Big July 4 program

St. Johns' big Fourth of July celebration promises to be just that — big. The fire department, Lions Club and Rotary Club are throwing themselves into the final preparations during the next two weeks.

The city's first celebration in five years will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 2, 3 and 4 at the city park. Carnival, games, contests and a big fireworks show on the evening of July 4 are on the program.

THE LIONS Club, which will also have a giant eat stand, will be sponsors of an amateur talent show. Ralph Lynam, who is in charge of the show, said it will be presented each night of the celebration, and prizes will be awarded the final night.

An entry blank in this week's Clinton County News may be used for signing up for a part in the amateur program. Possible contestants are asked to send the entries to the St. Johns Fire Department at Box 183, St. Johns.

ENTRANTS MAY perform as many nights as they wish. Judging will be done each night, but the prizes will not be awarded until the last night, July 4. Up to 10 prizes may be awarded, depending on the number of entries in the talent show.

The St. Johns Fire Department set the wheels for the celebration in motion early this year; the last organized celebration was in 1960 when the firemen handled the entire celebration by themselves. Because of the complexities involved, they decided to go ahead with a celebration this year if they could get some assistance from local service clubs. The Lions Club and Rotary Club are providing this assistance.

RAY KENTFIELD Jr., heading up the arrangements for the firemen, said the carnival rides—a ferris wheel, three children's rides, two or three other major rides and about 10 concession stands—will be provided by the World of Pleasure Shows. This is the same firm that has provided entertainment at previous firemen-sponsored events.

The firemen will give away a girl's bicycle and a boy's bicycle on the afternoon of the Fourth. Tickets will be handed out by firemen during the three days of the celebration; youngsters who want an opportunity to win a bicycle are asked to contact firemen during those three days, sign the tickets and drop them in the ticket box for the drawing.

A STEER will also be raffled off on the afternoon of the Fourth.

The fireworks display, formerly fired off each night of the Fourth of July celebrations in the past, will be combined into one giant show on the evening of the Fourth this year. Firemen are building the fireworks themselves.

All proceeds during the three-day Independence Day celebration will go for community projects of the service clubs involved and for safety equipment for the fire department.

Kurt Becker to open new appliance store

Kurt Becker, who has been associated with the Alan R. Dean Hardware here for the past 18 years, is withdrawing from the firm to establish an appliance sales and service business at 220 N. Clinton Avenue in St. Johns.

KURT BECKER

The new Kurt's Appliance Center will be located in the Green Building, once occupied by the old Fowler & Son hardware. Becker hopes to be open for business about July 1. He plans a Grand Opening in August.

The business will be devoted exclusively to the sales and service of appliances, including radio, television and air conditioning.

THE NEW FIRM is taking over from the Dean hardware local franchises for General Electric, RCA Whirlpool, RCA Victor, Motorola and Tappan. Warranties issued through Dean's will be honored by Kurt's Appliance Center, Becker said.

The Dean hardware will discontinue its appliance lines to make room for better display and expansion of hardware, sporting goods, plumbing and heating departments.

Raymond Schomish will head the service department for the new Appliance Center and will be assisted by Harold Crowley. Mrs. Becker will help her husband in retail sales and bookkeeping.

BECKER BEGAN his association with the Dean hardware soon after his discharge from the US

During his 18 years in St. Johns, he has taken part in numerous civic activities. He is a past president of the St. Johns Rotary Club and a former director of the St. Johns Chamber of Commerce. He is presently chairman of the board of trustees at the First Congregational Church in St. Johns.

He is a native of Greenville and attended Central Michigan and Western Michigan universities. Mrs. Becker is the former Jean Young of Belding. They are the parents of two sons, Scott, 13, and Tom, 9. The family lives at 800 S. Oakland Street in St. Johns.

St. Johns boy wins 3rd Derby

A dazed smile from 13-year-old Bill Jacobus of St. Johns was just enough to identify him to anybody Sunday as the winner of the 1965 Clinton County Soap Box Derby.

Bill, the son of Mr and Mrs Howard Jacobus of 202 W. Lincoln Street, St. Johns, rolled across the finish line in the championship heat about one car-length ahead of runner-up Gary Haynes.

When his brakes failed, Bill's car zippered about 30 yards or so beyond the finish line and came to a jolting stop against pre-arranged bales of hay. Friends, relatives and Soap Box Derby officials swarmed around the car congratulating the winner.

Bill, by winning the race, won a $500 savings bond, a large wall trophy and a competition trip in August to the All-American Soap Box Derby at Akron, Ohio. He was sponsored by Parr's Rexall Drug Store.

IT WAS THE third and biggest win of the day for Bill. As soon as he could get free from the crowd, he rode up Clinton Avenue on the hood of a police car, with last year's winner, Allan Smith of Westphalia, by his side. Bill's face mirrored the soberness of hard work, about to be cracked by the big grin of triumph.

All the boys ran a good race, Derby Director Bernard Feldpausch and Co-Director Jerry Shoemaker emphasized. The top 10 boys in the race all received prizes.

RUNNERUP Gary Haynes received a portable television set as second prize. Other winners and their prizes were:

Dave Feldpausch of St. Johns, third prize, a polaroid camera; Jim Conley of St. Johns, fourth prize, a wrist watch; Donald Pung of Westphalia, fifth prize, a transistor radio; Allan Harris of St. Johns, sixth prize, a wrist watch; Gary Rademacher of St. Johns, seventh prize, binoculars; Dick Rademacher of St. Johns, eighth prize, spinning rod and reel; Gary Roach of Westphalia, ninth prize, Kodak camera; and Gary Sage of St. Johns, 10th prize, a baseball glove.

THE championship heat was the 48th during nearly two hours of racing on an almost perfect afternoon. Though the temperature was a muggy 87 degrees, the sun shone only part of the time and there was a cool breeze all during the races.

The new asphalt surface of Clinton Avenue provided a fast track, and there were a number of extremely close races, including one heat that was run again between two racers who the judges said could only have tied.

A CROWD estimated at about 6,000 persons lined both sides of the street from the starting ramps to the finish line and beyond. Others left after watching a 31-unit parade move up Clinton Avenue shortly after 2:30.

Participating in the parade were Dizzy Trout, former Detroit Tiger Baseball player; Daryl Sanders of the Detroit Lions; Jon Tatro, 1963 Soap Box Derby champion, and Allan Smith, the 1964 champ; Derby Queen Gloria Jean Muckle and her court riding in a huge racing car float built by the St. Johns Jaycees; Miss St. Johns, Gail Auten, and her court; service clubs; Flint Scottish Bagpipe Band, the St. Johns High School Band, and many other groups.

SANDERS addressed most of his remarks to all the boys except winner Bill Jacobus, saying that "the biggest challenge is to the guys who come back every time, are willing to work and who believe in themselves." Then he told Bill to "go on and be a champion in something else, too."

Dean Waters, of the Chevrolet Motor Division of General Motors, national sponsors of the Soap Box Derby, was also present to congratulate the boys.

Bill also received the John Lynam Memorial Trophy, which will be placed in his school during the next year. Last year's winner, Allan Smith, received a memento trophy from Ralph Lynam, John's father, for having won the memorial award last year.

Report car hits wire across road

The Clinton County sheriff's department was continuing investigation Tuesday of a report by Larry W. Coffman, 23, of 2004 S. Watson Road, St. Johns, that his car snapped barbed wire placed across Townsend Road Sunday.

Two strands of wire had allegedly been placed across the road a half-mile east of Watson Road by a farmer. Another two strands were reportedly placed across the road 10 feet away, the purpose apparently being to keep cattle together as they crossed the road.

Deputy Sheriff Gaylord Foote investigated the accident report Sunday about 6:20 p.m.

Methodists welcome new pastor Sunday

St. Johns' new Methodist minister, the Rev. Keith Bovee, preached his first sermon here Sunday but probably won't be moving to the city until about July 2.

The Rev. Mr. Bovee has been pastor for the past two years at the Lowell Methodist Church, where his congregation numbered about 470 members. He has been a preacher since 1949.

THE REV. MR. BOVEE and his wife Elнора have two children—Sandra, 13 and an eighth grader next year, and Sally, 9, a fourth grader. He said arrangements for moving could not be made until about July 2, but he has already taken over the pastoral duties of the church here.

He replaces Dr. Howard A. Smith, who was elevated to district superintendent of the Grand Traverse District of the Michigan Conference of the Methodist Church. Dr. Smith will live in Traverse City.

REV. BOVEE began preaching at Fairfield, four miles south of Adrian, while he was a freshman at Adrian College. He was there for two years and then preached at Frontier, 11 miles south of Hillsdale, for another two years.

He graduated from Adrian College in 1953 with a bachelor of arts degree.

From Frontier, the Rev. Mr. Bovee moved to Centerville, south of Kalamazoo, for three years and then became associate pastor at Muskegon Central Methodist Church. He went to the

REV. KEITH BOVEE

Lowell Methodist Church two years ago.

HE RECEIVED his B.D. degree from Garrett Theological Seminary at Evanston, Ill. in 1958 while serving at the Muskegon Central Church.

In addition to his pastoral duties at Lowell, the Rev. Mr. Bovee was a member of the Rotary Club, recently being elected to its board of directors. He is a member of the YMCA and was chairman of the board of managers at the Lowell "Y".

New paving program under way

Spartan Asphalt Co. has begun the paving of city streets designated May 18 by the city commission. Weather permitting, the work should be done by the end of this week, City Manager Ken Greer reported.

The streets to be paved include:

LINCOLN from Clinton to Oakland; SPRING from Steel to Gibbs; STURGIS from Wight to Church; RAILROAD from US-27 to Kibbee; ROSS from Clinton to Ottawa; CLINTON from Sturgis to last house; SWEGLER from Sturgis to Lambert; MORTON from Walker to Vaucoasant; HIGHAM from Traver to Kibbee; KIBBEE from State to Cass; CASS from Traver to Kibbee; BAKER at the south end; TRAVER from Baldwin to points south, and TRAVER from Kibbee back north to the last house; BUCHANAN from Wight to Clinton; WIGHT from Clark to Buchanan and PROSPECT from Higham to the railroad tracks.

IN ADDITION, Lincoln from Oakland to Mead streets will also be paved, following an agreement between the city and Federal-Mogul last week. Federal-Mogul agreed to pay the cost of excavating the gravel and clay mixture from the street and the replacement of it with process gravel.

Spartan will apply special tennis asphalt to the two center courts of the tennis courts at the city park at the completion of the street paving project. That may be the end of this week, if weather is favorable.

THE HICKS CO. of Alma will do seal coating, in the amount of approximately $15,000 to a number of blocks of paved streets in the city in July, Greer said.

Youth fined $100 for drag racing

Lawrence J. Buehler, 19, of 522 W. Hillsdale, Lansing, was fined $100 plus $19.90 costs and sentenced to two days in jail Monday on a charge of drag racing. Justice of the Peace Gordon Willoughby assessed the fine and sentence. Buehler was arrested Sunday in DeWitt Township by state police.

Smiling as if he knew he was going to win the Oil Can Trophy race Sunday preceding the Soap Box Derby, Russ Allman, manager of Saylor-Beall Manufacturing Co., waits for the race to start. He won it, beating out Lawrence Sexton, plant manager of Sealed Corp., and Ed Idzkowski, plant manager of Federal-Mogul Paper, who finished second and third respectively. "It just shows what clean living and a little push can do," Allman jokingly told the crowd later. Sexton said he would have won if he could have found the switch to his "secret weapon," Idzkowski said he couldn't have lost to better competition. (Additional Derby pictures on Page 10-C.)

Longtime correspondent resigns Wacousta post

A correspondent who has represented The Clinton County News in southwest Clinton County for upwards of 50 years has resigned her post this week.

Mrs Maurice (Veda) Forward has relinquished her position on the News staff because of ill health. Her hand-picked successor as Wacousta correspondent is Mrs Edward (Althea) Kraft, who has assisted her in news gathering in recent years.

MRS FORWARD began her career as a correspondent for this newspaper when she was in the 8th grade, writing items under a "North Watertown" heading. Later she contributed news from "Riley-Watertown" and "Eagle-Watertown." In recent years her writings have appeared under a "Wacousta" heading.

She is a former school teacher and a former Watertown township clerk.

Mr and Mrs Forward are observing their 50th wedding anniversary this year.

77 attend first playground event

Seventy-seven enthusiastic children participated in a treasure hunt at the city park last Friday, the first special event day of the summer recreation program. Candy and gum were awarded to all the children, and games and activities followed.

This Thursday and Friday, playground Directors Linda Smith and Janet Sipkovsky will attend a recreation workshop in Lansing, forcing cancellation of playground activities for those two days. As a result the pet show scheduled for this Friday has been postponed for one week until July 2.

Hub caps stolen

Ed St. John of 200 W. Gibbs Street, St. Johns, reported to city police Sunday the theft of a white shift lever knob and hub caps from his car while it was parked near the south edge of the city.

Rope Barrier Bends as Fans Stretch to See Soap Box Racers

Standing, sitting or lying on the pavement, folks watching the Soap Box Derby Sunday were anxious to see all of the race they could. In numerous places the rope barriers warped outward as fans strained to watch the young racers as far up the track as they could.

2 youths hurt as car rams pole

Two St. Johns youths suffered injuries early Saturday morning in a one-car crash at Railroad and Oakland streets. Dale Wayne Casteel, 17, of 1682 N. Lansing Street, and Paul Woods, 17, of 206 N. Ottawa Street, were taken to Clinton Memorial Hospital. Woods was still hospitalized Tuesday.

Casteel's car, traveling west on Railroad Street, hit a Consumer's Power Co. pole on the southeast corner of the Oakland intersection. He told City Police Officers Robert Ott and Russell Doty his eyes were watering from a hay fever condition, blinding his vision while he was making the turn onto Oakland. He cut the corner too sharp and hit the pole.

CASTEEL reportedly suffered bruises in the accident, and Woods, his passenger, suffered cuts and bruises. Woods was described as in "good" condition Tuesday morning at the hospital.

The St. Johns Fire Department was called to the scene, but a small fire had been extinguished when they arrived. The accident occurred at 12:32 Saturday morning.

Jason Road closing discussed

The closing of Jason Road in the Lake Victoria area was discussed Monday evening at a hearing before the Clinton County Road Commission, but no decision was made.

Although Lake Victoria covers a portion of Jason Road, it has never formally been closed, and the road is still legally open on both ends down to the water's edge. Another road carries traffic around the south side of the lake.

PROPERTY owners petitioned the Road Commission to close the road. Attorney Fred Lewis of St. Johns and Mrs Ardeh Nell, who circulated the petition, appeared at the hearing on behalf of the landowners, and Joe Bohnet represented the Lake Victoria Land Co.

Supervisor Claude Underhill, Clerk Manley Hunt and trustees Arlo Sticher and Stanley Morrill of the Victor Township board questioned the effect the closing of the road would have and expressed concern about access to the lake for fire trucks to fill with water.

THE BOARD of Clinton County road commissioners will make a decision on the closing probably at their next regular meeting July 6.

City Police Officer Lyle French said Cain, headed east on State Street, had pulled over on the north side and stopped to deposit mail in the drive-in box, then pulled back across the road and into the Woodhams car.

Mrs Woodhams and their son Barry, 2, were passengers in the Woodhams car, and the boy reportedly suffered some minor bruises. Dorothy Cain of 203 E. Buchanan, St. Johns, and Louise Ranolds of 322 W. Sheridan, Lansing, were passengers in Cain's car.

ALL CHAMBER of Commerce members who are interested in serving on the committee are invited to attend. On the agenda is the adoption of a program of work and projects for the coming year.

Donald H. Clark, St. Johns city assessor since last December, was given the further duties of city clerk by the city commission last week. WONDERING ABOUT ADVERTISING?

Here Are Some Facts To Consider!

ADVERTISING VALUE

The true value of advertising lies not always in the actual offering of merchandise for sale, but in a subtler manner . . . the keeping before the public eye the name of your place of business and the names of the products you carry.

The average consumer of the articles you sell, when he has no immediate need of those articles, does not buy. But the constant association of yourself and those articles in persistent advertising in the Clinton County News will in time produce results.

Mr. Merchant:

1. Your advertising message in the Clinton County News goes into more homes in Clinton County than any other kind of advertising.
2. Every big store in America built its business with newspaper advertising and relies on it today.
3. A full page advertisement in the Clinton County News cost less than TWO CENTS per family you reach.
4. Your advertisement is a part of the Clinton County News that everybody wants to read.
5. You get thousands of SHOW WINDOWS. People can see what you want to sell . . . pictures, prices and descriptions.
6. Clinton County wives and mothers plan their buying while they're reading the Clinton County News. So do their menfolks.
7. Your Clinton County News is more carefully read, by more members of each family, than any other advertising medium, and its readers believe in it.
8. Your national manufacturer and distributor can join you in advertising the products you have to sell.

John Tyler established the right of a vice-president to full succession to the U.S. presidency in 1841. When William Henry Harrison died in office, the first president to do so, some political leaders thought Vice-President Tyler should be called "Acting President." They opposed his receiving the full presidential salary and even his occupying the White House. But Tyler took the oath and title of President, moved into 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, and asserted the full presidential powers.

Harness racing at Ionia Saturday

The famed Ionia Free Fair Grounds at Ionia will be the site of an exhibition program of harness racing Saturday.

The lively eight race card will appear under one of the finest lighting systems in the state on a track that rates as one of Michigan's finest half-mile dirt tracks. Starting time for the program is 8 p.m.

Featured will be both trotting and pacing races featuring horses from all over Michigan. Winners will receive blankets and other prizes.

Of special interest to area racing fans will be a special race for lady drivers, including Mariene VandeCar of Lake Odessa.

The fact that harness racing is an event that appeals to the old and young alike, is reflected in a special invitation for parents to bring their children to the barn area to meet the people who race horses and see how the equine animals are cared for.

NEW MSU TEACHING-RESEARCH UNITS—Two of the nation's leading teaching and research facilities—the $5.2 million Biochemistry Building (at left in the top photo) and the $6.6 million Chemistry Building—will be dedicated June 3-5 at Michigan State University. Features include modern research units such as the biochemistry laboratory (at left) which is designed and equipped for delving into the chemistry of basic life processes. Other features include extensive teaching facilities. In the Chemistry Building there are 11 recitation rooms, 29 teaching laboratories, a 100-seat lecture hall and the 300-seat auditorium (right). During the past year, MSU had 11,000 enrollments in chemistry courses. The buildings also have several special facilities. The Biochemistry Building, for example, has a section for caring for experimental animals and plant-growth chambers in which light, temperature and humidity can be precisely controlled. The Chemistry Building has a complete glass-blowing shop and special laboratories for working with radioactive and explosive materials. Both buildings were designed to achieve maximum versatility and economy of construction. They were built as a series of uniform-size laboratories, classrooms and offices, stacked one on top of another. All wiring and a large, complex network of pipes and ducts—including air, gas and steam lines, air conditioning, and a complete glass-pipe drainage system—are contained inside three-foot-thick walls along central hallways in each building.

Farmer Peck's Wife

Homespun Philosophy of a Duplain Township Housewife

"Kittens" brings us running

Kittens!

That cry heralds spring . . . real spring . . . at our house.

And just who will find them? It becomes a contest or challenge to see who can find the "nest" first. Before Sally went away to school SHE always was first. She has a knack or way with cats. And lots of patience.

THIS MORNING it was Sammy who let a cry with "kittens." That is the signal for everyone (except Pete) to drop whatever he is doing and make a dash for the barn to see them and claim his kitten to name and own and to keep or give away.

So we ran to the barn. I can't ever remember walking. And there behind a bale of straw was the new family of five squirming rat-like babies and the proud mother. Sammy had already claimed the all-black one. There were two pretty black and white ones with very interesting face-markings. Then there was the definite "strain" showing up of this farm to produce GRAY cats.

WE HAVE never had a batch of kittens without this touch of gray showing up since that "Siege of Gray" years ago. That year a mother cat produced seven kittens at one time . . . all gray. All lived and all were given Gr-names. The kids poured over the dictionary to get appropriate-sounding gray names. And folks sent in ideas.

The naming took a lot of thought on the girls' part. They wanted something nice and worthy of such a special event.

Not Sammy! He dispensed with all fol-de-rol and promptly latched onto Grabber and Grounder . . . and funny thing about it—those are the only names I can recall of the lot though the others had taken real energy to name. Oh, yes, there was a Grayey which went to the kitten which seemed the most gray. And that didn't mean the darkest gray one either.

ONE YEAR Sally decided to name all of the kittens from the book "My Zoo Family" by Helen Martini. It is a story of Mrs Martini's experiences of hand-raising baby tigers, lions, jaguars and other members of the cat family at the Bronx Zoo.

60 YEARS OF MEDICAL PRACTICE

Final rites Wednesday for Dr. Luton

Dr. Frank E. Luton, 86, of St. Johns, one of the last of the old-time family physicians, died Sunday at Clinton Memorial Hospital.

The beloved doctor, who presided at the birth of more than 3,000 Clinton County babies during his 45 years of practice in Maple Rapids and St. Johns, became seriously ill Saturday and was moved from his rooms at the Capri Motel here to the local hospital.

His span of medical practice covered more than 60 years, including a five-year post-retirement stint as the only physician on historic Beaver Island in northern Lake Michigan.

BORN JAN. 13, 1879, on a 100-acre farm near Belmont, Ontario, Canada, Frank E. Luton was the youngest of a family of four children. He graduated from high school in Belmont and then earned his bachelor's degree at the London (Ont.) Collegiate Institute in 1897.

He received his medical education and training at the Michigan

College of Medicine and Surgery in Detroit, graduating in 1901.

He began practice that same year at Kilmanagh in Huron County and was married there in 1902 to Jessie Thompson. Mrs. Luton and their only daughter, Mrs. Dorothy McGregor, died on Beaver Island in 1960.

IN 1911, THE Lutons moved from Kilmanagh to Maple Rapids and in 1917 to St. Johns. His practice in this city and the surrounding area continued for 39 years.

He was a longtime member and past president of the St. Johns Rotary Club; a member of the Maple Rapids Masonic lodge and the First Congregational Church of St. Johns.

He became a member of the "50 Year Club" of the Michigan State Medical Society of 1951 and was made an Emeritus Member of the state society. He was a former chief of staff at Clinton Memorial Hospital and was long active in the Clinton County Medical Society.

THE ST. JOHNS doctor was in his 77th year when he volunteer-

THE PHYSICIAN'S only survivors are a grandson, Jack L. McGregor, and a great-grandson, Michael Luton McGregor, both of Lansing.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at 2 p.m. from the Hoag Funeral Home with the Rev. Gerald Churchill, minister of the First Congregational Church, officiating. Members of the Maple Rapids Masonic lodge participated in the final rites and interment was in the mausoleum at Mt. Rest cemetery.

Honorary pall bearers were Freeman McClintock, of Lansing; Robert B. Kelley, C. D. Ebert and Lee A. DeWitt, all of St. Johns. Active pall bearers were Lloyd McDonough and Vernon LaFreniere, both of Beaver Island; Theodore R. Irvin, of Lansing; Willis Hettler, Jack Killin and Dr. Robert L. Wohlert, all of St. Johns.

ed his services to the Michigan Department of Health as physician on Beaver Island. He accepted the appointment on Oct. 28, 1956.

His service to the people of the island was gratefully accepted by them and by the state health department. Dr. Albert E. Heustis, state health commissioner, said in 1961:

2 water projects get 1st OK

Assessment rolls will be prepared for two water improvement projects in St. Johns. The city commission last week ordered the rolls prepared after two necessity hearings were held at the regular meeting.

Robert Leonard, who plans to build a home on West McConnell Street, appeared in favor of the extension of water main into the 800 and 900 blocks of that street. The commission cautioned him that the work likely could not be done until next year because of a lack of time and money, but they granted him permission to install a temporary water line until the new one could be put in.

LEONARD suggested that the commission make some kind of arrangements so they could provide additional water service to the growth areas within the city without waiting for long periods of time.

There were no interested parties present for a hearing on water mains in the 100 and 200 blocks of East Steel Street, 100 and 200 blocks of Oak Street, 1000 block of East State Street and 100 block of North Scott Road.

THE CITY commission initiated this project, with the idea of eliminating several troublesome dead-end mains and replacing a badly leaking galvanized water main. Engineering plans are about ready for bidding, City Manager Ken Greer told the commission.

Assessment hearings will be held on all the water main improvement projects prior to start of work on them.

City to receive pedestrian safety citation

St. Johns has been named one of 26 Michigan communities to receive a pedestrian safety citation in the 26th annual AAA National Pedestrian Safety program, the Automobile Club of Michigan announced Sunday.

St. Johns was cited by AAA for not having a pedestrian death in the community for three years.

RIVERVIEW took top honors in Michigan with a record 19 consecutive years without a pedestrian fatality.

St. Johns will be presented with a plaque during ceremonies held at a date to be announced later by Automobile Club of Michigan.

Becker Visits Maytag's Iowa Plant

Al Becker (second from left), owner of Becker Appliances, St. Johns, is shown in front of the Maytag Co.'s headquarters building during a visit last week to the laundry appliance firm's Newton, Iowa, facilities. Becker was a recent Maytag Quota Contest winner and was in Newton to tour the company's manufacturing and testing facilities and confer with Maytag officials.

LEGISLATIVE REPORT

REP. LESTER J. ALLEN of Ithaca, 88th District

A serious attempt, in the form of a resolution presented by Republican members of the House, to continue the present legislative session in order to again bring Michigan out of her present fiscal chaos into which she has been plunged by this year's influx of inexperienced legislators unformed in the areas of governmental revenues and costs, was killed only a short time after the loudly-proclaimed assertion "ours is a full-time Legislature."

Republicans introduced this resolution to get our fiscal problems solved and financial affairs in order before rather than after Michigan is hopelessly in debt again. The "full-time" Legislature's conscience didn't even feel a slight twinge—the resolution was soundly defeated. Yes, fiscal reform is going to be considered—later.

EVERY RESIDENT of the state realizes Michigan's tax structure, over the years, has become insufficient as well as inequitable because of unfair stopgap measures passed by successive legislatures. Through the years, we have allowed property owners to bear the burden and major portion of our educational costs which have now risen to over 80 per cent of our total state income.

The new program, increased educational appropriations at all levels, coupled with various tax exemptions passed by the Legislature this year will find Michigan in a deficit situation before the end of 1967.

IN SPITE of this critical prospect, the majority party leaders continue to procrastinate in this matter and insist that these hard-working, overburdened, exhausted members take a nice, leisurely, and, in certain instances, tax-subsidized summer vacation for three months to recuperate from their labors over the past five months. This will also allow sufficient time for the pertinent facts, figures and finer details connected with fiscal issues to become less clear in recollection and urgency in the minds of legislators.

As a matter of fact, the longer the postponement, the closer Michigan draws into the red. It is much too high a cost to Michigan's taxpayers to pay for a flagrantly partisan, unworthy Democrat maneuver solely to try to discredit Governor Romney in his efforts to keep Michigan solvent by making it appear he is the one responsible for their gross overspending and loss of current revenue.

CAPITOL observers are presently engaged in deciphering the motives which prompted the majority party to amend S. B. 400 to thrust the Legislature's new constitutionally established legislative auditor into usurping certain administrative functions of the executive branch. This latest gambit would have the legislative auditor assume the daily race-by-race auditing of parliamentary betting at the race track in Michigan, despite the constitutional provision which clearly sets forth the post-audit duties of his office and forbidden in an attorney general's opinion dated February, 1964.

The majority party in this Legislature has repeatedly attempted to amend the new constitution by statute and usurp this right which belongs only to the people—not to their elected officials.

THE AMENDED bill, in addition to granting unwarranted power unto the legislative auditor, would save race tracks a considerable expense by having the state conduct their auditing free-of-charge. Worse, it can open a Pandora's Box of miscellaneous evils which would conceivably be extended into the collection of revenues, Mackinac Bridge tolls, state park fees and even into private businesses paying any type of fee or tax to the state, i. e. corporate franchise tax, sales or business activities tax.

As one Republican leader stated on the floor of the House, "This amendment . . . is a grab for lucrative political patronage that is patently unconstitutional."

IT IS CERTAIN, however, this legislation assures any member of the Legislature a guarantee of the "red carpet treatment" at any race track this summer. After all, they are in control of those who police the books after each race and have access to the entire pari-mutuel apparatus. Another added filip to a pleasant, relaxed, inexpensive summer vacation.

Bills which passed last week in the House—S. B. 3 authorizing Michigan to participate in national pest control compact; S. B. 90 permitting certain foreign corporations corporate intact in Michigan; S. B. 102 eliminates race designation from marriage license; S. B. 170 regulates intrastate distribution and sale of hazardous substance intended for household use; S. B. 178 requires vendors of agricultural lime to maintain records for inspection; tightens other regulations regarding sale, manufacturing, inspection and labeling; S. B. 30 creates a Michigan law enforcement officers' training council effective Jan. 1, 1966; S. B. 203 to include dental service under medical assistance to the aged act; and appropriated sum shall not exceed $300,000 per annum.

New phone book information being compiled

Information is now being compiled for the new St. Johns telephone directory, W. F. Graef, district manager for General Telephone, announced today. The distribution date for the new telephone books will be announced later.

Sales representatives of the General Telephone Directory Co will contact all business telephone customers in St. Johns, Fowler, Maple Rapids, Muir and Pewamo within the next few days to discuss Yellow Pages advertising space, Graef said.

"We want to be sure that all businessmen have an opportunity to review and discuss their listing in the Yellow Pages," he said.

Road Commission Weekly Report

The Board of Clinton County Road Commissioners held their regular meeting on Friday, June 18. The Board heard Charles Frost, Clinton Civil Defense Director, talk on emergency operations. The Commission examined a preliminary plan of a new subdivision in Eagle Township.

Two resolutions were passed, one to transfer the retirement credits of a city employee to the county road group, and the other designated Les Drago as County Road Engineer for the State Fiscal year from July 1, 1965 to June 30, 1966.

THE BOARD discussed construction plans for this summer and the notice, just received from the Local Government division of the State Highway Department, to the effect that no federal aid secondary contracts would be advertised or let until legislation could be passed to give counties and the state proper control of rights-of-way. This action is the result of a Supreme Court decision effecting right-of-way in the sign controversy.

Two contracts for Clinton County road bridges were to be let soon. These are now postponed. They are the Howe road bridge crossing, the Looking Glass and the Island road bridge crossing the Maple near Elsie. The Duplain Township project was postponed last year, awaiting decisions on the Maple River drainage program and this project is now held up again.

THE GRAVEL crews are hauling to Clintonia Road this week. Grading is being done on Kinley road, clearing is proceeding on French road and surveys are being made on the Upton road relocation at Clark road in Bath Township.

New fire siren bought by city

St. Johns will have a new, more powerful fire siren within about a month. It will replace the one now being used that is approximately 40 years old and which has been especially troublesome in the last two or three weeks.

The road commission announced that the next regular meeting would be held on Tuesday, July 6. DON EWING, Road Clerk Fire Chief Clare Maier were authorized by the city commission last week to purchase a new siren, and Greer said Friday that one had been ordered.

IT WILL BE powered by a 10-horsepower motor, which compares to the three-horsepower motor on the present siren. Greer said the manufacturer's guarantee the new siren can be heard under almost any conditions for three-quarters of a mile.

Cost of the new siren will be approximately $1,000 by the time it is installed, he said.

St. Johns family rewarded for having seven daughters

Continues activities at 92

BY PATRICIA HOLMES
Tuesday, Mrs Elizabeth Armbrustmacher of Fowler celebrated her 92nd birthday. Coupled with a high accumulation of years on earth, she has a zest for living which surpasses that of many persons who are years her juniors.

erson and Clinton Streets in Fowler. She lives with her son, Albert, and daughter, Rose Denany. The numerous newspapers and plants in the home and flower and vegetable gardens outside, all hint as to what some of her interests are.

PRESENTLY, a strawberry patch in her back yard occupies a great deal of her time and any visitors to her home have a good chance of catching her, bent over in an exercising fashion, searching for the sweet, heart shaped berries.

Besides the strawberry patch, Mrs Armbrustmacher has vegetable and flower gardens which she helped to plant and continues to maintain. Inside the home are potted plants, all of which flourish under her care.

Mrs Armbrustmacher was born in Westphalia and has lived in the Fowler area all of her life. In 1892 she married Joseph Armbrustmacher and they took out a mail subscription to the St. Johns Republican. Now, 73 years later, Mrs Armbrustmacher is still a mail subscriber, only the name of the paper has been changed to the Clinton County News. She also reads many other area papers, daily and weekly.

THE Armbrustmachers had 12 children, 8 of whom are still living. They are Mrs L. W. Curtis of Florida, Mrs Rose Denany, Mrs Carl Frechen of St. Johns, Edward of Carson City, Ted of Owosso and Roman, Albert and Arnold, all of Fowler. She has 24 grandchildren and 45 great-grandchildren.

All of Mrs Armbrustmacher's time is not spent at her home. She often makes short trips to surrounding towns to visit relatives and friends and belongs to two card clubs, a pedro club and a euchre club.

SHE HAS TAKEN the time from her other activities to make 11 quilts in the past 3 years. The patterns she sews most often, primarily for her family, are fan, tulip and dahlia.

A member of Holy Trinity Parish, she also belongs to Christian Mother and Daughters of Isabella.

Mrs Elizabeth Armbrustmacher of Fowler, who celebrated her 92nd birthday Tuesday displays a fan quilt, one of 11 she has quilted in the last 3 years. Quilting is one of her many hobbies.

Homemakers to meet at 4-H Food Frolic

BY BETTY KETCHAM
County Extension Agent
Home Economics

It's time for the annual 4-H Food Frolic. This is almost like getting ready for a wedding - a lot of planning and plotting goes on behind the scenes and then in one day it's all over.

I really enjoy getting ready for this event for I pick up an idea or two - or am reminded of something I used to know but haven't used for a few years.

The extension office has seven different puzzlers ready for the 4-H members and leaders. This year they'll have a chance to grade eggs, shop for pizza, set a table, identify fruits and vegetables, work off calories, taste and identify new foods and take a look at the foods of the future.

FRANCES LOUGH, home service advisor with one of the local utility companies, will present a food demonstration in the morning. Miss Lough will demonstrate the use of portable electrical cooking equipment. The girls will receive ideas on how to present a demonstration - I'm looking forward to seeing one of the recipes she will be using - cookies baked in the mixing pan and the mixing pan is the frying pan.

Doing dishes is not my favorite activity - even if it does use up 70 calories per hour. So I'm for this - it saves washing pots and pans.

AS I WAS working on the table setting puzzler I was reminded again of the food passing problem. Which way do you pass the food?

Well, I say - to the right, because then you can take the dish with your left hand, serve yourself with the right and then pass the dish on without transferring the dish between hands.

But, I also say - if someone else starts dishes to the left, then continue to pass all dishes the same way. This will avoid a traffic jam at the table.

HAVE YOU MADE arrangements to attend College Week for Women on the MSU Campus, July 27 to 30. If you are interested, stop by the office and pick up a detailed program.

Strawberry recipes for tempting treats

June brings strawberries to many a Clinton County patch and they're available for the picking. The shortcake is not, but with a little extra effort and the recipe below you can serve a strawberry shortcake feast to 6 or eight persons.

YOU MIGHT use your strawberries to serve a cool and colorful punch to friends that drop in to congratulate your family's graduate or for any other festive occasion.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE
1 1/2 c. unsifted flour
3 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. soda
1/2 c. brown sugar (packed)
1/3 c. shortening
1/2 c. coarsely chopped pecans
1 egg
3/4 c. milk
1 qt. strawberries, sweetened

STRAWBERRY-LEMON PUNCH
1 1/2 c. fresh strawberries
1/2 c. sugar
3 cans (6 oz. each) frozen lemon concentrate
1 qt. ginger ale
ice

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Grease a round layer pan, 8 by 1 1/2 inches. Mix first four ingredients. Cut in brown sugar and shortening. Add pecans. Combine egg and milk and stir into flour mixture only until blended. Spread in prepared pan. Bake 20 to 25 minutes or until toothpick stuck into center comes out clean. Split into two layers. Fill and top with sweetened strawberries. Garnish with whipped cream.

Crush berries, add sugar, and let stand 1/2 hour. Dilute lemonade according to directions on can. Pour into punch bowl. Add strawberries. Just before serving, add ginger ale and ice. Makes 1 1/2 gallons or about 32 servings.

Keep breads warm

Give freshly baked rolls and breads the special service they deserve. Immediately after removing breads from the oven, place them in a napkin-lined basket or heated serving bowl - not only to keep them temptingly warm, but to add to their attractiveness, as well.

MEET YOUR CLUB PRESIDENT

St. Natalie's Guild

MRS RAYMOND DERSHEM

When the family of Mrs Raymond Dershem, president of St. Natalie's Guild of St. Joseph Catholic Church, gets together there is quite a party so she spends much time keeping abreast of new recipes. Mrs Dershem, who's husband is a farmer, has four children at home, Ronald, 8, James 12, William, 17, and Roger, 19; three married children, Mrs Kendal Mohrke of Lansing, Mrs Richard Pung of St. Johns and Morris of Lansing; and four grandchildren. In addition to her church activities she is secretary of the Green Acres Farm Bureau.

To my son on his 16th birthday

My dear beloved son,

Today you are 16 years of age. How can I possibly tell you what it means to me to have had you with me all these years, to teach and love and care for? How can I tell you that you are the joy and delight of my life without sounding "gushy"?

I am not gifted, as was Shakespeare when he brought forth words out of the mouth of Polonius nor as wise as Solomon who knew best how to prove the love of a mother. Nor am I filled with complete inclusive love as was God when he permitted His only son to endure the humiliations and degradations of wanton humanity which were placed, one by one, upon the purity and holiness of His Person to be absorbed into cleanliness by His pain and suffering.

I LOOK AT you in your strength and promise of youth and wonder how it is that one such as I should be blessed with such a gift as our Lord has given me in you. It is indeed a wonder to me when that great strong body will turn in obedience to a task I have asked in a soft voice. What, if in its strength of body and mind, it should refuse to hear my voice and turn from me? What would I do? What could I do? Would the love and caring for this one who is so dear to my heart bring him back to me once again? Only you, my son, can answer this.

How clean and fine you are! Not the way you wear your clothes or comb your hair. It is the quality which comes from within: The kind that peeks through the clear gray of a side-long glance, and the quick smile (it is not allowed to linger . . . some one might notice the depression it causes just near the cheek and think it a dimple).

SO TALL! Almost six feet! The narrow boy's shoulders of just a year ago have broadened to match those of your father who looks upon you with such great pride and wonders, as I do, where these past years have flown so quickly.

Soon you will be a man, turning to us less and less often as the years go on. We can only pray, your father and I, that you will continue growing in character as you have grown physically. That you will achieve your ambitions and become the man you have been preparing to be. And most of all we pray that you will always walk closely with God, that your life may be long upon the earth, that your heart will find room to love and your hands time to serve your fellow man.

May I always be worthy of your honor and love,

Your mother,

18 pass half-way mark on instruction

Some 18 persons from the central and western parts of Clinton County have passed the half-way mark in training as instructors for classes in medical self-help procedures which will be offered to the general public this fall.

The second of four classes for the instructors was held Tuesday evening at the fire hall in Fowler. Another class will be held this Monday night and the final one will be July 13.

TUESDAY night's lessons were on artificial respiration, bleeding and bandaging and burns and shock, with State Trooper Peter Basolo as principal instructor. The opening session June 15 concerned radioactive fallout and shelter, and healthful living in emergencies. Robert Laraway, health mobilization consultant for the State Health Department, and Fred Kellow, health engineer for the department, were the principal instructors.

Monday night's lessons will deal with fractures and splinting, transportation of injured and nursing care of sick and injured.

THE INSTRUCTORS-to-be are meeting for 2 1/2-hour sessions and are reportedly enthusiastic. Rev Hugh Banninga, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church in St. Johns and one of the persons attending the classes, said he thought it was a "worthwhile program, and people should be conscious of the program so they may avail themselves when it becomes available in the fall."

Other persons taking the course include Edward Tudor of DeWitt; Wilma Sowle and Dorothy Ward of Maple Rapids; Eugene Droste, Audrey Riley, Millie Droste and Mary Jane Lucas of the Westphalia area; Dr William Jordan, chairman of the medical self-help advisory board, Clare A. Snyder, Dick Frechen, Alvin Fox and Bernard Weber of Fowler; Fred Ferris Jr., Norma Haas, Delmas Moldenhauer, Rev Banninga, Charles Frost and Jean Frost of St. Johns.

OTHER classes reportedly will be held this summer for the training of teachers. Plans are to start public classes in medical self-help techniques in September. Clinton County is embarking on a pilot program in the state to determine the acceptance of such classes, which are being promoted by the Public Health Service and the Department of Public Health. Eaton County is also conducting a pilot program in medical self-help.

Ledges slates 'Mary, Mary'

Margaret Woodbury, leading lady for three seasons at the Ledges Playhouse, heads the cast of "Mary, Mary" which plays there Tuesday through Saturday, June 29-July 3. Playing opposite her is Lael Woodbury, producer and director who played Creon in last year's "Antigone."

The cast also includes Murrell Gehman, from Manhasset, N.Y., who sang as Polly in "The Boy Friend"; Lane Bateman, who performs leading roles for the Playhouse; and Ray Jones, popular Ledges' character actor.

ONE OF Broadway's funniest long-run comedies, "Mary, Mary" is the second Ledges' production. It depicts a young couple who have started a "Trial Divorce." When they meet again, just before finalizing the decree, an amorous Hollywood actor complicates their relationship by his interest in Mary's charms and freckles. By way of wheat germ, dried apricots, and locked closets, Mary and her husband come to a better understanding of themselves and how to resolve their dilemma.

Continuing through Saturday of this week is the Ledges' opening production, the popular musical "The Boy Friend."

3 Girls Become First Senior Scouts Here

Mary Ann Kanaski (left), Elizabeth Frechen and Shirley Johnson became the first Senior Girl Scouts in St. Johns Thursday night when they received promotions from Scout Leader Mrs James Griffin. The girls will be the nucleus of a new troop, which has not yet received a number from national headquarters. The girls have been members of Troop 272. Senior Scouts must have seven years in Girl Scouting to attain the higher rank. Mary Ann is the daughter of Mr and Mrs Leonard Kanaski of 700 S. Clinton; Elizabeth's parents are Mr and Mrs Carl Frechen of 108 S. Lansing; Shirley's parents are Mr and Mrs LeRoy Lance of 2133 Highway US-27.

Pool hall regulations got priority treatment from city in 1898

It appears to have been a group of reformers who first operated the City of St. Johns back about the turn of the century.

At any rate, the first four ordinances in the "Compiled Ordinances of the City of St. Johns" concerned:

- 1) Regulation and control of billiard rooms and pool rooms.
- 2) ORDINANCE relative to disorderly persons, imposters, drunkards, etc.
- 3) Ordinance relative to disorderly houses, houses of ill fame and gambling.
- 4) Ordinance to fix the time for opening and closing saloons.

It appears to have been a group of reformers who first operated the City of St. Johns back about the turn of the century.

REGULATION of pool halls was apparently of great importance then, because Ordinance No. 1, passed May 9, 1898, set the following rules for operation: "Billiard rooms or pool rooms shall not keep open after 12 o'clock Saturday night, local time, of each week, and every such pool room and billiard room shall remain closed from said time until 6 o'clock, local time, on the next succeeding Monday morning. During said time said tables shall be covered and no games of any kind shall be allowed in said room."

"No person under the age of 18 years shall be allowed to be or remain in any billiard room or pool room at any time..."

THE NEW ordinance, No. 183, does not set any regulations for pool halls or billiard rooms—it merely repeals the two that were on the books previously.

Another ordinance passed last Tuesday night—No. 184—regards the operation of dance halls in the city. The ordinance is printed in full in the city commission proceedings in another section of this paper.

Issue new ZIP Code directory

The Post Office Department is issuing a publication which it expects will be a best seller for all volume users of the mail, Postmaster Gen. John A. Gronouski announced recently.

It is titled "National ZIP Code Directory," and it went on sale June 1 for $7 a copy at the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., 20402.

THE DIRECTORY offers an easy reference to the ZIP Code number for every mailing address in the country.

It compresses into one volume all the information previously contained in the 52 directories it will replace—50 for the States, one for the District of Columbia and one for Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

The National Directory consists of 1,816 pages—less than one-half the 3,714 pages in the separate directories. It weighs 4 1/2 pounds, as against the aggregate weight of 18 pounds for the 52 volumes. Its cost is less than one-third the $23.10 charged for the state directories combined.

ZIP CODE listings are arranged alphabetically by state. Within each state a complete listing is given of all post offices, stations and branches, with the appropriate five-digit ZIP Code for each delivery area. An appendix after each state gives the ZIP Code for each address in the larger cities where the streets are listed.

Also included are a ZIP Code area map, optional State abbreviations to be used with ZIP Code, a listing of post offices with multiple carrier deliveries, a numerical list of post offices by ZIP Code and a list of the 553 sectional centers through which the transportation system functions.

THE DIRECTORY has been updated to include new streets and subdivisions created since the State directories were first issued in 1963, plus a few changes in ZIP Code numbers since that time and changes in post offices that were discontinued or consolidated.

For strictly local mailers, Postmaster Gen. Gronouski announced that separate local directories will be available free of charge for 207 major cities formerly zoned and now multi-ZIP Code.

On to college for area girl despite crippling polio

By LOWELL G. RINKER

Graduation day last Thursday at Everett High School had a lot more meaning to one Clinton County girl than to most of those who received diplomas.

To Judy Taylor, 18, it has meant not only a mental conquest of books and lessons but a mental conquest also of polio that has handicapped her for 10 years.

NOT CONTENT with conquest of high school education, Miss Taylor has definite plans to pursue a four-year degree at Michigan State University, and indications are she'll make it. There are some obstacles to overcome before fall, but they're small ones compared to those she has hurdled since 1955.

Judy, the daughter of Mrs Lloyd Taylor of 522 Hannah Street in southern DeWitt Township, suffered an attack of crippling polio when she was eight years old. She was hospitalized in Lansing for three months and then spent a year in the hospital at Ann Arbor. She was completely paralyzed from the neck down!

OVER THE years she has regained some of her movement abilities and there was hope at one time she might walk again. Judy is still confined to a wheelchair, however, but she has developed to the point where she can use her hands remarkably well with the aid of braces that hold her arms up.

This ability, which came harder than to almost anybody else, has blossomed into works of art. Miss Taylor has become an artist, using not only oil paints but needle and thread, drawing pens and such items as egg shells.

EXAMPLES OF her work are to be found on the walls and the tables of the Taylor home. Her work would grace any home, but to the Taylors it is special.

Judy Taylor, daughter of Mrs Lloyd Taylor of 522 Hannah Street, near Lansing, poses with her cap and gown last Wednesday on the day prior to her graduation from Everett High School. She made it, despite crippling polio.

The egg shells, for example, were cracked and painted by Judy and then glued into mosaic patterns and pictures of remarkable quality. She's embroidered couch pillows. She's painted still life and people and animals. She's designed plans for a home. She designed a coffee table in the shape of an artist's palette, with different mosaic patterns for each paint receptacle; it eventually will be covered with a clear, hard material that will allow use of the table for what it was designed.

HER ART ability is more than just a spare-time interest. Judy plans to major in art and journalism at Michigan State, but she eventually wants to be a teacher. Lansing Rehabilitation counselors want her to take up commercial art and to possibly go to Lansing Community College, but Judy has her mind made up.

She has already been accepted by MSU on the basis of her grades. She attained a 3.4 grade average at Everett High School and finished in the top 50 of a class of 700 seniors. She has better than 30 class credits, meaning she's taken a heavier class load than she would have needed to. She's a member of the National Honor Society.

HER BIGGEST problem now in getting started at Michigan State is an attendant—someone to move her from class to class—and while she's concerned about it, she's not worried.

"Whoever takes me to school would be taking me to my first class, and whoever brings me

March of Dimes supports recovery

The recovery from polio for people like Judy Taylor of southern DeWitt Township is made possible, in part, by rehabilitation programs such as those supported by the National Foundation.

The March of Dimes makes available funds to carry out rehabilitation work with polio victims. Half of the money donated by residents in Clinton County each year stays in the county for this and other purposes, even though March of Dimes emphasis has shifted from polio to the battle against birth defects.

In the 1965 March of Dimes campaign, Clinton County residents contributed $5,188, more than $1,000 more than ever before. Half of that will stay in the county to help polio victims in the county.

home would be getting me from my last class," she pointed out. "I'd only need someone to help me between classes, and there probably wouldn't be any more than three a day."

While she must find her own transportation and attendant, Lansing Rehabilitation Center will pay those costs. Lansing Public Schools has provided transportation for her during junior high (she attended Pattengill) and high school, with a specially equipped bus picking her and her wheelchair up every school day and bringing her back home at the end of the school day.

FELLOW STUDENTS at Everett have been very helpful in helping her get from class to class, Judy said, and the only problem in getting around at Everett is stair steps. In most cases, they've seemed to be just the two- or three - step stairways that cause the problems; going from one floor to another can be done most of the time in an elevator. Michigan State will have elevators to facilitate her inter-class movement, Judy said.

Michigan State's journalism course offerings are another reason why Judy wants to attend MSU.

She's had a rich high school journalism background and she hopes someday to teach journalism. At Everett, she worked on the staff of the school paper, covering news of the art club (which she was a member of for four years) and writing general feature stories.

HER MORE-THAN-30 credits comprise some in journalism, including an advanced journalism course in which she wrote an in-depth history of old Everett High School dating back into the late 1800s.

Her journalism ability helped her do a number of articles for the school paper dealing with and explaining the problems of the handicapped. "A big problem is in defining the emotional and mentally handicapped and the physically handicapped. Since all the handicapped are seen together a lot of the time at Everett, it's hard to make people see that being physically handicapped doesn't mean we're mentally handicapped."

BUT, "THE KIDS in school are real nice about it (Judy's polio handicap)," she said. Her quiet smile and positive attitude toward life undoubtedly have something to do with the way others react.

"It's easy to get discouraged," Judy admitted, "but if you do, you don't have anything. If you try, you have something."

A pen and ink drawing by Miss Taylor, showing the sun bursting out from behind a rain cloud, carries this short poem which sort of echoes her philosophy:

"WE FIND as we go through the years / That life is not a vale of tears. / In spite of all the toll and pain / The sunshine always follows the rain."

Enrollment beginning for county kindergarten 'Head Start' program

The "Head Start" program in Clinton County gained momentum this week as interested parents began enrolling their kindergarten children in the program.

The "Head Start" program for the children will begin on July 6 and continue through Aug. 13.

THE FEDERAL program will provide free school materials, free medical services, free mid-morning snack, and free bus transportation. There will be no expense to the parent. Admission to the program is not based on race, religion, national origin, or color.

A certified teacher in each classroom will provide socialization experiences, readiness activities, creativity stimulation, listening skill development, and free play under supervision.

THE "HEAD Start" program is sponsored by the Office of Economic Opportunity, Washington, D. C. The following essential broad goals have been established for the program:—

- Improve the child's health.
- Help the child's emotional and social development by encouraging self-confidence, self-expression, and curiosity.
- Improve and expand the child's mental processes, aiming at expanding the ability to think, reason and speak clearly.
- Help the child get a wider and more varied experience which will broaden this horizon, increase his ease in conversation, and improve his understanding of the world in which he lives.

- GIVE THE CHILD frequent chances to succeed. These chances may erase patterns of frustration and fear of failure.
- Develop a climate of confidence in the child which will make him want to learn.
- Increase the child's ability to get along with others.
- Develop a feeling of belonging to a community.
- Offer a chance for the child to meet and see teachers and other adults in situations which will bring respect and not fear.
- Help both the child and his family to a greater confidence, self-respect, and dignity.

PARENTS who have not enrolled their child and are interested should contact local superintendent of schools. Classes will be held in the following areas: St. Johns, Ovid-Elsie, Bath, DeWitt, Pewamo - Westphalia, Fowler, Sheridan Road, and Valley Farms.

Patterns in Steel Begin to Form at Sealed Power's Plant

Steel work on the new Sealed Power Expansion began going up last Monday after a delay of more than a month due to a strike by steel erectors. But Lawrence Sexton, manager of the St. Johns plant, said contractors did as much other work as was possible during the interim and they are still planning on completion of the 61,000-square-foot addition by the end of August. Erection of the steel will take about three weeks, Sexton said. The new plant addition will cost $2.75 million and will provide for eventual employment of an additional 100 people.

Asks discussion with school on recreation costs

The city commission wants to set up a meeting with the St. Johns board of education to discuss school participation in the costs of the city's recreation program.

Commissioner Ray Kentfield, in requesting the discussion, said he feels half of the participants in the city's various recreation programs live outside the city and yet are in the school district. He said he felt the schools should participate more in the cost in proportion to the numbers of their non-city residents participating.

The school district presently contributes $5,000 a year to the recreation program. The year-around cost of the program is approximately $36,000.

Baptists bid farewell to Nieuwoops

Pastor and Mrs Peter Nieuwoop were honored at a farewell potluck supper by members and friends of the First Baptist Church on Wednesday, June 2. About 125 people attended.

Following the supper, a short program honoring them was presented, including special music and a short history of the things accomplished during Pastor Nieuwoop's ministry at the church. The membership has increased by nearly 75, and the new church and parsonage were built during the four years of his ministry.

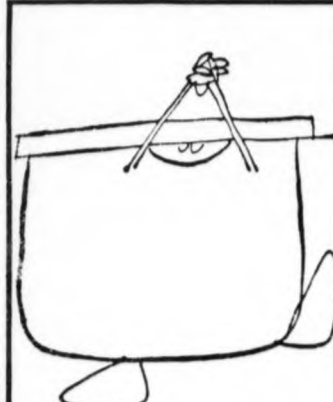

A FAREWELL gift of money was presented to Pastor and Mrs Nieuwoop, and a few words were spoken in appreciation by him. Following this, the annual meeting of the church was held.

Pastor and Mrs Nieuwoop have left the First Baptist Church to assume directorship of the Christian Witness of the Jews, a mission with headquarters in Detroit. Rev Mr Nieuwoop has been on the board of the mission for a number of years and was issued a call by the rest of that board to assume full time directorship of it.

HIS WORK started June 7 and he moved to Elm House, mission headquarters, June 17. The First Baptist Church voted his first support at their annual meeting in the amount of $25 per month to help in the work there.

The church here is presently looking for a new pastor and hopes to have one before school starts again in the fall.

Clinton included in antlerless deer area

Game men of the Michigan Conservation Department have their sights tentatively set on a firearm take of 138,000 deer in November and an elk kill of over 200, patterned after last December's successful hunt.

Their present plans, reflecting prospects that this fall's deer and elk herds will be at least up to last year's levels, were previewed before the Conservation Commission during its June 10-11 meeting at Gaylord.

THE Department's preliminary recommendations will undoubtedly be changed somewhat before they are presented for formal action at the commission's July meeting in Traverse City, but their general forecast of a high deer take and modest elk harvest will hold firm.

As now projected, the deer season's kill would be made up of some 75,000 bucks and 63,000 antlerless animals to compare closely with last year's take of 140,000 whitetails which is second best on record.

A REGIONAL breakdown of the planned antlerless figure includes nearly 18,700 deer from the Upper Peninsula, 42,735 from the northern half of Lower Michigan, and about 2,070 out of the southern part of the state.

Estimating shooting success from results of previous years, the department plans to issue about 228,000 special permits in an effort to meet its goal for antlerless kill. Approximately 35,000 square miles will be open to shooting deer of either sex.

In 1964, antlerless deer hunting areas covered 31,000 square miles; some 192,000 permits were issued.

TENTATIVE thinking of the department calls for scaling down antlerless kill quotas in the Lake Superior watershed, where winter deer losses occurred, and for extending special regulations to cover all of Menominee County.

In the southern Lower Peninsula, where the first major antlerless season was held last fall, the department is continuing to take a cautious approach with its recommendations. Game men are proposing low kill quotas for the region's special areas which will be increased from 12 to at least 17 to curb crop damage caused by deer.

NEW ANTLERLESS deer hunting areas in southern Michigan will take in parts of Allegan, Montcalm, Clinton, Gratiot, Saginaw, and Ingham counties. Deer of either sex will again be fair game in sectors of Ottawa, Van Buren, Berrien, Barry, Kalamazoo, Calhoun, Kent, Ionia, Eaton, and Livingston counties.

Shooting dates and areas, hunter quotas, and other details have not been completed for northern Michigan's elk season, but they are expected to be about the same as they were for last year's historic nine-day hunt.

AS ANNOUNCED earlier, the department will recommend that none of last season's 300 licenses, who took 269 animals, be eligible to take part in this year's hunt, the second and last authorized under legislation passed in 1964.

The senior princess jewel was pinned on Patricia Dunay by Miss Hallead. Robert Darling, Associate guardian of the Ovid Bethel made the presentation of a new jewel in honor of Mrs Rose Gardner to junior princess, Gwen Baker, to wear during the tenure of her office.

Miss Hallead was presented a bouquet of red roses by her sister, Karen, on behalf of friends who were unable to attend and a gavel from her family.

She was given a "Queen Linda" doll, a miniature of herself in a white gown, purple robe and crown, by her mother. Accompanying it was a miniature pedestal made by her grandfather, Henry Bush.

She presented a Bible marker to chaplain, Cheryl Watson, who placed it on the Bethel Bible. It was a gift from Grand Guardian Ricka Shipman of Walled Lake and grand associate guardian, Charles Peterson of Milford, in remembrance of the 25th anniversary of the International Order of Job's Daughters. A letter was also read from the donors.

The honored queen presented the installing officers with gifts then.

Miss Dunay gave each of her officers a gift and thanked the Daughters for their cooperation. She also presented a gift to Mrs S. J. Keys for her services in publicity.

Past honored queen of the Ovid Bethel presented Miss Dunay with a crown of purple flowers and white spikes representing the five elective offices and accepted her into their group.

Mr and Mrs Alex Dunay of Bannister served as hosts at the reception for Miss Hallead, that was held in the dining rooms, where the guests were seated at tables centered with styrofoam squares holding models of gold "Praying Hands", the emblem of Miss Hallead's reign, and her flowers, lilies-of-the-valley.

A three-tiered square cake topped with the "Praying Hands" in gold, was decorated in purple and white with an inscribed open book at its base. Candles on each side completed the decor.

Preservation of road beauty major state role

State Highway Department plans to beautify Michigan roadsides are beginning to jell.

Moving with assurance that the effort has the support of President and Mrs. Johnson, the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads, and the public, the department's landscaping engineers are focusing on specific projects that will serve as "pilots" for massive improvements in the future.

THE OVERALL activity divides into four general areas, these are:

- Screening of unsightly areas.
- Development of scenic roadside strips.
- Landscaping of certain rights-of-way.
- Development of rest areas and scenic lookouts.

JOHN E. MEYER, chief of engineering, reported recently that in early August bids will be taken on three screening projects and 21 more scheduled for next February.

Priority in the program of screening auto graveyards, gravel pits and dumps has been given to those located adjacent to interstate routes, Meyer said.

THE THREE selected for August bid-letting are a junkyard on I-296 at the north limits of Grand Rapids, a borrow pit on I-96 east of Grand River Avenue interchange near Detroit and a garbage dump on I-94 east of Kalamazoo.

The initial phase of the program calls also for the acquisition of 142 "scenic strips" — areas along interstate highways now beautiful in natural beauty and therefore worthy of preservation.

SURVEYORS WILL begin this fall to pin down boundaries of the proposed scenic strips and acquisition will be completed in 1967.

The top priority landscaping project calls for the opening of bids August 12 on beautification of an eight-mile section of Southfield Freeway between Ford Road in Dearborn and Eight Mile Road at the northern boundary of Detroit.

E. C. Eckert, chief forester for the department, and his staff have developed complete plans for plantings along the route.

ALSO SCHEDULED is an Aug. 4 session to program landscaping on rural interstate interchanges and on suburban urban interstate routes. As these plans are developed and finalized, contracts for the work will be let on the low-bid basis that prevails in all highway construction.

Development of rest areas and scenic lookouts along interstate routes will be continued. There are presently 36 completed and open to traffic in the state. Of these, 27 are on the Interstate System. Two additional rest areas on I-94 in St. Clair County are scheduled for letting Aug. 12 and bids on nine such areas (seven on the Interstate System) will be taken next year.

THE LONG-RANGE plans of the Department, Meyer said, call for:

- Screening of at least 377 junkyards and 197 unsightly "borrow" pits by landscape plantings.

- Acquisition of a total of 244 areas to preserve scenic beauty alongside existing roadways.

- Continuing effort to beautify by landscaping interstate routes in urban and suburban areas.

"WE DO NOT intend to use the type of plantings or locate them in such a manner as to require a gardener-type maintenance or provide a distraction to the motorist," Meyer said.

"It perhaps is pertinent also that the department does not presently plan to condemn nor move any junkyards.

"We do believe that these should be screened, and where ever necessary, we will acquire needed property rights, preferably by negotiation.

"The timetable for this phase of our program is not clearly defined, but we hope to have most of the task accomplished by the end of 1967."

Many nations have selected flowers as their emblems, but some seem to have been more down-to-earth than others. The national flower of El Salvador, for example, is the white flower of the coffee tree—logical enough for a leading coffee-growing country. And the national flower of Wales is the leek, a vegetable that resembles the onion.

JOAN JOYCE PASCH

Wedding plans are being made by Miss Joan Joyce Pasch and Juddson Dee Bancroft, was announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mr and Mrs Fred W. Pasch of Fowler. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr and Mrs A. D. Bancroft of Maple Rapids. No date has been set for the wedding.

Swimmer's safest bet still buddy system

"A lifeguard in every family" is what the Conservation Department is urging state park swimmers following five recent drownings at public recreation areas in southern Michigan.

In at least four of these water fatalities, the victims could have been saved if someone had been watching over them, state park supervisors believe.

THREE OF THOSE who drowned were swimming from boats in unsupervised offshore areas, which again points up the need for every water user to have his own personal lifeguard, whether it's Mom, Dad, big brother, or a buddy.

Department parks officials explain that their regular staff of lifeguards, which goes on duty this month, cannot keep an eye on every swimmer all the time. Nor, they say, should these men be considered built-in baby sitters.

"OUR LIFEGUARDS are there to keep an overall watch on the situation, but they can't be responsible for every person who goes into the water," reports department Parks Chief Arthur C. Elmer.

"The job of supervision is everybody's business, and that applies especially so to parents of young children," he adds.

In hopes of preventing other drownings, the department is encouraging state park users to swim in marked areas where dangers are at a minimum and where park lifeguards will have a chance to rescue them if they need help.

ANOTHER Department safety pointer calls for recreationists to swim parallel to the shore instead of from one side of the lake to the other. Along these same lines, it warns swimmers not to try to stroke long distances in waters where they will be over their heads.

MORE PEOPLE THAN EVER ARE SHOPPING AT...

Dr David R. Cook, Wayne State University biologist, points out the blood-sucking section in a diagram of a female Aedes mosquito.

Mosquitoes work day, night shifts

"Mosquitoes ordinarily do not bite because they are hungry for blood, but because the females need the food materials in blood to mature a batch of their eggs," says Prof. David R. Cook, Wayne State University Biologist.

"Male mosquitoes do not bite but feed on the nectar of flowers like butterflies," continues Dr Cook.

"Mosquitoes in Michigan are more of a nuisance than dangerous disease carriers," he says. "Large-scale programs to control the nuisance are not considered economically feasible. It is up to the individual homeowner to do what he can to eliminate mosquitoes around his dwelling."

MOST PEOPLE think the same mosquitoes attack day and night, Dr Cook points out. Actually different species of mosquitoes work "day and night shifts."

The day-biting species most common in Michigan are of the Aedes type shown in the accompanying sketch. This type breeds where water collects temporarily, and is very difficult to control without an extensive campaign by trained personnel.

"THE NIGHT-BITERS are called that because they rest during the day, often in houses, and come out at night to bite. The most common night-biting mosquito in Michigan is the Culex type. They breed in tin cans or more permanent water places such as lakes, ponds or uncovered wells and cisterns."

THE "MALARIA mosquito," ANOPHELES, occurs in Michigan, but under existing conditions no longer transmits malaria.

"A thin coat of oil poured into their breeding water can cut down on the number of night-biters," says Dr. Cook. "The oil acts as a barrier which prevents the developing mosquitoes or wrigglers from reaching the surface to breathe."

He suggests two checkpoints for homeowners to eliminate night biters:

1. ELIMINATE receptacles which could collect water during rains. Check for clogged roof gutters and puddles on flat roofs.
2. For large permanent areas of water such as lakes, ponds and excavations, pour in one quart of oil per 500 square feet of water surface weekly. For weed-infested water add more oil.

"PROTECTION against night biters should begin with screening the home completely. The mesh on the screens should be no larger than one-sixteenth of an inch. Also screen doors should open outward and have spring closures."

For summer vacationers Dr Cook advises the use of one of a number of good commercial repellents which will ward off mosquitoes for a few hours. These should be reapplied often, he says.

"Spring cleaning!"

Health Department cites progress in pollution control

Michigan has a "dynamic and forward-moving water pollution control program," and is one of the leading states in the fight against polluted water.

"Michigan people have come to respect and to give conscious support to a program of sewer service and pollution control that meets their needs as individuals and as a society," Donald M. Pierce, chief of the State Health Department's sewage treatment section, told members of the Michigan Water Pollution Control Assn. at their annual meeting at Boyne Falls.

UNFORTUNATELY, charges of water pollution get bigger headlines and more attention of radio and television than bond issues passed, the certification of new treatment plant operators, the waste treatment plant built by a community or an industrial firm, or other evidence of pollution control efforts, he said. "It's understandable that the public is concerned and confused about the situation, because depending upon what headline you read, Michigan is either a water wonderland or a wasteland."

CITING NUMEROUS examples of new or expanded sewage treatment plants recently completed, under construction, or in the planning stage, Pierce said that Michigan communities ranging from small hamlets of less than 1,000 persons to the sprawling Detroit system have spent hundreds of millions of dollars within the past few years.

He singled out the Greater Lansing area, including East Lansing, MSU, DeWitt, Meridian, Delhi, and Delta townships as an example of effective planning.

"THESE COMMUNITIES are providing facilities as they grow and expand. Some are doing it jointly, others separately but all are moving in the same direction," he said.

In addition, Pierce added that all are working together to develop a watershed management committee to work toward a continuing program of river improvement and management to serve their common needs.

TO FURTHER illustrate the progress being made in Michigan, he cited the following:

1. Every town of 5,000 or more population in the state has wastewater treatment or has it under construction.
2. Eleven of 25 projects currently under construction are for additional capacity or a higher standard.
3. Of the 55 projects completed since June, 1965 or still under construction, 24 will serve populations of less than 2,500.
4. FORTY-EIGHT of the 55 communities have proceeded voluntarily without orders by the state regulatory agencies or courts, and 17 have signed agreements with the state health commissioner to undertake the work within an agreed time schedule.

He said that Michigan leads the nation in protecting aquatic recreationist from bacteria from municipal sewage discharge through routine chlorination of treated wastes.

The primary problem associated with municipal sewage in metropolitan areas is overflows from combined storm-sanitary sewers as a result of heavy rainfall, he said. The problem is common throughout the country, and is receiving special consideration from Congress.

MORE THAN $100 million has been spent in Oakland and Macomb counties to provide relief facilities to prevent the overflow of raw sewage and storm water.

Among the remaining unsolved problems, Pierce listed the following:

1. Water rights, where there are conflicting interests and needs and not enough water to go around.
2. HOW TO MANAGE flow in river systems so as to reduce excessive floods in spring and to provide for sufficient flow during critical drought periods.
3. How to cope with over fertilization of some streams and lakes from nutrients in highly treated discharges.
4. Where to locate bathing areas and how to protect them.
5. When, and with what controls, should industrial wastes of certain types be admitted to the sewer system.

"We have licked bigger problems than these," he said, "and I am confident that we can continue to move ahead and keep abreast to tomorrow's needs just as we have in the past."

We have 30 Allies in South Vietnam fight

We hear a great deal about the countries which oppose the American presence in Vietnam. We hear far less—in fact, almost nothing at all—about the large number of lands which are also taking practical steps to help bolster South Vietnam's fight for independence.

Indeed, many may be surprised to hear that some 30 different countries are lending a hand in this fight. Some of this help is military, some is civilian, but all has the same aim: to bolster the struggle against Communist rebellion and aggression. Furthermore, more such help is on the way.

THERE ARE, for example 2,000 South Korean troops in South Vietnam. Australia is sending a battalion of infantry, and the Philippines House of Representatives has just voted overwhelmingly to send 2,000 veteran engineering troops to the area.

Even Japan, whose government has sometimes been critical of some American acts in Vietnam, has supporting personnel there.

Although the total of this aid may be only modest when measured against the massive American effort, it is nonetheless highly welcome. It tells South Vietnam and the United States that they are far from being alone either in their view of the war or in their willingness to do something about opposing Communist aggression.

IT IS STRANGE that Washington has never made more of this aid in answering those who claim that American policy in Vietnam is generally unpopular around the world.

There is much criticism of this policy. But, as the action of these 30-odd nations shows, there is also much understanding of and support for the aims for which America is fighting.

Were this latter fact better known, there might even be less criticism of American policy at home. At the very least, the fangs would be drawn from the charge that America is "going it alone against world opinion."

Quality is important in our library books

The American Library Association has announced that every student should have at least 10 library books at his disposal. The national average in schools with libraries is now only six books for each pupil.

A partial protest is in order. Such goals as these deceive friends and foes of reading and libraries alike. The community has a right to a more intelligent approach to the problems and opportunities of reading and libraries than just "more books."

IS THERE to be no legitimate interest in the identity of a book? Is it quite possible to read dozens of books—perhaps in a lifetime hundreds—and find that only a few were worth the trouble? Of course it is.

Behind every great man there are usually a couple of books, really a very short list, that ignited him—and that years later he will gladly give generous credit to.

There are many books in this world that are trash. Whatever the standard of judgment many, many books just do not cut the mustard. If it were not true, the professional book reviewer would be of little value.

THE SECRET TO a better library is, first of all, better book selection. Libraries will still cost money. Obviously it is not sufficient to stock a library with a few classics and nothing else.

We hope the professional librarians will dare to be selective—and to admit that to be selective is a necessary good. More, more, more books—a warehouse full—is not the answer.

War on Poverty—Home Front

RAMBLIN' with Rink

BY LOWELL G. RINKER

I had a real moving experience last Saturday. We moved to our new home on South Traver Street and discovered in so doing that our physical assets are a great deal more numerous than when we moved up here to St. Johns a year ago.

To those who move frequently, such a statement hardly seems revolutionary. No matter how short a time you live in a place, the collection of additional furniture and odds and ends makes the next moving job seem twice as hard.

THERE WON'T be any more moves for us. Even if we didn't own our home and are more or less pledged to stay there, there would have to be some awfully strong horses to make me lug around the boxes and boxes and boxes and boxes and boxes that I did last week.

Our move actually started last Friday, with the transport of a few minor items in the car and some painting work. Saturday morning "Operation Big Lift" began. With the help of Steve Hopko and the use of Gordon Luther's pickup, we started in about 9:15 moving the furniture and bigger boxes.

I MADE THREE trips from North Lansing to South Traver prior to 9:15, and we must have made four trips in the truck with the big stuff. (Moving of the washer, refrigerator and stove I left up to experts in this field—I didn't touch them). This total of seven trips kind of cleared a few trees out of the forest so that we could really get down to the serious business of moving.

Transfer of the smaller household items and odds and ends took either four or five more truckloads, plus two carloads. Our new neighbors surely must have figured that we were operating a booming warehouse business, what with the tons of stuff we seemingly hauled into the house.

THERE was not much enthusiasm for straightening up and putting things away Saturday night, so that waited until Sunday. By Sunday evening, the house was at least presentable. By experience I know it will be many moons before we have a place assigned to everything and everything in its assigned place.

But at least we're in our own house. It's a great feeling. Our daughter has adjusted well to the change and has already become acquainted with everyone on the block. Keeping her in her own yard and out of people's hair is our main concern. We've met a number of the people, too, and are looking forward to meeting the rest.

THIS IS OUR first venture as homeowners, mostly because its the first town we've lived in where we felt we wanted to stay indefinitely. St. Johns was the hometown in our hearts three weeks after we moved here last June. Now we contribute something to the town as a homeowner.

SPACE AND EARTH

(From The Christian Science Monitor)

Now that the science writers have explained what Gemini 4 really means, perhaps it is time for the rest of us to peer from our cloisters in amazement.

With a family man out walking in space, can anyone still favor giving up the exploration of space until the problems of earth are solved?

If turning away from the moon suddenly gave mankind a soaring impetus to erasing poverty and establishing freedom, our sponsor might be different. As it is, let us continue to realize the visions of space while we continue to battle the nightmares on the ground.

AS USUAL SHAKESPEARE said it first. But somehow we cannot think of those two majors in their capsule as Hamlets saying: "I could be bounded in a nutshell and count myself a king of infinite space, were it not that I have bad dreams."

Rather these Gemini twins were new stars in the human firmament. Major White, of course, would be the counterpart of the white star, Castor. And Major McDivitt, perhaps thinking of his family as well as his varied tasks in space, would be the multiple star, Pollux.

WHAT WOULD THAT grim 18th-century preacher, Jonathan Edwards, have thought if he knew that a sense of humor would flower when American men actually arrive where his thoughts had preceded them? For once, in a respite from fire and brimstone, he looked to space as a temporal analogy of the everpresence of the Deity.

Human beings cannot imagine the absence of space, he suggested. Neither should they be able to imagine the absence of God.

WE DO NOT MEAN to sermonize on those glowing color pictures of a fellow man floating free at the end of golden cord. The cord tied him to his nutshell and to the demands of the groundings.

"Get back in." This is the end of every episode of progress tethered to the earth. But somehow today's Castor and Pollux give us a hint of undreamed possibilities.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY

by Ink White

A day on Wisconsin's campus

FOR MANY years I have been told that the University of Wisconsin has one of the nation's most beautiful campuses. But it was not until last Sunday and Monday that I had an opportunity to visit Madison, site of the university, and find that the place lives up to advance billing.

Our son, Jon White, is entering Law School there and will begin his studies in September. I went along with him last Sunday and Monday while he completed his enrollment and located living quarters.

LIKE LANSING, Madison is also a state capital and has the combined advantages of governmental and university activity.

Unlike Lansing, however, the two activities are more closely associated at Madison. The university campus is only a few blocks from the white granite Capitol building.

The main campus and the capital city are located on an isthmus between tree-rimmed Lakes Mendota and Monona and fan out at either end to follow miles of wooded bluffs and level land along the shorelines of the two large lakes and smaller Lake Kegonsa to the south.

THE CAMPUS stretches for more than a mile along the southern shore of Lake Mendota. Sunday the lake was dotted with scores of small sailboats and other craft. Few scenic views could equal that from atop Observatory Hill—a spot immortalized long ago in a popular song.

All along the campus side of the lake extend short piers maintained by public and private housing facilities. These provide boat landings and space for swimming and sunbathing. Even though school wasn't in session, they were busy places last week.

Because the main campus is hilly and streets are narrow, automobile traffic is restricted. Only necessary automobiles are permitted during the period from Monday through Saturday noon each week.

NEW TO US Michiganders, who are accustomed to relatively low and rambling university dormitory and classroom buildings, are the high-rise structures bordering Wisconsin's campus.

Dormitories range up to 10 stories and some of them, interestingly, were built and are operated by private interests. One men's residence accommodates 375 in plush quarters and provides a gymnasium and sauna-type steam bath.

STILL MUCH in evidence, however, are the private rooming house and second-rate apartment housing that was so common in East Lansing and Ann Arbor 10 to 15 years ago. Wisconsin has been slower to provide good student quarters, but they're catching up fast and it was my observation that they may be a bit overbuilt for the current enrollment.

Some of the new privately-owned dormitories are selling both room and board. Inquiry revealed that their rates are upwards of 25 per cent above those in comparable new university housing units. There's good reason, of course. The private ventures must pay customary taxes and return some profit for the risk capital involved.

Competing with tax-free government is tough going today.

WE COMPLETED our business at the university early Monday afternoon. Rather than battle traffic in the Chicago area later in the day, we elected to go to Milwaukee and take our car aboard The Clipper for the six-hour boat trip to Muskegon.

Although it was a mite chilly, we enjoyed this leisurely way of saving 275 miles of driving. The Clipper operates between Muskegon and Milwaukee for about three months each year, mid-June through mid-September.

There are a cafeteria and snack bar aboard; facilities for deck sports; a small theater which shows feature-length movies; ample lounges and a playground for the kids.

THE FARE IS about comparable to the cost of driving the distance saved—$9.25 for your car and $6.25 for each adult passenger. Youngsters travel at half-rate.

The boat can accommodate as many as 900 passengers and there's a crew of 130 to man it. More than 70 college students are employed in various capacities aboard the ship during the summer months.

The Clipper makes three crossings of Lake Michigan on weekdays and four on Sundays. Reservations are advised and you are asked to check in at the dock an hour before sailing time.

I STAYED TO hear his speech, which was rather worthless, as he is not a too-brilliant speaker. Many looked bored or read their programs. At the close of his speech I got up and left in protest that we were asked to listen to such a man. My intelligence was insulted. Perhaps Dr Hannah's speech was better. I didn't hear it as we have no radio in our car.
- When I got to my car I found that every car had a leaflet on it headed, "Why Warren Should be Insulted."

MICHIGAN MIRROR

Rising cost of operation causing record budgets

BY ELMER E. WHITE Michigan Press Ass'n.

Record budgets no longer are a rarity in Michigan government, and probably in most other states, because a new record in state spending is set each year.

The basic reason for this phenomenon is easily grasped by most people. It goes without saying that more services cost money, and even a given set of operations can rise in expense from one year to the next.

Extent of Michigan government's growth is a little more difficult to fathom unless all data are available for comparison. Such a full study of state government growth was made recently by the Citizens Research Council.

TO THE layman, the Council's study spells out clearly where the so-called record budget expenditures have gone in the past 10 years.

This year, for example, Michigan budgeted $191 million for 84 agencies and services which were not in existence in 1955. The budget for the new fiscal year may add 14 more new programs at an estimated $7.6 million annual cost.

For the fiscal year starting July 1, the council estimated the 84 units new in the past decade and the proposed 14 others would require about $264 million. So it can be seen the cost of operating the relatively new programs is going up considerably more than the amount required for the total new ones.

EXPANSION OF departments and agencies which existed before 1955 are not included in the council study, but would add many more thousands through new functions and duties given to divisions of long standing.

"New programs and services appear regularly in annual general fund appropriations," the analytical council notes. Even in the cash crisis years new programs were added. After a peak of 20 new services started in 1956, state expansion has ranged from two to 17 programs a year.

AREAS OF ACTIVITY have varied as greatly as their numbers. Most recently the new programs have been in the areas of education, mental and public health, welfare, safety, economic expansion and licensing of professional or vocational groups.

The council notes that some programs are self-supporting; others get contributions from the federal government. Still a third category depends totally on state funds for operating. All have one feature in common: they contribute to a rapidly rising state budget and payroll.

SPECIAL education offerings by Michigan schools are one of the reasons Michigan school systems are way ahead of other states.

There are presently very few districts in Michigan which do not have some kind of special education service operating or planned for the near future. Despite the size of the state, few students who need these services are very far from well-established programs.

Special education facilities range from those for the physically handicapped, the mentally retarded and the emotionally disturbed, to the visiting teacher and school diagnostician programs.

CHILDREN requiring special attention in the classroom vary considerably. Some are slow readers because of vision or hearing deficiencies, while others have much more serious problems.

The physically handicapped programs, covering the widest range of individual problems, served more than 75,000 students in the school year just ended.

ed. Crippled, cardiac, epileptic, deaf, blind, homebound and hospitalized students benefitted from these programs.

ANOTHER 27,000 students were enrolled in various programs for the mentally retarded. The program for emotionally disturbed youngsters just completed its third year statewide but an estimated 700 students are involved, about 300 more than last year.

Visiting teacher and school diagnostician services were extended to about 24,500 this past year. The biggest portion of this number, probably all but about 225, was part of the visiting teacher program.

A STANDARD plea comes forth from the governor's office periodically for a "light the way to safety" campaign.

The occasions for the plea are the various holidays when the bulk of Michigan motorists take to the roads for long trips. Memorial Day, Independence Day and Labor Day, Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's are the primary occasions.

Over the period that Gov. George Romney has been in office, the number of cars on the road in daylight with lights on has steadily increased throughout the year rather than just on these special occasions.

PURPOSE of the plea originally was to use the lights to remind motorists of the need for constant safety consciousness. Whether it has served its purpose is difficult to measure.

Most motorists are conscious of approaching lights in daytime driving. Only the cynics have seen the campaign as great for the auto battery business, if nothing else.

The "Low Down" From the Congressional Record

By Joe Crump

Senator John J. Williams (Del.) "... Last year it was discovered in the Defense Department that certain employees had embezzled or diverted to their own use certain funds of that agency. When this was discovered the Internal Auditing Division of the Department examined the case, and it was subsequently forwarded to the Department of Justice for further examination. This ultimately resulted in the indictment of (these) employees.

"This was the story as it was released to the press, and on the surface it had every appearance of having been efficiently handled. Further examination, however, develops a rather strange set of arrangements that were followed whereby it was made possible for two of the employees, rather than being fired to be placed in a position where they could claim immediate retirement benefits far beyond what they would have been eligible to receive had they been routinely separated ...

"JANUARY 7, 1964, Mr (Employee A) was served with a notice of intention to remove him from his position ... Mr (Employee A) was not suspended. Instead, on February 4, 1964, he applied for disability retirement ... Accordingly, Mr (Employee A), at the age of 57, on June 12, 1964, was granted immediate retirement benefits under total disability of $516 per month ... "Mr (Employee A) will continue to draw his retirement check regardless of the outcome of the trial.

"Mr (Employee B) was the second employee to get kid-gloves treatment after being suspected of embezzlement ... This time they shuffled the duties of his office, changed a few titles, and then presumably abolished his old job, thus making it possible for Mr (Employee B) to retire on the basis of reduction in force ...

"Mr (Employee B) elected optional retirement as a result of reduction - in - force separation and was granted an immediate annuity of $735 per month on the basis of his involuntary separation by the abolishment of his position or reduction in force ...

"IN 1954 THE Congress had passed a law, the purpose of which was to cancel the retirement benefits of any public official who was convicted of embezzling Government funds or selling his influence by accepting bribes in connection with decisions he was making in the official conduct of his office.

"This same law also canceled the retirement benefits of those public officials who, when questioned by a congressional committee in connection with their actions or decisions as public officials, elected to take the fifth amendment.

"IN ALL SUCH instances these individuals would have received a refund of all their contributions to the retirement fund plus accumulated interest, but no more ...

"On September 12, 1961, the Senate passed H. R. 6141, a bill sponsored by this administration. The purpose of this bill was to repeal the 1954 act and thereby make it possible for public officials to take the fifth amendment, embezzle Government funds, or accept bribes in connection with their official duties and still be eligible for full retirement benefits at the taxpayer's expense ...

"These men, (Employees A and B), were indicted and since the preparation of this statement ... the recent trial ... has resulted in their convictions.

Grass Roots comment It is not the intention of this column to publicize the mistakes of government officials.

It is however, of more than passing interest to learn that government officials get preferred treatment in comparison to that accorded employees, in similar circumstances, in private industry. The full text of Senator Williams' presentation is contained in the June 2, 1965, issue of the Congressional Record. - J. C.

COUNTRY FLAVOR

Gravy conservation adds to biscuits

HAYDEN PEARSON

A countryman blessed with an understanding wife and three etiquette-conscious daughters walks softly and acts warily in certain situations. Self-evident truths that served to guide his offspring in their younger years wing their way homeward and come to roost.

One learns early to conform so far as clothes are concerned. Various colors seem to go together and others are simply impossible. Compromise is one of the basic tenets of enjoyable living. When minor engagements are fought, a man, after token resistance, can surrender without loss of honor.

BUT WHEN IT comes to something basically important, a citizen has to take a determined stand. Consider the matter of gravy and biscuits. The countryman expects and gets hot biscuits for supper. He expects and gets gravy to go on his fried potatoes. No one to date has evolved a method of corraling good gravy with a fork.

The countryman takes half a brown-crust, well-buttered biscuit and uses it as a moppper-upper. A half biscuit will absorb a goodly amount of the flavorful gravy and the combination is very tasty. A man concedes that this should probably be home procedure and not for public use.

A WIFE LEARNS to live with her mate's ideas, but the younger generation today seems determined to reform their elders. However, if one keeps his eyes on the biscuit and gravy while conserving the liquid, he can enjoy the delectable combination before stating he is now ready for a quarter of a rhubarb pie.

Letters to the Editor

Impeached" and signed "The Movement to Impeach Earl Warren. Belmont, Mass. 02178."

I HAD READ the facts that this leaflet contained before - how Warren was not a brilliant lawyer and his decisions showed abysmal ignorance and "utter contempt for the most fundamental principal of law," to quote one of the charges against him. Also how 90 per cent of his decisions favored the communist cause, and many other charges.

Of course, I was much agitated and predicted the state papers would give him a very poor press. I also asked of many "Why insult our intelligence with having such a man speak at our great university? Why give him a degree?"

ONLY TWO MEN were willing to take his side, and they only wanted me to shut up, not defend his decisions or his patriotism.

A few minutes later the traffic police came around and removed the leaflets before many saw them. I found out from the chief of the East Lansing Police Department that it was entirely legal to distribute the leaflets but that they should have been placed in the cars, rather than under the windshield wipers, and they were removed because they were a traffic hazard. Also that I was within my rights to speak to anyone who would listen.

SO I LEAVE it up to you as to MY Americanism as well as whether Earl Warren should be impeached. Study this matter and decide just where our Constitution is being abolished. We should hear David Lawrence or some other great American at our university and not such men as Earl Warren and Harry Truman. What do you think, or don't you think?

Gains made over cattle disease

A reduction within 10 years from 7,055 infected herds under quarantine to 73 such herds today is the achievement of the state's brucellosis program operated jointly by the Michigan Department of Agriculture's Livestock Disease Control Division and the USDA's Animal Disease Eradication Division.

Brucellosis is a highly contagious disease of cattle that has cost herd owners millions of dollars over the years in loss of milk and calves. In man it is known as undulant fever.

"MICHIGAN'S PROGRAM to eradicate brucellosis," said Agricultural Director G. S. McIntyre, "has come close to ridding the state of this disease."

Michigan was classified as a modified - certified brucellosis free state on June 30, 1958. This meant the percentage of infection was reduced to less than 1 per cent of the cattle and 5 per cent of the herds.

The next goal of the program is to attain state-wide certified brucellosis free status. In order to qualify, the percentage of brucellosis infection in a county over an 18-month period cannot exceed 1 per cent of the herds and 0.2 per cent of the cattle.

AT PRESENT Michigan has 35 counties that have achieved certified brucellosis status. There are another 11 counties that should qualify by the coming autumn. These are Menominee, Bay, Tuscola, Gladwin, VanBuren, Cass, Berrien, Eaton, Muskegon, Hillsdale, and Isabella.

DHIA cows top state producers

Dairymen participating in an official milk testing program averaged 3,200 pounds more milk per cow than those not in the program, according to a 1964 Michigan State University survey.

Curt Miller, an MSU dairyman, reported this week at the annual meeting of the American Dairy Science Assn. that this was double the amount in a similar 1962 study. At that time, cows enrolled in the Dairy Herd Improvement Assn. program out-produced animals not participating in any milk testing program by 1,600 pounds of milk per cow.

MILLER OBTAINED milk and butterfat production records on a single test day from 543 Michigan holstein herds during 1964. A total of 22 herds never enrolled in any milk production testing program were also included in the 1962 survey. Some 32 herds included in the 1962 non-tested group had joined a milk testing program since that time. The other 488 dairy herds, each tested for more than seven years, are located in the same counties as non-tested herds.

Miller reported that herds not tested in either 1962 or 1964 increased per cow milk production by 468 pounds to a lactation average of 11,778 pounds of milk.

DURING THE same period, herds not on test in 1962, but joining a milk testing program after that date increased production by 1,171 pounds to a lactation average of 12,903 pounds in 1964. Continuously tested herds increased production by 1,876 pounds of milk per cow to a lactation average of 14,911 pounds in 1964.

Bobwhite quail have an annual mortality of about 80 per cent whether they are hunted or not.

278,275 doctors

The number of United States physicians currently is 278,275, according to a survey conducted by the University of Chicago. This includes 10,660 retired doctors, 2,752 not in medical practice, 21,914 in government service and 3,133 who are in foreign countries or whose addresses are unknown. The ratio of doctors to the total population stands at about 136 per 100,000 people.

More than eight million persons—or one out of every nine workers in the United States—depend on some phase of trucking for a livelihood, according to American Trucking Associations.

New 4-H judging system called an improvement

Enthusiasm for a new 4-H dairy judging procedure which places emphasis on evaluating the 4-H member's knowledge of his project was reported this week.

The new system of evaluation was initiated in Kent County in 1963 and 1964. The 4-H member, besides having his calf judged for fitness and condition, was interviewed by trained judges to find out what he or she knew about his or her project.

IN A PAPER presented before the American Dairy Science Assn., Robert C. Knisely, Kent County dairy extension agent, and Louis J. Boyd, Michigan State University dairy scientist, reported that the evaluation was actually a learning experience for the member. During the interview, constructive criticisms were made and every member was told why he received an A, B or C rating.

"The response and acceptance of members and leaders have been very favorable," commented Knisely and Boyd. "The quality of the projects has improved considerably, because the members and leaders know what improvements are desirable."

THE INTERVIEWS were conducted at the county 4-H fair on the day preceding the dairy show. No set number of points was given to the individuals because of their variation in age and experience, but a breakdown in the ratings would look like this: 25 per cent for the condition (feeding and grooming) of the animal; 25 per cent on the member's knowledge of the project; 20 per cent for showmanship; 15 per cent for the member's appearance; and 15 per cent on the animal's type (body conformation).

This personal interview was in addition to a conventional dairy show held the next day.

KNISELY AND Boyd say this new method of evaluation is an improvement over most 4-H judging methods which place emphasis only on body conformation of the animal, fitting and showing.

Woodrow W. Givens, chosen current Driver of the Year by the American Trucking Association, has driven more than 2.3 million miles without an accident. Figuring an average of 10,000 miles a year, the average private motorist would take 230 years to equal that record.

Annexation to college district solidly favored

Annexation to the Lansing Community College District was solidly supported by voters in the two Clinton County districts, June 14, but it barely passed in Grand Ledge.

In Bath, the annexation proposal passed 139-61, and the one-mill proposal carried 124-73. In DeWitt, the margin was closer but still solidly favorable - 229-103 on the annexation and 196-136 on the millage.

THE GRAND Ledge district, in Eaton County, was more reluctant. Annexation was approved by less than a hundred votes - 346-268, and the millage issue squeaked by on a vote of 317-292.

Citizens of the newly annexed areas are now eligible to enjoy all the services of the college as residents of the total college district, officials in Lansing pointed out. This will mean they have enrollment preference and will pay the resident tuition fees.

THE VOTE will also permit the Community College board of trustees to plan future buildings and expansion according to the projected needs of the area. The trustees will take over the complete college operation July 1.

New cattle disease vaccine 'promising'

Farmers in the Midwest have not heard much about the livestock disease called vesicular stomatitis, but University of Wisconsin veterinary scientists have been at work for a number of years to find a prevention for it. They have a vaccine which looks very promising right now.

The scientists, L. H. Lauerma and R. P. Hanson, tested the vaccine in dairy herds in Georgia where it has been a problem for the last few years.

VESICULAR stomatitis (VS) has had some serious epidemics in South America and in southeastern United States, but its economic impact hasn't been completely evaluated yet.

Dairy cattle infected with VS drop in milk production and lose weight. They may also develop mastitis. Medical expense and loss of feed, time and space add to the economic loss.

IN THE BIG epidemics in Georgia in 1961 and 1962 one estimate of loss was $15,000 in three dairy herds. Another Georgia dairyman reported an estimated loss of $20,000 when 70 of his milking cows were affected. Human health is another consideration because the people who deal with disease in cattle can be affected by it.

Lauerma and Hanson went to Georgia during the height of the VS epidemic and tried their vaccine on dairy herds where the disease already had appeared.

In a typical herd that was vaccinated, only 5 per cent of the cattle got the disease, while in a neighboring herd that didn't get the vaccine, 26 per cent of the cattle developed VS.

VACCINATION also cut down the length of the epidemic. In vaccinated areas most of the disease was suppressed within a week, and all disease disappeared in the second week. In contrast, where cattle were not vaccinated, 40 per cent of the VS developed in the first week and 40 per cent during the second week. The remaining 20 per cent of VS kept showing up in non-vaccinated herds up to five weeks after the epidemic started.

The vesicular stomatitis vaccine is developed from a live virus and may be given intramuscularly prior to the epidemic or at the time the epidemic sets in. Although the vaccine does not prevent VS if given after the disease appears, it reduces the effects of it and will be a valuable treatment to have ready when VS breaks out again.

'Timing' is magic in haymaking

"Timing" is the magic word in haymaking.

Once forage is cut, nothing can be done to improve its quality. But a lot can be done to conserve quality if field exposure time is reduced to a minimum.

Whatever methods of harvesting are used, efficient haymaking is aimed at reducing moisture in the forage for safe storage with the least possible loss of greenness and leaves.

IN A RECENT issue of New Holland's Grassland News, Albert J. Swearingen, extension agricultural leader at the University of Tennessee, had these suggestions for effective operation of haymaking equipment:

"The making of high-quality hay begins with a uniform and even job of mowing, with no clogging, piling-up or skipping. The cut should be clean-sheared off, not chewed off. This makes for quicker, more uniform drying."

"SELECT A travel speed that fits the field condition. Keep the tractor engine operating at the rated RPM. When it's necessary to reduce travel speed, shift to a lower gear rather than throttle down the engine. Running the engine more slowly than the rated RPM reduces sickle speed and may cause clogging and poor cutting. Have the sickle operating at rated speed before lowering it to the standing crop."

"Condition as soon as possible after cutting. After 30 minutes in the swath, the stems of the crop get limp, which causes poor feeding into the rolls and poor crushing of the stems. The top ends of the plant should go into the machine first, so condition in the same direction that the mower traveled. A high roll speed in relation to ground speed is desirable."

Tips for lower grocery bill

You can lower the cash register total of your grocery bill with a few simple substitutions and wise planning.

Michigan State University food specialist Portia Morris reports that meat and dairy products take the greatest percentage of your food dollars.

YOU WILL NOT alter the nutritional value of your meals by using such products as dried milk rather than fluid--the substitution of just one quart of milk daily will save you $3 per month. Meat at 10 cents per person, rather than 30 cents per person can add up to a savings of $24 per month for a family of four. Less expensive cuts of meat having more lean are excellent buys for the low-cost budget.

Other good buys include regular rice, rather than minute rice which costs four and a half times as much. Many cake mixes on the market are also more economical and often superior to a similar cake made from a recipe.

Bement Library Book Shelf

By Elizabeth Millman

"The Family Medical Guide" published by the Better Homes and Gardens publishers is designed as a reference to which one may turn for information about health problems that come up at times in family and personal life. It is important that people have some understanding of the body and processes of health and disease that doctors rarely have time to explain fully. In this book technical terms are explained, mechanisms of the body are fully illustrated, and particular structures are identified with particular conditions.

The book should make the reader become a more understanding patient. "I COME FROM the Stone Age" by Heinrich Harrer is the story of an exciting adventure. The author and his crew, with a team of natives, set out to cross the island of New Guinea. One of their goals was to climb the Carstensz Pyramid, a snow-capped mountain almost on the equator. Many misadventures befell them and only through grit and sheer determination was their mission accomplished.

The book is beautifully illustrated with scenes from the beautiful country and pictures of the natives who still live in the stone-age. It is an exciting reading experience.

ARNOLD PALMER in his book "My Game and Yours" puts down everything he knows and feels about the game he dominates. It is not like any other golf book.

He teaches that golf is really a simple game and he gives four or five essentials that he was taught. He shows the reader how to practice these few things and thereby improve his game. He says "Golf is really easier than you think."

Two teen-age books of interest are "Ceiling of Amber" by Ogilvie, and "The Master of Scare Hollow" by Wellman. The first is a story of Maine in which a boy and his sister attempt to carry on the family business after the death of their father. The second tells the story of a school master in a one room school in a small mountain community in North Carolina where families were still feuding. It is a vivid story of a mountain community.

THE SUMMER READING club is off to a good start with 120 signers-uppers from the fourth, fifth and sixth grades. They will read 12 books for their diploma in a four-week period. Such enthusiasm was felt by one young member that he finished his 12 books in one day. His future as a man who gets things done is certainly assured.

Boating contests on tourist calendar

Power Boat Rhumb Line contest at Saugatuck Friday; Satan's Holiday Festival at Hell Saturday; National Stock Outboard Marathon at Bay City Saturday and Sunday; Muzzle Loaders Festival at Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum at Dearborn Saturday and Sunday; and Michigan PGA tournament at Owosso Sunday.

DAVID W. BARBER

Barber accepts PR post with Dundee Cement

David W. Barber of Ann Arbor has been named to the public relations department of the Dundee Cement Company, with offices at Dundee.

Announcement of his appointment was made this week by Stuart Kirvan, public relations manager for the firm and a former associate editor of the Clinton County News.

Barber is the son of Mr and Mrs W. W. Barber of St. Johns. He is a graduate of Michigan State University with a degree in business and public service.

FOLLOWING his graduation from MSU, he served the university for 1 1/2 years as a supervisor in charge of student personnel. During his college years he had summer employment with United Press Radio in New York and Prentice-Hall, a New Jersey publishing firm.

He and his wife, Judy, and daughter, Tracy, live at 2006 Pauline, Ann Arbor.

A little less than half of Michigan's huge milk production goes into manufactured dairy products, not the least of which is butter. Fourth among the states in butter production, the 1964 volume was slightly more than 53 million pounds, the equivalent of 1,618 carloads.

Living high, slower
Peruvian Indian youths, living at 13,000 feet elevation, develop later and slower than do American boys and girls, Pennsylvania State University study shows.

The growth spurt experienced by American youths, at age 11 for girls and 12 for boys, is delayed at least three years in the Peruvian highlands.
To help meet the ever-growing demand of the nation's young men and women for higher education, motor carrier companies throughout the country annually sponsor more than 100 college scholarships in addition to numerous grants to education funds.

BEEN SHOPPING LATELY?

Sure! People go shopping for many things. Even a Church! But, then, they take Dad along!
Before you go shopping for a Church, make sure you know what you're looking for. For a Church isn't a theatre to provide entertainment, nor a club to fortify one's social position, nor a foundation to channel our charities. A Church is a SCHOOL that trains whole families in spiritual perception. It is a FACTORY that makes earnest Christians. They're in evidence all over town.
A Church is a TOWER, giving a glimpse of life's horizons, far beyond the petty problems of each day.
A Church is a WORK-SHOP where one volunteers his talents in the most challenging tasks that confront humanity.
And, of course, a Church is HOME — the place where we're appreciated, where we're one of the Family!
But it doesn't hurt to admit that in one respect our churches are like our stores: There wouldn't be one in town if we didn't need what they offer!

Settling Accounts

A minister spent some weeks in the city of Edinburgh. A man of the world came to his home and was introduced by his friend, "This is Mr. So and So, an acquaintance of mine, who, I am sorry to say, never attends divine worship." "I am almost tempted to hope that you are bearing false witness," said the preacher. "By no means," said the infidel. "I always spend my Sundays settling accounts." To which the minister replied, "You will find sir, that the day of judgment will be spent in exactly the same manner." The Word of God is plain about this. As certain as death, just so certain is judgment after death (Heb. 9:27). Again in Romans 14:11-12, "For it is written, as I live saith the Lord, every knee shall bow to me and every tongue shall confess to God. So then every one of us shall give an account of himself to God." The majority of people refuse to accept the truth about themselves. The multitudes of man's sin has made him unfit to stand in the presence of the holy God. He is as good as lost already unless he accepts God's mercy through Jesus Christ. Please accept this invitation to attend the Baptist Church and find out where you really stand before God.

ATTEST: DONALD H. CLARK, City Clerk

I hereby certify that the above Ordinance was published in the Clinton County News on the 23rd day of June, 1965.

City Clerk

MOTION BY Commissioner Coletta supported by Commissioner Kentfield, authorizing the city manager to make plans for the city employees picnic and pay expenses estimated at $250. Motion carried.

The city manager discussed with the city commissioner the sanitary land fill future expansion needs.

Commissioner Kentfield offered for discussion the financial participation of the schools in the cost of the city recreation program. It was suggested by Commissioner Coletta that a meeting with the school representatives would be appropriate. Mayor Smit requested City Manager Greer to schedule a joint meeting with the school representatives to further discuss the total cost of the recreation program, including the salary of a recreation director.

THE CITY Commission discussed the use of the ball field at the park for the Fire Department's Fourth of July Festivities to be held July 1, 2, 3 and 4.

Motion by Commissioner Kentfield supported by Commissioner Irner that payroll and claims be approved in the amount of $34,721.86. Motion carried.

The city manager informed the city commission of his meeting with Mr Basil Diebert and a consultant from the State Library Board on the feasibility of a proposed City-County Library, the feasibility being based on the high percentage of rural Clinton County residents using the library facilities.

City Manager Greer discussed with the City Commission the proposed street improvement for the intersection of Mead Street and Lincoln Street. Heavy traffic related to the Federal Mogul truckwell on the southwest corner of this intersection may necessitate cement concrete rather than bituminous concrete.

DURING THE construction of the Federal - Mogul addition, heavy truck traffic caused the gravel placed on Steel Street, by the city, to be mixed with the clay. In addition to this, overloading of the trucks used in this project caused spillage on the streets in this area.

The estimated cost to replace the base gravel would be $1,276. The additional cost to place 10-inch cement concrete rather than bituminous concrete for the intersection of Mead and Lincoln streets, 153 feet in length was estimated: The cement concrete cost of $4,200 less bituminous of a $1,000; cost indicated an approximate additional cost of $3,000.

City Manager Greer reported property owners on Mead Street from Lincoln Street to Gibbs Street have already petitioned for a street improvement.

MOTION BY Commissioner Kentfield, supported by Commissioner Irner that City Manager Greer be authorized to negotiate with Federal-Mogul officials as to a fair and equitable solution of sharing the cost of the added expense of placing cement concrete rather than bituminous concrete at the intersection of Mead and Lincoln streets, and the additional cost to replace the 6-inch gravel base on Lincoln Street from Mead to Oakland. Yeas: Commissioners Irner, Smit, Kentfield, Coletta; Nays: None.

There being no further business to be brought before the city commission this meeting was declared adjourned by Mayor Smit at 9:05 p.m.

Happy champ of the big Derby

Smiling and smudged and still in the half-shock of triumph, young Bill Jacobus of 202 W. Lincoln Street in St. Johns is surrounded by well wishers after he won the Clinton County Soap Box Derby Sunday. Bill raced in three heats.

A police car, siren wailing, provides transportation for 1965 Soap Box Derby winner Bill Jacobus (left) and last year's winner, Allan Smith, on the ride up Clinton Avenue to St. Joseph Social Hall at the conclusion of the Soap Box Derby Sunday.

Derby Director Bernard Feldpausch presents 1965 winner Bill Jacobus with the winner's trophy and a certificate for a $500 savings bond at the Derby banquet Sunday evening. With it will go an all-expense paid trip to Akron, Ohio, in August to compete in the All-American Soap Box Derby.

Jack Downing, starting line director, sets the pace as he leads 51 boys up Clinton Avenue to the starting line during the parade.

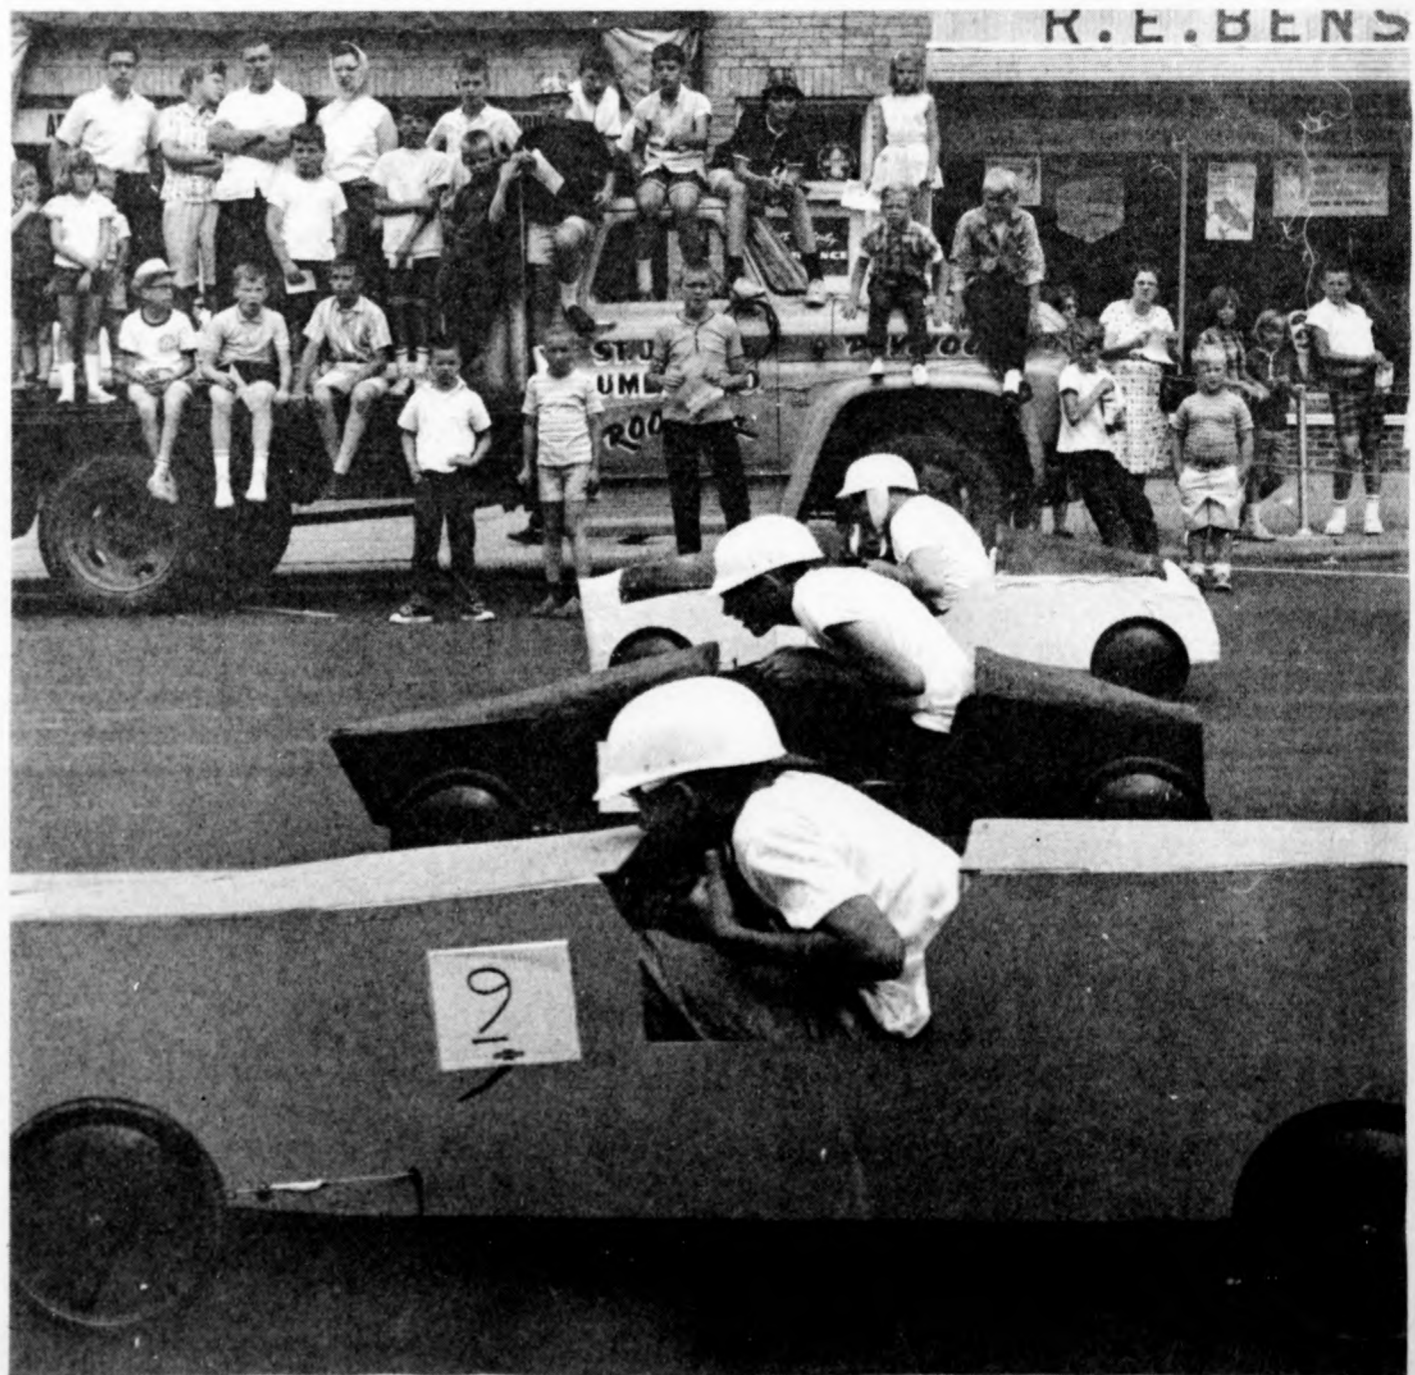

Some spectators found the best vantage points, even though precarious, to be the high ones.
