Roadside spraying called good for county in the long run

By RICH WERTZ
Editor

Dying, brown vegetation along county roads is a short-term disadvantage of roadside spraying but Clinton County will reap important benefits in the long term, said a representative of the company hired by the county to chemically clear vegetation from along county primary roads.

The spraying, conducted along primary county roads and some township roads, will increase visibility for motorists and prevent drifting snow from collecting on the roadways, said Michael Nobach, superintendent-manager of the Clinton County Road Commission.

The spray kills off vegetation that could otherwise obstruct motorists' vision. Roadside vegetation can also act as a snowfence, trapping snow on the roadway instead of allowing it to blow off, he said.

Nobach said the spraying, which began the first week of June and which was nearly complete late last week, was targeted at an area within 10 feet of the roadways and within 10 feet of the ground.

"WHAT YOU HAVE to look at is the short term versus the long term," said a representative of Tru Green, a lawn maintenance company in Okemos and the subcontractor of the $15,000 project.

The representative, who asked that his name not be used, said the long-term benefits of the spraying, referred to in the industry as "chemical trimming," include a reduction in county liability for obscured visibility on the roads and a considerable savings compared to the cost of manual trimming of the vegetation.

"One thing I think it's important to ask is 'What would Clinton County be like without any of this sort of work?'" the representative said, adding that roadways would eventually become completely closed if vegetation was allowed to grow unchecked.

THE CHEMICAL used in the spraying, a Dow Chemical Company product called Gariland 3A, is approved by the Environmental Protection Agency, commonly used all over the country, and poses no health threat, the representative said.

It is diluted with water at a ratio of approximately 100 parts water to one part chemical, he said.

He said chemical control of vegetation has become increasingly economical in recent years in comparison to clearing vegetation by hand.

Different types of plant life respond at different speeds to the chemical, he said. Brown vegetation will be visible from 30 to 90 days after the spray is applied, he said. Some of the vegetation will not turn brown until autumn, when leaves are turning colors anyway, he added.

IT IS NOT necessary to spray every year, he said.

"For the most part it covers us for a couple of years," the representative said of the spraying this year.

He said property owners near sprayed areas commonly associate damage to their plant life with the spray but that in most cases the damage is not caused by the spray but by insects or other problems.

"I won't say there is never any off target spraying," he added.

Tru Green sent a representative to the homes of six county residents who complained that the spray had damaged vegetation on their properties, he said. Of those, one property owner was paid $30 for vegetation growing close to the road that was damaged by the spraying, the representative said.

THE COMPANY also offered to replace two quarts of blackberries for another county resident, who declined the offer, he said. The company is frequently requested by residents to spray beyond the area authorized by the county, especially by farmers who want to clear vegetation between the roadside and their fields, he said.

"We've had better than 25 people who wanted us to spray more than what we were doing," he said.

Nobach said the road commission had no complaints about Tru Green's work.

"We're quite satisfied with it," he said.

The spraying, conducted this year in the eastern half of the county, will continue next year in the western half of the county, Nobach said.

"We do intend next year to let people know about it ahead of time," he said.

Seniors

ST. JOHNS Two trips sponsored by the Clinton County Senior Citizen Center are planned for this fall. A group will travel to Stratford, Ontario on Sept. 16-17 to see Shakespeare's "The Boys from Syracuse," and a trip to Hathaway House in Blissfield, Mich. is planned for Oct. 14. For more information and reservations, call Wanda Dietrich or Jim Greene at 224-4257.

Mostly good

ST. JOHNS The University of Michigan came, observed and reported — and St. Johns High School came away looking pretty good.

Donald G. Hon, a U of M consultant who visited the school on April 22, said in his Report of Accreditation Evaluation that he had observed, among other things, the following:

- Curriculum offerings are well-balanced between academic and vocational areas and that the administration, staff and students are friendly and communicative.

- Despite financial problems, the high school administration and faculty should be commended for giving that "little bit extra" to maintain quality.

- A well-planned guidance program has gained the respect of both faculty and students.

- The fine arts program is of high quality and well-balanced between the visual and performing arts.

- There appears to be a broad and exceptional programs for business education.

- A new job description for the assistant high school principal, allowing for a major allotment of time for coordination of student activities, is to be commended.

- The building is attractive and well-maintained and the administration and school board should be commended for implementing energy conservation measures.

On the negative side, Hon noted that there were only 169 days of instruction offered in the 1984-85 school year, that expenditures for classroom equipment have obviously been cut and replacement of same should be a top priority, and that both the library staff and library budget is spread too thin.

1986 MINT QUEEN Cheryl Rademacher was officially crowned Saturday night after winning a contest against 11 other contestants.

Photograph by Rich Wertz

And the winner is...Cheryl Rademacher!

She didn't cry or otherwise get mushy. A fleeting expression of surprise, a moments hesitation — and then Cheryl Rademacher, 18, simply walked over to accept the crown of the 1986 St. Johns Mint Queen.

A starting player on the St. Johns High School women's basketball and volleyball teams until she was graduated last spring, Rademacher scored with the judges and emerged as the titleholder out of a field of 12 contestants.

"I'm really surprised," she said. First runner up was Regina Fuentes, 18, of St. Johns; second runner up was Shelly Bower, 21, of Dewitt; third runner up was Laura Oakwood, 18, of St. Johns; and fourth runner up was Sandra Klaver, 17, of DeWitt.

Also participating were Christine Martis, 18; Ann Hughes, 18; Brenda Yallup, 18; Tammie Grams, 17; Carol Jean Moore, 21; all of St. Johns; and Kerri Fox, 20, of DeWitt.

The judges said it was a close finish.

"They were all very beautiful," said Judy Allen, one of five judges of the contest. "Each and every one of them was unique in their own way."

The contest included a dance routine performed by all the contestants, modeling evening attire and, for the five finalists, responding to the question "What does freedom mean to you?"

Rademacher, wearing a floor length burgandy evening dress, said that to her, freedom is the opportunity to use whatever talents you possess in whatever way seems right to you.

State Rep. Gary Randall, who traded in his legislative function for a judicial role for the evening, was overheard praising the Mint Queen Contest as a whole.

"I've judged four queen contests and this is the best one," he said.

Parents: Don't transfer kids to new schools

By RICH WERTZ
Editor

The parents of several St. Johns school children did not get any promises but school officials said July 21 they would attempt to resolve complaints by the parents about their children's building assignments for this fall.

At least four families have complained to school officials about their children's school building assignments. Two families said at the July 21 school board meeting that they do not want their children to be the exception to established school assignment boundaries.

Following a recommendation by the Citizens' Committee on School Organization, the district this year established M-21 as the dividing line for assigning school children who live in the city to either Perrin-Palmer School or Swegles School.

HOWEVER, because of classroom overloads, ten third and fourth grade students who live in the Swegles area were re-assigned to Perrin-Palmer. Similarly, 11 students will cross city-country boundaries to reduce classroom overloads.

The parents of two children who were re-assigned from Swegles to Perrin-Palmer spoke at the July 21 meeting, saying the re-assignments were unacceptable and would interfere with the educational progress of their children.

Emerson and Donna Stockwell, who live on Baker Street about three and a half blocks from Swegles School, said they were adamantly opposed to their daughter being assigned to Perrin-Palmer. They said the assignment would be harmful to their daughter, who they said would not understand why she was being singled out to leave the neighborhood and classmates to which she is accustomed.

The Stockwells said their son had been transferred several times between schools and that the transfers had slowed a portion of his educational development.

"WE DIDN'T complain," said Donna Stockwell. "We pay our taxes and we don't complain. But this time we are."

Michael Brown, another Baker Street resident whose son was assigned to Perrin-Palmer, also said the transfer would be harmful to his son.

Brown and the Stockwells both suggested that instead of re-assigning Swegles students, the district instead assign students to Perrin-Palmer who last year attended Central School. Central School was ordered closed by the state fire marshal at the end of the last school year.

"Essentially, they are closer to Perrin-Palmer than our kid," said Emerson Stockwell in a telephone interview after the school board meeting. "Why can't they move the kids who are being moved anyway?"

Donna Stockwell said if the district does not agree to her daughter remaining at Swegles School she will consider sending her to a parochial school — not something she is anxious to do, she said.

"WE DO HAVE the alternative of...just showing up that first day of school and saying 'This is where my daughter is going,'" said Donna Stockwell.

School officials noted that the criteria for assigning students to school buildings are, first, to send them to them to their neighborhood school, and secondly, to not break up families — that is to assign all elementary students in the same family to the same school. Both the Stockwells and the Browns have only one child in the public schools — meaning their children could be re-assigned without breaking up families.

Board Vice President Jeanette Adams said she understood the concern of the Brown and Stockwell families but suggested that the smaller class sizes resulting from the transfers would improve the educational opportunity of the children. The Stockwells said that had not turned out to be the case with their son.

ADAMS ALSO SAID the board has to balance the concerns of individual families with concern for the entire school district.

"There are times when the board has to make decisions that it believes are best for the district as a whole," she said.

The board agreed to direct administrators to study the issue and look for ways to resolve the complaints by the August 11 meeting of the board.

Adams noted that the board had heard concerns from another group of parents at the July 7 meeting and said the board, if it attempts to Conservative?

Rich Wertz

This is supposed to be a conservative county, right? That was my understanding anyway. It is overwhelmingly Republican in its politics. Voters here elected Alan Cropsey, considered by many to be one of the most conservative legislators in Lansing, to represent them in the state Senate.

Values such as the importance of the family, the flag, military service, private property and free enterprise are not just given lip service here — they are taken very seriously.

"Some people here are so conservative you can almost see Zolton Ferancy coming around the other side," was one comment I have heard.

Thus it was interesting last week when the St. Johns Board of Education last week voted to throw its support behind legislation aimed at redistributing the wealth of the state of Michigan.

Don't get me wrong — I'm not calling anyone a commie. I support the legislation also and I am not now nor have I ever been a communist. Honest.

But let's go back to the beginning. At the July 21 meeting of the school board there was on the agenda a resolution that called for the school district to join a coalition organized to fight property tax assessment appeals by large corporations around the state. The corporations, most prominently General Motors, have a lot of governmental units shaking in their boots at the idea of what could happen if those appeals go through. Tax revenues would plummet.

Because large corporations have a lot more dollars with which to fight their side of the legal battle, the idea was born that the little guys should band together to protect their tax bases. School districts such as Waverly, made wealthy by the flow of corporate tax dollars, have a lot to lose if the tax appeals are granted.

Instead of paying a $50 fee and joining the coalition, however, the St. Johns school board voted unanimously to approve a resolution proposed by trustee Thomas Irner. The resolution essentially puts the coalition on notice that the St. Johns has no interest in protecting the tax bases of school districts that are already wealthy in comparison to St. Johns.

"Don't give'em a nickle," Irner commented. Instead, the board voted to support legislation pending in Lansing that would set aside tax revenue from business with assessed values of $10 million or more. Instead of going into the local coffers the revenue from those businesses would go into the state coffers and would be then distributed to all the school districts in the state.

"There you're getting into a socialistic redistribution of wealth," said Rolf Peterson, of DeWitt, who is running for Cropsey's senate seat, when he was told of the legislation last April.

Peterson, who was busy plugging his own property tax reform plan at the time, was admittedly giving an off-the-cuff first impression of a plan he had not studied closely. But he had a point. Any way you look at it, it is a redistribution of wealth. It means more money for the have-nots and less money for the haves. Less money for Waverly. More for St. Johns.

Granted, we're talking about the wealth of government units, not individuals but the principal is the same and the money is, after all, spent on services for individuals.

The significance of all this is probably minimal. It is politics as usual for elected officials to put their own constituencies first. But still — people from outside the county occasionally say to me, "Clinton County? That's real conservative isn't it?" I'll say, "Well, I don't know..."

Bug zappers

Dawn Harris

The pops and crackles from a backyard electronic bug zapper may be music to your ear but chances are that the device isn't killing the insects you want to eliminate.

In fact, it may be attracting even more of them to your yard than you'd have if you didn't have the zapper.

Gary Dunn, extension entomologist at Michigan State University, says electronic bug killers use black light to lure insects to their death on an electrified grid. In an enclosed space — such as a screened porch, dairy parlor milk room or hospital corridor — they can be fairly effective. Fastened to a post in the back yard, they will kill insects — the crackling noises of the insects frying on the grid attest to that — but they are not effective in ridding the area of the biting pests that people expect them to eliminate.

Mosquitoes and other biting flies in search of a blood meal find their victims by detecting the carbon dioxide they give off. Though mosquitoes will be drawn to a black light, they will quickly be distracted by a warm body. Horse flies and other biting flies work days and are not attracted to a black light at all.

Even if all the insects you wanted to kill were attracted to the device, you could never clear and keep an area insect free unless you could enclose it. New insects are always coming into your yard from outside it — especially if you have a black light out there to attract them. It is clear that more mosquitoes are drawn into a yard with a bug zapper than would fly in to it on their own.

A few might be killed, unless they are diverted by an opportunity to feed. But the majority of the insects the bug zapper kills are harmless night-flying moths, beetles, mayflies, non-biting gnats and other non-pests. A few are even beneficial, in that they prey on insects that humans consider pests.

Any of these can become nuisance pests, however, if the black light trap is placed by the patio, on a corner of the porch, near the back door or at one corner of the deck.

If people would think for a moment about how these traps work, they'd place them as far from the outdoor living space and entryways to the home as they could put them. They're going to attract insects, and, harmless or not, hordes of insects aren't a welcome addition to outdoor living. No one I know likes getting June bugs tangled in their hair, for instance, or garnishing the products of an outdoor cookout with little moths. In the wrong spot, a bug zapper will increase or even create pest problems rather than reduce them.

A big selling point of these devices is that they involve no messy or toxic chemicals and so pose no threat to humans, animals or the environment. They also pose no particular threat to most biting pests you want to control. On the other hand, some insecticides available to homeowners for control of biting insects outdoors are effective for temporary control and are generally not toxic to humans or pets. They might give you the results you hope for from an electronic bug killer at a fraction of the cost.

"It's in the Bag" by Bob Beck

Health-minded America is consuming millions of cups of yogurt each year due to its low fat content and high nutrition. The lactic in yogurt is the valuable ingredient that soothes our stomachs and feeds "friendly bacteria" in our bodies.

Yogurt adds its own distinctive tang and consistency to dips, dressings, sauces and desserts. Plain, flavored, fruited or frozen, yogurt has come a long way since its origins in the Mediterranean countries hundreds of years ago.

History records that a careless cook left some milk out in the hot sun where it came in contact with airborne bacteria. The result of what yogurt experts view as a "happy accident" was then sampled by some daring and nameless soul who enjoyed the creamy concoction. Thus, yogurt was on its way.

The Old Testament says that the prophet Abraham lived to be 175 and even reproduced at age 100. Ancient rumors attribute his longevity to a recipe of yogurt. Later, by 1929, yogurt was being produced commercially in France, where it was advertised as "The Dessert of Happy Digestion."

Be that as it may be, if you haven't tried yogurt, you're in for a real treat. And if you haven't shopped at Beck's don't wait until you're 175... we want to see you this week.

Roadside spraying should be stopped

To the Editor:

Has anybody else in Clinton County noticed the horrible, brown, dying look of the trees along many of our main county roads such as Round Lake and Wood Roads?

We fail to see the reason for this spraying and wonder why we have to pay our tax dollars for it. We drive in other parts of Michigan and do not see this. What good does it accomplish? Most of the trees come back the following spring and those small ones that might be killed are never cut down but left there. It has made this area a real eye-sore.

Furthermore, we doubt the safety of the spray used. When we inquired we were told it was safe, but then people were told the same about DDT and agent orange etc., which they now say are very dangerous. We feel our tax money could be better spent and our county would look much prettier if the spraying were stopped.

Statesman needed to reform property tax

To the Editor:

At election time there is the usual list of politicians (rarely statesmen) who are pushed to the front in the primary election by the two political parties. Once in office, we know what happens. The taxes go up, not down as promised, and the voting campaign has turned out to be a brainwash.

One candidate cried out that she was running for office because of social evils (of which we are all aware) but with no plan to correct them. She also added that our roads are falling apart. Yes, they do, with the winter freeze, but in summer we repair them, so the sky is not falling. Her response to funding for education was to shift the burden from the farmer. Then the burden automatically falls on the property owners in the villages and cities. Again no solution!

Right now I am looking down a list of for a statesman and I see the name Rolf Peterson for state senator. When I talked with him briefly, I was impressed with the fact that he really wanted to hear what I had to say and that he would do something about it. His reputation, credentials and qualifications are good, but is he a statesman? According to Webster's definition, is he "versed in the art and principles of government?" Has he shown "wisdom in treating or directing public matters?" The answer is "Yes."

But I must add to Webster's shallow definition of a statesman with a question. Does he strongly believe that certain things must be changed, and will he work to that end? One of the things Rolf strongly believes is that there has to be an alternative to property tax for education and he is ready to work for the best plan to take its place — either his plan or that of another person.

Personally, I feel that profits and income might reasonably be taxed, but not so with a home which is the roof over a man's head.

Is not man entitled to the security of knowing that his shelter can never be taken from him?

Breast Cancer Awareness Week is August 3 to 9

The Clinton County chapter of the American Cancer Society (ACS) has proclaimed the week of August 3-9 as "Breast Cancer Awareness Week."

Thirty-eight thousand American women will die of breast cancer this year alone, and another 115,000 cases will be diagnosed.

In light of these statistics, and the importance of early detection in successful treatment, the ACS will be joined in its efforts by Clinton Imaging and Diagnostic Center in St. Johns.

Trained staff members of the center will be available during Aug. 3-9 to instruct women in breast self-examination techniques, conduct tours of the facility, and answer questions regarding mammography.

"Breast cancer, or even the thought of it, can be very frightening for most women," said Carol Eckley, chief radiologic technologist at Clinton Memorial Hospital. "But it's important that women understand that early detection will result in successful treatment in nine out of ten cases."

In addition to monthly breast self-examination, the ACS recommends that all women 35 years of age and older have a baseline mammogram which can then be used for comparison with future exams.

Mammography uses a low-dose radiation capable of detecting irregularities in the breast tissue up to three years before it can be felt.

Breast self-examination class have been scheduled for Aug. 5 from 3-4 p.m.; Aug. 6 from 7-8 p.m.; and Aug. 7 from 3-4 p.m. For more information, call Clinton Imaging and Diagnostic Center at 224-6653.

Also, a big thank you to Frank Hufnagel and the Fowler Lions Club for the tickets that were graciously donated to the old fashioned circus. We can't remember having so much fun!

CMH nurses lose to the rest of the world

The 1986 Clinton Memorial Hospital challenge saw the hospital nursing staff's two-year reign as "champion" come to an end, as the "rest of the world" came through in this year's American Red Cross Blood Drive. Sixty-four donors took part in this year's blood drive and the nursing staff's annual challenge to other hospital departments and community donors. Receiving a "2-gallon donor" pin was Judy Boak, employed in food and nutrition services at the hospital. "One-gallon donor" pins went to Debra Armbrustmacher and Jane Sira, nursing staff members.

Maralyse Brooks and Shirley Pouch, both of St. Johns, Mrs. Romeo Tata of Haslett and St. Petersburg, Fla., and Virginia Ford of Lansing were honored with the awards. They are among seven of the 15 original members of the society.

The organization requires that members submit authentic proof of lineal descent to a colonist living here before July 4, 1776. It is the second largest patriotic and historical organization in the United States next to the Daughters of the American Revolution.

members. They meet four times a year and have recently established an annual award given to an MSU ROTC cadet. Persons interested in knowing about membership in the society should contact Mrs. Mary Jackson, registrar in Bath, 641-4224.

Redwing bowlers are tops at state meet

By RHONDA GAFFNEY Sports Editor

Champion youth bowlers — Redwing Lanes in St. Johns has them, and they're proud of it.

The team of Keith Rapp, Steve Rapp, Jamie Husted, Scott Berry, and Chris Johnson took a first place for their division in the finals of the State Team event, and Keith was second in the Michigan State Junior Bowling Singles Scholarship Tournament.

"All the kids from Redwing Lanes have done really well in all their tournaments this year," said Alberta Rapp who helps coordinate the youth league at Redwing along with Mike Berry. "We're extremely proud of them." To qualify for the State Team event, the youth had a total series of 2436 in a district roll-off held in Lansing earlier this year. At the finals, Jamie had games of 133-123-144; Keith had 119-150-174; Steve scored 156-144-152; Chris had 168-179-164; and Scott rolled 211-174-224. Their total with handicap was 2565.

The group received plaques for their first place finish at the district level, and will receive awards at the State Banquet this weekend in Lansing.

Keith bowled against 242 other bowlers in the junior boys division tournament held in Flint. He had games of 198-230-156 which gave him a handicap total of 776. That was good for second place in his division and earned him a $500 scholarship to be used at the college of his choice.

"The scholarship goes into a trust fund," Rapp said, "and he will also receive a trophy at the State Banquet this Sunday."

The youth program is ready to roll for the coming school year with sign-ups at Redwing beginning on Aug. 8. According to Rapp, all ages are welcome.

"Something new this year will be a Pee-Wee league," she said. "It will be for 3, 4, and 5 year olds and will allow them to learn the basics and have fun. We're looking forward to the new season, and the kids all are too."

Turnovers cost Bay City game

Cardinals drop first of year

The Bath Cardinals suffered their first loss of the season in front of their largest home audience this year — the Charities Football League Team was defeated 13-6 by the Bay City Brahmas during Bath's Sesquicentennial weekend celebration.

It's not hard to figure out where the Cardinals got in trouble — although they racked up 277 yards offensively compared to 93 by Battle Creek, Bath had seven turnovers and just couldn't get to the end zone.

The Cardinals' only scoring drive on the hot, humid Saturday night came in the fourth quarter when Bob Pfeiffer ran five yards for a TD. The Brahmas were ahead 7-0 by the end of the first quarter, and had expanded their lead to 13-0 at halftime.

Bath Quarterback Greg McKay was 4-12 for 62 yards. Backup quarterback Ray Prince contributed 2 of 6.

The game brings the Cardinals to a 5-1 record, which equals that of the Brahmas after they earned the win. The rival Lansing Crusaders are at 5-0 because the game they were scheduled to play last week was cancelled due to absent officials. Last year it was Bath and Lansing that competed for the league crown in the playoffs.

The Crusaders and the Cardinals square off this Saturday, Aug. 2 at the Crusaders' home field at Haslett High School. Game time is 7 p.m.

'Two by Two' will be performed by P-W Community Players

"Two by Two," a Richard Rodgers musical comedy of Noah and the Ark, will be presented by the Pewamo-Westphalia Community Players on Aug. 8, 9, 10, 15, and 16. Friday and Saturday performances begin at 8 p.m. with the Aug. 10 matinee beginning at 4 p.m.

All performances will be held at the Pewamo Elementary School in Pewamo. Area residents can catch a preview of the show when cast members sing at the St. Johns Mint Festival on Aug. 9 at 1 p.m.

Cast members include Jeff Massey, a PWCP veteran from Grand Ledge, as Noah; Michelle McCord, a newcomer to the players from Ionia, as Noah's wife, Esther; John Fedewa of Pewamo, Kevin Cashen of Hubbardston, and Brad Massey of St. Johns will portray Noah's sons, Shem, Ham, and Japheth; Darlene Costello and Susan Schmitt from Westphalia will play the parts of the wives, Leah and Rachel; Nita Massey as Goldie also serves as musical director for the production; and Dennis Pilmore of Pewamo is the director.

"The Jewish humor in this play is wry and subtle, and it is a challenge to make that humor understandable," Pilmore says. "Our cast has done a magnificent job of interpreting that kind of humor."

Special sound effects from the original Broadway production, unique lighting effects (including a rainbow), and a 14-piece orchestra are featured in the production.

Ticket prices are $4 for adults, $3 for senior citizens and children under 12. Tickets may be reserved by calling 593-2097 or 593-2265. Senior citizens will be served refreshments on opening night.

Czech Harvest Festival planned for Bannister on Sunday, August 3

The annual Czechoslovak Harvest Festival is planned for Sunday, Aug. 3, at the ZCJB Hall in Bannister, sponsored by lodges in Bannister, Flint, and Owosso. The celebration was brought over from Czechoslovakia where there were two festivals, Posviceni and Obzinky. When the harvest was over the laborers made a wreath of wheat or rye and presented it to the landowner. After the ceremony there was much feasting and dancing. The Michigan ZCJB lodges have tried to keep many of the traditions alive during the annual festival.

There will be a Czechoslovakian Heritage Mass at St. Cyrils Church in Bannister at 10:30 a.m. with some of the hymns in polka rhythms. Visitors are invited to attend and dress in old-world costumes.

A dinner of fried chicken, ham and much more will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. The program begins at 2:30 p.m. with members dressed in colorful ethnic costumes carrying rakes and scythes. More than 50 dancers ranging in age from 2 to 76 will perform Czechoslovakian folk dances. Czech songs will be sung and there will be a skit and marionette show. Dancing begins at 4 p.m. with music by the Hank Stasa Band. Food, games, drawings, ethnic entertainment, and a beer tent will be featured throughout the afternoon.

Age and Investment

By Chuck Dicken

It's important to consider our current position in life when making investment decisions.

Age is one of the factors which strongly influences investment decisions. Have you ever noticed, the older we get the more conservative we become? We like to think of it as just being smarter. Is it smarter, or has our position in life changed?

As we grow older, we become aware that a serious investment error could jeopardize the savings we've worked years to accumulate. The closer we get to retirement, the fewer years we have to rebuild our reserves. Thus, we become more conservative in our investment approach. Our position is a safe one aimed at preserving what we have.

In our youth, many of us might have said, "shoot the works," because we realized if we lost, we'd have more years ahead to rebuild — certainly, this is not to be criticized. In our free enterprise economy, we must have those who are willing to take a calculated risk in hope of growth. Without this pioneer spirit, advanced thinking could never be reality. The point is, our age bears strongly on how much risk we're willing to accept.

A strong consideration in our investment approach should be family responsibilities. A young person starting out in life with the responsibility of one or more children must consider that responsibility. Maximum necessary protection for the fewest dollars should supercede any forced savings whereby family protection is reduced.

It's wise to set funds aside for emergency use. These funds should be ones that can be easily reached without penalty or loss.

Our financial needs are always changing, and how we address them at a particular time will depend on our position in life.

Investment term of the week: Speculation — The employment of funds by individuals who take risks. Safety of principal is a secondary factor.

Test drive a White. The right Tractor.

Don't buy too much tractor... or too little. Test drive all three White Tractors shown here to see which is best for your yard.

Only one company, White, can demonstrate these three major types of tractors at one place — your White servicing dealer. Compare them to determine which is best for your needs. Then compare them to the competition. We'll bet $100 you'll go with White. That's right. Receive a $100 U.S. Savings Bond when you buy one of the three models described on these pages. We're so sure they're superior, we'll even give you a bond if you buy a comparable competitive make. Don't buy too much tractor... or too little. Whatever your yard requires, one of these White tractors is the right tractor for you. Test drive all three, and see for yourself.

TURF BOSS Zero-turn capability cuts mowing time by up to one-third over standard tractors!

TURF BOSS

Turf Boss is the most efficient and easy-to-operate tractor when you have an acre or more to cover. Particularly if it's covered with trees, shrubs or other obstacles. It mows up to 3 acres per hour, and many users report time savings of up to one-third. The extra wide, out-front mowing deck is free-floating to follow the contours of the ground for a perfect cut every time. And because the mower is out front, you can mow right up to the edge of your house, a pond or trees; and it flips up for easy cleaning and servicing. True zero-turn, individual-wheel power steering plus hydrostatic drive make the Turf Boss so easy to maneuver, you won't believe you're operating a tractor!

YARD BOSS GT-1855 Nobody beats our performance.. or our price!

$100 U.S. SAVINGS BOND

Visit your White dealer and test drive the Turf Boss, GT-1855 or LT-120. Then check out the competition. We're so sure our tractors are superior, we'll give you a $100 U.S. Savings Bond when you buy one of these three models — even if you buy a comparable tractor from one of our competitors! Ask for details.

GT-1855

You'll want to look at the GT-1855 for heavy-duty gardening jobs requiring ground implements. With a powerful Briggs & Stratton 18 H.P., twin-cylinder Industrial/Commercial engine, the GT-1855 beats many comparably priced, less powerful garden tractors. It's 150 to 200 lbs. heavier than most, with larger wheels for better traction, twin cylinders for a smoother ride, more horsepower for greater overall performance, and superb balance for all types of terrain. All these benefits plus in-line hydrostatic drive, hydraulic lift, and shaft-driven attachments mean greater capabilities for handling big chores with optional ground implements like tillers, plows or dozers.

For mowing a typical lawn with traditional requirements, try out the all-new LT-120 with a 38-inch, side discharge mower. It's low in price, but high in features. The LT-120 is the only lawn tractor that combines a 12.5 H.P. twin-cylinder Briggs & Stratton engine with White's exclusive "Cruise-Matic" drive — the perfect combination of smooth performance and power. The LT-120 also features all-steel construction and oversize wheels to provide heavy-duty performance, year after year. It's your best value, dollar for dollar, in a long-lasting tractor backed by a two-year limited warranty.

resolve the complaints of one group of parents, should make an equal attempt to resolve the complaints of all parents.

At the July 7 meeting, several parents questioned why M-21 was established as the boundary line between Swegles and Perrin-Palmer.

IN OTHER ACTION on July 21:

The board accepted a bid of $69,668 from Roney and Co. and Buys, MacGregor and Co., of Detroit, for loaning the district $325,000. The $69,668 is the amount of interest the district will pay on the six-year loan, which will be used to purchase portable classrooms as a temporary replacement for classroom space lost because of the Central School closing.

The board refused to join a coalition of school districts and local governments that intends to fight property tax assessment appeals by large corporations. The board voted instead to support property tax reform legislation in the state legislature. (A related opinion column appears on Page 2A.)

The board opted to wait for more bids before contracting out repair work for the high school swimming pool. The district had quotations from one company but board members said it would be a bad precedent to award such a large contract (in the area of $27,000) without putting it up for bid. The decision to wait for bids means the swimming pool will probably not be ready for use by the girl's swim team August 11.

Administrator Gordon Vandemark said problems with the pool, including worn out valves and corrosion, have been surfacing for the last five years but became acute last spring. School officials will attempt to find an alternative pool — such as the city pool — for use by the girl's team until the high school pool is repaired, Vandemark said.

Three copies of an outline on both topics must be presented to the judges.

Marilyn Knight sentenced

Marilyn Knight, the former deputy clerk of Bengal Township, is serving a four month jail sentence in Gratiot County Jail following her conviction earlier this year of embezzling $10,000 in township funds.

Her sentence, handed down by 29th Circuit Judge Randy Tavohnen, also includes two years probation and $2,120 restitution.

Knight paid full restitution for the embezzled funds, plus the interest the township would have earned on the money, when she was accused of the theft last spring. The township subsequently ordered an audit, conducted by the Michigan Treasury Department, of its financial records. The cost of that audit was $2120 and restitution for that amount was included in Knight's sentence.

Clinton County Prosecutor Jon Newman said Knight could be released 20 days early for good behavior.

Knight was charged and pleaded guilty to the charge after a shortage of funds was discovered on February 26 by township supervisor Marilyn Ir-rer. Ir-rer contacted Newman's office and an investigation leading to the charge was begun.

How much'll ponies pull?

A Pony Pull will be one of the events on opening night of the 1986 Clinton County 4-H Fair. Beginning at 7 p.m. in the Horse Arena the Northwest Michigan Pony Pulling Association will coordinate a pony pull.

The contest will have two classes, one for ponies 46-inches or shorter and one for those ponies 46 to 50 inches in height.

Registration will be taken at the Fair Office on the day of the show and there is a $5 per team entry fee which will be collected at the time the teams are registered.

The pony pull is open to the public and free of charge. There is plenty of seating available.

Hungry? Then the fair is where you should be

Milk shakes, pizza and hot pork sandwiches are only three of the items that will be featured at the 4-H Council's Food Stand at the fair this summer.

The concession stands open at 8 a.m. every morning with coffee, milk, and fresh rolls for early fair goers.

Items on the daily menu include hamburgers, hot dogs, sloppy joes, french fries, chips, candy bars, milk, iced tea, coffee, Pepsi, malts, and ice cream novelties.

The freshly made and baked hot pizzas will be come from Little Caesar's this year and will be available throughout the day.

The Food Stand and the Snack Shack are operated by the 4-H Council and manned by 4-H members, parents and volunteer leaders. The proceeds are used to finance 4-H trips and educational programs throughout the year.

Kids will compete in a pedal tractor contest

A Pedal Tractor Pull for kids between the ages of three and ten will be a new feature of the Clinton County 4-H Fair this year.

Sponsored by the Tractor Supply Company of St. Johns and coordinated by the Michigan Pedal Pullers and Associates this event promises to be a lot of fun for both the contestants and the spectators.

Pedal tractors will be furnished to the contestants for this event.

Both boys and girls are eligible to enter and different classes have been established for each.

The winner in each class will be determined by who pulls the weight the farthest distance. First through fourth place ribbons will be awarded and each contestant will receive a participation ribbon.

Homemaker's Day is open to all county homemakers

Wednesday, Aug. 6, has been identified as Homemaker's Day at this year's 4-H Fair. Special programs have been planned for the day and all Clinton County Homemaker's are invited to participate.

The classes this year are: homemade pies, cookies, candy, yeast rolls, decorated cakes, homemade cakes, canning, clothing, knitting/crocheting, needlework, and dairy foods.

Project entry for all classes is from 9-10:30 a.m. with judging from 11-noon. The exhibits will be on display for public viewing from 12:30-2:30 p.m. with the presentation of awards to be made on the parking lot stage at 2:30 p.m.

A bake sale will then be held in the Homemaker's Day area beginning at 3 p.m.

and is sponsored by the Clinton County Extension Homemaker's Groups.

Another demonstration will be done by the Michigan Pork Producers beginning at 11 a.m. There will be taste testing and again recipes to take home and try.

All of these activities are free to the public and visitors are encouraged to participate.

Small stock sale is now an annual event

The Small Stock Sale has now become an annual event at the 4-H Fair and interested participants will have an opportunity to purchase poultry, rabbits, goats, and veal calves which have been raised as 4-H projects this past year.

The Small Stock Sale will take place on Wednesday, Aug. 6, beginning at 5 p.m. and will be immediately followed by the Livestock Sale at 6 p.m.

Prospective buyers can contact the Fair Office early in the week during the 4-H Fair with any questions regarding the sale.

An Appreciation Dinner, given by 4-H members selling market animals, will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 9, at Smith Hall in St. Johns.

Exciting things are planned for youth

Exciting things are planned for youth between the ages of four and 12 at this year's 4-H Fair. Kid's Day is scheduled for Thursday, Aug. 7, and the activities are open to all youth in the county.

Beginning at 9:30 a.m. the Clinton Intermediate School will present a "Kids On The Block" program on the fair stage in the parking lot. At 10 a.m. there will be a treasure hunt for each age group and then from 10:45 a.m.-noon a variety of games and contests are planned.

Participants are divided into three age groups for the games. The first age group is 4-6-year-olds; second, 7-9-year-olds; and the third for 10-12-year-olds. Some of the contests scheduled include a water relay, sand pile hunt, mummy race, ice cream eating contest, egg toss, and nail driving contest.

Pre-registration is required for all events and can be done in the Extension Office now or at the fair on Monday through Wednesday.

There is no entry fee for any of the events. Complete contest rules and entry blanks are available at the Extension Office.

Livestock sale tops list for many 4-Hers

For many 4-H members, one of the highlights of the Annual Clinton County 4-H Fair is the Livestock Sale.

This annual event will be held this year on Wednesday, Aug. 6, beginning at 6 p.m. immediately following the Small Stock Sale. The sale will be held in the Judging Pavilion located in the center of the fairgrounds.

Over 125 hogs, nearly 100 lambs, and 56 steers will go through the sale ring during the evening. Jim Sykora from Clare has volunteered once again to serve as the auctioneer for the sale. He will be assisted by ringmen Scott Sykora, Bill Sheridan, and J.D. Heidman. Central National Bank of St. Johns will provide the sale clerks.

All of the market animals have been raised by 4-H members specifically for the auction at the fair. Potential buyers with questions should contact the Cooperative Extension Service or the Fair Office

Dunk tank remains a popular pastime

The Dunk Tank has become a popular attraction at the County 4-H Youth Fair and will probably remain so again this year.

The Dunk Tank was built by Fair Board members Larry Sturgis, Mike Winn and Erban Brown to be used as a fundraiser for the fair. Revenues from the Dunk Tank are used to support fair activities and facility improvements.

This year the Dunk Tank will be open daily from 2-6 p.m. with opportunities for 4-H members to sit in the "wet seat." Members who are interested in spending some time in the dunk tank may sign up for a time in the Fair Office beginning Monday morning. One-half hour time slots will be scheduled.

Members must be at least fifteen years old and must be five feet tall.

In the evenings, from 6-10 p.m., Fair Board members will provide the leadership for groups in the Dunk Tank. On Monday, evening, Fair Board members themselves will be sitting in the tank; Tuesday evening will see members of the various law enforcement agencies in the tank; Wednesday, 4-H volunteers will be dunked for the cause; and Thursday evening holds a surprise

Congratulations

4-H Members and Leaders

Wrapping it all up: all are invited to attend Thursday evening dance

As one of the activities planned for the fair finale the Fair Board invites you to a dance in the parking lot on Thursday evening, Aug. 7.

Danny Stewart, a popular WVIC personality, will be the DJ for the evening.

Music for the evening will appeal to a variety of listeners as there will be music from the 50's, 60's, 70's and 80's.

There is no charge for this parking lot dance and all 4-H members, leaders and friends are invited to join in the celebration.

Michigan Youth Corp helps to prepare for the annual 4-H fair

Once again this year the Fair Board was able to take advantage of a Michigan Youth Corp grant from the Michigan Department of Agriculture and hire fourteen people to work on the fairgrounds and get things ready for the annual 4-H Youth Fair.

Under the leadership of Supervisor Bud Delavan and his assistant, Marc Simpson, 12 Clinton County residents between the ages of 18 and 21 have been working on a variety of projects on the fairgrounds. The crew started work on June 16 and expect to work until Aug. 13 when the program will come to an end. The MYC crews have been making some noticeable facility improvements this year.

They have painted the interior of Smith Hall including the kitchen and all of the storerooms. They have built gates for the livestock areas during the fair, made repairs in the horse barn, livestock barn and the dairy barn, repaired the entrance to Smith Hall, done some landscaping behind Smith Hall and worked on a variety of other projects as well.

During the 4-H Fair, Aug. 4-7, each of the employees will be assisting volunteer leaders and fair coordinators with specific responsibilities.

OUR KIND OF PEOPLE

4-H. A sure investment.

It's America's largest out-of-school program for young people. Nearly five million participate in 4-H clubs and programs throughout the country. 4-H's many agricultural, community and educational programs stress the development of "life skills" - learning to learn, building confidence, expanding horizons and adapting to change.

Today, 4-H offers international exchange programs that provide many new opportunities for children, young adults and volunteer leaders. Some 82 countries have 4-H type youth programs, most started with the help of American 4-H members and advisors. 4-H broadens horizons for young people, and works to fulfill its motto "To make the best better."

Your Production Credit Association, Federal Land Bank Association and Bank for Cooperatives contribute funding and personal support to 4-H. It's a sure investment in the future of American agriculture.

Those specialty sandwiches are featured daily on fairgrounds

County Fairs are notorious for all kinds of good food and the Clinton County 4-H Fair is no different.

As one of their fundraising efforts to support fair programs, the Fair Board sponsors a special sandwich each day at the Fair. On Tuesday there will be a lamb roast and hot lamb sandwiches will be featured at the Food Stand beginning at about 11:30 a.m. Wednesday's feature will be hot pork sandwiches and fair goers will smell the aroma of the roasting hog early in the morning that day.

Barbecued chevon will be the specialty on Thursday.

In addition to these specialties, the 4-H Council's Food Stand is open daily with a variety of taste tempting treats.

Baby animal tent returns near City Park each day

The Baby Animal Tent has become one of the most popular places for fair visitors each year as young and old have an opportunity to see and pet a variety of animals.

The Baby Animal tent features kittens, puppies, baby chicks, horses, cows, ducks, rabbits, pigs, and other animals, too.

At various times each day, visitors may try their hand at milking a cow or a goat, riding a pony or feeding some of the animals.

The Baby Animal Tent is located next to the City Park on the Fairgrounds and is open each day of the fair.

Everyone loves a 4-H Parade

Everyone loves a parade and 4-H'ers are no exception. The activities and events of the 1986 Clinton County 4-H Youth will come to a close with the annual parade and Awards Program on Thursday evening, Aug. 7.

The parade will begin at 6 p.m. in the horse arena and all clubs are encouraged to participate. There will be floats, horses, clowns and more.

Following the parade, the Fair Awards Program will be held in the Judging Pavilion beginning at 7 p.m. Over one hundred trophies and rosettes will be presented to the members who earned these honors throughout the week.

The change in location for the Awards Program was done to provide a better sound system and adequate seating. The Fair Board invites families and friends of the 4-H members to join in the celebration.

Mint cooking contest returns

In conjunction with the St. Johns Mint Festival, the Clinton County 4-H Youth Fair will host the second annual "Cooking With Mint" contest. Clinton County residents of all ages are welcome to enter and entry blanks are available at both the Cooperative Extension Office and the St. Johns Chamber of Commerce Office.

There are five classes in both the junior and senior divisions. The classes are: cookies, cakes and pies, candy, other desserts, and jams and jellies. The youth division is for individuals who are eighteen or younger and the senior division for persons who are over the age of eighteen.

Entries will be brought in between 9 and 11 a.m. on Aug. 6 with judging from 11-noon. The presentation of awards will be made on the parking lot stage between 2:30 and 3 p.m. First to third place ribbons will be awarded in each class and special participation ribbons will be given to all who enter.

At the Mint Festival on Saturday, 4-H'ers will man a booth with the mint recipe books on sale.

Additional information is available at the Extension Office.

Chevon: little known but delicious

By DIANA JOHNSON
Clinton Caprines

You may have noticed that the most familiar, elegant restaurants, more often known as "steak and chop houses," offer fair selections of steak. Often, after running your finger some distance down the side of the menu, you will come across a listing for lamb chops.

But seldom will you see chevon offered.

What, you ask, is chevon? Chevon is the proper name for goat meat. Probably the reason it is so seldom seen in restaurants or on the dinner table at home is that restauranters and homemakers do not know how to buy, cook or serve it — even if they do find it offered for sale in their area.

Now, the fact is, a young goat can be more tender and tasty than any other meat. There are classic recipes for fixing chevon and the flavor and texture could satisfy the taste buds of any beef lover. Some say it resembles mutton or lamb in flavor.

The best meat comes from a young buck, or wether. It will weigh between 30 and 70 pounds (live weight) and is of the age two to five months. Chevon can be cooked in a variety of ways and can be used in recipes in place of lamb. It is best when cooked until only done so it is still juicy and tender and not overcooked.

Those who wish to try chevon should stop into the Clinton County 4-H Fair on Thursday, when the food special of the day will be barbecued chevon sandwiches.

Those who wish to purchase a goat (wether) for meat should attend the fair livestock sale. The sale will take place on Wednesday, beginning at 5 p.m. Anyone who wishes for more information on the fair or the auction should call the cooperative extension office at 224-3288.

Barbequed Chevon

Prepare chevon, using 3 lbs. roast, as follows: Dredge meat in a flour, salt, pepper mixture to taste. Brown all sides. Place in a small roaster. Sprinkle with diced onions and lightly dust with garlic powder. Cover and bake at 350 degrees until meat is very tender. Cool. Refrigerate overnight for easier slicing.

SAUCE:
2 cups catsup
1/2 cup minced onion
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/8 cup vinegar
1 tsp. salt
2 tsps. mustard
1/4 cup bacon pan drippings
2 tsps. Worcestershire sauce
1 1/2 tsps. liquid smoke

Combine all ingredients. Simmer on low heat 10 minutes. Makes three cups.

Cover thin slices of roast chevon with barbeque sauce and simmer 45-60 minutes. A crock pot works well for simmering the roast in the barbeque sauce.

Feeding wheat

Marilyn Loudenslager

The 1986 wheat crop certainly had its problems. According to MSU, at least five diseases are afflicting this year's crop. Of these diseases, head scab seems to be the one that causes the greatest amount of concern. According to MSU Plant Pathologist Joseph Clayton head scab is a very important disease to look for at this time. This disease can influence seed quality and can involve mycotoxins. Scab infections seen in surveys to date are quite variable, with trace to severe amounts reported. Infection may result in blasted spikelets and aborted grain or in shriveled, moldy looking grain with a pinkish-orange coloration.

Many of the light weight "scabby" kernels are blown out of the back of the combine, thus causing yield losses. Less severely infected kernels, however, will remain in the harvested grain. It is these infected kernels that pose a problem with mycotoxins. The scab fungus will not grow when the kernel moisture is lower than 18 percent, therefore, infection and potential mycotoxin problems will not get worse after harvest. Mold-damaged grain, however is more susceptible to storage molds.

Can the contaminated wheat be fed to livestock? The answer is ...it depends on the type of mycotoxins present. And, it depends on the type and condition of the livestock you plan on feeding the wheat to.

This year's wheat crop should be tested on mycotoxins before it is fed to any livestock! Samples of grain should be taken at the time the combine is unloading in the field or as grain is being unloaded from a field wagon or truck. Taking samples from grain in storage does not provide good representation. A sample should consist of 10 pounds of grain and be representative of the entire load. If possible, the grain should be uniformly ground before it is sent to the lab. This will decrease its "turn around time."

Wheat can be tested for toxins at the Cooperative Extension Service Plant Diagnostic Center, Room 141, Plant Biology, MSU, East Lansing, 48824. Cost is $12 per sample. A check must accompany the sample. The turn around time is from seven to 10 working days.

Mycotoxins contaminated feed is most damaging to animals such as swine, horses, dogs and other simple stomached animals. However, caution should be used when feeding toxin contaminated feed to any livestock. Symptoms of poisoning include feed refusal, vomiting and/or hyper estrogen syndrome (false heats and abortions).

If feeding toxin contaminated feed, test on a small pen of animals first, if any reaction is seen discontinue use. Feed only to non-breeding animals. One of the mycotoxins, zeralanone, is an estrogen like compound which can cause false heats and abortions. Therefore, do not feed to dairy cattle, sows, or breeding gilts or any pregnant animal.

It is recommended to consult with your veterinarian or visit the extension office prior to feeding the feed. Finally, head scab can affect any small grains. For instance, if you suspect your barley may have head scab, it may pay to have it tested. All symptoms and recommendations described for wheat will apply. Marilyn Loudenslager is the agriculture agent for the Clinton County Cooperative Extension Service.

Director's News

Pests

Giles Roehl

CORN BORER: Eggs of second hatch will start showing up soon. Watch for egg masses on the underside of the ear leaf or in that area. Control on the second hatch is a matter of critical timing so watch carefully.

CORN ROOTWORMS: Adults could pose a special threat to grain set in late planted or slow growing corn. Check for adult beetles at first silks. A spray is recommended within 10 days of first silk, if there are five or more adults per ear in field corn or three or more in seed corn. Adult counts, to estimate potential 1987 damage, should be made 18 to 28 days after the first adults are spotted.

WHEAT DISEASE TESTING: Planning on using your wheat for feed? Dr. Brewer, MSU Assistant Director of Extension for Agriculture and Marketing Programs through the MSU Diagnostic Clinic and Dr. Patrick Hart's lab offer farmers submitting samples for mycotoxins the following to observe: 1. A 10 pound sample randomly collected from each truck load. 2. If possible, finely grind sample before submission. 3. Enclose $12 per sample. 4. Mail or deliver to: Diagnostic Clinic, Room 141 Plant Biology, MSU, East Lansing, 48824.

Remember when the pink head scab color is noticed, turn combine fan up to clean fungal spores from grain and blow out the light weight infected grain.

CORNER GARDEN: Insects taking over the corner garden? Here is a quick guide on when to apply control measures.

Peas — aphid, 5 per 100 leaflets; tarnish plant bug, 1 per leaflet.

Peppers and tomato — aphids, 1 per 20 leaves; Colorado patch beetle, 10 percent foliage loss; flea beetle, 10 percent foliage loss; hornworm cabbage, 10 foliage loss.

Potato — aphids, 30 per leaf; leafhopper, 30 per 100 leaves; Colorado potato beetle, 1-2 per plant or 10 percent leaf loss.

County farmers may enter erodible land in conservation reserve program Aug. 4

Starting Aug. 4, Clinton County farmers may volunteer highly erodible cropland for entry into the 1987 Conservation Reserve Program. The third sign-up period for the new USDA program will end Aug. 15, according to Pete LoDico, CED of the Clinton County Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Service.

The conservation reserve program encourages farmers to stop growing crops on highly erodible cropland and plant it to grass or trees through 10-year contracts with USDA.

"Farmers will have an opportunity during this next sign-up period to bid on a program contract for the 1987 crop year," LoDico said.

Successful bidders will be allowed to harvest their 1986 crop before the contract becomes effective, if necessary, LoDico said. Land designated may not be grazed after Oct. 1, 1986.

For retiring highly erodible cropland from production, farmers will receive conservation payments of up to 50 percent of the eligible cost of establishing trees or grass on the acres planted in the program. They also will receive rental payments of up to $50,000 per year, based on the bid per acre times the number of acres under the contract.

LoDico said rental payments will be made in cash or commodity certificates annually, as soon as possible after Oct. 1, 1987, to producers with the approved contracts. Cost sharing payments will be made as soon as possible after participants report the approved conservation practice is completed.

The ASCS official said farmers may be more interested in the conservation reserve program now that they know about the sodbuster and conservation compliance rules of the Food Security Act. Those who fail to meet the rules may not be eligible for certain USDA program benefits.

Scab return can be prevented this year

If farmers make sure the wheat they plant this fall has been treated with an effective fungicide, they should have no problems with scab as a seed-borne disease next year.

Fungicides effective in controlling seedling blight caused by scab organisms and other seed-borne diseases include Vitavax 200, hexachlorobenzene (HCB) and pentachloronitrobenzene (PCNB).

Seed growers and elevators have the proper equipment to eliminate contaminated seed. If growers will be sure to plant treated seed that has a germination level of 90 percent or better, next year's crop should have few seed-borne disease problems, according to Larry Copeland, MSU Extension agronomist.

The larger terminal elevators and wheat millers will be monitoring this year's crop for mycotoxin levels caused by infection by scab fungi. The aim is to prevent contaminated grain from entering the food chain.

Wheat seed growers are advised not to sell any of the screenings from this year's crop without first laboratory testing them for mycotoxins. The selling of untested screenings for livestock feed could be hazardous.

Scab-contaminated wheat may be disposed of by spreading the grain on ground that is going to be plowed well this fall. If grain is allowed to remain on the field surface, the fungus can overwinter and infect succeeding crops of corn or other small grains.

Another satisfactory method of disposal is to spread the contaminated seed on ground that is not going to be used for cropping or grazed by livestock during the winter months.

Farmers should not feed any of the screenings from this year's wheat crop to livestock unless the grain has been thoroughly tested for mycotoxins. The county extension office has guidelines for testing the grain and for trail feeding to see if the tested grain adversely affects livestock.

Price discounts should be expected on test weights below 57 to 58 pounds per bushel, with additional discounts if more than four percent of the wheat kernels have been damaged. The discounts are expected to compensate for the cost of separating and removing the scab-contaminated kernels from normal wheat.

There is little anyone could have done to prevent development of the diseases that have plagued this year's wheat crop. The culprit is primarily the unusually unfavorable weather conditions.

Farm lands play big role for wildlife

By EILEEN GILLESPIE
Clinton Soil
Conservation District

Private agricultural land provides a majority of the existing and potential wildlife habitat in the United States. No wonder agricultural activities influence wildlife more than any other human activity.

Historically, agricultural practices on private land created many different kinds of wildlife habitat. Odd areas, shelterbelts, hedgerows, and fields in rotation provided havens for wildlife species that preferred relatively undisturbed areas to rest, reproduce, and find protection from predators or the weather.

Cultivated fields offered food sources that were important for many species, such as the waste grain that fueled the long flights of migratory birds. Some ground-nesting birds built nests and raised young in cultivated fields.

Landowners across the country place a high value on wildlife. In the northeast landowners perceive wildlife as an important part of the land-owning experience.

Throughout the midwest a majority of landowners enjoy wildlife in the proximity of their homes. In fact, nearly half of the U.S. population engages in some form of wildlife-related activity.

But wildlife is not yet considered a viable commodity on agricultural land in many parts of the country. Landowners tend to perceive wildlife as pests on prime agricultural land managed intensively for cash crop production.

Declines in wildlife and fish populations may indicate overall losses in land productivity associated with many of the same practices in modern agriculture that increase soil erosion and reduce water quality. Row-crop agriculture reduces plant cover on fields, creating an unprotected environment for wildlife. Bare soil left overwinter after fall tillage has little wildlife value and increases the potential of soil loss from wind erosion and water runoff.

Fencerow farming eliminates field borders and streamside buffers, destroying important wildlife cover and breeding areas, while the resulting soil loss destroys stream habitats for fish. Intensive cultivation of fields precludes nesting wildlife or maintaining nests.

Many techniques that benefit wildlife on agricultural land are well-known to soil conservationists. Hedgerows, shelterbelts, grassed waterways, and streamside buffer zones all have wildlife benefits provided that wildlife considerations are included in the establishment and management of these areas.

For example, a long-term conservation reserve for each commodity crop that is targeted to the most erosion-prone soils would help reduce both on-site and off-site impacts of soil erosion. The land idled under the reserve could be planted to cover crops that provide nesting, breeding, or escape cover for many wildlife species. Many wildlife conservationists believe a long-term conservation reserve is the single best program to benefit wildlife on agricultural land.

Corn, soybean acreage down; dry bean up

A crop survey conducted by the Michigan Farm Bureau indicates that the state's corn and soybean acreage is down significantly compared to last year, but dry bean acreage is up. The estimates were based on a survey of about 200 growers in 20 counties. The survey shows that there are 180,000 fewer acres of corn, 120,000 fewer acres of soybeans, and 120,000 more acres of dry beans compared to 1985.

According to Doug Fleming, commodity specialist for the Michigan Farm Bureau, corn and soybean acreage reductions came primarily in response to federal farm program incentives to cut back production. Dry bean plantings increased because they are a "non-program" crop.

A national survey conducted by the American Farm Bureau Federation indicated that U.S. corn acreage is down by 5.5 million acres this year and soybean acreage is down by 1.3 million acres. The survey showed that excellent growing conditions across most of the country could lead to record corn yields per acre.

Sharp drop for fruit production

Michigan's 1986 fruit production is expected to be below last year's bumper harvest.

Apple production is forecast at 700 million pounds, a 36 percent decrease from last year's record crop, according to Federal/State Michigan Agricultural Statistics Service. Heavy frosts during late April and early May reduced prospects for another large crop in most fruits. Nationally apple production is set at 7.7 billion pounds, 3 percent less than last year.

Peach production for the state is forecast at 45 million pounds, 18 percent less than the previous year. At the U.S. level, peach output is estimated at 2.3 billion pounds, 8 percent above last year's small crop.

The sweet cherry crop is expected to total 17,000 tons, 45 percent less than 1985. National production is placed at 128,500 tons, 3 percent less than last year.

Pear output is expected to increase 38 percent to 11,000 tons. The U.S. pear crop is forecast at 714,450 tons, 4 percent below a year ago.
