Only 2 injured in area crashes

Two Owosso men suffered injuries early Saturday morning in the only reported serious accident over the Labor Day weekend. They were involved in a one-car accident on Meridian Road a half-mile south of Taft Road in Ovid Township. Both were taken to Owosso Memorial Hospital.

They were John R. Stimson, 22, the driver, and Daniel Winters, 20, a passenger. Both are from Owosso. Both suffered cuts and bruises.

STIMSON told deputy sheriffs he remembered making one turn of an S curve and then must have fallen asleep. He said when his car went off the left side of the road, he woke up and swerved to the right, but the car hit a concrete abutment. He was driving north on Meridian about 1:30 a.m. Saturday.

Monday about 7:50 p.m., cars driven by Alva B. Sweet, 78, of Hubbardston and Richard E. Frechen, 27, of Fowler collided on Wright Road just south of Townsend Road in Dallas Township.

A PASSENGER with Frechen, John Harr of Fowler, was not hurt, but Orville Maybee, 47, of R-2, Carson City, who was riding with Sweet, suffered bruises. Neither driver was hurt.

Sweet was going north and Frechen south on Wright Road. Sweet said Frechen's car came over the center line and hit him. Frechen said he was slowing down because of traffic and as he did so his car skidded and hit Sweet's on-com-in-vehicle.

TWO CARS collided Saturday as one was making a left turn into a driveway on North Lansing Street in St. Johns. No one was injured.

The cars were driven by Margaret Suchek, 23, of 3148 W. Parks Road, St. Johns, and Leonard J. Baker, 47, of Crystal. Both were going north on Lansing Street, city police said, and the Suchek car started to make a left turn into a driveway.

It was struck in the left side by Baker's car. Mrs. Suchek said she had her turn signals on, but Baker claimed they weren't on at the time of the accident. Baker's car skidded 59 feet.

TWO PASSENGERS were in the Suchek car. The crash occurred in front of 813 N. Lansing Street.

A Labor Day crash on US-27 in the city resulted in minor damage to two of four cars involved. According to police reports, a car driven by Leo E. Seymour Jr. was stopped in a long line of traffic just south of Steel Street and was hit in the rear by a car driven by Stuart Holley, 51, of Grand Ledge. Five persons were riding with Seymour and four with Holley.

The impact pushed Seymour's car into another auto ahead of his, and it, in turn, hit the one ahead of it. There was no damage to the third and fourth cars and they did not remain on the scene.

Medical self-help courses charted; get state boost

Public classes in medical self-help are being planned for Clinton County communities this fall, with the first to be held at Westphalia starting Monday night.

The classes will be held at the Westphalia Township Hall starting at 8 p.m. Five sessions will be held on consecutive Monday nights.

Plans for other classes were discussed by several members of the county medical self-help advisory committee last Tuesday night in the community room of the Clinton National Bank and Trust Co. Attending were Civil Defense Director Charles Frost, the Rev Hugh Banninga, representing the St. Johns Ministerial Assn., and Mrs Dorothy Ward, representing the Farm Bureau Women's Committee.

CLINTON County's efforts in medical self help instruction have not gone unnoticed. The Michigan Department of Health's "Medical Self-Help Information Letter" of Aug. 1 had the following comment concerning the local program.

"If there are any secrets to a successful MSH training program, they are hard work, making the right contacts, involving community leaders and organizations and spreading the responsibility for program implementation.

"If you have any doubts, look what they're accomplishing in Clinton County. They are now developing a MSH instructor corps composed of interested laymen who are preparing to conduct classes in their communities this fall and winter.

"TWELVE PERSONS from different parts of the county recently attended classes from 7 to 11 p.m. one night a week for five weeks. . . . An additional hour was devoted to communication skills, leadership and teaching techniques. MSH training films were used, in addition to discussion periods with ample time for practice and demonstration.

"The student-instructors were given the instructor manuals rather than the student manuals, which they were asked to read prior to class. Instructors included a registered nurse, a medical doctor (for childbirth), an osteopath (for shock and burns), a first aid instructor and County Civil Defense Director Charles Frost.

"ALL (MSH) material was presented, but not by merely having someone read the lesson plan to the class. The student - instructors assisted in the class work, thereby gaining excellent experience. Average score for the group was 91 per cent on the final test.

"Interest is very high on the part of all," the Health Department's newsletter went on, "and all have been 'talking up' MSH in their home communities. In addition to training instructors, Frost has established an active MSH advisory council with representatives from the medical and dental professions, Farm Bureau, MSU Extension, the clergy and church altar society.

"HE PLANS TO make extensive use of the film 'If Disaster Strikes' among fire, police, civic, PTA, church societies and farm organizations this fall. The various news media are also helping.

"Here is the beginning of a very active program," the Health Department concluded.

Frost said Tuesday night that some 122 county persons had taken the medical self-help course since it was started in Clinton Oct. 1, 1962, and another 41 took it between January and June this year.

GenTel tower now being tested

The new General Telephone Co. microwave relay tower at the west edge of St. Johns is now being tested prior to putting it into service on a mid-Michigan microwave network.

William Graef, Gen Tel district manager here, said the towers here and at Alma are undergoing tests.

Final work on grounding the 305-foot tower as protection against lightning was being carried on last week. Graef said that whereas the tower was originally thought as acting like a giant lightning rod, it really has the effect of keeping lightning away.

HE SAID ENGINEERS for the tower builders have equipped the tower with a pointed, five-foot lightning rod. Graef said the engineers' theory is that the lightning rod and the height of the tower offers a place for static electricity to ground itself harmlessly in a steady flow that can't be seen.

This tends to equalize the potential electrical flow and to decrease the possibility of a sudden release of electricity in the form of lightning.

WHILE IT MAY decrease the possibility of lightning hit, it doesn't mean that lightning won't hit it, Graef said. The tower has already been hit on several occasions since it was erected several months ago.

Help observe Constitution Week, DAR says

Beginning next Friday, Sept. 17, the nation will observe Constitution Week. The Daughters of the American Revolution chapter at St. Johns this week released the following statement concerning the observance.

"Every loyal citizen of our free land should observe Constitution Week in some manner and then become re-acquainted with the rights and privileges of citizenship as set forth in our Constitution—the supreme law of the land.

"THIS instrument, which has been called 'the greatest document ever conceived by the mind of man,' is our constitutional heritage — the just and lawful birthright of every American.

"The most momentous chapter in American history is the story of the making and ratification of the Constitution and the addition of the first 10 amendments.

"WE TODAY in this 20th century are faced with the grave problem of the defense of our constitutional government within our own country. Let us not forget for one moment our hard-won freedom. Be sure to display the flag during the week of Sept. 17-23."

Name competition director for PP & K

St. Johns High School Basketball Coach Bill Swears has been named competition director for the St. Johns Punt, Pass and Kick competition.

The announcement was made last week by Bruce Fowler of Egan Ford Sales, Inc., sponsor of the program in St. Johns. Co-sponsoring the second annual event will be the St. Johns Jaycees.

Swears, who lives at 605 S. Kibbee Street, is head basketball coach at St. Johns High School and also coaches tennis in the spring. He is active during the football season, too, as a scout for Football Coach Bill Smiley's Redwings, taking in games of forthcoming opponents and reporting on their style of play, strengths and weaknesses.

AS PP & K competition director, Swears will be responsible for all arrangements for the competition, in which boys of eight through 13 years of age compete against boys their own age in punting, passing and place-kicking distance and accuracy.

The St. Johns area competition will be held Saturday, Oct. 9, at 6:30 p.m. on the athletic field in the city park.

"It is a great honor and pleasure to be asked to direct the Punt, Pass and Kick competition," Swears said. "Stan Musial, consultant to the President on physical fitness, has said we must establish physical fitness programs as an integral part of our way of life.

"I KNOW that all the boys who enter will have a lot of fun. So I hope every boy of 8 through 13 will want to practice for the prizes and trophies offered by this great national competition."

Registration for PP & K, which features trips to National Football League games for district and area winners, opened Sept. 1 and will continue through Oct. 8 at Egan Ford Sales, Inc., 200 W. Higham Street.

St. Johns area boys will be tested for their ability to punt, pass and place-kick on the same day as legions of other boys all over the country. For 8-, 9- and 10-year olds, warm-up jackets, helmets and footballs will be given as first, second and third prizes for each age group. Boys 11, 12 and 13 will receive gold, silver and bronze trophies. There will be 18 prizes in all.

SCORES FROM throughout the country then will be compared to determine the six top winners in each of the 362 Ford zones—a total of 2,172 zone winners. Zone winners will meet in 37 Ford district competitions at which 222 district champions will win trophies. All will compete for area championships to be held in the 14 NFL-city areas.

The 42 eastern NFL - area champions will compete in Dallas, Tex., on Saturday, Dec. 11, to decide the six eastern division champions (one for each age group). The 42 western NFL-area champions will compete in Los Angeles, Calif., on Saturday, Dec. 18 to determine their champions.

THE SIX eastern NFL division champions and the six from the western division, accompanied by their mothers and fathers, will go on a "tour of champions" to Washington, D.C. They then will travel to Miami, Fla., site of the NFL Play-Off Bowl game, for half-time competition to determine the six national PP & K champions.

Each boy competes against others his own age. There is no body contact and no special equipment needed. Points are awarded for each foot the ball travels in the air; points are deducted for each foot the ball lands to the left or right of a center line.

Each boy must be accompanied by one of his parents or legal guardian when registering for the local PP & K competition.

The KP's, who won three games and lost one, had the high single game of 661 and the high series of 1930. For the men, Ernest Pardee was high with a 241 game and 599 series. Marge Schulze took the honors for the women with a 189 game and 479 series. Besides Pardee's 241 game, Rollie Dunkel shot a 210, Richard Zapoli had a 209, Glen Pearson 208, Lyle Hugulet 207 and Bill Kolehmainen 202.

Hankey defeats Hankey to win CCCC golf title

Dennis Hankey defeated his older brother, Doug, to win the club championship at the Clinton County Country Club. The match was well played and was not decided until the final hole.

Doug's seven birdies on the course were not enough to offset the steady play of the new champ. Ken Waggoner, young school boy golfer from Elsie, defeated the veteran Mike O'Neil Sr. for the first flite crown. Stan Loznak won the second flite from Carl Bancroft. Lester Lake defeated Mike Hatta for the third flite. Ed Nuser was defeated by Don Strouse, St. Johns oil man, in the fourth flite finals.

THE SENIOR championship will be held at the club this Sunday beginning at 8:30 a.m. Everyone over 50 years of age is invited.

President's Cup Day is Sunday, Sept. 19 and will be the last event of the year. All members are requested to attend.

Every year, Americans eat new record amounts of cheese. In 1964, the average per capita consumption was close to nine and a half pounds per person.

Band Gets A 'Kick' Out of Camp Kohahna Week

One of the St. Johns High School Band's first routines at each of their football game performances this year will be the "kickoff." During their week at Camp Kohahna near Glen Arbor, the routine was practiced considerably in their search for perfection. Here they give the "kick" that opens the show.

School athletics called important to curriculum

The school athletic program is not a frill, but a part of the comprehensive curriculum, a University of Michigan authority writes in Michigan School Board Journal.

Dr Nelson Lehsten says interscholastic athletics "is vital to those enrolled, just as music, art, advanced language study, higher mathematics, and science courses are essential to the educational experiences of those students who pursue them."

SPORTS PROGRAMS, he adds, should be broadly conceived rather than narrowly identified at the varsity level.

Lehsten is associate professor of education in the U-M School of Education and head of the University School's department of physical education.

Since World War II high school athletics has moved from a context of the unwanted orphan which the schools housed and fed with reluctance to the recognition of sports by educators as a unique medium for educational experiences, he explains.

"OUR BETTER programs have long recognized the principles of individual differences, growth and maturation variability, and ranges of achievement at all age levels," Lehsten says.

"A sports program which caters to the few is a stigma against professional educators and school boards who, in the same school, would not tolerate trigonometry, creative writing, or modern social problems classes as the sole offering in these subject areas."

LEHSTEN DISCUSSES several aspects which have concerned school officials:

SPECIALIZATION IN SPORTS: "The pursuit of excellence in sports is reflected in the increased intensity of practice and competition to the degree that numerous sports are easing their seasonal identification to a year-round basis. The question of specialization in one sport as opposed to the opportunity for participation in a variety of sports in season for high school students is the crux of the issue. Specialization in sports should result from student choice."

COST AND SUBSIDIZATION: "Most schools eventually accept the fact that interscholastic athletics is just not good business over the long haul... and those lean years. In a practical sense, over 80 per cent of the school boards in Michigan have accepted the responsibility for subsidization of athletics over and above the inadequacies of gate receipts.

"The contemporary coach must be an intelligent, professionally prepared educator who is held to ethical and rational conduct by his administration. He must embrace the concept that the activity exists for the player and not vice versa.

SPECTATOR CONTROL: "The degree to which the interscholastic athletic program is within the total school curriculum and the extent to which such status is understood by staff, students, and laymen will go a long way toward controlling spectator problems at school sponsored activities."

EXPANDING athletic facilities, improved sports equipment design and manufacture, and better-prepared coaches who communicate the image of being "sincere, competent teachers" have been a part of recent progress in the field of interscholastic athletics, Lehsten says.

"The athletic program will have fulfilled its proper function if its leaders stress thorough instruction in health and fitness; if the safety and well-being of the participant is protected; and if participation by individuals provides educationally worthwhile and satisfying experiences," he concludes.

Smooth car trip begins at start if well planned

Games can smooth a car trip when you travel with children.

Counting games are the most popular. In these, you count anything from red cars to white horses to willow trees as you ride. Whoever makes the first sighting gets the score. Practiced parents will ask a logical question. How do you avoid arguments over the score?

Use checkers. When there are two children, each is assigned one side of the car, and a checker supply. An empty box goes between them. The game can last half an hour or until the checkers are used up. At each shout of "I see one," a checker gets tossed in the box. It's easy to see whether red or black won. (Bring the board along—It's useful at overnight stops.)

Director Gives Close Look at St. Johns Marching Band

St. Johns High School Band Director Walter Cole watches closely as the marching band swings toward him during a practice session recently at Camp Kohahna. The band, orchestra and vocal music students had the camp near Glen Arbor all to themselves during the week of Aug. 22-29, and practice sessions like these were numerous. The band's first performance this fall will be at the Greenville football game at St. Johns Sept. 24.

Orchestra Members Attended Camp Kohahna, Too

Members of the orchestra at St. Johns High School were in attendance at Camp Kohahna Aug. 22-29 as the music department practiced for the coming year of activities. Orchestra members shown here are (seated) Doug Blizzard, Sandra Kramer, Janet Leonard, Judy Ripple, Edna Feighner, Sue Smith and Lorinda Lambert; and standing, Jon Cleveland, Delores Bauer, Mike Galvach, Art Mahar, Linda Spousta, Brian Campbell, Director Robert Cox, Jim Leonard, Janice Campbell, Janet Botimer, Jim Salisbury, Andre Lewis, Chris Poxson, (assistant), Sue Warstler and Kathy Zuker. Not pictured were Pat Courser and Diane Cox (assistant).

Link between rheumatic, intestinal diseases hinted

A need for special studies on the links between rheumatic and intestinal diseases has been suggested by two Seattle doctors well-known in the field, according to Michigan Chapter Arthritis Foundation.

Dr James J. Lightbody, medical director for Michigan Chapter, noted that in The Arthritis Foundation's Bulletin, Drs Kenneth R. Wiske and John L. Decker have mentioned that some patients with ulcerative colitis and regional enteritis, also have pain, swelling, and inflammation of the joints.

"WHY THESE arthritis symptoms are often present in patients with intestinal disease we're not sure, nor do we know positively why some arthritis victims suffer gastro-intestinal attacks," Dr Lightbody said. He added that according to recent findings, however, such arthritis symptoms are not what they have long been considered: variations of rheumatoid arthritis.

"Unfortunately," Dr Lightbody pointed out, "ankylosing spondylitis, a rheumatic disease causing bone fusion and immobility of the spine, is associated with these disorders with astonishing frequency. Ankylosing spondylitis is thought to be 20 times more frequent in patients with ulcerative colitis than in the general population."

"ARTHRITIS IS also seen in about 5 per cent of patients having regional enteritis, a condition causing inflammation in the small intestine and other parts of the gastro-intestinal tract. As with ulcerative colitis, although all ages are susceptible, young adults are the primary targets, Dr Lightbody noted.

In referring to the physicians' report in the Bulletin, Dr Lightbody explained that spinal disease associated with regional enteritis is exactly the same as that seen in ulcerative colitis.

"HERE, TOO, it develops into permanent bone and joint changes, indistinguishable from ankylosing spondylitis," according to Dr Lightbody. Treatment is aimed at controlling the underlying regional enteritis.

Research has shown that the reverse condition occurs with diseases such as systemic lupus erythematosus and progressive systemic sclerosis, which are considered primarily as rheumatic diseases, Dr Lightbody said. These disorders cause a variety of gastro-intestinal symptoms including pain, abdominal cramps, gastro-intestinal bleeding and obstruction, as well as joint symptoms.

LAST YEAR, an arthritis research program of $130,000 was supported in the state by Michigan Chapter, the original chapter of The Arthritis Foundation, the only national voluntary agency devoted to arthritis and rheumatic diseases.

In addition to research activities, Michigan Chapter also supplies various services to Michigan arthritics and their families. For information on Arthritis facts and facilities available, write Arthritis, Box 1944, Detroit, 31.

Jaycees plan chicken barbecue

WESTPHALIA—The Westphalia Jaycees will sponsor a chicken barbecue this Sunday, featuring three exciting agricultural events.

At 1 p.m., a drawing for lands will be held to begin the Jaycees' first annual tractor plowing contest. Anyone with a tractor and plow is invited to compete. Prizes will include $25 for first place, $15 for second, and $10 for third. All who participate will receive a free chicken dinner. First-place winner will be sponsored in the State Championship Plowing Contest next year. The farm operated by Eugene Schafer on Centerline Road just east of the Pewamo-Westphalia High School will be the site of the contest.

JUST AS soon as the plowing has been completed, about 2:30 p.m., the second event will begin on the P-W High School parking lot. Under direction of the P-W Chapter of FFA, there will be a tractor driving contest. This will be an effort to find the best tractor operator using a wagon and two-wheeled trailer through a marked and timed course simulating everyday maneuvers around the farm.

For this contest equipment will be provided. Again, anyone is welcome to participate; just be ready to go at 2:30. Prizes will be offered.

Volunteers keep library open

WESTPHALIA — Children of the grade school set in this community have had an opportunity that has never been offered before, thanks to several public-minded young women.

Members of the Young Ladies Sodality here started opening the school library after Sunday Masses strictly on a voluntary basis. No adult supervision was needed other than the approval for the use of the library by the school principal; the girls performed the library project on their own.

At a time when most teens are thought of as wild and thoughtless, these young women have donated their time to encourage the children to read for enjoyment. Plans have been made to continue the project next summer. Many children took advantage of this opportunity and are very appreciative of the girls' efforts.

The volunteers were: Mary Ann Schafer, Norma Jean Arens, Diane Platte, Evelyn Kolp, Betty Schafer, Ellen Platte, Sharon Fedewa, Betsy Droste, Linda Droste, Doreen Thelen, Sue Bengel, Karen Gross, Judy Droste and Ruth Schmitt.

European tour

WESTPHALIA—Mrs Margaret Fedewa, Mrs Louis Schafer, Mrs Dora Pohl and Mrs Anna Droste will have plenty of memories to last them for a while. They have recently returned from a three-week tour of Europe.

The four women joined Father Beahan's tour that visited The Netherlands, Germany, Austria, Italy, Switzerland, and France. Highlights of their trip were the Hermitage of St. Francis of Assisi, an audience with Pope Paul VI at Castel Gandolfo, a visit to St. Peter's in Rome, and sight-seeing at Lourdes.

SEVERAL major-line equipment dealers in the area have been invited to demonstrate their equipment in the field while the other contests are underway. This gives people a chance to compare one tractor with another.

The chicken barbecue will be held at the P-W High School beginning at 4 p.m. Tickets may be purchased from Jaycee members or at the door. Charcoal-broiled chicken with all the fixings will be offered.

Ovid Residents Ride Monorail at World's Fair

During the recent visit to the New York World's Fair, Mr and Mrs John Bashore, Stephanie and Mark of 239 E. Front Street, Ovid, rode the AMF Monorail around the fairgrounds.

70-80% of appraised buildings residences of various types

Appraising residential parcels of real estate represents the bulk of the work involved in a tax equalization program. Approximately 70 to 80 per cent of the buildings appraised are residences of one type or another.

The general procedure to arrive at the fair market value of residences involves a number of sequential steps. The owner or occupant of a house sees actually only one of these—the field inspection.

THE FIRST step involves the determination of ownerships, which is obtained from existing records in the Court House. The location of the property is also determined by the parcel number or legal description assigned to it on the assessor's tax map. This information is recorded on a Property Record Card designed especially for recording this and all other data used in the appraisal of the building.

A property record card is filled out for each homeowner of record, and care is taken that no properties are missed.

AS MENTIONED before, the property record cards are designed so that certain specific information can be recorded, such as a sketch of the ground plan, the ground area, exterior wall construction, the numbers of stories, number of baths, fireplaces, type of heat, foundation, and other data pertinent to the house. Space is also provided to list data concerning garages, out-buildings, swimming pools and other detached structures on the property. A place is provided to show the lot size and how the land value was determined.

Once the ownership and property location is recorded on the cards, the next step is the field inspection of each building. This work is done by personnel trained to go about this job in a uniform manner, so that all houses are given the same considerations. These men ask permission to inspect each building, which naturally involves trespassing on private property. Each man carries credentials which identify him, but can only enter the property on the consent of the owner or occupant.

IF HE is refused entrance, the appraiser's only recourse is to appraise the property to the best of his ability from the outside. Often this appraisal is very accurate. However, should it be high, the owner has no one to blame but himself for refusing to cooperate with the appraiser by letting him inspect the property.

Once the field appraiser enters the property, his only job is to inspect and record all data on the property record card. He will also ask a few questions such as:

1. How old is the house?
2. How much did you pay for it?
3. Have you improved it since you bought it?

THESE QUESTIONS may seem rather personal, when in reality, accurate answers provide a valuable source of purely technical information which is not disclosed to the public, and will not be obvious on the record card.

If a property has more than one house on it, the appraiser fills out a card for each house, so that there is a permanent record in the files for each building.

IF NO ONE is at home at the time of the appraiser's visit, a self-addressed post card is left at the door with a request that the occupant use this card to indicate details of the buildings interior features. It is also requested that this card be returned to the appraisal company by mail. At the time of the visit, the data pertinent to the exterior of the building is recorded. The information on the post card, when returned, is recorded to complete the field record.

The field inspection also involves grading, or classifying the house into a category which represents primarily the quality of construction and certain desirable or undesirable features about it. The classification is the key to a replacement cost per square foot, which is used as a basis for computing the building value. Considerations are also given for various types of depreciation, such as physical condition, functional, or economic obsolescence.

AFTER THE field inspection of the property, the record cards are returned to the office where several things take place. First, the value of all buildings is calculated, using uniform replacement cost schedules and depreciation tables that have been developed for the local area. These calculations result in the replacement cost less depreciation of all buildings. Next the land value is computed, according to the unit values that were developed. The depreciated value of the buildings is added to the land value, and this is the first inkling of market value.

The cards, having been computed, and posted with a figure, are taken back out into the field for a final review. This is done by senior appraisers, whose job it is to compare the value on the card with the property itself. They are also comparing the value of one property to another to be sure that all equalize. Any values that appear to be out of line are so noted by the senior appraiser, and he may want to have the property reinspected, or make the adjustment himself. This process continues until all properties have been reviewed and equalized, and the values are final in the opinion of the appraisal company.

THE NEXT STEP is to notify each owner of his appraisal and

A & P drops Plaid Stamps

A & P Food Stores has discontinued the distribution of Plaid Trading Stamps in 87 Michigan stores operated by the Grand Rapids Unit, including the St. Johns store, effective at the close of business Saturday, Sept. 4, according to O. Phillip Nyquist of Detroit, president of the company's Central Western Division.

"The discontinuation of the E. F. MacDonald Co.'s Plaid Trading Stamp program in these stores actually is a by-product of the consolidation of practically all of the Grand Rapids unit stores with the Detroit Unit," Nyquist said.

"IN VIEW OF THE fact that trading stamps are not now offered to customers in our Detroit unit stores, we have concluded that it will be in the best interest of our customers that the enlarged Detroit unit be stamp-free," he explained.

"The decisions to consolidate and to eliminate stamps have been made in the interest of greater efficiency and operational savings—savings which, in the A & P tradition, will be shared with our customers," Nyquist said.

COMPANY officials said this stamp plan termination applies only to the Grand Rapids unit. Approximately half of the 4,585 A & P stores in the nation still offer Plaid Trading Stamps.

Complete details on redemption procedures are available in all affected A & P stores.

state a time and place he may appear in private before a representative of the appraisal company to discuss the value placed on his property, if he so desires.

After these informal hearings are completed, the appraisal company will make any adjustments it deems necessary before releasing the property record cards to the County.

THIS COMPLETES the process; however, one important point should be discussed separately. That is, "What effect on value do home improvements or maintenance have during a tax equalization program?"

If the house needs a new roof, a paint job, or some general repair, it will have little or no effect on the value, other than increasing the life of the house a few years. The philosophy used in mass appraisal techniques is not to penalize a tax payer just because he is proud and ambitious enough to maintain his house. In other words, good building maintenance does not materially increase the value. Only major structural faults would make a material difference.

IF A HOMEOWNER chooses to add things to his present house, this will certainly add to the value. Extra rooms, extra baths, a porch, a garage, a carport and other physical additions to the property will increase the value. Items which will not add to the value are new shrubbery, new driveway, fencing, nice lawn, storm windows, screens, etc. These things really do not materially increase property values, but only increase the chances of the property being sold quicker than others if put on the market.

All in all, most people are honest and sincere in wanting to pay their fair share of taxes, and will cooperate in any way to be sure that this is so. After the equalization program is completed, it is the responsibility of the Assessor to maintain adequate records which will ensure equalization as long as possible. This can be a great service to the community if everyone cooperates both during and after the equalization program.

WHEN A community purchases new fire fighting equipment, it is maintained faithfully so that after a ten-year period it still appears shiny and new. This is so because it represents an expensive investment in which everyone is proud. An equalization program is also an expensive investment and should not be neglected after it has been purchased. A good tax administration system is something that every taxpayer should take pride in.

ASC PROGRAM

Many wheat varieties mixed for price support

The US Department of Agriculture on Aug. 20, 1965, designated 39 varieties of wheat as undesirable for price support purposes under the 1966-crop wheat price support program.

The same 38 varieties that were designated in 1965 are included, plus one other variety, Gaines, a soft white wheat, when grown east of the Continental Divide; so, Gaines wheat grown in Michigan would be classified as undesirable for the first time on the 1966 crop.

MANY FARMERS in Michigan have been considering planting Gaines wheat because of its high yield. West of the Continental Divide yields have been reported from 80 to 100 bushels per acre. The reason the 39 varieties have been designated as undesirable is because of inferior milling or baking qualities, either in general or in areas where a variety is not compatible with other predominant varieties, such as Gaines when grown in the Hard Red Winter wheat area east of the Continental Divide.

ANNOUNCEMENT of undesirable varieties is being made now so farmers can plan their 1966 crop year operations.

Varieties named undesirable for the 1966 wheat price support program are for White wheat, Gaines, when grown east of the Continental Divide, and Fiftyfold, Florence, Greeson, Rex, Sonora in all areas, Soft Red Winter, Kan Queen, Kawvale, Nured and Seabreeze.

These varieties and exceptions were designated by USDA's Agricultural Research Service after consultation with State Agricultural Experiment Station personnel, agronomists, cereal chemists and others on state and federal staffs.

REPRESENTATIVES of crop improvement associations support this action to help improve the overall quality of US wheat production.

The department urges farmers to seed only those varieties recommended by state Extension services on the basis of experiment station results and practical experience.

Program regulations for 1966, as in the past, will continue to require the producer to certify production of undesirable varieties based on his knowledge of the varieties seeded and harvested. Because wheat varieties are difficult to determine from threshed samples, USDA in certain instances may require additional information in support of the certification.

IF YOU have considered planting a new variety of wheat, check first with your county Extension service or at our office to see if it is a desirable variety for our area. For a list of undesirable varieties, contact our office.

Cash flow helps farmers pay bills on time

Cash flow, a long time management tool of industry, can be used on the farm or ranch to tell when and where the money will come from to pay the bills as they come due. A weekly or monthly projection matches money inflow to outflow and pinpoints times when there will be a shortage or surplus.

A cash flow projection is "a planning device, a tool or notion around which a farmer can organize his thoughts about what will or might happen under favorable, adverse, or most adverse conditions."

THAT'S THE way Dr William A. Henry, an economist and associate professor at North Carolina State University described the concept. These projections go along with the balance sheet and income statement. They take information from both and add in the time factor to show:

—The source and time of receipt of all money anticipated.

—The time and amount of all disbursements.

—The availability of money to meet obligations, regardless of the current profit or loss position of an operation.

—THE NEED and justification for adjustments in credit. Further, they provide insight for the manager, permitting more intelligent financial and operational decisions.

Surprisingly, cash flow projections often show that bills can be paid, even when an operation is running at a temporary loss. On the other hand, they may warn that money will run short and additional credit may be needed when an operation is making a profit.

Only 10 per cent of the 96,200 partially seeing students in America have the proper educational facilities.

Clinton National marks a Century of Service

On other pages of this issue are scores of tributes to the Clinton National Bank and Trust Co. of St. Johns and Elsie—a community institution which this week marks its 100th birthday.

While the spotlight just now is focused locally on this one bank, the salutes of its friends can be properly regarded as a tribute to the entire commercial banking industry of the Clinton area, the state and nation.

THROUGH THE years commercial banks have become highly developed service businesses. People and money are their principal concerns.

Bankers are people. They staff banks whose customers are people.

Banks deal in money. Some of their customers have more than they need at the moment and some have less than they need right now.

That makes banking. It sounds simple, but its management and operation have become increasingly complex problems.

GRANTING LOANS and accepting customer deposits are of major importance, but sound banks like Clinton National have been called upon to provide a myriad of other related money services—safe deposit vaults, money orders, travelers' checks, trust responsibilities, letters of credit, and so on.

Through the wonders of checking accounts, a money service only commercial banks are allowed, the little actual cash in circulation is magnified to many times its total to finance personal, business and governmental expenditures across the country.

So, our Centennial Greetings to Clinton National this week carry with them recognition of the tremendous contribution which all our well-managed banks are making to the thriving national economy.

Visit Clinton National during Centennial Days and view its many operations as typical of those carried on by good banks in thousands of communities throughout our land.

Safety of bike riders is a growing concern

The National Safety Council and the Bicycle Institute of America share a growing concern about accidents involving bike riders.

They ought to. An estimated seven and a half million bicycles will be in use for school transportation, from grade schools to colleges, when classes resume this fall.

OBSERVANCE OF rules of the road is the most significant factor. The Safety Council reports that failure to abide by these rules is a principal cause in two out of three bicycle accidents.

Poor brakes or wobbly steering, it is obvious, are likely to compound the danger of faulty bicycle driving.

The value of a safety check of a bicycle to be used for school transportation is apparent. Young riders should also be encouraged to refresh their knowledge of the rules of the road.

THE MOST important of these is compliance with all traffic regulations, including stop signs and lights. The others are pretty much common sense; keep to the right, ride in a straight line, give pedestrians the right-of-way, avoid carrying passengers, look to right and left at intersections, and so on.

Following the rules is no guarantee against accidents, but it considerably raises the odds on safety.

Don't Be Lonely Mom

RAMBLIN' with Rink

BY LOWELL G. RINKER

This week marks the first week of operation of the Clinton County News under the new management. It hasn't been much different, really, because the boss—or, Mr White, that is—has been around much of the time.

It is hard getting used to not calling him "the boss." I'm sure others in our group here have the same problem, because they've been here a lot longer than I have.

HE'S BEEN A good boss in my way of thinking. He's the kind of guy who will let you take care of your job pretty much the way you want and is not always jumping up to tell you how to cover a certain story or how to write a certain story.

But despite this free hand we've had, we always knew we were accountable to him and he was the boss. He was quick to point out errors—errors in fact or spelling or style—but he always softened the correction with "It's not serious."

IT IS ALWAYS possible to tell when Mr White is around. He's got what I call a quick and booming laugh, and it's going to be missed. I'm also going to miss the good-natured sparring sessions we all had on Tuesday afternoons when it came to making up Section A of the paper.

Immediately after I was hired in May of last year, but before I started work in June, I had an offer for a job with the Cadillac Evening News. I told the managing editor there that I had already accepted a job and he asked where. I told him I had been hired by the Clinton County News at St. Johns.

"OH, INK WHITE will be your boss, huh?" he said. "He's a good man. You won't go wrong there."

When a person leaves a good job, like I did at Peoria, for a new position that possibly offers more opportunity, he has after-thoughts and doubts about whether he did the right thing. I had doubts, but the man from Cadillac's comment about the good situation I was getting in made me feel a lot better.

MR WHITE has certainly lived up to that man's opinion of him. He has been a good boss and I've learned a lot and profited a lot from his help. Everybody in our organization has, I'm sure.

Through his skill and dedication to journalism, the Clinton County News has made great strides in the 21 years he was at the helm. We're all going to try our darndest for the new owners to continue making those improvements, and as we do you can bet that Ink White's influence on our training will have had a lot to do with them.

WE'RE GLAD Mr White is going to be around town, and we think his new position will add to the assets of the Clinton National Bank. Good luck, boss.

Progress in space

BY W. E. DOBSON

There's been a heap of progress in our study of the spheres; We've advanced in transportation To the highest point in years; And now I've re-assurance Everything will come out right, And we all can find the bathroom,— Since we have a new nite-lite.

If you live out in the country, Where the street lights never glow, If the night is dark and gloomy, And the moon forgets to show; When your mind is sort of foggy Half-asleep, you're not too bright, It could prove a tryin' journey— 'Fore we got the new nite-lite.

Bathroom never was the closest To the bedroom, it appears, But I thought I had the blue-print,— Traveled that same route for years! But at times I'd lose my compass And would wander in my flight, Sometimes thought I'd never make it— 'Fore we got the new nite-lite.

Funny how a triflin' item, Stuck into convenient wall, Changes all the night-lite pattern, Even saves a nasty fall; Since the course is really shortened My grey hairs are spared much fright, They confessed in that long journey, 'Fore we got the new nite-lite.

FROM JOHN'S DESK

It's just great being back

HI, CLINTON COUNTY! It's nice being back.

Not too many years ago St. Johns was our home away from home several weeks each year. We'd get on the old Grand Trunk Western at Royal Oak and three hours (and several sandwiches) later hop off at the St. Johns Depot where Grandma and Grandpa Eaegle would be waiting with smiling faces, open arms and the welcome, "Bless your little heart."

Grandpa Guy always took a few minutes off from the Clark and Hulse Store to meet us and carry our bag the block from the depot to their home at the corner of Clinton Avenue and Steel Street. Small boys often are guilty of saying or doing the wrong thing. We still remember the day we said proudly, "No, grandpa, I'll carry my own suitcase today." With those words, his legitimate reason for being there just had been eliminated.

ARRIVING IN St. Johns included many traditions, like entering the stately old house, running to the kitchen and opening the last cupboard on the left to see what kind of pie Grandma Maude had made in our honor. Then there was a quick dash to the refrigerator to make sure she'd whipped up the usual heavenly batch of glorified rice.

After downing a mealy molasses cookie and glass of milk, we'd race next door to see if best friend David Rademacher was home. Dave's mom and dad are Ferd and Loretta and they still live in the same red brick house on Clinton Avenue.

We boys always were into something, like the large goldfish pond in Dave's backyard or the green apple tree between the two houses. Sometimes we'd take excursions to the city park, stockyards or brick pond. And once in awhile Dave's dad took us fishing on the Maple River. We'd go around collecting crickets days in advance.

SOME NIGHTS WE'D go uptown to the show. The walk up was OK because it was light out. And the trip home was alright until we got to the railroad tracks. Then we'd race like mad across the dark tracks, down past the pitch-black elevator and lumber company. Everyone always had a good laugh when we got home, all out of breath. They knew what had happened.

One time the two of us dressed up as little old ladies. Our moms thought it was so cute they had a photographer take a picture. Not long ago we stopped for a visit and noticed Loretta still had the picture in a prominent spot on the parlor wall.

Once in awhile we'd pull some childish prank and Grandma Eaegle would put the fear of God in us by threatening to call Reed Hall, police chief at the time.

SOME OF THE best hours in St. Johns were staying around home with the grandparents. There weren't any television sets in those days, so evenings were spent sitting in front of the large floor-model radio eating popcorn while grandpa smoked one of his "smelly old pipes." During the war years, a fun project was helping grandpa roll his own cigarettes.

The best times were when grandpa took a few days off from the store. Once we hitched a ride in the cab of a freight train to Fowler and back, as exciting a trip as any boy could imagine.

Then there were trips to Mathews uptown for a big ice cream cone and to Nick's for a piece of brightly-colored ribbon candy.

MOST OF THE TIME we just stayed around town, since the grandparents didn't own a car. This didn't make any difference, because being with them was enough.

Times change, people get older, they die or move away. The grandparents are buried out at Eureka Cemetery. The old neighborhood has had a turnover. The trains don't stop at 4 o'clock anymore.

But it's still nice being back. —JOHN STAFFORD

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sargent Shriver expresses thanks

I WANT TO send you personal thanks for the help you so generously gave to Project Head Start this summer. I am deeply grateful.

When we launched the program last spring, we knew its success would largely depend on how well local people responded to the call for volunteers. We needed more than teachers and doctors and other professionals. We needed an army of what President Johnson called "good neighbors," people of all walks and interests who would lend their talents, their warmth, their hands and their hearts.

A GREAT FORCE did respond—500,000 strong—and you can be proud to have been part of it. Whatever success we've achieved is in large measure due to your dedication, your eagerness to contribute something of yourself to poverty's most innocent victims.

Head Start has been an overwhelming success. With your help, more than half a million children are facing brighter futures. And this is why my thanks to you is more than just a personal expression; I speak also for every child of your project center, all the youngsters you reached and benefitted during your many hours of service.

I know that your good work will be rewarded by their achievements in the years to come.

Sincerely, SARGENT SHRIVER Director Washington, D. C.

Mrs Brunette reports from upper peninsula

I WAS much surprised to see and read about myself in your columns recently. Thanks for your thoughtfulness.

I also received a letter asking me if I had given any thought to the fact that I am the only person living that owned and operated their own business on Clinton Avenue in 1906?

I really had not. I am so strong and healthy, with the exception of a little back injury I gave myself See LETTERS page 6-B

The rainy weather knocked out the three big ball games scheduled between St. Johns and the Grand Rapids Eagles, and it left the local club about $150 in the hole on the season's games. The management does not like to ask those who have already generously contributed to the season's expenses for another donation but take this way to get enough money to pay up. All the receipts for the game next Sunday afternoon will go towards liquidating the indebtedness, and the club asks all who have enjoyed the good games put up the past summer, both in St. Johns from the surrounding towns and country, to come out and lend a helping hand and at the same time see a good game. Sitrine, "Smithy," Mullens and Doc Payne, who have played with the team, will take part, and the best local players of the east and west sides will make up two teams worth seeing. It is well known that a team like St. Johns has maintained the past season cannot be supported by gate receipts alone. This is the whole story. It is up to the lovers of the game.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

Attention to mental health puts Michigan in spotlight

BY ELMER E. WHITE
Michigan Press Assn.

Two areas of emphasis in mental health work are placing Michigan in the spotlight across the nation. Most other states have just scratched the surface in these areas or are still thinking about entering them.

One is the community mental health center program, a concept still relatively new even in Michigan but one in which great strides are being made even more rapidly than the most optimistic estimates.

The second is the effort to train some of the mentally retarded for jobs and then find the positions in which to place these individuals, some of whom have spent years in institutions because they had no other place to go.

THE LATTER program is being hastened by a federal grant of nearly $500,000 from the Labor Department's Office of Manpower, Automation and Training.

With emphasis on job exposure, job development, on-the-job training and actual placement, Mental Health Department Director Dr Robert A. Kimmich predicts the new program will result in a significant reduction in institutional waiting lists during the next few years.

"By reducing the number of persons now institutionalized simply because of lack of employable skills and job opportunities, we can accommodate those who do need residential care when they need it," he said.

OTHER states have entered this field previously but only on a very small scale or pilot project basis. Michigan officials estimate their program will benefit more than 3,000 mentally retarded persons.

This is the number of hospital patients already identified as employment potentials.

"We will provide these people with a variety of job skills and then, with the cooperation of other agencies, find appropriate jobs," says Dr. V. A. Stehman, director of services for the mentally retarded.

INITIALLY the project will involve the state hospitals at Lapeer, Fort Custer, Mount Pleasant and Coldwater, where 82 per cent of Michigan's retarded are housed.

"We hope to empty our institutions of those who are capable of leading productive lives outside, of those who can attain some degree of economic and social self-sufficiency in the community," said Stehman.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL requirement to reduce the number of state agencies from 130-plus to not more than 20 has been met officially, but it will likely be several years before the revision is a reality.

Even then it appears the change will be most evident in the state telephone directory rather than in practice. The smaller state agencies which now exist will then be listed as divisions of the major unit to which their function has been assigned.

CREATION OF 19 departments under the 1965 government reorganization law is slated to be implemented early next year by action of the governor on recommendations from the various department heads.

The legislature will also have a part in this implementation project because many old laws will have to be reworked to dovetail with the new alignments in various agency functions and authorities.

From all appearances, reorganization will be a continuing process over the next several years. Even in the 1965 session there were several new boards and commissions created which were not put into the new plan for a compact state government.

The "Low Down"
From the Congressional Record
By Joe Crump

Why doctors hesitate to give first aid

Rep. John L. McMillan (S. C.) . . . The purpose of H. R. 5597, as amended, is to relieve physicians from liability for civil damages for any act of omission, not constituting gross negligence, upon the occasion of their rendering free and voluntary medical treatment at the scene of an accident or other medical emergency outside of a hospital, in the District of Columbia. . . .

"Good Samaritan laws such as these are designed to assure a physician immunity from liability when he renders emergency medical care in good faith, and without expectation of or desire for compensation, at the scene of an accident or any medical emergency occurring in a public place.

"In the normal physician-patient relationship, when a physician treats his patient in his office or in a hospital, he has available to him all the necessary facilities and the time to make a thorough and careful approach to treatment. . . . Obviously, none of these advantages is present when, because of his happening to be present at the scene of an accident, or a person's being taken ill in a public place, the physician is called upon to render emergency care to an individual whom he has never seen before. In these situations, lifesaving procedures may be required instantly, and the physician must act promptly and to the best of his ability.

"GOOD SAMARITAN laws reinforce an ancient principle of common law, to the effect that any act performed in good faith, carried out with reasonable care and good purposes, shall not be punished. The Hippocratic oath, to which every medical graduate in the United States must subscribe, requires the physician to give assistance to those in need of medical care. The 'Principles of Medical Ethics,' perhaps the best-known of all guides for professional conduct and obligation states in section 5: A physician may choose whom he will serve. In emergencies, however, he should render service to the best of his ability.

"There is no question that physicians, through the instinct and the training of their profession, want to render such Good Samaritan services whenever the occasion may arise. With the general increase in liability claims associated with professional malpractice, however, their reluctance to give assistance, which may lead to unfair suit against them, is understandable."

Bement Public Library joins with the community in congratulating Clinton National Bank and Trust Co. on its 100th birthday. The Civil War had just ended when the First National Bank was organized in St. Johns, and men of the north were looking to the future with renewed hope and vision.

Forty years later, a boy named Bruce Catton was growing up in the northern Michigan village of Benzonia, never missing a chance to listen to the talk of the old soldiers as they relived the most exciting days of their lives. And so there was born in Bruce Catton such an insatiable curiosity about this war between the states that he has just completed his 10th book on the subject.

ENTITLED "Never Call Retreat," it is the final book in a three-volume Centennial History of the Civil War, and it is interesting to note that it is dedicated to the memory of those men of Benzonia who fought in the Grand Army of the Republic.

Since Catton is a Pulitzer prize winner, and since well over 3 million copies of his Civil War books have been sold, it is not surprising that his latest is the September Book of the Month. "Time" magazine says that "Prodigious is the only word for the research that went into his centennial trilogy. . . . Like its two predecessors "The Coming Fury" and "Terrible Swift Sword," "Never Call Retreat" can be read pleasurably and usefully even by someone familiar with all of Catton's other works."

ST. JOHNS has a special interest in Bruce Catton, because he is the brother of the Rev. William R. Catton, who was minister of the First Congregational Church here at the beginning of World War II. Many local people will also remember their sister, Miss Ione Catton, who was executive secretary of the Michigan Council of Churches in the 1930s, and later was minister of education at Plymouth Congregational Church in Lansing. All of the Catton family were present on July 31 when Bruce was honored by the City of Petoskey, where he was born.

Summer is slipping away. Not yet the official confirmation of the equinox when bodies in distant space have fallen into line and experts tell us the equinox has occurred. September is a beautiful time of year and one can see, smell and hear the signs. When the sun's first rays strike the valleys the light picks up red leaves on the swamp maples, and the pennants showing above the mist are fair warning. IT IS NOT at all an American-Heritage-type book, since it features "op-art" drawings in "pop-art" colors. They are by Emma Landau, art director for the American Heritage Junior Library. 30-year war on Japanese beetle now showing gains

A pesky little hitchhiker with the appetite of a starved billy-goat has been the objective in a 30-year guerrilla war carried on by the Michigan Department of Agriculture's Plant Industry Division. The battle is being waged against the Japanese beetle, first found in Michigan in 1932.

The Japanese beetle feeds voraciously on almost anything that grows, and causes more than $10 million in crop damage each year in the United States. In Michigan, though, Jap beetle damage is scattered and hard to find, mainly due to the Department of Agriculture's unrelenting war.

"RIGHT NOW, we have more than 20,000 Japanese beetle traps spotted," said C. A. "Cy" Boyer, veteran department plant industry chief. "But the traps don't control the beetle; they only indicate possible trouble spots. Trapping studies guide our fall control programs."

Boyer calls the Jap beetle a hitchhiker because of its habit of clinging to anything and dropping off anywhere. Coast to coast freight trains, for example, may unknowingly carry beetles which drop off at random and start new infestations. Seaway cargo arriving from foreign ports may carry beetles, even in such unlikely places as coils of barbed wire.

BY LATE August, results from the 1965 trapping program will be tabulated and the Plant Industry Division will formulate plans for beetle control. Generally this is accomplished through careful application of a chemical pesticide called dieldrin.

The Ohio State research shows that farm tractors and machinery are involved in 75 per cent of all slow-moving vehicle accidents and that in two-thirds of the accidents the vehicle was hit from the rear.

THE RESEARCH found that nine out of 10 collisions between motor vehicles and slow-moving vehicles were during daylight hours on good roads free of rain, snow or ice hazards—quite the opposite conditions from what most people would guess.

Flags, reflectors and lights on tractors or farm machinery are used so widely that they do not distinctly communicate any specific danger, according to the National Safety Council.

Coatless rams get more lambs

Coatless rams get more lambs.

Research at Michigan State University shows late August or early September is the time to take the wool coat off the ram before the breeding season begins. Shearing makes the ram more active and allows the setting of more ewes in a few weeks. This shortens the lambing season next spring.

EARLY LAMBS mean more profit, and bunching of the lambs in a short space of time lessens the work for the flock owner.

Shearing in September will allow plenty of time for good wool coverage to develop before winter sets in.

Third Set of Twins in Swanson Holstein Herd

Warren Swanson, who operates a dairy and hog operation on 280 acres of land rented from Audrey Frucht on Loomis Road just south of St. Johns, had plenty of twins in his herd of Holsteins in the past month. Last Thursday, the third cow to freshen in the four weeks gave birth to twins. Other twins arrived on Aug. 3 and Aug. 30, and all six were bulls. A heifer calf was born to another cow on Aug. 14. It was the second set of twins for the Aug. 3 mother, who had another set back in 1963. Swanson says the twinning effect seems to be hereditary. He said dairymen don't like to see twins because it often means weak animals. He had sold one of the sets of twins when this picture was taken Friday morning.

Time has arrived for planting of cover crops

Plant cover crops now. They can be your best investment for conserving soil and water, advises a Michigan State University soil conservation specialist.

Russell G. Hill says cover crops in corn should be seeded just before or after the last cultivation. If an airplane is used, an August seeding is possible.

LATE SEEDINGS can be used on corn land harvested for silage or land used for other cultivated crops.

Hill points out that cover crops are extremely important for cultivated cropland where the soil may be bare for seven to eight months each year. In this condition, the land is subject to the beating rain which erodes the soil, compacts it, breaks it down, limits water percolation and leaches nutrients.

During winter, soils with a cover crop freeze in a "honey-comb" condition, allowing water from thaws to soak into the ground.

BESIDES their conservation function, cover crops provide late fall and early spring pasture, serve as a green-manure crop and, when worked into the soil, add organic matter and nitrogen.

"But," Hill cautions, "these cover crops may also produce some problems. In a dry year, for example, an early-seeded cover crop can compete with corn for moisture."

"Also, if a cover crops worked into the soil just prior to planting a new crop, the temporary nitrogen tie-up may affect early crop growth. The condition is offset by adding extra nitrogen fertilizer to the new crop."

HILL NOTES that cover crops make the best growth in a soil well supplied with nutrients. And a thick cover is necessary for maximum cover value.

Balbo rye, seeded at the rate of one and one-half to two bushels per acre, is an old cover crop standby, according to Hill. Domestic ryegrass, with its heavy fibrous root system, is also commonly used. It must be seeded early at the rate of 10 to 15 pounds per acre.

Need extra care in bean harvest

Extra care must be used in harvesting field beans this season because of the dry weather. Losses in harvesting and handling the crop could be more serious than usual, a Michigan State University crop scientist reports.

Split and cracked field beans in the bin mean lower quality and objections from both domestic and foreign buyers. Proper harvesting techniques are essential to preserve a higher market price.

S. C. HILDEBRAND says that field beans containing from 16 to 18 per cent moisture handle well with a minimum of damage. Those having less than 16 per cent moisture, however, may split and crack.

Premium silage for beef feeders

"Tonnage doesn't mean a thing to me," a Michigan farmer commented as he looked over his herd of beef feeders. "It's what's in the silage that counts—how much grain, how much TDN—this is what puts gains on cattle. I feed out every acre of corn raised on this place, so I'm primarily interested in the number of fat cattle those acres will produce."

This man's thinking typifies that of many other farmers interviewed during the last few months who use corn silage as a major part of their feeding ration. These men are looking for methods that will help them produce a concentrated product with high energy.

AT LEAST three different approaches currently are being used to achieve this goal. The first is to leave part of the stalk in the field, using the center-cut method or a new two-row machine attachment which picks the ears in one row and chops the complete stalk of the other.

The second approach is to "soup up" the protein content of the silage as it is being put into the silo by adding feed-grade urea and high-calcium limestone.

THIRD, and possibly the most direct approach, is to plant a high yielding hybrid corn which has a short stalk and thus when put up as silage will produce a high grain content without leaving any fodder in the field.

Winter barley, planted at the rate of 80 to 90 pounds per acre, is also being used for early fall plantings.

HILL NOTES that cover is equally important to other row crops beside corn. Cover crops and green manures are eligible practices for cost-sharing under the ACP Program.

Growers are advised to contact the County Extension office or the Soil Conservation District office for further information.

The time of day and moisture content of the beans require that combines be readjusted. Several adjustments should be made, depending on harvest conditions.

"As the beans become drier, increase the ground speed of the combine and reduce the cylinder and elevator speed," Hildebrand says. "This moves more stalks into the combine to act as a buffer."

ANOTHER adjustment is to increase the number of bean plants per window. This will give results similar to increasing the ground speed, since more bean straw moves into the combine.

A little extra time in checking the harvesting job you are doing, adjusting of the combine, and careful handling of beans from combine to storage could all mean extra dollars in 1965.

N.F.O.

How much does it cost to belong to NFO? The dues for each member are $25 a year or about 7 cents a day. Until such a time that we market under contract this is all the dues we will have to pay.

After our contracts are consummated it shall provide that the processor will check off 1 per cent of the gross sales of the commodity for the NFO. This amount will then become the member's dues and the $25 per year will be discontinued.

We also have a surplus disposal plan which is financed by an additional 2 per cent deduction of your gross sales at the processor level. This makes a total of 3 per cent which a member will pay.

The NFO charges the PROCESSOR a 5 per cent procurement fee on the gross sales of each member for services rendered. Out of this 5 per cent, one-half of 1 per cent will be used to advertise the farmer's product. This leaves 4 1/2 per cent, which the members will have the privilege of voting back to themselves. After the contracts are activated how much does it cost to belong to NFO? "Nothing!" Because 3 per cent from 4 1/2 per cent leaves 1 1/2 per cent more money than the non-member would be receiving.

Mint industry revival seen

Michigan State University scientists are speculating that Michigan will see a revival of its once important mint industry within the next decade.

At present, only about 55,000 acres of spearmint and peppermint are planted in the state because of the problem of verticillium wilt. This soil-borne disease has sharply cut production of this once profitable crop.

BUT THE MSU scientists strongly anticipate a "cure" for the disease by 1970. They say the most promising solution is the use of soil fumigants. Present costs of these chemicals are prohibitive, but researchers say there is a good chance that such treatments will be economically feasible within the next five years.

This being the case, Michigan farmers would see the revival of one of their most valuable crops, particularly for organic soils.

The projection on the mint industry are part of MSU's Project '80, a futuristic look at Michigan's rural potential by 1980.

Letters

MY DAUGHTER Jerry took me to her doctor in Evanston, Ill., for X-rays. His report was that I was an "old pioneer." Enough damages showed up that if I had not been a tough old nut I would have been in a surgical jacket years ago.

But I'm coming fine, and had I not gotten the old scythe down and cut some weeds I would never know I had an injury. I'm sure my good old friend, Dr. Russell of St. Johns, thinks the same as the Evanston doctor.

Now that everyone says I must slow down a little, I have gone back to my musical instruments that were sadly neglected during my years in the store.

I AM certainly enjoying it again, as musical groups come out from town and do not have to carry their own instruments. I have enough for them and we have so much fun it really is a good thing we are isolated here in the woods.

I am always glad to have St. Johns people drop by when they're up this way. If I'm not at the house, ring the dinner bell. I'm around the lakes or in the brush not too far away.

Your paper is improving all the time. Keep it up.

Check your lighting before redecorating

Artificial light can make a difference.

As daylight hours become shorter we spend more time under artificial light. This light can affect your color scheme.

White and soft-white fluorescent tubes give off what is called "warm light." It makes colors appear more reddish. If you use these tubes with greens and blues they become grayed.

daylight, gives a bluish look to colors. It makes rosy colors look violet, yellows take on a greenish tinge and clear orange colors look a bit dirty, as they become grayed.

Keep in mind the kind of lighting you intend to use when you select colors for your home. You can't separate a color from its light and color. Light affects colors differently. The same color may appear quite different in daylight than in artificial light.

TO FURTHER complicate the light-color relationship, artificial light can be of two types—incandescent and fluorescent. And fluorescent bulbs come in several types.

A "daylight" fluorescent tube, which we would expect to be like

Before you make your final selection, check the colors in the space where you'll be using them. Check under natural and artificial light. Even natural light can affect your color scheme—depending on the amount of natural light in the room.

'65 Christmas postal stamp to feature Gabriel

A bit of quaint Americana will be captured on the 1965 Christmas postage stamp, Postmaster General John A. Gronouski has announced.

The 5-cent stamp will reproduce an early 19th century New England weathervane that depicts Gabriel blowing his horn.

The stamp will be issued in November, with first day ceremonies at a time and place to be announced later. An initial printing of one billion, 200 million has been ordered.

THIS IS the fourth in the series of special stamps intended for use during the holiday season. The three earlier issues were best sellers.

The Gabriel weathervane stamp is based on a watercolor

The index consists of some 17,000 watercolors that record American industrial design and folk arts from roughly 1700 to 1900. It was compiled by artists commissioned by the Works Progress Administration, the government agency of the depression years.

THE GABRIEL weathervane is about five feet high and combines a tubular copper horn with a gilded iron figure. It was fabricated in 1840 by Gould and Hazlett, of Boston, Mass., a fact that came to light years later when a paper stuffed into the horn was discovered by workers refurbishing the weathervane.

AT THE TOP of the stamp, in red, is "5c US Postage," and at the bottom, also in red, is "Christmas."

It is a horizontal stamp 0.75 by 0.87 inch and will be issued in panes of 100.

Don't fly high

Alcohol and aviation gasoline don't mix, either, says the Federal Aviation Agency. General aviation flying (which does not include airline or military flying) has a large number of fatal accidents associated with alcohol, says the FAA. The agency seeks to strengthen the regulation prohibiting anyone from operating a plane while under the influence.

A new book of Michigan recipes will be available to the public early in October.

Compiled by the Farm Bureau Women in Michigan, under the direction of Mrs Maxine Topliff, state vice chairman, the book will contain recipes from counties throughout the state.

THE FARM Bureau Women from the different counties were asked to submit recipes containing products which are plentiful in their area.

Clinton County Farm Bureau Women were asked to submit recipes which employed mint.

Among the recipes from Clinton County that were selected for publication is this one for uncooked after dinner mints.

AFTER DINNER MINTS
(uncooked)

1 egg white*
1-2 Tbsp. water
2-3 drops essence of mint or other flavoring (1 drop of oil or flavoring may be used)
1 lb. powdered sugar
Coloring as desired

Mix egg white, water and flavoring. Stir in sugar and knead as a dough. Divide into four parts and roll into a rope. Coloring may be added and worked in at this time. Cut into 1/4-inch pieces. Dry over night on wax paper. Age 2 to 3 weeks after drying.

*If egg is large, add less water. Mixture does not want to be sticky.

MRS J. H. Kelertas, wife of Dr Kelertas of St. Johns, has this contribution to make to the list of mint flavored tempters. She gave it to Mrs John Flak Jr., Farm Bureau office secretary, who in turn submitted it for publication.

SAUCE FOR MUTTON

3 Tbsp. vinegar
2/3 c. water
1/4 c. dried mint
1 Tbsp. lemon juice
1 Tbsp. sugar
1/4 tsp. salt

Mix vinegar, water and mint. Simmer 5 minutes. Strain. Add other ingredients. Bring to boil. Refrigerate. Reheat.

FOR A NEW taste in the vegetable corner of the dinner plate, sprinkle peas with crushed mint leaves, it was suggested. Or serve a refreshing mint and parsley salad.

MINT AND PARSLEY SALAD

1 c. fine burghul (crushed wheat)
1/2 c. finely chopped mint
1 1/2 c. finely chopped parsley

1 c. finely chopped onions
3/4 c. chopped tomatoes
1/2 c. olive oil
1 c. lemon juice
Salt and pepper

Soften burghul (crushed wheat) by soaking one hour in water, then drain well and press out the excess water. Mix crushed wheat, onion, salt and pepper together, crushing onion juice into crushed wheat with fingers. Add parsley, mint, oil, lemon juice, tomato, salt and pepper. Mix thoroughly, adding more lemon juice if necessary to give a tart flavor. Adjust salt to taste. Serve on lettuce leaves in individual dishes or use tender lettuce, heart leaves, cabbage leaves and vine leaves as scoops to eat tabbouleh. In Lebanon, tabbouleh is generally served on a large platter and decorated with chopped tomatoes. The vegetable leaves are served on a separate dish in an attractive way.

MINT FILLING

2 c. confectioners' sugar
1/4 c. light cream
1/8 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. peppermint extract
Green food coloring

Combine confectioners' sugar and salt. Add cream and stir until well blended. Add flavoring and just enough coloring to make a light green.

CHOCOLATE MINT WAFERS:
2/3 c. shortening
1 c. sugar

ONE FINAL example of what you can expect to find from Clinton County in the recipe book to be published by the Farm Bureau Women of Michigan is this recipe for wafers.

That procession involves quite a ritual in millions of homes. Trips to the stationer for school supplies. Trips to the outfitters; maybe trips to the toy shop for consolation prizes. There's hardly a moppet-infested home that won't be bustling with such preparations in early September.

BUT THERE'S another kind of trip even greater in importance: the safari to the doctor's office for a back-to-school checkup. Some families make it a group project. Some, alas, don't manage to remember it at all.

It may not rival the fun of trying on new togs or exploring a stationery and toy store. But there's this to be said for the schooltime medical checkup: it helps determine whether your child's school year is to be a time of health and well-being, or a season of dragged-down droopiness or some unsatisfactory inbetween.

IF ANY organ of the young physique—sight, hearing, nose and throat, heart, lungs—isn't functioning properly, it can cause poor classroom performance on your child's part. If there is some sort of latent illness or disorder (and it can happen), here's an opportunity to spot it and take the necessary measures.

Natural checkup time

It's a wonderful summer - wasn't it? And now, sudden as an alarm clock's yawp, comes Labor Day with its intimations of football weekends, autumn wardrobes, technicolor trees--and the annual march back to school.

Then there's that vital matter of vaccinations or booster shots. Are your young ones adequately protected against whooping cough? Diphtheria? Tetanus? Smallpox? Polio? Measles? Have they had tuberculin tests within the last year or so? For that matter - have you?

SCHOOL TIME is a natural checkup time. Your Christmas Seal Assoc., suggests that you adopt the custom on behalf of your kids--and of the parents who need it no less!

Soup 'n' sandwich changes daily pace

Enjoy every moment of golden autumn sunshine by serving soup 'n' sandwich lunches and suppers in the back yard or on the patio. Here's one idea to spur your thinking: in a bacon-lettuce-tomato sandwich, add hard cooked egg slices for extra flavor and color. Serve with mushroom-garnished green pea soup. Let a favorite beverage and fresh fruit tarts complete the menu.

Speedy Spice Cake

Spice cake is popular with almost everyone, and here is a quickly prepared version you'll make often. Speedy Spice Cake is a quick-mix cake that's baked in a 9-inch square pan and frosted right in the pan. The easy brown sugar frosting is a pleasing complement for the allspice and cinnamon-flavored cake.

Speedy Spice Cake is just the right size for family dessert—with a few extra pieces to tuck into lunch boxes the next day. Like all good things made from enriched flour—both home baked and commercially baked—Speedy Spice Cake contains the essential nutrients thiamine, niacin, riboflavin and iron.

SPEEDY SPICE CAKE
8 to 10 servings

1 3/4 cups sifted enriched flour*
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon allspice
1/2 cup all purpose shortening

1 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1 cup milk
2 eggs

BROWN SUGAR FROSTING
Pecan Halves

Grease 9-inch square pan. Preheat oven to 350°. Into large mixing bowl sift together flour, baking powder, salt, cinnamon and allspice. Blend in shortening, brown sugar and 3/4 cup milk. Beat 2 minutes on medium speed of electric mixer or 300 strokes by hand. Blend in remaining milk and eggs. Beat at medium speed 2 minutes or 300 strokes more. Turn into pan. Bake 40 to 45 minutes, or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Cool completely before frosting. Spread with Brown Sugar Frosting; arrange pecan halves on top of cake.

Brown Sugar Frosting
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/4 cup milk
2 cups confectioners sugar (about)

In medium-sized saucepan combine butter or margarine, brown sugar and milk. Bring to boil and cook 1 minute, stirring several times. Cool slightly. Add confectioners sugar gradually, beating until smooth and of spreading consistency.

*If you don't sift and in the absence of other directions, spoon flour directly from container into a one-cup dry measure, level off, then remove two level tablespoonfuls, according to USDA recommendations.

NOTE: If self-rising flour is used, omit baking powder and salt.

New phone directories now in mail

One of the most frequently used books in St. Johns, Maple Rapids, Fowler, Mulr and Pezamo—the telephone directory—is in the mail to General Telephone customers this week, W. F. Graef, district manager for the company, announced.

"The 1965 directory includes more names, Yellow Pages, and information than ever before," he said, "and illustrated on the front cover is the new outdoor sidewalk telephone booth, a recently introduced convenience for our pedestrian customers."

THREE versatile business instruments, the Call Commander, the executive speakerphone, and the push-button phone, are pictured on the back cover, Graef said.

More than 4,500 General Telephone directories will be distributed throughout the St. Johns area.

Graef suggested that customers leaf through old directories.

"YOU MAY find something valuable in it," he said. "Money, important letters, and notes as well as cherished addresses have been found in telephone directories. Also, you will want to transfer the frequently called numbers you have written to the new book."

The front inside cover of the new directory has space provided for frequently called numbers. Information to simplify long distance or emergency calling is also listed and rates to the more frequently called out-of-town points are listed in the first few pages.

Ever thought about that word — its deep, stirring meaning? We start out as part of a family. And even though we know we are "little" it doesn't matter. We are part of the family—that's important. And what we will become—the family is looking out for that!

Then one day we are grownups. And again we are part of a family. But now we are "big." Oh so big! For what the rest of the family will become—that depends on us!

How important a part did the Church play in your transition from being little to being big? Well, in this free land, the chances are good that you grew up spiritually as well as physically.

But, even if you didn't—it's not too late! Not only can you see your children off to a free and fine education, but you can come with them to church . . . where the "little" and the "big" learn of GOD . . . where the truth of Christ's teaching guides the destiny of THE FAMILY.

LEGISLATIVE REPORT

BY REP. BLAIR WOODMAN of Owosso
(87th House District)

This is my fifth report from Lansing based on the recently enacted bills by the 1965 Michigan Legislature. In keeping with my present policy of selecting subjects of a general interest, I am reporting on the following legislation:

CONSERVATION AND RECREATION

Approved a bill giving the State Conservation Department authority to regulate and control dredging, filling, and dock and pier construction on inland lakes

Road Commission Weekly Report

The Board of Clinton County Road Commissioners held their regular meeting Friday, Sept. 3. The board opened bids for the September and October requirements for gasoline. Gulf Oil Corp. was low bidder and was awarded the contract.

The commission discussed roads to be marked with center-line, the lime stabilization on Chandler Road, right-of-way for the relocation of Price Road and a new plat in Eagle Township.

THE BOARD approved several speed control orders issued by the state police commissioner as a result of traffic investigations. Included in the new speed zones was: 50 miles per hour on Round Lake Road from the east County line to Oakdale Drive; 40 miles per hour from Oakdale Drive to Babcock Road and 50 miles per hour from Babcock Road to US-27.

On Round Lake Road from US-27 to the City of DeWitt, 45 miles per hour was approved. Two 35-mile zones were established. One was Northcrest Road from US-27 to Bolchot Road; the other is on County Farm Road from Taft Road north one-half mile.

THE CURVES on Round Lake Road will still be marked for safe speeds, as they have been, with possibly some minor corrections.

Two commissioners, Bernard Zeeb and George Libey, and your road clerk attended the bid letting at the Lansing Civic Center last Wednesday. Two contracts for Clinton County were let. One was for patching work on US-27 from M-21 south and for some surfacing in the City of Alma. The Hicks Co. of Alma and the Spartan Asphalt Co. of Holt, bidding jointly, were low bidders at $83,474.

Four bids were received on the Howe Road bridge, replacing a 78-year old structure across the Looking Glass River. Fry Construction Co. of Lansing was low bidder at $72,435.52. This price was about $2,000 under the estimates. With engineering and right-of-way added, total cost of this project will be nearly $77,000.

DON EWING,
Road Clerk

Investors Selective Fund, Inc., declares 12 1/4-cent dividend

The board of directors of Investors Selective Fund, Inc., has declared a regular quarterly dividend of 12 1/4 cents per share derived exclusively from investment income. Harold K. Bradford, chairman and president, has announced.

This third quarter dividend of the Fund's fiscal year is payable Aug. 27 to shareholders of record at the close of business Aug. 26, 1965. It compares with 12 cents per share distributed in the same quarter a year ago. It is the 78th consecutive dividend paid by the Fund.

THE DOLLAR amount of the dividend approximates $560,000, distributed among about 7,500 shareholders.

Investors Selective Fund, Inc. currently has approximately 4,500,000 shares outstanding compared with 4,496,000 shares at the same time last year.

The Fund is one of five funds in the Investors Group for which Investors Diversified Services, Inc. provides distribution and advisory services.

CHANGED, FOR the benefit of weekend hunters, the regular deer season opener to the Saturday nearest Nov. 15 in the Upper Peninsula, and to the third Saturday in November in the Lower Peninsula, which would fall on Nov. 20 this year.

Repealed Michigan's bounty system on red foxes and bobcats. Last year's bounty payments by the Conservation Department totaled $254,000 without any appreciable decline in the number of these predator animals; thus the Legislature considered this an unnecessary expense to taxpayers.

Approved limited hunting of quail and wild turkey—wild turkey on a 400-permit basis and quail for a short Nov. 5-10 season. Stiffened the water anti-pollution bill, providing fines up to $500 a day for the discharge of pollutants into lakes and streams, and prohibiting cities, villages or townships from dumping raw sewage into state waters.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT UNITS: Authorize counties to construct and operate county rehabilitation camps for juvenile offenders.

Increase state aid to local health departments, with no county receiving less than $7,000 per year.

Allow a local governing body to contract for repairs to rundown houses which absentee owners refuse to repair, and to repair or remove dwellings if unoccupied for six months. The owner is given 90 days to correct violations, and then charges for repairs or removal authorized by the local unit must be paid for by the owner or become a lien on the property.

Require a 48-hour notice for all meetings of township planning commissions.

ELECTION LAWS AND POLITICAL ORGANIZATIONS:

Permit absentee voter ballots for persons over 70 and allow emergency ballots to be issued to persons unable to get absentee voter ballots before deadline because of an emergency. Amend the drain code to specify a four-year term for drain commissioner.

Set April 10 of this year as the starting date for terms of township officers elected last November, except justices of the peace who take office July 4.

PROVIDE FOR printing names of candidates for township offices on the state election ballot. Provide that in all townships, candidates for township offices shall be nominated at primary elections rather than by caucus, as now is done in about half of the townships.

Speed up vote tabulations on election day by providing for separate counting of absentee voter ballots—starting before the polls close.

MUCH OF this new legislation is good and will be of benefit to the citizens of Michigan, and, on the other hand, there is some of which I do not approve. If there are any questions or if you wish additional information concerning any of these new laws, I would be glad to be of assistance.
