Staff changes at Clinton National

Malcolm W. Lusk, an assistant cashier at the Elsie office of the Clinton National Bank and Trust Co., has resigned his post to take a position with a Traverse City firm. The Lusks have sold their home in Elsie and have moved to the Traverse City region.

Two Lansing area men have joined the Clinton National Bank staff during the past week.

DUANE KILLAM, 34, 905 East Arlington Drive, Lansing, has been assigned to the Elsie office. He was formerly associated with the Michigan National Bank in Lansing and the Public Bank in Detroit.

He is a graduate of Lansing Business University, has attended Lansing Community College and has completed nine courses offered by the American Institute of Banking. He and his wife, Patricia, are the parents of a 10-year-old child.

ROBERT LAFAVE, 24, of 5800 West Clark Road, Lansing, is working in the St. Johns office of the Clinton National. He was formerly associated with the American Bank and Trust Co., in Lansing, and most recently with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

He has attended Lansing Community College and has completed several AIB courses in banking. He and his wife, Elaine, have two children.

Another recent addition to the Clinton National staff is Jack Wassa, 20, R-2, Elsie, who has been working in the accounting department since early June. He is a 1965 graduate of Northwood Institute at Midland.

Country Club President Ralph Lynam, pro-manager Robert Hankey and contractor Oliver Gillespie of St. Johns look over working plans for the fairway watering system now going in at the Clinton County Country Club. Trench at left leads down the west side of the third hole fairway.

Green fairways 'a coming at country club course here

The Clinton County Country Club will always have green fairways. At least that's the intention of the board of directors of the club, which has authorized installation of a sprinkling system over the entire course.

Some 7,200 feet of plastic-rubber pipe is now being laid along the fairways of the nine-hole course, and club officials plan to be watering the fairways by the middle of this month.

TEMPORARILY shelved by the decision are plans for a large, enclosed porch on the west side of the clubhouse. Country Club President Ralph Lynam said the porch and other improvements are all part of a long-range plan for the country club, and it will yet be built.

The current drought in Central Michigan has turned most of the fairways brown, hard and dusty, and their condition prompted the board's decision to put the watering system in this year.

"IT'S NORMAL for the fairways to get somewhat brown and dry for a week or so during August, but they've been this way all summer," Paul Schueller, club secretary-treasurer, commented as he looked over the brown landscape.

The watering system being installed is similar to one at the Point o' Woods course at Benton Harbor, considered one of the deluxe courses in the state. Country Club Pro-Manager Robert Hankey recommended it to the board after visiting a number of golf courses around the state and inspecting their watering systems.

THE PIPEING will have 172 sprinkler openings placed 80 feet apart. The sprinkling heads can be placed wherever desired to provide an even distribution over parts of the course that need water the most. Each sprinkler head will cast water in a circle 172 feet in diameter.

"This is a very flexible system," Club President Lynam said. "We can control the water and put it where we want it. We can water the dry areas and yet not over-saturate other areas." He noted there are natural springs at several locations on the course, and where the water from them seeps across the fairways, the grass is nicely green.

A FOUR-INCH well was sunk last year with the idea in mind of watering the fairways. A 270-gallon-per-minute pump will put water into the system with a pressure of 110 pounds per square inch. A three-phase electric power line will be installed to operate the pump, and Lynam said it was hoped this would be in and ready to go by the time the water lines are completed.

Oliver Gillespie of R-3, St. Johns, is the construction contractor for the job. It was engineered by Carl Andre of Grand Rapids. Parmenter and Andre of Grand Rapids are supplying the equipment for the system.

THE FAIRWAY watering is the second major improvement of facilities at the country club this summer. Completed just Friday was a new swimming pool on the south end of the clubhouse.

The pool was used for the first time Saturday. It is 50 feet long, 24 feet wide at the deep end and 40 feet wide at the shallow end. At the deepest point there are 9 1/2 feet of water; it's three feet deep at the shallow end. A one-meter diving board commands the south end of the pool.

WATER IN the pool is heated.

It is maintained at a warm yet refreshing, temperature of between 78 and 80 degrees. There are three 500-watt underwater lights and a single 500-watt mercury vapor deck light so that the pool can be used at night.

There is 2,500 square feet of patio area around the pool, plus outside showers and foot bath. A new walk was being poured Friday from the men's locker room to the pool. The entire pool is enclosed by a fence. The area around the pool will be landscaped.

OTHER PARTS of the country club's long-range improvement plan include the new porch, exercising rooms and development of winter sports.

Members of the country club board are Lynam, Schueller, Larry Sexton, Ed McLuckie, Gene Wild, Tony Tiedt and Ken Penix. Hankey is the pro-manager.

Draft quota will likely double here

Induction of Clinton County youths for military service will likely be stepped up to meet the needs of President Johnson's call for additional servicemen during the Viet Nam crisis.

The Michigan Selective Service Local Board No. 19 in St. Johns has already received a revised quota of men to be called for physical examinations during September. No change has yet been made in the induction call for September.

MRS GLENN O. Lewis, office manager at the Selective Service office at 200 W. State Street, said Friday the original call for physical examinations during September was for 34 men registered in this county. Friday an order was received for 30 additional men to have physicals.

The induction call for September was originally set at two men. It hasn't been revised. Nine men are to be inducted this month.

President Johnson last week doubled the nation's draft call and is sending an additional 50,000 men to Viet Nam. His order doubling the call will probably affect all local selective service calls, Mrs Lewis said, including Clinton.

THE NUMBER of men called for physical examinations will depend, however, on how many men are in reserve who have already had their physicals. The number of enlistees may also affect the call-up for physicals, but it won't have any direct effect on inductions. Up until the last couple of months there reportedly have not been too many enlistments from Clinton County in the Army.

Mrs Lewis lists 492 county men of draft age who are classified 1-A. But 186 of these are married, leaving 306 currently available for call. The call for physicals now would be a pretty definite indication that induction would not be far behind, Mrs Lewis said.

"THE TOTAL number of those examined and found acceptable is pretty low," she said, "so there probably would not be too much time between the physical and induction."

A minimum of 20 days between the physical and induction is provided by law, however.

THE OCTOBER call for induction and physical examination will not be received until the last few days of August or the first part of September. Mrs Lewis said she had no idea what the government's call for Clinton County in October might be.

Eight youths left St. Johns Tuesday afternoon for induction in the Army. They were David Louth and Michael Everts of Ovid, Phillip Cole, Bernard Ballon, Cloyde Miller and Terry Grant of Lansing, Keith Tait of St. Johns and James Epps of Eagle.

Smiley resigns from recreation program

William Smiley of 104 Spring Street has resigned his position as baseball program director for the St. Johns summer recreation program. "My job, as I understand it to be, is impossible under present conditions," he said in his letter of resignation to City Manager Ken Greer. He did not specify what those conditions were.

Frost adds woe on dry farms

Frost on the mucklands added to the weather woes of Clinton County farmers who are still waiting word from the United States secretary of agriculture on whether the county will be declared a drought disaster area.

Frost Monday night and early Tuesday all but wiped out bean crops on many of the mucklands of the county, and other crops were also lost or damaged.

Walter Keilen of near Westphalia reportedly lost 70 acres of beans to the frost. Paul Martis north of St. Johns lost 40 acres of beans, and Ken Fricke south of St. Johns had 100 acres of beans frosted Tuesday morning.

In the meantime, Clinton and 13 other counties in the state waited word from Washington on the declaration of a disaster area. Counties in Central Michigan seeking the drought assistance include Clinton, Ingham, Livingston, Ionia, Gratiot, Shiawassee, Isabella, Montcalm, Clare and Saginaw. Others are Mecosta, Midland, Oakland and Menominee.

NO WORD HAD been received yet Tuesday on the status of the requests. The State Disaster Committee recommended drought assistance for the counties named last week, and the need was certified by Governor Romney.

The Clinton County request was made a week ago Monday by the county disaster committee on the basis of crop conditions resulting from the extended drought. At the same time they asked that haying and grazing be permitted on acreage diverted from conservation reserve, wheat and feed grain programs, hoping this would discourage liquidation of livestock in the county.

"IT IS MY understanding that program payments would be reduced by the fair value of the vegetation grazed or harvested as hay," William Smith, manager of the US Agriculture Stabiliza-

"And it hasn't been determined yet how to decide the fair value of vegetation grazed or harvested as hay in making our payments on the regular programs."

Many farmers aren't looking for the disaster measures to help much, even if they are approved by the secretary of agriculture. The soil bank's usefulness will be limited since the drought has hurt it, too, and much of it was not planted to crops that could be used for grazing.

Details on how to make application to use diverted acreage will be mailed to eligible farmers by the ASCS office if the area is declared a disaster county.

MEANWHILE, CROPS continue to bow and wilt from lack of moisture, despite some rainfall during the past week. The best rain was experienced Sunday, but it seemed to be spotty like all other rains have been this summer.

However, many farmers in the county reported up to .6 inch of rain, while others got only a tenth inch. It also rained last Thursday, with St. Johns getting a good hard shower for about 20 minutes. But it, too, was localized rather than general in nature, and most farmers in the central part of the county said they were "stretching it" to say there was one-tenth of an inch of rain in their gauges.

THE EFFECT ON crops has been one of "no improvement," according to County Extension Agent for Agriculture George McQueen. He said it is really too early to tell yet how the beans and corn will come through the dry weather.

Bean losses in the state have been estimated by some at as much as 60 per cent. McQueen said Clinton's bean production is just a "drop in the bucket" as far as the state-wide production is concerned, but he admitted the loss here could possibly run about the same.

"WE HAVE A fair set of pods on the early blooms," he said of the bean crop, "but there aren't too many beans per pod. We've got no way of telling yet what the later blossoms will bring."

Sidewalk Days here

For the eighth year, St. Johns retail merchants are going to put some of their best merchandise, marked at the best possible sale price, out on the sidewalks of downtown so shoppers can get the best look at it.

The sidewalks will probably be crowded today (Thursday) and Friday, because shoppers have gotten in a habit over the last eight years of taking advantage of the bargains offered during the Sidewalk Days Sale. With the prices and merchandise storeowners have lined up, this year should be no exception.

THE SIDEWALK DAYS Sale is being promoted by the Retail Division of the St. Johns Chamber of Commerce. Tables and stands of small items, racks of clothes and clusters of larger items will be on the sidewalks during the store hours today and Friday. There'll even be tables in front of some of the empty store buildings, where some of the merchants off Clinton Avenue will have their displays.

In case of rain either of the two days, the sale will be continued Saturday. Special Sidewalk Days Sale advertisements throughout this issue of the Clinton County News will clue you in on some of the bargains.

KURT'S APPLIANCE CENTER

Grand Opening at Appliance Store Here

Kurt's Appliance Center at 220 Clinton Avenue will celebrate its first month in business with a three-day open house and grand opening today, Friday and Saturday. The store is owned by Kurt Becker of St. Johns. See story on Page 3-A.

Finished courthouse by October possible

The new wing of the Clinton County Courthouse may yet be completed by the last of September, although work is a couple of weeks behind schedule because of a steel strike earlier this summer.

The job foreman for the Granger Brothers of Lansing, contractors for the work, said things are going well now and it was still possible they could meet the Sept. 17 completion date.

SEVERAL ADDITIONS to the specifications were made last month by the building and grounds committee of the board of supervisors. They include birch paneling for $1,987 in the second floor supervisors meeting room and plastering for $508 in the two rooms of the county clerk's office.

The clerk's office was joined with the new wing late last week as workmen knocked out two windows in the west side of the office and one in the north side. The west windows were replaced with an archway into additional office space in the new wing. The north door will lead into the supervisors room.

COUNTY CLERK Paul Wakefield and his staff held forth in the probate court room while the dusty connection work was made.

Another upper floor connection to the present courthouse was made into the main courthouse entrance corridor.

WINDOWS IN the new wing were being installed last week, and cleaning and pointing of the brick on the outside of the building was to be done this week.

Car spins across median on US-27

Leona Mae Hobson, 39, of Mt. Pleasant and two passengers in her car escaped without injury Wednesday afternoon when her car slipped off a wet pavement on US-27 near Alward Road, knocked down some guardrails and ended up on the right shoulder of the opposite lane.

Mrs Hobson was driving north on US-27 about 2 p.m. and was passing another car when her left wheels dropped off the pavement. In trying to bring the car back on the road, she lost control of it and it spun through the guardrails and across the southbound lanes, winding up on the west shoulder of the road facing south.

Lowell Martin (left) of the Pittsburg Plate Glass Co., and Horace Cameron of Granger Brothers Construction Co., work at removing a window casing on the former west side of the county clerk's office preparatory to making an archway entrance into a new section of the office. Clerk Paul Wakefield and his staff have been holding fort in the probate courtroom while the connections are made between his office and the new courthouse wing.

No more Sunday sales, airport assures county

Sunday sale of automobiles from the Capitol City Airport will no longer take place, the Clinton County Board of Supervisors was told Monday.

Ernest Carter, Watertown Township supervisor, said the manager of the airport had assured him the airport authority had not been satisfied with the monetary return from recent sales conducted there on Sundays by Story Oldsmobile in Lansing. Since there has been some objection to it, the manager said, he assured Carter there would be no more such sales in the future.

SOME PUBLIC complaints had been registered because of the sales, but Carter said an investigation of the county zoning ordinance had indicated such sales were legal. Airport officials did feel, however, that the state-owned land should not be a haven for Sunday sales.

In other action Monday, the board turned down two proposals by its building and grounds committee. One was for a new parking lot at the west side of the new wing of the courthouse which would have provided a net gain of nine new parking spaces. The only bid on the job was for $2,800, which would have included a six-inch gravel base, two-inch asphalt mat and concrete curb.

THE PROPOSAL lost by a vote of 11-8. Voting no were Supervisors Lorenz Tiedt and Harold Reed of St. Johns, Claude Underhill of Victor, Willard Krehel of Riley, Almond Cressman of Olive, Walter Nobis of Lebanon, John Setterington of Essex, Russell Howe of Eagle, William Hufnagel of Dallas, Maurice Gove of Bingham and Ray Mayers of Bengal.

The land will now be used as originally planned—for lawn.

THE OTHER measure turned down was a bid by Granger Brothers of Lansing, the courthouse contractor, to rebuild two planters in front of the courthouse and to line them to prevent freezing and cracking. The two present planters have been cracked by ice and are nearly ready to crumble. Granger's bid for rebuilding the two fixtures was $406. That motion lost by a vote of 14-5.

In other business carried on by the supervisors:

Requests for increases in the daily rate for care of county welfare patients were received from the Rivard Nursing Home in St. Johns and the Ovid Nursing Home at Ovid. The two requests cited increasing costs as the reason for a raise. The board's welfare committee, consisting of Maurice Gove, William Hufnagel and John Setterington, was ordered to take up the matter with the County Welfare Board and the nursing homes of the county, with their investigation to include a study of audits of the nursing homes to see that the raises are justified.

THE BOARD voted to set the salary of the new circuit court reporter, to take over in November, at $250 over the statutory limit of $6,500, provided that Gratiot County will provide an equal amount. The recommendation for that amount was made by Judge Leo Corkin.

A recommendation of the County Zoning Commission for the rezoning of a parcel of land for the new Ovid - Elsie High School was accepted and the land rezoned. The school will be located on Colony Road just west of Hollister Road in Duplain Township.

THE BOARD turned over jurisdiction to Lansing of the portion of the Hayes intercounty drain located in Ingham County and Lansing, County Drain Commissioner Dale Chapman said Lansing had let a $175,000 contract for work on the drain within that city without realizing it was an intercounty drain and required the approval of all three counties. Lansing offered to assume full control for that portion of the drain in the city and to maintain it and the outlet. Chapman said only about 5 per cent of the drain is in Clinton County. A motion was passed calling for a resolution to be drawn up giving Lansing control of the city part of the drain.

The board will underwrite the cost of polio vaccine for this fall's oral polio vaccine clinics. The request was made by Francis Schafer of Fowler, county chairman for the clinics. The board approved the underwriting last year before clinics then were postponed.

THE DRAIN committee of the board was authorized to have a representative from Lansing at the next board meeting to explain the plan for forming a Grand River Basin Authority. Committee Chairman Raymond Mayers of Bengal attended a meeting of representatives of 17 counties recently for discussion of such an authority.

Board Chairman Almond Cressman appointed William Buck, the City of DeWitt's mayor and board representative, to the building and grounds, parks and recreation, salary and clerk hire and zoning committees.

Multiple dwellings limited in new zoning amendment

Two new amendments to the Clinton County zoning ordinance were adopted Monday by the county board of supervisors. They concern special use permits, especially for multiple dwellings, and junk cars.

The amendments were passed late in the afternoon after nearly two hours of reading by County Prosecuting Atty. Norman White and questioning and discussion by supervisors present.

The multiple dwelling provisions were incorporated into the special use permit amendment. Special uses will be allowed in all zoning districts except Zone A residential if all requirements of the special use amendment are met.

SPECIAL PERMIT provisions in District D agriculture also provide for such businesses as agricultural implement sales and service shops, welding shops and similar agricultural related businesses; barber shops, beauty shops and similar service establishments; municipal sewage systems, public and privately operated sanitary land fields and fertilizer warehouses; race tracks; establishments keeping or operating fur bearing animals, game fish hatcheries and dog kennels; stockyards and slaughter houses.

Special use permits would allow certain types of buildings or businesses to operate in an area of the county that was not properly zoned for that business, if the county zoning commission felt it passed certain requirements.

THE SPECIAL use of property must not, according to the amendment, impair an adequate supply of light and air to the adjoining property; increase the hazards of fire and other danger to the same or adjacent property; increase the congestion or traffic hazards of public roadways or overburden available public services and utilities; disrupt orderly development of the district or discourage appropriate development; cause noise, vibration, dust, fumes, smoke or congestion other than would be present in any of the primary permitted uses within the district; in any way defeat the purpose of the ordinance; or otherwise impair the public health, safety, comfort, morals or general welfare of the community.

Multiple dwellings — their description and permit regulations — are the main subject of the special permit amendment. It provides for minimum floor

Drought

It's still too early to tell how the corn will react, he said.

The only ones sure about their crops this year are some of the farmers in the muck lands. ASCS Manager Smith said he had a report Tuesday morning from Walter Keilen near Westphalia that all his beans and corn on muckland there were ruined by frost. That included 70 acres of beans.

MRS PAUL Martis, whose husband farms at 3530 N. Scott Road, said there'll be no salvaging of 40-some acres of beans located on muckland of their farm. Corn was hurt, too, she said, and potatoes also froze. She said it wouldn't be known for a day or two how the mint was affected by the frost.

The temperature dropped to a record low of 37 degrees in Lansing Tuesday morning, and Mrs Martis said temperatures on the mucklands usually average about 8 degrees lower, so the frost probably was a good hard one.

Martis said later Tuesday morning he figured the temperature on his mucklands must have gotten down to about 28 to do the damage it did. He said it is the fourth consecutive year his beans have been frozen.

LIKE ALL others, he's having drought problems, too. "This is the driest I've seen it since 1934," he said. "The mucklands beginning to crack from lack of moisture."

He said the mint crops are suffering along with the other crops, and he predicted the amount of oil obtained from the mint this year won't be any more than one-tenth the amount obtained last year.

THE LANSING weather station, located at the Capitol City Airport in southern Clinton County, has been the driest station in the state during July, with about a half-inch of rain compared to a normal 2.82 inches.

space, off-street parking, size of lots, size of buildings and other such items.

A MINIMUM lot area of 3,500 square feet per unit where public drainage and sewer are available is provided in the amendment; where septic tanks and fields are necessary, the minimum lot area will be 10,000 square feet per unit when a percolation test shows a drop of at least six inches per hour. For each drop of less than six inches per hour, the lot area per unit will be increased by 2,000 square feet for each unit for each inch drop less than six inches per hour.

"The zoning commission recommended this amendment be passed now because it is better than nothing at all," White told the supervisors. Members of the board of supervisor's zoning committee and Zoning Administrator Gerald Walter concurred.

"RIGHT NOW there's nothing to regulate the construction of multiple dwellings," the prosecutor said. "Anyone could go anywhere and put up multiple dwellings and there would be nothing that could be done."

White said the zoning commission drew up the amendment with the idea of discouraging multiple dwellings in Clinton County but at the same time providing for them in the zoning ordinance.

THE ZONING commission will rule on all special permits. Any appeals may be made to the zoning board of appeals upon payment of a $50 fee to the zoning administrator. The zoning board of appeals has no power, however, to make any variances in the multiple dwelling requirements of the amendment.

Members of the zoning committee of the board, headed by Supervisor Ernest Carter of Watertown Township, said the best way to handle the problem of multiple dwellings would be to provide a special zone for them.

BUT HE pointed out that zoning commission members did not feel it possible to arbitrarily draw up a zone for multiple dwellings without some professional opinions first. Tri-County Regional Planning Commission will undertake such a study in the future, but White said it could be 12 to 18 months before any results and recommendations were known.

Tri-County has offered to conduct the survey ahead of schedule and have some recommendations in 60 to 90 days if the county will pay a $500 fee for the work to be done right away. Supervisors quickly drowned that proposal by refusing it.

WHITE ADMITTED the special use permit was a stop-gap measure, even though there is talk of rewriting the zoning ordinance. The amendment was recommended by the zoning commission July 29 as being better than the present situation.

Late Monday afternoon, the amendment was finally voted on, and it passed unanimously. Also approved without a dissenting vote was the other zoning ordinance amendment prohibiting junk cars. It makes it unlawful for anyone to have on their property a "dismantled, partially dismantled or inoperable motor vehicle or parts of the motor vehicle" unless it is kept in a "wholly enclosed garage or other wholly enclosed structure."

THE PRESENCE of any dismantled or inoperable vehicle in violation of the ordinance is automatically declared a public nuisance by the law.

Bath rejects 2 proposals

BATH—Bath Township voters rejected two proposals Saturday at a special election, one a four-mill tax increase for construction of local roads in the township.

That measure was defeated soundly by a final vote of 225 to 75.

The second proposition, which would have provided for charter township status for Bath Township, was turned down by a much narrower margin. The final tally was 189 "no" to 127 "yes".

60 days in jail for having beer

Larry Karr, 19, of 1907 W. Columbia, Mason, will spend the next 53 days in Clinton County Jail after his conviction last Wednesday of being in possession of beer. St. Johns Municipal Judge Alba Wert also fined him $15 plus $19.90 court costs.

Karr's jail time was set at 60 days because of a past record of several convictions on the same minor-in-possession charge. He will have to spend 90 days in jail unless the fine and court costs are paid.

Karr was arrested last Wednesday in DeWitt Township by sheriff's deputies.

New appliance store here to have big grand opening

Kurt's Appliance Center, St. Johns' new month-old business run by Kurt Becker, will hold its first grand opening open house Thursday through Saturday this week.

The General Electric Co. is cooperating in this weekend's event, and a GE representative will be on hand at the store at 220 Clinton Avenue on two of the three days.

GRAND OPENING prizes to be given away include a dishwasher, AM radio and steam iron. They'll be given out late Saturday afternoon, Becker said.

The new store, which opened about July 1, handles GE, RCA Whirlpool, RCA Victor, Motorola, Tappan and GE small appliances.

"BUT WE anticipate service will be one of our main features," Becker said Monday. "We plan to keep a big inventory of repair parts on all lines of appliances we handle. Our service equipment will be the best we can get."

Becker said Ray Schomisch will head the service department of the store. He'll be assisted by Harold Crowley and Ted Rahl.

THE APPLIANCE store, located next to Jim's Insurance Office and the Chamber of Commerce, is about 24 by 60 feet in size. The interior of the building now includes new lighting and attractive, dark wood paneling. The service department is at the rear of the store, and additional storage facilities are located in a building at the rear.

RCA Whirlpool and RCA Victor will have their grand opening at Kurt's Appliance Center Aug. 12, 13 and 14.

Missing area man found in Far West

Clinton County sheriff's department has located the missing St. Johns milkman whose truck was found abandoned near Ada, in Kent County, last Thursday.

Sheriff Percy Patterson said John Gibson, 21, of West Mead Road, St. Johns, has been located at Red Bluff, Calif. He had telephoned friends in Lansing over the weekend, and the sheriff learned of his whereabouts from that party.

OFFICERS WERE for a time concerned about the possibility of foul play. When the truck was found by Kent County sheriff's deputies in a sparsely-populated area between M-21 and the Grand River, they also discovered blood smeared on the windshield. Laboratory tests indicated, however, that it was not human blood.

Gibson had been missing since last Tuesday morning when he presumably set off for work, carrying about $700 (earlier it was said to be only $400) in cash from milk route collections made on the two previous days of work. Gibson delivered milk for McDonald's Dairy in the rural St.

Johns, Maple Rapids and Eureka areas.

THE McDONALD'S truck owner called the sheriff's department last Wednesday and asked them to check because Gibson hadn't shown up for work. Gibson's wife told them he had left for work Tuesday and that was the last she had seen him. He had about $400 with him, she said, but she later discovered that checks written to McDonald's Dairy by customers on Gibson's route were still at home.

Gibson's milk cargo had turned sour when the truck was found near Ada.

Sheriff Patterson said he knows of no criminal charges that have been placed against Gibson as of Tuesday.

Book alarm

Book crooks better read up on new occupations. The American Library Assn. is developing an electronic device that sounds an alarm if a book is removed from a library without proper checking.

Vo-ag teacher Donald Munger of St. Johns and James Gibson of Pewamo-Westphalia were among 200 who attended the 46th annual Conference for Teachers of Vocational Agriculture July 26-30 at Michigan State University. Harry E. Nessman of the vocational education division of the Michigan Department of Education, reminded the audience that "a wholesome discontent about what we are doing makes progress possible."

A check for $25,035, representing 60 per cent of a federal grant for the Clinton County Head Start program, was received at the office of County Supt. of Schools Carl Bates last Thursday. The balance of the $41,725 total grant is expected soon.

CLINTON County's state Senate representative, Sen. Emil Lockwood of St. Louis, has been placed on six vital study groups: Senate Public Affairs, Federal Income Tax Ruling, State Tax Commission, Tax Relief for Renters and Disabled Persons, Liquor Licenses and Unfair Trade in Dairy Industry committees. . . . The State Highway Department will open bids in Lansing next Thursday for a number of road projects, including 13.5 miles of bituminous concrete patching on US-27 from M-21 in St. Johns south to south of Clark Road. That work is to be done by Oct. 15, they say. . . .

Ray H. Lawson, who began his teaching career at Pewamo in 1941 before moving to Rochester in 1946, has been installed as president of the 65,000-member Michigan Education Assn. . . . The Michigan Senate has passed a resolution offered by Sen. Emil Lockwood creating a five-member interim committee to study in-depth the impact of irrigation on Michigan agriculture. . . .

Upton Road crash pins man

A Laingsburg man, Victor Guernsey, 31, suffered multiple fractures of his left leg, plus body cuts and bruises, last Thursday morning in an auto accident on Upton Road near Howe Road in Bath Township.

Meridian Township firemen worked for more than an hour to free Guernsey from his car. He had swerved his car to avoid an auto backing out of a driveway, and his car left the road and hit a tree. The wreckage pinned Guernsey's legs.

Guernsey was taken to Sparrow Hospital in Lansing. The accident happened at 7:20 a.m. last Thursday.

Extension report presented

The Clinton County Cooperative Extension Service made its annual report to the board of supervisors Monday in the form of a slide and tape presentation following a noon dinner at the L & L Restaurant.

It was the premier showing of the slide-tape report, which is new this year. F. Earl Hass, county Extension director, presided at the after-dinner showing.

THE REPORT showed the Extension office to have been a busy place during the past year. Some 9,874 phone calls were received in the office, and another 9,240 persons came to the office for bulletins or other information. Some 476 different pieces of material, in quantities varying from 15 to 5,000 copies, were turned out on the mimeograph machine.

Extension personnel put on a total of 356 radio programs during the year, as well as 41 television programs. A total of 185 newspaper articles were prepared during the year.

Ninety - two leader training meetings were conducted with a total of 1,900 people attending. Some 382 other meetings were also participated in by the Extension staff. Another 835 meetings were held by local leaders, with 15,627 people attending those sessions.

OVER 1,500 SOIL samples in 1964 were tested for lime, phosphorus and potassium. Seventy-five 4-H Clubs were meeting in the county in 1964, and membership totaled 1,261 boys and girls.

The slide and tape presentation discussed the various programs of the Extension service. The program included reports by Haas, George McQueen, agent for agriculture; Betty M. Ketcham, home economics agent; and Donald Walker, 4-H Club agent.

THE EXTENSION report program is available for public showing at any time, Haas said. Interested persons should contact the Extension office in the basement of the Clinton County Courthouse.

Local woman hurt in crash

Mrs Catherine Rowell, 23, of R-2, St. Johns, was hospitalized at St. Lawrence Hospital in Lansing last Wednesday afternoon following a two-car crash at the intersection of old US-16 and Airport Road in southern DeWitt Township.

Mrs Rowell suffered head cuts in the collision. She and Donna Schafer, 20, and Marilyn Thelen, 25, of R-2, Fowler, were riding with Mrs Rowell's husband, Ray J. Rowell.

ROWELL was driving west on old-US-16 (Grand River Avenue) and was in the left lane when a car driven by Bruce L. Teachworth, 22, of 3004 W. Main Street, Lansing, turned in front of him to go north on Airport Road. Teachworth reportedly tried to stop but was unable to do so in time to avoid the collision.

Teachworth was given a ticket for failure to yield the right-of-way by Deputy Sheriff Ramon Terpening, who investigated the accident.

2 cars collide at exit of city park

Two cars collided last Wednesday at the rear exit of the city park on Park Street. They were driven by William R. Serrine, 18, of 712 N. Clinton, and Christine Pautke, 18, of 701 W. McConnell.

According to city police, Miss Pautke's car hit the right rear of Serrine's as she was coming out of the city park. Serrine was going east on Park Street. Neither driver nor a passenger with Serrine and two with Miss Pautke were injured.

Higham, sales manager for Bee's Chevrolet and Oldsmobile, Inc., and his wife Rosalee were to fly to Hawaii the middle of this week on a trip won by Bee's during a recent Chevrolet sales contest. They'll be gone four days. Other salesmen in the contest will receive double prizes for their combined efforts.

Car, tractor hit, 2 men injured

Two Clinton County men were described in "good" condition at Clinton Memorial Hospital in St. Johns Tuesday afternoon following a collision of a car and tractor on Francis Road near Pratt Road in Riley Township.

Carl Martin, 60, of R-2, DeWitt, was driver of the tractor, which Deputy Sheriff Hilary Hafner said turned onto Francis from Pratt and then turned left into a field as a car driven by Peter O. Simon, 30, of 353 W. Main Street, swung out to pass.

The two vehicles collided. A passenger in Simon's car, Gerald C. Simon of 332 Washington, Pewamo, suffered bruises in the accident, according to Deputy Hafner, and Martin suffered cuts and bruises. Both were hospitalized.

The accident occurred at 7:40 a.m. Tuesday.

Collecting ideas for tourist book

With supplies of existing tourist bulletins about St. Johns diminishing, the St. Johns Chamber of Commerce Tourist Committee is at work on a new "guide and atlas" type of brochure about St. Johns.

The bulletins would be distributed at tourist information centers around the state and by the local Chamber in the St. Johns area. It would contain information of interest to the traveling public.

A sample of the brochure has been worked up by Tourist Committee Chairman Ray Mitchell and Chamber Manager Betty Minsky, but they're still seeking other ideas for it.

3 hurt, none badly, in crash

Three persons were hurt, none seriously, Sunday evening in a two-car collision at the intersection of Lowell and Townsend roads in Bengal Township. Most seriously hurt was Darwin F. Sehke, 23, of Lansing, who was treated for cuts and bruises at Clinton Memorial Hospital.

Also injured was his wife, Betty Mae, 22, and Elmer O. Downs, 50, of Lansing, driver of the other car. They each suffered cuts and bruises.

Sehke was going south on Lowell Road and Downs was driving east on Townsend. Because of a large tree and a cornfield on the northwest corner of the intersection, they said, neither saw the other until it was too late to avoid the collision. Sehke's car hit Downs' in the left side.

Attorney Timothy Green represented Fowler at the trial; Plunkett employed no counsel. He was found guilty and was fined $15 plus $8.15 costs.

The St. Johns Public School District is in need of seven school bus drivers for this year. Supt. Earl Lancaster said women, as well as men, are eligible. Fire calls die down — finally Friday was the first day in 10 days St. Johns firemen weren't called out to answer a fire alarm. In the nine days prior to that they had been called 13 times.

There were two fires last Tuesday evening. One was at the city dump north of town about 6 p.m., and the other was to the J. E. Hackett home at 207 S. Traver where firemen found only trash burning in a trash can.

LAST WEDNESDAY, lightning apparently struck a tree off DeWitt Road south of Townsend, and Mrs Oral Rice called the department to put that blaze out. Last Thursday, fire men responded again for a minor car fire at the corner of Lincoln Street and Clinton Avenue in the city.

After a two day rest, the fire siren sounded again Sunday afternoon about 2 o'clock when a car fire was reported on US-27 near the old Pontiac station. It was a minor blaze, apparently, because firemen were unable to find any burning car.

State Police dogs topic at Rotary meeting Tuesday

Michigan State Police's dog training program was the topic of an interesting talk to St. Johns Rotarians Tuesday noon by Cpl. Richard Abbott of the East Lansing post, who heads the project.

Cpl. Abbott told of the excellent tracking and trailing work done by the German Shepherd dogs and their handlers. The dogs are used in tracing missing persons, fugitives and personal property, he said.

The state trooper accompanied his talk with slide pictures depicting the training program he supervises at East Lansing and at the Rose Lake conservation station. He was introduced by Jerry Knupp, program chairman for the meeting.

Prizes were awarded to all. There was a treasure dig where the children literally dug dirt for hidden coins. The festivities wound up with a three-legged race of fathers.

HIT THE SPOT
Play safe when using a cleaning solvent to remove spots, even though many are completely safe — (1) work in a well-ventilated room; (2) do not lean close and breathe solvent vapors; (3) use only a little solvent at a time, and keep bottle stoppered; and (4) if you spill solvent on your skin, wash it off at once.

Jaycees to sponsor Little League here

The St. Johns Jaycees have taken on sponsorship of the Little League baseball program in St. Johns and have already embarked on a money-raising project to provide equipment for the young players.

The announcement came last week on the heels of the opening of the league's new diamond on Scott Road north of Walker Street on the east side of town.

THE NEW field is enhanced by an outfield fence 180 feet from home plate, and the league's long-ball hitters have already "parked" a few. A backstop was built, and the first game was played there July 19.

The diamond is on land owned by Saylor-Beall Manufacturing Co., and the use of it was donated by Saylor-Beall. A number of local business firms and individuals had a hand in the preparation of the field for play.

LYLE FRENCH, Gil Baker, Leonard Puetz, Keith Shafley and Junior Hettler were among those who put in work on initial preparations. The city of St. Johns donated the fence for the outfield. Central Michigan Lumber Co. provided the lumber and St. Johns Cooperative Co. the fencing for the backstop. Gambles in St. Johns provided nails and staples, and the General Telephone Co. provided the poles for the back with them after a week's stay with their grandmother.

Mr and Mrs Harold Lipe, Becky and Rita, spent Monday with Mrs Edward Cusack.

Mr and Mrs Alvin Clark of Swartz Creek were guests of Mr and Mrs Owen Andrews, Sunday.

The annual Clinton County youth swimming meet, sponsored by the St. Johns Jaycees, will be this evening (Thursday) at the St. Johns park pool at 6:30 p.m.

Bleachers have been put up to provide a comfortable spectator area for from 400 to 600 persons. All residents of the city and county are invited to the meet as observers.

MORE THAN 50 youngsters are expected to participate, most of them in two or more events. As of Friday there were 94 boys entries in all the events and 107 girl entries.

The top individual performers at the meet will receive outstanding swimmer trophies. One will be awarded to a girl and another to a boy. All winners in each event will receive ribbons. There'll be eight different swimming events in each of four age-sex divisions. There'll also be diving events.

THE DIVISIONS are senior girls and senior boys (ages 13-15) and junior girls and junior boys (ages 10-12).

Frank Rosengren, director of the swimming pool, will run the meet. Mike O'Connor is director for the Jaycees.

Sharick tosses no-hit, no-run game

Larry Sharick pitched the first no-hit, no-run game of the Class A softball league season Monday night when he whitewashed Benson's in a 5-0 victory for Dean's Hardware.

Sharick aided his own cause with two singles and a double at the plate. On the mound he struck out 10 Benson's batters.

SATURDAY SHARICK also shackled Benson's with three hits as Dean's won 3-2. Ivan Sperry made his first start of the season Saturday for Benson's and struck out nine men. He got Dean's leading hitter, Denny Morrison, on strikes three times.

Sharick had another pitching victory earlier last week. On July 26 he pitched as Dean's clubbed Co-Op 12-2. M. Hallad and Morrison started the fireworks with hits, and then M. Sharick hit a four-bagger to back Larry Sharick's pitching efforts. Dave Hill had two hits for Co-Op, and J. Becher had three and J. Hartman two hits for Dean's.

PEWAMO remained in the running for the second-round lead in the Class A softball league with victories over Co-Op 3-1 last Wednesday and a forfeit victory over South Riley Sunday. D. Blakesley's triple wasn't enough to help Co-Op Wednesday, as B. Werner led Pewamo with two hits. K. Barker had a pair for the winners, and K. Miller had a triple that drove in the necessary runs for the victory.

In Class B action, Hospidor had two hits as Rademacher Construction pulled out an 11-10 win over Bee's Thursday. Pung also had two hits.

RADEMACHER'S MOVED into first place with a last-inning rally over Neller's Sunday and an 8-7 win. Winning pitcher Gene Rademacher aided his own game with two home runs that accounted for four runs. He got help from J. Wilson in the eighth inning when Wilson hit a two-run homer that provided the final margin.

Deer openers still confuse

Hunters continue to ask the Department of Conservation: "Why did you change dates of the deer season?"

In answer, officials point out that the changes to Nov. 13-28 in the Upper Peninsula and Nov. 20-28 in the Lower were made by the Legislature in answer to long-standing requests from school administrators, businessmen, and some labor unions who favored a week-end to the traditional Nov. 15 opening.

THE Department's position on the issue has always been neutral, there being no biological considerations involved. Department surveys, however, have long indicated a hunter preference for the Nov. 15 date.

Some of the queries imply a misunderstanding among hunters who think the seasons have been shortened. This, of course, is not true. In both peninsulas deer will be legal targets for 16 days as in the past.

23 to state swim meet Saturday

The swimming youngsters of St. Johns area will be well represented this Saturday at the 1965 Recreation Assn. of Michigan state swimming championships at Garden City.

GIRLS ATTENDING the meet will be Jean Peterson and Tannett Mazanike, age 12 and under; Patti Nuser, Jean Muckle, Chris Glazier and Kan Myers, age 13-14; and Cathy Nuser, Andre Lewis, Val Bartholomew, Jean Morris and Gail Pautke, age 15-16.

Boys include Brad Huntly and Andy Henning, 12 and under; Reagan Greer, Craig Bartholomew, Craig Foote, Mike Lewis and Scott Bennett, ages 13-14; and Bill Bartholomew, Robert Lundy, Wayne King and Tom Pautke, ages 15-16.

Softball tourney starts tonight in St. Johns

A five-team double elimination softball tournament for Class A softball teams will be held in St. Johns this weekend, with the winner advancing on to further play in the Recreation Assn. of Michigan tournaments.

The winner of that contest will play the winner of the Pewamo-Co-Op game Sunday at 9 p.m. in game No. 4.

Pony All-Stars lose to Corunna

The St. Johns Pony League All-Star team lost to the Corunna All-Stars 8-2 in a game at Corunna last week despite some good pitching. All of Corunna's eight runs were unearned.

Terry Maier pitched the first part of the game for St. Johns and recorded nine strikeouts, and Dean Eisler allowed no baserunners in the last three innings. Doug Brzak topped the St. Johns hitting with a mighty triple.

The average out-of-state tourist visiting Michigan last summer traveled 585 miles in the state, a Michigan State Highway Department survey shows.

Clinton Area Derby Boys Ready for Trip To Akron This Saturday

THE NEWS in Brief

The Capitol Area Economic Opportunity Committee has announced the appointment of Mary O. Black as director of the project to develop a coordinating plan for Ingham, Eaton and Clinton counties. . . . The expected creation of the Sleeping Bear Dunes National Lakeshore in northwestern Lower Michigan could pour an estimated $57 million a year into the state's economy within a few years of its completion, according to the chairman of the Michigan Tourist Council. . . .

Robert LaBrie, language teacher at Rodney B. Wilson High School in St. Johns, is attending an eight-week language institute at West Virginia University this summer. He qualified for the West Virginia training by studying Spanish at a summer institute at the University of Wichita in 1963. The WYU training is devoted to the study of French. . . .

RANDOLPH Ready-Mix Concrete

crete of St. Johns has installed new equipment which reportedly will quadruple the firm's capacity. . . . Playground equipment has been moved from the Elsie High School site at the request of the county and state health departments because the ground under the trees in the front yard of the school is infested with histoplasmosis, a fungus. It reportedly can infect people with results similar to tuberculosis. The playground equipment will be relocated at the E. E. Knight Elementary school site. . . .

The sand and dirt covering the recently seal-coated streets in St. Johns should not be removed, City Manager Ken Greer says. It must remain on the streets for two or three weeks to give it a chance to work into the sealing tar. . . . The Elsie Band Boosters have set Sunday, Sept. 26, as the date for their annual smorgasbord. It'll be held at the high school gym, General Chairman Mrs. Frank Laditski reports. . . .

ST. JOHNS Little Leaguers are now playing on their new baseball field just off Scott Road north of Walker Street. . . . First sales of a long-playing stereo record featuring the Elsie High School Symphonic Band were made by the Elsie Band Boosters recently. . . .

Richard D. Slagell of 108 W. Lincoln Street, St. Johns, received his master of arts degree from Western Michigan University Friday at the university's summer session commencement services. . . . Sheriff's department personnel helped the regular driver's license division with administration of driving examinations Thursday and driving tests Friday for some 79 drivers training graduates at St. Johns High School. . . .

SEVENTY-three per cent of the St. Johns Chamber of Commerce members voted in the recent election for directors. . . . There'll be an open house Aug. 15 from 2 to 5 p.m. at the new Eureka medical and community building in Eureka. . . . Aug. 12 is the deadline for entries in the St. Johns city recreation tennis tournament. . . .

Fear workmen's comp insurance will be forgotten

Weldon O. Yeager, director of Workmen's Compensation Dept., this week expressed great concern over the fact that many small companies, individual employers and householders employing domestics will not have taken out proper workmen's compensation coverage, as provided by law.

"The new act goes into effect Sept. 1," Yeager said, "and all employers hiring one or more people for 35 hours a week for 13 weeks duration during the past year must get workmen's compensation insurance coverage, or be subject to penalties of the law. We urge all employers to make arrangements now by contacting their insurance agent."

"AGRICULTURAL employees will not be affected until May 1, 1966, but domestics and other will."

Yeager said there will be a total of 23 major changes, and these changes affect only those injuries occurring on or after Sept. 1, 1965.

48 Derby boys to Akron

Forty-eight of the 50 boys who raced their cars in the Clinton County Soap Box Derby June 20 will go by bus Saturday to Akron, Ohio, to watch the local winner race in the All-American Soap Box Derby.

Lee Bennett will be driver for the busload of boys. They'll leave St. Johns at 6 a.m. Saturday morning, will arrive about noon and will be back about 9 p.m. Saturday. Larry Bissell will be chaperone.

THE BOYS WILL take their own noon lunch with them, and an evening meal box lunch will be provided by the local Derby committee.

County Derby champ Bill Jacobus, 13, of St. Johns, has been in Akron since Tuesday, when he was taken there by his parents, Mr and Mrs Howard Jacobus of 202 W. Lincoln Street. Wednesday he was to receive the traditional police escort for local champions.

AFTER CHECKING in at the Sheridan Hotel, Bill was to go to a boys' camp near Akron where he'll stay until the race Saturday at noon. Singer Frankie Avalon and movie stars Fess Parker and Glenn Ford will spend some time at the camp with the boys.

It will not be known until Friday what heat Bill will race in.

Random notes from the parks

Routine reports from managers of state parks provide interesting insights into the goings-on of Michigan vacationists. Here are a few random-picked notes for a typical week in July:

Camper shares treble hook with a large northern pike. . . . Rained cats and dogs this week. On Tuesday, 2.8 inches of rain in three hours. Camper's dog gave birth to a litter of pups and another camper reported his cat had a litter of kittens. . . . Only two lost kids this week. . . . Home extension agent conducts outdoor cooking demonstration for 150 campers. . . .

THE "TOILET paper kid" strikes again—14 rolls snatched this week. . . . Woman camper insists on electric service; said she "simply had to shave her legs." . . . Camper entertains children with Santa suit, tree, and trimmings. . . . Twelve-year old girl on air mattress blown into lake; rescued by a camper. . . . Lifeguard saves 13-year old girl who fell off air mattress. . . . Attendance over 700 at evening programs by park naturalist. . . . Picnic group consumed 650 pounds of chicken, 150 pounds of weiners, 200 pounds of potato salad, 400 pounds of beans. . . . Teenagers found the light-sensitive switch in the shower-toilet buildings. They wait until it is well occupied, then shine a flashlight into the electric eye and off go the lights.

DON'T SCRATCH THAT ITCH! IN JUST 15 MINUTES, if the itch needs scratching, your 48c back at any drug store. You feel quick-drying ITCH-NE-SOFT take hold. Itching quiets down. Boy scouts return from Philmont trip

ELSIE—Local boy scouts from the Chief Okemos Council have completed 12 camping days in Philmont's Sky Hi Country in New Mexico.

They were scheduled to arrive in Lansing at approximately 4 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 1.

The group was the largest from the Council to participate in one expedition. There were 104 scouts and 24 leaders.

CPL. MORRIS Tubbs of the Michigan State Police and district organizer and extension chairman of the Saginaw Bay Council was escort for the entire trip. Marvin Foreboard, Nakoma District chairman, and Harvey H. Griswold, district scout executive, were leaders of the contingent.

One of the most outstanding highlights of the expedition, the boys said, was the climb to the top of Phillips Mountain. When they reached the peak, they ate lunch in a hailstorm.

Individual achievements were recognized at the final Western campfire. Awards included an "We All Made It" plaque and

Hal Smith home shower setting

ELSIE—Miss Donna Allen was honored at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs Hal Smith Monday evening. Assisting Mrs Smith was Miss Judy Allen, sister of the honored guest.

Games were played with prizes won by Mrs Ella Horton, Mrs Russell Allen, Miss Linda Allen, Mrs Porter Martin, Miss Lila Jean Allen and Miss Donna Allen.

Guests from Muir, Ovid and Elsie were served refreshments from a table decorated with a centerpiece of white candles, blue and white sweet peas and snapdragons.

Mrs Henry Allen and Mrs Marshall Monroe of Ovid presided at the coffee and tea services.

Miss Allen became the bride of Douglas Monroe on Saturday, July 31, at the Ovid United Church.

arrowhead patches which were given only to scouts who completed the 12-day trek.

OTHER PLACES the boys visited included Villa Philmonte, the year-round retreat of Waite Phillips who gave the ranch to the Boy Scouts of America, Kit Carson's home, Tooth of Time, a 9,000 foot butte, and Cyphers mine, a working gold mine.

The Elsie boys making the trip were David Williams, Robert Bloomer, Dennis Mead and Ronald Sills. They were joined by Lansing scouts, Mike Weathers, David Smith, Warren Kenney, Tom Charland, John Fields and Tom Higgins.

Miss Jeane Nemcik honored at shower

ELSIE—Miss Kathy Slagh and Miss Betty Vostrizansky were hostesses to a miscellaneous shower honoring Miss Jeane Nemcik Sunday at the home of Miss Slagh's parents, Dr and Mrs E. M. Slagh.

Blue and white decorations were used at the refreshment table which was centered with a special cake made by Mrs Frank Winkler.

Punch and coffee were served by Mrs Lawrence Nemcik and Mrs Charles Bates, mothers of the betrothed couple. Miss Nemcik received many gifts.

4-H camp attended by Jolly Pioneers

ELSIE—The Jolly Pioneers recently returned from a three-day, 150-mile trip to 4-H camp at Silver Lake.

They swam in Silver Lake and Lake Michigan, climbed and rode over sand dunes and had a wiener roast and scavenger hunt.

The 21 4-H-ers were supervised by seven chaperones: Mr and Mrs Frank Bernath, Mrs Andrew Cobb, Mr and Mrs Russell Libey and Mr and Mrs William Roof.

Mrs R. C. Woodard recently returned to her home after several weeks in a Lansing hospital.

Couples fulfill dreams by visiting 49th State

ELSIE—Mr and Mrs Lewis Walling of rural Elsie and Mr and Mrs Marlon Walling of rural St. Johns recently fulfilled a long-time dream of visiting America's 49th state, Alaska.

They began their month-long vacation by crossing Big Mac and the Soo Locks to Calgary, Alberta.

One of the highlights of their vacation, they said, was the trip through Banff National Park and Lake Louise resort in the Bow River Valley. They continued through the Canadian Rockies of Jasper National Park, within sight of the Athabasca Glacier.

Travelling east, they stopped at Edmonton, Alberta's capital city, which is the hub of air traffic to Alaska and northern Canada.

They drove through Grand Prairie en route to Dawson Creek in British Columbia and the beginning of the Alaska Highway.

The Wallings prepared name boards with addresses to post along with the hundreds of others who had traveled that same route from Dawson Creek to Fairbanks, Alaska.

The party continued on the Alaska Highway to its terminal at Fairbanks.

They saw gigantic road projects under construction everywhere along the way, they said. From Fairbanks, they said they could see the peaks of Mt. Mc-Kinley and Mt. Kennedy which was recently climbed by Sen. Robert Kennedy.

At Fairbanks, they attended an Eskimo Stage Show of native performers, music and songs. Miss Alaska was present and was introduced to the audience.

Upon reaching Anchorage, they said they found little remaining evidence of the earthquake of two years ago, except for broken railroad ties and the distorted foundations of a few buildings that had been destroyed. Everything was back to normal with much new construction visible, they said, and Anchorage is now known as the largest and fastest growing city in Alaska.

They visited Ft. Richardson and Elmendorf AFG and made a side trip into the Kenai Peninsula. They toured a salmon cannery and watched the entire process from cleaning the fish to final cooking and canning.

Prices were high on such foods as dairy products, chicken, eggs and fruit due to shortage of agricultural areas, they said. Most of the Eskimos earn their livelihood by fishing and trapping.

They saw the Chilkoot Dancers (Alaska Indians) perform and took a boat trip through the Inland Passage from Haines, along the Panhandle of Alaska, seeing such cities as Sitka, which was the capital during the Russian administration; Juneau, the present capital; Wrangell, one of the oldest cities in Alaska; and Ketchikan, the salmon capital of the world.

They traveled on the Malspina, a cruise steamer that accommodated 500 people and 400 automobiles. This was the largest boat they had ever sailed on, they said, and while on it they passed through Lynne Canal within sight of the Mendenhall Glacier with its blue-green coloring.

They left the boat at Prince Rupert, B.C., and continued driving across the province to Prince George. They entered the United States near Spokane, Wash., and visited Grand Coulee Dam.

While shopping in a store at Circle, Mont., the Wallings met Mr and Mrs Earl Moore, former Bannister area teachers. They were vacationing from their teaching duties in Kansas.

The Wallings crossed the Missouri River at Aberdeen, N.D., and visited John Hoffman at Verden and other friends in Ferney.

Crossing the Mississippi at St. Cloud, Minn., they continued through Wisconsin to Gladstone in the upper peninsula where they spent their last night of the trip.

Among those from this area who are in the Carson City Hospital are Mrs Florence Leydorf of Bannister and Jerry Kurka of rural Elsie.

Walter Sigafoose has returned to his work after five weeks of illness due to pneumonia.

Karen Vera, who will observe her first birthday Aug. 13, has come to make her home with Mr and Mrs Ernest Tweedie and Kevin Vern, who will soon be three years old.

Mr and Mrs Charles Johnson of Revere, Mass., returned to their home Saturday after spending two weeks with their daughter, Mrs Tweedie, and getting acquainted with their new granddaughter.

Mrs Irene Grieve and three sons, formerly of Texas, are staying with her parents, Mr and Mrs Lyle Lipp until she decides where to reside.

Mrs Daisy Talley left Monday from the Detroit Airport to spend two weeks with her daughter and family.

Mr and Mrs Harold Dunham, Mr and Mrs Clifford Dunham, Mr and Mrs Asa Stewart and Mr and Mrs Luman Hall attended the funeral of their cousin, Mrs Nell Frerick in Cleveland, Ohio, last Monday.

Mr and Mrs S. J. Keys visited their son, Jack, at St. Lawrence Hospital Sunday and their cousin, Mrs Alice Martin of Harrison, who recently underwent surgery at the Sparrow Hospital. Mrs Martin is staying with her daughter and family, Mr and Mrs Arthur Alden in Lansing.

Elsie youth writes from Netherlands

ELSIE—"Never once have I regretted my trip to the Netherlands. I love Holland and am having a wonderful time with my wonderful family."

These words were written by Michael Slagh to his parents, Dr and Mrs Earl M. Slagh after a couple of weeks with the Y. de Winds in Eindhoven, Holland, as an Exchange Student in the Youth for Understanding program.

IN DESCRIBING his flight from Detroit, he said that stops were made at Newfoundland and a 12-hour layover in Shannon, Ireland, which proved boring as the students were not allowed to leave the terminal.

MICHAEL SLAGH

He was met by his Dutch family in Amsterdam after a party for all of the Michigan Exchange students.

Eindhoven is a city of 180,000 and a very modern, progressive place. Nearly everyone works for Philips (Philco in US), comparable to the GE Corp., he wrote. He found it unusual that the houses had no outside doorknobs as they are always kept locked. Very few teenagers have keys so must ring the bell in order to enter.

"I EAT ABOUT 15 slices of bread a day and I haven't had over two pounds of meat in three weeks," Michael said. For a boy who loved meat every day, this was a disappointment at first. But he said he was getting used to the food and had plenty of potatoes, other vegetables and soups.

The weather was pleasant when he first arrived but lately it had been cold and cloudy with rain almost every day. Michael had left a nice garden at home and was concerned that his family kept it well watered during the dry summer.

THE LANGUAGE barrier is a great handicap with his "parents", but it is easier to talk with the older children, Annelies, 22, and Marga, 20, students at the University, and Peter, 18. The younger children, Rene, 16, and Hubert, 14, know the right words but don't pronounce them as we do, he wrote.

It was difficult to get used to dodging cars and bicycles. Everyone rides, he said—businessmen, women from 5 to 95 and also the policemen. He admitted that he was out-of-condition and tired easily at first but with the necessity of so much riding, he was now improving.

MICHAEL ALSO finds a problem to get used to the metric system of weights and measures and the value of foreign money.

He attended the large Catholic school with his "brothers", and found it modern but quite different from our school in that teachers smoke in classrooms, students all talk at once and great emphasis is placed on sports.

Athletics is a regular class, with javelin throw, shotput, foot-

Students of County spend busy summers

by PATRICIA HOLMES

Throughout the school year, these young men and women from Clinton County are students of a special kind. The boys are seminarians, being trained to become Catholic priests. The girls are students in a convent where they are trained for the Sisterhood in a particular religious order.

However, when summer rolls around, they join the ranks of 150,000 other college and high school students across Michigan in search of a "summer job." Some seek steady, paid employment to help defray school expenses. Others settle for odd jobs and still others do volunteer work, their pay being experience.

The aunt of Steven, Michael and Lois Ruhl, children of the James Ruhls, earns money for school by sitting with them during the summer. She is Nancy Ruhl, who lives with her parents, Mr and Mrs Arnold Ruhl, on Wright Road, Fowler, during the summer. This school year she will be a postulate, which is the equivalent of a college freshman, at St. Catherine's in Racine, Wis.

Robert Sipkovsky, son of Helen Sipkovsky of 203 South Baker, will be a freshman at Pontifical College Josephinum, Worthington, Ohio. This summer he is a farm hand at the Paul Martis mint farm on Scott Road.

Mike Howell will attend St. John's Provincial Seminary, Plymouth, this fall, but for the summer he works with his father, Henry Howell, a contractor.

Save certain trees during construction

BY BETTY KETCHAM
County Extension Agent
Home Economics

You can protect existing trees on the homesite from injuries that often occur during construction, specialists of the US Department of Agriculture say.

Shade trees add to the beauty, comfort and value of a home. If some of those already on the homesite are suitable, so much the better. But protect them during construction. It will involve some time and money and you will want to select carefully the trees to be saved. Here are some points to consider:

Is the tree located where you really want it? Will it give shade where you need it—or cut off sunlight necessary to your lawn or garden?

IS IT a desirable species? Some kinds, such as maple and lindens have roots that grow close to the surface and interfere with lawns and ornamentals.

Is the tree young or old, small or large, vigorous or ailing? Old or large trees do not adapt to changes in environment as well as small, young ones. Trees that aren't healthy and vigorous are not worth saving.

Trees may be protected during building by fences or barriers. Changes in grade may call for retaining walls or a system of tiles to insure that the tree continues to get the air, water and minerals it needs. If it is necessary to run water or sewer lines near or under trees to be saved, cut as few roots as possible and refill the trench promptly. Don't leave the roots exposed to air.

CLEAN UP, after construction, can be a critical time for tree damage. Generally everyone is in a hurry and not as careful as they could be.

Insist that the fences and barriers around trees be left in place until everything else is cleaned up and carried away.

If you cannot have the trash hauled away, be sure to burn it in an area where the flames and heat cannot reach tree branches, tree trunk or roots.

To obtain a single free copy of this new bulletin, "Protecting Shade Trees During Home Construction," send a post card to the Office of Information, US Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., 20250.

Announce Final Zip order plan

Postmaster Gen. John A. Gronouski has issued the final order requiring second and third class volume mailers to convert fully to ZIP Code by Jan. 1, 1967.

The final order came exactly two years from the date the ZIP Code program was launched on July 1, 1963. Mailers were first put on notice last February—23 months before the new regulations will take effect.

THE MANDATORY order affects some 275,000 users of second- and third-class mail. Between them they generate annually more than 27 billion pieces of mail—39 per cent of the more than 72 billion pieces processed by the Post Office Department in fiscal 1965. The order is the first significant change in bulk mailing requirements in 40 years.

Second class covers newspapers, magazines and periodicals, while third class generally covers advertising matter and certain types of merchandise.

THE POSTMASTER general's ruling followed months of extensive consultation with representatives of the publishing and mail advertising industries and thousands of words of testimony before the House Post Office and Civil Service Subcommittee on Postal Facilities and Modernization.

The department liberalized the order since it was first proposed last February. It eliminated a preliminary deadline which would have required those covered by the regulation to sack to sectional centers some of the mail now massed to state distribution points. That deadline would have been today.

ALSO ELIMINATED was the requirement to include ZIP Code in simplified mail for delivery to rural and star routes and post office box holders, and on mail already pre-sorted and bundled to the five-digit code destination.

The department also reduced from 697 to 314 the number of multi-coded cities to which mailers will be required to pre-sort to more than one delivery unit.

The July 1 deadline was dropped largely on representation of the Mailers' Technical Advisory Committee, consisting of representatives of all the major second and third class mailing industry associations and organizations.

THE COMMITTEE, which has been meeting monthly with the postmaster general, called to his attention some technical problems in the industry that would have made it difficult to meet the preliminary deadline.

While fully endorsing the January '67 deadline, the committee took the position that the July 1 deadline would tend to slow down rather than accelerate complete adaptation to ZIP Code by the later date.

The other liberalizations were made on the basis of testimony before the House subcommittee which indicated that in some cases the order would have required mailers to perform additional work which would have resulted in no benefit to the department.

BUT ON THE question of delaying the ultimate deadline, the department said there was no possibility of a compromise.

"We have taken this course," Postmaster Gen. Gronouski said, "because it is the only course to take. We have agreed to some changes, which will help the industries involved, without eroding our main objective. But we have had to set a mandatory deadline for pre-sorting to ZIP Code, and those mailers who have not yet seen fit to cooperate will still have a period of 18 months to adapt to the program."

FOLLOWING publication of the order in the Federal Register, the Postal Manual will be amended to include the order and notice will be printed in the Postal Bulletin explaining the requirements to postmasters and urging them to cooperate with local mailers in the conversion process.

Imagine a train 9,131 cars long? That's what would have been needed to haul Michigan's near-record crop of dry edible beans last year. The value to the grower was $54 million for this nearly 7 1/2 million hundred-weight crop. Michigan raised practically all of the navy beans in the country. They were sold mostly to canners.

Vandals' repeated visits destroying Victor house

Young vandals have all but reduced a Victor Township farm home to rubble during the last eight months. Sheriff's deputies have apprehended 13 Lansing youngsters in connection with several entries of the home, but none of the cases have yet been brought to court.

The home, owned by Fred Barber, is located on Jason Road about a half mile or so west of Lake Victoria. Barber moved from the home last fall to live during the winter with a son in Mason.

HE LEFT THE home as though he were only going to be gone for a weekend. Clothing, furniture, kitchen and dining utensils and even food was left at the home in anticipation of weekend hunting and relaxation trips by Barber and his sons, sheriff's deputies said.

The reports of thefts and vandalism began about the first of this year, and most recent instance was brought to the sheriff's attention only three weeks ago. In all, there have been six major cases of theft or destruction of the property.

THE TWO-story brick house is located about 125 feet north of Jason Road. It contains nine rooms. Upstairs and downstairs windows have been broken out, some more than once. Barber has now resigned himself to covering the windows with plastic to keep the weather out.

The case first came to the sheriff's attention when it was discovered several shotguns were missing. Subsequent visits by the vandals led to not only more thefts of items of furniture but destruction of property as well. An old victrola, which is still in the home, has been filled with what looks like baking soda. Chairs have been broken up and mattresses slashed. Windows have been broken out. Doors have been bashed in and chests of drawers torn open.

SILVERWARE, plates, clothing linen, bedding and other items have been either stolen or destroyed. The house is probably 60 years old or more and it still doesn't have electricity; but the falling plaster in some of the rooms and general appearance of it now is due more to the vandalism than its age.

Not all of the vandals or accomplices have gone undetected. Sheriff's deputies have nabbed more than three carloads of youngsters on two occasions, and the names of at least 13 of them have been turned over to the Clinton County prosecutor.

ALL OF THE names are of students in high schools in Lansing, according to the sheriff's office. Deputies know of others who they believe are involved.

Deputies have "staked out" the old home on several other occasions but to no avail. There is not much left to steal from the old house, they point out.

Neighbors and friends gathered at the home of Mr and Mrs Fred W. Pasch on Monday evening, July 26, to celebrate the Paschs' wedding anniversary.

Mr and Mrs William Ernst and Maxine attended the "Steam Show" at Nashville on Saturday and they spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr and Mrs William S. Ernst and family at Battle Creek.

John Foersch and Mr and Mrs Floyd Foersch and Sandra were Sunday afternoon and supper guests of Mr and Mrs Herbert Pasch and family of rural Fowler. Miss Agnes Bearndt, Miss Peggy Mowhat and Claude McKibbee of Chesaning spent Tuesday with Mr and Mrs William Ernst and Maxine.

All persons will be admitted free to the Michigan State Fair until 8 a.m. Sunday, Aug. 29, the day of the Sunrise Service. The Fair runs from Aug. 27 through Sept. 6.

Clinton County Deputy Sheriff Ramon Terpening inspects a ransacked closet and bedroom on the upper floor of the old Fred Barber home on Jason Road near Lake Victoria, mute evidence of vandalism which has been occurring there since the first of the year. In addition to such ransacking, chairs and furniture have been broken up and numerous items stolen from the house.

This is the Fred Barber house on Jason Road near Lake Victoria, repeated target of vandals during the last six months.

News About Clinton County Service Personnel

Pvt. JOSE M. RIOJAS, son of Mr and Mrs Pedro S. Riojas, 208 Lewis Street, St. Johns, completed advanced training as a cannoneer at the Army Artillery and Missile Center, Fort Sill, Okla., July 30.

Riojas was trained in the preparation, loading and firing of field artillery guns and howitzers.

He entered the Army last January and completed basic training at Fort Knox, Ky. The 17-year-old soldier attended Rodney B. Wilson High School and was employed at Cottage Gardens in Lansing before entering the Army.

The Navy's Detroit Tiger Company was welcomed aboard the US Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill. for nine weeks of basic training by Lt. Commander R. L. Carver, executive officer of the Recruit Training Command. During their nine weeks of training they will undergo rapid changes in a transition from civilian to military life.

Three members of the "Tiger" Company are enlisted volunteers from Clinton County. They are: Joe Martinez, son of Mr and Mrs Ignacio Martinez, Church Street, St. Johns; Ernest Kuhns, son of Mr and Mrs Gale Kuhns, Church Street, St. Johns; and Ralph Moeggenberg, son of Mr and Mrs Lawrence Moeggenberg, West State Street, St. Johns. The three young men are 1965 graduates of Rodney B. Wilson High School in St. Johns.

The all-Michigan unit was officially commissioned as a Company on July 20, 1965. The 100-man volunteer unit was sponsored by the Detroit Tiger Baseball Club and the men were sworn in the Navy at an impressive pregame ceremony at Tiger Stadium on July 19, 1965.

Engineman IC MORELL R. HATT, USCG, son of Mr and Mrs Arthur C. Hatt of Bath, graduated July 16 from the Engineman School at the US Coast Guard Reserve Training Center in Yorktown, Va. 'Mrs McThing' at Ledges next week

Playing from Aug. 10-14 at the Ledges Playhouse in Grand Ledge will be "Mrs McThing" starring Margaret Woodbury, whom playgoers will remember from "Mary, Mary" and "Lute Song." "Mrs McThing" is another of the riotous comedies of Mary Chase, even funnier than her earlier success, "Harvey." When "Mrs McThing" opened on Broadway, it starred Helen Hayes who remained in the cast during its long, successful run.

The plot tells of a wealthy boy who, because he will not play with her little daughter, finds himself transferred by a vindictive witch to the poolroom atmosphere of a slum district where he becomes involved in the robbery of history's most improbable and incompetent gangsters.

THE GANG'S leader, Poison Eddie, played by Lael Woodbury, and Dirty Joe, played by Lane Bateman, and Stinker, played by Ray Jones, possess high plans and low talent for pulling off the perfect crime. Their plans for the robbery are almost as laughable as their execution of it.

Continuing through this Saturday, is the classic Greek drama, "Oedipus," starring Lael Woodbury in the title role.

skilled fliers and technicians for the aerospace force.

The sergeant is a graduate of Monongah (W. Va.) High School. His wife, Carol, is the daughter of Mr and Mrs Raymond Bice of St. Johns.

Bement Library Book Shelf

By Hila Bross

St. Johns was the subject of a few days' study last week by a team of young people in training for the Peace Corps. As an assignment for a special class at Michigan State University, they had been sent to examine the organizational structure of our city and its several agencies. One pleasant and attractive young woman spent a number of hours on two different days in the library, reading our city history, studying our city maps and charts, examining our city's plans for the future, and exploring the library in general.

She had some very complimentary things to say about the library and its scope and services. These young people are scheduled to go into the hinterlands of Chile and there organize a community as nearly ideal as possible, under the circumstances they will encounter there. We wonder if St. Johns is destined to have a twin city somewhere in Chile.

OUR LIBRARY is exceptionally well equipped for a city of this size. Like most libraries, we would like more room, but we do have more room than meets the eye. Many adults do not realize that in the basement of the Municipal Library we have a large Children's Department, and that one corner of the main reading room is devoted to books for Teenagers.

A number of new books have recently come in for these two departments. Most children love books about real things and people, and among the most popular books for children are those about science and nature in general. Three such books have just arrived. One is a double-header put out by the Weekly Reader Children's Book Club, entitled "Planets and Space Flight." This is not science fiction, but the real thing.

"HOW PLANTS GROW" by Marie Neurath should be appealing to both children and adults. "The Conquest of the Sea" was printed in England and is a translation of a French author named Gilles Avril. A lavishly illustrated book, it explores every aspect of the sea from marine life to the building of the most avant-garde submarine.

Two new books from the Junior Literary Guild are in the Teen Department. "Master Detective" by Arthur Ormton is the biography of Allan Pinkerton, founder of the world-famous English detective agency. Here again is a book for adults and teens alike.

"YOUR CAREER in Journalism" by M. L. Stein is just what the title implies, a survey of the fourth estate as a possible life's work for young people who are in the throes of the Big Decision.

Another beautiful new book in the Life Nature Library has just come in. This one is "The Land and Wildlife of Australia," and is full of color pictures of kangaroos, koalas, and some less familiar fauna. We are hearing quite a bit about Australia here in the library this summer. Robyn Hudson, who has charge of the Children's Department, hears frequently from her mother who is visiting her family in New South Wales.

ACCORDING to a recent bulletin received by Robyn, it snowed the other day in Joan Hudson's home town for the first time in history. Our new book on Australia is full of interesting facts about the "dry continent," and we invite you to come in and read it and the other remarkable books in this outstanding series.

Incidentally, do you know that our library is air conditioned? Why not spend part of your vacation with us?

Lightning refuge: where's safest place?

Where should you take refuge from lightning during a summer thunderstorm? Edward R. Klamm, accident prevention director of the Allstate Motor Club, says one of the best spots to seek shelter is in your automobile.

"Because of its metal shell, when lightning strikes an auto it spreads all over the metal, travelling through the springs, axles and bearings on the wheels and then jumps past the rubber tires to the ground," Klamm points out. "Only if you are in direct contact with the metal would you get even a slight burn. In fact, it is hard to find cases of lightning even hitting a car."

"A THUNDERSTORM is a signal to take care, particularly if you are working in the fields, golfing, swimming or in some other open area," the safety expert continues. "Every year nearly 1,000 persons are hurt or killed by lightning, in addition to an annual property loss of more than $100 million."

Lightning seeks out the highest object in the immediate vicinity, because it strives to make the shortest possible contact between earth and sky. "If you're caught in the open, your best bet is to sit down or get into a depression such as a ditch. Do anything to avoid being the tallest object in the area," Klamm advises.

KLAMM emphasizes the need for lightning rods and conductors to protect homes and other buildings. "A system of rods and conductors is the most effective way to protect property against lightning," he says. "The rods don't repel the lightning attacks, but they do carry the charge harmlessly into the ground.

"Lightning rods should be installed and maintained by experts. If they do not have proper ground connections, they not only are useless, but could be harmful by increasing the height of the building and making it more vulnerable to lightning. A television antenna on your home, even a grounded antenna, is not equipped with a conductor of adequate size to ground a lightning bolt and give overall protection to a house."

THE ALLSTATE Motor Club recommends the following precautions be taken during thunderstorms:

1. Stay indoors and avoid being near screens, windows or metal exterior doors. Avoid touching electric light circuits, radio and television sets, telephones or plumbing.
2. If outdoors, avoid isolated trees, wire fences, hilltops, large open spaces such as golf fairways. Seek shelter in a cave, a ravine or at the foot of a cliff.
3. Never stand under or near a tall tree or other object which may be the highest point in the immediate area.
4. STAY AWAY from beaches and out of water during a thunderstorm.

"Your greatest safeguard against lightning is to keep from becoming the best electrical path available," advises Klamm. "A bolt will never strike you if it can find a more conductive and direct route to the ground."

Is local or pro crew best for reappraisal?

(Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of articles written to explain the work in Clinton County of the H. L. Yo Co., now conducting a reappraisal of real estate property for the county board of supervisors.)

A tax equalization program is not a common occurrence. When it does happen, it seems quite expensive and must be fully justified. It is highly probable that some of the local officials have never held office during one of these rare occurrences. By the same token, there is no doubt that there are many property owners who have never experienced such a program.

The decision to undertake a tax equalization program usually lies solely with the governing body, and subsequently the decision as to who will do it and when lies with this body. Since the decision involves spending a large sum of public money, all concerned must be thoroughly convinced that the program is a dire necessity with no alternatives. Notably, in some instances where the local authorities have failed to recognize or disregard the need for tax equalization, they have been legally ordered by a higher authority to get it done within a prescribed period of time.

ASSUME THAT it has been resolved to get the job done. The next question may well be, "Why not let our local assessing body do it?" At a first glance this may appear to be the most logical and economical solution, especially when the local officials learn the price of a professional service.

On the other hand, if the problem is analyzed from an objective point of view, there are a number of potential pitfalls which become paramount.

CAN THE local assessing body get the job done in the short span of time usually recommended? Obviously, one or two men in a short time cannot discover and appraise every real estate parcel in accordance with accepted methods. A force of competent personnel would have to be recruited and trained.

Are competent personnel available from local sources who are willing to do the job? If there are, can these people be hired for a price resulting in a lesser cost than that of a professional company?

Is the assessor equipped with all the tools necessary to produce a good equalization program? Does he have a good set of property tax maps, or a manual prescribing uniform procedures? Is the man himself equipped with the capabilities and experience to organize and administer the program?

WILL THE local staff be influenced or biased in their judgment of properties owned by people they have known for years? Professional companies have no "axes to grind," with no interest in local politics, personalities or social obligations. Their judgment, then, can be objective and beyond the realm of showing partiality.

Can a high degree of efficiency be maintained by a local staff? In a good program, each building is entered and inspected. Every appraiser, therefore, is exposed to the public in his daily routine. How much time will be spent "chatting" with friends as they inspect the building?

WILL A LOCAL staff be consistent and uniform in their collective judgment and techniques? Will they be adequately equipped with enough facts at the end of the day to expertly defend their appraisals when appeal time faces them?

There are many other problems of a technical nature, that if not solved properly will produce drastic results, generating many more appeals than would be expected. The complexity and technical scope of a tax equalization program is best described in the specifications that are set forth by communities that have chosen to buy the service from a professional company.

In the final analysis, then, no matter who undertakes the program, the results must produce equitable appraisals on which assessments are to be based, or else be discredited for failure to accomplish the purpose—equalization among tax payers.

Must pay for gas, court rules in jailing 2 youth

Two Lansing youths have been sentenced to up to 90 days in the Clinton County Jail for driving away from a gasoline station without paying for the gasoline they got.

Dennis E. Moser, 18, of 5224 Bogart, and Ricky L. Snider, 17, of 5016 Hughes Road, both of Lansing, were found guilty of simple larceny when they appeared before DeWitt Township Justice of the Peace Gordon Willyoung early last Thursday.

WILLYOUNG FINED the pair $25 plus $19.90 costs each and sentenced each to 90 days in the county jail. Thirty days of the sentence will be suspended, however, on payment of the fine and costs.

The two boys were arrested by Lansing police early Thursday morning on a description furnished by state police. They were charged with driving away from the X-Way 66 gasoline station at the I-96 and Grand River Avenue interchange in Watertown Township without paying for gas they had gotten. They had sent the attendant inside to get them a road map and then drove off.

THEY HAD bought $5.75 worth of gas there. State police said they had done the same thing at another station in Lansing and at one in Haslett.

LEGISLATIVE REPORT

BY REP. BLAIR WOODMAN
of Owosso
(87th House District)

For your interest and information, we have been reviewing the new laws enacted by the Michigan Legislature during this year's session. The following analysis of Public Acts is part two of a series and are already in effect:

P.A. 17 (S. 125) This act broadens definition of property that can escheat to the state to include rate refunds by utilities, cashier's checks, unredeemed gift certificates, unclaimed wages and amounts due and payable by any insurance policy including life insurance.

P.A. 19 (H. 2191) THIS new law prohibits employment, importation or solicitation of employees from another state or country to replace employees involved in a lawful strike or lockout.

P.A. 19 (H. 2397) Of educational interest, this outlines election procedures for two or more adjoining school districts to jointly form a community college district.

P.A. 21 (H. 2140) OF interest to banks and their officers and directors, this law permits banks to invest more than 50 per cent of their capital and surplus in bank premises with the permission of the state banking commissioner; allows increase of capital stock upon approval of the commissioner and 2/3 of the shareholders; provides for shareholders to elect all but two of the directors; permits loans to an officer when they are secured by real estate mortgages on his residence; and permits pledge of assets to secure funds of the International Bridge Authority.

P.A. 22 (S. 119) This measure allows probate judges upon petition and a hearing, with or without notice, to amend the proceedings to include all aliases of a decedent or ward.

P.A. 23 (H. 2154) THIS new provision provides pension benefits to state police for non-duty total disability.

P.A. 24 (S. 120) Of legal interest is the act providing that the filing of objections is not a prerequisite to appealing a probate court order admitting a will to probate or certifying it to the circuit court for contest.

P.A. 26 (H. 2031) School Board candidates may now submit a nominating petition with a minimum number of 20 signatures rather than 50.

P.A. 29 (H. 2080) ALL children enrolling in public, private, parochial or denominational schools must now for the first time have a tuberculin test unless objected to on religious grounds.

Even while the Legislature has been in recess, the capitol has been a busy place with legislators and other proponents of bills the Governor is signing into law.

OF PARTICULAR interest to me, since I was a co-sponsor, was the enactment of a State-wide Mead Inspection Law which will help to insure pure and wholesome meat for every citizen. Administered by the Department of Agriculture, it replaces the present system where by meat has been inspected locally under differing standards and not inspected at all in some areas. This proposal had the support of the Farm Bureau and the Grange.

As more detailed information is available on recent bills signed into law, I will comment on them in this column.

Fifty per cent of the tourists who stopped at Michigan State Highway Department Travel Information Centers last year indicated they lodged in motels. Thirty per cent were campers.

Federal Generosity masks increasing restraints

Why do free Americans, including those of us in the Clinton area, permit the increased restraints that are being foisted upon us by an ever-growing Federal government?

Part of the reason, we supposed, is that many people feel they have little effective choice any more, despite the representative form of our government.

Public demand for medicare, renticare (subsidized rents) and all the other cares is seldom noted until the politicians start agitating among the affected groups. Then, almost before we know it, a program is presented to the Congress and wins approval.

ANOTHER FACTOR affecting our seeming willingness to go along is a failure to understand sufficiently the really coercive nature of governmental programs. We all want to be free, yet we realize there must be government for the sake of order and the protection of society as a whole.

Order and protection, however, mean force and the power to compel: The power to put a man in the armed forces for a prescribed period; to take his money in taxes; to imprison him if he violates the laws; and, in our time, much else besides.

The harmonizing of freedom and order was the main concern of the men who created the American political framework, and what they devised is the nearest thing to perfection in political history. Because they understood that government must be a restraining force, they set about to keep government limited and to disperse its powers.

IT IS NOT the fault of the framework that this ideal has been corrupted over the years. The trend towards increased coercion can be traced to such developments as the rise of mass urban societies more susceptible to demagoguery; and to the great wars of this century which have helped condition us to acceptance of compulsion.

Propagandists, in government and out, have come to portray government not as a necessary device for order but as a cornucopia of purported benefits.

The fact is that for every benefit there is a further restraint. Medicare, whatever else may be said of it, is outright compulsion—almost all who work must pay for the benefits to a particular group. The subsidies to industry and agriculture are plucked out of the taxpayer's pocket. The grants for education carry with them the watchful attention of government supervisors.

AND IT doesn't end with money, either. The government's police power regulates the conduct of business and even certain aspects of the private lives of the people.

We understand that it is difficult to brake the trend. We agree that our nation is still far freer than many others. But the solace derived from these admissions is diminished by the realization that liberties are just as surely lost gradually as they are in one fell swoop.

Until politicians and ordinary people clarify their thinking about the inherent nature of government, our freedoms will continue to be eroded.

It's Their Own Fault

(From The Tuscola Co. Advertiser, Caro)

We have been amused at the Administration's concern for the employment of youth. There is nothing that most businessmen would like any better than to employ youth on a part or full-time basis.

But the very voice which is crying for great employment of the young is the party responsible for impeding it. Today's antiquated child labor laws which border (and even cross the border) of the ridiculous are discouraging such action on the part of business.

THIS BUSINESS, for example, could use a young man with an interest in printing for after-school work and perhaps summer time employment. However, the regulations and limitations slapped on him by federal and state bureaus makes him virtually useless for anything except sweeping the floor.

Strict laws protecting the misuse of children and young persons by unscrupulous employers once were necessary. Times have changed. Youth now dominate the labor market—and it is time for a drastic rethinking in our approach to hiring of young persons.

RAMBLIN' with Rink

By LOWELL G. RINKER

From the recent adventures of Gulliver Northland:

It must have looked odd, to anyone not acquainted with the habits of tourists in the Newberry area, to see the 20 or more cars lined up facing the garbage dump. It was like we were waiting for a movie to start.

As the story goes, bears are supposed to come out of the woods about dusk to scavenge for food in the day's collection of garbage. If there were any the night of July 21 they must have been wearing camouflage, because I didn't see them.

I SPENT OVER an hour there, watching the garbage dump and watching it rain. But it wasn't entirely a lost cause. It was fun watching the people. In the car next to me was a couple with their couple of children who appeared to not want to be kept cooped up in the car. They scrapped like little bears themselves, and every once in a while papa bear would have to straighten them out.

Other people were less patient than I, and many of them left after a few minutes of futile gazing at the Newberry dump. No bears. I finally gave up myself after about an hour and 15 minutes and went back to my motel.

IT RAINED a good part of the night at Newberry that night, and I heard people saying the next day they had gotten between an inch and a half and two inches of rain. Surely, thought I, Clinton County would have gotten some of that to ease the drought. But no, the distance was too far.

Newberry was one of the last major stops on a five-day, 2,000-mile swing through the Upper Peninsula and northern Lower Michigan. My vacation time was much appreciated, and I saw a lot of beautiful country and places where I'd never been before.

I STARTED July 19 and covered 560 miles across the Straits and west to Eagle River, Wis., before stopping that night. That was my stomping grounds six years ago when I was a counsellor at a summer camp near there. Tuesday morning I headed north from Eagle River, stopped at Bond Falls near Paulding, and then drove on to the Porcupine Mountains.

From there it was back through Ontonagon and then to Baraga. Way back in the wilds of the UP is Sturgeon Falls; I found it, photographed it and was on my way again. I made it to Marquette Tuesday night.

WEDNESDAY'S was a comparatively short trip. I stopped at Munising, John Hannah's old stomping grounds, met some of his friends on the Munising News and took in some of the sights of that area—two waterfalls and the Pictured Rocks, for a few. Then it was on to Newberry and the bearish dump. —rink

Leo Burnett recalls old days

A FEW WEEKS back there appeared in this column an account of Leo Burnett's success in the advertising business. Relying on usually accurate sources, I identified his mother as "the former Laura Murdock of St. Johns."

This was an error which was called to my attention by no less than a dozen readers. But happily it gave me reason to write a note to Mr Burnett expressing my apology and enclosing a clipping of the column.

He has promptly replied with a letter which I am sure will interest Clinton area people. Here is what he writes:

THANKS EVER SO much for your note of July 16 enclosing the feature story about me in your July 8 issue. I am highly flattered by it.

Not that you will ever have any use for it, but, for your information, the facts about my family are as follows:

My mother (Rose Clark) was born in St. Johns, Feb. 10, 1865, and died at the age of 73 as the result of a heart attack in the Highland Park Hospital (Highland Park, Ill.), Dec. 13, 1941, and is buried in the Forest Hill Cemetery, Ann Arbor, Mich. At the time of her attack she was visiting us at our home in Glencoe, Ill.

MY FATHER, Noble Burnett, was born in Duplain Township, Clinton County, April 15, 1864, and died Nov. 24, 1928, at the age of 64, at St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital in Pontiac, Mich. He also is buried in the family lot in Ann Arbor.

My grandfather, George W. Burnett, was one of the earliest settlers in St. Johns, and thereby hangs a tale.

Ten years after the end of World War I, I was living in Indianapolis and wanted to convert my $10,000 insurance policy which I took out when I enlisted in the Navy.

It seems that I had to have a birth certificate. As far as I knew, I had never had one.

AS A FIRST step in getting a record of my nativity, I wrote to the County Clerk in St. Johns, and was referred to the proper department in Lansing. This was in early summer.

In a couple of weeks I received a letter to the effect that they had no record of a Leo Burnett being born in St. Johns on Oct. 21, 1891, but that they did have a George Burnett.

I replied that apparently they had mistaken "Leo" for "Geo."

Eventually they wrote me that the record did not read "Geo." at all, but that the name was spelled out, "George."

IF I WANTED a birth certificate, there seemed to be no alternative to retracing what was then about 37 years of my life and getting "George" changed to "Leo" all along the line.

Fortunately, my mother came to the rescue, and she and the midwife who helped bring me into the world signed an affidavit that I was indeed "Leo."

Their only explanation of the mistake was that it was then the custom to name every male child after his paternal grandfather, and the doctor apparently had written "George" into the record as a matter of course.

Finally, that fall, I received a birth certificate, enabling me to prove to the world that "Leo" is indeed my name, although if I had been doing it, I would have greatly preferred "George."

THE OTHER DAY I was rummaging through some old things in the attic and ran across a group photo of the "Masque of Columbus," the class play of my high school graduating class of 1909, on June 22, 1909, at Allison's Opera House.

Following are the names: Hazel Campbell, Nellie Church, Nellie Collard, Frank Footitt, Ruth Henderson, Bernice Hodge, Don Kinney, Claude Lester, Maurice Loree, Grace Mack, William Marshall, Ida Pflugharr.

Clara Putnam, Zelma Putt, Frances Rosekrans, Margarite Tows, Carmen Tranchell, Laura Walker, Gordon Wickes, Howard Wickes and Leo Burnett.

I know that Don Kinney, perhaps my closest high school friend, died very young, and I heard from Gordon and Howard Wickes (the famous twins) many years ago, but I naturally wonder about the others.

IN THE SAME nostalgic vein, I found several copies of the famous "Sibylline Book" which, in the early nineties, was published by the senior class.

I have before me the edition of 1906 at which time E. D. Palmer was superintendent. In this book I find photos of both Brownie Bromley, who taught me history and who married Dewitt Hunt, and Winifred Daboll (God rest her soul!) who was a great inspiration to me and who was largely responsible for getting me to enter the University of Michigan.

ST. JOHNS is particularly familiar to a little club I belong to (The Lake Zurich Golf Club) which has Saturday night family-style dinners.

Occasionally, especially during football season, I am prevailed upon to regale the members with a couple of yells which were popular in my days in St. Johns.

The first (pure exhortation) goes like this:

Zig-a-boomer
Zig-a-boomer
Hi-Yip-Yay
Hip, hip, rah, rah
Riz, rah-ray
Hoop-a-ticker
Hoop-a-ticker
Zip, boom, bah
St. Johns High School
Rah, rah, rah!

THE OTHER (in a more satirical vein) is as follows:

Dingle on a tin pan
Shinny up a tree
Ovid high school
Teedle-deedle-dee.

I wonder how our football team is doing with Ovid these days. In those days we were bitter rivals.

Sincerely,
LEO BURNETT

games of various peoples in a more systematic manner.

The secretary of state has compiled in pamphlet form the new motor vehicle law which takes effect in January. The most important change is in the method of taxation. Under the new law, all cars will be taxed as follows: Gasoline and steam cars, 25 cents a horsepower and 25 cents a hundredweight; electric cars, $1 a horsepower and 25 cents a hundredweight.

One hundred and ten miles an hour is the gait at which the 100-mile world's speed championship for automobiles scheduled for Aug. 7 over the Chicago speedway will be run, is the opinion of the gasoline experts.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Objects to city taking big federal grants

I WONDER IF I'm an oddball, and conclude I must be, since I hear no complaints from anyone else on the subject of enormous federal grants to the City of St. Johns for urban renewal.

Do we REALLY realize that this will come out of our own pockets in further taxation and that hundreds of other small towns are accepting the same sort of government gift which we will be paying for, too?

IF A COMMUNITY cannot function efficiently enough to pay its own way, perhaps it should wither away. Certainly federal money comes to us expensively, and it seems to me to show a great lack of pride and spirit to so willingly accept Big Brother's dole.

Perhaps I'm simply out of step with modern times to believe that a man, a family, or a community should take pride in supporting himself. We are, in effect, saying that democracy cannot work today and that we should put all of our earnings in a big pot to be doled back to us. The ultimate of this thinking is communism.

LOUISE D. SMITH

State attorney General's powers defined

BY ELMER E. WHITE Michigan Press Ass'n.

Michigan's 1963 Constitution maintained the attorney general as a part of the elected executive branch of government but says nothing of substance regarding his responsibilities.

As chief law enforcement officer of the state, all his duties are prescribed by statute. First, the attorney general is legal counsel for the Legislature and every state officer, department, board and commission.

IN ADDITION, this office gives him the power to intervene in any lawsuit in which he believes the interests of the people of the state are involved.

Power is given the attorney general to advise the prosecuting attorneys throughout the state and he may exercise supervisory powers over them.

TO FULFILL these many powers and responsibilities, the attorney general maintains a good-sized staff of licensed attorneys, many of whom are specialists in a particular field of law.

Some assistant attorneys are assigned to specific state departments and commissions while others work on a broader scope within one of several divisions within the attorney general's offices in Detroit or Lansing.

ULTIMATELY, however, the No. 1 state legal officer is responsible for all work done by his staff. Thus all of the legal work performed is approved by him before it leaves the office for its destination, whether it be a formal opinion, official state document or court proceeding.

By virtue of his office, the attorney general himself is a member of the State Administrative Board, Municipal Finance Commission and State Employees' Retirement, Judges' Retirement and Corporation Tax Appeal Boards.

THOUSANDS OF Michigan residents are affected by changes made almost daily in state government regulations, but barely noticed.

Many go unheeded because they are one small part of a major project and only the main work is deemed important enough to spread the word about.

In the important field of civil rights nearly every state agency has had some involvement, although generally only executive pronouncements or directives have gained note.

MICHIGAN'S education system has been involved most notably in the area of school integration.

Teacher assignments have played a part as have the tools of education. Civil rights leaders' influence on the latter has been heavily felt, though the impact has been a subtle one.

More than two years ago the state department of public instruction announced as an almost accidental activity the adoption of a formal policy on the treatment of minority groups in textbooks.

DESIGNED AS a guide to school book publishers dealing with the state, the statement was billed as a tool giving Michigan a national leadership role "in securing a more accurate treatment of minority groups in school books."

It was developed by a group called the Committee for Better Human Relations of the Michigan Curriculum Program, a voluntary group of educators. Before adoption, the policy was reviewed by officials of the American Textbook Publishers Institute.

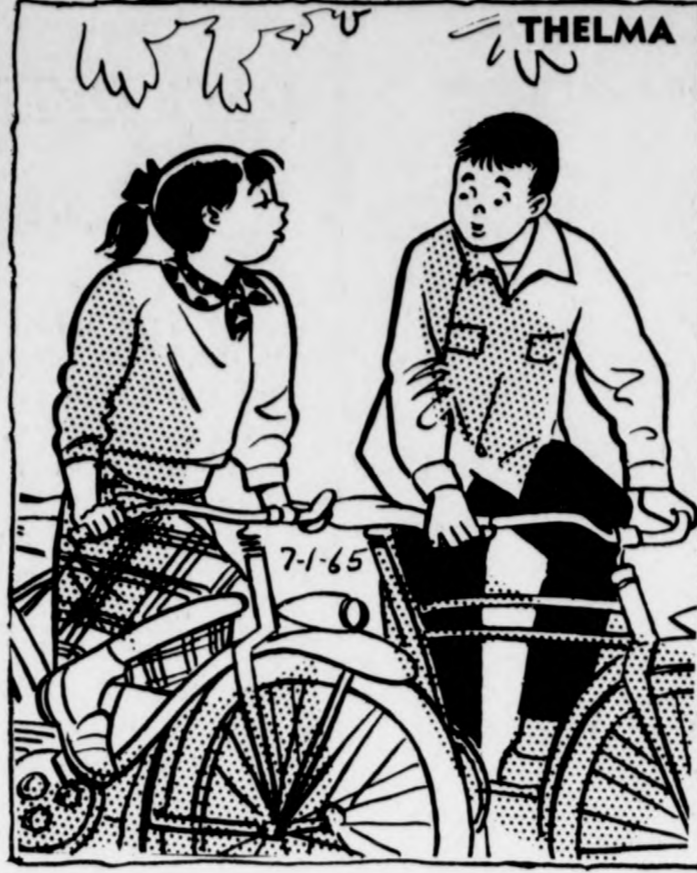

EDUCATION LEADERS in the state said it was unfortunate that textbooks generally stereotyped American families as upper-middle class, blue-eyed and blond rather than giving full recognition to the greatness of the US because of its differences in people.

No other state had adopted any formal policy in this area up to the Michigan action, the Publisher's Institute representative said.

Basically this policy statement was aimed at the textbook suppliers. The direct effect, however, can now be seen in the school books used in the elementary and secondary schools in Michigan.

MAJOR POINTS suggested a greater use of illustrative materials depicting minority group members taking part in the normal activities of American life. An inclusion of human relations content in all subject matter areas at all grade levels was recommended.

Full effect of this policy will not be seen for some years but chances are parents could see a part of it in the newest textbooks children used this past school year.

The "Low Down" From the Congressional Record

By Joe Crump

No more depressions - maybe, says Proxmire

Senator W. Proxmire (Wis.) "... In recent weeks there has been a great deal of discussion comparing the economic situation of the present with conditions that prevailed in the late 1920's before the great depression...

"Today we are no longer subject to the hazards of the domino effect which in 1929 to 1935 brought bank failures, stock market liquidation, and declines in consumer spending. The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. (FDIC) and the regulation of securities and stock market margin requirements should free us from the chain reaction in which the failure of one bank brought about the collapse of others, and in which a modest fall in security prices triggered greater and greater liquidation as thin margins were successively wiped out.

SOCIAL SECURITY and unemployment compensation tend to maintain purchasing power so that the cumulative effects of unemployment are not inevitably more unemployment. These similarities between the present situation and the earlier one are now too generally understood and appreciated to need laboring...

"THE POINT I make is that now we are in a position to know.

We have the facts which we did not have in 1929, so we know what we are doing...

"The Consumers' Price Index, upon which we rely for much of our understanding of what is going on in the economy, and which is used as a 'trigger figure' in certain wage contracts, was in 1929 computed only twice a year and then reported only with a very substantial lag between the fact and the date of publication.

"INFORMATION on department store sales was not available until about 30 days after the close of the month; we now have weekly series available within three to four days. Statistics on consumer credit were not established until 1942...

"The total money supply of which we now have many indications weekly, and substantially complete revised data within a month, was in 1929 not available until after a three-month lag...

WITH THE AID of computers and modern techniques, we have the promise of what the computer people call "real time" data on many fronts which offer tremendous potentials for greater timeliness in helping us to avoid slipping into deep economic trouble...

Grassroots Comment When a man continues to spend more money than he earns, it leads to bankruptcy.

When the federal government spends more than it collects in taxes, it leads to inflation.

It's unlikely that these economic processes will be changed, regardless of the so-called "built-in safeguards." -J.C.

COUNTRY FLAVOR

The meadow—a haven for regaining perspective

HAYDEN PEARSON

A meadow, circled by woodland and pasture and traversed by a willow and alder lined brook, is one of Nature's peaceful sanctuaries. It should have a pool where farm boys can swim, half-shaded by a black willow from which a kingfisher dives for a fish.

On a sunny, light-breeze day when white cumulus clouds are sailing slowly and a big hawk is circling high over head, a meadow is a spot where one can get away from the tensions and anxieties of a man - complicated world. A meadow is a place where one can tune his heart to the soft music of small forms of life that live among the grasses.

THOREAU wrote that he "had no idea that there was so much going on in a meadow." Countless forms of small life live their brief spans among the grasses and flowers. Sit for a few minutes and you will hear the muted, haunting melody of the insects. Insects and bees go from flower to flower. A big bumblebee drones by and works a red clover blossom, the only insect with long enough tongue to extract the drop of nectar at the base of each flowerlet.

The glaciers sculptured our landscape. They bull-dozed the hills and ridges and left their writings on the mountains. They moved gargantuan amounts of soil and rocks hither and yon.

WE ARE GLAD that they left meadows with level surfaces and cut runways through which brooks from the highlands flow to larger brooks that run to distant seas. A meadow in the heart of summer is a sanctuary for small life forms and is also a haven for a man who wants to regain perspective.

Cereal beetle quarantine regulations are repeated

Terms of the revised quarantine against the cereal leaf beetle are little changed from the quarantine previously imposed, the Michigan Department of Agriculture announced this week.

Earlier this month the Commission of Agriculture revised the quarantine to include parts of new counties in the northern part of southern and central Michigan. The purpose of the move is to prevent spread of the cereal leaf beetle into other small grain producing areas. Forty complete counties are now under quarantine.

a regulated area into an unquarantined area without inspection, treatment, and certification. In the case of hay, straw, and similar material, fumigation is required before certification.

Articles that cannot be moved from a quarantine area without a certificate are the insect itself in any stage of development, small grains, corn, uncleaned grass and forage crop seed, hay, straw, fodder, sod, plant litter of any kind, or used harvesting machinery.

OTHER ARTICLES that may require certification are any other farm products; equipment, trucks, railroad cars, or other means of conveyance; used crates, boxes, or bags; soil; or any other product that might carry beetles.

There are exemptions. The following designated articles are exempt from treatment and certification requirements during the periods indicated. These are:

BARLEY, oats, wheat, and other small grain from Dec. 1 to May 31 inclusive.

Shelled corn from March 1 to Sept. 15 inclusive.

Hay, other than marsh hay, from Jan. 16 to May 31 inclusive.

Straw and marsh hay from March 1 to June 30 inclusive.

ARTICLES CANNOT be moved from a regulated area to an unquarantined area without meeting requirements. But movement is not restricted within a regulated area in Michigan or contiguous regulated areas in Ohio and Indiana where the cereal leaf beetle is also present.

Information on requirements is available from county agricultural extension directors, the Michigan Department of Agriculture, or the USDA's Plant Pest Control Division.

Release records of 4 area cows

Dairy cows in area herds have been credited with recently completed locations under official production testing rules of Holstein-Friesian Assn. of America. These Registered Holsteins and their actual performance records are:

Eaton Acres Shi F R Joan, a seven-year-old owned by Mark A. Eaton, St. Johns, produced 15,760 pounds milk and 516 pounds butterfat in 305 days.

FITZPATRICK Madcap Achilles, a seven-year-old owned by Melvin L. Fitzpatrick, Ithaca, produced 15,150 pounds milk and 598 pounds butterfat in 305 days.

Green Meadow Venus Fantasy, a four-year-old, produced 18,190 pounds milk and 692 pounds butterfat in 305 days. Lloydbank Arab Susie, a three-year-old, had 15,720 pounds milk and 601 pounds butterfat in 305 days. Both are owned by Duane and Velmar Green of Elste.

In recent years, milk production has steadied at about 125 billion pounds annually. There are fewer cows and fewer dairymen, but herds are larger and output per cow is larger.

Soil tests can save money as well as make it. If you've been guessing at fertilizer applications, you may have been using too much, and the surplus is wasted.

MSU beef cattle day Aug. 12

A thousand visitors are expected for Michigan State University's Beef Cattle Day Aug. 12. The event will be held at MSU's new Beef Cattle Research Center which opened a year ago. The research center is one of the most modern facilities of its kind in the nation.

The Aug. 12 program will be equally impressive. Research progress to be reported will rank among the top five Experiment Stations in the country in volume of research trials and results.

"BEEF CATTLE Day should be a tribute to the success of the center and the livestock industry of the state which made it possible," comments Hugh Henderson, MSU animal husbandry specialist. "This year we'll have more than 700 cattle in experiments—more than the combined total of the previous 11 years," Henderson adds.

The new center includes work in all phases of the beef cattle industry. It is no longer confined to just cattle feeding. Results of the 100-cow breeding project at Lake City will be presented and MSU's purebred beef herds will be on display and performance records discussed.

THE MICHIGAN beef business looms as one of the bright spots on the state's agricultural horizon. National per capita consumption of beef is expected to jump 25 per cent by 1980. And, Michigan people have a special preference for the nation's favorite meat. Average consumption for the state is now 130 pounds per person—already over the projected national level 15 years down the road.

With this in mind, researchers have planned Beef Cattle Day to help producers gear for the expected increased demand. Reports will be included on feeding, feed storage, breeding and performance testing. The tour of the center begins at 9:30 a.m.

FEATURE SPEAKER for the event will be O. C. Swackhamer of Tarkio, Mo. He operates a 3,360-acre farm and feeds out 5,000 cattle each year. He is vice president of the Tarkio Pelleting Corp. and will discuss his present and future feeding plans in the beef business.

Agriculture is becoming increasingly more technical. Of 2,000 graduating seniors in mid-west agricultural colleges, one-fourth plan to take advanced graduate work.

Science seeks new control of old pests

Old enemies, new controls.

That's the story of pests and pesticide research throughout Michigan. The cereal leaf beetle, army worms and mosquitoes head the list of "old enemies." All sorts of chemical and biological control are being used to thwart the pests.

First, the cereal leaf beetle. Scientists have long concluded that we can't afford to live with this pest. It would cost $2 million a year in crop losses in Michigan alone. Besides, it's also attacking grain crops throughout the northern third of Indiana and northwestern Ohio.

MICHIGAN State University entomologists have found that malathion spread by air is one of the best means for controlling the beetle. The chemical is applied—undiluted—at the rate of only four to five liquid ounces per acre. The fine sprays are enough to kill 97 per cent of the beetle adults in a single trip across a field.

But the chemicals, while they suppress the beetle, do not eliminate it. This is the third year the pest has been identified in southwestern Michigan, and the beetle shows no tendency of decreasing. Resistant varieties are being investigated in order to find a better, more permanent control of the pest.

AS IF THE farmers in southwestern Michigan didn't have enough trouble with the cereal leaf beetle, they're also being attacked this year by army worms.

The army worms have already "marched" through fields of small grain in Berrien, St. Joseph and Allegan counties, clipping off the green heads and leaves of oats, wheat, barley, rye and corn. The insects take a heavy toll of adjacent pastures and forage fields.

MSU's insect survey noted that the invasion was imminent more than two weeks before it hit. This advance notice, plus urgent efforts by scientists to make recommendations of the most effective chemical control (malathion), is helping to prevent serious crop losses.

BUT, TO keep the army worms from spreading further, farmers throughout southern Michigan are advised to keep on the lookout for the pest, report infestations to Cooperative Extension Service offices, and spray according to recommendations.

While spraying is often the only answer to pest control, science continues to look for other methods. One answer is biological control. At this very moment, MSU Experiment Station scientists are eagerly concentrating on what may be a revolution in mosquito control.

A LITTLE MORE than a year ago, somewhat by accident, an MSU researcher found that many of the mosquitoes in southern Michigan were parasitized by nematodes. The tiny worms were killing the larvae or disrupting their reproductive cycle.

This biological phenomenon has implications which are almost fantastic. This type of biological control, if it works, would put an end to irritating mosquito bites and disease transmission.

At present, the MSU researchers are trying to find out all they can about the nematodes and the mosquitoes they attack. Then they'll try to mass produce the Purple willow trees, used as windbreaks, are credited with saving crops of muck farmers in Lapeer and St. Clair counties.

The trees, which can reach heights of six feet in three years, were planted by farmers in the Inlay-Goodland muck area under a windbreak program developed by the Central Lapeer Soil Conservation District.

THE SOIL Conservation Service provided technical assistance to farmers planting purple willow trees while the Lapeer ASCS Committee set up a special assistance program. The Cooperative Extension Service encouraged plantings through an educational program.

Medium purple willow trees have all the characteristics of a good windbreak, according to George Graff, extension specialist in soil conservation at Michigan State University.

GRAFF SAYS the growth of the trees is rapid, there are few maintenance problems, and crops can be planted much closer to purple willow trees than to many types of trees used in windbreaks. Walter Lisowski, vegetable grower near Goodland, says his onion crops were saved from extensive damage the past two years by purple willow windbreaks.

Tod Kamadol, a carrot producer in western St. Clair County, reports that his carrot crop was saved from May and early June winds by a two-year-old purple willow windbreak.

GROWTH WAS slow last year because of dry conditions, Kamadol says, but better weather this spring produced eight to ten inches of windbreak growth.

Graff says farmers in the Inlay-Goodland area plan extensive additional purple willow plants in the future.

Watertown girl in Finland describes the famous sauna

(Editor's Note: Christee Ann Smazel, daughter of Mr and Mrs Edward Smazel of 9141 Grand River Highway in Watertown Township, is spending the summer in Hyvinkaa, Finland, under the Youth for Understanding student exchange program. Here is a report of her trip so far.)

By CHRISTEE ANN SMAZEL

On June 11 at 2:40 a.m., 102 of us "Youth For Understanding" exchange students left the Detroit Metro airport. We arrived in Copenhagen, Denmark, after a seven-hour flight. We spent the afternoon and evening touring this beautiful city and the next morning we continued our tour by bus.

I left Copenhagen by plane June 12, and arrived in Helsinki, Finland, at 8 p.m., where I was met by my Finnish family for the summer, all of whom luckily spoke some English.

MY FINNISH mother is a dentist and works daily but is now on vacation for the summer. Dad is sales manager for a clothing factory. I have two sisters, Laena, 16 years old, at home; and Anna-Lee, 18, who goes to college at Turku, Finland.

They greeted me with several long-stemmed roses. I later learned it is a Finnish custom to greet the traveler with flowers. We then traveled to my summer home at Hyvinkaa, a city of 22,000 in their American-made car of which they are very proud.

DURING THE journey I had my first taste of Finnish roads. They are quite narrow, and most are dirt or gravel; a few are asphalt. Due to the topography of the land, the roads go over and around the hills like a roller-coaster.

The land in southern and central Finland is very similar to that of the Upper Peninsula. It is nearly all forest and lakes with much rock appearing everywhere. The topography plainly shows that Finland was formed by the glaciers of the ice age. The constant contrast of land and water is the main characteristic.

THE LAKES are not round and separate, but rather huge expanses of water dotted with islands and rocks. Many people have summer homes, which are isolated and hidden along the rocky shores of these islands. The majority of the Finnish people have a summer home in which they live during the short season. If it is a long distance from the man's work, he either stays in the city or commutes daily.

Now, about the famous sauna of Finland. A sauna isn't complete unless there is a lake beside it. My family doesn't use the sauna at their city home because there is no lake beside it. However, at the summer cottage, sauna is used nearly every day. Since it is on the lake, we only have to walk out of the door and plunge into the cold water.

THE SAUNA itself is quite a small building. It is made completely of wood, as metal would burn you. In one corner is the stove whose fire heats the stones that lay on top of it. Water is splashed on these hot stones which creates a dry hot steam, usually about 212 degrees F. We sit in the sauna until we feel very hot, then plunge steaming into the lake; then back in for more sauna. This process is repeated until one feels very relaxed and tired. After sauna, which is usually in the evening, we sit wrapped in blankets in front of a warm fire and have a homemade drink called Simaa.

The eating habits of Finland are only slightly different than ours in the States. In the morning a very light breakfast is served, consisting of cucumber and tomato slices along with bread, cheese and milk or coffee. At noon we have a lunch, then in the afternoon sometimes tea, which always includes cake or pastry of some kind. At approximately 5:30 p.m. the main meal of the day is served. Before retiring we enjoy a small snack.

THE MEALS vary from day to day, but the Finnish food is always very good. "Specialties" include: 1) Finnish bread which is usually without yeast in flat round loaves. Very seldom is white bread eaten; instead different variations of rye and wheat flours are used. 2) "Bulla" which is a Swedish bread and is eaten along with coffee. 3) "Fill," which is sour milk left until it creams and then eaten with sugar. The other foods are quite similar to those in America.

The Finnish stores stock many American products, but of course they are much more expensive than Finnish goods, which are of excellent quality, but are more expensive than similar items would be in the United States.

FARMING IN Finland is usually on a subsistence level instead of a profit basis; therefore most of the farms are quite small. The weather has really been cold; (the natives say unusually so.) They call this type of weather "Green Winter." It rains nearly every day. We have been on a camping trip through Lapland in northern Finland, Norway and Sweden. It has been so cold we have had to wear slacks and sweaters continually and at times even winter coats.

When I arrived the daylight hours were very long and it was hard to sleep because of them. It got dark for only a short time each night. At midnight it was just like about 8 o'clock our time.

JUNE 25 WAS midsummer, the longest day of the year, which is celebrated many different places by building fires on the shores of lakes and roasting sausages. The fire is supposed to drive the evil spirits away that come with the darkening nights. (After midsummer the dark period gets longer each night.) For midsummer celebration, my family and I were invited to a farm (friends of the family) where they had a huge fire on the lake shore. The lake is located right on their farm. After it cooled we roasted bologna. There were about 40 people present, both young and old. The young people danced and the older folks played cards. Such festivities go on all over Finland on June 25.

This has been a very brief picture of Finland, a beautiful and interesting country. It is a land of friendly people who have opened their homes to me and thus far made my stay a wonderful and unforgettable experience.

THREE CHEERS

Here comes the winner! Can he hold that first place position, or will he fail? In the eyes of these youngsters, victory is the most important thing in the world. Everything hinges on the outcome of this contest!

Enthusiasm is part of successful living, stimulating the imagination, and inspiring the mind. It is contagious, too, and can affect co-workers, friends, families. It is essential to organizations as well as to individuals.

Through the centuries a rich spiritual enthusiasm has been handed down by the Church, one of the greatest institutions on earth. Its members, working together, fired by the enthusiasm of faith, can give you renewed inspiration, and strength.

Why not attend church next Sunday? Become a part of this great fellowship of believers! You, too, can be a winner.
