Derby team ready to roll again Sunday

Despite being rained out Sunday, officials running the Clinton County Soap Box Derby have bounced back with an enthusiastic promise of an "even better" race this Sunday.

Bernard Feldpausch, Derby director, said all the workers who put in time last week preparing the downtown for the race will be back doing the same thing this week.

Race cars have been stored out of harm's way, and 60 boys will still have an opportunity to drive them before downtown crowds.

"APPLYING these principles to everyday life and putting them to practical use will prove very rewarding if pursued to the end.

"Remember," Romney wrote in closing, "the pursuit of the easy makes men weak; the pursuit of the difficult makes men strong."

Brewbaker to head Clinton county chest

THE DERBY will be run this Sunday under the same time schedule that was planned last week. A parade will start shortly after 2 p.m., will be followed by the races and by a chicken dinner for boys and their parents at the VFW Hall.

New president of the Clinton County Communities Chest is Leon A. Brewbaker, local insurance man, who was elected at the annual meeting of the Chest board of directors last week.

LEON A. BREWBAKER

He succeeds Dr Franklin W. Smith of St. Johns who has served for the past two years.

WILLIAM Richards, Jr., St. Johns dairyman, has accepted the chairmanship of the annual Communities Chest drive in October. He will be assisted by W. F. Graef, manager of the St. Johns district of the General Telephone Co.

Relected as secretary of the Chest was Percy J. Abrams, who also serves as secretary of the St. Johns Chamber of Commerce. Named to serve the Chest again as treasurer was Charles B. Huntington, auditor at the Clinton National Bank.

C-C dinner site changed

The Chamber of Commerce annual meeting next Tuesday, originally scheduled for the Clinton County Country Club, will be held at Daley's Restaurant on South US-27. New officers will be installed.

"WITH THIS information, and the fact that some of the boys scheduled to be in the race had already gone home, we decided to postpone everything," Feldpausch said.

"We all felt it would be better to run the thing on a planned schedule rather than throw it all together in an emergency method."

THE RAIN let up about 2 p.m., but only a handful of people were in the downtown race area. The Scottish bagpipe band from Flint stayed on until about 2:30 and marched around the business district to applause from those who remained.

Feldpausch said he did not know whether the Flint band would be able to make it back this Sunday, but he was hopeful they could.

ANOTHER casualty of the rain may be Olympic gold medal winner Terry McDermott. Because of prior commitments he probably will not be able to get back to St. Johns this Sunday.

"Terry felt real bad about the rain," Feldpausch said, "and he said he'd try to get back. But he is real busy with appearances—about three a day—and is supposed to be in Indianapolis next Sunday.

"BUT THIS is not real definite yet. If he can't make it, we'll try to get another top-notch sports personality here."

The adult workers, already planning ahead to this Sunday, were spurred by a letter from Gov. George Romney to participants in the race.

"It is of paramount importance that when you take on a task you must first set your goals and then strive to attain them," the governor stated. "This is accomplished by hard work and inspiration, coupled with the basic desire to do that which has to be done.

Lots of Fun in the Big Pool

With warm, muggy weather the last week, business at the city swimming pool at the park has been booming. Kids find great fun and relaxation in splashing around in the water, and when a photographer appears, great fun in clowning around in the water. The pool opened last Wednesday, a day later than planned because of a faulty water heater.

Clinton butchered in new districting

Clinton county was gutted again this week when a high-handed state Supreme Court approved a new reapportionment of legislative districts which carves the county in two for representation in the House.

In the new allotment of State Senate seats, Clinton County joins a new 30th district which includes Shiawassee, Gratiot and parts of Eaton, Ingham and Montcalm.

In the apportionment for the state House of Representatives, Clinton becomes a part of two districts:

1. The 87th, which is comprised of Shiawassee county; plus the townships of DeWitt, Bath, Victor, Olive, Ovid, Bingham and the City of St. Johns.

Horse is killed on Bath farm

R. S. Underhill of R-1, Bath, reported the shooting of a horse he was caring for last Friday. He told sheriff's officers a shotgun has been used to kill a horse belonging to Richard Andrews, a neighbor. Underhill was taking care of the animal while Andrews is on vacation.

Boat's gasoline tank stolen

Mrs. James Snow of Round Lake reported to the sheriff's office a gas tank was stolen from a boat, probably last Thursday. There were two other reports received by the sheriff's office this week of similar crime activity at Round Lake.

Copper tube stolen at well site

Julius Thelen reported to the sheriff's office last Tuesday that a copper tube was stolen off a cylinder from a well in a vacant 80-acre one mile north of Bingham Grange. Thelen was repairing a pump there and had left the cylinder to get repair material.

2. An even more fantastic 88th which includes all of Clinton not in the 87th; all of Gratiot County; the townships of Oneida and Grand Ledge in Eaton County; plus the townships of Edenville, Geneva, Greendale, Jasper, Lee, Porter and Warren and the City of Coleman, all in Midland County.

ALL THIS IS done by the state Supreme Court in the name of "one-man, one-vote." Actually it is the so-called Austin-Kleiner plan formulated by Democratic members of the State Apportionment Commission.

By a 6-to-2 vote the high court declared the plan was the only one which complied with the US Supreme Court's ruling a week ago that districts in both houses of a state legislature must be as nearly equal in population as is practicable.

The plan approved for Michigan cuts a wide swathe through traditional legislative districts. Counties, townships and cities are divided without regard to their boundaries.

INCUMBENT Senators in the new 30th district are Emil Lockwood, St. Louis, and John Fitzgerald, both Republicans. Fitzgerald has already announced his retirement from the Senate and is a candidate for Judge of the new state appellate court.

The new apportionment appears to leave State Reps. Andrew Cobb (R), Elsie, and Lester Allen (R), Ithaca, pitted against each other for the GOP nomination in the 88th district.

There has been no formal announcement of candidacy for the State Representative nomination in the 87th district, but Norman VanEpps, Owosso attorney, is said to be considering the Republican primary race.

CLINTON COUNTY has been the victim of divisive treatment in both Congressional and Legislative apportionment these past few months.

The recently-approved Congressional districting also divided the county. Bath and DeWitt townships are in the 6th district, while the remaining townships in the county are added to a meandering 3rd district which includes Barry, Eaton, Kalamazoo and Calhoun Counties.

13 seeking Elsie-Ovid board spot

Wednesday was the deadline for filing of petitions for nomination to the new Elsie-Ovid school board. As of Tuesday, 13 petitions were out.

The petitions were being circulated for: Stanley Loznak, Francis Johnson, Don Craig, Raymond Stewart, Harold Green, Ellsworth Cook, Robert Hubbard, Frank Rivest, Jr., Jack Schwark Jr., Joe Kurka III, John Sincicrop, Merle H. Green and Gordon Tubbs.

The school board election will be July 24, and two board members will be elected for four year terms, two for three, two for two and one member for one year.

The new district, a merger approved by voters May 25, will be known as District 16 until a name is adopted. The valuation of the new district as of June 1 is $22,958,442.

$200,000 from Wilson estates in trust for St. Johns scholarships

An approximate $200,000 residue from the estate of the late Arthur E. and Norena E. Wilson of St. Johns will be held in trust to provide college scholarships for future graduates of the Rodney B. Wilson High School here.

This was revealed last week at a hearing on Mrs Wilson's will before Probate Judge Timothy M. Green.

The Wilsons had similar but separate wills leaving their property to each other.

He died on Dec. 7, 1960. She passed away on May 12 of this year.

IT IS estimated the trust fund will provide from $8,000 to $10,000 per year for scholarships to St. Johns high school graduates.

This estimated trust income is based on an assumption by attorneys that the estates will not be subject to state and Federal death taxes because of the philanthropic nature of the bequests.

The grants are to be known as Rodney B. Wilson Scholarships, as a memorial to the Wilsons' only child, a son who died as a youth of 17 during the influenza epidemic of 1919.

THIS FINAL public evidence of the Wilsons' generosity to young people is in contrast to the private, little-known philanthropy in which they engaged for many years.

Numerous boys and girls were given a helping financial hand during the 60 years the Wilsons lived in the stately brick residence at 110 Maple street. The home is north and across the street from the high school which also bears the name of their only son.

At the time the high school was built in 1924, the Wilsons provided part of the land for the site and a grateful community dedicated the building to the son's memory.

Mrs Wilson continued to live in the Maple street residence after her husband's passing and until her death this past May.

IN ADDITION to the scholarship funds, the wills also provide bequests of $1,000 each to Clinton Memorial Hospital and the First Congregational Church of St. Johns.

The wills provide that should a time come when the scholarship trust created shall no longer serve a necessary or worthwhile purpose, it is to be terminated and remaining funds are to be held in trust as an endowment for the benefit of Clinton Memorial Hospital.

Specific bequests were also made to nephews, a niece and a cousin.

THE CLINTON National Bank and Trust Co. is named as executor and trustee under the terms of the wills. Attorney Jack Walker of St. Johns represented the bank before the Probate Court.

Named as advisors to consult with the trustee as to investment of funds are W. M. Luecht, L. W. Wolf and Robert A. Conn, all of St. Johns.

The Wilsons suggest in their wills the formation of a scholarship board to screen and choose candidates for available funds. Included on the board would be:

NORENA E. WILSON

ARTHUR E. WILSON

1. The superintendent of the Rodney B. Wilson High School.

2. The president of the Clinton National Bank and Trust Co.

3. The minister of the First Congregational Church of St. Johns, so long as he is a resident of the city.

4. The pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic Church of St. Johns, so long as he is a resident of the city.

THE WILLS specify that boy graduates of the local high school may receive a maximum of $2,000 at a rate of $500 for each year of a four-year college course. Girls will receive $300 annually for a maximum of $1,200.

The grants are to be given annually to each chosen recipient so long as they maintain in the judgment of the board a satisfactory scholastic standing.

"It is contemplated," the wills read, "that after the first three years of the operation of this provision at least four boy graduates and four girl graduates of Rodney B. Wilson High School shall be enjoying the benefits of such scholarships in the colleges of their choice."

THE WILSONS also set up a list of five standards for guidance of the Scholarship Board in choosing among applicants for the college funds:

1. The recipient shall stand in the upper third of his or her graduating class, scholastically.

2. The recipient shall exhibit all-around citizenship qualities within the school and community through leadership activities in such organizations as Church, Scouts, etc.

3. Consideration shall be given only to students known to be of high moral character within the school and the community.

4. The recipients shall have shown willingness to be of service to others in both school and community.

5. Having met the foregoing conditions, the choice or choices shall be made upon the basis of pecuniary need, to the end that (See WILSON page 2)

Wilson's gift recalls Shellenberger bequest

Announcement this week of the establishment of the Rodney B. Wilson Scholarship Fund, under the terms of wills of Mr and Mrs Arthur E. Wilson, recalls a somewhat similar provision of the will of the late C. W. Shellenberger of St. Johns.

Mr Shellenberger, who was long associated with the former Hicks Store here, left the $39,000 residue of his estate to the Alumni Scholarship Fund of the Rodney B. Wilson High School.

HIS BEQUEST enriched the fund to a point where it has current loans for college scholarships exceeding $7,000.

Mr Shellenberger died in November, 1955, and the $39,000 residue of his estate was turned over to the scholarship fund in March, 1959. The present balance in the fund is about $40,000 and includes numerous smaller gifts throughout the years.

Applicants for loans from the fund are passed upon by a board comprised of Earl Lancaster, superintendent of schools; Robert LaBrie, head of the high school English department; Circuit Judge Leo W. Corkin, Mrs. Kenneth Munger, John Rumbaugh and Mrs. R. P. Canring.

the income so provided shall serve a worthy and proper purpose.

THE LATE Mr Wilson was prominent in the Clinton area's business and civic life for more than 50 years. Almost until the day of his death at 85 in December, 1960, he remained a vigorous and active citizen of the community.

He was president of the former State Bank of St. Johns for nearly 40 years and he was instrumental in the negotiations which preceded the consolidation of the two St. Johns banks shortly after his death.

He was born in Flint on July 6, 1875, a son of Hamilton and Sarah Erles Wilson. He moved with his family to St. Johns in 1880. His first business experience was in a clerical position with the former St. Johns National Bank in 1891 when he was only 16 years old.

IN ASSOCIATION with his brother, Edwin Wilson, he opened a men's clothing store on Clinton avenue here in 1898. He closed the store after his brother's death in 1934.

He became a director of the former State Bank in 1914 and was elected its president in 1921. He was for many years active in the management of Clinton Memorial Hospital, serving the hospital association as trustee, member of the board of directors and secretary-treasurer.

He also served several terms as a member of the St. Johns school district board and was president of the board for a time. He was for many years a director of the St. Johns Cemetery Association. His memberships included the St. Johns Rotary club and the Clinton County Country Club.

HE WAS married to Norena E. Ball on May 9, 1900. She was the daughter of Cooley E. and Frances Kipp Ball and her father was

Boys need jobs to get to Interlochen

Three boys have said they're ready to do any kind of work in order to earn $32 to pay for a trip to Interlochen this summer for a post-camp band session.

Robert Cox, assistant director of instrumental music at St. Johns school said persons who would like to help the boys out should call him for more details.

THE ENTIRE St. Johns band, including the orchestra, will attend the band session Aug. 31 through Sept. 7 at Interlochen. It is the 13th consecutive year the band has made the trip, and they will be one of nine bands there this year. Marching techniques is one of the major topics.

for many years engaged in the hardware business in St. Johns. She was born in Midland on Dec. 16, 1874 and moved with her family to St. Johns at an early age. She was 89 at the time of her death on May 12, 1964.

Name new P-W school principal

Chester Casari of New Lothrop has been named principal of the Pewamo-Westphalia Community Schools for the 1964-65 school year, according to Superintendent William Steinke.

Casari has been principal of the New Lothrop Area School for the past year. Prior to his principalship there, he taught at Peck, Yale and Port Huron Junior College.

He received his bachelor degree from Northern Michigan University at Marquette in 1949 and his master's from the University of Detroit in 1955 in the field of educational administration. He served three years in the US Navy during World War II.

Casari, his wife Audrey, and five children will move to Pewamo in mid-August.

Call meeting about Teen Club

The St. Johns Recreation Board has called a meeting of teenagers for next Tuesday to discuss possibilities of a Teen Club in the city.

Roger Kowalski, recreation director, said the club would be open to everyone between 13 and 20 years old. Dances and other teen activities would be planned.

The meeting Tuesday will be at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building.

New pumps in operation by Aug. 15

The City Commission was told last week the two new water wells will be operating by Aug. 15, and in an emergency could be operating sooner.

Acting City Manager Kenneth Greer said both wells could be pumping within two or three days by renting pumps for $350 each per month and operating them on gasoline. The pumps planned for the new wells will begin working about Aug. 15 and will augment five other wells now supplying city water.

THE NEW water tower on South Oakland street is scheduled to be done about the middle of October, Greer said. Footings for the tower are being put in now.

Because St. Johns is apparently outgrowing the present system, the new pumps and tower are needed, he said. He referred to pumping figures to prove it. He said that in past years only on rare, hot, mid-summer days did the pumping stations ever handle over 1 million gallons of water a day.

During May of this year, there were 20 such days, he said.

TWO OF the five present pumps were renovated last year, and pumpage on each was increased by 700 to 800 gallons a day. The future pumps, he said, will nearly match the capacity of all five present ones.

In addition, the new tower will hold 500,000 gallons of water, compared to the 100,000 capacity of the present tank in the north part of town.

With the new pumping capacity, Greer said it should be much easier to keep both tanks filled and water pressure stabilized.

Vets reminded: notify VA of address change

This month 200 Michigan veterans or their dependents did not get their compensation or pension checks, and it was their own fault, Robert M. FitzGerald, manager of the Veterans Administration regional office in Detroit, said this week.

Actually, more than 2,400 VA checks to Michigan veterans are returned each year as undeliverable because veterans moved and failed to notify the VA or the post office, FitzGerald explained. Headaches for the VA and hardships for the veterans and their families result.

VA's DATA Center at Hines, Ill., which processes all compensation and pension payments, reported to FitzGerald this week that it is running an average of 1,757 Michigan changes of address monthly through the computer.

The center has several procedures to assure prompt delivery or minimal delay for these checks; but it can do nothing about 200 other changes which don't come in. VA usually learns of this when the veterans complain that they haven't received their checks.

Check writing for veterans is a tremendous job, the Detroit manager pointed out. Last month the VA mailed checks totaling $11,475,638 to 169,949 Michigan veterans and their departments. Of these, 44,055 checks worth $2,940,459 went to Detroit veterans and 125,894 for $8,535,179 went elsewhere in the state.

FITZGERALD explained that the VA must be notified when a veteran moves so that the permanent change of address can be made in the files at the Detroit Regional Office and the Hines Center. By notifying the post office also, the veteran makes sure that his current month's check will be forwarded to him while the new address is being processed.

Hold Valley Farms vote on new millage

Valley Farms school district voters went to the polls yesterday to decide on a 16 1/2 mill proposal for the upcoming school year.

Supt. James Swift said the proposal was a reduced request, after an 18 mill proposition was defeated June 8.

THE MONEY, if approved by voters, will constitute about 34 per cent of the needed operational budget. Swift said, would mean a reduction in school services, including elimination of the school lunch program, reduction of transportation for persons living on the west side of US-27, library service, maintenance jobs and the dropping of the modern mathematics program.

District income will be $3,000 less than expenses next year, Swift said. The district gained $3,000 in state aid this year, but lost an equal amount in hardship aid.

IF BUDGET cuts become deep enough, Swift said, it could mean the district would have to borrow money, resulting in additional interest costs.

Plan open house at Westphalia's new fire hall

Westphalia Township folks will celebrate the completion of a new township fire hall Sunday with an open house at the new building from 2 to 4 p.m.

The $20,900 building was completed June 1 and is 60 by 56 feet in size. It includes a 24 by 60 meeting hall and a 32 x 60 fire hall.

THE FIRE hall is built to accommodate four big units. It will house the Westphalia village truck in addition to the township fire equipment.

The new building was constructed by Fedewa Builders of Westphalia and is located on Westphalia street.

It replaces a 38-year-old addition to the village hall on Main street.

Crash kills salesman

A Mason City, Iowa, magazine salesman was killed Sunday morning on US-27, some 14 miles north of St. Johns when the car in which he was a passenger crashed and caught fire. Three others were injured.

David L. James, 17, was killed when a tire apparently blew out on the car as it was headed south toward St. Johns. It swerved off the pavement, overturned and caught fire.

DRIVER OF the car was William G. King, 20, of Milwaukee, Wis. Other passengers in the car were Mrs. Constance Hammond, 19, and Robert L. Hammond, 23, of Paul, Ind.

All were taken to Clinton Memorial Hospital in St. Johns. King was treated and released, but both Hammonds were admitted. Extent of their injuries was undetermined Monday afternoon pending examination of X-rays.

Both, however, were listed in "fair" condition.

THE ACCIDENT happened almost one mile north of Wilson road in Gratiot County. State Police said a fire call was sent to Ashley but then cancelled when the blaze was put out.

All occupants of the car were magazine salesmen.

JAMES, formerly of Lansing is survived by his parents, Mr and Mrs Thomas Forrester, one sister, Debora Forrester, all of Charles City, Iowa; his grandparents, Mr and Mrs E. L. Nutter of Bath and Mr and Mrs Fred S. Bretz of Ortonville.

Funeral services were Tuesday afternoon at the Vincent-Rummell Funeral Home in Detroit. Burial was in Pleasant Hills Cemetery, Bath.

Installation of officers was by Ben Simon of Alma, district governor, who also talked on his year as governor.

Set open house at new Weidman recreation area

Open house is scheduled July 4 and 5 at the new Ojibwa Recreation Area near Weidman. The area includes two man-made lakes, a 3,500-foot air strip, a hunting and fishing club and some 420 building sites on the lakes.

One 45-acre lake—Lake Windoga—was created by damming Walker Creek. Lake Mantonska is in the process of creation by damming a tributary and will be done by next spring. Plans call for a trailer park and camping area next to this lake. Long range plans call for another dam on Walker Creek to form a 350-acre lake.

Owners and developers of the project are Ray Tillmann of Beal City, Leo Gatehouse of Weidman and Richard A. Tillmann of Oak Park, Ill. The recreation area is 2 1/2 by 2 miles in size.

Continue probation

Walter M. Palmer, 22, of 206 N. Prospect St., was arraigned Monday before Justice of the Peace Robert Wood on a charge of violation of probation. His probation was continued.

Simplicity highlights Thornton-Franke rites

ROCHESTER COLONY — Beautiful simplicity marked the five o'clock wedding Friday afternoon of Miss Rae Louise Thornton, daughter of Mr and Mrs Raymond Thornton of Elsie, to Charles H. Franke, son of Mr and Mrs Russell H. Franke of 600 VanDeinse street, Greenville.

Their wedding vows, composed and memorized by the couple, were spoken before Rev Walter S. Easton at the Duplain Methodist church.

A white rose bouquet was placed on the white-draped altar along with lighted tapers and a cross. Matching carved gold wedding bands were exchanged during the double ring ceremony. The bride's aunt, Mrs Julia Thornton of St. Johns, was organist.

GIVEN in marriage by her father, the bride approached the altar to the strains of Tune in D by Henry Purcell. She wore a gown of white cotton brocade, with a scalloped scoop neckline and long sleeves ending in points at the wrists. The slightly flared skirt was ankle length.

Her headdress was a self-fabric cabbage rose and buds on a crown base, covered with self-fabric rose petals, and sprinkled with tiny pearls. From this fell a double, shoulder length silk illusion veil. She wore small cultured pearl earrings, and carried a single, long-stemmed full bloom white rose.

FOR HER duties as maid of honor, Miss Betty Weeder of Garden City wore a gown identical to the bride's. Her headdress was similar, except that the cabbage rose was copen blue, set on a bed of white rose petals of dress fabric. She wore small cultured pearl earrings, a gift of the bride, and carried a single long-stemmed white rose bud. The bride designed and made her gown and headdress and that of her maid of honor. Miss Weeder is a sorority sister of the bride.

Ken DeRemer of Taylor, was best man, and Thaine Grams of Monroe seated the guests. Both are fraternity brothers of the groom.

FOR HER daughter's wedding, Mrs Thornton chose an aqua ribbon knit jacket sheath. With it she wore a ribzone cloche in white, as were her accessories. Mrs Franke wore a blue silk shantung jacket dress, with matching hat. Her accessories were white. Both mothers wore corsages of pink roses and white carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony, a buffet supper was served to members of the immediate families in the church dining room. Petit fours, made by Mrs Martin Galeka, and homemade ice cream were served for dessert. Arrangements were in charge of the WSCS with Mrs William A. Casey of Lansing assisting.

Later that evening, Mr and Mrs Norval Thornton, uncle and aunt of the bride, acted as hosts for the reception at the American Legion hall in Elsie. The traditional layered wedding cake, was placed on a base of three heart-shaped cakes and was topped with a satin-covered heart edged with pearls. On the top of the heart was an arrangement of lillies-of-the-valley. A confectionery open Bible, inscribed with the names of the couple, rested at the base of the cake, which was baked and decorated by Mrs Helen Winans.

Mrs Henry Howard and Mrs Rolland Thornton, cousins of the bride, served the cake, and Mrs Judy Waggoner Shunn, presided at the punch bowl. Mrs Russell Libey, another aunt of the bride was in charge of the gift table, with sisters of the couple, Miss Wanda Franke, and Misses Betty Jane and Margaret Thornton, assisting. Another cousin, Miss Barbara Thornton, attended the guest book.

Out of town guests attending the reception were from Romulus, Adrian, Grand Rapids, Lake Odessa, Greenville, Lansing, Taylor, Garden City, Monroe, and Muskegon.

For her going away ensemble, the bride changed to a white cotton, sleeveless waffle weave sheath with a piped waistline and white accessories. With it she wore a handmade polished stone necklace with earrings, in shades of blue.

The new Mrs Franke graduated from Elsie high school in 1960 and from Adrian College in 1963. She also attended Eastern Michigan University. She is affiliated with Beta Psi Zeta sorority. For the past year, she has been a home economics teacher in the Romulus Senior high school. She has accepted a position as instructor with the Singer Sewing Machine Company in Adrian.

The bridegroom, who is a 1961 graduate of Greenville high school, is a senior at Adrian College. He is a member of the Psi Sigma Rho fraternity. The couple will make their home at 137 South Scott street in Adrian.

Several social events honored the bride previous to her marriage. Among these were a kitchen shower given by the Duplain WSCS; a personal shower given for college friends by her maid of honor; a linen shower by the faculty women of the Romulus high school and a miscellaneous shower given by the Future Homemakers of America of Romulus high school.

THE ICE cream, served at the wedding supper, was frozen a few weeks ago with members of Mrs Thornton's Young Adult Sunday School class assisting. Although the large, four gallon ice cream freezer is now owned by another family in the community, it once belonged to the bride's maternal grandparents, Mr and Mrs Harley Emmons. Mr Emmons died several years ago, but if he were alive today, he would be past 87 years of age.

Farmer Peck's Wife

Homespun Philosophy of a Duplain Township Housewife

Can Ducks read? Must be! Thelma Duck took right off after I told (here) that we had named her first two eggs. That was the last we ever saw of shell or shape of egg.

That WAS kind of goofy of us in more ways than one. Every farmer's wife knows she can't count her chickens before they are hatched. Well, we're not now.

AND Sammy (being HIS duck) is mighty disappointed. He's hunted high and low for her nest. We assured him that no decent, respectable, pretty, and wonderful duck of Thelma's caliber would stop at two eggs. She has a next somewhere! She'll lay more eggs!

Along with growing up on a farm, that is one of the pleasures of childhood: hunting for nests. We're all hunting. We feel it probably is rather hidden, for she

Short-distance phone rates cut

Rates on long distance telephone calls of 20 miles or less will be reduced effective July 1 under an agreement reached by the General Telephone Company and the Michigan Public Service Commission.

The new rate plan announced by the MPSC will allow customers four minutes for 10 cents instead of three minutes for 15 cents on long distance calls of less than 10 miles, plus two-minute overtime periods for another nickel instead of the present one-minute periods.

ON CALLS of 11 to 20 miles distance, rates will remain the same, but customers will be allowed four minutes instead of three. Overtime periods are increased to two minutes instead of one.

The rate cut will result in savings of $613,000 annually to 297,000 Gen Tel customers in 55 counties, according to Peter Spivak, MPSC chairman. Spivak said the reduction resulted from savings by Gen Tel due to the federal income tax cut.

Breeders Co-op names Sovereign

Richard Sovereign, 105 Spring street, St. Johns, has been appointed a technician manager for the Clinton County local of the Michigan Artificial Breeders Co-operative, according to Board Chairman Carl Novis of St. Johns. The Clinton association employs three full-time men.

The Clinton local is one of the charter affiliates in the state, having been organized nearly 20 years ago.

SOVEREIGN comes with over 10 years of experience. He worked for MABC in Tuscola and Genesee counties. He is well qualified to assist dairy and beef men in the breeding and upgrading of their herds, Novis said.

RICHARD SOVEREIGN

Sovereign said that by Aug. 1, he will be carrying bull semen frozen in liquid nitrogen at a temperature of -324 Fahrenheit. Semen from any sire will then be available at any time. Semen stored at this extremely low temperature can be kept fertile indefinitely. MABC has records of a live calf being born seven years after the sire had been dead.

SOVEREIGN graduated from the Boone, Iowa, high school and is a veteran of the US Air Force. He and his wife have five children, three girls and two boys, ranging in age from 4 months to nine years.

Ovid

Ovid plans a full day 4th of July celebration

OVID— Ovid's Fourth of July celebration plans are now in their final stage, and if the weather man cooperates, there will be another "big day" for the folks who enjoy this annual event.

Year after year the Ovid community has had one of the outstanding fireworks displays in Central Michigan. However, there are many other attractions that draw people to Ovid's all-day program.

Starting early in the morning is the popular tractor rodeo; then the tractor pulling contest on a specially built cement slab near the Roller Mills. From 40-50 tractors enter in this feat of pulling ability.

During the afternoon there will be Little League All-Star ball games, softball games; and the running of the Annual Soap Box race.

This race is run down Ovid's Main street hill, and from 30 to 40 boys compete for the cash prizes.

The evening program starts off with an amateur contest, and from 15 to 20 fine acts are presented in front of the grandstand at the athletic field. Cash prizes are awarded to the contestants chosen by the judges.

CROWNING of Ovid's July 4 Queen will then take place and the winner will be announced at that time.

She will win her honors on the basis of penny votes cast in canisters placed in local business places. The girls nominated at school as candidates are: Sharon Wittenberg, daughter of Mr and Mrs Willard Wittenberg; Elizabeth Betts, daughter of Mr and Mrs W. P. Betts; Nancy Elliott, daughter of B. W. Elliott; and Beverly Cupchack, daughter of Mr and Mrs Stephen Cupchack.

The winner will reign as Ovid's Queen for the coming year.

THE FIREWORKS display will get underway about 9:30 p.m.

There will be no charge for parking this year on the athletic field, and in fact everything on the program is free excepting food and drinks. Concession stands will be operated by local organizations throughout the day.

Miss Marsha Mizga, last year's queen is expected to participate in the crowning ceremonies for the new queen.

'Grow' old, don't 'get' old, Yesteryear people told

WACOUSTA—Some 111 persons who attended the ninth annual Yesteryear Party at the Wacousta Community church last Thursday were told it was better to "grow" old than passively "get" older.

Mrs. Veda Forward, who planned arrangements for the event sponsored by the Neighborhood Society, said in her welcome that elderly people should stay active physically and mentally and by doing that would not "get" old. She said there was a vast difference between this and "growing" old.

MOST AT the Yesteryear Party were elderly residents and ex-residents of the Wacousta community. Sixty of those present were over 75, and 18 of those were over 80. All over 75 were presented a long-stemmed rose by the Dean Flower Shop in Grand Ledge.

David C. Allen and his wife, Essie, were the oldest couple present. They live on R-1, Eagle. He is 87 and will be 88 next month. Mrs. Allen is 82.

MR ALLEN was the oldest man present, and the oldest woman was Mrs. Josephine Wells Wade, now of 529 N. Washington, Lansing, who also is 87 and nearly 88.

Many of those over 80 years of age came from as far as Adrian,

Still able to get out and enjoy the fun, Mr and Mrs David C. Allen of R-1 Eagle were the oldest couple at the annual Wacousta Yesteryear Party last Thursday at the Wacousta Community Church. He is nearly 88 and she is 82.

Saginaw, Saranac and Williamston. Mr and Mrs Harley Dutcher, from Bloomfield, Calif., though not yet in their 60's timed a visit to Michigan so they could attend the Yesteryear Party.

The woman coming the greatest distance was Mrs. Flossie Hastings from Adrian, who was presented a plant from the Maxson Garden Center.

MRS FORWARD set the theme in her welcoming talk by reminiscing about "the old days" and the smells of homemade bread baking in the oven, of farming by hand methods and of making up games to play.

"Those days are gone now," Mrs. Forward said, "but we are living in the greatest age ever. Let's only 'grow' old with it."

Mrs. Forward introduced officers of the Neighborhood Society, the group which sponsored the program financially. Shawn and Carla Bergan, daughters of Mr and Mrs Henry Bergan of Wacousta, pantomimed the old song "I Don't Want to Play in Your Yard" while Mrs. Forward read the words.

SEVERAL vocal numbers—old hymns—were sung by Mrs. Alice Marsh and Mrs. Edna Bryde, both of Lansing. The afternoon talk was given by the Rev. Douglas Smith, pastor of the Michigan Avenue Methodist church in Lansing and former pastor of the Wacousta church.

Mrs. Marsh, who is 82, gave a reading and played several numbers on the harmonica. Lively singing games were played by the group between various numbers on the program. The program closed with those present singing "God Be With You 'Till We Meet Again."

REFRESHMENTS were served by a committee headed by Mrs. Douglas Candler. Firms making donations toward refreshments were the B & W Meat House and Ferndale Dairy.

The 18 persons over 80 years of age attending the party were: Judd McDonough, John Henning, Lon Howe, Clara Howe, Mrs. Isabelle Oden, Mrs. Gertrude Liepze, Mrs. Blanche Shasley, Miss Laura Cameron, Mrs. Ivy Greenfield, Mrs. Effie Bush, Mrs. Sadie Doty, Mrs. Alice Marsh, Mrs. Agnes Pingel, Joe Schafer, Claude Lyons, David Allen, Mrs. Essie Allen and Mrs. Josephine Wells Wade.

Twins are honored at birthday dinner

WACOUSTA — Mr and Mrs William Haviland and family of Park Lake, and Mr and Mrs Loyal Koeppen and family of Riley were entertained at a Sunday evening dinner and social time in the home of Mr and Mrs A. Earle Rowland.

The affair honored the birthdays of the twins, Mrs. Haviland and Mrs. Koeppen.

WACOUSTA — Mr and Mrs Richard Myers and family were called to Cheboygan Saturday by the sudden death of his mother, Mrs. Grover Myers. Mrs. Grace Misner, sister-in-law of Mrs. Grover Myers, also attended the services.

Rev. William Torrey is now beginning his fifth year as pastor of Wacousta Community Methodist church.

Mrs. C. S. Gillett of St. Johns and Mrs. Merle Avery of Westphalia township were Saturday luncheon guests of Mrs. Veda Forward.

The Wacousta circle will meet at the home of Mrs. Althea Kraft Thursday, July 2. Luncheon will be served at 1 p.m. Mrs. Ira Bollinger is arranging the program. Devotions will be by Mrs. Carl Miller.

Mrs. Alta Kebler hosts the Willing Workers Friday, July 3. A 12:30 p.m. luncheon will be served by Mrs. Ted Snyder and committee. Program will be

Sunday in St. Johns: water, water everywhere

A MOM TAKES HER little girl wading after the rain quit. There were plenty of places to wade.

TREE-LINED STREETS, human activity, lots of water—they all make for a picture of beauty on South Swegles.

NOT MUCH DOUBT about the street ending here, a youngster points out on East Clark street.

NICK'S FRUIT MARKET all but floated Sunday, and a motorist lamented about other troubles.

3.5 inches of rain in 2 hours floods city

More water than anybody has seen here in a long time has kept St. Johns people busy for several days mopping up from a near cloudburst Sunday.

An hour and a half of steady, hard rain left amounts varying from 1.96 inches (official) at the sewage treatment plant on North US-27 to 3.62 inches of rain in gauges around town.

THE RESULT was flooded streets, yards and basements. Consumers Power Co. was busy tending to lines, transformers and poles knocked out by lightning.

The rain, which started just before noon Sunday, came so fast the city's sewer system was unable to handle it. Chan Woodbury at the sewer plant said 1.97 million gallons of water was pumped through the plant in a 24-hour period—nearly twice the amount the plant was built to handle.

TO GIVE AN idea of the deluge, Woodbury said 60,000 gallons of water were pumped through the plant between 8 a.m. and noon Sunday. This is about a normal amount, an average of 15,000 gallons an hour.

Between noon Sunday and 8 a.m. Monday, 1,910,000 gallons of water was pumped—an average of 95,500 gallons an hour!

IN ADDITION to this, untold gallons had to be poured out into ditches. Woodbury said the ditch running past the plant was six or seven feet deep Sunday, whereas it normally carries about one or two feet of water.

In the south end of town, two sewer system lift pumps which can handle 1,400 gallons per minute were not able to keep up with the flow, and a city fire truck was dispatched to help. With this, about 2,000 gallons were lifted each minute, and Woodbury said this was just barely adequate.

The lower portions of town were flooded. Streets in some cases were blocked off by the street department. North Clinton avenue between Lewis street and US-27 was blocked until 5 p.m. Sunday. Boats were actually launched in some streets.

SOME BUSINESSES were affected. Nick's Fruit Market at 1101 E. State street had water coming in the front door for a time when M-21 flooded. A lot of things inside got wet, but there was no loss.

The Kroger store at Southgate Shopping Center also was flooded. Water came in the front door and covered much of the floor. Duane Frank, store manager, said there was some damage to merchandise, but it would not be extensive. He said Monday morning personnel were cleaning up canned goods and other items.

OTHER STORES in the shopping center were reportedly unaffected. Kroger is at the low end of the cluster of stores.

Electrical service to Clinton Memorial Hospital was interrupted from about 12:10 p.m. to 2:10 p.m., but an emergency electrical generator kicked in automatically and there were no difficulties.

General Telephone Co. Manager William F. Graef said most of that firm's trouble was in the aftermath of the storm—in the form of wet cables. Between 40 and 50 lines were out of service in the area, and most of them were back in commission by Monday afternoon and evening.

The Sunday storm did not cause as much trouble for GenTel as did a Friday night electrical and wind storm, Graef said.

GRAEF SAID telephone cables are under air pressure to protect the lines, and only violent rains like Sunday's normally cause any trouble.

Woodbury, out at the sewage plant, said he has seen lots of rain, "but nothing like this." He said the onslaught of water hit the sewer plant about 1 p.m., and Monday morning crews still hadn't caught up.

Rainfall for the month of June, Woodbury said, measured 6.07 inches at the sewer plant, about double the normal amount.

THE 1.96 INCHES recorded Sunday at the sewer plant was for a period of only 45 minutes. Woodbury said that was the total amount there.

At the First Baptist Church, water came in around basement windows, down over kitchen cupboards and other equipment and covered the floor to a depth of about four inches. Rev. Peter Nieuwkoop said between 35 and 40 members of the church came in Sunday afternoon and cleaned up the water and mud.

HE SAID that unless doors of the cupboards warp, there probably will not be any monetary damage.

There was damage of a different sort at the Douglas Mills home at 1003 S. Lansing street. A huge limb of a tree at the side of the house blew down onto the house. Curtains were knocked down inside, Mrs. Mills said, but there appeared to be no damage to the roof, even the cornice where the tree hit. The Mills family was not at home at the time, about noon.

CONSUMERS HAD most of their trouble Sunday, with lightning strikes leaving some 130 customers—including the hospital—without power for some time south of town.

A new pole and transformer had to be put in on Park street across from the swimming pool Sunday night after a fire, evidently the result of the storm, burned a hole completely through a main power line. Service to nine customers was out until 5 a.m. Monday.

BOYS WATCH AND city street department men wait for water to subside at the corner of Floral and Clinton.

POLICE DIRECT TRAFFIC into one lane at the corner of North Clinton avenue and US-27.

PART OF SOUTH Lansing street in the 900 block washed down into a field to the east. Warning devices were put out.

BOATING WAS ENJOYED by some Sunday. These folks on South Swegles street get their craft ready.

A TREE TOPPLED AND hit, but didn't damage, the Douglas Mills home at 1003 S. Lansing.

32nd Lowell Show planned July 20-25

Dates for the 32nd annual Lowell Showboat have been set for July 20-25 for the community project, according to C. H. Runciman, general chairman this year.

Runciman, known as "Mr Showboat" as one of originators of the Showboat in 1932 and its inter-locutor for 25 years, was recently elected general chairman by a unanimous vote of the board of directors.

Profits from the Showboat over the years have been invested in projects for the improvement of Lowell. Runciman listed some of the larger investments as donations in the American Legion building, which now serves the community with a roller skating rink and bowling alleys; the YMCA swimming pool; the municipal parking lot, and purchase of land to attract a new factory to the city.

"PLANS are well under way for the Showboat and already several hundred people are enthusiastically working to produce the best Showboat ever," Runciman said.

"Our Showboat calliope will travel in style with the donation of a new truck to carry it by Leonard and Orville Jackson, owners of Jackson Motor Sales here in Lowell," Runciman reported. "The calliope will visit

IT WAS announced that the annual seminar and Officers Training Day will be held July 29 at

Wheat compliance behind schedule

(Report from ASC Office)
Due to the late starting date for checking 1964 wheat compliance, we have been unable to measure all wheat farms participating in the 1964 wheat program as of this date. Our farm reporters will be contacting participating farms as soon as they can.

calls at your farm to obtain wheat and feed grain acreage. Reporters will be getting wheat and feed grain acreage planted for harvest and acreage diverted from these crops.

THE FIRST visit to the farm is free. Any additional visits to the farm to get diverted acreage because producers wish to delay giving it to the reporter on the first visit will cost the producer $3 per visit. Producers who are away from home during the day should tell whoever is at home where their diverted acreage is located. This will save the reporters a second trip to the farm to get this information. It also cuts our operating costs. Diverted acreage cannot have anything harvested from it this year

Extension office offers career selection help

The "Town and Country" 4-H project is but one of many avenues offered through the County Extension office to youngsters and their parents for some "down to earth" assistance in determining their future vocations and avocations.

This program, which was discussed in an article written by Marcia Woodbury for the Jan. 23 issue of the Clinton County News, provides youngsters with a chance to get acquainted with different businesses and professions in which they have an interest.

IN DECEMBER 1963 the Extension staff and high school counselors from throughout the county met with Dr Harold Henneman, director of short courses at Michigan State University, to discuss opportunities available for rural young people to apply their rural background in seeking an occupation.

Dr Henneman emphasized that many doors were open to students with good academic standing and a rural background, in business, industry, and the professions. Food science, agricultural law, agricultural engineering, dairy, manufacturing, home economics, biochemistry, and hundreds of other fields are areas in which the young man or young woman can combine background and academic work to achieve much for themselves and society.

A LARGE and growing file of information on various occupations is kept by Extension personnel available to 4-H leaders, parents and young people interested. It includes bulletins from Michigan State University, Michigan Employment Security Commission, United States Department of Agriculture, United States Department of Labor, commercial firms, and other sources.

Many youngsters have profited materially from their 4-H project work in helping to determine their career interests. For example, Dean Ormsby of R-6, St. Johns, will be entering Michigan State University this fall on a General Foods scholarship to study food science. He hopes to specialize in dairy products, combining two major interests of his 4-H club program.

MARCELLA PECK of Elsie is presently preparing for a career in home economics, studying at MSU. Marcella's keen interest in foods, clothing, and other home economics 4-H projects helped her in determining her vocational selection.

Three long time Clinton 4-H members recently were informed of their selection for 4-H scholarships to Michigan State University this fall. Katherine Blakely, of Elsie, Sally Austin, of Ovid, and James Brainerd of DeWitt were rewarded for their excellent scholastic records and their participation in 4-H by these scholarships.

MANY ACTIVITIES in the 4-H program acquaint young people with job opportunities in various fields. Michigan's 4-H Club Week program gives 24 Clinton folks opportunity to meet with several adults employed in fields of the member's interest. Other programs in 4-H provide career information in specific areas.

One of the major emphases of Michigan's Extension Youth programs for 1964 and 1965 is to help young people expand their career paths through understanding their problems and opportunities in occupational-educational choices in preparation for the world of work, with emphasis on the special problems of rural youth. Clinton County's Extension staff will continue to work in this area.

Council Gives Books to Library

Few actually new foods on shelves

More than 7,000 food items appear on the shelves of today's food market. Ten years ago two-thirds of these items could not be found.

Few actual new foods are appearing—just old foods in new packages, in new forms and manufactured by improved processes.

However, some new foods—meat-like dishes without meat—furnish us with food for thought.

THESE NEW foods are made from spun protein fibers. The fibers are made from edible proteins isolated from inexpensive plant proteins. These fibers can be made into almost any kind of food which has a natural fiber texture.

What's New in Foods was one of the home economic extension leader's training lessons presented this year. Marie Ferree, Consumer Marketing Information Specialist from Cooperative Extension Service, Michigan State University was the instructor.

Today's homemaker has to be an intelligent shopper to choose from the many food items that appear in the store. The choice between home-made and convenience food continues to plague the homemaker.

THIS STATEMENT from a report turned in by one of the home economic extension study groups shows a popular method by which these leaders reteach a lesson to the members in their group.

"Our leaders served a smorgasbord using many of the new food products on the market. It was pointed out that although the package mixes are convenient and a time-saver they are not always the most economical money-wise. But if a reasonable value was placed on the homemaker's time, many convenience foods would cost less than home-made."

YET EVEN with the tremendous increase in the number of food items on the shelf, the percentage of income we spend for food continues to decline. In 1963 we spent only 19 per cent of our income for food. Twenty-three per cent of our income was used to purchase food 10 years ago.

Don't use out-dated food preparation techniques with today's "jet-aged food." Read the directions on the package—carefully. Then, follow them!

One of the foods discussed was the new frozen loaves of yeast bread. This product seemed to be quite popular with those who tried it—if they followed instructions.

WE CAN expect the freezing of bakery products to increase. Frozen bakery products allows the bakery to bake less often, but in larger quantities, make fewer but larger deliveries, and to centralize their operation and ship to more distant markets. In the future look for larger freezer cases of frozen bakery products. Have you tried any of these newer frozen bakery products?

Stop and think! How many different kinds of processed potatoes can you find? Well, if you could locate all of them, you'd have over 50. Yet in 1957 only seven processed potatoes were on the market. Food buying practices are changing rapidly; are you keeping up to date?

ALL TYPES of new products are appearing. Do you know the difference between freeze-drying and puff drying?

Granulated flour—no more lumpy gravy—and free flowing brown sugar are some of the new improvements.

Other ideas being tested are bottled eggs—in pints and quarts. They'll keep in the refrigerator for a month. Or how about an egg roll (four whole hard cooked eggs in a plastic case) already to slice or pack for a picnic.

ALSO APPEARING on the market for summer weather: instant tea with lemon and sweetening. And how about the new twist for powdered drinks—already sweetened?

I think these statements from another extension study group shows convenience foods are popular.

Dr. F.B. Fillinger, Ovid ends 50-year G. P. career

BY MABEL OPPENHEER

OVID— "Dr Teepstra, will you come in a moment, please? This is . . ." And so Dr W. B. Fillinger is spending the current days introducing his patients of this vicinity to his successor, Dr Louis I. Teepstra who comes from Houghton Lake.

Dr Fillinger is retiring July 6 from 50 years of practice as a general practitioner with mixed emotions—with anticipation of relaxing from strenuous responsibilities and a nagging anxiety regarding occupying his time after so many years of activity.

"I HAVE never anticipated retirement," he said, "nor prepared for it." Working nine years past the conventional retirement age of 65, he hasn't had time for developing hobbies and pastimes. No doctor's day is an eight-hour deal and living his life as a G. P. for 50 years has geared him to a strenuous pace which he has found impossible in recent years.

But, he is now making plans to trade the stethoscope and the scalpel for a more leisurely life.

ON MAY 20, Dr Fillinger and 22 of his colleagues were honored guests at the alumni banquet of the Detroit College of Medicine. "It's the first time," he said, "that I ever had a check bounce." After he sent in his reservation for the event, his check was returned to him.

Dr Fillinger has strong convictions regarding the Civil Rights problems troubling the country today. "Irrespective of creed and color," he said, "We can all be the same if we have the same opportunities. I feel that the distinction should be earned by the way we live and not by our parentage."

HE IS A man who has made his own way and has always paid his own way.

Tall in stature, he is a plain spoken man who learned early in life that honesty is the best policy.

He tells that when he was a small boy, he walked three miles to visit his uncle and aunt—without telling his parents that he was going.

When he returned full of stories about why he had gone, his parents questioned him patiently, gradually trapping him in his web of prevarications.

Carefully, then, they explained that a person must be very clever, indeed, to be a good liar because he must remember everything he has ever said. How much simpler to tell the truth, they pointed out.

Dr Louis I. Teepstra, left, and Dr W. B. Fillinger of Ovid discuss details of the practice that Dr Teepstra will take over July 6. Dr Fillinger is retiring from a 50-year career in the field of general practicing.

IT IS A rule he has followed all of his life. Always tell the truth and you won't need to remember what you said.

They were notable to leave him with many such lessons before they died.

When he was still quite young, he lived with an aunt and uncle and graduated from Morrice high school in 1906.

He lived with a sister in Detroit while he attended Detroit Western high school. When he graduated there in 1908, he decided to study medicine.

WHEN HE arrived in Detroit, he had eight dollars in his pocket. He soon got a job with the Detroit News at $2.50 a week. He still has the letter that he received offering him the job. He gave his sister $1.50 for room and board. "The other dollar went a long way in those days," he said.

His studies at Wayne University College of Medicine were interrupted one year while he taught school for $50 a month at Nicholson. He went back and earned his degree in medicine June 4, 1914. To help out with expenses, he had charge of the first aid department at Ford hospital.

HE TOOK his internship at Detroit Providence hospital and began private practice at Grand Ledge.

He was commissioned a first lieutenant in the Medical Officers Reserve Corps Aug. 4, 1917 and was called for active duty April 23, 1918 as an American officer to the Royal Army Medical Corps in England where he served 13 months and was promoted to the rank of captain Feb. 17, 1919.

While abroad, he spent three months in post graduate work in the Medical University at London. He received his discharge in 1919 and resumed his practice at Grand Ledge in 1923.

IN FEBRUARY 1923, he took over the practice of Dr Frederick S. Osterheld who was killed in an automobile accident. Here, he engaged in the practice of medicine and surgery.

Here, also, began an association that he will miss in retirement. Mrs Elnore Sillaway, his receptionist, and Mrs Leona Swender, his nurse assistant, have helped him in the office for 22 years.

FOR 41 years, he has watched the babies he has delivered grow up and have babies of their own. A few of the first have grandchildren, too. He has a record of every baby delivered and the deaths he has attended. Many of his friends are among those.

After 48 years of married life, his wife, the former Marguerite Nixon of Eaton county, is the most important person of his life. He says that his wife is not too well and they would just like to be together without the calls on his time that his profession demands.

HIS hobbies are fishing, traveling and doing unto others as he would have them do unto him. Now that he has reached success, he hasn't forgotten how welcome a little push may be along the way and he tries to lend a helping hand where it is needed.

Always active in community affairs, he has served as president of Ovid village and councilman and is a past president and founder of the Ovid Community association.

He is on the staff of Owosso Memorial hospital and Clinton Memorial hospital, a member and past president of the Shiawassee County Medical society, member of the Michigan State Medical society, serving on the committee on post graduate education, and the American Medical association.

DR TEEPSTRA with Mrs Teepstra and four month old son, Gregory Dean, came from Houghton Lake where he practiced for a year.

A native of Moline, Dr Teepstra graduated from Wayland high school and received an associate in science degree from Grand Rapids Junior College and a bachelor of science degree from Calvin College.

HE RECEIVED his doctorate from the College of Osteopathic Medicine and Surgery at Des Moines, Iowa, interned at Grand Rapids Osteopathic hospital and took post graduate work in medicine and surgery at Columbus, Ohio and Flint Osteopathic hospital. He will send his patients to Lansing General hospital.

His hobbies are hunting, fishing and photography.

His wife, Charlotte Ann, finds her pastimes in knitting, sewing and ceramics. They are members of the First Baptist church at Houghton Lake.

Mrs Bernice Millard has returned to her home after spending the past two months with Mr and Mrs Edward Huntoon at Marlette.

John Pierson will stay on despite his "retirement"

BY LOWELL G. RINKER

Business will go on as usual, and few customers will know the difference, but there will be a change at John A. Pierson's shoe store and repair shop as of next Wednesday.

On that date Pierson will turn over proprietorship of the store to his son, Carl, and "retire" after 44 years at the same spot.

ACTUALLY, "retirement" will mean only a few more spare hours. Pierson will stay on at the shop and help Carl. He hasn't any plans for a full and permanent retirement yet, but he'll be able to get away from the store more easily now.

"Working from 7 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. is a little harder than it used to be," he commented with a chuckle. There are later hours Friday nights.

HE WILL be 65 years old Sunday, but Pierson doesn't look it. For all but the first 15 years of his life he has been in the shoe repair business.

His mother was responsible for his career, Pierson said. His family lived in Grand Haven in 1914 when Mrs. Pierson noted a sign in a shoe repair shop advertising for a boy apprentice. She applied for John, but he was underage (15) at the time and couldn't get the job.

WHEN THE position opened up again, Pierson got it—a few days before his 16th birthday—and went to work for Leo L. Thomas.

In 1917, Thomas' father, N. W. Thomas of St. Johns, wanted some time off from his shoe business here, so Pierson was sent to work for three months in St. Johns.

"I liked the people here," he said. "They were farm people—my kind of people—and more down to earth. But everybody was friendly, and sincere about it."

THE ELDER Thomas tried in vain to sell a half-interest in the shoe business here to Pierson in 1918 and 1919 when the same summer arrangements were made, but Pierson turned him down.

In June of 1920, Thomas wrote and said he'd be willing to sell the entire business. Pierson jumped.

John Pierson . . . in a New Role

"But we had to wait until the 28th of the month," he remembered, "so that I could be of age to buy the place."

THE BUILDING at that time was an old, ramshackle wooden structure. But it served the purpose until 29 years ago when Pierson built on the back part. He conducted his business back there while Frank Smith held forth with a harness shop in the front.

He later brought out the harness business and about 10 or 12 years ago—the exact date slipped his memory—he rebuilt the front. He has stocked Red Wing work shoes since that time, although he has always sold them.

SHOE BUSINESS has changed since he first entered it back in 1914.

"All shoes had leather soles then," he pointed out, "but now they are practically all composition soles."

"Shoes don't wear out near as fast now. It used to be that within six weeks a pair of shoes would be ready for new soles."

PIERSON IS easy to talk to,

and he carries on a running conversation with customers, who ever they are.

"I've enjoyed my time here," Pierson said. "St. Johns has got some nice people."

The new proprietor, son Carl Pierson, is not new to the shoe business. He has been working off and on at the shop when Pierson and his wife take vacation trips. Carl is a carpenter, and he and his family live at 1243 Wildcat road.

"He's been brought up with the business," the elderly Pierson pointed out.

There are three Pierson boys and one girl, all married, and 10 grandchildren.

Mr and Mrs Pierson, who have been married since May 26, 1921, live at 111 W. Lincoln street, their home for the last 18 years. Before that, they lived on an 80-acre farm two miles south of town.

HE LIKES farm people, and he likes the people of a farm community—St. Johns.

After all, "They're my kind of people."

Need more farm, garden exhibits for Ionia Free Fair

IONIA—Many more exhibitors are being sought by Lyle Plews, superintendent of the farm and garden crops department of the Ionia Free Fair, Aug. 10 through 15.

Plews said he has received inquiries about four recent classes in the vegetable section of his department. They are wax pod beans, green pod beans, yellow peppers and green peppers. These four classes have only been open for the past three years, he said, and more exhibits are needed in all of them.

MANY Central Michigan farmers appear to be unaware of the silage section of the department also, Plews reports. While practically every farm produces silage, a comparatively small number of exhibits of the product appear at the Free Fair each year.

State headed for one of best tourist years

From the owner of the smallest motel or resort to the highest state official, everyone seems to agree that Michigan is headed for one of its greatest tourist seasons ever.

In a survey conducted by the Automobile Club of Michigan, rose-colored optimism seemed to be the keynote.

On what is this optimism based?

"SEVERAL factors, not the least of which is the ever increasing number of inquiries that have been pouring into tourist information offices around the state," said Jerry E. Fisher, Auto Club touring manager.

"Although our normal vacation season does not start until after mid-June, when school lets out," Fisher said, "there has already been an unusual amount of weekend travel by motorists from Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Canada and Michigan."

These exhibits may be brought in plastic bags or large mouth gallon jars, Plews says. The department usually keeps a number of the large jars on hand and will supply them to exhibitors as long as they last.

ANOTHER growing industry in Michigan is the raising of Christmas trees, and Plews has a section of his department devoted to them.

All farm organizations are urged to participate in the Special Exhibits for Farm Organizations Section, Plews says.

For further information on these exhibits, contact either Lyle Plews at Saranac or the Ionia Free Fair office at 304 1/2 W. Main street, Ionia.

In fact, the Auto Club estimated that on the long Memorial Day weekend in late May, some 9,000,000 vacationers in 3,000,000 vehicles traveled the fantastic total of 72,000,000 miles on Michigan highways.

"THESE figures are even more startling when one realizes that the weather on this particular weekend left much to be desired," noted the Auto Club official.

Traffic volume is another important indication of vacation travel, and the State Highway Department noted that figures to date show an accumulated increase of 7 per cent over 1963, with travel on main trunklines up by as much as 25 per cent.

The only qualifying conditions to this optimism, noted the Auto Club, was the utter unpredictability of the weather. The hotter the weather, the better the season has long been a truism of the tourist industry. This year is no exception.

Nearly 75 per cent of the cropland on southern Michigan dairy farms is devoted to the production of alfalfa and corn.

This is John Pierson at work in his shoe store shortly after he bought it June 28, 1920, from M. W. Thomas. The building occupies the front portion of the present store and shop at 319 N. Clinton avenue.

Ask curb, gutter on E. Lincoln

A public hearing on proposed curb and gutter and water main extension on East Lincoln street will be held by the City Commission July 7.

Kermit Hart, Federal-Mogul plant manager, appeared before the Commission last week to ask for curb and gutter in the 300 block and parts of the 200 and 400 blocks, plus paving of that section.

HART SAID that with Federal-Mogul's plant expansion, considerably more traffic will be using Lincoln en route to and from a new employee parking lot. He said the traffic would raise considerable dust in the neighborhood if the street remained as it is.

The Commission, in discussing the proposal, decided to initiate plans for curb and gutters for the 100, 200 and 300 and 400 blocks of the street and for a water main in the 300 block. A public hearing was then set up for July 7.

THE COMMISSION also talked of widening Lincoln street and North Mead to 40 feet, since trucks bound for the stockyards park along the streets. No decision was reached. City right-of-way would easily allow for the widening.

Elected city clerk

Elections were held Friday at Boys State on the MSU campus and Kenneth Smith of Bath was elected a city clerk.

Mrs. Cunningham ends 30-year teaching career

The last in a series of events honoring Mrs Mildred Cunningham of Bath road, remedial reading teacher for seven years in the Lansing Public schools, was a faculty get-together at the Oak Park school. She was presented with a gift of Amelia Earhart luggage. Previously she had been remembered with a parting gift from the Parent-Teachers Association.

Mrs Cunningham was also the honored guest at a noon luncheon given by the remedial reading teachers at the City Club of Lansing in the Jack Tar hotel.

EARLIER Mrs Elsie Maile entertained the staff of the Grand River school at her East Lansing home in honor of the teachers who were leaving the school system.

Mrs Cunningham's teaching career of nearly 30 years dates back to age 17 when she signed her first contract and began teaching near Ann Arbor with only six weeks of professional training from Michigan State Normal College at Ypsilanti (now Eastern Michigan University) where she later received her life certificate in elementary education.

FOLLOWING her graduation, she taught in Lansing for 11 years preceding her marriage. In 1954 she re-entered the teaching profession, accepting a position at Valley Farms school and later at Northwestern where she was instrumental in setting up the remedial reading program.

In June of 1959, Mrs Cunningham was awarded a bachelor of arts degree cum laude at MSU and was named to Kappa Delta Pi, national educational honorary. Other affiliations are University Christian church, National Education Association, Michigan Education Association, Lansing Education Association and the American Council of Education.

SHE RESIDES with her family at their country home on Bath road and is now looking forward to spending the winters in Florida.

Johnny's family finds new interests in infant

BY MABEL OPPENHEER

John William Karber is becoming more interesting day by day.

The two month old son of Mr and Mrs Larry Karber of 817 Church street and the "adopted" infant of the Clinton County News for a year is beginning to respond to the devoted advances of his family.

The News will bring a story each month for a year in the life of this newcomer. The first couple of months, like every member of the bibs and bottle crowd, he is living in a "eat, grow and dream world."

"JOHNNY" as he is called by his sisters, Sharon and Janis, and his brother, Dean, now weighs 11 pounds and has grown into the six month size suits for little fellows.

He weighed 7 pounds, 4 ounces when he arrived at Clinton Memorial hospital April 27.

HE "TALKS," smiles and coos now and Mrs Karber has found that a white bedspread is not so practical when brother Dean comes in to cuddle with his baby brother. She has to be very vigilant now to protect Johnny against the sometimes too vigorous love of the small fry.

Johnny sleeps about 16 hours a day. He has discontinued waking up at 1:30 a.m. which is a boon to Mother. He usually awakens about 6 a.m. Mother props him up and he is happy until her usual hour of rising at 6:30 a.m.

THE OTHER children thought that Johnny had accomplished quite a feat when he began rolling over from his stomach to his back. From now on, he will be constantly amazing them.

Grandpa Francis Karber of Austin, Tex., visited his new grandson during the last month. He also visited another new grandson, Steven, the new son of Mr and Mrs William Karber.

JOHNNY is eating about the same amount of food that he did a month ago. He gets cereal and fruit along with his formula. And he gets vitamin drops.

He hasn't made his debut in society yet. The Karbers are fortunate in having the services of the same baby sitter for the last three years. Diane Griffith will now take care of four instead of three.

JOHNNY is still such a little fellow. He doesn't make much news yet. But, he will! We'll bring you another story next month.

Try a one-wall treatment for a dramatic touch

By using a dramatic wallpaper as a focal point on one wall—a handsome Spanish wrought iron grill in black and white, a vivid or exotic print, or a scenic toile paper depicting a charming view of some picturesque scene—you focus attention to this area.

Even with minimum furnishings, you can have a room with personality and atmosphere that belies its meager furnishings.

ANOTHER one-wall treatment is to use wallpaper as the "headboard" for a bed, (this is especially great for a Hollywood bed which later may end up in the spare bedroom of a larger home or apartment.) Or try a bold and colorful floral print for one entire wall . . . or a vivid Roman striped paper.

SOME wallpapers have companion fabrics which can be used for the draperies, giving even the smallest room a "planned" look and a pleasing appearance and creating the illusion of space.

Woo your teenagers to breakfast with attractive buffet

Teen-agers, who often skip breakfast anyway, seem to become even more careless during spring and summer. A breakfast buffet might be one answer to assure their getting a good nutritional start in the morning.

Set up the toaster with a tray of enriched white and whole grain breads, butter or margarine and an assortment of jams and jellies. Complete the picture with a pitcher of orange juice and a chafing dish of scrambled eggs. Early and late risers can serve themselves at their convenience.

Measure bread crumbs

Confused about the amount of bread to use when a recipe calls for bread crumbs? One slice of enriched white bread yields about 1 cup soft bread crumbs or cubes or 3/4 cup toasted or dry bread cubes. You'll get 1/3 cup fine dry bread crumbs from an average slice of bread.

Glorify angel cake

For a pretty and spectacular party dessert begin by splitting an angel food cake into four layers.

Then fill the cake by spreading a layer of raspberry jam then one of a prepared vanilla pudding over each cake layer. Stack the layers together and swirl whipped cream over the sides. Refrigerate several hours before serving.

Teach wardrobe care

A sub-teen may be capable of taking complete care of his or her wardrobe, but seldom has the time or inclination. However, it's important to teach proper care of clothes now—not only to benefit the apparel, but for the discipline entailed. A child who grows up without discipline is not likely to be a happy adult.

Half nation's sitters in teenager ranks

Some six million baby sitters will earn about a billion dollars during 1964, proof enough that baby sitters—and babies—are here to stay.

Teenagers will earn about half this amount and more and more community and church groups are setting up training courses for the youngsters who earn money by looking after other people's children.

AMONG training courses established in many communities are classes conducted by the YWCA where students are called "Gems"—Good Emergency Mother's Substitutes.

Home making and home economics classes at school, 4-H clubs, Girl Scouts, and the Red Cross are but a few of the other groups teaching the novice sitter fundamentals in daily baby care techniques and in handling household emergencies.

In St. Johns, the Jayettes sponsored a series of classes to provide efficient baby sitters.

WHILE instruction for teenagers is a wise step, the experienced teenager often has some justifiable complaints that parents would do well to heed. Among those mentioned most often are these:

1. Many parents fail to brief sitters on children's bedtime or nap hours, time for meals, feeding instructions, and telephone numbers where mother, doctor, or neighbor can be reached.

2. THE FRIENDLY family dog may not be so friendly with the new baby sitter. Parents should "introduce" dog and sitter.

3. Some parents expect sitters to do excessive house work. A few dishes are fine, but unless previous arrangements are made for other work, the sitter should only be expected to devote complete attention to the serious responsibility of baby sitting.

4. PARENTS should stick to pre-arranged schedules. When a return at midnight is specified, parents should not delay their return home until 2 or 3 a.m.

5. With a baby in the house demanding most of the sitter's time, parents often fail to brief older children on proper behavior adding to the difficulty of the teenager's assignment.

PARENTS, of course, have their list of gripes too, such as sitters who raid the refrigerator, dribble ice-cream over the house, entertain boy friends and talk on the telephone so much that parents are unable to call home.

The following are reminders for all concerned with responsibilities of baby sitting:

- SITTER
 - Realize that baby sitting is a serious job.
 - Learn about understanding and caring for children.
 - Adapt to different job situations.
 - SITTER'S PARENTS
 - Ask parents to provide written instructions.
 - Be in agreement on business aspects of job.
 - Report all messages.
 - Never leave children alone.
 - Approve of parent-employers.
 - Be aware of all arrangements—hours, guest privileges while sitting and arrangements for return home.
 - Discuss sitter experiences.
 - PARENT-EMPLOYERS
 - Select a dependable sitter.
 - Acquaint the sitter with the household, including the physical set-up, family members, pets, family customs, etc.
 - Have the business arrangements clearly understood.
 - WRITTEN instructions on care of children, where parents and other relatives may be reached and other emergency phone numbers are essential for sitters.
 - Instruct children to obey the sitter.
 - Arrange for sitter's safe return home.

Up on a ladder? Be sure it's safe sound

BY BETTY KETCHAM
County Extension Agent
Home Economics

Climbing on a ladder? Be sure it's safe sound. Painting the house or picking cherries . . . be careful when you use a ladder.

The US Department of Agriculture, which is particularly interested in safety on the farm, offers these tips for working with ladders:

NEVER climb higher than two steps from the top. If you need to reach farther, get a longer ladder.

Make sure the ladder is in good condition. Look for cracks or breaks before you start work. Also check to see that joints are tight. Place ladder in firm position.

Use the side rails when you climb up. Don't lean off balance to reach the work. Instead, move the ladder.

BEEF AND plants are featured on the US Department of Agriculture's Pictorial Foods list for July. But there are also watermelons, turkeys, early summer vegetables, canned pink salmon and a vegetable fats and oils.

From this list alone you can whip up a variety of summertime menus. There are three entree items on the list, and these can be prepared in a number of ways. Turkey and beef can go in the oven, be barbecued or served cold. Salmon, too, has many possibilities—either hot or cold, in a casserole or a salad. Or, of course, it can be used in sandwiches.

AS FOR salads, there's a choice of vegetables, oils and dressings. For dessert? Plums or watermelon.

Beef supplies this summer will continue at record levels, according to USDA economists. Turkeys will be increasing seasonally and the supply will be heavy in comparison to a year ago—as much as 10 per cent larger. Remember the heavier birds give you more meat in relation to bone.

THERE'S A record crop of California plums this year, 35 per cent above average. Although the official production estimate for watermelons is not yet available, three per cent more was planted this year than last.

And look for lots of locally produced summer vegetables, especially tomatoes, sweetcorn, green beans and lettuce.

THE LAST two weeks of June marks the beginning of peak season for Michigan's greenhouse (not hothouse) tomatoes. Many consider these the queen of all tomatoes! Since they cost more per pound than either tube or those field-grown tomatoes from southern areas which are labeled "vine-ripened" it pays to understand why, as well as how they are different.

The greenhouse tomato is grown in glass houses under controlled soil, temperature and moisture conditions. In the market, Michigan's greenhouse tomato can be identified by its brilliant clear red color, tender skin and the green calyx attached.

GREEN HOUSE tomatoes are always "vine-ripened." This means the tomato reaches the firm ripe stage just prior to becoming fully "red ripe." At this stage, both flavor and quality characteristics are well established.

In contrast, early-season field grown tomatoes, are picked while still green then ripened in darkness and packaged as "tube tomatoes." These tubetomatoes, according to research, are low in Vitamin C and A content while "vine-ripened" tomatoes are high in both vitamins.

DeWitt's 'Grandma Moses' petite dynamo of energy

BY MRS LEO J. HANSON

DEWITT—DeWitt has its own answer, and we think a superior one, to Grandma Moses, in the person of Mrs Nellie Boyd.

At 88, Mrs Boyd is a 96-pound bundle of energy. She is not only a very talented artist and sculptress but does all her own housework (she lives alone), has a garden and beautiful lawns and flower beds.

SHE DESIGNED and sculpted the World War I soldier Monument on the lawn of the American Legion hall at Effingham, Ill. It is a 6-foot figure of a kneeling soldier holding the flag staff of an American Flag. She also sculpted an angel monument to mark her only son's grave in the DeWitt cemetery. She has done many smaller pieces of sculpture which have been used for lamps, bookends and other items.

Mrs Boyd was born in Mt Vernon, Ill. and started painting in oils at the age of 12. She had painted in pastels long before this.

WHEN I called on her she was

A few charcoal briquets will help remove stubborn food odors from your refrigerator. Put three or four pieces in a disposable small pie-tin in your refrigerator and it will remain odor-free.

The more frequent showers and baths you will be taking during the hot summer will be more pleasant if your water is soft. Experts say soft water is more refreshing because it washes away all the soap and dirt instead of leaving a thin film of scum on the skin as hard water does. You'll use less soap with soft water, too.

BEFORE you wash any throw rugs, baste a piece of fabric such as an old torn sheet to one edge. It makes it easier to pin on the clothesline.

Mrs Nellie Boyd does a little reminiscing as she stands before a picture she painted when she was 15 years old—73 years ago. The canvas shows its age with checkmarks but the picture is still colorful and attractive.

busily sketching pictures of Mule-deer that she plans on using in a painting she is doing of Colorado. Her last painting, an 18 by 24 inch scene of Arizona has been purchased by Mr and Mrs Lee Rummell. It took 166 hours to finish.

Every detail in a Boyd painting must be perfect. She spends hours on one leaf or one flower and she constantly uses reference books to be sure that the animals in her pictures are native to that part of the country and that every detail is correct.

OVER THE years, she has given away 123 pictures in oils, pastels and plaques besides the many she has sold. Her biggest problem is that of never having any of her later work on hand as someone always talks her out of it. Of each new painting she always says "This one I am going to keep for myself." But it never happens.

Mrs Boyd lived on a farm in southern Illinois with her husband, John, until they retired 16

Senator to seek appeal judge

GRAND LEDGE— Sen. John W. Fitzgerald of Grand Ledge has announced his candidacy for a judgeship on the new Michigan Court of Appeals.

Fitzgerald, a Republican state senator since 1958, will run in the "outstate district" made up of 66 counties, including Clinton and Eaton on its eastern edge, and representing about 75 per cent of the state's total land area. Population in the district is some 2.5 million.

An attorney for 10 years, Fitzgerald explained he is seeking the post because it presents a challenge and an opportunity to streamline Michigan judicial procedures and set an example to be followed by the rest of the nation.

"WE HAVE never had a court of this type before," Fitzgerald said. "It will eliminate waiting that now occurs when appeals from the Circuit Court go to the state Supreme Court. It will also lighten the burden of the already overworked Supreme Court and make appeals less expensive for the appellant."

friends. She is staying with an old neighbor, Mrs Don Overton of Cornuna.

Mrs Gertie Scarborough has returned from several days treatment in the Owosso Memorial hospital.

At a primary election scheduled for Sept. 1, voters in the 66-county district will select six candidates to run on the Nov. 3 ballot. Of those, three will finally be elected to the Appellate Court. The candidate receiving the highest number of votes will serve a 10-year term, the next highest eight years, and the lowest, six years. As the terms expire, one judge will stand for re-election each two years for a six-year term, thus staggering them.

Senator Fitzgerald, 39, is the son of two-term Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald who died in office in 1939. He is married to Lorabeth Moore of Hillsdale. The Fitzgeralds live in Grand Ledge and have three sons, Frank, Eric and Adam. An infantry veteran of World War II, Senator Fitzgerald is a member of the American Legion and the Disabled American Veterans. He graduated from Michigan State University in 1947 and took his law degree from the University of Michigan in 1954. From 1955 to 1958 he served as legal counsel to the State Senate before being elected Senator in 1958 and re-elected every two years since.

HE HAS SERVED as chairman of the highly important Committee on Senate Business besides being a member of the committees on Judiciary, Corporations and Veterans' Affairs.

Extension Service activities had wide range

Efficient business practices essential

Agriculture is becoming a larger business every year. Farms are becoming larger, production is higher, and the volume of business is increasing. These changes make efficient and accurate business practices more essential if the farms are to remain competitive and profitable.

The Clinton County Extension Service has emphasized the business side of agriculture in the program this year. Farm accounts and income tax reporting were the phases given the most attention. The account phase of the work appears in another article about Telfarm in this section.

BECAUSE OF the changes in income tax in 1962, and lack of understanding of these changes, farm income tax reporting was emphasized in the program this year. A county-wide meeting was held to explain farm income tax reporting and over 200 attended. Because of the interest in this meeting three others were scheduled and over 400 attended these meetings.

Another meeting was held for those people who assist in making out farm tax returns. Twenty-four people attended this meeting, and the reports were very favorable on the information that was gained. Many of the people who attended also contacted the Extension Office later for more assistance on individual problems.

AT ALL OF the meetings on income tax the points that seemed to be giving the most trouble were emphasized. One of these was investment credit, especially as what it applied to and how it would effect depreciation. Many people failed to take this credit in 1962 and instructions were given on filing of amended returns in order to take advantage of this tax saving. Questions also arose as to the carryback of excess credit for 1963 to apply against taxes paid in 1962.

Methods of depreciation were also discussed in detail along with the guidelines for years of life for various types of property. The method of computing the additional first year depreciation and how it applies was also explained.

IT WAS surprising to find some of the errors that have been made in income tax reporting in the past. One large dairyman had reported the sale of cull dairy cows as regular income instead of capital gains, even though this change was made over 10 years ago. It would be impossible to estimate the number of dollars saved as a result of these meetings, but it would amount to a good many thousands of dollars in reduction of income tax.

As a result of these meetings

Conserving soil is essential

Conserving our soil resources is essential to agriculture in Clinton County. Some of the practices which farmers should use to obtain the most effective conservation of soil provides fall, winter and spring protection of the soil against erosion.

The effect of the Extension Service cooperating with other groups and agencies in activities to improve soil conservation can be shown by the increase of the use of the following practices in 1963 over 1962.

1. Winter cover crop acreage increased about 25 per cent.
2. Permanent vegetative cover increased by 65 per cent.
3. Special purpose vegetation to protect against erosion more than tripled.
4. Protecting soil from gully from water through the use of sod waterways more than doubled.

The Extension Service will continue working with individuals, groups, and other agencies to further encourage proper conservation and management of soil and water in Clinton County.

Others get quick results with Clinton County News classified ads—you will, too!

many office and phone calls were received to get answers to individual questions in regard to tax returns. Advice was also given in making out amended returns to take advantage of investment credit which was not taken in 1962.

A MEETING was held on the use of credit in operating a farm business. The various methods of computing interest were discussed, and it was explained how to compute the true interest rate on the various types of loans. Most of those in attendance were surprised at the actual interest rate on some of the common types of loans that are being made to finance farm operations.

A comparison was also made of the financial benefits of the leasing of silos and farm buildings instead of an outright purchase of them. It was shown that practically all of the lease policies had an excessive interest rate as part of their hidden cost.

Leasing has been promoted as a method of saving on income tax because the leasing fee could be charged off as a current expense. It was shown how this was a false impression because the actual savings over a period of years were greater with an outright purchase plan.

FARM insurance was the topic of another meeting. Mike Kelsey, Extension Specialist from the farm management department, discussed the various types of insurance and what coverages they would provide.

Liability insurance was discussed in detail, pointing out what the various types cover and what they don't cover. The importance of reading over the policy to become acquainted with the various limitations in a liability policy was emphasized.

Examples were used from Clinton County where these limitations were a deciding factor in adjusting certain claims. This emphasized the need for a thorough understanding of just what coverages were being provided.

IN ADDITION to the meetings, individual assistance was given on a wide number of questions on various business problems. These included social security for family as well as hired labor, farm investment, partnership agreement, inheritance and other similar topics.

The latest improvement to the Clinton County Extension Center at the 4-H Fairgrounds in St. Johns is the leveling and clearing of the county property south of the Sickles street entrance to the fairgrounds.

The bulldozing, done by Roy C. Davis, includes filling of the large swale and water pocket south of Smith Hall and improving the drainage of both county and city park property. Removal of several trees in the area and cutting down the hill are all part of the project.

THE Clinton County 4-H Council arranged for the work to be done, in anticipation of erection of a horse show ring for the 1964 Clinton County 4-H Fair and possible future growth of the facilities at the Center.

Smith Hall, the "meeting place" of the center, was improved in 1963 by painting of the interior and the addition of 20 new tables and 100 new chairs. Four stainless steel serving carts and four automatic coffee makers improved the kitchen facilities.

Installation of a sound system in Smith Hall and adaptations to make outdoor sound amplification possible were also included in the past year's improvements.

NEW FRONT doors were installed. Weed spraying, effectively combined with mowing the grass in the area, has served to make a real showplace of the Center.

"Cooperation" has been the entire Extension Center improvement program. Groups which have made the improvements possible in the past year have been the Clinton County Board of Supervisors, the County 4-H Council, and the County Home Economics groups.

The cooperation of many other individuals and groups has been instrumental in providing this important addition to the resources of the entire area.

IN 1963 the 4-H Clubs used the building on 55 different occasions. This included training meetings for leaders and members, community 4-H achievements, and the County 4-H Fair, Spring 4-H Achievement, 4-H Talent Show, Demonstration Day, 4-H Home Economics Field Day and other county-wide 4-H activities. The 4-H Clubs of the county were the largest single user of the facility.

Home Economics Extension groups numbered second in the use of the building, with 20 different occasions during the year. Agricultural Extension meetings were held 16 different times at the Center, including series of courses in dairy, family business management, and income tax.

FARM organizations made use of Smith Hall on 18 different occasions in 1963. These groups included the Clinton County Farm Bureau, the County Soil Conservation District, Michigan Milk Producers Association, Michigan Livestock Exchange, Pomona Grange, the Centennial Farmers Association of Michigan, the Clinton County Dairy Committees, and the Michigan Artificial Breeders Association.

Many other groups used the building during the past calendar year. Some of these were the county milk haulers for Michigan Milk Producers, the Clinton County News, the Knights of Columbus, the District Township Supervisors Association, the Church of God of St. Johns, PTA groups, St. Johns Co-op, Sleepy Hollow Conservation Club, the County ASC office, various schools, the County Road Commission, the Senior Citizens of St. Johns and St. Johns Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Indications to date are that even greater use of the County Extension Center will be forthcoming in 1964.

SIX HUNDRED seventy-eight of the members in 1963 came from farm homes, 295 from rural non-farm and 103 from the city of St. Johns.

Five hundred sixty-three of the boys and girls were from 10 to 12 years old, 342 were from 13 to 15, and 171 were from 16 to 20 years of age.

Major project areas in which the young people did their work in the past year were clothing, with 450 members; food and nutrition, 466; engineering (including handicraft, electrical and tractor), 246.

LIVESTOCK projects included 119 members in dairy, 61 in beef, 49 in horses, 37 in rabbits, 16 in swine and 17 in sheep.

One hundred fifty-six members completed projects in vegetable gardening and 139 in flower gardening and landscaping.

Conservation projects totaled 97 in 1963 and included 75 in conservation appreciation, 16 in wildlife, five in basic conservation and one in forestry.

ONE HUNDRED twenty-five used their knitting needles to make sweaters, afghans, mittens and other interesting articles.

Sixty-nine boys "tilled the soil" in completing their crops projects.

Thirty-eight members were enrolled in photography. Other projects in which members worked during 1963 were money management, home improvement and design, child development, and safety.

SEVENTY-SIX boys and girls carried out Junior Leadership roles by helping younger members in many different phases of local club programs.

Need homes for IFYE visitors here

International Farm Youth Exchange or IFYE is a People to People Program of the National 4-H Club Foundation in behalf of the Cooperative Extension Service.

Clinton County has had four IFYE's. Our most recent member was Bill Kissane. Bill visited Ireland in 1960. Other IFYE's from Clinton County are Doris Kowalk Henningsen, Raymond Borton, and Jack Crowner.

HOST FAMILIES are needed for IFYE students coming to the United States. If you are a farm family with children living at home you could qualify to have an exchange in your family. Serving as a host family is a two-way experience. Your IFYE learns about our way of life, while you are becoming acquainted with his country, its customs and traditions.

If you are interested in becoming a host family, stop by the Extension office for more information, or better yet talk with some of the families that have had IFYE's in their home.

THE ROBERT Sands had Mahavir D. Singa from India as an exchangee this past summer. Other families that have had this wonderful experience are the Albert Schaefer, Byron Kissanes, Ray Pecks, A. W. Cobbs, H. B. Farleys, Herbert Hardkes, Allan Oberlin and Elmo Giffels.

Service helped to explore PL 566

Floods of words have been written and spoken about the Maple River. Emotion has often replaced reason in discussions. Now a ray of hope has appeared to perhaps replace the emotional flood rages with the serene beauty of steady flow.

Public Law 566 made available unbiased technical assistance through Soil Conservation Engineers in planning for flood control, drainage, recreation and wildlife purposes. The opportunities offered under P. L. 566 were explored on the Morris drain project near Westphalia. The outstanding success of this project has encouraged the use of P. L. 566 in solving differences existing on the Maple River.

PRELIMINARY engineering investigations have indicated that the possibility of establishing recreational facilities for the people of Clinton County is outstanding in the Maple River Watershed. The benefits and problems involved is presently being studied through the use of P. L. 566 on the Catlin-Waters-

Reynold-Session drainage project in Lebanon Township.

Your Extension Service conducted over 10 public informational meetings in the Maple River Watershed to explain to property owners the various possibilities and benefits existing through P. L. 566 so that they can decide their course of action.

MANY RADIO programs, TV shows, newspaper articles and a special watershed bulletin have been used in further explaining and keeping people in contact with the progress of work related to the river.

At a public hearing held in April the taxpayers attending filled the community center building and overwhelmingly approved the study and planning provided through P. L. 566.

The wise use of the opportunities presented promise very great economic and aesthetic returns for the people of Clinton County.

Ditch Bank Seeding

Ditch bank seeding, shown here, is one of the practices used under PL 566 which gives permanence to ditch construction but is seldom used on private drains.

Section C

Corn Club's success being followed closely

One acre in every three of crop land grows corn to give Clinton County 2 1/2 times more acres of corn than any other crop. Farmers like it because the value per acre of corn has been higher than most other common field crops.

The corn crop has also in the past had the greatest potential for improvement in production and opportunities for profitable production.

THE CLINTON County Corn Club has shown the way for improved production for profit. Many of the practices apply throughout the corn belt. In the summaries of the past four years of the corn club members, the most profitable production has been achieved by closely following these recommendations.

1. Plant Population—Planting rates of four acres or less per bushel have proven most profitable. This usually results in a harvest population of 18,000 to 22,000 plants per acre. Under very favorable growing conditions perhaps higher population may be warranted.

2. FERTILIZATION—Use of the proper analysis and amount of fertilizer based on soil tests are necessary to promote vigorous early growth and maintain healthy plants throughout the plant and ear growing period.

3. Minimum Tillage—Proper air-water relationship is a must for root development, use of fertilizer, and control of diseases and insects.

4. DRAINAGE—A good many of our heavy soils are very poorly drained and should have tile drains spaced every 50 to 70 feet, even on hill sides.

5. Chemicals—Corn Club members are finding that the proper use of chemicals for weed and insect control is an efficient way of increasing production with reduced costs.

6. Cover Crops—Normally plant nutrients are released even after harvest season and can be lost along with top soil during the fall and very early spring. Winter cover crops will save and store these free plant foods for the next crop as well as prevent soil erosion.

FARMER INTEREST in the Clinton County Corn Club has increased each year as indicated by the number of farmers enrolled. Included in the members have been many 4-H and FFA young farmers. The emphasis on efficient production and the results obtained has encouraged these young people as well as their fathers to adopt improved practices.

The success of the Clinton County Corn Club can be shown by the average yield being nearly double the average county yield. Even though Clinton County farmers probably enjoyed the highest corn yield per acre of any county in Michigan in 1963, the corn club members averaged over 130 bushels per acre on an increase of about 15 bushels over previous records.

HAND PICKED plots on four farms indicated several yields over 170 bushels per acre of dry shelled corn. One farmer cribbed an actual 166 bushels per acre from an 18 acre field. Another sold, by weight, over 150 bushels per acre from a 12 acre field. A third estimated a cribbed yield of over 130 bushels per acre from a 40 acre field.

Perhaps the best indication of the value of the Clinton County Corn Club has been that many farmers, after being members from two to four years, use the recommended practices on their entire corn acreage as a means of increasing corn profits.

THE POPULARITY of the Corn Club has been shared by Clinton County businesses, too, since more profit to the farmer has means more trade for the businesses.

Extension efforts add to incomes

Extension Service efforts have added over $100,000 to the income of those farmers participating in the feed-grain program in Clinton County in the past two years. This has come about because of a change in the assigned corn yield for Clinton County. The yield assigned originally under this program was considered out of line and unreasonably low.

When we considered the acres in farms and the quality of farm land in the county, the yield figures assigned were out of line with those of surrounding counties. Your Extension Service presented information to the state ASCS committee showing why Clinton County should have a higher average yield.

AS A RESULT the assigned yields were raised so that those farmers participating in the feed-grain program attained at least $100,000 more income in the past two years.

In addition, the new wheat program and feed-grain program were discussed at numerous meetings, and unbiased information was presented to the farmers on advantages and disadvantages of their participation in these programs.

As a result, many farmers brought their individual problems and situations to the Extension Service for further advice on how these programs would influence their farming operation. They were then able to make a decision on using or not using these federal programs in their operations.

Large moose herd
Isle Royale National Park in Lake Superior is noted for having one of the largest remaining herds of great antlered moose in the United States. History says they crossed the ice from Canada in 1912 and were stranded by the spring thaw.

Success in corn club crop yields is moving many farmers to plant their corn closer together, such as Extension Agent George McQueen shows here. Under the new plan about 22,000 plants are put in per acre, compared to 12,000 under average practice. This picture was taken on the William Thurston farm west of St. Johns.

Soils are basis for farm income

Farm income to Clinton County comes from many sources, but the real source lies in our soil. Soils and their management should be the first interest of every Clinton county farmer. The crops produced may be marketed through livestock or sold through the regular trade channels, but efficient crop production first determines the chances for farm profits.

Proper management of the various soils in Clinton County varies with the kinds of soils, by the kinds of crops and by the individual farmer. To make recommendations for each particular soil requires a knowledge of the soil physical and chemical properties.

THE OLD soil survey map of the county, published in the late thirties, served as a general indication of soil physical properties. However, to obtain specific information on a particular field of a farm it was necessary to obtain a detailed soil map through the Soil Conservation District.

Arrangements have now been made, through financial assistance from the Clinton County Board of Supervisors, to obtain detailed soil maps of the entire county.

This detailed survey should be available for all Clinton County farm land by 1966. The survey will show the soil names in each farm field, thereby providing the necessary physical information on the soils.

CHEMICAL properties of soils can be determined only through proper soil sampling and testing procedure. During last year, 1,290 soil samples were tested and fertilizer recommendations made in our county soil testing laboratory. A soil test survey and summary was made for a three-year period by townships and by sections to obtain average lime, phosphorus and potassium needs. This survey showed that 50 per cent of our crop land had an average need for lime of 2 1/2 tons per acre. This indicates that 250,000 tons of lime are needed just to catch up for more efficient cropping and 7,000 tons of lime are needed each year to remain even.

Our present usage of lime is about 10,000 tons per year. The summary showed that 90 per cent of our soils tested low in phosphorus and 75 per cent tested low in potassium. Our present usage of these materials is about 25 per cent of the need. Proper correction of lime and usage of fertilizer materials could be the basic steps in a more prosperous agricultural business.

MUCH interest in minor nutrients has been shown in the last few years. Most of this interest is in manganese and zinc. Deficiencies are often found in crops grown on many of our shallow

Farm suppliers, too, kept up-to-date on techniques

The Extension Service's greatest contribution to Clinton County perhaps is the vast store of unbiased information. In the laws establishing the Extension Service it was specified that dissemination of information should be the primary objective of the Extension Service.

In providing facts and figures of all types to agriculture, the Extension Service works with many agencies, organizations, groups and individuals. Often information provided to others can be of greater benefit to farmers than that same information given directly to farmers.

CLOSE working relationships with the county elevator operators often will provide farmers with new feed and chemical changes quicker and more thoroughly than trying to contact farmers directly. To keep the elevator operators up-to-date and provide ready reference material, they have been supplied with a handbook containing much factual information on subjects dealing with their operation as it may aid farming in their community.

Fertilizer dealers and farm chemical suppliers are also kept up-to-date on their very fast changing farm business. Many of these changes in chemical recommendations and use require precise attention to quantity and method of application.

THE DEALERS and suppliers are often in the best position to assist farm users in the effective use of farm chemicals and keep within the tolerance established under the Pure Food and Drug Law.

Close working relationships with county credit institutions, schools, federal agencies, farm cooperatives and private industry frequently offer the most rapid and efficient method of supplying factual information for the benefit of Clinton County agriculture and Clinton County people.

Food for world's people perplexing problem

In this country a homemaker feeds her family from a choice of over 7,000 food items that appear on the shelves of the food markets.

The American farmer feeds himself and 30 others, five of these in foreign countries. Millions of Americans are overfed.

OUR MAIN concern is do we have enough will power to resist these wonderful foods and stay on our low caloric diet.

This is not the picture of a large portion of the world. Today our world populations totals 3 billion individuals. In less than 40 years, by the year 2000, our population will double to 6 billion individuals.

RIGHT NOW one-third to a half of these 3 billion individuals are hungry, malnourished, ill-housed and clothed and without adequate education.

These people do not worry about which one of 7,000 food items to select. They worry about getting enough of one or two foods to feed their family.

In many undeveloped areas two out of three of the people, or sometimes as many as 85 per cent of the people are engaged in farming. Even then they are unable to raise food enough to feed the people in their country.

FOOD AND PEOPLE, a series of three lessons, was presented to Extension Group women and other people concerned with this problem—of Feeding the World. These lessons were presented to leaders in Clinton and Gratiot counties.

What is it like to be hungry? How do we react when we do not receive enough of the right kinds of food? These questions were discussed in the first lesson—called Food and Hunger.

THE UNDERFED of the world are condemned to the "misery-go-round" of disease, underproduction, malnutrition, ignorance, poverty and back to disease again. A vicious circle is the "misery-go-round."

Kwashiorkor was a word added to the leaders vocabulary. This is a disease of children, present in many parts of the world—due to lack of protein in the diet. I doubt if the women who saw the colored slides of children with this disease will forget Kwashiorkor. Other deficiency diseases were also investigated.

Many extension group leaders reported on articles they had read concerning these problems of Food and Hunger.

THE SECOND lesson of the series was concerned with World Food Problems.

Mrs Wilbur Worrall (left) goes over some of the material she uses to teach lessons to the South Bingham and Olive extension groups with Miss Betty Ketcham, county extension home economics agent. The material deals with foods and people. The poster in the background indicates current and projected population increases in various areas of the world.

The world today is not producing enough of the right kind of food to feed the people who live in it. Why? What can we do about the world of tomorrow when there will be additional millions to feed?

In some parts of the world no more food per person is being produced now than before the war. Our neighbors to the south are producing less food per capita, and this is the part of the world with the most rapidly increasing population.

POSSIBILITIES for producing more food were investigated. Soil, climate, improved seed, selected animal breeding, disease and pest control, fertilizer, transportation, new foods and the ability of man to accept these new improved practices were some areas that were covered.

Even in our country we do not practice all the improved procedures that will raise more food.

For example our county corn yield average is about 55 bushels per acre. Average corn club yields indicate we would average 120 bushels of corn per acre. Some farmers following approved procedures more than tripled the county average with fields of over 165 bushels of corn per acre.

"NEW FOOD" prepared from "old familiar foods" were also discussed. High protein foods with names like Incaparina, MPF, Spike, Saridele, Arlac, and others were investigated.

These are man-made foods made from common, local food products such as corn, soybeans, peanuts, not-fat dry milk, fish meal, peanut flour, rice, wheat, legumes, etc.

The last lesson of the series—Solving World Food Problems—discussed the many organizations that are concerned with this problem.

THE UNITED Nations and its many agencies such as UNICEF, FAO, and WHO are studied. CARE, CROP, World Neighbors, Meals for Millions, and church organizations were some of the other groups investigated.

Public Law 480 or Food for Peace, with its four different methods of supplying surplus foods to foreign countries, was also studied.

Japan is an excellent example of a country that received donations of foods and also paid for their food with yen under PL 480. Today Japan is our number one dollar market for farm commodities.

A TYPICAL Japanese dish, Sukiyaki, was served by many of the extension groups as they studied world food problems. Some of the ladies learned to eat with chop sticks. It is not easy to eat slippery bean threads with chop sticks.

The youth of today needs to be concerned with this problem of feeding the present world population and the additional 3 billion people that will be living in the year 2000.

A new 4-H food project called Food and People is available this year to help the youngster understand this problem.

THIS PROJECT was designed to alert youngsters to the nutritional state of the world. What are the causes and effects of hunger, and how can they help.

Many books, leaflets, bulletins, etc., are available at the Extension office. Anyone interested in this tremendous and complicated problem of feeding the world is welcome to borrow these.

Youngsters get tips on economical 'buymanship'

Sales arouse our curiosity. Not only do they make us curious, but we seem to lose our ability to think clearly. Sales are important; we can save more, but we do need to think, not just rush out and buy because it is a sale.

Here is some advice one of the project leaders gave to her group members after she had attended a leader training lesson on "Saving With Sense at Sales."

"VARIOUS KINDS of sales were discussed, but the group was cautioned to remember a good sale buy is something that is needed, fits in with clothes and accessories on hand, is suitable and becoming to the individual and costs less money even when costs for damage, soiling and alterations are included."

4-H Home Economics Field Day gave members a chance to try their shopping sense. Four cans of peas of different grades and brands were on display. The cans had been opened and the peas and juice emptied into identical clear glass containers. The youngsters had a chance to compare the amount of peas and juice in each can. Then they figured the cost per serving and decided which can of peas they would buy.

THE YOUNGSTERS also had a chance to taste some of the new cheeses and flavored milk drinks developed by Michigan State University. They served as a taste panel and selected the ones they liked. Low fat milk is another of the new dairy products to appear this year.

Food buying tips, information about new products, new fabric, donated and plentiful foods, were presented in talks, in news letters, newspaper columns and on radio and TV.

YVONNE HARLOW, Maureen Peck and Mrs E. J. Bottum attended the first annual Dairy Food Program sponsored by the American Dairy Association of Michigan through the 4-H Foundation of Michigan. They had a chance to taste new products and foods prepared from dairy products. They are well informed on the dairy industry in Michigan. They would be willing to share the information with you.

Posters such as this displayed by Mrs Earl Flegler and Mrs Carl Light help point out how much water is wasted. This display will be shown at the Clinton County 4-H Club in August. Mrs Wayne Rossow and Mrs Lloyd Hopp also helped on the display.

We helped keep water clean

Pollution has become a dirty word in Clinton County.

Efforts to control and improve water quality center around management of water when it falls on the land, before it goes into the ditches, and after it reaches the streams.

To do this the Extension Service has assisted in providing information on "Water, Its Use and Misuse;" assisted in a conference program on "Sewage and Its Management;" and helped many individuals with problems related to septic tanks, drain fields, farm ponds and drains in general.

COOPERATION with other agencies to improve control of water on the land and in the drainage ditches should lead to improved water quality in our streams. The effectiveness of this approach can be shown on the Morris Drain project near Westphalia where water quality improvement has been outstanding through the cooperation of individual land owners and various public groups and agencies.

Leafhoppers, thrips nipped

Leafhoppers and thrips threatened the Clinton County bean crop last summer. Early reports to the Extension Service office enabled us to identify the problem and recognize the threat to the beans.

Immediate publicity on radio and TV, newspapers and through elevators and chemical suppliers alerted bean producers. Farmers then were able to apply proper control measures. Results were quick and amazing. Bean fields suffering from apparent "dry weather" turned green again and made very rapid growth.

WHILE ACTUAL benefits in dollars are difficult to determine, a conservative estimate would indicate the savings to bean producers was in excess of $100,000.

This problem was easier to define than most encountered in Extension activity. Dollar benefits, even though estimated, also were much easier to determine than financial returns from many other activities.

Ponds Have Many Benefits

Construction of ponds like this not only help control flooding and gullying but results in many recreational benefits.

Meeting world neighbors delight for area families

A better understanding of world neighbors is obtained in many different ways in Clinton County.

The womens extension groups have sponsored a young boy in Korea, Park Soo Young is 16 years old and corresponds regularly with Mrs Fred Ferris of St. Johns.

Dee is the international chairman for the extension clubs. She maintains a file on Park Soo Young and his Korea, which clubs may borrow. A book entitled "Children's Christmas Around the World" was a gift from Christian Children's Fund and is included in the folder.

OTHER GROUPS have studied about Ceylon, Scandinavia, Germany, and Australia and participate in the International Program of the Associated Country Women of the World.

Clinton County families are always delighted to serve as host families for students attending Adventure in World Understanding at Michigan State University during the Christmas holidays.

This year 18 families entertained students from Austria, Thailand, Iran, Ghana, India, Sierra Leone, Indonesia, Taiwan, Greece, Iraq, Norway, Pakistan, Kenya, Turkey and Bolivia.

FAMILIES entertaining these students in the St. Johns area were: Mr and Mrs Leonard Koenigsnecht, Mr and Mrs Duane Davis, Mr and Mrs Cecil Boak, Mr and Mrs Ray Mayers, Mr and Mrs Ron Motz, Mr and Mrs Maurice Gove, Mr and Mrs Alden Livingston, Mr and Mrs Albert Schaefer, Mr and Mrs Lawrence Becker, Mr and Mrs Vern Upton, Mr and Mrs Byron Kissane, Mr and Mrs Leonard Puetz, Mr and Mrs Robert Fox, Mr and Mrs Leon Thelen and Mr and Mrs Warren Swanson.

Students visiting in Eagle, Pawam and Ovid were guests of Mr and Mrs Russell Howe, Mr and Mrs Lawrence Blauwiel and Mr and Mrs Ernest Jackson.

MARGARET Schaefer and Carla Motz, local 4-H members, served at the punch table. This informal meeting at the Extension office gave the students an opportunity to visit the office and meet their respective families.

These outstanding foreign students are from colleges and universities throughout the United States. Each year they spend approximately 10 days at Michigan State University gaining a deeper understanding of the American way of life.

THE TWO-DAY farm visit rates very high among the students. Modern farming ideas and the modern farm family intrigues many of them.

Here is a quote from Mrs Louise Carpenter, director of Adventures in World Understanding:

"If you could hear the expressions of pleasure that were everywhere after the adventurers returned from their farm visits in your county, I'm sure you would feel that all your work in finding the families, setting up their meeting place, and expanding your host list as our group grew in size, was worthwhile."

We are always anxious to add new farm families to our Adventure in World Understanding list. If you would like to serve as a host family for a foreign student between Christmas and New Years, call the Extension Office and give us your name.

Exploring foods and nutrition is interesting, as Cathy Weed (left) and Lorraine Anderson (right) of St. Johns Nimble Fingers 4-H Club find out from Mrs Clyde Peck. A wide assortment of foods and ways to serve it is discovered in reading and listening.

Exploring food, nutrition leads to variety of dishes

Older 4-H members plan their own project when enrolled in Creative Cookery. Last year at fair time it was obvious that regional and foreign cookery was popular.

Italy, Germany, France and Czechoslovakia were selected for further study.

Another 4-H member investigated cooking methods of early America and then converted the recipes to modern measures and procedure.

ONE OF THE exhibits representing Clinton County at State 4-H Show and the 4-H foods meeting at Camp Kett was Marcia Woodbury's. Marcia selected 25 of the 50 states, and then prepared a popular meal of that state and served it to her family. Colored photographs were taken of the various dishes she prepared.

Dairy foods and beans were other popular Michigan foods selected by Creative Cookery members. With dairying the leading industry in the county, it is easy to see why this is a favorite subject.

Working with dough was the choice of several other 4-H members. Violet Levey's display "It's in the Bag" won the food rosette at the County Fair.

I CAN SEE why Violet's sister Janice selected "Lose With a Smile" for her project. It must have taken a lot of will power to resist the baked products her sister prepared.

Summer jobs helped other 4-H members with their Creative Foods projects. One girl compared a catered party with a do-it-yourself party. Lynda Libey, another State Show representative, kept her family supplied with many quick and tasty meals—all from the freezer.

Become an intelligent skeptic

Americans foolishly spend close to a billion dollars every year on special foods, food supplements and phony cures for diseases.

The most widespread and costly quackery today is the promotion of special foods and food supplements.

To help combat this problem, a lesson on food misinformation, entitled Believe It or Not, was offered to extension groups and others that were concerned with this problem. This lesson was also presented to extension study group leaders in Shiawassee County.

INDIVIDUALS attending these sessions were asked to become "Intelligent Skeptics."

Intelligent Skeptics think critically and are not misled by false and misleading claims. They are better informed consumers and base their choices on rational decisions. They also become aware of the great power and influence they have as consumers. "Refuse to buy," is one of the most powerful weapons the consumer has.

HOW WOULD you answer this question?

Gelatin is:
1. A rich source of high grade

(complete) protein;
2. An aid in preventing the splitting of finger nails;
3. A good base for fruits and vegetables in salads.

MANY PEOPLE in the county have received copies of Believe It or Not, and are better informed about what they can do to combat food misinformation, TV and radio shows and newspaper columns stressed the importance of becoming "Intelligent Skeptics."

There are many reliable books on nutrition. Several of these can be borrowed at the Extension office, or else check with your local library.

State Apple Commission observing 25th birthday

"The best helper a man can have is at the end of his own right arm."

And that about sums up the philosophy of the Michigan State Apple Commission on its 25th anniversary.

For a quarter of a century now—officially June 14—Michigan's 3,500 apple growers have contributed their own monies to help promote their own apple crops. Twenty-five years ago in 1939, this meant about $50,000 with a crop of 6 million bushels of apples.

This coming harvest fall-time, it'll probably mean 16 million bushels of apples and close to $300,000. No other dollars are used in the Commission's advertising program—none from Washington and none from Lansing.

BORN AS a result of Michigan's 1939 Baldwin Apple Act, growers throughout the state are represented by seven apple commissioners which includes a chairman of the commission. They supervise the spending of the monies for advertising and promotional materials used by Michigan's growers and shippers to help sell their crops.

Included are such items as display pieces for inside supermarkets, advertising to wholesale produce buyers and publicity activities like helping sponsor an annual Apple Queen contest.

What's changed in 25 years? According to present Commission Secretary-Manager Robert Button, this is what progress has wrought:

--Three pounds of spy apples in 1939 brought 10 cents; today three pounds of choice golden delicious apples brings 49 cents; Spies have long since left the scene as Michigan's most popular apple;

--Quality of fruit is much higher today with stricter grading practices and advanced harvesting and packaging techniques.

--The grower receives about double today for a bushel of apples as compared to what he received for the same bushel in 1939;

--Apples are available all year long now thanks to radical advancement in storages--in 1939 the first of the year usually signaled the end of the apple supply;

--OHIO, Illinois and Indiana were Michigan's major markets for selling the crop in 1939. Today, Michigan's crop goes to 28 states, Canada and apples are now being exported to Europe during good crop years;

--The apple eating habits of Mrs. America and her family have changed. Twenty-five years ago most apples were eaten as fresh fruit--"out of hand." Today more than 50 per cent of Michigan's apple crop goes through some type of processing and comes out as apple sauce or apple slices for pie filling or in the shape of some twenty other apple products now on the supermarket shelves including that old Halloween favorite, apple cider and the newest, apple juice concentrate.

--VERY FEW growers load their crop for local store-delivery today yet this was common practice in 1939. Today, central packing houses store and package many growers' crops and single produce buyers for giant chains of supermarkets buy hundreds of thousands of bushels of apples a year;

--The favorite bushel basket is almost extinct today; instead polyethylene bags, fancy corrugated containers and shrink film overwraps grasp the fancy of the shopper as she whisks past the produce department;

--In 1939, Michigan ranked fifth; Michigan presently ranks third in the nationwide production of apples and is rated as the fastest growing apple producing state in the country. By 1970 it expects to overtake New York state as number two.

--A GROWING bevy of scientific information shows new information on the health giving aspects of "eating an apple-a-day."

And speaking of change--by 1966, under Michigan's new constitution, the State Apple Commission will no longer be autonomous--instead it will probably be under the direct wing of the Michigan's Department of Agriculture--still helping to sell Michigan's growing crop of apples throughout the year.

One thing that's not expected to change--that's the usual happy smile on the freckled-faced boy as he bites into a delicious Michigan apple.

Couple sues for $350,000

A $350,000 damage suit has been filed by a Bath couple against the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., charging the wife incurred cancer by smoking cigarettes manufactured by the firm.

Charles E. Foote, 64, and his wife, Marjorie, 62, of 6335 Park Lake road, Bath, charged the tobacco firm with negligence in that "it knew or should have known that its cigarettes caused cancer."

The suit was filed in federal court in Grand Rapids.

THE FOOTES claimed in the suit that Mrs Foote developed "bronchial cancer" as a result of smoking Camel and Winston cigarettes. The couple claimed permanent disability and loss of income. Foote also cited hospital expenses and other costs as a result of the illness, and loss of marital rights.

The Footes formerly owned a small telephone company near Hillsdale. They are now retired and live in a house trailer at the rural Bath address.

William G. Reamon, the couple's attorney in Grand Rapids, said the suit would not reach trial stage for at least six months and probably it would be "a year or so."

EDWARD W. Tuschler, executive vice president of the Michigan Cancer Foundation, said it was the first such suit filed in Michigan. There have been similar suits in other states.

Richard Miller gets MSU degree

EUREKA—Mr and Mrs Richard Miller and daughters, Janice and Judy, Mr and Mrs Lee C. Miller of Perrinton, Walter Thurow of East Lansing and his daughter, Miss Susan Thurow of MSU attended commencement exercises at Michigan State University Sunday afternoon, where Donald L. Miller, son of Lee C. Miller and brother of Richard, received his degree in bachelor of arts and accounting. He has accepted a position with Haskins and Sellers accounting firm in Detroit. Lee E. Miller treated the family and Mr Thurow and Susan to a dinner at Evers Steak House.

What a shot! Photographers love to find a scene like this. Flowing water . . . a background of trees . . . a church spire in the distance . . . these always make an outstanding picture.

Wherever we travel we see Christian churches in harmonious settings, and there's a tendency to think of them as "part of the scenery."

But what an important part they are! Every one is a House of God, dedicated to His service. Every one is a community focal point, helping in a thousand ways to broaden and beautify the lives of its members. And every one is a vital link in the shining chain of Christian belief that stretches around the world.

Not far from where you live, there's a church that could give your life a new dimension. Whatever doubts and fears you may have, bring them to God in His House. You can rely on His promise that He will not leave you comfortless.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and read your Bible daily.

Clinton dairy farmers are doing a real job

With new factories and subdivisions springing up and several thousand Clinton area people working in factories here and in adjoining cities, our dairy farmers are sometimes forgotten.

June is Dairy Month and it's time we took a new look at our cow men.

It's true that the number of dairy farms here is declining. But the 1,100 left are bigger and they're producing more milk.

MILK SALES by county farmers total over $6 million a year—up well over $1 1/2 million in the past 10 years. That's more than the total payroll of all the factories in Clinton County.

A third or more of our farm income is from the sale of milk. Our dairy farmers have more than $30 million invested in land, equipment and buildings. They are increasing that investment at a record rate in a race to cut labor and other operating costs.

While our dairy farmers' kids account for only a small part of our school enrollment, their property taxes account for a big chunk of all the school taxes collected in the county.

THE PAST 10 years have been hard for dairy farmers. They are getting even less for their milk than they were a decade ago. The cost of everything they buy has gone up. Their property taxes have skyrocketed.

They have worked hard and taken big financial risks in order to modernize and mechanize their farms. Yet their profits haven't increased. Their gains in efficiency have been passed on to consumers in the form of bargain milk.

Someday, the pendulum will swing. Farmers will get what they're entitled to. In the meantime, let's not forget their importance to the economy of the Clinton area and the great job they are doing fighting the cost squeeze.

The increasing cost of college education

Some figures recently noted by the Columbia University Graduate School of Journalism give evidence of the soaring cost of a college education.

Tuition at the school was $150 a year in 1914. The figures for each succeeding 10-year period were $240, $320, $420, $650 and $1,650—today's figures.

What tuition will be a decade hence was not projected, but college costs generally are likely to be prohibitive for more and more persons as time goes on.

Ample scholarships are available for top students, but mediocre to poor students without funds face increasing problems in our technological society.

FARMERS DESERVE PROTECTION

(From The Lapeer County Press, Lapeer)

Last fall when Agriculture Secretary Freeman visited Lapeer, a man in the audience asked him what he thought about the imports of beef.

Freeman replied that the imports had little effect on prices. He explained that the imports were of grass-fed beef that competed only with our dairy beef, "of which there is no surplus."

The Secretary said that with a convincing ring but it didn't make sense. When the prices of all meat and poultry are low, and you import beef equal to 10% of all we eat, you can't help but depress prices generally. People can only eat so much. If they eat a piece of foreign beef, that's a piece of chicken or pork or local beef they won't eat.

NOW, FREEMAN'S own Agriculture Department confirms this. The USDA statement says that the imports not only depress prices, but they retard the rate of dairy herd culling, thereby increasing milk production.

Some will argue that if other countries can produce beef cheaper than we can, we should take advantage of it. They say each country should produce what it is best able to. They say it is wrong to force Americans to pay high food prices just to protect the farmer.

THEY FORGET that most other countries subsidize their agriculture. Otherwise our farmers could compete in the production of most major crops and livestock.

Immigration laws protect organized labor from the competition of cheap foreign labor. Duties and quotas protect both labor and industry from imported cars, booze, bicycles, clothing, boats and a myriad of other products. Farmers deserve as much consideration.

"Do I love you? . . . Well, I'll be honest with you, I won't answer."

RAMBLIN' with Rink

BY LOWELL G. RINKER

Water seems to be a topic of widespread interest and talk these days in St. Johns, what with some complaining of low water pressure or rusty water, new water rates going into effect and a new water system in the making.

But what first caught my attention about St. Johns water was its taste.

I have been able to stand at the kitchen sink, fill a glass to the brim, throw it down the hatch, and be satisfied. It's been a long time since I could do that. (The fact that a daughter is constantly asking for a drink of water is not a factor in my analysis.)

FOR THREE years I lived in Farmington, Ill., and I never did get to the point where I liked the water there. It always tasted like every molecule of it was encased in an oily film. In Peoria, where I worked, it was just the opposite: the water tasted better, but it seemed to be "watered down," if you will, and lacked "body."

But here there is more body in the blend, and a drink of water tastes good like a drink of water should. This seems to be generally typical of the Water Wonderland state and is another reason I'm glad to be back in it.

WHILE THE Rinker family's first weekend was full of work unpacking boxes and trying to put the house in shape, we did take time off late on the Sunday afternoon for a drive. We drove to Lansing, then over to East Lansing (where I reminisced about my Boys State days on the MSU campus back in 1956) and then back through Clinton County.

We cut west through DeWitt and then north along gravel and paved county roads to Maple Rapids, then farther north and east over to US-27. In heading back to St. Johns we found we had driven clean out of Clinton County.

IT WAS A nice day for a ride, and the smells of the country were refreshing. Equally enjoyable was the opportunity to see an abundance of trees. Although Central Illinois has its spots of beauty, particularly along the Illinois River, it is comparatively barren.

Illinoisans take that as a matter of course, and I suppose people here don't think much about trees. But can you imagine what Clinton County would be like with most of its trees missing from farm country?

Doesn't it make you feel kind of lucky? And proud? —RINK

Service

BY W. E. DOBSON

We bought a gadget yesterday, And strange enough to relate 'Twas not the fastest talker, Who sold us with choice bait; One major line of thinking Seems to serve us very well, When we play the role of buyer, Do you service what you sell?

The world is full of gadgets, And men who'd sell will race To gain your full approval In any clime or place; But not all can face the music Or be ready at the bell, When you put the proposition, "Do you service what you sell?"

There are plenty that will greet you With a shiny tool or toy, That you cannot help admiring, And are sure you would enjoy; But before you sign the contract, Best to meditate a spell— Find some answers to the query Do you service what you sell?

Whatever you are selling There needs be some follow through, I've a right to question motives, Till I've confidence in you; And your product rates approval When I know that what you tell, Is secured by the knowledge That you service what you sell!

County next redistricting target

AFTER THE dust settles on the apportionment of Congress and the Legislature, it will be the turn of the counties. Lawyers tell me the Supreme Court can hardly deny the "one man-one vote" principle on the local level.

As it now stands, each township, regardless of population has one Supervisor. Cities get Supervisors according to population.

If we districted according to population, DeWitt Township would have four Supervisors instead of one. St. Johns would keep its present four.

IF WE WANTED to keep the Board of Supervisors at its present number, Bath Township could have two Supervisors while Bengal and Bingham split one Supervisor between them. Essex and Lebanon would also be likely to share a Supervisor . . . and so it will go.

If we wanted to keep all districts within one or two per cent, as the courts seem to prefer, we couldn't follow township lines.

If you think the Legislature has troubles with redistricting, wait until the Board of Supervisors gets its chance.

ALL OF THIS may sound pretty remote. But I don't think it's too far off and you may have noted that already there's a movement afoot in Livingston County to bring about redistricting.

When we do get the big overhaul, I don't think it will make too much difference in Clinton County. I've sat through a good many sessions of the Supervisors in the past 19 years. In few cases did I see the more populous parts of the county hurt by lack of representation.

Agrees with us on new state ballot

IN COMMON with most people, I do not often take time either to take issue with or commend the editor for the content of his paper. Often I have felt some comment was due.

Your editorial (June 11) on the Massachusetts ballot seems very pertinent.

Though reared in a Democrat household, I pride myself that I become involved in more legislation these days than we were wont to imagine.

Letters to the Editor

PERHAPS we should ask the courts in advance what laws our legislatures should be allowed to consider.

Time spent in voting will be stressed as a major objection, but if we really wish to preserve our democracy should a little extra time spent in casting our ballot deter us?

Perhaps even the extra money paid election officials to count ballots would not be all in vain. WARREN E. DOBSON R-4, Lansing.

EDITOR'S NOTE: To correct a possible misunderstanding in Mr. Dobson's letter—decision on the Massachusetts ballot is likely to be up to the people, not the courts. Petitions are in circulation to make it a referendum matter at the November election.

As a group, our Supervisors are fair-minded men and, in spite of the fact that zoning and planning are not serious problems to many townships, Clinton's governing body has devoted much attention to these matters which concern the larger townships.

SPEAKING OF Supervisors, I'm glad to see Ernie Carter of Watertown out and around again after a 17-day hospital siege. He was a pretty sick guy, but he's definitely on the mend.

Ernie was in late last Tuesday, after our classified pages were locked up, to put in a card of thanks expressing gratitude to his friends. We had to put him off until this week's issue.

SO FAR, thank goodness, comments about the new look of The News have been uniformly complimentary. A few Republicans have grouched good-naturedly about the name change; and some of my Democratic friends have expressed delight.

Most people have gone out of their way to say nice things about the new format to me and other staff members. Drawing particular praise was the colorful tabloid section with that knock-out news photo of Susan Studer and Denise Desprez. People who know something about color printing tell me this was one of the finest newsprint reproductions they've ever seen.

A young fella named Jon White took time out from his summer job on The Pontiac Press Thursday noon to telegraph his congratulations to all our staff: "It was a work of art. Tremendous. The best weekly in the country." This pleased and drew a tear from his tired, old Dad.

Suggests point for flower boxes here

PERHAPS no one but me is distressed about the condition of the flower boxes on Clinton avenue or the weeds in my garden. No one except me has to look at the weeds and I can plow it up and plant it to alfalfa, which is easy to grow and a garden hardly pays.

However, I did find a few merchants who agreed to plant their boxes, but not one would invest the $1 for some "do it yourself" barn paint.

I SPENT $5 for paint alone for my old 1953 truck. It will keep it from rusting out and my family and neighbors will say it looks nice.

Another year or two and the flower boxes will fall apart and the customers will go out of town for their hair cuts, groceries, drugs and the few other things you can still buy on Clinton avenue.

THE MAPLE Rapids barber has beautiful flowers in front of his shop and cuts cheaper.

"Business Unlimited" is a one-way street—mostly out of town. Soon you will have a whole block of empty store buildings and a new bank on East Walker street.

Lots of my money goes out of town where it buys a little more and "overnight" from Chicago is certainly a bargain for excellent merchandise.

YOU DO have a few friendly merchants in St. Johns but little things like a neat flower box and a little paint, or a pail of water in dry weather are still important.

I still have time to help my neighbors fix their fences and exchange fruit, garden truck and stories over coffee. I have the best neighbors in the world. How about yours?

BOB WARD
R-1, St. Johns.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

State well below average in collegiate percentage

Less than half of Michigan's high school graduates last year went on to continue their education in college, according to a national survey.

The 44 per cent figure ranked Michigan well below the national average, in spot No. 37 among the states. The national average was 51 per cent. California, with 81 per cent, leads the list. Two of Michigan's border states, Ohio and Indiana, had the same 44 per cent of high school graduates enroll in college.

Officials in the US Office of Education emphasized the study justified few conclusions, because many factors affect college enrollment in the various states.

SKEPTICISM over the value of the national report has been voiced by some Michigan schoolmen because of its incomplete nature.

Educators say the survey shows very little, since it does not include comparative information such as the proportion of young people attending high school in each state, the dropout rates, and the extent of vocational training available in the schools.

The availability of college facilities, economic status of the students' families, opportunities for jobs without higher education, and many other factors would need to be studied to draw any real conclusions from the national survey.

WHILE FIGHTING hard for the No. 2 spot in Michigan business, the tourist industry has received some encouraging words.

One source predicts the industry is headed for its first billion dollar year, combining both direct sales of services and the indirect product sales which make a vacation enjoyable.

In the past couple years the best estimates on the business done by the tourist industry in Michigan have ranged between $500 and $725 million.

INQUIRIES AT tourist information centers range 25 per cent above last year, a good omen for the summer season.

With a well-rounded tourist program throughout the state, Gov. George Romney has urged members of the industry to pool their efforts to emphasize the appeal of the state as a natural wonderland.

"What we must grasp is the relatedness of all these natural attractions, events, developments and services," Romney said. "We must consciously cluster our attractions. They are not in competition with each other, but instead each supplements and reinforces the appeal of the other."

A WELL-ROUNDED offering of resources to the traveling public is constantly being broadened in Michigan.

Farmers are encouraged to enter the recreation business as a means of turning poor or marginal farmland into productive use.

More leisure time, better roads, finer equipment more within the reach of modest purses combine to give the tourist industry a great potential for continued growth.

NEED FOR consolidation and revision of Michigan's election laws may force a special session of the Legislature this year.

Mid-summer is the most likely time, despite the November election. Legislative leaders quashed the idea of a June meeting to give members a chance to cool off from the long, hot session which ended in late May.

MICHIGAN'S legislators seem to make a habit of leaving something important undone in regular sessions.

Special sessions have become a regular occurrence in recent years. In the past seven years, only two have passed without the governor calling a special session.

In those two years, however, only legislative maneuvering kept special sessions off the record books. These were 1959, the year of the "cash crisis," and 1962. Both were years when lawmakers kept the sessions going late into the year to avoid the possibility of a special call.

AT LEAST one special session has been held in 10 of the last 18 years. Two special calls were issued in 1951, 1955, 1960 and last year.

Some of the special meetings have been very short, as would be expected in this election year. Any action to fill the void for township elections would have to be accomplished quickly to provide for orderly balloting in November.

From the files of June 24, 1954
Eighteen Mexican field workers were injured and one was killed when a truck in which they were passengers overturned on South US-27, within the St. Johns city limits, at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

In the four townships in which petitions have been circulated for the improvement of the Looking Glass River system, 90 per cent of the people whose land borders on the river have signed the petition.

The annual membership drive of the St. Johns Chamber of Commerce is expected to be wrapped up within the next week or 10 days. John Bond, drive chairman, reports that the membership total has already passed the 100 mark and the goal of 130 members is in sight.

Richard L. Welling, 78, former Greenbush township supervisor, died Sunday at his residence in that township after a long illness.

Daniel M. Kent, 32, Williamston ex-convict and Jackson prison parolee, charged with first degree murder for the confessed slaying, between Fowler and St. Johns, of George G. Hall, 50, Detroit oil promoter, will be arraigned before Justice William J. Black at St. Johns tomorrow morning.

Furniture for the new Perrin-Palmer school was purchased by the board of education at a special meeting Friday night at the high school building.

Started weeks ago, extensive additions are now being rushed to completion at the St. Johns Stockyards in time for the first of a series of livestock auctions that will be inaugurated here Friday of next week.

50 YEARS AGO

From the files of June 25, 1914

About 10 o'clock last week Thursday night a barn belonging to Jay Harper on Lansing street, nearly opposite Richmond and Holmes' shop, was discovered on fire and burned so rapidly that it soon fell down. It contained about two tons of baled hay and eight or nine tons of baled straw. Fortunately there was little wind and the fire went straight up.

After four weeks drilling night and day on the old north well at the city plant, a temporary air lift was installed Tuesday and a big supply of water was obtained. Indications are that the supply will be permanent. The well is nearly 900 feet deep and the casing is down about 336 feet.

COUNTRY FLAVOR

Pitching horseshoes is a game for men

The spirals and circles of history are both puzzling and interesting. Half a century ago the average man drove a horse and the wealthy man drove a car. Today horseless carriages are an everyday necessity and only the well-to-do can afford horses. We don't know when or where the first horseshoes were hammered out of iron, but today all the average man can afford in the equine line is a set or two of shoes.

It is good to know that horseshoe pitching is staging a renaissance. It is a rugged, no-holds-barred game for men. Since colonial days men from eight to 80 have matched skill in tossing the shoes at a stake.

The National Association has laid down rules and conditions, and we favor such rules for organized tournaments where stars of the game throw ringers with nonchalant assurance. But what the countryman most enjoys is a game with his neighbor who considers himself an expert on technique.

TWO amateurs don't need elaborate equipment. A basic requirement is two stakes, 40 feet apart. It does not matter whether a citizen prefers to hold a shoe by the front center or with a finger on one end. Some experts toss them end over end; some strive for the three and a half turns. The vital point is that a shoe shall sail through the air and come to rest around the post.

"It's a ringer," a man says. "Let's see you top it." In an area of commercial entertainment, it is good to see men matching skill and to hear the clang of metal on metal - and to hear the arguments as to which shoe is nearer the stake.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

The complex situation in Hillsdale involving the Essex Wire Corp. and the International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE) brought into sharp focus some very fundamental questions that go to the very root of the principles upon which our republic is built.

Except for emergency protection of life, can we permit mob violence, lawlessness, and threats to the public peace and tranquility to dictate the actions of public officials to the extent of prolonged abridgement of personal and property rights of individuals?

Except for emergency protection of life, can the state properly resort to prolonged use of its inherent police power, including determination of the use of private resources to encourage settlement of what both our federal and state laws have decreed is a private affair?

THE FIRST breeds anarchy. The second breeds totalitarianism.

To protect the lives of citizens, on May 28 I invoked Michigan statutes to declare a state of public emergency in Hillsdale.

I am convinced of the sound legal grounds for that action and that such action was demanded for the immediate protection of life and property in Hillsdale. When both sides in a dispute started shooting and lives were endangered, it was time for prompt action. That was the situation in the Essex-IUE dispute. Three private groups were fully organized and highly armed for conflict—the company, the union and the community residents.

THE PLANT was closed because it was a highly armed citadel, and lives could not be protected in the community while this citadel remained in operation, and before adequate public protection forces were clearly in a position to control all the elements that had produced violence and mob rule.

Although declaration of a public emergency to exist in Hillsdale was not designed to influence the negotiations between the company and union, it had the effect of bringing spokesmen together for serious collective bargaining. The conduct of management, union and community and public officials created the dangerous condition of mob rule that made the emergency order necessary.

THE THREATS of life and property in Hillsdale were more serious than had first been realized. Yet it would be a threat to every citizen and private organization to permit such threats to deny individuals and private organizations their legal rights.

Violence and mob rule must be stopped by whatever steps are required; however, once stopped, adequate protection of lives and property, without denial of legal rights, must be provided regardless of the number of police and troops involved and regardless of the questionable way within the law in which the parties involved may exercise their legal rights.

Consequently, despite the abhorrent conduct of company officials and deplorable conduct of union officials, it was essential to enforce law and order and restore the legal rights temporarily suspended to put down violence and mob rule.

WE MUST NOT tolerate violence and mob rule beyond the steps necessary for its control and prevention. To do otherwise would expose every citizen and his rights to violence and mob rule—in other words, anarchy.

The law gives the governor no authority to use emergency powers to maintain the peace to do anything other than what he considers essential to protect the rights of people and property.

I am dedicated to protecting the lives of people, eliminating violence and threats, and encouraging peace and tranquility.

BUT I AM also dedicated to erasing any doubt in anyone's mind that the State of Michigan will permit mob rule, violence and threats of bodily harm to dictate public policy. This cannot be permitted.

Brothers Greenfield on same ship in Pacific

They're both in the same boat.

Brothers Kenneth and Lyle Greenfield, sons of Mr and Mrs John Greenfield of R-2, DeWitt, are presently serving together aboard the aircraft carrier USS Kitty Hawk with the 7th Fleet in the western Pacific.

AN 3 Lyle, 18, had requested brother duty shortly after entering the Navy following graduation from St. Johns high school in 1963. After his training at Memphis, Tenn., and a month at San Diego, Calif., the Navy flew him to Japan via Anchorage, Ala., about a month ago. He joined his brother there.

THE YOUTHS' mother reported ATN 3 Kenneth, 20, a 1961 graduate of St. Johns high, was surprised to see his brother and "hardly knew him at first." Kenneth's tour of duty with the Navy is to expire in August, but his mother said she is not sure yet whether he will stay in.

Kenneth has been aboard the Kitty Hawk since last September. The ship is presently sailing in waters near troubled Laos. Mrs Greenfield said it was scheduled to sail for home June 3, but a last report was still in the Laos area.

Both Greenfield brothers received their training at the Naval training station near Memphis.

Army Pfc. Bruce R. Woodman, 20, son of Mr and Mrs Robert C. Woodman, R-1, DeWitt, participated with other members of 3d Armored Division units in a week of annual training tests (ATT) at Wildflecken, Germany, ending May 29.

The ATT is a tough and complete assessment of a unit's combat readiness under the most realistic conditions possible in peacetime.

Woodman, overseas since May 1963, is regularly stationed near Kirch Gons, Germany, as a driver in Headquarters Company, 2d Battalion of the division's 32d Armor.

He was graduated from DeWitt high school in 1962 and entered the Army that December.

Marine Lance Cpl. Gareth G. Harter, son of Mr and Mrs Gareth M. Harter of 13461 Center road, Bath, participated in an extensive sea assault exercise called "Operation Pine Tree" of the coast of Southern California May 20-28 while serving with the First Marine Division.

The exercise, involving 20 ships of the Pacific Fleet and 9,000 Marines from the First Marine Division at Camp Pendleton, Calif., consisted of direct assaults on simulated enemy-held beach positions. Vertical envelopment, the flying of combat ready Marines over and behind enemy lines, also was employed.

Aircraft from the Marine Corps Air Station, El Toro, Calif., and missile units from the Marine Corps Base at Twentynine Palms, Calif., provided support for ground forces.

Marine Lance Cpl. George F. Wedel, son of Mr and Mrs George F. Wedel of R-1, DeWitt, recently completed a "Self Propelled Repairman Course" at Tracked Vehicle School, Marine Corps Base, Camp Pendleton, Calif.

During the four-week course, he studies the principles, disassembly and assembly of the diesel engine.

G. P. Cooper, 22, son of Mr and Mrs Kenneth Cooper of R-1 Hubbardston, recently completed two weeks active duty recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

During his active duty period, he studied naval history and organization, customs and courtesies, ordnance, gunnery, seamanship, and first aid. A vigorous physical fitness program consisting of callisthenics and drill round out the training. He has returned to his local reserve unit for weekly training sessions.

New water rates termed necessary

The new water rates passed last week by the City Commission will prevent the necessity of having to draw on the city's general fund for operating expenses of the sewer and water system, Acting City Manager Kenneth Greer told commissioners.

Before action on the amendment to the city ordinance on water rates, Mayor Jack Smit publicly read a notice making the approval of the new rates an emergency move. The new rates then go into effect immediately upon official publication.

The old rate charged 20 cents per thousand gallons between 3,000 and 150,000 gallons used, and 12 cents per thousand for all over 150,000 gallons.

The new rate will apply a minimum $4.50 quarterly charge per customer for all water used up to 10,000 gallons. The old minimum rate was $2.70 for the first 3,000 gallons.

UNDER THE new rate, customers will pay 40 cents per thousand gallons used between 10,000 and 150,000 per quarter; 30 cents per thousand between 150,000 and 500,000 and 1 million; and 15 cents per thousand over 1 million gallons.

The old rate charged 20 cents per thousand gallons between 3,000 and 150,000 gallons used, and 12 cents per thousand for all over 150,000 gallons.

THE NEW rates will take effect in the July, August and September quarter and will first show up on water bills around Oct. 1.
