed the petition are upset because Curtis suspended FFA activities and asked for the resignation of the teacher who is the FFA advisor, following incidents that occurred on a FFA trip to Lansing.

Several FFA members who were to receive awards at the state convention were not allowed to attend. The president of the Fulton chapter and his father were allowed to attend and accept the awards on behalf of the absent members.

Curtis also had supporters in the crowd, which numbered close to 100 people.

One man commented that it seemed like it was always the same group of people trying to tear the school down, instead of helping to correct problems with constructive criticism. Another woman commented she didn't think the FFA advisor had been doing his job for quite some time.

Products on Parade

If you're like me, you spend a good part of your life coping with small aggravations. For instance, fiddling with the hot and cold water taps to get the temperature of your shower just right.

Well, a new Michigan company, Acutemp, Co. of Ann Arbor, has a product that can make your life easier--and safer. It is the Acutemp Instant Water Heater. And it's wonderful.

Here's how it works. You like your showers at 110 degrees? Just set the dial and you'll get it instantly for as long as you like--even when there are changes in incoming water temperature, pressure or rate of flow. No more surprised shrieks when somebody in the kitchen below decides to run the dishwasher while you're lathering up.

The dial gives you a temperature range from a tepid 40 degrees to a torrid 160 degrees, the latter hot enough for sanitizing whatever it is you want to sanitize. Thus, the instant water heater is recommended for residential and commercial use--wherever safety, controlled water temperature and energy efficiency are a must.

The Acutemp Instant Water Heater is compact (the unit measures 14½ by 23 inches) and can be mounted close to the points of hot water use to save dual pipe runs. And it's built to be safe--fully fused to protect against overloads or overheating. What is more, it is built to Rolls Royce engineering standards of the most durable materials; copper, brass, stainless steel and solid state electronics.

The average family uses hot water only about 90 minutes a day. Why, then, do we need to keep the old hot water tank going 24 hours a day? Acutemp says its instant heaters can save you a lot of money--$250 if you use gas and $550 if you use electricity, over a two-year period. That's based on use of 64 gallons of hot water a day and energy costs of seven-cents per kwh and 60-cents per 100 cubic feet of gas.

Congressman Bill Schuette

Congressman Bill Schuette recently voted to repeal record keeping rules for business vehicles. Under the measure passed by the House, contemporaneous accounting for business vehicles will no longer be required.

"Because so many people in mid-Michigan, and across America, were willing to stand up and say 'Enough!' the House has acted," Congressman Schuette said. "I am proud to have been part of this effort and hope that the Senate and White House will also act quickly."

The Deficit Reduction Act of 1984 instituted new rules that required the keeping of records for every mile driven in a business vehicle. The rules were intended to verify the amount a vehicle was driven for business purposes and personal use, which would affect the vehicles' tax treatment.

"Requiring farmers and business people to record every mile of travel in their farm vehicles, trucks and cars was a classic illustration of bad government," Congressman Schuette continued. "By trying to catch a dishonest few, the government penalized the honest majority."

The House bill would retroactively repeal the record keeping rules and exempt vehicles like police cars or working trucks from any tax consideration.

VFW celebrates anniversary

VFW Post 4113

The St. Johns VFW Post 4113 celebrated its 40th anniversary and honored three St. Johns High School seniors at a special dinner April 12.

The students are being honored for their winning essays in the Voice of America contest. Brian O'Connor was first and received a $75 savings bond and a trophy. Sharon Keisel was second and received a $50 savings bond and a trophy. Fred Fleming was third and received a $15 savings bond and a plaque. A Honorable Mention Certificate was presented to Nola Pongrattana.

The Post was started on May 16, 1945, with its original location at City Hall. It later moved to Pohl's Chevy Garage, the current St. Johns Vocational Education Building.

The Post moved again to Moose Hall, which is now a residence above the Road House. It moved several more times before October 1951, when the Post located in its present building on US-27.

The property was purchased March 15, 1949 from Mr. McNutt for $600. Construction began a year later with Chet Smith, local contractor and member of the post, in charge of operations.

The Post members and their wives worked every chance they could after their normal work hours to form the foundation and put the walls up. The west wall caved in because of strong winds and had to be rebuilt.

The trusses were put in place by Rodney Eisler and Clair Ryan. They also had tons of gravel brought in. The floor was poured on weekends by five contractors and members.

The last of the floor was finished on September 30, 1951. The restrooms were installed March 1952. Floor tiles were installed the summer of 1952.

The people who helped finance the VFW Post were, Sam Smith-loan for building, Ed Sehlke and George Pohl--outstanding bills. Repayment to these men were in the form of car raffles, rodeos, bingo's with food prizes, street carnivals, dances, breakfasts and suppers by the men and women of the Post.

The mortgage on the building was paid off March 8, 1956.

to the Veterans of Foreign Wars are mothers, wives, widows, sisters, daughters, granddaughters and grandmothers of deceased or honorably discharged veterans who have had foreign service in time of war.

The Ladies Auxiliary to St. Johns VFW Post 4113 was organized in October 1949. They assist the Post in their services and rehabilitation of any veteran and family in need of hospitalization or care.

This Auxiliary continues after 30 years of service to Veterans and families in the Veteran Hospital when and wherever there is a need. Any ladies who are eligible to join can contact the Post for more information.

Federal Mogul idea a success

By KIMBERLY MARSHALL
Staff Writer

Teresa Van Deusen won the grand prize shopping spree at Bob's IGA in the new safety program implemented at Federal Mogul.

According to David Hall, employee relations representative, in the six months previous to the safety awareness game there were eight lost-time accidents and 57 recordable accidents.

Recordable accidents are those which need a doctors attention, but the employee does not miss a whole day of work due to the injury.

In the six months since the game started, there has only been one lost-time accident and 16 recordable accidents.

The first crease-proof fabric was introduced in Manchester, England, in 1932.

A Safety Jackpot Ticket was given to each employee every two weeks, if there were no lost-time accidents in the same time period.

Each ticket had a question or statement on it, with three answers to choose from. If the question was answered correctly they could win $1, $2, $5, a free ticket or an entry in the grand prize drawing. The grand prize was a five minute shopping spree at Bob's IGA, to be held April 21 at 7 p.m.

In addition to the tickets, there have been a series of safety posters featuring Butch BushingSafe, Federal Mogul's new safety mascot.

Hall said that other safety programs will be devised and implemented in the future because it is important to keep the employees interested in safety and keep the accident rate down.

Lions advised on CRV service

The St. Johns Lions Club held their regular meeting on Wednesday, April 10, with several members present. Presenting the program for the evening was Bill Richards of Community Resource Volunteers (CRV).

Richards gave an interesting and informative talk on the recent purchase of the CRV public transportation bus. Since its inception, the bus has been a matter of constant community effort and support. Also present at the meeting were several citizens who talked about their use of the CRV bus. Coming from different areas of the community, they were able to make the members of the Lions Club more aware of the various uses of this type of transportation. They explained that the bus was not only used for senior citizens and handicapped individuals, but was an excellent mode of travel for working mothers who need to have their children transported to babysitters and home and working men and women who do not own cars or have the ability to drive.

After the meeting, Lions members were given the opportunity to tour the bus and take a ride, courtesy of CRV bus driver, Fred Eridge.

For more information regarding the CRV bus and its possible use for you, please call 224-8127 between 8:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Thunder and lightning storms can be dangerous too

While it may seem that the chances of being struck by lightning are remote, betting those odds in an electric storm can be fatal, warns AAA Michigan.

The average lightning bolt, a high voltage electrical discharge in the air, may contain a few million to 100 million volts. Translated into kilowatts, a one-hour storm could produce enough electricity to light a home for one year. Michigan annually averages 30 thunderstorms of approximately one hour duration each.

In Michigan, there have been approximately 70 deaths and 450 injuries in the last 30 years resulting from lightning storms. Only eight states had higher death totals.

"We all need to be more careful when it comes to taking precautions during heavy thunderstorms, especially persons engaged in outdoor activities," cautioned Bob Cullen, AAA Michigan's home safety and security program manager.

To avoid the chances of getting hit by lightning, AAA Michigan suggests checking the latest weather report before participating in outdoor activities and seeking shelter inside a home or building if severe thunderstorm conditions arise.

"Persons in an open area who are unable to seek shelter when a severe storm develops should keep low to the ground in a ditch or ravine and avoid trees since they could become a natural lightning rod," said Cullen.

Ball fields and golf courses generally account for half of all lightning fatalities and injuries in the United States. Golfers should not handle their clubs during a storm since the metal attracts lightning. Individuals in a boat who are unable to get to shore should stay as low as possible, hug their knees and protect their heads.

As part of a family plan, children should be instructed on where to seek shelter when they are playing outside and a storm hits.

Persons should avoid using the telephone and all electrical appliances during a lightning storm. If lightning strikes telephone or power lines outside, it can go through the wiring inside the house and electrocute someone using a telephone or electical appliance. "Not only can lightning be deadly, but often it can cause extensive property damage and start fires," said Cullen. "It is wise to consider lightning protection for the home."

A home can be protected from lightning by installing a lightning rod on the roof. While the rod is designed to intercept all or some of the electrical charge and carry it safely to the ground, one rod provides only a 12-foot circle of protection.

Lightning can invade a house through many different avenues like water pipes, television antennae and power lines, and homeowners should check outside electrical outlets to make sure they are capped. They also should trim trees regularly, ground all antennae and satellite wires and inform the utility companies of any sagging power or telephone lines.

"If a tree is hit by lightning near a house or anywhere near power lines, it is important to keep away and make sure children avoid any lightning-struck trees and fallen power lines," said Cullen.

Maple Rapids plans special quilt program for celebration

Michigan quilts and quilters are the focus on a special Michigan Quilt Project Discovery Day being held during July 11-14, in conjunction with the Maple Rapids Sesquicentennial Celebration and a statewide Michigan Quilt Project organized by the Folk Arts Division of the Michigan State University Museum and with support from the Michigan Council for the Arts.

If you own a quilt, are a quilter, or have quilt-related information, this event provides a good opportunity to share your special information.

Of all the visual art forms practiced by women in the nineteenth century, the making of quilts was perhaps the most universal, engaged in by women from all walks of life. It's been said that women's thoughts, feelings, their very lives were inextricably bound into the designs just as surely were the cloth layers bound with thread. In contemporary times, quilting has not only gained in popularity as an expressive art form, but many people are beginning to gain a new appreciation for the artistry, history and meaning that both old and new quilts hold.

As part of a Michigan sesquicentennial project, the Folk Arts Division of the Michigan State University Museum is working closely with volunteers from across the state to gather information on Michigan quilts and quilters. The goals of this project are to inventory existing quilts (particularly those made in Michigan) collect stories about Michigan quilts and quilters; and to locate where possible, historical quilt-related information. Not only will this information provide a bank of information for students and public alike, but it will result in an exhibition and book in 1987 of the best of Michigan's quilts.

At special events and locations around the state, a series of Michigan Quilt Discovery Days are taking place. Citizens are invited to bring in both new and old quilts that were either made in Michigan or have special significance to their families. At these official MQP sites, volunteers will photograph their quilts and will assist them in filling out inventory forms. Quilt "experts" will be on hand to help date and describe quilts. Registration for the Maple Rapids Sesquicentennial will take place prior to July 11, 1985. For more information on how to participate in this exciting project, contact Velma Bancroft, 201 North Garfield, Maple Rapids, MI, 48853, phone 682-4172.

Weight loss series planned

As summer approaches and you pull out last year's bathing suit are you finding it to be a little tight? If so, why not take off those extra pounds at the Extension Weight Loss Series.

This spring the Cooperative Extension Service will be holding two five-week weight loss programs. The programs, entitled "Lose It and Love It" focus on good nutrition, sensible exercise and positive eating habits. Each program participant will have the opportunity to develop a dieting plan to fit their own lifestyle.

The first set of classes will be held at the Bath

Charter Township Hall from 1:30 to 3:00 p.m. The classes will begin May 1 and continue for five weeks on Wednesday afternoons.

The second set of classes will be held at the Congregational Church in St. Johns. These classes will be held on Friday afternoons from 1:30 to 3:00 p.m., beginning May 10.

The charge for this program is just $3.00 for the entire five week series. Pre-registration and enrollment is limited. All registrations must be in by April 26. To register, contact the Cooperative Extension Service at 224-3288 or 669-3663, ext. 229.

DATES FOR SPRING CLEAN-UP SET-Clean-up for St. Johns will run from April 29 through May 15. Each city area must have their trash by the curb by 7 a.m. of their assigned date, or it won't be picked up. The program is only for residential customers who pay a garbage fee in their summer taxes. No commercial, industrial, apartments or trailer parks are included in this service.

Keeping Cool

It is difficult to keep your cool during a hotter-than-usual summer. Not everyone can afford or wants to have air conditioning. A whole-house attic fan can also be a great help. The thermostatically controlled fan is the most efficient. It usually costs 50 to 75 cents a month to operate.

In loving memory of Elston Miller, who left us one year ago April 17.

A last sweet smile and we knew suffering had ceased and final rest was near.

Each day fond memories are shared by the family and friends.

Roadside clean-up set

Once again this year, the Cooperative Extension Service 4-H Youth Program will be sponsoring a county wide roadside cleanup and inviting other groups and organizations to get involved.

Saturday, May 4, is the day set aside this year for this community service effort. Plans have been made with the County Road Commission to provide trucks to haul away the trash and with McDonald's of St. Johns to provide garbage bags for the pickup and also a coupon entitling each participant to get a free treat at McDonald's.

Groups or individuals who are interested in getting involved in this year's cleanup effort should contact Pam Zell in the Extension Office as soon as possible to let her know the name of the group participating and the area of the county that you will plan to cover.

Once the initial information has been received from groups who plan to pitch in and help, final arrangements will be made regarding the location of the trucks for the dumping of trash and this information will then be shared with the group coordinators.

Each group will also receive a post card that they use to report their accomplishments during the cleanup effort. This information is to include the number of people who participate and the miles cleaned. Following receipt of this information, the McDonald's coupons will be distributed via the group leaders.

Cleaning up the county roadsides is a big job, but with lots of help, we can make real progress in just a few hours. Think how much nicer they will look in the spring and early summer when they are free of the trash collected during the winter months. If you have questions, or wish to volunteer to help, please contact the Cooperative Extension Service at 224-3288. Please let us know by April 19 if your group will be working on this project so we can make the final arrangements with the Road Commission for the location of the trucks.

Local woman in play

Barbara Stork of St. Johns recently acted in the Anderson College Players' production of the play "Picnic."

The drama, by the playwright William Inge, won the Pulitzer Prize and the Critics' Circle Award when it appeared on Broadway in the mid-1950's.

It tells the story of two neighbor ladies whose husbands had left them alone to deal with the responsibilities of caring for their families.

Stork, a freshman having received the Wilson Scholarship, is a graduate of St. Johns High School.

Maple Rapids Sesquicentennial

Maple Rapids quilt finished

By KIMBERLY MARSHALL
Staff Writer

The Maple Rapids Sesquicentennial has just added another attraction in the form of a hand-designed and made quilt, that will be raffled during the celebration July 11-14.

The work was done by members of the Amica Club, which means friendship in Latin. They used pictures of old buildings and bridges in Maple Rapids as a guide for each quilt square design. The squares were then embroidered, sewn together and quilted.

Members of the club who worked on the quilt include Velma Bancroft, president, Eilene Plowman, vice-president, Nellie Wilson, the oldest member at age 90, Harriet Scott, Reva Ball, Ruth Wright, Pat Martin, Virgiline Priest, Muriel Abshagen, Florene Miller and Marge Patterson.

The club received help from the Michigan State University Folk Art division and Michigan Council for the Arts.

The club has already sold 1,000 raffle tickets, tickets will also be available during the celebration. The winning ticket will be selected at 2 p.m. July 14. The quilt will be displayed at Dewey's Trading Post in May.

Money raised will be used for civic projects. In the past the Amica Club has purchased playground equipment and sponsored brownie and cub scout groups. The club would like to use part of the raffle ticket money to buy Christmas decorations for downtown Maple Rapids.

Downtown improvement underway

DOWNTOWN PROJECT IS UNDERWAY-Work crews are taking advantage of the nice weather and have started the downtown improvement project. When completed everything will be new including gutters, sidewalks, pavement and benches. Also, all the old parking meter poles will be removed. No more than one or two blocks will be torn up at a time. Merchants should not be inconvenienced for more than a few days. Completion of the project is set for June. Photos by Kimberly Marshall, CCN.

Cat show to open soon

The Mid-Michigan Cat Fancier's Inc. Annual Cat Show will be held at the Lansing Civic Center, April 20 and 21.

There will be between 300-400 cats from across the country and Canada. These cats, representing over 28 different breeds will be competing for ribbons and trophies in kitten, championship, premiere, and household pet divisions.

In addition, there will be numerous vendors selling many unique cat related items.

The show is open to the public. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days. Admission is $3 adults, $2 seniors and $1 for children 12 and under.

Mid-Michigan Cat Fancier's Inc. is a non-profit organization, dedicated to the welfare of cats. Profits from this show will go to support feline research at Michigan State University and to the Ingham County Humane Society.

Tom and Linda Sutton will be showing their handcrafted baskets. Catherine McNeilly is showing her board art.

And Debbie Dowling will show her wood toys.

Approximately 130 artists from several states will be participating in this event, which is now one of the largest folk art shows in Michigan.

Hand crafted baskets, pierced tin lighting, primitive paintings, reproduction furniture, weaving, pierced paper lampshades, teddy bears, quilts, and more will be on display and for sale at this fine quality, juried show.

It is sponsored by The Weathervane Country Decorating Shop in Frankenmuth and Colonial Corners-old fashioned reproduction corner moldings.

Medical staff elects officers

Clinton Memorial Hospital's medical staff recently elected officers for the 1985-1986 year. Newly-elected was Dr. Donald L. Porter, chief of staff. Re-elected to their offices for another one-year term were Dr. James Grost, vice chief of staff; Dr. John MacDonald, secretary; and Dr. Lars Andersen, Jr., treasurer.

The officers are elected by the active medical staff at Clinton Memorial and will take office in June, 1985 and serve until June, 1986.

Kristil Speck

Kristil Speck, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Speck of St. Johns, has been selected for competition in the Modern Miss State Finals to be held at the Hilton Inn in Plymouth on July 20.

Modern Miss has selected outstanding young women from all over the state to participate in the activities. The program is designed to recognize young women, 13 to 18, who excel in scholastic achievement and community involvement. Contestants are judged on poise, personality, grooming, and a speech or talent presentation, as well as scholastic and civic achievements. Entrants must have an "80" or better grade average and document at least ten hours volunteer service to a community or charitable organization. The competition is the official state preliminary for the Modern Miss National Finals where Modern Miss finalists from all fifty states will compete for over $25,000 in scholarship awards and many other special prizes.

Speck is a student at St. Johns High School. Her activities include 4-H, Drama Club, Triumphant Teens, piano, camping, Awana leader, swimming, and church choir.

Veronica Acker

Local girl in pageant

Veronica M. Acker, 5, daughter of Ron and Barb Acker of St. Johns, has been selected as a contestant in the 1985 Western Michigan Little Star Pageant to be held at the Hilton Hotel in Lansing on June 15. The Western Michigan Little Star Pageant is the official regional preliminary to the Michigan Little Star Pageant which will be held later this year.

Contestants will be judged on poise, personality, interview, and appearance. Contestants are 4-7 in age and come from various sections of Western Michigan.

Acker is being sponsored by Doug Hart's Tack Box, Scott Green-Century 21, Dr. Charles Graham's Mid-Michigan Chiropractic Center, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Acker, and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Acker.

Athletic boosters

Fulton carnival planned

The Fulton Athletic Boosters will be having their annual Spring Carnival on Saturday, April 20, at Fulton High School from 3:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m.

This year, the Boosters have committed themselves to raising $10,000 to help pay for their all weather track which was recently completed. This commitment will be on top of their pledge to purchase any uniforms that are needed for any of the athletic programs. All profit from the carnival will go to help pay for these commitments.

They will be having many games for all ages, a food stand, dunking machine, and spook house. There will be plenty of fun for the entire family.

Students and members of the Athletic Boosters are presently selling raffle tickets for $1.00. First prize is a three-piece set of lawn furniture, second prize is a one year subscription to the Michigan Lotto, and third prize is a six months subscription to the Michigan Lotto. Persons need not be present to win.

The Fulton Athletic Boosters hope that you will come out and help support the Fulton Schools athletic programs.

Chesaning Showboat to change amateur format

The Chesaning Showboat Committee has announced that the Amateur Presentation of the 1985 Chesaning Showboat will take on a new look. For many years, they have felt that every act that takes the stage preceding the professional talent is already a "winner." In fact, there have been many times when they have wished they didn't have to name just one grand champion and they were aware that appreciative audiences felt the same way.

As a result, the amateur acts will now become the Chesaning Showboat TALENT QUEST. This change will allow an opportunity for 36 acts to display their talent rather than the previous 25 acts who entertained. This increase of eleven acts has been made possible by eliminating the time-consuming nightly judging. In addition, all prize money which was previously awarded to only the winners, will be given in the amount of $15 to each participating act, while each participant will receive a special momento of the event. Auditions for the Talent Quest are to be held on Friday, May 3, and Saturday, May 4, at the Chesaning Middle School Auditorium starting at 7:00 p.m. each evening. Each act will be asked to pay a fee of $2 at the time of entry. As before, all acts will provide their own music...records, cassettes, reel-to-reel tape, or piano accompanist. Piano is the only instrument provided. Contestants will have one stage microphone available for their use. Each act will be limited to four minutes in length and judging will be based on entertainment value and performance effectiveness.

For those who audition, 36 acts will be chosen to appear during the six nights of Showboat (July 8 thru July 13). They will perform while the Shiawassee Queen makes ready to round the bend of the river before docking at the stage in the newly renovated amphitheater in Showboat Park, Chesaning.

Talent exhibition set

The St. Johns Rotary Club recently announced the 38th Annual Clinton County Youth Talent Exhibit to be held at the St. Johns High School Cafeteria on May 11. Entry deadline has been established as April 27.

The Clinton County Youth Talent Exhibit is an annual event sponsored by the St. Johns Rotary Club for the purpose of allowing the youth of Clinton County to display for the public their many talents. The exhibit is open to any youth attending school in Clinton County that has reached his/her 9th birthday but has not reached his/her 20th birthday by May 15, 1985.

This year's Youth Talent Exhibit has four classifications for projects that might be submitted by County youth. They are: Art, Crafts, Hobby, and Science.

Those four classifications are broken down to the following categories: Art Metal, Ceramics, Creative Writing, Drawing, Graphic Arts, Music, Painting, Photography, Sculpture, Clothing Construction, Fiber Craft, Handicrafts, Metalwork, Models, Needlecraft, Woodworking, Collections, Decoupage, Kits, Number Paintings, Biology, and Physical Sciences, with further breakdowns in each of those individual categories as to what is acceptable.

In addition to breaking down the exhibits into classifications and categories, the exhibits will be broken down into age groups as follows: 17-19 years old; 15-16 years old; 12-14 years old; and 9-11 years old, for purposes of judging the exhibits.

First place ribbons will be awarded in each of the categories according to the age group of the individuals participating. In addition, a $50 savings certificate will be awarded to the best entry in each of the four age groups as previously indicated. Grand prize of a $100 savings certificate will be awarded to the best of the show, male and female.

The important dates to remember regarding the Youth Talent Exhibit are: April 27, last day for entry blanks; May 7, music and creative writing entries are due at the Municipal Building on Tuesday only between 3:00 and 5:00 p.m.; May 10, all other entries due at the St. Johns High School cafeteria between 4:00 and 9:00 p.m.; May 11, 11:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. open to the public; and May 12, 12:00 noon to 3:00 p.m. exhibits must be picked up.

Stallone to comeback

Submitted by DAVID SCOTT

Sylvester Stallone may not be the most versatile performer around, but give him the right role and he's a SUPERSTAR. Last year's box office disaster, "Rhinestone", cast Stallone as a New York cabbie turned country-western singer. How can you believe that? He can't sing! And it's a good thing Eddie Murphy was our favorite Detroit cop, because it was originally planned to be a Stallone part.

But now Stallone is getting back to basics. He's starting off the summer right with a sequel to "First Blood." I won't give too much away, but if you're looking for some Sly Stallone action, you won't be disappointed. Don't miss "Rambo, First Blood II."

Also in the works is everyone's favorite boxer. Rocky Balboa is coming back to fight for truth, justice, and the American way in "Rocky IV." The regular cast is back as Rocky has his biggest and best fight against the Russians. It seems each Rocky movie is better than the one before it.

Join some old friends as Sly Stallone gets back on top with this summer's blockbuster lineup. I'll be along with an "Eye on Hollywood."

Obituaries

Norman T. Pung

Norman T. Pung, 83, 304 Chestnut St., Westphalia, passed away at his home. He was born July 16, 1901 to John and Philomena (Martin) Pung. He was a retired farmer, a member of St. Mary's Church, the Holy Name Society, and the Knights of Columbus.

He is survived by his wife, Martha; three sons, Clare of Pewamo, and Mark and Paul of St. Johns; one son-in-law and daughter, Robert and Mary Ellen Thelen of Westphalia; one daughter-in-law, Maryann Goode of St. Johns; 22 grandchildren; 15 great grandchildren; two brothers, Howard and Alvin; and four sisters, Loretta Robel and Marian Meyer of Lansing, Margaret Pung of Fowler, and Elinor Anderson of Bangor, Maine. A son, Jerome, preceded him in death in 1971.

Funeral services were held at St. Mary's Church with Rev. James Schmitt officiating.

Vernon E. Bendt

Vernon E. Bendt, 69, 305 S. Gratiot, Ovid, passed away April 2 at Clinton Memorial Hospital. He was born on January 15, 1916 to Henry and Alma (Goske) Bendt. He moved to Ovid in 1984, coming from Muir. He married Mildred Robinson on December 12, 1940. He was a member of the First United Methodist Church and a charter member of the Methodist Men. He was a foreman of the Brown Corporation in Ionia, retiring in 1981.

He is survived by his wife, Mildred; several nieces and nephews; one sister, Alma Smith of Saranac; and two brothers, Henry of Carland and Alfred of Vida, Oregon.

Funeral services were held April 5 at the Osgood Funeral Home with Rev. Mark Graham officiating. Burial was in the North Eagle Cemetery. Arrangements by the Osgood Funeral Home.

Students have chance to learn

Riley Elementary School students have been receiving some unusual education lately with the help of a grant provided by the Michigan Council for the Arts to the Riley PTO.

Students have been able to see the opera Hansel and Gretel, receive special instruction on American Indians by a Royal Oak teacher who is part Cherokee, and, in the near future, will see the Happendance Dance group, who will also work with the students on different dances.

Judge Marvin E. Robertson

Clinton County Probate Judge Marvin E. Robertson was recently awarded a scholarship by the Michigan Supreme Court to attend a one-week jurisprudence course at the University of Denver Law School in June.

The Michigan Probate Judges Association has reappointed Robertson to be the 1985 editor of their state newsletter. Robertson also received an appointment to the faculty of Thomas M. Cooley Law School to teach juvenile law in the summer term.

THE GAS PUMP

Unleaded Fuel

The Environmental Protection Agency is working hard to get leaded gas off the market. Using unleaded fuel in your vehicle that was designed to use leaded fuel is not as critical as some people seem to think, but using an additive that has an upper engine cleaner and lubricant is desirable.

Beware of LSD tattoos

LSD-permeated stickers shaped like blue "tattoo" stars or square ones with favorite children's characters have been reported to be circulating in the west Michigan area, warns the Michigan Sheriffs' Association (MSA).

Law enforcement agencies in the western part of the state have verified the availability of these potentially dangerous stick-ons, according to MSA Administrative Director Sharon Rimek.

Rimek says the tattoo, called "Blue Star" is a small sheet of white paper containing blue stars the size of a pencil eraser. "Each star is impregnated with LSD and can be removed from the paper to be placed in the mouth," she explains. "The drug also can be absorbed through the skin, simply by handling the stars."

Rimek describes the paper tabs with children's characters as looking like postage stamps in size and come five one-inch stamps to a page, packaged in red cardboard with a picture of Mickey Mouse on the box.

"They are brightly colored with pictures of Superman, Mickey Mouse and other Disney characters, plus other favorite images like butterflies, clowns, etc.," Rimek adds.

Rimek says authorities have determined this is a new way of selling LSD, also called "acid." It stands for lysergic acid diethylamide, a hallucinogenic drug that could result in a fatal "trip" for a young child. Rimek adds it is feared these stickers may find their way into the hands of children, who either may handle them or "tattoo" young siblings for fun.

"Anyone having information about these stickers should contact their local sheriff or other law enforcement agency immediately," Rimek urges.

Farm Bureau bill introduced

Farm Bureau's farm bill was introduced by Congressman William Emerson (R-Missouri), a member of the House Agriculture Committee, on April 3.

Republican Bill Schuette and Democrat Howard Wolpe are two of the original 15 co-sponsors of the bill.

Schuette is also a member of the House Agriculture Committee.

"Farm Bureau is extremely pleased that the bill has been introduced and is now officially in the hopper for consideration by the full Congress," said Al Almy, director of public affairs for the Michigan Farm Bureau. "The bill represents many months of hard work by Farm Bureau members across the nation in developing the proposed legislation. It reflects what literally thousands of farmers all across the nation feel a new farm bill should contain."

Almy said he thought the odds for passage of the Farm Bureau farm bill were very good.

"It's really a middle-of-the-road approach to a new farm bill, while the administration's proposal would bring about some very sudden changes in agricultural programs and would likely cause a lot of financial stress on farmers. I think Congressman Emerson was impressed that our bill is a gradual move toward a more market-oriented agriculture, and during this current time of financial stress for many farmers, it does maintain a reasonable floor under production agriculture in terms of government price supports and deficiency payments," Almy said.

Farm Bureau's farm bill maintains price support loans for major export commodities as under the current farm program. However, the levels would be established at market clearing levels. "This would certainly improve our competitive ability in the world market," he said.

"The bill maintains target prices and through the deficiency payments would provide some income transfer to farmers as we move to a more market-oriented price support loan formula. It maintains a dairy price support program related to the volume of dairy products purchased by the Commodity Credit Corporation. It also contains some very strong export provisions which we think are absolutely essential if we are to regain our export business abroad," Almy said.

Forest discussed

Managing Michigan forests to achieve both maximum recreational opportunities and timber product yields is a challenge in communications and resource development, according to speakers at a workshop during Agriculture and Natural Resources Week at Michigan State University.

The values of 100,000 campers and other recreational users of Michigan's forests are not necessarily in conflict with a state management plan which visualizes increasing timber yields and other forest products substantially by the end of the century.

Michigan's 18 million acres of forested land can provide a wide variety of recreational opportunities for tourists, and could be managed for substantially increased yields of timber and other forest products as well. Charles Nelson, MSU professor of park and recreation resources, told workshop attendees that communicating relevant information and developing public involvement with forest management can influence and perhaps minimize the conflicts among user groups.

"Most campers surveyed at state forest campgrounds during the past three years had misconceptions about the current condition of Michigan's forests. They thought the percentage of Michigan forest products used/sold as fuel was much smaller than it actually is. They didn't realize that there are both annual and long-term surpluses of forest (the amount ready for harvest vs. the amount actually cut). They thought that most forest land is publicly-owned. Most believed that forest-based employment is centered in the Upper Peninsula," Nelson said.

"With these significant gaps in public awareness and understanding, it isn't surprising that there are negative reactions when a manager promotes clear-cutting or increased timber harvest in a previously untapped or underutilized forest. When we gave those same people accurate information, their attitudes seemed to change, at least for the time being."

Nelson added that he hopes to continue surveying public attitudes to determine the changes hold. He also wants to investigate further the impact of changed attitudes on behavior such as camping location choices.

"The recreational opportunities in the state forests must be promoted and marketed they are to be fully utilized." Dean Sandell, forest recreation specialist in the forest management division of the Michigan DNR, told the group. "Furthermore, we must provide the recreationalist with a dependable product whether it is groomed cross-country ski trails or functioning toilets campsites—according to Sandell."

Jerry Thiede, head of the forest resource planning and policy development section of the forest management division of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, says that certain segments of the wood products industry are growing particularly fast. The number of cords of firewood has nearly doubled from 1.6 million—in just a few years. He has also observed a shift toward the use of more hardwood pulp in certain manufacturing processes. The Michigan Forest Resources Plan envisions the possibility of 50,000 new jobs in the state's forest products industries in the foreseeable future.

Nelson concluded that three things would be necessary to tap the potential of Michigan forests for recreation and harvest: (1) maintain and selectively increase forest recreation opportunities; (2) increase promotional efforts; (3) reduce conflicts with timber management officials and industries.

To accomplish this first, funding should be restored to the forest recreation management section in DNR, the services for which fees are charged might be increased or expanded private sector involvement recruited, and future recreation development concentrated in the mid-section of the lower peninsula

County Extension Director

A necrotic strain of bean common mosaic virus has been introduced to Michigan that causes usually resistant dry bean plants to die.

The new strain of bean mosaic prompts a hypersensitivity in a majority of Michigan bean varieties, says Jim Kelly, Michigan State University Agricultural Experiment Station research agronomist. This hypersensitivity causes bean plants to die from stress, as the plants work too hard at fighting off the virus. Field losses of between 5 and 100 percent have been reported due to this virus strain.

Planting varieties resistant to the new strain of virus is the only way to stop the disease—rotation, fungicides and insecticides are ineffective, Kelly says. The light red kidney bean varieties Isabella, Ruddy and Redcloud are the only dry beans grown in Michigan resistant to both the common and necrotic mosaic strains, however. A breeding program is underway to make all dry beans resistant to the new strain of bean mosaic, but it will be at least five years before resistant varieties are on the market for all classes.

In the meantime, Kelly advises producers to avoid planting known or potential carriers of the virus, if growing the totally resistant varieties is not practical.

Sanilac and Cumulus navy beans and black turtle soup beans are known to carry the necrotic virus strain.

Potential virus carriers include Taylor Horticulture and Michigan cranberry beans, and Sacramento, Manitou, Charlevoix, Tall Bunyan and California light and dark red kidney beans. These known or potential virus carrying bean varieties are not affected by the disease, but they can spread the disease to hypersensitive bean varieties, which die from the infection, Kelly says.

The list of hypersensitive bean varieties is long, containing many of the major varieties grown in Michigan.

Navy beans hypersensitive to the new strain of mosaic are Seafarer, Fleetwood, Swan Valley, Neptune, C-20, Laker, Bunsil, Westland and Midland. T-39, Black Magic, Domino and Midnight black beans, Montcalm and Linder kidney beans and Cran-028 cranberry beans also develop hypersensitivity.

Bean common mosaic virus is transmitted to plants by aphids or carried by the seed. The disease is often spread to adjacent fields and infestation often occurs in an irregular pattern.

The new strain of bean common mosaic virus is most widespread in the Saginaw Bay area. To check the spread of the virus, Kelly recommends that producers in that area be particularly cautious about the varieties of dry beans they grow.

Processor class offered

A food processor can be a terrific time saver if you know how to use one. But, just like any other appliance, they take some getting used to.

On May 9, Gloria Wilson, consultant for Oster, will be in St. Johns to demonstrate a variety of new spring recipes for your home processor.

The class will be held from 1:00 to 3:00 p.m. at Smith Hall in St. Johns. The participants will not only see the recipes demonstrated, but also have the opportunity to taste them. The charge for this program is only $2.00. Pre-registration is required and enrollment is limited. The deadline for registration is May 3. To register, contact the Cooperative Extension Service at 224-3288 or 669-3663, ext. 229.

Safe tractor operation can reduce the chance of tractor rollovers, which can cause equipment damage and serious injury.

"About 800 people die from tractor accidents in the United States each year, and over half of those fatalities are due to tractor rollovers," says Howard Doss, Extension agricultural safety specialist at Michigan State University. "Using safe operating practices and taking precautions to prevent tractor accidents will cut injuries and expensive equipment repairs," he says.

Doss advises buying only tractors equipped with rollover protection, which he terms a form of insurance. It is worth the extra money to buy equipment with rollover protection, he says, because chances of surviving an upset without overturn protection are slim.

Operators can prevent tractor upsets by understanding and avoiding causes of rollovers.

Causes of side rollovers include fishtailing or jackknifing towed loads because the tractor is being driven too fast, Doss says. Reducing speed—especially when driving on slippery surfaces—slowing on turns and applying even brake pressure, help avoid an upset. Operators should make sure brake pedals are locked together before driving at moderate speeds, because unequal brake pressure can push a tractor onto its side.

Doss says a downhill runaway tractor can overturn, so operators need to shift to a lower gear and reduce speed when driving downhill to keep tractors under control. Always shift gears before starting downhill—brakes may not hold and it may not be possible to shift back into gear if the clutch is

One of the greatest potential causes of poisoning in children under 5 years of age is flavored chewable vitamins. Both vitamins with iron and those without can be toxic, but the most dangerous by far to a child is one with iron.

If a vitamin preparation has 250 mg of elemental iron in the entire bottle, it is covered under the Poison Prevention Act of 1970. This includes many children's chewable vitamin preparations, which contain 12-18 mg of iron per tablet and are packaged in bottles of 60-120 tablets.

Of greater risk to young children are prenatal supplements, which may contain up to 100 mg of iron per tablet, to meet a pregnant women's increased iron requirements.

Mild exposure to iron containing vitamins causes gastrointestinal upset, nausea and sometimes black diarrhea. Overdoses in the 400 to 600 mg range can, if untreated, cause bloody diarrhea, shock, liver damage, coma or even death.

As a general rule, 30 mg of iron per kg of body weight should be considered toxic and vomiting should be induced. This means that a typical 25-pound 2-year-old might consume 25 tablets before vomiting should be induced.

Many toxicologists, however, consider ingestion of 10-11 chewable tablets with iron as a "mild overdose" for a child of that weight and age, and that the effect of 20 tablets would be sufficiently severe to warrant emergency room treatment.

Clinton County 4-H families and friends can take advantage of a special offer to have their family's picture taken and help support the 4-H program at the same time. On Saturday, May 4th, a photographer from a portrait studio will be at the Extension Office to take family portraits of those families that have made reservations and paid the fee in advance.

The cost for the full color 16x20 portrait is only $4.95 and there are no hidden costs to the family. Additional photographs may be purchased at a later date for an extra charge but the full cost of the 16x20 portrait is only $4.95. This plan has a 30 day unconditional money back guarantee and has the Good Housekeeping seal of approval.

Families who want to take advantage of this opportunity need to contact Kathy Love in the Extension Office at 306 Elm Street in St. Johns to make a reservation and to purchase the certificate for the family portrait. The certificate is good only for family groups and if there is any question Kathy can define a "family" for you.

Time slots are filled on a first come basis, so those who are interested should plan to make the appointment as soon as possible.

Reservations need to be made by Friday, April 26.

For additional information, contact the Cooperative Extension Office at 224-3288 or 669-3663 (ext. 229).

Cash receipts from 1984 decreases

Cash receipts from 1984 marketings of crops, livestock, and livestock products in Michigan fell to $2.8 billion, a drop of 7 percent from the record 1983 receipts of $3 billion, according to the Federal/State Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service. Michigan placed 19th in the U.S. in total cash receipts during 1984. Michigan farms accounted for 2 percent of the U.S. total receipts. During 1983, Michigan placed 16th in cash receipts. Cash receipts statistics provide only a partial measure of gross farm income and do not reflect the net income earned by farmers. To arrive at net farm income, one must also consider farm production expenses, government payments, net changes in inventories of commodities held by farmers, the farm debt situation, and other income. Statistics on 1984 production expenses and net farm income for Michigan and the U.S. will not be available until later this year.

Crop cash receipts for Michigan, at nearly $1.6 billion, were down 11 percent from the 1983 level. The largest year to year declines in crop cash receipts occurred during the latter half of 1984. Receipts from 1984 marketings of livestock and livestock products totaled $1.2 billion, a decline of less than 1 percent from the previous year.

Livestock receipts exceeded previous year levels during only 4 months of 1984. Crop receipts accounted for 56 percent of the total Michigan cash receipts during 1984, compared with 59 percent the previous year.

Nationally, 1984 total cash receipts from farm marketings, at $1.414 billion, were up nearly 2 percent from the previous year.

Livestock receipts increased by 3.5 percent. Crop cash receipts showed only a slight increase from a year earlier. Livestock receipts accounted for nearly 51 percent of the total U.S. cash receipts during 1984.

Equine survey results now available to public

There were an estimated 160,000 equine in Michigan in October

1984, according to the Federal/State Michigan Agricultural Reporting

Service. Of the total equine, there were 131,000 light horses, 6,000 draft horses, and another 21,000 head of ponies. The smallest group, donkeys and mules, made up 2,000 of the State's equine. There were 39,000 places in Michigan that had equine. These in turn devoted 500,000 acres of land to raising equine. Horse farms, boarding, training, and riding stables, were the home of about 58,000 equine. Another 60,000 equine resided on general type farms. The remaining 42,000 were kept on non-farm residences.

Pleasure and trail riding were the primary uses of over half of Michigan's equine. The other primary uses in order were: show and 4-H, breeding and racing.

The four most numerous breeds of light horse in order were: American Quarter horses, Standardbreds, Arabians, and Appaloosas. The average value of the State's 95,000 registered equine was $4,000 and the 65,000 unregistered equine averaged $460 per head.

The estimates were based on a survey conducted in October 1984 by the Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service. A probability sample of about 2,500 of the State's equine owners was selected from a list of potential equine owners. Mail, telephone and personal interviews were used to obtain the data. A sample of equine owners in small areas of land called segments was also surveyed. The combination of these two sampling frames helped insure complete coverage of Michigan's equine population.

A detailed report on the results of the survey should be available in July and will be distributed to those who participated in the survey. Others may obtain a copy of the report by sending their name and address to the Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service, P.O. Box 20008, Lansing, MI 48901.

Prices drop

The index of prices received by Michigan farmers for all products was 123 percent of its 1977 base for the month ending March 15.

Overall, farm prices dropped less than 1 percent from February, according to the Federal/State Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service. However, prices for farm products averaged 12 percent below the March 1984 level. The index of prices paid by farmers, nationwide, for commodities and services, interest, taxes and farm wage rates for March was 164 percent of its 1977 average. The index was unchanged from a month earlier and a year ago. Increases from last month in the fuels and energy and family living indexes were offset by decreases in feed, fertilizer and farm machinery components.

Michigan crops showing slight price gains since February were corn, dry beans, soybeans and potatoes. The only livestock commodity with an improved price was eggs. Lower prices were noted for oats, steers and heifers, calves, hogs and milk. Winter wheat, hay and slaughter cow prices remained unchanged from February. The only commodities with higher prices from a year ago were winter wheat and milk.

Nationally, the March all farm products index of prices received by farmers decreased 1 percent from February to 134 percent of its 1977 average. Lower prices for hogs, cattle, oranges, milk and wheat were partially offset by higher prices for tomatoes, eggs, cotton, potatoes and sorghum. The index was 7.6 percent below a year ago.

Forest

Promotional efforts could be increased by improving the potential visitor's image of Michigan as a tourist destination and emphasizing the attractiveness of forest-related activities and events.

Conflicts with timber management officials could be reduced by identifying truly unique forest attractions and protecting those from harvesting activities; increasing public involvement with forest management, complicated and expensive as that may be; achieving forest harvesting goals with established and accepted methods; and reducing the aesthetic impacts of harvesting through greater sensitivity to natural values.

Bath awards logo winner

At the April 2 Bath Community Days Committee meeting, logo contest winner Curt Swartz was presented with his prize — a $50 savings bond from Clinton Bank.

After that presentation, a representative from the Bath United Methodist Women gave $50 to the James Couzens Park Association, which sponsors Community Days. This year's celebration will be held July 19-21.

It was decided that a Prince and a Princess between the ages of five and 12 will be chosen this year in addition to the Queen, who is nominated from organizations in the Bath area. For the Queen, a $10 nominating fee is being charged, and for the Prince and Princess contest, a $5 fee is being collected.

The Prince and Princess candidates will be narrowed down to three finalists in each category. After that, photographer Rod Gleason will take portraits of those children and they will be attached to canisters which will be placed in local stores. The canisters which get the most pennies will determine who the Prince and Princess will be.

For further information about the Queen or Prince and Princess contest,

Testimony on dairy production given to group

In testimony before the subcommittee on livestock, dairy and poultry of the U.S. House Agriculture Committee on March 27, Elton R. Smith, president of the Michigan Farm Bureau and vice president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, urged caution in the outlook for the dairy industry.

"Some indicators are not consistent with a completely optimistic outlook for milk producers," Smith said.

"Replacement heifers are at record levels. The milk-feed price ratio is more favorable than it was a year ago, and nearly one-fifth of the 1984 production decline can be attributed to a drop in output per cow. These conditions suggest that the production capacity of the dairy industry could easily expand under price signals that provide incentive to produce more milk."

Smith, a dairy farmer from Caledonia in Kent

County, said that Farm Bureau's proposal on revision of the dairy program under the 1985 Farm Bill would adjust price according to market signals derived from average price history and levels of government purchases.

"In this manner, market forces provide communication between producers and consumers while government programs give assistance for orderly marketing of dairy products," he said.

"We recommend that the dairy purchase program be continued but we believe the support rate should be set at 90 percent of the average of the previous three years' milk price. The price support should be adjusted effective Oct. 1 of each marketing year. This method of deriving

Exotic fish are showing up in Michigan waters

An exotic species of game fish, appearing in increasing numbers in southern Michigan waters, has biologists and sport fishermen guessing about its future, reports Jim Wood, southern field representative for the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC).

Wood says that the white perch, although smaller than, and lacking the distinctive stripes of its cousin, the white bass, is actually a member of the "true bass" family. It first appeared in Lake Ontario in the early 1950's and recently colonized Lake Erie. Fishermen and biologists now report that white perch are turning up in large numbers in Lake St. Clair and Saginaw Bay.

This species has some redeeming features, experts claim. It is an excellent table fish, as are all in its family. It readily takes a baited hook or small artificial lure, and when small, it serves as forage for walleyes.

But, according to Bob Haas of the Department of Natural Resources'

Lake St. Clair Fisheries Station at Mt. Clemens, the white perch is "potentially a bad actor." "White perch prey on walleye eggs and young-of-the-year walleye and yellow perch," says Haas, "but their greatest impact would come from competition with these species."

Wood reports that although the evidence is scanty, the record indicates that where these fish show up other panfish suffer. Because one female can produce between 20,000 and 300,000 eggs, white perch tend to overpopulate.

Last year, when Haas and his crew conducted a trap net survey in the Detroit River, white perch were the most common fish found. Haas noted that two years ago very few turned up in the survey. He says their preference for warmer water keeps them away from salmon predators.

Wood speculates that their desire for warmer water may be keeping white perch from spreading farther. They have adapted well to the warmer waters of Saginaw Bay and Lakes St. Clair and Lake Erie and he says most experts feel they won't spread farther north.

"If control becomes necessary there are two options--commercial fishing and sport fishing," Wood observes.

"Canadian commercial fishermen will take some of the white perch as they currently do in Lake Ontario," Wood says. "This would not be an option for Michigan's commercial fishermen because the state legislature recently enacted a ban on commercial fishing in Michigan waters of the Great Lakes below the 45th parallel."

Wood claims that if sport fishermen learn to accept the white perch, this could be used as a measure of control. He said white perch may gain in popularity once fishermen realize that they are plentiful, fairly easy to catch and quite tasty.

In his article in the April issue of MUCC's Michigan Out-of-Doors magazine, Wood concludes that although the passage of time will determine the fate of the white perch, DNR biologists should conduct research to determine the proper role of this game fish in the state's aquatic system.

Anniversary

Golden date observed

Wilford and Martha Horton of Lansing, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary, April 21, with an open house from 2 to 4 p.m. at Emanuel Lutheran Church, 1001 N. Capitol Ave., in Lansing.

The couple, married April 20, 1935, has three children and eight grandchildren.

College News

Jeff Ely of St. Johns has been named to the varsity baseball team at Hesston College (Hesston, Kansas).

Ely, a freshman majoring in Liberal Arts, is the son of Gale and Carolyn Ely.

Hesston College is a private, two-year liberal arts college owned and operated by the Mennonite Church. It has an enrollment of nearly 500.

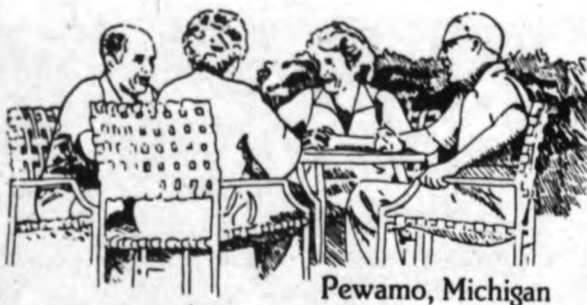

Monica Hayes, St. Johns, earned a varsity letter in swimming and diving at Northern Michigan University, where she is a sophomore.

Hayes was also voted Most Improved by her squad members.

She was an NCAA-II place winner with three relay teams and finished the year with 251.75 points, third highest on the team.

STRAWBERRY TIME IS COMING-It will be time to pick strawberries again before you know it. Strawberries are one of Michigan's most popular pick-your-own crops. An estimated 16.2 million pounds were harvested from 2,700 acres in 1983, down more than 5.4 million pounds from the previous year, to rank Michigan fifth in the nation. Fresh sales accounted for much of the $8,412,000 crop value.

an initial support rate incorporates the signals that are necessary to make the program more responsive to market conditions," Smith testified.

The Michigan farm leader said that Farm Bureau's proposed revisions to the dairy program would "improve its operation for the benefit of producers and consumers alike while reducing federal expenditures."

"The discretion to alter the program according to political considerations is largely removed and replaced by a support price determined by indicators of market conditions," he said. "This will allow the program to flex with market forces over time, but avoid the drastic changes that can be disruptive to the industry."

WENDY TAKACS SHARES HER DENMARK WITH ST. JOHNS EXCHANGITES-Wendy Takacs, 16-year-old exchange student from Karlslunde, Denmark, took time last Thursday to share some of her thoughts and personal background with members of the St. Johns Exchange Club. Wendy, who has spent the past ten months with the Harold Schmaltz family in St. Johns, answered questions relating to her stay in St. Johns and experiences shared while residing with the Schmaltz's. To her right is Harold Schmaltz, an Exchangite, as well as her host father, and moderator of Thursday's program. Photo by Kimberly Marshall, CCN.

ST. JOHNS SWIMMING POOL TO BE REPAIRED-The City Commission will spend $2,000 to repair the cracks in the pool in time for this summer's fun. Last year the pool was losing up to six inches of water each day. The commission feels they will save that much money in water and gas to heat the water if the leak was allowed to continue.

Chocolate Birthdays Are Best

Chocolate is magic. What other temptation could make an otherwise diet-conscious population short-circuit? After all, how many foods have an official fan club and their own magazine?

Americans will consume nearly 2 billion pounds of chocolate this year. That's 9 pounds of the dark, rich wonderful treat for every man, woman and child among us. No wonder this nation's favorite birthday cake is, you guessed it, chocolate!

Ice-cream Cone Cakes make clever treats for a child's birthday party. Or, get fancy with this special grown-up version of chocolate cake—Triple Chocolate Torte.

The moral of this story is: When you want to make a birthday special, make it chocolate.

Ice-cream Cone Cakes

Heat oven to 350°. Prepare 1 package Betty Crocker SuperMoist devils food cake mix as directed. Spoon 2 to 3 tablespoons batter into each flat-bottomed waffle ice-cream cone, filling about 1/2 full. (Amount of batter depends upon size of cone.) Place cones in rectangular pan, 13x9x2 inches, or square pan, 9x9x2 inches. Bake until tops spring back when touched lightly in center, 20 to 25 minutes; cool. Frost with chocolate ready-to-spread frosting. Decorate each with candies, nonpareils or as desired, or top each with scoop of ice cream. 30 to 36 cone cakes.

High Altitude Directions (3500 to 6500 feet): Prepare cake mix as directed in high altitude directions on package. Continue as directed in recipe.

Triple Chocolate Torte

1 package Betty Crocker Black Forest cake mix
1 cup chilled whipping cream
3 tablespoons powdered sugar
2 teaspoons cocoa
4 ounces sweet cooking chocolate, coarsely chopped

Heat oven to 350°. Line jelly roll pan, 15 1/2 x 10 1/2 x 1 inch, with waxed paper. Prepare cake as directed on package. Spread batter in pan. Bake until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean, 12 to 18 minutes; cool completely on wire rack.

Cut cake into 3 rectangles, each about 10 1/2 x 5 inches. Place 1 layer on serving plate. Beat whipping cream, powdered sugar and cocoa in chilled bowl until stiff; fold in about 1/2 cup of the chopped chocolate. Fill layers with whipped cream mixture.

Prepare Filling as directed on package; fold in remaining chopped chocolate. Spread over top of torte. Spoon Topping on filling in center of cake. Refrigerate at least 2 hours. Cut into 1-inch slices; drizzle with chocolate syrup if desired. 10 servings.

High Altitude Directions (3500 to 6500 feet): Heat oven to 375°. Prepare Cake as directed in high altitude directions on package. Continue as directed in recipe.

SAY "PEANUTS, PLEASE..." FOR COMFORT AND WARMTH

Peanut butter is a childhood favorite but it would be a pity to let children have all the fun! The versatility of peanut butter coupled with its universal appeal make it a wonderful base for a variety of grown-up treats.

Here are three ideas for soothing the soul and pleasing the adult palate: a hearty vegetable soup, a sinfully rich popcorn, and a very adult soufflé.

PEANUT VEGETABLE SOUP

1/4 cup butter
1/2 cup julienne carrots
1/2 cup julienne zucchini
1/2 cup julienne red or green pepper
1/2 cup shredded red cabbage
1/2 cup chopped onion
3 tablespoons flour
5 cups chicken broth
1 cup creamy peanut butter
1 cup light cream or milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Chopped salted peanuts

In a large saucepan or dutch oven, melt butter. Add carrots, zucchini, red pepper, cabbage and onion; saute 3 minutes. Add flour and stir until smooth. Gradually stir in chicken broth; bring to a boil. Stir in peanut butter; reduce heat and simmer 15 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in cream, salt and pepper. Garnish with chopped peanuts. Makes 8-10 servings.

PEANUT BUTTER POPCORN

2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1/2 cup unpopped corn
3 tablespoons butter or margarine

Creamy Peanut Vegetable Soup, a meal in itself, features ingredients like peanuts and peanut butter, carrots, zucchini and cabbage.

4 tablespoons honey
1/2 cup creamy peanut butter

Pop the corn in oil according to package directions; transfer to a large bowl. In a small saucepan, stir butter and honey over medium-low heat until melted. Add peanut butter; stir to blend. Bring to a simmer, remove from heat and pour over popcorn. Stir to coat evenly. Serve warm. Makes 2 1/2 quarts.

SUMPTUOUS SOUFFLE

1 tablespoon butter
4 tablespoons sugar
4 eggs, separated
1 tablespoon Cointreau (optional)
2 tablespoons water
3 tablespoons creamy peanut-butter
1/8 teaspoon cream of tartar

Grease a 1 1/2 quart soufflé dish. Sprinkle bottom and sides of dish with 1 tablespoon sugar.

Combine egg yolks, Cointreau, water and 2 tablespoons sugar in top of double boiler. Beat constantly over hot, not boiling water, until mixture is thick and forms like a ribbon. Remove from heat; continue beating until cooled slightly. Beat in 3 tablespoons peanut butter until smooth, beat egg whites with cream of tartar and remaining 1 teaspoon sugar until stiff but not dry. Fold whites into yolk mixture. Spoon into prepared soufflé dish. Bake in a 350° F. oven for 25 minutes. Meanwhile, prepare chocolate sauce. Serve at once with sauce. Makes 6 servings.

CHOCOLATE SAUCE

8 oz. chocolate chips
2 tablespoons hot water
3 tablespoons rum
4 tablespoons half and half

Mix all ingredients together in a sauce pan or double boiler and stir over very low heat until melted. If too thick, add more hot water.

Making Family Life More Fun

Here's a "nugget" of advice for beating mealtime blahs:

Chicken Nuggets are versatile enough to star in a variety of dishes to delight the entire family: Nugget Kabobs to Taco Nugget Salad as well as Nugget Tacos or Hot Nugget Sandwiches.

The Nuggets, new from Kentucky Fried Chicken, are tender, bite-sized morsels of chicken coated in the Colonel's famous secret blend of herbs and spices.

The following recipes can be said to be worth their weight in gold nuggets for taste and convenience.

Nugget Tacos

20 Kentucky Nuggets
10 large taco shells
1 medium head lettuce, thinly sliced
2 medium tomatoes, coarsely chopped
1/2 cup (2 ounces) shredded Cheddar cheese
Salsa

Reheat nuggets in 350°F oven 8 to 10 minutes or until thoroughly heated. Divide lettuce, tomato and cheese evenly into each taco shell. Cut each nugget into quarters and divide among tacos. Serve with salsa. 5 servings.

Hot Nugget Sandwiches

2 loaves mini French

Chicken Nuggets can make a meal in a jiffy. Nugget Tacos or Hot Nugget Sandwiches are likely to please the whole family.

bread (about 1 pound)
2 tablespoons butter, softened
1/8 teaspoon garlic powder
6 thin slices red onion, separated into rings
6 slices American cheese
6 slices Swiss cheese
6 slices of tomato
4 thin slices green pepper
20 Kentucky Nuggets
2 packs Kentucky Fried Chicken Horseradish Sauce
2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese

Cut French loaves in half horizontally. Combine butter and garlic powder. Spread on bottom halves of loaves. Divide onion slices, cheese slices, tomato slices, green pepper slices and nuggets evenly and layer on buttered halves. Spoon horseradish sauce on top of nuggets; and sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Top with remaining loaf halves. Wrap each in foil. Bake in 350°F oven 20 to 25 minutes or until thoroughly heated. Slice each loaf diagonally into thirds. Note: Sandwiches can be made one day ahead and refrigerated until ready to heat. 6 servings

BUDDY'S WORKSHOP

Carefully Measure Replacement Panes

When measuring a window to replace a broken pane, should the measurement be made to insure a "tight" fit? The measurement should be made to provide at least one-eighth of an inch of space between the glass and the window frame. This space is needed to allow for expansion and contraction of the wood and to allow the glass to be firmly embedded in putty so that it will be both secured and air tight.

What is best for removing paint spots splattered on bricks while painting house trim—turpentine, paint thinner, or paint remover?

Carefully apply a water-rinse paint remover. Do not rub; it's best to spray it on. Give the remover plenty of time to do its work. The spots will bubble up, become wrinkled or separate from the bricks. Again, do not wipe. Flush away the spot with a high pressure stream of water.

What is the easiest way to seal small air leaks around windows?

Calking compound can be applied from a cartridge or tube that fits into a "gun." If you plan to remove the calking next spring, use rope calk. It's easy to apply, easy to remove.

Want that in inches or just for the nearest foot?

FUN IN THE MAKING!

1. Paint half an English walnut shell gray.
2. Cut out gray paper or cloth ears, with pink inside.
3. Paint eyes on, making a tiny white dot on each eye for the sparkle.
4. Glue on a mop string or piece of gray yarn for a tail.
5. A few broom straws or brush bristles glued on make neat whiskers.

GARDEN

Pansies Offer Wide Selection of Color

Pansies are among the most popular garden flowers, offering a wide range of colors, markings and sizes.

Pansies are used as border and mass plantings. They can be interplanted between various spring bulbs. Flowering commences with the bulbs and continues on into summer.

Potted pansies are readily available in early spring at most garden centers and will usually perform well in the garden.

Pansies thrive in a bright sunny location. Too much shade results in spindly plants with few flowers.

Plant pansies 6 to 12 inches apart. Press the soil firmly around the plants so that good contact is made with the roots.

Mulching is especially beneficial to pansies. It checks evaporation of water from the soil surface and controls weeds. Medium coarse peat moss or pine bark applied in a two to three-inch layer makes an excellent mulch and looks like soil.

Pansies should never be grown in areas where soil is allowed to become excessively dry. Pansies are very shallow rooted and, as a result, suffer quickly from insufficient moisture.

The soil should receive at least one inch of water each week from rain or watering. Avoid watering late in the day to prevent disease development.

A succession of pansy blooms depends on regular fertilization. The first application of two pounds of 8-8-8 per 100 square feet should be made 7 to 10 days after planting in the fall. A second fertilization can be made in early January followed by a third in early March. High nitrogen fertilizer can cause excessive stem and foliage growth at the expense of flower production.

Nandina Known As "Heavenly Bamboo"

Nandina, long a favorite as a foundation plant, is becoming more popular as an accent plant or specimen plant for containers.

Some people call it "Heavenly Bamboo." Specialists say that the plant is a native of China and is a member of the bayberry family.

Nandina grows as a mass of upright, unbranched stems. The leaves will range from deep green in shady locations to a light green or reddish purple in the sun. It blooms in mid-spring but has only moderately showy white flowers. The shrub is most appreciated for its bright red berries in the fall of the year.

For best results, plant

Nandina in partial shade. Try to select rich soil with good drainage. Don't plant Nandina between curbs and sidewalks because the soil temperature will be excessively high.

After several years, the plant will become "leggy," and the inner canes or stems should be removed near the ground level.

The specialists suggest that Nandina should be used more in landscaping. It makes an excellent showing when planted against a screening fence or stucco wall.

Nandina is one of the most disease and insect resistant of all evergreen shrubs.

Keeping Healthy

What Is Your Cholesterol Level?

Like high blood pressure, a high cholesterol level is a major risk factor for heart disease and it, too, can be "a silent killer" because it usually presents no symptoms.

Following a diet low in fat and cholesterol is the mainstay of treatment for elevated blood cholesterol, and the physician may refer the patient to a qualified dietician to design one especially for the individual patient's needs.

When the patient does not respond sufficiently to the diet, an effective cholesterol-lowering drug may be added. This may be a drug belonging to a group called "resins"—either cholestyramine or colestipol in powder—which is usually mixed with a liquid such as a fruit juice, large amounts of nicotinic acid, or probucol tablets, which physicians report are particularly well-tolerated by patients.

Everyone should know what his or her cholesterol level is and many physicians now routinely check cholesterol levels as part of the annual physical examination. In families where there is a history of heart diseases before the age of 55 they recommend that children be checked at an early age.

Add Vinegar

If an eggshell cracks while it is being boiled, seal it immediately by adding a splash of vinegar to the boiling water.

Using Jumper Cables

If necessary to jump-start your car, the following procedure will avoid any chance of the battery exploding. Pull two cars close enough to avoid over-extending the jumper cables. Connect one end of a cable to the positive (+) terminals of each battery. Connect one end of the other cable to the negative (-) terminal of the good battery. Connect the other end of the cable to the engine block of the vehicle being started. Under any circumstance, do not connect the cable to the negative terminal of the bad battery.

Nutrition Level

The Recommended Daily Allowance (RDA) is not the minimum amount of nutrients required each day. The levels are well above the minimum. Consuming 80 percent of the RDA of all nutrients is usually adequate for good nutrition among healthy individuals.

Black nightshade tricky

As soybean growers prepare for planting this year, they should look ahead to a potential problem that may not show up for several months, a local weed control expert warns.

"Every year we see farmers surprised by black nightshade in their fields," says Dave DePond, of Ovid Roller Mills, Ind. in Ovid. "However, they can avoid such unpleasant surprises by taking precautions in advance."

A major reason for DePond's caution is the growing pattern of the weed.

"Black nightshade often germinates in flushes throughout the season," DePond reports. "But, unfortunately, some farmers do not scout their fields consistently through the season, and may miss a later flush.

Once nightshade is up and thriving, it's very hard to control." If nightshade plants do come up in soybean (Continued on page 17B)

SIGNS OF SPRING-These two colts are kicking up their heels to celebrate the spring weather.

Nightshade plants

(Continued from page 16B) fields, advises DePond, farmers will feel the effects at harvest. "Nightshade plants stay green long after most other plants in the field. In addition to clogging combines, the berries have a sticky juice that will stain soybeans, creating a nightmare at harvest and lower prices at the elevator." Although nightshade has been a problem for many years, the weed expert says that some farmers continue to use herbicide programs which have little effect against the weed. "The first step in controlling nightshade is an effective herbicide such as Lasso. Used either alone or in tank mix, Lasso provides the best control of nightshade. Farmers also have a choice of application methods—either on the surface, or by a shallow, Surface Blend incorporation." Any nightshade escapes may be treated with post-emergent applications of Blazer before the weed reaches the 4-leaf stage. Cultivation also is helpful.

In fields with severe nightshade infestations, farmers also may consider rotating to another crop. Small grains, such as wheat, oats and barley, compete well against black nightshade. Corn is another good choice, since nightshade will not produce the harvest difficulties it usually causes in soybeans, and because herbicide options are wider in corn. However, watchfulness is the key to control. Failure to treat small, easy-to-control infestations can cause potential harvesting problems, and even worse difficulties the next season.

If you are a woman over 35, read this!

Early detection of breast cancer is the key to curing and controlling it. That's why you should know about Lansing General Hospital's Breast Cancer Detection Center.

The American Cancer Society, in its latest reports, strongly recommends that each woman, age 35 to 40, have at least one screening mammogram to provide a comparison for later testing. Beyond that, mammograms are recommended at one-to-two year intervals until the age of 50, when the test should be performed annually.

Why mammography?

This painless procedure can detect masses in breast tissue in the very early stages (before detection by physical examination is even possible) — before the cancer has had a chance to spread. Mammography is, by far, the most consistent way of detecting breast cancer in the early stages.

What happens at the Center?

Lansing General's Breast Cancer Detection Center has been specially designed to offer privacy and comfort. The entire process (mammogram, comprehensive instruction in self-examination and additional consultation) takes about one hour. Test results are forwarded to your physician.

How much does it cost?

The cost for the entire package is just $65, payable at the time of the patient's visit. The price covers the mammogram, radiologist's interpretation, individual consultation and information.

Mammogram X-rays offered by other health care providers in the area without the extras, range in cost from $90 to $140.

To make an appointment

Simply call Breast Cancer Detection Center directly at (517) 377-8111. It's not necessary to have a doctor's order to participate in the clinic.
