ST. JOHNS J.C. PENNEY STORE EARNS NATIONAL AWARD-(l-r) Dick Johnson, manager of the St. Johns J.C. Penney store, was presented the J.C. Penney Chairman's Award of Excellence by Bill Howell, chairman of the board for J.C. Penney. The award was presented for achieving profits and a high sales performance standard. Johnson and his wife, Judy, were flown to Minneapolis for the awards banquet in April. Sixty stores out of 400 in the mid-west region were chosen to receive this award. "It's something we work for all year long," said Johnson.

Bicyclists warned to stay off Clinton Ave.

St. Johns police will have to start cracking-down on offenders, if citizens don't take the initiative and stop riding their bikes on the Clinton Avenue area sidewalks.

According to Lyle French, bike riders are in violation of a city ordinance when they ride their bikes on the sidewalks of Clinton Avenue from State Street to Railroad Street and on the sidewalks on one block east or west of Clinton Avenue. That includes Walker, Higham and State streets.

"This has been a problem for years, but with the new sidewalks the kids just seem to race down the sidewalk. This is a very hazardous situation for pedestrians," said French.

Parents are asked to instruct their children that they are not allowed to ride their bikes in those areas.

If the problem continues, police will impound the bikes of offenders and an impound fee will be charged in order to get their bikes back, said French.

Amateur boxers needed for show to raise funds for childrens wing

Amateur boxers are needed to participate in a fundraiser for the Mott Childrens Ward at Ann Arbor Universal Hospital.

Larry Bryd, a professional boxer with 21 wins including 16 knock-outs, is organizing the event. His daughter Belinda, 13, a seventh-grader at Rodney B. Wilson Junior High School, just recently developed cancer and has to spend time at the Ann Arbor facility.

Sting results better

The Clinton County Sheriff's Department conducted another controlled buy "Alcohol Sting" on Wednesday, May 15, 1985.

Eighty-two establishments were entered county wide. Four underage decoys were used, resulting in six buys of alcoholic beverages.

The results were tremendously gratifying compared to the last operation in February when 20 out of 68 were cited for selling alcoholic beverages to a minor.

It shows us that during the past three months local businesses, licensed to sell alcoholic beverages, have done a remarkable job in cracking down on sales to minors. Basically, the problem has been a simple failure to ask for identification, rather than a deliberate attempt to sell alcoholic beverages to minors.

We appreciate those establishments that have shown responsibility in helping with the problem of underage drinkers. Checking for identification makes food sense in view of the fact that in 1983, 8,000 drunk drivers between 16 and 24 years of age were involved in fatal accidents.

Warrant issued for vandalism

A warrant was issued to Tracey Allen McGowan, 22, of 608 N. Clinton, St. Johns, in connection with the acts of vandalism that took place May 2 at Bee's Chevy-Olds-Dodge and to St. Johns School District vehicles, totaling $5,200 in damage.

McGowan has been charged with malicious destruction of property over $100. He was arraigned in district court May 24.

Another 20 year old male person involved with the vandalism will be charged at a later date.

What is new human insulin and where does it come from?

Before the introduction of human insulin, insulin was extracted and purified from beef and pork pancreas. Because of differences in the structure of insulin produced by the human pancreas and that produced by animal sources, problems have existed with the use of animal insulin. These include purity, insulin allergy, breakdown or excessive fatty tissue at the site of injection, and resistance of the patient to the beef/pork insulin.

Through new technology, insulin identical to that of the human body can now be manufactured. There are two methods that are used commercially in the United States.

Enzymatic conversion is used by Squibb Novo Inc. By altering the structure of pork insulin enzymatically, a semi-synthetic human insulin is produced. Regular insulin (Actrapid) and Lente insulin (Monotard) are examples of this type of insulin.

With advanced recombinant DNA technology, production of human insulin on a commercial basis is done by Eli Lilly and Company. By modifying the genetic code in a strain of bacteria and then utilizing special fermentation and purification processes, a completely bio-synthetic human insulin is produced. Currently, regular insulin (Humlin R) and NPH insulin (Humulin N) are available from your pharmacist. A lente (Humlin L) and ultra lente insulin (Humulin U) are expected to be available by mid-1985.

How much does human insulin cost and who should use this new form of insulin?

Human insulins cost about the same as the highly purified pork insulins, and are 40 to 50 percent more expensive than beef/pork mixtures.

Patients are considered candidates for human insulin use if they are experiencing any of the following problems:

1) insulin-dependent patients with the breakdown of, or excessive fatty tissue at, the injection site.

2) patients with confirmed insulin allergies to beef/pork and purified pork insulin.

3) patients with confirmed insulin resistance.

4) non-diabetics or Type II diabetics requiring temporary insulin therapy.

5) gestational diabetics/pregnant Type I diabetics.

Presently, there is no reason to switch a patient that is stable on an animal source product to human insulin. The decision to use human insulin versus other insulin products should be made by your physician. DO NOT change your insulin therapy without consulting your doctor.

Pharmacists participating in the statewide Patient Education Program can also supply you with written information on your prescription medications.

Letters to the Editor

Parents angry with the conduct of local theatre employees

To the Editor:

An open letter to St. Johns parents:

While I do not consider myself a rabble rouser, I'd like to relate a ridiculous situation.

I took our three children to the movie downtown last Friday night. I returned to pick them up at 9 p.m. to learn that our eldest son had had to stand on the sidewalk during the movie. He explained that although quietly seated alone, an usherette approached him with "You ... out ... now!"

He went outside, leaving the other children, seated with friends and unaware of the incident.

We have an understanding with our children that they're not to be on the street during evening hours without our consent. They don't frequent the arcades, nor several of the other popular "hangouts." Of course these are matters of personal discretion, and I wouldn't presume to imply this is appropriate for all parents.

I was terribly angry and frightened to think for two hours I'd been at home while my child stood on a street corner, so to speak. It might have been one of the small children, had they been in the wrong seat.

Thought it is totally out of character for me to take issue, it seemed a perfect time we could share a learning experience in dealing with feeling you've been wronged.

We returned to the theatre to speak with the owner. Through a half closed door, I told him my son had been ejected from the theatre unjustly, and we would like his money back and an apology.

He replied, "You can have your money back, but I'm calling the law."

I was shocked! I thought "does he call the police every time he has an unhappy customer?"

Being a woman of small stature and quiet demeanor, I've never had the police summoned to "deal with me." It's quite intimidating. While trying to remain calm, my son said he was scared because the owner had called the police. We have always tried to instill a respect and trust for officers and the authority they represent. I reiterated that, thinking of how absurd that situation was becoming. I asked my son to phone my husband to join us.

The officers arrived, and standing outside, were presented the problem. First, one officer explained, the owner can remove anyone, whether there be cause or not, as long as the admission was returned. At that point, ours was. Secondly, the owner advised us that his employee had ejected 50 children. He didn't claim justification, though I believe no other monies were returned. Thirdly, one of the officers mentioned "He has cleaned the place out before." I pictured 50 children standing in front of the theatre. On other occasions I've witnessed goings-on in front of the theatre I don't want my children exposed to, I explained to the officers. The second officer interjected, "I don't see anything going on, he can put anybody out he wants, he pays taxes!" He added, "he isn't here to babysit your children." That was a personal insult! My husband arrived, terribly angry, thinking our son had done some God-awful thing to be ejected from the movie and requiring police intervention!

It seemed a veritable "street scene," which we left. We returned home to discuss the events and make our apologies to our son. We considered what, if any, further steps we should take.

Two things prompt me to make this simple matter an issue. First, my son's first and only personal contact with the police has been so misleading. We feel they're a great group of people and do one whole of a job. I don't want my children left with the impression that rather than restoring rationality, calling the police results in insults and humiliation. Secondly, that in a small, friendly community like St. Johns, the sense of fair play has dissolved. We'd like to feel comfortable in having our children stand up for what's right, without such repercussions.

We believe we're not in a minority of concerned, involved, discerning parents.

Legion thanks Poppy buyers

To the Editor:

The American Legion Auxiliary, Edwin T. Stiles Unit No. 153 of St.

Johns says "Thanks" to all those who purchased poppies on Poppy Day, May 16-18.

Jesus' daily life program offered

Children in the DeWitt area are invited to participate in a unique hands-on experience at Redeemer United Methodist Church. The event is called "Marketplace — 30 a.d." and will enable the children to experience situations similar to daily life during Jesus' boyhood and youth.

Marketplace will happen June 17-21, from 9 a.m. to noon and is for children who have completed grades K-6. Registration forms are available at Redeemer United Methodist Church, or you may call 669-3430, enrollment is limited and will end June 4, so be sure to sign up soon.

Your most generous contributions will enable us to continue to aid our veterans who gave so much, and the children of the area in the coming year.

A special "thanks" to the merchants of St. Johns for allowing us to sell "on their doorsteps" your continued support of the poppy program is greatly appreciated. And to Federal Mogul, thanks for clarifying your position and inviting us to "come back to Federal Mogul" with our poppies May 15-17, 1986.

Yours in the service of our veterans, God and country,

Kathy Masarik,
 Poppy Chairman

Schneider-Spitzley Reside in Ithaca

Sharon Marie Schneider and William Urban Spitzley exchanged marriage vows Nov. 17 at St. Gerard Catholic Church, Lansing, with Father William Rademacher, uncle of the groom, officiating. Four hundred guests attended the early afternoon, double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Schneider of 1014 Robins Road, Lansing, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Spitzley of Hinman Road, Fowler.

The bride wore a gown of white chiffon designed with a sweetheart neckline. The gown was styled with a slightly-raised waist. The bodice was fitted and was covered and designed with seed pearls, sequins, and venice lacing. The chiffon skirting was trimmed with venice and chantilly lace which extended into a cathedral-length train. Her matching veil had a crown of venice lace, pearls, and sequins. The fingertip illusion was edged in lace. She carried a bouquet of red sweetheart roses with white miniature carnations, accented with baby's-breath.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. Ronald Schroeder, cousin of the bride, from Springport. She wore a formal-length dress in powder blue. It had a high turtle neckline with a puff sleeve and jacketed at the waist and tied with satin ribbon. The organza fabric was trimmed in satin. Mrs. Schroeder carried long-stemmed red roses and white carnations accented with baby's-breath and wore a red rose with baby's-breath in her hair. Bridesmaids were Mary Ann Hengesbach; Mrs. Dave Kohagen, sister of the groom; and Mrs. Larry Brown. Their dresses were identical to the matron of honor's.

Amanda Feldpausch attended as flowergirl. She wore a formal-length white dress. It had a square neckline with a puff sleeve and was tied with satin ribbon. The organza fabric was also trimmed in satin. She carried a little white basket with red carnation petals in it. She had a red carnation with white ribbon in her hair.

A nephew of the bride, Jason McCormack, presented the rings.

Serving as best man was Steve Spitzley, brother of the groom, from Fowler. Groomsmen were Ken Spitzley, brother of the groom; Dennis Spitzley, cousin of the groom; and Dave Kohagen, brother-in-law of the groom. Cliff Hengesbach, cousin of the groom, and Mark Feldpausch, cousin of the bride, ushered guests.

A reception was held at the Majella Hall in Lansing.

Special guests attending the ceremony included the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Anna Schmitt from Westphalia, and the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Anna Rademacher of St. Johns.

The couple honeymooned in Hawaii and Los Angeles and have made their home in Ithaca.

In the Service

Bruce J. Cathey of DeWitt entered the United States Air Force on May 14, according to Master Sergeant Roy J. Stallings, the Air Force recruiter in Lansing.

Upon graduation from six-week basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, he will receive technical training for a job in the General Aptitude Area and be assigned to an Air Force duty station.

Cathey, a 1978 graduate of DeWitt High School and Ferris State College, is the son of Glenn and Mary Cathey of DeWitt.

Park project funded

Watertown Township officials expect work to begin late this summer or this fall on an $80,000 parks expansion project to be funded in part by a federal grant.

A grant from the Land and Water Conservation Fund would finance $40,000 of the project, with the township chipping in the other 50 percent, says Tony Sporer, director of the township parks and recreation department.

"We are expecting approval of (the grant) and...hoping work will start soon," says Sporer.

The bulk of the project involves improvements to Heritage Park on Looking Glass River in Wacousta, including two new tennis courts, a new baseball field and the relocation of an existing baseball field, a canoe launch, a new soccer field, four wooden playground modules, and a restructured driveway and parking lot, Sporer says.

A canoe launch will also be added to Looking Glass Valley Park, the township's other, smaller park on the Looking Glass River in Wacousta. Landscaping and a playground structure will also be added to Looking Glass Valley Park as part of the project, Sporer says.

Honor Society members named

National Honor Society members at Bath High School draped keys on ribbons around the necks of 16 new inductees after lighting the candle of knowledge and explaining the four qualities of an honor society member at the spring inductions night May 7.

Character, scholarship, leadership, and service are the four qualities of an honor society member, and the four areas in which the members concentrate on improving themselves. Laurie Wentzel explained that at least 30 hours in service to the school and community are required for members.

To fulfill their service hours, this year's group helped teachers grade papers, tutored students, took tickets at sports events, helped with the kindergarten roundup, took phone calls at the Channel 23 auction, and collected money for St. Vincent's Children's Home.

After new inductees received their keys, they each lit a white candle from the flame on the candle of knowledge, and recited the organization's pledge. Incoming president Valerie Bullerdick gave a talk and laid out the goals for next year.

Advisor Mel Comeau called the National Honor Society "the most esteemed honorary organization for high school students in the country."

New inductees are: Christy Belyea, Jerry Bray, James Baker, Valerie Bullerdick, Denise Hicks, Lori Luoma, Burke Mays, Michele Nash, Debbie Nichols, Troy Simon, Tina Stage, Cheryl Sullivan, Melanie VanDyke, Tricia Wilson, Dan Williams, and Lori Young.

The ten members who were inducted previously are seniors and will be graduating in June. They are: Michelle Douglas, Wendy Foote, LeAnn House, Aaron Neely, Melissa Orr, Renee Richmond, Anita Thomison, Michael VanDyke, Laurie Wentzel, and Forrest White.

Sheriff's Department Report

Clinton County Sheriff's Department deputies investigated a report by Dennis Rademacher, 2104 Lowell Road, Bengal township, May 17, that the hydraulic cylinder had been taken from a disc and drag.

The disc and drag were in a field at the corner of Francis and Townsend roads. A single set of footprints were found at the scene coming from Townsend road. The loss is estimated at $200.

Deputies also investigated an accident that happened at Grand River and Felton May 15.

A vehicle driven by Roger D. Wilson, 34, of 3741 Stage road, Ionia, was west bound on Grand River. Thomas J. Miller, 21, of 1671 Lake Lansing, was south bound on Felton and stopped to enter on to Grand River, apparently not seeing the Wilson vehicle. He pulled onto Grand River in front of the Wilson vehicle and they collided.

This accident was witnessed by Richard D. Albertson, 30, of 8720 Juniper, Lansing. Albertson was attempting to cross Grand River to check on the conditions of the people involved in the accident, when he was struck by an eastbound vehicle when he stepped in front of it. The vehicle was driven by Richard L. DeWitt, 58, of 356 Temple, DeWitt.

The injured were all taken to St. Lawrence hospital by Grand Ledge EMS. Miller was issued a citation for failing to yield.

A deer/car accident occurred on M-21 in Ovid, May 19.

Teri L. Woodbury, 18, of 210 E. Maple, Elsie, was driving east on M-21 when a deer ran into the left front of the vehicle. Woodbury was injured and had to be transported to Clinton Memorial By Ovid Ambulance.

Sheriff's Deputies handled a total of 108 complaints this week. Some of these included: 6 reports of suspicious vehicles or activity; 21 property damage accidents and 3 injury accidents--of these accidents 13 were car/deer accidents, 10 assists to others, 4 reports of reckless driving; 1 possible breaking and entering, 2 alarms, 3 larcenies, 8 juveniles were cited for possessing alcohol, and 6 establishments were cited for selling to minors.

There were 35 people booked into the county jail this week, 11 were for OUIL; there are currently 46 prisoners being housed in the jail.

Crystal Raceway had hot racing night

Crystal Raceway was the place to be on May 18 for race fans of all ages. What seemingly could have been a cold, slow night at the track turned out to be a long, hot series of racing.

True, the weather was cool and got downright cold before it was all over, but a super crowd turned out for Kids' Night and a superior field of 70 racing machines — 28 Late Models and 42 Pro Stocks — gave the fans 14 races to cheer for.

The closeness of competition began in time trials when Dennis Boyce and Roger Wing had identical 17:78s for the fastest time in the Late Model division. Wing was awarded fast time since he had timed in before Boyce. Rick Stout was fastest for the Pro Stocks with 18:95.

Stout also won the Pro Stock Fast Car Dash, while Ken Love won the Late Model Dash.

The seven heats moved along smoothly with a thrill a minute. In the first Pro Heat, Dan Wiggins crashed just after taking the checkered flag and recording his first win of the season. Mike Kline, Bill Simpson, and Roger Sowles took the other three wins in the heats, with many laps in each race having two or three cars abreast coming down the front or back straight. The Late Model heats were just as tightly contested, and the three drivers who outmaneuvered their opponents were Alan Taft, Bob Lynn, and Dennis Walker.

Because of the number of cars in the Pro Stock division, a consolation race was held. Fred Wallace won that race, just ahead of Dick Carines and Dan Wiggins. The B-Feature in this class was won by Don Rohn who was one of eight drivers out of the 14 who managed to finish as the long evening took its toll on machines. Pete Hundey and Rusty Seavers hung on for second and third.

For the first time this year, the large number of cars called for a B-Feature in the Late Model class. After only one yellow flag, Steve Hilliker went into the record books as the winner.

The A-Feature in the Pro Stocks saw some new leaders for this class as Roger Sowles won, and Bill Hendricks came in second. Rodger Carman and Joey Fowler were right behind the leaders for the last several laps.

Mike Powell is now a three-time winner in the A-Feature for the Late Models, but this Saturday night he had to hand on for dear life as Wing worked his way methodically from a 12th place start to second and threatened Powell's pole position for the last two laps. Coming in third and fourth were Ken Love and Bob Nieman.

Part of the Kids' Night list of activities were the Big Wheel Races.

Winners in their age groups were: Sara Hull for three year olds; David Simpson for four year olds; 5-year-old Robby Nieman; and in a dead heat for the six year olds were Danny Minikey and Mat Anthony.

The management of Crystal Raceway would like to give a special thanks to all of the drivers and the fans who show up each week to watch the show they put on. Your response to the 1985 Comin' Alive Season has made all of the hard work this past winter and spring well worth every minute put into it. They would also like to thank all the loyal employees who help them prepare for and put on the show each week.

this weekend is the big two-day Memorial Weekend with the Late Model Spring Championship on Saturday and the Regular Program and SOD Springs on Sunday.

1985 Michigan Youth Corps underway

The 1985 Michigan Youth Corps program — expected to offer at least 15,000 summer jobs to unemployed Michigan youths — was launched today beneath the McDonald's "Golden Arches" in Lansing, by State Labor Director Elizabeth Howe.

Howe placed the first recruitment poster for the Youth Corps at a Lansing area McDonald's.

The McDonald's Corporation has volunteered to help young people throughout Michigan find out about Youth Corps jobs by placing Youth Corps recruitment posters in their 307 restaurants in Michigan, Howe explains.

"McDonalds and their owners and operators are to be commended for helping young people find jobs this summer," Howe says. "McDonalds has been a staunch supporter of past Youth Corps programs and we're delighted to have them helping boost our recruitment efforts."

The 1985 Youth Corps, Howe says, is committed to having a strong private sector involvement and McDonalds is helping meet that goal by being involved at the beginning of the program.

Participating with Howe will be Percy Lewis, president of the Michigan McDonalds Operators Association, Jim Flaum, district manager for the Michigan McDonalds based operations and Tim Ervin, Youth Corps director.

"McDonalds has found from past involvement in the program that the Youth Corps provides a valuable, proven work experience for young people," Lewis says. "Throughout Michigan, we've found that Youth Corps graduates make excellent candidates for job openings within our corporation."

The 1985 Youth Corps recruitment poster also will go up at Youth Corps application sites, including Michigan Employment Security Commission offices, Department of Social Services offices, community colleges, colleges and universities, vocational schools and service delivery area agencies.

Applications will be available for unemployed youth between the ages of 18 and 21 at those locations beginning May 20. As with the past two years, the Youth Corps participants will work in such locations as state parks, on waterways, along highways, at state and county fairs, in schools and hospitals.

The poster depicts smiling Michigan Youth Corps participants and says "More Than a Summer Job." It also briefly outlines the program and how to apply for a Youth Corps job, Howe says.

Percy Lewis, president of the Michigan McDonald's Operators Association, says that McDonalds is cooperating with the Youth Corps "Because, as a business, we like to put something back into the community we serve."

"Because McDonald's is a major employer of youth in Michigan and a great training ground to learn about management and food services, McDonalds operators understand the importance of having a summer job," Lewis says.

Clinton County Republicans hold meeting

The Clinton County Republican Party held its regular monthly meeting on May 16 in the Clinton County Courthouse.

Jack Fraser reported that he and his wife, Vita, attended a breakfast and press conference on May 8 in Detroit for Wayne County Executive William Lucas. The Frasers also recently traveled to Midland to hear speakers Jack Kemp and Bill Schuette.

Monday evening, May 20, Bill Lucas was the speaker at the Annual Legislative Dinner in Lansing. Representing Clinton County at this dinner were Leon and Terry Brewbaker of St. Johns, Terry and Sandra Yonker of Eagle, and Levi and Alta Reed of DeWitt Township.

Several Republicans from Clinton County will be attending the 10th Congressional District Fund Raiser at the Embers in Mt. Pleasant on June 17. Larry Reed will be showing his slides from the Soviet Union. There will be a cash bar at 6:30 p.m.

with dinner at 7:00 p.m. Tickets are $25.00 per person and can be obtained from Leon Brewbaker, 224-3251, or Kathy Canum, 224-3177.

The Young Republicans, a newly organized group in Clinton County, will be working this summer on a project for the Clinton County Mint Festival in August. This new group is being organized by Kevin Redman with the assistance of Sheryl Koenigsnecht.

John Dove, a private consultant, spoke to the group about his business. He works with private companies to help expedite their receiving grants for expansion and will assist counties to bring businesses into the county and help keep them there. His wife, Mary, is an administrative coordinator for the House of Representatives. The Doves reside in Eureka.

The meeting closed with Representative Gary Randall speaking on the optimistic future for the Republican Party in Michigan and nationwide.

Kindergarten numbers down

DeWitt Elementary Principal Don Powell reports that 94 students have registered for kindergarten next year. He said approximately 110-115 students were expected to sign up, and if things remain as they are now, only four sections of kindergarten will be offered instead of five.

The reduced number of incoming students could affect the amount of money the district receives in state aid.

Powell says that a significant number of kindergarten-age students in the district are not ready for formal kindergarten classes, and the district is going to look at implementing a "readiness" or developmental kindergarten next fall.

Baseball uniforms have changed alot over years

Their shirts are made of heavy flannel, their long-sleeved undershirts hang a couple of inches below the wrist and heavy leather belts hike up their baggy flannel knickers. Shown in a picture taken by the late sports photographer, Charles Martin Conlon, the St. Louis Cardinals of the early '30s--better known as the Gas House Gang--present a striking contrast to today's trimly suited baseball players.

"When I was playing, they gave you a 40 shirt and 34 pants and if you said they didn't fit, you hadn't made the club." So recalls Lefty Gomez, who was a star pitcher for the New York Yankees some 50 years ago. Gomez, the Gas House Gang and a few scorecards' worth of other faces from baseball's golden past are pictured in an exhibition of photographs made from The Sporting News collection of 8,000 of Conlon's glass plate negatives. The show was organized by the National Portrait Gallery, Washington, D.C., and will be circulated by the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service.

"We looked like tennis players (of the time)--the pants were this big," Gomez says, spreading his hands wide. "But today, they have the tailor in-to fit just right," muses Gomez, now a consultant to a major sporting goods manufacturer. In the days before television, when most games were played under the afternoon sun, the most vexing problem with the bulky uniforms was the heat.

"There was nothing else," Gomez says with a laugh, "and they had that old rule--you had to wear a uniform.

"There was no way to keep cool," he recalls, but the players kept trying. "In the dugouts, we would put a head of cabbage in a barrel of cool water, then put a couple of leaves on our faces between innings. If you were a pitcher, you'd peel off a leaf, put it inside your cap and that kept you cool on the mound."

"We had different undershirts and baseball shirts then--100 percent wool--better to absorb perspiration. When the shirts were dry, they didn't weigh too much, but I know some players lost eight, nine or ten pounds in a game. If a man changed uniforms between innings, his undershirt would be wringing wet."

An advantage of the old uniforms, though, was that they could be adjusted to accommodate personal taste. Bill Terry, the brilliant New York Giants first baseman who later managed the team, comments that "nobody rolls their pants (legs down) anymore. I wore 'em low because my legs were so skinny."

Sometimes, uniforms were designed with the players' silhouettes in mind, especially if the player was the legendary Babe Ruth. In his book, Baseball Access, sportswriter Al Stump reports that Ruth ballooned from 215 pounds in 1923 to 260 in 1925, with his chest measuring 45 and his waist almost 50. The Yankees adopted their famous pinstripes to improve the Bambino's appearance.

The Yankees still sport their pinstripes, but the doubleknit nylon-polyesters from which today's uniforms are cut give players nowadays a much sleeker look than their flannel-clad forebears. With televised games bringing baseball into millions of homes, appearances are more important than ever. So much so that club owners are willing to pay some $1,300 to outfit each player every season, Al Stump writes. For that price, a club will buy four sets of individually tailored uniforms--jerseys, pants, shoes, undershirts and field jackets--two sets for home games, and two for the road.

Uniforms of the '80s are as lightweight, cool and comfortable as modern technology can make them, but even the hot, heavy flannels of yesteryear couldn't stop the great players who wore them.

Priests receive new assignments for June 26

Seven priests of the Diocese of Lansing have been given new assignments. The announcement was made by Bishop Kenneth J. Povish after consultation with the Priests' Assignment Commission. All appointments are effective June 26, 1985.

Diocesan policy requires that no pastorate may be filled until all priests have an opportunity to apply. Since this procedure is time consuming when many priests and parishes are involved, temporary administrators are appointed to the vacant parishes. Later, the technical aspects of the policy will be implemented and those appointed temporary administrators may apply, along with other priests, to become pastors of the respective parishes.

Locally, two priests will be accepting new assignments. They are Reverend Steven Raica, pastor of Holy Family Church in Ovid, and Reverend Terrence Healy, associate pastor at St. Joseph Church in St. Johns.

Father Steven Raica, newly appointed co-rector of St. Mary Cathedral in Lansing, was ordained by Bishop Kenneth J. Povish in 1978. Prior to his ordination, he attended college at Michigan State University. He received his training for the priesthood at Sacred Heart Seminary in Detroit and St. John Provincial Seminary in Plymouth.

After serving his deacon internship at Holy Redeemer Church in Burton, Raica was assigned Associate Pastor at St. Pius X Church in Flint. During this period, he directed the diocese's ministry to the hearing impaired and he continues to provide direction and service in this area. Raica was appointed pastor of Holy Family Church in Ovid and served there until his present reassignment.

Father Terrence Healy, newly appointed administrator of Holy Family in Ovid, was ordained a priest in 1968 following studies at St. Francis Major Seminary in Milwaukee and St. John Provincial Seminary in Plymouth. He served in the diocese of Marquette before becoming a part of the Presbyterate of the Diocese of Lansing.

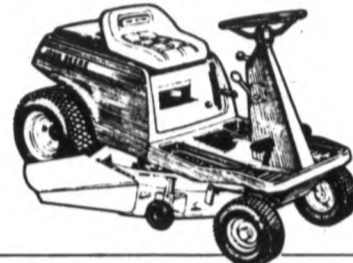

Father Healy has served as Associate Pastor at Holy Family in Grand Blanc and in the same capacity at St. Francis of Assisi Church in Ann Arbor. Since 1984, he has been Associate Pastor at St. Joseph Church in St. Johns.

Chapter reporters

The annual banquet of the Ovid-Elsie FFA chapter was held on April 28.

Invocation was given by Kevin Neathery and everyone sat down to a delicious meal which had been provided by members and parents each bringing individual dishes.

After the meal was finished, everyone moved into the auditorium for the slide presentation which covered the chapter's past years activities.

After opening ceremonies were conducted, a warm welcome was given by Steve Lehman with introductions by Heidi Shilling.

Burton Henry, state treasurer, gave us an inspiring speech about reaching for goals and leadership. Teresa Black then informed us about the O-E FFA Alumni and how it helps supports the FFA.

Then the awards part of the banquet was started. Special guests in attendance were: Dave Porrell, superintendent of O-E Schools; Jack Swark, board member; Larry Martin, board member; Don Thayer, counselor; Wanita Burns, board member.

plaques. Steve Keck received a pin for his creed speaking effort. Jack Smith, Jerry Stevens and Joe Houska received pins for participating in the tractor driving contest.

Chapter proficiency was awarded with plaques in agriculture mechanics, sponsored by Hafferbert Sales to Rick Alexander, swine production, sponsored by John Mater to Jack Smith, diversified crop production sponsored by Great Lakes Hybrids to Darrin Huntoon, and in beef production, sponsored by Michigan Livestock. Services went to Eddie-Jo Hyde.

The Albert D. Ackley Award was received by Lee Purdy for keeping outstanding records and sound projects.

Plaques were given to those who participated in the leadership contests and did well in their own individual contests. Steve Lehman received a silver in the Job Interview contest. Shelli Holder, Cathy Love and Joanne Newton received a silver and the Parliamentary Procedure team consisting of Jack Smith, Eddie-Jo Hyde, Kevin Neathery, Brian Neathery, Michelle Mater, Margy Green and Lee Purdy received a gold for their efforts.

Skills contest participants were recognized for their excellence in their individual contests. The meats team consisting of Jerry Stevens, Dave Brzak and Randy Walters received a silver. The dairy cattle judging team consisting of Keivn Neathery, Michelle Mater and Margy Green received gold. The livestock judging team consisting of Jack Smith, Scott Herblet and Gordie Taylor received a gold. The milk quality and dairy foods team consisting of Lee Purdy, Darrin Huntoon and Dan Grubaugh received a gold. The horse selection and management team consisting of Brian Neathery, Cathy Love and Joanne Newton also received a gold.

Pins were awarded to Jack Smith and Joanne Newton who each took third high individual in the state in their own individual contests.

Honorary Chapter Farmers were Jim and Carol Lehman.

Certificates were given for appreciation in helping the FFA in their own way:

Richard and Connie Thornburg-for helping harvest the land lab.

Richard and Jan Harmon-for helping with the national convention trip.

Don Thayer-for helping chaperone the year end canoe trip.

John Mater and Teresa Black for helping to train the parliamentary procedure team.

Velmar Green-for helping train the dairy cattle judging team.

Larry Martin-for helping train the meats team.

Jon Miller, Alan Moore and Jan Amsterburg for judging the leadership teams.

Special recognition was given to Kevin Neathery who won the FFA Quiz contest and the retiring officers Steve Lehman, Eddie-Jo Hyde, Jack Smith, Heidi Shilling, Shelli Holden and Bonnie Rosekrans were given plaques.

The top citrus salesman, Dave Brzak, who sold a total of 106 cases of fruit this year was given a plaque. Also, the top seed salesman, Steve Lehman, who sold $132.17 worth of seeds, he received a calculator for his efforts.

The DeKalb award, presented by Charles Kridmer, was given to Steve Lehman.

Member of the year, Bonnie Rosekrans, was also recognized.

Star Greenhand was Michelle Mater, who was awarded a plaque.

The Star Chapter Farmer candidates, Eddie-Jo Hyde, Bonnie Rosekrans, Darrin Huntoon, Lee Purdy and Jerry Stevens, were all well qualified for the honor, but Eddie-Jo Hyde received the award for her outstanding achievements.

David Porrell gave administration comments with Steve Lehman following up with the presidents comments.

Then the banquet came to a close with the installation of new officers and the closing ceremonies.

The banquet was an all around success for the chapter and it was enjoyed by all due to the time spent by the dedicated members and volunteers who made it run so smoothly.

With more and more married couples working, spending enough time with the children has become a major concern. Family life specialists emphasize that the quality of time spent with kids is more important than the quantity. But, how can you find something to do that everyone will enjoy?

Now that the weather is so nice and everyone wants to be outside, bicycling is an ideal family group activity.

These days, almost everyone has a bike. Kids want one almost as soon as they're able to walk, and adults are buying more bicycles than automobiles each year. Bicycling could be a fun way to spend time together.

Parents may want to plan outings to visit local attractions, such as a kite-flying festival, a Frisbee tourney or a zoo. You can pack a picnic lunch and spend a whole day.

To get the most enjoyment out of your family cycling outing, make sure that all your bikes are in good repair so you don't get stranded somewhere.

Choosing the right bike is also important. Children are better off with the three-speed bicycles, rather than single-speed models, because the extra gears enable children to keep up with their longer-legged parents.

Helmets are important safety gear. Seventy-five percent of all bicycle fatalities are due to head injuries. Youngsters are often unpredictable riders, so helmets are an especially good idea for them.

If your children are too young to ride their own bikes, buy and install bike seats. They mount over the rear bike wheel and can safely hold youngsters who weigh up to 40 pounds.

If your child weighs more than 40 pounds, carrying him/her in a bike seat will make then ride unstable and unsafe. Instead, use a bike trailer. Bike trailers can be handy to carry groceries and other parcels, too. But they are heavy and require extra effort to pull.

Another solution for youngsters who aren't big enough for their own bikes is a tandem bicycle. Tandems can be a lot of fun, but they're more expensive than regular models.

Unless youngsters are on their own bikes they tend to become bored easily. Making frequent stops and varying travel routes and experiences may be necessary. Other ways to keep youngsters interested is to let them help signal turns, repair flat tires or prepare food.

Remember that your children will imitate your behavior. It's important to set a good example for them by obeying traffic signals and being a safe and serious cyclist and a courteous rider. If your're a good role model, chances are they will be better and safer cyclists when they go bicycling on their own.

Following these simple suggestions and guidelines will lead to a safe and enjoyable biking trip.

Seed packets might make attractive row markers, but they can be much more valuable as information sources.

Lee Taylor, Extension horticulture specialist at Michigan State University, says the small size of a seed packet means it can't always hold everything you might want to know about a certain crop or variety. But seed packets do offer a great deal of valuable information such as:

--The identity of the seed: the kind of plant (cabbage, corn or bean, for instance), plus the variety of name (Red Acre or Danish Ballhead). The variety name may be followed by one or more capital letters that indicate disease resistance, Taylor notes. The letters VFN after the name of a tomato variety for instance, indicates resistance to Verticillium and Fusarium wilt and nematodes.

--The days to maturity: how long it takes, on the average, for a crop to produce after it's sown or transplanted into the garden.

--Plant size.

--When to plant. Instructions may include when to sow seeds indoors for transplanting outside later, when to sow seed outdoors or when to set transplants into the garden.

--How to plant seeds: whether in rows or hills (groups of seeds planted together), how deep to plant seeds, and recommended spacing between seeds at planting or transplants at planting, and final spacing of seedlings after thinning.

The colorful pictures on seed packets may make them attractive as row markers, but weather will soon fade them. And as they fade, information you might need will be lost.

Early alfalfa helps to increase milk output

Agricultural News

By Marilyn Loudenslager
Extension Agricultural Agent

Harvesting and feeding less mature, earlier cut alfalfa silage will help raise milk production.

"Cows eat considerably more forage when the alfalfa is harvested in the late bud stage," says Hervert Bucholtz, MSU Extension dairy nutrition specialist. "And the more forage a cow eats, the more milk she will produce per pound of feed eaten."

Studies show that cows that ate more feed per pound of body weight produced more milk for each pound of feed eaten. To get the cows to eat more, Bucholtz suggests feeding them early cut alfalfa silage.

Cows fed late bud alfalfa silage consumed 25 pounds of forage per day. Quantities consumed decreased as maturity of the ensiled forage increased, until the consumption rate for silage from mature alfalfa reached 16.1 pounds of forage per day.

Cows tend to eat larger quantities of earlier cut silage because it is easier to chew and digest.

Bucholtz says farmers should be aware of several other factors that affect a cow's feed consumption rate.

Cows tend to eat less when feed is high in moisture and eat more when fed more frequently. Bucholtz recommends feeding cows silage or hay several times a day, because fresh feed stimulates greater feed intake.

Producers should expect feed consumption to fall off during the first few weeks of lactation. Feed intake then increases to average levels. Intake decreases in the latter part of lactation.

Old, stale or stemmy feed will also reduce feed intake, so feed bunks should be cleaned at least once a day. Heifers can always be fed the sweepings, Bucholtz suggests.

"Profits will rise as cows produce more milk because of increased silage consumption. Farmers also save money, because less supplemental grain is needed," Bucholtz concludes.

Cherry production official estimates have been changed

The Federal/State Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service is announcing an official revision of the 1984 crop tart cherry production estimate. This change is based on an evaluation of final 1984 industry utilization and harvest loss data as well as a recent joint industry/government decision to implement a new production definition.

The 1984 estimate was originally published on a "biological" production basis. Effective with this revision biological production will be reduced by estimated normal harvest losses to arrive at production available for harvest. The mid-June 1985 tart cherry forecast and final estimate will not include normal harvest losses. Production available for harvest will include unharvested production and harvested production not sold or utilized.

Michigan's 1984 tart cherry production estimate has been accordingly revised to 210 million pounds available for harvest. Twelve percent lower than the 240 million pound biological production estimate. Utilization estimates for the crop include 190 million pounds processed, 5 million pounds fresh market, 10 million pounds unharvested and 5 million pounds harvested but not utilized.

As a related announcement, the United States Department of Agriculture Statistical Reporting Service, will publish the first forecasts of 1985 tart cherry production in Michigan, New York, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin at 3:00 p.m. on June 19 rather than June 26 as scheduled. Above average temperatures have hastened maturity and necessitated the earlier forecast.

SALMON PATTIES OLE WILL PLEASE FAMILY

Golden salmon patties accented with zesty green chilies and topped with melted cheese are sure to become a family favorite.

Salmon Patties Ole is a quick-to-fix supper dish using ingredients easily kept on hand. It's a great recipe to remember when time is short or when a trip to the store simply seems out of the question.

The rich mellow flavor of Alaska canned salmon combines with canned green chilies, Monterey Jack cheese and onion to make these patties unusual crowd pleasers.

You can serve these patties alone or sandwich them in hamburger buns or kaiser rolls to have a special appeal for children and teenagers. Offer their favorite burger condiments—tomatoes, pickle, lettuce and mustard. These foods are equally complementary to salmon patties and can substitute for a salad or vegetable serving.

The patties are a simple blend of canned salmon, chopped fresh or canned green chilies and onion bound together with mashed potatoes and egg. Shaped into patties, they are browned in butter or margarine and then topped with thin slices of Monterey Jack cheese.

Convenient canned salmon from the icy waters off Alaska is a great help in making menu planning and meal preparation an easier task. It is delicious served right from the can, but it also is ideal for a wide variety of entrees, soups, salads, sandwiches and appetizers.

Canned salmon is a complete, high-quality protein food; it contains vitamins A and D as well as niacin and riboflavin from the B-complex group. Using the liquid, tender bones and skin assures one of obtaining full nutritive value from every can of salmon.

SALMON PATTIES OLE

- 1 can (15-1/2 oz.) or 2 cans (7-1/2 or 7-3/4 oz. each) salmon, drained and flaked
- 1 cup prepared mashed potatoes
- 1/4 cup diced green chilies
- 1/4 cup finely chopped onion
- 1 egg
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 6 slices Monterey Jack cheese

Combine salmon, potatoes, chilies, onion and egg. Form into 6 thick patties. Pan-fry in butter over medium heat until golden brown. Turn. Top with cheese; continue cooking until cheese is melted. Makes 6 servings.

Serving Tip: If desired, salmon patties may be served in kaiser rolls or hamburger buns.

Apple Pie Perfect: Golden Apple Mosaic Pie

Apple pie is, without a doubt, one of America's most popular desserts and has been since the earliest days of this country's culinary history. This outstanding version, Golden Apple Mosaic Pie, is sure to become an all-time dessert classic.

The pretty, custard-like filling of this exquisite pie combines juicy-fresh bits of chopped Golden Delicious apples and a rich sour cream custard capped with a buttery Streusel Topping. The delicately sweet flavor of the Golden Delicious apples comes clearly through the creamy base, resulting in a pie that is both delicious and distinctive.

Whether served warm or chilled, Golden Apple Mosaic Pie makes an irresistible company dessert and a real treat for the family. It goes together quickly, using ingredients readily at hand and, when time is limited, can be prepared in advance.

Fresh, all-purpose Golden Delicious apples are the preferred variety for this streusel topped pie because they retain their shape better than other apples during cooking and resist darkening when cut. And, because Golden's are characterized by a natural sweetness, the additional sugar needed to sweeten the creamy filling of this pastry can be kept to a minimum.

FAR-AWAY FOODS YOU MAKE AT HOME

BRAZILIAN BEEF

You can serve your family and friends a beef dish with a South American flavor.

While Brazilians are watching their budgets, they are reluctant to give up the luxury of entertaining and are inviting people to their homes more often than in the past. This was revealed in a recent international food trend survey conducted by Beatrice Companies, Inc.

Traditional well-balanced meals are the most popular for home entertaining such as Sao Paulo Beef and Pumpkin Puree: fried beef is served on a bed of white rice and accompanied by pureed pumpkin. A side dish of potatoes and parsnips completes this Brazilian-style dinner.

SAO PAULO BEEF

- 1 cup milk
- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/2 teaspoon sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon

In a large bowl combine all ingredients. Mix well with a wire whisk to remove all lumps. Place a heavy 7 inch skillet over medium heat. Wipe surface of skillet with vegetable oil. Skillet is hot when water sprinkled on its surface beads. Pour 3 tablespoons of batter into hot skillet. Tilt skillet to completely cover bottom with batter. Cook until crepe is browned on first side, about 2 minutes. Lift edge with a metal spatula or knife and turn. Cook on second side until browned, about 2 minutes. Remove to plate. Continue to cook remaining crepes, placing waxed paper between each one. Fill with ice cream.

Makes 8 to 10 crepes

Cherry Peach Sauce:

- 1 can (1 pound) pitted dark sweet cherries
- Reserved peach liquid (from below)
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 1/3 cup Cinzano Sweet Vermouth
- 1 cup canned peach slices

In a small saucepot combine cherry and peach liquids, reserving fruit until serving time. Add cornstarch and vermouth, mixing well until cornstarch is dissolved. Cook over medium heat stirring occasionally until sauce boils, about 5 minutes.

Lower heat and simmer for 15 minutes. Add reserved fruits and simmer just until hot, about 2 minutes. While sauce is simmering, spoon ice cream into crepes. Roll and place on serving dish. Spoon prepared sauce over crepes and serve immediately. Pass remaining sauce. Makes 4 to 5 servings

Festive No-Bake Nibbles

Crisp days and nippy nights bring entertaining indoors once again and the holidays mean drop-in guests, almost any time. This year, be prepared! Plan ahead to make several batches of these irresistible, chewy bite-sized treats sure to be popular with all ages—they keep well, tightly covered, for many days. (Pack in decorated shoeboxes, crocks or jars to give as hostess presents, too.)

Chock-full of fruits and nuts, they require a minimal number of ingredients and are quick, simple and fun to put together in a very few minutes. (Let the kids help mix.) Since they're made using 100% pure Italian olive oil—surprise!—instead of butter, each tasty morsel is also cholesterol-free. The Bertolli label assures you of consistent quality and—unlike some other olive oils—a light, delicate, non-intrusive flavor.

BERTOLLI BALLS

- 3 cups diced candied fruit
- 3/4 cup finely chopped pecans or walnuts
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- 1 package (7-1/2 ounces) vanilla wafers, finely crushed
- 1/4 cup Bertolli Imported Italian Olive Oil
- 1/4 cup pineapple juice (or rum or whiskey)
- Confectioners' sugar

In bowl combine fruit, nuts and sugar. Blend in cookie crumbs. Add olive oil and juice. Mix well, using hands. Shape into 1-inch balls and roll in confectioners' sugar. Let stand at room temperature for several hours to firm up. Store in airtight container. Makes about 4 dozen balls.

COOKING CORNER

This scrumptious dessert was the Grand Prize Winner in the Dole Employee Recipe Contest held in August in honor of Hawaii's 25th anniversary of statehood.

PINEAPPLE CHEESEPIE

- 1 can (8 oz.) Dole Crushed Pineapple in Juice
- 12 ounces cream cheese, softened
- 1 egg
- 3/4 cup plain yogurt
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Macadamia Crust

Drain pineapple well, pressing out excess juice with back of spoon. Combine remaining filling ingredients. Spread pineapple over Macadamia Crust, reserving 2 tablespoons for garnish. Pour filling over pineapple. Bake in 350°F oven 20 minutes. Cool, refrigerate at least 2 hours. Before serving, garnish with reserved pineapple. Makes 6 servings.

Macadamia Crust: Combine 1 cup chopped macadamia nuts, 3/4 cup Graham cracker crumbs, 6 tablespoons melted butter and 2 tablespoons sugar. Press into 8-inch pie pan to cover bottom and sides.

An easy way to ice cupcakes is to place a small piece of chocolate on the top when the cupcake is still hot, and spread the chocolate as it melts.

Cutworm prevention tips revealed

One of the most destructive pests in the vegetable garden is one you may never see--the cutworm.

Subterranean cutworms damage crops by clipping young seedlings or transplants off at or just below the soil level, explains Gary Dunn, Extension entomologist at Michigan State University. They are active during late May and early June, when plants are small and most susceptible to any kind of damage.

Cutworms are plump, hairless caterpillars, the larvae of some nondescript small moths. The larvae range in color from drab gray to brown to black; some have spots, some stripes, and others no markings at all. All of them curl into a C-shape when disturbed.

Because cutworms spend the day in the soil around the bases of plants, emerging only at night to feed, you may never see them. If you wait for damage to occur, however, you may lose your plants. So the best approach to damage control is to assume cutworms are present, even if you haven't seen any, and try to prevent damage.

The crops most commonly hit by cutworms in late spring are transplants of tomatoes, peppers, eggplant, squash and cucumbers, and seedlings of beans, corn and other warm-season crops. Cutworms are also willing to feed on the cole crops--cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli, etc.--and lettuce, carrots and other vegetables. General feeders, cutworms will even eat weeds and grasses if nothing else is available.

Chemical insecticides and preparations of Bacillus thuringiensis, a bacterial disease of caterpillars, are effective for cutworm control if they're applied when the worms are small and actively feeding. As an alternative to chemicals, Dunn recommends making cutworm collars from frozen juice concentrate cans or light cardboard formed into cylinders. Place a collar around each transplant so that 2 to 3 inches extends above the soil surface and an inch extends into the soil to keep it in place. A cutworm has to emerge inside the collar to be able to damage collared plants.

Stocks of corn, soybeans and oats up

Stocks of corn, soybeans and oats in Michigan storage facilities on April 1, 1985 were above year ago levels. Corn stored in all positions on April 1 totaled 113 million bushels, 31 percent above stocks on hand last year. Holdings in off-farm positions declined 21 percent from a year ago while on-farm holdings increased 61 percent. Farmers held 78 percent of the corn in storage on April 1 compared to 63 percent a year ago, according to the Federal/State Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service. Soybean stocks at 12.4 million bushels were 7 percent above April 1984 levels. Holdings in off-farm positions were down nearly 3 percent while on-farm stocks showed a 19 percent increase.

Winter wheat was the only major commodity where lower stocks were noted than a year ago. Holdings of 10 million bushels were 22 percent below last April. Off-farm stocks were down 15 percent and on-farm stocks were off by 43 percent. Oats in storage at 7.8 million bushels was 39 percent above 1984 levels. Off-farm stocks increases 24 percent and farm stocks were up by 44 percent. Carry-over stocks of hay on Michigan farms on May 1 totaled 634,000 tons, slightly more than the previous year.

Nationally, corn stored in all positions on April 1 is estimated at 3.96 billion bushels, 22 percent more than the

April 1, 1984 level. Of the total corn on hand 71 percent was stored on farms. Indicated disappearance from all storage positions during January-March 1985 totaled 1.9 billion bushels, up 14 percent from the comparable quarter a year ago. Soybeans in all positions on April 1 totaled 898 million bushels, up 14 percent from last year, but 22 percent below April 1, 1983. All wheat stored in all positions totaled 1.67 billion bushels, 5 percent less than the previous year. Oat stocks totaled 256 million bushels, 5 percent below a year ago.

Elsie schoolteacher

Woodard to be honored at retirement dinner May 31

On Friday, May 31, Dorine Woodard will be honored with a retirement party at the Elsie Junior High School. An open house with refreshments and a gift of appreciation from the staff is planned.

Dorine (Taber) Woodard grew up in the Alma area and was a graduate of Alma High School in 1947. She attended the Central Michigan Teacher's College for two years and started teaching in 1949-50. Her first teaching assignment was at Booth School, a one-room schoolhouse in Chapin, for two years. She also taught Fourth Grade for one year at Hemmeter School near Saginaw. Mrs. Woodard later attended Central Michigan evenings and summers and completed her bachelor's of science degree in 1961.

While teaching in Chapin, Woodard met her future husband, Lester. They were married the year she taught at Hemmeter School. Mr. Woodard retired in 1982 from the Michigan Milk Producer's Association in Ovid.

Mrs. Woodard took a leave of absence from her teaching profession for two years to develop and nurture her own family. Cal (wife Sheri) and granddaughters Bethany and Aarika and Carolyn (husband Denny Long and granddaughters Amy and Christi) were born and continued Mom's "education." She taught another two years at Corp School near Elsie and then took another sabbatical for Cayle (who currently teaches in Pierceton, Ind.).

Since her youth, Mrs. Woodard's desire has been to teacher. She has especially enjoyed working with the various staff members over the years. Her personal interest in families and their growing years from one generation to the next holds a special fascination and joy as she has taught the children's children. Mrs. Woodard says "kids will always be kids, and that doesn't seem to change," but she observes, "the clothes, music, values and outlook has changed over the years."

Mr. and Mrs. Woodard reside at 8503 Huff Road, Elsie. We at the Elsie Junior High School extend our warmest wishes and congratulations to you on 33 years in the teaching profession.

Dry Bean members to travel to UK

Eighteen members of Michigan's dry bean industry will be traveling to the United Kingdom to participate in the 1985 Michigan dry bean seminar to be held May 22-24, at Turnberry, Scotland.

Sixty representatives of the UK-EEC canning community and allied interests will be participating in the seminar that will focus on Michigan as a major supplier to Great Britain's canners of baked beans. Scotland is the site of the 1985 meeting. In tribute of the fact that the Scots' consumption of canned baked beans is the highest in Europe. A year ago the per capita consumption of baked beans in Scotland was pegged at 19.6 pounds per annum.

The United Kingdom is far and away Michigan's largest export customer of Navy beans. UK canners purchase and can nearly 100,000 metric tons of Navy beans annually. In most years, the lion's share of their supplies originate in Michigan.

Competition from Ontario and Minnesota-North Dakota interests have cut into Michigan's market share in recent years, however.

The seminar program content will highlight Michigan's canning and production research programs, Michigan's mandatory inspection and quality control systems, and the outlook for 1985 Navy bean production in Michigan and North America. The featured speaker during the three-day seminar will be Audrey Eyton, author of the "F-Plan Diet".

Eyton's "F-Plan Diet" was listed on the New York Times best seller list for 19 weeks when first released in the U.S. In the UK, the book, which stresses dietary fiber as a cornerstone to weight reduction and better health, has been credited with increasing the consumption of canned baked beans from five to ten percent during the past two years.

Canned and dry beans are given high marks as a fiber-containing food. Eyton, one of the world's foremost nutritionists, is the publisher and founder of Slimming Magazine, which is published in London. The magazine was one of the first publications in the world devoted exclusively to slimming, which is referred to as dieting in this country.

Canned and dry beans receive very high marks for the dietary fiber content they contain in the "F-Plan Diet". Eyton's revelation and recommendations concerning bean consumption and the importance of fiber in the diet, have been recognized by nutritionists and life scientists around the world during the past two years.

Recently, the American Cancer Research Institute, following recommendations from the American Academy of Sciences, published "Menus and Recipes to Lower Cancer Risk".

The AICR publication stresses the role that dietary fiber contributes to good health and disease prevention by stating quite emphatically, that you can lower cancer risk by watching what you eat. And, further, you will be on the road to better health if you increase your consumption of fruits, vegetables and whole-grain cereals with a higher dietary fiber count.

Almost all of these recommendations are outlined in Eyton's "F-Plan Diet", which will be reported on by the author during the Michigan dry bean industry's pending seminar.

Copies of the "F-Plan Diet" or the AICR publication can be acquired by writing MBSA, P.O. Box 6008, Saginaw, MI 48608. The cost of the "F-Plan Diet" is $1.60 to cover handling and mailing. The AICR publication will be mailed to anyone sending 25 cents in stamps or coins to cover mailing costs.

Tips given on feeding crowds

As late spring rolls around so do all the parties and open houses. Feeding large numbers of people can be extremely expensive when you hire all the work done. If you can do some, or all of the work yourself, in many cases you can not only save a lot of money, but also have complete control over the quality and quantity of the food served.

Here are a few tips on how to keep your self-catered party simple and successful.

First of all, I'd like to deal with menu planning.

1. Care must be taken to keep the service as simple as possible--avoid foods that are hard to serve or those that are soft or "soupy" on the plate.

2. Hot dishes should include only food easily kept hot.

3. Attractive garnishing is important. The menu should include a few attractively decorated foods.

Family Focus

By Dawn Harris
Extension Home Economist

assorted salads and an assortment of relishes.

4. If the meal is a hot one, use recipes involving both the oven and top burners. Increase your limited heating surfaces with the use of electric skillets, roaster ovens, or hot trays to hold food in good serving condition.

5. If one dish is going to require much last minute hand work and fiddling, balance it against others that can be prearranged or are easy to serve.

6. One of the hardest things is to mass cook. Do not hesitate to serve simple food for company.

7. Choose seasonal ingredients and cook them skillfully.

A second area of potential trouble can be the equipment selection.

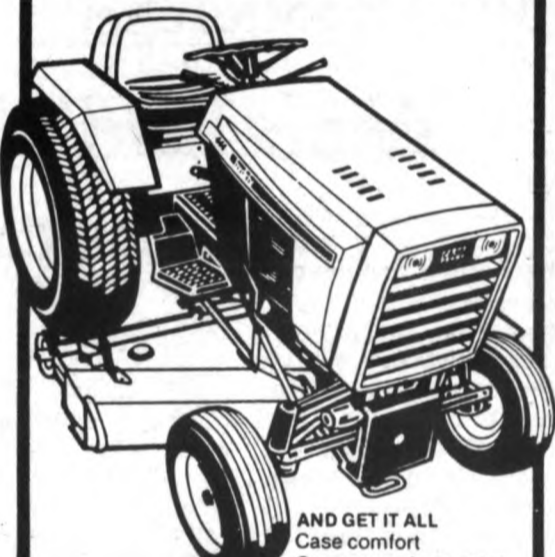

The material of which pots and pans are made of as well as their size and shape, can often spell success or failure. When selecting a pan choose a pan that is fairly heavy. Lightweight pans burn food easily. Also, select a dish that will allow the food to cook with minimal stirring. The more stirring involved the more texture and shape is destroyed. A final hint with equipment selection is to keep in mind that square containers take up less room in storage than round ones.

A third important area of consideration is food quality. Remember to keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold. The danger zone for food poisoning is 45 degrees to 140 degrees. Keep food temperature above or below this range. Very deep pans are dangerous to cook or store food in. The external temperature of 350 degrees may be reached in a relatively short period of time, but the internal temperature may never reach 350 degrees until an hour or so later. The same idea is true in cooling. The answer is if you do cook in large pans, be sure the total food product is cooked. Then to cool, remove to a smaller pan and place in refrigerator or freezer.

If you would like more tips on quantity cooking ask for a booklet from the Cooperative Extension Service, entitled "Be Your Own Caterer". It is only 45 cents and contains handy conversion charts, hints and recipes for quantity cooking.

Season opens

By DICK BRADLEY
Outdoors Writer

With the opening of the Michigan bass season this Saturday comes a kind of unofficial welcome to summer. All of the various fishing seasons will be underway and that part of outdoor activity which appeals to so many sportsmen is finally complete.

And at no time is it easier to take both large and small mouth bass than during those first few days of a season. The reason is that there is no other time when the basses whereabouts is so predictable.

Like his smaller cousins, the bluegills and sunfishes, the bass is stirred into seasonal action by the warming waters. His metabolism picks up and his urge to reproduce overshadows everything else. He will, therefore, move to those favorable places for spawning where there is a sandy or pebbly bottom and near where there is some protective cover. The bed, which may be two feet across, appears as a light scooped-out spot on the bottom of the lake or river where the fish have simply cleared the silt and weeds aside to expose the solid bottom. The bass will be on or near these beds for quite a few days, preceding, during and following the actual spawning activity. You should be there too.

It is because the opening of the season and the bedding of the fish often coincide that an alert fisherman can usually get some of the season's best bass action at this time. If the water is still a bit cold the fish will probably be cruising just off the bedding area. This is the way it was in many Michigan waters last year.

If the water temperature and the season opening match exactly, you are really in luck. Not only will you see the beds at their brightest (caused by all the activity of the fish which keeps them silt- and weed-free and more visible), but you may see the telltale swirls of both male and female bass as they spawn or as they charge after bluegills or other fish that trespass too close.

If the actual spawning has already taken place, the male will continue to be in the immediate area for quite a while, even until the fry hatch and he has sampled a few of them.

On the lake that you are familiar with, go to the same area year after year where you have observed beds. Unless there is a structural reason for bass to move, they won't. And there are generally a lot more fish in an area than you may think. Beds are usually dug in depths of from one to six feet and while some are readily visible, others are not. Near dropoffs, sunken trees, or under batches of lilly pads or other sheltering weeds are likely places.

If you want to increase your chances of catching bass without spending extra time for learning and money for equipment, these first few days of the season are the best.

Mary Beth Pirich

Miller-Pirich

Mary Beth Miller and John Pirich exchanged marriage vows May 11 at St. Gerard Church. Father Weber performed the double-ring afternoon ceremony before 350 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Hilary and Geraldine Miller of 860 Thomas L. Parkway W., Lansing. The bridegroom is the son of Mike and Helen Pirich of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Joy Robinson and Joe Fetters sang at the wedding with Pauline Redmond playing the organ.

The bride chose a candlelight ivory gown of organza over taffeta. The gown featured a wedding ring collar of silk venice lace, a sheer yoke of English net, and a neckline accented with pearls and crystal beads. The gown had a fitted bodice of alencon lace and pearls with sequin accents, fitted sleeves of alencon and pearls, a pouf at the shoulder, a natural waistline, an A-line skirt with front panel of alencon lace and pearls, and a cathedral-length train with alencon lace applique and inserts of schiffli lace and crystal pleating. She wore a bridal hat of ivory organza with a veil of nylon illusion. She carried a bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, carnations, and baby's-breath. As a special memento, she wore her mother's garter belt and carried an ivory handkerchief given to her by the groom's aunt.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Tamra Springsdorf of Fort Wayne, Ind. She wore an apricot taffeta gown with a bodice of organza lace. Bridesmaids were Nan Miller and Margie Miller, sisters-in-law of the bride, Jan Toebe, and Stephanie Pirich, daughter of the groom.

Karen Pirich, daughter of the groom, served as flowergirl and Christopher Pirich, son of the groom, served as ringbearer.

Serving as best man was Thomas Phillips of Ionia. Groomsmen were Joe Miller, Bob Miller, Bruce Miller, and Doug Miller, all brothers of the bride. They all doubled as ushers.

A reception was held at the Hilton Inn with the receiving line commencing at poolside and dinner at Regency Hall. Debbie Phillips attended the guest book, Roger Clark arranged the band, and Bill Curtis and Alex Meyers worked as disc jockeys.

Special guests at the ceremony included Paula Miller, grandmother of the bride, and relatives of the groom from New York, Pennsylvania, and Florida.

The couple took a two-week honeymoon trip to San Francisco and Hawaii and are making their home in East Lansing.

Scott and Jill Joseph

Stauffer-Joseph Reside in Lansing

Jill Marie Stauffer and Scott Joseph exchanged marriage vows Saturday, March 9, at St. Jude Catholic Church, DeWitt. Father David Stotenbur performed the double ring ceremony before 250 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Lee and Gladys Stauffer of 1004 Schavey, DeWitt. The bridegroom is the son of Carolyn Kitchen of Lansing.

The bride chose a traditional white satin gown with a train. She wore a small pill box hat with a veil and carried a bouquet of pink lilies and white roses.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was Leigh Heskitt, sister of the bride, from Lansing. She wore a full-length, mauve rose, brocaded silk dress. Bridesmaids were Shelly Lucas, Teri Wheat, Missy Hawk, and Kelli Kitchen.

Flowergirls were Cadace Heskitt and Jamie Fletcher. Jon Stauffer served as ringbearer.

Wheat crop is coming on fast

Above normal temperatures during April advanced development of Michigan's 1985 wheat crop by about 10 days. Most of the crop is currently rated in good to excellent condition, according to the Federal/State Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service. Based on conditions as of May 1, winter wheat production is expected to total nearly 47 million bushels. If production prospects are realized, this will be the largest wheat crop on record. This year's wheat crop is expected to be nearly 3 percent above last season's large crop. The increase in production is attributed to an anticipated increase in average yields. Yields are currently expected to average 60 bushels per acre, 3 bushels above the record established a year ago. Acreage for harvest is estimated at 780,000 acres, down slightly from last year. Winter kill was limited in most areas and abandonment is expected to total 20,000 acres.

Nationally, winter wheat production is forecast at 1.97 billion bushels, 4 percent less than last year's production. Growers expect to harvest 48.5 million acres for grain, 6 percent less than a year ago. Yield per harvested acre is placed at 40.7 bushels. If realized this will be the second highest yield of record.

Diabetic Club plans to meet

On Tuesday, June 11 at 7:30 p.m., the Diabetic Club, "In Stride With Diabetes," will meet in the Clinton Memorial Hospital Conference Room. The focus of the evening will be "New Products for Diabetic Home Care." tional materials. Several representatives will be available to discuss and demonstrate their products.

The program is free and open to the public. It will be moderated by Barbara Bandt, R.N., CHM Diabetic Educator. Diabetics of all ages and interested family members are invited to attend. For more information, please call 224-6881, Ext. 283.

"Stories for Free Children." Edited by Letty Cottin Pogrebin. Published by McGraw-Hill Book Co., New York, 1982. $14.95 hardcover.

□ I have just found this book and am very excited about it. It is a collection of stories, fables, and facts about famous women in history and some not-so-famous women. The stories reaffirm one thing: that children should be free to be themselves. It shows a world that is non-sexist, multiracial, and multicultural and one that children will fit into.

The stories are written by some popular authors like Toni Morrison, Fernando Kahn, Ann McGovern, and Joe Lasker. They deal with a variety of subjects like "X," the story of a baby who was born as part of an experiment and no one knew whether it was a boy or a girl, but that didn't really matter. There is "Ira Sleeps Over," a story about a boy who is invited to spend his first overnight at his friend's and has to decide whether or not to take his teddy bear along. "The Princess Who Stood on Her Own Two Feet" has a different twist to the standard old fairy tale.

Some of the stories discuss sensitive subjects such as divorce, adoption, and death. And there is a section devoted entirely to stories about women in history like Sibyl Ludington, Amelia Bloomers, and Deborah Sampson.

This book originated in Ms. Magazine. Of all the mass magazines and traditional women's magazines, only Ms. regularly publishes a children's feature. This book was also the inspiration for "Free To Be You And Me," produced by Marlo Thomas and the publisher of Ms., Letty Cottin Pogrebin.

I feel that young readers will be able to open this book and be entertained, informed, and challenged by the stories inside. It will show them that free children are allowed to be themselves and to be true to themselves, free to be able to show the way they feel, not to be afraid to say their afraid, not to feel strange because they are different from others, free to be themselves and not to have to measure up to other people's ideas of what a girl or boy is supposed to be.

Recommended for all ages.

"It's Not Easy Being a Bunny" by Marilyn Sadler. Illustrated by Roger Bollen. Published by Random House, N.Y., 1983. $4.95.

□ Since that famous day in 1957 when Theodore Seuss Geisel found 220 words that rhymed and put them together to form "The Cat in the Hat," books written and sponsored by him have appeared to help early and first-time readers learn quickly through fun stories.

Here again is such a book. It is an "I Can Read All By Myself — Beginner Book." It is about a bunny who doesn't enjoy his life as a rabbit. He feels that eating endless amounts of carrots and sharing things with a vast number of siblings is just not his future.

P.J. Funnybone decides that he will go live with some other animal. He starts with the bears, but soon discovers that they are really quite boring, sleeping all the time and such. Next he tries a family of birds who are very friendly, but unfortunately keep flying off and leaving P.J. He continues his endless search for the right animal only to reach a delightful and surprise ending that all beginner readers will enjoy.

Some of the other Beginner Books are: "Are You My Mother?" by P.D. Eastman; "The Bear Detectives" by Stan and Jan Berenstain; "Green Eggs and Ham" by Dr. Seuss; and "I Wish I Had Duck Feet" by Theo LeSieg.

Recommended for ages 4 through 7.

Marie Papciak is the librarian at Elmwood Elementary School, Waverly Community Schools.

New country music bands search is on

From border to border and coast to coast, the search is on for the hottest Country music clubs and the best new Country music bands in America.

According to Marshall Berkowitz, president, Austin, Nichols and Company, sponsors of the fifth annual Wild Turkey Battle of Country Bands competition, "We are looking for the top 101 clubs who play Country music in America to hold auditions between June 1 and August 31, and we are looking for Country music bands who want to take a shot at the big time."

Berkowitz added, "After local auditions were held all summer last year in 101 different clubs, we held area regionals and brought the 'cream of the crop' to Nashville, Music City U.S.A., to perform before a packed house which included Country music record companies and music industry executives."

This year's Grand Finals will take place October 25 at the Tennessee Performing Arts Center, hosted by country music stars Mel Tillis and Gus Hardin.

Crossfire, the 1984 Wild Turkey Country Band of the Year, will open the Grand Finals show in Nashville. Former "Battle of Country Bands" winners, Steve Hall and Shotgun Red, now a Hee Haw cast member, will make a guest appearance at the Grand Finals.

The first place winner in this year's Wild Turkey Battle of Country Bands will receive a $5,000 cash award, the title "Wild Turkey Country Band of the Year," and a one year booking contract with Buddy Lee Attractions. The second place winner will receive $2,500 cash and four third-place winners will each receive $1,000.

In addition to the above cash awards, the first place band will record an album. The other five winning bands will record a 45 rpm record, provided that each of the bands competing in Nashville performs an original song about Wild Turkey or any drink mixed with Wild Turkey. The best Wild Turkey song will be selected and $500 will be awarded to the composer(s) and $500 will be awarded to the performing band.

Jerry Free, president, Wild Turkey Battle of Country Bands, invites any club or band interested to write to him directly for more information at 50 Lindsley Avenue, P.O. Box 101370, Nashville, Tennessee 37210, or call him collect at (615) 254-7777. Bands will receive free information as to the closest local Country music club in their area holding auditions.

Clinton Hospital discloses bequest plans

Plans for the distribution of the Whyman Estate, left by bequest to Clinton Memorial Hospital, were disclosed this past week at the annual Trustees Meeting of the Health Corporation of Clinton. Health Corporation of Clinton serves as the holding company for its subsidiaries, the Clinton Memorial Hospital Association, the Clinton Health Foundation, and Clinton Services Corporation.

Brandon White, Chairman of the Clinton Health Foundation, outlined the major points for distribution of the estate. Fifty percent of the monies donated by the Whymans will be placed in an endowment fund, to be called the Whyman Endowment. The hospital will also establish a scholarship fund, using 10 to 15 percent of the interest income from this fund. The scholarships will be available on an annual basis to any resident of Clinton County pursuing an education in a health-related field. In addition, $25,000 to $50,000 from the balance of the Whyman monies will be set aside and used as starting monies for the proposed hospital expansion program. Finally, 50 percent of any undesignated funds that are more than $1,000 will also be deposited in the Whyman Endowment.

The Clinton Health Foundation — a non-profit organization — was formally established in December and oversees the distribution of charitable contributions from area residents. It also assumes fund-raising and public relations activities of the former hospital Development Council.

Richard Hawks, Chairman of the Health Corporation of Clinton, reported on the reorganization process and its potential to provide support for hospital services. He cited a recent issue of U.S. News and World Report which discussed the measures hospitals are taking as a result of challenges they face today. In the article, Clinton Memorial Hospital was mentioned for its diversified business activities.

Reports were also given by Dr. C.T. Perez, Chief of Staff, who introduced newly-elected Chief of Staff Donald Porter; and Paul McNamara, hospital Chief Executive Officer, who discussed the growth of Clinton Memorial's services during 1984.

Corky Paradise, treasurer for the Clinton Services Corporation, presented a report on activities of Clinton Services Corporation, which serves as the for-profit subsidiary of the Health Corporation of Clinton.

The proposed hospital building project was outlined by Jeanette Huard, vice-chairman of the Clinton Memorial Hospital Association.

Plans include emphasis on increased and improved outpatient services, as well as renovated inpatient areas.

Newly-elected trustees include Jack Anderson (Watertown Township), Karen Armbrustmacher (Bengal Township), Michael O'Bryant (Ovid Township) and Harold Carpenter (Eagle Township).

In other action, new members of the hospital Donors Club were honored for their continued support of Clinton Memorial and were presented with framed certificates and plaques for their contributions.

Sports

The Bee softballers beat New Lathrop solidly 14-4 last week, qualifying the team for a pre-district game May 24.

Leslie Wohlscheid got the win. Rhonda Foster had two hits, and Colleen McGonigal helped out with 3 RBI.

Bath will take on Byron in the pre-district match-up.

"They wanted good health care coverage..."

I got 'em great health care coverage."

Guy Tundis knows his business. As franchise owner of two busy 7-Eleven stores in Okemos and Holt, he has to. Guy also knows a few things about health care coverage.

"A small business owner likes to make smart decisions, and going with Health Central was not only one of my smartest—it was simple. Spending less to get more health care coverage just makes good business sense.

"So does Health Central. It's called an HMO—Health Maintenance Organization—because the folks at Health Central help to keep people well. That keeps my employees on the job. And they're the most important part of my business."

Thanks Guy...we know that Lynn and John and Elizabeth and Sandra are important. It's one of the reasons we work so hard at Health Central, delivering the coverage, convenience and quality care that businesspeople like Guy and their people can depend on.

State Senator Alan Cropsey

State Sen. Alan Cropsey and State Attorney General Frank Kelley held a joint news conference May 21 to announce the planned introduction of two bills dealing with governmental immunity.

The package is designed to combat the "epidemic" of lawsuits against governmental units and the rapidly escalating size of judgments against them.

"There is a feeling that governments are a bottomless pit of money that can be sued at the drop of a hat," Cropsey said. "The number of lawsuits and the dollars paid out have literally mushroomed. These bills, which will be introduced today (May 21), will lessen the impact of nuisance of unreasonable lawsuits and limit the ability of the unjust to tap into taxpayer dollars and divert that money away from essential services."

Kelley added that eight or nine other states have already adopted immunity laws, and others are considering similar legislation. "What they are accomplishing, and that we hope to do, is bring reasonableness into the judicial process as it relates to governmental bodies. When a state faces a backlog of 1,400 lawsuits worth $2.4 billion, and that figure has been escalating dramatically, it is symptomatic of a much larger problem," Kelley pointed out. "Even though the State of Michigan wins the vast majority of lawsuits in which it is involved, the expenses of defending the state are legendary — and the money does not come from some vague governmental unit — it comes from the taxpayers."

In essence, the bills accomplish six major objectives:

1. They limit a governmental agency's liability only to the degree of fault attributable to the agency specifically.

2. They limit the amount of recovery against a governmental agency for non-economic losses like punitive and exemplary damages to $100,000 a person for a single occurrence, and $300,000 for a group of three or more persons in the aggregate.

3. They grant limited immunity to governmental employees when they are acting under the authority of their employer.

4. They allow the state to pay any judgments over $100,000 in periodic structured settlement payments.

5. They re-define a public building as a four-walled structure, rather than other items like swingsets, roads and other facilities.

6. They allow judgments against a government entity to be reduced by the amount already paid to the plaintiff by an insurance company or other third party.

Cropsey concluded, "I believe these proposals are an excellent starting point for a comprehensive review and revision of governmental liability. This will help us alleviate the extreme financial crisis that liability exposure is imposing on our governmental units. At the same time, by holding the governmental units liable for their fair degree of fault, it will insure that injured parties are adequately compensated."

These bills have drawn support from a number of organizations including the Michigan Townships Association, the Municipal League, and the County Road Association of Michigan.
