Clock

ST. JOHNS Members of the Clinton County Historical Society and the Paine-Gillam-Scott Museum will sell raffle tickets on an emperor-style grandfather clock during St. Johns Sidewalk Sales, July 17, 18, and 19.

The yearly fundraiser by the Society raises funds to help support the Museum. Donations are $1.

Baby race

ST. JOHNS Babies who race, take notice. There will be an official "Diaper Derby" at the Beck Farm Market, on US-27 north of St. Johns on July 17.

The race course will be ten feet long. Each entrant will be allowed one coach at the end of the track.

Prizes will be diapers, milk and baby food.

Participants will arrive at 6 p.m., with the race beginning at 6:30 p.m.

For an entry blank and further details, please turn to page 3A.

Mint leaves

ST. JOHNS Sterling silver mint leaves and mint tie tacks, symbols of the Mint Festival, will be available for purchase only at the Paine-Gilliam-Scott Museum in St. Johns. The symbols are provided through the courtesy of Bennett's Jewelry, the designer and maker.

The solid silver items are priced at $5 each and may be purchased during museum hours: Sundays 1-5 p.m. and Wednesdays 2-8 p.m.; during Sidewalk Sales on July 17, 18 and 19; and during the Mint Festival on August 8, 9 and 10.

For more information phone 224-2894 or 224-7402.

Museum

ST. JOHNS The Parish Family of St. John's Episcopal Church was honored at a reception on June 29 given by the Paine-Gilliam-Scott Museum staff in recognition of the gifts which they donated to the museum from the Campau-Fraces Estate.

Included among the gifts to the museum were artifacts of George Campau, the first white settler in Clinton County at Maple Rapids. Also included were pieces from the estates of Dr. Guy Henry and Milcah Campau Frace, Margaret Milcah Frace Cotchett and Henry Guy "Bun" Frace, and Joseph Campau.

The reception was held at the museum in St. Johns following regular church services.

Arens farm

WESTPHALIA The Joseph and Agnes Arens farm, located at 13220 Price Road, in Westphalia Township, was one of 23 farms in Michigan recently certified as centennial farms by Secretary of State Richard Austin.

A centennial farm is one which has been owned by the same family for at least 100 years. It must also contain a minimum of 10 acres with an estimated annual sales of $50, or, if less than 10 acres, gross sales of $250. Only land and not buildings is considered in qualifications.

Certificates to owners are provided by the Michigan History Division of the Department of State. Markers are provided by the Detroit Edison and Consumers Power companies.

St. Johns celebrates July 4

It was a smorgasbord of events last Thursday in St. Johns as thousands of area residents turned out to listen to gospel music and the Lions All-State Band, to enjoy the carnival set up in the parking of the high school, and, of course, to watch the Fourth of July fireworks.

A St. Johns police officer said attendance was lower than in previous years, perhaps because the Fourth of July events were held on July 3, but parking space as still at a premium hours before nightfall.

The Evangelistic Reachout Concert at the bandshell of the city park was delayed for one hour due to a sparse audience during the afternoon. Later in the day the audience grew larger. Though numbers remained sparse at any one time, Evangelistic Reachout spokesperson Cora Goldman said she believed 500 people had attended the concert in total.

And although numbers were small, those who were there were enthusiastic. Late in the afternoon, when singer Paul Loomis, of the Majestics, asked for a show of hands from people who would contribute to an offering, several hands shot up without hesitation.

Meanwhile, attendance was no problem for the Lions All-State Band. The bleachers at the football field were filled to capacity for a performance by the band, directed by St. John's own Walter Cole. That audience was also enthusiastic, applauding energetically after each song.

At dusk, when the last note of gospel and band music had faded away, the center of the action moved to the high school parking lot where carnival-goers rode rides, munched cotton candy and "elephant ears," and tried their luck at numerous game booths while awaiting the fireworks.

The Bioair Freestyle Team, consisting of Mark Holcolm and Steve Smith, drew a respectable crowd of onlookers at one edge of the carnival as the two local men demonstrated their prowess with 20-inch bicycles. In time to music from a stereo set up in the trunk of a car, the bicycle team performed a variety of balancing tricks and drew applause when they propelled the bikes into the air by means of a large curved ramp and executed mid-air turn-arounds.

Holcolm, 19, said after the show that the performance had not been one of the team's best.

tonight," he said.

Holcolm also said he and Smith practice two to four hours each evening. He said the team's next public performance will be at the St. Johns Mint Festival on August 8, 9 and 10.

After nightfall, blankets were spread on the ground, lawnchairs were unfolded, and all eyes were on the sky as the night came alive with the brilliant colors of the exploding fireworks.

Farm besieged by flooding from 'illegal' dam

By MARILYN HESS
Staff Writer

Marvin and Joyce Breedlove of Bath aren't the only landowners who have had their fields flooded this spring — heavy rains have caused setbacks for many Clinton County farmers.

But the Breedloves think most of the standing water in their basement and on their 48-acre spread did not come from the sky; they believe it is backing up onto their land because of an illegal Department of Natural Resources dam at Rose Lake.

The Breedlove's Sun Meadow Farm is at Upton and State roads, near the Michigan DNR's Rose Lake Wildlife Station. A dam there — which is technically on the Baughman Drain — was originally built about 25 years ago, says Clinton County Drain Commissioner Arden Pierson, although the present one has been upgraded considerably from the original structure.

THE DAM'S purpose is simply to raise the water level in Rose Lake and to so improve its status as a wildlife habitat.

But within the past year, as the dam was upgraded and the water table rose, it has impeded drainage off the Breedlove's land and their neighbors' land. Some neighbors don't mind, says Marvin Breedlove, because their land has turned from swampland to lakefront.

But for the Breedloves, it has been disastrous. Twenty horses live on the property, 12 of which belong to other persons and are boarded there. Two are foals, and one is a brood mare that belongs to the Breedloves. They feel the horses' lives, and their own, might be in danger because of the water.

Mosquitoes are thick on the property, and the welts from bites are not the only problem for the horses. Mosquitoes bear two diseases that are deadly to horses: Eastern equine encephalitis and equine infectious anemia. The encephalitis can also be contracted by humans. If a horse gets the anemia, he is killed, the farm is quarantined, and testing is done in a two-mile radius to make sure the disease does not spread.

"I think it's a health threat," Joyce says.

IN ADDITION, the water has rendered useless two fields the Breedloves were planning to use to grow feed for the animals. Now, they have to spend money to buy hay. And the electrical fence used to keep the horses on the land is not totally effective because the ground is so wet the posts heave out of the ground, Joyce says.

Who is responsible for the problem and what is being done to remedy it?

Pierson says that according to state law anything that obstructs drainage within a public drain district is considered illegal. Hence, the DNR's Rose Lake Dam is illegal because "the Breedlove's drainage rights have been severed," he says. In essence, the natural flow of water in the area has been reversed.

He says a simple solution to the problem, which is supported by engineering studies, would be to add another way for the water to be drained — most probably by making an addition to the now-private Mud Creek drain. Enough homeowners have petitioned his office to do so, but it is going to cost them money.

"IT'S MADDENING to think we and other people have to pay money to get back what we had before," Joyce says.

The DNR would not be required to chip in for the additional drain, because they are on public land which is for public use and are therefore exempt from the statute. However, before anything can be done, the DNR must sign the petition and an agreement that says the department will obtain the necessary easements for the project.

Glenn Belyea, biologist at Rose Lake and a Bath resident, says the DNR has always intended (since the agreement was first presented at a public meeting in February) to comply with the agreement, but that the department has had trouble obtaining easements from the homeowners involved. He said he spent several evenings last week talking to homeowners to obtain their permission for the drain to cross their land.

"WE'RE VERY close to settling the issue right now. In another week I hope it will be resolved," he says.

Bath Township Supervisor Richard Brook, who says he is aware of the flooding problems but has no jurisdiction in the situation, says it is his impression that Belyea's statement is true, that the DNR is doing everything they can to obtain the easements and therefore resolve the problem.

But the Breedloves are not so sure. They say they have heard that for almost six months now. In fact, according to their attorney, Jane Means, if some positive action is not taken by August 1 they will take the issue to court: they will seek a writ of mandamus, a procedure which would ask the court to force Pierson to resolve the drainage problems. They

Clinton County factory closes

Industrial Phosphates Co. Inc., 6036 Krepps Road, has gone out of business, leaving more than 60 people out of work.

The plant, a metal finishing facility that did sub-contract work for automobile manufacturing and other industries, closed last Friday, said General Manager Mike Benjamin.

"Essentially it came down to the fact that, number one, it was losing money," said Benjamin.

He said the parent company, Cordoroy Rubber, based in Grand Rapids, had asked the 60 hourly workers for contract concessions as a condition for investing more capital in the plant in an effort to make it profitable.

"The union voted overwhelmingly against making any concessions," Benjamin said.

Hourly workers at the plant are represented by United Auto Workers Local 724.

Benjamin said the fate of the plant remains up in the air. He said as of last week the company had not announced whether it would offer transfers to himself or other employees.

"At this point, I don't think anyone knows," he said.

Spokemen for UAW 724 could not be reached by presstime for comment on the plant closing.

However, one observer affiliated with the UAW said it was his impression that union members believed the plant would have closed in any case.

Editor's notes

Thoughts at a loss Rich Wertz

I've been daydreaming all day long about what I'm going to do with all the free time I will have for the next two weeks. In about an hour from the time I write this, you see, I am officially on vacation. Consequently, I can't think straight. I'm really excited. I can hardly work. Luckily, there is a big city newspaper columnist — several in fact — whose columns as often as not take the form of a handful of unrelated thoughts. I'm going to immitate that approach this week because I am far too agitated at the moment to try to stick to a particular subject. Okay?

Let's begin with the issue of whether it is a good thing or a bad thing to celebrate the Fourth of July on the third of July. I know some people don't like it and some said the events at the high school and the city park were not as well attended this year. Personally, I don't know if it is a good thing or a bad thing. All I know is I liked it because it meant I could cover it earlier and thus leave on my vacation that much earlier. I have a one track mind.

I was out in Rochester Coloney last week for a meeting of the county sesquicentennial commission. It's too early to report the details of several county events that are coming up because the details are still tentative at this point. However, it's no secret that one of the biggest events is likely to be a reunion — or series of reunions — of people who went to particular schools, etc.

I think that will be a lot of fun. People who no longer live in the county can return here...while on vacation!

At the meeting of the library project tonight (7:30 p.m. at the county courthouse) one of the agenda items will be a motto for the project. The possibilities are wide open as yet. To get things going, here's a few possibilities I thought up: "Carnegie was right." (Carnegie funded the construction of many libraries in the early days of the century.) "The world in the building down the street." "Circulation continuation." "Minds over matter." "Broader horizons." "Library builders — dreamers on a journey through time." (You may think this last one is crazy, but it sure would look good on a tee-shirt.) But my personal favorite is: "Great Expectations."

Speaking of great expectations and to plagerize the words of public radio commentator whose name I can't remember — I gotta go.

Clover Clippings Focus on D.C.

Theresa Silm

Eight county 4-H'ers are preparing for their week long trip to Washington D.C. as a part of the Citizen-ship Washington Focus. They will leave on Saturday, July 12 and spend the first evening in Gettysburg, Penn. and then travel on to Washington D.C. The group will return to Clinton County on Saturday, July 19 after having had the opportunity to meet with their legislators and tour many of the historic sites of Washington D.C.

The eight 4-H'ers participating are Paulie Blizzard, Anne Huhn, Chris Ingalls, Angie LeVeck, Doug Wadell, Troy Warner, Kris Barnhart and Tanya Andretz. The trip is coordinated by the National 4-H Council and the group will stay at the National 4-H Center in Chevy Chase, Maryland during the week. Ten 4-H members and their three chaperones traveled to Wisconsin last week in the second part of a two-year state exchange program. Dave Newhall, Wendy Zuzelski, Lori June, Keisha Schaub, Raymond Pung, Stephanie Glew, Matthew VanBeelen, LeAnn Zell, and Lori Zuzelski along with chaperones Ken and Bev Mohnke and Mary Ellen Pung spent the week with 4-H host families in Wisconsin.

While in Wisconsin the group visited the Domes and the Stroh's Brewery as a group and each visited other areas of the state with their host families.

The state exchange program offers 4-H members across the nation the opportunity to meet and stay with 4-H members in other states making new friends, visiting new sites and learning about 4-H in other areas.

Theresa Silm is the 4-H youth agent for the Clinton County Cooperative Extension Service.

Financial focus Personality

By Chuck Dicken

Last time we talked about setting goals when we invest. In determining our investment goal — safety, income or growth, it's vital to consider our own personality and temperament. Are we self-assured, comfortable in making our own decisions, or are we prone to be swayed by the opinion of others?

An individual who owns and operates his or her own business, regardless of size, is usually more comfortable in making an investment decision than someone whose major activities are confined to the management of a home. The business person makes investment decisions daily — how much inventory to hold, where and when to issue credit, and so on. So, making an investment decision, weighing the risk-reward and applying it to his or her situation is not entirely unfamiliar. He or she is more self-assured in the investment world.

On the other hand, there are those who will jump at the first suggestion of another, even though that person may not be as successful as they. Try to explain it? We can't — it's just human nature. Remember the old story of two people looking at a partially filled glass of water — one sees it as half full; the other half empty? The optimist sees a stock that's dropped some in its market value as just correcting itself for a giant move forward — another buying opportunity. The pessimist sees the drop in price as the first step toward a total loss. So, you can see the one who's pessimistic might be uncomfortable with an aggressive growth stock which makes radical moves up and down. Thus, he or she should invest in something less risky.

Also important is how much time one has to devote to investments. Investment situations are constantly changing, and the investor must be aware of these changes and be ready and willing to react. If your time is limited and your investments must lay unattended for long periods, perhaps professional management is the answer. In any case, you can see the necessity of considering your personality before establishing an investment program.

We'll print the news if you tell us about it

The Clinton County News welcomes all engagement, wedding, birth, anniversary, upcoming event announcements, and club news. We print them for free.

Here are some tips to follow when you send us an announcement.

Type or print clearly so we can get the correct spelling of all names and addresses. Please include a phone number where someone can be reached during the day.

Engagements

Include the engaged couples' names, parents' names and community. You may specify which high school and college the couple attended, current job, and proposed wedding date. Forms are available from our office, 117 E. Walker, St. Johns. You can also include a photograph.

Anniversaries

Give the name of the couple, date of anniversary, children's and grandchildren's names, how many years' and type of celebration to be held. You can also include a photograph.

Send announcements to the Clinton County News, 117 W. Walker, St. Johns, MI 48879. The deadline is 5 p.m. Thursdays. If you have any questions, call 224-2361.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank all our friends and relatives for helping us celebrate our 50th wedding anniversary, and for the beautiful cards, flowers, and gifts we received.

We especially want to thank our wonderful children and grandchildren for making it a happy occasion.

Thanks once more,
Wayne and Roselyn Coon

"It's in the Bag"

by Bob Beck

Watermelons originated in the remote interior regions of Africa. They were cultivated and stored for a source of water during dry seasons and on long hunting trips. Did you know that 93 percent of the melon is water?

On a hot day in ancient Egypt, likely as not the slaves and pharaohs gathered under their separate shade trees and cut open a cool succulent watermelon. Four thousand years after those first melons were cultivated, folks still do the same thing.

Most Americans are familiar with the fact that the early American settlers were introduced to corn by the Indians, but what many people may not know is that the settlers reciprocated by introducing watermelons to the Indians.

Watermelons come in various shapes and sizes. Even the color varies. Some are striped, others are spotted. The most popular melons in the U.S. and Canada weigh from 20 to 40 pounds. Incidentally, Florida, Georgia and Texas lead the U.S. in watermelon production.

To select a good one, look for a melon that is firm, symmetrical and of good color, varying from deep solid green to gray-green, depending on the variety. Mature watermelons have a dull rather than shiny surface.

In season, check our watermelon supply. Beck's has enough to keep you happy all summer long.

Jim Moore: community activist who spent his anniversary in jail

By RICH WERTZ
Editor

"I knew I wanted to be a lawyer from the time I was a little boy."

St. Johns attorney Jim Moore explains that his grandfather wanted to be a lawyer but was compelled by the death of his father — Jim's great grandfather — to drop out of law school.

The urge to practice law skipped over one generation of the family and landed on Jim.

"I didn't have any problem with career choice," he recalls.

This explains how the man — about whom Mid-Michigan District Public Health Director Joe Latoff once said, "Anytime there is a community project going on you'll find Jim Moore there," — ended up in his profession.

But it does not explain why he spent the evening of his fifteenth wedding anniversary in jail.

Nor does it explain why a monk once thought he was an alcoholic.

ONE EVENING in 1970, the evening of the fifteenth anniversary of his wedding to his wife Betty, Jim visited a client in the Ingham County Jail. The jail, he explains had a double locking system that required two men to operate. Trouble was, while Jim was visiting his client, one of the men went home.

So when Jim was done talking with his client he found he was locked in for the evening.

"I had to call my wife and say 'Cancel our reservations, I'm in jail,'" he recalls.

Then there was a time Jim and his late partner, Jack Walker, stopped for lunch before heading to the Franciscan monastery in DeWitt to look over the scene of a slip and fall case Walker was working on. With lunch, the men had a drink.

When they arrived at the monastery, a Father came out to greet them and asked what he could do for them. The two lawyers explained that they were there looking at the scene of a case Walker was working on.

"Oh," said the Father. "We're having a retreat for alcoholics this weekend. I thought perhaps you were early arrivals."

Jim gets a chuckle out of both those stories.

IT WAS Jack Walker who first brought Jim to St. Johns. It was 1964 and Jim was tiring of his solo practice in Jackson. On a visit to Lansing he heard from a friend that there was a lawyer in St. Johns who was looking for a partner.

So he looked Walker up and soon after that the two men became partners and remained so until Walker died in 1982.

The practice still goes by the name Walker and Moore.

"After all," says Jim, "he and I were partners for 20 years and I have a tremendous respect for him. He had one of the finest legal minds of anyone I ever knew."

Whether Walker knew it or not, the new partner he brought here was to prove a boon not just for the practice but for the town. From his father — a violinist who played a key role in starting up the community orchestra in Jackson after World War II — Jim inherited the urge to contribute something to the community he lives in.

"I HAD JOINED the Jaycees in Jackson when I was a young attorney," he says. "I was active in Jaycees until I was 36. Then I joined the Exchange Club."

In St. Johns he became active in the American Legion, serving as Post Commander from 1982 until 1984.

He also became active in the St. Johns planning commission — at first as a kind of adversary.

"When I came here the city was working on a new zoning ordinance," he says. "I really didn't pay much attention to it until I started getting clients that wanted to do things with their property."

Over time he became a kind of resident critic of the zoning ordinance, which he says was overly restrictive and inflexible. In 1970 a court ruling threw out the zoning ordinance. At about the same time Jim was appointed to the planning commission.

'I always remember my father saying you can't live in a community without giving something back. I believe that....'

"I guess when you become a critic long and loud, the easiest way to shut you up is to appoint you to something," he says.

In any case, the planning commission was charged with the task of creating a new zoning ordinance and an updated master plan.

"Those three years were extremely busy, hectic," recall Jim.

But the city did come up with a reasonable zoning ordinance — one that is flexible enough to change with changing times and conditions, Jim says.

Among the other activities Jim has involved himself in are the county planning commission, a health systems review committee, the chamber of commerce, and, in 1978, a project aimed at building a nursing home in St. Johns.

The nursing home, of course, became Hazel I. Findlay Manor, this year named the most excellent such facility in the state. From 1978 until 1980, Jim served as an unpaid lawyer for the project.

More recently, he has volunteered his legal services as for another community group — the St. Johns New Library, Inc. — that plans to build a new library for the community.

"I always remember my father saying you can't live in a community, take money out of a community, without putting something back," Jim says. "I feel that very very sincerely."

County Farm Bureau to sponsor a Meet the Candidates Night July 15

The Clinton County Farm Bureau community projects committee will sponsor a "Meet the Candidates" night on July 15 at Smith Hall in St. Johns beginning at 7:30 p.m. The committee invites all Clinton County residents to attend the event which will be moderated by Al Almy, director of public affairs of the State Farm Bureau office in Lansing.

Offices which will be represented on the panel include: state representative, state senate, and U.S. representatives from the 10th and 6th districts.

Candidates for state representative are Republican Gary Randall and Democrat Lawrence Hollenbeck. Running for state senator are Democrats Patricia McAvooy and David Thayer, and Republicans Fred Dillingham and Rolf Peterson. Bill Schuette will be running on the Republican ticket for the 10th U.S. representative district, and Don Albosta and Kari Yoder are the Democratic candidates.

From the 6th U.S. representative district, Jim Dunn is the Republican candidate and Robert Carr the Democratic candidate.

Candidates running for the Court of Appeals have also been invited, with time provided at the end of the program for persons to speak to these candidates.

Other candidates running for office in Clinton County are also invited and will be recognized.

Each candidate will be given an introductory statement concerning his or her qualifications. The audience may provide written questions for the candidates to answer. Issues such as taxation, defense, pornography, abortion, and other areas of concern will be addressed.

DeWitt man killed in wreck

A DeWitt man was fatally injured in an early morning collision in Watertown Township on July 1.

Pronounced dead at St. Lawrence Hospital at 7 a.m. was Brian Dean

White, 20, of 6081 Howe Rd., DeWitt.

Clinton County Sheriff's deputies said White was traveling east on Howe Road at 5:45 a.m. and traveled through a stop sign at Airport Road.

His car was struck broadside by a vehicle driven by David Panasiewicz, 39, of 6103

Loomis Rd., St. Johns, deputies said.

Panasiewicz was taken to a local hospital. Sheriff deputies had no information regarding his condition.

Sheriff warns of need to report even the 'less important' crimes

"Only about one-third of all crimes committed are reported to a law enforcement agency," according to Clinton County Sheriff Terry Haneckow. "These are unfortunate but very real statistics."

Figures from the National Crime Survey conducted by the U.S. Department of Justice show that of 37,115,000 crimes taking place in 1983, only 12,880,000, or 35 percent, were reported to the appropriate law enforcement agency.

The survey also found that the most frequently mentioned reason for not reporting a crime was that the victim felt it was not important enough.

"No crime is too unimportant to be reported. Every citizen has rights," Haneckow said, "and if those rights are violated, we become obligated to ourselves and to our community to report those violations to the proper law enforcement agency, no matter how minor it may seem."

Specific crimes least likely to be reported were household larceny (25 percent), personal larceny without contact (26 percent), and pocket picking (29 percent).

Crimes most likely to be reported were motor vehicle theft (69 percent) and aggravated assault (58 percent).

"We want all citizens of Clinton County to report crimes when they are victimized," Haneckow said. "This is a very important role that each citizen plays in the criminal justice system."

Traveling tips

Dawn Harris

Whether travelling by car, bus, or plane, a parent is always rewarded by being prepared! Eating will probably be a major activity (or trauma) on any trip. Food requests often come within 15 minutes of pulling out of the driveway, closely following the question, "Are we there yet?"

Try not to fall prey to the convenience of junk food. Good-for-you foods are easy to carry and just as fun to eat. Here are some ideas: peanut butter, cheese slices, hard cooked eggs, cooked cold chicken, apples (cored to save waste and mess, and then stuffed with peanut butter or soft cheese) pears, bananas, oranges, pre-cut carrot and celery sticks (immersed in cold water for a long trip), small boxes of dry cereal, and bagels, since they are less crumbly than bread or crackers and are great filled with peanut butter or other sandwich spreads.

Drinks — One idea is to carry only ice water when traveling. When spilled, it isn't sticky and it doesn't stain. Since it appeals less than sweetened drinks, it is requested less often and subsequently "pottystops" are fewer. It is not a bad idea to limit drinks between stops to 1/2 cup for the toilet trained. Thermoses with a pump on top travel well and make accidental spills avoidable.

Car travel — Regardless of the tempo of your car trips, you will need some basic tricks to keep your sanity and keep your child reasonably happy. Keep your child's eating and sleeping schedule as close to his normal routine will help. Don't forget to take some old toys and some new ones.

You will probably need to sit with the child who is in the back seat occasionally, to play with him/her before he/she starts to fuss. Stopping to run, stretch, and "potty" every two hours helps too.

Dawn Harris is the home economist for the Clinton County Cooperative Extension Service.

Super Sitter Babysitting class offered

A Super Babysitting Course will be offered at Clinton Memorial Hospital on Saturday, August 2. The course is a Red-Cross certificate class open to youngsters 11 years of age and older.

The Saturday course will run from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the hospital conference room.

Topics included in the training are the basic care of children, emergency actions, accident prevention, supervising children and babysitting responsibilities.

Those interested in attending, should pre-register by calling Clinton Memorial Hospital, 224-6881, extension 283.

Club focuses on humor and stress

Laugh. It's good for you. That's the message Clinton Memorial Hospital's Ticker Club will focus on at its July '9 meeting when Sylvia Hirschegger presents "Stress and Humor." The program will focus on the benefits of humor as a coping mechanism, and includes a special movie presentation.

The special meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. in conference room B and is open to the public.

The Ticker Club is an educational, social club for people who have circulatory or heart problems such as high blood pressure, congestive heart failure, heart attack, or cardiac arrhythmias.

For more information, contact the education department at Clinton Memorial, 224-6881, ext. 283.

Grief support group plans program

The bereavement support group formed by volunteers of Hospice for Clinton County will sponsor a series of classes for all area residents entitled "Growing Through Grief:

Personal Healing." The first program, "Five Tasks of Grief Work" is planned for July 10, at 7:30 p.m. in the conference center at Clinton Memorial Hospital.

The Rev. Larry Shroud will present the program, which includes a film followed by discussion. There is no charge for participation in the program, and interested individuals may attend any number of the series of classes forthcoming.

For more information, call Hospice for Clinton County, 224-6881, ext. 332.

CMH nursing staff issues challenge

The Clinton Memorial Hospital nursing staff has issued a challenge to other hospital staff members, their families, friends and community residents in the upcoming Red Cross blood drive.

Community donors may designate their blood "donation" to be credited to the nursing staff or the "rest of the world" in the July 23 blood drive scheduled for 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the hospital conference center.

The nursing staff has taken honors for two consecutive years with 76 donors taking part last year. Persons interested in taking part may arrange a time for donating by calling 224-6881.

Arts gallery offers 'Vacation Vistas'

Several special exhibits are planned for the summer months at the Clinton County Arts Council Gallery and Gift Shop, U.S. 27 and Clinton Avenue in St. Johns.

During July, the Gallery will feature an exhibit of "Vacation Vistas," an all-medium collection of art highlighting vacation places and activities. An artists' reception is planned for July 13, from 1-5 p.m. and is open to the public.

The Gallery will celebrate its first anniversary in August with a floral art competition, held in connection with the St. Johns Mint Festival. All artists from Clinton County are invited to compete in the event, with all mediums accepted and innovation and creativity encouraged.

An entry fee of $10 per artist will allow each person to enter a maximum of three pieces in the competition. A judge from outside the area will select the best of show. The winner, to be announced at a reception for all artists and the public on August 10, will receive a $50 gift certificate for art supplies from the Dick Blick Company. The reception will run from 1-5 p.m.

For further information, call the Gallery at 224-2429 on Tuesday through Sunday from 1-5 p.m. Entry forms are available at the Gallery. All entries will be on exhibit at the Gallery through the month of August.

A folk art festival will be featured during September, highlighted by a special day of demonstrations and musical performances on September 14 from 1-5 p.m. Wool spinning, looming and weaving will be demonstrated as well as glass blowing, carving, basket weaving, etc. Country music will be performed by Bill and Pat Trommater and other musicians throughout the afternoon.

Additional demonstrations will be given during the month. All folk art artists, including folk instruments and dancing, are invited to participate in the family festival, held in conjunction with Michigan's Sesquicentennial. Contact Gallery Director, Kaye Pilmore, 593-2265, or the Gallery, 224-2429.

Diane Schmitz and Brian Simon

Schmitz - Simon

October wedding planned

Hilary and Marcia Schmitz, W. Parks Road, St. Johns, are pleased to announce the engagement of their daughter, Diane Marie, to Brian Gerard Simon, son of Roy and JoAnn Simon, E. Taft Road, St. Johns.

The bride-elect is a 1983 graduate of Fowler High School and a recent graduate of Blodgett Memorial Medical Center School of Nursing in Grand Rapids. She is employed as a registered nurse at The Memorial Hospital in Owosso.

The prospective groom is a 1982 graduate of St. Johns High School and received an associate degree in business from Lansing Community College. He is employed with the State of Michigan.

An October 18 wedding is planned.

St. Joe's teacher chosen in project

Collen Jorae Smith, a sixth grade science, social studies and English teacher at St. Joseph School in St. Johns, is one of 18 outstanding high school and junior high teachers chosen to participate in a summer internship project sponsored by Central Michigan University. The project is designed to introduce experienced mathematics and science teachers firsthand to applied science and technology.

The project began with a one-week orientation session on the CMU campus. Participants were scheduled to start industrial research internships at cooperating industries.

Smith was selected for an internship at Dow Corning Corporation. "The goal of the program is a new enthusiasm in the classroom, because teachers will have a new understanding of what applied science is really all about," said Myron Henry, dean of arts and sciences at CMU.

The 18 participating teachers will be employed on a full-time basis at one of the three industries. They will also receive graduate credits and will develop classroom materials.

Participants were selected by a committee of CMU project staff and industry representatives.

Retirement party set to honor Betty Geller

A surprise retirement party honoring Betty Geller for her 44 years of nursing service is planned for July 12 at the Stanley Geller farm, 3541 W. Price Road, beginning at 5 p.m. The Geller family extends an open invitation to friends, relatives, neighbors, and past and present co-workers to join them.

Mrs. Geller retired from Clinton Memorial Hospital last week.

Cherie Beauchamp awarded scholarship

Cherie Beauchamp, daughter of Norm and Anne Beauchamp, St. Johns, has been awarded a music scholarship for $175 to attend Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp for summer study. Beauchamp is a student at St. Johns High School.

Marshall Music Company of Lansing awarded scholarships to students based on musicianship, citizenship, and musical achievement, as determined by the school music staff and administration.

Students attending the camp participate in concentrated sectional and large group studies along with other outstanding student musicians from throughout the state.

Can you help send the Manor to Elsie Dairy Festival?

The Fourth of July came in with a bang for residents of Findlay Country Manor. They celebrated with a Red, White and Blue Picnic, a trip to see the fireworks, and by participating in the Westphalia Parade.

Congratulations to the new officers of the Resident Council for 1986-87: President Laura McQueen, Vice President Walter McQuire, and Treasurer Helen Boylan.

Happy Birthday to Kay Musselman, July 10, and Alice Shodgrass, July 16. Cards and letters are appreciated.

We need your help! The residents would like to attend the Elsie Dairy Festival on July 19. However, funds are desperately needed to offset the cost of the transportation and chicken barbeque. Please send your contributions to Hazel I. Findlay Country Manor Activity Fund, 1101 S. Scott Rd., St. Johns, 48879. Or call the activity department for further information.

A recent educational inservice was held recently for employees of the Manor to learn about fire safety.

Don't be victim of road crimes

"There is more to automobile safety than skillful driving," said Clinton County Sheriff Terry Haneckow. "People generally recognize the need to drive safely and follow the various traffic laws; however, another danger that faces drivers is criminal victimization."

Haneckow said that it is not uncommon for criminals to prey upon motorists who follow poor safety practices and make themselves vulnerable by a false sense of security.

The sheriff offers the following safety suggestions: keep purses, packages and other valuables out of sight by placing them in the trunk, under the seat, or in the glove compartment; make certain the windows are rolled up when your vehicle is parked; keep your doors locked at all times; when stopping at an intersection, keep the vehicle in gear so you can drive away if someone approaches you in a threatening manner; never pick up a hitchhiker; if someone appears in need of assistance, report the problem to a law enforcement agency.

"If you are being deliberately followed by another driver," Haneckow said, "do not pull into a driveway or attempt to leave your automobile. Drive to the nearest law enforcement agency or an open, crowded business and get help."

"Always remember to record the license number and description of the other vehicle and its occupants," he added.

If drivers experience mechanical trouble, Haneckow advised the motorist to position the vehicle as far off the road as possible, raise the hood, get back inside the vehicle, lock the doors and stay there. If a stranger stops to offer assistance, ask him or her to report the problem to a service station or law enforcement agency.

"Compared to their possible alternatives, following these measures may cause only the slightest inconvenience to Michigan motorists," Haneckow said.

Westphalia celebrates 150 years

By RHONDA GAFFNEY
Staff Writer

What a party!
The village of Westphalia and St. Mary's Parish celebrated being 150 years young last weekend, with five days of activities and events culminating in the annual parish Fourth of July celebration and Old Fashioned Day held on the Fifth.

Townpeople and parish members went all out to make their sesquicentennial one that would be remembered for years to come. They had every reason to celebrate and take pride in the accomplishments of their German forefathers — and mothers.

There was no Lady Liberty waiting to greet these early settlers from Westphalia, Germany, when they saw the shores of the United States. Many already had their claims staked out and homesteads settled by that time.

In the spirit of these pioneer families, the town came together and worked together to host a good time for everyone. Food, fun, and a friendly atmosphere were the key words for the events.

An estimated 12,000 to 15,000 people lined the village streets to watch the two-hour parade that opened the celebration on July Fourth. The huge crowds stayed throughout the afternoon and evening, filling the food tents and jamming the midway which housed the many booths of games for young and old alike.

Many enjoyed listening to the performance of the Idar-Oberstein Orchestra from Germany in the afternoon and Marv Herzog's Polka Band in the evening.

Old Fashioned Day was the theme for Saturday, carried out by townspeople in old-style dresses, horse-drawn plowing and threshing demonstrations, and a Civil War encampment.

Highlighting the afternoon's festivities was a water fight between the Westphalia and Portland fire departments. The judges ruled that Westphalia won, although it appeared that the kids in the crowd were the real winners in being cooled off on a hot day.

Also featured were antique and farm tractor pulls, a repeat performance by the Idar-Oberstein Orchestra, and a beard judging contest. Among the winners were Roger Pohl who took top prize for the best full beard and Greg Thelen for best Abe Lincoln style.

Over 2,350 halves of chicken were barbecued during the day, with pounds and pounds of hamburger being used to feed the hungry crowds.

"We ran out of just about everything and had to buy more," says Ken Stump, co-chairperson of Old Fashioned Day. "You would have thought it was too hot to eat, but the people just kept coming."

"It was a nice crowd," he says. "Overall, they were very well-behaved. Everybody just had a real, good time."

According to Jerry Patrick, owner/operator of Schafers, he even ran out of the special sauce he uses in his famous wet burritos — and they weren't even open for business on the Fourth.

All in all, Westphalia and St. Mary's did themselves proud.

Here's to another 150 good years.

of July with numerous floats, antique vehicles, and horses featured. Several "penny farthings" were also ridden in the high wheeling parade.

Fowler carver catches his dream

By RICH WERTZ
Editor
Once when Steve

Fedewa, of Fowler, was a child someone him a story about a German wood-carver named Christian Trebinger. Living in the Alps in the 17th Century, Trebinger supplemented a meager income by carving religious statues during homebound winter months.

"That story appealed to me as a little kid," says Fedewa.

He has since hearing the story wanted to be a wood carver.

"So what was it?" he says. "Fifty years later I started."

Two years ago Fedewa took a one week class on wood carving. He showed an immediate flair for the work and was told, "You have a talent."

Since taking the class he has created ten works, ranging from ducks to religious statues.

A duck carving he put in a box surrounded by straw and showed to friends. Even the sportsman were fooled into thinking, until they actually touched it, that the duck was alive.

He carved two religious statues of the same subject — "The Little Flower of St. Theresa" — one of which he gave to a local pastor and one of which he kept for himself.

His latest work is an American Bald Eagle. After six months of work the eagle, carved in intricate detail from bass wood, was by coincidence completed just in time for the Fourth of July. It will be on display at the Fowler Post Office.

Fedewa says his next project will be a Pieta (Jesus in the Arms of the Virgin).

How can you qualify for disability income that starts when your regular income stops?

No problem.

Staying financially healthy after an illness or accident can sometimes be rougher than recuperating. That's why Auto-Owners has Disability Income Insurance which qualifies you for payments fast. Just ask your "no problem" Auto-Owners agent about Disability Income protection. It's a healthy way to pay the expenses that don't stop when your regular income does.

Youth baseball alive and well in Fowler leagues

By RHONDA GAFFNEY
Sports Editor

"Play ball." That's the word in Fowler. Each week boys and girls who are part of Fowler's minor, major and pony league program do just that in the season which is at the half-way point.

"Things are coming along real well," said Luke Weber, financial secretary for the program. "We could have had better cooperation from the weather, but we're managing to get the games made up."

Weber, with help from Ken Hungerford, Marty Miller and Steve Dembowski, takes care of finances, maintains the fields and equipment, and in general oversees the program. He also serves as a volunteer coach, along with other individuals from the Fowler area.

With six children of his own, he has somewhat of a vested interest in the success and continuation of Fowler summer baseball.

"It's for the kids," he said. "If you want to keep it going, you have to step forward and volunteer to help."

Fowler has minor and major league divisions for both boys and girls, and a pony league team for boys aged 13 and 14.

THE BOYS MINOR LEAGUE is made up of six teams for ages 8, 9 and 10. Sponsors of the teams are: Simon Brothers Trucking, Quality Conklin, Leon Schneider Builders, Fowler Locker, Fowler Farm and Auto Supply, and Allaby and Brewbaker Insurance.

Five teams see action weekly in the boys major league for ages 11-14. Team sponsors include Matthews Elevator, Feldpausch Oil, Feldpausch Builders, Knights of Columbus, and Becker Furniture.

"We're always trying to think of ways to improve the program. We want to make it good for the kids and keep it going." Weber

Girls aged 8-11 play in the minor league softball division with teams sponsored by Harts Jewelry, the Lions Club, His and Hers Styling and Fowler Apothecary. The major league division for girls aged 12-14 includes teams sponsored by Becker Bridal, Schmitz Boron Service, and Nobis Farm Supply.

Games are played at Fink Field in Fowler on Monday through Thursday evenings, with most boys teams playing two nights a week. Coaches pitch to their own team members in the minor leagues.

MEMBERS OF THE PONY league team, sponsored by the Catholic Order of Foresters, play all their games on the road against teams from Portland, Pewamo, and the surrounding area. Serving as manager for the pony league team is Larry Halfmann.

"For the past four or five years we have had little or no drop in participation," Weber said about the number of youth involved in the Fowler program. "The number of teams has remained about the same over the years."

A number of the minor and major league teams will be participating in a tournament sponsored by the St. Johns Youth Baseball league in July, and according to Weber, they are looking forward to that.

"We've played in the tournament before," he said, "and the kids really enjoy it. They seem to get a lot out of it, and we appreciate St. Johns for inviting us to play in it."

B.J. HARR shows her form during a t-ball game at the St. Johns City Park last week. Despite the rainy weather, most of the games played on Thursdays at the park have been played or made up. B.J. is a member of the Bluebirds who are coached by Vickie Curtis and Pat McNamara.

LEARNING TO SWING — Hitting, basic base-running, and fielding are among the things stressed in the T-ball program organized by the St. Johns City rec department.

Although it's sometimes hard to tell who won the game, parents and team players alike have a fun time in the learning experience.

The majority of funding for this year's program at Fowler came through the sale of McDonalds coupons which were donated by McDonalds. Sponsors for each team also made donations and each player paid a nominal fee for his or her shirt.

"We're always trying to think of ways to improve the program," Weber said. "We want to make it good for the kids and keep it going."

Colt, Babe Ruth all-stars play in Illinois tourney

Members of the Colt and Babe Ruth All-Star teams from St. Johns travelled to East Peoria, Ill., over the Fourth of July weekend to take part in a tournament with teams from Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, and Michigan.

Scott Hebeck, Dwight Pierson and Andy Ball played on the Colt All-Star team which was made up of players from Colt league teams throughout the Lansing area.

They won their first game over Elmhurst, Ill., by a score of 8-7. Hebeck was 2-4 in that contest, including a game-winning single. He had 2 RBIs.

Pierson came on as relief pitcher and got the win. He was 1-2 at the plate and had 1 RBI. Ball was used as a pitch-runner in the game.

The Lansing All-Stars lost the second game of the tournament to Plainfield, Ill., by a 14-4 score. According to Doug Parker, St. Johns High School varsity baseball coach and one of the coaches for the All-Stars, all team members had a chance to play in the second game.

Ball saw starting action in that game, with Hebeck and Pierson each playing in one inning.

Babe Ruth All-Stars, Matt Wilcox and Barry Kiel, saw action in each of the three games that the Lansing group won. They defeated Fort Wayne, Ind., 8-7, and Troy, Ohio, 8-6 in games played on Friday, and took a win from Barrington, Ill., on Saturday by a 9-6 score.

In the Barrington contest, Wilcox was the winning pitcher in relief and Kiel knocked in the winning run.

They played in the championship game on Sunday afternoon versus the Plainfield, Ill. team that had defeated the Colt All-Stars. Results of that game were not available at press time.

"It was hot and extremely humid," Parker said. "It took a lot out of everybody."

In regular Colt League action last week, St. Johns took wins over Okemos, 10-0, and DeWitt, 15-5. Three home games are scheduled for this week: Pewamo-Westphalia tonight, Lansing Everett on Friday, and a doubleheader with Lansing Sexton on Saturday. The Colt District Tournament will be held in Lansing on July 18-20.

Little leaguers split with Ovid

The St. Johns little league all-star team split a doubleheader with all-star little leaguers from Ovid in games played at Ovid on the Fourth of July. Ovid took the opener by a score of 3-4, and St. Johns won the nightcap, 7-5.

"Everyone had a good time," said Tom Hufnagel, one of the St. Johns coaches. "The spirit displayed throughout the games was tremendous."

Sharing in coaching duties for St. Johns were Jeff Dietrich and Dale Meyers.

Members of the St. Johns all-star team were selected by their team coaches in the St. Johns Youth Baseball League. All-stars and representative teams were:

Sport potpourri

Rhonda Gaffney

Random thoughts on mid-summer sports. Rain, rain, go away. It's hard enough trying to fill sports pages in the summer, without contending with rain-outs and make-up games. Somebody should build a domed stadium at Bees. Make one for the St. Johns City Park, too.

SPEAKING OF FOOTBALL — it's not football season you say? Not true. Football season really runs all year. Players have been attending weight training sessions throughout last school year and into the summer.

Look for a real dog-fight in the CMAC — Fulton, Fowler and Pewamo-Westphalia will all see strong returning talent from last year.

St. Johns and Ovid-Elsie should look good in the MMB — both coaching staffs will begin their second year with up-and-coming programs.

I can hardly wait for the cool, crisp, autumn Friday nights.

It never rains during football season, does it? On second thought, how about a dome for Fowler. I really don't need to ruin another pair of boots at the annual Fowler/P.W. clash this year.

OF COURSE, this really is the season for the nation's "Grand Old Sport" — baseball. Or, slow-pitch softball for some folks.

Whichever, it's probably safe to say that there are very few households in Clinton County who do not have some member of the family (counting your wife's, sister's, son or daughter) playing somewhere on a ball team.

I'm in my seventh season of watching youth baseball, going from minor league, to little league, back to minor league while watching two sons play ball.

Now, compared to many of you, that's a very, very short amount of time. But, seven years is a lot of games to sit through and listen to other minor and little league parents talk about their kids' teams, and in listening, I've reached a rather startling conclusion.

Little league fathers are twice as bad to listen to as little league mothers.

I'm sorry. It's true, dads. While mothers' voices may be raised the loudest in protesting calls, cheering on little Johnny, or yelling at the ump (provided there is an ump to yell at), I have yet to see a mother drag her son aside and explain to him in major league detail how he should be trying to punch the ball into left field, etc. These kids are just little.

Let them play ball. If they really like it, there will be plenty of years left for the coaching instructions — in your own back yard, please.

WHAT ELSE is there to do in the summer? How about golf?

I happen to enjoy the sport, not because I'm good at it — I'm not. But there is something thrilling about seeing a golfer hit a drive well, or curl a long putt into the cup.

It can be a very pretty sight. Especially if you're playing in the early evening with the sun setting and a cool, summer breeze blowing across the course.

I'm thinking in particular of the back nine at Highland Hills. In my mind, it's one of the prettiest and most challenging nines in the area.

THIS IS completely unrelated to sports, but I couldn't let an opportunity to applaud the townspeople of Westphalia and St. Mary's parish go by on their Sesquicentennial celebration held over the weekend.

The number of volunteers involved in the project, and the amount of time spent in preparation and during the event must have been phenomenal. You all deserve to be saluted for your efforts.

The fact that I'm of German heritage (Kloekner/Thelen, Witt/Krumm) may prejudice my feelings of pride in the success of their 150 years. Who knows? I may be related to one or two people over there.

ONE FINAL, closing note.

Talk is in the air around St. Johns about forming a scholarship program in memory of Butch Armstrong, former Redwing basketball player.

One idea is to have the basketball boosters organize an old timers basketball game between St. Johns alumni and current team players. The money generated would be placed into savings, and the interest used each year for a scholarship.

While there are many, many details to be worked out, it doesn't seem to be too early to start thinking about it.

Any readers out there with good suggestions? Let's hear them.

Fireworks, championships, and fun at Crystal Raceway

Spirits were high for the Spirit of '76 race at Crystal Raceway on July 3, with fans enjoying both the racing and fireworks display. In the late model A-feature, the top three positions never changed from beginning to end. John Grega drove his way to the checkered flag, a trophy, and a cash prize of $1,000. Second place went to Johnny Roberts and Kris Patterson from St. Johns finished third. Frank Seder and Roger Wing rounded out the top five spots. The pro stock A-feature proved to be an exciting race, with Bill Hendricks forced to forfeit his fourth place position when he and Tom Miniskey became tangled in the fourteenth lap.

Delbert Brigner finished in first place, working his way around Dave Harris who took second place. Third through fifth places went to Roy Doolittle, Don Rohn, and Jeff Reist. In the pro stock B-feature, Joey Fowler jumped out into the lead in the first lap and never relinquished it. The C-feature had a suspenseful moment when Rex Hutchinson flipped his car and landed upside down. John LaLonde drove his way to first place. The late model B-feature was won by Andy Piercefield. Late model heats were won by Bob Flinn, Bryan Hull, and Dick Shively.

Fast qualifier was Frank Seder with a time of 16:20 — an average of 83.3 miles per hour. Roger Wing won the fast car dash. Heats were won by John LaLonde, Dan Nieman, Kurt Townsend, and Marvin Myers. Greg Curtis took first in the consie, and Delbert Brigner was the champion in the B-feature. In late model events, Johnny Roberts was the fastest qualifier at 16:87, and Roger Wing won the dash. Heats were won by Bryan Hall and Bobby Lynn. First through fifth place finishers in the A-feature were: Bryan Hall, Bobby Lynn, Rick Stout, Andy Piercefield, and Jon Bottom. SOD Sprints return to Crystal on July 12 along with late models and pro stocks. Santa Claus will play a visit to the track on July 19. Bring your camera and get a picture taken with Santa.

Softball and baseball teams from the Fulton School District fared well at the 20th annual Mid-Michigan Olympic games, held this year at Alma, St. Louis, and Ithaca. The girls fast pitch team in the 13-15 age group took first place in the games which saw youth and adults from 13 area school districts participating. Included were teams from Breckenridge, Carson City, Vestaburg, Alma, Ithaca, St. Louis and Sanford-Meridian. Taking second place for Fulton were girls 12 and under softball, high school girls basketball, and boys 13-15 baseball. Over 1600 athletes took part in the olympics which included softball, track and field, soccer, wrestling, and basketball.

CMH repeats Mint 10K run

Runners in the 1986 10K mint run will be trying to best the times of 32:01.04 and 42:43.3, winning times for male and female finishers in last years race. This year's 10K race, as well as a 2-mile fun run, are again being sponsored by Clinton Memorial Hospital. Employees there are coordinating the event, in connection with the St. Johns Mint Festival. They expect more than 100 runners to enter from throughout the state. Both races are scheduled to begin at 8 a.m. Registration forms are available from the Human Resources Department at

New antlerless only deer permits to be issued by DNR for 1986

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is planning to issue antlerless-only permits during the 1986 firearm deer hunting season instead of hunter's choice licenses which were issued last year. Hunters who are successful in a computer drawing will receive antlerless-only permits in the mail, along with application cards. Tags can only be used on antlerless deer. It will not be legal to tag a buck with antlers of three inches or more with an antlerless-only permit. Hunters who use this tag may continue to hunt and tag an antlered buck with the regular deer tag which is issued with a firearm deer sportsman, or senior hunting license. Two types of antlerless permits will be available — antlerless-only and, landowner limited antlerless-only. The landowner applicant must own or lease 40 acres or more of huntable land or be an immediate family member of an owner. Several hunters may lease the same 40 acres. Sample forms for hunting leases are available from the Michigan Farm Bureau, 7373 W. Saginaw Street, Lansing, or the Wildlife Division of the DNR, Box 30028, Lansing, 48909.

First "All State" moose increases herd to 49

Michigan's first true "All State" moose — 10 calves — were born this spring in the wilds of the Lake Michigan Area in the Upper Peninsula, according to Department of Natural Resources wildlife biologists. The young animals are the first ones to be both bred and born in this state from the nucleus of 29 adult moose which were live-trapped in Ontario, trucked to Michigan, and set free in the U.P. in January, 1985. The 10 newborn moose were located by the DNR in Baraga and Marquette counties through radio tracking efforts. The young animals raises the new moose herd to 49, and also the hopes of the DNR

Crop tour

Giles Roehl

CROPS TOUR — Does it work to use the drainage tile for irrigation when they start to run dry? What pattern does aircraft seeding of grains provide?

To find out the answers, join the Clinton County Extension Service and Soil Conservation Crops Tour on July 14. The tour will start at 1 p.m. at Al's Airport, 3473 Shepardsville Road, Ovid.

Aircraft seeding of small grain and pesticides spray patterns will be demonstrated at the airport if the weather permits.

Next stop on the tour will be the Ovid-Elsie Future Farmer Plots, Alan Alaga Vo-Agri Institute and the Future Farmers will explain the FFA plots and the value received from this activity.

Down the road the tour will discuss a drop toewall control structure and alternate stripping as erosion control method on the Flo-Valley Farm.

The next stop will provide a demonstration of the irr-drain system in operation — Bud Belcher, Soil Science Agricultural Engineer of MSU will discuss the practicability of this type of irrigation/drainage system and the neighboring center pivot system.

This stop will also provide an opportunity to see a relatively new innovation in corn and soybean planting. The planting consists of two rows eight inches apart on forty inch centers. Fertilizer was placed in the middle of the rows — four inches from the plants on either side.

Chemical weed control, soil fertility and fertilizer usage, and insect control will also be discussed at this stop.

Lunch will be provided at stop one and stop four.

Nitrogen on corn — With all the rain you may not have all the nitrogen you wanted on your corn and the corn is too tall to apply anhydrous ammonia. One alternative may be to have the needed nitrogen flown on the crop.

Maurice Vitosh, crops and soil science from MSU makes the following recommendation concerning flying on the needed nitrogen.

1. Do not apply when the plant is wet. The urea sticking to the plant will cause burn.
2. Use urea with as "few fines" as possible. The "fines" tend to stick to the plant, again causing burn.
3. Some urea may settle in the whorl — this small amount should not cause a great amount of damage.
4. Since we probably will have a yield reduction due to the weather, do not fertilize for 150 bushels per acre. Rather apply for actual expected yield. For example, the rule is to apply 1 pound of actual nitrogen per bushel of yield. 110 bushel yield equals 110 pounds of actual nitrogen. 110 divided by 46 percent (urea) equal apply 230-240 pounds of urea per acre.

In this "catch 22" problem you will need an additional four to six bushels of $2 corn to pay for the application cost to be economically profitable. If you feel you'll get that return, plan to apply the nitrogen.

AG EXPO — There are probably few places where farmers can see more farm equipment and supplies than they can see at Ag Expo '86, July 22-24 at Michigan State University.

More than 350 commercial exhibitors from 17 states and Canada will fill 35 acres with nearly ever item used on the farm, says William Bickert, Ag Expo chairperson.

"I don't know of another place in the state where farmers can see as varied and as broad a collection of the latest in farm equipment or more informative field demonstrations then they can at Ag Expo," Bickert says.

The 35 acres of machinery displays will represent almost every mechanized area in a typical farm operation. Examples include irrigation systems; field machinery; dairy equipment and supplies; livestock handling equipment; grain harvesting, handling and storage systems; crop sprayers; farm buildings; and seed and fertilizer supplies and services.

Nearly a score of university educational exhibits are being planned for Ag Expo. Most of these will answer questions on crop insect, weed and disease control, soil testing and erosion prevention, computerized farm records, livestock health management, human health maintenance and other farm-related topics.

Daily field demonstrations about forage production, harvesting, testing (farmers should bring hay samples for free testing) and marketing, along with a harvesting machinery adjustment clinic, will take place from midmorning to midafternoon.

Other activities include tours of selected MSU teaching and research units related to farming. These will include the endocrine research center, the integrated pest management weed garden, the remote sensing center and the MSU dairy barns.

Free buses will carry visitors from the Ag Expo parking lot to the field demonstrations and on the tours. Ag Expo is free and open to the public. Visitors will find plenty of free parking at the corner of Farm Lane and Mt. Hope Road.

THE CORNER GARDEN — We're in good company. I love to garden and according to annual surveys, gardening is still one of the most popular American hobbies. Other than its recreation value, growing your own vegetables allows you to produce unusual varieties, enjoy fresher food and control the number of pesticides that are used. Many people also garden because they believe they are saving a lot of money. But, is this true? The answer is yes — and no — depending upon what you are growing.

In the past, most estimates on home gardening costs have not been particularly accurate because several factors were not considered. In particular, costs were not assigned to labor and time involved (perhaps working on the assumption that gardening is a labor of love?) Nor were any cost factors figured for depreciation of tools or machinery. In most cases, actual prices for individual crops were also not figured. Rather, a straight rate of 50 cents to 60 cents per pound for all the vegetables produced was used to arrive at a dollar figure. Due to differing costs for seeds or transplants, yield rates, etc. the resulting figures could not be entirely accurate.

For the first time, a recent report from the University of Illinois (Ill. fact sheet VC-38-85) tabulates home gardening costs in a more realistic way. The cost of production includes the cost of seeds and transplants, fertilizer, insecticides and equipment depreciation. Instead of figuring the cost of producing vegetables in an average garden of 500 or 1000 square feet, the researchers planted each crop in twenty foot long rows which enabled them to make a more accurate comparison.

The results were extremely variable. Some crops can be produced more economically in a home garden and others can not. Peas, in particular, provide a large saving when grown at home. Tomatoes also provide substantial savings, particularly for the home canner. On the other hand, peppers and beans can be purchased for less than it costs to grow them at home.

In the long run, depending on which crops you choose to grow, it may be best to consider the garden as a source of fresher, higher quality food than a big money saver.

Giles Roehl is the director of the Clinton County Cooperative Extension Service.

Dry bean growers should scout fields carefully for insects

Dry bean growers should scout their fields for insects constantly during the growing season, according to Greg Varner, research agronomist of the dry bean production research advisory board.

Tarnished plant bugs, potatoe leafhoppers, bean aphids, and the Mexican bean beetle can all cause considerable damage to the bean plants, and reduce seed quality, due to stings.

Bean plants are especially vulnerable during the bloom through pod fill stage, when the seed is developing.

There has already been potatoe leafhopper damage, reported at the Saginaw Valley Bean and Beet farm near Saginaw. Leafhoppers cause cupping, yellowing or reddening, and eventually a tight curling of the leaves.

Two other insects that can cause bean losses are the Mexican bean beetle and the tarnished plant bug. Dry bean growers should look for the Mexican bean beetle in the margins (outside rows) of the fields. Spraying the outside rows of the bean fields usually controls the beetle before they have layed eggs.

Tarnished plant bugs suck sap from the plant and inject a toxic saliva that causes flowers and small pods to drop. Bean growers are urged to check their fields for these insects beginning at first flower, and continuing at least weekly until the pods have filled. Insect problems can be detected by looking for chewed, misshaped or yellow leaves.

Dairy tips

Marilyn Loudenslager

Whether or not you teat dip cows after milking is no longer a question in the dairyman's mind. A more important question is what type of teat dip is the best to use. According to Dr. John Kirk, MSU College of Veterinary Medicine, there are two types of teat dips available for use in mastitis control on dairy farms. They are bacteriocidal and sealant or barrier types.

The bacteriocidal and dips are used to prevent the spread of gram-positive bacteria such as Strep ag and Strep aureus from infected to non-infected cows during milking. A bacteriocidal teat dip should be used routinely. The effectiveness of the teat dip can be measured by monitoring the somatic cell counts for the herd. When teat dipping is not effectively or routinely done, infections due to Staph xylosus, in addition to the major pathogens may increase.

The sealant or barrier type dips are used to control infections from environmental pathogens such as E. coli and Klebsiella. The dip forms a physical barrier which prevents these pathogens from entering the teats from the cows bedding or other environmental contaminants.

While barrier type teat dips have proven effective against environmental originating contaminaton, they have not grown to be as effective as bacteriocidal dips in the control of gram-positive bacteria even when germicides have been added to the barrier type dips.

In conclusion, whenever possible, use the bacteriocidal dips, resorting to the sealant dips, temporarily, only when environmental conditions are posing a particular problem. Control environmental bacteria by thorough, routine cleaning and maintenance of bedding. When the environmental contaminations no longer pose a threat, return to the routine use of a bacteriocidal teat dip.

Marilyn Loudenslager is the agriculture agent for the Clinton County Cooperative Extension Service.

One-fifth of the country's farmers are using conservation methods

By EILEEN GILLESPIE
Clinton Soil
Conservation District

Following are the important findings from USDA's farm production expenditure survey:

- About one-fifth of the nation's farmers have adopted conservation; particularly high rates of adoption have occurred in the corn belt and northern plains.

- Most conservation tillage is used in conjunction with single-crop corn, soybeans and small grains.

- Farmers on mid to large-sized farms and who rent land from others have the highest rates of conservation tillage adoption.

- Conservation tillage is used on some farms with fairly level terrain, probably for reasons other than soil conservation, such as savings in production costs.

- Many farmers with steep cropland are not using conservation tillage even though it could provide significant erosion control.
- Cost and time savings are about as important as soil and water conservation as reasons for using conservation tillage.
- Most farmers who adopted conservation tillage in 1983 did so without government cost-sharing assistance.

Of particular interest are figures comparing twenty years with today, showing significantly more production with fewer man-hours needed due to technological advance.

In the period of 1915-1919, it took farmers 98 hours to produce 100 bushels of wheat with an average of 13.9 bushels per acre. In 1980-85, farmers were producing 100 bushels in seven hours, with an average of 36.2 bushels/acre.

In corn production, farmers in 1915-1919 worked 132 hours to produce 100 bushels with 25.9 bushels/acre produced. In 1980-85, 101.4 bushels/acre were produced with just three hours of labor needed for 100 bushels.

FINALLY, A HEALTH PLAN AS INDIVIDUAL AS YOU ARE.

Individualism. It's one of the great advantages of the freedom we enjoy. Yet sometimes it can cost you more than you may have banked on.

That's why it's nice to know that Physicians Health Plan has you and your family in mind.

Our new Individual Plan gives individuals and their families all the benefits of an HMO for less than the cost of comparable coverage with traditional health insurance.

PHP's Individual Plan also provides the freedom to choose from many participating physicians, pharmacies and other health care facilities in the tri-county area. Chances are, your own physician or hospital is already on our list.

And because Physicians Health Plan is a health maintenance organization, you have the freedom to receive preventive health services, including routine doctors' exams, well-child care and immunizations. Along with coverage for injuries, illness or hospitalization.

So if you're self-employed, or you simply want to go it alone, call about the PHP Individual Plan today. Choose the freedom.
