Department heads report good news

Building up, crime down in St. Johns

By Jim Edwards
Editor

ST. JOHNS—St. Johns City commissioners heard two "good news" reports during the regular Monday night meeting.

One report was from Richard Coletta, zoning administrator, who informed the City Commission, that after a two-year decline, construction in St. Johns increased in 1976.

He reported the number of new single family residences more than doubled over 1975 and more building permits were issued in 1976 than in any of the previous four years.

Total construction value in 1976 was $1,346,436, a jump of $127,000 over 1975.

In 1974, construction totaled $1,847,590 and dropped to $1,219,354 in 1975.

Although not highest in total construction dollars, 1972 is the top year in the past five years for new single family home construction. Thirty-six new homes were built in 1972, followed by 35 in 1973 and 27 in 1974. Only 11 new single family homes were built in 1975 with 25 constructed in 1976.

Three new commercial buildings were constructed in 1976 including Burger King, Hub Tire and a warehouse at Karber Block. Another commercial building permit was issued a photographic finishing firm, but no construction has taken place. Building permit fees totaled $2,617 in 1976.

Coletta told the Commission, "Construction has always been a good economic indicator and I think these figures are further evidence of the healthy condition of St. Johns as a community."

Another report containing good news for the City Commission was the 1976 annual police report by Lyle French, police chief.

French reported a decline in serious crimes in the city between 1975 and 1976.

Larceny decreased from 204 cases in 1975 to 187 in 1976.

Burglaries and breaking and entering reports also declined, from 37 in 1976 to 26 last year.

There were reports of seven less stolen vehicles in 1976, down from 18 reported in 1975.

Also decreased last year were shoplifting complaints—from 32 in 1975 to 20 in 1976.

Reduction in bad check complaints accounted for one of the largest decreases.

In 1975, there were 99 complaints of bad checks. In 1976, there were only four. French said a public information promotion with St. Johns businesses helped to account for the decrease in bad checks.

Although pleased with the drops in serious crimes, shoplifting and bad checks, French did say he was unhappy with the trend in malicious destruction and vandalism of property.

Those instances increased from 143 in 1975 to 160 in 1976.

He said most of the cases involved juveniles. French said the involved juveniles, if apprehended, are not punished because those involved will not sign a complaint.

He added little is done many times to the juvenile if a complaint is filed.

In other business, the Commission moved to have Randy Humphrey, city manager, meet with officials of the County Board of Commissioners to discuss the possibility of joint ventures with the county in construction of police and fire facilities.

The commission was not enthuastic about the proposal with Mayor Roy Ebert saying, "I'm really not all that interested in joining with the county."

Commr. Donald Roesner, however, felt the city should, at least, meet with the county to participate in a discussion to explore funding and alternative possibilities.

Roesner, Gerald Wilcox and John Arehart voted to have Humphrey meet with the county while Ebert voted against the motion.

In other action concerning the county, Humphrey's name was submitted to be considered for the board of directors on the Clinton County Development Corporation, now being formed by the Board of Commissioners.

The commission voted to table recommendations for a tax ordinance in the city until the next meeting.

At that meeting, the commission plans to set a public hearing date to present the ordinance.

Moving time at courthouse

It's moving time for some departments at the Clinton County Courthouse.

The Building and Grounds Committee of the Board of Commissioners recommended the following changes to take place in the courthouse. All changes should be completed by March 1.

The planning commission which presently occupies a portion of the western wing of the basement of the courthouse will move to the annex on Oakland Street. County planner, Dennis Dunnigan, his assistant and secretary are in the process of moving total operations to the annex shared with the drain commissioners office.

Juvenile probation which is located in the east wing of the courthouse will move into the planner's old office space. This leaves the entire east wing for the Jon Newman, prosecuting attorney, and his staff.

For quite some time Newman has complained he has not had enough room to operate efficiently. With the entire east wing Newman will be able to have a waiting room and house his staff in one area.

This provides rooms for extra offices and for re-arrangement of present offices. According to Duane Chamberlain, new chairman of the buildings and grounds committee, the courthouse maintenance department will do most of the work. The cost should be around $1,000.

Chamberlain noted past chairman Harold Martin and his committee did most of the leg work, and he and his committee decided to move ahead with the plan.

Some offices already started moving Monday. The micro-filming room utilized by the clerk, register of deed, and the sheriff's department is almost completed.

When the driver's license office moves in July there is some question as to who will occupy the space.

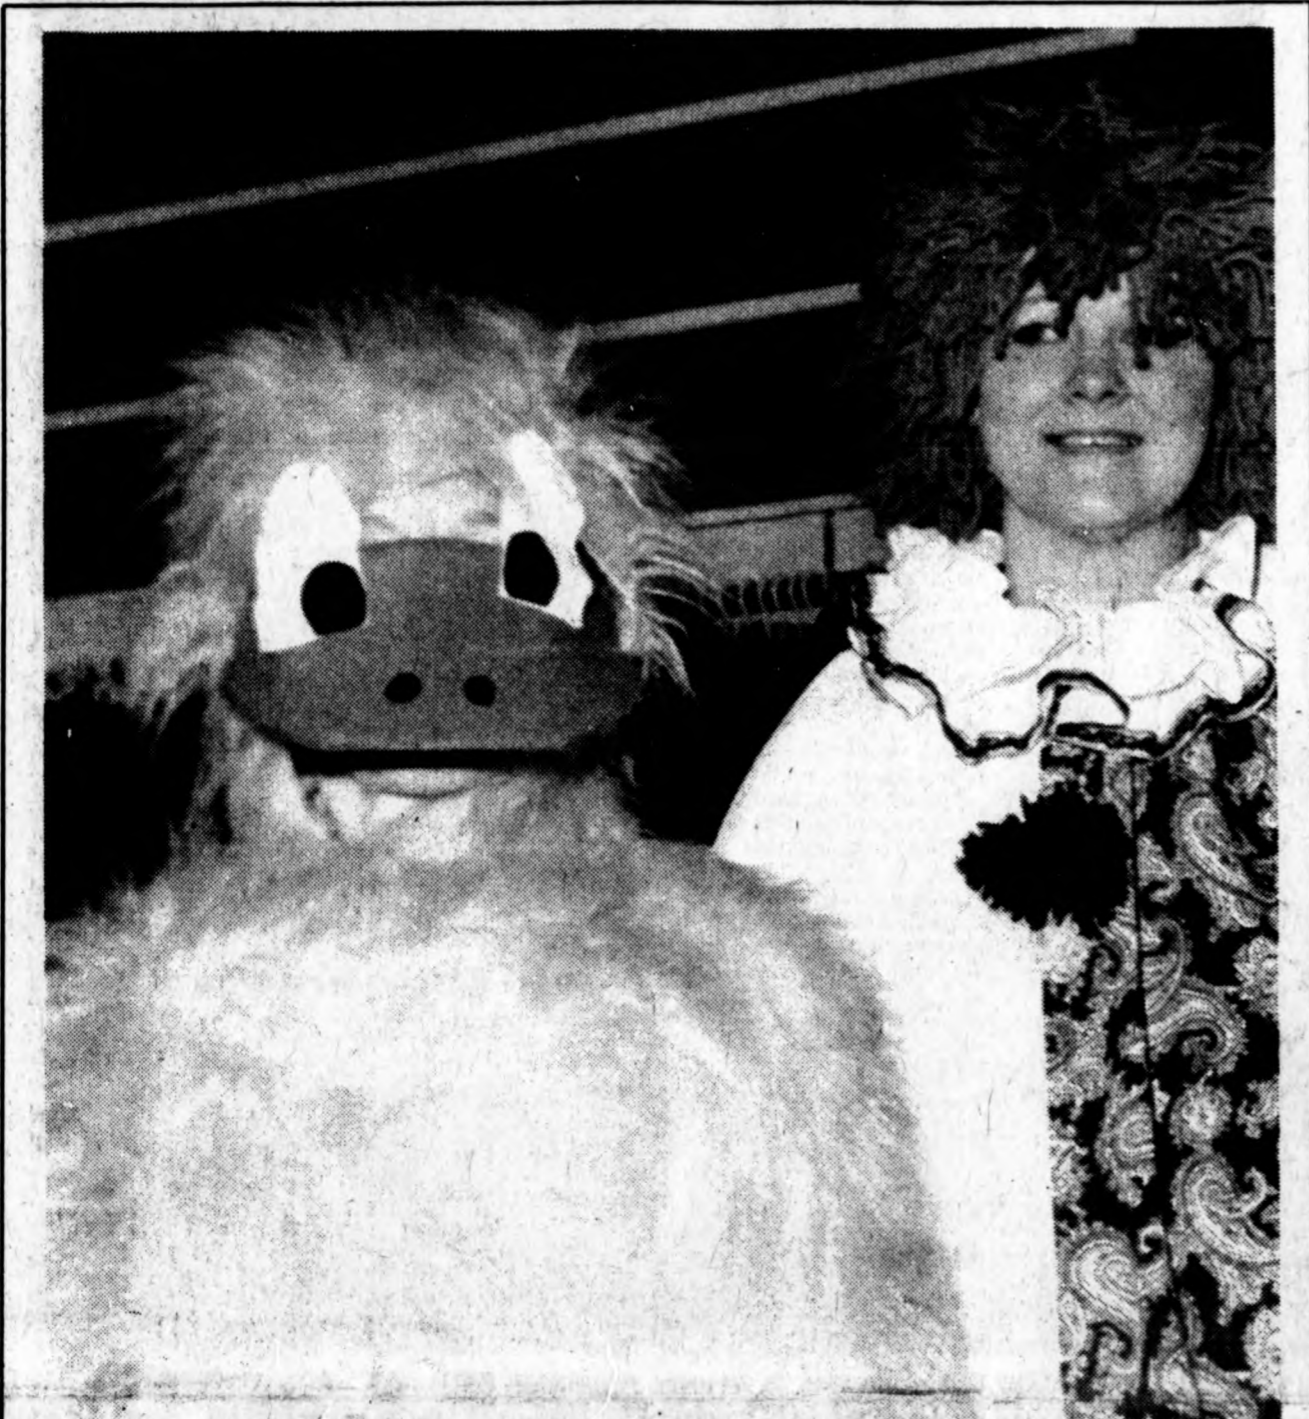

Some courthouse employees have expressed the need for a lounge. Presently a lot of employees eat their lunches at their desks during the noon hour. Bonnie Wickerham, register of deeds, voiced a concern for a private office. She presently shares an office with four other persons.

Number, please...

ST. JOHNS—The operator is going to want your number, but just for three days.

General Telephone Company advises St. Johns customers, making long distance telephone calls, that the automatic number identification system will not be in operation Friday, Saturday or Sunday due to equipment changes.

The operator will ask for the caller's telephone number for any long distance calls made during the three-day period.

Four days of craziness begins today in St. Johns, with the Chamber of Commerce sponsored "Krazy Days Sale". The Wednesday through Saturday event will be highlighted by a sidewalk-sale-type atmosphere (indoors of course), crazy costumes, specials and drastically reduced prices. J C Penney employees Marge Seavey (the daffy duck) and Sharon Downing (rag mop clown) model their wacky attire, in which they'll be greeting St. Johns shoppers.

Watertown picks lagoon system for Wacousta

Watertown Township unanimously voted Monday night to place the Wacousta area in a lagoon system rather than going with a forced sewer main system into DeWitt.

According to Herman Openlander, township supervisor, this eliminates the need for Wacousta to join and Southern Clinton County Sewer System. During the past few months much argument has occurred on just what the township should do, or why it should have to do anything.

The Department of Natural Resources has approved a lagoon system for the Wacousta area. The Grand River corridor and eastern side of the township, will go with the Southern Clinton County Sewer Authority.

A regional sewer system for Bath Township, DeWitt City, DeWitt Township, and Watertown Township, was being proposed. The estimated portion of Watertown Townships cost if it went with the proposed plan would be $2,400,000, the largest share of all the municipalities involved.

From the onset, most residents in Watertown Twp. voiced repeated opposition to the plan for the regional system.

Many residents again expressed their negativism towards the plan.

It was estimated 20-25 people attended the meeting to again make their views known concerning the matter.

Openlander noted the next step for the township is to meet with engineers, go over plans and work out a cost analysis for the construction of a lagoon system.

Other portions of the township will not be involved with the lagoon system because they are not presently polluting the surrounding area.

New tornado warning in St. Johns

ST. JOHNS—A new tornado horn will be alerting St. Johns residents of tornado warnings late this spring and summer.

Purchase of a new siren system was approved by the St. Johns City Commission at their Monday night meeting.

Randy Humphrey, city manager, told the commission of trouble experienced in the past with the current system.

He said currently the city has a main horn on top of the fire hall with others located in various areas of the city.

All are operated manually and trouble has arisen with pranks or difficulty in contacting the persons who are supposed to activate the sirens.

They were also not always effective because of weather conditions or wind.

With the new system, one main horn will be located above the Municipal Building, rotating to cover a five-mile area.

The new horn will also eliminate a past problem with distinguishing the warning from the all clear signal. Instead of sounding the same sound again for the all-clear, the new horn will have one sound for the warning and a different one for the all-clear.

Monitors will also be available for schools, businesses and industries who wish to have a warning device on their premises.

Cost of the new system is $6985, with 50 percent covered by a grant. The grant also allows for $1500 for construction.

The monitor units will cost $200 apiece.

School honors Earl Lancaster

ST. JOHNS—The St. Johns High School gymnasium is now officially known as Earl R. Lancaster Gymnasium.

Special ceremonies dedicating the gymnasium to Lancaster, who had been the superintendent of St. Johns Public Schools for the past 24 years, took place during halftime of the St. Johns-Corunna basketball game this Friday night.

The naming of the gymnasium in Lancaster's honor was an outgrowth of a resolution passed last March by the board of education. The resolution in its adopted form read:

"WHEREAS, Earl R. Lancaster served as superintendent of St. Johns Public Schools for 24 years, and; Whereas, he performed outstanding educational leadership and guidance for the school district, and; Whereas, he has placed high values on high school athletics, Be it hereby resolved to re-name the St. Johns High School gymnasium the Earl R. Lancaster Gymnasium and that a picture and plaque be placed in the lobby of the gymnasium."

Lancaster, the longest tenured superintendent in the state of Michigan, retired last June after completing 42 years in service to education.

Prior to coming to St. Johns he had been superintendent at Corunna Public Schools for 14 years and before that in Grosse Isle for two years.

Under his administration, the St. Johns system grew from 1,441 students and 71 employees to 4,500 students and 400 employees. A new high school and four elementary schools were built and through his dedication the St. Johns school system has remained among the top school systems in the state.

Earl Lancaster (right) with his wife, Rhea, receives a plaque commemorating the naming of the St. Johns High School gymnasium the Earl R. Lancaster Gymnasium from Robert Baribeau, School Board president. The ceremony honored the many years of service by Lancaster to athletics and education.

Chef's Cafe in St. Johns

Students run their own restaurant

Ray Cook, instructor explains cooking procedures to Jackie Kelly

By Sue Kiley
Staff Writer

They've come a long way. From card tables and folding chairs in the basement of a church, to St. John High School's own restaurant with new tables and chairs in coordinating colors of orange and brown.

Operating a restaurant is part of the Clinton Area Shared Time career opportunity program in food service. This is where students take three hours during the school day and learn all aspects of food service operations, not by listening in a classroom, but by actually doing.

The program has been functioning on and off for the past four years. Last year, plans for the restaurant, "Chef's Cafe", began. State funds were obtained through the vocational education department. The building was started in August, with the first meal served to the public on Wednesday, Feb. 2.

Many different groups were involved in the construction of the new restaurant. One student interested in interior decorating designed and laid-out the floor plan for the facility. The vocational

"The ratio was a lot better last year," the instructor added.

The students come from every school in the county --Pewamo - Westphalia, Fowler, St. Johns, Ovid-Elsie, DeWitt, and Bath. They work in two shifts, from 7:30 to 10:30 a.m. or 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

and only work when St. Johns High is open.

This vocational education experience will place students on an above entry level when they go into a restaurant or food service facility looking for a job. They are trained in the areas of operating equipment, operations, sanitation, and safety.

The biggest problem so far Cook has encountered with the new program is having enough time to answer the many questions the students have.

"The kids are really enthusiastic," Cook said. "In fact three of them didn't have to be here today (it was a snow day at their

The money charged for the food will be used to pay for the program. "Hopefully we'll meet our costs," Cook said.

The tips the students make waiting on tables will be put into a pool and at the end of the year they will go out to a nice restaurant and have somebody wait on them.

The girls and boys themselves say they feel it is good experience, as well as being fun. Most hope this experience will give them a better chance of getting a job this summer. They also seem to be split on whether they like waitressing or kitchen work best.

They are very helpful and protective of each other. When two young men walked in and sat down at the student waitress' table, she was somewhat apprehensive. Another student waitress sensing this said, "It's okay they're both really nice." All the while she was saying this she was helping the other waitress fill water glasses.

As she walked over to the table you could see confidence beginning to appear, and by the time she brought the order out it was like she had done it a thousand times before.

During the second day of business not only students, but parents, businessmen and townspeople stopped in at the Chef's Cafe. Temporarily the restaurant is only serving sandwiches, limited breakfasts, soups and salads, because they have not yet put a vent in the kitchen. They hope to have it installed by March 1.

The students are learning both the scratch method of cooking and convenience cooking. Cook said this is a very unique program in the state because they are operating and serving the public, not a control environment such as school.

Shepardsville News

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Huyck, Mr. and Mrs. "Butch" Kelley, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Cannon, Mr. and Mrs. Vern Schneider and Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Huss, Jr., spent the weekend in Indianapolis, Indiana where they attended the National Indy Super Tractor Pull at the Indiana Fairgrounds. They stayed at the Howard Johnson Motor Lodge in Indianapolis.

The Afternoon Circle of the Shepardsville UMW will not be meeting this month due to road conditions and the weather.

Jan Strayer prepares salad drafting department helped with the plans, and the building trades class helping with minor construction. The heavy work was contracted out to bidders.

According to Ray Cook, instructor for the program, all the students learn every aspect of the job from being assistant manager to operating the dishwasher.

"We have the boys waiting on tables and the girls doing the heavy cooking," he commented. The jobs each of Cook's 47 students will do include cashier, hostess, waitress, short order cook, preparation cook, salad maker, dishwasher, receiving stock room and assistant manager.

"We emphasize several different areas," Cook said. "One is attitude and responsibility. We have to make them aware once they are out on a job they can't call in sick every Friday night because they want to party."

The program is open to juniors and seniors. Of the 47 students in the class 37 of them are girls.

"It's the most real training experience these kids can get," Cook commented. The instructor stressed the school's restaurant was not built to compete with local businesses in the county. "We just want to provide them with trained help," he said.

Although food prices will be competitive, the hours which the establishment is open will not be on a wide range scale. "We want to perform a service to the community, not a disservice," Cook said.

Although this course does not go into a lot of depth, Cook explained it was basically like a skill center on a high school level.

With the new program there has already been some success. The teacher mentioned one of his students last year who wanted a job. There were not any available, except one as a dishwasher. The girl accepted the position and within a few weeks had proved she was a good, reliable worker. An opening for a waitress came up and now she is doing that job.

One year ago the electronic timing system was installed at the St. Johns High School pool. This added facility is used during competitive meets and practice sessions. The St. Johns Swim Boosters Club sponsored the project along with the cooperation of many other people and organizations. Through private donations, dances, raffles, garage sales, a swim marathon, and a special donation by the St. Johns Sea Lions the system has been paid for. Some members of various groups responsible for paying off the debt are shown tearing up the bill.

Car pool rolls along for 20 years

Between the six of these men, their car pool has been going to and from Oldsmobile in Lansing for 20 years.

The pool became one member less Jan. 28 when Bert Flynn of St. Johns, retired after 29 years with Oldsmobile. Flynn and the other five men in the pool accounted for almost 180 years in seniority at Oldsmobile.

Despite shift changes, over-time and the fact the men represented five different trades, they managed to adjust their hours to keep the pool intact.

Members of the pool are Lloyd Ford with over 28 years at Oldsmobile and 12 in the car pool; Flynn, 29 years and five in the pool; Floyd Spiece, 30 years and 12 in the pool; Gaylord Doyle, over 30 years with Oldsmobile and 12 in the pool; Bill Kinney, over 29 years and 20 years in the pool and Walter Ostrowski, 30 years and 20 in the pool.

Kinney was the originator of the 20-year-old pool.

Christmas Seals bring over $5000 in Clinton

"Although the Christmas season is just a pleasant memory for most of us, it isn't over for the Christmas Seal people and their faithful contributors in Clinton County," said Rev. Hugh E. Banninga, Michigan Lung Association's Christmas Seal chairperson for St. Johns.

The Michigan Lung Association has received a total of $5,702 or 65 percent of its goal for the county and contributions are still being received.

"Now that Christmas is over, more families are taking time to send in their yearly donations, and we are thankful," Rev. Banninga said.

Contributions are used to finance the Christmas Seal people's programs to combat lung diseases such as emphysema (for which no cure has yet been discovered), tuberculosis, chronic bronchitis, asthma and other lung ailments.

"The problem of tuberculosis has been significantly reduced throughout Michigan because of the pioneering efforts of the M.L.A.," he said. The Lung Association's goal now is to have the same impact on all lung diseases—to reduce their threat and to make it possible for patients who already suffer from respiratory disabilities to receive good, comprehensive local medical supervision.

Michigan Lung Association's public health education films are provided to public schools each year. Education literature is distributed to inform Michiganders about ways to protect their respiratory health. Fellowships are provided to promising young physicians who are interested in the sub-specialty of pulmonary medicine. There is still a shortage of pulmonary specialists in the state. Volunteers for the Michigan Lung Association have taken a leadership role in the passage of new laws to protect the rights of non-smokers. During National Education Week on Smoking January 1-15, they undertook an effort to inform the public about the effect of the new laws effective April 1 regulating smoking in stores and restaurants.

Accident sends three to hospital

A three car crash due to poor visibility and blowing sent three persons to the hospital Sunday at 10:04 a.m. on northbound US-27.

James D. Williams, Albion, was north bound on US-27 when he slowed down due to blowing snow. Laurie C. Kuna, Alma, was approaching from the rear and was unable to see the Williams auto and ran into the back of him.

A car driven by Wallace K. Stein, Grabill, Ind., collided with the two other vehicles which were out of control at the time.

Two passengers in the Williams auto, Ada Satchel and Daniel Falner, Jackson, were taken to Sparrow Hospital. Ms. Kuna was also injured in the incident.

In a separate incident, Jim Black, 4814 W. Centerline, St. Johns lost control of the vehicle he was driving on snow and ice covered Lowell Rd. He hit a snowbank on the right and then on the left side and tipped the truck over. There were no injuries. The incident occurred Feb. 11 at 2:50 p.m.

Cars driven by Mary K. Dutcher, and Ruth J. Hill, Portland, collided at the intersection of West Grand River and M-100 at a stop sign. There were no injuries.

Raymond L. Putnam, was southbound on Grand River near the intersection of Francis Rd., when he could not stop for the stop sign and slid through the intersection striking the sign post. The incident occurred on Feb. 10 at 7 a.m.

Cars driven by John L. Duda, Fowler, and Robert N. Fletcher, Ionia, collided on Feb. 13 at 1:25 a.m. at the intersection of Wright Rd. and Dexter Trail. There were no injuries.

Walk talk

We may ponder the weighty issues of the day--taxation, the energy shortage, inflation, welfare reform etc., but we have a nagging, simple little question this week.

Why won't you walk on the sidewalks?

We're beginning to think sidewalks were built in St. Johns for homeowners to shovel off so kids would have a clear path to reach the street where many normally walk.

It's a picky, picky, picky gripe we may admit.

But, it is frustrating to drive down St. Johns streets almost at a halt while young people walk three and four abreast on the street next to a clear sidewalk.

We realize many sidewalks are not always cleared by the homeowners, but in many of the instances we've noticed the sidewalks have been clear while the young pedestrians walk down the street almost daring motorists to hit them.

To be a bit more picky, it seems the only reasons some do use the sidewalks is so they can disregard the intersection traffic lights.

Now that we've got that off our chest, we'll go on to more important things such as why do coat hangers multiply while paper clips disappear?

Personality Profile
Rip roaring at 95-years-old

Ethel Barnes (left), and Ethel Pagel, owner of Pagel's Home for the Aged go for a spin on a snowmobile.

Ethel Barnes

By Sue Kiley Staff Writer

The saying goes, "You're never too old." For 95-year-old Ethel Barnes it more than applies, because she is living proof of the old adage. Ethel has a rather unusual past-time for a woman of her years. She loves to go snowmobiling. Yes, snowmobiling. She doesn't just watch, she participates. Ethel climbs on the back of the machine, hangs on tight to the driver, and says, "let's go", as she lets out a squeal of delight. Unsuspecting observers gasped, then held their breath as they watched. As she rounds the turn for the second time, a smile can be seen on her weathered face. She is thoroughly enjoying herself, and a look of disappointment sweeps away the smile when the ride is over. We let out a sigh of relief only to hear her say, "Do you know anybody who has a motorcycle?" Ethel is a sharp woman with a keen mind and witty replies. "What do you do here at home?" I questioned, "Mildew mostly," she replied without a seconds hesitation. Home for the past three years to Ethel has been the Pagel Nursing Home located at 505 E. Walker.

Before that time she lived with her sister until she died. Although Ethel has been snowmobiling for the past three years, it has usually been close to home. A couple of weeks ago Mrs. Ethel Pagel, owner of the home for the aged, took Mrs. Barnes with her to Barryton to snowmobile with her nephew Michael Newhall. He took her through a pine tree area to Winchester Dam. She really enjoyed the afternoon in the snow. "It was great fun," said Mrs. Barnes. "It was just wonderful, I never knew there were so many wooded areas left in Michigan." "There's not many like her around here," one of the ladies at the home said about Mrs. Barnes. "She's one of a kind." Ethel is independent and functions well on her own. Her only disability is not being able to hear as well as she used to. She takes no vitamins, pills, or drugs of any kind. She just doesn't need them. Ethel loves to eat and has her specialties. She loves shrimp with "sparky" sauce, as she calls it. She also enjoys Italian spaghetti served with wine. Mrs. Pagel commented she has tried to take Ethel out to dinner several times, but the woman refuses.

"I just don't think I'd get what I wanted," she said. "I like the food here better." The thought of being waited on does not appeal to Ethel. She makes her own bed in the morning when she rises at 7 a.m. She also helps dust her room as well as the home's sun room. In her room various types of plants are seen, with many of them perched on the window sill. "They have their own little greenhouse," Mrs. Pagel said, about Ethel and her 75-year-old roommate. Ethel can't wait for the warm weather to arrive so she can begin walking. She walked about nine blocks a day last year when the weather permitted. "I'm kind of afraid to walk now on the snow and ice," she noted. However, getting in and out of the car, and getting on and off of the snowmobile one would never know she was afraid of anything. Mrs. Barnes is full of fascinating stories, remembering names and details almost as though she was living the event over again. She remembers coming to the area on a wagon pulled by an oxen team. Her grandfather used to take care of an Indian chief's horses, while the other Indians taught her grandmother the art of herb medicine. Her brother William Henry ran a livery stable behind the old Steel Hotel and then operated the first Chevrolet garage in St. Johns. The Indian chief liked her father so well he named one of his sons after her three brothers, both first and middle names. Mrs. Barnes had many different kinds of jobs during her life. She was the second telephone operator in St. Johns, when she used to work nights after school. She also worked for the Lansing Citizen Exchange. "I remember being paid with a $5 gold piece," she said. Later she worked in both Hudson's and Crowley's Department stores in Detroit as a demonstrator. Mrs. Barnes has a saying she lives by, and just maybe it is the secret to her youthful spirit. "Count your age by friends, not years. Count your life by smiles not tears."

"She hardly ever cries," Mrs. Pagel said. Ethel is very nervous if she is not constantly doing something. Besides taking care of her plants she knits and crochets, and also makes outfits for dolls. She is very generous with her talents and even gave this writer one of her favorite dolls. For Mrs. Pagel she made an afghan made of 54 different blocks in 54 different patterns. Mrs. Barnes likes parties and for New Year's Eve, Mrs. Pagel treated her "ladies" to a party complete with champagne. Ethel really enjoyed herself as did the other ladies in the home. Mrs. Barnes had one son who attended West Point and one daughter. Both of whom have since died. She has one granddaughter, Pat, who lives in New Jersey; two grandsons in Canada; and one great-granddaughter. One thing Ethel has not done yet is fly in a plane. "If there is anyway I can take her with me when I fly out to see my daughter I'm going to take Ethel," Mrs. Pagel said. "I'm ready," Ethel says with a grin. says with a grin. Living life to the fullest is hard for some people. Making the most out of certain opportunities and hardships is even harder for most. But one such lady who has never given up is Ethel Barnes. "I'm going to out-live you all," she said.

Most folks like their jobs
By Richard L. Milliman

Most people like their jobs. Strange as it may seem to those of us who toil regularly, and frequently complain about it, a recent survey shows that generally speaking, folks are satisfied, job-wise. The well-known national survey outfit, the Roper Organization, last fall asked workers to appraise their jobs. They found that 74 percent were satisfied or fairly well satisfied with their income; 83 percent were pleased about their hours and the personal satisfaction their jobs give them; 90 percent had positive comments about the people with whom they work; and 84 percent liked their chosen field of work. The biggest complaints were about job benefits and the difficulty of advancing. Roper found, with women workers unhappier than men workers. Of female workers, 44 percent were not satisfied with promotional opportunities, compared with 33 percent of the men, while 37 percent of the women complained about benefits, compared with 28 percent of men workers. Three workers in four were pleased with the "importance to society" of their work, Roper found. I don't pretend to know what the Roper statistics really mean about the welfare of our society, or the future of the economy, I just found them interesting, and heartening. Then there is other recent testimony about people and their jobs--specifically in the United States Postal Service. Despite improvements that have increased wages and benefits for postal workers by 67 percent between 1970 and 1975--compared with a comparable increase of 44 percent in manufacturing industries generally--few people really like working for the postal service. That's the import of testimony before the Commission of Postal Service by several employee group representatives, who claim that the Postal Service has "dehumanized their jobs and pushed the workforce intolerably" Associated Press recently reported. Presidents of the letter carriers' union, postal workers union, postmasters association, and postal supervisors' group all testified similarly according to AP. They cited "Management-induced harassment" "...constant knowledge that each (employee) is being scrutinized hour upon hour"..."establishment of almost impossible standards"..."attitude toward middle management, supervisors and postmasters" and other similar factors. The result is that postal worker morale is low, and deteriorating further, the testimony indicates. It appears, then, that money is not everything in how an employee feels about his-her job. And to conclude this essay on jobs on a happier note, the nation's college seniors this year can look forward to the best job prospects in at least five years. Michigan State University placement experts report that employers intend to hire about 10 percent more college graduates than the average over the last three years. The best opportunities will be in engineering and business administration, the leanest for education majors, and the demand will be about the same for liberal arts, social science and communications graduates--all of which are in oversupply. The MSU study indicates special chances for women, minorities, the handicapped, and in the fields of computer science, marketing and food sciences. Industries which show the biggest increase in need, MSU found, are agri-business, automotive, banking, construction, metals and utilities. If the need for talented and educated job recruits foretells the general level of the economy--and it usually does--then there most likely are better times ahead.

A PERSONAL LOOK AT THE NEWS
Between the lines
with Jim Edwards
"We can send a man to the moon, but we can't cure the common cold." How many times have we heard that? It's as if our nation and scientists have let us all down by not declaring war on the common cold. Well, they have, but it's not with the common cold. (By the way, what is an uncommon cold?) Sooner or later, we all get over the cold. There's one thing we never get over and no end seems to be in sight. That is Monday. Each week (excluding government holidays) around rolls Monday and millions of Americans make strange grumping and blech noises as they head for work. Mondays are terrible and the only way to cure that sluggish heck-with-it feeling is to eliminate the cause--weekends, but who wants to do that? I've tried a few mind control exercises to take the blah out of Mondays. One way to take the sting out of Monday was to pretend Sunday was Monday. When I went to bed Saturday night, I went to sleep trying to dream it was Sunday night. I woke up Sunday, thought it was Monday, realized it wasn't and felt great the rest of the day because it wasn't really Monday. It didn't work. I wound up greeted by two Monday mornings that week. Nevermore. Another effort was to greet Monday morning with vim, vigor and all that junk. The alarm rang, I jumped out of bed and charged the Monday morning world stomping, snorting and ready to slay dragons on US-27. It lasted until the first cup of coffee when my eyes dulled to their normal Monday morning glaze and I stared off into space in my usual weekly sleepy stupor. A friend claims he's conquered the Monday morning syndrome. "There are no Mondays," he brags, "in my weeks." "How do you figure that?" I yawned. "Simple," he said, "I've got two Fridays." "I always knew you were a little unstable," I said. "What the heck, gimme another cup of coffee and explain your nonsense." "It's easy," he said. "The first thing you do is eliminate Monday completely. Start out the week with Tuesday." "Yeah, sure," I muttered. "I suppose your boss goes along with that." "You don't understand," he explained, shaking his head impatiently. "You go to work on Monday, but you call it Tuesday. Tuesdays are never as bad as Monday. To make up for the lost Monday, you just tack another Friday onto the end of the week." "You're sick," I said, reaching for another cup of coffee. "Listen to me," he answered. "Everybody loves Friday, right? Well, I start work on Tuesday and, next thing you know it's Friday." "Sure," I said, "but, what happens when Friday is over and you realize the next day is going to be Friday all-over again instead of Saturday?" "That's the best part," he explained. "Saturday always comes and goes too soon. This way you put it off a bit and it's just that much better. Besides, would you rather wake up to one Monday morning a week or two Fridays when you can say 'Wow, it's Friday'." Not being one to cast aside an idea without giving it a fair try, the next week I converted Monday into Tuesday. It didn't work. When Friday rolled around, I forgot there were two in the week and didn't go to work on the real Friday. That turned Saturday into Sunday and I wound up at work by myself all day Sunday. Then came a really rotten Monday morning.

"BE HUMBLE, HONEST... AND REMEMBER—WRITE ALL YOUR SPEECHES ON THE BACKS OF ENVELOPES!"

Rep. Stanley Powell 88th District

Under the Capitol Dome

We are gearing up for the serious work ahead of us in the 1977-78 Legislature this week.

More than 100 bills and resolutions have been introduced in both houses, which cover nearly all the controversial issues confronting our state. Committee assignments were made several weeks ago and most of our committees have held organizational meetings and are beginning to consider legislation channeled through our particular committees.

As you know, the Single Business Tax, public school funding, crime, land use, transportation, and political ethics are a few of the many areas of concern that Legislators will deal with during this session.

Committee work is one of the most important functions of my job as your Representative because every bill enacted into law has been discussed and debated, perhaps amended, sometimes re-written, and occasionally scheduled for public hearing, before it is reported to the House. In committee we have the option of recommending the bill or not. We can recommend that the bill be sent to another committee, or we can simply take no action on it or refuse to report it out of committee.

Of course, when the bill reaches the floor, it may be debated, amended, passed, defeated or tabled.

But most of the legwork has been done in committee.

In the House we have 33 committees, with 19 Appropriation and 5 Judiciary Sub-committees, and those committees and sub-committees will consider each bill and resolution introduced. Of course, at this point, it's difficult to estimate just how many bills will be introduced during the two years of this legislative session. If the Legislature is true to form this session, only about 20 percent of the bills introduced will make it to the Governor's desk for signature.

Why such a low percentage? Some issues are so hot they attract a number of bills, each with a number of sponsors.

For instance, revision of the Single Business Tax is sure to inspire a number of bills, as is public school funding. Last year workmen's compensation was such an issue and promises to be again this year. Occasionally we goof and a bill is enacted which accomplishes something the Legislature did not intend. Then we revise it. Sometimes we inch along on an issue, making a little more progress each time we take a look at that particular issue.

Because we have so many critical choices ahead of us, we must, of necessity, spend the bulk of our time researching, studying and planning the kinds of programs that ensure a quality life in Michigan at a price we can afford. That's where you come in. Representative government is at least partially the responsibility of the constituency. You pay the bills for our programs.

Keep me informed. It's the best way to ensure that your voice will be heard in Lansing.

FIRST BILLS

The House and Senate last week each passed its first bill of the 79th Legislative session.

State Senators passed and sent to the House a bill that would prevent a possible loss of income tax credits as the result of a Treasury Department decision requiring that health insurance payments should be counted as household income.

The House passed and sent to the Senate a bill exempting new apartment buildings in downtown Detroit from property taxes for up to 12 years.

Most of us have received many letters and telephone calls regarding the Treasury Department's decision to include health insurance payments as household income when applying for Michigan property tax credits.

The Senate bill limits the definition of household income by excluding payments to life, health or accident insurance funds whether they are made by the employer or by the taxpayer in the case of self-employment.

If this bill is passed by the House and signed by the Governor, the decree by the Treasury Department would be overturned.

It was never the intent of the Legislature, in adopting the Property Tax Relief Act, to include insurance payments as income when applying for property tax credits so this bill makes sure that the intent of the Legislature will be carried out.

The bill providing a 12-year tax exempt status for new apartment buildings in downtown Detroit is designed to attract middle-income persons to the downtown area by being able to offer them apartments for reasonable rents. Builders could seek a certificate from the city which would make the buildings tax exempt for up to 12 years. The land would remain on the tax roll.

BAD WINTER

We are taking the liberty to join those who talk about the weather, but who are unable to do anything about it.

I certainly don't have to tell you that this severe winter has caused many serious problems, one of which is a shortage of natural gas and fuel oil heating resources.

Michigan has been fortunate in that we have not experienced as severe shortages as some of our neighboring states have been forced to tolerate.

While Michigan has thus far had adequate supplies of heating resources, we are being warned to conserve or be faced with the same problem as Ohio, for example.

Governor Milliken has said he will resist any attempt to divert Michigan's resources to other states except in absolute emergency situations such as providing heat for hospitals and individual homes.

The Governor is absolutely correct in his stand. In my opinion, it does not make sense to close down a Michigan industry or school so that an industry or school in another state can operate using Michigan's share of heating energy.

This entire energy situation concerns me. Back in 1974, when we experienced another energy shortage, the experts told us that the energy shortage problem was not going to magically disappear; and they were right, it hasn't disappeared.

While I do not suggest

Letters to the editor

Criticizes burning of Scout uniforms

Dear Editor: This letter is in response to the article in the Sunday State Journal (Feb. 6, 1977) of two Girl Scout Leaders burning their uniforms.

It's a sad day when someone who has been in Girl Scouts for many years, in one radical act, can go against the Girl Scout Law (number 10): "to show respect for myself and others through my words and actions." Is that any different than burning her bra? In our area we show our respect for our uniforms (new and old) by wearing them for special occasions, after all they are a symbol of the Girl Scouts of America. If the Equal Rights Amendment is ratified nationally will they show their disapproval by burning the American flag?

We in our council feel that our support of the E.R.A. is not political but social and is a natural extension of the Girl Scout Program.

This definition of the E.R.A. from special publication from Michigan ER America says that "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex." After all is said and done if we had equal rights under the constitution why did we have to fight to get the vote?

The following quotes were taken from the Girl Scout Leader Notebook. These are the things we try to inspire in girls.

"Inspiring girls with the highest ideals of character, conduct and patriotism and the hope that they become happy and resourceful citizens.

We are to help introduce girls to new experiences, giving them a chance to develop their capabilities in more advanced situations. They learn to plan activities and carry out their plans. In this way girls learn self-direction and initiative.

Citizenship is basic to the total Girl Scout program. It involves self-development as well as relationships with others; an appreciation of community and country; and participation in the responsibilities of democratic decision making.

It is concerned with appreciation of worth of individuals, the rights and responsibilities of self and others, and the understanding and respect for other ways of life and other cultures.

Girl Scouting aims to help girls broaden their interests and talents to clarify their ideals; and to develop a strong and coherent system of values. It encourages them to become well informed and able to think for themselves, to learn to make intelligent choices based on fact."

In the end does it make sense to teach all of these things and many more only to have our children grow up to realize they can't reach their highest potential because of their sex?

Without the Equal Rights Amendment they might not be allowed to reach their possible goals.

Jacqueline Plowman

Senator Allen responds to Almanack column

Dear Editor:

Like Richard Milliman I have long harbored a distrust of public funding of political campaigns. It just seems against the grain in our country for a politician not to "pay his own way."

However continued experience in politics, in running for and serving in the State Legislature causes me to grow increasingly suspicious of present methods of funding campaigns. I believe the fund raising process contributes to public cynicism and occasionally to deviation from best public policy.

Campaigns have become expensive because media is expensive and media wins elections. As large amounts need to be raised, candidates depend more on special interest groups and less on individuals. Somehow the public feels, I suspect with some justification, that these groups do not invest foolishly; they get their money's worth.

While I do not suggest corruption, I do not deny its possible occasional occurrence. But completely without corruption it should not come to pass that only those interests willing to spend lots of money are those who end up with people who think like they do in control. And nobody spends a lot of money on a politician they disagree with.

So is the answer public funding? I don't know. But I tend to feel it lead to a relatively clean presidential campaign (though my man lost) and I'm willing to try it at the gubernatorial level.

I'd like to make another suggestion to Mr. Milliman. Regular media coverage of public officials and candidates dilutes the effect of campaign spending. Print our voting records, interview us on issues and follow our pratfalls and accomplishments. Then when we are challenged in an election, give good regular front page coverage to our opponents so the voters become a qualified with them.

If this could be combined with such a lively citizen interest that a significant number of voters would turn out to listen to and question the candidates in a public forum, perhaps sponsored by newspapers or citizen groups, methods of funding would not matter.

In an ideal democracy with a lively press no one would "buy" an election with a few thousand brochures and those awful 30 second TV and radio announcements.

Until then I think public funding may be worth a try as the lesser of evils.

Everything you buy at Kroger is guaranteed for your total satisfaction regardless of manufacturer. If you are not satisfied, Kroger will replace your item with the same brand or a comparable brand or refund your money.

We also guarantee that we will do everything in our power to have ample supplies of all advertised specials on our shelves when you shop for them. Report from the Senate

Governor Milliken's transportation proposal which landed on our desks this week shapes up to being one of the most controversial of this year's legislative issues.

And it's a classic example of what we call the "package deal." Put a number of diverse, though related, proposals together then insist that backers of one element must agree to the whole package.

For instance, the so called "highway lobby" composed of road builders, local road officials, truckers and others who benefit from and believe in good roads are an essential element in any proposal.

They can be expected to support gas and weight tax increases though they may argue about how to divide it up.

But they can also be expected to adamantly oppose any highway raised funds going for non-highway purposes. This has been one of the most successful stories in the history of legislative lobbying. Until recent years, they never lost a battle in Michigan and did pretty much as well in Congress and other states. Then in 1972, they lost one. Michigan redefined highway purposes to include mass transit and began to subsidize buses in large and small cities around Michigan.

And this year's transportation package includes a big new hunk of highway funds going to mass transit including, non-bus types of people movers in the Detroit Metropolitan area and trains outstate. It also includes another one the highway lobby has lost in other states, but so far, won in Michigan. The Governor wants State Police supported by 31 million in highway money. This, of course, saves the State's general fund and is part of Milliken's efforts to balance again the fundamentally shaky Michigan general fund budget.

So will the highway people swallow these two big defeats to get the extra funds they insist are needed to maintain and improve our highways? And if they do can they sell the public on the entire package sufficiently to secure legislative approval?

The people are by no means as pro "good roads" as they were a few years ago. When the 1972 tax increase went through most people in our district were happy we were able to secure pledges from the Highway Department that I-69 from Charlotte to Lansing and US-27 from Lansing to Ithaca would be finished in the 4-year program. The four years have run out and neither is finished. But the public mood has shifted.

Credit rating important

The credit bureau does not rate you as a "grade A" risk, but will report what kinds of credit accounts you have and whether you pay "as agreed". It also reports if you are overdue in payments and by how long.

Credit bureaus record your occupation, your employer, how long you've had the same job, your approximate income, your age, address and how long you've lived in the same place.

These data help lenders know if they wish to give you credit.

Many consumers are curious about the information a credit bureau may have about them. Others wonder why credit is so hard for them to get.

The Fair Credit Reporting Act required that a lender denying you credit because he has received adverse information about you must tell you the source of that information.

Credit bureaus or lending agents must tell you what the adverse information is. If it is a mistake, they must correct it. If you ask about your credit report because you've been denied credit, you will not be charged.

If you ask just because you want to know, the credit bureau may charge you a small fee for the interview.

If you do not agree with the report and the original source of the adverse information refuses to correct it, you have the right to file your version of the dispute with the credit bureau.

If you've really earned a poor credit report by paying late, never paying or going bankrupt, you can improve your credit rating. But it may take time.

Get a good start by establishing a checking account. And don't overdraw. Build up a savings account. Also pay your bills when you've agreed to pay them.

If you're new in town, your good or bad credit report may follow you from your last home. Many credit bureaus are affiliated and maintain an information network.

Remember, a credit bureau or any lender only reports on your performance. They don't make your record. You do.

It's to your advantage to build a good credit report. If in doubt, check it out.

Allen Wilcox participates in Navy exercise

Navy Interior Communications Electrician Fireman Apprentice Allan G. Wilcox, son of Wayne R. Wilcox of 1847 W. Clark Road, DeWitt, is participating in the multi-national naval exercise "Caribex 1-77".

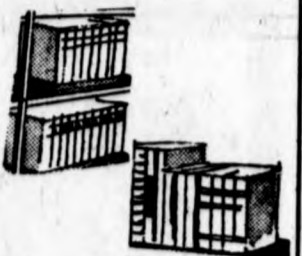

He is serving as a crew member aboard the amphibious assault ship USS Guadalcanal homeported in Norfolk, Va.

The five week exercise is being conducted off the East Coast of the United States and in the Caribbean. Navy and Marine units from the U.S., United Kingdom, Canada, Brazil and the Netherlands have joined for readiness training in antisubmarine warfare, antiair defense, plus amphibious and task group operations.

The final event of the training will be an amphibious landing at Onslow Beach, N.C. during the last week in February.

He joined the Navy in June 1975.

Library Corner

By Jean Bartholomew

This is "Did You Know Month?" for the library. Did you know the library receives forty-four different magazines each month and four newspapers each week? Did you know some issues of our magazines go back to 1945; and we're constantly updating our reference section.

Were you aware we belong to a science fiction, a mystery and a gothic romance book club as well as Literary Guild and McNaughton Rental Service that send us standing orders each month? We also post a list of best-sellers each month and mark which ones the library has?

We have a Memory Book, listing by year the titles of gift books and donor names. We accept these gifts of books or money at any time.

Each month the librarian goes to the Ingham County Library in Mason to choose books of all types for our collection as well as records. All books and records are on display to be checked for print size, binding and illustrations.

We also have book salesmen from several companies calling on us regularly, such as Doubleday and Childrens Press.

Your librarian travels each month to central Michigan workshops, board meetings and tri-monthly seminars sponsored by the state of Michigan on grants, legislation and all other subjects related to libraries, as well as the Lansing area librarians monthly meetings for idea exchange.

Partial Listing of New Books

- American Law and Procedure -- Hall
- Passages -- Sheehy
- Adventures in Prayer -- Marshall
- Chinese Menu Cookbook -- Hush
- Family Fortune -- Eberhart
- Loretta Lynn -- Lynn
- Secrets of Mind Power -- Lorayne
- Once An Eagle -- Myrer
- The Shining -- King
- The Iron Jehu -- Hogan
- Telemath -- Robinson

Academically Talented announce meeting in St. Johns

The Clinton County Association for the Academically Talented met, in spite of stormy weather, Jan. 31. Several parents and teachers shared their concerns about gifted students whose needs are not being met.

The group agreed the public needs to be more aware of the problems and potentials of academically talented children.

The Ovid-Elsie plan for gifted and individualized education will be presented at the next meeting, Feb. 21, at 7:30 p.m. in the Central National Bank Community Room.

All in Clinton County are welcome to attend.

Elsie Methodist men hold early morning breakfast

The United Methodist Men held their early morning breakfast last Sunday in Fellowship Hall. Tim Sturgis of the Elsie Door and Specialty gave a talk on the building industry. He said business was slowing down but has taken a change for the better.

About a year ago, Elsie Door started an expansion program by installing some automatic machinery which will enable it to double the production over a two year period.

He said new lines had also been added to serve over a two year period. It has expanded its area to serve the major home building industry in Michigan. New lines have also been added to service the light commercial building industry.

A question and answer period proved interesting.

Altar flowers were placed in memory of Andrew Cobb and his grandson, Michael Cobb on that Sunday. For several generations, the Cobb family have been faithful members of the Elsie Church.

A Confirmation Class has been organized for youth in the 7th grade and up. This will be a ten-week class for preparation in church membership. The youth meet at the church at seven o'clock, Wednesday nights. Mr. Miles will be leading the class. It will begin January 26.

Several church officers attended a training session last Sunday afternoon at the Alma United Methodist Church.

The new choir for 8-year-olds and through the 6th grade will meet Wednesday afternoon following school. Mrs. Jean Cobb is in charge of the choir.

During the cold winter weather after the church worship service a Coffee Hour will be held in Fellowship Hall. Everyone is invited to stay and greet each other.

Mrs. James Dorman is now home from Owosso Memorial Hospital where she was under medical treatment for several days. Mrs. Anne Praay is much improved from her recent illness.

Mrs. Dorothy Kaspar has been seriously ill at Clinton Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Russell Bouck is a medical patient at the Owosso Memorial Hospital.

Word has been received of the death of Carl Manning, 76, former resident of Elsie, earlier this month. Services were held at Holy Family Home in Paw Paw with burial in Almena Cemetery. He had been ill for a long time.

The Mannings lived in Elsie from 1935 to 1945 where Mr. Manning helped organize and supervise the Elsie Creamery.

He is survived by his wife, Maude; two sons, Bernard Manning of Portage and C. Durward Manning of Mattawan; a daughter, Mrs. Joe (Virginia) Anderson of Comstock Park; and eight grandchildren.

Martis leads Redwings over Corunna 75-67

By Harold Schmaltz
Sports Editor

ST. JOHNS -- The St. Johns Redwings, led by a 20-point performance by Dave Martis, held off Corunna for a 75-67 victory in Friday night MMB basketball action.

The Redwings who have been hanging on to 3rd place in Mid-Michigan-B competition all season continued their hold on that position by virtue of Bullock Creek's loss to league leader Alma. St. Johns currently stands at 6-4 while Bullock Creek dropped to 5-5.

Corunna, at one point in the second quarter, powered ahead of the Redwings, 27-21. Martis then generalled his teammates, scoring 9 of his 20 points at a crucial time.

Turnovers by Corunna, combined with Martis' performance, gave the Redwings a 34-28 halftime lead.

St. Johns came back into the 3rd stanza of play and outgunned the visitors, 20-15 but then the Cavaliers outdid the Redwings, 24-21 in the final quarter. The earlier lead by Coach Steve Bakita's crew pinned the 10th league loss on their guests.

Following Martis in scoring were Redwings Jerry Bashore with 13 and Mark White with 11. Also contributing to the scoring were Randy Pertler, Mark Geller, and Jeff Cox who each scored 9, 8 and 7 points, respectively.

A highly physical game, the Cavaliers had 28 personal fouls called against them while St. Johns collected 26 miscues.

Excellent shooting from the charity line was the difference as St. Johns had just one field goal more than Corunna, getting 24 to their 23. The combination of Martis, White and Cox at the line took its toll on the Cavaliers. Martis hit 10 of 13 attempts, while White collected for 7 of 8 attempts. Jeff Cox collected 5 of 6 in his free throw efforts.

In earlier action, the Jayvees of St. Johns continued their winning ways, crushing their foes, 75-39.

Randy Pertler becomes a flying Redwing Friday night as he comes sailing into the key with a driving layup against Corunna. St. Johns downed the Cavaliers 75-67. Eyeing the action is another Redwing, # 12 Mark White while # 34 Jeff Cox positions himself for a possible rebound.

Redwings bomb Chesaning 78-57

CHESANING--With a victory fresh under their belts over Corunna, the St. Johns Redwings traveled to Chesaning Saturday night and delivered 4 solid quarters of scoring to overwhelm their MMB opponent, 78-57.

Coach Steve Bakita said it was the "best game" his boys had played since he assumed reins of the coaching position. Although he said 3 of his starters were in foul trouble in the 3rd period, the earlier lead held up for the Redwings.

Leading all scorers was Jerry Bashore, with 22, followed by Dave Martis and Mark White who delivered 16 and 14 points, respectively. Also adding to the score were 8 points from Randy Pertler and 6 from Jeff Cox. Carl Nobis, Mark Geller and Joe Buggs each chipped in 4 each.

St. Johns got off to a good start with 20 counters while Chesaning was struggling to find the range with 8. The second quarter saw the Redwings continue their hot hands with another 20, good enough to take a 40-22 lead into the dressing room at halftime.

In the third quarter the Indians came back into the game psyched up to do battle. They came across with 22 points to St. Johns' cooler production of 17. However, in the 4th frame Bakita's crew combined for 21 points to overshadow the 13 by the Indians.

Girl gymnasts win 7th straight

ST. JOHNS--Coach Sue Cerny's girl Redwing gymnasts added to their victory string of 7 straight last week, topping Mt. Pleasant, 89.2-60.45.

Denise Cerny won 4 of the 5 events in vaulting, floor exercise, tumbling and the uneven bars. She rated a close 2nd in the balance beam event.

Other Redwings placing in events were: Rhonda Davis, 2nd in vaulting; Michelle Rehmann and Terri Lindow, tied for 3rd in vaulting and in floor

The jayvees found the Chesaning squad up for the challenge but managed to outlast them, 69-62.

This Friday's game will be the big one for St. Johns as they'll be taking on the league-leading Alma Panthers who had a narrow squeak with O-E last week, beating them by just 2 points in overtime.

Sea Lions beat Flint, lose to Saginaw

ST. JOHNS--The St. Johns Sea Lions collected a swim victory over Flint last Friday, 379-323 then lost a 581-457 contest Saturday night to Saginaw.

The Flint swim meet had been earlier postponed because of the snowstorm, therefore resulting in a two-night stand for the local amateur swim club.

Among the first-place finishers in the Saginaw meet were Kendra Phinney, Shirleen Haymes, Betty Manning and Theresa Koeningnecht. Also taking top honors were Mike Martindale, Mike Morris, Aaron Devereaux, Steve Fedewa, David Newhall, Dan Stevenson, Paul Manning and Chris DeWitt.

Other first place finishers were Amanda Martindale, Brent Mailand, Chris Stiffler, Laurie Stevenson, Kathy Stevenson, Julie Feeman and Sue Stratton.

Among the first-place finishers in the Flint meet were Missy O'Connell, Kendra Phinney, Sherleen Haymes, Diane Stratton, David Newhall, Rod Koyne, Mike Martindale, Aaron Devereaux, Steve Fedewa, Dan Stevenson, and Bailey Kiffny.

Other honor swimmers were Chris Warren, Ann Moore, Jodi Plesko, Steve Welch, Chris DeWitt, Brian Goins, Jim Randall, Judy Fedewa, Vicki Foreback, Kim Goins, Amanda Martindale, Shawn Meyer and Beth Gavenda.

The next meet for the Sea Lions will take place this Saturday, Feb. 19 at Alma.

St. Johns tankers overwhelm Swan Valley

SAGINAW--The St. Johns Redwing swimmers led by double winners Ron Moon, Rod Lounds, and Dan Barker completely outclassed the Swan Valley Vikings in a swimming meet held last Monday night.

The local tankers won every event except the final relay. Other winners for St. Johns were Mark Grost, Keith Parsons and Tim Grost.

Moon and Lounds teamed with Tim Grost and Gene Pierce to win the 200 medley relay.

On Tuesday night, Corunna came to town and swam away with a 118-63 win with St. Johns achieving only one winner with Ron Moon in the 500 freestyle. Moon and Lounds will both be trying to join Mark Grost as State Meet qualifiers when the tankers meet Mason in what should be the most exciting meet of the year, according to Coach Jim Makarasukas.

Byrnes hits for 24 Marauders overpower Huskies

Ken Kellogg of the Ovid-Elsie Marauders lays an easy one up for the home team as heads-up teamwork by the Marauders easily disposed of the visiting Hemlock Huskies, 87-69. Other Marauders in on the scene are: [Lr.] Brian Byrnes, Ed Kaminski and Tim Doyen.

By Harold Schmalz
Sports Editor

OVID-ELSIE—Coach Bob Foreback's Ovid-Elsie Marauders started out Friday night's game with the Hemlock Huskies with a burst of power that overwhelmed their guests on the way to an 87-69 MMB victory.

The Marauders developed hot hands in the opening quarter, getting 23 points to the Huskies' token 12. Cooling off a bit in the second period, the Marauders hit for 16 to 17 for the Huskies but came back in the second half and hit for 19 and 29.

Meanwhile in the 3rd and 4th quarters the Huskies were getting 20 and 20.

The victory over the Huskies improved the Marauders' MMB record to 5-7 while Hemlock dipped to a 3-7 slate.

Pacing the Marauder attack was junior Brian Byrnes with his game-high total of 24, followed by a fine performance by Ken Kellogg with 20. Also chipping in with 12 counters was Ed Kaminski who fought an outstanding battle on the boards along with teammate Tim Doyen who collected 6 points. Other Marauders in the six-point bracket were Brett Welton, and Doug Sturgis. Richard Betz added 5 points along with 4 more by Scott Schoendorf.

Hemlock managed to pull within O-E's seemingly insurpassable lead with a gap on only 4 points in the 3rd quarter but Coach Foreback settled his crew down and they retaliated with an explosive final frame to ice the victory.

O-E's Byrnes, playing his usual aggressive game collected the most body contact as he went to the charity line 9 times. Unfortunately for the Huskies, Byrnes was at his best from that point, connecting on 8 of 9 attempts.

O-E collected 22 personals to Hemlock's 25.

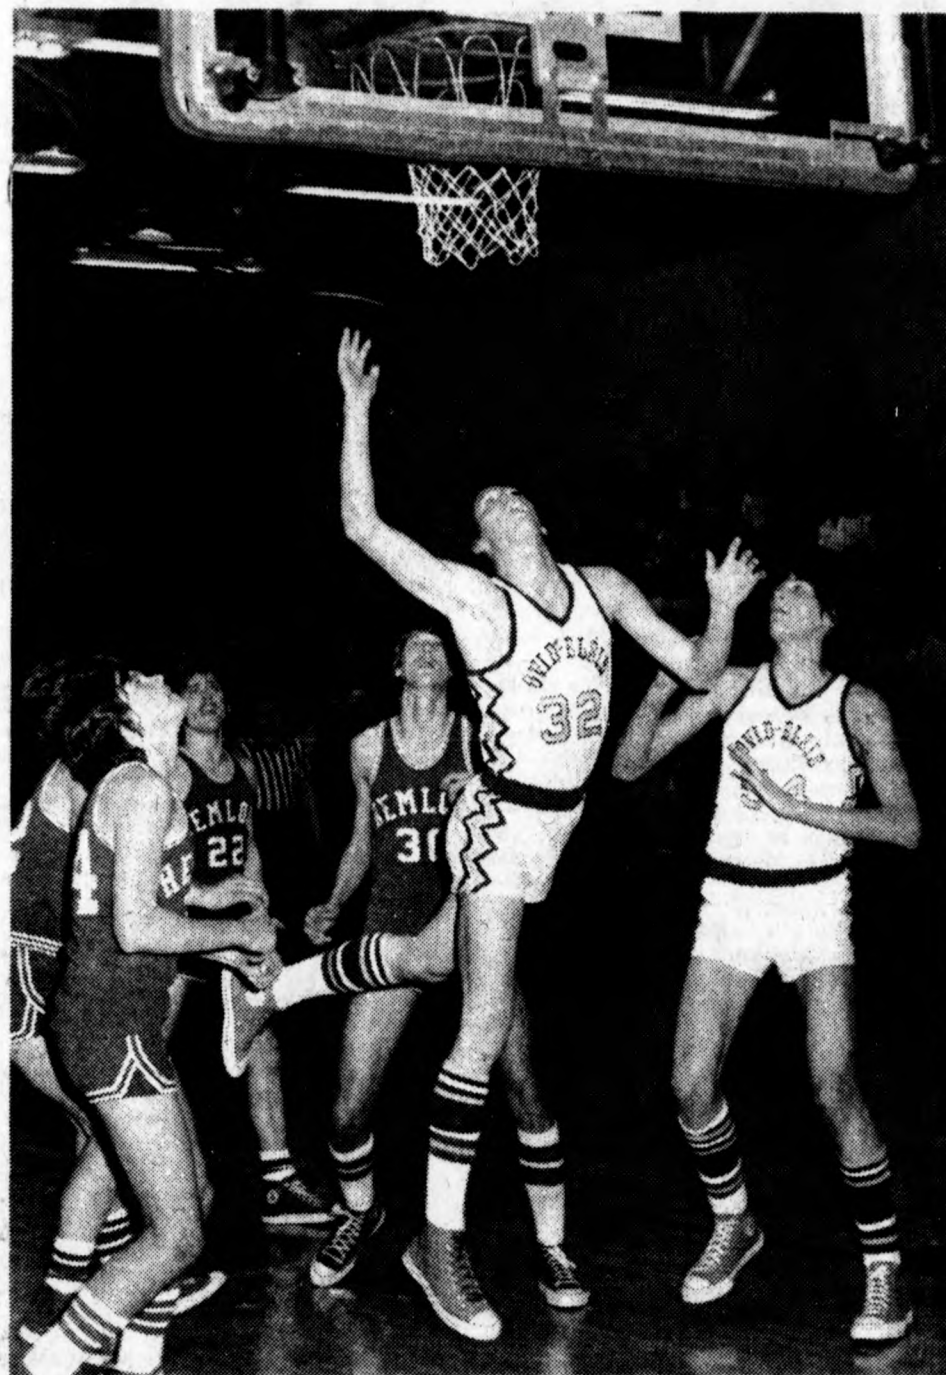

Earlier in the evening Coach Jack Nutter's crew outlasted their opponents in a spine-tingler, 60-59.

The Marauders gave MMB front runner Alma a real scare last Tuesday night as they almost turned the upset of the year in an overtime situation which saw the Panthers eventually take the close victory, 77-75.

Alma suffered two cold quarters while O-E sailed along getting solid consistent scoring for their efforts. While Foreback's gang was collecting 20 in both the 2nd and 3rd quarters, the Panthers were only able to hit the hoop for 11 points in each of their quarters.

Going into the final frame with the Marauders holding a seemingly comfortable 55-44 lead, the Panthers came out with their claws sharpened and outdid the Marauder's 20-point performance with 31 glistening points of their own to deadlock the game at the buzzer, 75-all.

In the overtime action, two free throws saved the day for the host Panthers as O-E failed to score in their share of the period, and the game ended 77-75.

Ovid-Elsie's Tim Doyen (# 32) does a swan dive in an attempt to lay one in for the Marauders in Friday night's winning encounter with Hemlock. The Marauders handily defeated the Huskies, 87-69. Ed Kaminski of the Marauders readies himself for rebounding action.

Beats Shamrocks 83-72

P-W takes over 2d place in CMAC

WESTPHALIA—So what's new...everybody expected Coach Joe Ghiardi's Pirates from Pewamo-Westphalia to assume 2nd place in the CMAC league and this is just what they did Friday night, overpowering the Portland St. Patrick's Shamrocks, 83-72 on fine performances by Dave Belen and Lonnie Rademacher.

Belen who has been leading scorer in the CMAC for much of the season combined with teammate Rademacher to put the crunch on their guests, getting 28 and 18 points, respectively. Also starring defensively for the Pirates was Stan Thelen who held the Shamrock's "big gun", Doug Nowak to 10 points.

P-W delivered 4 quarters of consistent scoring, getting 24 in the 1st; 18 in the 2nd; 20 in the 3rd and 21 in the 4th. Meanwhile, the Shamrocks were attempting to keep pace with the Pirates but faltered badly in the 3rd quarter, managing only 10 points. By then, their 26 point outburst in the final frame was short of its mark to overtake the momentum of the Pirates.

P-W collected 15 personal fouls to a mere 8 for the Shamrocks which proved to be an advantage to Portland as they hit on 14 of 16 attempts to take up their slack in the field goal department. P-W outdistanced them from the floor, getting 38 buckets to their 29.

Added scoring to the Pirate effort was provided by Steve Miller and Dan Witgen who each had 11 and 8 points, respectively. Also getting into the scoring columns were Pirates Dean Kohagen and Thelen who added 6 points each to the offensive. Duane Weber rounded out the Pirate scoring with 4 counters.

P-W's jayvees also tasted victory with a win over St. Pats, 61-45.

Belen hit the 30-plus mark again last Tuesday night as he led the P-W

Pirates in a win over arch-rival and friendly neighbor, Fowler, 77-68.

Both teams delivered solid scoring performances, however, Coach Joe Ghiardi's crew did just a bit better. The difference proved to be the cool 10-point start by the Eagles in the opening frame while the Pirates were keeping their rim hot with 18 points.

Ensuing quarters saw the Pirates collect 18 in each of the 2nd and 3rd periods while Fowler was keeping pace with 20 and 18 point quarters of their own. P-W then came on in the final frame with 23 points to add to their earlier lead to ice the game. Fowler tried valiantly to catch up with a 20-point production in their 4th period but the 8-point deficit suffered in the first frame took its toll on Charlie Trierweiler's crew.

Following Belen with his 31 points was teammate Lonnie Rademacher with 16. Other Pirates adding to the victory were Steve Miller and Stan Thelen who scored 14 and 11 points, respectively.

Steve Simon took scoring honors for the Eagles with his 20 points, followed by Steve Johnson and Don Schrauben with 16 and 14 points, respectively.

Perry pulls overtime upset over Bees

PERRY-The Perry Ramblers overcame a cold 3rd quarter to outscore the Bath Bees in the final period of action Friday night, sending the game into overtime on a timely basket by Rambler Dennis Schanski. Perry then overwhelmed the Bees in the overtime period, 7-2 for a 77-72 victory.

The Ramblers who came into the game with an unimpressive 2-7 ICL record dropped Bath to 6-5 slate in the Ingham County league and improved their own position in the league over Dansville and Leslie.

Bath finally found the range in the 3rd quarter and it appeared they were on their way to victory, hitting 19 to Perry's token 10 points. However, Perry fought back in the final period to outscore Bath, 18-14 and force the game into an overtime showdown.

Tim Hawks and Mark Phillips led the Bees in scoring, getting 19 and 15 points respectively. Bruce Swart, who scored a sensational 32 last week against Leslie, was held to 10 counters. Martin Covell connected for 13 points on 6 field goals and a charity toss, followed by six more by teammate Dave Green who was down from his usual point production.

Chuck Cronk and Rex Fouch each added 5 and 4 to the Bees effort. In preliminary action, the Bath Jayvees were victorious, 62-42.

Eagles' wings clipped by Wolfpack 65-60

LAINGSBURG-The Fowler Eagles were flying a long headed for what could be considered an upset win over the Laingsburg Wolfpack when disaster struck. The Eagles ran into a 4th period shooting drought to drop the CMAC contest, 65-60.

Both teams shot 28 buckets from the floor but the difference was from the charity line where Fowler connected on only 4 of its 13 opportunities while Laingsburg didn't fare much better, but did hit 9 of their 22 attempts, enough to provide the victory margin.

Laingsburg had 3 players in double figures to pace their efforts. Jim Forrest and John Swain shared scoring honors with 14 points each followed by 13 more from Rick Veith.

DeWitt crushes Haslett in first half explosion

DEWITT-There was no such thing as the 3rd period blues for the DeWitt Panthers Friday night against Haslett as the Panthers combined with 45 points in the first half to destroy their Capital Circuit opponent 72-41. Haslett delivered a paltry 19 points in their share of first-half action.

DeBow and Wilson put on a fine field goal exhibition in the first period with DeBow dumping in 5 of his 6 with Wilson combining his efforts for the Panthers, connecting on 4 of his 7 field goals for the night.

The final frame saw DeWitt hit for 20 points to outscore Howell's mediocre 15 but by then the game was well in the pocket for the host Highlanders.

Although the second half was not as action-packed as the first, the Panthers coasted along with their lead, connecting for 15 points in the 3rd stanza and 12 in the final quarter while Haslett was struggling to get 10 and 12.

The Panther Jayvees, however, were not as fortunate as their varsity mates, falling to Haslett, 72-58.

The top scorer for Howell was Dave Charron, six-foot senior center who scored a career high of 29 points to lead the Highlanders over the Panthers.

Jim's column

Winter insect pests

by Jim Pelham, Extension Director

"There are three common types of indoor pests you might see during warm, sunny winter and spring days," says James K. Liebherr, Extension entomologist at Michigan State University.

These are not houseflies or other pests you couldn't catch in the fall, but more likely are insects that entered your house in the fall and have been hiding inside your walls or attic ever since.

Cluster flies, elm leaf beetles and clover mites all search for a warm, dark, overwintering place when the temperature starts to drop in the early fall, according to Liebherr.

They may enter through attic vents, cracks in siding or foundation, loose-fitting screens and doors, and openings along eaves.

Liebherr suggests caulking or sealing these areas during the summer to prevent or reduce the problem the following year. He also recommends putting screens over attic vents and other areas open to outdoor insects.

Once indoors, these pests congregate in dark areas like wall spaces and attics. Liebherr says that they will stay there as long as it remains cold. But when it gets warm, the bugs become active and are attracted to light. They come out of hiding to gather on sunny walls and around windows.

Cluster flies look like large houseflies but lack stripes on their backs, Liebherr said. They have, instead, characteristic golden hairs under the base of their wings. Elm leaf beetles are dull, olive-green beetles about one-fourth inch long, with black stripes down the outside edges of their wing covers.

The clover mite is a small, reddish insect relative about one-sixteenth inch long with eight legs. They are harmless to humans, but they will leave a red stain if crushed.

None of these creatures pose a direct threat to health, but they can be annoying pests during warmer days.

Liebherr says all three insects can be adequately controlled indoors with a commercial insect spray that contains 5 percent methoxychlor, 0.2 percent piperonyl butoxide.

Apply the spray as a spot treatment around windows and doors, taking care not to stain wallpaper or draperies. If you can locate and reach the insects' wintering area, spray it thoroughly.

Because the effects of the spray last only a few hours, several applications may be needed. Continue spraying as needed. Alternatively, a fly swatter or vacuum cleaner may be used effectively to remove the unwelcome visitors.

"Edith, I'm 55-years-old...We CAN'T be pregnant!" means Harry in a scene from the Pawamo-Westphalia Community Players production of "Never Too Late," scheduled for February 18, 19, and 20 at 8:00 pm in the Pawamo Elementary Gymnasium, West Main St., in Pawamo. Harry Lambert, the expectant father, is played by Ronee Zyzewski of Maple Rapids, an Oldsmobile employee who also teaches computer programming at Lansing Community College. His wife is Carol Harmon, of Matherton, an accountant at General Tire of Ionia. Tickets may be had by reservation (call 593-2265) or at the door.

4-H Chatter

By John Aylsworth 4-H Agent

4-H members will have the opportunity to learn more about modeling and will appear on television by attending the 4-H Modeling Workshop on Saturday, February 19, 10 a.m., Rodney B. Wilson Junior High School in St. Johns.

Mrs. Bobbie Thomas from Joan Jewett's Career School in Lansing will speak from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m., giving tips on modeling and personal appearance. Following her session, members will have the opportunity to practice their modeling. When they model a video tape will be made and everyone will have a chance a few minutes later to see themselves on television. This will be an excellent opportunity for the members to observe how they looked when they modeled. Members are to bring a written narration of what they will be wearing as they style on Saturday. A schedule has been sent to each club to attend the morning or afternoon modeling practice. Mrs. Thomas will be there only from 10 to 11 a.m.

WOOD FINISHES

The 4-H woodworking leaders and older teens had an interesting meeting Feb. 10th on wood finishes. The Bensons talked to the group about the importance of knowing how to save a life when someone is choking and the proper way of administering mouth to mouth resuscitation. Mrs. Bruce Irish thanked the club for the nice Christmas gift given her. Mrs. Irish read the items from the Green Letter affecting the club. The club voted to donate $15 to the Church for the use of the Church for their club meetings.
