'Messiah'

ST. JOHNS Area residents will have the opportunity in December to hear Handel's 'Messiah' performed locally for the first time since the 1950s.

The performance, a project of the St. Johns Community Education Department's Community Choir, will take place on Dec. 7 in the auditorium of the high school. The Community Orchestra, directed by Bill Tennant, will accompany the singers.

Choir Director Don Valentine said last month that at least 40 singers were needed in order to do justice to the work. At that time the choir had 20 members. Since then nearly 30 more singers have joined, bringing the choir to a healthy membership of about 50.

1896 reprint

ST. JOHNS In 1896 the Grand Trunk Railroad Company published a series of booklets titled "Headlight Flashes" in which towns along the railroads were highlighted.

Grand Trunk said at the time that a "new modern method of printing made it possible to show to the outside world the beauties of the smaller towns and their great advantages for homes and manufacturing centers."

Several cities along the railway, including St. Johns were featured in this manner. Schools, churches, homes, businesses and manufacturing centers were portrayed. Also included were biographical sketches and photographs of prominent businessmen.

The 20-page booklet has recently been reprinted by the Paine-Gillam Scott Museum of the Clinton County Historical Society. The $3 booklet is available at the Treasure Chest, the St. Johns Area Chamber of Commerce and the Clinton County News.

County stays with GOP in races close to home

Republicans were the winners in Clinton County last week, thwarting the landslide Democratic victory in a number of statewide races.

Republican Gary Randall easily defeated Democratic challenger L.D. Hollenbeck to retain his 89th District seat in the Michigan House.

Republican Fred Dillingham defeated all challengers for the 30th District Michigan Senate Seat from which Alan Cropsey is retiring.

Republican incumbent Bill Schuette defeated Don Albosta by nearly 3,700 votes to retain the 10th District seat in the U.S. House of Representatives. This was a far wider margin than the 1,200 votes he won by two years ago — but Schuette took only 20 more votes than Albosta in Clinton County.

Incumbent County Commissioner Glen Webster returns to office as a Democratic in name only. Webster has held office for 10 years as a Republican and ran as a Democratic only after missing the deadline for filing nominating petitions for the primary election.

Since Bertine Thelen filed as the Republican candidate, Webster successfully mounted a write-in campaign to have his name placed on the general election ballot as a Democratic.

Thelen said after the election that she wishes Webster well, that she learned much about the election process during her campaign — and that she will run for office again.

"You better believe I'll be back," she said, but declined to say what office she intends to run for next.

In the southern part of the county, incumbent District 5 County Commissioner Richard Hawks, a Republican, defeated a write-in challenge by Cleo Friend, who narrowly lost to Hawks during the Republican primary in April.

County voters joined the rest of the state in returning Democrats to office in the races for governor, secretary of state and state attorney general. County voters favored the Democratic incumbents in each of those races by margins of about two-to-one — including 10,010 county votes for James Blanchard and 5,552 for William Lucas.

New jail millage is down but not necessarily out

By RICH WERTZ
Editor

This was the third strike against the proposal to raise the county tax levy to build a new jail, right? After all, the rejection of the proposal by voters last week was the third time voters have turned it down.

Strike three? Maybe not. The 81-vote margin by which the proposal was defeated this time was much smaller than the two-to-one margins by which similar proposals were defeated previously. In the end this defeat could prove to have been less of a third strike than a foul ball — it was not a hit but neither was the batter retired.

"I think since it was that close we probably owe it to the people to bring it before them again before we spend a lot of money on the old jail," said County Commissioner Richard Hawks.

He also said there were reports from people who intended to vote in favor of the millage proposal but who did not see the proposal on the ballot.

"I don't know how that's possible but these people are being honest and they're saying 'Hey, I didn't see it,'" said Hawks.

HAWKS SAID the county commissioners will have to decide whether to put the proposal on the next regular election ballot in 1988 or hold a special election or to do neither. If they decide to delay bringing the proposal before the voters again, they will have to decide whether to put any money into the old jail, he said.

In that regard the county faces exactly the same issues it faced before the election.

"If we add onto the old jail, is that going to be sufficient or not?" says Hawks. "We don't have a guarantee of that."

County Commission Chairman Roger Overway — who voted to place the proposal on the Nov. 4 ballot in order to give voters a choice but who supports expanding the present jail instead of building a new one — said he opposes spending county money on a special election. He will, however, agree to place the proposal on the 1988 regular election ballot, he said.

Overway said the Nov. 4 vote was much closer than he had anticipated but that he still favors adding 20 cells to the present facility instead of building a new jail. He said the capacity of the present jail could be raised to 82 prisoners for a cost of about $1 million. Even with the additional cost of hiring three more staff people in order to supervise the addition, Overway said, the cost would be cheaper than building a new jail.

HE SAID the only order pending from the Michigan Department of Corrections is to improve the jail intake area. That project carries a price tag of about $75,000.

"I think we should be working on getting that done," said Overway.

Jail Administrator George Weber said he believes there will be public pressure for the millage proposal to again be brought before the voters.

"I think some of the general public are going to work for reconsideration," he said.

He said that if an addition is built onto the current jail there will be no room on the property for outside recreation or future expansions. That could prove significant in coming years when the Michigan Department of Corrections has solved its own problems and turns its attention to regulating county jails, said Weber.

"I think it was kind of a moral victory because everybody said we didn't stand a chance," he said of the close vote.

St. Johns hears about school's anti-drug efforts

Richard Beal, assistant principal of the first school district in the country to give academic credit to students who undergo treatment for drug problems, last week told a St. Johns audience of the efforts of his home district of Haslet to keep students free of drugs.

Beal spoke to a crowd of over 500 area residents last Tuesday evening. Beal, accompanied by several students who testified to the destructive effect drugs had had on their own lives until they sought help, was invited to St. Johns by the Committee of Jevon Thompson in Mid-Michigan.

Beal's visit was a precursor of the appearance in December by Thompson, a former rock performer who has dedicated himself to warning young people away from the use of drugs.

Beal and others who have seen Thompson in action say his message is delivered in a dynamic fashion and that youths respond to him well.

Beal told his St. Johns audience that he began trying to arrange treatment for students who had drug problems in 1979 and that in 1982 Haslet adopted a policy of identifying students with possible drug problems and encouraging them to get help.

Nationally, said Beal, 10 to 15 percent of all high school students are "chemically dependent." What Haslet did, he said, was recognize that those students were not "bad kids" and that simply expelling them from school and forgetting about them is not the appropriate response.

"These people are our kids," said Beal in a telephone interview later. "I don't believe there are a lot of bad kids. I think there are a lot of kids out there with using alcohol, using drugs."

Beal said one of the goals of Haslet's program is to "take the bottom out" of the cycle in which drug users lose all control of their lives and "hit bottom" before seeking help. Haslet tries to identify possible drug users by noticing a pattern of personality changes, dropping grades, sleeping in class, attendance problems, and other signals that a student could have a problem.

If enough such signals exist, the school staff call in the parents and suggest that they have their son or daughter assessed for a chemical dependency, said Beal.

The school district also has several support groups for students who are recovering from a drug problem or who are at risk of developing one — such as students who have suffered a loss by divorce or death in the family or who have alcoholic parents.

"What happens is you just get sick of watching your kids die," said Beal.

ATV caution

Theresa Silm

The increased popularity of recreational all-terrain vehicles (ATVs), especially three-wheelers, has been accompanied by a high number of fatal and disabling accidents.

According to Natl. Safety Council statistics, in 1986, 85,000 ATV accidents were serious enough for the victims to require medical treatment.

ATV users need to exercise extra caution when driving these recreational vehicles. No one's fun should be spoiled by a preventable accident. People may be able to avoid a serious accident by following these safety tips:

- Read the owner's manual, noting all operating, safety and maintenance instructions.
- Young people shouldn't operate an ATV unless they are old enough to handle it safely. Beginning riders should practice driving an ATV first on level ground before moving to rough or unfamiliar territory.

- A helmet, eye protection, boots, gloves, pants and a long-sleeved shirt are important personal protection equipment and clothing.
- Never carry passengers, but do try to travel with another ATV user when riding in unfamiliar areas.
- Don't drink and drive.
- Don't ride on public roads, and observe local laws regarding ATV use.
- Use common sense. Don't travel at excessive speeds and be alert for obstacles.

Have fun but be safe. Take the time to use you ATV in a safe manner for your sake and that of others.
Theresa Silm is the 4-H youth agent for the Clinton County Cooperative Extension Service.

Fall apples

Dawn Harris

Apples are in peak season right now and they are delicious! The "Big Four" of Michigan apples are Jonathon, Ida Red, McIntosh and Delicious. Though Michigan produces many other varieties, these four account for the majority of the commercial apple crop grown in the state.

Consumers who prefer the old-fashioned varieties, such as Rome or Northern Spy, have the best chance of finding them at a farm market. The big four are considered all-purpose apples. This means they can be used for cooking, eating raw, salads and applesauce.

Romes are still considered the best apples for baking, regardless of whether you cook them in a microwave or in a conventional oven. They are large and don't get mushy, and if you leave the skin on, it tends not to crack during baking.

Northern spies are considered perfect pie apples because they are tart and hold their shape during cooking. It generally takes only five or six northern spies to make a pie. With all the rain we have received this year, the spies should be unusually large.

Apples should be stored in a cold, moderately moist environment. This means a temperature between 30 to 32 degrees and a relative humidity of around 85 percent. If stored under these conditions, apples will keep eight weeks or longer. Of the big four, McIntosh are the poorest keepers and Ida Reds are the best, depending on the state of maturity when picked and stored.

Apples can be stored in the crisper drawer of a refrigerator or in a moisture-resistant container, such as a polyethylene bag with a few ventilation holes in it, for a maximum of three weeks. Freezing whole apples will lower their quality.

Dawn Harris is the Home Economist for the Clinton County Cooperative Extension Service.

"It's in the Bag"
by Bob Beck

The turkey on your dinner table ain't what it used to be. Fifty years ago, turkeys were long-legged, narrow breasted creatures, the meat they yielded was generally tough and there wasn't much of it.

The birds of yesteryear ate home-formulated feed concoctions, but many preferred to scavenge on backyard seeds and whatever. Nowadays, turkeys are more tender, broader-breasted and have a larger proportion of white meat. Advances in feed diets have made the big difference.

It used to be that turkeys made their appearance around Thanksgiving, stayed on through the holidays and then vanished in the New Year along with the last picked-over carcass in the refrigerator.

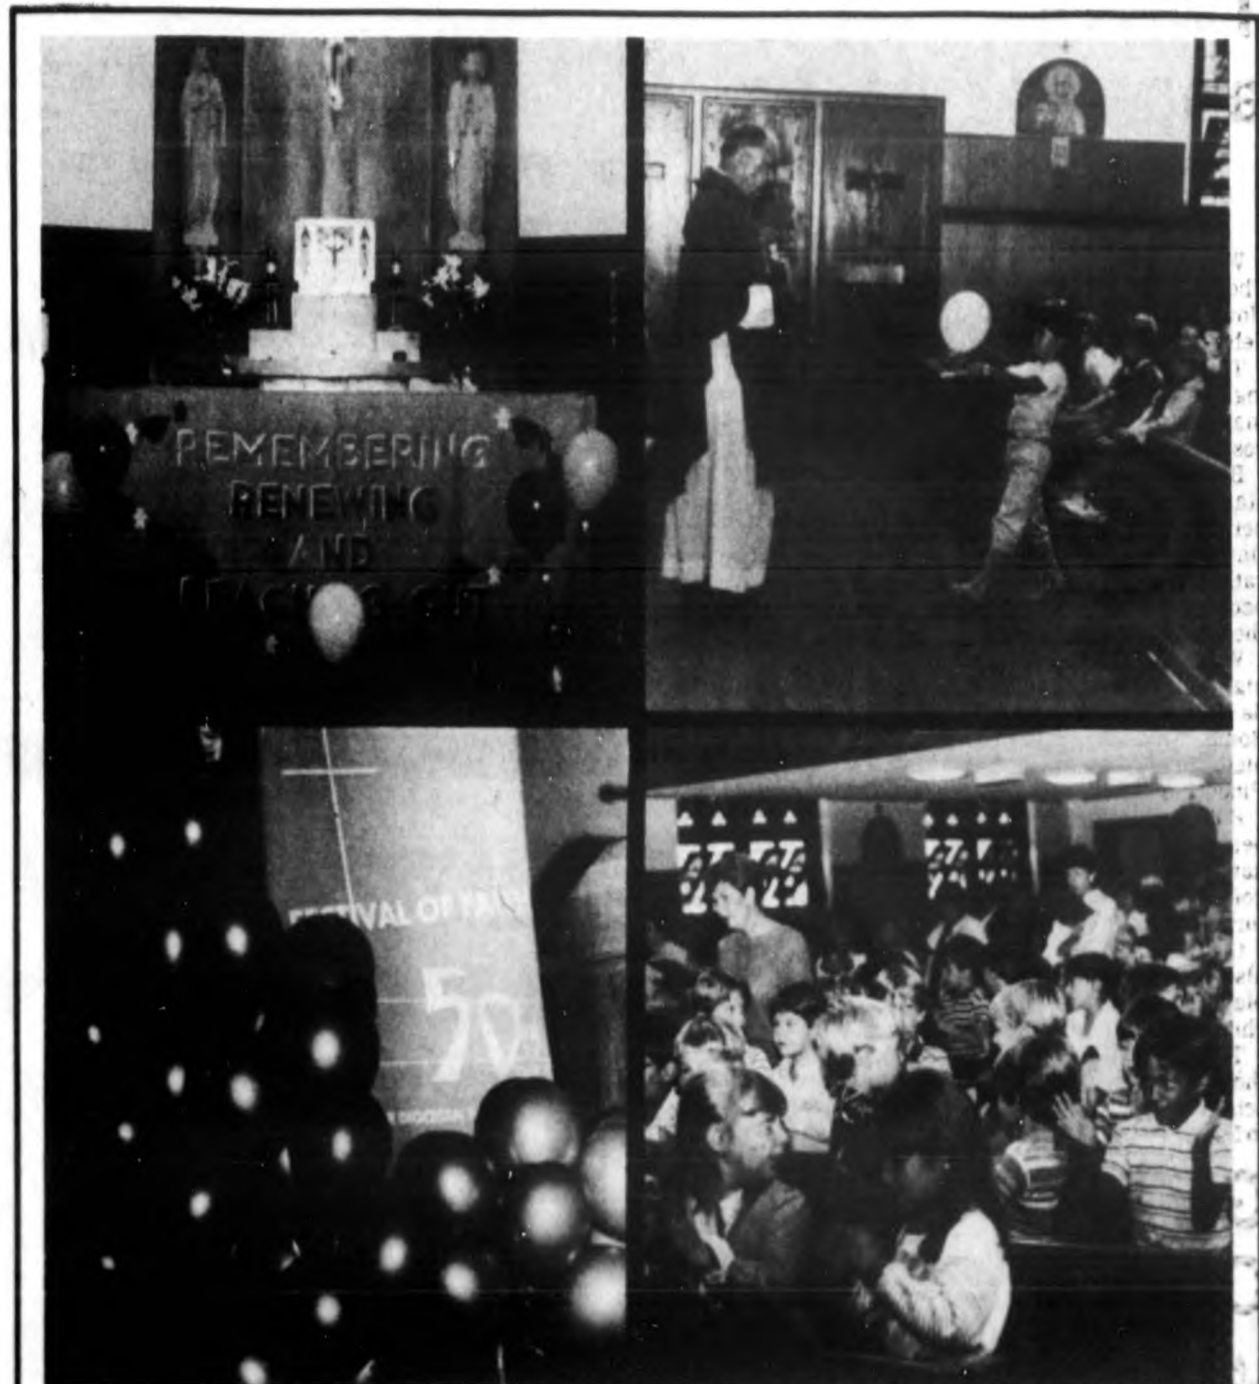

Not any more! The turkey's popularity cycle has become year-round with the help of a host of new delicatessen turkey items... frankfurters, ham, pastrami, bologna, salami and sausage, all processed from the dark meat of the turkey. Fifteen years ago 90 percent of the turkeys produced were marketed whole - in the last 60 days of the year. Today, half the turkeys sold are cut up and sold year-round in segregated parts.

There's a revolution going on in the turkey industry and Beck's has the "solution" to the "revolution". Buy all your turkey products here and make every day Thanksgiving.

DIOCESAN JUBILEE — The children of St. Joseph School in St. Johns celebrated the Diocesan Jubilee with an all-school Mass. The theme of the Mass was "Remembering, Renewing, and Reaching Out." Highlights of the celebration featured the Lansing-Suburban traveling banner surrounded by 50 gold balloons. The pastor, Father William Hankerd, accepted a copy of the parish history book. Special music for the Mass was composed by David Wiseman. The final song, based upon the theme of the Mass, included a sequence in which the children were asked to clap their hands.

Would a prestigious optical store like NuVision resort to gimmicks like coupons during their Fall Sale?

(Couldn't hurt.)

There are those who consider it a bit undignified to offer quality eyewear at a discount price. In most cases, the people who feel this way are the people who sell eyeglasses or contact lenses. Not the people who buy them.

After all, most people in the market for designer frames welcome the opportunity to save as much as $40 on their next pair of glasses. They don't mind taking scissors in hand in order to pay $20 less for a pair of daily wear soft or extended wear contact lenses.

But, if the prospect of clipping coupons out of a newspaper strikes you as a bit unseemly, feel free to continue paying too much for the latest innovations in eye care. The rest of us will be holding these coupons in our hot little hands and heading to NuVision before the big Fall Sale ends Nov. 22.

Two new stars appear Nov. 21

By MICHELLE HART
SJ High School Student

When the curtain opens on the St. Johns High School Theatre Department's production of "Pinocchio" on Nov. 21, 22 and 23, two new stars will make their acting debuts.

These actors are not ordinary players, however. Playing the parts of Pinocchio and PUNCHINELLO are two marionettes constructed by members of the theatre's costume crew.

Before tryouts for the show were held, costume and stage director Barbara Markman, decided to use puppets to create an authentic stage show. With consultant Barbara Carter, they chose to sew cloth marionettes rather than build wooden ones. The decision was made because it was thought that the final product would be the most life-like.

Work was begun in mid-September on the three-foot high dolls by four members of the costume crew: Amanda Koenigsnecht, Michelle Hart, Colleen Redman, and Bonnie Snider, along with Markman. Work was completed in early October, just in time for PUNCHINELLO and Pinocchio to join the human cast for rehearsals.

Backstage, helping Pinocchio and PUNCHINELLO become real actors, are their voices and marionette handlers. Josh Glew, a freshman, doubles as both the voice of Pinocchio as well as playing Pinocchio when he turns into a real boy.

Controlling Pinocchio's strings is Larua Matice, who also plays the role of the fruit vendor. Mark Scott, the play's student director, is responsible for making PUNCHINELLO come to life in both movement and voice.

Tickets for the three performances will be available the week prior to the show at all St. Johns elementary school offices and at the high school box office from 2:30 to 5 p.m. Ticket prices are $1.50 each.

The contest, which runs Feb. 14 through March 17, 1987, is a competition whereby bar patrons vote (25 cents equals one vote) for their favorite mixologist. Beauty, or lack thereof, is not the basis for the contest. Personality is the only prerequisite.

Funds raised from the contest help support

Wright-MacKinnon Reside in Evanston, Ill.

The First United Methodist Church in St. Johns was the setting of the Oct. 4 wedding, joining Elizabeth Ann MacKinnon and Bradley Jon Wright in marriage. The double-ring, 4 p.m. ceremony officiated by Pastor Mark Graham was attended by 100 friends and relatives of the couple.

The bride is the daughter of Fraser and Barbara MacKinnon, 304 E. Buchanan St., St. Johns. The groom is the son of Don and Jean Wright of Greenville, Ohio.

The church was decorated with satin bows of ivory and teal green combined with pink gerber daisies, rubrum lilies, ivy, and pink and white heather from Scotland.

Soloist Cathy Kish, cousin of the bride, sang "At Dawning," "O Perfect Love," "Happy the Home," and "The Lord's Prayer" accompanied by Dianatha Witteveen on the organ. After the ceremony, the couple was escorted from the church by Scottish bagpipers playing Scottish tunes.

For her wedding the bride wore her mother's wedding gown of imported ivory chantilly lace and nylon tulle over satin, designed with a sheer yoke with satin applique bordering a portrait neckline. The lace bodice tapered to the waist and the long lace sleeves came to points at the wrist. Lace applique also trimmed the deep peplum topping the full tulle skirt, ending in a long train.

She wore a moc-juliet cap covered in ivory chantilly lace matching her gown. The scalloped edged tulle dotted with pearls flowed softly down her back creating a finger-tip veil. She carried a traditional cascade bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids, stephanotis, deep shades of fresh ivy, and accents of heather from Scotland.

Matron of honor was Francis Saplis of Red Bank, N.J., cousin of the bride. Bridesmaid was Lori Lashaway of Shaker Heights, Ohio.

They wore matching dresses designed by Barri-Jay of tea-length teal taffeta. The embroidered taffeta bodice gave a slender silhouette to the very defined dropped torso. The puffed sleeves were accented softly by the cartridge ruffle on the shoulders. They carried graceful bouquets of pink gerber daisies, rubrum lillies, ivy and heather.

Best man was Wayne Robinson Jr. from Chicago, Ill. Groomsmen was Alexander MacKinnon, brother of the bride, from Chicago, Ill.

Ushers were Kenneth Richmond, cousin of the bride,

Lora Smith and Traci Gulick, both musicians in the Ovid-Elsie High School Marching Band, have been nominated to the 1986 McDonald's All-American High School Band.

Lora plays the alto saxophone and Traci the clarinet in the O-E Band, under the direction of Roger Weyersberg. Both were nominated for the band on the basis of their musical honors and competitive contest ratings.

The nominations were announced by Charles McCann, who owns and operates McDonald's restaurants in St. Johns, Owosso, Alma and Portland.

Traci because only the best high school musicians in the country are nominated to the All-American Band."

thankful. When talking with the residents at Findlay Country Manor and asking them what they were most thankful for, most residents replied, "My family and friends." Although the holiday season can be a difficult time for some, when one has a supportive family and friends it can make all the difference. For the joy of enjoying, and the fullness of living are found in the heart that is filled with love and thanksgiving.

This year, once again at Findlay Country Manor, we are preparing for a season of giving in the spirit of thankfulness. On Nov. 16, we will share our fifth annual Thanksgiving Dinner with one family member or friend of each resident. The Thanksgiving feast will consist of chilled spiced cider, traditional turkey, sage bread dressing, mashed potatoes, and homemade gravy, nut bread, rolls and harvest pie assortment.

Finally, the residents of Findlay Country Manor would like to extend a big "Thank You" to everyone in the community, family members and friends who continue to support them throughout the year. The kind deeds thoughtfully done, the favors of friends and the love that is unselfishly given does not go unnoticed. We extend to you all a safe and happy Thanksgiving.

Clinton Memorial has new health evaluation computer

Participants in the 1986 Project Good Health got an opportunity to see Clinton Memorial's "Performance 3000" computerized fitness evaluation system in action at the free health screenings held recently.

The system measures a person's cardiovascular endurance, muscular strength and flexibility, body composition by skinfold or girth measurement, pulmonary function, and also provides a cardiac risk factor profile. A special "He-Man/Superwoman" grip strength contest was held, highlighting just one of the special features of the Performance 3000. Winners were Eleanor Bowles from Ovid and Stan Morrill of Laingsburg. Both will receive a free fitness evaluation on the Performance 3000 system. The system is used in conjunction with Clinton Memorial's Life Wellness health promotion programs.

"It's an ideal tool for providing a measurement of present fitness," said Sylvia Hirschegger, health promotion coordinator at Clinton Memorial. "It also serves as an incentive to begin a fitness program or to evaluate an existing one."

Fitness evaluations are available by appointment, and special discounts are available. For more information, interested individuals should call 224-6881, ext. 384.

FOOD DRIVE AT KROGER — Co-Manager Ross Barber and employee Donna Cannon display $100 worth of food with which Kroger of St. Johns kicked off a food drive to benefit fellow citizens suffering from hunger and malnutrition. Customers and employees are also invited to donate.

St. Johns City Police and the Clinton County Sheriff's Department have joined with the grocery store in the effort. Food donations may be dropped off at Kroger or at either police department. Money donations may be sent to either police department in envelopes clearly marked "Food donations."

Kroger has two other elements to its food drive. Nationally, the company donates up to $100,000 in cash to an organization that services local food-banks. The company has also implemented a "Donate, don't dump" policy in which unsalable but edible food is donated to local food banks.

Financial focus Stock market

By Chuck Dicken

Everyone likes to win, and people who invest in common stocks are no exception. When stocks are moving up in value each day and social gatherings are dominated by stories of "hitting it big by playing the market," it's difficult to keep a rein on reason and realize that the stock market is not a gambling outlet but a place to invest in American business.

We regularly stress that investing in common stocks shouldn't be viewed as a game. When buying a common stock, you place confidence in the belief that the company will prosper and become more valuable. It's a way to participate and benefit in the growth of economy by equity ownership.

Therefore, when economic conditions appear favorable and the stock market positively reacts, thousands of investors, both individual and institutional, reposition a portion of their investments to participate in this growth. We see this renewed interest when, almost daily, trading volume on the New York Stock Exchange alone exceeds over 100 million shares with similar activity taking place on other listed exchanges as well as the unlisted markets. This active trading doesn't represent gamblers but investment-wise professionals and individuals who opt to place their investment dollars in the economy.

Numerous factors dictate investment decisions, but other than hiding money in a mattress, there are only two investment choices. One is lending money in the form of bank savings accounts, certificates of deposit, bonds and the like. In loaning, you're promised to have your original investment returned at some future date and, until that time, you earn interest on it.

The other choice is owning. Here you participate in the growth or suffer in the loss of your investment. Common stocks are an example of ownership, or equity, investing.

Which of these you select — loaning or owning — should depend on the current economic climate. For example, in times of very high and rapid inflation, carefully selected real estate has proved a rewarding investment. Generally, the leverage of real estate, a reasonable amount down and borrowing the rest, benefits from inflation which rapidly increases property value.

During times of record-high interest rates, investors with available funds find long-term bonds, CSs and other interest-producing loans offer not only good security but also a generous income. Once inflation is controlled and interest rates decline, investors begin to look elsewhere. Investing in common stocks and mutual funds, which include common stocks, has traditionally offered a reasonable alternative.

Much of the success of common stock investing is proper timing. When you see in the morning paper that the earnings and profits of Consolidated Consumption are up to a record high, the market value of the stock has probably already risen and is beginning to level off or even decline. Why? Because the informed investor anticipated this rise months ago and bought the stock looking forward to the event. Once profits are reported, the investor takes his gain in the common stock's increase and looks for other developing opportunities. For this reason, the stock market traditionally begins its move up or down, several months prior to a major economic reversal.

If, at the next gathering, your associates boast of unreasonable profits by "playing" the market, that may be exactly what they are doing — playing. Serious investors like to win, but they know it's no game. Winning in the stock market demands study, discipline and perhaps a little good, old-fashioned luck, too.

"I Knew Something

"My family and I just couldn't understand some of the changes I was going through as I got older. We were worried. I felt physically ill and nervous, but the tests came back negative. I'd lost interest in everything and was spending more and more time alone. I wasn't happy about it but didn't know what to do.

"It's nice to know that the people of St. Lawrence's Geriatric Psychiatry Program were there to help me sort things out. They helped me to see what I want out of life and how to do something about it."

"Then I found out about the Geriatric Psychiatry Program of St. Lawrence Hospital. It's a team of physicians including psychiatrists, as well as psychologists, social workers, nursing staff, occupational and physical therapists. They helped me and my family understand some of my feelings. They encouraged my independence. I feel useful again!

RUSHING YARDS — Fowler senior Rex Thelen (40) picks up some of his 95 rushing yards in the Eagles' pre-regional game last Saturday with Detroit Servite. While end Kurt Simon (85) looks to set up a block. Fowler blanked the Detroit team 23-0, claiming an opening Class D State Football Play-off win in the game played at St. Johns High School's field.

The win earned the Eagles a berth into regional play, where they will face Whitmore Lake this Friday in a game scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. at Sexton High School in Lansing. Fowler is undefeated on the year at 9-0.

Eagles dominate Servite, 23-0

By RHONDA WESTFALL
Sports Editor

Fowler claimed their first victim in the State Class D High School Football Playoffs last weekend, when the Eagles crushed Detroit Servite 23-0 in pre-regional action at St. Johns football field.

To say that Coach Steve Spicer's team totally dominated play, both offensively and defensively, would be an understatement of what happened last Saturday. Servite might just as well have stayed home.

The awesome Eagle defense held Servite to just four first downs in the game, and put continual pressure on Panther quarterback, Mike Strinzinger, sacking him at will late in the game. The Panther team totaled 32 yards rushing for the game and 10 yards in the air.

That display of Fowler prowess left many Eagle fans saying that this was probably the best all-around performance by Spicer's troops this year.

"It was just a great defensive game for us," said Spicer. "We put them in a hole right off the bat. Curt Simmon had an excellent game at his position, as did the whole defensive line."

With the victory in hand, the Eagles will set their sights on this Friday's regional game with Whitmore Lake, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at Lansing Sexton's field. Whitmore Lake defeated North Adams in their pre-regional game last Saturday by a score of 8-6.

This is the second year in a row that Spicer and his team will travel to Sexton for regional play. They were defeated in their play-off bid there last year by Battle Creek St. Phillip, 13-7, who went on to be the eventual Class D state champion.

"If we keep going there often enough, maybe we'll get things right," the coach said.

Those bittersweet memories were far from the minds of Fowler fans on Saturday, however, as they filled the St. Johns' bleachers to capacity, cheering their team on to victory.

THE GAME OPENED with Rex Thelen booting one into the endzone for Fowler on their initial kick-off. Servite managed to gain a first down on their first possession, but was forced to punt following the second series of downs which included a delay of game call against the Panthers — the first of four delay penalties they would be assessed during the game.

Fowler moved the ball from their own 47-yard line following the Servite punt, down to the Panther 24 before they turned the ball over on downs. Another delay call, and the swarming Eagle defense gave Fowler the ball back on their own 48-yard line with 3:17 left in the quarter.

Rex Thelen picked up a quick Fowler first down on a 12-yard run on the ensuing play from scrimmage, and teammate Curtis Feldpausch broke a long 15-yard gainer to put the Eagles on the Servite 25.

Looking at a fourth down and five situation, Fowler quarterback Matt Hufnagel connected with Bruce Feldpausch to pick up the necessary yardage, moving the ball down to the Servite 12-yard line when the first quarter expired.

Feldpausch tallied the first Eagle touchdown of the day when he broke tackles, squirmed and danced his way into the endzone on the opening play of the second period. A 2-point conversion pass was completed from Hufnagel to Thelen to give Fowler the lead 8-0 at 11:53 in the half.

It looked as though the Eagles were destined to score again when they recovered a Servite fumble on the ensuing kick-off on the Panther 15-yard line. However, it was one of the few times that Fowler was stymied. Following a clipping call against the Eagles they turned the ball back over on downs to the Panthers right where they had started.

ONCE AGAIN Fowler's tough defense thwarted all attempts by the Servite team, and the Eagles got the ball back with excellent field position on the Panther 28-yard line when the punt was partially blocked.

Runs by Feldpausch and Thelen moved the ball quickly to the Servite 5-yard line, and Thelen scampered in for an easy touchdown on superb blocking by the Eagle offensive line. Hufnagel's two point pass attempt was not good, and Fowler led 14-0 with 5:13 showing on the clock.

The second half featured more of the same, with the Eagles allowing the hapless Panthers no room to run or pass, while Fowler could do no wrong.

"They seemed to just self-destruct," Spicer said. "As things went well for us, they seemed to go wrong for them."

Thelen kicked a 33-yard field goal mid-way through the third quarter, boosting Fowler's total to 17-0 — just to add a little spice to the game. It could very well have been a 50-yarder with the distance the ball carried after it had split the uprights.

More Thelen and Feldpausch running followed, more hard-hitting Eagle defense, and more Servite penalties and mistakes, including the expulsion of one Panther player from the game for unsportsmanlike conduct following a late hit.

The Eagles put their final points of the game on the board when Feldpausch took the ball in on an 8-yard run with 1:23 left in the third period. The 23-0 rout was complete, although the score could very well have been double.

Bag 51-46 win

P-W puts stop to Potterville wins

By RHONDA WESTFALL
Sports Editor

Three cheers for the Pirates! The Pewamo-Westphalia girls basketball team put an end to the longest winning streak in basketball in the state when they upended Potterville last Friday 51-46.

A swarm of cheering Pirate fans stormed the court at the conclusion of the contest played on the Viking's home floor, surrounding their team and carrying winning coach Carol Rademacher off on their shoulders.

Not only did the win stop Potterville's streak at 44 games, it gave Pewamo-Westphalia a share of first place in the tough Central Michigan Athletic Conference, knotting the race at 8-1. One league game remains for each team on this year's schedule.

Rademacher had said going into the game that her team had nothing to lose and everything to win in the matchup with the Vikings. That attitude, plus a much improved Pirate team since the first meeting of the two teams earlier in the season, enabled P-W to pull off the major victory.

After both teams got off to somewhat of a slow start, Potterville opened up an 11-point lead and ended the first quarter on top 14-9. The second period was evenly played, with the Pirates narrowing the deficit to 26-20.

Rademacher's girls came out shooting in the decisive third quarter, outscoring the Vikings 19-6 and taking a 39-32 lead.

With the Pirates up by 9 points, Potterville fought back, tying the score at 45-all with just over two minutes left in the game.

A pair of free throws by Brenda Martin and basket by Amy Hengesbach gave the lead back to the Pirates, and Potterville folded with time running out.

A trio of Pirates ended the night with double figures, Sandy Simon and Brenda Martin scoring 15 points apiece, and Sandy Thelen adding 13 points to P-W's score.

Pewamo-Westphalia was good on 15-25 shots from the charity stripe, compared to 8-16 for Potterville, and the Pirates outrebounded the Vikings 32-22.

The Pirates travel to Grand Rapids West Catholic for a non-conference game tonight (Nov. 11). Their final league game, scheduled for Nov. 14 with Fowler, will be changed due to the Fowler football team's playoff game which will be played this Friday. As of press time, no date had been decided for the game.

The Pirate junior varsity also were winners over Potterville's J.V.'s by a 45-42 score.

Obnoxious fans

Rhonda Westfall

Three weeks and counting before the beginning of the 1986-87 boys basketball season.

I can hardly wait. Not that area girls teams have not given spectators more than a few exciting moments during their season so far — and girls' tournament games are still to come.

But, there is something different about boys high school basketball. Obviously, boys are playing, not girls. In general that means that the style of play is by and large more physical, the pace of the game is usually faster, and coaching techniques may be a little more sophisticated.

And, the people who attend boys games tend to be somewhat more vocal in comments directed toward the officials and coaches.

At the close of the boys' season last year, I made a statement in a column referring to St. Johns fans as the "most obnoxious in the area."

Now, some people took offense to that remark. They should have. Chances are they were exactly the persons whom the comment was directed at. Most generally, the truth hurts.

The gist of this column is intended for those same people — and anyone else who has thoughts of going into a high school athletic event and making a fool of themselves.

This year, before you make your feelings about officials and their interpretations of the rules known by yelling at the "zebras" in front of your children and friends, consider who the looney really will appear to be.

It doesn't take much talent to sit up in the stands and dispute the officials' calls, or to second guess the coaching staff.

I do it all the time — but I also keep my mouth shut, because I realize: 1) Officials know more about the rules of the game than I do; 2) The coaches know more about their players' abilities and what they can realistically expect from them than I do; and 3) A lady yelling from the bleachers looks even more ridiculous than a man — everybody knows women are much more emotional than men and really don't know what they're yelling about anyway.

Seriously, overly vocal fans are becoming more and more of a problem at many high schools, not just St. Johns. Some schools have been forced to adopt a "fan policy" whereby chronic offenders of good sportsmanship principles are excluded from attending athletic events.

That would be a pretty drastic measure. The banning of specific individuals seems extreme, and probably would create more problems than it would alleviate.

The word is out, however, at several area schools that excessive badgering of referees and coaches will no longer be tolerated. Such persons will be approached and asked to tone their comments down, and if that doesn't work, they will be escorted from the game.

No challenge is intended here. The idea is not to see how badly one can behave before one is asked to leave, or be forcibly removed.

Rather, the hope is that by confronting problems head on, so to speak, a majority of potential problems can be avoided. The "pro syndrome" — "I paid my two bucks, so I can say what I want to" — has no place in high school athletics.

Coaches spend a considerable amount of time trying to drill sportsmanship into their players. It certainly should not be too much to expect that the players' parents, or other adult fans, abide by the same standards. Even at the high school level, adults should realize that their actions and words make an impression on the young people around them.

To paraphrase a quote by a former coach and athletic director, "High school athletics would be far better off if parents and all adults realized high school sports are played by kids, for the enjoyment of kids, and for the benefit of kids."

In other words, if you can't come and be a positive influence — stay home.

Let's hope that at the conclusion of this basketball season there will be no reason for any mention of "obnoxious fans" anywhere in the area.

Feldpausch scored two touchdowns in the game and did an excellent job from his defensive position making key stops on the Panther's attack.

Fulton cagers defeat Fowler

In a low-scoring, defensive battle, Fulton's girls basketball team took a 39-36 win over Fowler last Friday in CMAC cage action. It was the second loss of the week for the Eagles, who were handed a 47-28 non-league defeat by Ashley on Tuesday.

"We had our worst two games of the year last week as far as shooting percentage goes," said Fowler coach Tom O'Rourke. "We shot 26 percent against Fulton, and about that with Ashley."

"We're not using that as an excuse though," O'Rourke said. "Ashley played very well against us — they played awfully good defense — and Fulton played well defensively also."

The Fulton/Fowler contest was close throughout with Fowler taking a 14-12 first quarter lead, and the score tied at halftime 24-24.

With the game tied at the end of three quarters, 32-32, Fulton's girls outlasted the Eagles in the final period to take the win.

"We had plenty of opportunities," O'Rourke said, "but just couldn't cash in."

Janice Kresge led all scorers with 17 points for Fulton, while teammate Dee Gardner added 8 points, four of those coming in the decisive fourth quarter. Gardner also cleared the boards of 10 rebounds for the Pirates.

Mary Jo Simon had 14 points and 7 rebounds for Fowler, Mary Kay Jandernoa added 12 points, Kim Epkey had 4 points and 6 rebounds, and Teresa Feldpausch had 5 steals and 4 points.

In the game earlier last week with Ashley, the Bears led from start to finish.

"It was a typical physical game," O'Rourke said. "Ashley played very well."

Amy Witgen had 10 points and 4 steals in that game for Fowler, Simon had 7 points and 3 assists, Feldpausch added 6 points and had 6 rebounds, and Epkey had 6 rebounds.

Fowler's junior varsity was victorious in both outings last week, getting a 40-28 win over Ashley, and defeating Fulton 52-16.

Fulton plays their last CMAC game of the season at Portland St. Patrick this Friday (Nov. 14), before ending the regular season with a home contest versus Ovid-Elsie.

Fowler had been scheduled to play Pewamo-Westphalia this Friday for their final CMAC game, but that will be rescheduled due to the football team's Class D State Play-off game which has been set for this Friday. The Eagles take on Lansing Christian in a home game tonight (Nov. 11). As of press time, no date had been set for the P-W/Fowler game.

SJ cagers lose

The St. Johns girls basketball team five-game win streak was broken last week when Chesaning took a 52-44 decision from the Redwings. The loss, coupled with a win by Corunna, puts St. Johns and Chesaning in a tie for second place in the MMB at 5-3. Corunna stands alone in first place at 6-2.

"We must win our next two games with Corunna and Alma if we hope to tie for the league title," said St. Johns coach Beth Swears.

The Redwings face Corunna tonight at home, and travel to Alma for their regular season finale on Nov. 18.

In action last week at Chesaning, St. Johns trailed 16-11 after the first quarter and was down 28-20 at halftime. Cold shooting and fouls were the culprits of the Redwings game, as the St. Johns cagers shot only 29.8 percent from the field on the night.

Chesaning shot 47.5 percent from the field and a whopping 70 percent from the charity stripe.

St. Johns' Anne Brocker was held to 13 points total, while Karen Simon and Kristin Kloekner were high scorers, Simon tallying 13 points and Kloekner popping in 14 points. Simon also had 7 steals on the night.

The Redwing junior varsity took a close 45-43 loss to Chesaning.

Ashley claims more victims

Ashley picked up two more big basketball wins last week, downing Fowler 47-28 in a non-league game on Tuesday, and annihilating Morrice 69-24 in a Mid-State Athletic Conference game on Friday.

The Bears are in first place in their league with a perfect 8-0 record and are 16-2 overall.

"The key to our win was defense," Ashley coach Carl Wayer said of the game with Fowler. "Our girls played outstanding defense throughout the game. We allowed Fowler very few easy shots."

The Bears jumped out to a 10-7 lead at the end of the first quarter and extended that to 20-11 by halftime.

Ashley continued their scoring blitz into the second half, outscoring the Eagles in both the third and fourth quarters of the game.

"The girls were really psyched up," Wayer said.

"We were ready to play."

Theresa Fabus had a good all-around game, leading the Bears in scoring with 16 points, claiming 11 rebounds and netting 5 steals.

Chaunda Shaw added 9 points to the Bears' total, Lisa Wingle had 6 points, Lori Haruska had 4 points and 3 assists, Jamie Plesko had 4 points, and Sherry Kral had 3 assists, 3 steals, and 2 forced mistakes.

In the Friday night game with Morrice, the Bears extended a lopsided first quarter score of 20-7 in each of the following quarters.

Haruska led the Bears with 17 points, Karin Burlingame added 13 points, Fabus had 10, Shaw was good for 12, and Plesko had 9 points.

Ashley will meet league rival Webberville this Friday with a Bear win clinching the league title for them. Webberville is in second place in the Mid-State league.

Fowler's junior varsity defeated Ashley 40-28, but the Bears rebounded for a 31-16 win over Morrice.

NOTICE TO GENERAL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF MICHIGAN CUSTOMERS

NOTICE OF OPPORTUNITY TO SUBMIT COMMENTS

On October 7, 1986, General Telephone Company of Michigan (General) filed an application with the Michigan Public Service Commission (MPSC) for authority to detariff the installation and maintenance of simple and complex inside wire.

The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) on January 30, 1986, in its Second Report and Order in CC Docket 79-105, directed the detariffing of the installation of simple inside wire and the maintenance of both simple and complex inside wire by or before January 1, 1987. The FCC further directed all local exchange carriers (LECs) to relinquish ownership of all inside wiring once full capital recovery is reached.

General's current Tariff MPSC No. 1 reflects a premise repair charge for single-line (simple) station wire of $.50 per central office line, per month or a time and material option, if the customer desires. The premise repair charge for multi-line (complex) cable is on a time and materials basis only.

General represents that it will continue to provide these services of installing and maintaining simple and complex wire at approximately these same rates but on a detariffed basis.

General proposes to continue to amortize its Embedded Station Connection-Inside Wiring in accordance with the MPSC's Order in Case No. U-7025 until September 30, 1991; at that date, the investment in this Account 232 will be fully amortized and General will relinquish ownership to its customers. General proposes, however, that at the effective detariffing date of January 1, 1987 customers may assume ownership for practical purposes to take advantage of competitive options for the installation and maintenance of simple and complex inside wire from General and/or other vendors and contractors.

The matter has been docketed by the MPSC as Case No. U-8595, and you may comment on this by sending a letter to the MPSC expressing your concerns and ideas. A member of the MPSC Staff will then contact you to discuss the various alternatives available to you to pursue this matter. Send your comments to the Michigan Public Service Commission at 6545 Mercantile Way, Lansing, Michigan 48910, and reference Case No. U-8595 — General Telephone Company. Your comments must be received by the MPSC before November 28, 1986.

 DIVING — Redwing divers have been a bright spot on the St. Johns swim team this year. The St. Johns team split a pair of dual meets in the past two weeks, defeating Mason, but losing to a tough DeWitt team. The Redwings are currently 5-5 on the year.

Redwings swim

The St. Johns girls swim team suffered a tough 100-72 loss to a strong DeWitt team in action last week at the St. Johns High School pool. The loss evens the Redwings' record at 5-5, after a big 107-67 win over Mason which the tankers posted the week before. "We felt the girls performed very well against the strong DeWitt team," Coach Fred Meyers said. Earning first place for the Redwings in the DeWitt meet were Mindi Wells in diving, scoring a 190.30, and Lisa Sabo, who swam the 100 meter freestyle in 58.5 seconds. First place times in the meet with Mason were turned in by: 200 medley relay team, Chris Welch, Jennifer Giesecke, Erin Masarik, and Sabo, 2:07.37; 200 freestyle, Jane Cooper, 2:15.08; 200 individual medley, Kim Bauer, 2:30.95; 50 freestyle, Sabo, :27.37; 100 butterfly, Bauer, 1:08.16; 100 freestyle, Sabo, :59.92; 500 freestyle, Kari Scranton, 6:07.10; 100 backstroke, Welch, 1:10.89; 400 freestyle relay team, Masarik, Carla Dudash, Cooper, and Bauer, 4:09.88.

SWIMMING — Over 300 Special Olympians took part in a fun day at the St. Johns High School pool last week. Swimming is just one of the events which Special Olympics athletes from the Clinton County area are involved in during the school year. Bowling is next on the agenda, followed by track and field in the spring.

Olympians swim

Submitted by Darlene Jekel

On Nov. 7, over 300 Special Olympians enjoyed a day of swim competition and free swim at the St. Johns High School pool. These athletes represented St. Johns, Bath and Ovid-Elsie schools.

There were events for both swimmers and non-swimmers. The swimming events included both 25-yard and 50-yard freestyle, backstroke, sidestroke and breaststroke. Some athletes tried their skills in the diving event. Non-swimmers had fun swimming the width of the pool with a kickboard, floating, ball toss and sponge capture. All of the students enjoyed the free swimming portions of the day.

The athletes and coaches would like to give special thanks to Wayne Morrison and Fred Meyer who ran the day's events. The meet itself was organized by Darlene Jekel and a volunteer group of teachers representing each school district involved.

The group of high school students who helped both in the pool and on deck will be individually recognized in next week's Clinton County News. Other community volunteers included Barb and Stan Helms, whose help was certainly appreciated.

The athletes are looking forward to the next Special Olympics event which is bowling. The community support and interest is greatly appreciated and necessary to maintain and continue these programs.

HELPING HAND — An adult volunteer gives a small Special Olympian a hand in getting out of the pool at the Special Olympics meet held at St. Johns High School pool last week. Darlene Jekel is the area coordinator for Special Olympics.

4. Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger; know identifying features of the game you hunt.
5. Unload guns when not in use. Take down or have actions open; guns should be carried in cases to the shooting area.

What's the importance of so-called earnest money?

By DON G. CAMPBELL

Dear Mr. Campbell:

Can you tell me please what is the purpose of the so-called earnest money that home buyers put down? I always thought it was a deposit that went to the sellers if the buyers backed out of the contract.

However, we have had our house in escrow three times and have never received the earnest money. The first time, the buyers qualified easily for the mortgage loan, came right down to the close of escrow, asked for, and were granted, an extension of two weeks and, at the end of that time, said they didn't want to buy after all. They got back their earnest money. They kept our house off the market for three months and caused us a good deal of trouble since we were, literally, packed up and ready to leave.

The second time the buyers were unable to live up to the contract because the sale of their own house fell through. In this case we felt it was only fair that the buyers get their money back since it was not of their own doing.

The third time the would-be purchaser was a church. They asked for a 45-day review period, then a second 45-day review, then an extension of still more time! They kept our house off the market for almost five months and then, at the very last moment, decided not to buy. They, of course, got their money back. What I want to know is: If the buyer always gets back his earnest money, what's the point in even putting the money down in the first place? - Mrs. K. P. Tempe, Ariz.

ANSWER: It's a good thing that you didn't accept a few dozen eggs as earnest money — you'd have a spoilage problem now of gigantic proportions.

There's nothing wrong with your understanding of what earnest money (or the "good faith deposit") is supposed to be. It's supposed to be the money at risk for willy-willy, arbitrarily, changing your mind and leaving the seller hung out to dry with a house that's off the market for a few weeks to a few months.

In most cases, earnest money is strictly a psychological lever for which the amount of money involved is secondary. The theory is that the larger the amount (arbitrarily chosen), the more the would-be buyer will hesitate to back out just in case you, the sellers, do decide to hang onto the money.

I've discussed this with a real estate lawyer who feels that there's something wrong with the third party you have holding the earnest money. Depending on varying state laws (and customs) the neutral third party can be a title company, an escrow company, a lawyer or a real estate broker that holds the money in a trust account and releases it back to the buyer only on your instructions.

Obviously, he feels, whoever is performing this function for you isn't bothering to clear the backs out, often exceed the actual amount of the good faith deposit (you've already rented another home, have stored some of your furniture or have lost a sure sale at a higher price because of the buyer's defection).

He, and I, suggest that you either get a more hard-nosed third party to hold the earnest money, or, have a specific understanding with the present third party, that, under no circumstances, should that money be rebated without your written approval. Granted, there's a time to be charitable, but somebody carried charity to a ridiculous extreme in two of your three experiences.

Dear Mr. Campbell:

My wife and I are retired on a modest in-release of the money with you and is, charitably, most obliging to the buyers — to the point of playing Santa Claus to them. The decision to give back the deposit, he says, should strictly be yours to make. You're quite right, of course, the buyers who fell out of escrow through no fault of their own were deserving of your sympathy — as might a buyer who simply failed to qualify for the loan. However, unless this sort of "escape clause" is specifically spelled out, the seller can, and frequently does, pocket the earnest money.

But there was simply no logical reason in the world to play Mr. Nice guy for the other two. "Consequential" damages, which can be defined as direct expenses incurred because a buyer come. In addition, however, we have been enjoying a monthly interest payment as a result of carrying a contract on the sale of a duplex some years ago. Our income this year will be about $13,000 and, as we have $150 deducted from my wife's civil service check each month, we have, so far, not had to pay any additional income tax. But the duplex is in the process of being sold and we expect to be paid the balance, $58,000, in a lump sum very shortly.

We have been told we will have to pay as much as 10 percent to the government in taxes on the $58,000 — that it is treated as income and taxed as earnings. Is this correct?

We would like to know if there is any legal way of reinvesting to avoid that huge tax. We think we would like to use some of that money to pay off an existing mortgage on a condominium that is presently rented. - Mr. H.E.B. Littleton, Colo.

ANSWER: I'm assuming that this duplex which is being sold is not your principal residence, right? Assuming that it isn't, then it would definitely be to your advantage to have the sale go through before the end of the year in order to report it under this year's tax law, rather than next year's.

It's impossible for me to know how much of that $58,000 that you'll be receiving is taxable and how much isn't. The tax would not, flatly, be levied against the entire $58,000, but on the portion of it that represents your capital gain — and no one can figure that out for you but a good local accountant or tax lawyer who will sit down with you and your records and compute how much of that $58,000 is actually capital gains ("profit," if you will). We don't know what the total selling price was, what expenses you've incurred and so on and so on.

By all means, though, try to wrap up the sale — and receive the proceeds — before the end of the year if at all possible. Until the first of next year, that is, 60 percent of your gain on the sale is deductible and the 40 percent balance is taxed at your regular rate — and that wouldn't be very high on your present income especially when adjusted for your other exemptions and deductions. So, we might be looking at (pure guesswork here, admittedly) 40 percent of your gain being taxed at, say, 14 percent or less. If the sale doesn't go through until next year, though, the gain will be taxed as ordinary income at 28 percent. So, you could possibly be looking at twice the tax if it doesn't go through until 1987.

In fact, Old Kent Bank started serving its customers in 1853. That represents a 133 year record of stability that few financial institutions can match. Old Kent is one of the most respected names in banking, serving 97 communities with 188 offices and over $5 billion in assets. And even though our name is changing, there's a lot that's not changing: Old Kent Bank is a very successful bank that's committed to its community. Old Kent places a lot of emphasis on its relationships with customers. And Old Kent aims at excellence in everything.

And, of course, there's one other thing that's not changing: Our people. The same people you've come to know and trust over the years.

Conservation corner Deer damage

Eileen Gillespie

The most economical control for severe deer damage involves removal of the offending deer. Deer removal can best be accomplished through sport hunting or the use of an out-of-season kill permit.

Unfortunately, killing deer is only a short-term solution that probably will have to be repeated annually if you have good deer habitat near your operation. Healthy deer populations always produce surplus animals at a rate far exceeding the expectations of most people, and these surplus animals will immigrate to areas that have few deer, good food and good cover. Deer in Michigan have been known to immigrate many miles.

Fencing is the most efficient long-term solution to a serious deer damage problem. However, fencing is also expensive. Some innovative new products and fence designs are making exclusion of deer from crops both cheaper and more effective. Development of high-tensile steel wire, high-voltage pulse generators and 5-7 strand vertical designs seems to offer effective protection at reasonable cost. Some deer may penetrate fences, but these usually are easy to deal with or tolerate. The new fences are far cheaper than genuine deer-proof fence (8-10 foot woven wire). Your county extension agent can provide a list of fencing contractors and suppliers.

An inexpensive, temporary electric fence is valuable for some deer problems during snow-free seasons. This fence works by inducing deer to touch nose or tongue to the fence. The deer is shocked and thereafter avoids the fence. This fence is constructed using a single strand of 19 or 20 gauge smooth wire that is 2.5 feet from the ground. Enough four foot wood or electric fence posts are needed to maintain 50 foot spacing; usually these must be fitted with electric fencing insulators. Aluminum foil in 3x4 inch pieces is taped to the wire at 3-foot intervals and a 50:50 mixture of peanut butter and peanut oil is spread on the underside of the foil flags and on the tape. A 6, 12 or 110 volt charger is then hooked to the wire. Obviously, deer can jump over or crawl under this fence, but once shocked they rarely do so. To ensure that a deer is shocked on the first approach, the peanut butter bait must be periodically renewed as it weathers, and the charger must remain connected and functioning effectively (free from shorts caused by weeds, especially).

This fence is easy to set up and easy to dismantle and move. Growers who cannot justify economically the costs of a 5-7 strand high-tensile fence, such as some Christmas tree growers, may find this single strand fence a practical solution to their damage problem.

Research shows that some repellents can provide an economic net gain if they are applied according to label specifications; at least one commercial repellent is thought by a field researcher to damage crops if not applied according to directions. However, be aware that repellents may wear off fairly quickly and require frequent re-application, may be effective for only a short time, and may be expensive in time and

Ovid-Elsie competes in FFA food contest

John Lehman, Kore Kaufman, and John Paul Hyde, all members of Ovid-Elsie Future Farmers of America, will compete in the National FFA Dairy Foods Contest next week in Kansas City, Mo.

The Dairy Foods Contest is one of 12 national agricultural contests conducted annually by the National FFA organization in connection with the 59th National FFA Convention.

Thirty-three teams will test their knowledge of milk production and marketing, marketing promotion, identify flavors and odors in milk, identify hard cheeses, score sediment pads, and identify real versus artificial dairy products. Each of the teams competing in the Dairy Foods Contest won contests at the local, area, and state levels to earn the trip to Kansas City.

Mid-American Dairyman, Inc., and Patz Sale, Inc. provides funds for travel, contest administration, an awards breakfast, and trophies and medals for winning teams and high scoring individuals.

Booklet on salvaging crops still available

Farmers in Clinton County should have recently received a special publication that focuses on salvaging what is left of their crops.

Produced by Agriculture and Natural Resources Information Services, a division of Michigan State University's Cooperative Extension Service, the publication is a 16-page tabloid newspaper.

"Each of the county extension offices will receive 1,500 copies of the publication," says Maxine Ferris, ANR Information Services manager. "Each office will enlist the help of county Farm Bureau presidents and ASCS and SCS county offices to distribute the publication. Anyone can have as many copies as they wish if they contact their county Extension office."

The free publication provides in-depth information about topics such as family stress reduction, handling mold problems in grains and feed, harvest recommendations, fall wheat planting, livestock health care and community assistance.

agronomists, plant pathologists and livestock specialists, and Michigan Farm Bureau, Farmers Home Administration and Consumers Power Company personnel contributed material to the publication.

"The publication is intended as a guide for decision making that will enable farm families to cope with the aftermath of the flood and extremely unfavorable weather that has followed the disaster," Ferris says. "All of those who contributed to the publication provided as much current information as was available when the publication went to press."

The tabloid is part of the vigorous Cooperative Extension Service effort to aid farm families throughout the flood-stricken area and in other parts of the state where unfavorable weather has damaged crop production.

Farmers or organizations that would like single or multiple copies of the publication can obtain free copies by writing to: ANR Information Services, 17 Morrill Hall, MSU, East Lansing, MI, 48824-1036.

Much of the effect of repellents is due to neophobia, fear of anything new, found in all wild animals. You can use this fear to good advantage by inserting something new in your production area, such as old rags soaked with strange scents or aluminum pie pans that flutter in the wind. Any repellent effect will probably not last long, so you will have to time your initial application to before the beginning of serious damage and continue to think of new sights, sounds, and smells. No repellent or fear is likely to deter really hungry deer.

Many nurseries, garden centers and farm co-ops sell commercial repellents and fencing materials. Your county extension agent should be able to provide a detailed and current list of specialized suppliers or contractors.

Eileen Gillespie is the district administrative assistant for the Clinton Soil Conservation District.

The wet fall has caused mold to grow on many crops. We have discussed the potential problems the molds may pose to livestock as they eat the grain, but have not talked too much about the threat they may cause to the people harvesting this grain.

The mold on the grains produce spores that are dangerous when inhaled. The disease they can cause is mycotoxicosis. Symptoms of this disease are fever, a drippy nose, persistent cough and exhaustion. The illness can be mistaken for bronchitis, asthma or pneumonia. Symptoms may appear within a few hours after exposure or take up to two weeks.

To protect yourself from toxic molds, individuals working around the grain (harvesting, hauling wagons, unloading, etc.) should wear a tight-fitting dust mask. The dust mask must be capable of filtering pollen and plant mold spores down to seven microns in diameter and bacteria down to 0.5 micron.

Combine and tractor operators should not rely on the cab's air conditioning or air filtering system to keep spores out. Spores are small enough to pass through these filtering systems. Always wear a dust mask when harvesting moldy corn. Children and anyone not wearing protective clothing and a dust mask must be kept away from storage and hauling operations involving moldy corn or silage.

When filling upright silos, the operator should wear a dust mask as a precautionary measure to avoid inhaling airborne spores. The price of a disposable dust mask ranges from $2 to $7. Select a mask that fits tightly and guarantees filtration of toxic dusts and molds. A mask that filters only nuisance-level dusts, such as pollen, sawdust, limestone and other non-toxic dusts, will not provide adequate protection. A partial list of disposable dust masks suitable for use around toxic dusts and molds includes:

Roehl lines Say what I mean

Giles Roehl

Hep Me Say What I Mean: Many problems in the home or on the farm occur because we don't necessarily say what we mean. The special program at 7 p.m., Nov. 11 at Smith Hall will help you say what you mean in such a manner that communications between parents and children, husband and wife, employer and employee, are clear and understandable without problems. Come and enjoy as you learn with Carol Kent.

The effect of the rains, loans coming due, crops not harvested are all affecting our lives today. The harder we try the more drained we feel. The second portion of this meeting will help us deal with these opportunities in a way that will truly help us keep our chins up. Come to Smith Hall, Clinton County Fairgrounds, Nov. 11, 7 p.m.

Rain: We've had too much? Preliminary data by Dr. Fred Nurnberger, state climatologist, documents that we were indeed wet in September. He states the Sept., 1986 rains exceeded previous state rainfalls by at least 25 percent.

Rainfall of 19.33 and 19.79 were officially measured near Bay City. The previous monthly high was 16.24 inches at Battle Creek in 1983.

The 30-year average for the total month of Sept. is in the 3 to 3.5 inch range. The previous monthly rainfall for any larger region was around 12.5 inches.

Preparing for payments Farm operators who are suffering losses due to all the rains need to be prepared for special "help" programs as they are developed on the federal and state levels. At least one of these programs proposes Extension will need to certify the actual amount of loss that has occurred.

If Extension were chosen to certify losses, some method of identifying the amount of loss will need to be developed. Among the potential choices will be for the operator to be able to show a historic average yield. If one has been developed with ASCS office, there will be no problem except for programs that are not ASCS crop contracts.

If you have not developed a historic base yield or if your losses in crops are not covered, I suggest you do one or more of the following to develop the information you may need for 1986.

1. Have the ASCS office verify your crops losses in 1986.
2. By going back through your crop records for 3 to 5 years (to 1982 to 84) be prepared to show: a.) acreage grown of each crop each year and b.) total bushels of each crop harvested using ASCS bin measures, or c.) elevator weight tickets/warehouse

Ag. dept. system helps deaf communicate

The Michigan Department of Agriculture now has the capability to communicate with people who are hearing impaired.

A Telecommunication Device for the Deaf (TDD) was installed on the MDA general information line in the Press and Public Affairs Division. The TDD number is (517) 373-1104. Hours of operation are 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays.

The hearing-impaired population comprises 6.5 percent of the general population of Michigan, one percent of which is totally deaf, according to Christopher Hunter, director of the Division of the Deaf and Deafened.

The TDD is a lightweight, portable teletype device which attaches to a telephone, making communication possible with the people who are deaf and deafened by using the modified typewriter keyboard which prints a hard copy of the conversation. The cost of these devices is $300 per unit.

The Michigan Department of Agriculture offers many services to the state's population which are now more readily available to those who are hearing impaired as a result of the TDDs. Some of the department's responsibilities are assuring the safety and wholesomeness of the human food supply, increasing domestic and international marketing of agricultural products, helping to develop and conserve agricultural resources, preventing and reducing economic loss, product misrepresentation and fraud, assuring animal health and the safe use of pesticides, assisting in the promotion of county safety and regulating toy safety laws. These are just a sampling of the many helpful services available through MDA.

- Farmers may also select a respirator with replaceable cartridges. A 3-M silicone half-mask facepiece sells for about $28. Replacement filters are about $9 for two. Other manufacturers also make dust masks and respirators that will provide adequate protection from toxic dusts and molds. Anyone wearing a dust mask or respirator must remember they are designed only to filter out dusts — they do not apply oxygen.
