It's Whitford alone on school board

By RICH WERTZ
Editor

The St. Johns Board of Education will consist of a single person until the June 9 election, it appeared late last week.

Trustee Gary Whitford was the only member of the board who was not recalled in the April 22 recall vote. Recalled were Peter Apostol, Thomas Irrer, Marilyn Newman, Eugene Livingston, Robert Craig and William McCarthy.

The voting results, with the votes in favor of the recall listed first, are as follows: Apostol, 2,585 to 2,004; Craig, 2,330 to 2,232; McCarthy, 2,448 to 2,106; Newman, 2,450 to 2,112; Livingston, 2,354 to 2,203; Irrer, 2,454 to 2,109; and Whitford, 1,935 to 2,607.

State recall election law gives Governor James Blanchard the authority to fill the vacancies created by the recall with an interim board until the June election. However, a spokeswoman for Blanchard said the governor had no plans to make the appointments.

"At this point we will not be making any appointments," said Harriet Harris, assistant legal advisor to the governor.

Harris noted that the law gives the governor the authority to fill the vacancies but does not require him to do so.

However, she said on Thursday, the governor's office had not yet received official notification of the recall. She said the governor's office would look into the matter further if officially contacted. Supt. Earl Gabriel said an official letter from County Clerk Jane Swanchara was expected to reach the governor's office on Thursday or Friday.

Gary Whitford said on Sunday he would call a special meeting of the board — himself — for Monday evening.

"Probably the most important thing" to happen at the Monday night meeting, he said, was to be the presentation of a letter from the school district's attorney outlining the legal limitations of a one-person board.

Whitford said he wishes to assure the public that there will "no drastic changes, no hirings or firings" during his term as a one-man board.

"We'll try to continue the educational system as it's running, to see that students get their education, that all the bills are paid," he said.

Whitford said legal arrangements would be made at the meeting for school district bills to continue to be paid over the signature of recalled board president Peter Apostol until a facsimile of Whitford's own signature is available. (A facsimile of Apostol's signature is used; he does not actually sign checks himself.)

Whitford said he has no plans to resign his seat on the board.

"I intend to do what I can as long as I am useful," he said.

Supt. Earl Gabriel said Whitford would also at the Monday meeting call for a special election to fill the vacancies created by the recall. That election will be held June 9, at the same time the regular election is held to fill two expired terms on the board.

Candidates for the terms made vacant by the recall have until May 8 to file petitions to get on the ballot.

Since those elected to fill the seats left vacant by the recall will take office immediately following the election, it is conceivable that two board members could be elected to serve 20-day terms — the period between the election and June 30, when the terms of Apostol and Irrer would have expired.

VICTORY — Jom Sjoberg shakes hands with Charles DeSanders after the vote totals for the last precinct are announced. The two, along with Harold Foster, (left, with glasses at counter), were the chairmen of the recall campaign.

Other business facing the board in the next month, said Gabriel, is to begin contract negotiations with himself and with three contract groups — bus drivers, teachers aides and cafeteria workers — whose contracts expire June 30. Gabriel's contract does not expire until 1987. However, his salary is subject to review and negotiation. The contract calls for the negotiation to begin by May 1.

Central workshop results due in two to three weeks

The architectural consulting firm hired by the St. Johns school district will in two to three weeks present a set of recommendations for solving the problem of Central Elementary School.

The recommendations will be gleaned from an all-day "brainstorming" workshop held at the school last Saturday. Up to 80 residents of the school district participated in at least a portion of the workshop.

Workshop participants, working in groups of five to ten people, evaluated the pros and cons of various courses of action for housing students from Central School. A state fire inspector several months ago ordered the building closed at the end of this school year because of fire code violations.

The architectural consulting firm will organize the information and ideas distilled from the workshop and present a set of recommendations in two to three weeks to the Citizens' Committee on School Organization (CCSO), said Ron Huard, chairman of the CCSO.

The CCSO, asked by the school district to come up with a single recommendation for both a long term and a short term solution to the problem of Central Elementary, will then distill the architects report into a single recommendation, Huard said.

That recommendation was originally scheduled to be made to the Board of Education on May 13. However, with the April 22 recall of six of seven school board members, it is unclear what action will be taken.

From among the various ideas mentioned at the workshop, one theme seemed to approach a consensus — that the Central Elementary students should be kept in town.

"I think they were pretty much united in that they want a neighborhood school," said Alden Livingston, a workshop participant and a former school board member.

Also at the conference, one of the consultants hired by the school district said that if a decision were made to bring the school building into compliance with the state fire code, there is no reason to fear that the code would be changed and the school found again in violation. Once the building is in code it will remain approved for occupancy even if the code is changed, he said.

"If you can bring it into code you won't have a problem," said Don Lee, an architect with Tomlinson Harburn Associates, the company that hosted the workshop.

Final actions for board: a new evaluation process, state claim

By RICH WERTZ
Editor

St. Johns teachers will be evaluated in a more objective manner and the district could collect thousands of dollars from the state, if two actions approved by the St. Johns Board of Education on April 21 do what they were intended to do.

At its last meeting before six of its seven members were recalled, the board adopted a new teacher evaluation process and authorized lawyers for the school district to file a claim for what might have been under-funding of educational programs mandated by the state.

The teacher evaluation process is geared to helping teachers identify strong and weak points and includes the formulation of a plan of action for improving weak points, administrators said.

"It's a clinical approach to evaluation," said Supt. Earl Gabriel. "It tends to be non-threatening...It's an approach that says 'We're going to help you to improve.'"

The process replaces a more open-ended and subjective evaluation process that relied heavily on the evaluator's written observations, administrators said. The new process includes a form in which teachers are evaluated on specific skills, with their competence in each skill judged to be at a "standard" level of performance, or above or below that standard.

The process also includes a conference between teacher and evaluator before and after the evaluation. The post-evaluation conference will be used to formulate a plan of specific action for improving weak areas.

Peterson unveils property tax plan

By RICH WERTZ
Editor

Property owners would pay less in property taxes and schools would get more funds if state aid to schools came from the state sales tax instead of predominantly from property taxes, said Rolf Peterson, of DeWitt, who is a candidate for the state Senate.

Peterson last week unveiled a plan called, "Proposal to Give Real Property Tax Relief and Adequately Fund Our K-12 Schools." A candidate for the 30th District Senate seat being vacated by Alan Cropsey, Peterson said his "tax shifting" plan would address what he calls the problems of inadequate state funding of education and inequities in the state's property tax system.

The current method of funding school aid through property taxes puts an unfair burden on property owners, Peterson said, and puts local school districts in a position of having to choose between providing less than desired educational service or resorting to unpopular methods to get millages approved.

"Right now we're in a crisis, we really are," he said.

Under Peterson's plan:
• The state sales tax, currently four percent, would be increased to five percent. The sales tax on food, which was removed by voters in 1974, would be restored, with the exception of food purchases made with food stamps or similar government vouchers. These changes would require a referendum of Michigan voters.

• Eighty-five percent of the sales tax revenue would then be earmarked for state aid to schools and would be distributed on a per-pupil basis to each school district in the state. Currently only 65 percent of the districts in Michigan receive state aid, Peterson said.

• All local school millages would be temporarily rolled back to zero. Local school boards would be required to determine budgetary needs based on the increased state aid. After holding public hearings, each local school board would have the authority to replace whatever portion of the millage levy it determines necessary to operate the district.

Peterson said his plan would guarantee enough funding to each district to provide a minimum educational standard. Local millages could then be used to improve upon that standard if desired by the voters in individual districts, he said.

Because the sales tax revenue would be earmarked for school aid, the plan would also free educators of "having to go to bat every year, because the money would not be at the disposal of the legislature," he said.

PETERSON also notes that as federal revenue sharing and other federal aid to local governments dry up in the face of the federal budget deficit, local governments will either have to cut services or further increase the tax burden of property owners.

"Where are the local governments going to go for their millage increases?" he asks.

Pointing to Michigan's large tourism industry, Peterson said a sales tax on food would generate tax revenue from out-of-state money spent here.

SUPERDANCE — Jenny Kramer dances with Corey Ladisky at a Superdance for Muscular Dystrophy held by Rodney M. Wilson students last Saturday. Student Council President Emily Humphrey says the $6,500 to $7,000 raised by the students this year will bring the amount raised by RBW students to fight the disease to over $30,000 in the last four years. "Everybody works together," she says of the dance.

Al the cat is alive and loved in new home

To the Editor:

I would like to report to all of Al's well-wishers that he has fully recovered from his misfortune. As readers may recall from a letter to the editor published last December, a stray cat (nicknamed "Al") had been badly injured. One or more malicious individuals severely burned over 35 percent of his body with hot paraffin.

After extensive medical treatment and nearly five months of recuperation, Al has been discharged from the St. Johns Animal Clinic. He has been adopted by an extremely loving family where he shares accommodations with a house full of dogs and a handful of cats, all of which are adoptees, either strays or unwanted pets.

During Al's hospital stay, the doctors and staff of the St. Johns Animal Clinic relayed nearly one hun-dered "get well soon" phone messages and cards to Al. In addition, he received numerous words of encouragement from visiting clients.

While Al was recuperating, he became an ambassador of goodwill. As Al grew stronger, he was given the run of the clinic. Many times, he greeted barking dogs or crying children with a soothing purr or a gentle rub. Frequently, we would find him visiting with clients in an exam room acting more like a person than a critter. Never did he show any animosity toward humans, the only creatures capable of being so cruel.

Al truly is an "Amazing Animal", and everyone who had their lives touched by him is richer for the experience.

Thanks given for Positive People support

To the Editor:

To the Positive People for St. Johns Schools: please accept our sincere appreciation for your overwhelming support in our campaign to retain our school board. We would encourage you now to channel your efforts in planning for the educational future of our children. One small beginning will be our contribution to the Foundation for Excellence in Education, made possible by excess donations made to our campaign.

We also extend our appreciation to those board members who showed us the courage and vision needed today. We are grateful for men and women like yourself who are willing to take on these challenges on our behalf.

Finally, whatever your role in our campaign to retain the school board, please be assured that your effort did not go unnoticed. We would hope that some of you will take the leadership you have shown in seeking office on the school board. We need good, quality people like yourself now more than ever.

Apologies offered, politics will swing back

To the Editor:

We apologize...

To the Board of Education and the professional educators of St. Johns Public Schools. We, the people, have let you and ourselves down. By any reasonable measure, the demographic diversity of our school district should enhance and enrich rather than polarize and alienate the constituent elements which form our community.

We hope you will not allow the events of April 22 to deter you in your concern for the educational welfare of our children. All situations are subject to change. While the pendulum-arc of district politics has swung in a certain direction, we want you to know there are many of us who do not see public education in a monochromatic light.

Is someone stealing flowers from graves?

To the Editor:

My late husband and late grandson lie side by side in Mt. Rest Cemetery.

I suppose that most of my neighbors in St. Johns understand why I take the trouble to keep fresh-looking, seasonal flowers on the resting places of my departed loved ones.

Some citizen of this community however, is apparently shopping for flowers on these two graves in Mt. Rest.

Twice in less than a year the prettiest of the floral arrangements have been removed from the graves of my two loved ones. Last summer it was beautiful yellow roses. About a month ago, they took the pots as well as the flowers. I suppose whoever took them may have priced artificial flowers recently. Are the stolen blossoms a centerpiece on someone's table or are they on another grave at Mt. Rest?

I feel very upset at whoever you are for taking the flowers of my loved ones. I really don't know how you could feel good about yourself.

Women pleads for safe prom, graduation

To the Editor:

As the time rapidly approaches for the beginning of proms and graduation parties, the thoughts of parents go to the possibility of the drinking and driving that may occur. It is a thought that should concern all of us.

When we enter the cemetery to begin our spring planting of flowers, we are confronted by many stories if we stop to ponder the messages on the stones we see. Yes, we can feel proud of the man whose stone bears witness to the fact that he was a soldier who fought in a war to protect our country. But what can we feel when we come upon a stone belonging to a teenager who probably didn't live long enough to graduate?

Knowing from statistics that death by an alcohol caused car accident is one of the leading causes of teenage death, we can only feel sad at the needless waste.

Upon walking through the northwest section of Mt. Hope Cemetery in Lansing, one feels drawn to a large family stone that forms entwined hearts with the words "Together Forever in Heaven" painfully etched under the family name Abbott. The base of this stone holds two matched statues of girls on the left side, under which are the names Lori and Lisa. On the right side is a statue of a praying angel with the name Traci underneath it. Looking at the individual headstones, one can see that the twin girls were only five years old when they were buried together. The promise attached to their stone is "Safe in the arms of Jesus." The adjoining headstone proclaims the death of the young father with his 20-month-old baby girl. The surviving wife and mother has her headstone there too, awaiting her need for it. The message attached serves to express the hope that "Earth has no sorrow that Heaven cannot heal."

But she isn't in heaven yet! What about her daily sorrow over this tragic loss of her husband and three daughters? Anyone in the Clinton County area eleven years ago, would likely remember the car accident that claimed the lives of this young family, leaving the wife and mother to combat severe injuries and her painful memories. What may not have been clearly expressed at the time, was the fact the accident was caused by a drunk driver.

It will soon be time for those prom and graduation parties to entice our young people. We need to try to prevent their drinking and driving. If not, the stones in the cemetery could bear the names of you and your family.

"It's in the Bag"
by Bob Beck

Some everyday objects have been around unchanged for so long that we just assume there'd be no way to improve them. Surely, for instance, there's nothing you could do to improve the simple teabag. Right?

Wrong! After more than sixty years during which practically nothing happened to the teabag, one company introduced a "flow through" bag designed to speed up the brewing process. And another firm introduced a lemon-flavored bag that flavors the tea as you brew it!

Actually, the teabag itself was an accident. Back in 1904, a New York merchant named Tom Sullivan ordered a supply of tiny silk bags for use in offering samples of his tea to his customers. Some of the customers got the bright idea of pouring hot water over the samples... and thus the teabag was born.

Curiously, it was also in 1904 that iced tea was introduced. And that, too, was pretty much an accident. It happened at the St. Louis World's Fair. An exhibitor named Richard Blechynden was serving steaming hot cups of tea. Unfortunately, St. Louis was going through the worst heat wave in its history, and the fairgoers were flocking to the iced lemonade stands. Blechynden figured he couldn't lick 'em, so he joined 'em. He brewed some extra-strong tea and poured it over ice. It was an instant hit... and that's how iced tea was born.

So, even though tea has been around for some five thousand years, we can claim that the teabag and iced tea are both American ideas. And that's my cue to remind you that offering the best in food values is Beck's idea. Drop in and see!

Editor's notes

After the recall

Rich Wertz

The voters have spoken. To the victors go...the problems.

Actually, from the point of view of those who supported the recall, the battle is just begun. In most revolutions it seems to happen that once the old regime is ousted, the hard part begins. First you have to replace what you have dismantled. As far as I can see, the upcoming election is still anybody's ballgame.

Then, assuming for a moment that those who were active in the recall campaign successfully elect some of their own people to the school board, it becomes incumbent upon them to do a better job than their predecessors. Because if you can not do a better job, then what was the point of the recall?

This is not meant to sound vindictive. I made no secret of opposing the recall. But what is done is done, and I hope the district does get better.

Reconciliation is, of course, what the school district needs now. It sounds perfunctory, even somewhat trite, to say so, but now is no time to harbor bitterness and no time to gloat. It is time to get on with solving problems. That task can only be hampered by remaining divided and at odds with each other.

Several of the leaders of the recall said during their campaign that even while they believed those they sought to recall had made grievous errors, the integrity and good intentions of the board members they did not question. And a few days after the recall election, several former board members participated in the all-day workshop regarding Central School.

I take these words and these actions as a sign that even amid disagreement all concerned can rise above dissension and get on with business.

Although, Lord knows, I don't expect that the dissension is over....

We pay for collusion among oil big wigs

To the Editor:

Vice President Bush's middle east performance reminds me of the "shaft" that OPEC, the oil industry and our own government gave us in the 1970's.

Early in 1972 President Nixon and Henry Kissinger conferred secretly with the Shah of Iran during which time they promised the Shah that he could make unlimited purchases of U.S. weapons.

In return the Shah funneled money through Mexico, assisted by CIA money laundries, into Nixon's campaign treasury. The director of the CIA, Richard Helms, was later appointed Ambassador to Iran by President Nixon.

The Shah of Iran became the major oil companies' most cooperative raiser of oil prices. His Iranian oil income skyrocketed from $4 1/2 billion in 1973 to $20 billion in 1975.

The faulty intelligence work of our spy agencies misled then President Carter who praised the Shah of Iran as a "stabilizing influence" in the middle east.

So, please Mr. Vice President, do no more "stabilizing" in Saudi Arabia which happens to be less than 30 minutes from the Iran-Iraq trouble spot.

Once again the oil men are about to try to "buy off" our officials and the news media in their effort to make willing suckers of all of us as we disregard the long and notorious history of the oil industry's deceptions.

Poll after poll throughout the 1970's reported that the majority of people didn't believe a word of the oil companies said about all those "price crises" or of their desperate need for higher profits so that they could save us from ourselves.

We might well remember President Kennedy's words in 1964, "You can always survive a mistake in domestic affairs, but you may get killed by one in foreign policy."

We've paid for this kind of stupidity more than once. Long after the politicians have once again sold us out and retired on fat pensions, you and I and our children and their children will be paying for their collusion with the "big oil bunch" and we'll go on paying, year after year, through one recession after another.

Board oks state funds claim

NO DOLLAR amounts are available about how much the district could recover from the state in a claim that will be filed by lawyers for the district. St. Johns joins with other school districts in the state in filing claims for possible underfunding since 1979 of programs mandated by the state.

Thrun, Maatsch and Nordberg, the law firm representing St. Johns and many other Michigan school districts, said it believes the state has underfunded special education programs in possibly all state school districts. The law firm cites the "Headlee Amendments" of 1978, which prohibit the state from reducing state funding of programs required by the state.

The Local Government Claims Review Board, the state board responsible for reviewing such claims, has said it will not be able to begin processing the claims for at least six months. However, the lawyers said, filing the claim now will protect the district in case the state legislature enacts a "provision limiting the time within which a local unit of government could make claims for underfunding...."

Family focus "Good" offers

Dawn Harris

"Too good to be true" offers flourish year round, but spring seems to bring them out in force.

They are too numerous to list by name, and the name doesn't really matter since they are changed frequently. But the following types of "opportunities" should be investigated before you commit yourself.

- "Free vacations" — three days and two nights in an attractive locale.
- Sweepstakes — some are legitimate, many aren't.
- Door-to-door sales. Magazines and household products are prime merchandise.
- You have won a "fabulous" prize.
- Work-at-home schemes — send $15 (or more) to get started earning $300 a week (or more) at home. A cruel hoax both misleading and illegal.
- Weight loss without diet and exercise. Recognized by the haunting theme song about "getting into last year's bathing suit." Pills and bodywraps can be hazardous to your health. There aren't any shortcuts or easy ways.

- Promotions — tickets sold in the name of the police, charities or respected civic organizations for variety shows, to benefit the underprivileged, etc. The promoter may take most of the funds raised.
- Telephone or direct mail offers giving you a big break into big bucks. Sound investments just don't happen like this.
- Employment opportunities from faraway places, good job opportunities and overseas employment. Send $18 (or more) for job listings. These ads will appear as schools close. Some operate year round. The Better Business Bureau has found none of these to be legitimate.
- Modeling agencies/beauty pageants. Chances of making it big through itinerant "scouts" are extremely slim and the process can be very costly.

All these categories can encompass scams and fraud that will take your money and give you nothing in return. No one can recognize every scam — but do investigate any unfamiliar "opportunity" that asks for money.

Dawn Harris is the Home Economist for the Clinton County Cooperative Extension Service.

Pung-Klein

Exchange marriage vows

Debra A. Pung and Thomas L. Klein exchanged marriage vows at a double-ring ceremony Feb. 1. The 1 p.m. rite at St. Mary's Catholic Church, Westphalia, was celebrated by Fr. John Klein, brother of the groom, and Fr. Dave Rogerson before an altar decorated with burgundy and pink flower arrangements.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Pung of Westphalia. Mr. and Mrs. John Klein of Fowler are parents of the groom.

For her wedding, the bride selected a long white gown styled with a chantilly lace bodice and high collar neckline. The french puff sleeves were accented at the wrists with wide lace cuffs. The satin-glow taffeta skirt with chapel train embraced a hoop at the hemline. She wore a bridal hat with lace and seed pearl trim and a ruffle edged brim which secured her blusher veil. Her flowers were a heart-shaped arrangement of burgundy, mauve, and pink roses and lilies with baby's-breath and ribbon streamers.

Ruth Pung was maid of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Diane Parker and Kathy Sabin, also sisters of the bride. They wore burgundy dresses with ruffle accents and hoop skirts and carried heart-shaped bouquets of burgundy, pink, and mauve baby roses and carnations.

Others serving at the reception were Joyce Kransz, Lois Bengal, Bernie Arens, Kathy and Donna Hengesbach, Cindy Klein, and Leanne and Barb Thelen.

Special guest was Fr. Dave Rogerson, friend of the groom's family, from Seattle.

Volunteers honored

Each year literally thousands of people volunteer to work for the schools, the hospital, the nursing home, 4-H...and dozens of other public service institutions. In April many of those institutions made an effort to say "Thanks."

"You know that," she said, "or you wouldn't be here."

Two weeks ago the St. Johns public schools held a special banquet — the second annual Volunteer Recognition Banquet — at which hundreds of school volunteers, over a meal served by school board members, administrators and school staff, listened to educator Mary Bigler regale them with a humorous and rousing speech of thanks for their efforts on behalf of the schools.

Bigler told dozens of anecdotes about working with children and the humor and sense of satisfaction it can bring.

Bill Richards, the director of Community Resource Volunteers, and a supporter and innovator of several volunteer programs in support of education, was named Volunteer of the Year for the St. Johns school district.

Roger Dershem, of St. Johns, was presented with the Community Recognition Award last week by the Tri-County Volunteer Recognition Committee. Dershem was one of five individuals from the tri-county area to receive the award this year.

Also at that event, Bess Osgood, of St. Johns, and the drivers for the Homebound Meals Program of Clinton County, were presented with Distinguished Volunteer awards by the tri-county committee.

Joan Montgomery, St. Johns lawyer, was this month awarded the Michigan Foundation Volunteer Leadership Award for outstanding volunteer service to the community and the state.

JOAN MONTGOMERY was presented with the Michigan Foundation Volunteer Leadership Award.

Award for outstanding volunteer service to the community and the state.

Montgomery is active in the Clinton County Council for the Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect, Relief After Violent Encounter, the United Way and Big Brothers and Big Sisters of Clinton County.

Clinton Memorial Hospital volunteers were last Thursday honored by the hospital staff at a volunteer recognition banquet.

Well over 400 volunteers each year donate their time and services to the hospital, says Administrator Paul McNamara.

"We just could not run the hospital without the volunteers," he says. "They just do a marvelous job to help the patient and to help us serve the patient better."

ROGER DERSHEM receives the Community Recognition Award from a tri-county recognition committee last week as Clinton County Commission Chairman Roger Overway applauds in the background.

BILL RICHARDS was named the St. Johns schools Volunteer of the Year.

Active in Little League and Pony League in West Branch, Moore also served on the City Council and the Ogemaw County Board of Commissioners. He was a representative on the West Branch Community Airport Board, and was treasurer of the Optimist Club of West Branch.

Pat Fowler is March employee

Pat Fowler has been selected Employee of the Month for March at St. Johns Ford-Mercury in St. Johns.

A seven-year employee of the dealership, she was selected for the award because of her continued efforts toward customer satisfaction.

Richard Cressman named District Mason of the Year

Richard Cressman, twice Past Master of St. Johns Lodge 105, F. & A.M., who was in January named Mason of the Year of the local lodge, was recently named District 19 Mason of the Year.

District 19 consists of 12 lodges in Clinton and Ionia counties.

About 100 friends, relatives and fellow Masons attended a dinner meeting April 12 at which Wayne Gladding, representing the Board of General Purpose, presented Cressman with a plaque honoring him as District 19 Mason of the Year.

Cressman is a 1963 graduate of St. Johns High School and has an associate degree in engineering from Lansing Community College. He also attended Western Michigan University.

He is married to the former Karen Casteel. They have two sons, Ryan and Travis.

For several years Cressman has headed the Committee for the Blue Lodge Pancake Dinners.

He was also instrumental in promoting the joint meetings of the Knights of Columbus, which has for several years fostered friendship, goodwill and better understanding between the two organizations.

Gifts and talents

"I would never consider myself, and I would never say that I was, a gifted person," says Amy Belyea, a Bath High School student.

"Some people are better at some things and some are better at others," says Clay Dowling, a DeWitt High School student.

Both Belea and Dowling recently participated in a series of a Clinton Intermediate School District gifted and talented writing classes. Their attitude towards the class is somewhat typical of the philosophy behind the program.

Once, to be "gifted and talented" meant you had scored exceptionally well on an IQ test. Some five percent of all students were pulled from class and offered special programs.

"The other 95 percent didn't get anything above normal," says Jenny McCampbell, CISD gifted and talented coordinator. The philosophy has changed in recent years.

"The whole emphasis is to encourage the gifts and talents of all the students," says McCampbell, "not to label one population 'gifted.'"

This week is Gifted Child Week by proclamation of the governor — and the county is demonstrating plentiful talent and opportunities to develop it.

TALENT — Tony Medina, left, took a first place in poetry and Tracey Hunter, right, took a third place in graphic arts from among over 4,000 entries in the Lansing State Journal Youth Talent Fair. Not pictured in Cesar Medina, who took an honorary mention in poetry. The three are enrolled in the St. Johns alternative education school.

Students who took part in the year-end tournament along with Pung and Feldpausch were: Ryan Irerer, Eric Weber, Ryan Thelen, Kyle Wieber, Jason Smith, Troy Thelen, Tim Andros, and Bob Feldpausch. Matt Thelen were also class members but were unable to participate in the tournament.

Fowler talent turns to chess

Ten "master chessmen" competed for ribbons and trophies at a Chess Tournament held at Waldron Elementary School in Fowler last Saturday.

The fifth and sixth grade students had been in a special chess class made possible by a grant from the Gifted and Talented Program. Under the guidance of their instructor, Karen Wambaugh, the young chess students watched a VCR tape on chess basics and spent time playing against each other.

Brandon Pung was the club leader at the end of the program. His opponent was Ted Feldpausch.

"I learned how to make smart moves and not dumb ones," Feldpausch said of his chess experience in the class.

Pung, who plays at home against his parents, is "kind of better than his parents" and "beats them — sometimes."

NEW MEMBERS — Sixteen new members were inducted into the National Honor Society at Fowler High School last week at a school assembly with parents of the students invited to the ceremony and a reception which followed.

Linda Wieber is advisor of the National Honor Society.

Card of Thanks

The family of William Luecht thanks relatives, friends and neighbors for their kind expressions of sympathy, the lovely flowers, the many cards and thoughtful memorials, and the wonderfully prepared food brought to the house.

We are so grateful to Jan Gramlich, Michelle Wiseman and all of their kind and dedicated associates in Home Health Services. We also thank the staff of Clinton Memorial Hospital; they were so kind and caring. The staff of the Osgood Funeral Home were so helpful in relieving the stress of the occasion and we are very appreciative.

The services conducted by Rev. John Mackowiak at St. John's Lutheran Church provided us much comfort. The dinner prepared by the St. John's Lutheran Ladies Guild provided much comforting fellowship, and for this we are thankful.

We will always remember with both joy and sadness your many kindnesses at this time of the loss of our beloved husband and father.

Wall Street may be a nice place to work, but I wouldn't want to live there.

I like it here, where people believe in the same values I do. Home, family, friends. I wouldn't trade that for anything. And why should I? I have access to everything Wall Street has, plus something they don't. I get to see the smile on my neighbor's face when one of my conservative investment ideas pays off for him. Call me if I can help.

Giles Roehls Director's News Farm profit

Giles Roehl

"You don't go broke making a profit and profit is not a four letter word," said Earl Butz, former U.S. Secretary of Agriculture. Although we may not have agreed with all of Butz's policies we cannot argue with this statement.

Individually we cannot control prices. Even collectively the U.S. farmers find it difficult to affect the international market. Many farmers seek to find the agricultural commodity "where the money is." As long as a limited number grow a "specialized" commodity, those who do are able to make a profit, but when others see the profit potential and jump into the market, the market becomes stale or breaks and all tend to lose!

An individual can, to some degree, control their costs. Fertilizer, seed, chemical, fuel, feed and costs vary widely from producer to producer.

MSU-Telfarm Data for 1984 indicated some very interesting trends. (Agricultural Economics Report 467, Business Analysis Summary for Cash, Grain Farms, Ralph E. Hepp). The report resulted from the analysis of 61 cash grain farms located throughout Michigan. The farms were divided into three groups by management income per acre from high to low returns.

- High profit farms when compared to low profit farms showed the following:
1. They are larger — 693 acres compared to 295 acres.
 2. They lease more land — 311 acres compared to 35 acres.
 3. They own more capital — $523,387 compared to $387,361.
 4. They hire more labor — 1876 hours compared to 222.
 5. They generate greater revenue per acre — $326 per acre compared to $231 per acre.

6. They spent about the same in operating expenses per acre — $269 per acre compared to $259 per acre.
7. They had a higher net farm income per acre — $57 per acre compared to a negative $28 per acre.

There are different ways to measure farm size. Number of acres is just one way. Another may be the number of work units, still another the total dollars invested. No one measure is better than another — they are all relative.

Leasing or renting of agricultural land can be good management. With land selling at $800 plus per acre and interest at 10 percent to 13 percent that's $80 to $104 for interest alone, not including the $15 to $20 per acre that one could expect to pay in agricultural real estate tax. It seems to make good economic sense to lease/rent for the considerable savings.

The use of capital (dollars) to replace labor can be a good decision providing the additional investment will return more than its cost. A tractor, truck, combine, feeding equipment, etc., must not only pay for itself but also provide far additional income or it should not be purchased. Included in the additional return would be the timeliness factor. The abuse of capital could be the downfall of many operators. Work it out with paper and pencil or ask for computer analysis (Finlrb at our Extension Office) to determine the effect of a major purchase on your operation before you make it.

We will look at high profit indicators four to seven next week.

Agricultural news Ammonia

Marilyn Loudenslager

More producers are expected to use anhydrous ammonia this year to trim costs. Increased use of this potentially hazardous fertilizer could lead to more accidents unless growers take steps to minimize the risk.

"Producers can avoid costly and dangerous accidents involving anhydrous ammonia by wearing adequate protective gear," says Howard Doss, an agricultural safety specialist Michigan State University Extension Service.

Anhydrous ammonia boils at minus 28 degrees F, so it turns to gas when it is released into the atmosphere. The anhydrous ammonia gas seeks out water to react with and is attracted to moisture on a person's skin and especially the eyes. Doss says. The result of exposure to anhydrous ammonia is similar to a freeze burn, and it can cause respiratory failure if inhaled.

Wearing rubber gloves and goggles approved for use when handling anhydrous ammonia will help prevent injury should a spill occur, Doss says. The goggles should be tight fitting and specially vented. Turning up the cuffs of the gloves will keep ammonia from running down the user's sleeve. Reduce the chance that the gas will directly hit the skin by wearing long pants and long-sleeved shirts, Doss advises.

Doss says producers should keep five gallons of fresh water available at the tractor and on the ammonia tank for washing skin in case of an ammonia spill. A small plastic eyewash bottle filled with water and carried in a shirt pocket provide immediate access to water and could save a person's eyesight if a blast of ammonia hits him or her in the face.

If ammonia gets on skin or in eyes, rinse the affected area for at least 15 minutes with fresh water. Though nearly everyone knows that water is the best first aid treatment, studies show that only one in three anhydrous ammonia accident victims applied water for at least 15 minutes, Doss notes.

A safe rescue of someone caught in a cloud of ammonia gas can not be performed without the use of an anhydrous ammonia respirator, so Doss cautions against attempts without one. Avoid this type of accident by working upwind of the ammonia cloud, allowing the gas to drift away from workers.

Victims should always seek medical attention even if no damage is evident, especially if they may have inhaled ammonia, Doss says. Getting medical help right away can prevent more serious damage due to anhydrous ammonia burns.

Elsie 4-H exhibits winter projects

Local achievement of the winter projects of Elsie 4-Corners 4-H club was held recently with president Craig Galecka conducting the meeting.

Flag and 4-H pledges were led by Kevin Kusnier and Susan Stammers. Kari Shipley read the minutes and roll call, Thomas Kuchar gave the treasurers report and songs were led by Julie Wilson and Mari Shipley.

Melissa Wadell gave a safety report on what to do in case of animal or snake bites, and Ryan Dennings gave a talk on poison prevention and instruc-

Members exhibited and explained their winter projects. Projects include: art, clowns, collectibles, creative writing, crochet, clothing, electrical, indoor garden, embroidery, models, pigeons, photography, rabbits, string art, teen leadership, woodburning, woodwork and stained glass, public speaking and demonstrations.

Completing winter projects were: Ryan Dennings, Mark Galecka, Brian Kuchar, Thomas Kuchar, Douglas Wadell, Mari Shipley, Ann Tompkins, Melissa Kusnier, Ericka Thornton, Monica Horak, Tammy Howell, Wendy Wilson, Kathy Wilson, Jason Stammers, Benjamin Moore, Nathan Rivest, David Kiger and Kevin Kusnier.

Summer enrollments were taken from members not already signed up. The club will have Janet Dennings as Entomology leader this year. 4-Corners will have a club display at the 4-H Winter Windup on April 26.

Clinton Caprines where his main interest is sheep and goats.

April is the time for many 4-H clubs to have their spring enrollments updated. This is also the time for those who may be interested in joining a 4-H club to sign up.

What does all of this talk of 4-H really mean? First, let me tell you the 4-H Pledge, this alone will make you want to learn more about our special clubs and to learn about our very special young people who make 4-H what it is.

4-H Pledge

I pledge my head to clearer thinking,
My heart to greater loyalty,
My hands to larger service,

My health to better living, for my club, my community, my country, and my world.

Here are two Clinton County 4-H'ers who would like to tell you about 4-H and what they feel a young person can get from their 4-H experience.

Sherry Kast, age 13, attends the Ovid schools, a member of two 4-H clubs, the Clinton Caprines and the Show Offs, her main interests are with her Alpine goats and her dog, a German Shepherd.

What 4-H Has Done For Me

By Sherry Kast
4-H has given me a chance to gain knowledge and skills in many areas that have come to mean a great deal to me. Through 4-H, I have learned how to care for and show my dairy goats, train my dog properly, and now I can cook and do several crafts.

I have met a lot of other kids, attended educational camps and one day workshops, and have been able to give demonstrations at school on areas that I have learned through 4-H.

In addition to the fair, which is the best week of the year, I also enjoy the extra things that my clubs do such as the weekend campout with out dogs, the parade that we are in with them, the educational field trips that we take, and with my dairy goat club, we will be going to extra shows this summer and the year-end party that we have after the fair is over always something to look forward to.

There's work involved in being a 4-H member but the personal gains are enormous.

Strong showing by Eagles track teams at Fulton

By RHONDA GAFFNEY
Sports Editor

The Eagle boys and girls track teams kept themselves in the fast track last weekend. The boys finished second at the Fulton Invitational with 88.5 points, and the girls won the CMU Relays on Friday and placed second at Fulton on Saturday.

"The CMU Relays were important to us," said Coach Kim Spalsbury, "because we were running against Akron-Fairgrove. They should be our number one competition in the State Meet again this year."

Fowler edged Akron out scoring 60 to 58 in total meet points.

"It came down to the last leg of the last relay," Spalsbury said. "We had to place at least second to win the meet — and we did."

"I would like to give special recognition to Theresa Feldpausch who threw the shot for just the second time this year," Spalsbury said. "She threw 30'10" to make the finals which is an outstanding put for a first year effort."

Other highlights included the 3200 relay team who took first place in that event for the fourth straight year, Cindy Schneider setting a school and meet record in the 3200 run with a time of 11:55.4, and Luann Wieber who tied her school record time of 16.5 in the 100 hurdles.

CMU Relay meet results

First place finishers

Fourth place finishers

800 relay — Lisa Farley, Wieber, Ma. Sillman, N. Sillman, 1:53.2.

At the Fulton Invitational on Saturday, the Eagle girls scored 85 points, good for second behind DeWitt who had 121 points.

"We ran extremely well," Spalsbury said, "especially considering how tired the girls were from the meet the day before."

The highlight of the meet according to the coach was the 3200 relay which Fowler won.

"We shattered our own record," Spalsbury said. "The girls ran 10 seconds better than they had the day before. It was an outstanding performance."

The first place team included Cindy and Sheri Schneider, Mindy Sillman and Kim Epkey who were clocked at 10:12.2.

Fulton Invitational, girls

Fifth place finishers

Fowler will begin their CMAC schedule this week with a dual meet at Pottersville tomorrow (April 30). Portland St. Pats will be at that meet also.

It's back to Pottersville on Saturday for their Invitational where the Eagle girls will have a chance at defending State champs, Athens.

"It should be a really super competition," Spalsbury said. "Right now, we're extremely pleased with where we're at. We have made a lot of progress so far."

WINNING DOUBLES TEAM — St. Johns Redwings number one doubles team of Eric Signs and Rich Kirby were part of the team effort that gave St. Johns two tennis sweeps last week. The Redwings topped Ionia and Ovid-Elsie by scores of 7-0, 7-0 to win both matches and take a 2-0 MMB record.

St. Johns netters victorious in shut-out tennis matches

By RHONDA GAFFNEY
Sports Editor

The Redwing boys tennis team took two relatively easy wins last week, sweeping both Ionia and Ovid-Elsie by scores of 7-0. The victories make St. Johns undefeated in the MMB at 2-0.

"Both wins, especially the win over Ionia, were good team victories," said Coach Al Werbsh. "Ionia returned all but two of their men from last year, so we were quite pleased with the end result of that match. O-E has a very young team and will be tough in the conference in the future."

Against Ionia, number one singles player, Brad Thompson won by set scores of 6-1, 6-1. Number two singles Curt Luttig defeated his man 6-0, 6-0 in sets. Eric Fish, number three singles, took a 6-0, 7-5 set win, and number four singles, Kevin Zimmerman, won 6-0, 6-0.

The number one doubles team of Eric Signs and Rich Kirby claimed a 6-3, 6-2 win; Trent Byra and Chris Briggs, number two doubles, won 5-7, 6-2, 6-1; and the number three doubles team of Dave Schroeder and Jason Zimmerman took a 6-1, 6-1 set win.

It was Ionia's first loss of the year. They came into the match with a 3-0 record.

In the match with Ovid-Elsie, played at St. Johns last Thursday, the Redwing singles' men all took set wins of 6-0.

Thompson, number one, 6-0, 6-0 over Chris Russell; Luttig, number two, 6-0, 6-0, over Florian VonZuent; Fish, number three, 6-0, 6-0, over Kent Love; K. Zimmerman, number four, 6-0, 6-0, over Greg Griffin.

Number one doubles, Signs and Kirby, won 6-2, 6-1, over Chris Grant and Steve Huffman; number two doubles, Troy Foote and Chris Briggs, won 6-1, 7-5, over Tom Bolton and Think Yguwen; and number three doubles, Schroeder and J. Zimmerman, won 6-1, 6-0, over Bryan Hartsuff and Rich Hayes.

The loss drops the young Marauder team to 0-8 overall and 0-2 in MMB play.

"Ovid-Elsie has a fine coach who is very enthusiastic about his team," Coach Werbsh said. "I expect they will do well with more playing experience. They have a lot of freshman on the team."

The Redwing netters have their work cut out for them this week, as they face stiff competition in three scheduled matches.

St. Johns plays at DeWitt today (April 29), and will take on Holt tomorrow and Corunna on Thursday. Both are home matches.

"We should really be able to see our strengths and weaknesses in those matches," Werbsh said. "It will be an important week."

Redwing hurlers effective in both softball-baseball

By RHONDA GAFFNEY
Sports Editor

It was quite a week for softball and baseball at St. Johns High School, with both squads winning in all their outings.

The Redwing girls ended the week with a 9-1, 2-0 record and captured the Mason Invitational title along the way.

St. Johns boys took a doubleheader win over Ionia, won their first Mason Invitation game against Holt, and were ahead in the championship game with Mason when it was called in the sixth inning due to darkness.

"The game was suspended with the score 5-4 after six innings," said Coach Doug Parker. "We will resume play with the score remaining the same and one inning left to play when we meet Mason to determine the winner, probably this Thursday."

A recap of the weeks' action, beginning with the girls, follows.

Coach Paul Sternbaughs' Redwings opened their MMB season last Tuesday with a doubleheader against Ionia. They won the opener 9-5, and took the nightcap by a 4-1 score.

"For some reason, Ionia always gives us problems," Sternbaugh said. "We didn't really play as well as we have in other games this year, although our defense was super."

Senior Brenda Eiseler was the winning pitcher in the first game, pitching all seven innings. She allowed four hits, with just one of Ionia's five runs being earned. Eiseler struck out 13 and walked 11 batters.

The majority of the Redwings scoring came in the second inning when seven runs crossed the plate. A combination of walks and three hits, plus a bases-loaded double by Angie Pung scored the Redwing runs.

"We just broke it open in the second," Sternbaugh said.

Mary Murphy and Sherry Nichols were leading hitters, both going 2-3 in the game.

Lara Foy pitched an "excellent second game," according to the coach. She allowed just three hits and one run, striking out 5 and walking 2 batters.

Murphy went 3-3 in the nightcap, and Pung was 2-3 from the plate.

"It took until the sixth inning to put it away," Coach Sternbaugh said. "We were ahead 2-1 after five, and scored 2 in the sixth to clinch it."

The Redwings first game with Holt at the Mason Invitational took just five innings to complete as St. Johns won 13-2.

Eiseler took the win with 2 earned runs, 2 hits, 2 walks and 8 strike outs. Pung was 2-2 from the plate, while Missy Vittek, Eiseler and Angie Myszak were all 2-3. Eiseler's hits included a triple and home run.

"We scored 11 runs in the first inning before they knew what hit them," Sternbaugh said.

The score of the championship game with Mason was 8-3 in favor of the Redwings. Eiseler pitched that game also, allowing 4 hits, 11 walks and striking out 11 batters. She was 2-3 from the plate, with one hit being a two RBI home run.

"We played well defensively in both games," Sternbaugh said. "We had one error in the first game and one in the second. There were some really nice plays at the plate."

Through seven games pitched, Eiseler is perfect at 7-0, and has 82 strike outs to date.

St. Johns faces Ovid-Elsie today (April 29) and will face a tough Lansing Eastern team this Saturday.

St. Johns boys baseball

It lasted 11 innings, but the Redwings pulled a win out, 4-3, in their opening MMB game with Ionia last week. The nightcap was called after two completed innings with St. Johns on top 3-2. That game will be finished only if the outcome would make a difference in conference standings.

Jim Caudy was the winning pitcher for St. Johns, throwing all 11 innings. He gave up 5 hits and 2 earned runs, struck out 11 men and walked 3 batters.

"He (Caudy) pitched very well for us," Coach Parker said. "In the final eight innings, he gave up just one hit."

Dan Dorn was 2-5 on the night, and Caudy was 2-3 with 1 RBI.

On spring sports

Rhonda Gaffney

It took six weeks, but I think I've finally overcome it.

Basketball withdrawal.

If you follow high school basketball, beginning with the girls in the fall and following through March Madness with the boys, you are familiar with the symptoms.

It's Friday night. You come home from work, and what is there to look forward to? Dallas and Falcon Crest just don't quite live up to the thrills of watching one of the area teams take a come from behind win, or blow the other team away.

There is a cure.
It's called "Spring Sports."

Don't laugh — they really are a lot of fun to watch. True, the pace may not be quite as fast as our beloved roundball, but after all, we are heading into summer and what's wrong with slowing down a tad?

Anyway, if you've never attended a girls softball or boys baseball game or a track meet, you'd be surprised at just how exciting these sports can be. Just watch Brenda Eiseler throw a few strikeouts from the mound, and then say the game isn't exciting.

Better yet, imagine yourself at the plate trying to hit her fastball. Good luck.

Speaking of Doctor K (that's Eiseler), as most everyone in the County probably knows by now, the stellar athlete signed a letter of intent last week to play basketball at Saginaw Valley State College. Congratulations, Brenda.

It must feel rewarding when something you've worked hard at for many years pays off. Brenda is certainly well-deserving of all the accolades that have come her way over the years, and should expect to see many more in years to come.

I know that Brenda would like to give just a little credit for her achievements to her coaches and others who have helped her. And also to a very special teammate — Mary Murphy.

"Murph" is somewhat of an unsung hero at St. Johns High School. During her high school career she has gotten the ball in to Eiseler for the easy layup, set the ball up for the big spike for Brenda, and crouched tirelessly behind the plate catching all the pitches that Eiseler throws. No one speaks more highly of Murphy's abilities than does Eiseler, and I'm sure she would like Mary to get some of the praise that she so richly deserves.

As we approach the wrap-up of high school sports and head into summer, thoughts turn to recreational softball, little league, golf leagues, and all the activities that fill our leisure time.

The Clinton County News is ready, willing and able to print scores and standings from your area teams. Unfortunately, I may not know who to contact to get game results for publication in the paper.

Please, if you are part of a youth or adult recreational program, and would like to see your scores printed in the paper, give me a call or drop results in the mail. The phone number is 517-224-2361, address, 117 E. Walker Street, St. Johns, 48879. Any scores, etc., should be received in our office by 5 p.m. Friday for inclusion in the following weeks CCN.

Thank you.

One last thing.
Anyone who has a VCR tape of the final round of the Masters Golf Tournament and would like to make it available to a certain sports writer, I know one who would be eternally grateful.

She was working that afternoon and could kick herself for not bringing a T.V. along.

Ionia scored one run in the first and two more in the third to go ahead 3-0. The Redwings scored their first run in the bottom of the third when Dorn doubled and Caudy singled him home.

St. Johns added one more in the bottom of the sixth, making it 3-2, when Scott Heibeck came home on an error by the pitcher. The Redwings tied it up in the bottom of the seventh on a single by Jerry Duwell, sacrifice bunt by Steve Dunkel and RBI single by Tom Bates.

The winning run came in the bottom of the eleventh when Dunkle singled, went to third on a sacrifice bunt, and scored on an error.

Dwight Pierson was the winning pitcher for St. Johns in their 5-0 opening game win over Holt at the Mason Invitational. He allowed 3 hits, had 4 strike outs, and walked 2 batters.

"Pierson was very sharp and pitched a superb ballgame," Parker said. Duwell was 2-3 in the game with 1 RBI and both hits being doubles.

The Redwings took a 3-0 lead in the bottom of the third on a double by Duwell, single by Heibeck scoring Bates, and fielder's choice by Caudy came home on an error.

The final run of the game came in the sixth inning when Duwell doubled in Pierson.

The wins puts St. Johns record at 3-2 overall and 1-0 in the league. They see action with Ovid-Elsie tonight and travel to Lansing Eastern on Saturday for a doubleheader.
