

Let's start over, county board says

By PETER W. BRONSON

Enough already. Let's start over.

That, in essence, was the decision of Clinton County Commissioners, who passed a resolution Friday urging abandonment of the Maple River Drain project.

Since it was begun 25 years ago to relieve flooding of farmer's fields in northeastern Clinton County and portions of Shiawassee and Gratiot counties, the project has been tied up in legal webs.

Although they don't have the authority to apply the brakes themselves and stop

'It's ridiculous,' said

Richard DePond.

the project, county commissioners have urged the sometimes fractious Intercountry Drain Board which supervises the project to give up.

A similar motion was approved by Shiawassee County Commissioners Aug. 11. The third county involved in the project, Gratiot, was set to discuss the project Aug. 6, but Gratiot Drain Commissioner Gerald Daymon says he is not in favor of abandonment. "It's been going on for 50 years now, why abandon it?" he asked. Daymon said he was most concerned about getting Gratiot's share of costs for the project reduced.

There are plenty of people in all three counties who want the drain, said Clinton Commissioner Richard DePond, who represents the areas most affected by the project. But thanks to legal entanglements, the project will never drain anything but patience and taxpayers' bank accounts, DePond said.

"It's ridiculous," DePond said. "It's been going on since the 1950s but there's never been a shovel-full of dirt moved."

The only work that has been done on the project — engineering and land acquisition — has resulted in lawsuits. One suit filed by two Shiawassee County townships is due for a hearing in Livingston County soon, but the claims in the suit are so confusing the judge hearing the case has asked the townships to state plainly just what they're after, said a spokesman for the office of Intercountry Drain Board Chairman Harry Mikán. Mikán could not be reached for comment.

Another suit filed by engineering firms which prepared plans for the drain resulted in a $240,000 judgement against the drain board. Arden Pierson, Clinton County's new drain commissioner, refused to comment on the county board's latest decision because his firm, Pierson and Associates, is one of those which is owed money for work on the project. The Intercountry Drain Board simply does not have the money to pay him, he said.

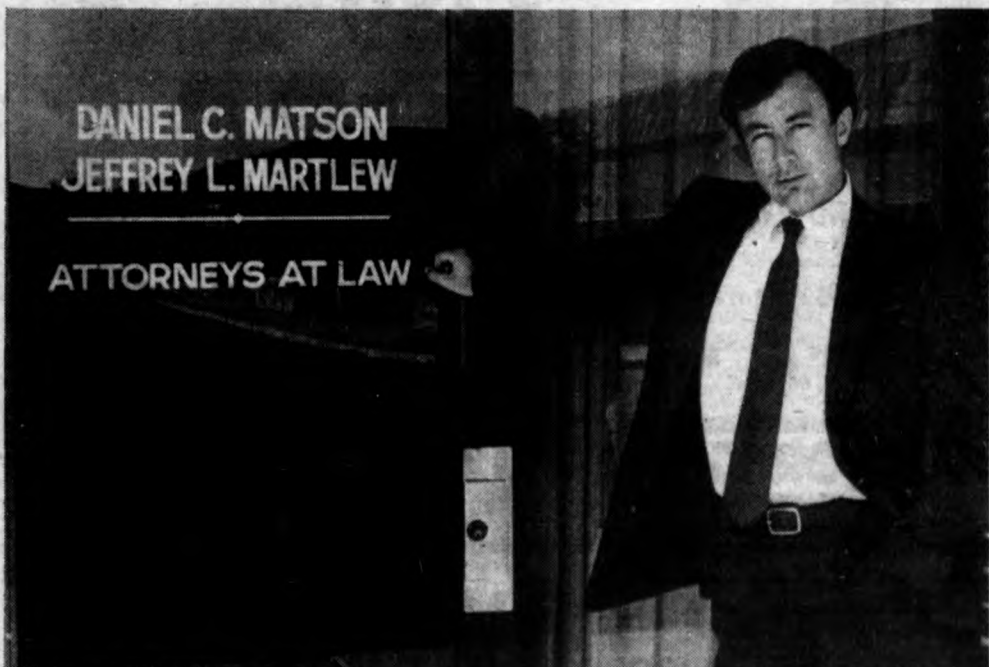

Although he insisted no two persons involved with the project would probably agree on anything about it, DePond offered his own opinions Friday and explained why he favors abandonment.

"There are people who don't want to see it abandoned, but I just don't see any end to this," he said. "I think that probably (the drain) is needed, but I voted for the motion to abandon it this morning because this thing is so complicated and it has gone on for so many years, we need to get all of this past wiped out and start over with a clean slate."

Commissioners also approved spending $500 for an attorney's opinion on whether the intercountry drain board would be able to borrow money to pay the $240,000 judgement. "Eventually, the taxpayer will have to foot the bill," DePond said. "If they had the authority to borrow the money to pay the engineering firms, that would expedite the immediate problem."

If the legal red tape could be cut, or at least unraveled, the Intercountry Drain Board could begin the project again in a year's time, DePond said.

But the Ovid commissioner said he was skeptical the abandonment would be approved. "There's been a lot of dissension on the drain board," he pointed out. "I don't know how we can get them to agree on this if they can't agree on anything else."

ATTORNEYS AT LAW

Campaigning

DeWitt attorney Jeff Martlew, pausing outside the office he shares with Dan Matson in the Country Meadows Center, says he'll run against 65th District Judge Fred Lewis in the November, 1984 election. Martlew runs for judge

By PETER W. BRONSON

DeWitt attorney Jeff Martlew has announced he will run against 65th District Judge Fred Lewis in November, 1984.

"I don't know what the big rush is," Lewis said when notified of Martlew's plans. Martlew said his early announcement is all part of his campaign strategy.

"My campaign will focus on upholding the dignity of the court with an emphasis on respect for the law," Martlew, 33, said in a prepared release last Thursday.

"I feel I am prepared for the responsibilities and decisions faced by a district judge. My seven years experience in comprehensive probate law practice, including hundreds of appearances before the various state courts and counseling individual and corporate clients, has given me a solid understanding of the law."

Martlew said he has resigned his position as finance chairman of the Clinton County Republican Party in order to seek the non-partisan judicial post.

A 1976 Cooley Law School graduate, he graduated from the University of Michigan in 1972. He practiced law in his hometown, Flint, for two years before moving to DeWitt in January, 1979. He has been DeWitt's City Attorney for four and a half years, and lives in DeWitt with his wife, Virginia, and seven-month-old daughter.

"I didn't really have any plans to be shoved off the nest yet," Lewis chuckled, confirming he will seek re-election. Lewis has been district judge for 10 years.

Martlew belongs to the American, Michigan and Clinton County bar associations, is active in the Lions Club and civic projects and attends Redeemer United Methodist Church in DeWitt.

"Managing my own office and advising business clients has offered practical experience that will aid me as an efficient, cost-conscious court administrator," he said.

Labor Day quiet in county

Bath Township Police made three arrests, but elsewhere in the county, law enforcement agencies reported a quiet Labor Day weekend and few incidents during the past week.

Among the complaints and activities reported by Clinton County police and sheriff's deputies were:

- Kevin Houghton, 14, of Peacock Road, Bath Township, was treated for a broken arm at Sparrow Hospital following an accident near his home Sept. 1, Bath Township Police reported.

Reports said Houghton was driving a three-wheeled vehicle north on Peacock when Martha Argersinger, 57, of Laingsburg, rounded a curve headed south and struck him head-on.

Houghton, who was in the wrong lane, was flipped over the auto, but not seriously injured.

- Alan Lee Miller, 19, 1416 Haslett Road, Bath Township, was arrested for violation of a license restriction by Bath Township Police. Miller was cited Aug. 30.

- Maria Laredo, 30, 15320 Chandler, Bath Township, was arrested for driving without an operators license by Bath Township Police. She was cited Aug. 31.

- Timothy Fenner, 23, of 1213 Woodbine, Lansing, was arrested by Bath Township Police on charges of disturbing the peace after allegedly throwing beer bottles at the home of a girl who "stood him up," township police reported.

- A breaking and entering and larceny was reported to the Clinton County Sheriff's Department Sept. 2 by Pat Hogan of St. Johns. Reports said $73, a floor jack, some gasoline and a pair of bolt cutters were taken in a break-in at Buck Stove and Randolph's, two businesses which share the same building north of St. Johns.

- A chainsaw valued at $350 was taken from the back of a pickup parked at the Knob Hill Bar, owner Dick Frenchen reported to sheriff's deputies Aug. 30.

- About $850 worth of stereo equipment was taken from two vehicles in a break-in at Highland Hills Golf Course, reports said. Owners Jim St. Germain of DeWitt and Daniel Weston of St. Johns reported the thefts on Sept. 1.

- Steve Klein of Jones Road, Pewamo, reported the theft of 300 gallons of gas from a tank on his property Aug. 30.

- William Tomkins of Forrest Hill Road, Grand Ledge, reported the theft of gas, an electric saw and a hedge trimmer from his garage on Sept. 3, sheriff's reports said.

Football season kicks off colorful fall imagination

I may as well come right out and say it, since this is a special football edition.

Football is my favorite sport.

Before swimming, soccer and tennis parents start dashing off letters of protest, let me explain. I like your sports, too. In fact, tennis is probably my favorite sport to play — I love that powerful feeling when I bash the ball with topspin.

But football, ah, football. The American sport. The sport that is adored more here than anywhere else in the world. Don't you just love the classy teams? Think of the Pittsburgh Steelers. The Dallas Cowboys. The Fowler Eagles. The Pewamo-Westphalia Pirates.

Yes, high school teams with winning traditions are just as appealing to me as professional championship clubs. No matter what the level, football is football. There's something about it that I love to love.

When you say the word "football" to natives of other countries, they often get visions of men in shorts kicking a round ball toward a goal. We refer to that sport as soccer. To them, it is football — pure football. After all, you play it with your feet, not your hands. Isn't it logical, they say, to call our game football instead of soccer, and to call American football something else?

Semantics aside, when I hear the word football, entirely different images pop into my brain. They are American images, pure and simple. Images like a helmet ringing when a teammate zings you with his chinstrap and touchdown passes slithering off your fingers. Memories of when I played the game (however few and inglorious) and memories of tremendous games I have watched.

As August arrives and conditioning drills approach, the memories start to blossom.

Despite 90 degree temperatures, I picture crisp autumn evenings in country settings where two battle-ready teams prepare to butt helmets. Opening night is something special — the sight of familiar helmets and colors, excitable cheerleaders and hundreds of fans really grips me.

Opening night fires me up. The drama is sometimes overplayed, but there's no denying its importance to the teams involved. It's the culmination of months of preparation in the off-season, and weeks of August practice are focused on that game. In Michigan high school football, it's often a night of do or die, in the sense that one loss can knock you out of a state playoff berth.

Opening night games are often low scoring, because the offenses make more mistakes than the defenses early in the season. Some fans think that is boring, but I am not one of them. I love the intrigue of a scoreless game as it enters the fourth quarter. Well-coached teams will usually prevail, since one bad punt, blown coverage, fumble or interception can cost the team a loss.

I know sportswriters are supposed to be impartial, and I strive to maintain that perspective about Clinton County athletics. But there's something special about filled football stadiums Friday nights that I cannot deny. If you plan to attend your team's first game tomorrow, you may not be able to deny it, either.

Champion steer raiser

Bill Ritchie, 17, a senior at Bath High School, recently won Reserve Grand Champion honors in steer competition at the Michigan State Fair. Ritchie's steer, a Chianina Angus cross breed, beat out about 60-70 others for the honor. "The showing was probably as tough as it's ever been," said Ritchie, "and I've been there seven years now."

Ritchie's all-black steer was bought off a farm in Kalamazoo and reared in Bath. To please the judges, he said he had to be careful feeding the steer. He also had to train the steer to walk by using a halter, and comb the steer every day.

ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS

LEGAL NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the Clinton County Zoning Board of Appeals will conduct a public hearing on Monday, September 19, 1983 at 8:00 P.M. in the Clinton County Service Center, 306 E. Elm Street, St. Johns, Michigan.

The subject of the public hearing will be the consideration of the following case:

ZBA-18-9-83 Olive Township - Dimensional Variance

An application for a dimensional variance has been filed by Mr. Donald Seyfried, 3446 W. Cutler Road, DeWitt, MI pursuant to Sec. 4.4.5 of OR-1-78, the Clinton County Zoning Ordinance. Relief, if granted, would permit the construction of an addition to the house closer to the r/o/w of Cutler Road than permitted by Sec. 6.5.5(E) of the zoning ordinance.

Legal description of affected parcel: Com. 273.5' W. of SE cor. of W 1/2 of W 1/2 of SE 1/4. Sec. 31, T6N-R2W, th. N. 250', W. 179', S. 250', E. 179' to POB.

ZBA-16-8-83 Olive Township-Clarification of Action by ZBA on 8/15/83 - Industrial Phosphating

At this time the Board will deliberate a request by Mr. Edward Spalding that the transfer of an 85% interest in Industrial Phosphating Company to FHB, Inc. and the transfer of real estate from Edward A. and Eva Marie Spalding to Clinton County Investment Co. A Michigan General Partnership and the subsequent merger of Industrial Phosphate Company into FHB, Inc. will not adversely affect the present permission which has been granted Edward A. and Eva Marie Spalding and Industrial Phosphating Company to operate Industrial Phosphating business at 6035 Krepps Road.

Appeals Board action is necessitated since the Clinton County ZBA granted authorization to Industrial Phosphating in 1/28/64 to operate said business predicated upon the premise that the business cannot be sold or transferred. The Department of Development Control is requesting a clarification of the Board's 8/15/83 action concerning the above referenced case due to insufficient specificity in the motion to approve.

ZBA-19-9-83 Watertown Township - Dimensional Variance

An application for a dimensional variance has been filed by Mr. Glenn Patrick, 9861 Grand River Ave., Grand Ledge, MI pursuant to Sec. 4.4.5 of OR-1-78, the Clinton County Zoning Ordinance. Relief, if granted, would permit the construction of a 36 x 24 accessory building in the R-1A zone district which limits the size of accessory buildings to 900 sq. ft. The applicant has an existing 40 x 80 building on the site.

Com. S87°E 657.62' & N 332.62' from W 1/4 cor. of Sec. 30, T5N-R3W, th. N. 391.42' to c/l of Gr. Riv. Ave., S. 75°E 356.06', S. 307.55', N. 88°W 344.26' to beg.

The appeal application and OR-1-78, the Clinton County Zoning Ordinance are available for public inspection in the Department of Development Control located at 1003 S. Oakland Street, St. Johns, MI between 8:00 A.M.-12 Noon; 1:00-5:00 P.M. Monday through Friday. District Court

Judge sentences 9 drunk drivers

... could have been made for delivery of drugs and sale of alcohol to underage drinkers. Terms like "circus," "mini-woodstock" and "farmers' market" for drugs and drinks were used by officers who made the arrests.

Advertised as "Lansing's biggest party," Buck Night is sponsored by the drive-in and WILS, a Lansing radio station known for hard rock. The event attracts throngs of kids who come to party, not for the movies, police said.

"There is alcohol there," Angell admitted. "There is a lot of it in there. If we spot underage drinkers, we make them pour their beer out. But our attorney has taken the position that if we shine a light in their cars and search people, we are infringing on their rights."

During special Buck Nights on Wednesdays and Thursdays, Wigglesworth said, illegal vendors sell "all you can drink" for $3, and stamp the hands of underage as well as legal drinkers. Of the four arrests, one was for minor in possession of alcohol, two were for marijuana sale and possession and the other was for interfering with officers.

"Where we take issue," Angell continued, "is with open sale of narcotics." The former DeWitt Township Police Chief, fired ten years ago in a dispute with the township board, said his six or eight security guards walk an average of 100 miles a night through the aisles, and have not seen flagrant drug sales.

Wigglesworth stood by his statement that kids were openly hawking trays of marijuana, but Angell said the undercover cop was "exaggerating to a great extent."

"We have not seen trays of marijuana, and we wouldn't miss that," he said. "If there was open sale of drugs, why weren't there more arrests?" he asked. "They thought they had a major problem, but when they got here it was not as bad as they thought, so they made those arrests just to cover their..."

"As for hard drugs like LSD and cocaine, most of the kids who come in here have a dollar and some change in their pockets. They even pay us in change. They can't afford those kinds of drugs."

Wigglesworth, Lee and DeWitt Township Capt. Larry Jones said Tuesday they stick by their version of events, and Jones said an arrest last week on two charges of sale of LSD proves hard drugs are openly sold.

He said Curt Adams, 24, of 3117 S. Logan, Lansing, approached an undercover officer at the drive-in and offered him LSD. "This warrant (for Adams' arrest) bears it out," Jones said.

But Angell accused all of the officers of entrapment, and said they caused more problems than they solved. "There were ways of achieving their goals without coming in here like storm troopers," he said. "They came in the exit at 35 to 40 miles per hour with six patrol cars. It's not well lighted back there and if one of our patrons was leaving at the time there would have been a head-on collision and probably a fatality."

Wigglesworth accused Angell of being uncooperative. "Oh baloney," he snorted when told of Angell's allegation that the police nearly caused a riot.

"It's obvious they didn't want any police in there. He's a rent-a-cop and an ex police officer and he should know the legality of what was being done."

Wigglesworth said rocks and beer bottles were thrown at officers, who were forced to beat a hasty retreat rather than make more arrests. "It did get ugly. Discretion was the better part of valor."

Lee said he backs up his officers. "I don't know of any problem we created by sending people in," he said. "The problem was there, we just tried to put a cap on it."

Angell's and Wigglesworth's versions of several incidents were very different. Angell said he first spotted the narcotics officer when a patron complained he had seen Wigglesworth put a gun in his glove compartment.

Wigglesworth says police goofed

Wigglesworth called that a "trumped-up" complaint by Angell, who wished to eject him, and insisted he never puts a gun in his glove compartment. "He just made that up," he said of Angell.

Lee also disagreed with Angell's claim that township police "shake down" anyone driving near the drive-in on Buck Nights. "We have a problem when they come out of there intoxicated. We've got everything documented. I've requested that my people give it extra attention," the chief said.

Angell said his patrons' rights are being "stomped on," and called the arrests a "power play." Business was down by 60 percent on the night following the busts, he added.

"It really startles me the way this was handled," he said. "We just seriously question their motives and the way this was carried out. It was a serious error on the part of the police chief. I'm not going to name names and get someone in trouble, but one of the officers who was there told me it was really poorly done and that he wished he hadn't even been there."

"If anything, I understated what happened there," Wigglesworth replied. "In other words, they look the other way and permit this to go on. I wonder what their liability will be when a 15-year-old leaves drunk and gets wiped out on the highway."

With school back in session, the problem will "pretty much take care of itself this year," Lee said. "What we're worried about is next year."

Stringent laws deserve praise

Though time must elapse before an accurate analysis can be made, it appears as if Michigan's stricter drunk driving laws are working as supporters had hoped.

Statistics from the Labor Day weekend reveal 15 killed on Michigan highways, compared to 21 last year. This fits in with the 1983 trend of decreasing fatalities, which seems to be a result, at least partly, of the tougher drunk driving law which went into effect April 1.

The crackdown on drunk drivers was generated after lobbying by Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) and an increase in public awareness of drinking's tremendous cost to our society. The tragic loss of lives in drinking-related accidents has been documented all too often for the public.

On the other hand, the new law is not without its own costs, as bar owners, more than anyone, realize. As we report in this issue (see pages 8 and 9), many are claiming the new law is taking bites out of their profits. They are angry about the legislation, and the heightened effort by most police agencies to enforce it.

Bar owners may lose a lot and all may suffer as a result of closed businesses and lost tax revenue. But we feel this is a small price to pay for safer roads and saved lives. No price can be placed on the untold human suffering and cost to society resulting from just one needless drunk driving death, possibly prevented by the tougher laws.

For our part, we're making an effort to show that we care by improving our coverage of drunk driving. Criticized in the past for too thorough and not-thorough-enough coverage, we will now publish regular reports from the District Court, which handles all drunk driving cases in the county. The first report appears in this edition.

We feel this is a way to make our coverage more consistent.

Champion steer raiser

Bill Ritchie, 17, a senior at Bath High School, recently won Reserve Grand Champion honors in steer competition at the Michigan State Fair. Ritchie's steer, a Chianina Angus cross breed, beat out about 60-70 others for the honor. "The showing was probably as tough as it's ever been," said Ritchie, "and I've been there seven years now."

Ritchie's all-black steer was bought off a farm in Kalamazoo and reared in Bath. To please the judges, he said he had to be careful feeding the steer. He also had to train the steer to walk by using a halter, and comb the steer every day.

The Bath teenager, son of Lou and Harlan Ritchie, is a Chianina.

Facts require second look

To the editor:

In the Aug. 25 edition of your paper, readers saw one more glaring example of uninformed journalism. It was evident to those who know the facts that Peter Bronson lacked the ability to investigate the facts about what is happening these days at the Granger Landfill.

During the months since the April court order by Judge Carolyn Stell, the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has conducted preliminary tests on groundwater samples from the Granger site. However, the DNR representatives were in error when they said that there was no contamination. The fact is that an independent review of test results indicate that there were several chemical compounds indicated in those tests that were not identified by the DNR laboratory. Other questions over laboratory procedures used on the samples showed that mistakes were made. It may be necessary to resample the groundwater on the site before results can be determined. It is simply too soon to say what the condition of the aquifer at the site is like. In this case, no news is simply that, no news.

In addition to the problems of the monitoring program, other events concerning the site might provide more insight into what is happening these days at Granger. For instance, construction of a portion of the clay cut-off walls was completed by the company in violation of their court order. Now that construction is completed, Granger is asking for court approval. It was a case of putting the cart before the horse. It seems that Granger still doesn't understand that laws were made for everyone to uphold, not just for some.

In a separate article, it was said that increased fees for use of the dump by St. Johns residents was in part due to the work of PAL, and because of the trust fund formed as a condition of the county special use permit. Again, Mr. Bronson fails to get the fact straight. Maybe in his zeal to boost sales for the paper, he forget to check the facts one more time. The status of the trust fund is a real joke. Money has been collected for this fund since December, 1982. The amount collected is around $34,000. But Mr. Granger filed an appeal on Judge Randy Tahvonen's decision last fall, so he thinks that he doesn't have to abide by the trust agreement. To date, the $34,000 sits in his own bank account collecting interest for his company. He thinks that he can keep on bullying people in Watertown Township. He tried to tell township officials that it was all the People's Action League's (PAL) fault because PAL filed a counter-appeal. But he failed to mention that we had offered to drop our appeal if he would drop his. He never responded to our offer.

PAL's participation in the process has always been to ensure the local residents that operations at the landfill were run in FULL compliance with state and federal laws, even if the price tag was expensive.

It would be nice to think that the caliber of journalism of reporters for this paper would improve, at least to reporting all the facts. But after two years of having to respond editorially to clarify the facts, I've become accustomed to mailing them in.

Sincerely,
pursuant to Sec. 4.4.5 of OR-1-78, the Clinton County Zoning Ordinance. Relief, if granted, would permit the construction of a 36 x 24 accessory building in the R-1A zone district which limits the size of accessory buildings to 900 sq. ft. The applicant has an existing 40 x 80 building on the site.

The appeal application and OR-1-78, the Clinton County Zoning Ordinance are available for public inspection in the Department of Development Control located at 1003 S. Steamboat gets to St. Johns in just 18 minutes

CLINTON COUNTY REPUBLICAN NEWS, APRIL 3, 1924 — R.S. Clark, former St. Johns clothier and now senior member of the firm of Clark, Beach and Aultman, amuses himself evenings by "listening in" on the various radio programs around the country. Last Thursday evening, Mr. Clark and family were enjoying the concert from station GMC at Memphis, Tenn. Between numbers, the announcer would read telegrams from various points in the country which stated that the program was "coming in" fine, and before each number, a steamboat whistle would sound.

Mr. Clark remarked to his son, R.G., "I believe those telegrams are all bunk. I wish they would put up that 'Dream Daddy' song again."

R.G. Quietly slipped out of the room and telephoned to Al Miller, Western Union operator at the G.T. Station. "I want you to take a wire to station GMC in care of the Commercial Appeal at Memphis, Tenn."

"Alright, fire away," said Miller. The following message was sent: "Send your steamboat up to Michigan with 'Dream Daddy.' P.G. Clark and party, St. Johns, Michigan."

R.G. Quietly slipped back into the room and listened to the songs that were coming in. Just 18 minutes later, the announcer at Memphis said, "Here's a telegram from St. Johns, Michigan; says the program is coming in fine; wants us to send the steamboat up with 'Dream Daddy.' Alright, Mr. Clark, the steamboat is on its way." Then followed the song that the senior Clark liked so well. After telling the family what he had done, the group admitted that most of the telegrams are bona-fide and that "The world does move."

Carpenter earns 4-H award

By GREG LaFOUNTAIN

Julie Carpenter of Eagle was presented the Clinton County Outstanding 4-H'er of the Year award by County 4-H Extension Leader Theresa Silm during a special award ceremony on Thursday, Aug. 18.

One of three semi-finalists in the running, Julie was presented a trophy and a $50 United States Savings Bond.

Julie explained that she really didn't expect to receive the honor.

"It came as a surprise," she stated. "I entered thinking that I had the remotest chance of winning. Two days later I received a letter in the mail saying I was scheduled for an interview."

"The interview went well, but I knew the other two contestants," she continued. "They were older than I was, and I didn't think I had a whole lot of chance of winning. I was really surprised when they called my name at the presentation."

The award, the most prestigious which can be presented a 4-H'er, is bestowed each year on the person who combines participation in the greatest number of 4-H activities, helping with their respective club, the winning of a significant number of awards throughout their time as a 4-H'er and participation in outside and school activities.

The award was presented on the final day of the Clinton County 4-H Fair.

During her eight years as a 4-H'er, Julie has received trophies for projects ranging from sewing to livestock, including Best of Show Senior Clothing Exhibit and Championship Senior Beef Showmanship. She has also received top awards for Public Speaking and Demonstration at both the county and state levels.

Her outside activities included the State Polled Hereford Junior Association in which she currently serves as president. She was also a State Reporter for three years, during which time her newsletters were considered tops in the Midwest.

She was a member of the Portland High School Senior Debate team for three years, and also the Forensics, a public speaking organization.

Julie is currently enrolled in the nursing program at Lansing Community College, with plans to become a registered nurse. She also expects to continue her involvement with 4-H by working as a teen leader in the coming year.

Julie is the daughter of Harold and Janet Carpenter of Eagle, and is a 1983 graduate of Portland High School. She was a member of the Eagleites 4-H Club, led by Alice Sullivan.

Eagles add cross country

Fowler school board members offered strong support for cross country by voting to fund the sport this year for the first time.

Cross country has existed as a varsity sport at Fowler since 1980, but never with school-board funding.

Superintendent Jim Andros said the sport was added as part of Fowler's emphasis to restore certain programs across the board. The success of Fowler's state-ranked track teams has also generated interest in cross country, Andros said.

Funding cross country will cost the district $1,000, Andros said. The money will come from the general fund, he said, and will fund a coach's salary and transportation.

Coach Kim Spalsbury said 18 runners — nine boys and nine girls — will compete for the Eagles this year.

Fowler opens its season today at the Clinton County cross country meet in DeWitt.

Upset with drunk driving laws

Bar owners claim legislation slices profits

By AL PALMERI

Bar owners in Clinton County may not be crooning "How Dry I Am," but many say Michigan's stricter drunk driving laws have served to reduce their number of customers.

A Clinton County News survey of bar owners and employees indicated four out of six blamed the April 1 laws for reduced business. Two bar employees in St. Johns said the new laws have not hurt their business.

Those who criticized the new laws said they have reduced the number of bar patrons after midnight. They also have caused more people to purchase alcohol at grocery and party stores and consume it at home, according to some bar owners.

"It has affected us quite a lot," said Pat Lang, co-owner of The DeWitt Bar. "There isn't a person who doesn't come in there that doesn't remark on it, especially in DeWitt."

Mrs. Lang, who works part-time as a cashier for DeWitt Shoprite, said she has noticed an increase in beer and wine sales at the store since April. She contends that this has been hurting business at her bar, which has been experiencing a rapid decline in customers after 11 p.m.

"They're partying at home," Mrs. Lang said.

Major changes in the drunk driving laws include:

- Use of preliminary roadside breath testing equipment by law enforcement officers.
- Enforcement of a law which makes it illegal to drive with a blood alcohol content level of 10 percent or more. The only proof required for conviction is a chemical test.

- Mandatory loss of driver's license if convicted of any drunk driving offense.

- Mandatory pre-sentence participation in a substance abuse screening and assessment program to check whether the offender would benefit from alcohol rehabilitation services.

Penalty for operating a vehicle while under the influence of alcohol is a $100-$500 fine, plus court costs, for the first offense, plus a jail sentence of up to 90 days. A driver's license suspension of six months to two years is also included.

As the new laws are being enforced, bartenders have been noticing changes in their customers' actions. For example, the typical after-the-softball-game gatherings at town pubs this summer have been smaller and much quieter.

"At night, very seldom do you have the bar filled like you do during the weekends," said Nancy Van Deusen, bartender at Miller's Bar in Fowler. Last year, after softball tournaments, a lot of the ballplayers would spend three or four hours in the bar. They haven't done that this year."

Patrons at Miller's Bar frequently complain about the stiff penalties under the new law and keep an eye out for law enforcement officials when they exit.

"We could close up after 1 a.m., because there doesn't seem to be anyone around," the bartender said. "There's a lot of them in and out, because they don't want to be seen in one bar for too long."

"After 1 a.m., people just want to be off the road," said Charlie Minner, owner of the Roadhouse in St. Johns which does about 20 percent of its business as a bar.

Dick Miller, owner of Miller's Place in Elsie, said his bar's business has dropped by 10 percent since the new laws went into effect. He said he believes the business has switched to sales of alcohol in stores.

"I'm president of the Shiawassee County Licensed Beverage Association, and all of them (37 bar owners) claim they've been affected by it," Miller said.

To illustrate his point, Miller quoted a statistic saying Michigan's beer production has increased 1 percent this year.

"Takeout business is real good in these party stores," Miller said. "Truck drivers, these delivery guys, can tell you that."

Arrest statistics for drunk driving vary throughout the county, but many officers have been arresting more offenders since April.

In Bath, four of the township police's seven drunk driving arrests this year have been made since April.

In St. Johns, the figures are more graphic. In 1983, 31 of 42 drunk driving arrests have been made since April. The biggest month was May, when policemen arrested 12.

"They are enforcing it here in town," said Monty Adams, bartender at Betty's Dry Dock'd in St. Johns. "From talking to people around town, the city cops are getting down on it pretty heavy."

Mrs. Lang of The DeWitt Bar said she has noticed a crackdown there as well.

"We have a lot of people who make arrangements to have people pick them up," she said. "In DeWitt, we have the police on us all the time."

DeWitt Police Chief Wendell Myers said his force has not been doing anything out of the ordinary.

"I don't think we're enforcing it any more than we have before," he said, "but there are more people out in the summer months."

Though drunk driving arrests may be increasing because of the laws in most places, DeWitt Township is an exception. Police chief Carroll Lee said arrests there from April through July are down 61 percent from last year, dropping from 70 to 43.

Lee credits the stricter laws for that reduction, saying there are fewer drunk drivers to arrest on the roads.

Clinton County Sheriff's Department arrests are also down this year, by nine percent. Deputies arrested 80 drunk drivers in the first eight months of 1982, compared with 73 for the first eight months this year.

Though bar owners may complain about cuts in profits, they don't complain about lives the new laws may be saving.

Automobile Club of Michigan figures show a 10 percent decline in traffic deaths this year through Aug. 21, from 859 to 769. Deaths over Memorial Day and the 4th of July — holidays after the new laws went into effect — show a decrease from 39 to 32 from last year.

The Labor Day weekend death toll was 15, compared with 21 last year.

Automobile Club officials said the drunk driving laws could be one of several factors involved in the decreases. Other influences could be traffic patrols by police, increased public awareness of highway safety and traffic engineering improvements.

Law officials laud tougher drinking laws

We asked Clinton County law enforcement officials, "How have the stricter drunk driving laws affected traffic safety in your area?" Here are their responses.

Sgt. Joseph Doll, Bath Township Police: "Statistics-wise, drinking has been put down to a minimum. We have a unique problem. We only have one (police) car in 36 square miles. But I do know the feeling of the people — 'Drinking is not going to be included in my driving habits any more.' They're scared to death of it."

Carroll Lee, DeWitt Township Police Chief: "I know our drunk drivers are down. I've talked to some bar owners and they said it's affected their business because patrons haven't been drinking and driving as much. Some are walking to bars. It's not surprising that we're arresting less because there aren't that many drunk drivers out there in the township. I think it's brought more people aware of the fact, 'Let's not be driving if we're intoxicated.' I think that's where we gained."

Lyle French, St. Johns City Police Chief: "At this point in time, I can't really say there's been any difference. It doesn't seem like the accident rate is down. Of course, we don't get that many accidents in the city where drinking is involved."

Anthony Hufnagel, Clinton County Sheriff: "I'm not sure we can make any safe assumptions at this point. I've heard people make comments about the law — 'You don't want to get caught drunk driving now.' Naturally, if you have less drunk drivers on the road, you're going to have less drinking-related accidents. I think it's too early to assess it. If it does create a better conviction rate, then it gets people thinking a little more strongly about it."

Wendell Myers, City of DeWitt Police Chief: "It's helped us substantially. People are aware of it and they're not as prone to be intoxicated. Most of them I've talked to have said it's good."

County girls basketball teams launch year

Five of the six Clinton County girls basketball teams posted winning seasons last year and talent to continue that tradition seems to be back.

Though the county's most spectacular player, St. Johns' Sue Pearsall, has left for Michigan State University, others are waiting to fill the gap.

Bath: First-year coach Tom Campbell took the Bees' job when Patty Terres resigned last year.

"It was open and I have a love for basketball," he said. "I thought it was a good opportunity, because I also teach here."

Bath lost three key starters from last year's team, including all-county performer Theresa Nugent. But after analyzing his returning talent, Campbell has nearly settled on his starting lineup.

Senior Janet Asbridge and junior Wendy Foote, a pair of three-year varsity players, should lead the team. Other probable starters are sophomore Lori Luoma, junior Mary Kloeckner and senior Wendy Miehke.

Two of Bath's biggest problems appear to be youth and lack of height. Eight juniors dot the roster, and the tallest player is Luoma at 5-foot-10.

The Bees finished 6-8 in the Ingham County League last year, well behind league leaders Haslett and Williamston.

Bath's home and league opener is next Thursday, 5:30 p.m., against Perry.

DeWitt: Frank Deak's team finished 13-8 last year, 7-3 in the Capital Circuit. Only Okemos — undefeated for years in league play — prevented the Panthers from grabbing the league championship.

DeWitt will rely on three players to provide most of the experience on this year's team — junior Renee White, junior Sheila Milner and senior Diane Lotre. White and Milner supply most of the team's height at 5-11 and 5-9, respectively.

Four other juniors — Toni Hufnagel, Tami Deak, Rikki Bouts and Chris Pearson — could dot the starting lineup, as well as senior Debbie Birgy.

Depth will come from sophomore Kelly Carey and seniors Renae Ebert and Shelly Renz.

If tradition holds true, DeWitt will probably get off to a slow start. "We spend a lot of time doing the fundamentals, and by the time the end of the season comes around, we're pretty good," Deak said.

DeWitt fans shouldn't be surprised if the Panthers lose two games in the season-opening tournament this weekend at Lake Odessa Lakewood.

"It's always been a good tournament," Deak said. "We haven't won a game there in three years. Last year, we lost to Haslett and East Lansing."

Fowler: According to coach Denny Smith, the Eagles will come nowhere near last year's 18-4 overall record, 8-2 in the Central Michigan Athletic Conference.

"We will struggle for fourth place in our league and .500 overall," said Smith.

Seven returning players will give Smith a solid starting lineup, but spectacular statistics do not color the group. Best of the bunch could be Peg Thelen, a 5-7 guard who was named honorable mention CMAC last year.

Forwards Brenda Feldpausch and Cathy Klein, and guards Patty Wieber and Vicky Feldpausch will also crack the starting lineup from time to time. Center Dar Schmitt — one of Fowler's taller players at 5-10 — and junior Judy George are both coming off knee surgery last year.

Juniors who could contribute are center Kelly Hafner, forwards Karen and Pam Halfmann and guards Lynn Thelen and Sarah Kohagen.

Fowler starts its conference schedule next Tuesday at Portland St. Patrick.

Ovid-Elsie: Marauder coach Mary Hudecek hopes depth, experience and quickness will offset a lack of height on this year's O-E squad, which plays its second game of the season tonight at Lansing Waverly.

"At least nine of the girls will see a lot of playing time," she said. "A strong bench will be an asset that will complement a fine starting team. We only have one tall girl, but I think we make up for the lack of size with quickness and desire."

Sparking the team will be guards Mary Perrien and Teri Woodbury, a pair of all-conference players. Perrien also was named honorable mention all-state.

Up front, Connie Hettinger, Paula Coleman, Kelly McCue and Lori Ross will see a lot of playing time. Another player expected to contribute is Tracey VanDeusen, a center who was brought up from junior varsity last season.

New players who could figure into O-E's plans are Shelby Terpstra, Angie Miller, Karen Case, Kim Coon and Nekane Zabaleta.

O-E, which finished 7-3 in the Mid-Michigan 'B' Conference and 11-10 overall last year, starts its home and conference schedule Sept. 20, 6 p.m., against Chesaning.

Pewamo-Westphalia: The Pirates would have to go pretty far this year to top what they've done in the past. In each of the past two seasons, they've advanced to the state Class C quarterfinals.

While that would be fine and dandy with P-W, the Pirates have a more immediate goal. They would like to do something they've never done before — win a CMAC championship.

Last year, despite only losing four times in the regular season, the Pirates finished third in the CMAC behind Portland St. Patrick and Fowler.

"We haven't played real consistent during the years," said coach Carol Bogard.

The return of seniors Patty Theis and Jackie Bauer stamps P-W as a strong threat for CMAC honors.

Theis, a 5-11 forward, averaged a team-high 12.5 points and 10.1 rebounds per game last year. Bauer, a 5-9 guard, averaged 10 points per game and led the team in steals and assists.

P-W opens conference play next Tuesday at Lathrop.

St. Johns: The Redwings, coached by Beth Swears, are coming off their third Mid-Michigan 'B' championship in four years. Last year's team was 9-1 in the conference, 14-6 overall.

The question on every Redwing fan's mind is how the team will react to Sue Pearsall's absence. She scored 1,065 points during a four-year varsity career and was named to three all-conference first teams and two all-state teams.

"It's going to be tough trying to fill Sue's shoes, but we might be a more balanced team," Swears said.

Indeed, eight players are battling for starting berths as the Redwings prepare for tonight's opener in the Okemos tournament.

Senior guards Janine Scott and Kim Heyer lend experience to the backcourt, along with juniors Chris Crowell and Lisa Thelen. Junior wings Pam Sehlke and Amy Hartsuff are also in contention for starting spots.

Height is provided by 5-10 junior Julie Karber and 5-11 sophomore Brenda Eiseler, a first-team all-conference player last year.

The Redwings can field one of the tallest teams this side of P-W with Scott (5-9), Sehlke (5-10) and Hartsuff (5-8).

Home opener for the Redwings is Sept. 27, 6 p.m., against Ionia.

County picks

Opening night is probably the toughest for any football forecaster to predict. But that's no excuse to sit on the sidelines.

Starting in this issue, the Clinton County News and DeWitt-Bath Review sports staffs (consisting of sports editor Al Palmeri) will predict the winners of games involving the six county schools.

Buoyed by the confidence of a perfect (0-0) record, here are the opening night picks.

St. Johns vs. Owosso: The Redwings are riding a seven-game winning streak and will remember last year's 14-9 loss. Owosso's run-and-shoot offense, triggered by third-year quarterback Darrin Rose, is expected to pass more than half the time. We favor St. Johns' experienced defensive backs. St. Johns 12, Owosso 6.

Pewamo-Westphalia vs. Eaton Rapids: The Greyhounds plan to test P-W through the air, but the Pirates should be up for the challenge. They have lost only one game in two years and won't stumble this time. P-W 20, Eaton Rapids 14.

Fowler vs. Maple Valley: The Lions have been talking revenge throughout the off-season after the Eagles handed them one of only two losses last year. Fowler won't lack incentive, since coach Steve Spicer says qualifying for the state playoffs would require a 9-0 season. No revenge here. Fowler 8, Maple Valley 6.

Bath vs. Battle Creek Pennfield: The home team, 9-0 last season, should swat the Bees again this year. It won't be as bad as last year's 35-0 count, though, because of Bath's marked improvement under coach Bob Popp. Battle Creek Pennfield 24, Bath 0.

Portland vs. Ovid-Elsie: The Marauders are the only county team at home this week, and they should treat their fans. O-E starts to hunt an elusive winning season by jumping on the Red Raiders. O-E 18, Portland 0.

DeWitt vs. Haslett: Haslett won't see DeWitt's blue and gold colors. The Vikings will see red and come out charging like bulls. A veteran DeWitt team stunned Haslett last year. This year's Panthers will pay for that. Haslett 28, DeWitt 6.

Redwings improve in scrimmage

Redwing Diary

By CHAD MUNGER

mates, like players on five other Clinton County football teams, are anxiously awaiting the 7:30 kickoff of the high school season on Friday.

Week No. 3 — School started Tuesday and two-a-days are over, finally!

Practice was mainly uneventful. We're basically trying to smooth out the rough edges after our scrimmage with Bay City, Lansing Everett and Mason.

Much improvement was obvious between our first and second scrimmages of the year, especially in the offense. Senior Mike Green and junior Brian Bates, both quarterbacks, each had good games, while the unit as a whole also played smoothly.

This week's game should be a challenge as Owosso will field a small, quick team which our line (quite a large one for St. Johns) will have to try and take advantage of.

Editor's note — This is the third in a series of diaries written by Chad Munger, a senior captain on the St. Johns football team. Chad and his team-

Pewamo-Westphalia eyes more j.v. success

By AL PALMERI

Scanning the years, Pewamo-Westphalia football coach Mike Folk has to pick his brain to visualize when the Pirates last lost a junior varsity football game.

But once he remembers, the image is vivid.

"I can see it right now," said Folk, recalling a 1977 game against Portland St. Patrick that was tied, 12-12. "They ran for a conversion, and we got ahold of their quarterback in the backfield and he threw it in the end zone. They relaxed, I guess."

The completed pass felled P-W, 14-12, and marked the last time the Pirates have lost a junior varsity football game. Entering tonight's 7 p.m. season opener at home against Eaton Rapids, P-W has not been beaten in 47 games.

Portland St. Patrick nearly broke the string by tying the Pirates in 1979. But the last three P-W teams have each posted 9-0 records.

Folk said he never thought much about the string until last year. Before that, the 1981 team surprised P-W coaches by winning all of its games.

"We seriously doubted we could even win the league that year, let alone go undefeated," Folk said. "And we went 9-0."

Folk mentioned several reasons why the Pirate jayvees have been so successful, including coaching, weightlifting and P-W's status as the largest school in the Central Michigan Athletic Conference.

The junior varsity coach from 1979-1982, Ron Kramer, deserves much of the credit, Folk said.

"If I had to sum up Ron Kramer in a few words, it's 'He demands perfection,'" Folk said. "I think that's probably one of the keys to it. If he's going to coach something, he demands that it be done right."

A heavier emphasis on weight training during the past five years has also contributed to the string.

Folk, with help from varsity assistant Kurt Mabe, preaches participation in a year-round weight training program for his players. Usually, players start lifting in eighth grade because other sports aren't offered to the athletes in the P-W system.

The result has been a very strong group of freshmen and sophomores. For example, every starting lineman last season could bench press 200 pounds.

P-W generally gets about 40 players out for the junior varsity team — about 20 freshmen and 20 sophomores. Leadership provided by the sophomores helps the team carry on the winning tradition.

"The sophomores are aware of it," said junior varsity coach Mark Rademacher, who was promoted to the head position this year when Kramer accepted the varsity basketball job. "They taste what a 9-0 season is like."

But all good things must grind to a halt, and P-W coaches won't be surprised when it happens. The priority there, as it is at every other high school, is the welfare of the varsity team.

"With only 18 kids on the varsity level, this might be the year we have to sacrifice one for the other," said Folk. "If we have kids hurt, there's no doubt probably we have to use kids from the junior varsity level."

Folk gave one example of how the string could end. If P-W loses its varsity quarterback, he said he would be forced to call up the junior varsity quarterback.

Another factor that could nip the string is P-W's tough schedule, which features Eaton Rapids, DeWitt and Portland.

"It may be a matter of time," Folk said. "It may be this year that they (any of those three) have an exceptional team. We'll be fighting the same battle with them that Fowler, Potterville and Portland St. Pats have fought with us. They've got more numbers."

Goalie Grant Linnell and forward Tarek Saad, seniors at St. Johns, completed their United States Soccer Federation (USSF) season with the Lansing Lasers by playing in the Wolverine tournament at Livonia.

Bath coach Bob Popp hopes to direct the Bees to another fine season. In his first season at Bath, the Bees turned their fortunes around and finished 5-4.

Good health a key for Bees' football

The story for Bath this year remains the same if the Bees are to be successful in the Ingham County League.

The Bees must remain healthy if they hope to contend with ICL giants Haslett and Williamston.

Twenty-two players plan to suit up for the Bees when they travel to tough Battle Creek Pennfield in the season opener. According to coach Bob Popp, every one is ready to go on both offense and defense.

If Bath is to duplicate last year's surprising 5-4 record, its experienced performers in the offensive backfield must remain healthy. Leading the way will be returning tailback Rick Ramseyer and quarterback Jeff Penrod, who backed up last year's starter, Steve Oberst.

Boosting Bath's backfield fortunes are a pair of seniors, Scott Wing and Chris Brower, who sat out their junior years of football.

Split ends Ray Rosenberry and John

Barnard, who carry in the plays from the sidelines, return to give Penrod capable targets. Freshman tight end Greg Miller also could move into a starting role.

Guards will be the strength of Bath's line, thanks to converted tight end Richard Lackey and Kirt Hagy. The rest of the line positions are up for grabs. Tackle Rod Biller, a 200-pound transfer from Lansing Eastern, has an inside track on a starting spot.

Hagy and Lackey key the defense from their inside linebacker spots, aided by junior linebacker Jeff Kostal.

Bath, which plays four of its first five games on the road, faces a stern opening night test in Battle Creek. The host team pounded the Bees last year, 35-0, and went on to win the rest of its games.

County rival DeWitt visits Bath in the season finale. The Bees gave DeWitt a scare last year before losing, 7-6.

Panthers hope for winning campaign

Fans in DeWitt who expect the Panthers to qualify for the state Class C playoffs again should lower their expectations, according to coach Gail Thornton.

Devastating graduation losses have left Thornton with only three starters off last year's 7-3 team, which lost in the state quarterfinals to Saginaw St. Peter and Paul.

"If we go .500, I think we're going to do a pretty good job," said Thornton. "About 5-4, 6-3 is more legitimate than thinking playoffs."

DeWitt will also have trouble contending for top honors in the Capital Circuit, Thornton said, because of a very strong Lansing Catholic Central team. "They're one of the best teams in the city," he said.

One of Thornton's biggest concerns is finding someone to steady the defense like linebacker Jim Seegraves did last year. Seegraves, whom Thornton has often called "the best football player I've seen," has taken his talents to Western Michigan University.

Steve Holland, a 6-foot-3, 220-pound senior, may fill Seegraves' spikes as a defensive leader. Holland missed last season because of a broken arm but recovered in time to become a leader on DeWitt's state championship baseball team.

"We're kind of building the defense around him," Thornton said. "He's a good, solid lineman."

Thornton has another good, solid lineman in Joe Wheeldon, an all-league selection as a junior. Wheeldon, a defensive and offensive end, could switch to linebacker to help steady the defense.

The only other defensive starter back from last year is defensive back Tim Toune.

Thornton said it will be difficult to match last year's defensive effort, which produced three shutouts. The Panthers were ranked third in the Lansing area in total defense last year.

As a result, DeWitt's offense will be under a little more pressure this season to score points. Junior quarterback Tim Miller, at 6-3, will probably put the ball in the air more than last year's quarterback Ken Rajala.

"We hope to throw," Thornton said. "We're thinking we've got to throw at least 30 percent of the time. We haven't done that in awhile."

Behind Miller, all-league halfback Tom Deak could rank as one of the best runners in Clinton County. Deak rushed for around 800 yards last year, Thornton said, before suffering a thigh bruise late in the season.

'If we finish above .500, I think we're going to do a pretty good job. About 5-4, 6-3 is more legitimate than thinking playoffs.' — DeWitt coach Gail Thornton.

Senior Mike Mocere is at another running back spot and junior Pete Lucci will go as a wide receiver and defensive end. Senior Jim Tingay is another key returnee as an offensive guard and linebacker.

Jon Holland, Steve's younger brother, will see a lot of action at split end.

Gail Thornton

DeWitt senior Tom Deak, who has frequently been timed at 4.6 in the 40-yard dash, is one of Clinton County's leading running backs.

Early games make or break Redwings

Defending the Mid-Michigan 'B' Conference championship this season won't be easy for St. Johns. In fact, coach Joe Gonzales wonders whether a difficult schedule and a strong Alma team will scuttle the Redwings' title aspirations early. "We're picked to be about fourth in the league by most coaches," Gonzales said.

St. Johns, coming off a 7-2 season and riding a seven-game winning streak, must deal with a difficult early season schedule. As Gonzales says, "Our three toughest teams are right at the beginning of the schedule."

The Redwings open at Owosso. Then, they travel to Lansing Waverly before starting conference play at Alma — a team which features seniors who were undefeated as sophomores.

One of St. Johns question marks entering the season is at quarterback — a position vacated by the graduation of Steve Gonzales. Senior Mike Green has the inside track, with junior Brian Bates in reserve.

The Redwings have a pair of seasoned running backs in tailback Chris Loucks and upback Chad Munger. Senior Brub Zamarron, who has looked good in early-season drills, is pushing for spot in the backfield, as is converted tackle Pat Makara.

St. Johns upback Chad Munger strains for yardage in last year's game against Lansing Waverly. The senior captain, who doubles as a linebacker, is one of the key returning players for the Redwings this year and will be looking for a big opening night against Owosso. Read Chad's impressions of the opening night contest in "Redwing Diary," a weekly feature that appears in the Clinton County News.

Senior Mark Webster brings experience to the offensive end spot, as does John Keenoy. The 6-foot-5, 220-pound Keenoy will be a big target for Redwing quarterbacks.

"Several major colleges were asking about him last year and he was only a sophomore," Gonzales said.

In the line, juniors Kevin Aylsworth and Kevin Hufnagel are probable starters at the guard spots. Other solid linemen are seniors Pat Schneider, Scott June, Eric Thum and Jeff Ely.

On defense, the Redwings feature several outstanding backs. Seniors John Archambault and Mark Uribe could be all-league performers, and senior Jeff Hayes and junior Rick LaBar could also step in as starters.

Linebacker Dave Clouse, a first-year senior, could plug a gap at linebacker. Junior Alain Ebert could also step in as a nose guard.

St. Johns football tickets on sale

Season tickets for the four St. Johns home football games are on sale at the high school.

Tickets are $8 for adults, $4 for students, and can be purchased in the school's athletic office or from any football player.

At first glance, Fowler would appear to have one of the strongest football teams in the area. Only six seniors graduated from an 8-1 team.

But a closer look at those six seniors reveals the magnitude of the job facing coach Steve Spicer. All were either first- or second-team all-league players, and two were all-area picks.

"Those were six really good kids," said Spicer. "They're hard to replace."

One of the hardest players to replace will be tailback Jim Farley, who gained over 1,000 yards last year. In June, Farley was killed in an automobile accident.

Fowler players and coaches pondered what they could do to honor Farley this season and decided to dedicate the season's home opener to his memory. Spicer said fans will observe a moment of silence before the Sept. 17 game against Vestaburg, and the players will dedicate their efforts in the locker room that night to Farley.

Tom Simon switches from quarterback to tailback this year and will shoulder much of the ball-carrying load. Simon has been slowly recovering from a knee injury suffered last baseball season.

Other returning players on Fowler's offense are up-back Dan Simon, tackle Bill Kohagen, center Scott Rowell, ends Dan Hufnagel and Joe Bertram and place-kicker Bob Simon.

On defense, Tom Simon returns to his safety spot and Dan Simon is back at linebacker. Cornerbacks Giles Feldpausch and Scott Ruhl and defensive end Rowell are also back.

Senior Steve Goerge, the smallest man on the roster at 130 pounds, could provide help at quarterback. Tackle Ken Farley, guard and defensive end David Feldpausch and lineman Seth Wright are also expected to contribute.

Spicer tabbed Pewamo-Westphalia as the league favorite and mentioned Fulton as a dark horse threat. Fulton, he said, returns seven or eight sophomore starters from last year.

Fowler, the 1980 state runners-up in Class D, is not gearing toward a playoff berth as a goal. Spicer said there are too many factors involved for that — particularly in Fowler's playoff region. Last year, the Eagles finished fifth in a region which produced the eventual state champion, Mendon.

"You'd better be 9-0 if you want to make it in our region," he said.

A test for Fowler will be its opening game, against Maple Valley. The Lions finished 7-2 last season and will enjoy the home-field advantage.

P-W strength remains clear

Don't feel sorry for Pewamo-Westphalia coach Mike Folk.

He might only have three starters back from last year's 8-1 football team, but he's faced that situation before and done quite well, thank you.

"Two years ago, we had three starters back and we went 9-0," Folk said. "We've got as much experience back this year as we did two years ago."

Coaches often point to P-W's outstanding junior varsity teams as the reason why the Pirates are always tough. P-W has an easier time rebuilding, coaches say, since its juniors are coming off dominant j.v. squads.

But Folk is a little tired of coaches who constantly place the monkey on his back. He isn't assuming that just because P-W has won back-to-back Central Michigan Athletic Conference championships, it automatically is the favorite in 1983.

"We'll be fighting for last place, with the rest of the league," he said, jokingly.

One reason coaches tab P-W is the presence of senior halfback Tom Schafer, an all-CMAC second team selection last year. Schafer, 5-foot-10 and 170 pounds, scored P-W's only touchdown in the championship-clinching victory over Fowler.

Junior halfback Joe Trierweiler also returns, and they will be joined in the backfield by junior quarterback Kris Werner. Werner is new on the varsity and has no experienced backup, Folk said.

In the line, P-W won't be as big as in year's past but will have experience in the person of junior tackle Vern Miller, senior guard Jim Pohl and senior center Pat Thelen. Tackle Louie Silvernail, at 6-foot and 255 pounds, provides added bulk.

Other returning lettermen whom Folk hopes will contribute are senior defensive back Randy Luna, senior lineman Scott Schmitt and senior fullback and defensive back Brian Thelen.

Players off the junior varsity who should step in at key spots are halfback Jon Thelen, middle guard Bruce Cook, end Ron Schafer, tackle Mark Thelen, end Pat Riley, tackle Jeff Smith and sophomore linebacker Troy Thelen.

One of P-W's chief concerns is replacing junior Doug Nurenberg. The junior is expected to miss the entire season because of a knee injury suffered last season. Nurenberg was going down on a kickoff against Fowler when he planted his foot and twisted the knee.

"Doug started last year as a sophomore and was our strongest player and fastest lineman," Folk said. "His loss will be a big blow to our program."

Marauders aiming at 5-4

Ovid-Elsie has been stuck in a rut for the last three seasons that coach Russ Pope hopes it can escape.

The Marauders, a small Class B entry in the Mid-Michigan 'B' League, have posted 4-5 records for those years. But Pope hopes this year's team, which features a bigger offensive line and better team strength, can crack the .500 barrier.

Leading the effort will be tri-captains Chris Bashore, Kevin VanAtta and Mike O'Dell.

Bashore, 6-foot and 192 pounds, is slated for duty at offensive and defensive tackle after a season in which he made 26 tackles and twice earned the team best blocking award.

VanAtta, 6-2 and 190, recorded 89 tackles and six sacks last year. "He's the toughest man on the team," Pope said.

O'Dell, a 6-1 and 187 fullback and linebacker, is noted as a 300-pound bench presser. He rushed for 181 yards last year despite missing three games because of injuries.

In the offensive backfield, halfback Jon Martin returns after rushing for 322 yards and a 6.0 yards-per-carry average. Pope hopes Martin is fully recovered from a shoulder separation which knocked him out of action for three games in 1982.

"He has to be healthy all season and must play both ways," the coach said.

Halfbacks Robert Skaryd, Ed Coleman and Scott Winans, and fullback Frosty Budd off the junior varsity should also figure into the backfield plans. Budd, in particular, had impressive junior varsity statistics, rushing for 500 yards and making 41 tackles.

One of Ovid-Elsie's biggest concerns is quarterback. Last year's passer, Pete Hurst, has graduated, leaving Thad Ridsdale as the only experienced varsity quarterback. Even so, Ridsdale's experience consists of three incomplete passes.

Mark Schneider, a 5-8, 150-pounder off the junior varsity team, is a potential starting quarterback. Schneider, who will take over Hurst's kicking duties, completed 32 of 80 passes last year.

The Marauders also lost all of Hurst's receivers, so candidates Dan Fox, Dave Bearup and Marcel Hirschegger are vying for positions. Dave Stoneman, who caught 25 passes for 532 yards on last year's junior varsity, also could start.

The Marauders suffered a blow in practice when they learned that Bearup needed a double hernia operation. He is expected to miss the team's opening games.

In the line, 195-pound Brian Kelley, 190-pound Matt Patrick and 170-pound Mike Stilwell are mainstays. Guards Scott Johnson, Joe Rodriguez and Pat Clapp could also be starters.

On defense, Jeff Sovis returns to steady the secondary. Called "the best hitter on the team last year" by Pope, Sovis had 59 tackles and one interception.

Sovis has been troubled by a hamstring injury which Pope hopes is healed after the season's opening games.

Scott Gardner, who had 74 tackles and three interceptions last season, will be switched from the defensive backfield to linebacker.

Marauder fans should get their tickets early this season, since three of the team's four home games are scheduled for the first four weeks. A stretch of four road games — including visits to defending league champion St. Johns and Alma — will sternly test the Marauders in October.

Board predicts battle ahead

By PETER W. BRONSON

Clinton Commissioners reluctantly approved hiring of a new Friend of the Court investigator/mediator Friday.

The position, required by state legislation which revamps the Friend of the Court and its administration, will be filled by Susan Estala, at a rate of $9.26 per hour.

Commissioners predicted a showdown with Circuit Judge Tim Green over the Friend of the Court office, however. Under the new Friend of the Court law, Green now administers the office.

The judge and the board have not seen eye to eye on funding for the Friend of the Court, or on the salary of Friend of the Court Colleen Stienman.

Green ordered the board to raise Mrs. Stienman's salary to $30,000 per year last March, but the board refused. Negotiations began in an effort to avert legal action, and the board agreed to a token raise in her $24,677 salary.

But when Green took over administration of the Friend of the Court's office in July, he immediately raised Mrs. Stienman's salary to $30,000, in spite of the earlier agreement with the board and board members' protests.

Now, with hiring of a new staff member, Green will run out of money to operate the Friend of the Court before the end of the year, Board Chairman Roger Overway predicts.

Under the state law, increased fees and fees newly channeled directly to the Friend of the Court are supposed to pay for the increased costs of complying with the law. But Green's raise for Mrs. Stienman will force the budget into the red, Overway has said.

Other counties insist the arrangement under the law does not provide enough money to cover costs of compliance anyway, and a lawsuit has been filed against the state seeking relief.

Clinton Commissioners voted Friday to join the suit, which seeks redress under the Headlee amendment to the state constitution. Headlee says the state cannot impose laws on local government without providing funding for any increased costs the laws may cause.

Washtenaw County was the first to file suit. It was soon joined by Monroe, Macomb, Muskegon, Ottawa, Jackson, Livingston, St. Clair, Berrien and, now, Clinton counties.

NOTICE PUBLIC MEETINGS FOR I-69 FREEWAY BETWEEN US-127 AND THE CLINTON/SHIAWASSEE COUNTY LINE

The Michigan Department of Transportation will be holding public meetings from 3:00 to 5:00 p.m. and 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. on Tuesday, September 13 and Wednesday, September 14, 1983, in the Bath Township Senior Citizens Center, 14480 Webster Road, Bath, Michigan.

The purpose of the meetings is to provide area citizens the opportunity to view the plans and discuss right-of-way acquisition procedures for the portion of the I-69 freeway between US-127 and the east county line. This project is a portion of the I-69 freeway between US-127 and Perry which was discussed at a public hearing held January 31, 1980. As plans become available for the portion of this project in Shiawassee County, additional meetings will be scheduled.

The meetings will begin the appraisal process with acquisition to start by April 1, 1984. Preliminary interviews, leading to the purchase of right-of-way for this project, will begin at the meetings. Department representatives will be present to discuss the relocation services and payments that will be available to all relocatees. Relocation assistance for displaced occupants is based on occupancy of the home at the time of purchase negotiations. Moving costs, funds to purchase housing, rental payments, and other benefits will be made available to eligible occupants whether they own or rent the housing to be purchased for the right-of-way.

Because no formal presentation will be given, please feel free to stop in any time between 3:00 and 5:00 p.m. or between 7:00 and 9:00 p.m.

To further assist you, information on this project or any Michigan Department of Transportation planning project may be obtained by calling 373-9534. If long distance, call toll free 1-800-292-9576.
