New Aco Hardware now open in South Point Mall

Patrick F. Woolley, II, is the store manager at the new ACO Inc. store in St. Johns. The announcement was made by Theodore N. Traskos, chairman of the 45-store chain, which is Michigan's largest retail hardware organization.

As store manager, Woolley will be responsible for overseeing all operational functions as well as supervisory management of staff personnel.

Woolley's career with ACO began in 1980, when he joined the company as a paint advisor at the Westland store. He served in that capacity for nearly two years. He then entered ACO's management training program. He served as an assistant to the manager in a variety of stores including Dearborn, Trenton, Allen Park, Plymouth and Farmington.

A native of Detroit, Woolley, 24, grew up in Taylor and attended Henry Ford Community College in Dearborn. He has earned accreditation from the National Retail Hardware Association for his advanced course study in professional hardware retailing.

He and his wife, Sherry, currently live in East Lansing.

Schools receive high marks from voter survey

By KIMBERLY MARSHALL
Staff Writer

St. Johns Public Schools receives high marks from the community, that's according to the Project Outreach survey results presented to the schoolboard April 15.

Of the 385 registered voters who were polled, 71 percent graded the schools with an A or B rating. Only 49 percent statewide and 42 percent nationwide rate their schools above a C average.

The poll was designed to find out voter's opinions and attitudes about the local public schools. The questionnaire was developed by a committee made up of schoolboard members, teachers, administrators and citizens.

The typical adult in St. Johns feels well informed about the quality of education provided by the local schools.

Half of the parents of public school children in St. Johns rely on their children for information about the schools.

The majority of the citizens with no children rely on the Clinton County News newspaper and the St. Johns Reminder shopping guide for their school information.

Of the people who would like to see the curriculum changed, the majority want more computer classes.

The three most important school subjects were English/reading, math and, at the junior and high school level, computer education.

St. Johns voters were evenly divided on the question of a longer school day and year.

Respondents were asked if they favored a seven hour school day instead of a six period day. Even though 46 percent favored such a plan, another 45 percent opposed the idea.

Those who supported the longer school day were asked a follow-up question on whether they would vote for increased school millage to make a seven hour school day possible. Roughly three out of every ten respondents (29 percent) were in favor of more millage to support a longer school day and 13 percent were opposed.

Concerning a longer school year, 47 percent were in support of a 190-day school year for students and a 200-day work year for teachers, 42 percent opposed these recommendations.

Of those who supported a longer school year, 29 percent favored a millage increase to make the longer year possible.

St. Johns voters agree, strongly, with their fellow citizens throughout Michigan, that students should pass reading and math competency tests before graduating from high school. Ninety percent said they favor requiring students to pass such tests in order to graduate from high school. Eighty-two percent stated that students should pass competency tests before they are promoted from elementary school to junior high and from junior high to high school.

In addition, a strong majority (93 percent) felt that teachers should pass a competency test in the subject area they teach.

In answer to millage questions, 73 percent said they would vote to renew the three and one-half mills due to expire this year. Voters seemed to favor millage increases if the question outlined specifically what the money was to be spent on. The schoolboard will take this into consideration when developing proposals for the upcoming millage election in June.

Copies of the Project Outreach report are available at the Bement Public Library, St. Johns.

Safety program starts

A fingerprinting clinic for elementary and preschool age children, three and older, will be held upstairs in City Hall, St. Johns, May 4, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The fingerprints can be used by parents for identification purposes if their child becomes missing. There will only be one set of prints made and that set is given to the parents to keep with their important papers. Prints will not be kept on file by police.

The fingerprinting clinic is being sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary 153 and St. Johns City Police.

Board meets

By KIMBERLY MARSHALL
Staff Writer

The St. Johns Board of Education approved the establishment of a new part-time position at the high school for an activities coordinator at their April 15 meeting.

They also appointed William McCarthy to the Educational Foundation Board of Directors, as the schoolboard's representative and liaison.

A committee of William McCarthy, Peter Apostol and Robert Craig was appointed to negotiate a contract with Superintendent Earl Gabriel and bring their recommendation to the whole Board for ratification.

Marilyn Newman was the only person to submit nominating petitions to the Board by the April 8, 4 p.m. deadline, for the position opening up on the school board.

Several high school athletic teams were given plaques honoring them for their achievements.

Representing the boys basketball team were John Keenoy, captain and Keith Haske, coach. Marty Martens, also a team captain, was not present. The team achieved records of 14 wins and eight season losses, nine wins and one loss in Conference and the position of Mid-Michigan B League Champions.

The boys swim team captains, Steve Fedewa, Kevin Hufnagel and Steve Welch accepted the award honoring their 12 wins and one loss season record, eight wins and zero losses conference record, DeWitt Invitational Champions and Central Michigan Swim League Champions. Jim Makarauskas is the swim team's coach.

Captain Laurie Warren and coach Michelle Lindquist, accepted the award for the cheerleading squad. The squad earned first place in the Hope College Cheerleading Competition, first place Region IV Michigan Cheerleading Association Competition, fifth place State Cheerleading Association Competition, third place Dynamic Cheerleading Association.

In other action, the resignation of Cy Hibbard for purposes of retirement effective April 12, was approved. Hibbard was a custodian at Rodney B. Wilson Jr. High. The resignation of Linda Mastrovito for another position, effective March 29, was also accepted. Mastrovito was an administrative secretary.

The Board declared May 8 as St. Johns Teachers Day, "a day to give its recognition and the recognition by all citizens to St. Johns outstanding and dedicated teachers."

The Board allocated funds to hold a Volunteer's Night dinner, May 13.

It will be a sit-down dinner for the approximately 400 people who have offered their time and services to the school system in some way.

Ball players to get dug-outs

By KIMBERLY MARSHALL

Doug Parker and Paul Sternberg presented plans to the St. Johns Board of Education April 15 to build dugouts in the ball fields this spring.

The dugout planned for the baseball field includes a storage area. The dugout/storage building will have a cement floor and cement block walls.

Parker, varsity baseball coach, has already rounded up volunteer workers for the project. John Keenoy, a mason, will lay the bricks and Jim Cleaver, a carpenter, will work on the roof and involve his high school carpentry class also.

It is going to cost an estimated $4,500 to complete. Parker has planned a fundraiser during which he hopes to raise $3,000. The junior varsity and varsity players will hold a hit-a-thon. They will take pledges of so much money per foot the ball is hit.

Parker said he would pay for the rest himself and hold more fundraisers next fall for reimbursement.

"Hopefully the $4,500 figure will drop after discounts or more donations," he said.

He has already organized a lot of work on the field. Sod has been laid in, the backstop painted, and line areas improved.

"We had 20 kids out working on the field last weekend," said Parker.

In the future, Parker hopes to run electricity and water out to the dugout. It will be used to operate the batting machine and for field maintenance.

The dugout planned for the softball field does not include a storage area and will have deck type flooring, it will be 24 feet by 5 feet.

Paul Sternberg, softball coach, has also organized some volunteer labor and planned a fundraiser.

The junior varsity and varsity teams will face each other for a 50 inning game. They will take pledges for each inning played.

Cropsey explains legislation

By KIMBERLY MARSHALL
Staff Writer

Thanks to a lot of support in the Grand Rapids area election a month ago, the Republicans now have the state senate majority, said State Senator Alan Cropsey.

Cropsey gave a legislative update during the St. Johns Chamber of Commerce luncheon April 18.

There are several bills in the legislative hopper that will directly affect small business.

One bill regarding regulatory flexibility would require the state departments to tell legislators how new rules would affect small businesses.

"This is a good bill because it gives the bureaucracy an idea of how what they are doing will effect the small businesses," he said.

Another bill helps protect small business from frivolous government lawsuits.

"If a government department goes after a small business with a frivolous lawsuit and the business wins, the department would have to pay the businesses court cost and lawyers fees."

Bad check laws are taking on a new look also.

"Some of the bad-check legislation is being re-done. Bad checks over $250 or a series of bad checks will remain a felony. But, now, businesses can write to the person and give them 30 days to pay-up.

If the person doesn't make good on the check in 30 days, they can be taken to small claims court and be made to pay double the check amount plus court costs."

"In 1984 small claims court was for amounts $600 and under, that has been changed now to $1,000 and less. In 1986, the amount will be $1,500 and under. We have tried to change this in the past, but the bar association always protested to strongly," said Cropsey.

Cropsey can be written to at: Alan L. Cropsey, (R)-District 30, 7730 Loomis Rd., DeWitt, MI 48820, phones home 517-669-3037, office 517-373-2420.

Youth job program underway

Schools, community agencies and private sector employers are working together to find summer jobs for young people in Ingham, Eaton and Clinton Counties. This coordinated effort is called Hire-A-Youth.

This is the third year for this coordinated job effort. Previous campaigns have placed over 500 young people in summer jobs in the tri-county area.

Employers who participated in last year's program are enthusiastic supporters of Hire-A-Youth.

Roger Overway, State Farm Insurance, Clinton County, said, "The young lady brought on through Hire-A-Youth did everything expected of her. She was an excellent employee. I would not hesitate to hire another young person if they compared at all with her skills and abilities."

Part of this effort involves a tri-county-wide phoning survey during the month of May. Phone calls will be made to area employers, with the goal of securing commitments for hiring young people for the coming summer.

During the last week of April, the Hire-A-Youth Committee will mail brochures to owners and chief executive officers of area firms. They will be asking them to think about hiring a young person for the summer and to be prepared to talk with a Hire-A-Youth representative.

One aspect of the summer program which may appeal to employers is the Targeted Job Tax Credit which provides employers, who hire low income 16-17 year-olds, up to an 85% tax credit on salaries. Some employers will be able to hire these young people for less than seventy cents an hour.

The tax credit is an opportunity to keep federal tax dollars in the greater Lansing community, according to David Schmidt, chairperson of the Lansing Tri-County Private Industry Council.

Once pledges to hire a youth are obtained from employers, referrals will be handled through area schools, private agencies and the Michigan Employment Security Commission, Schmidt explained. Each employer desiring to hire a youth for the summer will be contacted for a detailed description of the job skills needed.

Job candidates will be thoroughly screened to meet employer requirements. Only a limited number of applicants will be referred for each job to save the employer time, effort and money.

Employers interested in hiring young people, ages 16-21, for the summer should call 487-0106 and ask for a Hire-A-Youth representative.

Honorary insurance clubs established

Citizens Insurance Company of America, located in Howell, has announced the establishment of the President's Million Dollar Council and the Key Agents Club, two honorary groups formed to recognize the outstanding production and underwriting by its agencies.

The President's Million Dollar Council

recognizes agencies with over $1 million in written premium with Citizens and above-average underwriting results, reported James K. Coville, vice president of marketing at Citizens Insurance Company.

Based upon 1984 volume, 14 of Citizens 570 agencies qualified for membership in the President's Million Dollar Council and will receive an award plaque and other special benefits in recognition of their achievements.

The Key Agents Club recognizes agencies for above-average production with at least $500,000 in written premium with Citizens and outstanding underwriting results; ac-ording to Coville. All members of the Key Agents Club will receive an award plaque and other special benefits in recognition of their achievements.

Based upon 1984 volume, 29 agencies qualified for membership in the Key Agents Club, including Allaby and Brewbaker, Inc., in St. Johns.

Mr. Kurt Becker
Kurt's Appliance Center
217 North Clinton
St. John's, Michigan, 48879

Dear Mr. Becker,

Congratulations! For the 14th consecutive year you have been awarded NARDA's Quality Service Approved plaque, signifying the excellence of the repair service you offer to your customers.

It is gratifying to us here at NARDA headquarters to see so many of our dealer members taking such a keen interest in their after-market responsibility. In truth, the sale does not end with the signing of the order. We cannot expect our customers to be completely satisfied until we have provided excellent delivery service, quality repair work during the warranty period, and most of all, the parts inventory, the technician training, the service literature, that assures the customer that quality repair work can be performed on valued appliances down through the years.

The fact that you have received the Quality Service Award through these consecutive years marks your store as the place to buy appliance in your area.

Keep up the good work.

Sincerely,

John

Fashions galore at the Spring show

NEW SPRING FASHIONS MODLED-The St. Joseph Altar Society Card Party-Cstyle Show was a big success, April 18, with 44 stores and businesses donating door prizes; 11 stores involved in the fashion show; Merle Norman make-up artists, Annette Snyder, Karlana Barber and Leslie Fox doing the make-up for the models and additional donations by McDonalds, Clean N' Time, Allaby and Brewbaker and Adles Design and Welding.

Fashions modeled here from the South Point Mall are Dancer's Fashions, Clothesworks and Fishers Big Wheel, Clean N' Time on U.S. 27 and Bridal Loft on Clinton Ave.

Entertainment was provided by Trixie's Pixies. Photos by Kimberly Marshall, CCN.

Merle Norman is more than just a place to buy make-up

By KIMBERLY MARSHALL
Staff Writer

Since Merle Norman opened up in November they have done the make-up for two fashion shows, several bridal parties and have plans to do the make-up for the upcoming Mint Festival, all for free.

This type of community service is promoted throughout the Merle Norman chain of over 2,500 studios in the United States and Canada.

"Merle Norman's philosophy is 'Try before you buy', and doing these community events gives us the chance to get out into the the community and have personal contact with potential customers," said Annette Snyder, part-owner of the St. Johns salon.

When the Merle Norman make-up artists do faces for events, sanitary precautions are used. The applicators are disposable, and once an applicator has touched a face, it is thrown out.

"As time goes on, people will realize the service we have to offer and we will get more and more requests," said Snyder.

"When we get requests for wedding parties, we ask they come in at least one week in advance. A make-up artist will do a complete make-over and then write down each color used for each girl. Then, on the day of the wedding, when the girls come in we can get their faces done quickly," said Snyder.

The newest product Merle Norman has come out with is a soapless facial bar.

"The bar is perfect for women who like to use soap and water. It is dermatologist tested, which means if you have problems with allergic reactions, you won't with this facial bar. Among the many features of this new product it contains nothing that soap does, which can be harsh on your skin, and it is french-milled to remove moisture so it will last a long time. The bar also comes in its own dish."

As for future plans, Merle Norman is beginning a program to have all of their products dermatologist-tested. This program should take one to two years to complete.

"Unlike hypo-allergenic, which means it has been tested but some people still have a reaction, dermatologist-tested means that the women tested had NO reactions. The women selected for these tests are mostly women who have allergic reaction tendencies," said Snyder.

Merle Norman is located at 210 N. Clinton Ave, St. Johns.

Leaves on the water were once thought to be a sign of storm.

Baking Ideas That Take The Cake FROM THE KITCHENS OF BETTY CROCKER

Looking for a recipe for a celestial chocolate cake? Try the heavenly Triple Chocolate Cake with an angel food base and chocolate fluff frosting with chocolate triangles.

This is just one of 100 easy-to-follow cake and cake decorating recipes ranging from simple applesauce cupcakes and a Peppermint Whipped Cream Cake to an elaborate chocolate tiered wedding cake. All are featured in the new "Betty Crocker's Cake Decorating with Cake Recipes for Every Occasion" from Random House. Priced at $13.95, it is available at book and department stores.

Here's that recipe to delight chocolate lovers:

TRIPLE CHOCOLATE CAKE

Chocolate Angel Food Cake (below)
Chocolate Fluff (below)
Chocolate Triangles (below) or dark chocolate-covered thin mints

Bake Chocolate Angel Food Cake as directed. Remove cake from pan. Split cake to make 3 layers. Fill each layer with 1 cup Chocolate Fluff; frost cake with remaining frosting. Decorate with chocolate triangles. Refrigerate any remaining cake. 12 to 16 servings.

Chocolate Angel Food Cake

1-1/2 cups powdered sugar
3/4 cup cake flour
1/4 cup cocoa
1-1/2 cups egg whites (about 12)

Triple Chocolate Cake can be a triply sweet success.

1-1/4 teaspoons cream of tartar
1 cup granulated sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1-1/2 teaspoons vanilla

Heat oven to 375°. Mix powdered sugar, flour and cocoa. Beat egg whites and cream of tartar in large bowl on medium speed until foamy. Beat in granulated sugar on high speed, 2 tablespoons at a time; continue beating until stiff and glossy. Add salt and vanilla with the last addition of sugar. Do not underbeat.

Sprinkle flour mixture, 1/4 cup at a time, over meringue, folding in just until flour mixture disappears. Push batter into ungreased tube pan, 10 x 4 inches. Cut gently through the batter with a metal spatula.

Bake until cracks feel dry and top springs back when touched lightly, 30 to 45 minutes. Invert pan on heat-proof funnel; let hang until cake is cold.

Chocolate Fluff

3 cups chilled whipping cream
1-1/2 cups powdered sugar
3/4 cup cocoa
1/4 teaspoon salt

Beat all ingredients in chilled bowl until stiff.

Chocolate Triangles

Heat 1 bar (4 ounces) sweet cooking chocolate over low heat until melted. Spread over outside bottom of square pan, 8 x 8 x 2 inches. Refrigerate until firm; bring to room temperature. Cut into squares; cut squares diagonally into halves for triangles. Refrigerate until ready to use.

spotlight on health

Fiberific

Today, good health and a fit body seem to be on almost everyone's list. Sensible meal planning along with proper exercise can help. Recently, fiber has been recognized as a key ingredient in a diet that promotes good nutrition and weight control.

Although proper nutrition concerns everyone, diabetics must take special care to watch diet and keep their weight down in order to stay healthy and control their disease.

Fiber makes sense for everyone, especially diabetics. Since it is not absorbed, fiber fills you up. You feel satiated after eating less. Many high-fiber foods are low in calories.

The benefits of fiber don't stop there. Fiber slows absorption of glucose and other important nutrients, so a meal high in fiber stays with you longer. This also helps to control extreme fluctuations in blood sugar levels. For the diabetic, control of blood glucose level is crucial. Control is made more possible by a simple chemically treated finger stick blood test, such as Chemstrip*BG, developed and produced by Bio-Dynamics, a Boehringer Mannheim company. Diabetics can easily test their blood sugar level at any time, and make appropriate adjustments in diet, exercise, and medication, working closely with a physician.

Diabetics need foods rich in fiber to help control extreme fluctuations in blood sugar levels.

The following recipe is packed with fiber. It satisfies without a lot of calories and tastes good too.

TOMATO-OATMEAL SOUP

1/2 cup rolled oats, one-minute
2 Tbsp. butter
1 small onion, chopped
1 clove garlic, crushed, or dash garlic powder
1 large tomato, chopped (fresh or canned)

1 can or 2 cups chicken broth
Salt to taste

In a heavy skillet toast oats, stirring frequently until browned but not burned. Remove from pan. Sauté onion, garlic and tomato in butter in the skillet. Add the chicken broth, salt and browned oats. Bring to boil and cook for several minutes. Serve immediately.

Serves 2. Each serving: 1 Vegetable Exchange, 1 Bread Exchange, 3 Fat exchanges = 235 calories.

Using only 1 Tbsp. butter yields 1 1/2 Fat Exchanges per serving and only 165 calories.

MAKING FAMILY LIFE MORE FUN

An Ideal Menu Choice For Your Family Celebration

Here's a barbecue idea which will appeal to men!

Let dad prepare a beef barbecue in the backyard for a wonderful and memorable meal. He will welcome the opportunity to share his culinary skills with the rest of the family.

A slow charcoal fire cooks beef to its most flavorful, tender and juicy best by cooking at low to moderate temperatures. Beef easily picks up the smoky barbecue flavor to enhance its own flavorful taste. Some like their beef unadorned, but other outdoor cooks add flavor variety with marinades, sauces, wood chips or chunks.

The whole family will enjoy the following recipe.

TERIYAKI STEAK WITH ONIONS

1-1/2 pound beef flank steak
1/2 cup soy sauce
1/4 cup dry white wine
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 teaspoon grated ginger root
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 large sweet onion, sliced
1 tablespoon butter or margarine

Combine soy sauce, wine, brown sugar, ginger and garlic. Place steak in plastic bag. Add marinade, turning to coat. Tie bag securely and marinate in refrigerator 6 to 8 hours (or overnight), turning at least once. Drain marinade from steak; and reserve. Broil steak over medium coals 10 to 15 minutes, to doneness desired (rare or medium); turn once. Meanwhile, cook onion in butter in frying pan until soft. Stir in 1/4 cup reserved marinade; cook 4 to 5 minutes. Carve steak into thin slices. Serve with onion. 5 to 6 servings.

More creative cookout ideas can be found in a booklet called: "American Beef Cookouts." For a copy, send your name and address and 75 cents to the Meat Board Test Kitchens & Beef Industry Council, 444 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Who invented Pineapple Upside Down Cake? Truth is—it's been with us so long, nobody seems to know. It's all-American—a classic dessert, but food experts and historians can only guess the origins.

Research by a food historian shows that 1870 is when upside-down cakes first appeared. The term 'upside down cake' wasn't used much before the late nineteenth century, but that style of baking could date as far back as the Middle Ages.

In 1925, Dole ran an ad for a recipe contest, seeking creative and original recipes using pineapple. The contest drew a response of 60,000 recipes—2,500 of which were for Pineapple Upside Down Cake!

The original recipes were made in skillets—probably cast iron—and cooked on top of the stove, rather than in the oven. This technique dates back to days when cooks did not have bake ovens at home. For this reason they were nicknamed "skillet cakes."

This is our favorite "scratch" recipe for Pineapple Upside Down Cake from the modern Test Kitchen of Dole.

PINEAPPLE UPSIDE DOWN CAKE

1 can (20 oz.) Dole Sliced Pineapple
1/4 cup butter
2/3 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
Maraschino cherries
1-1/2 cups flour
3/4 cup sugar
1-1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup milk
1/4 cup shortening
1 egg
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 teaspoon grated lemon peel

Drain pineapple reserving 2 tablespoons syrup. Melt butter in a 10-inch cast iron skillet*. Stir in brown sugar until blended. Remove from heat. Arrange pineapple slices in sugar mixture. Place a maraschino cherry in center of each slice. Combine flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Add milk and shortening; beat 2 minutes. Add egg, reserved syrup, lemon juice, vanilla and lemon peel. Beat 2 minutes. Pour over pineapple in skillet, spreading evenly. Bake in a 350° F oven 40 minutes. Cool on wire rack 5 minutes. Invert onto serving plate. Serve warm. Makes 8 servings.

For a quick and different Upside Down cake try this.

GINGERBREAD UPSIDE DOWN CAKE

1 can (20 oz.) Dole Sliced Pineapple in Syrup
1/2 cup butter, softened
1 cup packed brown sugar
10 maraschino cherries
1 egg
1/2 cup dark molasses
1-1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda

1 teaspoon ground ginger
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon salt

Drain pineapple, reserving 1/2 cup syrup. Melt 1/4 cup butter in a 10-inch cast iron skillet*. Blend in 1/2 cup sugar. Remove from heat. Arrange pineapple slices in skillet. Place a cherry in center of each pineapple slice. Cream remaining butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in egg and molasses until blended. Combine flour, baking soda, ginger, cinnamon and salt. Bring reserved 1/2 cup pineapple syrup to a boil. Remove from heat. Add flour mixture to creamed mixture alternately with hot syrup. Pour over pineapple slices in skillet. Bake in 350° F oven 35 to 40 minutes until cake tests done. Cool in skillet 5 minutes. Invert onto serving plate. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

*To make your skillet oven-proof, wrap handle in foil.

Doctors recommend the use of seatbelts

Wearing a seat belt, your chances of surviving an automobile crash increases by 50 percent. In an accident, at any speed, there rarely is enough time to react. The seat belt makes the difference.

Safety experts say that as many as 300 lives could be saved annually and more than 21,000 serious injuries prevented now that Michigan has its mandatory seat belt law.

Traffic fatalities decreased by 20 percent in Australia and by 17 percent in Ontario with implementation of their mandatory seat belt laws. Experts predict similar improvements for Michigan.

These are the kinds of points Michigan physicians, as members of the Michigan State Medical Society (MSMS), have been making as they have encouraged state residents to wear seat belts.

Robert D. Burton, MD, MSMS vice-speaker and chairman of the Michigan Coalition for Safety Belt Use said, "the doctors of this state really feel the road trauma has reached epidemic proportions and see the new seat belt law as necessary in preventing injuries."

Common arguments against seat belt usage can easily be dispelled:

Seat belts get in the driver's way. No. In contrast, seat belts help drivers regain control. The belts keep drivers in their seats, and behind the wheel.

Seat belts trap people inside the car. To the contrary, statistics show that when occupants are thrown from the car their chances of being killed are 25 times greater.

Seat belts are only needed on long trips and at high speeds. Wrong! Most car accidents happen within 25 miles of home at speeds of less than 40 mph. Seat belts are needed for any distance, any speed.

Seat belts can't be effective because they aren't tight. Seat belts work with a pendulum mechanism that is activated only when the car pitches sideways, suddenly stops or moves violently. In any other case, the belts allow free movement.

Government shouldn't intrude on the motorist's freedom. The case for buckling up is so overwhelmingly convincing that there should be no need for government to be involved. But the government must have traffic safety laws—like speed limits and driving on the right side of the road—to promote public safety.

These are similar to the requirement for seat belts and are accepted for their important safety contributions.

Effective July 1, 1985, motorists' seat belts will be checked when they are stopped for primary traffic offences. All front seat passengers must be wearing properly adjusted seat belts. Unbelted occupants will be fined $10. In 1986, the fine will increase to $25.

Not only will seat belts save lives, they will save an estimated $200 million in Michigan's insurance and health costs. Buckle up!

Today's MEDICINES

by Grant Brown, Pharm.D.
Jackson, MI

Nancy Wenzloff, Pharm.D.
Farmington Hills, MI

Recognizing that April is Cancer Control Month, what is the test that is being promoted to detect colon cancer? Is it accurate? Where can the test be purchased?

The Hemocult test is a screening test that is available in pharmacies. The Hemocult test is used to detect the presence of blood in the stool. Blood in the stool is a sign of bleeding occurring in the stomach, intestine or colon. Often, the blood is hidden in the stool and cannot be easily seen. A Hemocult test can be used to find such blood.

Blood in the stool is one sign of colorectal cancer. Other symptoms often seen with this type of cancer are weight loss, diarrhea or constipation and, sometimes, pain in the abdomen. Since colorectal cancer is the second most common type of cancer to occur in older men and women, doctors often check for the presence of blood in the stool. If found early, colon cancer is often curable with surgery. Blood in the stool can also be a sign of hemorrhoids, ulcers, colitis and other gastrointestinal problems. For this reason, the Hemocult test can not be used alone to diagnose colon cancer. Other tests are necessary to determine the cause of the blood in the stool.

In order to give accurate results, the Hemocult test must be done properly. A special diet should be followed for two days before the test is done. Rare meat, turnips, radishes and cauliflower should not be eaten. Foods high in fiber, such as vegetables, should be eaten.

Incorrect readings may occur if the diet described above is not carefully followed. The reading can be wrong if vitamin C or iron supplements were taken. Medications that irritate the stomach, such as aspirin and arthritis medications, may cause some bleeding and cause the test to be positive.

Remember, this test alone cannot be used to diagnose any condition, not even colorectal cancer. Though if done properly, it does allow you to determine if blood is present in the stool. When buying the Hemocult test ask your pharmacist to review the directions for use with you. Always tell your doctor about the results of the test. If the test is positive, you should have the Hemocult test results double checked by your doctor as soon as possible.

Screening tests, such as the Hemocult test, offer you new ways to get information about your body and health. But, don't forget, the most important way to get health information—talk to your doctor and pharmacist. Pharmacists participating in the statewide Patient Education Program can also supply you with written information on your prescription medications.

Sall to receive scholarship

Tracy Sall, a resident of St. Johns and a student at Lansing Community College, has been named a recipient of a scholarship from the FEL-PRO Automotive Technician Scholarship Program. This scholarship is designed to help students interested in becoming professional service technicians to further their education, and to help meet the demand for qualified service personnel.

FEL-PRO, which is one of the leading manufacturers of mechanical gaskets and chemical sealing products for the automotive aftermarket, has long taken an interest in the education of automotive technicians. This scholarship program, which awards money for use toward tuition to qualified students in college-level vocational/technical programs, is an extension of FEL-PRO's commitment to improving the quality and availability of automotive service throughout the industry. The scholarships are administered by the Citizen's Scholarship Foundation of America, an independent organization.

STUDENTS ENJOY MENU THEY PLANNED-This is a scene which took place last Wednesday as an outgrowth of a dietary program presented to Mrs. May Pulliam's first grade class by Mrs. Katie Aylsworth, head dietician in the St. Johns School System. Guided by Mrs. Aylsworth, Mrs. Pulliam's students completely planned a menu for the entire Central School which is obviously being enjoyed by this group in the photo. Photo by Joan Schmaltz, CCN.

April 21-April 27: Professional Secretaries Week

The days of the poor forgotten secretary may be over. Not only do they have a week when they are particularly appreciated—April 21 to April 27—they also have a new word processing computer system aimed just at them.

The system, aptly called, "Office Assistant" combines the features of a typewriter, an advanced word processor, and a personal computer. Developed by Wang, it is considered the logical upgrade for the electronic typewriter because it integrates all the most common secretarial tasks, such as integrated word processing, forms processing, spreadsheets, and graphics.

Happily, the system is designed to work as a secretary works. Because they often do more than one job at a time, the user of the Office Assistant can start a new task before completing another.

Honary degree to be awarded to Gabriel

Earl D. Gabriel, superintendent of the St. Johns School District, will be awarded an honorary doctor of public service by Ferris State College May 18.

Gabriel, former member of the Ferris Board of Control, has headed the St. Johns schools for the past three years. He taught in the Dearborn Schools for 10 years before becoming a staff associate with Science Research Associates, Inc., a subsidiary of IBM.

He served on the Ferris Board of Control from February of 1977 to this past January, chairing the Board in 1982. He is the past president of the Michigan Association of School Boards and the Wayne County Association of School Boards.

An MASB Distinguished Service Award recipient, Gabriel also has served as chair of the Regional Board of Directors for the National Association of School Boards.

Rev. Robert Fortner

Evangelist to hold local revival meeting

Rev. Robert Fortner of Carmi, Illinois will be preaching at the St. Johns Church of the Nazarene nightly at 7:00 p.m. during the week of April 23-28. Services on Sunday will be at 11:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m.

Rev. Fortner is an ordained minister in the Church of the Nazarene. He was in the business of drilling for and producing oil and gas before accepting the call to the ministry. Many of his experiences are used in his preaching of the gospel message.

Rev. Fortner pastored several years before becoming a full-time itinerant evangelist. He is currently holding revivals, camp meetings, and evangelistic crusades across the nation.

Providing the special music in each service will be the Rev. Kenneth Brier from Lansing. His renditions of both the old fashioned music and the contemporary sound will thrill hearts and set toes to tapping.

The church and its pastor Rev. Russell Payne extend a warm welcome to the public during these services. The church is located at 515 N. Lansing Street.

VFW ceremony set

The Mark Daniels VFW Post 1735 of Perrinton and the Ladies Auxiliary will have an Americanism/Loyalty Day on April 27.

The program will begin with an outdoor ceremony at 5:30 p.m., featuring the dedication of 41 American flags donated by family members of deceased veterans. The flags will fly in the pasts "Aisle of Memorial Flags" just north of the VFW Post home.

The program will be followed by a dinner program with guest speakers from civic organizations and neighboring VFW Posts and Auxiliaries. A social hour will follow for those who wish to socialize longer.

All members and their guests are invited to this event. The cost is very nominal, just enough to cover the cost of the food.

Sheriff's Department Report

Clinton County Sheriff's Deputies investigated a larceny reported by Dawin Harrington, 14245 Chadwick, Portland, April 12.

Missing is a one-ton chain fall, one 20-ton, green, Sears hydraulic jack and one 45 drawer storage bin full of various odds and ends. Loss is estimated at $200. The case remains under investigation.

Florence Smith, Fowler, reported an attempted breaking and entering April 12.

Someone broke out one of her sliding glass windows in her apartment. The entire window was forced in, but nothing else was disturbed or missing in the apartment.

Deputies handled

three personal injury accidents last week.

Gale Henning, 34, of 603 W. Giles, St. Johns, had slowed down to turn into a driveway when he was struck by a second vehicle, driven by Gerald Pontius, 18, of 7781 W. Grand River, Grand Ledge, April 11.

Pontius stated that he was unable to stop in time to avoid hitting the Henning vehicle. The Pontius' vehicle rolled over onto its top. He was transported to Sparrow Hospital by Lansing Mercy.

On April 14, Jon Schocke, 27 and Andrew Schocke, 2, were involved in a one car accident.

Schocke was southbound on Meridian and was traveling too fast to negotiate a curve, his vehicle left the roadway, rolling over twice. Both were transported to Sparrow Hospital by Ovid Ambulance.

Schocke was wearing a seatbelt and the infant was in a child restraint.

Steven Redmond, 24, of 2083 Bayham, Kentwood, was the driver of a vehicle west bound on Grand River when he failed to stop at a marked intersection. The Redmond vehicle was struck broadside by a southbound semi-truck driven by Leon Kamps, 22, of Byron Center.

Redmond and two passengers, Patrick Bois, 18, and William Mack, 21, were taken to St. Lawrence Hospital by Grand Ledge Am-balance. Kamps was not injured.

Redmond was cited for failing to stop.

Clinton County Sheriff's Deputies handled a total of 108 complaints this past week, including: eight alarms, 13 assists, five larcenies, five personal injury accidents, six domestics, three hit and run accidents, five malicious destruction of property, six property damage accidents, three littering complaints, six suspended activity or vehicles, two breaking and enterings and one prowler.

Thirty-eight people were booked into the county jail, 10 of them for drunk driving. Jail census is 47.

Sports Briefs

Varsity letter awards have been earned by 11 members of the Western Michigan University's men's gymnastics team which finished the 1984-1985 season at 5-5 under Coach Fred Oslofsky and won the Great Lakes League championship.

Included in the letter-winners was Spencer Beaufore of St. Johns, a junior at Western Michigan.

Pioszak places

Junior Paul Pioszak of St. Johns and a member of the Western Michigan University men's track team earned two places at the Northwestern Relays on April 12-13.

Pioszak captured second place in the 5,000-meter run with a time of 14:20.6 and fourth place in the 10,000-meter run with a time of 31:31.4. The Broncos also competed in the Redskin Relays at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio on Saturday, April 20.

Bike safety planned

The Mark Daniels VFW Post 1735 of Perrinton and the Ladies Auxiliary will conduct a bicycle safety program from 10:00 a.m. to 12:00 a.m. on Saturday, April 27. This will be held at the Post home in Perrinton.

Parents are urged to have their children bring their bikes for this free safety program and bike adjustments.

There will also be material available on the knowledge of drugs and on how to combat drug abuse.

Assistance hotline now available

Over two hundred Michigan farmers and agriculture related business people called the Agriculture Assistance Network hotline during its first five days of operation, Paul E. Kindinger, director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture announced today.

The Agricultural Assistance Network is one of a four part program Governor James J. Blanchard established to help Michigan's troubled agricultural industry and is housed in the MDA Lansing office.

Through a toll free hotline (1-800-346-FARM) farmers and agribusinesses can call the Network for information and assistance with current problems resulting from the economic crisis. Staff members, operating through contacts in state departments and outside agencies, will review caller's individual needs, identify proper agencies to address those concerns and bring the caller together with the agency for follow through.

"Hotline offers the agricultural community a central point to call for assistance," said Kindinger. "Through this coordinated approach, we can cut red tape and resolve problems promptly."

In addition to other needs, the majority of callers have requested information regarding the state's proposed agricultural loan program, said Ed Renkie, MDA hotline coordinator. "Spring planting is here and many farmers need operating loans now."

An amount of $70 million will be designated from the state's common cash fund to be placed in certificates of deposit in financial institutions which will provide loans to farmers at a lower interest rate. Legislation is required and will be introduced this week.

Callers are also asking for employment information, legal referrals, and assistance to deal with family stress due to the current economic problems.

"A lot of farmers are not aware of the existing programs available to them," Renkie said. "We try to give them options to fit each individual situation."

The Cooperative Extension Service has Emergency Management Assistance Teams throughout the state to help farmers evaluate their current management practices and develop a more efficient operation. Representatives of CES are working with the hotline and the Governor has requested these teams be expanded.

"Part of the success of the Agricultural Assistance Network depends on the coordination of many agencies," Renkie said. "We've had a good commitment from legislators and other state agencies to this program. They are doing everything in their authority to assist our agricultural industry."

Calls are taken on the hotline (1-800-346-FARM) Monday through Friday, 8 a.m.-5 p.m., and an answering machine records messages after business hours and weekends.

Pork imports are ruled subsidized

A preliminary ruling by the International Trade Commission (ITC) that Canadian pork imports are subsidized was announced by Secretary of Agriculture John Block in March to a group of Michigan Farm Bureau members in Washington, D.C.

The ITC ruled that the Canadians are subsidizing their pork exports at 3.9 cents per pound. Once the ITC ruling is published in the Federal Register, any importer of Canadian pork will be required to pay a duty on the import.

"We're on the road to where we may put in place countervailing duties to make sure that it's fair trade," Block said. "We're not trying to be unfair to them, but we have a process whereby we can react and protect the American farmer."

Block urged the Michigan farmers to "put up the good fight and work for prosperity in the future." He listed four issues of concern to agriculture that will impact on the industry's future viability.

"The first--the federal deficit--is an area on which Farm Bureau has already taken a strong stand and I compliment you for that. Stay with it," he said.

"The second is international trade. We must put our shoulders and our muscles behind a new round of trade negotiations, a round where we insist that agricultural trade has the highest priority."

Block said reform of tax policies "which have victimized the farmer," and farm policy reform were also essential to putting agriculture back on the road to recovery.

Michigan Farm Bureau Vice President Jack Laurie presented Secretary Block with a coffee cup commemorating the organization's 25th annual Washington legislative trip, with instructions to fill it only with milk and Michigan fruit juices.

Pesticide safety imperative

People who don't wear the proper personal protection when handling and applying insecticides run the risk of getting as much of the material on them as on the insects they are trying to control.

"This can be dangerous," says Howard J. Doss, Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service safety specialist. "Depending upon their toxicity and the duration of exposure to them, insecticides can affect humans just as they affect insects."

Many commonly used insecticides kill by attacking a bug's central nervous system. This impairs its respiratory and metabolic functions and eventually kills it. The toxic chemicals in insecticides can have the same effect on humans.

THE EFFECT

Organophosphate and organocarbamate insecticides are the most common in use today. Overexposure to them is potentially lethal.

Symptoms of organophosphate poisoning can develop during exposure to the insecticide or within 12 hours of contact with the chemical. Headache, dizziness, weakness, muscle twitching, tremors, nausea, abdominal cramps, diarrhea and sweating are common symptoms.

Acute organocarbamate poisoning symptoms include diarrhea, nausea, vomiting, abdominal pain, profuse sweating, salivation and blurred vision.

A human can become contaminated with an insecticide by absorbing it through the skin (the palms, neck, forehead, groin and feet are particularly sensitive), by inhaling the fumes and by ingesting the chemical through the mouth.

PROPER CLOTHING

Anyone using insecticides should wear clothing that covers the entire body. Basic to any work with insecticides is wearing a long-sleeved shirt, denim jeans or coveralls made of tightly woven fabric. With SPRAYING CAN BE HAZARDOUS TO YOUR HEALTH-Without taking the proper precautions and reading container information carefully, spraying chemicals can be detrimental or even fatal to the person using them.

Use caution with pesticides

ed rubber or neoprene boots (with pantlegs rolled down over the boots on the outside to keep insecticide from getting in).

Wear gloves when handling any insecticide, Doss advises. Gloves should be unlined and be made of impervious material and long enough to cover wrists (with shirt sleeves over gloves on the outside to keep insecticide from getting in).

A good way to protect your head is with a wide-brimmed plastic "hard-hat" that has a nonabsorbent plastic head and sweat band. Such hats are waterproof, easy to scrub clean and cool in hot weather.

Goggles or a face shield with a plastic headband will protect your eyes. Ordinary eyeglasses aren't well suited because a splash or the spray can easily get behind them.

When directed by the container label-be sure to read it before opening the container-wear an approved respiratory device of the suggested type and filtering material.

Wear clean clothes daily, but change them right away if they get wet with spray and take a soapy shower or bath at once. Throw away clothes if you spill an insecticide concentrate on them or if they get wet with a highly toxic spray material.

Wash pesticide-contaminated clothing separate from other laundry. Wash personal protection equipment thoroughly after every use.

THE LABEL

The terms on the insecticide label specify the relative acute toxicity of a product. The words DANGER-POISON, accompanied by a skull and crossbones, mean the substance is highly toxic. Just a taste could kill.

WARNING is used on labels of insecticides that could kill a human who swallowed a teaspoon of the chemical.

The word DANGER on a label indicates that the chemical may not be extremely dangerous to humans but may be toxic to fish, birds or honeybees or may have some potential for environmental damage.

CAUTION is used for low toxicity insecticides-an ounce to a pint of the chemical would be needed to kill a human.

CONTAINER DISPOSAL

Regardless of the type of insecticide used, the containers should be disposed of properly:

-Containers of liquid formulations. Triple rinse the container immediately after emptying, pouring the contents into the sprayer. Puncture the top and bottom of the container to prevent reuse. Dispose of it in a licensed sanitary landfill.

-Containers of dry formulations. Completely empty contents into the sprayer. Open both ends of the container to help remove contents.

Put the container in a licensed landfill.

CONCENTRATE ON THE JOB

When handling any type of insecticide, keep your full attention on the job from beginning to end.

Do not smoke, drink or eat while handling or using insecticides or afterward until you have thoroughly washed.

Clean up all insecticide spills immediately.

Store all insecticide containers (even the empties) in a lockable room or shed. Make sure that only knowledgeable, authorized persons have access to the locked storage. Do not let children go near the storage area.

It's smelt dipping time and many people are out in the water right now, with a net in hand. To most people, that is the fun part. The hard part is knowing what to do with the smelt once it is caught.

If you have more fish than you can eat, the easiest and most convenient way to preserve it is to freeze the smelt. First of all, clean the smelt by spreading open the outer gills and taking hold of the inner gills with your forefingers. Then gently pull the inside organs out. All the unfit parts for food are attached to these inner gills and usually come out together. The final step for cleaning smelt is to simply rinse out the fish, leaving it clean from dirt or residue.

Once the smelt has been cleaned, it should then be dipped into a mixture of 1/2 cup salt to each quart of ice cold water. The smelt must be left in the water for one minute, drained on a paper towel and then dipped again.

The smelt can then be wrapped or placed in an airtight, vapor proof package. To wrap fish, pull the wrap tightly around the fish squeezing out any air pockets. In containers or bags, pack fish tightly, excluding as much air as possible. Never use large containers or freeze fish in cartons.

Store your smelt in the freezer at 0 F or below. Smelt will keep up to 12 months. For maximum quality, use them within 6 months.

Potato stock up

Michigan potato growers, shippers and processors held a total of 2.6 million hundredweight (cwt.) of potatoes on April 1, 1985. This is an increase of 24 percent from a year ago, but 7 percent below stocks on hand April 1, 1983, according to the Federal/State Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service. Disappearance for the 1984 crop from the start of harvest to April 1 totaled 9.9 million cwt., 28 percent above movement for the same period last season. Disappearance during the month of March totaled 1.1 million cwt. compared to 1.2 million cwt. a year ago. So far this season, 79 percent of production has been removed from storage virtually the same as last year.

Nationally, potato stocks were estimated at 85.4 million cwt. in the 15 major storage states. This is up 5 percent from last year, but 5 percent below April 1, 1983. The remaining stocks account for 28 percent of fall production this year compared with 29 percent on hand this time last year. Processing so far this season in the major states totaled 95.3 million cwt., up 14 percent from a year earlier. March processing at 13.3 million cwt. is virtually the same as last year.

Attention dairy and livestock farmers! If you are interested in new, up to date information on dairy housing and equipment or livestock waste management systems, there are two new books available from the Midwest Plans Service to aid you in your decision making process.

Dairy managers can get help planning new facilities or remodeling existing ones from the revised edition of the "Dairy Housing and Equipment Handbook."

This handbook discusses dairy facility and equipment planning and design for milking herd management based on production groups, and replacement animal housing and management based on age groups.

The fourth edition of the handbook contains several new chapters on topics such as replacement animal housing, special handling and treatment, feeding facilities and utilities.

New management recommendations for milking herd facilities, a comprehensive manure management section and information on insulation, natural and mechanical ventilation systems, silo capacities and feed data are also included in the handbook.

Construction details for bunks, feeding equipment, fences and handling equipment and many illustrations and floor plans are featured as well.

The second edition of "Livestock Waste Facilities Handbook," MWPS-18, gives agricultural waste data for manure, bedding, feedlot runoff and milking center wastewater. The handbook also provides information on various aspects of facility design, such as manual scrape and gravity drain gutters, gravity flow channels, recirculation flush pits and waste transfer to storage.

An extensive worksheet is included in the handbook to help operators determine application rates based on manure composition, soil information and crop nutrients. Appendixes on livestock weight and climate data and a glossary are also featured.

The "Dairy Housing and Equipment Handbook" can be obtained by sending $6.00 to Plan Service, 217 Arthur W. Farrall Agricultural Engineering Hall, MSU, East Lansing, MI 48824. Several dairy building plans mentioned in the handbook are available from the Midwest Plan Service. Request a catalog that provides plan descriptions and prices when ordering the handbook.

The "Livestock Waste Facilities Handbook" also may be obtained by sending $6.00 to the address above.

Clover Clippings

By Theresa K. Silm
Extension 4-H-Youth Agent

Again this spring, a group of handicapped young people will be able to take riding lessons thanks to the cooperative efforts of the Cooperative Extension Service 4-H Youth Program and the Clinton County Intermediate School.

An instructor, certified at Chef Center, provides the major instruction for the program, but volunteers are the key to the success. Each youth who participates in the program must have one person to lead the horse and two sidewalkers throughout the class. These three are all interested teens and adults who volunteer their time so that these young people can have the experience of learning to ride.

The H. R. H. (horseback riding for the handicapped) program is not just a program offering free pony rides to handicapped young people. In the program, students actually learn riding skills. Ultimately some may even be able to ride independently.

This program offers H.R.H. students the opportunity to develop independence, gain self-confidence, develop a sense of trust and, of course, to have fun and meet new people. Riding lessons are great physical therapy and let students achieve goals they may never have even dreamed possible.

If you would be interested in supporting the H.R.H. program by volunteering your time or by making a financial contribution, please contact Theresa Silm at the Extension Office or Donna Apostle at the Intermediate School.

If you are interested in learning more about the program and perhaps visiting one of the spring classes, please contact Theresa or Donna for times and locations.

A summer program will also be sponsored during the weeks of June 10th and June 17th and parents who would be interested in having their child enrolled may also contact Theresa Silm or Donna Apostle.

Club meets

The St. Johns Camera Club will be holding a meeting on Tuesday, April 30, in the community room of Capital Federal Savings and Loan, N. Clinton Ave.

Eileen Blass, photographer for the Lansing State Journal, will present an interesting slide show on photojournalism. The show was highly recommended by members of the Lansing Camera Club.

Anyone interested in photography is invited to attend this meeting. There is no charge.

Henning receives honor

Ron Henning, a State Farm Insurance Company agent in the St. Johns area, has been named to the Legion of Honor, one of the firm's most distinguished accomplishments.

Only about one in four State Farm agents qualifies for this designation. To qualify, agents must achieve high standards in all aspects of the insurance business, especially regarding the quality of their business.

State Farm is one of the world's largest insurance companies and sells auto, fire, life and health insurance. With corporate headquarters in Bloomington, Illinois, the company serves customers through nearly 16,000 agents and more than 700 claims offices throughout the United States and Canada.

Women's club meeting

The St. Johns Women's Club met at the home of Adele Jones with 19 members and guests present. Hostesses were Mildred Brown and Virginia Jones.

Reports were given on the Senior Girls Reception, the Student Loan program, and Girls Town. The State Convention, April 25-27, was also discussed.

Jean Mary Bartholomew, librarian at Bement Public Library, gave an interesting and amusing review of "...and Ladies of the Club" written by Helen Hooven Santmyer of Xenia, Ohio. This is a personal account of six ladies in Waynesboro forming a women's club and covers a span of small town life from 1864-1932.

The next meeting will be the Senior Girls Reception at Smith Hall on May 1.

The St. Johns Women's Club is a member of the State Federation of Women's Club of Michigan.

Fertilizing helps sturdy growth

Although you may not have considered it in the past, that handy lawn sprayer on your storage shelf can do double duty as an applicator for liquid fertilizer.

This convenient sprayer is a natural since the nozzle promotes even distribution of fertilizer and can easily be attached to your garden hose. These devices automatically monitor the pressurized water flow while diluting the fertilizer.

Holds 15 gallons
Ortho, for example, has the Orthomatic Lawn Sprayer with a capacity of up to 15 gallons that can be used to apply soil insecticides and fertilizers.

The lawn sprayer is a perfect accessory for fertilizing a flower bed because it provides even distribution for an area often composed of a variety of plants of various heights and sizes.

More spacious gardens and flower beds include taller annuals and perennials as background plantings and lower-growing plants in the forefront.

Attractive blend
To decrease the need for continual replanting, annuals are often planted among shrubs and other perennials to create an attractive blend of horticultural elements.

Even though many flower beds manage to flourish without fertilization, the addition of nutrients can help produce healthier plants and flowers. It is best to apply the liquid fertilizer to damp soil rather than dry, according to lawn care specialists.

Most plants fare well with one application per growing season. However, if that single application is diluted and distributed over two or three feedings, it may promote more even disbursement over the growing season.

One perennial that is frequently used as a border plant is the astilbe. This plant is frequently used in flower beds and can usually flourish in any type of soil with moderate fertilization.

The gardener can choose from two types of fertilizer, either organic or chemical. Fish emulsion, manure, cottonseed meal, blood meal, bone meal and activated sludge are included in the list of organic fertilizers. Chemical fertilizers tend to be more expensive, but usually last longer and add important components to the soil.

Check Labels
Home gardeners should carefully check package labels to be sure the fertilizer contains nutrients the plants need to flourish. Some products may have to be combined with others in order to produce a healthy flower bed. Nearly all fertilizers list the percentage of nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium or potash that is included. These three elements are found in nearly all plant fertilizers. Those with a ratio of 1-1-1, 1-2-1, and 1-2-2 are usually the best for annuals, which often are the basic components of flower beds.

Nitrogen usually stimulates leaf and stem development, while phosphorus and potash contribute to growth of annuals, flowering plants and fruits, and increase root development.

Plants usually lack one of the three essential nutrients if any of the following occur:

- Nitrogen deficiency — plants are dwarfed and older leaves turn from green to yellow, then brown. Few new leaves develop.
- Phosphorus deficiency — entire plant has diminished. Leaves are a dark, dull green. Loss of lower leaves occurs.
- Potassium deficiency — lower leaves turn yellow, drop from plant, and growth is unusually stunted.

Computerized gardening here

Gardening has entered the computer age, thanks to the ingenuity of Ortho Information Services.

The nation's leading publisher of how-to gardening books has introduced a new computer software package that makes it easier than ever for home gardening enthusiasts to keep their plants healthy and happy.

The software unit, "Ortho's Computerized Gardening," has two major elements. The first is a comprehensive plant-selection guide, consisting of data on more than 800 plants. The plants are organized according to growing zones. By entering the ZIP Code from his area, the home gardener will automatically access only those plants that can be grown in his region.

In addition, the package includes a built-in notepad and calendar that the gardener can use to record the progress of his efforts and to plan for upcoming growing seasons.

The second component of the software package is the new Ortho softcover book, "Gardening Techniques," a 192-page expanded version of the standard title in the Ortho paperback line. This book provides detailed instruction on 77 of the most common techniques used by gardeners on a regular basis. It serves as the "how-to-do-it" companion to the complete plant-selection guide facet of the software package.

The Ortho software package is compatible for four major personal computer configurations — the Apple// series, Apple Macintosh, IBM PC and Commodore 64. The home user needs just one disk to access both components of the package.

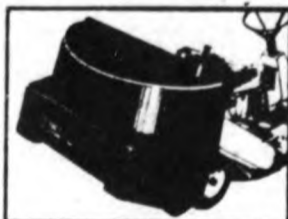

The suggested retail price of "Ortho's Computerized Gardening" is $49.95.

Quality to Eliminate the Hard Work From Yard Work

Storage sheds practical

Now is the ideal time to build that storage shed you've been thinking about building all winter; The one that will allow you to clean out the garage and provide year around storage for your seasonal tools and supplies.

Are your plans complete? Is the shed going to be an attractive addition to your yard? The Z-Brick Company can answer some of your questions and eliminate some doubt with its recently-introduced 32-page Project Booklet.

One of the many projects in the booklet is a step-by-step diagram and instruction sheet on how to build a storage shed that will be structurally sound and attractive with the use of decorative Z-Brick.

Z-Brick is an all-mineral brick that is less than one half inch thick but provides weather-proofing, fire-proofing and even adds an insulating factor to exterior siding and interior walls.

When your shed is complete you will have the appearance of a heavy masonry project but without the expense of hiring a professional craftsmen.

Any do-it-yourselfer can create a professional appearing brick pattern with Z-Brick. Many colors and textures available in Z-Brick will enable you to create your own unique yet professional brick pattern.

Z-Brick is available from home centers, hardware stores and lumberyards throughout the United States. The Project Booklet can be purchased directly from the manufacturer by sending $1.50 to: Z-Brick Co., Dept. 60, P.O. Box 628, Woodinville, WA 98072.

Bringing your shrub home

You're excited! You've just bought a new shrub, and you are about to bring it home. To make this as easy as it sounds, the Ortho book "How to Select & Care for Shrubs & Hedges" says to be sure to follow these simple pieces of advice:

- Unless you plan to plant your new shrub the same day you buy it, don't bring it home in a cut metal can. It is very difficult to water a cut can correctly and much easier to handle if the can is not cut at all.

- Don't try to bring your new shrub home in a car that does not have enough room.

Five ways to easier 'gardening'

Everyone wants a lawn and garden more beautiful than his or her neighbors'. Achieving that goal used to mean hours of agonizing bending, kneeling, crawling and stretching.

Today, one single engine unit with four attachable components reduces "gardening" chores to a matter of minutes — and eliminates the physical exertion.

This all-in-one gardening miracle is the Green Machine Model 2300 Expand-It™ system, designed for homeowner use and engineered for high performance.

The backbone of the system is a light-weight, gasoline-powered, two-cycle, air-cooled engine with solid-state ignition and adjustable mid-shaft handle for easy maneuverability.

A unique winged-nut coupler in the shaft allows the components to be interchanged in seconds and without tools.

The components include:

- A weeder/cultivator with twin reciprocating blades that dig down deep to condition, aerate and fertilize the soil at the rate of 2,000 oscillations per minute.

Unlike traditional rotary blade cultivators, it won't skate or dance to the side. In addition, it is non-clogging and self-cleaning.

- A string trimmer/brush cutter for cutting back weeds and grass in nooks and crannies where lawnmowers can't reach. It also accepts circular metal blades for cutting brush and pruning trees.

- An edger with adjustable blade depth that gives lawns, gardens and driveways a professionally-manicured look.

- And when all the work is done, a power blower sweeps grass clippings, leaves and other debris into neat piles for easy pick-up and disposal. It's lightweight, fast and efficient, accomplishing in minutes what normally would take hours.

There is one more component for winter: A snow thrower. It removes up to 220 pounds of snow per minute, clearing a path 12 inches wide and seven inches deep.

Budget-conscious gardeners can purchase the power head unit and one component first, and later add the other low-cost components.

Though the Green Machine yard-care tools are equipped with blade and debris guards, it is wise to follow a few safety rules when working with outdoor power equipment: Always wear gloves and protective goggles; keep the work area free of bystanders, especially children; and, if the tool is gasoline-powered, handle the fuel carefully.

The Green Machine Expand-It system is available at lawn-and-garden centers and independent garden power equipment dealers through the U.S.

Roses sensitive to wind

Although seemingly delicate and fragile, roses are sturdy plants. Capable of withstanding moderate seasonal changes in climate, they'll bloom year after year with the same consistent resplendency.

However, to ensure this continued health and growth, a few preventive measures against the damaging effects of wind, summer heat and autumn chill should be taken when you begin planting your rose garden.

With more than 1,000 varieties of roses, each responding differently to various climates and soils, only the most general rules of protection against the elements can apply to all roses. Still, most roses are particularly sensitive to the harmful effects of wind.

Wind causes evaporation of moisture from plant leaves and petals, causing rosebuds to thirst for more water than they normally require. Even if the surrounding soil is moist, the plant can easily become dehydrated, causing petals to dry and crumble, and leaves to turn brown.

To protect against wind, the Ortho book "All About Roses" suggests building a fence or planting a hedge or shrubs around the bush. It also notes that, with hot, dry winds, a fence isn't appropriate protection because it doesn't add moisture to the air as a shrub will. With either, allow 10 to 12 feet between the rose bushes and protective screen. The Ortho guidebook also suggests a burlap cover for roses as a windbreak.

Temperature changes have an even more dramatic effect on the growth and overall health of roses. Most roses are sensitive to heat, especially those grown in the Sun Belt and Midwest, where summer temperatures can easily reach about 90°F or higher.

Plants grown in these often dry climates shouldn't be overpruned during winter. The less pruned a rose plant is, the more foliage remains, with warehouses of energy and moisture available to help the plant combat summer heat. Roses growing in hot, sunny climates might also require more immediate protection.

For example, a lath sheet laid over the rose garden during the day's hottest hours will protect the plant from losing water and leaf suppleness.

Roses react to the cold very much as people do, curling up to retain warmth. In cooler climates, such as in the Northeast, where even summer temperatures can be cool and damp, rose flowers tend to ball, opening only halfway. When blooms that ball are spotted, cut them off, so other blooms can grow when the weather warms.

Peppers add spice to garden

Columbus' discovery of the New World introduced green, red and chili peppers to Europe. In less than 50 years after Columbus' discovery, peppers were growing in England and, within a century, on lands owned by the Austrian monarchs. Peppers later became so common in India that some botanists thought they were native. Today, more and more people are growing this world-renowned vegetable, adding to its long and successful history.

Peppers are classified as hot weather vegetables, but are also able to grow in cooler climates. However, pepper fruit set occurs only in a small range of night temperatures: blossoms drop when night temperatures go below 60°F or above 75°F.

Temperature control
Ideal temperatures for growing peppers are around 75°F in the daytime and 62°F at night. Small fruited peppers can tolerate higher temperatures better than large fruited varieties.

To protect themselves from overloading, peppers drop new blossoms when the plant is full of fruit. If some of these peppers are harvested, the plant will again set fruit under the right weather conditions.

The best way to plant peppers is to buy transplants from a nursery. The pepper varieties that will grow in your area are generally available there. However, growing your own transplants from seed is another option if you allow seven to 10 weeks to reach transplant size.

It is important to avoid planting pepper transplants in the garden while there is still a chance of a late frost. Even if night temperatures fall below 55°F, pepper plants can turn yellow and become stunted.

Plants should be set two feet apart in rows spaced two or three feet apart. The plants should be fertilized when the first blossoms open. A light application of a specially prepared fertilizer, such as Ortho Vegetable Garden Food, will increase yields and help produce top quality peppers.

Moisture essential

The fertilizer should be watered into the soil, and watering should continue since lack of moisture at flowering time may cause pepper blossoms to drop. When full grown, peppers can be picked up using either sharp shears or a pruning knife.

Of all pepper varieties, bell peppers are the most familiar in the United States. Bell peppers are sweet, and most are sold when green. However, as bell peppers mature, they turn from yellow to red, and can be eaten then, as they become even sweeter.

Hot peppers offer what their name promises. Their intense flavor has earned them an honored spot in international cuisine, flavoring many Mexican, Indian, African, Spanish, Portuguese, Indonesian and Korean dishes. More hot peppers are consumed and produced than any other spice in the world. Some varieties are grown throughout the U.S., and others are grown only in specific areas.

In Mexico, all peppers are "chilis" and are either named after their use in dishes, such as chila para relleno (for stuffing), or for the region where they are grown, such as Tabasco. Japanese peppers are also gaining popularity. "Fushimi Long Green" has been a longtime sweet pepper favorite in Japan. The outstanding hot pepper is "Yatsurusa."

Pimentos are the sweetest of all peppers and are available in two types: The cheese, or squash and the heart shapes. Dried, pimentos become paprika, a vivid red spice.

The variety of peppers ensures that whatever your tastes, there is a pepper to match. And, since they are easily grown garden vegetables, you can enjoy an assortment of fresh peppers from your own backyard.

Eating just like the birds

To an oriole, an orange half is heavenly. For a cardinal, sunflower seeds are scrumptious. Bakery products are special to sparrows. All birds, however, love suet. If you're trying to attract birds to your backyard, you can do it with suet.

Suet, which is beef or mutton fat, is to birds what bread is to humans — the staff of life. Suet is an energy-rich, inexpensive and readily available source of animal fats for birds. Fats are essential in a bird's diet, together with protein.

Sources of protein for birds, which can be added to suet, are seeds, grains, ground meat, nutmeats, peanut butter mix, and table scraps.

Grit is also necessary for bird feeding because birds have no teeth and rely on the fine particles of grit in their gizzards to grind up hard seeds. Available in garden centers and feed stores, grit should be scattered on the feeding platform or offered to birds in a shallow dish.

Preparing suet

You can buy suet from the butcher; ask for "short" suet or kidney suet, rather than "stringy" suet and make sure it is fresh, firm and white. Beef suet is preferred, and you should have your butcher grind it for you.

Birds love this soft, homemade suet mixture, although commercial suet-seed cakes are widely available. Because they are highly refined, these commercial cakes are very hard and retard spoilage.

The following recipe for high-protein suet mix is from the Ortho book "How to Attract Birds." This colorful guidebook thoroughly addresses providing and presenting food to birds, among other subjects. If you give birds the suet treat they love, they will flock to your backyard in droves.

High-Protein Suet Mix For Insect-Eating Birds

4½ cups ground fresh suet
¾ cup dried and finely ground bakery goods (whole or cracked wheat bread and crackers are best)

½ cup hulled, raw, and unsalted sunflower seeds
¼ cup millet (white proso is best)

¼ cup dried and chopped berries (currants, raisins, or dried wild berries)

¾ cup dried and finely ground meat (optional)

1) Melt suet in a saucepan.

2) Mix together the rest of the ingredients in a large mixing bowl.

3) Allow suet to cool until slightly thickened, then add it to the mixture in the bowl. Mix well.

4) Pour or pack forms or suet feeders; smear onto tree trunks or overhanging limbs and branches or pack into pine cones.

Tips for growing healthy beets and onions

Through the ages and in all lands, onions, radishes and beets have been vegetable favorites. In Egypt, onions fed the sweating builders of the pyramids and the conquering troops of Alexander the Great. Daikon radishes are used in Oriental dishes, such as Japanese sashimi.

And, while the Mediterranean was the original home of the beet, where it grew as a leafy plant without enlarged roots, the large-rooted beet is first noted in literature in Germany around 1550.

True to their hardy and diverse heritage, onions, radishes and beets can be planted in a range of weather and soil conditions. Although beets grow best in cool weather, they tolerate warmer climates. Beets should be planted early, with additional plantings to follow, later in the growing season. Hot mid-summer planting requires special efforts at watering and mulching in order to get a good base for beet seedlings.

A common problem with growing beets is overplanting. Lack of moisture, which can be caused by drought or competition with other beets or weeds, results in stringy and tough beets, and it is important that seedlings be thinned.

Radishes also require careful watering and fertilizing. Although radishes are easy enough to plant and grow quickly in great volume, it is vital that they be watered properly and thinned soon after they emerge to achieve crisp and mild radishes.

There are two varieties of radishes — defined by when they are grown. Spring radishes can be grown throughout the season in cooler areas and in all but the hottest months in warmer areas. Winter radishes, slower growing, much larger and more durable than spring radishes, should be planted in the fall. They tend to flower before sizeable roots develop if planted in the spring, while the cooler temperatures and shorter days of fall discourage flowering.

Unlike beets and radishes, it is easier and more reliable to start onions from sets — small dry onions available in later winter and early spring — rather than seed. The type of onions grown should be selected with care because of the delicate growth timing.

They grow tops in cool weather and form bulbs in warm weather. The timing of bulbing is controlled by both temperature and day length. Onion varieties are divided into "short-day" and "long-day," and it is important to use the varieties designated for specific areas.

Short-day varieties are planted in the southern parts of the United States as a winter crop begun in the fall. They make bulbs as days lengthen to 12 hours in early summer.

Long-day onions are grown in the northern latitudes and most require 14 to 16 hours of daylight to form bulbs. They are planted in the spring and bulb during the longest days of summer.

Onions are harvested by pulling from the ground when half of the tops have broken over naturally. The tops should be cut off 1½-inches above the bulb when they have fully wilted. Cure onions in an open crate or mesh bag for two weeks to prepare for storage.

The most common problem in growing beets, radishes and onions are maggots which feed upon the bulb below the ground. Onion and radish maggots are the larvae of flies that appear in spring and lay eggs on the soil near the base of all these vegetables.

It is important to prevent the damage at seeding time, because that is when the flies are most active.

Products like Ortho's Vegetable Guard Soil Insect Killer contain Diazinon® which, if sprinkled lightly in the seed furrow at planting or seeding time, will prevent the flies from laying their eggs.

Telltale signs of maggot infestation are roots honeycombed with slimy channels and scarred by brown grooves. Above ground, the young plants either wilt in the heat of the day or slowly turn yellow and die.

Variety of edgings "finish" patio

Edgings are essential for creating that "finished" look in any flush-to-the-ground patio. They help set off the patio area and, in the case of gravel or pebble patios, serve to retain loose materials within the designated borders.

Concrete, bricks, cobblestones and a variety of woods all make ideal edging material. Selection will depend on the look you wish to create, as well as on the expertise and your budget.

The Ortho book, "How to Design & Build Decks & Patios," offers useful advice concerning the correct method for constructing patio edgings.

According to the Ortho book, the first step involves carefully outlining the patio area with stakes and string, indicating where the edgings will be located.

Poured concrete is the simplest to use and least expensive edging material. Begin by digging a ditch approximately four inches deep and to the width you desire along the perimeter outlined by the string.

Level the ditch by stamping it with a flat shovel or hoe, and then pour in the concrete. After the concrete has cured for approximately a week, remove the soil within the patio area to the level at which you will fill in the patio material.

Follow the same basic procedure if you wish raised concrete edgings, but after you have leveled the ditch, lay in 2-by-4 forms along either side, securing them with support stakes every three feet before pouring the concrete.

For curved edgings, the 2-by-4s can be kerfed — notched with a saw — to make them more pliable. Notch each board every two inches for gentle curves, closer for more severe ones. Remember never to notch the board deeper than half its width.

Pour concrete to the top of the forms, strike off and float, and let cure for a week. For a more decorative look, cap off the edging with a layer of bricks after you have completed the rest of the patio.

Bricks used as edgings must be set in mortar to prevent them from shifting. Dig a ditch as wide as the brick and to a depth equal to half the brick's length.

Set the bricks in and then fill in the remaining space with a mixture of one part cement and three parts sand. Fill the ditch on both sides of the brick to within about one-half inch of the top — to leave room for resodding flush with the brick.

Heavy timber, such as railroad ties or sections of telephone poles, makes bold, clearly defined edgings. It is important, though, when setting any wood in the ground, to be sure it has been treated with preservatives to enhance longevity.

When using round logs for edgings, secure them in place with two-foot lengths of half-inch galvanized pipe, placed through holes drilled in both ends of the lumber. Drive the pipe through the log and into the ground, using a peg to be sure the top of the pipe is below the level of the top of the log. Fill in with plastic wood.

Patios add another dimension to living enjoyment during the warm months. Edgings enhance a patio's beauty and give you the satisfaction of a job well done.

Don't let plants drink too much

Lots of gardeners kill their plants with kindness — and too much water. Soggy soil leads to poor drainage and forces roots to stand in water where they can suffocate and rot. When roots of a plant are unable to carry ample oxygen to the rest of the plant, foliage wilts and dies.

Too many gardeners think more water is the answer to most plant problems. So when a favorite green friend looks sickly, a concerned gardener immediately gives it another drink of water. This can be precisely the wrong treatment if your plant is suffering from an ailment other than thirst.

Different plant species have different moisture needs which were developed centuries ago when the plants first appeared in their natural environments. The environment you provide for your plant today — light, temperature, humidity — also will affect its need for moisture.

For example, the size and type of container which holds your plant will influence water needs. If the pot is small, moisture will be absorbed quickly, so you will need to water more often.

Water needs are also influenced by your plant's "time of life." If it is in a growth period, it will need more water than it does when it is resting. While all these factors are important, how do you actually determine if you are watering correctly?

The good old-fashioned "touch test" is the best way to find out if your plant needs water. Just poke your finger in the soil and you'll feel the degree of moisture present.

To get a better fix on the moisture content, rub a bit of soil between your thumb and index finger. There are three general categories of moisture and, with a bit of experience, you'll be able to determine which of the three best suits this particular plant.

The first category is evenly moist soil. Here, the dirt is moist throughout but it is not soggy — when you put your finger in the soil, it will get damp but not muddy. Ferns, gardenias and African violets love this type of soil.

The second category is slightly damp soil. In this case, the dirt looks dry on the surface but there is low moisture just below the surface. Soil is cool and damp to the touch but will not get your finger wet.

Plants that thrive in this type of soil are coleus, monstera and philodendrons.

Finally, the third category is moderately dry soil, soil which feels dry to the touch and is dry to the depth of one inch. If the soil is dry deeper than an inch, it's time to get out the watering can. Peperomia, dieffenbachia, dracaena and geraniums grow well in this moderately dry soil.

Ortho's new book "Gardening Techniques," includes an extensive gallery of houseplants and offers a section which outlines water requirements for dozens of species.

When you do water, it's a good idea to water thoroughly, since all plants need a thorough soak. It is the frequency of watering that varies. Water each plant until the soil is saturated, and wait a minute or two to allow the water to drain. If it drains too fast, it means that the water is simply running down between the root ball and the pot and is not soaking into the roots.

A good dousing will also help flush out fertilizer salts, which can build up and damage the plant. This harmful build-up can be caused by overfeeding a plant and then by watering too sparsely. You'll recognize this condition by a white deposit on clay pots or by salt burns on the edges of the plant's leaves.

You may want to give your plant a thorough watering repeatedly to leach out the salt build-up. Here's how to do it. First, place the plant in the sink, tub, or a pail of water.

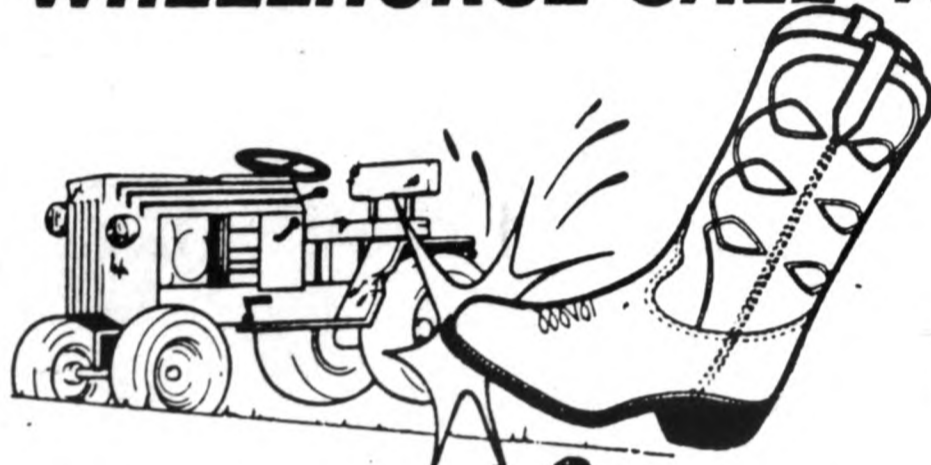

Water it thoroughly several times and, each time, let the water drain through, carrying the harmful deposits with it. If one treatment is not enough, repeat the process once a week for several weeks.

Water temperature is also important — plants don't really enjoy an ice-cold drink. Tropical plants are most sensitive to chilly water, but all your plants will shiver if cold water is applied to the foliage or the roots. So use tepid water for all watering and, occasionally, give your plants a trip to the shower.

A gentle, moderately warm shower will clean the leaves and provide a thorough watering, all at one time.

Planning important in planting process

Ever wonder why the neighbor's garden looks so spectacular? Probably because the design concept was well thought-out on paper before the first spade of earth was turned.

Although many homeowners are anxious to see fast results when planting the landscape around their homes, it is better to take the time to develop a concise plan. Don't forget to include all details, such as the shape and size of the lawn, paths and walkways, ponds, decks, sitting areas and trees.

The Ortho book, "All About Annuals," suggests that home gardeners follow these simple steps when planning flower gardens:

- Determine the focal point and view of the garden that is most often seen.
- Decide which plants

you would like to keep if you are restructuring an existing garden.

- Decide on either a formal or informal design.
- Decide if you want flower beds or borders, or both.

6. Continued work on Alward Road west of Shepardsville Road
7. Gravel where needed

The rental fee of the town hall for township residents was addressed and the board would consider reduction of the fee in the next regular monthly meeting.

A committee to study improvement of the hall grounds is to be formed, those wishing to participate in such a committee should contact Bob Remus.

A periodic township newsletter was discussed because of the high cost of publishing, however no action was taken.

A representative from the Laingsburg library was present to request that funds be set aside for the library services, since residents of Victor township far than out number any other group which utilizes the library.

The Federal Revenue Sharing money was voted to be placed in road projects.

A proposal to reduce the amount of money given to the cemeteries by $500.00 each cemetery was discussed. Bev Archer moved that the allotments remain the same as the previous year, second by Arlo Stichler, and vote was unanimous. The Board will request budgets from each of the three cemeteries for the coming year.

The budget for the township for the year of 1985, was approved with the amendments to the cemeteries.

At the close of the meeting, Mr. Green made an appeal to save the Blood schoolhouse. Those wishing to make donations to save the school as an historical land site should contact Bob Remus.

The meeting was adjourned at 3:05 p.m. Motion by Dan Morris, second Walt Giance.

All the township board was present and approximately 70 citizens.

Odd Fellows pilgrimage date set

The annual Odd Fellows pilgrimage to the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier will take place at Arlington National Cemetery, Arlington, Virginia, on Sunday, May 5, between the hours of 3:00 and 5:00 p.m., as confirmed by the Department of the Army.

Charles Johnson,

Grand Master of Michigan, a resident of rural St. Johns and member of Pompeii Lodge 417, will present a wreath representing the Jurisdiction of Michigan.

The address Sunday at the Tomb will be delivered by Sovereign Grand Master Lorin D. Swift of California. The heads of all Units of the Order will be in attendance. Mrs. Evangeline Johnson of St. Johns and a member of Honor Rebekah Lodge 194 of Pompeii, will represent the Grand Ladies Encampment Auxiliary of Michigan.

A highlight of this year's pilgrimage will be the awarding of the Grand Decoration of Chivalry Jewel to the recently interred Vietnam War Veteran. This jewel will be placed in the Trophy Room at the Cemetery Amphitheater to join the jewels presented to the unknown soldiers of World War I, World War II, and the Korean Conflict.

VICTOR TOWNSHIP

MINUTES - April 4, 1985

The meeting opened with the pledge to the flag and Ted Ashley followed with prayer. The minutes were read and approved with the following amendments: Daniel Ingham is David Ingham in the transfer of the liquor license of K's Market. Minutes are to include resolution of the Victor Township board requesting transfer of 80 acres. The N 1/2 of NW 1/4 of Sec. 33, T6N, R1W of the Robert J. and Ethel Mae Arthur farm, located at 6206 E. Round Lake Rd., from Bath school district to Laingsburg school district. Warren Malkin desired the minutes to include that Alward Rd. be built with a uniform width as discussed with the Road Commission in the March 7th meeting. A letter will be drafted to the Road Commission expressing that Alward Rd. be built as narrow as possible and to keep the road a uniform width.

The board adopted the budget for 1985 with the cemeteries money to remain the same as the previous year, motion made by Bob Remus supported by Dan Morris. Vote was unanimous.

A motion was made by Pat Brown, supported by Dan Morris to change the fee for rental of the town hall to Victor Township residents from $250.00 to $150.00 for receptions and large parties. The other fees will remain the same. Vote was unanimous.

The Prisoner of War Committee of Michigan requested that the board send a resolution to the council of the Republic of Vietnam asking for the whereabouts of the 2400 U.S. Service men missing in action. The Motion was made by Ted Ashley, supported by Pat Brown. Vote was unanimous. Dan Morris moved to pay all bills, supported by Ted Ashley. Vote was unanimous.

At the request of Warren Malkin a letter from the State Election Commission was read concerning an investigation at the request of Roger Nicholson alleging misconduct concerning materials on the bulletin board in the town hall during the November 6, 1984 election. The investigation found the material to be non-political and no action would be taken.

Dan Morris moved the meeting be adjourned, supported by Byron Prange. Meeting adjourned at 9:02 p.m. Those present: 17 citizens, complete board.

Byron Prange, Clerk
