Clarification

The article last week about traffic accidents in St. Johns, although factually correct, may have given some readers the erroneous impression that Linda Moore was at fault in the accident she was involved in.

The article should have noted that the driver of the other car, Marcia Moore, was ticketed for failure to yield.

Farmers Market

ST. JOHNS — With the 1987 growing season comes, once again, the Farmers Market sponsored by the St. Johns Area Chamber of Commerce.

Commencing July 11, the market will be held each Saturday from 8 a.m. until noon on Maple Street, next to the Clinton County Courthouse in downtown St. Johns. There will be no market on Mint Festival Saturday, August 8, unless an alternative site is found.

The market features homegrown produce and other homemade items.

Sidewalk Sale coming

ST. JOHNS — The St. Johns Area Chamber of Commerce announced last week that the city-wide sidewalk sale will be held this summer on July 23, 24, and 25.

"St. Johns merchants are planning an even bigger and better sale and shoppers are promised bargains galore for the three day event," says the chamber.

Non-profit clubs and organizations that wish to use sidewalk space or that wish to announce an event, should call Joann Martin at the chamber office, 224-7248.

The sidewalk sale committee consists of Bob Rehmann of Rehmann's Clothing and Levi Shop, Catherine Ellsworth of Clothesworks, and Lynn Weber of Hub Tire Center.

Bon voyage Lions Band

ST. JOHNS — After months of preparation, fundraising and practice, 179 members of the Michigan Lions All-State Band on Sunday departed St. Johns bound for the Orient.

On Saturday evening the band, consisting of members from all over Michigan, performed a going-away concert at the St. Johns High School athletic field. The band pleased the enthusiastic, standing-room-only crowd with such rousing renditions as Marvin Gaye's "Heard It Through the Grapevine," complete with dancing raisins.

On hand for the occasion were Lions officials from all over the state; Eugene Staelens, who organized the band 10 years ago; and Michigan Rep. Gary Randal and Rep. Francis Spaniola, who joined Paul Martin, an executive assistant to Gov. James Blanchard, in praising the band and its supporters.

Directed by former St. Johns band director Walter Cole, the All-State Lions Band will perform in Hong Kong, China, Taiwan and Hawaii. About 30 members of the band are from Clinton County.

New school budget: Scrape bottom in '88

St. Johns Public Schools will scrape the bottom of its financial barrel in order to operate for the 1987-88 school year, according to a budget presented to the Board of Education June 22.

"We're biting into our fund equity to the tune of $738,405," said Asst. Supt. Gordon Vandemark.

Expenditures are projected to climb $869,471 compared to the previous year. Total expenditures are budgeted at $11,288,130. Revenues are expected to equal $10,489,725. The difference between the two — $738,405 — is the amount the school district expects to have to use of its fund equity, the "savings" of the school district.

On June 30, 1988, the school district expects to have a fund equity of $95,658, down from $834,063 on June 30, 1987.

The increased expenditures, Vandemark said, include carry-over costs from the purchase this year of special education vans, the hiring of three special education teachers mandated by the state, purchase of a new relocatable classroom for Perrin-Palmer Elementary, and a 19.3 percent increase in the cost of health insurance.

Vandemark said the financial picture could improve if the state legislature increases state aid compared to previous years or if student enrollment does not decline as much as projected. State aid to schools increases with the number of students enrolled in any given school district.

"Right now there is hope there will be some increase in the state aid formula," he said. "And there is some hope our enrollment will hold."

Fire strikes Mt. Rest Cemetery building

Equipment destroyed but office still in use

Fumes from leaking tractor fuel were ignited by a furnace pilot light and exploded into a blaze that destroyed the Mt. Rest Cemetery building in St. Johns Thursday evening.

Cemetery Superintendent Dave Miller estimated the loss at $60,000 to $75,000. The building was not occupied when the fire broke out and there were no injuries.

The building housed a maintenance garage and the cemetery office. Cemetery records were locked in a fireproof safe in the office and survived the fire. Although cemetery officials say the building will likely be torn down and a new one built, the office portion of the building is being used temporarily.

Lost in the blaze were four riding lawnmowers, four trim mowers, one farm tractor and a number of other pieces of maintenance equipment.

"The tools are a total loss — everything we use to maintain the cemetery," said Miller.

St. Johns Fire Chief Clare Maier said the fire started when fumes from a leaking tractor fuel tank were drawn into the furnace through hot air ducts. The fumes were ignited by the furnace pilot light, he said.

The explosion blew a heavy double-pane window out of the building and onto the road beside the building, said Miller. The alarm fire alarm sounded at 9:56 p.m. St. Johns firemen were on the scene until approximately 1 a.m.

Miller had words of praise for the response and skill of the St. Johns Fire Department in fighting the blaze. He noted that firemen had to contend with burning rubber in the garage as well as the burning rubber and fuel from the equipment.

Cemetery Board President John

CLEANING UP — A Mt. Rest Cemetery employee hauls away one of four riding lawnmowers destroyed by fire last Thursday.

Caudy said the fire insurance will cover the cost of rebuilding. However, he said, the insurance will not cover the cost of replacing all the lost equipment. He noted that one of the riding lawnmowers lost in the blaze was only four weeks old.

The cemetery board of directors was to meet Monday to decide on a plan of action, said Caudy.

"We'll probably go ahead and rebuild right on the spot," he said.

Replacing equipment will have to be done gradually, he said.

"We'll just go slow and get rebuilt back up again," he said. "It'll take us longer to get things done, but we'll get it."

HOSPICE — Volunteers and staff often discuss how to meet the needs of terminally ill patients and their families. Shown here are volunteer Colleen Koenigsnecht, Volunteer Coordinator Marilyn Newman and volunteer Iris Smith.

Hospice for Clinton serves better with first certification in region

Sylvia Woodburne was 2,000 miles away in California when she learned her mother, Margaret Paige, was dying in St. Johns. There were no other family members nearby to provide help and comfort to her mother.

Woodburne needed time to arrange to leave her job and other responsibilities — but her mother needed care immediately.

The answer to the dilemma came in the form of Hospice for Clinton County, a Clinton Memorial Hospital Home Health Care program. Since it was formed in 1982 it has served 125 terminally ill patients and their families. Recently it became the first hospice in the tri-county area to become certified by the State of Michigan. Under the new certification, a terminally ill Medicare patient with a prognosis of six months or less can choose to participate in the program.

Sylvia Woodburne and her mother Margaret Paige were the first to benefit from the certification.

"Right away, Mom improved like magic," says Woodburne. "The emotional comfort of being home, all the small things really helped. The main thing was that with all of the support people involved and with things happening in a normal way, at home, we had the opportunity to do things right, right from the beginning."

HOSPICE care addresses the physical, emotional and spiritual needs of both the terminally ill patient and the family of the patient. Medical services provided for the patient under the new certification include medication and in-home counseling.

In addition to the professional services included in the program, trained volunteers provide a whole range of other services intended to make life easier for the patient and family. That could include anything from doing housework to simply sitting and talking.

"Anything Margaret wanted, I did," says Colleen Koenigsnecht, a retired nurse who volunteered for the hospice because she missed her profession. In her case, she talked with Margaret Paige, manicured her nails, and brushed her hair.

Sylvia Woodburne, after arranging for a leave of absence from her job, found caring for a homebound patient can be stressful. Hospice provides "respite" to the families of terminally ill patients.

"After a while, I started feeling homebound too, and they found someone to keep me company and help out," she recalls.

Volunteer Koenigsnecht said that on some visits she spent the entire time with Sylvia.

"It's like taking a deep breath and going back in again," says Koenigsnecht, describing how respite care can help.

If it were not for the hospice, many patients like Margaret Paige would be in nursing homes, says Koenigsnecht.

"That I could be involved in her care and that she died in such a natural fashion — for that I'll be eternally grateful," says Sylvia Woodburne. "This was the best way to have it."

Teacher of the Year is Joyce Caulkins

Teacher, parents and students working together to teach children how to listen and how to take responsibility for learning — this is the winning combination, says Joyce Caulkins.

A fifth grade teacher at Eureka Elementary, Caulkins is the winner of the St. Johns Teacher of the Year Award.

For an even simpler expression of her philosophy of teaching she turns to the words of one of her fifth graders, Jessica Mitchell.

"And in this fifth grade we're a team," wrote Jessica in a letter to the fourth grade. "We work together."

"I think that succinctly captures a big piece of my philosophy," says Caulkins.

Caulkin was chosen for the Teacher of the Year Award by the Education Advisory Council from a list of five candidates nominated by the teachers of the school district. Winning the award, she says, is not only a tribute to herself but to all of education.

"We work together as a team — children, parents and teacher," she says. "I am most appreciative of the wonderful parent support in this community."

WHAT MAKES her own style of teaching unique, says Caulkins, is her method of classroom management and discipline.

"I believe in involving my students in establishing classroom etiquette," she explains. "We come to an agreement about consequences and accepting responsibility for their own choices."

With this agreement in place, she says, teacher and students are free to concentrate on the classroom material.

"It's also important to keep your sense of humor ever ready and to be willing to laugh with your kids," she says.

Caulkins says she inherited her love of learning and teaching from her parents. Her father was a teacher and her mother, who died when Joyce was 16, encouraged her to do well in school.

"I have a personal love for learning and a genuine fondness for kids and people," she says. Caulkins says her family works as a team as well. She and her husband, Bruce, have a son, Rob, stationed with the Air Force in England and a daughter, Jennifer, a student at Lansing Community College.

Joyce Caulkins

"Because of their combined encouragement and patience I am freed up to dedicate extra time to my teaching," she says.

Children shouldn't be able to buy condoms

To the Editor:

Chastity means sexual abstinence — "no sex." It is the only 100 percent guarantee of not getting pregnant. "While no contraceptive provides 100 percent protection..." is noted on a box of condoms.

Most, if not all, drug stores sell condoms and have "no age limit" on who to sell to. As far as I know, my nine-year-old can buy them. Sound sick? Sounds sick to me.

It is illegal for an adult to have sex with a minor but it is not illegal for a minor to have sex with a minor. If it is illegal, why are minors allowed to receive contraceptives for sexual use? If parents want their children to use contraceptives to prevent AIDS, who is going to guarantee they won't get AIDS by swapping spit or french kissing? No one can guarantee anything about AIDS.

Sex is a privilege, not a right. If it was a right, rape would not be illegal. I hope someone can make more sense out of this than I can. God help us.

It's evasion not to mention the alternatives

To the Editor:

Thank you for your excellent interview with Joe Latoff in the June 9 edition. It would have been exceedingly easy to accept the platitudes of school officials regarding the sex education policy recently developed in St. Johns but you went out of your way to print a dissenting opinion, which will prove controversial probably because it makes so much good sense.

A sex education program that makes no mention of contraception methods and alternatives, much less direct counseling or provisions of means, isn't a program or a policy at all, but simply an evasion of responsibility. Hats off to Joe Latoff and to the Clinton County News for daring to go out on a limb for a sound public policy based on reality, not fantasy and nostalgia.

Column was inaccurate, had bad advice

To the Editor:

Recently you ran a piece in your Agricultural News column by Marilyn Loudenslager entitled "Oil Leases." It contained inaccuracies and, in our opinion, bad advice.

Seismic (we also suggest the editor consult a dictionary the next time this topic is addressed) surveying can be done using techniques which do not cause damage to tile lines, despite being in close proximity to them. Also, seismic contracting companies are quite willing to pay for crop damage, although damage can generally be avoided. We know of no instance where land owners have been paid anything close to $10/rod for crossing fees. In fact, crossing fees per se are quite uncommon in Michigan.

Landowners should understand that, in order for them to receive oil and gas royalty payments, oil and gas must be produced from the subsurface beneath their property or property nearby. Oil companies will not undertake the drilling of a well until they have seismic information on the prospect property. If a landowner prevents the gathering of seismic information on his property, he also condemns any prospects he might have for collecting what could turn out to be lucrative and long lasting royalty payments.

While we would not purport to be experts on the negotiation of oil and gas leases, we would like to point out that the article overlooked a basic tenet in the consideration of any contract involving larger sums of money: if not sure of a contract's provisions, consult an attorney.

When considering a crossing permission request from a seismic contractor, we believe the landowner should:

1. Consider whether the contractor is based in Michigan; out-of-state contractors can behave less responsibly at times if they believe their tenure in the state may be short.
2. If unsure, request the contractor to supply references, local if possible, of other landowners it has crossed.
3. Ask for the name of the person responsible for the activities of the seismic crew that will be on the property; know how to contact that person immediately so that any unwanted actions or activities may be quickly stopped.
4. If the landowner is concerned about the potential of substantial property damage, discuss with the contractor his insurance and/or bonding coverage.

We appreciate the opportunity to better inform your readers.

Dominos treats Big Brothers/Big Sisters

To the Editor:

Twenty-one children and four staff from Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Clinton County spent an afternoon eating Domino's Pizza.

What made this so special was that the children got to make the pizza themselves. The children paired up and slapped, poked and stretched the dough. Then they spread the sauce and added mountains of cheese, sausage, pepperoni and ham. Blake Davis, the manager, then placed the pizzas in the oven and the children had a chance to ask questions.

A short time later, out of the oven came piping hot pizza! The pizzas were boxed up and the kids were given a glass of pop and headed to the back to enjoy.

Thanks to Dominos and Manager Blake Davis for opening up for us and giving some special kids the opportunity to see how pizzas are made.

Again, thanks for supporting Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Clinton County.

"It's in the Bag"
by Bob Beck

"As American as apple pie," is as familiar as the dessert it immortalizes. While countless Americans rate apple pie as their all-time favorite dessert, many other Americans fancy different fruit pies.

It's a grand old American tradition... the fruit pie. In fact, before the days of liberated womanhood, the June bride was considered unproven in her cooking ability until she had proudly presented her new husband with a fresh-baked pie.

Now, of course, the June bridegroom is just as likely to bake as his wife. And absolutely everyone can celebrate the fruit season by baking pies. So bring on the rhubarb, strawberries, currants, blueberries, raspberries, cherries, peaches, pears, apricots, plums... and of course - apples.

Speaking of apples, did you know that apple pie has been served at Yale College during dinner for well over a hundred years. And although it may seem strange to some, it is quite common throughout New England to enjoy apple pie for breakfast.

Yes, bake a pie, even if you've never done so before. Fruit pie baking is just too much a part of our national tradition to miss trying it. Even if you're timid the first time out, Beck's has a fine selection of frozen shells available. I know, slipping in the commercial down here every week --- takes a lot of "crust."

Editor's notes

Old stories

By Rich Wertz

The best ideas come from the readers:

A couple of months ago Oliver Gillespie of St. Johns walked into the Clinton County News office with a suggestion. Why not, he said, publish photographs of Clinton County's past during this year of the Michigan Sesquicentennial?

It was a good suggestion. Every time we publish a page of historical photographs, it inspires another flood of submissions. The project really seems to have struck a chord with some people.

Our last historical photo page, on June 9, included a picture of a horse-drawn mailwagon. Martha Shipman, who lives on Looking Glass Lane near Wacousta, stopped by the County News office after seeing the photo. She carried a copy of the Lansing State Republican published March 5, 1862. In it was printed a list of mail routes. The major route from Lansing to Clinton County left the larger city at 5 a.m., travelled through DeWitt and Olive, and arrived in St. Johns at 11 a.m.

"This must have been the horse and wagon, I just have to believe," said Mrs. Shipman.

Mrs. Shipman also had an ancient copy of the New York Tribune, which, while not of much local historical significance, did have one interesting aspect.

"This one continues from the back page onto the front page," she commented, pointing to one article in particular. "That's different."

ANOTHER interesting story walked into the office in the person of Gordon Waggoner, who lives out in Eureka. He carried a picture postcard of Eureka's Main Street in the horse and buggy days. We haven't printed it yet but we will.

The really interesting thing about the postcard is the manner in which Mr. Waggoner took possession of it. "Eureka" is Spanish for "I found it." During World War II, Mr. Waggoner was serving with a hospital evacuation unit in Europe. His sergeant thought it absolutely hilarious that someone would hail from a town called Eureka.

"He kept saying, 'I found it! I found it! You live in I found it!'" recalls Mr. Waggoner.

In 1943 the unit was stationed in Germany. One day the sergeant yelled, "Eureka! Come over here."

He had found it. The picture postcard of Eureka was found in Germany by a sergeant who thought Eureka was a funny name for a town and who gave it to a soldier from Eureka.

Poem tells of thoughts of elderly woman

To the Editor:

I have a deep respect for the elderly. Our heritage has been handed down by them. What a great responsibility lies upon parents to instill God-given values in their children.

Elderly people have so much wisdom to share with us, if we but listen.

The following poem was found in a bed locker of a woman who died in a nursing home. I'd like to share it with your readers:

What do you see, nurses, what do you see?
Are you thinking when you are looking at me:
A crabby old woman, not very wise,
Uncertain of habit with far away eyes
Who dribbles her food and makes no reply
When you say in a loud voice, "I do wish you'd try."
Who seems not to notice the things that you do
And forever is losing a stocking or shoe.
Who, unresisting or not, let you do as you will
With bathing and feeding, the long day to fill
Is that what you're thinking? Is that what you see?
I'll tell you who I am as I sit her so still
As I move at your bidding, as I eat at your will,
I'm a small child of ten with a father and mother,
Brothers and sisters who love one another.
A young girl of sixteen with wings on her feet
Dreaming that soon now a lover she'll meet.
A bride soon at twenty, my heart gives a leap.

Remembering the vows that I promised to keep,
At twenty-five now I have young of my own
Who need me to build a secure, happy home.
A woman of thirty, my young now grow fast,
Bound to each other with ties that should last.
At forty, my young sons now grown will be gone,
But my man stays beside me to see I don't mourn.
At fifty, once more babies play 'round my knee.
Again, we know children, my loved one and me.

Dark days are upon me, my husband is dead.
I look to the future, I shudder with dread.
For my young are all busy rearing young of their own,
And I think of the years and the love that I've known,
I'm an old woman now and nature is cruel,
'Tis her jest to make old age look like a fool.
The body crumbles, grace and vigor depart.
There is a stone where I once had a heart.
But inside this old carcass a young girl still dwells,
And now and again my battered heart swells —
I remember the joys, I remember the pain,
And I'm loving and living life all over again.
And I think of the years all too few — gone too fast —
And accept the stark fact that nothing will last.
So open your eyes, nurses, open and see
Not a crabby old woman, look closer — "See me!"

Peppermint Patty to drop in Talking Mint!

THINKING MINT — Mint Festival boosters Skip Hughes and Joann Martis display various mint items that will become highly visible around St. Johns this week. Martis... "Full swing." The streets will become graced by St. Johns Mint Festival banners. Festival supporters obtain a souvenir by purchasing a miniature Mint Festival flag for $1.50, or a large Mint Festival Flag for $50 ($75 with logo on both sides) or a Mint Festival mug for $4. Businesses — don't forget to buy your $10 Mint Festival support sign.

Something new will drop in on the St. Johns Mint Festival this year, August 8-9. But don't hold your breath...yet.

The event will be called the Peppermint Patty Plop. Sponsored by the St. Johns Kiwanis, the event involves dividing the St. Johns football field into squares. People wager a little money on particular squares. A cow ambles onto the field. Eventually the cow chooses one of the squares.

Got it? There is in photography a concept known as "the crucial moment" — the one instant at which the event being photographed can best be captured.

Newspaper photographers usually strive to capture the crucial moment. They will not do so for the Peppermint Patty Plop.

ANOTHER EVENT new to the festival this year will be a series of children's games at the Southpoint Mall. Funds will be used to combat muscular dystrophy.

One the loss side of the ledger, we must observe that the popular Mint Twin Contest will not be back this year. It seems it has fallen by the wayside for lack of a chairperson.

Also, the Hot Air Balloon rides once scheduled for Hazel I. Findlay Country Manor did not get off the ground for the festival this year.

However, the Pewamo-Westphalia Players will make an appearance with their production of "Our American Cousin."

And the Mint Festival will have its own information booth this year, thanks to Central Michigan Lumber and its donation of the materials needed to build the booth.

MEANWHILE, behind the scenes, the Mint Festival Committee is going into high gear in the home stretch before the festival. The committee last week held its seventeenth meeting in preparation of the 1987 festival.

"We're gearing up," says Chamber of Commerce Director Joann Martis. "Full swing."

Sometime this week, the streets of St. Johns will become graced by St. Johns Mint Festival banners. Car leasing

By Dawn Harris

Do you believe the best car is one that is paid for? Over the next five years, borrowers will lose the tax deductibility of interest paid on consumer loans. That makes leasing more attractive. Interest paid on a qualifying home equity loan remains fully tax deductible, but many consumers don't want to use a house as security for a loan to buy a car.

Why borrow? Why lease? You can't generalize about borrowing versus leasing costs. You have to compare specific loans and leases to be able to say one is cheaper than the other. Here are the pros and cons.

When you borrow, your downpayment and loan payments build equity, a form of forced savings. This equity has cash value when you sell your car or trade it in. The owner of a "paid for" is freed of monthly payments. A lessee faces them indefinitely.

On the other hand, leasing is ideal for people who like to trade cars before they need major maintenance. Payments are based on the expectation that a car will be worth 25-40 percent of its purchase price when the lease ends. Cars normally depreciate to that range in 3-6 years.

As a rule of thumb, if you keep a car less than 6½ years, the economics favor leasing. Government data show the typical lifetime of a U.S. car is 12 years.

Leasing is also ideal for people who need a car and a maximum cash flow. You avoid a large downpayment. You also arrange smaller periodic payments. Dollar for dollar, you can get more care with a lease than a loan. Of course, lower payments may tempt you into adding costly options you don't need.

Dawn Harris is the home economist for the Clinton County Cooperative Extension Service.

Riley third graders make Sesqui quilt

Students in Mrs. Wood's third grade class at Riley Elementary School made a sesquicentennial quilt which was hung in the Riley Library during a special ceremony attended by parents and friends of the students.

Each child was given a 13-inch by 13-inch square. With assistance from parents or grandparents, they designed their square using Michigan themes. The squares were returned to the classroom along with stories about how their project was accomplished.

Several mothers volunteered to sew the squares together and prepare backing for the quilt. Students joined the mothers to tie off the quilt and prepare it for hanging on the library wall. The quilt will remain on display in the library.

Children attend an unusual Bible School

Pilgrim United Methodist has Marketplace 29 A.D.

The smell of baking bread wafted through the air. The baa-baa of goats could be heard, along with the laughter of children. Amid the swirling hustle and bustle a group of children danced and sang. Somewhere among the robed figures in this busy marketplace was Jesus of Nazareth. The literal time and place was Pilgrim United Methodist Church near St. Johns — but the time and place in spirit was a busy market place in the Holy Land in the year 29 A.D. Pilgrim United opted for an unconventional Bible School this summer. Instead of the usual classroom-style school, the church grounds, from 8 a.m. until noon each weekday last week, became a re-creation of the type of environment that Jesus grew up in. The sights and smells, the rituals, the costumes, even the games played by the children, were intended to make the daily Bible lessons come alive for the 100 pre-school to sixth graders who participated.

"We're teaching them to appreciate the way Jesus grew up," said Diane Powelson, coordinator of the Bible School. She explained that the kids were divided into different "tribes," approximating the 12 tribes of Israel. This was not done by age group, as would be done in a conventional Bible school, but in the style of a family — each group consisted of a range of ages. Each group was headed by one "tent mother."

"The families make a big difference — the bonding that can happen with the kids," said Diane, who recalls knowing that the program was working when she looked out a window and saw a sixth grader giving a younger child a ride on her back.

Each day of the Bible School began with singing in the sanctuary. Then it was "tent time" and each family went into their tents for Bible lessons led by their tent mother. Afterwards, everyone went to the marketplace for crafts, bread baking, story telling, drama, games — at any one time there were at least a dozen activities going on.

The children themselves, if asked what they liked about the Bible school, were inclined to talk about the craftmaking and other marketplace activities.

"It's great," said John Rustad, sixth grade. "There's a lot of things you can do."

The morning Bible lesson had left an impression on young Renae Martens.

"In our tent we pour water into a cup and say a verse," she said. "We smell spices and say a verse. Then we say 'Mazeltoy'."

Tent mothers who participated praised the program, originally developed at a Methodist Church in Stevensville, Michigan.

"The children become more like a family by the end of the week," said Debra Davis. "No one is left out."

"Children understand life in the time of Jesus," said Roxanne Schafer. "They're going to remember it for a long time because they acted in it. I think it really makes them understand that it all happened."

COSTUMES — Pilgrim United Methodist children wore clothing from the time of Jesus during the Marketplace 29 A.D Bible school last TOP — Jill Black pets a miniature horse. Animals played a part in the marketplace in the year 29 A.D. so they were invited to the Bible school.

LEFT — Songs and dances were among the activities during Marketplace 29 A.D.

CHRISTIAN SERVICE — Heather Armbrustmacher, shown here with her parents, Clair and Karen, was awarded the Most Holy Trinity Christian Service Award.

Eighth grader awarded for Christian Service

Heather Armbrustmacher, an eighth grader at the Most Holy Trinity School in Fowler, was presented with the Most Holy Trinity Christian Service Award in memory of Msgr. Albert Koenigsnecht.

The award was established last year in memory of Msgr. Koenigsnecht, who died in an auto accident in Puno, Peru, on February 9, 1986. He had served as a Maryknoll Missionary in Peru for 38 years. Msgr. Koenigsnecht was known as the "Bishop of the Poor" because of his spiritual and material support of the poor and outcast.

The award seeks to recognize the spirit of unselfish, Christian service.

Heather is the daughter of Clair and Karen Armbrustmacher of Townsend Road near St. Johns. She is a leader and worker in many class activities and she always shows a Christian attitude toward her peers, said Most Holy Trinity Principal Stephan Dembowski.

Heather has also been awarded in social studies, religion, spelling, reading and physical education.

Peggy Fox and Sherry Thelen, who won the award last year, set high standards of service to their school and Heather was able to meet those standards, explained Dembowski.

Eureka School garners award

The staff of Eureka School was honored recently for outstanding achievement in promoting health and wellness in their school during the past school year.

Last fall, they entered as a team in a Charter Michigan Wellness contest sponsored by Comerica Incorporation and the Mental Health Association in Michigan.

A $200 award was presented to the school on June 10 for their efforts to inspire their classes to make positive choices for living. Each class participated in creative monthly assignments which were done to heighten the students' awareness of healthy decisions and their effects on their lives.

The culmination of activities was an all-day health fair in March. The Eureka PTO was actively involved in promoting the concept through their funding of an aerobics program and by chairing the "Jump-Rope-For-Heart" marathon.

Award monies will be used for health related projects in the coming school year.

Kicks off June 25

Bath Community Days are coming

If you watch the skies over Bath and Lansing Thursday, June 25, you may see a legend in triplicate. The legend is the Red Baron, the World War I flying ace, barnstorming in a squadron of three red and white open cockpit biplanes.

The nationally recognized Red Baron biplanes fly in formation and perform aerobatic stunts to benefit American's youth. They will be in Bath and Lansing as part of their 1987 tour. The Red Baron Squadron and youth service program are sponsored by Red Baron Pizza Service of Marshall, Minn.

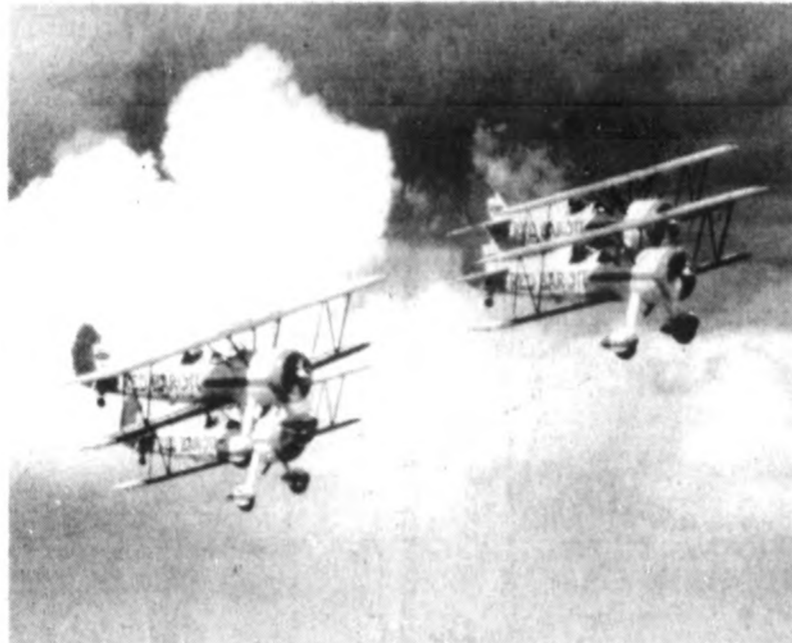

The squadron is in Lansing to benefit the American Cancer Society. Red Baron

Pizza Service will make a donation to the charity and encourage members of the grocery trade and residents of Lansing, to join the effort.

The squadron will be in Bath to celebrate the beginning of Bath Days, which will run June 25 through the 28.

Red Baron Pizza Service is donating five cents to the American Cancer Society for every Red Baron Frozen Pizza sold in Lansing grocery stores from June 14 to 27.

Red Baron Service biplane fundraiser events have raised more than $250,000 for various youth groups and organizations in the last 10 years.

BATH COMMUNITY DAYS ARE COMING — The Red Baron Squadron will be kicking off Bath Days this Thursday, June 25. Bath Days will continue through Sunday with events going on throughout the weekend.

5-52 VISIT — Clinton County students toured the Wurtsmith Air Force Base recently and saw such sights as this B-52. RIGHT — Jim Geskell, manager of the Inland Lakes Management Company, led students on a tour of the Harrison, a freighter.

Kids learn...

Why take science and math?

One thing Allison Kusenda learned was that there are women in the Air Force.

"At first I didn't want to in the Air Force because there are not that many women in it," said the 11-year-old who wants to be an airplane navigator when she grows up. "But then I went there and found out there are."

Allison was one of some 15 Clinton County students who recently went on a field trip sponsored by the Community Resource Volunteers in St. Johns. The trip included couple of marinas, a museum, a retired freighter, and Wurtsmith Air Force Base in Alpena. Several students say it was the Air Force base that left the biggest impression on them.

"They really perked their ears up when they heard a Lieutenant Colonel had been promoted to Colonel," said Bill Richards, CRV director.

Richards explained that the purpose of the trip was to impress upon young minds the importance of taking all the science, math and communication course they can if they want to pursue the type of courses highlighted on the trip.

Allison didn't know about that — she just went because she wants to be a navigator and thought it would be interesting. Asked if she earned good grades in math and science in school, she said: "Sorta — I was in the top ten in my school."

Asked if there was anything that surprised her about the Air Force base, Allison said it was the noise of the big jet planes.

"Some of group who worked there were all calm about it," she said. "They just take out ar plugs and put them on."

Did all that noise discourage her from a career in navigation?

"Oh I suppose I'll get used to it," she said.

Jason McCampbell, a high school sophomore, who helped chaperone the trip, said the younger students enjoyed the trip. "They didn't get bored by any means," he said.

But he believes there was a message included in the fun.

"Everyone stessed to be an officer you have to be a college graduate," he said.

Also helping to chaperone the trip were Sally Coohon, Marsha Putnum and Leona and George Harter.

Busch Series arrives at Crystal Raceway

Late models, pro stocks and IMCA modifieds took to the track at Crystal Raceway over the weekend with all three classes featuring hotly contested races. Racers were often three-abreast fighting for position in the competitive night of action.

Bob Flinn came from his starting fourteenth position to take the late model feature win in the last lap. He edged out Roger Wing by a fender, forcing Wing to settle for second place. Mike Powell placed third.

Late model heat winners were Bobby Lynn and Dick Schively, with Andy Piercefield taking the semi-feature win.

Also starting out in the fourteenth spot was Troy VanderVeen in the pro stock feature. He took the lead on lap 19 and held on for the checkered flag. Finishing second was Gene Carson and Dave Harris placed third.

Area racers trek to Energyfest triathlon

Road races, triathlons, biathlons — all are becoming more and more popular across the country with Clinton County residents taking an active part in events across the state.

A number of St. Johns area residents took part in the Energyfest Triathlon held in Mt. Pleasant last Friday, running "just for the fun of it," as participant Marilyn Irrer said. Irrer and triathlon teammates Ruth Thompson and Becky Kay finished the course in 2 hours, 11 minutes.

Also competing in the team division were Greg St. John, Tom Newhall and Mike Martindale, finishing fourth in the mens team group. Becky Irrer and two Ann Arbor runners placed first in the co-ed team division. Placing sixth among mens teams were Peter and Patrick McNamara and Tom Lewis.

Dan Smith of St. Johns placed fourth overall in the men's individual division and was second in his age group, while Tim Smith finished second in his age group.

Heat winners among the 50 pro stock racers were: Wayne Halteman, John Nobach, Bill Trueblood, Joey Fowler, and Delbert Brigner. Trueblood and Nobach also won the semi-features.

Sam Faur was the heat winner in the IMCA modifieds with Rick Stout winning both the feature and pro suit races.

The second half of the Thornapple Valley Weekend at Crystal Raceway on June 14 was hot and sunny featuring the sprint portion of the weekend's activities.

The fast time went to sprinter Marv Pifer at 14.64. He came in fourth in the dash behind Troy Chehowski with Gary Fedewa taking second and Tim Champlin placing third. Winners in three, eight-lap heats were Bill Tyler, Chuck Wilson and Jerry Caryer.

The weather had cooled off a bit by feature time, but racing action did not. Several sprint cars felt the attrition rate as they came together on the corners and straight-aways. Mark Mead was the winner after starting in the pole position. Rounding out the top five were George McCord, Dave Fox, Gary Fedewa and Chuck Wilson. Bill Tyler put on a real show, improving his 21st starting position to finish in sixth place.

The Marc Times Pro Stock Invitational was sponsored by the Marc Times Racing News and Crystal Raceway. Action was fast, furious and sometimes expensive for the progressive show which forced all but the top qualifiers to earn their way into the feature which paid $500 to the winner.

Fifty-two cars from across the state took part with local points leader Troy VanderVeen winning the trophy and money that went with the checkered flag. Delbert Brigner had won his first Crystal feature of the 1987 season in racing action the night before and led VanderVeen for 20 laps. However, he was forced to settle for second place.

Rusty Seaver took third place in his best feature finish of the season, with the following racers placing in the top ten: Bill Simpson, Roy Doolittle, Rick Sova, Mike Carroll, Nate Britting, Keith Love, and Dan Borgman.

Fast time went to VanderVeen with a dash win to his credit also. Heat winners were Britting, Dave Smith, Don Rohn, Bill Hendricks, and Bill Simpson. Two B-features were held with winners going on to the A-main. Winners of the B-features were Brigner and Bailey.

Both the sprint times and pro stock times will be used to qualify drivers for the Dealers Choice which will be run at Crystal Raceway in late September.

The next sprint qualifier is July 11, with the MSPA Busch Race on June 24 used as a qualifier for late models.

The Busch Series comes to Crystal Raceway tomorrow evening (June 24) in a special Wednesday night of racing. Top late models from every track in the state will run in the series which makes 15 stops statewide throughout the summer. The top 20 pro stocks and 40 late models drivers will be at the track.

Mini Champs, late models and pro stocks are set to race at Crystal in the regular Saturday night events on June 27. Time trials for both Wednesday and Saturday are at 6:30 p.m. with racing getting underway at 7:55 p.m.

GET THAT BALL — Future Redwing basketball player, David Poff, goes after the ball during a practice session of the St. Johns basketball camp last week. Turnout for the camp was higher than past years with St. Johns Coach Keith Haske attributing its success to a change in format with guest speakers and more "fun" time.

SJ cage camp successful

The annual St. Johns Redwing summer basketball camp ended last week with attendance up during each of the two-week sessions.

"Numbers were up from last year both in the younger age groups and at the junior and senior high levels," Redwing Head Coach Keith Haske said. "We tried doing a few things differently this year to make the camp more fun for the players."

First week campers heard guest speaker Steve Schmidt, a Waverly High School graduate who plays for the Washington Generals — the sparring partners of the Harlem Globetrotters. Ron Kramer, Head Coach of the Pewamo-Westphalia varsity cage squad, addressed camp-goers last week.

Other changes in this year's camp were more fun-type activities, including free-time swimming and a closing hot-shot contest on the final day of camp.

"The kids, especially the younger group, enjoyed the different things we did this year," Haske said.

Ballard wins Iron award

By RHONDA WESTFALL
Sports Editor

You don't have to be a "man of steel" to gain membership into the newly formed Iron Wing Club at St. Johns High School — although it's first member, Zane Ballard, probably wouldn't have minded using a

Simon all-star winner

Kurt Simon, center on the 1986-87 Fowler High School basketball team, made a fine showing for himself as member of the B.C.D West All-Star basketball team at the 8th annual All-Star Festival in Mt. Pleasant on Saturday.

Simon scored 13 points in the contest which the West won 80-78 on a last second shot by Ionia's Brent Zufer. The East tied the game at 78-all on a three-point shot with :10 seconds on the clock.

"I was really excited about playing," Simon said. "I wanted to represent myself, and Fowler, well in the game."

"Practicing with the team on Friday and playing with everyone in the game was something I'll never forget."

On the West bench was Fowler Head Coach Dennis Smith, who earlier in the day received his Class D Coach of the Year award in ceremonies held on the CMU campus. An assistant coach on the West B.C.D team this year, Smith will serve as Head Coach of the All-Star squad in 1988.

"It was a real experience — I'm already looking forward to next year," Coach Smith said. "Kurt played an excellent ballgame — he helped bring the team back when we were behind. I was impressed."

While at the All-Star affair, Smith was informed that he was runner-up in balloting for the overall Coach of the Year award which was won by Jim Bradley of Haslett.

"Finding that out kind of shocked me," he said.

Selection for coaches and team players is made by the Basketball Coaches Association of Michigan. Other mid-Michigan players on the West B.C. D team were Todd Jenks (named the game's MVP) of Haslett, Dave Modders from Alma, and Shawn O'Mara from Lakewood.

few of Superman's tricks last week.

Ballard, a senior at SJHS, gained Iron Wing status by meeting set requirements in four different skill categories — strength, agility, stamina, and endurance. The requirements were drawn up by various Detroit area football coaches to determine the top athletes in their programs. Redwing Football Head Coach Bart Kjolhede heard about the Iron Wing club and decided to implement it into his program at St. Johns.

"Zane is the first of what we hope will be many St. Johns athletes to attempt to meet the goals for the Iron Wing Club," Coach Kjolhede said, "and, also the first to make it."

"The exact requirements vary according to the weight of the athlete."
Weighing in at 173 pounds, Ballard had to use three different lifts — dead lift, bench press, and squat — which equaled or exceeded 5.5 times his weight in the strength area. He benched 270 pounds, did 315 pounds in the squat, and 370 pounds in the dead lift for a total of 955 pounds.

Criteria for jump rope, the agility area, for his weight group was set at 355 in three minutes — Ballard did 355 in 2:40. Sit-ups were used to determine stamina with 90 sit-ups in two minutes as the requirement for Ballard — he did 90 in 110 seconds.

The final category of endurance was based on laps around the track in 12 minutes. Ballard's requirement was 7½ laps in the allotted 12 minutes — he completed that in 11:47.

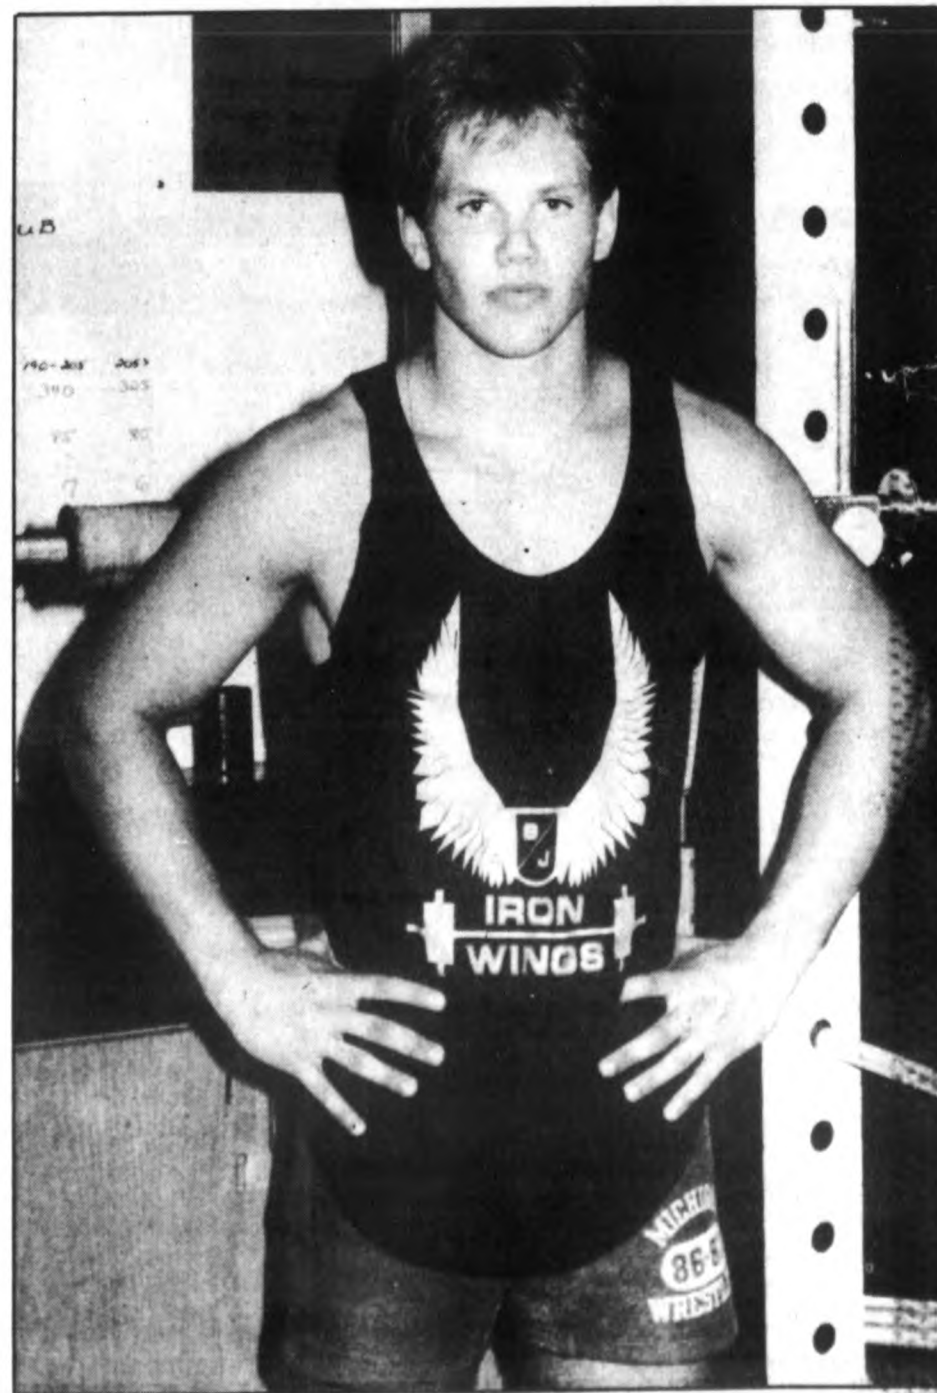

"Running was definitely the hardest part for me," Ballard said. "I'm a sprinter on the track team, not a distance runner. Darrin May paced me while I practiced running — that really helped a lot."

Ballard received an "Iron Wing" shirt for his accomplishment along with a photo which will be placed in the weight room at the high school, and a certificate of achievement. His name will also be placed in the 1987 Redwing football programs.

A three-sport letterwinner at St. Johns (football, wrestling, and track), Ballard got involved in weight training through the Redwing football program. He lifts every-other-day and jumps rope on off-days.

"It's gotten to be sort of a hobby," Ballard said. "I enjoy working out."

Testing for future "Iron Wingers" is planned for August with several athletes already in training, Coach Kjolhede said.

Skamania are coming into state waters

Anglers could be fishing for steelhead two months ahead of the normal September steelhead run this year along certain Michigan rivers, according to the Department of Natural Resources (DNR), with the introduction of skamnia — summer steelhead — into Michigan waters.

Five to six-pound skamnia returning to the Chocoley, Betsy, Boardman, Manistee, White, Muskegon and AuSable rivers are expected as early as July, DNR officials said. As annual skamnia plants continue, larger-sized and a greater number of returns on the rivers are anticipated.

Crystal Sailing Club hosts 25th anniversary open house

Crystal Sailing Club, located on the north shore of Crystal Lake, is the site of a public open house scheduled for June 27 from 2-5 p.m. in the clubhouse. A video film of club highlights during its 25-year history will be shown during the day along with refreshments and sailing provided to guests by club members, said Club commodore Al Friend of St. Johns. Along with Al and Jeanne Friend, Bill and Dee Morriss and Jim and Cathy Martindale are also St. Johns' club members.

The sailing club was begun following a meeting of sailors interested in racing and fellowship in August, 1961 at the Crystal Township Hall. Later that fall, a group met to sign Articles of Incorporation, forming the Crystal Sailing Club with the summer of 1962 being the first season for the new organization. The following year, the group purchased swampy lakeside farmland on the north side of Crystal Lake, drained and subdivided it into lots, which were sold to provide funds for the building of a clubhouse. The subdivision, known as "Skipper's Landing," serves as the club site. The clubhouse has ample lake frontage with room for docks and hoists for sailboats, and swimming area for members. The parking lot includes space for camping facilities and trailer hook-ups for members. Lockers for sailing gear, restrooms and shower facilities, and a kitchen and social area are focal points of the clubhouse. Every year since its founding, the club has conducted a sailing school for beginners, both adults and children. Experienced members of the club teach classes which meet from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. each Saturday in June. It is the philosophy of the club that persons who would like to sail should have an opportunity to do so with proper instruction. In addition to Commodore Friend, the present officers include vice-commodore Sam Reiter of Owosso and secretary-treasurer Glen Cheney of rural Ithaca. The public is invited to attend the club's 25th anniversary open house this Saturday.

Growing old involves changes

Growing Old: Change and Adjustment
By Helen Ward, R.N.

"Why does the elderly resident in my facility act the way he does?" Nurses and nurse aides, family members often ask that question, sometimes in frustration. In the search for an answer, we may turn to folk wisdom. For example, old people are stubborn, crotchety and unchangeable. This is a stereotype founded in myth. It is confusing, degrading and untrue.

Here at H.I.F.C.M., most of the residents' formative years were in the early 1900s, and the older ones were teenagers moving into adulthood during that period. In that time of women's suffrage and prohibition of alcoholic beverages, Model T's began rolling off the assembly line, radio and then the movies became a part of the communications system. Harding was elected President, then Coolidge and Hoover; conservatives all. This was an era of waste not, want not.

This period of time has to encompass the greatest era of change that humankind has ever seen. Much of the change has related directly to today's elderly; e.g. mandatory retirement, support through government finances instead of kin, wars and depressions, and the greatest era of technological progress.

In our social positions, we were assigned certain roles of expected behavior. These roles were culturally determined and we were taught to conform. Over a period of time, cultures change, and we experience a resocialization into that change. We never stop learning. But change bring contradictions. Thus, confusion and strain may come about. Then the elderly have to reconsider values, unlearn old values, set new values, and often much conflict is experienced.

It is difficult to grow old in a society that values youth and devalues old age. When older people are forced to retire, a sense of meaninglessness ensues. Retirement forces a loss of position in society. The loss of independence is very hard for anyone to bear. If people live long enough, the loss of autonomy is probable. At that point, one needs assistance. However, social values have directed us to a rejection of dependence instead of preparing us for it at some inevitable time.

For older people, maturity presents contradiction. It forces confusion about self. We that work with the elderly, are not always comfortable with the changes and adjustments to change that such development entails. Understanding and encouragement during this period of struggle is an important factor in the well being of the aged as they change and adjust.

In time, we can help the elderly learn that youth is gone, that identity does not correspond to work, that dependency does not have to demean, and one can acquire the self esteem to declare a new identity. Self identity will tend to line up with reality at this point.

Agricultural news Brewer's grain

By Marilyn Loudenslager

Wet brewer's grain is a by-product of the beer industry. The grains are left after steeping (cooking in hot water). The liquid is drawn off and used to make beer and the grains are used as livestock feed. These grains are usually a mixture of malting barley and other cereal grains.

Brewer's grain is well known because of its palatability; cattle eagerly eat fresh brewer's grain. It is a good protein source (28 percent approximately), has much more fiber than corn, and has a relatively good energy content (see chart below). Brewer's grain is excellent source of all natural protein which is low in rumen degradability (has a high by-pass value); this makes it excellent for high producing dairy cows. It generally is an appetite enhancer and its wet nature helps make dry diets more palatable.

Dairy cattle rations typically contain 30-40 pounds of brewer's grains/cow/day at the 40-pound/cow/day level brewer's grain adds eight to ten pounds of dry matter to the cows ration. When implementing this into a ration be certain to have the ration balanced for protein, energy, vitamins and minerals. Use analyzed feed values or book values (below) when balancing rations.

CORN:

86% dry matter; 10% crude protein; 2% crude fiber; net (gain) .64; energy (lactation) .94; calcium .02; phosphorus .26

SOYBEAN MEAL 44%:
90% dry matter; 48.9% crude protein; 7% crude fiber; net (gain) .59; energy (lactation) .90; calcium .34; phosphorus .70

BREWER'S GRAIN:
20-25% dry matter; 28% crude protein; 16% crude fiber; net (gain) .64; energy (lactation) .80; calcium .30; phosphorus .54

Brewer's grain should be as fresh as possible when delivered to insure quality and longer storage. Be sure the grains delivered are fresh, not old. In cold weather, grains can be kept several weeks but in summer months, usually only a week at most. Some work has been done in packing brewer's grains into plastic horizontal silo bags and this appears to store well for months.

Roehl lines Ag Expo

By Giles Roehl

Ag Expo, rated as one of the top 20 shows of its kind in the United States and Canada, will be July 21-23 at Michigan State University.

"We continue to receive this endorsement by the North American Farm Show Council because of the quality of our exhibits and the value of field demonstrations," said William Bickert, Ag Expo chairperson.

The North American Farm Show Council rates farm shows according to service given to farm families, educational content, safety, cleanliness and efficiency in operation.

More than 300 exhibitors from the United States and Canada will participate in Ag Expo, which will be located on 35 acres near the corner of the Mt. Hope Road and Farm Lane on MSU's south campus.

"As much as we are pleased with the continued support of our exhibitors, we are equally impressed with the quality they bring to the show," Bickert said.

Exhibitors' attention to detail — from making sure equipment is clean to using attractive shrubs and flowers — helps maintain Ag Expo's reputation as a worthwhile event for farm families, Bickert said.

Ag Expo will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on July 21-22 (Tuesday and Wednesday) and from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on July 23 (Thursday). Plenty of free parking will be available to visitors. Free shuttles will transport visitors to and from the parking area and the main exhibition site. The shuttles will also be available to take visitors to the field demonstrations and on tours of MSU agricultural research sites.

Ag Expo's field demonstrations will focus on some of the soil condition problems that are likely to have developed on much of Michigan's cropland last fall. "The focus will be on primary and deep tillage, which should be of particular interest to farmers whose land was damaged by flooding," said Tim Harrigan, Ag Expo field demonstration project manager.

The 75-acre demonstration site will feature the operation of a variety of tillage equipment, including plows and subsoilers, and a tillage equipment adjustment clinic.

Several plots have been developed that will enable farmers to make visual comparisons of the effects of soil compaction and rutting and plant root performance under those conditions.

Harrigan says it will take about two hours to tour the demonstration area. MSU agronomists, agricultural engineers and industry technicians will be available to discuss corrective soil management practices with farmers.

Ag Expo is free and open to the public. Giles Roehl is the director of the Clinton County Cooperative Extension Service.

Climate conditions

By Eileen Gillespie

Climate is often defined as average weather. But this rather trite statement becomes inadequate when one considers that average weather does not explain the variability in climate. Climate is more adequately described as a composite of weather conditions over a period of time.

It is a standard practice to relate climate in terms of statistical "norms." But normal values do not adequately define the climatic risk. The frequency of occurrences among the values among the various weather elements provides a more complete understanding of climate.

As a natural resource, climate is often overlooked in agricultural planning. Some reasons for this lack of concern are:

1. Climate, as a composite of weather events over a period of time, is very abstract;
2. It is not fixed in time and space like most other natural resource considerations; and 3. Climate is often viewed as given and uncontrollable, therefore nothing can be done anyway.

These erroneous views produce a lack of appreciation for climate information and its use in decision making. This lack of use has in turn led to a lack of development in needed climatological data, their acquisition and analysis, in agricultural planning over the past several decades.

As a result, much of the current soil erosion, flood damage and land management problems in agriculture are traceable, in part, to lack of appreciation and understanding of climate as a manageable resource. The omission of climate information needs to be corrected in future agricultural systems planning.

Eileen Gillespie is the district administrative assistant for the Clinton Soil Conservation District.

Co-op joins Sheriff to fight crime

The Clinton County Sheriff's Department and the Tri-County Electric Cooperative have joined forces in a major effort to deter rural crime.

Under the new program, "Good Neighbor Watch," rural electric employees will use their two-way radios to report suspicious activities, crimes, accidents and other potentially dangerous situations to the Clinton County Sheriff's Department through the co-op dispatcher, said Sheriff Terry Haneckow.

The crime prevention program, founded by the Michigan Sheriffs' Association (MSA) and the Michigan Electric Cooperative Association (MECA), was introduced Monday at the Tri-County Electric Cooperative in Portland to members of the rural co-op and Clinton County Sheriff's Department.

"Good Neighbor Watch will supplement the efforts of other successful community programs, such as the Eyes and Ears program of Consumers Power Co., and Detroit Edison," said the sheriff.

"The difference," he said, "is that this program will focus specifically on the rural areas of Clinton County, which are patrolled primarily by sheriff department deputies."

The program will eventually be coordinated with sheriff departments in 51 Michigan counties. Co-op employees are not authorized to pursue or apprehend a suspicious person, but are trained to observe and report suspicious behavior, Haneckow said. Blue and white Good Neighbor Watch decals will be displayed on rural electric cooperative vehicles participating in the program. Citizens who need police or emergency help can approach co-op employees in designated vehicles for assistance.

Alice Fornusek, Don Gorte honored by ZCBJ

By Joanne Fornusek

The May meeting of ZCBJ Lodge 225 was called to order by president Robert Ladiski. After the pledge to the flag, a moment of silence was observed and the Lord's Prayer recited in memory of the servicemen killed aboard the USS Stark.

Secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and approved. A warm fraternal welcome goes out to new members Shilo, Shannon, Sabrina, and Shelby Price; Lisa, Marna, and Scott Polish; Jeremy and James Dysinger; and Jacob Perrien.

Sisters Helen Wass and Wilma Stambersky reported on the successful Jaternice Dance and thanked all who worked and donated food items for this event.

Also, many thanks go to the members who took part in the cleaning and painting bee at the hall. It looks great and we appreciate all your time and work.

Sister Alice Gavenda reported on the district meeting held in Flint.

Sister Helen Wass and Diane Bradley finalized plans for the June 24 trip to Cedar Point.

Brother Tom Bradley suggested that we set next year's lodge calendar as soon as possible as our hall is rented nearly every weekend. The enclosed pavilion is a great addition to our hall and has attracted many renters to our facilities.

The lodge picnic will be held on July 19. Meeting will begin at 10:30 a.m. and the potluck picnic will start at noon. Final arrangements for the Aug. 2 Czechoslovak Harvest Festival will be made at this time.

Thank you to Brother Joe Pospisil for donating eight pounds of coffee to the lodge kitchen and to Sister Johanna Houska for three large cans of Kool-aid.

Members voted to make donations to the American Cancer Society and to RAVE and to donate fruit to the local nursing homes.

Unfortunately, there were several members on the sick list this month. Get well cards and wishes for a speedy recovery were sent to Anna Malek, Irene Chovance, Dorothy Dougherty, Alice Howland, Bessie Stehlik, Mary Certy, Michael Guizzetti, Tony Vondruska, Vlasta Kopta, James Houska, Eddy Fornusek Sr., Bonnie Jaskolski, and Ramona Bradley.

Celebrating May birthdays were Mike and Wilma Stambersky, Helen Wass, Shawn Wass, Diane Bradley, Stan Wass, Joe Motz, Angela Johnson, Charlene Reha, Raymond Reha and Ashley Jerry.

Following the meeting, a potluck dinner and program were held in celebration of mother's and father's days. The young members of the rhythm band entertained the audience with a few musical numbers. An marie Bradley and Victor Ladiski lit candles in memory of all the living and deceased mothers and fathers of lodge 225.

The 1986 Mother and Father, Ann Panik and Mike Stambersky, were seated on the stage and given gifts as a remembrance of their reign. It was then time for them to crown their successors. As Sister Marcella Doubrava began to describe their smiles and work for the lodge, the audience began to realize that the 1987 Mother and Father of the Year were Alice Fornusek and Don Gorte. Sister Alice was escorted to the stage by her husband Eddy and Brother Don was escorted by his wife Joanne. There they received their crowns, flowers, and the applause of the audience.
