Pat Leveck thinks goats make great pets. "They don't eat tin cans, that's for sure," she says. "In fact, they're rather finicky eaters." Mrs. Leveck of DeWitt is one of many people who like to talk about their pets. "I can't really explain it to you. They're more like dogs, they give you a lot of affection. If you're ever around one it doesn't take long to get the bug. Especially around little kids (baby goats, not children). If I don't talk to each and every one by name when I go in the barn, they'll stand and sulk." For more on offbeat and traditional pets, see our special TM Magazine included in this issue. Closing plan riles parents

By PETER W. BRONSON

Two elementary schools will be closed and all sixth graders will attend junior high school if a plan proposed by St. Johns school administrators is approved.

East Olive and East Essex elementary schools will close at the end of this school year and students now attending sixth grade in rural elementary schools will attend Rodney B. Wilson Junior High next fall, under the plan proposed by a special board of education task force.

The move will save the district money and allow more efficient use of the school system's staff, the report says.

Plenty of parents were present to voice their opinions about the proposal at a meeting Wednesday night, April 13. Others said they were "too furious" to comment, and reserved their remarks for public meetings conducted at the schools during the past week. A larger public hearing was slated for the following Wednesday (last night) in the high school auditorium.

The task force was composed of administrators Steve Bakita, Rick Terres, Gordon Vandemark, Roger Feeman and Robert Kudwa. It presented a three-phase plan to reduce costs, maintain the quality of education and utilize staff more efficiently, Superintendent Earl Gabriel said.

Gabriel will institute the third phase in May, a reorganization of administrative staff. But first, phases one and two — transferring sixth graders to junior high and closing two schools — must be approved.

Kudwa said there will be no problem fitting the 875 sixth graders into the junior high, which presently has 770 students. In fact, students will get a better education by attending junior high, he said. In addition to standard classes, he said, they can take physical education, band, health and art, none of which are currently offered at elementary schools.

The most attractive part of the plan, according to Bakita, is that it would solve class size problems. Because enrollment has declined by 225 students in the last three years, some classes have only 16 to 21 students. Combination classes, instituted to solve the problem last fall, "have not been successful," Bakita said, because of "bad numbers."

"We may have 20 to 24 in one grade and just four or five in the next grade," he said. Local elementary schools are just too small to make efficient use of combined classes, he said.

"If we continue (enrollment declines) at the pace we've been going for the last two or three years, there's a very real possibility we would have three-, or even four-grade combinations in our neighborhood schools," he said.

Also, by transferring sixth grade students, enough empty space has been created — added to already empty classrooms — to justify closing two schools, Gabriel said.

That is phase two of the plan. East Olive and East Essex were chosen for "a variety of sound reasons," task force members said, including locations, local roads, the quality of the buildings and their furnaces and the type of fuel used (both use fuel oil instead of less expensive gas heat).

"We found that the two schools across the district lines (Riley and Eureka) will be more stable and will serve the district for five years, even ten," Bakita said.

Closing the two elementary schools will allow a reduction of five-and-a-half staff members, plus savings of about $200,000 per year in salaries and costs for maintenance and utilities, Terres said.

The plan will also reduce the number of combined classes from 14 to two. "The sooner we can limit combinations, the better education we can provide," said Bakita, who estimated class sizes would return to 27 or 28 students.

"This points in a very quick way," said Gabriel, reviewing the report. "We will offer a broader or at least comparable program while reducing combinations from 14 to two, reducing teachers by five-and-a-half, and saving on utilities."

"Based on this (savings) we would only have to ask for a renewal and not for additional millage next year."

The plan, along with Gabriel's reorganization of administrators, will be presented again at the board's May meeting.

No time for public, critics say

Some vote 'no' on agenda

By PETER W. BRONSON

The St. Johns school board met Wednesday night — and Thursday morning.

Most of the more than 60 people who jammed the high school library for the four-hour meeting were present to hear about proposed closing of two elementary schools, East Olive and East Essex. (see related story)

But it was the two-and-a-half-page agenda which drew some of the hottest comments. In addition to switching meetings to the library, the board is in the process of changing its agenda format. Among the changes is a restriction on public comments to the beginning and the end of each meeting. The raised-hand questions and comments permitted in the past during meetings are no longer allowed.

"It's damn late to make a comment after the board has already voted," Bruce Irish said, drawing applause.

Another parent called the change "bad public relations."

"How are we as a community supposed to provide input so board members can make decisions based on our input and not just on their own opinions?" Johonna Harris asked.

She said the change, suggested by new superintendent Earl Gabriel, only compounds past public conceptions of the board's attitude toward the public. "This is where the public relations problem in the past is haunting you now. We have often felt we were not given enough information to do anything about something until it was too late," she told Gabriel.

"Let's hope this is the beginning of a new trend," Gabriel replied. He urged citizens with questions about the agenda to call him before meetings for answers, and said the new format was designed to keep things moving so that board business could be taken care of.

Later, near midnight, when the audience had thinned out, the topic was raised again. Under a final agenda item called "Other Matters," Board President Bob Craig asked if the change was working. "How do you want to operate in terms of communications with the public under the new agenda?" he asked the board.

"If we leave it open (to public comments) anytime, it will extend board meetings forever," Peter Apostol said. Craig suggested letting members of the audience reserve the right to speak on an item when the agenda item came up for consideration, but Marian Kurncz pointed out that new angles and aspects of items often are revealed during the board's discussion, when it would be too late to reserve time to comment.

Following Mrs. Kurncz's comments, the board's discussion on how best to avoid interruptions was interrupted. Craig recognized hands raised by two of the few remaining people still present and heard their comments that the agenda was "confusing."

"Don't be too quick to modify. You've only had two chances to get used to it," Gabriel said, closing the discussion.

Board members agreed to consider changes in the agenda format, but took no formal action.

Woman killed; thefts reported

An 84-year-old Okemos woman was killed when the car she was driving was struck by a semi-truck and trailer, Bath Township Police report.

Florence Stowell, of 3882 Dobie Rd., Okemos, was killed Tuesday, April 12 after she pulled out of a private drive onto I-69, reports said. She intended to cross the median and head west, but she failed to yield the road to the truck.

The truck, driven by Thomas Glanton, 63, of Davidson, struck Mrs. Stowell's car in the driver's side and both vehicles came to rest in the median, reports said.

Glanton was not cited. Clinton County Sheriff's Deputies report 84 complaints for the week of April 11-17. There were 29 arrests, reports said.

• Two unarmed robbers wearing paper grocery bags stole approximately $150 from Charlie William Wollesen, 2214 N. US-27, St. Johns Sunday. Wollesen was watching television in his living room when he heard a noise at the back door, reports said. The suspects, white males in their early twenties about six feet tall, entered the house and grabbed Wollesen, reports said. They took the money from his wallet, blindfolded him, placed him on the floor and covered him with chairs, reports said.

• Two women were seriously injured in a head-on collision on Clark Rd. west of Chandler Rd., DeWitt Township Police report. Leona Schlichter, 60, of 2791 W. Clark Rd., and Arlene Wethington of Hershey, MI, were injured when struck by a car driven by Ann Parks, 19, of 1801 E. Webb Rd. The driver of the two women, David Schlichter, Jr., 60, of 2791 W. Clark Rd., was treated and released at Lansing's Sparrow Hospital. Mrs. Schlichter was listed in fair condition Tuesday at Sparrow, while Mrs. Wethington was listed in serious condition. Miss Parks was treated and released at St. Lawrence Hospital. The accident, which occurred at 12:35 p.m. Sunday, April 17, was caused when Miss Parks crossed the center line, reports said. She was cited for improper lane usage.

• About $100 was stolen from Mijo's Restaurant, 1543 Northeast St., DeWitt Township, according to township police. Entry was gained through the back door after it was pried open after midnight, reports said. Township police have turned the case over to the Clinton County Detective Bureau.

• A fire broke out at the home of Kenneth Swanchara, 3945 E. Parks Rd., St. Johns, Tuesday, April 12. Damage was unknown, reports said.

• A house trailer fire at 2265 W. Parks Rd., St. Johns, damaged most of the home, reports said. Smoke damaged the remainder of the home, reports said.

• A television estimated at $600 was stolen from the home of Viola Rach, 4709 W. Grand River, Water-town Township, reports said. Numerous carpenter tools were also stolen.

• Two wire hub caps with a Ford Thunderbird in the center were stolen from a 1979 Ford Thunderbird in the parking lot of Royal Scot April 13, reports said. Value of the hub caps, which belong to Deann Lynn Nachazel, 14274 Center St., is estimated at $130, reports said.

• Four chrome wire spoked hub caps, valued at $477, were stolen April 14 from a 1977 Ford LTD owned by Sherlie Parks, 2534 W. Hyde Rd., St. Johns, reports said.

Gardeners will have a new place to shop, thanks to C.B. Harris, owner of Harris Perennials. His business catering to flower lovers is located on South Hollister Road, Laingsburg. They're just two (or is it four?) in a million

By PETER W. BRONSON

"I didn't come down off the rafters for about three days," Sara Lee Zamarron said.

"My mother didn't even know I'd had our baby," her daughter, Vickie Wieber explained. "She came up to visit my sister and she was really surprised."

The surprise for Mrs. Zamarron was two granddaughters born on the same day, April 8, at Clinton Memorial Hospital. And they're not twins.

"There are six in our family and they all had to come up and compare them. We decided my sister's baby looks more like my father and mine looks more like my mother, so they've both got one to hold," Mrs. Weiber said.

The first of the Zamarron granddaughters, Leticia Denae (six lbs., 14 ozs.), was born to Michael and Kathy Crumbaugh of Perrinton at 7:40 a.m. Friday, April 8.

Only two minutes short of 11 hours later, Kathy's older sister, Vickie Weiber, gave birth to Heidi Lee (five lbs., 12 ozs.) at 6:38 p.m. Vickie and her husband, John, live in Fowler.

"It was hard on the doctor. We had the same one, Dr. San Juan. But it was easy on the folks," Kathy said. "They didn't have to come to the hospital as often. They could visit us both at the same time."

"We couldn't share a room, but we had the same doctor," Vickie said. "He kept saying, 'I can't believe you're in here together!'"

Kathy, due April 5, and Vickie, due April 15, said their timing surprised everyone but their husbands. "I think the guys got together and planned it," Kathy joked.

"Our husbands are good friends, so we're blaming it on them," Vickie agreed.

The two sisters live just six miles apart, so birthdays and special occasions for Heidi and Leticia will be family affairs, they said. Their parents, Ralph and Sara Lee Zamarron, live just a few miles away, in Eureka.

It's not the first time the two Zamarron daughters have surprised their parents with a two-for-one grandchild special. Kathy's and Vickie's sons, Dustin and Corey, both two-and-a-half, were born just weeks apart. "We do lot's of things together. We're a close family," Vickie laughed.

Ralph (far left) and Sara Lee (far right) Zamarron of Eureka got a two-for-one surprise April 8 when their daughters, Kathy (left) and Vickie (right), gave birth to granddaughters on the same day in the same hospital. Kathy's daughter, Leticia Denae Crumbaugh, was the first to arrive, followed by Vickie's daughter, Heidi Lee Wieber, just about 12 hours later. "We're a close family," Vickie joked. Board policy needs a little fine tuning

Few things can make the public angrier than the impression that elected officials are attempting to deny citizens access to the decision making process.

That is the impression which was created by the St. Johns Board of Education's new agenda recently, and we don't blame members of the audience for getting steamed up about it.

The new agenda reserves just two opportunities for the public to comment — one at the beginning of the meeting, and one near the end. The restriction is intended to make interruptions less time consuming and board meetings more efficient.

However, the times reserved for the public leave little opportunity for those in attendance to participate in the meeting. Unless they know what each agenda item means, and what the various options are, citizens must wait until the agenda item comes up to form an opinion. By then, it is too late to make their opinions heard.

Citizens can speak "on any matter" near the end of each meeting, but by then, chances are, the board has already voted. Too late or too early seem to be the only choices given the public.

We do not believe the new policy is a deliberate attempt to exclude the public, however. In fact, we agree with the philosophy behind it and believe, with fine tuning, the new agenda will be an effective one.

Allowing citizens a brief period to comment on each action item could satisfy all but the most long-winded of citizens. About 10 minutes, say, in which all comments would be kept to a maximum of a minute or two, depending on how many wanted to speak. Flexibility is the key: Since most board meetings are not well attended, allowing the public to comment would not slow the board up too much; on those occasions when the public did turn out, allowing all an equal opportunity to speak would be good public relations.

Otherwise, we applaud the recent moves made by the board, at the urging of the new superintendent. One long overdue decision was to move meetings to the library on a regular basis. If the cramped superintendent's office meeting area didn't discourage citizens from attending past board meetings, we don't know what would.

We also endorse the division of action and non-action items on the agenda, and the decision to put public comments on non-agenda topics at the end. This way, those attending meetings for a specific agenda item are not forced to wait while others address their own concerns.

One more step should be taken, however. We believe board members and members of the community would feel less hurried if board meetings began an hour earlier. The 8 p.m. meeting time, arranged around one board member's schedule, wastes at least a good hour of evening meeting time.

Other boards meet regularly at 7 p.m. with no problems of attendance on the part of members or the public. We see no reason, outside of tradition, that St. Johns Board of Education members cannot do likewise.

Reagan walks in Abe's footsteps

Editor's note: Following are excerpts from a speech by Thomas A. Cooley Law School President and former Michigan Supreme Court Justice Thomas A. Brennan, delivered to members of the Clinton County Republican Party at their annual Lincoln Day Dinner Thursday night, April 14. Brennan was the GOP candidate for Lt. Governor in the 1982 election, sharing a ticket with Dick Headlee. We thought our readers might find his remarks of interest.

"...The Republican Party which nominated Abraham Lincoln for President in 1860 was barely five years old. Lincoln himself described it as 'Strange, discordant, gathered from the four winds.'

"But the catalyst that transformed diversity of interest into unity of political action was opposition to the extension of slavery into the western territories.

"That was a matter of principle. That was an appeal to justice. That was a political issue which people could believe in and get excited about; care about and sacrifice for...

"By embracing opposition to slavery as its foundation stone, the Republican Party began at the beginning. Philosophically and logically, it began with an agreement upon the most fundamental question in organized society: the nature of human life itself.

"Less than 80 years before, the revolutionary fathers had agreed upon the same starting place — 'That all men are created equal — that they are endowed by their creator with certain unalienable rights — that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.'

"Now that statement was not a religious commitment or the adoption of biblical creationism as a national creed... But the Declaration of Independence, and the first platform of the Republican Party were THEISTIC documents. They were premised upon the existence of God — not as a matter of established national religion — but as the basis for a legal assumption about the nature of human life.

"That legal assumption very simply is that a human being is not a mere animal...

"Please don't misunderstand what I am saying. There is no American consensus on the existence of man's immortal soul...

"But we do believe in personhood; and the law recognizes personhood as the unique, individual, inviolable humanity of every man and woman...

"The definition of human personhood was a burning political issue in America 130 years ago.

"And it is a burning political issue in 1983.

"In 1857 the Supreme Court of the United States decided that a human being with black skin was not a person, but mere property. Nearly a million Americans died in battle before the injustice of that Dred Scott decision could be halted.

"In 1973, the Supreme Court of the United States declared that a human being, still in its mother's womb, is not a person, and already more than 15,000,000 unborn children have died, and still the injustice ... goes on and on.

"The parallels between the Republican Party's concern for human dignity in 1860 and 1983 are striking. Just as Abraham Lincoln spoke bravely on the politically difficult issue of slavery in 1860, Ronald Reagan has stood firmly and spoken courageously on the Right to Life issue throughout his political career.

"History has proven that Abraham Lincoln was morally correct in speaking out in favor of human dignity for all men and women. For myself, I believe that history will also record that Ronald Reagan is right — and that it is unwise to straddle the fence between right and wrong.

"I believe that if government is to protect any human person, it must protect every human person — rich or poor — young or old — black of white — male of female — born or unborn.

"That is the tradition of the Republican Party from Abraham Lincoln to Ronald Reagan.

"It is not only a glorious tradition — but as we face an uncertain future of new technology and dangers, it is a firm bedrock of principle upon which to build the society of the 1980s, the 1990s and into the 21st Century."

Election coverage and policy explained

As annual school elections draw near, we thought now would be a good time to review for readers our editorial policy concerning elections.

First of all, this paper will soon be sending out questionnaires to candidates, so that we may tell readers who is running and why. Our news coverage of the annual elections has already begun, with reports of who will be running in each of the county's six districts.

Future reports will inform readers about candidates' backgrounds and their opinions on issues which we feel are important. We will also report on millage proposals in each district.

In some races, we also will take an editorial position, endorsing some candidates in certain races and taking a stand on millage requests.

We feel it our duty to take the time to learn as much as possible about candidates and issues and, since we regularly report on board meetings, to examine and comment on the candidates' qualifications and possible contributions.

We also will print letters from readers who have opinions about candidates or millage requests. However, since our own opinions will be published in the final edition before the election, June 9, we reserve that issue for editorial comments.

To prevent readers from raising issues or making charges that cannot be answered in print prior to the election, we will print no letters to the editor on election issues after the June 2 edition.

We hope you will take the time to read our coming stories on local school elections and we hope our editorials will encourage readers to define their own opinions and vote accordingly.

As far as the vote on the recent income tax increase goes, Cropsey indeed can — and will — brag to his constituents that he voted no. However, he'd be the last one to admit openly that he voted for the two other tax increases which were proposed in the Senate. Cropsey would just as soon make sure the average guy on the street stayed in the dark about how he really plays the political game in Lansing.

Citizens have to question Cropsey's integrity and truthfulness, especially because he claims to be a God-fearing believer in the Bible. If he lies to us about his position on taxes, we can only assume that he's liable to break his word on every other political issue.

Cropsey scurrilously attacked former State Senator Dick Allen last fall for voting in favor of increased taxes in certain cases. Yet, Cropsey turns around and does the same thing.

Cropsey's superficial jingle last fall was: "Cut your taxes, that's the plan. Who can do it? Cropsey can." Nothing could be further from the truth. He has neither the influence nor the inclination to even come close to reducing taxes of his constituents.

Sincerely,
Maurice Kilborn
DeWitt

We would like to print your opinions and comments in our Letters to the Editor column. Letters must be signed originals, and should include full name, address and phone number. Letters

Cropsey betrayed voters

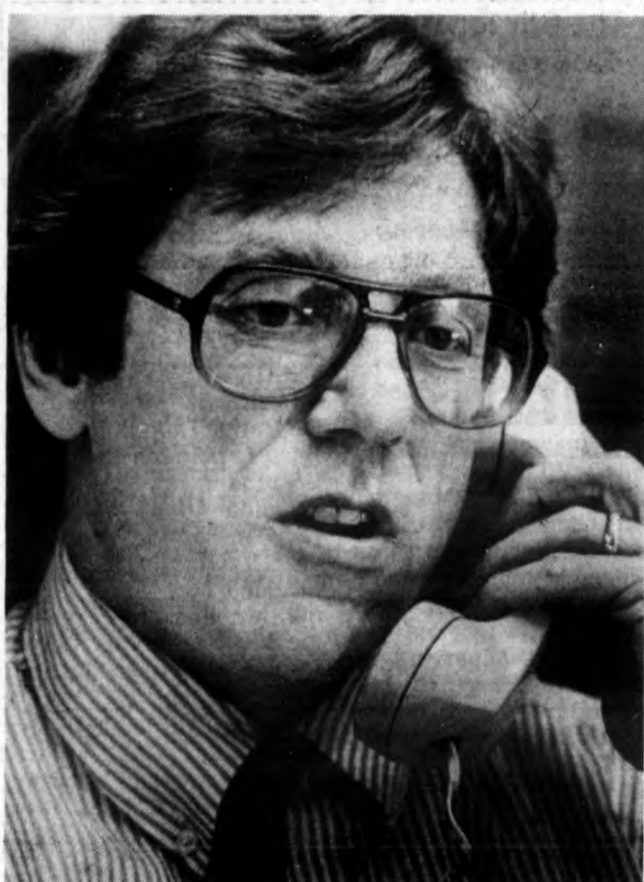

To the editor:

Let's set the record straight about (Republican) State Senator Alan Cropsey's real position on taxes.

Cropsey, of DeWitt, voted for two alternative tax increases during the recent Senate debate on the income tax bill which recently was signed into law. One alternative would have raised citizens' income taxes a total of $867.8 million over 18 months. The second alternative he voted for would have asked citizens to pay a total of $1.638 billion over three years. Practically, the only way it differed from the current tax increase is that it would have expired earlier.

Shame on Cropsey, because the main campaign promise he made to citizens last fall was that he opposed all taxes. Senate Journal No. 30, March 24, 1983, shows how he broke that promise to his constituents.

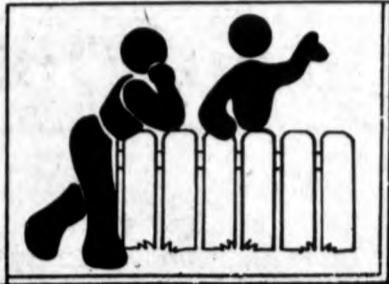

Many politicians like Cropsey take advantage of how votes on controversial legislation are reported by the press. Unfortunately, all the parliamentary procedure on critical legislation cannot be covered in the media because of constraints on space and time. So, on the recent income tax increase, the fact that two alternative tax increases — both of which Cropsey voted for — were proposed in the Senate is not widely known.

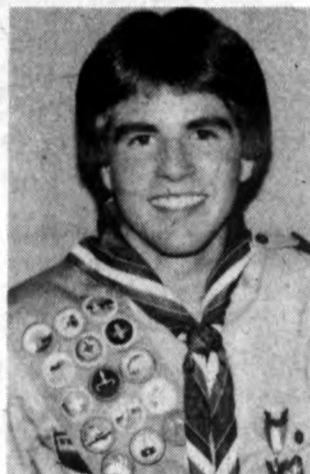

Buffaloed

Bill Gnodtke, former finance chairman for the Clinton County Republican Party, received a big surprise at the annual Lincoln Day Dinner last Thursday evening when he was presented with a plaque honoring his service to the county GOP. "They kind of pulled the wool over my eyes," joked Gnodtke the next day from his new office as finance chairman for the state GOP. "I've got them buffaloed, I guess. They think I'm doing more than I am." (Photo by Bob Stern)

Burl earns financial aid

Mike Burl has been honored many times as valedictorian, athlete and resident mathematics whiz at Ovid-Elsie High School.

But his most recent honor — a Federal-Mogul Corporation Merit Scholarship — tops them all.

"It's more prestigious because it's national," Burl said.

The scholarship will give him a maximum of $8,000 for four years of college, and is only the second ever awarded in the history of the St. Johns plant, company officials said.

Burl, who plans to major in electrical engineering, is eligible for the scholarship because his father, Kirk, works as a machinist for Federal-Mogul. When Mike scored well on his PSAT test in his junior year, he qualified for a Merit Scholarship semifinalist.

Official notification of the award came early in April from National Merit Scholarship Corporation, a non-profit organization which administers the scholarship program.

Burl's interest in math becomes obvious when you ask him about his grade-point average. "Three point nine two six eight," he replies.

Good grades have also been his trademark at Lansing Community College, where he has been enrolled since the summer of 1981. In three calculus classes, a basic programming class and statistics class, he pulled four 4.0's (A's) and a 3.5.

"It gives me a head start," said Burl, who is taking his fourth calculus class this term. "If they're transferable, then I'll be ahead that much. If they're not, then I'll know the stuff."

Though three B's represent his only academic shortcomings at Ovid-

Elsie, Burl does not spend all of his time in the school library. He's more likely to be on the practice field or in the gymnasium. Performances on the varsity football, wrestling and track teams rank him as one of the school's better athletes.

Burl will never be mistaken for the stereotyped "class brain" who roams the halls with a dozen calculators and no friends.

"I'm in a lot of sports," he said. "I guess I don't fit in with the stereotypes. They treat me (around school) just like everybody else."

His is trying to decide between two colleges — California Institute of Technology or the University of Chicago. Both offer excellent classes in the computer field, which is his specific area of interest.

Baseball bounds beyond

St. Johns catcher John Weber can't come up with the elusive baseball on this play, as a Grand Ledge runner slides home safely. The Comets got plenty of practice doing that as they stomped the Redwings, 15-0, in the first game of a double-header. St. Johns lost the second game, 7-4, when Grand Ledge unloaded a grand slam home run in the bottom of the seventh inning. St. Johns is scheduled for its home opener Friday, at 4:30 p.m. against Mason.

NFL defensive back speaks in county

By AL PALMERI

He was one of the fiercest members of one of the fiercest defensive secondaries in the National Football League. He loved to hit, and he didn't really care if he mangled wide receivers in the process.

"I had a problem with violence," said Mike Spivey, a five-year performer for the Chicago Bears and presently a defensive back with the Atlanta Falcons. "I didn't love anybody. I had no respect for anybody."

That was one of the more amazing statements Spivey spilled out before an attentive audience of 700 students at St. Johns High School.

His obsession with violence can be traced back to his high school days, when he roamed the halls as a 140-pound freshman. "I was a pee wee, no-muscle bookworm," Spivey remembered.

But when he made the football team and started lifting weights, his strength increased. He improved so much that by his senior year, he was named to all-city, all-district and all-state teams as a defensive end.

Growing in confidence, he accepted a full-ride scholarship for football to the University of Colorado. Soon he would weigh in at 195 pounds, with an ability to bench press 350 pounds and blaze the 40-yard dash in 4.25 seconds.

Those are the indicators coaches dream about when discussing defensive backs. When Spivey added violence to the recipe, he turned into one mean dish.

Just for fun, he used to tackle an opponent and pull down his socks. On the next tackle, he would scratch his leg.

Spivey was also fond of the ear openings on helmets. He found that his fingernails would fit quite nicely through them.

When he wasn't doing those things to wide receivers, he was usually aiming his tackles at their necks.

"I was becoming a rather mean dude on the football field, and I liked it," said Spivey, who told the same thing to students at Ovid-Elsie High School Tuesday afternoon. "Everybody was saying, 'Watch out for Spivey.'"

Fowler sweeps Ashley; now 3-0

After three years as a batting practice pitcher, Fowler's Becky Kohagen was quite prepared when coach Betsy Smith told her to pitch against Ashley.

So much so, in fact, that she went out and pitched a no-hitter. Kohagen blanked the Bears, 8-0, after fellow pitcher Patty Wieber threw a three-hit, 6-1 victory in the first game Saturday, April 16.

"She was kind of surprised," said Smith, who gave Kohagen her first game experience in a one-inning stint against Portland this year. "She didn't know about it (the no-hitter) until about two hours after the game, when I checked the stats and called her. She was pretty excited."

"I was a big bully in college. I used to take advantage of people. I had all kinds of rhymes and riddles talking about how bad and mean and clean I was."

In 1976, he was bad and mean and clean enough to be drafted in the second round by the Chicago Bears. It was fitting. The Bears have always been known for rough play. Their veteran safeties, Gary Fencik and Doug Plank, have established reputations as two of the hardest hitting in the NFL.

When he joined the Bears, Spivey seemed happy. He had his degree from Colorado and fistfuls of money.

"But that wasn't it," he said. "Something was still missing. I'd go home at night and be all by myself."

The sight of other lonely teammates turning to alcohol, marijuana and cocaine horrified him.

"I stood back and watched all this happen," he said. "I said, 'I can't go that route. That's not productive.'"

Fowler baseball stays perfect; St. Pat's next

Fowler's baseball team risks its undefeated record today when it hosts Portland St. Patrick in a Central Michigan Athletic Conference opener at 4:30 p.m.

The Eagles stretched their record to 3-0 with a double-header sweep of Ashley on Saturday, April 16.

Dan Simon collected six hits in seven trips to the plate to lead Fowler's batters in the 8-5, 14-0 sweep of the Bears.

Simon singled in two runs in the sixth inning of the opener to provide Fowler with its winning margin. Jim Farley, Bob Simon and Dan Antes also had two hits apiece in that game.

In the second game, which was called after five innings, Steve Weber pitched a one-hit shutout. He struck out three and walked one.

Giles Feldpausch supported Dan Simon at the plate, collecting two hits and two RBI's.

Kohagen struck out six and walked six, and things got a little interesting on the basepaths when Fowler made two errors on throws by the catcher to second base. But airtight defense preserved the shutout.

"After the second inning, we had all freshmen and sophomores out there on defense," Smith said. "On Saturday double-headers I always try to get everyone in the ballgame. By the third inning, I wasn't really worried about Becky's pitching."

Ashley sealed its own fate by making seven errors. Two freshmen — Cindy Schneider and Cindy Feldpausch — got the only two Eagle RBI's.

Looking for answers, he decided to go to a chapel service one Sunday before a game.

"The speaker said that God loved me," Spivey recalled. "He said that God had a Son, and that His Son was the only provision for the sins we had committed. He also said that we need to make a personal commitment to His Son. I heard it all, but I ran out the door."

Back on the football field, it was business as usual. Another day, another mangled wide receiver. But when referees began calling him for numerous unnecessary roughness penalties, Spivey found himself on the bench.

In an attempt to get revenge, Spivey made it a point to crunch a wide receiver in practice. He drove the player into the ground and started roughing him up. When a 6-foot-4, 245-pound linebacker intervened, he tried to rough him up.

A broken nose was Spivey's reward.

Team doctors took him to the hospital, where two nurses walked away after examining the mangled mess above his mouth. They finally put him on a table to prepare him for plastic surgery.

It was an appropriate time for Spivey to do some serious thinking about where his life was headed.

"My total purpose in life was to cause pain and misery to other people," he said. "I thought back to that chapel service. The speaker there was talking about how there was a God, and about how God's Son was offered to man, and how man was separated from God because of his sins. One day, we will all have to call upon Jesus to save us from our sins if we want to go to heaven."

"That night, I prayed a very simple prayer. I prayed to ask Jesus into my life."

After spending a half hour signing over a hundred autographs for students on the St. Johns auditorium stage, Spivey elaborated on the life-changing decision he made in the hospital.

"All my life I had been brought up in church," he said. "But there was a big difference between accepting Jesus and knowing about Him. Do you know what I'm saying? Accepting Jesus and knowing about Him are two different things."

God brought Spivey to the point where he knew that his violent attitude toward others was bad enough, in God's eyes, to separate him eternally from God. He then saw the sense of Jesus Christ having to personally die for his sins on the cross. He saw his need to accept Christ, because he saw Christ as the only one who can pay for sins.

"Obviously, (his violence) was sin because of what I was doing with it," Spivey said. "I was very proud and very arrogant. The Bible says, 'Be humble. God resists the proud, but gives grace to the humble.'"

Spivey concluded his testimony by asking students to pray with him if anyone wanted to accept Christ into his life.

Sports World Ministries Inc. sponsored his visit. Local merchants paid for his expenses, so neither St. Johns nor Ovid-Elsie had to pay a speaking fee, Spivey said.

O-E blanks Pirates, 2-0, for first victory

Dan Bukovcik usually plays centerfield for the Ovid-Elsie baseball team.

But Wednesday, April 13 he showed off a nasty knuckleball as he held Pewamo-Westphalia to two hits in a 2-0 Marauder victory.

"He's got a pretty good knuckleball," said coach Jack Nutter, whose team was 1-2 entering this week. "He did throw a good knuckleball that day. I was kind of surprised. It was cold and still and damp, and that's not good knuckleball weather."

Ovid-Elsie scored the game's only runs in the fourth. Bukovcik singled, and P-W pitcher Jon Walter walked Don Phillips, Scott Johnson and Dan Fox to force in a run. Phillips then scored on Thad Risdale's ground out.

The Pirates threatened in the seventh after Bukovcik got the first two outs. Pinch hitter Brian Thelen singled, and another pinch hitter, Jim Pohl, walked. But Jon Thelen grounded out to end the game.

Bukovcik struck out seven and walked three. Walter walked six.

April 12 — New Lothrop 4-9, Ovid-Elsie 1-2: The Marauders made seven errors in the double-header, and were burned by a couple of big innings.

Pete Hurst and Steve Porubsky combined on a one-hitter in the opener, but they also walked seven. One of those walks and the one hit led to a three-run fifth inning for New Lothrop.

In the nightcap, New Lothrop scored six times in the fourth inning. Losing pitcher Jim Bates allowed four hits, and only two of the runs were earned.

DeWitt boys third

The DeWitt boys' track team finished third in a quadrangular meet of county schools April 13 at the Panthers' track.

Joe Wheeldon, Jim Seegraves and Bob Price were DeWitt's only first place finishers. Wheeldon won the discus with a throw of 119-2. Seegraves took the shot put at 42-10 1/4 and Price was best in the 220-yard dash in 24.2.

Wheeldon placed in three other events, taking fourth in the 100 dash, fourth in the 220 and fifth in the long jump.

Bob Greenhoe was second in the discus behind Wheeldon and Todd McDonald and Mike Price placed second and third in the pole vault, respectively.

Bath won the meet with 81 points, followed by St. Johns with 59, DeWitt with 56 and Fowler with 47.

Fowler teachers agree to take wage freeze

By PETER W. BRONSON

Teachers in Fowler made theirs the fourth district in Clinton County to settle teacher contract negotiations when they ratified a wage freeze agreement April 13.

According to reports from the Ingham County Education Association (ICEA), which represents five of the county's six districts, the contract calls for an "absolute wage freeze for all teaching staff for the 1982-83 school year," and a roughly five percent increase next year.

"The Fowler teachers decided to accept a wage freeze for this year not to satisfy the Fowler board, but as a concrete statement of our good faith to the taxpayers of the Fowler School District," said Fowler Education Association President Kim Spalsbury.

"We took this action despite the fact that teachers in Fowler are more poorly paid than any others in the group to which we belong."

Pewamo-Westphalia teachers, the only group in the county which is not a part of the ICEA, became the first district to settle last year when they accepted a wage freeze. So far, Fowler and Pewamo-Westphalia are the only districts where wage freezes have been accepted.

Bath teachers accepted a 3.5 percent increase, and DeWitt teachers went on strike for a week to win increases of 5.5 percent this year and 5.9 percent next year.

Teachers in St. Johns and Ovid-Elsie have also been asked to accept wage freezes to ease their districts' financial problems, but neither group has settled yet.

St. Johns teachers will bargain one-on-one with Superintendent Earl Gabriel this Friday, April 22, and have set a strike deadline of May 2 if their contract cannot be resolved.

Chief negotiator Mike Gehoski of the St. Johns Education Association, and Gabriel, each backed respectively by a representative of the Michigan State Education Association and the Michigan Association of School Boards are expected to meet.

Progress of their negotiations has been "blacked out," and neither side has commented since they met last March 30 for a 12-hour marathon session in which

"some progress was made," according to a joint release.

Ovid-Elsie teachers and their school board are waiting for a report from a state fact-finder, hired by both at a cost of $600 each. Superintendent Dave Porrell said he expects results in time for a May 3 board meeting.

"Despite the fact that teachers in Fowler are compensated more poorly than other teachers, we felt that it was necessary to demonstrate to the community that teachers are not the selfish, uncaring individuals we are often portrayed as being," Spalsbury said.

Olive Township Hall was up for sale last weekend, along with the land it sits on and everything in it. Only one person bid on the hall, but some other items drew interest. The old town hall, being replaced by a former grade school, didn't have indoor plumbing but never lacked for heat, according to

A piece of the past is auctioned off

By PETER W. BRONSON

Going once, going twice ... sold, a township hall and all it contains.

Olive Township Hall, built in the late 1800s (as near as anyone can tell) was auctioned off last weekend. Most of the old white clapboard structure on US-27 is already being torn down; the rest, a newer addition, will begin a second life as a hunting cabin, according to Earl Barks, township supervisor.

"We were quite satisfied," Barks said of the Saturday auction. "All together we took in $1,250."

Only one person placed a bid on the building, Barks said. That winning bid was $275. "We had two or three other people come in and ask questions about it and look it over, but none of them put a bid on it."

Landfill leaks

By PETER W. BRONSON

Polluted water leaking from Granger Landfill in Watertown Township must be stopped "immediately," according to Attorney General Frank Kelley.

Kelley has asked Ingham County Circuit Judge Carolyn Stell to order Granger to stop the flow of water from the landfill; a hearing on the request was set for today.

Kelley said a state investigation discovered that water contaminated with chemicals was being discharged through a culvert to an open drain, then through the Openlander Drain, through farmlands and residential areas, and into the Looking Glass River one-and-a-half miles away.

"It is not now a health hazard, but levels are unpredictable," a release from Kelley said. Furthermore, spring rains could make the situation worse, he said, and the discharge of "volatile chemicals which evaporate readily ... must be stopped immediately."

"We have initially agreed that there may be some organics in the pipe ... and we plan on aggressively pursuing and solving the problem," Granger spokesman Kurt Guter said.

Guter said the chemical most likely to worry Kelley and the State Department of Natural Resources (DNR), which regulates landfills, is Methylene Chloride, a paint stripper.

"We are drafting alternative (solutions) to present in court or to the DNR," he said. Granger is attempting to cut off the source of the chemicals, which are being carried in a drain which runs along the outside edge of the old landfill and under Granger's new landfill, he said.

"We're not sure, but we suspect the chemicals are coming from the old landfill," Guter said. Granger is presently allowed to dump limited amounts of toxic wastes in the old site under a grandfathering agreement with the DNR.

According to Michael Shore, an administrative assistant to Kelley, the Attorney General's request was to be heard April 21. Judge Stell is presently hearing a lawsuit against Granger filed by the People's Action League. She took the case over from former judge Ray Hotchkiss when Hotchkiss lost his bid for re-election last fall.

It was Hotchkiss who granted an earlier injunction preventing Granger from developing a hazardous waste landfill on property along Grand River in southern Clinton County, just north of Grand Ledge.

Two oil-burning furnaces in the hall raised $250 each, and the land the township hall sat on was sold for $500. The remaining auction items consisted of tables and chairs, a desk and other "odds and ends," according to Barks' wife, Mary, who helped run the auction.

Most of the money will be used on roads or to equip the new township hall, the former Olive Center Elementary School sold to the township by St. Johns School District last year.

"I couldn't think of a fairer way to dispose of it," Barks said. The auction was an open-bid affair, he explained, in which anyone was welcome to look over the bids already placed and raise them before the deadline at noon.

The land on which the building sat was unbuildable, and amounted to less than a tenth of an acre, Barks said. It went to the owner of the surrounding property.

Former Township Supervisor Almond Cressman said he won't miss the old township hall, which had no running water or indoor plumbing. "It didn't even have a well on the property," he said. "I'm not one to stand in the way of progress."

It may not have had plumbing, but the old township hall seldom lacked for heat, Cressman recalled. "I was township supervisor in the late '50s, when zoning was in its infancy. It was a very hot issue. People were very reluctant to give up their rights, they weren't about to be dictated to by any township board or government. I took a lot of heat."

And when angry citizens didn't keep township hall toasty warm, there was always the giant wood stove and plenty of cut cordwood. "In bad weather, we'd run through an entire cord of wood during an election," Cressman said.

"I like to remember about some of those times, others I don't like to talk about," he laughed. Although Cressman could not pin down the exact date when the township hall was built, he guessed the late 1880s. And he offered a bit of historical trivia about the name of the township.

"A meeting was held by Orange Ferguson for the purpose of naming the township. He wished to name it after his daughter, Charlotte. But Peter Merrihew, another founder, wanted to name it after his daughter, Olive. "Somehow, Merrihew won out."

Protests aired

By AL PALMERI

Despite objections by some town residents, an adult foster care home for 12 mentally handicapped adults will open in Eureka on Thursday, April 28.

Officials of the Clinton-Eaton-Ingham Community Mental Health Board met Tuesday with Eureka residents at the home, located at 7808 Fremont St.

The board has been informing neighbors about its plans for the home since it agreed to lease the home from the Clinton Area Care Center, Inc., on March 29.

Though the home is properly zoned and licensed, board officials are being very cautious. Communities have been known to resist adult foster care homes when they were proposed for their towns.

"We've gotten a mixed reaction (in Eureka)," said Art Wickersham, director of community support services for the Community Mental Health Board. "Some people are positive, some are neutral and some people don't want us there at all. The most organized group is the negative group."

Wickersham said he has seen a pattern in many of the adult foster care home projects. Fierce resistance from a core of residents greets the project. But resistance fades away within a year or two.

"Community acceptance works over a time," Wickersham said. "These are good people. That's why I personally like Eureka."

Target date for moving six of the mentally handicapped adults into the home is Thursday, April 28, said Tom Sherby, supervisor at Clinton County Counseling Center.

"I'd imagine it'd be several months before we reach full capacity," said Sherby, whose center will provide counseling for the adults.

At least four or five people will be hired to staff the home, Sherby said.

Clinton Area Care Center, Inc. had spent about $90,000 to renovate the home. But when the corporation had trouble filling the building, it decided to lease it to the Community Mental Health Board.
