NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY — St. Johns High School juniors Dwight Pierson and Steven Kudwa were among 35 students from St. Johns who were last week inducted into the National Honor Society.

St. Johns students join National Honor Society

During a candlelight ceremony in the St. Johns High School library last Tuesday, 35 juniors were inducted into membership in the St. Johns High School chapter of the National Honor Society. The honored students were selected because of their scholarship, character, leadership and service, and a grade point average of 3.5 or higher. In late February, all eleventh grade students who met the grade point requirement were given forms to complete for admission into the society. Students were asked for details about their co-curricular activities, leadership positions, work experience and community activities. The forms were evaluated by a five-member committee including representatives from the guidance staff and the social studies, science, communication arts and math departments. Applicants who earned at least eight of a possible 12 points assigned by the committee were selected to join the St. Johns chapter. All 35 students who completed applications were asked to join the society. The following juniors were accepted as new members:

The induction ceremony was attended by the inductees, their parents, and many of the senior members of the society. Senior members who took part in the ceremony explained the origin and goals of the National Honor Society.

County mint fields damaged by fall rains

By RICH WERTZ
Editor

Clinton County mint fields were severely damaged by the rain and flooding last fall, said a Cooperative Extension Service specialist last week.

Rusty Plummer, an alfalfa specialist on temporary assignment in Clinton County, said the county mint fields he has evaluated suffered from 50 to 60 percent root loss.

"The farms I've been on so far to look at the mint, the damage has been really extensive," said Plummer.

There is no reason to believe other mint fields do not have the same amount of damage, he said — "I've seen a lot of fields I haven't actually evaluated."

Mint farmers whose fields were substantially damaged are now eligible for low interest loans through Michigan's disaster loans program, he said.

The first step in applying for those loans is to call the Clinton County Cooperative Extension Service for an evaluation.

Plummer has been in Clinton County since March 17 as part of the Extension Service's response to damage from the flooding last fall. He will evaluate damage to alfalfa and mint fields and formulate a plan of action for repairing the damage.

Plummer can be contacted at the Extension Service office, 224-3288.

Commission moves closer to autumn jail election date

Clinton County should ask voters to approve a millage increase for a new county jail in September or October, a committee of Clinton County commissioners has concluded.

"We've got to make up our minds shortly due to the fact that schools are scheduling elections," said Commission Chairman Glenn Webster, who is also a member of the jail committee.

The committee on March 31 reported to the full Board of Commissioners a list of "preliminary recommendations" concerning a new jail.

They include:

- The jail should be built on a site of 30 to 40 acres.
- The jail capacity, for the purposes of estimating costs and making preliminary drawings, should be 100 cells.
- Two commissioners should be appointed to negotiate the purchase of property for a new jail.

- A ballot proposal for a new jail should be put before the voters in September or October of this year.

VOTER last year narrowly rejected a ballot proposal for a new jail. The present jail is overcrowded and the county spends thousands of dollars each year boarding inmates in other counties.

Also at the March 31 meeting, Commissioner Richard Hawks asked District Court Judge Jeffrey Martlew if it is possible to reduce the need for jail space by means of "alternative sentencing" programs.

"I think it depends on what type of alternative sentences you're talking about," said Martlew.

He said he is not interested in sentencing criminals to confinement in their homes because such sentences would not deter others from committing crimes.

He is willing to consider alternative sentencing programs such as work programs, said the judge.

Martlew added that alternative sentencing programs would probably not significantly reduce overcrowding at the jail because the District Court usually has only 20 to 30 inmates lodged in the jail. The jail population — not including inmates "boarded out" to other counties — is usually over 50.

"All the rest of those people come from the Circuit Court," said Martlew.

Circuit Court judges sometimes sentence criminals to one year in county jails where they will serve the entire sentence rather than risk early release of the inmate from the state prison system, he said.

"Now, if I were a Circuit Court judge I'd do the same thing," Martlew said.

Project Find

LANSING — The State Board of Education has named April as "Project Find Month in Michigan," with the theme of "An Early Start is a Better Start." Project Find is interested in children who have difficulty walking, talking, hearing or speaking, or who have physical, emotional or mental handicaps that prevent them keeping up with others their age.

Parents, citizens and professionals are encouraged to refer handicapped children to the Clinton County Intermediate School District for Special Education services. For further information, contact Marge Joslin at 224-6831 or 374-8883.

Writing

ST. JOHNS — Do you like to write? Are you a poet, a story writer, or a songwriter? Have you ever thought you would like to write but have not yet put pen to paper? How about children's stories?

If you answered yes to any of the above questions, plan to attend the first meeting of a new writers club on April 13 at 7:30 p.m. at the Clinton County Arts Council Gallery, N. Clinton Ave., St. Johns.

The club would meet for fun and practice on a monthly basis. It would be associated with the Clinton County Arts Council and eventually exhibit writings at the Gallery if time and space permits.

All persons interested in writing are invited to attend.

'We're seeing eye to eye'

Sale of Central to Mark Barber discussed

A St. Johns Board of Education committee is expected to recommend the sale of Central School to St. Johns entrepreneur Mark Barber.

Committee chairman James Parr said on Sunday that an official decision had not yet been made but that he expects the committee to recommend acceptance of Barber's purchase offer. Barber's plans for the building reportedly include preserving at least its exterior.

Parr and school board trustees Kevin Kirk and Neil Barnhart were charged with the task of evaluating that purchase offer as well as four bids on the demolition of the building. The committee met on Thursday with Barber and two residents who want the building preserved. They are Bette Moore, of the Clinton County Historical Commission, and Thomas Wartsler, county planner.

Barber's offer to purchase the building was discussed at the meeting.

"From my point of view it sounds pretty good," said Wartsler. "I think the consensus was that everyone would be happy with it."

Parr said committee members have to decide what, if any, conditions they should recommend including in the sales agreement.

Barber declined on Sunday to divulge his plans for the building, saying he would make his plans public when and if the Board of Education accepted his purchase offer.

"We're seeing eye to eye on everything," he said of his talks with the school board committee.

The school board is expected to discuss the purchase offer at its April 13 meeting.

Barber has successfully renovated several buildings in the St. Johns area, including an office building on Spring Street and an apartment building.

County participates in radon gas search

Clinton County residents will participate in the hunt for dangerous radioactive gas over the next few weeks as cannisters to detect it are placed in 14 homes.

The 14 cannisters are part of a larger program in the state of Michigan where approximately 2,500 single family, owner occupied homes, will be tested for the presence of radon gas.

The gas is natural and results from the decay of uranium in the surrounding rocks. It has been linked to lung cancer and is likened to heavy cigarette smoking.

Robert DeHaan, chief of the environmental monitoring unit of the division of radiological health, says the gas can enter a home through cracks in the house, usually on the lower floors.

"Each house is unique, and each solution may be unique if there is a problem," he says. Solutions can include sealing cracks, better ventilation, or adapting the sump pump system to suck out the vapors.

Winter is the best time to test for the gas as closed up houses tend to trap it indoors. The problem has been escalating because today's homes are so well insulated, they have little ventilation during winter months.

Michigan was one of ten states nationwide selected for testing because of potential "hot spots." Although Clinton County is participating, DeHaan says the area of greatest concern is the upper peninsula.

The cannisters are simple in function. The top is torn off to reveal a charcoal filter which "traps" the gas. The container is resealed and sent off for testing. DeHaan says the gas captured actually decays in the cannister and what is analyzed in the lab is actually the "daughters" of the radioactive gas.

There is a list for those who want to contact an independent lab for testing, but to his knowledge there are none in Michigan as yet. Results of the local testing will be available in about four months.

Mild winter saves road funds — mostly for state

It was a mild winter. That means a significant savings to the Clinton County Road Commission for snow removal, right?

Right — but the savings is not quite as large as you might expect. There is a savings but much of it goes to the state, not to the county, says Michael Nobach, superintendent-manager of the Clinton County Road Commission.

It works like this: The state highway department pays the Road Commission for clearing state highways. This year the state would have paid up $120,000. Because of the mild weather, the Road Commission could only do $30,000 work of work for the state. So Road Commission resources — manpower, fuel, equipment — had to be spent on county projects that could not be billed to the state.

There is a bright side, even if it does not quite qualify as a silver lining. The county did have some savings and was able to catch up on work along county roads, including trimming vegetation and replacing guardrails.

The Road Commission also saved on wear and tear to its snow removal equipment.

"It's almost like adding another year of life to the equipment," says Nobach.

Ovid-Elsie voters say no to middle school

Ovid-Elsie Board of Education members will seek alternatives to building a new middle school following the defeat March 30 of a proposed $4.65 million bond issue.

Ovid-Elsie voters defeated the proposal by a margin of nearly two-to-one. The vote was 1,415 to 691.

Voter participation was high, up from 760 voters in the June election.

Superintendent of Schools David Porrell said one option open to the district is to seek the renewal of a mill voters two years ago approved for remodeling work. Renewal of that mill would fund renovation of three elementary schools and the high school.

The defeated proposal would have allowed the school district to build a new middle school near the high school. The district currently has two junior high schools, the original high schools for Elsie and Ovid. Both are over 45 years old.

Letter distorted facts, added confusion

To the Editor:

The problem with trying to provide information to the public is that it can be taken out of context, misquoted, misunderstood, and result in more confusion rather than less.

I have read two letters published here that were written by John Luecht. The first was factual and unemotional; the second letter published on March 31, was commenting on information provided by Clinton Area Care Center a week earlier.

Mr. Luecht's second letter, in my opinion, distorts the facts and adds to the public confusion. Clinton Area Care Center presented information pertaining to the development of the current license at Findlay Country Manor and justified why skilled beds have not been added. In addition, it revealed the financial outcome of five years of operation; the Medicaid reimbursement system at 80 percent of cost; the aging of the local population; and how the 65-bed addition by reducing per bed cost by eight percent would provide a firm financial operation for the Manor even after paying the new mortgage and interest.

Our certificate of need application is available at the corporate office or Findlay Country Manor if anyone would care to see all the facts in the context they were intended.

Mr. Luecht's letter incorrectly states the number of beds (it is 65, not 49), the cost per bed ($35,000, not $51,000), the total loan ($2.3 million, not $2.5 million), and finally at least indirectly, urges the regulation of Medicaid admissions. The legality of the latter issue is currently being considered in the state legislature.

My point here is not to specifically chastise Mr. Luecht. Rather, I am attempting to show how easily an exceedingly complex issue can be oversimplified and misunderstood. Mr. Luecht, I sincerely feel you have the best intentions, but please call me for specific facts next time.

There is one area of your letter on which we do agree: the over-regulation by the government of the health care field is somewhat stifling. We can still achieve success, however, as we have shown at Findlay Country Manor. We have hired competent staff, trusted the decisions of a well-informed board of directors, admitted when we were approaching a problem from the wrong side, retrenched, and tried once more.

During these troubling financial times, we have considered improving our situation by building and/or syndicating low-cost housing, public appeal, and other business ventures. But finally, we have decided to play to our strength, to that which we know best and do best, the addition of nursing and home for the aged beds to the nursing facility. It is not only reasonable, but as a 65-bed package will provide financial independence for Clinton Area Care Center in its efforts for the community.

Telling the taxman about homemaking art

To the Editor:

As the tax deadline roles around again, an old petty annoyance of mine surfaces. It's that space on the tax return where you fill in occupation.

Nine years I worked outside the home. I liked my job. I liked the people. I liked my paycheck. Then one day my four year old showed me a picture of his home that he had drawn at nursery school — it had two doors, four tires, and power steering. I decided then and there that it was time for a change. Now, I'm a full-time wife and mother.

Since I no longer work (for pay, that is), that space next to "occupation" on the tax return always puzzles me. According to the dictionary an occupation is "a business, employment, or trade." When we received our tax return back from the preparer this year, next to my name were the initials "H.W." They couldn't even write the whole word. (Let me spell it for you: housewife.) I was very irritated and hurt to think that my life had been reduced to two letters on a government document. Why didn't they just write "unemployed" — at least it's a whole word.

Back to the dictionary. "Housewife: a woman who manages a home and its affairs." So now I'm in management — the pay is lousy but the benefits are fantastic. At least it's a term that most people can deal with. In today's world people seem to need status or tangible objects to judge another's worth.

Where do I fit in? Being a wife and mother is not an occupation. Those are words that describe relationships with others. "Homemaker" is a nicer word than "housewife" and it's more encompassing. It's not just something I am, it's something I do with my life.

There is no such thing as advanced study and training in homemaking so I was no longer a professional. I had to look deeper for my job description. Now I look at my chosen way of life as an art. Let's face it. Artists are known for having their work go unrecognized and being underpaid (sounds like me, so far). To the dictionary one more time. "Art: a form of human activity appealing to the imagination — a skill."

That's it! A homemaker is a highly skilled individual. An artist is a person who takes raw materials and molds or creates them into something new and beautiful. A homemaker is an artist, but instead of working with paint or clay we work with people, places and time.

I think the real difference lies in the fact that a job is usually just an occupation, while being a homemaker is a vocation, a chosen or specialized profession.

I chose to work — then I chose to stay at home. I'm going to cross out "occupation" on our tax return and write in "vocation." Then, I'm going to write "HOMEMAKER/ARTIST" in capital letters. No one will notice, but I'll feel better.

Bill Schuette reports Rural growth

By Bill Schuette

Last month I, along with my Republican colleagues on the House Agriculture Committee, revealed a bold initiative to foster growth and development of our rural communities. This rural development initiative is designed to provide a basis on which aggressive, substantive agriculture policy can be formed in this 100th congress.

We are all painfully aware of the crisis burdening our agriculture industry. However, we must not forget the side-effects this situation brings to our rural communities, and entire rural infrastructure. For this reason, I am committed to promoting the various aspects of the rural development initiative.

In particular, this plan calls for specific action by the administration, the Department of Agriculture, and Congress. Creation of a White House office on agriculture and rural development is one aspect involving the administration. This office would essentially function as a task force to oversee our rural development progress.

In addition, the general accounting office could be instructed to perform a comprehensive study of the present programs concerning rural America. This study would be most beneficial, considering many of the programs which affect rural life currently do not fall under the jurisdiction of the Department of Agriculture. This disorganization only adds to the problems already surrounding our rural policies. By thoroughly assessing the programs which exist in the various departments, we may best determine how to implement only the most effective policies. Though this may be a long and difficult process, in the long run, it can only serve to make our system more practical and effective.

The time has come for our leaders to take the lead in seriously confronting the situation at hand. No longer can our communities tolerate inaction. Bold, new ideas must be reviewed for their potential success, and this means providing the economic and educational means necessary for rural communities to get back on their feet. Ideas which have been proposed in this area and need to be offered to rural communities to foster growth of their economic bases. The key provision of proposals such as these, is the undeniable factor that we must not focus solely on the commodity programs, but also include the community programs.

Educational and job training programs are a vital factor in this initiative. For the younger members of our rural communities, educational programs need to be developed or expanded in order to prepare them for a successful future in the communities or for further education outside rural America. Job training programs are essential for all individuals who have suffered a job loss or change as a result of this crisis facing rural America. A community can only be as strong as its people, and the people of rural areas should be given more opportunities to put their many talents to work.

Though the rural development is not yet embodied in legislative form, the intentions and implications are clear: it is time to tackle the tough issues, begin to look at our problems as opportunities, and get to work on the challenges that lie before us. My efforts in the months ahead will include my commitment to pursuing the growth and development of our communities. I hope that if you have suggestions on how we can best achieve these goals, you will share your ideas with me so that we can all participate in the comeback of rural America.

Bill Schuette is the 10th District Representative to the United States Congress.

Remembering when

28 YEARS AGO
April, 1959

A farm house in Westphalia Township burned to the ground last week. It was the home of a bachelor farmer, who was last fall accused of the murder of his stepmother.

He was acquitted of the charges when a Circuit Court Jury split 6-to-6. The cause of the fire is unknown. Police agencies are of different opinions as to the likelihood of arson.

38 YEARS AGO
April, 1949

Over 400 youngsters participate in the operetta "Hansel and Gretel" at the St. Johns High School.

Olive Grange No. 358 celebrated its 75th birthday last week.

In the spring election, voters give overwhelming approval to a proposal to build a $100,000 county jail.

53 YEARS AGO
April, 1934

A fire believed to have been deliberately set burned over 500 acres in Chandler Marsh and endangered a number of farm buildings. Earlier in the winter 1,400 acres burned.

Clinton County has been assigned a quota of 16 more Civil Conservation Corps men for another six months.

Four Clinton County Banks reduced from three to two percent the amount of interest they will pay to depositors.

Complaints have been made: chickens and dogs are running around unsupervised in contravention of the law.

Dillingham Comments Superconductor

By Fred Dillingham

Who in the 1860s thought the combination of electricity and magnetism would generate today's communication technologies? Who in the 1920s imagined quantum mechanics would produce the semiconductor industry? And who in 1987 knows how the Superconducting Superconductor (SSC) will ultimately alter our way of life?

Legislation has been introduced to help Michigan develop a successful bid proposal for what could be the most important economic development project ever. The SSC, a $4.5 billion accelerator 9,000 time larger than Michigan State University's (MSU) cyclotron, will provide about 2,500 high-technology jobs, and 3,500 construction, geologic and engineering positions. It could even attract 500 visiting professors and scholars from around the world every year for research and study. Any project creating that many jobs and bringing that much attention to Michigan must have the highest priority.

The SSC, which will be the world's largest atom smasher, has been discussed at the federal level for more than three years. Competition intensified after President Reagan announced he would seek funding for the project and that the U.S. Department of Energy will begin looking for sites. Bids are due by August of this year, and a site will be selected in July, 1988.

Senate Bill 169, of which I am a co-sponsor, would create a SSC Commission responsible for developing our bid.

The SSC Commission would represent Michigan before the Department of Energy and other agencies and develop plans for Michigan's participation in the project. It would have the power to hold public meetings, contract for research and services, acquire property and rights of way for the project, and would be subject to the Open Meetings Act. Adequate funding for bid-related projects would also be assured.

Senate Concurrent Resolution 97 urges Michigan's legislative action, the governor's office and the Legislature to act swiftly and thoroughly to promote Michigan as the best possible site for the SSC.

Hearings have already been scheduled on the SSC legislation. There's no time to waste because we only have four months to prepare such a massive and detailed proposal. But our efforts will be well spent if we get the project. This type of research represents unlimited possibilities to improve our quality of life and advance technology for everyone on this planet.

"It's in the Bag"
by Bob Beck

Seafood is adaptable. It may be purchased in small quantities; it is plus for people in small households; it is relatively low in calories, cooks quickly and may be prepared in every way. And a recent study indicates that eating fish is linked with a significant reduction in the risk of heart disease.

The increased availability of fresh, as well as frozen, seafood has made it possible to serve seafood more frequently. Much different from the days of Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn, who almost made it a daily routine to take their fishin' poles down to the shores of the Mississippi River for a day of fishing. Many people today still find great satisfaction dropping bait in ponds, rivers, lakes, streams and even oceans, hoping to snare something for dinner.

Today, we have seafood suppliers who rely on their refrigerated trucks to rush the catch to our door. A few fly in fish from the East or West Coasts. Others use modern technology and vacuum-type packaging to preserve the freshness of fish.

Fish that are preserved by freezing are iced on the boat immediately after they are caught and then rushed to processing plants for FLASH freezing. It may be only a few hours from sea to freezer's. Seafood "shore" is great! And Beck's has the quality, selection, and price that "didn't get away."

Elsie students win Farm Bureau 'America / Me Essay Contest'

Three students from Elsie are local winners in the 18th annual America & Me Essay Contest sponsored by Michigan Farm Bureau Insurance Group.

The three students, who earned the first, second, and third place awards for their school, are Chastity Winkler, first place; Melissa Grubaugh, second place; and Mylynn Clapp, third place. All three were awarded certificates for their achievement.

The topic addressed by the students in their essays was "How I Can Contribute to America's Future."

Chastity's first place essay now advances to state level competition, at which the top 10 essays in in Michigan will be selected. The top 10 statewide winners will be announced in early May. They will be awarded plaques and U.S. Savings Bonds ranging in value from $300 to $1,000.

In addition, the top 10 essayists will be honored at a banquet in Lansing and at a meeting with Michigan's top governmental leaders in late May.

A team of finalist judges that includes Gov. James Blanchard and Lt. Gov. Martha Griffiths will determine the statewide winners.

Several thousand eighth graders from more than 500 Michigan schools participated in the America / Me Essay Contest this year.

AMERICA / ME — Chastity Winkler, Melissa Grubaugh and Mylynn Clapp, students at Elsie Elementary, were winners in the Farm Bureau's America / Me Essay Contest.

Students attend Super Saturday

Clinton County students who were eligible for the 1986-87 Midwest Talent Search attended a "Super Saturday" program on March 28 at DeWitt Middle School.

Among popular student options for seminars were "Exploring the World of Chemistry," "Laser Techniques," "Computer Lab," and "Ukrainian Egg Decorating." Presenters were area teachers, counselors and community members. A set of three parent sessions was offered by Gary McCampbell from the Clinton County Counseling Center on meeting social and emotional needs of the gifted.

Keynote speaker for the lunch was Tricia Moore, educational consultant for Project Outreach at the State Department of Education.

In order to be eligible for the Talent Search, students had to be seventh or eighth graders who had scored at or above the 95th percentile on math or verbal portions of a standardized achievement test.

All students attending received certificates from Larry Schwartzkopf, superintendent of Clinton County Intermediate School District. Awards were also given to students who achieved the highest verbal and math scores on the SAT. These were Sarah Newman of St. Johns and Derek Thurston of DeWitt.

The recognition day was coordinated by Jenny McCampbell, consultant for gifted/talented programming at Clinton County ISD.

Sesquicentennial takes a canoe trip

The dream of connecting Saginaw, Bad, Maple, and Grand rivers will come to life this Sesquicentennial year as a 26-foot canoe travels from Saginaw Bay to Lake Michigan. Twenty-eight stops will be made over the seven-week period and celebrations will be held in the local areas.

The pathway goes through Elba Township and there will be a landing on Wilson Road Bridge in Bannister on April 22 with Dr. David Seibold of Grand Haven in charge of the crew.

A march from that point through town to the ZCJB Hall will culminate with a potluck supper and program to follow. The Busy Green Clovers 4-H club, the Ashley-Ithaca Livestock 4-H group, the ZCJB lodge, the ZCJB Czechoslovakian Folk Dancers, the Ovid-Elsie band, Bannister United Methodist Church Choir, the Sunshine Club, Fr. John Hoogterp and St. Cyril's Catholic Church, Rev. Art Turner and the Ashley and Bannister

United Methodist Churches, the Ashley Lions Club and Bob Moore are among the groups participating.

Rep. Gary Randall will also be present. The following week on April 28 the Gabagouache will enter the Maple River and head westward with stops and crew changes at various bridges in Elba Township.

P-W inducts 29 to Honor Society

By TOM THELAN
P-W Student Reporter

The list of students who were inducted into the National Honor Society at Pewamo-Westphalia High School this year is out. A total of 29 juniors and seniors have made the list.

For seniors to be eligible for the National Honor Society, they must achieve a 3.33 or higher grade-point average. Juniors must attain a GPA of 3.66 or higher.

This year, Michelle Arens, Debbie Bengel, Angela Hancock, Lori Hengesbach, Linda Herald, Cheryl Krzeminski, Beverly Martin, Brenda Martin, Doug Nurenberg, Deb Pung, Beverly Schafer, Cindy Schafer, Gina Schafer, Andy Schneider, Kim Simon, William Smith, Debbie Spitzley, Karen Theis, Brent Thelen, Brian Thelen, Michael Thelen, Amy Trierweiler and Jeff Wiirth are the seniors to achieve this honor.

Class offers help lowering cholesterol

The Mid-Michigan District Health Department will offer a cholesterol lowering class at their offices on April 13 from 12 to 1 p.m. Carol Wruble, a registered dietitian, will conduct the class.

The class will cover cooking techniques for lowering the amount of fat in the diet, the latest findings on cholesterol, and a question and answer period. There is a fee of $3.50 per person or $6 per couple.

To register call the Mid-Michigan District Health Department a 224-8393.

O-E school buses among the best

The Michigan State Police has rated the Ovid-Elsie school bus fleet in the top 12 percent of the school bus fleets in the state.

Of the 590 school districts in Michigan, Ovid-Elsie is one of only 76 school districts which received a rating of excellence for the maintenance of its school buses.

The rating system is based on the number of "tags" given. The tags that a school district could receive are: "red tag," which is given when the defects found could pose a safety hazard such as a brake defect or a defect in the steering system; "yellow tag," which is given when the defect poses no safety hazard such as when a mirror is a wrong color or the school district's name on the bus; and "pass tag," which is given when no defects are found.

The Ovid-Elsie school bus fleet has earned an excellent rating 14 out of the past 15 years due to the combined efforts of mechanics Arnold Wieber, Gary Munson, transportation supervisor Hazel Hinkle and each of the individual school bus drivers.

Greenbush mine meeting delayed

Consideration by the Clinton County Planning Commission of a controversial special use permit for Searles Construction Company has been postponed for a third time.

The permit would allow the company to operate a gravel mine in Greenbush Township. The Planning Commission originally voted to recommend to the county Board of Commissioners that the requested permit be denied.

The Board of Commissioners returned it to the Planning Commission for reconsideration. Since then, however, it was revealed that a bridge along the haul route for the proposed mine would not withstand the load of gravel trucks.

The meeting was delayed in order to give Searles Construction Company owner Leon Searles, the Clinton County Road Commission and the Greenbush Township Board of Trustees time to come to an agreement on making improvements to the bridge.

As of March 30 an agreement had not been reached. The case is now scheduled to come before the Planning Commission on May 14.

Clinton Memorial begins a new smoking policy

In conjunction with the recently enacted Michigan Clean Air Act, Clinton Memorial Hospital has instituted a new smoking policy designed to better accommodate patients and visitors. The new policy meets or exceeds the written requirements of the state of Michigan and joint commission on accreditation of hospitals.

The policy prohibits smoking in the hospital except in designated smoking areas which were placed in areas most used by patients and visitors. Patient sunrooms, lounges, conference rooms and the hospital cafeteria are designated areas. Additionally, under certain circumstances, a patient may be permitted to smoke in his/her room according to the physician's orders.

"Our policy is not intended as an indictment against smokers," said Irene Armbrustmacher, vice president of nursing services. "It simply represents our efforts to provide a safe, healthful environment for all patients and visitors of Clinton Memorial."

A copy of the hospital's smoking regulations is available to the public upon request.

Musicale explores the brotherhood of man

By CAROLYN CAMPBELL

St. Johns Morning Musicale met at the home of Mrs. Clifford Lumbert for a program on the "Brotherhood of Man."

To expand the meaning of "brotherhood," Nola Lumbert showed slides of mission work done in India, Haiti, Korea and Japan by mission schools, health centers, churches and youth exchange programs.

Dr. and Mrs. Lumbert have had first-hand experience in the promotion of goodwill among people by participating in the mission work of the United Methodist Church worldwide.

Interspersed with the presentation were hymns, "We Would Be Building," to the tune Finlandia by Jean Sibelius and "Lord, We Thank Thee for Our Brothers," sung by the group. Cynthia Jones Oglesbee, a guest, played and sang "Peace On Earth" to close the program.

April 9, at 9:45 a.m., the St. Johns Morning Musicale will meet at the home of Frances Peterson, 1306 S. Oakland.

Arts add to life at Findlay Country Manor

By JUNE SQUIRES

We extend birthday wishes this week to John Barrett whose birthday is Sunday, April 12. Cards and letters are appreciated by everyone here at the Manor.

Volunteers come in many different sizes and groups, but there is one little known group whose work can be viewed as Hazel I. Findlay Country Manor. The members of the Clinton County Arts Council donate the use of their work for decorating the nursing home. Examples of work by local artists can be found in the hallways, offices, and lobby.

The Arts Council began displaying art work by local artists at the nursing home in February of 1986. At that time, 35 paintings were hung in various areas. Landscapes, wildlife, and still life in watercolor and oil were on exhibit for three months.

For residents, visitors and employees, this special art has truly made one picture worth a thousand words in terms of memories shared, places visited, and events relived.

"It's like looking through a window into the past." That's how one nursing home resident described his feelings while viewing a painting of a Shepardsville Road by Joe Yurek.

Findlay Manor news

Others delighted in reminiscing about the circus over a painting called "Circus Elephant" by J. Colieus, and last summer's fishing trip, the painting "Look What I Caught" by Maxine Strahle.

Especially popular are the paintings done in bright colors on large canvases. They are easier to identify for the individuals with poor eyesight, providing a change of scenery for both residents and employees and a topic of conversation for all who view them.

Rotation of the pictures is handled by Kathleen Martindale, an employee of HIFCM, in conjunction with the Arts Council. The pictures are delivered, catalogued, and grouped by Kathy for hanging. Not only do the pictures brighten the halls, but also the day rooms, patient rooms, and offices.

Plan to take a few minutes to view the pictures currently on exhibit at HIFCM and thank the members of the Clinton County Arts Council for making HIFCM a little more like home. It really makes a difference.

DONATION — The Odd Fellows of Michigan, including the Rebekah Lodge 194 of Pompeii, have undertaken the purchase of visual hospital equipment for seven area hospitals.

Odd Fellows purchase equipment for area hospitals

The Odd Fellow and Rebekah visual research committee of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of Michigan has undertaken the purchase of visual surgical equipment for seven hospitals in 1987. Two area hospitals recently received donations at a meeting with 18 committee members in Pompeii.

Checks totaling $4,674 for cataract operating instruments were presented to Dave Naroske for use at Carson City Hospital, half from the visual research committee and half from Odd Fellow Lodge 417 and Rebekah Lodge 194 of Pompeii.

At the same meeting, F.B. Plasman, executive vice president of Sparrow Hospital in Lansing, received a check for $1,020 for a wet field Coagulator, half each from the visual research committee and the Pompeii lodges. The Pompeii lodges also presented Plasman with a check for $1,189 for zonic indirect ophthalmoscope.

State officers present at the presentations were committee co-chairman Lyle Siegrist of Pompeii, Arlene Eskes of Holt, secretary

Women's Club elects officers

By EDWINA MCDOWELL

The General Federation of Women's Clubs-St. Johns, met at the home of Martha Foust on March 11. Minnie McDowell and Mae Spousta served as co-hostesses.

The main business was a slate of officers presented by the nominating committee. A report was also given by the members who attended the Legislation Day in Lansing. The theme focused on law and order and prison reform. The problem of overcrowding was stressed and it was suggested that citizens attend court cases to be informed.

The club also met on March 25 at the home of Dorothy Lawrence at King Arthur's Court with Jean Leon as co-hostess. The following officers were elected: president, Dee Morriss; vice-president, Hilda Hufnagel; recording secretary, Beatrice Jorae; treasurer, Marta Giesecke; correspondence and publicity, Edwina McDowell.

Elected to the board of directors, were: Mary

Lenon, Jean Leon, Martha Foust, Ann Walker, Dorothy Welsh, and Dorothy Lawrence.

The date of the state convention is April 30-May 2.

Barbara Bandt, a representative from Clinton Memorial Hospital, gave an informative report on arthritis. She limited her talk to the three main kinds of arthritis: rheumatoid, osteoarthritis, and gout, and gave the causes and present-day treatment for each one.

The next meeting will be at the home of Dee Morriss on April 9. The program will be a book report by Mildred Brown.

4-H has Salon of Culinary Arts

Anne Huhn, Michelle Mohny, and Derek Mohny were among 4-H youth from across the state who participated in the annual Salon of Culinary Arts on March 22 at Michigan State University.

The three 4-H'ers demonstrated their culinary skills by baking and exhibiting quick breads, yeast breads and rolls. The Clinton County 4-H members also brought copies of their recipes and created educational posters explaining how to use or store products, outlined their nutritional value or highlighted a unique aspect of their items.

The event involved MSU students and high school vocational program participants, as well as apprentice and professional chefs. The show provided 4-H'ers an opportunity to compare their baking skills and meet professionals in the food service industry and to explore career opportunities in foods and nutrition.

The members' entries were judged by a panel of MSU food and nutrition experts and rated according to their quality, novelty and creativity. All members received ribbons for their participation.

One of every three crimes strikes youths between 12 and 14 years

One of every three crimes will likely be committed against young people between the ages of 12 and 14 years old, says Clinton County Sheriff Terry Haneckow.

"More than 6.5 million crimes on a national scale are committed annually against young people," the sheriff says. "Most of these are crimes against their property such as theft and vandalism."

According to Haneckow, teenagers are the most victimized and each year report more than 500,000 stolen bicycles with an average loss of $146 for each theft.

There are voluntary precautions young people in Clinton County should take to reduce the chance of becoming victimized by theft.

Sheriff Haneckow recommends these precautions for Clinton County citizens of any age:

register bicycles with the St. Johns and DeWitt city police departments. Engrave your name and social security number on the frame of the bicycle, with engraver available at the sheriff's department. If your bicycle must be left unattended, make sure it is securely locked to a bike rack or a stationary fixture.

If you drive, remember to protect our car, too. Always park in a well-lighted area and never leave keys in the car. Be sure to always lock your car no matter where it is parked.

"Because so many young people fall victim to property theft, it is obviously very important for these individuals to protect themselves and their personal property," Haneckow says. "By doing so, we will be more effective in our fight against crime."

Child poisoning can be prevented

National Poison Prevention Week is observed to focus public attention on accidental poisoning. In children under five years old, nearly five percent of the poisonings are accidental and preventable. In 1985, the Poison Prevention Week Council reported more than 745,000 children were treated for poisonings.

The most frequent culprits of poisonings are plants, soaps, aspirins and vitamins. These products are common to most homes, but because adults do not recognize them as potential hazards, they are often left where children can reach them.

Some products are so harmful that parents should make a greater effort to keep them out of reach of their children. These include: drain cleaners, kerosene, moth balls, anti-freeze, oven cleaners, rat poison and insecticides. Not all poisons have child-proof caps and many are easily opened. Bright labels and fruity smells make them even more enticing to young children.

Mid-Michigan District Health Department offers the following suggestions to help parents poison-proof their homes.

- Keep household products and medicines in a locked cabinet or closet. If you must leave a room, even for an instant, remove the container to a safe place.
- Keep medicines separated from other household products since containers may look enough alike to be confusing.

- Keep hazardous substances in their original containers. Never in cups or pop bottles that may cause a child to think they are food or drink.
- Get rid of prescription medicines as soon as the illness is over. Flush them down the drain.

- Keep the phone number of the poison center near the telephone in case of emergency (1-800-632-2727).

HAMBURGER

Don't wait until summer barbecues to include hamburger in your menu planning. These appetizing and imaginative meal suggestions give busy homemakers a Helping Hand in meal preparation.

Hamburger is high in nutrients, easy to prepare and a good value for the money. Simply mix ground beef with a few choice ingredients to create flavorful meals the whole family will enjoy.

Capture the exotic flavors of Mexico with this zesty taco salad, or savor the aroma of a hearty beef noodle soup. Add excitement to the dinner table with the lasagne or enchilada casserole — as easy to prepare as they are delicious.

With a touch of kitchen creativity, you can extend your menu and budget with everyone's favorite cut of meat.

Taco Salad

- 1 pound ground beef
- 3 1/3 cups hot water
- 1 package Hamburger Helper mix for cheeseburger macaroni
- 2 to 3 teaspoons chili powder
- 1 large clove garlic, crushed
- Dash of ground red pepper, if desired
- 6 cups shredded lettuce
- 1 medium green pepper, chopped (about 1 cup)
- 2 medium tomatoes, chopped (about 1 1/2 cups)
- 1/3 cup sliced green onions (with tops)
- 1/4 cup sliced pitted ripe olives

Cook and stir ground beef in 10-inch skillet until brown; drain. Stir in water, Macaroni, Sauce Mix, chili powder, garlic and red pepper. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly; reduce heat. Cover and simmer 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Uncover and cook 5 minutes longer. Place lettuce, green pepper, tomatoes, onions and olives in large bowl; toss with ground beef mixture. Serve immediately or, if desired, cover and refrigerate until chilled, at least 4 hours. Serve with tortilla chips and dairy sour cream if desired. 6 to 8 servings.

High Altitude Directions (3500 to 6500 feet): Increase water to 3 1/2 cups and simmer time to 20 minutes.

Spinach Lasagne Casserole

- 1 pound ground beef
- 1/8 teaspoon instant minced garlic or 1 clove garlic, finely chopped, if desired
- 3 cups hot water
- 1 package Hamburger Helper mix for lasagne
- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen chopped spinach, thawed and well drained
- 1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese (4 ounces)
- 1/2 cup creamed cottage cheese (small curd)
- 1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Heat oven to 375°. Cook and stir ground beef and garlic in 10-inch skillet until beef is brown; drain. Stir in water, Noodles, Sauce Mix and spinach. Pour into ungreased 2-quart casserole or rectangular baking dish, 12 x 7 1/2 x 2 inches. Mix mozzarella cheese, cottage cheese and Parmesan cheese; sprinkle over top. Bake uncovered until top is golden brown and sauce is bubbly, 40 to 50 minutes. Serve with French bread and tossed salad if desired. 7 servings.

High Altitude Directions (3500 to 6500 feet): Increase water to 3-1/3 cups. Before sprinkling with cheeses, cover and bake spinach mixture 30 minutes; sprinkle with cheeses. Bake uncovered about 20 minutes longer.

Quick Beef Soup

- 1 pound ground beef
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 5 cups hot water
- 1 package Hamburger Helper mix for beef noodle
- 1 bay leaf
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 1 can (16 ounces) whole tomatoes, undrained
- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen mixed vegetables or 2 cups cooked vegetables

Cook and stir ground beef and onion in Dutch oven until beef is brown; drain. Stir in water, Sauce Mix, bay leaf, salt, pepper and tomatoes; break up tomatoes with fork. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly; reduce heat. Cover and simmer 10 minutes, stirring occasionally; stir in Noodles and vegetables. Cover and cook 10 minutes longer; remove bay leaf. Serve with hard rolls or breadsticks if desired. 5 or 6 servings.

High Altitude Directions (3500 to 6500 feet): Stir in Noodles and vegetables with the Sauce Mix. Continue as directed except — cover and simmer 20 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Enchilada Casserole

- 1 pound ground beef
- 1 small onion, chopped (about 1/4 cup)
- 3 cups hot water
- 1 package Hamburger Helper mix for chili tomato
- 1 cup taco sauce
- 2 tablespoons chopped green chilies
- 6 corn tortillas
- 1 1/2 cups shredded Monterey Jack cheese

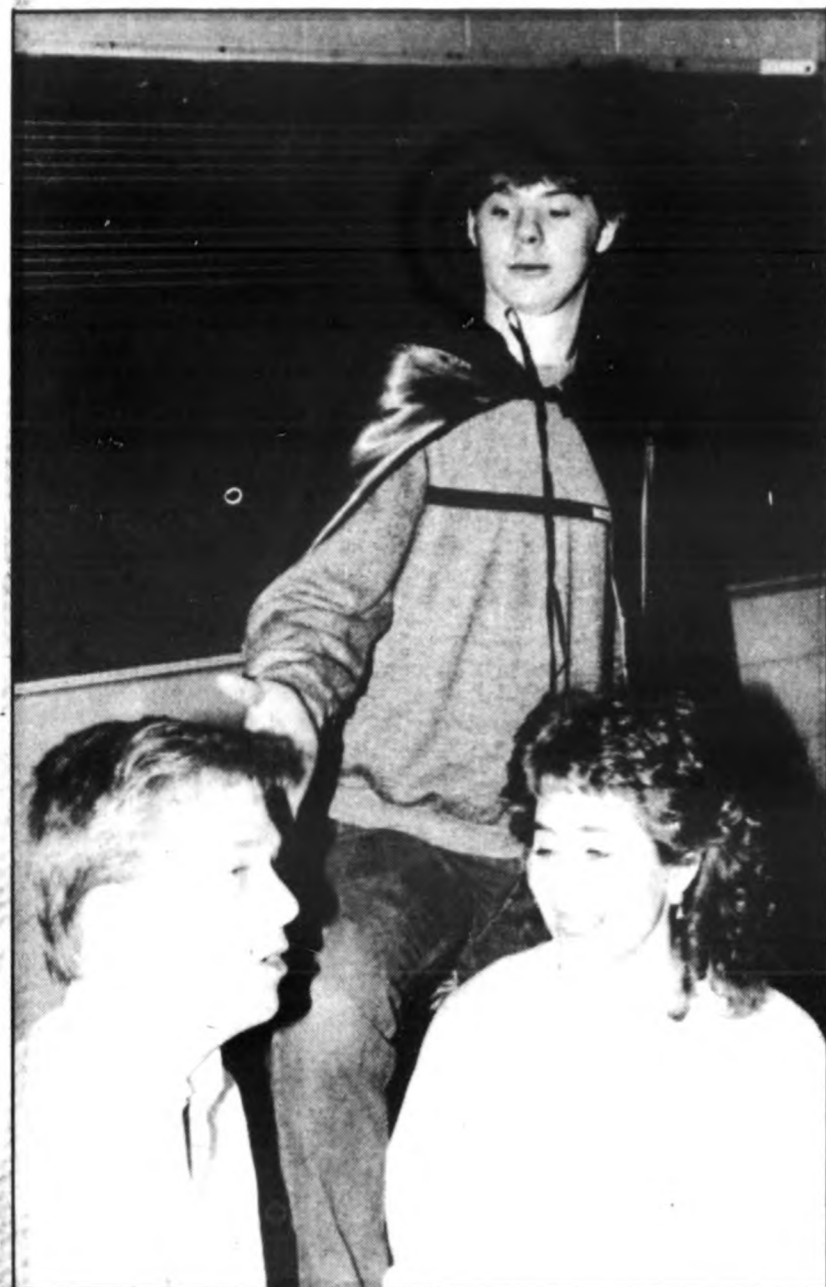

Cook and stir ground beef and onion in 10-inch skillet until beef is brown; drain. Stir in water, Macaroni, Sauce Mix, taco sauce and chilies. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly; reduce heat. Cover and simmer 15 minutes, stirring frequently.

Heat oven to 350°. Cut tortillas into halves. Reserve 1/2 cup of the beef mixture. Layer half each of the remaining beef mixture, the tortillas and cheese in ungreased rectangular baking dish, 10x6x1 1/2 inches; repeat. Top with reserved beef mixture. Bake uncovered until cheese is melted and mixture is heated through, about 20 minutes. Serve with tossed salad if desired. 6 servings.

High Altitude Directions (3500 to 6500 feet): Increase water to 3 1/2 cups and simmer time to 25 minutes. Use ungreased 2-quart round casserole.

Another 'Fantasticks'

THE FANTASTICKS — El Gallo (Gerry Nichols) oversees the budding relationship between Matt (Mark Scott) and Luisa (Trish Shoemaker) in the SJHS production of 'The Fantasticks.'

Show added to meet sales at box office

Due to demand for tickets, the St. Johns High School theatre department has added a third performance of their 1987 dinner theatre offering — "The Fantasticks."

Dates and times for the musical are May 15 and 16 at 6:45 p.m. and May 17 at 12:45 p.m. All performances will be held at St. Johns High School.

The box office for the dinner theatre opens at 8 a.m. on April 15 in room 121-A (located in the hallway behind the library) at the high school. Or patrons may call 224-9341 and ask for the dinner theatre extension. Tickets for the dinner theatre are $16 per person and will be sold on a first-come-first-serve basis. A waiting list will be established for each performance in the event of a sell-out.

After a reservation has been made, payment must be received within five school days. Post cards will then be sent confirming the reservation and giving information on show dates. If the reservation is not paid within the five-day period, the tickets will be put up for general sale.

On performance nights, patrons will be seated at candlelit tables of four and served by formally attired hosts and hostesses. The menu includes prime rib of beef, fresh garden salad, hot baked potatoes and trimmings, french beans almondine, fresh baked dinner rolls, and coffee or milk. At the act break of the musical, mint sundaes will be served.

The theatre department reminds the public that last year's dinner theatre was sold out 25 minutes after the box office opened. The box office is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. beginning April 15.

ADVISORY BOARD — Ben Munger, Scott Strahle and Dan Redman, shown here with Clinton County Arts Council President Maxine Strahle, are among those recently appointed to the Advisory Board of the Arts Council. The six-member board that also includes John Kennedy, U.S. Rep. Bill Schuette and state Rep. Gary Randall, will formulate and carry out fundraising projects through business and individual contacts.

'Fiddler on the Roof' draws on talent of experienced teachers

"Fiddler on the Roof," one of the most popular musicals of all time, is now entering its final stage of rehearsal at St. Johns High School.

Directing this year is Barb Markman. This is her sixth musical. Her directing credits include "Once Upon A Mattress," "Bye, Bye Birdie," "Oklahoma" and "The King and I."

Don Valentine is working on his 17th SJHS production. His main responsibility is preparing the singers for their performances. He is also the producer of this show, not a first for him. He directed the 1982 production of "L'il Abner."

Decending into the orchestra pit for his 18th musical production is Bill Tennant. Preparing the orchestra and directing the performances are his main responsibilities this year. He has also produced shows in the past.

Joe Bodarko is working on his third show as technical assistant in the area of set construction. Previously he has worked on the sets of "L'il Abner" and "The Music Man." Joe will also play accordion and guitar for this show, expressing the ethic quality of the show.

Sue Lounds and Sharon Speck worked on last year's production of "Oliver." Sue is heading the costume area this year and Sharon is putting in her hours as rehearsal accompanist.

"Fiddler" will be presented on Friday and Saturday, April 24-25, at 8 p.m. There will also be a Sunday matinee on April 26 at 2:30 p.m.

Tickets go on sale starting Monday, April 13, at the high school box office between the hours of 2:30 and 5:00 p.m. each weekday. Adult tickets are $4; tickets for students, senior citizens and children are $3.

Chart A Course For Entertaining

It's safe to say that the first wine and cheese party probably took place thousands of years ago, completely by accident. Some ancient tribesman bravely tried the mysterious fluid in a crock of forgotten grapes, and then invited some friends over to taste it with some cheese he had aging in his cave.

Entertaining grew more sophisticated and complicated over the centuries, but today it seems to have come full circle. Given the fast-paced schedules of the 1980s way of life, with all the demands on home, career and family, there seems to be little time left for elaborate entertaining. Parties are now more casual, more impromptu. It has become easier (and more fun) to entertain 14 or 40 with an invitation to stop by for wine and cheese with crackers than to plan a sitdown dinner for six.

The fun of a wine and cheese party is in the sampling and comparing; everything from rarefied bottlings to inexpensive wines which offer great value — from distinctly flavored gourmet cheeses and hearty crackers to the mellow and mild varieties.

Orchestrating the party requires only a modicum of pre-planning — which wines, cheeses and crackers to serve, but this selection process can be intimidating. Because some of us simply don't know what flavors complement each other, choosing the wines, cheeses and crackers can be baffling. To make this shopping easier, we've developed a chart matching full-flavored, medium-bodied and light-bodied California wines with robust, mellow and mild cheeses and crackers. To figure out what wine is best with which cheese and cracker, just check the chart. This can be kept handy on the refrigerator door or in the corner of your wallet if you're a frequent entertainer.

One should not feel that only expensive foreign wines and cheeses will do. California wines, which were first made in the Golden State more than 200 years ago, have truly earned their place among the world's best wines. They consistently compete successfully with foreign wines costing twice as much.

The same can be said for excellent Wisconsin cheeses, with roots going back to Europe and the immigration of its people to that area of the new world. Skilled cheese makers brought age-old family secrets of the art: German, Swiss, Scandinavian, Dutch, French and Italian all added their traditions to the diversified cheeses of Wisconsin now boasting more than 200 varieties.

Crackers are the third important ingredient to a successful wine and cheese party. Here again, an all-American choice proves best. The Pepperidge Farm selection of Distinctive Crackers is available in seven different varieties. They range from the all-purpose mild English Water Biscuit to the heartier Toasted Wheat with Onion for the most robust wines and cheeses.

When setting up for the party — either on a dining room table or a side-board — arrange several bottles of full-bodied to light-bodied red and white wines, platters of robust, mellow and mild cheeses and plates of Distinctive Crackers with their interesting shapes. Use the chart to select a few cheeses and crackers from each group and match with compatible wines. In addition, make an attractive arrangement of fruit cut into wedges — apples, pears, melon and small bunches of grapes. These will help clear the palate.

It will help to work out a list of what you'll need ahead of time. To figure out how much wine you'll need requires simple arithmetic. The average serving per person is a 4- or 5-ounce glass which, counting refills, translates into about two people per bottle. To bring out their best flavor, chill white wine and serve red wine at cool room temperature.

Choose 3 to 5 varieties of Wisconsin cheese depending on the size and preference of your group. Allow a total of 6 to 8 ounces per person if the cheese tray is the primary food source. Offer a little less of the more robust cheese than the mild and mellow varieties. For an appetizer or dessert cheese tray, 4 ounces per person will be ample. When sampling, bring the cheeses out of refrigeration 30 minutes before serving.

Baskets of 3-5 varieties of Pepperidge Farm crackers are the crowning touch. There are approximately 60 crackers in each box depending on weight. Allow 6 to 8 crackers per person and all is ready except to light the candles and start up the music on the stereo.

Students see living science

The Living Science Foundation from Novi, Michigan, presented a series of natural science programs to students at Swegles and Perrin-Palmer Elementary Schools in St. Johns, with the programs featuring a variety of live birds, mammals, reptiles and amphibians.

The majority of animals were from South America. Particularly popular with the students were a boa constrictor named "Rocky Bal-Boa," and "Jonah" the python. Giant frogs, toads, macaas, tortoises, lizards, and a parrot were among the many other creatures that visited the classrooms.

Music celebrates Sesquicentennial

A musical celebration observing Michigan's Sesquicentennial was held at Perrin Palmer Elementary School in St. Johns in a combined third and fourth grade effort. Students from the classes of Helen O'Dell, Gretchen Muehlenbeck, Sheryl Plowman, and Jim Makarauskas performed the musical titled, "Make Mine Michigan."

explorers, immigrants from Europe, lumberman, miners, sailors, and many other characters. Designed to provide an opportunity for involvement by all students, the program consisted of speaking roles, singing, dancing, playing instruments, working with props and costumes. It was discovered by director Algje Watkins at an Ann Arbor Music Conference where it was premiered by students of the Coopersville school district.

Bunyans, banjos go to St. Joes

Over 400 students participated in the "Bunyan, Banjos and Bristles" sesquicentennial project at St. Joseph School last week.

What to do after tornado

This is the last in a series of articles prepared by Clinton County Emergency Services Coordinator Robert J. Ferry.

After the Storm

Most tornadoes are short-lived, lasting only four or five minutes. After the storm, inspect your property, including automobiles, for damage. Check immediately for electrical problems and gas leaks and report to utilities or the fire department if danger is imminent.

If you have extensive damage, contact your insurance company immediately. In the meantime, secure your property from further damage or theft. Heavy rains often follow a tornado.

Take inventory of the damage to speed your insurance settlement. Your policy may provide coverage for additional living expenses if you cannot stay in your home. There is also a policy provision for paying the expense of debris removal.

Stayout of damaged buildings until you are sure they are safe and will not collapse.

Use only approved or chlorinated supplies of drinking water. Check food supplies, food may contain particles of glass or other debris. Discard canned goods with broken seams.

Notify your relatives of your safety. Local authorities may spend time trying to locate you if you don't send word. Make your calls brief; don't tie up phone lines if they are needed for emergency calls.

Cooperate in the general clean-up of debris. During repairs and clean-up, wear shoes and gloves. Glass, including fiberglass insulation, can injure unprotected hands and feet.

If you have not suffered damage, be a good neighbor and help those who need it. Local authorities usually are on the scene quickly to help you after a tornado disaster, and information will be broadcast on where you can get food, clothing, medical care, and temporary shelter in your community.

By thinking clearly and calmly and by helping one another, we can limit the injury and destruction tornadoes cause.

THE BATMAN — Clem Sohn, who died 50 years ago this month after making aviation history, will be remembered at Most Holy Trinity Cemetery this month. Photograph by Rich Wertz

Clem Sohn, Fowler native

An aviator remembered

"There is no sound but the wind. If I lose speed the wind dies away and there is no sound at all. Someday, I think everyone may have my wings and will be able to soar from the housetops." — Clem Sohn.

Like the mythical Greek Icarus, Clem Sohn flew too close to the sun. He plummeted to the earth and when he hit, his body tore a hole several feet deep in the soft ground.

"The sound of 100,000 people sucking in their breath at the same time is something that can't be forgotten," reported a London magazine in an article about Sohn's death on April 25, 1937, at an airshow outside of Paris, France. "Every man in the crowd removed his hat. The silence was the silence of the grave."

The daredevil will be remembered in Clinton County on the 50th anniversary of his death. Sohn was a native of the Fowler area and the Clinton County Historical Society plans a "50th Year Remembrance" on April 25. At 1 p.m. at the Most Holy Trinity Cemetery in Fowler, there will be a public program of music, remembrances, aviation displays and a parachute jump — all designed to pay tribute to the "original batwing jumper from Clinton County."

A notation of the event will be carved onto Sohn's gravestone.

In the spirit of that occasion, here is the Clem Sohn story, as condensed from the article in the London magazine:

PART 1 — Nerves of steel

One day in early March, 1935, at Daytona Beach, Florida, 22-year-old Clem Sohn, distinguished parachute jumper and barnstormer, was making his first public flight. Equipped with a set of canvas wings and webbing between his legs reinforced with tubular steel ribbing "like a bat's wings," he was carried two miles aloft by a plane. With the plane barely visible in the sky, Clem climbed onto a wing and stepped off. When he came into view of his audience below he was swooping and circling, banking and diving like a giant bird.

Clem Sohn had come closer to emulating a bird in flight than anyone ever had.

You have read of characters in fiction with "nerves of steel." Clem Sohn had them. For two years he had been making his living as a delayed parachute jumper. In 1935 Clem held the world's record for falling 18,500 feet from a plane before pulling the ripcord.

One day in 1934 he and another man had held a race to see who could get to the ground first from planes flying at equal altitudes. The other man won — but it was his last jump. He was killed instantly when his chute failed to open.

The next day Clem stepped off the wing of a plane flying at 15,000 feet. Because people on the ground could not see the body of a man hurtling through the air three miles above the earth, he had a partially opened sack of flour under one arm. The trail marked his progress through the sky.

Sohn invented his bird wings as a result of his many delayed parachute jumps. He had learned that by moving his arms and legs in certain ways he could slow up his descent and completely eliminate tumbling in the air. For him it was a great discovery, suggesting the possibility of truly flying like a bird.

Presenting the CCN all-area team

By RHONDA WESTFALL
Sports editor

The 1986-87 Clinton County News all-area basketball team.

Comprised of players from local schools which are covered on a regular basis by the paper, this year's all-area team includes some very talented individuals.

Our First Team selections all were starting players for their respective schools throughout the recently completed basketball season.

All are leaders. Not just in various statistical categories, but perhaps more importantly in their ability to provide stimulus to other team members. More often than not, they were the ones who sparked the team when the going got tough; when that little extra "push" was needed; when the big play was made.

FIRST TEAM members are: Tom Penix and Clark VanBuren from St. Johns; Bob Foreback from Ovid-Elsie; Kurt Simon and Matt Hufnagel from Fowler; Glen Stump and Dave Stump from Pewamo-Westphalia.

Penix, a 6'6" junior, was the Redwing's leading scorer. He totaled 379 points on the year, averaging 19.9 points per game from his forward/center position. He was selected as the Most Valuable Player for the team and was also named to the First Team in the Mid-Michigan B conference.

Shooting 59.5 percent from the field and 64.2 percent from the line, Penix was the Redwing's second-leading rebounder with 151 offensive and defensive boards. He had 28 steals on the year and five blocked shots.

Redwing teammate VanBuren, led St. Johns in total rebounds with 219 — an average of 11.5 per game. The 6'1" junior power forward was the second leading scorer on the team with 284 points, an average of 14.9 per game. He shot 50.6 percent from the field and 61.1 percent from the line.

Named to the MMB second team, VanBuren had 28 steals for the Redwings and blocked six shots. His shooting ability coupled with rebounding strength, made him a force to be reckoned with in both conference and non-conference games.

Foreback, a 5'9" senior guard on the Marauder team, finished his years at Ovid-Elsie as the school's second leading career performer in steals and assists. His 65 assists this season and 59 steals on the year, brought his career totals up to 196 and 138 respectively. He led the Marauders in both categories.

Named to the MMB second team, Foreback was the team's second leading scorer with 198 points, averaging 9.4 points per game. He had 63 rebounds, shot 52 percent from the line, and was the floor leader for the Marauders.

Standing 6'6", Kurt Simon took up a lot of space under the basket for Fowler. The senior forward/center was the leading Eagle scorer and rebounder, averaging 15.2 points and 8.6 rebounds per game. A co-captain on the Eagle team, he was named as the team's Most Valuable Player, named to the First Team in the Central Michigan Athletic Conference, and received an honorable mention notation from UPI.

BLOCKED SHOTS were a specialty of Simon, as was making clutch free throws under pressure. Especially memorable were the two charity shots which boosted the Eagles into the lead in their regional championship game with Flint Holy Rosary.

Hufnagel, a 6'2" junior forward, was the second leading scorer for Fowler. He averaged 13.8 points per game and also ended the season with an average of 5.5 rebounds per contest.

Especially dangerous from the outside, Hufnagel made a habit of swishing baskets from the top of the key just prior to halftime. Shots made with :02 seconds on the clock helped lift the Eagles to halftime leads in district games with Mt. Pleasant Sacred Heart and Beal City. He was also a First Team CMAC selection.

Chosen as the Most Valuable Player on the Pewamo-Westphalia team this year, Glen Stump could be counted on to lift his teammates up when they were down.

"Glen inspired the entire team to play better basketball," Pirate Coach Ron Kramer said.

Named to the First Team in the CMAC, 6'0" senior Stump led the Pirates in assists with 114 from his guard position and was the second leading scorer with 253 total points. His free throw percentage of 73 percent was the team's best; he had 41 steals on the year; and had 65 rebounds.

Dave Stump, also a 6'0" senior guard, was the leading Pirate scorer with 306 points. He shot 68 percent from the charity stripe and was good on 52 percent of his shots from the field. He also had 37 assists, and 78 total rebounds.

A member of the First Team in the CMAC, Stump's defensive play was indicative of Pewamo-Westphalia's overall fine defense. He led the Pirates in steals with 61 on the year.

PLAYERS NAMED to the Honorable Mention listing also represent the cream of the crop. While most played major supporting roles on their individual teams during the season, several were team leaders in their own right. Their talents and abilities were a necessary element in the overall success of their teams.

Playing for Fulton High School, Tod Walden, Roger Skyard, and Scot Cater all were instrumental senior team members. Walden, a forward, and Skyard, a Pirate guard, both received honorable mention nods in the CMAC. Walden averaged 10.3 points and six rebounds per game, and shot 75 percent from the charity stripe. Skyard was the team's leading scorer, averaging 11.4 points per game and shooting 76 percent from the line. Pirate center Cater, was the leading rebounder and averaged 9.5 points a game.

Mike Morris and Rick Saylor, both seniors on the Ashley Bears team, played key roles as two of the team's leaders on the floor. Saylor, a forward/guard, averaged 9.0 points and five rebounds a game. Bear teammate, Morris, was the leading scorer averaging 9.5 points per game as well as six rebounds per contest from his forward position.

Two junior forwards were among Redwing players who saw consistent playing time for St. Johns and made important team contributions — Jim Martens and Scot Ayisworth. Martens had a hefty free throw percentage of 67.6 percent, totaled 89 points and 65 rebounds, and had 18 steals. Ayisworth hauled down 91 rebounds for a 4.8 per game average, netted 70 points, had 28 steals, and 11 blocked shots. Both played the forward position for St. Johns.

Ovid-Elsie guards Troy Barnhill and Jeff Conklin received Honorable Mention notations in the MMB for their efforts as seniors on the Marauder team this year. Conklin was the best defensive player for Ovid-Elsie, while Barnhill led the Marauders in scoring with 257 points, averaging 12.9 points per game. He shot 66 percent from the line and had 58 rebounds.

ALSO RECEIVING Honorable Mention nods, in the Central Michigan Athletic Conference, were Pewamo-Westphalia players Jeff Smith and Dave Spitzley. Both were senior forwards for the Pirates. Smith tallied 210 points, 106 rebounds, 42 steals, and 21 assists on the year. Teammate Spitzley was the leading rebounder with 123 total boards. He had 142 points, shooting 62 percent from the line and 43 percent from the field, and had 38 steals.

Starting members for Fowler throughout the season were guards Rex Thelen and Jim Andros and forward Joe Simon. The trio of seniors were among the best, if not the best, in their respective team roles and were a big reason for the success that the Eagles enjoyed in 1986-87.

Thelen, recipient of the Coaches' Award, was a steady influence on other Eagle team members. He could make the big play when called upon, helped in directing the teams' offense, and was always reliable. He received a CMAC Honorable Mention.

Andros, named the Most Improved Player on the Eagle team, made some spectacular drives to the basket during the course of the season. A fine free throw shooter, his help from the charity stripe secured more than one victory for Fowler. He also was named as an CMAC Honorable Mention player.

Joe Simon, perhaps the most under-rated player on the Eagle team, ended his career in grand style in Fowler's final quarterfinal game versus Detroit East Catholic. Leading the Eagles in both scoring and rebounds in that contest, Simon was a superb player in a supporting role for Fowler's team.

Dennis Smith, Head Coach of the Fowler Eagles, is a unanimous choice to lead the 1986-87 All-Area team. In his sixth year as Fowler's coach, Smith has an impressive career record of 109-34. His Eagle team ended the season with a 24-2 record, were CMAC champions, and won both their Class D district and regional crowns. Smith was honored as the Class D "Coach of the Year" by his coaching peers.

It seems only fitting this year to give Pewamo-Westphalia Coach Ron Kramer some well-deserved recognition with an Honorable Mention notation. Kramer led the Pirates to their second consecutive Class C district title. Winning their first regional contest, Coach Kramer's squad was defeated in their bid for a regional title by Saginaw Catholic Nouvel — the eventual Class C state champions.

Congratulations to all the above-mentioned players and coaches — and to each and every member of all the teams covered by the Clinton County News this year.

Lady spikers honored on CCN all-area team

Setters. Hitters. Blockers. Attack percentage. Serve receptions. Set assists. Volleyball terminology is in a world by itself. Familiar with the lingo and completely in command on the court are a number of high school players who make up the 1987 Clinton County News All-Area volleyball team. With skill, timing, and court sense, these young ladies were the backbone of their respective teams. They provided team leadership along with being "leaders" in various statistical categories. Selected for First Team honors are: Jami Jones and Sheila Platner from Ovid-Elsie, Kerry Porter and Angie Pung from St. Johns, Deb Pung from Pewamo-Westphalia, Janice Kresge from Fulton, and Amy Witgen from Fowler.

A senior setter for the Marauders, Jones was selected to the Mid-Michigan B league first team, chosen for the Class B region 8 all-region team, and a second team choice for the Lansing State Journal's all-area team. Jones had a 79 percent attack reception, 82 percent serve reception, and was a 89 percent server. She had 185 serve points, 46 saves, and was the assist leader for Ovid-Elsie with 363 set assists. Teammate Platner was also a MMB first team selection and a member of the Class B region 8 all-region team. She received an honorable mention nod in the Journal's all-area team. A senior outside hitter for the Marauders, Platner was a 90 percent server with 222 serve points. She had an 82 percent attack percentage and 81 percent serve reception. She led her team in kills with 183, and had 27 aces, 38 blocks, and 17 saves on the year. The Most Valuable Player for the Redwings, Porter is a junior at SJHS. She led her team in kills, averaging 3.07 per game, and had a serve reception of 89 percent. Her attack percentage was 72 percent, serve percentage of 85 percent, and totaled 60 blocks. PORTER WAS chosen to the MMB first team and the Lansing State Journal's all-area second team. She will return as captain of the 1988 Redwing team next season. Angie Pung, senior setter for the Redwings, led her team in sets and was the assist leader with a total of 235. She was an 82 percent server, led the team in serve receptions with 87 percent, and was the leading setter with 245. Pung was named to the MMB's second team. Deb Pung, senior first team selection from the Central Michigan Athletic Conference, was an 89 percent server for the Pirates and was the leading hitter on her team. "She was a stand-out player," said P-W Coach Nancy Krieder. "One-third of her hits were for kills." Pung was also chosen to the State Journal's honorable mention team. Playing for the other Pirate team in the CMAC, Janice Kresge was named to the CMAC first team and to the Journal's all-area second team. She was voted as the Most Valuable Player on the Pirate team and was the leading spiker and blocker for Fulton. "She could turn a spike into a block," said Coach Cheryl Kissling. "She is very competitive." Also selected as the Most Valuable Player for her team, Amy Witgen led the Fowler Eagles in saves and assists and was second in blocks. The senior setter had a set percentage that was less than one error per match. Witgen was selected to the first team in the CMAC and was on the State Journal's honorable mention listing for all-area. A NUMBER OF other players had an impact on the overall success of their teams during the recently completed season. Receiving honorable mention notations from area schools covered by the CCN are:

- Theresa Feldpausch from Fowler — leading her team in blocks and assists, she was also the teams' leading server. Thirty-three percent of her serves were aces. She was named to the CMAC first team and received an honorable mention from the State Journal.
- Joan Gallagher and Patti Howell from Fulton — designated front row blocker and setter respectively, both received honorable mentions from the CMAC.
- Kim Simon from Pewamo-Westphalia — Most Valuable Player on the Pirate team, she had a serve percentage of 89. She was a first team selection in the CMAC and received an honorable mention from the State Journal.
- Debbie Bensinger and Lisa Ebert from St. Johns — Second in attacks for the Redwings, Bensinger averaged 1.24 kills per game. She had a serve reception of 82 percent, served 84 percent, and was named to the MMB's second team. Ebert was an 84 percent server, had an 80 percent serve reception, was the second leading setter, and had 218 assists. She received an honorable mention nod in the MMB.
- Jami Martin, Bonnie Patrick and Courtney Schneider from Ovid-Elsie — Martin led the Marauders in serve points with 271, was a 92 percent server, and second leading blocker with 52 blocks. She had 101 kills and had an 85 percent serve reception. She received an honorable mention in the MMB.
- Patrick, a junior on the Ovid-Elsie team, totaled 173 assists on the year, had 175 serve points, 87 percent attacks, and 87 percent serve receptions. She was the "top back row player" according to Marauder Coach Doug Long, and received honorable mention in the MMB.
- Schneider, named to the second team in the MMB, led the Marauders in blocks with 226, averaging three per game. A senior middle hitter, she "dominated at the net."

Coaching the impressive group of spikers are Doug Long from Ovid-Elsie and Bernie Fox from St. Johns. Both coaches have gone head-to-head in both MMB league matches and at the Clinton County Tournament in past years, and both were chosen as the league's winning coaches by their peers in the MMB this season.

Boosters begin ticket sales

All parents who have children involved in athletic programs at St. Johns High School and Rodney B. Wilson Junior High will be receiving two lottery tickets in their mailboxes this week in an effort by the St. Johns Athletic Boosters to complete third-quarter ticket sales. The tickets, priced at $25 each, are good for the 13-week quarter which begins May 1. Boosters are hopeful that by sending tickets out through the mail to all families, a better sales percentage will result. "We're hopeful that the new approach to ticket sales will work well," Booster chairman Chuck Heyer said. "It will reach everybody who has a child involved in athletics." Here's how the plan will work:

1. Tickets are $25 for 13 weeks, or $50 for 26 weeks.
2. Persons fill in their ticket stubs completely. Payment can be in cash or checks made payable to "St. Johns Athletic Boosters."
3. Turn in funds and stubs to chairmen.

4. Actual tickets with valid three-digit number will be mailed directly to the purchaser.
5. Winner each day is the person who holds the same three-digit number as that of the daily Michigan drawing.
6. Winner receives $100 Monday through Friday, and $300 on Saturday.

Questions should be directed to any of the following chairmen: Don Rademacher, 224-9442; Russ and Cindy Dorn, 224-7558; Jim Cain, 224-3027; Bob Spencer, 224-2446; Bob Ballard, 224-8732; Cindy Rositas, 224-6362; Bob Paksi, 224-7455; Tom and Cheryl Moubray, 224-2762; Gretchen Jewison, 224-7924; Ruth Ann Martin, 224-7562; Rebekah L. Riggle, 224-3377; Jim Pierson, 224-2826; Marta Giesecke, 224-8111; Chuck Heyer, 224-3281.

During the recently completed second quarter, the boosters netted a profit of approximately $8,000, according to Heyer. The boosters made the following purchases with money raised by the lottery:

- $700 — windscreens for the tennis courts;
- $900 — boys' track warm-ups;
- $300 — girls' track jackets;
- $320 — baseball undershirts;
- $375 — softball and baseball batting screens;
- $600 — softball jackets;
- $1,325 — baseball and softball batting cages and dragmat;
- $320 — volleyball knee pads for Rodney B. Wilson;
- $350 — screen for scoreboard at Rodney B. Wilson;
- cheerleading mats still to be purchased.

April 13, 14, 15 are dates for St. Johns youth baseball draft

The player draft for youth interested in participating in the St. Johns Youth Baseball League is scheduled for April 13, 14 and 15 at the league's fields located behind Bees in St. Johns. Managers for minor, little, and pony leagues will draft players for this year's teams from 6-7 p.m. each night. The draft for minor league players, youth aged 7-9, will be held on April 13; little league youth aged 10-12 is set for April 14; and the draft for pony league, ages 13-15, is scheduled for April 15. Ages for the different leagues are based on the players' ages as of August 1, 1987. All managers should meet at Farm Bureau Insurance, 407 E. Gibbs St., following the tryouts at the field to set team rosters. The league is looking for persons who are interested in serving as team managers for all three age groups. Contact Don Keim at 224-7263, Al Roberts at 224-7569, or Roger Beebe at 224-7160 for information on the youth baseball program. Starting dates for the 1987 season are tentatively set for the third week of May.

Parents take on kids in East Essex b-ball

Submitted by Ann Holm

On March 23, East Essex parents and children faced off in their first "mother against daughter, father against son" basketball game. The event was held to honor East Essex girls basketball teams, boy's fourth grade team, boy's traveling team and head and assistant coaches Jack Anderson and Norm Holm.

Honorary coach Lorraine Upton skillfully maneuvered her mother and daughter teams in the appropriate direction while honorary coach Don Findlay diligently explained key plays to his father and son teams.

Coch Upton's moms saw action against their daughters in the first, six-minute quarter of play as the heated contest began. When the second quarter started, Coach Findlay pitted fathers against sons in a battle unequalled by none. Cheers and screams were heard by both parents and fans as halftime drew near. The score was Children 24, Parents 16, as the youngsters outshot their parents by a wide margin.

When action resumed in the third quarter, things began to happen. The moms were much more aggressive, scoring more readily even though referee Holm was "coaching" the daughters as they dribbled

Albion coach speaks to Fowler Knights

Morley Fraser, veteran football and baseball coach at Albion College, will be the featured speaker at the 40th anniversary Fowler Knights of Columbus banquet on April 12. The banquet will be held at Most Holy Trinity Hall in Fowler.

Fraser, a frequent chapel speaker in both NFL and Major League lockerrooms, is currently executive director to the Albion College conference center and assistant to the president. He was the president of the Michigan Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) for three years and a FCA advisor for 20 years.

During Fraser's 18-year tenure at Albion, his teams won 11 MIAA titles. He recently received the distinguished service award from the Michigan High School Coaches Association for his contributions to high school and college athletics over the years.

Besides Fraser's keynote address, the banquet will feature highlights of the K of C from the past 40 years. Included on the menu are chicken and all the trimmings, meatballs, and other items.

Tickets are available from committee members: John and Cathy Rademacher, Don and Jane Sisung, Roy and Arlene Smith, William and Linda Schrauben, Reynold and Rita George, or at Becker's Menswear in Fowler.

down the court. Fourth quarter play saw some incredible basketball by fathers and sons alike. However, as the game progressed to the last few minutes, referees Anderson and Kingsbury began calling fouls on the slightest "wrong doing." Dad, Dan Findlay, committed two fouls within a sixty-second period just for looking as if he intended to put the ball through the hoop. Coach Findlay quickly sent five more sons into the game, joining the five already on the court. As clock-watcher Jack Davis blew the final whistle of the game, the scoreboard read Parents 43, Children 40.

Fowler tracksters take third in indoor C-D Spartan Relay meet

Fowler's track teams got their 1987 season off on the right foot — and the left foot — by taking third place finishes in the annual Spartan Relays held last week at Jenison Fieldhouse on the campus of Michigan State University.

Participating in the C-D events, the Eagle girls totaled 50 points, finishing on the heels of Bath who had 53 points. Detroit Country Day, three-time Class C state champion, placed first with 71 points. Fowler's boys team tied for third with Flint Hamady, both schools having 42 points. Unionville Sebewaung Area was first with 68 points and Williamston was second with 53 points.

Girls' coach Kim Spalsbury was very happy with his team's performance — especially being the first meet of the year.

"We were happy and surprised with some of the times and distances," Spalsbury said. "It was a nice way to start the season."

Earning first places for the Eagle girls were Shari Schneider with a time of 13:04.3 in the two-mile run, and the distance medley relay team of Mindi Sillman, Lisa Rademacher, Lori Thelen, and Kim Epkey. Their time was 13:39.3 in the event which combines the 800, 400, ¼-mile, and mile runs.

Placing second were the shuttle hurdle relay team of Marcy Sillman, Cathy Schmitz, Rebecca Feldpausch, and Sherine Rowell with a time of 41.7, and Epkey in the mile run at 5:31.4.

Finishing third in the mile relay was the team of Mindi Sillman, Epkey, Marci Sillman, and Sherine Rowell. Their time of 4:21.4 was "outstanding" according to Coach Spalsbury.

"If that time is any indication of things to come, we will definitely do well," the coach said.

Also earning place finishes were the 880 relay team of Marci and Mindi Sillman and Staci and Sherine Rowell, fourth at 1:59.1; Theresa Feldpausch, fourth in shot put at 32' 5"; and Sherine Rowell, fifth in long jump at 14'6".

Running for Coach Neil Hufnagel's boys team, Matt Hufnagel placed second in the 60-yard hurdles with a time of 7.68. Also placing second was the 2-mile relay team at 8:40.23.

Third place finishes went to Jim Thelen in the long jump, 20'4½"; the 880 relay team at 1:39.20; and the mile relay team at 3:38.6.

Both Fowler boys and girls teams had planned to participate in a triangular meet with DeWitt and Bath this Thursday (April 9). That meet has been cancelled due to problems with the track.

The next meet on the Eagle agenda is at Ovid-Elsie on April 13.

Murphy, Eiseler play ball

Mary Murphy and Brenda Eiseler, both 1986 graduates of St. Johns High School, are members of the womens softball team at Saginaw Valley State College. Eiseler is expected to see spot relief duty as a pitcher, while Murphy should see action as a catcher.

Both were three-sport, letter winners during their years at St. Johns. Eiseler, a member of the Lady Cardinals womens basketball team, was one of the 14-members of the team to receive a varsity letter at the conclusion of the 1986-87 season.

New development organization unveils small business program

It is well documented that small businesses create new jobs at a faster rate than any other segment of the economy, reports Bill Dutton, executive director of the Clinton Area New Development Organization.

It is also true that these firms suffer a casualty rate roughly equivalent to that of a World War I assault platoon, he says.

Frequently, the director of CANDO says, small business owners and managers do not have backgrounds or expertise in such varied managerial disciplines as production, marketing, finance, planning and all the other skills necessary for business growth and survival.

For that reason, the Regional Economic Development Team, through CANDO, has created a small business assistance network. CANDO will not provide direct assistance; it will serve as clearing house to direct business people to sources of assistance.

The program will provide assistance in areas such as business plans, advertising and promotion, recordkeeping/accounting, financing, expansion and other problems which confront the small business person.

There is no charge for the service. Funding is provided by the Michigan Department of Commerce.

Bill Schuette gets 'Guardian of Small Business' accolade

Congressman Schuette's voting record is a tribute to his unswerving dedication to entrepreneurship.

To qualify for the award, members of Congress had to support at least 70 percent of the small business issues that were rated. The legislation examined covered a wide range of key small-business issues.

"Receiving this award was indeed a high honor for me," Schuette said. "I agree that small business is the backbone of our economy, and in many cases, of our small communities."

Bill Schuette, congressman from Michigan's 10th Congressional District, recently received the "Guardian of Small Business" award for his support of small business. The award was presented to Schuette by the National Federation of Independent Businesses President John Sloan.

"Rep. Schuette has demonstrated his support for the most important segment of our nation's free enterprise system," Sloan said. "Small business is on the economic cutting edge of America's future and

Enid White selected for Contel Award

Enid White, member of the board of directors of the Clinton-Eaton-Ingham Community Mental Health Board, was recently selected as the recipient of the national 1986 Contel Citizenship Award. She is employed as product manager of the Michigan Government Marketing Division of Contel Business Systems.

Contel Business Systems, one of four sectors of the Contel Company, provides voice communication and data processing products and services for small and medium-sized businesses. In choosing the recipient of the award, Contel looked for diversity of involvement, leadership, direct service, and impact of the individual on their community.

White has been involved in a number of community activities, including: Clinton County clerk, DeWitt Township treasurer, Clinton County Republican chair, president of the American Business Women's Association, member of the board of Michigan Capitol Girl Scouts Council, Girl Scout leader, member of Hope Lutheran Church in DeWitt and secretary of the church council, director of the weekday school at Hope Lutheran, and vice chairperson of budget panel for United Way and a member of the steering committee.

Roehl lines Winter wheat

By Giles Roehl

I've heard much concern from wheat growers about their present wheat crop. The big concern is: Will the late-planted and unemerged wheat produce an average yield? Wheat planted late in the fall, if planted in a good seedbed, often produces excellent yields, and being planted late will escape many of the fall diseases. Although the plants are small when they go into the winter, they do survive.

Long periods of continuous freezing and thawing of the soil in late winter and early spring is the most difficult time for winter wheat. Most of the killing and injury occurs during this period.

The unemerged wheat, if sprouted, will be vernalized and will grow when the soil warms up. Much depends on the methods of planting and the type of seedbed. Loose debris left on the soil's surface will prevent the seeds from entering the soil, thus accounting for a poor stand. Growers may want to consider saving their unemerged wheat fields based on the following:

1. If sprouted last fall the wheat will grow.
2. Unemerged wheat will mature a week to 10 days later.
3. Later maturing wheat is more vulnerable to late season diseases, especially stem rust.
4. May have fewer tillers.

Dr. Joe Clayton, MSU plant pathologist, recommends before applying nitrogen this spring, rate your fields either excellent, good, fair or poor to determine the amount of nitrogen to use. If the weather continues to be warm, the fields can be checked beginning in a couple of weeks and rated according to the following:

1. Excellent — a field with normal growth, very uniform stand, little or no winter killing.
2. Good — the plants may be smaller than normal, and uniform stand and little or no winter killing.
3. Fair — a field with normal or smaller plants; not a uniform stand due to a poor seedbed or winter killing.
4. Poor — plants may be normal, small or very small; a very poor stand due to a poor seedbed, damage from heavy rains last fall, winter killing and looks bad all over.

For fields that fall into the excellent and good categories high amounts of nitrogen can be applied. Fields in the fair category, apply 40 pounds nitrogen to induce tillering and 24 pounds P and K to induce root growth. If the field can be salvaged, apply additional nitrogen later. Fields in the poor category may not be salvageable.

Corner Garden: Over 150,000 trees are planted each year in Clinton County through the efforts of the Clinton County Soil Conservation District. Many of these trees do not reach maturity for a variety of reasons.

Dr. Doug Lantagne, MSU forester, has agreed to provide a special Forestry Workshop, April 9 at 7:30 p.m. in Smith Hall.

Dr. Lantagne will discuss correct planting of trees so they will grow, controlling weeds in the tree plantings, insect identification and control, general care of the woodlot, how to identify the mature tree and a question and answer session.

The workshop will be in cooperation with the Clinton County Soil Conservation District. This session will be good for homeowners and small and large plantation operators. A packet of bulletins will be available at the door for $4 for those who want it. There is no charge for this meeting.

Giles Roehl is the director of the Clinton County Cooperative Extension Service.

Management of alfalfa beats weeds

By RUSTY PLUMMER
Alfalfa Specialist

The economic benefits of weed control in established alfalfa stands definitely are not clear. Weeds can increase drying time in the cut forage and decrease crude protein percentage of the harvested feed.

In an MSU study, four herbicides were compared on their effectiveness of weed control in alfalfa, they were Sencore/Leone (metribizim), Kerb (pronamide), Princep (simezine) and Sinbar (terbacil). The study also looked at the effects the herbicides had on forage yield and measures of forage quality.

The longevity of control from all treatments was poor. Plots which received treatments in 80/81 but not 81/82 showed poor weed control in the 1982 growing season. Plots which were treated in 80/81 and again in 81/82 showed control in 82 similar to, but no better than, in 81. Control was best in a strong stand of alfalfa with very light weed pressure.

In the sites with strong weed pressure, herbicide application resulted in leaving bare areas that filled in with weeds which had not been controlled by the treatment. Control of perennial grasses showed an increase in broadleaf weeds and control of broadleaf weeds led to an increase in perennial grasses.

The effects of herbicide treatments on stand yields were mainly observed in the first cutting. First cutting yields were either reduced or not effected by the herbicides. The stands in which a first cutting yield reduction was observed had a large weed fraction which had been removed by the herbicide, but season total forage yields showed very little difference due to increased alfalfa growth.

In evaluating the effects of the herbicide treatments on forage quality, it was found that protein content was effected the most. Protein increases were observed in most treatments which increased alfalfa yield. In many cases the increases in protein content were accompanied by decreases in the total forage yield of the first cutting.

Calculations of the economic benefits of treatment were based on the increase in protein yield and assigning a value to it on the basis of a comparison to the value of soybean meal. In only two cases did the savings resulting in protein increases exceed the cost of treatment, indicating these treatments cannot be justified on an economic basis based on increases in protein content. Weed control in established fields can only be justified in special situations that demand high quality, weed-free alfalfa hay that demands a price premium, such as race horse hay.

In conclusion, the best method of weed control in alfalfa stands in proper management, maintaining high fertility levels on well-drained soils. This will produce a strong stand that out competes weeds for space in the field, resulting in a relatively weed-free stand of high quality alfalfa.

Alfalfa, forage workshop at Smith Hall on April 15

An alfalfa and forage production workshop will be presented by the Cooperative Extension Service on April 15 from 12:30 to 4 p.m. at Smith Hall in St. Johns.

Topics presented by MSU and area extension specialists will cover seeding establishment, weed control, alternative forage sources and measures of forage quality and weed control in established alfalfa stands.

For further information, call the Extension Office at 224-3288.

Agricultural news Vitamin levels

By Marilyn Loudenslager

We continue to receive questions about our recommended levels of vitamins for dairy cattle. According to H.F. Bucholtz, R.S. Emery, J.W. Thomas and R.A. Patton, dairy cattle nutrition extension specialists, recommendations have not changed for the most part from those in animal science mimeo 20.382, Oct., 1985. The one exception to this would be vitamin E, which based on current scientific evidence and field experience, we are now recommending at levels of 300 international units per head per day for all classes of dairy animals.

Because guidelines for vitamin supplementation for mature cows are still incomplete, our recommendations are based not only on NRC but also current research and field experience. As such they may change from time to time. The feeding of B vitamins, including niacin, is discouraged except under special circumstances. The efficiency of routine feeding of any of the B vitamins is still yet to be proven. In fact, most studies show no effect for B vitamin supplementation. Tim Johnson, agent in St. Clair-Macomb counties, has completed a field trial with niacin supplementation and found absolutely no effect.

Likewise, routine B-carotene supplementation is not recommended. The great body of scientific evidence indicates that adequate supplementation with vitamin A will maintain health, production and reproduction as well as B-carotene and will do this at a significantly lower cost. The condition of vitamin D toxicity or hypervitaminosis D continues to plague dairy farmers who feed relatively high amounts of vitamin D to their cows.

As you know, the National Research Council is planning to raise the recommended amounts of vitamins and minerals in dairy rations. Our present guidelines for both vitamins and minerals appear to be at or above the proposed NRC guidelines.

Obviously, there are special circumstances when B vitamins or high levels of fat-soluble vitamins would be prescribed for relatively short times. This, however, is best left to those individuals who have both the training and experience necessary to understand both the physiologic and economic consequences of such recommendations.

While we realize that adequate amounts of vitamins and minerals are required by dairy cattle, we feel strongly that those are minor elements in a balanced nutrition program. The basic feed deficiencies when dealing with high producing cattle continue to be lack of energy and sufficient dry matter intake. Feeding excessive amounts of vitamins and minerals contribute little to the overall energy balance of dairy cattle.

Listed below is our current recommendations of vitamin A, D, and E. Further recommendations are available at the extension office.

Rep. says more farm funds needed

Additional funding for the farm credit system and disaster loan program were two priorities emphasized by U.S. Rep. Bill Schuette when he spoke to 200 members of the Dairy Herd Improvement Association at their awards luncheon held recently at Michigan State University.

A member of the house agriculture committee, Schuette said that during the past two years, the farm credit system has had shortfalls of $4.6 billion and is now in need of additional funding.

"We need an injection of capital into the farm credit system now, so we can minimize hardships," Schuette said. "Let's not let the farm credit system topple or falter.

"The farm credit system and private agricultural banks are under great portfolio stress. The farm credit system is charging higher interest rates, so good borrowers are leaving. This means more people are putting more stress on the portfolio."

Schuette added that rural agricultural banks are feeling the same pressure as the farm credit system, and said that the first step in shoring up the system is direct injection of federal dollars. The second step is to institute a funding system similar to the Fannie-May or Jenny-May programs with securities sold to a second dary market to raise capital.

The congressman also said he had introduced legislation to add an additional $135 million to the disaster relief fund so farmers can receive dollar-for-dollar compensation for flood damage. The bill has been approved by the House and is now in the hands of the Senate.

Floodstricken Michigan

farmers have received $35.9 million in flood relief so far.

Schuette also expressed the need for stability in government farm policies and favors the establishment of a rural development administration, similar to programs supporting urban areas that would broaden and diversify the economic base of rural America.

Conservation corner Stewardship

By Eileen Gillespie

The Clinton Soil Conservation District is encouraging local churches, organizations, and individuals to join the nationwide observance of Soil and Water Stewardship Week, May 24-31.

The local district, which promotes soil and water conservation measures throughout the year, is providing literature that draws attention to the need for help, hope, and healing to bind the economic and resource wounds on America's farms.

Better export program needed, says Schuette

Support for an agenda on agriculture trade policy was announced by Michigan congressman Bill Schuette at a recent news conference in Washington.

The agenda calls for expansion of the export enhancement program and a commitment by the administration to make agriculture products a top priority in negotiations. The agriculture committee could offer amendments to HR 3, the Omnibus Trade Bill, to further address the issue in the near future. In addition, the agenda suggests additional sales of wheat to the Soviet Union.

"Since 1981, U.S. agriculture exports have dropped $18 billion," Schuette said.

"Considering the incredible surpluses we have, it seems incomprehensible that we are not attempting to open more avenues of agricultural trade with our partners, including grain sales to the Soviet Union."

"American farmers are more than capable of competing one-on-one with farmers anywhere in the world. Unfortunately, the fact remains, they are competing with foreign governments and it is time we take action to correct this inequity."

Stanley Baird, chairman of the Clinton Soil Conservation District, said the survival and welfare of farmers and the land they till must be a matter of deep concern to all people.

"While the grain bins are now full and there is no shortage of fiber and building materials, we all need to be reminded of the serious loss that could result from damage to our basic natural resources — soil, water, and air," Baird said.

Since 1955 the National Association of Conservation Districts has sponsored Soil and Water Stewardship Week, in cooperation with nearly 3,000 conservation districts, as one way to emphasize the importance of good stewardship of basic soil and water resources.

Materials especially designed to carry the 1987 theme, "Help, Hope, and Healing," will be distributed by the Clinton Soil Conservation District to area churches and may be obtained by calling the district office, before April 10, during business hours at 306 Elm St., St. Johns, 224-8769.

Remember the Clinton Conservation Tillers Club will meet on April 8 at noon at the Road House Restaurant in St. Johns. Hope to see you there!

Eileen Gillespie is the administrative assistant for the Clinton Soil Conservation District.

Pump Installations and Repairs are a Job for Certified Pump Installers

Looking for a pump for a new or existing water well? Or do you just need some repair work on your present one? If the answer is yes to either one, your next move should be to call a certified pump installer. Each certified installer has been tested by the National Water Well Association on his ability and knowledge to install, troubleshoot, and repair water pumps. Only those who have successfully completed the examination are permitted to display the symbol of a certified drilling contractor. Look for the emblem of confidence. Call this certified pump installer.

Barniste Lodge reports: Jarnice Dance coming April 25

By JOANNE FURNUSEK

The March 8 meeting of ZCBJ 225 was called to order by president Bob Ladiski. Secretary and treasurer reports were read and approved.

A warm fraternal welcome was extended to six new members: Peter, Paul, and AnnMarie Remenar, Ryan Bates, and Angela Turner. A letter was received from the Equipment Locker thanking the lodge for its monetary donation. A post card from Bro. Rudy and Sis.

Marcella Doubrava told of their trip to Florida. Sis. Mildred Bradley reminded members to keep a written account of their fraternal acts so she can report them to the home office. Bro. Tom Bradley gave a report on the district meeting held in Owosso. Bro. Eddy Fornusek Sr. and Sis. Anna Dunay were released to their district offices. Sis. Joanne Furnusek reported that 22 members took part in the CPR class sponsored by the lodge. Members thanked her and Bro. Bob Ladiski for teaching the class.

Bro. Mike Stambersky gave a report on the paint job done on the hall's interior. Bro. Ladiski presented a gold star award and a check for $200 to the lodge from the fraternal activities committee. Plans were finalized for the Jaternice Dance scheduled for April 25. Members are reminded that the April 12 meeting will begin at 10:30 a.m. It will be followed by a potluck dinner and program honoring 50-year members and initiating new members. Get-well wishes were sent to Stephanie Studenka and Mary Reha. Hope you are both doing much better. Best wishes for a happy birthday to Ramona Bradley, Sarah Bradley, Martha Maxa, and Joanne Fornusek. Following the meeting, members enjoyed a potluck lunch and had their blood pressure checked. The Tom Bradley family donated a Michigan Sesquicentennial flag to the lodge.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 15

Clinton Memorial Hospital Auxiliary meets at 7 p.m. in the conference center at the hospital.

Clinton County 4-H members were among 12- to 15-year-olds attending the Michigan 4-H Dairy Conference held at the Kellogg Biological Station near Battle Creek last week.
The purpose of the conference was to build leadership, self-awareness and self-esteem in participants while giving them an opportunity for hands-on experience. Workshop segments were held at the station's dairy research and education center, which features high-tech methods of milk production, and the farm learning center, a traditional dairy operation.
For further information about the conference or other 4-H dairy programs, call the Extension Office at 224-3288.

100 4-H members model clothes at 4-H Winter Wind-up style revue

The annual Clinton County 4-H style revue was held on March 28 as part of the 4-H Winter Wind-up program. Over 100 4-H'ers modeled garments they had made during the fall and winter.

Members were divided into appropriate age groups and winners were chosen from each division.

Dress revue pin winners were: Lisa Hibbler, Shari Rehmann, Monica Horak, Melissa Pline, Sarah Sinke, Jessica Koenigskecht, Emily

Randolph, Sarah Piggott, Monica Vitek, Wendy Schafer, Jami Thelen, Erin Rice, Rachel Luna, Gwen Bertram, Shari Thelen, Sandy Hengesbach, Jodi Pettigrew, Mellissa Kusnier, Suzette Moore,

Deborah Patrick, Jill Hayes, Emily Sinke, Bethany Twitchell, Jill Thelen, Cindy Schmitt,

Robin Pung, Michelle Mohney, Brandy Smith, Kim Nash, Cindy Schafer, Mary Thelen, Beth Spitzley, Amy Platte, Shirley Thelen and Jenny

Receiving rosettes and special honors in each of the junior and senior divisions were:

Brandy Smith, Emily Sinke, Michelle Mohney, Robin Pung, Bethany Twitchell, Jill Thelen, Kim Nash, Jenny Kissane, Beth Spitzley, Amy Platte, Mary Thelen, and Shirley Thelen.

Each of the division winners will participate in the East Central Region Fashion Show on May 16 at the Hampton Square Mall in Bay City.

Top stylists for the day were Emily Sinke in the junior division and Mary Thelen in the senior division. Emily, daughter of Michael and Janet Sinke of St. Johns, modeled a mint green, flowered dress.

Mary modeled an indigo blue floral print shirt, jacket, pants, skirt and white top. She is the daughter of Charles and Sue Thelen of Portland.

All revue winners will be invited to model in a special fashion show during the 4-H fair in August.

Clover clippings Horse industry

By Theresa Silm

Are horses big business in Michigan? You bet — especially racehorses! 4-H'ers involved in the Michigan 4-H Standardbred Production Project are discovering that horses are more than a luxury item. They're serious business.

The purpose of the Standardbred Project is to teach young people about the Michigan Standardbred racing industry. Since the program began in 1980, 4-H members have raised 146 horses.

"The Standardbred production project gives 4-H members a rare opportunity to learn about the economics and career possibilities in the harness racing industry," says John Aylsworth, Michigan 4-H program leader and project coordinator.

Qualified 4-H members are chosen by the 4-H Standardbred Advisory Committee to receive weaning Standardbred foals to raise for one year. The foals are provided by members of the Michigan Standardbred Breeders' Association. Clinton County members who have been involved in the past have found it an excellent experience.

A number of educational workshops are held around the state to better acquaint 4-H members with the Standardbred industry. Topics include proper health care, exercise and feeding practices, breeding and harness racing industry careers. Participants also keep detailed records of their horses' growth and development, as well as detailed expense records.

At the end of the program, the yearlings are sold at a recognized Michigan Harness Horseman's Association sale. The 4-H members receive up to $1,000 for documented expenses plus the remaining one-third of the selling price. The breeder who donated the horse to the program receives the other two-thirds.

The Michigan 4-H Standardbred Production Project is jointly sponsored by the Michigan Harness Horseman's Association, the Michigan 4-H Standardbred Breeders' Association and the Michigan

Cooperative Extension Service.

"The relationships established through this project have led to the development of a national model for involving young people in an important aspect of the horse industry," Aylsworth said. "It also helps the horse industry satisfy its needs for young animals raised by 4-H families."

The Michigan 4-H Standardbred Production Project can be an important step in providing valuable career opportunities to Michigan's young people. For more information or applications, contact the Cooperative Extension Service Office at 224-3288. Registration deadline for the 1987-88 Standardbred Production Project is May 1, 1987.

Theresa Silm is the 4-H youth agent for the Clinton County Cooperative Extension Service.
