20th Century Bankers — 19th Century Style

These distinguished looking gentlemen look like they come straight from the 1865 banking era, and that was the intention. They're actually 1965 bankers dressed up like 1865 for the occasion of the Clinton National Bank's 100th anniversary, the celebration of which started last Friday. Left to right are Gayle Desprez, assistant vice president; John Rumbaugh, vice president and cashier; C. Lester Jenkins, assistant vice president; Charles Huntington, auditor; and Paul A. Schueller, assistant vice president. As all good bankers should, they're reading the Wall Street Journal.

Study of 4-county health department under way

Mandatory formation of a health department to serve Clinton County was broached to the board of supervisors last Wednesday, and the result was agreement of the board to work with three other counties to form a district health unit.

The board authorized its health committee to work with similar groups within the boards of supervisors of Ionia, Montcalm and Gratiot counties.

A SINGLE full-time health director would administer the work of the department within the four counties, if such a plan is approved.

Clinton at present does not have a health department, and the health services provided are through the office of the county nurse. Clinton County would continue to maintain the health services it now has, and this would come under the supervision of the Public Health Department or District.

A HEALTH Department would mean a doubling of the staff in Clinton. Presently there are just the two nurses, and they are hired on a 10 month basis. A sanitary engineer or sanitarian and a secretary for the office here would have to be added.

Russell Howe, Eagle Township supervisor and chairman of the county board's health committee, reported last Wednesday on a meeting with Dr Roy Manty, administrative assistant for medical services of the Michigan Department of Health. Attending were himself and committeemen Gerald Shepard of Bath and Harold Reed of St. Johns, County Nurse Mrs Luella Canfield and her assistant, Princess Parker.

HOWE SAID Manty told them ANNUAL FRIED chicken supper and fair at Lowe Church Thursday, Sept. 16. Serving at 5:30.

that Ionia, Gratiot and Montcalm counties were agreeable to a discussion about the formation of a four-county health department. He said the four-county area has a population of about 164,000 persons. Manty also said a two-county setup with a population of 100,000 would make a nice working unit.

The four-county unit would require an initial budget of between $85,000 and $95,000, with the state to pay about 40 per cent of that amount. The remainder of the cost would be split between the counties.

THE STATE LAW requiring the health department provides for a full-time medical doctor to act as health director. A salary of between $15,000 and $18,000 might be anticipated for such a position, Manty said.

While the director would have charge of all four counties, each county within the district would have to have two nurses, a sanitarian or sanitary engineer and a clerk. A sanitary engineer would be preferred, Howe told the supervisors, because he could then take the place of the health officer in making inspections of eating places, septic tanks and other facilities that require inspection.

IN A MEMORANDUM to the board's health committee and the county nurse's office, Dr Manty noted that "Clinton is eligible to receive on the current year's appropriation (July 1, 1965, to June 30, 1966) a sum of $8,496 in state aid. In addition, when an approved department has been established which meets state criteria, the health unit is also eligible for Federal Categorical Fund assistance which today is approximately 6.9 cents per capita."

health department discouraged the county board from dwelling on that thought too long, and the appointment of a steering committee to work with the other counties came without too much discussion Wednesday. The health committee will serve as that steering unit.

THE STEERING committee was also authorized to make a bid for the location of the central office of any such district to be in Clinton County, and the basement offices of the County Welfare Building were suggested as one possibility. In addition to the health director at the central office

MRS LEE A. DEWITT Mrs Lee A. DeWitt of 308 S. Oakland Street has resigned from the St. Johns Library Board after having served on that group since its formation in January 1940. In her 25 years of service, she has been president of the board the last 10 years. Her resignation from the board was accepted with regrets last Tuesday night by the St. Johns City Commission. No replacement has yet been named.

County budget reduced

The Clinton County Board of Supervisors last Wednesday passed a revised budget calling for expenditures of $819,621 in 1966. Some $575,286 will be raised through property taxation at the rate of $5.33 per thousand dollars of state equalized valuation.

The adopted budget is $60,729 lower than a tentative budget approved in April this year before the tax allocation board met and $28,641 lower than the 1965 budget. The county had asked then for a budget of $870,350, with $626,015 to be raised with taxation of 5.8 mills.

WHEN THE allocation board allowed the county only 5.33 mills, the budget was reduced. The entire decrease was made in the budget for the Department of Social Welfare, which was reduced from a proposed $120,000 in April to the adopted figure of $69,271.

Polio vaccine clinics at area sites Sunday

Little Michelle Signs, 3, daughter of Mr and Mrs Raymond A. Signs Jr. of 306 S. Kibbee Street, shows how simple it is to take the oral polio vaccine—just pop it in your mouth. Michelle, her two sisters and one brother, along with mom and dad, will get their vaccine Sunday at clinics in St. Johns.

This Sunday is Sabin Sunday in Clinton County, and 35,000 doses of oral polio vaccine will be available for residents in an effort to wipe out the future of polio in Clinton.

Clinics will be held at eight sites throughout the county, including two at St. Johns and one each at DeWitt, Bath, Elsie, Fowler, Maple Rapids and Westphalia.

A team of well over 100 volunteer workers will be on duty at those places Sunday between 11 a.m. and 5 p.m.

The DeWitt clinic, under the direction of John Hiatt of the DeWitt Lions Club, will get the biggest initial supply of the vaccine—8,500 doses. All the vaccine will arrive at the county health office in St. Johns Sunday morning about 9:30, and pharmacists who will be on duty at each clinic site will deliver it there and dispense it.

THE ST. JOHNS clinics at the Swegles Street and Perrin-Palmer schools will each have 4,000 doses of Orimune vaccine. Bath and Westphalia will each get 4,000 doses, Fowler will get 2,500, Elsie 2,000 and Maple Rapids 1,500.

Another 4,500 doses will be kept on reserve at the health office in St. Johns during the day for distribution to clinics which may run out. "We hope we'll use it all," said Francis Schaefer of Fowler, chairman of the Clinton County Polio Vaccine Committee.

SPONSORS of the county clinics are the Fowler Jaycees, the Clinton County Medical Society, the Clinton County Health Office and the Central Michigan Assn. of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons.

A 50-cents per dose donation is

Tree disposal up to owner, city rules

St. Johns' growing tree problem has forced the city to halt its previous service of disposing of dead trees cut down on private property.

A tentative resolution of this effect was passed at the city commission meeting last Tuesday, and a more formal statement is being drawn up for action next week.

This will mean that city crews will no longer pick up and haul away tree trunks and brush cut from trees on private property.

"IN THE PAST when there were only a few of these, the city crews did at times haul the debris to the dump if the owner got it out to the curb," City Manager Greer pointed out. "We had to call a halt to this type of service as there are more and more of these requests and there are going to be more and more of them in the future."

Property owners who remove trees or brush on their land are totally responsible now for seeing that it is disposed of. The Mead's Rubbish Service contract with the city calls for them to haul brush away if it is tied into small bundles less than five feet in length.

"MOST people won't bother to do this, and they tie it up and drag it out to the curb and leave it there in large piles," Greer said. "Many times they pull bushes out by the roots and just drag them out to the curb and leave them."

The public removal of private trees has had to be sidetracked, Greer said, because of the problem of removal of trees in the public street right-of-way. A survey of city street trees that are either dead or dying shows more than 1,000 such trees in the street right-of-way. "These 1,000 trees will need to be removed in the very near future," Greer pointed out.

"OUR 1965-66 budget allotted $2,500 for tree control, and we estimate it would run about $30 per tree merely to get it cut down and on the ground. We then spend about another $30 in loading this tree and taking it to the dump. It would appear we have a serious problem that isn't going to get any better in the future."

Efforts have been made to come up with a solution to the problem of tree removal on public and private property, but no particular answers have been arrived at.

Welfare units here merged

The merger of the County Bureau of Social Aid and the County Department of Social Welfare was approved last Wednesday by the Clinton County Board of Supervisors.

The approval came after presentation of a survey which showed a net savings to the county of about $5,824 in the cost of operation of its welfare program.

THE COUNTY board approval of the merger came only about one month before mandatory consolidation of the two units would have taken effect. But it seemed to meet with the approval of supervisors, and it had the backing of the county welfare board.

Welfare Board Chairman Ray C. Osborn and Warren C. Coffman, both of St. Johns, presented the findings of a state survey on the county and state operations here to the supervisors last Wednesday. The supervisors had approved such a survey earlier.

COFFMAN EXPLAINED the merger. He said the survey had disclosed that salaries for the County Bureau of Social Aid, which is administered by the state, works out to $28,814.40 for a five-person staff, based on salary schedules effective July 1 of this year. A three-person staff with the County Department of Social Welfare, run by the county, would have a total salary of $14,900. The total cost of operation of the separate units for salaries would be $43,714.40. Under the merger, the estimated salaries for a 7 1/2-person full-time staff would be $41,196. The state will pick up 80 per cent of the cost of operation, or $32,957, with the county's share only $8,239.24.

THE COUNTY would also pay See WELFARE page 3-A fice, there would be a need for a secretary there, too.

The steering committee will work with the other groups in an effort to hammer out a plan, but the county board of supervisors would still have the final say in forming the Health Department.

HOWE told the board there was no deadline date for establishment of a health department to serve the county, and probably the first part of February would be the earliest one could be set up. Manty, in his letter, also said there was no deadline, "but appropriations are made on a fiscal basis so that if funds are to be used they must be allotted by June 30, 1966."

THE LAW which provides for the mandatory establishment of a local health department is Act 269 of the Public Acts of 1965. It took immediate effect when signed by Governor Romney on July 21.

Twelve counties are affected by the new law: they are Gogebic, Marquette, Luce and Mackinac in the Upper Peninsula; Huron, Tuscola and LaPeer in the Thumb area; and Jackson, Montcalm, Ionia, Clinton and Gratiot in the central part of the state.

THERE ARE presently 22 county health departments, seven two-county health departments, five three-county departments and five four-county units around the state.

As a result of this legislation, Michigan will become one of the very few states in the country with 100 per cent coverage by local health departments," said State Health Commissioner Dr Albert E. Heustis.

The commissioner commended lawmakers for their action in both making local health departments mandatory and increasing the state's share of financing the cost of providing public health services on the local level. (The law also increases the amount of state financial aid for health department-covered counties from $5,000 per county to a minimum of $7,000.)

"WITH THIS added impetus, Michigan will be able to make increased headway against such long-standing public health problems as communicable diseases, waste disposal and food sanitation, in addition to exerting more effective control over more recently emerging problems including accidents, alcoholism, chronic illness and air and water pollution," Heustis concluded.

Car hits guardrails

A car driven by John A. Clark, 22, of R-3, St. Johns, was damaged Saturday when Clark failed to turn soon enough after crossing the Maple River Bridge at Elsie and hit several guard rails. Clark reportedly drove off and the car was found later abandoned a mile away at the intersection of Shepardsville and Island roads. Clark was unhurt.

Vaccine clinics Sunday

 man Schafer said this week. The vaccine is simple to take compared to the Salk shots; two drops of the Orimune vaccine, manufactured by Lederle Laboratories, are placed on a cube of non-caloric sugar, and the sugar is then eaten.

IT'S AS SIMPLE as that. The vaccine will have no taste to most people and to others only a slightly salty or metallic taste. There are no significant side effects.

Infants over six months of age will be given the vaccine directly with a few drops of it on the tongue.

Millions and millions of doses of the oral polio vaccine have been given throughout the nation, and two-thirds of the population of the State of Michigan has been immunized against the dreaded crippling disease with the oral vaccine.

THERE ARE only a few instances where the taking of the vaccine could be dangerous. Dr F. W. Smith, president of the Clinton County Medical Society listed these as: If you have a BAD cold, are feverish or are sick; if you have taken a flu shot within week before the clinic; or if you have had live measles or small-pox vaccine within the last 30 days. In all these cases, it would be safer to wait until a second clinic comes around on Nov. 14. For all others, the oral vaccine has proven itself safe and reliable.

Two doses of the vaccine are needed for complete protection. The first dose can be taken this Sunday; the second dose of the very same vaccine will be given Nov. 14. Those who are ill for the first clinic can get their first dose Nov. 14 and their second feeding several months later from their family physician.

"REMEMBER Vaccine -Forget Polio" is the theme county volunteer workers are using in pleading for residents to turn out Sunday to receive the vaccine. "Can you and your family afford NOT to take the vaccine?" the Clinton County Polio Vaccine Committee asks. It should be taken even if the individual has received his Salk vaccine shots, since protection with the Sabin vaccine is reportedly more complete, the committee said.

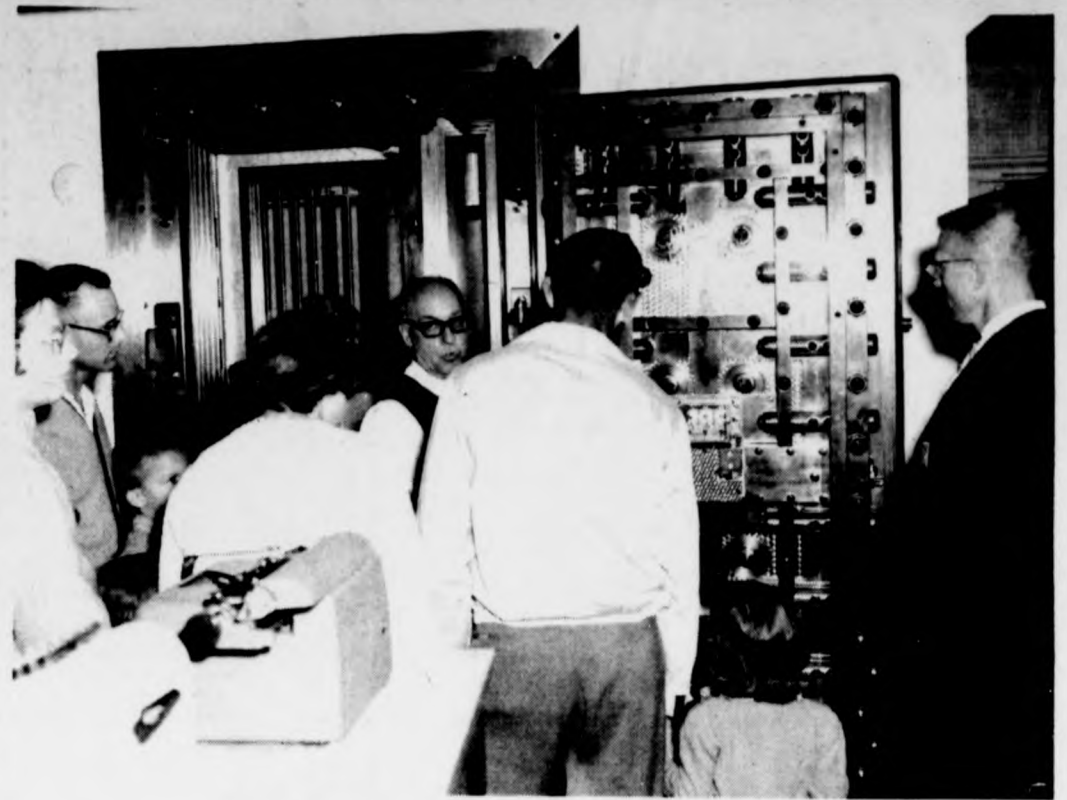

Some 93 of the workers got their vaccine last Thursday night at Swegles Street School in St. Johns. C. B. Tyson Jr. and Larry E. Nemick of the Lederle Laboratories and officials of sponsoring organizations were on hand to answer questions of the group and to explain the set-up of the clinics for this Sunday.

NO CLINIC WILL be held at Ovid because that community received vaccine last year under a Shiawassee County program. Anyone who didn't get the vaccine there is urged to attend the clinic at Elsie or any of the other sites. Residents of the Banister area are also invited to Elsie, and those in the Fulton Schools area of Maple Rapids are invited there.

Here are the clinic directors and their volunteer helpers at each of the county sites:

FHA emergency loans approved for Clinton area

Steps to help drought-stricken farmers in the Third Congressional District were announced Thursday by Congressman Paul H. Todd Jr.

Eaton and Clinton counties have been declared emergency loan areas by the Farmers Home Administration, Todd said. The designation of Calhoun and Kalamazoo counties as emergency loan areas has also been extended through Dec. 31, 1966.

THE FARMERS Home Administration program provides emergency loans to established farmers unable to obtain needed credit to carry on normal operations. Farmers in the Third District have been hard hit this summer by the worst drought in 29 years.

Applications for emergency loans are being handled through the county offices of the Farmers Home Administration, Todd said. The office serving Clinton and Shiawassee counties is in Owosso.

Q & A on oral polio vaccine

Here are some more questions and answers concerning the Sabin oral polio vaccine which will be available to all Clinton County residents this Sunday. The vaccine, manufactured by Lederle Laboratories, is called Orimune and is taken on a cube of sugar.

Q. SUPPOSE ALL members of a family but one get the vaccine; is there a possibility that the person may become immunized from the others?

A. The person who did not take the vaccine might become immune through transmission from other members of the family—and this would of course be a beneficial effect. However, this procedure cannot be depended upon.

Q. Does this vaccine help to protect against all types of polio?

A. Yes, in Clinton County we are fortunate in getting the new trivalent vaccine. It contains a blend of the three strains of monovalent vaccine. It is taken by mouth and only two feedings are necessary for basic protection, instead of three.

Q. HOW MANY doses of the vaccine are needed?
A. Two doses spaced at least eight weeks apart.

Q. Can the vaccine be purchased anywhere and taken by individuals?

A. No. It is available only through doctors and recognized institutions like the County Health Department and hospitals.

Q. Why is it necessary to take the vaccine now, when we do not have any incidences of polio in this area?

The nation is enjoying relative freedom from polio right now, but it is well known that this disease comes and goes in waves. There is therefore no assurance that the present situation will continue. By the same token we do not have any cases of smallpox, yet we continue to be vaccinated against this disease. The principle is the same, and through this new oral vaccine, we hope to make polio as rare tomorrow as smallpox is today. Experts feel that it is better to conduct a program like this before an epidemic strikes rather than wait until it is here.

Q. WHAT DOES the vaccine taste like?

A. It is pleasant-flavored, designed to appeal particularly to children, who are very susceptible to polio.

Q. Would an overdose of the vaccine be harmful?

A. No. In carefully controlled tests, measured overdoses of the vaccine have been given, with no harmful after-effects.

Minor in possession of beer is jailed

Carl M. VanStekle, 18, of Lansing, was fined $25 plus $19.90 costs and sentenced to three days in the Clinton County Jail after his arrest Saturday in DeWitt Township for being in possession of beer. DeWitt Township Police Chief Bruce Angell made the arrest, and Justice of the Peace Gordon Willyoung passed sentence.

Workers Get Their Oral Polio Vaccine

Volunteers who will work this Sunday at polio vaccine clinics around the county form a line and take the vaccine themselves last Thursday night in a special instructional clinic for them at the Swegles Street School in St. Johns.

May close DeWitt sewer tiles

Southern DeWitt Township's sewer problems broke into the open again this week as the result of actual sewage being found in the open.

The solution is a long-range one, but the immediate preventive may be the blocking of sewer tile lines from buildings along State Road between US-27 and Turner Road, according to county officials.

DALE CHAPMAN, Clinton County drain commissioner, explained it was his responsibility under law to block such lines if they pollute county or inter-county drains. Chapman, along with Prosecutor Norman White, Zoning Administrator Gerald Walter and State Health Engineer Maurice S. Richmond proved that need Friday.

Tests were made at two homes along State Road by putting green dye into the toilets and then watching for it to show up in the county drain. In both cases, raw sewage flowing into the drain turned green, proving that the sewage was coming from those homes. More tests were made Tuesday.

WHETHER OR not the tiles will be blocked immediately was not known.

The problem of raw sewage overflowing from a county drain into low lying lots and backing into basements was also involved in the group's survey Friday.

The problem area is part of the general area of southern DeWitt Township where a sewer system bond issue was turned down last spring.

"IT'S THE same situation all over the south area," Chapman said Tuesday. "It's just that this one was brought to light through complaints."

Richmond pointed out there is danger not only to children who might play in the blackish water, but there is the possibility disease will be spread by insects or animals. Flies, mosquitoes, rats or mice could communicate disease to humans, and family pets which get into the sewage can also carry disease back home.

Hepatitis and sleeping sickness are two diseases which could be caused by the raw sewage. There was one hepatitis outbreak in the Sheridan Road area just before school let out last spring.

Club to sell toothbrushes

Need a toothbrush? St. Johns Exchange Club members will be selling them again this year as a special project to raise funds for their youth programs.

The main concentration of sales efforts by the members will be on Friday, Sept. 24, but they'll be available before that from the members.

THE Exchange Club last summer sent 10 boys to YMCA camp west of Clare with funds supported in part by last year's successful toothbrush sale. Other youth projects include Christmas baskets to needy youngsters, dental work for those in need and Christmas gift checks to needy children under probate court jurisdiction.

Welfare units merged . . .

employee fringe benefits estimated at $840.40, making an estimated net cost to the county of $9,079.64. This compares to $14,900 as a separate operation for the county. The savings would be $5,824.36.

Coffman said the exact figures could not be determined now, because under the merger, the positions, levels and salaries of the staff members would be subject to civil service review and approval. All of the present staff of the county Department of Social Welfare have taken the civil service exam and have passed with flying colors, Coffman said.

THE FRINGE benefits mentioned in the additional cost to the county above their 20 per cent share would include social security and hospital and retirement plans.

The savings will be more than just in money, Coffman and Osborn said. A great savings in time would result, they said. Presently, the Bureau of Social Aid and the Department of Social Welfare keep separate files on welfare recipients, and many of these duplicate. There are also many conferences between the administrators of the two agencies about recipients.

By having the agencies combined, one file could be maintained and such conferences would be unnecessary.

ONE ASPECT of the merger which surprised the supervisors was the apparent increase in the authority of the County Welfare Board, which is appointed locally. Coffman said it looks like the board would have more power under the merger than it did before.

This prompted Supervisor Ernest Carter to remark that "It appears the state is relinquishing some of its power, and that's not normal."

COFFMAN SAID the welfare board would have charge of the director of the merged department, including that person's selection for the job. The personnel of the department would be under the supervision of the director.

The present duties of the Bureau of Social Aid would presumably come under the supervision of the welfare board. Osborn, Coffman and Keith Wright of R-1, Fowler make up the welfare board.

There would be no changes in the setup of the welfare building on South Oakland Street, Coffman and Osborn said. The two departments already occupy the same building, only they carry on their functions separate of each other.

THE RESPONSIBILITY for operation of the county infirmary will be worked out later with the director. Control of the welfare budget will continue to be exercised as it has been.

Supervisors have taken a generally favorable attitude toward the merger since it was formally presented to the board at its June meeting. Robert Johnson, supervisor of field services for the State Department of Social Welfare, explained the unification proposal at that time.

HE SAID then a comparison of the caseloads between the two separate departments would lead to a decision on the sharing of costs of the program, and that worked out to 80 per cent for the state and 20 per cent for the county.

Discussion by the supervisors on the appointment of a director for the merged department was in only general terms, and no decisions were made. G. L. Eberhard is supervisor for the Bureau of Social Aid now, and Mrs. Julia Jury is director of the County Social Welfare Department.

Water use up again in August

Water use by St. Johns residents, businesses and industry showed another increase over the same period a year ago when figures on the August pumping were released last week.

A total of 39,759,000 gallons of water was pumped in August, compared to 38,134,000 gallons in the same month of 1964. This year's rate per day was 1,250,290 gallons, on the average, and it also averaged out to 868 gallons pumped per minute.

One change from the usual was noted. On Aug. 10, only 940,000 gallons of water were pumped, marking the first day since Jan. 16 that less than one million gallons of water was pumped during a single day. Aug. 10 was a comparatively cool day.

Jailed on $10,000 bond

Lawton L. Camp, 52, of Main Street, Maple Rapids, is in the Clinton County Jail on $10,000 bond on a charge of selling chattel mortgage property. He was arraigned before Municipal Judge Alba Wert Monday, and pre-examination was set for Sept. 24.

Constitution Week observed

"Constitution Week" in the United States starts Friday and runs through Sept. 23. It is directed to a "consideration and appreciation of the virtue and wisdom and patriotism" of the members of the Constitutional Convention of 1787 who formulated, it has been said, "the noblest document ever produced by the mind of man."

The Daughters of the American Revolution have a direct and abiding interest in this document, St. Johns DAR members stated this week. "It completed the American Revolution and guaranteed to future generations the enjoyment of the liberty obtained for the individual by that historic struggle."

"WE ARE THE grateful beneficiaries of the wisdom and foresight of our Revolutionary ancestors. It is a godly heritage," the local DAR concluded.

In connection with Constitution Week in St. Johns, there will be an exhibit in the Centennial Room of the Clinton National Bank and Trust Co. beginning Friday. It will be in charge of Mrs. Manning Bross, chairman of Constitution Week.

Trees . . .

IN LANSING, the city decides what trees in the street right-of-way shall be removed, and that's done at city expense. Street trees which property owners want removed must be paid for by the owners. Removal of trees on private property is causing a problem in Lansing, too, and Greer said they are considering a $50 deductible policy whereby the property owner pays the first $50 and the city will pay the balance to remove the tree.

"Our problem is a little worse than that in Lansing in that if we started right now with our present DPW crews, we wouldn't be able to get to all the dead street trees by working a full year," Greer said. "A good tree crew of three men and equipment can average three to four trees a day."

"ROLLIE Ordway and I have gone over this problem many, many times and we see only one solution; this being that we employ an experienced person to start a program of tree removal, assign him a truck and two helpers and let him work around the entire year until we can make some semblance of order out of this tree mess."

No definite action, beyond the resolution concerning private tree pickups, was taken.

Not so 'anemic' after all, Mason finds of St. Johns

St. Johns has proven it's not an "anemic" town, and the Municipal Building will soon be sporting a new American flag for the city's efforts—compliments of the Ingham County News at Mason.

The flag is payment for a year-long blood duel in which the Mason publishers challenged St. Johns last December. They said Mason blood donors would give more blood in a year of Bloodbanks than St. Johns donors would.

MASON HAS FOUR Bloodmobile visits every year to St. Johns' two. But even this was of no help to them. Here's the comparison of donations in their four Bloodmobiles since then and St. Johns' two:

ST. JOHNS		MASON
December	215	December	80
July	236	March	148
Total	451	June	70
		September	123
		Total	421

Mason's September clinic was held just Friday, and they were more or less behind the eight-ball, having to come up with 154 pints of blood to beat St. Johns. They got only 123, considerably anemic.

Final Checkup for Blood Donor at Ovid

C. E. Trembley of Ovid has his blood checked by Mrs Cecelia Diaz, RN, staff nurse for the American Red Cross, Friday afternoon at the Bloodmobile at Ovid. The Bloodmobile, which serviced the Ovid and Elsie area, drew 75 donors and brought in 62 pints of blood. Mrs Willard Wittenberg and Mrs Earl Slagh, chairmen at Ovid and Elsie respectively, expressed their gratitude for the fine turnout. The Crescent Club handled recruiting for the Bloodmobile visit. Mrs Robert Rand is executive secretary of the Clinton County Red Cross and also assisted Friday.

Rezoning bid turned down

One request for rezoning of property in St. Johns was denied by the city commission last Tuesday, and another request was referred to the planners.

Rejected was a petition of Mrs Robert C. Rand of 406 E. Sturgis Street for rezoning of property on the southwest corner of Oak and Oakland streets from single family to multi-family residential zone. The rejection was based on a recommendation of the planning commission.

MRS RAND told the commission previously that she had an opportunity to sell the property for the construction of two two-family residences and a 16-family apartment building at the location. The planning commission recommended denial because it would be, in effect, spot zoning.

A request for rezoning of property at the northeast corner of the intersection of State Street and Oakland Street to service business zone was referred to the planning commission. The request was made by Harold Reed, attorney, who recently purchased the property. It adjoins property where he lives and maintains his office.

HE SAID the property needs repair, that it is in little demand for a single family because of its size, and the location is not favorable for multiple family development.

Table damages car

Vandals caused damage to the hood and antenna on her car parked in her driveway Saturday, Mrs Julia Thornton of 305 S. Mead Street reported to city police. A picnic table and two tubs of junk had been placed on the hood.

Watertown turns down charter plan

Charter township status for Watertown Township was ruled out by voters last Tuesday, although only 11 1/2 per cent of those registered actually went to the polls. The final tally was 67 no to 46 yes. There are 987 registered voters.

As a charter township, Watertown's township board would eventually have been increased to seven men and the board would have had the right to levy up to 5 mills without a vote of the people. It would also have made sale of bonds by Watertown easier since the township would have been incorporated much the same as a city.

THERE WERE two precincts in the Watertown voting. In Precinct One (township hall) 75 persons voted, with 43 saying no to the proposition and 32 voting yes. In Precinct Two (old school-house) 38 residents voted, with the count being 24-14 against the charter proposition.

It was the second defeat of a charter township proposal in the county in two months. On July 31 Bath Township residents narrowly defeated a similar measure.

Water main assessments irk some residents, spur protests to city

Every once in a while a public hearing before the city commission brings out a crowd. Most of the time they don't. But when people are directly affected—in the pocketbook—you can usually depend on a good turnout.

Such was the case at the St. Johns City Commission meeting last Tuesday evening. A public hearing was held to verify assessments for water main installation on 12 widely scattered blocks around town. Notices of the assessments had been sent out to affected property owners.

MOST OF THEM were at the meeting—nearly 30—and about half had their comments to make to the commission. The result was a hearing about an hour and a half in length, after which the assessments were verified anyway by the commission.

The affected blocks were: 100 North Scott Road, 1000 East State Street, 100 and 200 East Oak Street, 700 and 800 West Cass Street, 100 and 200 West Steel Street, 800 East Walker Street, 1000 South Church Street and 800 and 900 West McConnell Street.

THE OBJECTIONS were several. Among them: Why should we have to pay to have a main replaced when we didn't ask for it? Why weren't we told about the work that was to be done so we could have said something then? Why didn't my neighbor get an assessment when we did?

Some of the questions were answered satisfactorily for the citizens in attendance. Others weren't, particularly the last question. In fact, about half of the hearing itself concerned arguments and explanations of why a "good friend and neighbor" didn't get an assessment.

PARTICULARLY VOCAL on that question were residents along the West Steel Street project. They questioned why a neighbor, who lived on a corner lot, wasn't assessed any money for the water main that went right by the house on Steel Street and to which the neighbor was hooked up.

"This sounds like a case of 'love thy neighbor as thyself—hit 'em in the pocketbook,'" Mayor Jack Smit commented dryly. He explained that an individual assessment would not be affected at all by whether a neighbor paid or not.

CITY ASSESSOR Donald Clark explained that the assessing for the main had been done on the basis of a unit of benefit, rather than square footage or front footage. He said the property in question had not been assessed because it was "assumed" the benefit had been paid for when the water main went down the street on the other side of the house.

He explained that a circuit court ruling several years ago made it illegal to assess a corner lot twice, because there was only one benefit. It also did not matter to which water main the corner property owner was hooked.

THE STEEL Street residents took issue with the fact that the assessor "assumed" an assessment had been made for the other street main, and they claimed their "friend and neighbor" had not paid there, either. They and Commissioner Ray Kentfield asked to have that point checked out. Clark investigated last Wednesday and Thursday and discovered that the party in question had not, in fact, been assessed on the other street either.

"This has nothing to do with my job, however," Clark said. "The law says I must assess on the basis of benefits derived, and I have to assume the benefit was assessed on the other street."

MAYOR SMIT, City Manager Ken Greer and the commissioners pointed out that the hearing was not the first hearing on the water main projects and that the first ones, as well as the final one, had been publicized as required by law. The Clinton County News also carried news stories pertaining to the project.

The assessments for the project, it was explained, were made in conjunction with city ordinance and previous resolutions of the commission. Assessor Clark prepared a roll assigning 20 per cent of the total cost to the city at-large and 80 per cent to the owners of the properties benefiting.

THERE WERE a couple of problems, City Manager Greer explained. One was that in the case of the East State Street area where a replacement water main was installed, "there was no reasonable benefit to those properties on the south side of East State Street, and it would appear unreasonable to assess those properties on the north side the entire 80 per cent as the resolution and ordinance would normally expect.

"The other problem that came up on these assessments was the figure of replacing water mains in certain areas where old galvanized lines had previously been in use. Historically, the commission's policies had been that these places were assessed, but only as a 2/3 rate of what properties were assessed when it was a new water main.

"OUR CITY assessor, therefore, took this into consideration and in those areas wherein the main being installed was, in effect, a replacement, he again considered that normally one-third

May now be eligible for social security

Many residents over 72 who did not previously have enough social security work credits to get benefits may now be eligible to receive payments, W. Scott Hamlin, social security district manager in Lansing, announced this week.

Before the recent changes in the social security law, at least six quarters of coverage—about a year and a half of work under the law—were required to get benefits, Hamlin stated. Under the new provision, benefits may be paid in some cases to a worker (and his wife) if the worker has three-quarters of coverage, about nine months of work. The exact number of quarters of coverage needed depends on the age of the worker.

A MAN 76 OR a woman 73 or more in 1965 needs just three-quarters of coverage. A man 75 or a woman 72 in 1965 needs four-quarters of coverage, and a man 74 or a woman 71 in 1965 needs five-quarters of coverage (to qualify for benefits at age 72). Anyone younger needs six or more quarters of coverage.

Widows of deceased workers may also get payments under the new provision. However, the number of credits needed depends on both the widow's age and the year in which the worker died or was 65, whichever is earlier, Hamlin continued.

WORKERS AND widows of deceased workers who are eligible under this new section of the law will get $35 a month, while wives of workers who qualify will get $17.50 a month.

Anyone who has a question about the new provision, or any part of the social security law, is invited to write, phone, or come into the Lansing office, located in Room 201 of the Federal Building, 216 Townsend Street, Hamlin concluded.

Road Commission Weekly Report

The blacktopping and seal coating programs were finished last week. There may be one exception; Chandler Road is to be blacktopped after proper curing and settling of the lime stabilized project. Not counting patching materials, we have used a record total of 465,000 gallons of bituminous materials.

Fred Crowell, construction superintendent, reports that he used 144,100 gallons for new blacktops. Clay Fisher, maintenance foreman, said he used 320,900 gallons for seal coating. These totals bring us to 80,000 gallons over last year's record amount. Patching materials used this year also exceed any previous total, due to the bad year on road breakups.

THE LAST OF this year's dust control applications is being done this week. This program has been repeatedly postponed due to continuing rains.

The Board of Clinton County Road Commissioners will take bids on two new gravel trucks at their next regular meeting Monday. Gravel and sand hauling is far behind on our new construction projects, and the commission feels we should add to our fleet in an effort to catch up.

AT THIS meeting the Board will also discuss the collapsed Centerline Road bridge and the general situation on bridges.

The construction of the Howe Road bridge over the Looking Glass River is getting under way this week. Fry Construction Co. of Lansing is the contractor and Dave Weiss of the State Highway Department is project engineer. DON EWING Road Clerk

BOWLING
 News from Around St. Johns Area Bowling Leagues

Area bowling leagues are beginning to swing into action in earnest, and weekly results are beginning to trickle into the Clinton County News Sports desk.

League secretaries who would like to publicize the high spots of their league's bowling week are invited to submit data similar to that which follows. Such items turned in immediately after the bowling would be much appreciated by this newspaper.

HERE'S WHAT happened in the first week for most of the bowlers:

The Cookies Cuties rolled 569 for high game and 1516 for high series last Thursday in the Coffee Cup League, but they lost one game, and so the Snack Bar and Sleepy Heads, who didn't lose, lead the league after the first week. Rose Ritter was the top individual bowler, with a high game of 182 and a high series of 483.

Wheel Inn and Dog 'N Suds lead the Night Owls League, which also rolled last Thursday. Advance Castings had the top team game with a 906 score, while Wheel Inn had a 2501 high series. Milla Spousta's 204 game was high, though she was challenged seriously by Helen Kurcz who had a 202, and Rose Ritter, who chalked up a 196 game. Elly Cowan put together good enough games to come out with the high series of 521.

BECK'S FARM Market has the lead all by themselves after the first week in the Night Hawk League. Their first night was last Tuesday, Sept. 7. The American Legion Club had an 893 high game and 2439 high series. Bob Cole got hot and rolled a 224 game to take high honors, and Kirk Burl put together a 538 high series. He had a 211 game in that series, and Sonny Cornwell also had a 211 game during the evening.

Lance's Restaurant, Dog 'N Suds and Pierson's Shoes allow a share of the first-week lead in the Commercial League, which also rolled Sept. 7. South Riley was the top-scoring team for the night, though, with a 939 high game and 2702 high series. Dave Mohnke whipped up a dazzling 242 game, and Richard Kuhns had a 598 high series.

THE MIXED LEAGUE rolled for the second time this year Friday evening, and after it was all over Richard's Dairy was clinging to first place by a half-game over Reeses Collision, with KP's, Cold Stream and A & P all tied for third. Richards' had the high game and series of 646 and 1920. For the women, Norrine Penix fired a 184 high game and 496 high series. Gene Dunkel took the honors for the men with a 221 game and 580 series. Gerry Powers rolled a 215 game, Duane Bunce had a 211 and 208, Ray Orr shot a 213, Rex Turner had 200 and Ernie Pardee had a 206 game.

In the Tuesday Tea Time League, St. Johns Furniture team had the best fortune and recorded the high game of 873 and high series of 2350 last Tuesday. Doris Swatman had the high individual game of 211. Connie Cronkhtie's series of 574 was best, and that included games of 209 and 203. Jolie Becker, a substitute, rolled a 524 series.

DODY LINMAN came through with a 222 high game and 494 high series to pace the bowlers in the Ten Pin Keglers League, which opened play last Wednesday night. Parr's jumped off to the league lead by winning four points, and they also had the high series last week of 2178. Rhyndard's took team game honors with a 784 score.

Wheel Inn and Dog 'N Suds hiked out in front in the Nite Owls League after their first competition last Thursday night. Wheel Inn had the best team series of 2500, but Advance Castings had the best game, a 906. Milla Spousta rolled a 204 and Helen Kurcz had a 577 series, which included a 202 game. Elly Cowan recorded a 521 series.

CHRIS' PARTY Store leads Citgo by a half-game in the First Nighters League after Monday's bowling. Heathman's had the best team game with a 709, and Neller's rolled a 2026 series. Eunice Tiedt's 190 game was high and Nancy Lewis had a 467 series.

Although there are hot days left, winter will be here before you know it. Now's the time to have your heating system checked, while it's shut down, the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau says.

PP & K clinic Sept. 21

St. Johns High School Football Coach Bill Smiley and his staff will conduct a special clinic next Tuesday evening to help area boys prepare for the Punt, Pass and Kick competition scheduled for Oct. 9.

The clinic will be held at 7 p.m. Sept. 21 in the high school gym. Instruction in punting, passing and place-kicking will be given.

SMILEY and his staff conducted the clinic last year prior to the first Punt, Pass and Kick competition ever held in St. Johns. About 120 boys were on hand for last year's clinic.

Arrangements for the instruction were made by Bill Swears, competition director for the St. Johns event, as an opportunity for all boys registered and who plan to register to receive tips from experts in football skills.

"This clinic will give every boy a chance to see just how they will be graded at the Punt, Pass and Kick competition on Oct. 9," Swears said. "The rules will be explained and demonstrations will show exactly what PP & K calls for. In addition, boys will receive expert coaching in punting, passing and place-kicking."

"I'M SURE EVERY boy who attends the clinic will benefit. I also hope a lot of boys who have not registered will come to the clinic. They're sure to see how easy PP & K is and they can register before the deadline on Oct. 8," he said.

Swears pointed out the demonstrations of football skills would augment tips given in the illustrated booklet free to each boy who registers for Punt, Pass and Kick. These tips were written by Bobby Walden, ace punter of the Minnesota Vikings; Frank Ryan, star quarterback of the Cleveland Browns; and Jim Bakken, top NFL place-kicker of the St. Louis Cardinals.

THE PUNT, Pass and Kick competition, now in its fifth year nationally and its second in St. Johns, is open without charge to boys aged 8 through 13. Local competitions in thousands of towns throughout the country will determine winners in each age group, with district, area and division competitions to produce the 12 top finalists for the National PP & K competition during half-time at the NFL Play-Off Bowl game on Jan. 9, 1966.

In St. Johns, top prizes for the 8-, 9- and 10-year-old winners will be Detroit Lions warm-up jackets, with helmets and footballs as second and third prizes. Boys 11, 12 and 13 will receive gold, silver and bronze trophies. There will be 18 prizes in all.

IN THE competition, boys are judged on the distance and accuracy of their passing, punting and kicking. Punt, Pass and Kick, sponsored nationally by the Ford Dealers of America and the National Football League, is sponsored in St. Johns by Egan Ford Sales, Inc., of 200 W. Higham Street, and the St. Johns Jaycees. Registration headquarters is at Egan's. Boys must be accompanied by a parent or guardian when they register.

Band going to Chesaning

St. Johns and Ashley High School bands will be participating this Saturday in the fourth annual Central Michigan Invitational Marching Clinic and Parade of Bands at Chesaning.

The clinics will be held by Art Hills, assistant dean of Grand Valley State College, and members of the Grand Valley Marching Band. An evening performance by 956 marching musicians will highlight the day.

THE EVENING event will begin at 7:30 and all who enjoy the spectacle of a marching band are urged to attend. Site of the program will be the Chesaning Union High School Athletic Field. There is no admission charge.

The "Parade of Bands" will end with a massed band performance of three exciting numbers. Ninety drum majors and majorettes will put on an exhibition of baton twirling.

Redwings small, face big year with good potential

The Redwings football squad is far from that point, and they'll be fighting a weight problem all year long. "We're potentially good, but we're not a great team," Coach Bill Smiley summarized Monday night.

The Redwings, unbeaten in nine games last season, lost some of their biggest boys last year, and this year's squad will be small. Bill DeGroot, a junior end at 193 and junior centers Terry Estes and Gary Silm at 192 are the only ones in this weight category.

"WE'RE definitely the smallest team all around in the (West Central) conference," Smiley said. "It seems offhand that if we're not in top-notch condition, a real strong team could wear us down. We'll try to remedy this problem by keeping a lot of boys moving into the game."

Smiley has more quality in the team depth this year than in the past, and he plans to play all his players quite a lot in an effort to offset the weight problem.

Probably the biggest test, in terms of weight difference, will come this Friday night in the opening game of the 1965 football season. The Wings will travel to Mason to take on a "big, big" team with plenty of weight and height.

JUST WHO HE'S going to throw at the Mason squad Smiley is not completely sure, but Monday night he was able to pick out some probable starters. Definitely not among them will be tackle Ted Rahl and tackle Ron Bond, both seniors, who are on the injured list with ankle and rib injuries respectively.

Dave Hill, another senior and a valuable utility man wherever he's needed, will probably fill the left tackle spot, and Senior Jim Leonard seems to have the first shot at the left end position. Terry Thurston, a junior, and Roger Beebe, a senior, will likely alternate at left guard, with Thurston now getting the nod for offense and Beebe for defense.

Gary Silm appears to be the starting center, but Terry Estes has looked good. He's been out for a week with a deep muscle pull and just got back to practice Monday.

DON HUNGERFORD, senior, will likely start at right guard, and senior Al Koenigsnecht appears solid at right tackle where he saw considerable action last year. John Hospodar has the edge as starting right end, but senior Dennis Springer is pushing hard and looks like he'll be the defensive end at least.

"We've got what you can really call a pony backfield," Smiley said. "We've got the smallest backfield in the league and certainly in this area."

GENE RADEMACHER, an all-state quarterback last year, is a sure starter, but Smiley is happy to see how well Gary Boyce and Dave Hill have worked out as ball handlers.

At right halfback, Lee Hill will probably start, with Tom McKenzie, senior, showing up in practice as a good backup man.

Boyce, a junior, will probably start at fullback, but Bob Every, senior, will alternate with him and be a defensive linebacker.

RANDY HUMPHREY will likely start at left half, but senior Dan Hynes and sophomore Terry Hart are "coming along good."

"Before the year is out, we hope to be running six backs," Smiley said, "like we did last year."

Asst. Coach Frank Rosengren, who concentrates his time on line and defensive play, will be able to pull a number of switches defensively. Springer, Thurston, Beebe, Koenigsnecht and Hungerford will see most of the action in the line, but Rosengren hopes to be able to alternate freely with Tim Spitzley, Estes and Bob Showers. In the defensive secondary, Leonard, Humphrey, Every, Lee and Dave Hill and Gary Boyce are starters, and McKenzie and Rademacher will help out frequently.

"IT'S VERY hard to pick starters," Smiley admitted. "We've got a number of young fellows who are doing a pretty good job."

Here are some random notes on the two coaches' thoughts about the Redwings team this year:

Team speed—"We hope we are quicker this year than last year, and I think we are. We need it in the line, and Rahl and Hungerford have shown good improvement here."

ENDS—ALL-STATE quarterback Rademacher had great success in passing last year, but he lost ends Al Werbish and Bob Krumm to throw to. Will he throw as much this year? "Our ends are a little bit green yet, but Springer and Leonard have been looking pretty good."

Depth—"We're stronger than ever before back on our third string, and this will probably help before the season is over. They're not ready to do battle yet, though."

Season outlook—"If we are going to have a good season, this team has got to come along and adjust, do things the other teams are doing. We're potentially good, but we're not a great team. We've got to approach the year with the idea that we didn't win all our games last year."

THE LEAGUE—No predictions came from Smiley, but he said Grand Ledge, Lakewood and Hastings would be tough, as well as Greenville and Alma. "If we have a poor night, they'll beat us. They all want revenge."

Kicking—"Our kicking should improve. Boyce will kick the points after touchdown, and Springer will probably do the punting, though Boyce is doing well, too."

The Mason game—"It'll be an important game, especially for our green players. It's a must game for both teams, and it'll set some kind of pattern for the season."

$2 million park land buying OK'd

A $2 million land-buying program for state parks, including the Sleepy Hollow State Park project in Clinton County, has been approved by the Michigan Conservation Commission.

The program, keyed heavily to booming demands for recreational room in Southern Michigan, is to be financed under an appropriation made by the State Legislature for the current fiscal year.

A 550-ACRE lake will be the center of the proposed park in Clinton, located about 10 miles southeast of St. Johns. Other developments for which property is sought include the Ionia recreation area three miles southwest of Ionia, and potential park area of Point Patterson along Mackinac County's shores of Lake Michigan, in the locale of Crooked and Craig lakes in Baraga County, and near Pinconning in Bay County.

tion program also singles out additional lands for acquisition at more than 20 existing and potential state parks and recreation areas.

DESIGNATED FOR purchase are lands adjoining or lying near the presently developed parks of Holland, Van Buren, Pinckney, Island Lake, Brighton, Waterloo, Ortonville, Bald Mountain, Silver Lake, Warren Dunes, Lakeport and Sterling in the Lower Peninsula, and Wells and Fort Wilkins in the UP.

As approved last week, the Conservation Department may also use part of the $2 million to buy key parcels in other park or recreation areas where lands become available at acceptable prices.

The fellow who stays on the level today is no miracle man—he just uses common sense and sound reasoning.

St. Johns quarterback Gene Rademacher cocks his arm for a pass during a scrimmage session with Pewamo-Westphalia at St. Johns Friday evening, while white-helmeted teammates carry out their blocking and faking assignments.

4 from county get elk license

In sharp contrast to last year's one elk hunter, four Clinton area men have been selected by computer this year to hunt elk in a special Dec. 8-16 season in Cheboygan, Presque Isle, Otsego and Montmorency counties.

Among the 300 elk hunting license winners were N. E. Parker of DeWitt, Gordon L. Peterson of St. Johns, Donald Warner Jr. of Laingsburg and Earl Frechen of Fowler.

Last year Joy Tait of rural St. Johns was the only Clinton hunter chosen, and he came back successful.

JVs to play Saturday morning

The only chance to see a daytime football game in St. Johns this fall will come this Saturday when the St. Johns junior varsity Redwings play host to Mason JVs.

The game will start at 11 a.m. Saturday. JV Coach Doug Japinga has reported his squad of 68 boys looks healthy but they have a long way to go to reach last year's excellent record of 8-0. Many top players from last year's team are now playing varsity ball.

VETERAN Asst. Coach Tom Wilson is working with the guards and centers on the team, while new Coach Stan Noyce is handling the tackles and ends. Another newcomer to the coaching staff, Bill Brown, is working with the defensive secondary, and Coach Japinga instructs the backfield.

President's Cup day this Sunday

President's Cup Day, an annual event to honor the club president, will be held this Sunday at the Clinton County Country Club. Ralph Lynam is president this year.

Events will start with a breakfast between 7:30 and 9 a.m., with golf to follow. Scheduled are a combination handicap - medal tournament for the President's Cup, and a combination handicap-best-ball tournament for other prizes.

The event will be the last organized golf play of the season.

The annual meeting of the country club members will be Sept. 29.

A respectful listener not only makes a good impression—he stands a chance of learning something.

It's football contest time

Clinton football fans can win a $20 bill this week and every week of the football season again this year. Sponsored by St. Johns and Clinton a rea advertisers, the Clinton County News' 10th annual football contest begins this week.

The football contest is on Page 1 B. There are 20 advertisers, and 20 games for the coming week are listed. The persons who picks the most winners of those games is the winner of the $20 bill. To enter, all you have to do is read the ads and select the winner.

EACH AD AND each game is numbered. Write the advertisers' names on a piece of paper and after each one write the name of the team you think will win the game.

The person who picks the most winners each week will receive the $20 prize. To discourage any ties, a 21st game is listed in a separate box in the center of the page. Include at the bottom of your entry the total points—by both teams—you will think will be scored in that particular game. In the event of a tie on the first 20 games, the person who guesses the closest to the correct total score of the tie-breaker will win the contest.

IN THE event two or more contestants pick the same number of winners and tie on the tie-breaker, too, the prize money will be divided.

Entries must be postmarked no later than 6 p.m. Friday of each week, or they may be brought to the Clinton County News office before 5 p.m. Friday. Address mail entries to: Contest Editor, Clinton County News, St. Johns, Mich. 48879.

Entries must be legibly written or typed on a plain sheet of paper no smaller than 5 x 7 inches. Entries smaller than that are liable to be lost in the large stack of entries received each week. ONLY ONE entry is allowed per person.

Complete rules are listed on the contest page. Be sure to read them before you send in your entry, and be sure your name and address is on your entry, not just on the envelope. Winners will be announced each week on the sports page.

A Proclamation

United States citizenship is a glorious possession representing the dreams and struggles of men for centuries. Our Constitution, which guarantees priceless freedoms to our citizens, sets forth a concept of liberty that has been an inspiration to free-dom-loving people everywhere.

Therefore, it is most fitting to stress the significance of "Constitution Week" and "Citizenship Day."

I call on all the citizens of St. Johns to rededicate themselves to those common purposes for which the Constitution was established.

I therefore urge the citizens of St. Johns to observe the week of Sept. 17-23 with appropriate ceremonies and activities in the school and churches and to display the flag of the United States.

Old Egypt had baths

The idea of a separate room in the house set aside for bathing is not an American invention, as many people believe. The pharaohs of Egypt had separate four-room apartments for each favorite in the harem. Each apartment consisted of a bedroom, living room, clothes closet and bathroom.

Notices demand sewer hookup

Thirty-three notices have been sent out by the City of St. Johns to persons whose buildings are not on record as being hooked to the sanitary sewer system where a sewer main is reasonably available.

A number of sewer hookup applications have been made since the notices were sent out, and City Manager Ken Greer said he feels most of the places will have complied with the city commission's July ruling demanding sewer hookup by the end of a 60-day deadline.

AN ORDINANCE passed in 1948 rules that all places reasonably close to a sanitary sewer system must use it. Most of the places not hooked up have septic tanks, but Greer pointed out that these can go bad quickly and can create a real health problem.

"This is one piece of legislation that hits all businessmen, professional and industrial employers right in the pocketbook. It's something about which we should all be concerned," McKenzie said. Miscellaneous actions of county board

In miscellaneous business carried out by the Clinton County Board of Supervisors last Wednesday, these items were acted upon.

The board asked for some proof of the quality of a new type of construction proposed by Everett G. Martin of Viceroy Homes of Roseville. He said the construction, of cedar wood planks which interlock, is of comparable strength as the 2 x 4 on 24-inch centers as specified in the zoning ordinance of the county for Zone B residential. The board said they would have no objections to such a home being built at Lake Victoria if Viceroy Homes would supply the zoning administrator and the board's zoning committee with engineering or architectural verification of the comparable strength.

CIVIL DEFENSE Director Charles Frost showed the supervisors the color movie film "If Disaster Strikes" and asked the board to encourage participation of residents in the medical self-help classes being planned for this fall. Frost praised the people of the Westphalia area for their quick action in forming self-help classes there. The first of a five-session course started there Monday night.

The records and equipment committee was given power to act in purchasing equipment for the probation office; four desks, typewriter, adding machine, filing cabinets and another cabinet for the county clerk's office; and two new typing chairs and an electric typewriter for the circuit court.

A RESOLUTION was passed transferring $3,297.54 from the general fund to the revolving drain fund to be credited to Branch One of the Big Horn Drain for expenses incurred before the project was dropped.

Board Chairman Almond Cressman appointed the board as a committee as a whole to attend a House Apportionment hearing on the one-man, one-vote proposition last Thursday in Frankenuh; a tax conference meeting in Detroit Sept. 12-14; and a meeting of the 6th District Association of Supervisors Sept. 15 at Howell.

F. G. BUTLER, a member of the Lansing Mayor's River Improvement Committee, appeared before the board to answer questions in regard to Clinton's apparent reluctance concerning the Grand River Basin Steering Committee.

A resolution was passed relinquishing jurisdiction to Lansing over the Haze intercounty drain for the portion within the City of Lansing. Lansing is to maintain the drain so that it will continue to benefit the small portion of it that is in Clinton County.

The county board gave the City of St. Johns permission to use data processing for spreading taxes and preparing tax notices for this winter.

WONDERING ABOUT ADVERTISING?

Here Are Some Facts To Consider!

ADVERTISING VALUE

The true value of advertising lies not always in the actual offering of merchandise for sale, but in a subtler manner . . . the keeping before the public eye the name of your place of business and the names of the products you carry.

The average consumer of the articles you sell, when he has no immediate need of those articles, does not buy. But the constant association of yourself and those articles in persistent advertising in the Clinton County News will in time produce results.

Mr. Merchant:

1. Your advertising message in the Clinton County News goes into more homes in Clinton County than any other kind of advertising.
2. Every big store in America built its business with newspaper advertising and relies on it today.
3. A full page advertisement in the Clinton County News cost less than TWO CENTS per family you reach.
4. Your advertisement is a part of the Clinton County News that everybody wants to read.
5. You get thousands of SHOW WINDOWS. People can see what you want to sell . . . pictures, prices and descriptions.
6. Clinton County wives and mothers plan their buying while they're reading the Clinton County News. So do their menfolks.
7. Your Clinton County News is more carefully read, by more members of each family, than any other advertising medium, and its readers believe in it.
8. Your national manufacturer and distributor can join you in advertising the products you have to sell.

Clean your showerhead

If that shower in your bath joits you with a stream instead of a spray, your showerhead may be clogged with mineral deposits. To regain the gentle spray, remove the showerhead face, clean the holes with needle or wire, and scrub the back surface. If the water still doesn't spray correctly, it's time to get a new showerhead.

ASC PROGRAM

Release of 1966 wheat allotments authorized

W. M. SMITH
County ASC Manager

We have received authorization to send out 1966 wheat allotments to wheat producers. The 1966 wheat allotments are a little lower than the 1965 allotments because the 1966 national allotment is less than for this year.

Many producers are calling us wanting information regarding the 1966 wheat program. All I have is the basic provisions of the House bill which are:

1. SUSPEND marketing quotas while the program is in effect.
2. Continue and simplify computation of state, county, and farm allotments; allotments would be computed on the basis of the preceding year's allotment instead of 5 and 10-year averages.
3. Benefits would be computed on the basis of projected yields instead of being tied to historical averages.
4. ACREAGE allotments with payments for diversion of acreage to conserving use would be continued.
5. Diversion payments authorized on additional voluntary diversion up to 50 per cent of farm allotment.

By law, the national acreage allotment is established at an amount which will be expected to produce the total quantity of wheat required to meet anticipated needs.

THE TOTAL wheat needed for 1966 is about the same as needed for 1965, but with the general increase in yields, fewer acres are required to produce this need quantity. Nationally, this reduction in acres is about 3.4 per cent.

We contemplate there will be no fall sign-up for the 1966 wheat program. Instead, we expect to conduct a sign-up in the feed grain and wheat programs concurrently.

6. Domestic marketing certificates would be issued for not less than 500 million bushels annually.

7. Wheat with domestic certificates would be supported at or near 100 per cent of parity, or about $2.50 a bushel.

8. SUPPORT non-certificate wheat through loans at a level based on competitive world prices and feeding value of wheat related to feed grains.

9. Continue authority for export certificates.

10. Allow substitution of wheat and feed grain acreages as in 1965.

11. Leave minimum resale price of CCC wheat at present level.

12. PROVIDE authority to broaden provisions for exempting flour not used for human consumption from marketing certificate requirement.

Additional 1966 program information is dependent upon action by the Congress and will be made available as soon as possible.

Miss Diane Evitts underwent an appendectomy at the Carson City Hospital last week.

Mr and Mrs William Ernst and Maxine visited Mr and Mrs Louis G. Thelen at Fowler on Thursday evening.

Rev and Mrs Herman Rossow Jr. and sons of Fairgrove spent last week Sunday and Monday with his parents, Mr and Mrs Herman Rossow.

David Moritz entertained the Walther League of the Fowler Lutheran Church at his home on Sunday afternoon.

Mr and Mrs Floyd Foerch and daughter, Sandra and John Foerch were Thursday evening visitors of Mr and Mrs Edmund Falk.

Mrs Fred Hecht called on her sister last Thursday at the Ingham Medical Hospital.

The hardest thing in the world to get is an honest opinion.

IT'S A STIHL

You spell it STIHL — but pronounce it a STEAL — which is what it really is! With this chain saw you get more of everything you are looking for.

Take the D-24 — known as the "Lightning"! It's rugged and fast. Big timber really falls under its powerful 9 horse direct drive. A top performance champion, far ahead of competition when the chips are down. Its "plus factors" include fully automatic chain oiler; automatic quantity control; speed governor; handy oil inspection window and a long life precision engineered cylinder and piston.

25% MORE POWER than competitively priced saws and comes in 17", 21", 25" and 33" bars.

Try the Stihl-07 — a 6 horsepower beauty — designed for high performance with pulpwood and medium sized timber. Like its big brother, has full automatic chain oiler protection; speed governor; and direct drive. Comes with 17" and 21" bars and is far out front of competitors in price vs. quality.

Use the Stihl-08 — our handiest lightweight saw. Weighs only 17 lbs. (including chain and bar). 5 horsepower — direct drive — piston type automatic chain oiler and speed governor. New "super silent" muffler really cuts noise, while you're cutting wood. Has 13" and 17" hard metal tipped bar and 16" roller nose bar. Power unit smoothly adapts to STIHL earth boring and forest cultivating attachments.

Just a few examples of why STIHL is a STEAL!

Unbalanced plaids make a difference

BY BETTY KETCHAM
County Extension Agent
Home Economics

anced plaids are easiest to sew with.

Sewing with plaids can be fun or frustrating, depending on whether you are sewing with an unbalanced or balanced plaid.

Plaids also can add pounds. The larger the plaid and the sharper the color contrast, the more pounds are added. They emphasize body contours.

Plaids of large designs, intense colors, or both, are not good choices for full-busted individuals or those with figure problems. Small scale plaids in muted colors are more becoming.

SELECT A simple pattern with few seams. Let the plaid dominate the style. Good design is usually achieved when plaids are not used in more than two directions in the same dress. Bias cut blouses may be combined with straight cut skirts, or a straight cut blouse may look well with a bias cut skirt. If bias is used for the entire dress, it looks best in a medium-sized even plaid.

Plan to buy more material for matching plaids. The larger the plaid the more material you need for matching.

Pick a pattern with a plaid garment on the front of the pattern envelope. This pattern will work successfully with plaids.

THEN—know your plaids. Bal-

There are several ways to tell if a plaid is balanced. If all the blocks are square, an easy and quick way to check balance is to fold the material on a true bias. The plaid is balanced if the colors, lines and spaces match.

Another quick way to identify balanced plaid is to fold the fabric at the center of any repeat both from side to side and from top to bottom. If the colors and designs overlay exactly in each direction, it's an even or a balanced plaid.

AFTER YOU'VE selected your pattern and plaid, try on your plaid material. Decide where on your figure the most dominate vertical design looks best. Then decide where on your figure you like the dominant horizontal line and color. Do you want it at the hem of the skirt, the lower edge of jacket or the yoke line?

If a heavy crosswise stripe is placed at the base of the neck, it gives width to the figure. Make sure the main block of plaid is at shoulder or above bust line, especially if the plaid has a dominant horizontal color design.

After you've made all these decisions, it's time to place, cut and sew.

Years ago, the bathroom had to look as white and surgical as an operating room. Now fixtures come in many colors. This enables the creative homemaker to decorate her bathroom as imaginatively as the rest of the house.

Seated, right, is Hannele Laurila, Finnish exchange student who attends St. Johns High School. Also pictured are two members of the Hugh Eldridge family with whom she stays. They are Peg and Mrs. Eldridge.

MRS. JESSIE V. HOLSINGER

Woman, 90, travels to St. Johns often

A former St. Johns woman who attributes her longevity to "just work" celebrated her 90th birthday in Flint, last week.

She is Mrs. Jessie V. Holsinger of Flint, formerly Jessie Woodruff.

Mrs. Holsinger worked in Flint for Buick from 1923 to 1935 and maintained a home for herself near Mount Morris until four years ago. She lives with Mr and Mrs Percy Howell, 154 East Hobson Street, Flint.

SHE DOES not use a cane for the short walks she likes to take by herself. She makes quilts and knits mittens for the Old Newsboys campaign to help needy children.

She also enjoys riding in cars and every summer visits relatives and friends in St. Johns, among which are her brother, Howard Woodruff of Euclid Street; her granddaughter, Mrs. Rex Millerson, Laingsburg; and a friend, Mrs. Mabel Purvis of 106 Spring Street.

SHE HAS TWO sons, Van R.

Merrill, Flint, and Richard L. Merrill, Interlochen.

She also has a stepdaughter, Mrs. Henry Wolfgang, near Grand Blanc, and three stepsons, Nelson and Russell E. Holsinger, both of Flint, and Clifford Holsinger, Genesee.

Lutheran Guild plans potluck

The St. John's Lutheran Ladies Guild met Thursday, Sept. 2, at the church for an installation of officers.

Installed by Rev. Theodore C. Moeller, Jr. were Mrs. Lloyd Ernst, president; Mrs. Carl Boak, treasurer; and Ellen Halsey, secretary. Mrs. Sally Martin, vice president, was not present for the installation.

Plans for a family night potluck, to be held Sunday, Oct. 10, were made, after which refreshments were served.

"May we have the next dents" is a nifty sign seen on the side of a truck belonging to a body-and-fender shop.

Finnish exchange student enrolled at high school

BY PATRICIA HOLMES

The country of Finland has a representative in the senior class at Rodney B. Wilson High School this year.

She is pretty Hannele Laurila of Muhos, Finland, a foreign exchange student on the Youth for Understanding Program, who will make her home with the Hugh Eldridges of 412 Meadowview Dr. until next July.

Hannele, who arrived from her home town in northern Finland, Aug. 26, will study junior English, physics, American history, government and trigonometry for the next year. She will graduate in June and return for two more years of study under the Finnish School System.

"THE FINNISH School System consists of primary school which one attends for 4 or 5 years and secondary school," Hannele said. Secondary school is divided into lower, which one attends for 5 years, and upper, which one attends for 3 years, she said. She has completed one year of upper secondary school.

Throughout her six years in secondary school, she studied English and speaks it well. She also studied Swedish, which is the official language of Finland, and German.

Hannele, who feels guilty about only studying five subjects said that Finnish students study more subjects in a given time because one subject is only given two or three times a week.

NYBS Club holds its 39th reunion Sept. 10

On Sept. 10 the 39th annual reunion of the NYBS Club was held at the L & L Restaurant with a 1 o'clock luncheon. There were 20 members and 9 guests present.

The member who came the greatest distance was Mrs. Elva Ridenour Brown from Sarasota, Fla. She brought as her guest Mrs. Edith Munro of St. Johns. Other out-of-town members were Mrs. Jennie Wyckoff McNutt of Port Huron, Mrs. Ivah Bond Grof of Chippewa Lake, Miss Winifred Cross of Flint with her guest Mrs. Eathel Crane of Flushing, Mrs. Theo Tinkham Wood of Jackson with her guest, Mrs. Lena Megley Joslyn of the same city; Mrs. Nettie Taylor Buck of Lansing with her guest, Mrs. Flora Conn.

MRS VEDA Troop Terbush came from Owosso and Mrs. Susie Tucker Wilbur of Eisle brought her daughter, Mrs. Louise Bennett. Mrs. Thelma Thorburn of Lansing was the guest of Mrs. Gertrude Mitchell. Other local guests were Mrs. Margaret Canning, Mrs. Jessie Finch and Mrs. Leatha Estes.

As many of these ladies see each other only once a year, the time was spent in visiting, looking at pictures and listening to letters from Mrs. Julia Stocker VanBurger of Fort Pierce, Fla., and Mrs. Bernice Hodge Smith of Mesa, Ariz.

At a short business meeting Mrs. Agnes Wright Baker was re-elected president and Miss Carmen Tranchell, secretary-treasurer. The group voted unanimously to have the meeting next year at the L & L Restaurant. As it will be the 40th reunion without a break, a special celebration will be planned.

THE FINNISH Schools require that students take gymnastics and Hannele said she intends to join the Girls Athletic Ass'n. at St. Johns High School.

Hannele's family in Finland consists of her mother, Eine, who owns and operates a beauty shop, her father, Viljo, owner and operator of a milk farm, and her brother Pertti, 20, who works with her father on the farm.

"The young men in Finland are required to serve a term of about 10 months in the Finnish army," she said, "and my brother will begin his term this winter."

THE HUGH Eldridges, Hannele's stateside family for the coming year, have two daughters, Janice, who began studies as a freshman at Central Michigan University last week, and Peg, a junior at St. Johns High School.

"I'm interested in seeing everything," Hannele said. She has already observed much in the comparatively brief time she has been in the United States.

D. M. Dietricks travel in north following rites

Northern Michigan was the honeymoon destination of Mr and Mrs Duane M. Dietrick who were married, Sunday afternoon, Sept. 5, at the Nazarene Church, Lake Odessa.

The bride is the former Nora Atherton, daughter of Mr and Mrs Edward Atherton Sr., Wacousta. The bridegroom is the son of Mr and Mrs Alexander Lang, Wacousta.

Rev. Elwyn Dietrick, brother of the bridegroom, officiated at the double ring rite, at which only the immediate family was present.

THE BRIDE wore a beige ensemble and carried a large white orchid.

Mr and Mrs Edward Fasnight of Dimondale, sister and brother-in-law of the bridegroom, were their only attendants.

A reception will be held Sunday, Sept. 19, at the Wacousta Community Church.

The newlyweds will reside on West Saginaw Street, Lansing.

Hannele, like every girl, is interested in dress.

"GIRLS dress almost the same in Finland and the US," she said, "with the exception that in Finland the girls wear their skirts longer." The prints are different in cotton materials and women do not wear flowered hats, she said.

Bermuda shorts were entirely new to Hannele and one of the first items she bought upon arriving in the US was a pair of bermudas.

"In Finland, the girls wear slacks or, on the beach, short shorts," she said.

The big difference which she noticed in dress was in boys' wear. She said that in Finland, boys wore their clothing looser, not only in slacks, but also in tops, through the bodice.

DURING HER first American meals, Hannele learned that, unlike the Finnish, Americans do not use a knife constantly.

"The Finnish have a knife in their hands throughout their meals," she said. "They drink coffee every morning, afternoon and evening between meals and eat a lot of sweet rolls."

'First's' for Hannele were eating corn on the cob and attending a drive-in movie, both of which she said she found to her liking. But, she said, there are more advertisements on US television and in Finland there is no advertising on the radio at all.

Hannele sews and is what many Americans would consider a fast knitter. During her first two weeks in the US, she knitted a sweater and sewed a skirt and a blouse. She also plays the piano and likes classical and popular music and jazz, she said.

She was the guest of honor at a mother-daughter party, hosted by Mrs. John Rumbaugh, recently.

Bement Library
Book Shelf
By Hila Bross

Here's a timely question: Why do birds fly south? The answer is on page four of our new copy of Bennet Cerf's "Book of Riddles."

Patrons of our children's department will be happy to know that we have some fresh new copies of some of their old favorites by Maj Lindman. We have six books in the series about the little Swedish girls, Flicka, Ricka and Dicka, and four new ones about the Swedish boys, Snipp, Snapp and Snurr. A few of these are new to the library, but most are replacements of well worn copies of these beloved old friends.

A BRAND NEW book in the children's department is "Forest Animals," printed in France but published by Grosset and Dunlap of New York. Lavishly illustrated by Romain Simon, the book begins with the red fox and ends with the gray wolf. In between are articles and pictures about deer, cinnamon bears, the horned owl, the wild hare, and even something called "the mystery animal," to mention only a few. The front and back pages picture and identify many different leaves, and there are even a few simple poems about creatures of the forest. All in all, the book should be a delight not only to the child who reads it, but to the parent who peeks over his shoulder.

Book and magazine markets are being flooded with works about our late President, John F. Kennedy. Popular among all age groups are those consisting mostly of pictures with brief captions, but unfortunately these deal mainly with the tragic events surrounding the assassination. The heavier books, dealing with President Kennedy's earlier life and his political career, are, alas, too heavy for youngsters to enjoy and appreciate.

AUTHOR BRUCE Lee's book, "Boys' Life of John F. Kennedy," meets the need of the younger age group. Covering the period from boyhood to that fateful day in November 1963, this book boasts a number of family pictures as well as others of important state events. It contains the complete text of Kennedy's inaugural address, and covers the assassination briefly but with dignity and respect. We hope that its title will not limit its circulation to boys alone, nor even to young people. It is a book well worth the time of anyone who enjoys interesting, non-analytical biography.

Another newcomer to our biography section is a book by Helen B. Walters, entitled "Wernher Von Braun, Rocket Engineer." Wernher Von Braun was reared in as prosperous a home as John F. Kennedy, but in a different tradition and environment. The account of childhood incidents in the life of this son of a German baron, his rise to the role of a top German scientist during Hitler's regime, and his ultimate arrival to the top echelons of American space scientists, comprise a fascinating story.

VON BRAUN explains his personal surrender to the American Army in 1945 in the following words: "The reason I chose America in particular is that Americans had a reputation for having an especially intense devotion to individual freedom and human rights. Their traditional disinterest in conquest and their careful system of checks and balances in government offered the highest guarantee that any knowledge I entrusted to them would not be used wantonly."

The book contains pictures of Von Braun with Astronaut John Glenn and with President Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson, then vice president.

NEXT TIME you come to Bement Public Library, be careful that you don't try to walk right through the large pane of glass in our lovely new east door.

That reminds us, maybe you'd like the answer to that riddle right now. Birds fly south because it's too far to walk.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

The responsibilities of individual involvement and participation in the governmental process are unending, not only for those who are your elected representatives but for you as citizens. Take this year, for example. We have concluded what has been, in most respects, a fruitful legislative session. Yet the work has just begun.

We enter the fall season with many important tasks awaiting us, all of which will require the understanding and the active participation of you as responsible participants in our state's political process. Let me cite just one of the noteworthy jobs ahead.

This is the resumption of the legislative session to deal primarily with our state's tax system and the revenue requirements of the near future. If you have been keeping abreast of this situation, you are aware that we have been attempting for some months to arrive at a tax reform program that will command bipartisan consideration this fall. I am still confident that we will find such a program and that it will receive the support it will need if we are to revamp our tax system and also produce the financial resources necessary to meet the explosive needs ahead. Success of this venture will depend importantly on your understanding and your willingness to stand behind this administration on such an issue.

I could cite many other forthcoming programs, such as the difficult task of reorganizing the executive branch of state government, that will require more than the usual activity and cooperation for this time of year.

But I want to direct your attention to the local elections being held in your community. Too often people get excited only when these are national and or statewide elections. However, it is essential that everyone become informed on local candidates and issues and then vote.

An intelligent vote at the local level can be of the greatest benefit to you. Your local officials and judges are closer to your problems and deal with them on a daily basis.

I call upon each of you to remain active in the coming months - Informing your legislators of your desire to see fiscal reform become a reality this year and voting in any local election your community may be conducting this fall.

If you drive safely yourself in traffic you are helping in the big scheme of making driving safer for everyone.

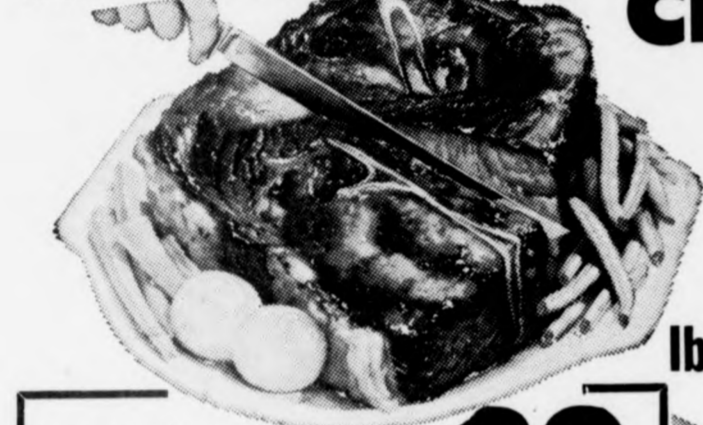

Seek curb, gutter on 2 city streets

Two initiatory resolutions for curb and gutter on St. Johns streets were passed by the city commission last week following presentation of petitions by property owners.

The two blocks involved are the 300 block of North Traver Street and the 700 block of West Baldwin Street. The resolutions passed by the commission direct the city manager to prepare a report on the projects, including his recommendations.

In Michigan, after a day's fishing beer's the one... for good taste, good fun

Wherever you fish for sport—on the ocean, by the booming surf, or on some quiet country pond, it's great at the end of the day to head for a rewarding glass of beer. While you're talking over the ones that got away, or pan-frying the ones that didn't, you enjoy the hearty taste and cool refreshment only a glass of beer can give you so well. Yes, whatever your sport—bowling or strolling, golfing or gardening—a frosty glass of beer makes a naturally great accompaniment.

Residents of Clinton County are fortunate to have the simple means now at hand to wipe out polio forever. The Sabin oral polio vaccine is taken on a cube of sugar. It's painless and, in fact, pleasant tasting. No shots to worry about, and this makes it doubly important in the vaccinating of children.

A contribution of 50 cents per person receiving the vaccine is asked to help offset the cost of obtaining the vaccine and putting on the clinics, but no one will be turned away. This is very inexpensive protection against a very expensive disease. Can you and your family afford NOT to take the vaccine?

Michigan autumn time enchants state travelers

There was a time, not too many years ago, when Labor Day marked the end of the Michigan vacation season.

Today the holiday marks the beginning of an appealing time for the many people who have vacation time left and are not affected by the school bell.

Michigan in autumn is a perfect vacation spot for the sight-seer, the photographer, the camper, the fisherman and hunter.

FLOAT trips or canoe trips down some of the state's 3,000 miles of rivers and streams take on an added flavor as the tree-lined shores turn from green to gold, red, brown and scarlet.

Fall foliage, of course, adds to the enjoyment of the season but there are many reasons why the months of September, October and November have a great deal to offer Michigan vacationers and weekend visitors.

WARM DAYS and cool nights combine with attractions that are less crowded and accommodations which often offer lower rates to make the season a valuable extension of summer.

Sight-seeing in the famous Keweenaw Peninsula of Michigan's Upper Peninsula is a major autumn attraction as travelers along Brockway Mountain Drive gaze out over thousands of acres of lake-dotted forest lands. A similar view awaits the visitor to the Porcupine Mountains a short drive to the south.

Crossing the famous Mackinac Bridge, headed south, the autumn visitor can add to his Michigan vacation enjoyment by taking one of the many side trips the northern lower peninsula has to offer. A particularly popular trip leads from the village of Levering on US-31 to Cross Village and then on Michigan 131 around the western curve of northwest lower Michigan to Petoskey.

DURING MUCH of the drive the traveler will be passing under multi-colored leafy arches which turn the road into a tunnel of lights.

Another popular tour, farther south, takes visitors along Michigan 72 down the beautiful Au Sable River Valley from Grayling to the Lake Huron shore. Along the way there are side trips to such attractions as the famous Mason Chapel, the shrine of Our Lady of the Woods at Mio and the Lumberman's Monument.

In southeastern Michigan visitors in autumn have a variety of tours radiating from the Detroit area including a drive along Michigan 29 which follows the St. Clair River, one of the world's most active water ways, north to Port Huron or a trip to the history-rich Irish Hills area on the old post road between Detroit and Chicago.

AUTUMN CAMPERS get an added bonus in Michigan with less crowded campgrounds and longer time limits, 45 days in one park or recreation area.

Fall festivals and harvest friendliness add to the joy of the season and insure a variety of activity for weekend guests and vacationers.

Two Tourist Council publications, "Color Tour Guide" and "Michigan Canoe Trails," suggest scores of vantage points from which to enjoy the season.

COLT RAM-JECTOR

HOW YOUR PRIMARY INJECTION MANIFOLD WORKS

The COLT primary manifold has two open intakes taking in air at a 30° angle. As the air, which is moving in a straight line, in respect to the automobile, comes into contact with the manifold, the air must increase its velocity as it is deflected toward the carburetor intake. This results in acceleration of the air by 30%, which produces a "Ram" effect.

MANIFOLD INJECTION

A venturi is installed in the left intake horn. The front side of the venturi is the pressure side, which feeds pressure through a tube and into the tank and exhausts beneath the surface of the solution. In effect, this "percolation" of the solution causes vapors to rise from the solution. Since the back of the venturi is the vacuum side, and since it is connected to a fitting in the top of the tank, it sucks the fumes into the primary manifold, mixing them with the air before entering the carburetor.

Extensive testing has shown that in addition to INCREASING HORSEPOWER OUTPUT carbon does not readily form. If carbon has formed prior to the installation of your Ram-Jector, approximately ten (10) miles of high speed (70 to 80) m.p.h.) operation and the carbon will be removed.

MSU student, uncle end European visit

ELSIE—Travel abroad for two months came to a close Tuesday, Sept. 2, for Cleon E. Rumbaugh of DeWitt and his nephew, Larry Rumbaugh, son of Mr and Mrs Elwyn Rumbaugh of rural Elsie with a visit to the World's Fair in New York City.

Rumbaugh is a science teacher at Pottsville Junior High School in Lansing and Larry is a junior at Michigan State University, majoring in electronics.

This was Larry's third summer trip with his uncle. The others included parts of the United States and Canada. The purpose of the tour was to learn more about the European way of life.

LARRY RUMBAUGH

THEIR first stop was in London, where they spent a week exploring many of London's historical landmarks. Larry said he was surprised to see the Roman and Greek influence in the architecture of the buildings of London. He and his uncle also attended sessions of Parliament in both the House of Commons and the House of Lords.

After visiting Canterbury and Coventry Cathedrals, they went to Birmingham near where Cleon Rumbaugh had taught as a Fulbright Exchange Teacher in 1957 and 1958. After a visit with friends and former students, they stopped in Durham and the old walled city of York. Then it was on to Edinburgh, Scotland. Larry liked Edinburgh, he said, where, unlike London, the streets were straight.

FROM Glasgow, they flew to Bergen, Norway. There, they took a boat trip to the Sogne Fjord. At Vik they took the bus back over the snow-covered mountains to Voss and then a train back to Bergen. They visited the home of composer, Edvard Grieg, an 800-year-old Fana church and an old restored stave church.

When they attended the Fana Folk Festival, they heard Norway's national instrument, the Hardanger Fiddle, in which there are four additional strings which produce a sound similar to the drone of bagpipes.

They traveled by train to Oslo, where they saw the Kon Tiki Raft, the city hall and the Vigeland Sculptures. They visited Stockholm, Copenhagen and Kronborg Castle in Elsinore.

IN GERMANY, they visited Cologne, site of the world's largest Gothic Cathedral, and at Bonn, capital of the German Republic and Beethoven's birthplace, they boarded the boat for a trip up the Rhine River.

Nuremberg, Bamberg and Frankfurt were included in the trip. Larry said he enjoyed the excursions to the old town of Heidelberg, Hitler's summer home in Berchtesgarden and Oberammergau.

In Italy, the water highways of Venice offered a change from the hard rough cobble streets of the rest of Europe. Here they visited St. Mark's Square, the Doges' Palace where they walked across the Bridge of Sighs to visit the ancient prisons and a boat ride down the Grand Canal and around the city to the Island of Murano where they visited one of the many glass factories.

IN ROME, the Eternal City and center of Roman Culture, they visited the Colosseum, Roman Forum, the Pantheon, Baths of Caracalla, St. Peter's Basilica, the Vatican Museums and Sistine Chapel, Hadrian's Tomb, the Catacombs, and Trevi Fountain in which Larry threw three coins in hopes that he would some day return to Rome, he said.

After spending a day in the Ruins of Pompeii and Herculaneum, they took a train to Florence, the city of art. There, at the Uffizi Gallery and Pitti Palace, Larry said he recognized many of the paintings which he had studied in his humanities class at MSU.

Before leaving Italy, they took a side trip to Pisa where Larry climbed the leaning tower to retrace the footsteps of Galileo. Next they headed for the Swiss Alps where they toured Lucerne, the Glacier Gardens, Lion of Lucerne and ascended Mount Pilatus on the world's steepest cog-wheel railway.

WITH THE time left, they decided to see Paris before returning home.

In Paris, they took in such sights as the Arch of Triomphe, Eiffel Tower, the Louvre, Saint Chapelle, Notre Dame, The Pantheon, Sacre Coeur and Napoleon's Tomb.

On their way to Amsterdam, they stopped in Dordrecht to visit Miss Marlene Schaafsma, an alma college student who attended Alma College with Larry's cousin, Janyth Rumbaugh of St. Johns, last year. After a visit, Larry and his uncle continued on to Delft and the Hague where they visited the Peace Palace. In Amsterdam, they saw the Ann Frank House, Rembrandt home, Rijksmuseum, heard several barrel organs and took such side trips as to the cheese market at Alkmaar and a canal trip to Volendam and the Island of Marken.

AT SCHIPHOL Airport they were met by the Schaafsma family who wished them a good trip home.

After a few days at home, they concluded their trip with the World's Fair tour.

(87th House District)

In preparing my sixth report, based on new legislation, I have added other newly enacted laws affecting local governmental units, which we discussed in my last column. There were also a considerable number of bills to alter state liquor laws proposed during the 1965 session, which may be of general interest.

LOCAL GOVERNMENTAL UNITS—

—Require a county to pay the salary and expenses of a visiting probate judge.

—Authorize county road commissions to participate in the cost of insurance for their employees and their dependents where the board of supervisors has not provided such benefits.

—ESTABLISH permanent license plates for public vehicles that are eligible for plates at a reduced weight tax.

—Provide that county treasurers, after Jan. 1, 1966, shall collect from inheritance taxes probated after that date an additional one-half of 1 per cent for county general fund purposes.

LIQUOR LAWS LEGISLATION

—Enacted were bills to:

—Exempt distillers from a 1933 provision of the liquor control act requiring 25 per cent of their stock to be owned by citizens of Michigan—thus clearing the way for the construction of a $4 million vodka distillery plant in Allen Park.

—Allow the State Liquor Control Commission and local units to approve liquor licenses at publicly-operated airports in counties with a population of 100,000 or more. Such licenses would be over and above those granted under existing license quotas.

—PROVIDE that the transfer in the aggregate of more than 10 per cent of the outstanding stock of a corporation licensed to sell alcoholic beverages constitutes a transfer of an interest in a license for which a transfer fee shall be paid.

—Establish a new definition under the liquor laws that a "church" must be an entire house or separate structure used primarily for the purposes of public worship, have a clergyman associated with it, and be tax exempt.

AMONG THE liquor proposals prevented from final enactment by veto of the governor were bills to:

—Permit the serving of alcoholic beverages in state armories by organizations renting the use thereof.

—Grant a 10 per cent discount to retailers on the sales and excise taxes on liquor. This change in the discount formula now used by the Liquor Control Commission would have given Michigan's 2,200 specially designated distributors (SDD's) an additional profit of $1.8 million annually, with a corresponding loss to the state of this amount in tax revenues.

AT LEAST temporarily benched by the Legislature were numerous other proposals, including bills to:

—Reduce the "nuisance tax" on beer from its present $6.61 per barrel to $2.50.

—Permit Sunday liquor sales on local option basis.

—Prohibit anyone under 21 years of age from importing liquor from a foreign country—with Canada as the main target.

—Prevent retailers from using beer or ale as loss leader items by selling them below cost.

Ordinance concerns sewer rate

The St. Johns City Commission passed a new ordinance last Tuesday evening, this one No. 186 concerning water and sewer rates. It actually amends Ordinances No. 141 and No. 174.

Water rates are spelled out, but they are actually the rates now in effect. The ordinance also provides that "charges for sewer service shall be 95 per cent of the actual water bill, but not less than $4.50 per quarter, except as a special rate.

SPECIAL SEWER rates are provided for in the new ordinance but with special limitations. For instance, no industrial special rate shall be less than 50 per cent of the water bill; and no residential special rate shall be less than 75 per cent of the water bill.

Special rates can be established only by resolution of the City commission set forth in the minutes of the meeting at which the resolution is adopted. The ordinance will take effect Sept. 27.

SENT OUT soon after the passage of the ordinance were letters to each customer who has been receiving a special sewer rate. The letter points out that if the customer wishes to continue getting a special sewer rate they must apply in writing and submit supporting data to the city commission, which will then officially establish a special sewer rate.

City Manager Ken Greer said there are only 21 persons or firms who have been receiving some sort of special sanitary sewer rate, ranging from nothing to 100 per cent on the water charge. There are eight customers or accounts that utilize sanitary sewer facilities and have their own private water systems; those customers will also need to have a special sewer rate established.

Boy Scout camp grows

Northwoods Reservation, the Boy Scout council camp, has ended a most successful 1965 summer session. James Wilkinson of Mason, camping chairman, announced an increase of Scout campers, 1,143 this year over 1,127 for 1964. The camp also earned an "A" rating from regional inspectors on the National Standard Par 100 rating plan.

Northwoods Reservation is located 17 miles northeast of West Branch, and has completed its fourth season. Dwight Hazlett of East Lansing, served as the 1965 camp director.

FEATURED this year were canoe trips each week for the troops in camp down the Rifle River. Equipment and staff were provided for the troops, and proved very popular. The new commissary service building was equipped and used this year. The new facility houses the food issue, trading post, director's office, and staff dining room.

Aquatics Week was a "first" this year, headed by William Carter of Lansing. The new feature offered all waterfront merit badges; sailing, motorboating, skin diving and Scuba for older Scouts. A special staff was secured to handle this session. Fifty-eight boys from the council area participated.

Mrs Raymond Thayer hosts study group

The Brown Bee Extension Study Group met with Mrs Raymond Thayer on Wednesday, Sept. 8. Fourteen persons answered roll call with what they did on their vacations.

Samples of articles were passed around that could be used for Christmas workshop. Recreation was under the direction of Mrs Floyd Hamer.

The next meeting will be with Mrs Gertrude Doak, Oct. 7.

New limits make Round Lake Road safer route

It was comforting to read in Don Ewing's Road Commission Weekly Report that new speed limits have been set for the full distance of Round Lake Road in Victor, Olive, Bath and DeWitt townships.

Round Lake Road, with its numerous sharp turns, is probably the most dangerous highway in Clinton County. This year, at least, it's been the most deadly. Three of the seven traffic accident victims so far in 1965 have met their death on Round Lake Road. A fourth died in a crash on US-27 just off Round Lake Road.

THESE NEW SPEED limits have been established by the state police commissioner: 50 miles an hour from the east county line to Oakdale Drive; 40 mph from Oakdale to Babcock Road; 50 mph from Babcock to US-27; and 45 mph from US-27 to DeWitt. Some adjustments have also been made in the curve speeds.

These lower speed limits should make driving safer on Round Lake Road; but then not all drivers heed speed limits. Most people do, and this fact coupled with the lower speed limits will make us feel more comfortable next time we drive that road.

Sputacular shows profit of cooperation

Great change was demonstrated last week at the Sputacular event over in Montcalm County, and it is indicative of change that can be made in other agricultural fields.

Back in 1909 the potato industry grew 365,000 acres of potatoes. Fifty years later the figure was down to 45,000 acres and poor production tactics plus obsolete marketing methods were the reason.

PROGRESSIVE MARKETING turned the tide with major help from two places in particular. They were the plant specialists of Michigan State University and the Michigan Potato Industry Council managed by Charles Todd of Eaton Rapids.

Their efforts along with those of the growers, of course, attracted the Ore-Ida Foods, Inc., now a division of H. J. Heinz, to the neighboring Montcalm area. Now great fields of fine potatoes are keeping the processing plant busy and keeping potato products on the market.

AS IMPORTANT AS the change is the fact that people working together did something to make Michigan potatoes a desirable commodity. This self-help story is a lesson even in the increasingly difficult business of making a living from the farm.

Disunity never accomplished a goal for any cause.

Renewing faith in our basic American beliefs

The week beginning this Friday has been proclaimed throughout the United States as Constitution Week, and again this year it has come at a time of national crisis when Americans need to stop and assess their own role in the times.

Spearheading the observance of Constitution Week from Sept. 17 to Sept. 23 are the active members of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

VIET NAM, BERLIN, India—they're the most recent and the most relentless of crisis at this time, but only typical of the probes of the Communist countries are making for the weak spots in America's armor. There admittedly are weaknesses—not only in missiles, planes and guns but in the fundamental beliefs and philosophy of government.

You and I as citizens must of necessity leave the threatening arms conflict to the Department of Defense and other governmental agencies. And sometimes the boys from here at home give of their lives for the

RAMBLIN' with Rink

BY LOWELL G. RINKER

When I was younger, I always used to tell my friends that my middle name was Gene, because I was named after Gene Autry and my folks wanted me to be a cowboy. Any such lingering dream was trodden under foot over the Labor Day weekend.

The St. Johns Rinkers spent the first two days at Walkerville and Hart, and it was at Walkerville that my cowboy instincts were smashed. I tried to get off on the right foot by taking my young cowgirl for a walk down the road a half-mile to see construction of a new bridge being put in near my in-laws' farm.

THIS, I figured, would give Kathy something to do and would let Ann and her mother do some canning without interference. The walk to the bridge site was pleasant; the road was closed, and there was only local traffic.

Just before reaching the bridge, we passed a neighbor's farm, and Kathy's eagle eye spotted a pony in the field. She coaxed and coaxed, but the pony only looked at us as if to say "Humph! Tourists!" So we went on our way.

THE NEIGHBOR lady, however, had seen us by the fence, and on our way back she came down the road leading the pony and asked Kathy if she wanted to get up on its back. There were no doubts in Kathy's mind then, and only a few doubts about it when the pony started walking.

This will be something Kathy can tell Grandma about, I thought. But it turned out she was going to SHOW grandma. The neighbor lady suggested that I take the horse and let Kathy ride all the way home. So I did. And here began my troubles.

THE PONY had only a rope halter. He had more experience at this sort of thing than I did, and he was forever stopping the trek to nibble on weeds along the roadside despite my tugging and pulling to keep him moving. Such a constant tussle resulted in the rope halter slipping so that I had, in effect, a noose around the pony's neck.

This didn't frighten him in the least and he only put up more resistance and acted hungrier. By now, the mosquitoes had found the horse and Kathy. I tried to make adjustments in the halter to get it back to how I thought it should be, but like I said, I don't have much experience along those lines.

EVERY TIME a car would pass I would bend over with my back to the road and work on the halter. I felt somewhat like the synonym for a donkey with all my bungling. After what seemed like hours of pulling and shoving we went into the driveway, and Kathy had her few minutes of pride with the grandparents.

It was while walking the horse in the farm yard that I managed to get my foot on a spot of ground only a split second before the horse. The horse seemed to lean on me, but I managed to pull my foot out from under his. I had to take my shoe off and pop the leather out before I could walk comfortably again.

HAVING finally gotten even with me, the pony settled down. My father-in-law fixed the halter and I led the pony home at a comparatively brisk pace.

The whole experience was a blow to my ego, but it probably was better than if I had been trying to ride. But I did have one thrill: in childhood, my favorite cowboy was always Roy Rogers, and the pony in my adventure over Labor Day was named Trigger!

beliefs and philosophy that have been the heritage of America.

BUT WE WHO DO not go to war and do not concern ourselves with the direct application of war, can and must concern ourselves with the war of ideologies. That's a war just as real and as bitter and uncompromising as armed conflict. Our support of our nation's ideologies can provide much support "over there" to our boys who are doing the armed fighting for it.

This is the purpose of Constitution Week—to renew once again our faith in the basic principles upon which the nation is founded . . . freedom. And it is a time, too, to give thanks for the opportunity to live and rear our children in these free United States of America.

Class Day Exercises at Allison's Opera House in 1909

Leo Burnett, Chicago advertising man whose reminiscences about the Clinton area have appeared in recent issues of The News, sends this picture of class day exercises of the St. Johns High School class of 1909. The presentation was entitled "The Masque of Columbus" and was directed by Miss B. Bromley. Total receipts were $151.35, Leo notes. He identifies the participants as follows:

Three boys in back row—Maurice Loree, William Marshall and Howard Wickes.

Next row—Hazel Campbell, Gordon Wickes, Laura Walker, Don Kinney, Claude Lester and Grace Mack.

Third row—Ida Pflugharr, Clara Putnam, Ruth Smith, Nellie Church, Ruth Henderson, Carmen Tranchell and Marguerite Tows.

Front row—Frances Rosekrans, Frank Footitt, Zelma Putt, Leo Burnett, Nellie Collard and Bernice Hodge.

County News readers are invited to contribute historical pictures about their Clinton communities, along with pertinent information to go with them. Tentative plans are to make this a regular feature of this page as long as a supply of interesting pictures is available.

Without a doubt, one of the biggest fairs ever held in Clinton County will be the 62nd annual fair, which will be held in the city Sept. 28, 29 and 30 and Oct. 1, 1915. Motorcycle and horse races, carnival, free acts and hundreds of displays will be featured.

Considerable damage was done by a wind and rain storm in Riley Township Friday afternoon. The storm struck the township in the direction going east and west through the central part on sections 16, 17 and 18. Several fields of corn were laid flat as if they had been gone over with a roller. The wind did not leave a rail fence standing in the territory it passed over.

In spite of rain there was a good attendance at all the special meetings held by members of the Baptist Church to celebrate the paying of the debt against the church. Much credit is due Rev. N. D. Potter whose unremitting push and enthusiasm kept everything going and made the paying of the indebtedness possible.

Fair Trade

By W. E. DOBSON

"Let the buyer beware" is a maxim Our fathers and grandfathers knew, Which followed them often to market And helped them decide what to do; With goods all in view on the counter They paused 'ere they let their guard drop. And sought reassurance the bottom Would equal the "dressing" on top.

The bureaus that watch over markets, Have taken steps over the years To govern and limit sharp practice, Remove for us some of our fears; Still the barkers who "holler" the loudest, Must expect there will still be a lag, As customers ask of each other If the show is as good as the "brag."

In the day-to-day contacts of living, There are many among those we meet, Who prate of their wisdom and glory Till we prudently beat a retreat; Psychologists call it a cover, And rate these loud noises a bluff. Designed to prevent us from guessing, If he really possesses the "stuff."

Our eyes and our ears oft deceive us, Our memory plays little tricks; Experience still is our teacher, Producing the image that sticks: Fourflushers and con men outwit us, Before we can catalogue same, But in the long run we are certain The goods must live up to the claim!

Need proof of liability coverage to get new plates

BY ELMER E. WHITE Michigan Press Assn.

Many motorists will have to make two trips this winter to get their new license plates because of a new state law and man's tendency to forget details.

Previously only the vehicle title was required to purchase plates, but many motorists forget even this when it is time to re-register cars and trucks.

This year, starting Nov. 1, all vehicle owners will be required to show proof of liability insurance coverage or pay an extra $25 when registering their cars.

A PREMIUM of $1 annually will be levied on all motorists, but $25 will be charged any motorist not able to prove he carries liability insurance. These are part of the provisions of Michigan's new motor vehicle accident claims act.

When fully effective next Jan. 1, the law will allow motorists involved in an accident with a negligent uninsured driver to make claim to collect damages over $50 from the new fund.

An insurance policy itself, special identification card issued by the insurance company bearing pertinent information, or a letter from the company specifying liability coverage will each meet the proof requirement of the law, said Secretary of State James M. Hare.

AN ATTEMPT to minimize the return trips by forgetful motorists will be made by Hare's office. He hopes to have posters in most gas stations by Nov. 1 outlining the requirements of the new law and serve as reminders.

In addition to providing the so-called uninsured motorist fund, the new law also is designed to encourage drivers to carry insurance.

"THE NEW FUND is no substitute for insurance," Hare emphasizes. "If a claim is made against the fund as the result of an accident by an uninsured motorist's negligence, he will still be required to reimburse the fund in full.

"The driver is still subject to provisions of the financial responsibility laws of Michigan and could lose his privilege to drive," Hare said.

EDUCATORS AND onlookers both here and abroad have commented for at least a decade that the American college degree is rapidly losing its previous meaning.

A bachelor's degree used to be a mark of distinction, but times have changed and the change is continuing at an ever-increasing pace. It seems to involve a chicken-and-the-egg question. Did industry and business demand further educational background or did educators push the need for graduate work?

Regardless of the answer, it appears Michigan is now approaching the point where some individuals are ready to make a reality of the decade-old comments.

A LEGISLATIVE study is now being made under the leadership of Sen. Joseph Mack, D-Ironwood, on whether Michigan should extend its public education program to 14 years instead of stopping at the 12th year when a student receives his high school diploma.

Mack, for one, is convinced that the pioneering work in this area being done in California should be followed here. That state is providing two free years of college for resident students.

A kindergarten-through-14 program would relieve enrollment problems at major Michigan colleges and be a boon for development of more community colleges, says Mack.

SINCE MACK HEADS the legislative study and favored the idea from the start, it is a pretty sure thing that a proposal of some kind will be put before the Legislature in the next year or two. Like the K-12 program, however, it is just likely that several years debate will follow before any action is taken on such a bold step in the field of education.

The only man to hold both of the U.S. government's highest offices, president and chief justice, was William Howard Taft.

The "Low Down" From the Congressional Record By Joe Crump

Lawmakers should turn off the faucet

Rep. Olin E. Teague (Texas) . . . "I wish to include an article which appeared as an editorial in the Wall Street Journal." . . . (The condensed editorial follows):

Those who think Congress is far too busy to take some comfort from Senate Majority Leader Mansfield's recent comment: "There's no reason all these bills should be passed this year." Unfortunately the comfort is likely to be brief.

THERE IS indeed no good reason for the rush on Capitol Hill. The Nation would be better off if the lawmakers could somehow pause and reflect on the totality of their effort, instead of turning out a mass of legislation in so hyperactive a state.

For what this Congress, under White House pressure, is constructing is a new colossus of government. In addition to such notable bills as aid to Appalachia and medicare, legislation is pending on almost anything you can think of, from rapid rail transportation to subsidies for the arts and humanities.

IN OTHER words, scarcely any area of the citizen's life is left out of the Federal purview, and if it is it won't be for long. The programs created by this frenzy of lawmaking, moreover, are of the sort that are bound to grow with the years, in size, bureaucratic confusion and cost. . . .

The typical program under consideration on Capitol Hill is one whipped up in the executive branch, by the politicians themselves or by some vested interest group. We suspect that a great many people wish they knew some way to turn off the faucet and stop the flood of laws. . . .

HERE WE are fighting what daily seems more and more like a major war in Viet Nam, we are throwing billions into the space race every year; can the Government, in any realistic sense afford to plunge into all these other things too?

There is an answer of sorts to that one also. The economic wizards of the Great Society believe they have figured out the key to perpetual prosperity through perpetual budget deficits, therefore it doesn't matter how much the Government spends. . . .

THE RIGHT way is to reduce spending so that levies can be lowered without running incessant deficits. For we fear it is a delusion of no minor magnitude that deficits coupled with artificially easy money, can keep a boom going forever. There are already disquieting signs that such policies cause inflation, and inflation usually ends in recession or worse. . . .

It is no idle joke that a truly do-nothing Congress can sometimes be the best kind. Certainly this legislation happy Congress is doing a disservice to its present constituency and the Nation's future.

Calls in night lift the heart

HAYDEN PEARSON

On a crisp, breezeless night when the sky is blazing with stars and an orange-yellow moon sails serenely among them, you may hear the calls. Few nature experiences are more poignant than the haunting cries in the night as wild geese wing their way along the sky trails to the southland.

If you are fortunate, you may see the dark shapes flash across the moon, while their eerie calls fill one's heart with the mystery of a life form that twice each year follows ancient trails in the sky. The Canadian goose is a noble bird and one exults with them as the squadrons flash through the night, and powerful wings drive them onward in response to an ages-old instinct.

AS THE cries drift down to an earth-bound man, he knows the geese are headed to their wintering grounds in the southland. He knows that when a winter is passed, great flocks will lift into the air and return to their breeding grounds in the north, on the shores of Hudson Bay or around the Labrador lakes.

Sometimes one does not see them on a dark, cloud-covered night; but the calls from the darkness overhead tell us that Nature's schedule is on time.

SOMEHOW the cries in the night are a challenge to man. They tell of the sureness of an established plan; they confirm the great purposes of life. Through the night the birds fly along their trails, and the calls that fall to one's ears bring a lift to the heart.

U.S. Soil Conservation Service

The first farm pond to be built in Clinton Soil Conservation District under Act 184, Public Acts of 1963, 72nd Legislature, is being constructed now on the Keith Wright farm in Section 2 of Lebanon Township.

Act 184 applies to ponds that have a surface area of over five acres at the designed normal operating level. Wright obtained his construction permit after paying his fee (the minimum fee is $250) to the engineering and architecture of the Michigan Conservation Department in Lansing.

TECHNICIANS OF the US Soil Conservation Service prepared the plans and provided technical assistance during construction of the dam.

The following copy of Act 203 of Public Acts of 1962, which amends Act 146 of the Public Acts of 1961 (referred to in Section 4 of Act 184 of the Public Acts of 1963) has the pertinent requirements for persons desiring to construct an artificial lake of five acres or more.

ACT 203 OF THE Public Acts of 1962—Section 1. Act No. 146 of the Public Acts of 1961, being Sections 281.61 to 281.86 of the Compiled Laws of 1948, is hereby amended by adding a new section 25a to read as follows: Sec. 25a. Whenever any person desires to construct an artificial lake of more than five acres or to substantially alter any existing waterway, he shall petition the board of supervisors of each county in which the lake or any portion is to be situated for a permit. The application shall be accompanied by detailed plans and specifications. As a condition of the permit, where a lake is created, the board shall require the applicant to petition for the establishment of a normal lake level under this act. The board shall request the department to establish a special assessment district for future maintenance expenses of such lake level. When the special assessment has been approved by the court the department shall record the order with the register of deeds.

THE CLINTON Board of Supervisors acted favorably on Wright's petition in June this year.

The Clinton County Agricultural Stabilization Committee cost-shared on this farm pond as they have on 43 other farm ponds in the Clinton County Soil Conservation District.

This pond, when completed, will provide fishing and water recreation for the Wright family, and it may, in the future, be used as a source of irrigation water for special high-value-per-acre crops.

THE NATURE OF the designed construction provides some flood prevention for the Maple River, as this dam is retaining water from a 480-acre watershed.

For the people living downstream on the Grand River, more dams built as this one is will mean more silt-free water and a more uniform flow in the river.

THE DIRECTORS of the Clinton Soil Conservation District gave approval to the US Soil Conservation Service technicians to provide technical assistance on this conservation practice.

Here's how Bath got its name

The city of Bath in England got its name from the elaborate Roman baths discovered there by archaeologists around 1875. The site was a city founded by Romans around 55 B.C. According to the Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Information Bureau, one of the baths is 110 feet long and 68 feet wide. It's in almost perfect condition and the lead pipe is still in use.

Keith Wright (right), owner, and Orville Beachler, soil conservation technician, discuss compacting the fill around a 60-inch riser pipe during the construction of a dam for Wright's new farm pond.

Hay production big money crop

To some people, hay is "something cows need to make milk." But to Michigan farmers, it's a whole lot more.

The state ranks 10th in the production of alfalfa hay and 16th in the production of all hay in the United States. According to 1964 estimates, Michigan farmers produced 3.2 million tons of alfalfa on 1.7 million acres which, at $22.60 per ton, was worth about $75 million.

THIS VALUE exceeds the worth of each of these: winter wheat, oats, sugar beets, potatoes, dry beans, soybeans, all of the state's fruit production, all of the fresh market and processing vegetables, and the production value of eggs, swine and all chickens.

Yet, Michigan farmers are far from reaching their full hay-producing potential. Scientists estimate that production could be increased about 30 per cent without increased land resources, simply by preventing needless losses. Michigan State University researchers are earnestly studying methods of keeping these losses to a minimum.

IN ADDITION, MSU crop scientists have found ways of stimulating production through the advent of better management techniques. They have been able to increase yields by two tons of alfalfa per acre by cutting three times per year, top-dressing with 150 or more pounds of potash and planting the new French and Flemish varieties.

In addition, they have found a way to renovate pastures in less than half of the time that was formerly considered possible. This renovation procedure will help to bring into production about two to three million acres of unproductive grass pastures in Michigan alone.

TO MAKE one-season renovation work, all weeds and existing grasses must be killed by July 1, and seeding (band seeding) must be completed in late July or early August, the earlier the better. This differs from former methods where farmers would kill old sods and weeds the first year.

The new renovation system allows the farmer to pasture the old sod during the spring and to get about 60 per cent of the annual production of the field before renovation begins. Increase milk or livestock production that results from this renovation returns the cost of the effort within the first production year.

This picture of the Keith Wright farm pond dam site shows a 42-inch outlet pipe with soil mechanically tamped. A 60-inch-diameter riser pipe will result in water 20 feet deep when the dam is completed.

Lime often has more soil value than fertilizer

Money spent for lime is often more valuable than that spent for fertilizer.

Michigan State University soil scientists say tests show that where lime is really needed, fertilizers fall to respond and money spent for them is lost. A test of the acidity, which shows whether or not lime is needed, should be made and followed whenever soil is tested.

months before it can be expected to give full benefit. Since forages, such as alfalfa and clovers, are most critical in their lime requirements, applications should be timed to the seeding of these crops. This almost means that liming material should be worked into the soil the year preceding the legume seeding, and two or more years before would probably prove even more effective.

There is also an advantage of liming the field while it is still in sod. Lime applied on a meadow in the summer or fall—or even winter or spring before plowing—is probably good for corn and other row crops. The soil is conditioned to carry heavy spreading equipment with the least danger of packing. Lime goes on evenly and there is plenty of time for action before the next legume seeding.

MANY FARMERS who are continuously row and grain cropping their land must remember that they also need to add lime. Most nitrogen fertilizers have an acidifying affect, ranging from two to five pounds of limestone per pound of elemental nitrogen applied. Many fields which have not shown a need before may now be acid and need lime if they have been continuously cropped.

FARMERS should remember that lime must be applied and worked into the soil at least six

Parasite larvae movement study in grasses verify many known facts

Grazing livestock always have the hazard of picking up parasites from pasture grasses. But not many studies have been made of the conditions that are favorable to the movement of these parasites to places where livestock may eat them and become infested.

Higher humidity as well as actual wet blades of grass favored movement of the larvae. The larvae were most successful in climbing the grass stems when relative humidity was 95 per cent. When humidity dropped down to 56 per cent, they could not climb.

Two University of Wisconsin veterinary scientists, S. M. Silangwa and A. C. Todd, recently studied the movement of the larvae of roundworm parasites from the soil to blades of grass. Their results verify many of the facts already known and disprove other common beliefs.

THE SCIENTISTS were interested in how far young roundworm larvae can travel up the stems of grasses in the pasture. They did their experiments inside a greenhouse where pots of grasses were grown without wind, rain or livestock disturbances to affect the normal movement of the young worms. In general, they found that only 2 to 3 per cent of the young larvae were able to climb any important distance from the soil up on the blades of grass.

Of the very small percentage that climbed, more than half moved only one inch, about a quarter of them climbed two inches and the others 3, 4, or five inches above the level of the soil. The proportion of larvae that got up to the five-inch level were extremely small.

A NUMBER OF conditions affect how far roundworm larvae can climb on grass. Some types of grass have smooth, slippery stems while others are slightly hairy giving a surface of the worms to adhere to. The larvae climbed higher on tall fescue, for instance, than they did on smooth brome or timothy.

When grasses were wet, larvae find it easier to climb the stems.

COOL WEATHER also slows down migration of roundworm larvae on grass. At a temperature close to freezing, almost no larvae moved. When temperature was 80 degrees with high humidity, about 2 1/2 per cent of the larvae climbed the stems of the grass.

Parasite larvae have always been considered more active in darkness than in light. In this experiment larvae were slightly more active in the dark. The researchers also found that the larvae moved more during the day when skies were overcast or cloudy.

ANOTHER observation of Silangwa and Todd was that roundworm larvae climb more in dense stands of grass. Many parasitologists have thought that roundworm larvae move generally up the stems toward the light. This study contradicts this idea. The researchers found that larvae move down the stems just as often as they move up, not necessarily in response to light. However, most of the larvae remained where they were placed on the plant.

THIS ANSWERS a question that has worried livestock specialists and veterinarians. They thought that parasites moved toward the light making it easier for livestock to pick them up. This is apparently not a big problem because the larvae move mostly in the first one or two inches above the soil surface and never get farther than five inches above the surface.

Brain replaces brawn on modern farms

"Managing a commercial dairy farm requires brain power, not muscle. An office center and library is often more help than a pitchfork," claims Leonard Kyle, Michigan State University agricultural economist.

He offers the following check list for management competence:

—Acquaint yourself with the steps involved in management and check yourself for proficiency.

—RECHECK and become more specific in the objectives you plan to accomplish.

—Learn where to find factual information and accumulate it on the items you are apt to need in making decisions.

—Learn the procedures for analysis of various types of common business problems.

—TAKE ACTIVE control of your business and spend the time needed to be a business executive. Control the operation through better decisions based on modern analysis of planning.

"Modern management is not something you buy," added Kyle. "It is something which you can learn to do better. A good farmer improves his managerial skill to stay competitive."

The American farmer has been told repeatedly that the way to beat the cost-price squeeze is to get bigger and more efficient. In 1962 Iowa State University brought out figures on what it would take to increase the Iowa farmer's net income $1,000.

To add $1,000 net income to a dairyman's operation, he would have to add 15.8 cows, increase his investment $9,717, receive no interest on his investment and work an additional 1,501 hours for nothing.

A beef operation would have to add 200 beef cow units, invest an additional $63,000, and work 3,060 hours for nothing and again receive no interest on his investment.

The farmer who was raising hogs would have to add 500 litters, invest $114,250, would have to work 13,000 hours to add $1,000 net income. In his case they allowed him a return for interest and labor.

Now if you still feel that getting bigger is the answer then here are some 1963 figures released by the Internal Revenue Service on farm income tax returns on adjusted gross returns. Under $5,000 gross returns 68.6 percent showed a profit; $5-$10,000 gross returns 60.4 percent showed a profit; $10-$15,000 gross return 62 percent showed a profit; $15-$25,000 gross return 60 percent showed a profit; $25-$50,000 gross return 48 percent showed a profit; $50-$100,000 gross return 36.4 percent showed a profit. Over $100,000 gross return only 23 percent showed a profit. Now bear in mind a profit is anything over $1.

Now don't you think the solution to the farm problem is getting a fair price? A farmer needs to produce more for less like a drowning man needs a glass of water.

Use headlights, not park lights, while driving

"It's better to light a candle than to curse the darkness." You won't get much argument on this one. But how about switching on your car's headlights? Don't hesitate . . . illuminate!

that the long days of summer invite careless habits when darkness approaches. An old habit, hard to break, is driving with parking lights on. The law is clear on this. If it's dark enough to demand lights, you must use your headlights, not parking lights. And don't spare the candlepower.

IN FACT, IT'S not a bad idea at all when driving along crowded summer highways to use your lights during the daytime. You have another safety device working for you that makes for better definition by approaching traffic.

Proper use of your high and low beam lights is another area of concern. Dimming your lights for on-coming traffic is the rule of the road. Ditto if you're following or overtaking another vehicle. Here's a courtesy that every driver appreciates, and it is the law.

Flu is due; here's tips for you

Like the old gentleman who chose "not to join the income tax," now is the time for all good men, women and children to decide not to join the flu outbreak.

What flu outbreak? How do you stay out of it? One question at a time:

Flu this winter? The US Public Health Service says probably yes. The disease strikes every two to three years; this is the year when Type A primarily is due. But a certain amount of Type B is looked for, too.

WHAT'S it like? Some influenza symptoms are like those of the common cold, only more so. Sore throat, nasal congestion, dry cough, chills, fever, muscular aches and pains, general weakness. Temperature rises quickly.

How serious? Most people recover within a week. But sometimes pneumonia develops. Other possible complications: bronchitis, sinus trouble, ear infection.

What to do? Call a doctor. Stay in bed as long as he tells you to. Don't expect miracles with "wonder drugs"—they don't work against most viruses, and flu is a virus disease. Aspirin and lots of fluids may be prescribed.

PREVENTION? Consult your doctor right now. A vaccine that's useful against both general types of influenza is recommended for people at high risk of serious effects. These include people with heart ailments, chronic lung disorders, diabetes, and certain other chronic diseases. Also persons over 45, pregnant women, and institutionalized patients in crowded environments. Adults previously vaccinated against flu need a booster shot each year.

When? Mid-December is the deadline for vaccination. Early September is none too soon.

Here's a view of just a few of the throng who jam-packed the lobby and adjoining rooms at the Clinton National Bank's Centennial Open House last Friday evening. More than 400 people were taken on conducted tours of the four-story bank building and other hundreds visited the St. Johns and Elsie offices to participate in the bank's 100th Birthday observance.

Our Sincere Thanks . . .

to the thousands of friends in the Clinton area whose kindly interest and good will have been so wonderfully exhibited to Clinton National during our Centennial Days Celebration.

As the week-long special observance of our 100th Birthday draws to a close, we want to express our heartfelt appreciation to all who have helped to make the occasion such a memorable event for us and the community.

While the present week of Open House is a major highlight of our Centennial Year, there will be other scheduled Centennial events and displays in the remaining months of 1965— Watch for them and visit the ever-changing exhibits in the Centennial Room at the St. Johns office.
