City approves preliminary plat for Morton Estates 2

The St. Johns City Commission approved a preliminary plat for building at Morton Estates 2, denied a rezoning request, and released street sites which will be paved in a project planned for October at its meeting last week.

The preliminary plat for Morton Estates 2 had been presented earlier to the planning commission by Leon Searles, owner/developer of the project. The area which is zoned R-2, medium density residential, would allow both single family and two-family dwellings. The parcel contains 13.8 acres with 29 proposed lots located in the area bordered by Morton, Park, Lansing, and Sickles streets.

In approving the plat, the city officers followed recommendations made by the planning commission.

"Development of the project will probably begin next summer," said city manager Randy Humphrey. IN DENYING THE rezoning request made by Dwight Sheperd, the city also followed a recommendation by the planning commission. The request made by Sheperd was to change zoning of his property at 209 Sickles St. from R-1, low density residential, to R-2 as an extension of R-2 zoning east of his property. This would have allowed for construction of a duplex on the property.

"The character of the neighborhood is primarily R-1," Humphrey said.

The major objection expressed by residents at the planning commission meeting was that even in the R-2 area adjacent, the type of buildings were mainly single family.

A listing of streets planned for paving in the city were presented to the commissioners and includes N. Clinton between Ross and Lincoln; intersection only at Mead and Lincoln;

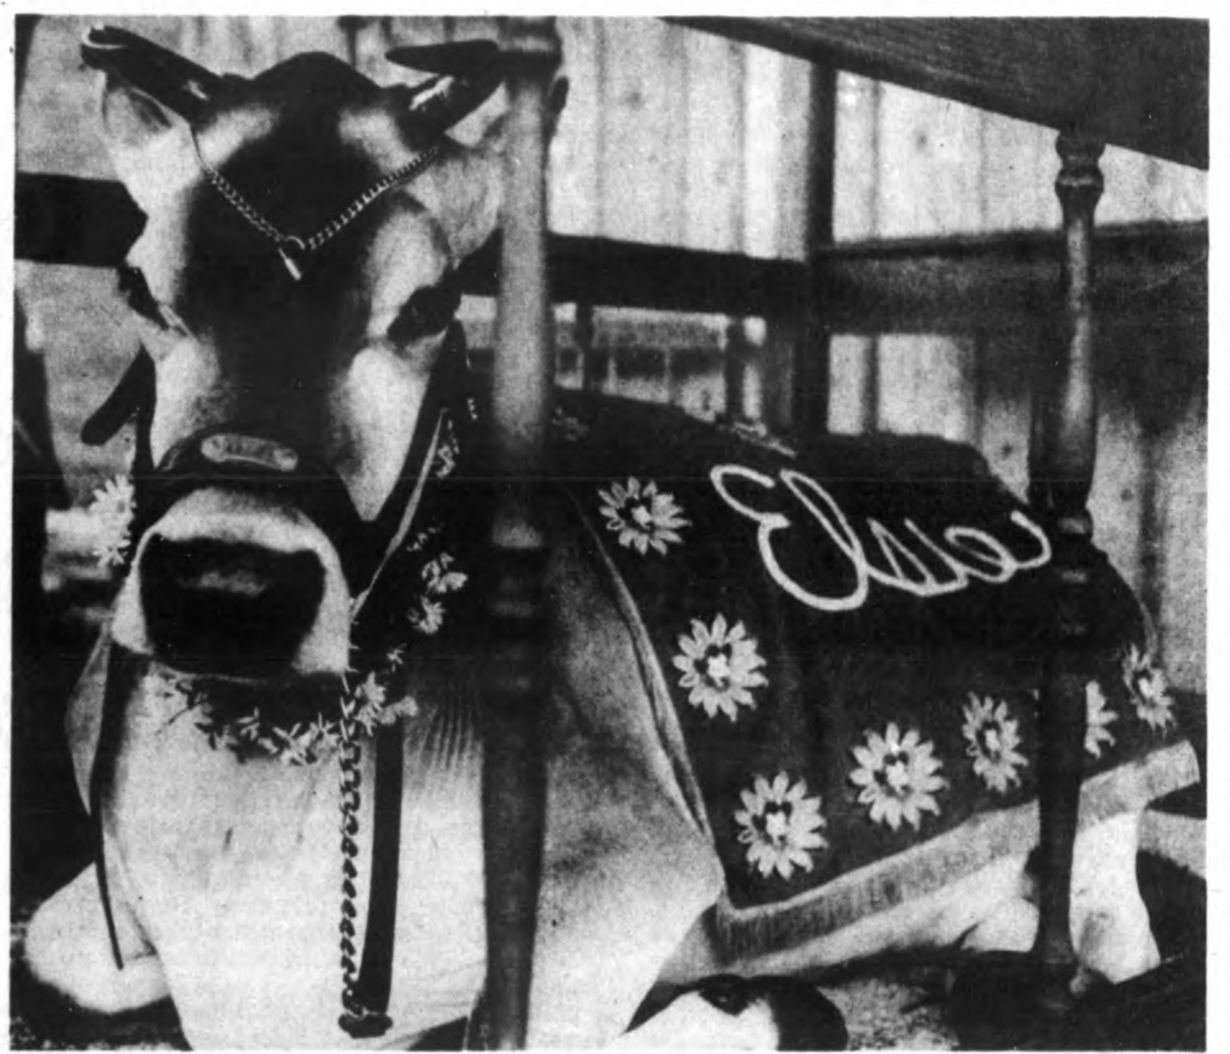

E. Baldwin between Oakland and Mead; E. Baldwin between Mead and Swegles; S. Swegles between Cass and McConnell; S. Prospect between Baldwin and Park; W. Park between Church and Clinton; W. Steel between Ottawa and Garfield; W. Steel between Garfield and Clinton; N. Ottawa between M-21 and Walker; E. Steel between Mead and US-27; and Lindy Lane.

IN OTHER ACTION, the commissioners:

- Accepted the resignation of Joan Valentine from the board of parks and recreation, and authorized a letter thanking her for her service. The commissioners will be looking for a replacement.

- Approved requests by the chamber of commerce for events related to the Mint Festival.

- Designated Mayor Arehart to serve as municipal league representative for the city of St. Johns.

Notes Barrels

ST. JOHNS Help! If a mint barrel has been placed near your business, please give it lots of water. As one mint farmer says, "They can't get too much water. During the dry weather they should receive a pail full every day."

Queen

ST. JOHNS The public is invited to attend the 1986 Mint Queen Contest on Saturday, July 26, at 8 p.m. in the St. Johns High School auditorium.

One of the 13 candidates will be crowned at the end of the evening, with special entertainment provided by Julie Stapelman, Mark Scott, Bill Roll, and Geraldine SanJuan.

There will be a $2 donation fee at the door.

Re-elected

ST. JOHNS Clinton County Intermediate School District has announced the election of the following officers for the 1986-87 school year:

Re-elected were President Wendell Waggoner, Vice President Gerald Wieber, and Trustees Joseph Arens, Linda Klimentko, and Wilbur Weston. Larry Schwartzkopf was appointed secretary/treasurer. The officers were elected at the July 14 organizational meeting.

The board will hold regular meetings on the third Monday of each month at 8 p.m. at the administrative office building.

A switch

ST. JOHNS Rotary members attending the noon luncheon last week thought they would be hearing an address by Michigan State University President John DiBiaggio.

Instead, they heard his "right hand man," Dr. Mary Davis, give DiBiaggio's speech in his place. DiBiaggio underwent orthoscopic knee surgery on the morning of the luncheon and was unable to attend the weekly St. Johns Rotary meeting.

"Part of my job is to do what he (DiBiaggio) would have done," Davis, executive assistant and secretary to the MSU Board of Trustees, said. "He was very disappointed that he was not able to speak. He has made a difference (at MSU). He is committed to leading the university to greatness."

DiBiaggio's speech dealt with the university's commitment to access and opportunity for all persons. He said that MSU serves as a worldwide model and, as such, has a moral obligation as a "people university."

Davis, who thanked Rotary members for the cordial reception given her, said that St. Johns was considered to be "very important in the Spartan heritage."

WEIGHING IN — At the end of the day, wheat farmers from all over Clinton County bring in their harvested grain. This year's test weights and yields are lower than those in previous years due to crop diseases brought on by wet weather.

Test weights, yields down

Light test weights, lower than normal yields, and a variety of diseases — that's what Clinton County farmers are seeing in wheat so far in the recently begun harvest.

"I don't think anyone expects the volume or quality to be what it has been in past years," says the cooperative extension service director, Giles Roehl.

ASCS Director Peter LoDico says some farmers didn't know they had a problem in their wheat until they went in to combine it.

"Several farmers have said their yields are a lot less than they expected," he says.

The wet weather which Clinton County has experienced throughout the spring and summer is the primary reason for the decline in yields, and for the diseases in most county fields. Scab, Gibberella Zeal, and Sceptorra Glume Blotch are all diseases present in this year's wheat fields caused from fungi which grow particularly well in damp conditions.

"They (the diseases) are in practically every field," LoDico says. "The damage caused by them may be minor or it may be extensive."

WHATEVER THE case, there is no doubt but that test weights are below those of last year.

"The average weight that we're seeing right now is between 52 to 53 pounds per bushel," says Bill Campbell, manager of Countrymark in St. Johns. "That's about 10 percent less than last year. Low test weights are a direct result of disease in the wheat."

According to Campbell, average wheat yields are also much less than a year ago.

"Last year many farmers were averaging between 75 to 80 bushels per acre," Campbell says. "This year's averages are right around 50 bushels per acre."

To compound the problems already facing the farmer, the continued wet, humid weather is ideal for wheat sprouting and for weed growth in fields ready to be harvested.

"THE ATTITUDE of most of the farmers that we've been hearing from is that they just want to get their crop out — they're not having much fun," Campbell says.

There has been some apprehension on the part of the Michigan Milling Industry that they would not get milling quality wheat from farmers this year.

"We haven't seen any evidence of that here so far," Campbell says.

The primary market for Countrymark's wheat is Michigan Millers. They in turn sell the milled wheat to General Foods in Battle Creek, King Milling in Lowell, and other Michigan operations.

"Virtually none of our wheat goes into export markets anymore," says Campbell.

Along with weight and yield, the price per bushel is also down for Clinton County farmers this year. The wheat price was a little more than $3 per bushel in 1985 — last week the price was fluctuating around the $2.40 mark.

"THERE'S JUST not enough stimulus in the market to drive prices up," Campbell says.

He expects the elevator to take in about half the normal amount of wheat that they usually handle in the harvest season. One-half million bushels of wheat were handled there during last year's wheat harvest.

"Just one week of good weather and we could get the crop under cover," Campbell says. "We will expand our hours from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. to work with farmers during the peak harvest period."

Future bright for Sealed Power

"Sealed Power — a tradition of achievement" was the imprint on the side of the big, semi-trailer parked in front of the St. Johns Sealed Power plant last week during its 40th anniversary open house celebration.

And, according to plant manager Jim Robinson, achievement and commitment to quality are two important philosophies both in the St. Johns plant and in all of Sealed Power's 35 international and domestic divisions. The company is observing its 75th year of operation.

"We have seen continued expansion and growth of the plant and our market during our 40 years," Robinson says. "Our plans for the future are to continue to improve our product to remain competitive."

The piston ring machining plant opened in St. Johns in 1946 with 25 employees. Three hundred and ten people are employed at Sealed Power today, manufacturing piston rings and expanded fuel oil rings which are shipped to General Motors, Ford, and Chrysler. The company is a major source of original equipment piston rings for the automotive industry.

pansions during its 40-year stay in St. Johns, with the biggest increase in size coming in 1964. The plant more than doubled in size at that time. Expansions made in 1982, 1983, and 1984 brought the total plant area up to its current 125,000 square feet.

Families of employees at Sealed Power were special guests at the open house which included a visit by all five former plant managers. Gordon Reynolds, the original plant manager, and William (Mac) Oliver, first personnel manager, were on hand for the day's events.

A complete tour of the Sealed Power plant, beginning with shipping and receiving and ending with the final inspection, was a highlight of the open house and gave community members a chance to see how plant operations are done.

Robinson, who has been manager at the St. Johns plant for the past five and one-half years, says he expects Sealed Power to continue in its efforts to produce quality products and credited his employees with fine job skills.

"We have a lot of people who like to work here," Robinson says.

Candidates attend forum

By RHONDA GAFFNEY
Staff Writer

Candidates running for seats in the Michigan legislature and the U.S. House of Representatives took part in a "Meet the Candidates" forum sponsored by the Community Projects Committee of the Clinton County Farm Bureau last week at Smith Hall in St. Johns. A number of candidates for the Court of Appeals were also invited to the forum, although questions were not directed to them.

Committee members and those in attendance felt the evening was worthwhile, even though turnout for the annual event was sparse.

"We felt things went well," says committee member Tom Benson. "The meetings have been lightly attended for the last few years, so we weren't really too discouraged. I think the point was made during the evening that the candidates all felt it was important that persons at least have the opportunity to attend a forum of this kind."

PRESENT AT THE meeting were Gary Randall (R), incumbent for the 89th District in the Michigan House of Representatives; 30th District Michigan Senate candidates, Republicans Fred Dillingham and Rolf Peterson and Democrats Patricia McAvooy and David Thayer; U.S. 10th District candidate Don Albosta (D); and U.S. 6th District candidate James Dunn (R).

Serving as moderator was Al Almay, director of Public Affairs for the Michigan Farm Bureau. Each candidate was introduced by Clinton County Farm Bureau President Howard Straub, and allowed five minutes for an opening statement. Almay directed questions from the audience to the candidates who had two minutes in which to respond. In conclusion, the candidates had two minutes each for closing statements.

"Everyone followed the rules pretty well," Benson says. "We felt the moderator did a fine job."

THE MAJORITY OF the candidates directed their opening statements to topics related to the farm industry with an overall consensus of opinion being that farming operations were experiencing difficult times. Improved market prices, a fair and equitable tax base, stronger foreign market purchases, and improved state processing for Michigan products were ideas presented by those running for the various offices to help the farm industry.

State senate candidate McAvooy noted that state government does not have a lot of control on agriculture in Michigan, but that several things could be done in the state house.

"We can shift the burden of funding for education off from the farmer," she said, "and work to improve the availability of processing plants for our products."

Dunn was adamant in his belief that a constitutional amendment to balance the budget was the only way to cut the deficit which he saw as a problem faced by persons living in both rural and urban communities.

"The one concern I've been hearing over and over about from farmers and others is the deficit problem our country has," said Dunn. "Until we put pressure on congress to vote 'no' on spending and pass an amendment to balance the budget, the deficit problem will stay with us."

A QUESTION FROM the audience directed toward Albosta and Dunn asked for their position on the 1985 Farm Bill and future farm programs.

"I am opposed to the bill," Albosta said. "The concept of the bill is the demise of the family farm and farm system. It is designed to drive prices down. We should look at the whole bill and rewrite it."

Dunn had no position on the 1985 bill, but said he would give his support to future bills that would "get government out of the farming operation." He also said he would promote a fair and open foreign trade policy.

Aside from agricultural issues, the state senate candidates were asked if they agreed with a proposed idea for a part-time legislature. McAvooy, Thayer, and Dillingham all said they were opposed to the concept, mainly because it would take away from time used by constituents.

"THE LEGISLATIVE branch is the only one that has direct citizen input," Thayer said. "A part-time legislature would limit that."

"I believe it would block the avenue that people have to state government," Dillingham said. "I have had the opportunity to work with part-time legislators in other states and found they have little depth of knowledge on issues."

Peterson was the lone supporter of a part-time legislature. "Last year 586 public acts or amendments on acts were passed — that's an awesome number," he said. "Too much time is spent. A limited legislature will get the job done and get it done quicker."

Randall was asked to clarify a remark made during his opening statement on width restrictions for farm machinery driven on public roadways. He said that he had introduced legislation into the house to eliminate state restrictions.

Following the question/answer session and closing statements, persons had an opportunity to talk with the candidates, including those running for the Court of Appeals. Candidates present for that office were Allen Cropsey, DeWitt; Judge Randy Tahvonen, Elsie; Gary McDonald, Saginaw; and Judge Elizabeth Weaver, Glenn Arbor. Mrs. Jim Kallman was also present representing her husband who is running for the State Supreme Court.

Loans can be extended

Producers holding Commodity Credit Corporation loans on 1985 crops of feed grains, rye, soybeans, and wheat have the option of extending their loans for 12 months by a recent decision of the agriculture department.

The CCC will pay storage fees for the added 12-month period for feed grains, rye and wheat, but is prohibited by the Agriculture and Food Act of 1981 from paying storage on soybeans.

Producers who wish to extend their loans should request extensions by writing to their local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. The request must be filed no earlier than 60 days before the loan maturity date.

Serving on the community projects committee along with Benson and his wife were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Grams, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Woodhams, Mr. and Mrs. David Morris, and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Bradley.

Re-evaluate priorities

To the Editor:

The Lady of Liberty, does she cry for America? When God looks at America, does He cry? Man looks at the outward appearance of man, and sees only what man wants him to. God looks on the inside and sees the corruption and evil of man.

Millions of dollars were spent to restore the Lady of Liberty, and her rugged tattered form has been turned into beauty. As man looks at her appearance, he admires what his eyes can see, while inside the Lady, there lies corruption and evil. America the beautiful has become America the ugly, with her permissiveness and crime causing family breakdown. Morals are no longer sacred — Pandora's box has been opened.

I remember hearing a nationally known newscaster about 12 years ago say, soon we will have to have jails big enough to protect the innocent for the guilty have gone free. Is that where we are now?

We live in the best country in the whole world, where a few still fly Old Glory. Patriotism is not a word of the past, let's live it for the future. I love our America, and God, for whom our forefathers died to convey freedom of religion.

Let's get our priorities in place, and America back on the road to health.

Love in Christ Jesus.

"It's in the Bag"
by Bob Beck

The term cereal is derived from Ceres, the Roman goddess of grain. Cereals are our oldest and most basic food. The cultivation of grains is what made the first settled communities possible, unlike most other foods, grains could be stored over the winter and through lean times.

Remember when the cereal companies put toy submarines, rocket launchers, and flying saucers in the boxes? Too many boxes were opened just to remove the toys. So many companies went to "boxtop offers" covering a dazzling array of the same premiums. Some even made toys and games out of the boxes themselves. As well as puzzles, coloring pictures and cut-outs.

Today, believe it or not, a grocer could easily stock 50 different cereals. And there are always others trying to win space on our shelves. But it's not easy. Only a small percentage of new cereal products tested are ever sold nationally.

The reason for this "cereal explosion" is plain enough. The cereal makers are getting competition from all sides. Instant breakfast drinks, toaster-prepared pastries, and frozen breakfast of sausage and pancakes, to name a few. The cereal companies are responding in the traditional American way, by trying harder to please you with new and better products. All of which, you can find right here at Beck's.

ICE BREAKING — Rochester Colony residents cut blocks of ice from Fish Pond in a photograph taken in 1901 by the late O.M. Pearl.

Colony to observe 150th

By RICH WERTZ
Editor

Not since 1982 when the hamlet became a mecca for news reporters hot on the trail of the story of a giant sinkhole has Rochester Colony been the source of much newspaper copy.

Now is the time to again hear from one of Clinton County's oldest settlements. The occasion this time is happier than in 1982 when a breach in a layer of underground clay caused thousand upon thousand of gallons of water to drain from the water table into the Maple River, drying up 16 wells in the process.

This time Rochester Colony is all smiles — its the 150th birthday of the community.

On July 28, 1836, a handful of settlers from Rochester, N.Y., arrived at the area northeast of St. Johns now known as Rochester Colony. This month, on Sunday, July 27, the colony will celebrate its origins with The Colony Reunion Day.

The schedule of events is as follows:
• The day will begin with services at both local churches. At the Duplain Church of Christ, Sunday school begins at 9:15 a.m.; church services are at 10:30 a.m.; and evening services are at 6:30 p.m. The church will be open during the afternoon and visitors are invited to tour the building.

At the United Methodist Church, Sunday school begins at 10 a.m. and church services are at 11 a.m.

• From 1 to 5 p.m. the Rochester Colony School will be open for public tours.

• During the course of the day exhibits of local interest — including at least one collection of arrowheads — will be on display. Also tentatively scheduled are Civil War re-enactments.

• At 3 p.m. there will be a dedication of a memorial plaque at the Rochester Colony School.

• On the plaque will be the names of those whose memory donations were made to the school," says Jeanne Temple, one of the organizers of the reunion.

• Rochester Colony's Friendship Park will be open all day long for picnics.

• "There's lots of tables and lots of shade trees," says Temple.

ROCHESTER COLONY was born on Feb. 29, 1836, with the formation of the Rochester Colony Association in Rochester, N.Y. The purpose of the association was to organize a "colony emigration to the far west," Michigan, at the time, was considered the "far west."

For $125 (or a $5 down payment) members of the association bought one share of the association. One share entitled them to one vote, an 80-acre farm lot, and "one or more" village lots.

"They went farther than just 'Let's get together and buy some land,'" says Temple.

For instance, she says, the lots were purchased by individuals on the condition that they either be settled or developed within 18 months.

"If you didn't make improvements you stood to lose it," Temple says.

The association was also ahead of its time in that it did not discriminate against women, she says.

"Women, if they bought in, could vote and this was before women could do much of anything," she says. "It was very democratically organized."

ONCE THE ASSOCIATION was formed, it was time to actually send someone ahead to find the land to be settled. From the 26 original members, William G. Russell and Joseph Sever were selected to act as agents and the two men set out to buy some land.

They traveled here to the "far west" and began scouting for land. Eventually they arrived at the Maple River.

"Sever and myself are much pleased with it, although it is timbered land," wrote Russell in a letter to the east. "The timber is beech, maple, hickory, oak, bass, black walnut and as handsome as you ever saw and well watered with beautiful springs."

Not content to choose hastily, the two men traveled to Barry County — only to find that it was the Maple Rapids area that most appealed to their hearts.

"We made up our minds that the Maple River was the place," wrote Russell.

However, the colony was almost thwarted before it began. On the return trip from Barry County the two agents crossed paths with another man — and concluded he was a land speculator out to grab the land before they did.

"Feeling determined not to give up, I changed horses with Sever, the other man being ahead a mile or two," wrote Russell. "I set out determined not to lose the land if I lost the horse...I passed him within a few miles of the office and got my application in a few minutes before him after coming 10 miles in 40 minutes."

RUSSELL'S HIGH speed horse chase paid off not long after, when in July, 1836, 16 people set off for the colony from New York.

John Ferdon, Samuel Barker, their wives, and Oliver Bebee and Ellen Lowe, who would later marry, set out with 10 children. They traveled from New York to Detroit by water, then followed the Grand River trail to a point east of what is now Laingsburg. They then cut a road through the forest for the remaining 20 miles, a trip that took them nine days, and arrived on July 28, 1836.

Those early settlers had to travel to Ann Arbor, Battle Creek, Pontiac, and Detroit in order to have access to mills and markets. The colony built its own mill in 1840.

The Methodist Church began in 1837 and was housed in a building in 1855.

The advent of a post office in Rochester Colony in 1844 began a confusion in the name of the colony that lingers to this day.

"They wanted to call it Rochester, of course, but there was already a Rochester in Michigan," says Temple. "So the postal authorities said they had to choose another name."

The name they chose was Mapleton. It is not a name commonly used in practice today, but each year when Rochester Colony residents get their tax bills, the name on the bill says Mapleton. The colony is located in Duplain Township and the town's two churches are the Duplain Church of Christ and the Duplain First United Methodist Church.

Maureen and Gary Schafer
Thelen-Schafer
Reside in Westphalia

Maureen Ann Thelen and Gary Lee Schafer exchanged marriage vows May 17 at St. Marys Church in Westphalia. Fr. James McDougall performed the double-ring ceremony before 500 guests.

Parents of the bride are Roger and Bernice Thelen of Tallman Road, Fowler. The bridegroom's parents are Delbert and Agnes Schafer of Hubbardston Road, Pewamo.

Pam and Susie Schafer, vocalists, and Susie Feldpausch, organist, provided music for the service.

The bride chose a white taffeta gown styled with a venice lace collar, Victorian sleeves trimmed with chantilly lace, a chapel-length train, and skirt flowing with chantilly lace ruffles draped with bows. She wore a wreath of white flowers trimmed with pearls and puffed tulle and a fingertip-length veil. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of pink and blue roses and white carnations trimmed with pearls.

Attending her sister as maid of honor was Yvonne Thelen. She wore a baby blue organza gown styled with a scoop neckline, ruffled puffed short sleeves, and fitted v-waistline with a big bow on the side. The gown had a flowing ruffled train. She wore a baby blue hat trimmed with flowers and pearls with a veil on the back.

Bridesmaids were Donna Heckman, Judy Schafer, Lynette Witgen, Julie Thelen, and Cindy Schafer, the bride's sister-in-law. They wore pink gowns and pink hats styled like the maid of honor's.

June and Leonard Williams
Pearson-Williams
Reside in St. Johns

June Pearson, daughter of Gerald and Carol Pearson of DeWitt, and Leonard Williams, son of Howard and Eleanor Williams of St. Johns, were united in Christian marriage on May 31, 1986, at Pilgrim United Methodist Church in St. Johns.

Rev. Larry ShROUT officiated at the 4 p.m. double-ring candlelight ceremony before an altar decorated with red roses, mums, and carnations in coordinating shades of blue, pink, and yellow.

Special music was performed by Michelle Desprez, vocalist/guitarist, cousin of the bride; Shirley Rennells, vocalist/guitarist, sister of the groom; Gail Bullard, organist, friend of the couple; and Kathy Williams, pianist, sister-in-law of the groom.

The bride wore a white, summer satin wedding gown, imported from Italy, with long illusion sleeves and a high neckline. The bodice of the gown was intricately covered with hand-sewn pearls and featured a circular satin ruffle on the bodice and train.

Detailed pearl beading also accented the waist. Featured on the skirt, train, and sleeves were cut-out motifs. The gown had a cathedral train and was edged with scalloped motifs.

Her fingertip, illusion veil flowed from the pearl-crystal beaded crown and satin flower headpiece. She carried a graceful cascade bouquet of red roses, silk lily-of-the-valley, beaded pearls, and greens.

Serving as maid of honor was Melinda Beck, friend of the bride. Bridesmaids were Diane Martens, sister of the groom, Lisa Desprez, cousin of the bride, Barb Parker, Carlene Bast, and Michelle Rademacher, all friends of the bride. Receptba Foote, cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid.

The attendants wore long, blue chiffon gowns over a taffeta slip with a draped-bodice front that had chiffon rose buds near the shoulders with gathered short sleeves and a satin ribbon sash circling the waist. The maid of honor wore a darker shade of blue, bridesmaids wore a marigot blue, and the junior bridesmaid wore a light sky blue. They carried colonial silk bouquets in shades of blue, yellow, and bright pink, pearls, and lily-of-the-valley.

Bridget Williams, niece of the groom and cousin of the bride, was the flower girl. She wore a long, white, miniature bridal gown that resembled the style of the bride's gown.

Best man was Wade Williams, brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Mark Williams, Richard Williams, Paul Williams, all brothers of the groom, Jeff Pearson, brother of the bride, and Brian Williams, cousin of the groom. Nathaniel Williams, nephew of the groom and cousin of the bride, was ring-bearer. Ushers were Alan Rennels, brother-in-law of the groom, and Bob David, friend of the couple.

The bride and groom wrote and designed their own wedding ceremony/worship service. The wedding host and hostess were Don and Alma Davis. Guestbook attendants were Laurie Towne and Linda Stevens.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Smith Hall in St. Johns with over 450 guests attending. Host and hostess couples were Gayle and Sally Desprez, Malcolm and Margaret Williams, and Laree Geller, aunts and uncles of the couple.

Marie Foote, Sherri Green, and Mary Geller, cousins of the bride, served the bridal table. Sharon Demarais, Maudy Williams, and Mary Lou Burch, aunts of the couple, cut the wedding cake. A special surprise program was given for the bride and groom by family and friends following the buffet dinner.

Grandparents of the bride are Gaylord and Cleo Desprez of St. Johns and Clyde and Hazel Pearson of DeWitt. Grandparents of the groom are Foster and Hilda Williams of St. Johns.

The couple travelled to Tannersville, Penn., for their honeymoon where they stayed at the Summit Resort in the Poconos.

They reside in St. Johns.

Family focus Food preservation

Dawn Harris

Vegetable gardening is a popular American pastime. But all too often, gardens can mean too much of a good thing all at once. Perhaps it's time to consider preserving the food you grow.

If you are saying, "I don't have time to can and freeze," you may want to reconsider. Think about the high cost and often poor quality of produce during the winter months.

Freezing is the most popular way to preserve food. It is fast and easy and requires little equipment other than a freezer.

Frozen foods seldom spoil. Although they are subject to loss from improper preparation, such as poor wrapping or freezing without blanching. Some vegetables, such as green onions, hot peppers, beets, sweet peppers, cooked tomatoes, green tomatoes, and vinegar-style cole slaw, can be frozen without blanching. This cuts the preparation time.

Select vegetables that are slightly immature. Then thoroughly wash the vegetables with water, drain, and pat dry. Prepare them by slicing or dicing — a food processor can be a great time saver — or leave whole. Pack in freezer bags, releasing as much air as possible, and freeze in a single layer in the coldest part of the freezer.

Vegetables frozen this way should be used within three months and cooked by steaming or stir-frying.

All other vegetables need to be blanched before being frozen. Blanching is a vital step. It entails heating the vegetables in boiling water or steam for a few minutes to stop the action of enzymes that would cause toughness and poor quality after one or two months of freezer storage. Recommended heating time varies with the type and size of vegetables.

Using boilable bags to blanch and freeze vegetables has become very popular. This allows you to process, freeze, and cook all in the same bag and produces the best-tasting vegetables. Because the vegetables don't come into contact with water, they retain their color, texture, and nutrients. Some vegetables, however, are not recommended for the boilable bag method. They include whole carrots, whole beets, broccoli, cauliflower, cabbage, and turnips.

Prepare the vegetables as you wish and pack about four bags at a time. Drop them into boiling water, cover, and blanch for twice the length of time suggested for conventional blanching. Remove the bags from the boiling water and place in ice water. When all the bags have reached the ice water stage, cool for another 10 minutes and freeze in a single layer.

If you are feeling even more adventurous, consider home canning. It really isn't as complicated as it seems at first. It does require advanced organization, some investment in equipment, time, and care to avoid spoilage and possible food poisoning. Instructions for canning are easy to find in most cookbooks, but make certain your information is current. If you have questions about canning, call the Cooperative Extension Service Office at 224-3288 for valuable, up-to-date information.

Dawn Harris is the Clinton County Cooperative Extension Service Home Economist.

Residents enjoy 'delightful' gift

A very big thank-you to Will's Dairy Delight for the ice cream that was graciously donated to residents of Findlay Country Manor on National Ice Cream Day.

Happy birthday to Irene Beaman, July 26, and Florence Burk, July 28. Cards and letters are welcomed.

Good-bye to Mary Ann Gundry, our director of nursing. Mary Ann has been with Findlay Manor for three years. During this time we have had three perfect department of health inspections, one facility excellence award, and have seen the growth of such programs as podiatry care, physical therapy care, and the Attends program. You will be greatly missed!

Also a good-bye to Gerry Workman who has been with Clinton Area Care Center serving as secretary/treasurer since its inception.

Did you know that...

- Resident Emma Schultz and her husband, Herman, celebrated their 61st wedding anniversary on July 19?
- The manor has 30 residents that are aged 90 and over?

• That spring cleaning is going on at the manor? Each day approximately three to four rooms are cleaned from top to bottom, with each resident being moved out of their room for a couple of hours while the floors are being waxed and sealed.

• The residents are planning an outing to Tiger Stadium on Aug. 10 to see the Tigers take on the Boston Red Sox?

DIAPER DERBY — Parents cheer on their toddlers during the first annual Diaper Derby held at Becks Farm Market July 17.

Fogarty crawls to win at derby

They crept, they crawled — some sat and cried — at the first-ever Diaper Derby in Clinton County.

The event was run, or crawled, at Beck's Farm Market last week, and when the dust settled on the 10 feet of astro-turf, Brandon Fogarty of Ashley was the undisputed winner. Brandon, aged 9½ months, earned his parents, Jerome and Cathy, a first prize valued at over $50. He, or rather his father, carried home a case of Huggies disposable diapers, a case of Gerbers strained baby food, and two gallons of milk.

"We've been practicing at home," Cathy said. "He wouldn't crawl outside, but he would inside the house."

Maybe the astro-turf gave little Brandon the winning edge — some of the crawlers entered expressed a definite dislike to being placed on the carpeted surface. They were quite vocal in fact.

Twenty babies were entered in the race sponsored by Huggies and Gerbers which Becks hopes to make an annual event.

"The response was good, but with the prizes offered, we thought it would be," Bob Beck of Becks said.

Second prize in the derby was a case of Huggies and two gallons of milk and the prize for third place was a case of Huggies. Claiming those were Lawrence Stump and Zak Stewart.

Parents and siblings served as "pit crews" for the crawlers, and employed a variety of techniques to get their infant to be first across the finish line. Keys rattling, bottles shaking, and arms waving were among the

Chrysler stops here

Dick Chrysler, candidate for governor of Michigan, made a campaign stop in St. Johns last week, visiting with persons at the courthouse and at the senior citizen center.

"We received a call from his (Chrysler) regional campaign manager saying that he would be in town," said Jim Greene, director of the senior center. "Our potluck was planned for the day that he was coming, so we invited him to that."

According to Greene, about 30 "seniors" and others lunched with Chrysler and talked with him while he was in St. Johns.

Republican candidates on the Aug. 5 primary ballot along with Chrysler are Bill Lucas, Colleen Engler, and Dan Murphy.

most common, with stuffed animals and crackers also used to help the little ones find the right direction to crawl.

It may not be the way to go in Louisville, but it was fun for everyone, or almost everyone, at Becks.

Racing fans see double action at Crystal Raceway last week

Racing fans saw double the action at Crystal Raceway last Saturday with rained-out late model and pro stock features from July 12 being run prior to the regularly scheduled events.

Mike Powell got his first win of 1986 in the late model opening feature, with Roger Wing placing second and Bill Horton finishing third.

Tom Minkey took first in the pro stock B feature from July 12, and placing first through third in the A feature were Dave Harris, Don Rohn and Roy Doolittle. It was also the first win of the season for Harris.

Dash winners at the "Best Little Dirt Track" were: Rick Stout, late model; Jeff Reist, pro stock; Dick Meyers, Motor City super-4 modified; and Russ Teegardin, Western Michigan mini-modified.

Jon Bottum and Mike Powell were heat winners in the late model class, with Fred Wallace, Marvin Myers, Gene Carson, Roger Carman, and Bill Simpson winning heats in the pro stocks.

Harold Almont was the heat winner in the super-4 modifieds and Dan Moore and Tom Throop won heats in the mini-mods.

Winner of the pro stock B feature was Gene Carson with Kurt Townsend taking the pro stock consie.

In A feature events, Johnny Roberts took the checkered flag in late models with Roger Wing finishing second and Andy Percefield placing third. Roy Doolittle took first in pro stocks, and Russ Teegardin was first in the mini-modifieds.

The super-4 modifieds saw Harold Samuel finish first, with Bill Breen and Ted Johnston placing second and third.

Santa Claus flew in to try to cool things off on the hot, humid night and brought toys for all the children.

Senior Citizen Night is planned for this Saturday, July 26. All seniors aged 60 and older can see late models and pro stocks run for $2 admission.

Season wraps up for colt teams with wins and losses at district

The St. Johns colt baseball team wrapped up their regular season with two wins over teams from Grand Ledge last week. They defeated one team last Monday 13-2, and came back to take a victory over the second team on Tuesday 14-4.

The wins gave the team, coached by Redwing baseball coach Doug Parker, an overall record of 17-2, good for first place in the Colt League.

Nine members of the team combined with players from the DeWitt colt team to play in the first level of the Colt District Tournament played at DeWitt High School on July 17-20.

The St. Johns/DeWitt edition won their first two games, 6-4 over Mt. Pleasant and 5-2 over Lansing Sexton. They were defeated by Mt. Pleasant 10-6, and lost the championship game of the double-elimination tournament 4-3 to Mt. Pleasant.

"It was the same as last year," said Parker. "We won the first two then also and had just one more to win. The team played well defensively and the pitching was very good. We didn't get as many hits as we needed to."

In other baseball action, several St. Johns players are participating in the Babe Ruth Tournament which is being played at Municipal Park in Lansing. They lost their first game 6-5 to Grosse Pointe, and won their next two 4-2 over Port Huron and 11-4 over Brighton. The team played St. Joseph yesterday (July 21), and a win there will put them in the finals today at Grand Ledge.

"It was definitely a busy week," Parker said. "The kids played a lot of ball in the heat and humidity, but we hoped they could play as much tournament ball as possible this summer."

Adds go-kart track

Ponderosa has fun for all

By MARILYN HESS
Staff Writer

The Ponderosa Sports Center in DeWitt has made so many improvements this year you might not recognize the place. And it's much more than the fresh coat of paint on the soft-serve ice-cream store.

The biggest new attraction is the 800-foot go-cart track which boasts an embankment and a hairpin turn. Owners Sam and Brenda Barnett say this has been the most popular activity at the center this summer.

The track is designed for older children, who because of insurance purposes have to be at least 4 feet 8 inches tall to drive the machines. The carts can go up to 18 miles per hour on the brand-new track.

For those less daring, the sports center features a driving range, an 18-hole mini-golf course, batting cages, a video and pool room, and concessions.

This year, the parking lot was blacktopped, and a picnic pavilion was added both for eating and just to get out of the sun. A dog walk area was also set up this year, because Barnetts say many travelers stop at the Ponderosa on their way to or from spots up north.

"Families come here together and do everything. We ourselves lean toward family-oriented entertainment because that's what we looked for for our family," Sam says.

And indeed the Barnett family is together at the sports center, only they're working together, not playing. Tim, the youngest, just turned 11 and is a sixth grader in the St. Johns School District. Brian, 17, and Ann, 19, also work at the Ponderosa, along with Sam Jr., 21, and his wife, Michelle. The Barnetts pick up the slack by hiring 20 local youth each summer to help out.

The Ponderosa Sports Center is open from April 1 to Oct. 1, seven days a week. And, contrary to popular belief, Brenda says, the family does not retire to Florida in the winter. More likely, they're planning more ways to make the Ponderosa a fun place for families to spend the day.

GO-GO — This new go-cart track at Ponderosa Sports Center features a hilly course and a hairpin turn. For $2.50, you can ride to your heart's content for six minutes. Ponderosa also features miniature golf, a driving range, batting cages, and a video/pool room.

Diehards take first place at annual Macker b-ball event

By JAYNE GRAHAM
Staff Writer

They call themselves the Diehards, and they lived up to their name at the recent Gus Macker three-on-three basketball tournament in Lowell.

"We originally chose the name because we're still playing basketball," says Neil Thelen of Grand Ledge, a teacher at Portland Middle School.

"But the name took on new meaning when we continually got down early and then came back," he explains.

The Diehards — Thelen, Jerry Arens of Fowler, and Greg Huhn and Steve Wirth of Grand Ledge — swept through their 30-and-older division, winning five games and the championship in their first year of Macker competition.

The Macker tournament started out as a neighborhood teenagers' pickup tournament in a driveway 13 years ago, and has grown into a nationally-known event which this year drew 4,228 players from 29 states, plus about 20,000 spectators, to the tiny town of Lowell.

Players include middle-aged businessmen, sixth-graders, world-class female athletes — and teams like the Diehards, who played against each other in high school, remained friends after graduation, and have played pickup basketball for years at gyms in Fowler and Wacousta.

"The training in Wacousta prepared us well," says Arens, half-jokingly. "Unlimited fouls helped, too."

Arens and Wirth both played high school ball at Pewamo-Westphalia, while Thelen was on Fowler's team and Huhn played for Grand Ledge. All of them graduated in the early 1970s, and they've reserved Tuesday nights for basketball for "the last 10 years, at least," Arens says.

Thelen says he has wated to enter the Macker tournament for a long time. Last year's Sports Illustrated coverage game him "the final nudge."

And, he adds, even though the Diehards hadn't played in front of crowds since their high school days, "for us, it was kind of nice to play before crowds. It made it more exciting."

The tournament is set up on the streets of Lowell surrounding the home of Scott McNeal, whose high school nickname was Gus Macker. This year, 54 half-courts were set up in the roads to accomodate all the entries.

Games, which normally take about a half-hour, are scored at one point per basket, with the first team reaching 21 two points ahead the winner. Because of rain delays, however, the Diehards won their games by reaching 15 points first.

"We had some really close games," Thelen says. "We'd fall back early and come back to win."

They won their opener 20-17, then edged their second opponent 15-14. The third game was won by three points, 15-12, and the semi-final was 15-13 for the Diehards.

Their championship game may have been the easiest, because the opposing team, from Benton Harbor, had fought back from the loser's bracket. While it was the Diehards' fifth game, the Benton Harbor team had already played seven or eight, and fatigue was a major factor.

"The nice thing in this tournament is that we all contributed in a major way in every game," Thelen says. He says the team's strengths were aggressive defense (Arens' unlimited fouls?); balanced scoring, with each team member picking up his share of the load; and an ability to adjust.

"We definitely needed the substitution," he adds. "It was very intense and players tired quickly, so it was important to use strategy in subbing during the timeouts."

Now that they've experienced Mackermania, those pick-up games during the long winters in Wacousta may not ever be the same.

Conservation necessary

By EILEEN GILLESPIE
Clinton Soil
Conservation District

Water is essential for all biological systems. Without water for plant growth there would be no food for humans and animals. Without water there would be no animal or human life.

Water has a key role in photosynthesis — the process of converting sunlight energy, carbon dioxide, and water into carbohydrates — first for plant life and then for the animals that consume plants.

A renewable resource, water is made available by the hydrologic cycle. In this cycle, water evaporates from oceans and land and the water vapor is transported by the atmosphere over land where it condenses and falls as precipitation in the form of rain or snow. Ultimately, precipitation is the source of all our freshwater resources.

Successful management of water resources in U.S. agriculture has been instrumental in development of one of the most productive agricultural systems in the world. This in turn has been a major factor in our quality of life.

The future success of U.S. agriculture and the quality of environment will depend on how we cope with decreasing water supplies for agriculture as ground water is depleted in some regions, as competition for surface supplies increased, and as the quality of water is degraded with increasing intensity of water use.

Water use in the United States has increased steadily during the past 30 years. Although the water needed for consumption per person is less than one gallon per day, the per capita withdrawal for public use in 1980 was 183 gallons per day and the per capita consumption for all domestic uses was 38 gallons.

During the past several decades, we have learned how to increase water use efficiency in agriculture by increasing production per unit of water consumed.

Not all improved technologies are being used yet because of economic and other constraints. Overcoming these constraints is one of our future challenges. Another challenge is to explore totally new concepts of managing water resources to benefit the entire population.

Bargain sales 'hot' this year

"Hot" was the word for the 1986 St. Johns Sidewalk Sales, both in terms of bargains for shoppers and in the temperature on the street.

A heat stress alert issued by the National Weather Service and the thermometer registering in the 90s on Thursday and Friday last week kept some would-be shoppers at home. However, sidewalks were crowded and parking spaces at a premium early Thursday morning as people tried to beat the heat during the first ever citywide sale.

"We didn't seem to have as many people as usual in the afternoon," says Mary Meyer, owner of the Treasure Chest in downtown St. Johns. "I think the heat kept some people away."

Alan Harr of Harr's Jewelry and one of the coordinators of the annual event agreed with that opinion.

"It was really too hot to be outside for some people," he says.

Overall sentiment among the merchants from downtown, the Southpoint Mall, and Southgate Plaza was that the sales were on par with past years.

Wheat drying

Giles Roehl

Wheat — how do we handle it now? Because of the weather, diseases present, and the sprouting of wheat in the head you may wish to consider harvesting as soon as possible and drying the crop. Here are some tips on drying the wheat by Roger Brook, Michigan State University.

Early wheat harvest coupled with forced air drying can be a high payoff area for many wheat producers. Wheat can be satisfactorily harvested at moisture contents up to 20 percent. The grain will be high quality and will likely have lower shatter and threshing losses at harvest. Under adverse conditions, harvesting can be carried out at moisture contents up to 25 percent, but some denting and distortion of the wheat grains might occur.

Early harvested wheat will generally be the highest test weight grain marketed. Once the grain reaches 14 percent moisture in the field, each time it is re-wetted by rain or dew, the test weight and overall quality drop.

Studies at Ohio State have shown that as wheat stands in the field after maturity, the following occur:

1. Test weight decreases.
2. There is no effect on milling and baking quality.
3. Shatter losses during harvest can increase by as much as 12 pounds/acre.

When drying wheat, keep the input drying air temperature below 140 degrees F to avoid damage to milling quality (100 degrees F for seed wheat). When using a high speed drying system, designed primarily for corn, heat input may not be necessary because of the high air flow rates common in these dryers.

In-bin drying methods are readily adapted for drying wheat. Fans in heated air bin drying systems should be run continuously until the wheat reaches 15 percent moisture. More total drying is accomplished by continuous alone, thus minimizing mold growth at the top of the bin. Recommended airflows for drying wheat to 13 percent are:

Initial moisture: 16 percent 1 cfm/bu; 16-18 percent 2 cfm/bu; 18-20 percent 3 cfm/bu; over 20 percent 5cfm/bu with supplemental heat.

Fill depths for wheat are about 1/3 of the fill depths for corn as indicated in AEIS 404, "Operating a Low Temperature Drying System." For wheat storage, follow the recommendations in bulletin E-1431, "Stored Grain Management."

Remember if you plan to use this wheat for seed: 1. turn up the combine fan to remove as much infected grain as possible; 2. treat seed with a seed treatment fungicide. Vivavax 200 with Captan has been shown to be superior to other fungicide in controlling scab seeding blight in the fall.

Attend open shows

4-H'ers prepare for fair

By DIANA JOHNSON
Clinton Caprines

As the Clinton County Fair approaches, many 4-H'ers are attending open shows in mid-Michigan, looking for second opinions on projects and working on showmanship with their special animal projects.

Showmanship is an area in which the 4-H'ers and their animals must learn to work together in order to impress the judge in looking their very best at all times in the show ring. The animal must be well groomed. Often this consists of a bath for the animal with hooves that are trimmed and polished, cleaned tails, ears and noses, and proper clipping of hair.

The 4-H'er must be in proper show attire, know the parts of the animal, knowing the breed and birth dates and freshening date of the animal. Animals and show persons must keep their eyes on the judge at all times and wear a good smile.

A number of Clinton County 4-H'ers attended the Gratiot Agriculture Expo open show fair which was held on July 4-11. Winners included:

Kim Schaub, Dewitt, Circle Y Riders — western horsemanship, second; English pleasure, second; western pleasure, fourth; fitting and showing, third; trail horse, third.

Keisha Schaub, DeWitt, Charles Gang — chicken scratch, first; crewel, first; trophy lace net, second; needle point, first; cross stitch, first; latch hook, second; rabbits, first; senior showmanship trophy, breed, first; market, first.

Tina Schaub, DeWitt, Clinton Caprines — pillow, first; chicken scratch, second; crewel, second; ceramics, first; latch hook, third; goats-junior Nubian class, first; yearling, fourth.

Cheryle Johnson, St. Johns, Clinton Caprines — goats, senior showmanship, first; senior kid, third; yearling, fifth.

Sherry Kast, Ovid, Clinton Caprines — goats, junior showmanship, first; grand showmanship trophy, junior alpine kid, second; senior kid, third; junior milker, second; best udder, third.

Becky Kast, Ovid, Clinton Caprines — junior showmanship, second; reserve grand showmanship, junior alpine kid, second; yearling, third; junior milker, first; best udder, second.

Jason Roof, St. Johns, Clinton Caprines — junior showmanship, third; junior toggenburg kid, fourth; senior milker, third.

Jill Winn, Elsie, Clinton Caprines — junior showmanship, fourth; junior toggenburg kid, second; yearling, first; senior milker, second; best udder, fourth.

Amy Winn, Elsie, Clinton Caprines — junior toggenburg kid, first; junior milker, fourth; senior milker, first; best udder, first; trophy, best overall doe trophy, grand champion trophy.

Kevin Roof, St. Johns, Clinton Caprines — junior toggenburg kid, fifth.

James Wilson, St. Johns, Clinton Caprines — junior nubian kid, fourth; junior milker, third.

Nathaniel Wilson, St. Johns, Clinton Caprines — junior nubian kid, second; junior milker, first.

4-H'ers Michael Johnson and Jermy Foster both of St. Johns, attended the Broiler Contest held at Michigan State University last week. Each took eighth place at the contest, Jermy in the intermediate division and Michael in the juniors division.

Getting hay dry

Marilyn Loudenslager

If you are trying to put up your alfalfa as dry hay, you may have noticed that there is not quite enough time between rain showers to get the job done. In fact, the long-range weather forecast indicates that hay growers may find themselves in a continual struggle during most of July and August to get the crop harvested before it rains again.

Although it should not be considered a rescue tactic, the use of a chemical conditioner (potassium carbonate) at cutting and a preservative (propionic acid) when baling may mean beating the next rain. Conditioners speed hay drying. Preservatives help protect hay quality.

Alan Rotz, U.S. Department of Agriculture agricultural research engineer based at Michigan State University, says hay producers can trim as much as two days from harvesting operations when the weather is dry enough to get into the field. To be most effective, the conditioner should be applied with the mower-conditioner. The recommended application rate is 30 to 50 gallons per acre. The mixture ratio is one-quarter pound of potassium carbonate per gallon of water.

Commercially prepared conditioners cost about $5 to $8 per ton of hay. If the producer mixes the potassium carbonate, the cost is around $3.50 per ton of hay. Chemical conditioners appear to be most effective on alfalfa, bird's-foot trefoil, and red clover. Tests indicate that the treatment is not effective on brome grass and orchard grasses. Propionic acid is mixed 1:1 with water and applied to hay at the time of baling. Commercial mixes will cost about $15 per ton of hay and a farm-mixed solution will cost about $11 per ton, depending on the rate of application. The mixture is according to pounds: If the hay moisture is between 20 and 25 percent, the recommended application rate of propionic acid is 15 pounds per ton of hay. If hay is between 25 and 30 percent moisture, apply 20 pounds of propionic acid per ton of hay.

The cost of outfitting harvesting equipment with chemical application apparatus is about $1,000 per unit. Fabricating the application system on the farm will reduce the expense.

Hay conditioners and preservatives will not restore hay quality — rather, they are tools to help increase the timeliness of harvest. Details about the effectiveness and economics of using hay conditioners and preservatives will be provided this week during the field demonstrations at Ag. Expo, July 22-24 at MSU.

Interested individuals should stop at Ag. Expo or visit the Cooperative Extension Service office to get more details on chemical conditioners and preservatives for hay. You can't stop the rain, but you may be able to speed up the drying process and preserve the hay's quality.

Marilyn Loudenslager is the Clinton County Cooperative Extension Service Agriculture Agent.

Clover Clippings Up, up, and away

Theresa Silm

It'll be up, up, and away in 4-H come Monday, Aug. 4, as hundreds of 4-H members, parents, and leaders converge on the Clinton County Fairgrounds in St. Johns for the annual 4-H Youth Fair.

Nearly 2,000 people are expected to be involved in the many different fair activities scheduled throughout the week.

Fair board members report that plans for this year's event have been in the works for 12 months and everything is coming into place for a week promising to be fun for everyone.

Although the fair doesn't have a carnival, there are many attractions for fair goers and a family atmosphere prevails. The Baby Animal Tent is always a highlight for both young and old visitors.

A Lip Sinc Contest is planned for Monday evening along with a pony pull in the horse arena. Tuesday a Crafts Fair is open to the public and Wednesday is Homemaker's Day. Homemaker's Day includes several opportunities for people in the community to enter their own handwork.

Thursday will be Kid's Day and a full day of special activities is planned for kids of all ages. Details for all events are available at the Cooperative Extension Service office or the Fair Office during the fair.

Theresa Silm is the Clinton County Cooperative Extension Service 4-H Youth Agent.

Wheat forecast is lower

The July 1 forecast of 1986 wheat production in Michigan is 39.9 million bushels, 11 percent below 1985 output. There are 700,000 acres for harvest, according to Federal/State Michigan Agricultural Statistics Service. The yield forecast is 57 bushels per acre, down three bushels from 1985 and from the June 1 forecast.

Much of the wheat production area received above normal precipitation during June. The humid conditions during the month facilitated the spread of several diseases, including septoria glume blotch, scab, mold, and anthrax.

MDA group to address issue

Since the 1960s, city dwellers in search of "peaceful country living" have been building homes on small parcels of agricultural land. These non-farm residents of "road frontage" developments are now questioning customary agricultural practices and challenging Michigan's Right-To-Farm laws.

In an attempt to seek answers and develop recommendations to address these concerns, Dr. Paul Kindinger, director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, in cooperation with the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, recently named a task force to study all facets of the issues.

In addition to MDA and DNR staff, the task force includes representatives from the Michigan Department of Public Health, Michigan Department of Commerce, Office of the Attorney General, Governor's Office, the United States Department of Agriculture Soil Conservation Service, and the Cooperative Extension Service at Michigan State University.

The task force is currently gathering information, studying current legislation, and drafting recommendations which will be available for citizen review and comment at future public hearings. Final draft of the recommendations is planned for completion by Oct. 1.

Millions of Americans enjoy benefits from healthwalking and racewalking

Walking is fast becoming a national pastime. More than 50 million people are doing it, not just for the pleasure of walking but for the health benefits.

Shoes, similar to those for runners, are being produced especially for walkers, and there is at least one new magazine for walkers.

To walk for fitness, the trick is to move fast enough to accelerate the heart for a sustained period of time, causing a need for more oxygen.

"Any rhythmic, repetitive activity which can be continued for two or more minutes without huffing and puffing afterwards is probably aerobic," says Dr. Lenore Zohman, author of Beyond Diet, Ex- ercise Your Way to Fitness and Heart Health.

Walking five miles in an hour, says Dr. Zohman, is an excellent example of a dynamic aerobic exercise. To benefit from walking or any aerobic exercise, it must be done three times weekly without missing more than two days in succession, emphasizes Dr. Zohman.

Another form of healthwalking that is gaining interest in America is racewalking, often referred to as the fitness sport of the '80s. Racewalking means keeping one foot on the ground at all times.

The International Amateur Athletic Federation defines racewalking as "a progression by steps so taken that unbroken contact with the ground is maintained at each step. The advancing foot of the walker must make contact with the ground before the rear foot leaves the ground."

It may sound complicated, but like many things, it becomes automatic with practice. Synchronized with the footsteps, the arms pump up and down in a piston motion. The gait is steady and even paced and, once mastered, easy to sustain over long distances.

When racewalkers participate with runners, they often outwalk them, with the last racewalkers finishing before the last runners.

This is what happens in the Mazola Corn Oil-YMCA Shape-Up Run held annually in New York City's Central park, where as many as 65 racewalkers join 3,000 runners.

Racewalkers entered the Olympics in 1908 in London. The United States, however, didn't have racewalkers of international caliber until the late 1960s. Before then, the sport was dominated by Swedish, British, Italian and Russian walkers.

Mazola corn oil, an official sponsor of the 1988 Olympics, this year begins sponsorship of several U.S. racewalking events including the U.S. National Racewalking Championships for the 50K in Seattle, Washington, and the 20K in Eugene, Oregon.

Their schedule also includes sponsorship of the 20K and 50K U.S. Olympic trials held in 1988.

Some of the U.S. team members will be racewalking in the 1987 Lugano Cup, the World Racewalking Championships being held for the first time in the United States in New York City's Central park.

Howard Jacobson, executive director of the Walkers Club of America and author of Racewalk to Fitness (New York: Walkers Club of America Press), says that it is easy to recognize racewalkers by their unique gait and the pumping action of the arms. It's this piston motion, borrowed from racewalkers, that turns fast walkers into healthwalkers, says Jacobson.

Healthwalking is not only the best way to shape up but is also, when coupled with a sensible diet, the best way to trim down, Jacobson believes.

Healthwalkers, like racewalkers and runners, are as concerned about their diets as they are about their exercise.

They strive to maintain a well-balanced diet that supplies the body with major nutrients and a balance of protein, fat and carbohydrate.

Although racewalking and other aerobic exercise can help lower blood cholesterol levels, lowering the amount of saturated fat in the diet also contributes to overall fitness.

In support of this dedication to total fitness, the Mazola Nutrition/Health Information Service is making available — free to consumers — two folders: Q's and A's About Food for Runners and Other Athletes and Recipes From Famous Runners (recipes are moderate in sodium, saturated fat and cholesterol).

For copies, legibly print your name and address with zip code on a postcard and mail to Mazola, Dept. QAMR/RFR, Box 307, Coventry, CT 06238.

RACEWALKERS PUMP their arms in step with their stride. Growing numbers of fast walkers (call it healthwalking) are increasing the aerobic benefits of walking by adopting the racewalkers style.

HEALTH & FITNESS

Regular exercise and healthful eating are key aspects of our lifestyle today

The health and fitness craze that began in the sixties and came to fruition in the seventies is no longer a craze or novelty, but a way of life for most people. Even those of us who have an unyielding aversion to sweat socks and medicine balls have come to realize the joys (yes joys!) of exercise.

As difficult as it may be to get oneself into an exercise program, the rewards are great. Feeling less tense, happier about one's body, and more energetic are the experiences that fitness fanatics describe.

But, perhaps that best thing about healthy and fit is that you can do it at your own pace. Trying to run five miles your first day out will get you nowhere (except maybe to a hospital).

Moderation is the key when starting your fitness program; physically it is a must, and psychologically you are more inclined to stick to a program in which you start off slowly and build up to a more rapid pace.

Another way to ensure that you stick to an exercise program is finding a sport or exercise that you truly enjoy and feel comfortable with.

If you are a person who enjoys group activities, an aerobics or dance class might be the activity for you.

Then again if you are more of an individualist, running, swimming or golf — all activities you can do on your own — are probably more suited to your personality. The possibilities are endless when it comes to choosing a program suited to your needs.

Even the traditional exercise class offers many different degrees of aerobics and calisthenics.

In one given aerobic program you may find four or five types of classes — from stretch and tone, which concentrates mostly on toning the muscles and does not include an aerobic workout; to low weights, which entails the use of free weights such as dumbbells and ankle weights; to classes that concentrate specifically on reducing hips and thighs; to jazz aerobics for the dance lover in all of us; to your basic aerobic or advanced aerobic class.

So, there truly is no excuse for not taking part in an exercise program, because generally speaking there is a class for everyone.

Then again, if aerobics are just not your thing, don't rule out competitive sports such as tennis, softball or basketball.

Water sports also have their appeal, and with the warm weather as an incentive you can mix such sports as swimming and water skiing with social activities.

The appeal of health and fitness knows no age limit and young and old alike can be found stretching and bending to the sound of a disco beat.

Senior citizen organizations as well as pre-school programs have made exercise a priority, while special exercise classes for moms-to-be can be found everywhere.

People's awareness of their bodies have inspired a recognition of healthy foods, while reports of the benefits of cutting down on fats, sugars and salts have strengthened the argument for more "natural" foods.

Steak and potatoes are being replaced with broiled chicken, fish and salads.

Whole-grain breads and rice have replaced starchy white bread, and the word "fiber" has become permanently etched in our vocabularies.

A few years ago, it was safe to call the fitness

Athletic fashions have become favorites for active women

American women have shown that physical fitness is not a fad, but rather a way of life.

Women have incorporated exercise into their daily lifestyles, so it's not surprising that athletic wear has become so popular in women's fashions. Warm-ups, unitards and sweat pants are not only worn in gyms and dance classes, but at shopping malls, restaurants and grocery markets.

Athletic footwear has made an equal if not greater impact on the fashion scene. First joggers were a staple in every woman's wardrobe; now aerobic shoes are the hot selling items.

According to buyer Jack Bellini of Lady Foot Locker, a national chain of stores that specialize in athletic footwear and apparel, aerobic shoes are here to stay. "They're the number one sellers by far, and they will be for a long time," he tells.

With the surging popularity of athletic fashions, today's active women can keep comfortable while looking great.

craze a fad, but given the amount of consciousness raised the health and fitness movement has effected, it is now safe to say that it is here to stay.

Recipe contest is planned for health-conscious cooks

A nationwide recipe contest featuring Weight Watchers Nonfat Yogurt as a principal ingredient was announced today by The Pro-Mark Companies, the licensed manufacturer of the product, and will include as grand prize, a seven-day cruise aboard a private yacht to the U.S. Virgin Islands.

"A recipe contest is a great way to share all the exciting ideas people across the country have for incorporating yogurt into their daily diets," said Rhoda Baker, director of advertising and communications for Pro-Mark. "As we all become more

Baker said that the Weight Watchers Yogurt Recipe Contest differs from others in that there are five first-place winners the basis of originality, taste and visual appeal, practicality, ease of preparation, and suitability to the Weight Watchers program.

The final tasteoff luncheon, at New York's Tavern on the Green, will be held November 7, 1986.

Complete details of the contest, including rules, will be detailed in the June issue of Weight Watchers Magazine. Contestants may also write for more information to The Pro-Mark Companies, Weight Watchers Yogurt Recipe Contest, P.O. Box 470231 Tulsa, OK 74147.

Pro-Mark is a privately held company actively engaged in the sale of Grade A ingredients to producing dairies in most of North America. In addition, its retail division manufactures and distributes Weight Watchers Brand fluid dairy products made in Grade A milk plants under license from H.J. Heinz. Those products include skin milk, cottage cheese yogurt and reduced calorie creamed cheese.

who will also compete for the grand prize cruise.

The five first-place winners will receive a "three-day adventure in New York," including a $1,000 shopping spree at Bloomingdale's and a complete beauty makeover at their salon, luxury hotel accommodations at the world famous Essex House Hotel, and will participate in the tasteoff luncheon at Central park's Tavern on the Green.

"Most contests would give a New York trip like this to the grand prize winner," said Baker. "We are giving five people a chance to be big winners, and one chance to win our dream vacation: A private cruise on their own yacht!"

In addition to the five first-place winners, Baker said that 25 other prize winners would be selected from the entrants. Five second-place winners will receive a microwave; five third-place winners will receive a Cuisinart food processor; and 15 honorable mention winners will receive a Black & Decker Cordless Mixer.

Contact lens wearers require special care in makeup selection

CONTACT LENS WEARERS should use a mascara specifically formulated and tested for them. Barnes-Hind's new Soft Mate Mascara, shown here, contains no harsh preservatives or oils, is flake-proof, water-resistant and smudge-proof.

Many women consider their eyes their most important feature and thus more than 14 million of them wear contact lenses. Most of these women also wear makeup, including eye makeup, and must be aware of some special considerations in makeup selection and application.

"Women who wear contact lenses may have irritation problems from using conventional makeup improperly," says Jane Baldwin, senior professional consultant for Barnes-Hind. "If makeup gets on your lenses, it could be a problem for eyes and lenses alike."

For this reason, Barnes-Hind, which manufactures Hydrocurve II soft contact lenses and Soft Mate contact lens solutions, has just introduced a new line of eye makeup specifically for contact lens wearers. Soft Mate Mascara and Soft Mate Eye Makeup Remover were tested by eye care specialists with all types of contact lenses.

"Some conventional eye cosmetics can be quite irritating to lens wearers, since they may contain harsh preservatives, fibers and oils that may soil the lenses," Ms. Baldwin says.

Soft Mate Mascara contains no harsh preservatives or oils, is flake-proof, water-resistant and smudge-proof. It is currently available in black and brown.

The Soft Mate Eye Makeup Remover solution is mild and free of oil, fragrance and irritants. In addition, the formula contains no mercurial preservatives like thimerosal which can be particularly irritating to eyes of contact lens wearers.

A specialist in contact lens education, Ms. Baldwin has counseled thousands of women on the proper fit and care of contact lenses.

She worked with Barnes-Hind to help them develop formulas that meet the needs of these women, and she has developed makeup guidelines that should be gospel for contact lens wearers — and good advice for any woman with sensitive eyes. Ms. Baldwin's guidelines are as follows:

- Always wash hands with oil-free, fragrance-free soap before removing or inserting contact lenses.
- Apply all cosmetics after you insert your lenses.
- Avoid using oily products that can soil lenses on or near the eyes.
- Use a mascara specifically formulated and tested for contact lens wearers and sensitive eyes, such as Soft Mate Mascara which is water-resistant, flakeproof and smudge-proof.
- Avoid application of eyeliner or mascara on the inner margins of eyelids.

•Avoid direct contact with aerosols such as hairspray, fragrances or deodorants. Close eyes first before using these products with lenses on.

•Avoid use of nail polish, remover or other solutions until after lenses are inserted.

•Remove lenses prior to removing eye makeup. Use an oil-free, fragrance-free, hypoallergenic remover such as Soft Mate Eye Makeup Remover. Use a lintfree pad or tissue. Keep eyes closed firmly during makeup removal.

•Extended lens wearers should exercise caution to minimize contact of eye makeup or remover onto the lens surface.

•If you get any cosmetics on your contact lenses, remove them immediately and clean them with an intensive cleaner such as Soft Mate Weekly Cleaning Solution.

•Consult your eye care practitioner if any redness, swelling, pain or irritation occurs.

•If you have sensitive eyes, use thimerosal-free contact lens solutions such as the Soft Mate Specially Formulated formula.

Sodium labeling

Beginning on July 1, 1986, the FDA will require food manufacturers to list the milligrams of sodium per serving on all nutrition labels. Words such as "low sodium" on a label have not always meant a great deal, but as of that date the FDA will require the standard terminology listed below. Note that "unsalted" does not mean sodium-free.

CLAIM ON LABEL	FDA REQUIREMENT
Low sodium	Less than 140 mg per serving
Very low sodium	Less than 35 mg per serving
Sodium free	Less than 5 mg per serving
Reduced sodium	75% or greater reduction
Unsalted	No salt added
