Notes Library

ST. JOHNS There will be a public meeting of St. Johns Area-New Library, Inc., on Jan. 27 at 7:30 p.m. in the board room of the Clinton County Courthouse.

The purpose of the meeting is to update the membership and other interested people on the status of the effort to provide a new library for the St. Johns area.

Speaker

ST. JOHNS Jim Barrett, president of the Michigan Chamber of Commerce, will be the guest speaker at the Jan. 15 membership meeting of the St. Johns Area Chamber of Commerce.

The $5 luncheon meeting will begin at noon at the First Congregation Church. Shangri-La Restaurant will cater the event.

Reservations may be made by calling the chamber office at 224-7248.

Fulton

MIDDLETON Fulton students will have schedule changes due to semester exams this week. There will be a half day of school on Jan. 15, with school dismissed at 11:30 a.m. and no lunches served.

Morning kindergarten classes and pre-school will be dismissed at 11:30 a.m. and will ride home on the bus that picks them up in the morning.

Jan. 16 is records day for teachers with no school for students. Parents can expect their child's report card on Jan. 23.

Newsboys

ST. JOHNS "We went over the top."

That's how Roger Dershem summed up the Old Newsboys fundraising campaign in St. Johns over the holidays.

The Old Newsboys had set a goal of $1,000 for the St. Johns area. When the final tally was totaled they found that local sales of their spoof newspaper had raised $1,002.76.

"That's fantastic," said Dershem, the local coordinator of the campaign. "The goal was $76,000 for the whole (Lansing) area. Over $80,000 is what we did this year."

Dershem noted that every penny raised in the campaign is used to buy shoes for needy children. Not a cent goes for administration or any other costs.

"I want to thank everyone who participated," said Dershem.

Tax hints

LANSING An easy to understand booklet of helpful hints on filling out this year's tax forms is available to residents of the 89th district, says Rep. Gary Randall.

The Michigan Taxpayer's Guide contains information on property taxes, the property tax credit, the Michigan income tax, the single business tax and other tax-related subjects.

"This year's guide will assist anyone filling out their tax forms," Randall said. "Because tax laws change so often, many people find it difficult to complete their own forms. This publication provides citizens with information in understandable language on the many Michigan tax laws."

The free booklet is available at the public libraries in Alma, DeWitt and St. Johns and at Cooperative Extension Service offices in Gratiot and Clinton counties. Copies may also be received by writing Rep. Randall at the State Capitol, Lansing, 48909, or by calling his office, 517-373-0834.

'Right to Know' law brings safety and a lot of extra work

By RICH WERTZ
Editor

A new amendment to Michigan's "Right to Know Law" effective Feb. 25 will make it easy for public and private employees to find out about any potentially dangerous chemicals they are exposed to in the workplace.

For businesses, the new law could be interpreted as "more regulation" in that it will require employers to keep a record and information on hand about chemicals in the workplace — chemicals as common as typing correction fluid and toilet bowl cleaner.

For fire departments, the new law means a little of both — safety bought at the expense of a lot of extra work.

What the law does is essentially this:

- It requires businesses to obtain manufacturer's information about each chemical product used on their properties. The information will be provided to local fire departments as well as being made available to employees.

- It requires fire departments to keep a site plan and updated lists of potentially hazardous chemicals used by every business in their jurisdictions for a 30 year period.

The site plan will be used by the fire departments in the event of a fire or other emergency. The plans will have to be available to the men who respond to emergency calls.

"An easy way to put it, I guess, is to say we have to carry it so we have a plan as to what's going to happen if we have chemical spill down the way — evacuation plans, what valves to open and to close..." says St. Johns Fire Chief Clare Maier.

SO FAR, site plans have been completed — or are very close to completion — for the Federal Mogul and Sealed Power plants in St. Johns, said Maier. Industrial facilities, such as those two plants, are among the first to be affected by the new law.

In addition to having two huge books of manufacturers' information about chemicals used at each plant, and in addition to the site plan for each plant, St. Johns firemen recently toured the facilities for a first-hand look at the factories.

Later in the year, other businesses will be affected by the new law. It remains to be seen how the required information will be collected.

"This is what we have to determine — how we're going to do this," says Maier.

One model for meeting the requirements of the new law could be found by looking at the City of St. Johns. As a public employer the City faces a February deadline for meeting the requirements of the new law.

Each city department — including the fire department — is preparing a Material Safety Data Sheet containing manufacturers' information about chemicals ranging from Pledge to paint to liquid cleaners to dry fire extinguisher chemicals.

By the end of January, says City Manager Randy Humphrey, all city employees will have undergone training sessions to familiarize them with any chemical hazards in their workplaces.

IS IT worth the trouble? To those who support the rationale behind the law — that individuals have a right to know about chemicals that could give them cancer, burn their lungs, or otherwise harm them — the answer is affirmative.

Fire Chief Maier sees it both ways. "It could benefit you when you go into a building, yeah, with all the chemicals around," he says. "Used to be you'd go into a fire and you'd have wood. Now you got plastic and chemicals and all this stuff..."

On the other hand, he says, the law is going to be a lot of extra work — especially for an all-volunteer fire department.

"It could be good but it's going to be a pain," he says.

Two lives lost in accidents on county roads

A St. Johns youth was killed and a Fowler youth seriously injured Wednesday night when their car rolled over while they were fleeing Clinton County sheriff's deputies who had clocked them traveling at excessive speeds.

In a separate accident on Friday evening, one woman was killed and another injured on snow-covered roads in Watertown Township.

Sannie Montgomery, 16, a junior at St. Johns High School, died instantly at 10:10 p.m. Wednesday when the car he was driving hit a culvert and rolled onto the driver's side. He was the son of Lee and Joan Montgomery, 2777 Loomis Rd., St. Johns. He was employed as a part-time photographer for the Clinton County News.

Eric Miller, 16, of 403 N. Pine St., Fowler, was injured in the accident. He was taken to Clinton Memorial Hospital and later transferred to Sparrow Hospital in Lansing. He remained in serious condition Sunday evening.

The accident is being investigated by the Michigan State Police Post in Ithaca because Clinton County Sheriff's deputies were involved prior to the accident, said a state trooper in Ithaca.

Clinton County Sheriff Terry Haneckow said Deputy Stephen Coughlin saw the car speeding east on M-21 toward Fowler and radioed Deputy Mark Finnila, who was stationed near Fowler. The car was clocked at 90 miles-per-hour on M-21 near Forest Hill Road, said the State Police.

The officers pursued the car through Fowler to Jones Road, south to Townsend, and back east to Grange, reported the State Police Post in Ithaca when contacted Thursday morning.

"The driver lost control, left the road, hit an elevated culvert and rolled onto the driver's side," said the state trooper. The accident occurred on Townsend Road near Grange Road in Dallas Township.

"He was still fleeing at that point," said Coughlin. "He was so far ahead of me that I thought he was on Grange Road."

Haneckow said county officers do not engage in high speed chases if they know the identity of the driver.

"Generally, on chases, if we know who it is we're not going to chase them," he said.

Instead, he said, police obtain a warrant and make the arrest later.

SNOW-COVERED roads were blamed for an accident that caused the death of a Lansing woman on Friday evening.

State Police in Lansing said Ronald Motz, 33, of 310 Park West Court, Lansing, was southbound on Francis Rd. in Watertown Township shortly after 8:30 p.m. Friday.

With him in the car was his wife, Jamie Motz, 22, who was in the front passenger seat. Also in the car was the Motz's son, Tristen, 2-years-old, and a niece, Sarah Spach, 5-years-old, of Crystal.

Police said Motz apparently lost control of the car on the snowy road about one and a half miles north of Grand River Ave. The car was struck on the passenger side by an oncoming vehicle. Police said Mrs. Motz died instantly.

The second vehicle was driven by Paul Schaefer, 55, of 7041 Howe Rd., Dewitt. His wife, Joan, 52, who was riding with him, suffered a broken leg in the accident.

The two children in the Motz car were not injured. Police said the children were strapped in children restraint seats in the back seat of the car.

Jamie Motz was born in St. Johns. She graduated from Carson City High School in 1982.

PARTY — St. Johns High School students are throwing parties these days if they leave their drugs behind.

Drug-free parties right on target, students say

Shortly before Christmas, Jevon Thompson visited the county to enlist support for his war on the use of drugs.

Did it do any good?

The Clinton County News on Saturday night asked the question of St. Johns High School junior John Kuenzli, who was at the moment engaged in throwing a drug-free party of the type encouraged by Thompson.

CCN: Have you thrown parties before?

Kuenzli: Yeah — well I've been with parties, you know, my friends. Usually, the only thing that's really been drug-free is when you have some of your friends over. Usually when you have a big party (drugs) float in. Now, hopefully this is going to change...

CCN: Since Jevon Thompson spoke at the high school, do you think it made a dent in the drug use there?

K: Some of my friends in there — I can't mention any names — they were drinkers and stuff like that and they're here now. At least for night they're not....

Yeah, I think it did make a dent. A lot of it went in one ear and out the other. I'm sure quite a bit of it stuck, maybe mostly with the students who were kind of in-between and might go to the party with drugs and don't really want to use them but end up getting into them anyway.

CCN: Was it going around the high school that you were going to have party tonight?

K: Yeah. Some people kind of laughed at it. They said 'Yeah, he's going to have a dry party' and stuff like that but a lot of them said 'Oh, it sounds really cool, I think I'll go.'

CCN: Are you ever embarrassed, like you're Mr. Goody Two Shoes?

K: No, not really. I don't feel embarrassed about it. More people would feel embarrassed if it got around that they were at a party and they got wasted... This is for a good cause so I don't feel embarrassed or pressured at all.

CCN: What would you say to someone who was scoffing at the idea? Someone at the high school who was going out tonight to drive around in the car and smoke joints and wasn't going to have anything to do with this party?

K: It would make me kind of upset and I'd say 'Wake up to reality, you can't do that stuff.' It's dangerous to your health and you don't need it. I mean we can have fun at party without all the drugs.

CCN: If they were willing to put away the dope and the alcohol and they walked up to the door, would they be welcome here?

K: Yes. I told everybody and anybody at school to come and they can bring anybody they want and they can stay as long as they want.

Rainbow residents told repair options

By RICH WERTZ
Editor

Rainbow Lake property owners now have estimates for rebuilding their lake and are exploring options for raising the required funds, said Thomas Burr, president of the Rainbow Lake Maintenance Corporation.

The manmade lake just north of Maple Rapids was emptied and turned into an expanse of mud Sept. 12 when flood waters washed out the eastern dam at the southern end of the lake.

About 250 property owners at a RLMC meeting Jan. 6 heard STS Consultants of Lansing, who conducted a $7,090 study of the lake, present six options for restoring the lake.

The options range in cost from

'The cheapest one was the one we figured would be the most expensive.'

— Thomas Burr

$710,000 to $1.08 million, said Burr. "The cheapest one was the one we figured would be most expensive," he said.

That option involves the construction of a new conduit to act as a spillway through the dam. The existing conduit would serve as an auxiliary conduit.

"I'm sure that option would be acceptable to the property owners," said Burr. However, he said, the property owners have not yet made a final decision.

Now that the property owners have cost estimates they can begin exploring options for funding the restoration of the lake, said Burr.

One possibility, he said, would be for the property owners to petition the Gratiot County Commission under Public Act 146. Such a petition would eventually lead to an assessment on Rainbow Lake properties to raise funds for the lake restoration.

Burr said there are 1,291 lots on Rainbow Lake and that the assessment would be made on an "amount of benefit" basis. This means, for instance, that lakefront lots would be assessed at a higher rate than lots that do not have lake frontage.

Burr said there is some talk among residents of exploring the possibility of using private investment to raise money for the lake restoration. Some residents have already expressed a willingness to "write a check for $2,000," he said.

However, he said, any plan for financing the restoration of the lake would have to be based on an "amount of benefit" basis.

ISD awarded job training $17k contract

The On-the-Job Training Program of Clinton County Intermediate School District has been awarded a $17,000 contract by Lansing Tri-County Employment and Training Consortium to serve JTPA eligible adults in the county.

The announcement was made by Jim Davis, job training program coordinator.

On-the-Job Training (OJT) program is targeted for adults aged 18-55 who need hands-on skill training to increase or refresh their skill levels. Training is provided by local employers who train participants at their place of employment. Employers are reimbursed for their training expense at a rate of 50 percent of the participant's straight time wages for the seven- to 12-week training period.

The contract is for an expansion of the regular OJT program which has been filled since October of last year.

"The OJT program has much to offer and can help bridge the gap for JTPA eligible adults who are looking for work," Davis said. "It is also beneficial to local employers who receive from $800-$1200 in training reimbursements from the federally funded program."

Persons interested in the OJT program should contact Davis or Rose Randolph at the Clinton Intermediate School District, 224-6834 or 374-8883.

ISD to teach awareness of work skills

Clinton County high school graduates will leave school better prepared for employment or college if a new career education program is successful.

The Clinton County Intermediate School District was recently awarded a $5,000 grant to buy materials and to meet other expenses of the program. The program will begin this year.

"The program was up and running anyway," says Pat Jackson, career education coordinator for the intermediate school district. "This is like icing on the cake."

Specific activities provided through the program will include:

- Job shadowing — students spend a day "shadowing" county residents in the course of a day's work.
- Interview days — Employers visit county high schools for a day of realistic one-on-one interviews between employers and students. Students learn how to prepare for and conduct themselves during interviews.
- Employment skills seminars.
- A speakers bureau.

Some of the activities will be familiar to county high schools. Interview days, sponsored in part by the Community Resource Volunteers (CRV) in St. Johns, have in past years been held at St. Johns and Ovid-Elsie.

"The career education program is a county-wide expansion of several activities that the CRV office is already doing," said Jackson.

The $5,000 grant from the Michigan Department of Education to help fund the program is part of an effort by the department to promote partnerships between business and education. Over 700 businesses in Clinton County were invited in a recent mailing to participate in the program by providing such resources as job shadowing opportunities and volunteers for interview days.

St. Johns Area Chamber of Commerce Director Joann Martis and DeWitt Downtown Business Association President Julie Lenneman will represent county businesses on the programs's advisory council.

Jackson said the program will be beneficial to college-bound students as well as to those who will seek work immediately after high school. College students often work to help pay for college expenses, she said, and will also need career skills after college.

"Everybody is a job seeker at some time," she said. Jackson also said it is hoped to eventually provide career education in junior high and elementary schools as well as high school.

The Clinton County Intermediate School District was one of 28 districts out of 80 applicants awarded the career education funds by the state education department.

RAVE celebrates two years of service

Relief After Violent Encounter is Feb. 9 celebrating its second anniversary after providing services to 72 clients in 1985 and 250 clients in 1986.

RAVE currently operates a 24-hour Crisis Line for people who just need to talk to someone, or who need transportation to shelters, or need referrals for victims of domestic assault.

Eighteen advocates are involved with RAVE, including two public speakers, a crisis line monitor, transportation monitor and several crisis line workers. Other advocates may attend court with battered women and give other types of support.

The board of directors is currently attempting to find a suitable shelter in Clinton County. This would alleviate the problem RAVE often faces of being spread transporting clients to shelters in other areas.

A new training session for RAVE advocates begins on Jan. 14, with an orientation session scheduled for 6 p.m. at Clinton Memorial Hospital in St. Johns. Persons interested in becoming an advocate or those who would like to know more about RAVE are encouraged to attend the meeting.

Persons who would like to help RAVE but feel they do not have time to be an advocate may donate products or purchase seals from Stay-Free products. Seals may be turned in at the Frugal Fox in St. Johns.

For more information on RAVE, call 224-RAVE or 224-4662.

Maintenance garage on museum grounds?

To the Editor:

The Clinton County Historical Society was so very grateful, just a year ago, to the commissioners of the county for supporting the society with a loan and for allowing the small doctor's office to be moved behind the museum. This was a great addition to our efforts to relate county history.

By supporting this complex, the society felt, the commissioners had come to a realization of the importance of preserving county history and of the service provided by the Clinton County Historical Society.

Now, with no future planning, bids are being taken to tear down the carriage house at the back of the property, just a few feet from the doctor's office, and build a maintenance garage.

Our concern and appeal is for the physical and aesthetic value of the museum complex.

Also, a maintenance area will be conducive to a tremendous amount of activity, of vehicles, and the next step would be widening the drive and probably the demise of one of Michigan's largest tulip magnolia trees and two dogwoods.

Architecturally, the maintenance garage and the Paine-Gillam-Scott House, will probably not be compatible.

In the hopes and wildest dreams of the Clinton County Historical Society, we have envisioned someday acquiring the carriage house to restore and house the many offers of machinery and implements people have wanted to donate and we have had to refuse.

Letters

Surely, with the many properties owned by the county, a more appropriate area can be found — one that would allow for future expansion that the county maintenance department would dictate in the coming years.

We need you as commissioners to give us county government with vision, not just for now. We know many people couldn't care less about history and preservation, but also as many do care.

Please consider those who do!

On Jan. 20, at 10 a.m., the building and grounds committee of the Clinton County Board of Commissioners will have this subject on their agenda.

Big bucks loudest in gravel pit dispute

To the Editor:

People of Clinton County — please do not sit back and feel that your rights are being protected by your representatives. If you do, you will be in for a big surprise.

At a township meeting recently, it was evident that big bucks still do the talking. Even though many observers present at the meeting expressed their disapproval of the issuance of a special use permit for another gravel pit and a petition signed by several more was presented to the board, the board unanimously approved the permit. Many reasons for a denial were brought out, as there were 2½ years ago when the people in this area fought once before to stop this same pit from being opened. Now we are going through it again and the same reasons against it exist but on an even larger scale.

We settled here 18 years ago because we felt it was a quiet and peaceful farming area and a fine place to raise our family. We are now going to have a gravel pit with all its noise and dust pollution across the road from our home we have worked so hard so many years for. In addition, we will have gravel trucks going past our home for the better part of the day.

OUR RIGHTS to a healthy environment for our family are being taken away by someone who has only recently purchased property in this area where we established our home and have paid taxes for over 18 years. Is this fair? Two members of our family are asthmatic and you can imagine what a burden the added dust in the air is going to be for them. Since when do our rights no longer mean anything because a big corporation is expressing his so-called rights to rezone a farm area to a gravel mining area?

There certainly is not a great need for the gravel from this particular pit, when there are already an abundance of pits in this area already. When does it end?

If you are concerned, please attend the Jan. 15 zoning commission meeting at 7:30 p.m. at the courthouse. They may decide to open a gravel pit in your area sometime too. We need your support to oppose this infringement on our rights.

Mrs. Joan Schrauben

"It's in the Bag"
by Bob Beck

The grapefruit's native home is unknown, however, it is believed to have come from Jamaica. It is not known precisely when grapefruit was first introduced in the United States; but it is believed that the first planting in this country was made by a Spanish nobleman named Don Phillippe, who began a grove in Florida around 1825.

Most early grapefruit was seedy. A seedling planted about 1860 on a farm near Lakeland, Florida, was discovered to be seedless and was propagated about 1890. This tree was the start of the nearly seedless Marsh, which now is the most widely grown kind.

For years grapefruit was grown only because it was attractive. In fact, grapefruit was too bitter to be eaten without large amounts of sugar. In 1905 grapefruit production boomed through the efforts of United States botanists, who developed a sweeter eating fruit.

The grapefruit tree produced most of its fruit when it is ten to twelve years old. Some trees yield as much as 1,500 pounds of fruit in a season, although the average is 300 pounds. There can be as many as 50 grapefruit on one stem.

Grapefruit is picked "tree ripe" and is always ready to eat when you buy it. Now where you buy it is important. May we suggest Beck's, where you'll find a garden of values every day in our produce department.

Sannie

Rich Wertz

I believe the memory of Sannie Montgomery that will remain most firmly entrenched in my own mind will be the way he looked last fall in the Pontiac Silverdome.

I walked into that huge and cavernous place and felt the vibrations that seemed to emanate up from the playing field into the farthest reaches of the dome, felt the rhythmic wash of sound and excitement that carried the message: "This is where it is happening today."

Looking down at the Fowler sidelines I saw, right in the center of it all, Sannie Montgomery, striding methodically up and down the sidelines, zooming in on the action, following the action like a pro. Somehow he had gotten his hands on a tripod and one of those big lenses that make a 35mm camera look like a television camera. I had to laugh. He would explain to me later that the guy who owned the equipment had used up his film and had said, therefore, that Sannie might as well use his equipment. Sannie didn't really have to explain. To me it seemed the equipment had only followed the usual propensity of all photographic equipment — to move in Sannie's direction.

"Way to go, dude," I thought to myself, and I licked my chops at the thought of the photos he would bring home.

I waved at him and he came over and we chatted Silverdome photography for a few moments but the camera I carried was only a spare. That football game was Sannie's to photograph. He was in his element.

I took three photographs that day. One of them is the one you see to the right.

NO EULOGY I could say would match the sincerity and beauty of the memories of his family and friends expressed at Sannie's funeral service. Sometimes you have to smile through your tears. I learned during the service that Sannie once took care of a cat belonging to Fred Lewis, a family friend. The cat had two kittens. Sannie named one kitten Fred and the other Rambo.

That was the Sannie all the way. He was dedicated and reckless, funny and infuriating, gentle and mischievous.

One week he made a mistake that ruined an entire roll of film. Be careful, I told him. Get yourself better organized so mistakes like that can't happen, I said.

The next week he gave me a roll of film and I made a mistake and ruined it.

"That's all right, Rich," he said. "It's happened to me, too."

I'm told his work for the Clinton County News was something significant in Sannie's life, something he cared about, took pride in, and enjoyed.

That's certainly how it appeared to me and it makes me very happy and proud that Sannie chose to work with us for a small part of his life.

It's funny — photography is simply a method of using light and chemicals to preserve a moment of time. Our memories do the same thing — but our memories store nuances of emotion and understanding in a way that surpasses even the most sophisticated of cameras.

We can look at a photograph and a memory is stirred. We can look to our memories and see the photographer taking the picture. He's still there, the kid with the camera, Sannie Montgomery.

A poem for the sesquicentennial

To the Editor:

Michigan's Sesquicentennial
Deserves our praise,
Deserves it well.
Because of its age
And its retained know-how
It can shine the mold-board
On the plow,
Bale the loose hay
In the mow,
And still rings the Whole world's memory-bell
With: "Come share our Sesquicentennial."

DeWitt and Clark districts, join forces to authorize a comprehensive citizen's study to seek solutions to problems facing the people in these districts.

46 YEARS AGO

Family focus Tax reform

Dawn Harris

Many people are wondering how the new tax laws will affect their families. The newspapers have been full of articles about the tax reforms but it's still a complicated issue.

The new law features a reduction in tax rates and at the same time eliminates or modifies many tax breaks. Your tax depends on the size of your household and the deductions you've been taking under the current law.

Most of the limits on tax breaks took effect Jan. 1. For tax rates, however, 1987 is a transition year. This means that most taxpayers will get a tax cut the first year but, because some deductions stop now and the lower tax rates aren't completely in place, some taxpayers will pay more in taxes in 1987.

The tax reform means one thing for sure: you will need to reassess your spending and savings habits. Credit — If you've justified paying high annual interest rates on charge cards because you could deduct the interest, it's time to rethink your strategy. In 1987, only 65 percent of consumer installment interest is deductible; 40 percent in 1988; 20 percent in 1989; and 10 percent in 1990. After 1990, no interest of this kind will be deductible.

It will be to your advantage to investigate credit cards with lower rates and no or very low annual fees. All tax deductions will be worth less because the tax rates they're based on will be lower when the new law goes into effect.

And keep in mind that the increase in standard deductions means fewer people will qualify for itemizing deductions in the future. By 1988, the deduction increases to $5,000 for joint returns, $4,400 for unmarried heads of household, $3,000 for singles and $2,500 for married individuals who file separately.

Mortgage Deductions — The tax reform leaves one major "loophole" for financing major purchases. Under the new law, mortgage interest, as well as property taxes on first and second residences, remain deductible. The law limits deductions for home equity financing, but you still may use tax-deductible second mortgage loans for other purposes.

Consider carefully before borrowing against an appreciating asset, your house, to buy a depreciating asset such as a car. But a home equity loan may be perfect for college expenses, for example.

IRAs — The deductibility of IRA contributions has been modified, but the income from your IRA contributions remains tax deferred. All taxpayers will be able to defer taxes on the earnings from old and new IRA contributions, regardless of income or pension coverage.

Taxpayers may be able to deduct all or part of their IRA contributions, even if they are covered by a pension coverage.

If you're not participating in a pension plan, you may contribute up to $2,000 a year to your IRA and deduct the entire amount, regardless of income. You can also contribute up to $250 for a non-working spouse.

If you're covered by a pension, you can deduct the full $2,000 if your adjusted gross income (gross income minus specific deductions) falls below $25,000 for single filers and $40,000 for joint filers. You may also put up to $250 in a spousal IRA and deduct the total.

IRA deductions are figured as a percentage of $2,000 for couples earning between $40,000 and $50,000 and for singles earning between $25,000 and $35,000.

Above the $50,000 and $35,000 limits, the IRA earnings will be tax deferred, but you cannot deduct any part of your contribution.

All 1986 contributions are controlled by the old rules. That means you may make deductible contributions to new or existing IRAs until April 15, 1987.

Students hear of foreign celebrations

Area exchange students from the Educational Foundation for Foreign Study visited Swegles School in December to talk to students there about how Christmas is celebrated in their countries.

Marita Vermuyten from Belgium and Cees Van Leest from the Netherlands said the customs of their countries are similar to those of the U.S. They sang a medley of Christmas songs in Flemish and explained the strange fate that befalls children who are naughty before Santa arrives.

Andreia Costa from Brazil and German Povinn from Spain said that artificial trees are used due to the warm weather in their countries.

"In Brazil, Papai Noel (Santa) leaves the presents in the children's bedrooms, not under the Christmas tree," Costa said.

She also said that Christmas seemed to be celebrated with family more in the United States, whereas in Brazil the celebration includes friends as well as family.

Povinn told the students that in Spain two celebrations are held, one on Dec. 25 and one on Jan. 6 for the "Three Kings." At that time, children leave food in the windows for the horses that the three kings ride, and everyone attends church as part of the celebration.

Ina Hansson from Sweden and Heidi Stein from Denmark told of the Scandinavian custom of Santa Lucia and sang its song that honors the "Queen of Light." Although the custom originated in Italy, it is celebrated in Scandinavian countries also. Stein, an exchange student during the 1985-86 school year, is back on a visitor's visa staying with the Bennett family in St. Johns. Local students interested in finding out about the Educational Foundation for Foreign Study and how they may take advantage of the outbound program, should contact Beth Bennett at 224-6260, or Arlene Scramlin at St. Johns High School.

Clover Clippings Tax deduction

Theresa Silm

4-H leaders along with all other volunteers can take advantage of a number of tax benefits under the general charitable contribution deduction of the Internal Revenue Code.

Volunteers can deduct "unreimbursed expenditures made incident to rendition of services to a qualifying organization." This means that a volunteer may deduct out-of-pocket expenses incurred while doing volunteer work for groups approved by the IRS. The 4-H program is one of those groups approved, but of course there are several others as well.

Some of the types of items that may be deducted by volunteers include: automobile mileage and expenses; telephone bills; entertainment and meals given to others; and of course, direct gifts of money to the organization.

Some of the things that can not be deducted include: value of volunteer time; cost of babysitters while doing volunteer work and own meals and/or entertainment.

Automobile-related expenses may be deducted at a flat 12 cents per mile rate or an actual expense basis.

If you use the standard rate of 12 cents per mile, you can also claim any parking fees and tolls in addition.

Volunteers who wish to take advantage of the allowed deductions must keep records to substantiate their expenses.

The deductions mentioned here and other volunteer benefits can be taken by volunteers who itemize their deductions as well as those who take the standard deduction. With the passage of the Charitable Contributions Legislation in 1980, even those taxpayers who take the standard deduction can receive a tax benefit for their contributions. During 1986, all taxpayers can deduct 100 percent of their charitable contributions. However, with the new tax law in effect in 1987, this will change.

A complete description of federal tax deductions for volunteers can be obtained from the IRS, publication 526, "Income Tax Deductions for Contributions."

As people who are committed to helping your community by volunteering your time, energy and expertise, you are entitled to these benefits.

Family life Winter money

Mona Ellard

Money is tighter in most households during cold weather months for several reasons. Heating bills are substantially higher, food selection is more limited than during the summer, many fruits and vegetables cost more...and consumers may have overspent during the holidays.

If one or more of these reasons sounds all too familiar and you find yourself short of food money, don't think all is lost. Try to manage your way out of this dilemma.

Perhaps you already are a good shopper. To save even more money on food, think of yourself as your household purchasing agent. Recognize food shopping for the important job it is. For example, the purchasing agent for a household of four people will buy almost three tons of food valued at $3,224 or more this year. A savings of 5 to 6 percent on this modest food budget is almost $200 per year. It could be even greater for your household.

10 ways to save

1. Learn to practice good inventory by keeping an adequate amount but not an over supply of food on hand. Inventory control results in financial savings by eliminating extra trips to the store (where you are exposed to more merchandising) at a minimum. Having supplies on hand enables you to quickly make most dishes from scratch and to take advantage of anticipated specials — two money techniques in their own right.
2. Try shopping with a list. Coupled with good inventory control, a list helps insure that you buy only what you need. Make the list out after consulting newspaper ads and checking what's already on hand. Deviate from the list only when another choice will save money.
3. Check specials in the food store advertisements and plan meals around them if they offer a real savings. Look at each food critically. Is it truly low cost compared with other foods? If it's a convenience item,

- could you economize further by preparing it from scratch?
  4. Use unit pricing to find the brand and container size of food that costs the least per ounce, pint, or other unit. Even if a large package costs less per unit, select it only if you can store it properly and will use it in a realistic time span.
  5. Learn to accurately estimate the amounts of food needed to feed your household. Prepare adequate but not over-abundant amounts of food, unless you make definite provision for using the excess. This helps avoid waste and over-eating.
  6. Use small (2½ ounces, cooked) servings of meat, poultry, and fish and rely on more economical foods (pasta products, rice, potatoes, bread) to fill in meals. Use eggs, cheese, and dry beans or other lentils in place of meat some of the time.
  7. Use whole-grain or enriched flour, breads, and cereals in some form at every meal. Use cereals you cook rather than instant or ready-to-eat cereals most of the time. If you do buy ready-to-eat cereals, select unsweetened cereals in family-size boxes. Store brands may provide additional savings (corn flakes are corn flakes).
  8. Examine the labels of new products and old standbys. Compare prices, net contents, ingredient listings and, if available, nutrition information. Be aware that ingredients are listed in order of predominance by weight, from most to least.
  9. Serve the least expensive form or style of a product. Dried beans cost less than canned pork and beans; rice that requires longer cooking is less costly than instant rice. Non-fat dry milk contains all the vitamins and minerals of fresh milk but at about half the cost.
  10. Lastly, use store or generic brands. Buy one can or package first to try the product out. Keeping the price differential in mind, ask yourself if the quality difference is mainly cosmetic (e.g. appearance) or value-related (e.g. less product).

VISITING — Ervin Mishler, resident, and Roberta Dianda-Motz, social worker, visit during one of the weekly bedside visits.

Happy birthday to Ed Sehlke, Jan. 13, and Addie McHenry, Jan. 15. Cards and letters are appreciated.

Activities are an integral part of the residents' lives at Hazel I. Findlay Country Manor. The activities program is one that stimulates and promotes social interaction, communication, and retaining for constructive living. The goal is to reach the physical, emotional, intellectual, social and spiritual needs of all 108 residents. To achieve this, we offer both group and individual bedside activities.

The bedside activities program is for those residents who do not attend group functions, and for the lonely resident who needs personal interaction on a one-to-one basis. Currently the manor has 35 residents in the program.

Those involved are visited each week for at least thirty minutes by activity staff, the social worker, volunteers, and even family members. The program ranges from visiting, to reading and discussion, doing handicrafts, working on service projects, games, writing letters, entertainment, polishing fingernails, and much more.

This month we initiated a new exercise program into these weekly visits and includes the following: music to exercise by, adap-tive exercise equipment (such as play dough), range of motion type exercises, and rewards for participation. The residents are always encouraged during the visits to attend at least one group activity a week.

With this program, every resident in our home is touched by the activities program at least once per week. Volunteers are able to implement this program, and family members do extremely well. If you think you might be interested in this wonderful "room service" program, please talk with Debbie or Lisa in the activities department.

Weed control

Giles Roehl

Lack of weed control is one of the largest costs faced by many farm operators. Experiments have shown that as few as one or two weeds per foot of row can significantly reduce yields of many crops.

Using chemicals that do not control the pest that is reducing yields or when they are not needed also add to the cost of the production per bushel or ton.

Producers who want to know what chemical to use to get the best control of the right pest at the lowest cost are urged to attend the 1987 Weed Control Workshop to be held Jan. 15, 22, 29 and Feb. 5 at Smith Hall from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Pre-registration is required. Registration of $30 will cover cost of meals and a notebook full of materials. Pre-register by calling 224-3288.

This workshop will assist operators to identify weed-grasses and broad leaf, why weeds keep coming, scouting and mapping details, the pesticide law, herbicides — mode of action, injury symptoms — control recommendations for soybeans, dry beans, corn, small grain, forages and no-till. A full day will be used to assist operators to know how to avoid putting on too much or too little because of wrong sprayer calibration.

Operators who attend this workshop and have their pesticide license renewal due in 1987 will receive that renewal without additional tests. Those who wish to secure a Private Pesticide Users license will be given that opportunity in Feb.

Watch Out for Sell Jobs — I received a phone call from a farm wife this morning concerned about an out-of-state company selling shares in a "fertilizer" company. Her concern, and a well-founded one, was that the product sounded too good to be true and that the claims being made were from two different states. The company appeared to be lacking in depth.

At this time of year chemical, fertilizer, nutrient, etc., salespeople seem to "pop out of the woodwork." Many of the products being sold have not adequately tested or, after being tested, do not provide returns anywhere equal to the claims being made.

Universities test, in a non-biased way, many of these products. Most of the products fail to produce results or do so only under conditions that are not typical for Michigan farms.

The products are often either priced very high per pound, gallon or whatever measure is used or require such a volume that the cost per bushel or ton of crop grown becomes prohibitive.

I recently had a soil test from a local farm come over my desk. The test indicated that the field in question was capable of producing over 150 bushels of corn pre acre with only an additional 150 pounds of nitrogen; no other nutrients were required. If a non-replicated test, without controls, were run on this field the product may appear to produce excellent results while actually not providing benefits of any kind.

The best insurance against a scheme will be to do business with local companies who have individuals you know and trust. There is no free lunch.

The Corner Garden — Got the itch? I mean the need to start outdoors even knowing spring is a long way off? Here are some things that you can be doing now!

Plan the summer vegetable garden, flowerbeds, and landscape plantings now. Order seeds and plants either this month or next. When ordering, watch for helps in the catalog. For example, seed catalogs should state if a tomato is resistant to one or more diseases. Scientists have been working for years to breed resistance and catalogs should show a V, F, N, or T on some varieties. What this means is if a V is shown, the tomato is verticillium wilt resistant, F is fusarium wilt, N for nematodes and T for tobacco mosaic. Buy good seed, get good results.

Check stored bulbs, corms and tubers and stored garden produce. Discard any that have begun to mold or show signs of decay or deterioration. Leaving rotting plants will speed deterioration of the rest.

Bring bulbs potted in Oct. out of cold storage for forcing into flower in late Jan. or early Feb.

More next week.

Financial focus Ginnie Mae

By Chuck Dicken

The investment philosophy of this column has always been to match the proper investment with the proper purpose for which it is intended. If you need a regular monthly check, select an investment which pays dependable income. In keeping with this guideline, thousands of investors have placed a portion of their savings in mutual funds investing in securities backed by the Government National Mortgage Assoc. (GNMA) or Ginnie Maes.

First mortgages on homes have traditionally been considered among the most desirable income investments. Borrowers of mortgage money generally repay their debt promptly and regularly because the collateral pledged against the loan is their home, so delinquency in payment of either principal or interest could result in eviction and loss of property. Add to this the protection that, with a GNMA-backed mortgage, in the event of default the US government pays. These are the securities held by Ginnie Mae mutual funds.

Since mutual funds continually issue new shares and redeem outstanding ones, this regular flow of cash requires the funds to invest in numerous pools of Ginnie Mae mortgages, each with different maturities and interest rates.

While the government does guarantee interest and principal on Ginnie Mae securities, it does not guarantee the future market value of the yield of the fund. Therefore, when investing in a Ginnie Mae fund, you must understand that although both principal and interest in the underlying securities is guaranteed, the yield and market value of your fund can and generally does fluctuate.

Most investments offer the same risk-reward situation. For example, consider a small duplex bought to provide regular rent income. The good news is during a period of rising prices, the value of the property could increase and the demand for housing could merit more rent. The bad news is during a period of little or no inflation, the market value of the duplex could erode and rent prices decline. Every coin has two sides. The important thing is that if you're guaranteed you'll always receive rent comparable to other rent, your duplex will always be valued comparable to other duplexes. This means you could sell it at market value whenever necessary. This might eliminate some concern. But, that guarantee doesn't exist in real estate rental property, and despite very few real estate guarantees, thousands of investors prudently assume the risks in hope of the rewards.

Compare the same illustration to a Ginnie Mae mutual fund with an average income yield of about 12 percent. On a $100,000 investment you'd expect a $1,000 check each month. Keep in mind this is paid from interest earned on the GNMA mortgages held by the fund. Assume interest on home mortgages declines and new GNMA's are offering yields of only 9 percent. This means the portfolio's average yield will also decline due to the dilution of low-interest GNMA's.

Your monthly checks will be slightly less but comparable to, and generally more than, what you could receive with other investments of similar quality. Your mutual fund interest fluctuates because interest rates change in the economy. The same fluctuation occurs in most income investments except long-term bonds. An 8 percent certificate of deposit might bring 6 percent when you try to renew it in 12 months — or, it could bring 9 percent. It fluctuates. With Ginnie Mae mutual funds the fluctuations are slower and less dramatic.

Mark Roberts offers deals as merchandise is cleared

Mark Roberts Furniture, 118 N. Clinton Ave., is currently holding a going-out-of-business sale.

Discounts of 20 to 50 percent are being offered on everything in stock, said co-owner Julie Ackerman.

The sale will continue until the merchandise is gone, she said. Since the sale began Dec. 26 one of the three floors of the store have been cleared, she added.

"When we've cleared a floor, you know we've marked it down," she said.

Ackerman, who began the store about eight years ago with co-owners Mark Barber and Clair Pardee, said the store is closing because two of the owners have retired and the third — Barber — has other interests.

She said there has been a furniture store at the downtown St. Johns location since 1928. The location has not yet been purchased and it is not known what it will be used for next.

"We've had a lot of inquiries," said Ackerman. "We hope another furniture store."

Still in stock are name brand sofas, lazy boys, bedroom and diningroom sets, end tables, lamps and accessories, she said.

Mark Roberts Furniture, 118 N. Clinton Ave., St. Johns, is open for business Monday through Thursday 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.; Friday 9:30 a.m. to 8 p.m.; and Saturday 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Redwings escape from O-E with 51-50 MMB victory

By RHONDA WESTFALL
Sports Editor

"We just gave the game away." That was Ovid-Elsie Coach Bob Foreback's reaction to his team's 51-50 basketball loss to St. Johns last Friday.

The Marauders, who held the lead for the majority of the contest which was played on their home court, pulled to within one point with 18 seconds remaining, but could not get the victory in hand.

"It was a very difficult game to lose," Foreback said. "It's one that I'm going to remember for a long time."

The Redwings were ahead 16-12 at the end of the first period, with Ovid-Elsie closing the margin and taking a slim 29-27 lead into the lockerroom at halftime.

The Marauders built on the lead, outscoring St. Johns in the third quarter 15-10, to go ahead 44-37.

The decisive fourth quarter saw Ovid-Elsie go cold from the floor, connecting on just 2-15 shots from the field. A scoring surge, led by Redwing Clark VanBuren who tallied 8 points in the final period, put St. Johns on top 51-48.

Ovid-Elsie's Jeff Conklin cut the score back to 51-50 with 18 seconds showing on the clock. A foul by the Marauders, missed free throw by St. Johns, and O-E rebound, gave the Marauders the ball back for a last shot at the win. A closing second shot by Bobby Foreback and shot by Conklin off the rebound both would not drop, giving the Redwings the MMB victory.

"I have to give VanBuren and (Tom) Penix credit. They had their chances and they canned the shots," Foreback said. "They made their free throws and we didn't."

"We played very tentatively in the fourth quarter, and they came back and made the shots to beat us."

"I guess that's the difference between winning and losing."

Overall, Ovid-Elsie outrebounded St. Johns 33-27, and committed 17 turnovers compared to 25 for the Redwings. The Marauders took 66 shots on the night, while St. Johns took 46.

VanBuren led all scorers with 21 points for St. Johns. Penix added 19 points to the Redwings' tally.

Troy Barnhill was the leading scorer for the Marauders, netting 16 points. Conklin had 10 points and 7 rebounds, Nick Hurst had 9 points and 7 rebounds, Mark Morey had 7 points, and Foreback had 5 points and 7 rebounds.

IN OTHER action last week, St. Johns was defeated by Lansing Eastern 75-43.

The Redwings played the Quakers close in the first half, with St. Johns trailing 29-23 at halftime. Eastern put on a lesson in scoring in the third quarter, bombing St. Johns 28-4 in the period to put the game away.

VanBuren and Penix each scored 8 points in that contest, Barry Kiel added 7 points, while Bill Keenoy, Scott Alysforth and Matt Wilcox each had 4 points for St. Johns.

Ovid-Elsie snatched a 67-62 victory from DeWitt in a non-league game played last Saturday, when they came from behind in the second half to get the win.

Chris Baratona, starting for Barnhill who was injured in the St. Johns game, went 4-4 from the charity stripe and 4-4 from the field in the fourth quarter to help his team take the win. He led the Marauders in scoring with 16 points.

Foreback and Conklin added 12 points each to O-E's scoring column, while Chad Bush netted 10 points, scoring 8 in the final period.

The Marauders play Owosso tonight (Jan. 13) in a non-league game, and host Ionia this Friday in MMB action. St. Johns faces Chesaning Friday and has tonight off.

St. Johns junior varsity lost to Eastern 62-35, and to Ovid-Elsie 52-40. The Marauders also defeated DeWitt by a 61-50 score.

SJ lottery is successful

By RHONDA WESTFALL

St. Johns Athletic Boosters are pleased with the results of the first quarter ticket sales and revenues from the daily lottery which began in November, and are hopeful that the remaining quarters will be as well received by the public as the initial one was.

"We want to thank all the people who purchased first quarter tickets and all the volunteers who helped make the lottery a success," said Board of Director Chairman, Chuck Heyer. "We also want to make people aware of the fact that daily numbers are again on sale for the second and succeeding quarters." Under the system, the second quarter runs from Feb. 2 through

Net revenues from the sale of the 950 first quarter tickets, after all expenses including $10,400 paid out to the daily winners, totaled just over $10,000. The Booster

Eagles' practices pay off in wins over Leslie, Potterville

Practices during Christmas break for the Fowler Eagles paid big dividends as Coach Dennis Smith's team got back onto the winning track with two wins last week, 61-43 over Leslie and 62-44 over CMAC opponent Potterville.

The wins puts the Eagles at 2-1 in the conference and 4-1 overall.

"We were pleased with the week's results," Coach Smith said. "It revived the feelings on the team. The boys are playing well together — we're going to win some games this season."

Despite the lopsided final score, Leslie gave the Eagles a run for their money in the game played on the Blackhawks home court last Tuesday.

Leslie was ahead 15-12 at the close of the first quarter, then hit a cold spell in the second period while the Eagles got hot and took a 29-19 lead into the lockerroom at the half. The Blackhawks came out in the third period to pull to within three points at one time in that stanza before the Eagles put the game out of reach in the closing period.

"We just kind of took off," Coach Smith said of his team's fourth quarter effort. "Leslie took some shots they shouldn't have, and we got the rebounds and got some good shots off."

Fowler also made good on 5-6 free throw attempts in the fourth period, holding Leslie to just 6 points total in that stanza.

Kurt Simon was the Eagles' leading scorer with 19 points. He also had 10 rebounds on the night.

Jim Andros and Matt Hufnagel chipped in 12 points apiece, while Joe Simon had 11 points and 9 rebounds for Fowler.

The Friday night league game with Potterville was an Eagle rout from the opening period.

"It was the best game we've played this year without a doubt," Smith said. "Our defense was solid and we opened up a nice lead to begin the game."

The "nice lead" was a 16-7 one at the close of the first stanza, with the majority of Fowler's baskets coming from perimeter shots by Rex Thelen.

"He (Rex) had 12 points in the first half," Smith said, "and in the second half we moved the ball to the inside and scored."

"Potterville is a better club than the score indicates. They made some mistakes which were uncharacteristic of their usual style of play."

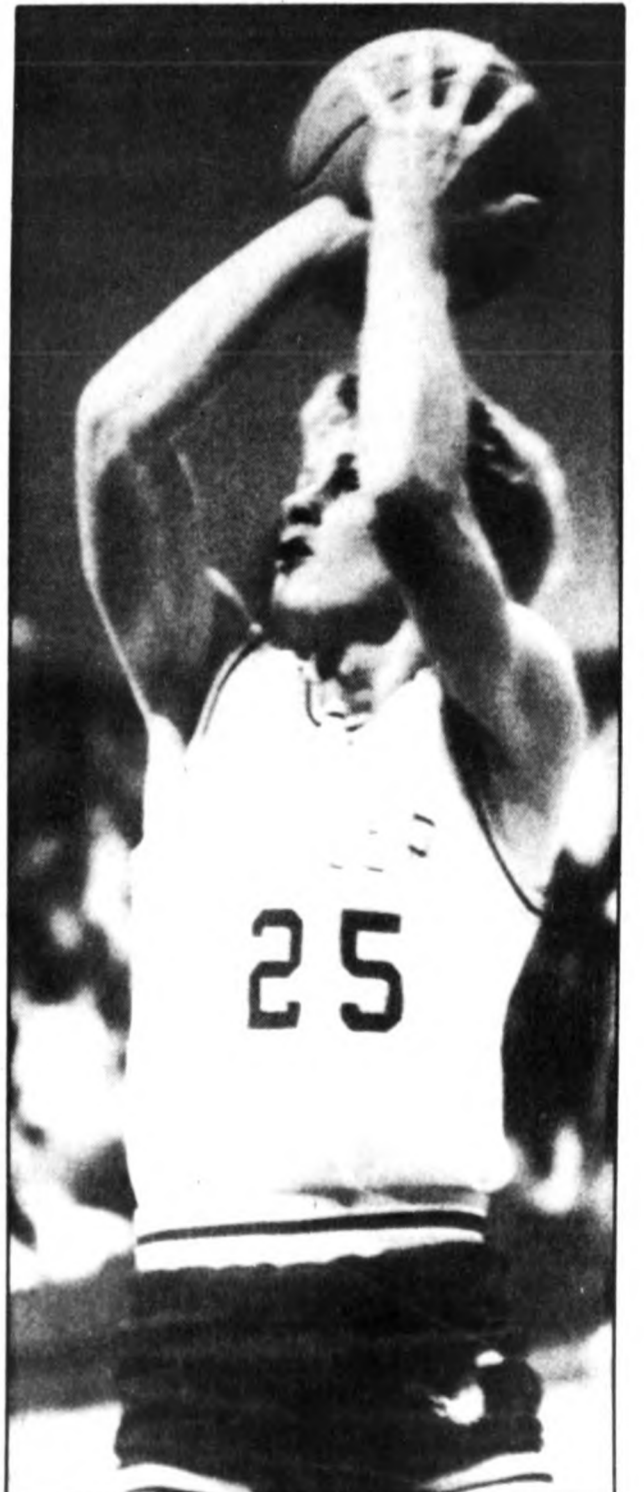

Potterville shot just 33 percent from the field, compared to 47 percent for Fowler, and turned the ball over a total of 25 times.

Kurt Simon was again the scoring leader for the Eagles with 16 points, cleared the boards of 12 rebounds, and blocked 5 shots.

Thelen had 14 points, Joe Simon had 10 points and 10 rebounds, and Andros had 8 points and 9 assists.

The Eagles play Mt. Pleasant Sacred Heart at home tonight (Jan. 13) in non-conference action before travelling to Fulton for a CMAC game this Friday.

- $500 toward long term goals of programs and facility improvement.
- $6,250 was used to pay off the balance of a debt owed on equipment purchased by the Boosters for the high school weight room. The payoff for the weight room was chosen by the board because of its overall benefit to the most sports teams at the high school. ## Pirates escape from 'pit' with CMAC win

The Pirates from Pewamo-Westphalia escaped from "the pit" with a 37-28 basketball victory over Portland St. Patrick last Friday. That win, combined with a 64-37 defeat of Bath, gives Coach Ron Kramer's team a perfect 8-0 record on the year.

"We were glad to get out of there," Coach Kramer said of his team's visit to the Shamrock's gym. "Coaching a game in the pit takes a lot out of you." Called the "pit" because of its small size and court structure, St. Patrick's home floor is not a favorite place for any visiting team to play.

"Our shooting was off, the game was pretty rough and their gym is a hard place to officiate at," Kramer said. "It was just one of those games."

Although the Pirates led from start to finish, St. Patricks cut the lead to 32-28 with a minute left in the contest. It came down to free throws, with the Shamrocks missing theirs and Pewamo-Westphalia connecting on 9-13 from the charity stripe in the final period to secure the victory.

"We did not go to the free throw line until the fourth quarter — that's hard to believe," Kramer said. Jeff Smith was the leading Pirate scorer with 12 points. He also had 7 rebounds and 3 steals.

Dave Spitzley had 7 points, 9 rebounds and 3 steals and "kept us in the ballgame," according to Coach Kramer, while Glen Stump garnered 10 points, going 4-5 from the line, 3 rebounds and 4 steals.

In earlier action last week at Bath, almost the entire Pirate roster got into the scoring column as P-W jumped out to a 17-8 first quarter lead, and outscored the Bees 22-11 in the second period.

The all-around good effort included 16 total Pirate steals and 37 rebounds, 15 offensive and 22 defensive.

"It was a good game for us," Kramer said. "We played well defensively and I was very pleased with the way the reserves played. They were disciplined, ran the offense well and took good shots."

Pirate reserves outscored the Bees 15-7 in the final period of play.

Dave Stump led P-W in scoring with 12 points and had 3 steals. Jeff Smith had 9 points and 5 rebounds; Glen Stump, Bill Schafer and Brian Thelen each had 6 points; Rich Thelen and Pat Smith each had 5 rebounds; Dave Hengesbach had 6 points and 4 steals; and Dale Jandernea had 4 points and 3 steals.

The Pirates play Potterville at home this Friday (Jan. 16), their only game of the week.

"That should be an interesting game," Coach Kramer said. "Potterville has good height and good athletes at the perimeter. They scare me."

Pewamo-Westphalia's junior varsity also has a perfect 8-0 record following two wins last week, 64-21 over Bath and 51-29 over St. Pats.

Redwing tankers off to fast start after Christmas

The St. Johns boys swim team got off to a fast start following Christmas break by defeating a fine Okemos team at home 90-81 and tying with Alma in a league meet, 86-86. The week's worth of action leaves the tankers with a 2-0-1 record overall, 1-0-1 in the conference.

"Okemos is one of several teams who could win the conference crown this year," Redwing coach Jim Makaruskas said, "so that was an important win for us."

The win was the 23 consecutive conference victory for the Redwing squad, dating back to January of 1984. St. Johns is a member of the Central Michigan Swim Assoc, which includes teams from Alma, Corunna, DeWitt, Eaton Rapids, Haslett, Mason, Ovid-Elsie, and Okemos.

In the home meet with Okemos, first place finishes went to Tom Newhall in the 100 freestyle with a time of 59.7; German Povina in the 500 freestyle with a time of 5:05.1; and the 400 freestyle relay team of Newhall, Povina, Spencer Baker and Pete McNamara with a time of 3:35.6.

Career best times were turned in by Baker in the 50 freestyle (23.5), 100 freestyle, and 100 butterfly (1:01.1); McNamara in the 100, 200 and 500 freestyles; Mike Beck, Mike Fitzpatrick, Aaron LeVeck, and Paul Avery.

"Our divers, Paul VanBeelen, Tim Whitford, and Mike Baatz also showed considerable improvement from the first meet of the year," the coach said.

Redwing divers Baatz and VanBeelen finished first and second respectively in the meet with Alma — the only first place finishes of the night for St. Johns. Alma swept all 10 swimming events, while an assortment of second and third place times gave the Redwings a tie on the night.

In the Alma meet, Baker posted a time of 23.29 in the 50 freestyle, making him fourth on the Redwing's all-time record list.

A listing of place finishes from both meets follows.

Pirate spikers begin year

The Pewamo-Westphalia girls volleyball team began their 1987 season last week, picking up two wins and losing one match in what was a hectic opening week. The wins came over Laingsburg 15-12, 15-17, 15-12, and Fulton 15-9, 15-0, while the Pirates dropped a match to Ovid-Elsie 5-15, 9-15.

"We really struggled with our opening season match versus Laingsburg," Coach Nancy Krieder said. "Laingsburg is much more aggressive than they have been in past years, and we just weren't mentally up for the match." Deb Pung had 4 kills and 5 blocks against the Wolfpack, while Kim Simmon made good on 17-18 serve points.

The home, non-league match with O-E on Wednesday had Coach Krieder giving credit to a good Marauder team.

"We were simply outplayed," the coach said. "Ovid-Elsie has balance, they do well defensively, and have good height at the net. They dominated us."

"We will meet them again at the County Meet later in the season — I hope we can be more prepared to play them then."

The week ended with a Thursday match at Fulton which turned out to be a fairly easy win for P-W.

Simmon did a "good job serving," according to Coach Krieder, making 15-16 serve points. Pung and Michelle Schmitz both played "well on the front line," keeping 10 balls in play. Both spikers had 1 block and 1 kill in the match.

With Pung as the lone returning starter from last year's team, and just nine girls total on the Varsity, Coach Krieder knows her term will have their work cut out for them this year.

Pung, who was named to the All-league team last year, was voted as team captain for 1987.

"The girls really look to her for leadership," Krieder said.

Other players who saw limited action on last year's Varsity include: LeAnn Nurenborg, Kim Simmon, Michelle Schmitz and Jamie Rademacher. All are seniors.

Redwings drop tri-meet

The St. Johns girls volleyball team's opening triangular match with Belding and Potterville saw the Redwings come out on the losing end of scores with both teams. The Redwings lost to Belding 15-7, 15-3, and were defeated by Potterville 15-11, 15-3.

"We had some nervous jitters," said Redwing coach Bernie Fox of her team's opening night efforts. "We made some mistakes and know we could have played better — we have some work to do in practice."

"We had some sparks when we played well, but we couldn't hang on."

Debbie Bensinger and Kerry Porter each picked up one ace in the Belding match, with Bensinger also getting three kills. In the match with Potterville, Janice Rademacher had two aces, Porter had five kills, and Kelly Daley had one block.

"We did all right for an opener," Fox said, "but we must play better in the future in order to win."

The Redwings face conference rival Ovid-Elsie tonight (Jan. 13) in their only match of the week. The match begins at 6:30 p.m. on St. Johns' home court.

Marauders take two big wins in volleyball opener

Ovid-Elsie's girls volleyball team opened their 1987 season with two non-conference wins last week, defeating Durand 15-1, 15-12, and Pewamo-Westphalia 15-5, 15-9.

"Durand had trouble receiving our serve in the first game of the match," said Marauder coach Doug Long. "They rallied better in the second game and we also did some substituting in that game."

Sheila Platner had 15 serve points in the Durand match, along with 9 kills and 3 blocked shots. Bonnie Patrick had 6 serve points. Courtney Schneider had 8 kills, Carrie Darling had 7 kills and 3 blocked shots, and Jamie Jones had 15 assists.

The Marauders scored 14 aces in the match with P-W, with more than half of those coming in the first game. The second game was similar to the second Durand game, according to Coach Long, with rallies putting the Pirates ahead at one point in the game.

Sue Zalecki gave the game and the win to the Marauders when she scored seven service points in a row in the second game.

Besides Zalecki's efforts, Platner had 8 service points and Schneider had 9 kills and 4 blocked shots for Ovid-Elsie in the match with the Pirates.

Two matches are on the Marauder's agenda this week, with a match played at Fowler last night (Jan. 12), and the first Mid-Michigan B conference match of the season tonight at St. Johns.

GRAPPLERS for St. Johns and Ovid-Elsie squared off in a rematch last week, with the Marauder matman gaining a 37-29 win over the Redwings. The win avenged an early season loss by Ovid-

St. Johns gymnasts are undefeated at 3-0 overall

After bringing home the first place trophy from the Waverly Holiday Festival, the St. Johns gymnastic team continued their winning ways by defeating Mason 118.6 to 93.55 and Perry 119.7 to 66.65 in season-opening meets last week.

The Redwings, under the guidance of Coach Sue Cerny, swept first through fourth places in all events in the Perry match, and allowed Mason just two place finishes in events during that match.

"We competed against both Mason and Perry at the Waverly Festival," Coach Cerny said. "The big test comes when we face East Lansing. That should tell us something about how good we will be this year."

The match with East Lansing was scheduled for last night (Jan. 12). Results from the meeting will be printed in next week's Clinton County News.

Despite a pulled arm muscle and recurring back problems, All-American gymnast Christine Ebert took first place in three events, winning the vault (9.1), balance beam (7.3), and floor exercise (8.45). She was unable to compete in the match with Perry, but should see limited action in the competition with East Lansing.

Missy Vitek took first place on the uneven bars, scoring a 8.35, and was all-around medalist for the meet with a 31.65.

Second place finishes were earned by Vitek on the beam (7.15), and floor exercise (8.05); Gwynn Sharick in vault (8.4); and Linda Strickland (6.9).

Vitek also placed third in vault (8.1), while Deanne Fox placed third on the beam (6.65) and fourth in floor exercise (7.25). Other fourth place finishes were turned in by Jodi Smith in vault (7.85), and Sharick on the bars (6.5).

In the meet with Perry, Vitek took first place on the bars (7.95) and floor exercise (8.3), and third places on vault (8.25) and beam (6.45).

Finishing first in vault was Strickland (8.45), while Fox was first on the beam (7.0). Strickland also placed second on the bars (7.8), while Fox was second in floor exercise (7.7).

Other place finishers were: Jodi Smith, second in vault (8.35), fourth on bars (6.85); Missy Knight, fourth in vault (7.95), fourth on beam (5.8), fourth in floor exercise (7.0); Sharick, fourth on bars (6.85), second on beam (6.9), and third in floor exercise (7.6).

The Redwing gymnasts have 17 team members in 1986-87, including three seniors, Christine Ebert, Penny Evans, and Linda Strickland; juniors, Missy Vitek, Gwynn Sharick, Deanne Fox, and Kerri Ballard; sophomores, Jodi Smith, Missy Knight, Kim Schisky, Adrienne Tozer and Sue Moore; and freshman, Stacie Barish, Wendy Zuzelski, Wendy Rapelje, JoLyn Smith and Amy Reed.

St. Johns, a member of the Mid-Michigan Gymnastic Conference, is 3-0 overall and 2-0 in the conference.

members of last year's junior varsity squad: LeAnn Hengesbach, a middle blocker who is doing a "nice job,"; Brenda Smith, "she's coming along well,"; Kelly Nurenburg, "a good defensive player — she moves to the ball well,"; and Dawn Simon, "our second setter."

"Hopefully, we will be able to make it a good season," Coach Krieder said. "Pottsville will probably be our biggest league match of the year once again this year. We're hoping to give them a fight for the title."

The Pirates will take part in a triangular meet with Belding and Rockford this week, as well as playing Portland and travelling to the Ferris State Tournament on Jan. 17.

First quarter seals fate of Fulton in b-ball

The first quarter told the story in Fulton's 67-38 basketball loss to Laingsburg in CMAC action last Friday. The Pirates were outscored 24-9 in the opening period by Laingsburg and never recovered from that deficit.

The loss puts Coach Larry Walden's team at 0-3 in the conference and 0-6 overall.

"Laingsburg's press and their shooting took us out of our offense completely in the first quarter," Coach

Walden said. "The big thing in the game was that their front line outscored ours 38-6."

Bright spots according to the coach was the play of his guards and of Greg Wolf who is coming back after an appendectomy.

"He (Wolf) did a nice job for us off the bench," Walden said.

Roger Skyard led the Pirates in scoring with 17 points, Wolf had 6 points and 6 rebounds, Mike Martin had 6 points, Tod Walden had 3 points, and Tod Koone and Brad Smeltzer had 2 points each for Fulton.

Things won't get any easier for Fulton as they face St. Louis tonight (Jan. 13) and host Fowler this Friday.

"We're going to have to play a lot better than we did against Laingsburg to be in those ballgames," Coach Walden said.

Fulton spikers begin

Fulton's girls volleyball team began their 1987 season last week by facing two of the best teams in the CMAC conference — Potterville and Pewamo-Westphalia. Not an easy schedule.

Coach Cheryl Kissling's squad lost to both opponents, falling to Potterville 15-6, 15-5, and to Pewamo-Westphalia 15-9, 15-0.

"It was a rough start," the new varsity coach said.

Coach Kissling has 13 players on this year's Varsity team, with eight seeing action for the first time on the Varsity.

Returning players include team captain Janice Kresge, a senior who will be needed for her leadership and hitting ability.

Also returning are seniors Patti Howell, Traci Moegenberg, Tina Hamp and Wendy Sewell. Junior Melanie Jason saw some Varsity action last year.

New players include Julie Sluka, Mary Ann Ryan, Sheila Miller, Nicki Langdon, Kim Friesen, Joan Gallagher, and Wendy Olmeyer.

Bears almost gain first win

Ashley almost rallied to win their first basketball game of the season last week in a Mid-State Athletic Conference contest with Webberville.

The Bears closed to within four points of Webberville last Friday, but ended up on the short end of a 58-50 score. That score, plus a non-conference loss to Portland St. Patrick earlier in the week, puts the Bears record at 0-2 in the league and 0-7 overall.

Ashley was behind 16-6 at the close of the first quarter in the Webberville game, and trailed 29-22 at the half. After playing even with Webberville in the third quarter, Coach Gary Schestag's squad cut the gap down to 45-41 with just over three minutes left in the game.

The Bears were sent to the free throw line, but missed picking up the front end of one-and-one situations which could have given them the win.

Ashley was paced by Mike Morris, who tallied 14 points. Rick Saylor added 10 points, Turner netted 9 points, and Skyard had 6 points.

In the Tuesday night game at Portland St. Patrick, the Bears were behind by just two points, 8-6, at the end of the first period. The Shamrocks widened that margin to 23-16 by the close of the half, and put the game out of reach in the third stanza when the score was 41-28.

A host of Bears put points on the scoreboard, including Saylor, Morris, Burk, and Turner who each had 6 points, and Skyard with 4 points.

Ashley has tonight (Jan. 13) off. They host Dansville this Friday in a conference game.

The Bear junior varsity lost to St. Pats 60-56, and to Webberville 74-65.

Sports medicine and training in future for DeWitt trainer

By MARILYN HEISS
Staff Writer

The bright blue, gold, and white athletic training room at DeWitt High School has come a long way from the sawdust-covered, junk-filled storage room Kevin Welch had to work with when he began as trainer during the 1985 football season.

Welch's dedication to his work has transformed not only the training room — which now boasts two whirlpools, four training tables, and cabinets stocked full of supplies — but the program itself.

The 1982 St. Johns High School graduate uses five student trainers to help treat medical emergencies at home and away athletic events, and to help implement an individualized rehabilitation program for those athletes who are injured.

Welch, who lives in DeWitt, earned his Emergency Medical Technician (EMT) certification from Lansing Community College. He then entered the Army, where he became certified as both a medical specialist/combat medic, and the civilian equivalent, Advanced EMT or paramedic. Next spring, he'll receive an associate's degree in emergency medicine from LCC, and is working toward a bachelor's degree in sports medicine.

Sports medicine was not Welch's original career choice.

"All the time I was growing up, I wanted to be a commercial diver," he says. Welch even received a scholarship offer from a school in New York — but an injury he sustained while coaching basketball at St. Joseph's in St. Johns changed all that. While he was in Lansing General Hospital for treatment of his torn ligaments, the personnel there talked to Welch about sports medicine. It sparked an interest, and the rest, they say, is history.

Welch is now actually employed by Lansing General Hospital, and is contracted out to DeWitt. He works full time during the school year with athletes from all sports. (Originally, he was hired directly by the school district to work only on football players.) He also works part-time at his alma mater, St. Johns High School. In fact, Welch's original plans were to end up in St. Johns full time, but "once I settled in here, I got to like the kids, and I get along with the administration well."

"As far as I know, I'll be back next year. I'm getting used to it here, and that scares me. But I'm in charge here, and I don't want anyone to come in and change the program," he says.

Welch's program is among the top 20 percent in high school programs in lower Michigan he guesses. In fact, several small colleges have commented on the caliber of DeWitt's program.

He and the five student trainers — Tracy Nance, Rob Leppala, Kristi Lape, Jeanette Erskine, and Jenny Corr — tend to athletes before all home games, taping weak ankles, etc. During the actual events, they see to injuries of DeWitt High School players as they arise. Most times, they see to the medical needs of the visiting teams as well. Welch or one of the student trainers also travel to away events with the various teams, bringing over 500 pounds of equipment.

The student trainers are instructed in basic first aid, cardiopulmonary resuscitation, and taping to prevent injuries. They are tested in those areas, and are also required to fill out the necessary paperwork correctly and do their part to keep the training room clean.

"I run as professional a program as possible," Welch says.

An expanded budget this year has helped in that regard, but still, most of the big equipment in the training room has been donated or, as in the case of a bicycle, loaned by Welch for the athletes' use. In addition, two local doctors lend their time and expertise: team doctor David Michaels, a DeWitt orthopedic surgeon, and Dr. Thomas Chiambretti of Delta Medical Center.

"We can get the athletes back quick, but if it's not safe, they're not going," Welch says. "If there's anything I'm not sure about, I consult Dr. Michael or Dr. Chiambretti. It's not worth mistreating a patient if I don't have the knowledge."

Welch says he has heard only positive feedback from parents and their sons or daughters on the way the athletes have been treated.

"Parents have donated a lot to the program I think they like the way their children are being watched over," he says. Athletes, too, appreciate the trainers' ministrations. "When players come up and thank you afterward, it makes it worthwhile," he says.

Welch is interested in the athletes as people. In fact, one of the things he tries to do is interest them in something to keep them in shape the rest of their life.

"They won't be basketball players forever," he says. Welch himself competes in triathlons and road races, and still does a little scuba diving.

What are his plans for the future? He wants to do a little bit more to improve DeWitt's training program — like provide training facilities in each locker room, have some outdoor training facilities, and increase sports medicine education.

However, he says, he "won't be at the high school level forever," and admits he'd eventually like to be in charge of training at the college level — preferably a small college, such as Alma.

"Our program right now is better than 10 to 15 percent of colleges. It's fun to work here," he says.
