St. Johns' 'Space Capsule' Reaches for the Sky

Looking like a giant Mercury space capsule, the new St. Johns water tower stretches toward the sky. Workmen aboard the crane, which looks like a gantry tower, get things ready for a new section of steel plate. This picture was taken last Thursday. Work is progressing on schedule.

Hire engineers to take first steps for urban renewal funds

A new step in plans for downtown redevelopment was taken by the city commission last week.

The commission officially directed the city manager to engage the services of Villikan-Leman Associates to prepare a workable program and made pre-application to determine the city's eligibility for federal urban renewal funds.

The commission approved a fee of from $1,800 to $2,500 for the firm to prepare the plans.

CITY MANAGER Ken Greer said it is possible the city would qualify for the funds, whereas when the proposed community plan was conceived federal rules were such that the city would not have been eligible.

Information must be supplied to the Housing and Home Finance Agency in Chicago so that they can evaluate the project to see if it is workable. Costs will not figure in the decision.

ENGINEERS from Villikan-Leman were in town Thursday and again Monday, among other things rating some of the downtown buildings. They were to confer with City Manager Greer Monday.

Representatives of the planning division of HHFA will be in St. Johns in early September, Greer said, to go over the pre-application and the workable program, and they will give a verbal com-mittment on the city's qualifications for the project.

IF THE opinion is favorable, the federal government will pick up the tab on 75 per cent of the cost of the project from that point on. The city will pay the other 25 per cent. All costs up to that point—including the $1,800 to $2,500 approved by the commission for the engineers—will be borne entirely by the city.

IF AT ANY time during the 18 months the city should decide to drop the plan or the Housing and Home Finance Agency should de-

Engineering, legal work and other phases of the project will then begin, but it will be 18 months from that point before the contract stage is reached. In other words, it will be roughly two years yet before any property is bought in connection with the project.

IF AT ANY time during the 18 months the city should decide to drop the plan or the Housing and Home Finance Agency should decide formally that the city wasn't eligible, underwriting of it by the government would be stopped.

The renewal plan recommended by Villikan-Leman to the commission in April included establishment of more off-street parking, revision of the downtown traffic plan, establishment of a pedestrian mall in the center block of the business district and improvement of downtown business places.

St. Johns boy drowns in lake at Charlevoix

Lavern R. Bailey, 15, of St. Johns drowned last Thursday in Lake Charlevoix west of Petoskey.

He was the son of Mr and Mrs Frank Bailey of 811 N. Clinton Avenue.

He and his family, on a vacation trip, had stopped to see friends at Ironton. While the older folks visited, Lavern and his brother Ralph, along with several other youngsters, went swimming in the lake.

THEY WERE playing with an inflatable ball, which reportedly blew away from shore. Lavern went after it, stepped in a hole or got in water over his head and became exhausted. The accident occurred about 4:30 p.m. about 200 feet from shore.

LAVERN BAILEY

Lavern was born in St. Johns Sept. 30, 1948, a son of Frank and Ruth Holcomb Bailey. He attended Rodney B. Wilson High School and would have been a junior this year. He was a newspaper carrier boy for four years and was active in youth groups at the St. Johns Church of the Nazarene.

SURVIVING besides his parents and his brother are his grandparents, Mr and Mrs Claude Holcomb of St. Johns and Joseph Bailey of Greenville.

Funeral services were Sunday at 2:30 p.m. in the Church of the Nazarene, with the Rev Erwin Self officiating. Burial was in South Bingham Cemetery. Hoag Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

'Biggest, best' Fair set to open Monday

Plans for merger are abandoned

The proposed merger of Sealed Power Corp. with Federal-Mogul Bower Bearings, Inc., was abandoned Monday. Paul C. Johnson, president of Sealed Power, reported that their board of directors decided against the proposal at a meeting in Muskegon Monday.

Johnson said that as a result of further studies, the board unanimously concluded that the objectives of the proposed merger could not be achieved.

"CONSEQUENTLY," he said, "it was in the best interests of the shareholders of Sealed Power Corp. to terminate and abandon proposed plans."

Both of the companies involved in the proposed merger operate divisions in St. Johns.

City OKs bids on 5 projects

The city commission accepted bids on a number of items last Tuesday night. In addition to a $37,359 bid on water mains they approved these:

—A Lux-Air air conditioner for the Bement Library from Garey Appliance, fully installed, for $622.

—A Yardmaster lawn mower for the disposal plant grounds from Dean Hardware for $135.

—THREE electric transformers for the electric motors for the two new water wells on West Gibbs Street, from Capitol Electric of Lansing for $238.56 each.

—Three new commercial garage doors for the new Department of Public Works garage on North US-27, from St. Johns Lumber Co. for $1,971.68.

IN OTHER miscellaneous business, the commission agreed to pay one-third of a legal bill from attorney Alba Wert for action against the proposed Ice Pond drain, now defunct. The city's share was $368.88.

200 Guardsmen bivouac at park

Some 200 members of the 38th Infantry Division of the National Guard from Indiana made St. Johns their bivouac area over the weekend, camping overnight at the city park.

Percy Abrams, executive secretary of the St. Johns Chamber of Commerce, complimented the men on their conduct and remarked that they left the park in excellent condition. And, he said, the men spent on the average of $5 per capita during their stay.

THE MEN, in three different groups, were at the park Thursday night, Friday night and Saturday on their way to Camp Grayling. Between 60 and 65 National Guard vehicles used the park. Abrams was in charge of making arrangements for use of the park.

Twelve hundred Clinton County 4-H members and hundreds of other leaders and interested persons are in the countdown for the annual 4-H Fair which has its three-day run Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

DENNIS SALLEY

Dennis Salley, singer, dancer and master of ceremonies in night clubs and on television and radio, will be MC for the vaudeville acts at the 4-H Fair next Tuesday afternoon and evening.

Postmasters to be named at 2 Clinton offices

Appointment of postmasters at Fowler and Maple Rapids will be made this month, according to word today from Leroy E. Vincent, chairman of the Clinton County Democratic Committee.

Raymond J. Hafmann, rural carrier out of Fowler for the past 15 years and a son of Ernest Hafmann, former Fowler postmaster, is to receive the Fowler appointment. Mrs Mildred Shaw has been acting postmaster at Fowler. She will continue as a clerk in the office.

MRS VELMA L. Bancroft, acting postmaster at Maple Rapids, is to be confirmed as postmaster there, Vincent said. Prior to her appointment as acting postmaster last September she had been a clerk in the Maple Rapids office.

The two appointments will be made by President Johnson, with the approval of Michigan Senators McNamara and Hart.

Set hearing on water main

A public hearing will be held at next Tuesday night's commission meeting on a city proposal for a new six-inch water main in the 1000 and 1100 blocks of South Church Street.

The two blocks now have an old galvanized water main probably 1 1/4 inches in size, City Manager Ken Greer reported. Considerable water pressure difficulty is being experienced by houses along the blocks, but this may be corrected by the new water tower, he said.

THE GALVANIZED line would eventually need to be replaced, however, and the commission plans to hold hearings on it now but probably delay work until next spring.

Fourteen properties would be affected by the necessary special assessment of $1 per foot for replacement mains. Some 460 feet of six-inch main would be installed at a cost of about $2,200, with about $918 being recovered through assessments.

Those putting the big show together figure it will be the biggest and best yet. A number of new features have been added this year, including the first horse show, for which an exhibition ring has been built at the south edge of the fairgrounds at the city park.

Close to 3,000 exhibits will be set up, and rosettes, ribbons and cash prizes totaling near $2,000 will be awarded to the best exhibits in 57 sections, subdivided into 265 classes.

This compares to 48 sections and 242 classes last year.

In addition to the displays of some of the county's finest agricultural products and hundreds of handmade items of clothing, furniture and household goods, the expected thousands of fairgoers will have a wide variety of entertainment to choose from.

INCLUDED will be Tuesday afternoon and evening performances of a vaudeville show, booked for the fair by the St. Johns Chamber of Commerce. This, as always, will be free of charge and will be at the park bandshell. Dennis Salley, a swinging singer and dancing man-about-town who has appeared in night clubs and on television, will be master of ceremonies.

Feature acts will include the Ice Teebettes, an eight girl line that will appear three times on the show; the Chamberlain Sisters; the five Wolfraons, a bicycle acrobat family team; the three Ricos, jugglers; Michelle, a foot juggler; and the Elkins Sisters, acrobatic dancers who have appeared several times on the Ed Sullivan TV show.

THE 4-H TALENT show will be Wednesday night and will include the top four acts from the 4-H Share - The Fun Festival here July 18. Participating will be:

Patricia Courser with a vocal solo; Kathy Cornell and Scott Heibek with an accordion duet; the Country Cousins (Kathy Nickels, Kathy Davis, Linda Davis, Claudia Ritter, Carolyn Plaza, Sharon Stoy, Susan Streeter, Carletta Thornton, Susan Wickerman, Bill Stoy, Mickey Plaza, Randy Davis and Eric DeLong), with a vocal number, and Indonesian Interlude instrumental selections by Sylvia Becker, Sharon Greene, Ed Johnson, Linda Johnson, Allen Sibley, Carol Sibley, Susan Sibley, Barbara Smith, Shirley Steinhardt, Colleen Wood and Lenore Wood.

SOFTBALL fans will see two all-star games at the fair. One will be between players from the east and west sides of the county in the white League and the other the same in the Green League. The games will be played Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Monday will be devoted mainly to setting up exhibits, but the 4-H Horse show will be held at 1 p.m., the 4-H tractor operators contest at 2:30 and junior livestock judging at 3 p.m.

Judging of all entries except dairy cattle begins at 9 a.m. Tuesday. The Junior dairy judging contest is at 10 a.m., swine showmanship contest at 10:30, sheep showmanship contest at 11:30, judging of beef cattle entries at 1 p.m. and beef showmanship contest at 4 p.m.

WEDNESDAY'S events will include judging of dairy cattle at 9 a.m., dairy showmanship contest at 3 p.m., style revue at 8:30 p.m. and the variety show at 8:45.

The full schedule of events will be found on Page B-1.

One of the new features will be an entomology exhibit, in charge of Mrs Clyde Peck, in which 250 slides and several tape recordings will be seen and heard periodically throughout the fair.

Most of the activity will center around the barns and other buildings on the fairgrounds where 4-H'ers will be exhibiting the products of their knowledge. Superintendents and their assistants in the various divisions will be:

Reject curb, gutter request

The city commission has turned down a request by Mr and Mrs Frank A. Moore of 500 N. Lansing Street for curb and gutter in front of their property.

Commissioners said last week they did not want to start doing this work on single pieces of property because it would make streets look bad if curb and gutter skipped all over them.

THE CITY lawmakers decided to wait until the entire street could be done. An attempt was made by the city in the past to install curb and gutter on North Lansing, but residents there protested it, and the project was dropped.

Robert Cox, music instructor at St. Johns High School gave his master of music degree recital in Recital Hall at the University of Michigan Wednesday evening.

Cyclists at the 4-H Fair

The five Wolfranos, a bicycling acrobatic team, will appear twice at the Clinton County 4-H Fair next Tuesday afternoon and evening. They are one of seven acts booked by the Chamber of Commerce for the vaudeville show.

Find sand from 1948 mishap in water lines

For some time engineers Ayres, Lewis, Norris and May have been seeking an answer to why sand is appearing in the filters of the Federal-Mogul plant here.

Federal-Mogul has complained about it to the city, and the engineering firm was instructed to tackle the problem. Early analysis of the sand showed it was unlikely it could be filter sand because it was too coarse and there were no fine particles.

CITY Manager Kenneth Greer told the city commission last week the engineers have the answer:

IT is filter sand and has apparently been in the water system since 1948 when 25 yards of filter sand was lost from one of the city's iron removal filters.

As time has gone by, the sand has moved out through the system the finer particles moving more swiftly and much of it probably leaving the system through faucets and other individual outlets. The more coarse and larger and heavier particles have moved more slowly.

THE ENGINEERS, not knowing of that 1948 happening until recently, felt the heavy particles weren't filter sand because the finer particles weren't present. Now that they know about 1948, Greer said, they realize the finer particles have had plenty of time to wash away from the bigger ones.

The heavier particles, he told the commission, have generally remained on the bottom of the water mains, undisturbed by the normal flow of water. But with increasing industrial water use in recent years, the sand is being stirred up and moved along by the greater flow through the mains. The result is that it is clogging filters and reducing water pressure at Federal Mogul and other industrial places.

Water mains now going in Work was expected to start yesterday on the installation of new six-inch water mains in parts of the city.

The city commission last week accepted the bid of Gerald Harris and Sons for installing the mains. The bid was for $37,359.72.

First blocks to be done, according to the city manager, will be the two blocks of West Buchanan, Lincoln and Spring streets and South Clinton and Lansing streets. After that water main work will follow closely being present curb and gutter construction.

NO SENTIMENT Teachers in the school of hard knocks are never popular with their millions of pupils.

GETTING RID of it, Greer said will be a long and complicated procedure. It will mean a high concentration of flushing under carefully controlled conditions.

Greer said small areas will be valved off so that when a hydrant is flushed it will pull water through the open mains at such a rate as to pull the sand with it.

However, he said, the engineers don't recommend doing this until after the two new wells are in and the new elevated tank is completed. This will give improved pressure which will help in flushing the sand from mains.

GREER SAID this thorough method is necessary and that it will take a long time, perhaps as much as a year, to complete. But he pointed out industrial users should note an improvement as the work progresses.

The sand should not, Greer said, be confused with rust which homeowners find in their water from time to time. This, he said, comes from scale on the interior of the water mains, formed because of the high iron content of the water.

HE SAID when the water moves rapidly through the mains, the scale is disturbed and moved along in the same manner as the filter sand.

The flushing planned for removing the sand will get rid of some of the rust, too, Greer said, but it will continue to form until the water treatment plant goes into operation.

THE PLANT will remove the iron from the water and stop the formation of the rust scale. Even then, he said, rust which is already in the pipes may appear for some time.

Dr Mark Thelen takes teaching job in Illinois

DR. MARK THELEN

Mark H. Thelen, 28, son of Mr and Mrs Julius C. Thelen of 2115 Mead Street, St. Johns, has accepted a position as assistant professor in the counseling center and psychology department at Southern Illinois University. His duties there will include teaching, research and psychotherapy.

He received a bachelor of science degree at MSU in 1957, a master of arts degree in psychology in 1959 and a Ph.D. in clinical psychology in 1964. While studying for his master's degree, Dr Thelen worked as a psychologist at Boys' Training School, Lansing. He had internship for the Ph.D. degree at Wayne County Juvenile Court, psychiatric division of the Wayne County General Hospital and the Michigan State University Counseling Center.

DR THELEN, his wife, the former Shirley Winans, and their two sons will be leaving shortly for Carbondale, Ill., near the campus of Southern Illinois University.

Victor Meier gets ballot designation

A ruling by the State Board of Canvassers approved Victor H. Meier, candidate for the state Senate in the 30th District, to have a ballot designation of "Former Assistant Attorney General."

Meier left the attorney general staff to become a state Senate candidate after 25 years of state service.

Victor Meier has represented the Unemployment Compensation Commission, State Highway, State Health Commissioner, Water Resources Commission, Conservation Commission and numerous other state boards and commissions.

HE REPRESENTED the State in the Skillman grand jury investigation involving automobile sales tax frauds and a Supreme Court suit that resulted in the recovery of several million dollars in taxes.

State Constitution permits such designation "for identification of candidates for the same office who have the same or similar surnames." There are two candidates for State Senate with the surname of "Meier" in the 30th District. The Michigan Supreme Court, in a similar case in Wayne County, ordered the designation "Former Assistant Attorney General" be placed under the name of the candidate.

VICTOR H. Meier requested the Board to grant the designation "Former Assistant Attorney General."

New US - 27 Lanes May Be Opened Within Week

The state Highway Department plans to open the new northbound lanes of US-27 sometime the week of Aug. 24, and possibly sooner. They said Tuesday they are "exploring" the possibility of opening the road to traffic before the final layer of asphalt is put on. Northbound traffic would then use single lane around the work area. Ayling-Cunningham Co., whose men are shown here laying the base coat last week, expected to be done with their work by Saturday if the weather held up.

City may set up municipal court to replace JP system

The first step in setting up a municipal court may be taken soon by the city commission.

City Atty. Harold Reed said last week he possibly may have ready by the next commission meeting Aug. 18 a resolution to amend the city charter. But, providing the commissioners approve it, the new court will have to have the approval of the state attorney general, the governor and a majority of the voters in St. Johns.

Reed said he anticipates the question would be put on the ballot in the November election, but if this was not possible a special election might be called.

The municipal court would have county-wide jurisdiction but would replace only the justice of the peace courts in St. Johns. Others would remain active. The new court would have civil jurisdiction over cases involving up to $1,000. Justice courts have jurisdiction up to only $300.

courtroom could be shared by the commission or some other body. A good location, then, might be the commission meeting room in the basement of the city building, they agreed.

The clerk could be anyone from the city office staff, Reed said, and so wouldn't necessarily cost the city extra money. The statute under which the municipal court would be set up requires the clerk to be appointed.

REED SAID the advantages of the new court plan would include increasing the jurisdiction as a service to the citizens. By being able to handle cases involving a higher amount of money, it would be cheaper for those involved to go through municipal court than to have to go through circuit court, as is now the case when the figure is over the $300.

Reed also pointed out that the new court would be getting away from the fee system, which will add to the dignity of the court.

The effective date of the municipal court would be set in the charter amendment.

A program established by the Michigan Crippled Children Commission for the training of child amputees in the use of artificial arms and legs was the first of its kind in the country.

THE COURT, if approved in all those steps, would replace the present justice of the peace court here. The judge would be paid by a salary instead of by a fee as the justice of the peace is.

Justices of the Peace in St. Johns are Robert Wood and Alba F. Wert, both attorneys.

Reed and the justice court will be abolished in due course by the state and that by adopting the municipal court now St. Johns would be several steps ahead of other communities that don't. He said Alma, Charlotte, Coldwater and several other cities of comparable size already have a municipal court.

THE MUNICIPAL court judge would first be appointed by the city commission, Reed said, for a short term to last until an election is held. The judges then would be elected for a term of six years.

The municipal court judge must be an attorney, Reed pointed out, because of the increased responsibility, jurisdiction and complexity of the duties of the court.

A maximum and a minimum salary would be spelled out in the city charter amendment, and the commission would set the salary within those bonds. The court would have regular hours, also set by the commission.

THE resolution for the commission to act on would be to amend the city charter. Voters, if they get the question, would vote on the amendment.

A COURTROOM and a court clerk would be necessities, Reed said. He told the commission during a discussion of the court plan last Tuesday that he thought the

30-60-90 DAY CHARGE ACCOUNTS HOLDEN REID "Famous Brands for Dad and Lad" 213 N. Clinton

It's over! Firemen breathe again after hectic week

By LOWELL G. RINKER Sunday ended a week of which St. Johns firemen have never seen and which they hope they will never see again.

In the seven day span beginning Sunday, Aug. 2, and ending late Saturday night, firemen were called out 10 times—at least once on each of the seven days. Two of the calls were inhalator calls, and the other eight were for fires.

IT ALL started Sunday, Aug. 2, with the flaming accident in which Richard Hart, 43, of Bath died. On Monday was an inhalator call to 1204 S. Lansing Street where a Lansing man, Henry Mulder, was electrocuted working on a house.

Tuesday evening firemen scurried south of town again on the report a car was on fire two miles south of US-27. This was apparently so, but the fire had been put out and the car was gone by the time firemen could get there.

AT 4:15 a.m. Wednesday the fire whistle routed firemen from bed, and the inhalator was sent to the Donald Campbell home at 201 N. Morton Street where Campbell had died. Thursday the pace picked up.

AT 3:04 p.m. firemen were called to the Winford Mable home at 204 N. Mead Street where a coffee cake in the oven had caught fire, filling the house with smoke.

Firemen carried the stove outside, pulled the charred but flaming cake from the oven and stamped the fire out.

AT 5:36 p.m. the whistle sounded again, and firemen were called to put out a small and apparently harmless grass fire at the northeast corner of East Baldwin Street and South US-27.

Friday there was but one call, but it was the most expensive fire outside of the Sunday accident blaze. At 3:52 p.m. firemen were sent to the Alfred Mohrke farm at the corner of Francis and Parks Road where a tractor and a load of hay was on fire.

MOHRKE told firemen he was about to drive the wagonload of hay into one of his barns when his wife shouted the wagon was on fire. He turned the tractor around, drove it down the road away from all the buildings and then jumped to safety.

The loss was estimated by firemen at $800.

Saturday was the last busy day of the seven, but it was really busy. At 4:45 p.m. they answered a call to the Leon Miller farm on North Airport Road in Greenbush Township where a truck backfire had set hay and chaff ablaze in a barn. The fire was out when firemen arrived, and damage was set at about $25.

IN THE WANING minutes of the week came two alarms. The first was at 11:30 p.m. when a car belonging to Stanley Geller of R-4 St. Johns was on fire at 800 S. Church Street. That was disposed of in short order, but before the trucks could be put back in the fire barn, another call came from Red's Gulf Service station on South US 27 where a car belonging to Don Cressman of 504 1/2 S. Church Street was on fire. That took 10 minutes to take care of, and the trucks were back in the fire barn for good at 11:50 p.m.

Since then it has been quiet, at least through Tuesday.

WHEN they finally got the chance to relax for a day, firemen eagerly searched the log books to see if there was a precedent for their action of the preceding week. They could find none.

There has been busy times before, but none quite like this.

In March-April 1955, for example, firemen were called on 12 times in 10 days—threetimes on March 30, twice on April 1, three times on April 5, and once each on April 2, 6, 7 and 8.

THERE WERE six grass fires in three days in late March 1957. There was one on March 29 and 30 and four on March 31.

There were seven fires in seven days between April 3 and April 10, 1962, but they did not occur on seven consecutive days.

At $5 per man per call, the 10 alarms last week cost the city and the townships considerable money. But it's little enough, most people seem to agree, for the quick service and dedication to their part-time and dangerous job the St. Johns volunteer firemen provide.

AFTER ALL, they said, they'd rather be pouring over old records of the past fires than pouring water over new fires.

She was ordered held on $1,000 bond by Justice of the Peace Robert Wood pending a Sept. 14 examination date in circuit court.

DeWitt pair bruised in crash

Two DeWitt persons suffered bruises when the car in which they were riding flipped over at 6:40 p.m. Friday.

Margaret M. Davis, 41, of DeWitt was the driver, and Deral E. Davis, 31, was a passenger in the car.

THE DAVIS car was traveling north on Chandler Road north of Herbyson when the driver began to feel the car sway. She told Deputy Sheriff Gaylord Foote of Bath that when she applied her brakes the front wheel caught and pulled the car to the left. It went off the road and rolled over on its top.

Foote reported the right rear tire was flat and it is believed that may have caused the car to sway.

Robinson urges World's Fair visitors to see post office there

Visitors to the New York World's Fair from St. Johns have an unusual opportunity to see a post office of the future, Postmaster Robinson said today.

A carefully-chosen group of 80 employees from New York area post offices man the facility which handles all the fair's mail and some from the Flushing, N.Y. area. The outside mail is used to keep the highly mechanized devices operating at "full tilt."

THE POST office handles approximately 250,000 pieces of mail each day.

Postcards to friends and relatives back home are a big item. About 30,000 are mailed from the Fair each day. One third of these are addressed to persons overseas.

Foreign visitors have no trouble understanding US postal operations. The facility has staff members who speak 20 languages.

POSTMASTER Robinson notes that residents of St. Johns who attend the Fair and wish to try out their foreign language ability can either talk with the multi-lingual window clerks or listen to a tape recorded presentation in the post office lobby which features individual earphones for those who speak Japanese, French, German, Italian and Spanish.

New equipment on hand includes an experimental Pitney-Bowes Centrifeed which spins envelopes rapidly around a wheel-like mechanism and places them upright on their longest side. They then move into a machine which cancels, stamps and postmarks envelopes at a rate of 500 letters a minute.

LETTERS are sorted to go all over the world by machines which position the mail so that the addresses are visible to an operator who sits in front of a keyboard similar to that on a typewriter.

2 Lansing men hurt in crash near Westphalia

Two Lansing men suffered injuries early Monday morning in a one-car crash on Grange Road south of Centerline Road in Westphalia Township.

Fredrick R. Myers, 28, of 1928 Forest Avenue, and Fred Wray, 27, of 4425 S. Pennsylvania Avenue, both of Lansing, were taken to Clinton Memorial Hospital for treatment. They were admitted but were released later in the day.

MYERS TOLD Deputy Sheriff Hilary Hafner he was traveling north on Grange Road when he swerved to avoid hitting an animal on the road. He lost control of the car, which hit an abutment. The accident occurred about 1 a.m. Monday.

Wright-Kinley crash leaves 3 unhurt

Two cars collided at the corner of Wright and Kinley roads in Dallas Township Sunday evening, but no one was hurt.

Deputy Sheriff Hilary Hafner said a car driven by Diane Feldpausch, 20, of R-2, St. Johns, stopped for Wright Road, then started up and struck another car driven by Clair L. Thelen, 42, of R-1, Fowler. Mrs Thelen was a passenger in the car.

THE Feldpausch woman was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way. She was traveling east on Kinley, Thelen north on Wright Road.

Pass surface water discharge ordinance

The city commission last week approved an ordinance regulating the discharge of surface water into the sanitary sewers.

The ordinance prohibits the construction, altering, repairing or replacing of an underfloor or perimeter drain tile in such a manner that water from it is discharged "directly or indirectly" into the city's sanitary sewer system.

THE ORDINANCE was the result of discussion at the July 7 commission meeting when commissioner Raymond Kentfield complained that a large volume of storm or surface water was getting into the sanitary system.

City Manager Ken Greer reported then that after every rain, and within 20 to 30 minutes, volume at the sewer plant rises. An existing ordinance prevents eave troughs from being hooked into the sanitary system, and Greer said there is no problem with the newer buildings.

"MANY OF OUR older buildings probably have eave troughs hooked into the sanitary, and we find one now and then and eliminate it," he said. "Some are impossible to find as they will lead back into old cisterns and these probably overflow into the floor drain of the building that runs into the sanitary."

The ordinance was sought to prevent the underfloor drain tile and the perimeter tile from being hooked back into the sanitary sewers. "The floor drain itself should go into the sanitary (properly trapped)," Greer said, "but the sump pumps and subfloor drains should be made to stay out of the sanitary sewers."

THE NEW ordinance which governs this, will go into effect Aug. 24. A fine of up to $100 and/or up to 90 days in jail is provided for upon conviction of violation.

Another US-27 detour crash hurts 1 slightly

A Lansing woman suffered apparently minor injuries Saturday morning in a two-car crash on US-27 north of Parks Road.

Loretta Jean Frienere, 23, of 829 N. Chestnut, Lansing, told Deputy Sheriff Hilary Hafner she had some pains after the crash, but she did not require treatment.

HAFNER TICKETED Gale R. Letts, 37, of R-1, Midland, for traveling too fast for conditions. Hafner reported Letts started to pass the Frienere car, saw another auto coming and swerved back toward his own lane, hitting the rear of the Frienere car.

Both autos were traveling north on US-27. The accident occurred at 5:10 a.m. near the scene of a fatal head-on crash Aug. 2.

Girl ticketed following crash

A Westphalia girl was ticketed for failure to yield right-of-way Friday night following a two-car crash at the intersection of M-21 and Main Street in Fowler.

Catherine M. Heyer, 17, of Westphalia was driver of a car which reportedly pulled away from a blinking red light at the intersection and was hit by a car driven by Clair E. Spitzley, 23, of Fowler.

DEPUTY Sheriff Hilary Hafner said Spitzley was going west on M-21, and the Heyer girl north on Main Street. The Heyer girl reportedly stopped for the stop light and then pulled onto the highway where she was hit by Spitzley.

Riding with Miss Heyer were Mary Martin, 16, of R-2, Fowler, and Diane Thelen, 18, of Westphalia.

2 crashes involve cars passing convoys

Two accidents were recorded Saturday morning on U.S.-27 when motorists attempted to pass National Guard convoys.

The first occurred at 9:20 a.m. a half-mile south of Alward Road. It involved cars driven by Lawrence J. Gorton, 48, of Chelsea, and Shirley Ann Bishop, 16, of 2314 Arlington Road, Lansing.

Clinton County Deputy Sheriff Stanley Kajdas said both cars were in the northbound, left lane passing a convoy. When Miss Bishop slowed down for a car ahead, Gorton's hit it from the rear.

GORTON was ticketed for not having his car under control.

The second accident at 11:55 a.m. involved exactly the same circumstances. It occurred in the southbound lanes at the corner of U.S.-27 and Webb Road.

Safer driving urged by Lansing insurance man

St. Johns Rotarians were challenged Tuesday noon to drive as though they were driver training instructors—"for really, that's what you and all adult drivers are, whether you realize it or not," said Lynn A. Minzey, vice president of Auto-Owners Insurance Co. of Lansing.

Minzey' who is superintendent of agencies for Auto-Owners, told of the increasing numbers of highway fatalities in Michigan—a 21 per cent increase in the first six months of 1964.

HE ATTRIBUTED the greater highway toll to three principal causes: excessive speed, driving after drinking and discourtesy.

NOT A SHOT IS FIRED!

A book you have probably never heard of, much less gotten around to reading AND NOT A SHOT IS FIRED, is very interesting reading, especially if you are interested in preserving our free enterprise system and our individual liberty. The West German government was so impressed with this little book that they had a 25,000 copy edition published for distribution to the military and civilian leaders in their government.

Jan Kozak, the author, is a Czech. He tells the technique by which a democratic representative government is converted into a socialist state by legal democratic means. The steps are gradual, unsensational, and obscure. Unless you are aware of the overall plan, the changes seem unimportant. Many members of the legislature are also unaware of the master plan to socialize America. How does the technique work? First, there must be a problem, either real or imaginary. To solve the problem, a piece of "enabling legislation" is suggested carrying no authority, expressed or implied. It sets up an "agency". The agency created, supported with your tax dollars, then goes about making the public more aware of the problem. To solve the "problem", the agency needs more authority by legislation. Now the local people urge its passage, and further authority is granted. All in good time an AUTHORITY is there, self-contained; a new instrument of power has arisen, sufficient unto itself. This instrument may be local, regional or nationwide. Its key word is the word AUTHORITY. In the beginning this word is seldom employed.

The individual, who one year is free and independent, is next year just a little more restricted. Then a little more, and a little more. Suddenly, overnight, he no longer is a person. He is a cog in a gigantic machine called "the government." AND NOT A SHOT IS FIRED!!

P-W Boosters pay $1,500 on light bonds

Over $1,500 was paid last month by the Pewamo-Westphalia Athletic Booster Club in bond redemptions, which represented the second installment on money borrowed to finance the lighting of the P-W football field two years ago.

Carl Pfaff, president of the club, said $3,800 in non-interest bearing bonds were sold to numerous organizations and individuals in the Pewamo-Westphalia school district then to finance the lighting project.

THE P-W FOOTBALL field, lighted by six poles supporting 12 mercury vapor lamps each, is rated one of the best-lighted fields in this area. An oval cinder track surrounds the main playing field and provides facilities for track and relay meets.

Although the total cost of the project, including poles, lights, wiring and labor was over $6,500, Pfaff explained that a large portion of that amount was raised by the club before installation began.

Varsity football practice equipment was to be issued Wednesday night and again Thursday night.

Here's a true fish story

WESTPHALIA—Here's a true fish story, but it's a truthful one.

Last Thursday William Bohr and his son-in-law, Robert Platte, decided to go out and do some fishing on Chippewa Lake. They were fishing back-to-back, with the center of the boat clear.

When they heard a big splash, both turned around in surprise to ask "What was that?"

"That" was a four pound, 21-inch Black Bass which had jumped out of the lake into the boat!

Bohr and Platte had proof of this—neighbors were fishing all around them and also heard the splash.

An Open Letter to 3rd District Voters:

There was a day in American politics when a candidate could stand on a stump and air his views on the questions of the day. The voter could listen, ask questions and cast a vote from personal, first-hand knowledge.

This letter, and others to follow, is a 20th Century version of that tradition.

In spite of the fact that I've travelled 6,000 miles and talked to hundreds of people in the past month, this is the only practical way to reach all of the people in our five-county district.

The primary issue in our district is the matter of representation. What is your Representative's job? How is he supposed to represent you in Washington?

I strongly feel that proper representation is a two-way street. The man you select is duty-bound to explain issues as they arise. Then he is obliged to listen and learn what people think. From this he can reflect the temper of the district when casting his vote.

No man is right all the time. It is highly possible that your Congressman will sometimes find his voting obligation different from his personal feelings. When that happens the interest of the people who elected him must prevail.

Equally important questions must be decided as they arise. Intelligent decisions call for an open mind.

Two hundred years ago, Edmund Burke defined a Conservative as the man who builds for tomorrow on the proven experience of the past. I heartily subscribe to this idea. It is totally different from trying to turn the clock back, from trying to remake today and tomorrow in the image of the 19th Century.

Within these guidelines, there are constructive answers to such questions as:

1. Individual liberty, and the right of each man to control his own affairs.
2. Social Security, its purposes and limitations.
3. Medical Assistance to those who are old and ill.
4. Fiscal Responsibility and the control of Federal taxes.
5. Foreign Affairs where decision is safety and drift invites Communist adventures.
6. Water Resources here in our own district, where health and industry alike demand action.
7. Industrial Growth to provide jobs for us and our children.

All of these questions can't be explored in one newspaper space, but each is important to you and your neighbors right now. For this reason, I hope to expand on each point in future letters. Better still, I'll hope to discuss them with you as I travel the district between now and election.

In closing, may I remind you that the PRIMARY ELECTION, SEPT. 1, IS THE IMPORTANT ONE. We are a Republican district and the man you choose Sept. 1 will most likely be your Representative for the next two years.

Sincerely,
DWIGHT STOCKER, JR.

We wish to thank our relatives and friends who remembered us on our 25th wedding anniversary.—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Berry. 16-1p

I wish to thank the VFW, American Legion, World War I members, neighbors and friends for their visits, cards and flowers while I was a patient at Veterans' hospital, Ann Arbor.—Harry Conley. 16-1

I wish to thank Dr. Russell and the entire hospital staff for the wonderful care I received while at the hospital. Rev. Still for his visits, my relatives and friends for prayers, flowers, gifts and visits.—Ina Moore. 16-1p

I wish to thank my friends and relatives for the many cards, flowers and visits and thoughtful acts of kindness to my family during my recent stay at St. Lawrence hospital.—Mrs. R. E. M. Lietzke. 16-1p

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to relatives, friends and neighbors for the many beautiful floral pieces, food and kindness shown us during our recent bereavement. It was all greatly appreciated.—The family of C. F. Light. 16-1p

Words cannot express my sincere thanks to our families, relatives, neighbors and friends for their many cards, flowers, gifts, visits and for helping us out in our home. A special thanks to Rev. Elmer Schiefer for his calls, the Lee Rummel ambulance service, Dr. James S. Scott, Dr. Robert G. Combs—Surgeon, the nurses and staff at the St. Lawrence hospital, and to all those who donated blood. Thanks again to all those who in any way helped us in our time of need, before, during and after my stay at the hospital.—Mrs. Bruce Fitzpatrick. 16-1p

Just as there are no words to express sympathy in time of sorrow, so we are unable to express, in words, our sincere gratitude to our relatives, neighbors and friends for their many acts of kindness and their generosity toward us when God saw in His way to take our beloved son and brother. We cannot even attempt to name or number the people and organizations to whom we are so deeply indebted, but rather we will try, indeed, to express our everlasting gratitude to you all.—Mr. and Mrs. Myron Tethal, Laddie and Myron, Jr. 16-1p

Pastor, wife, repeat vows in mock event

McGONIGAL CORNERS—Rev and Mrs James L. Burleigh of the Bath Baptist Church were anticipating celebrating their 16th wedding anniversary at the fellowship supper of the church membership, held in the parlor of the church, last Saturday evening which was done in a stupendous way.

Mrs Burleigh had been heard to mention on several occasions that she wished she had been able to have a wedding with all the trimmings instead of a quiet one. Unknown to the couple this wish really took place, planned by members of the church.

It was not revealed to the Burleighs until just before the supper, much to their amazement.

THE BRIDE was arrayed in a street length gown of white silk net over stain and Machelle lace with a fitted bodice and bolero of lace. Her fingertip veil of real silk was imported from England, and was a gift from Mr and Mrs Cleo Friend. It was held in place by a crown of baby pearls and crystals. White kid pumps, a one-strand necklace of baby pearls, and earrings and long white gloves completed her ensemble. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink rose buds, atop a white Bible. The Bible was a gift from Mr and Mrs Vern Baker.

Nancy Burleigh their eldest daughter, was maid of honor in blue nylon. Dorothy, the second daughter, was bridesmaid and Cathy, youngest daughter, acted as junior bridesmaid, and wore identical gowns of pink nylon, and matching headpieces.

TEN-YEAR-old David, their youngest child, acted as best man for his daddy.

Rev James Robertson of Capital City Baptist Church, Lansing, a close friend of Rev Burleigh, officiated at the repeating of the marriage vows.

The bride's parents, Mr and Mrs Lewis of Flint attended, and the bride was given in marriage by her father. Rev Burleigh's mother and sister, Mrs Ossie Smith and husband of Gains were in attendance.

A THREE-tiered cake centered the table for the wedding supper which followed. Mrs Sarah Smith presided at the piano, and George Johnson sang "Because" with the Christian words. A collection of worthy mention was presented to Rev Burleigh and family from the church. They will be taking a short vacation in the near future.

The couple repeated their vows beneath a beautiful white arch, flanked on either side with huge baskets of white gladioli, Clay McMillen Jr. of Lansing, a florist, arranged the setting. Colored pictures were taken.

50 attend reunion

McGONIGAL CORNERS—The McGonigal reunion held at the home of Mr and Mrs Chester McGonigal, numbered around 50 persons in attendance last Sunday. Guests were from Lansing, Owosso, Otisville, and Bath.

Junior leaders help bring 4-H to town

4-H goes to town!

The national leadership program for 4-H youth development, which began primarily in rural areas, now reports a majority of its members live in urban or suburban neighborhoods. According to the National 4-H Service Committee, 52 per cent of 4-H members are from non-farm locations.

AIDING IN the spread of 4-H from farm to city have been junior leaders, experienced 4-H'ers who assume responsibilities for helping others. The program sponsored by the Sears-Roebuck Foundation, is an activity easily adapted to either city or rural living.

Recognition awards for superior achievement will be claimed this year by scores of 4-H'ers throughout the state. They consist of gold-filled medals, an all-expense trip to the National 4-H Club Congress, and an opportunity to compete for one of 12 national leadership scholarships of $500 each.

PARTICIPANTS make definite plans to help others in choosing projects, fulfilling requirements and completing records. This results in growth and development ies to be developed. Junior leaders were able to voice their needs so that new programs could be more easily tailored to their situations.

AND LEADERS find it's fun to help, too. "Ever since I can remember," says another state winner, "it has been my ambition to be above average in helping others."

County extension agents and local 4-H leaders can provide more information about the program.

2,469 projects listed by 4-H'ers

The 4-H program in Clinton County expanded considerably over the past year, if figures on the number of projects mean anything.

Some 2,469 projects are listed by the 1,200 different boys and girls in 4-H, according to 4-H Extension Agent Don Walker. This compares to 1,971 projects last year and is an increase of 498 over 1963.

SMALL ENGINES, rocks and minerals, and world understanding are three new projects this year, with a total of 18 youths taking them. Foods and nutrition is the most popular project, with 484 enrolled in it. Clothing has 473 enrolled.

There are 51 summer 4-H clubs and 40 winter clubs. Projects listed by their members in 1964 included:

CHILD CARE 9, clothing 473, knitting 137, conservation 115, dairy, 104, dog care 1, electrical 45, entomology 34, field crops 32, foods-nutrition 484, preservation 22, home design 8, basic plant science 1, flower garden 134;

To open new cattle laboratory

Michigan cattle feeders will combine their annual field day with dedication of the new Michigan State University beef cattle research center next Thursday, Aug. 20.

Tours of the $330,000 facility, located at Beaumont and Bennett roads south of the main MSU campus, will kick off the morning program at 10 a.m. A total of 40 experimental pens with four kinds of environmental conditions will house 480 beef cattle in studies of everyday practical problems confronting cattle feeders.

Even though farms are getting bigger, most of them continue to be family businesses, according to the USDA. The department reports that 70 per cent of farm products marketed come from family farms.

Feed accounts for 55 to 70 per cent of the cost of producing livestock and livestock products.

Seek programs to fit youths into agriculture

New programs in vocational agriculture, designed to fit individuals for gainful employment in a variety of occupations, are forthcoming.

Vocational agriculture teachers, meeting at Michigan State University July 27-31, were brought up to date on the Vocational Education Act of 1963 and its implications for agricultural education.

MORE than 200 teachers from schools throughout the state heard speakers discuss the need for more skilled and semi-skilled workers in the agricultural industries, and the changing image of agriculture in today's economy.

"We need to build better vonational agriculture programs, geared both to the interests and capabilities of the students, and to the demands of the various agricultural industries," said Harry E. Nesman.

NESMAN, chief of agricultural education for the State Department of Public Instruction, spoke at the final session July 31 at The Kellogg Center for Continuing Education.

"Our job is to keep the more than 13,000 youths, who will be enrolled this fall in high school agricultural programs, in agricultural careers when they graduate," he said. "This can be done through proper education and training.

"WE MUST do this to meet the shortage of competent people in many of the agricultural and related industries, such as farm mechanics, feed, fertilizer, landscape gardening and, of course, vocational agriculture."

Nesman feels the goal can be reached through special occupational training programs, which will provide job experience for selected students in a variety of agricultural areas.

THE TASK for implementing these programs will fall upon the vocational agriculture teachers, he said, with the cooperation of school administrators and people from the agricultural industries.

After surveying the job market, reporting the results to school superintendents and consulting with industry people, the teachers will be responsible for developing senior or junior courses which will prepare the students for the occupations in which they are interested.

Arrangements will also be made for students to work on a part-time basis in either the farms with which they may be employed after graduation, or firms in the area of interest of the students, he added.

NESMAN SAID he believes the new occupational training programs will do a great deal not only toward alleviating the present shortage of workers in the various agricultural fields, but in helping to curb school dropouts, juvenile delinquency and unemployment.

The teachers were also reminded that the image of agriculture is changing. Agriculture today is more than just farming; it encompasses a wide variety of agricultural industries and businesses.

THIS IS documented by the fact that more than 25 per cent of the total work force is now engaged in various agricultural occupations.

"If more teachers, school administrators and industry people would view agriculture as it really is," Nesman maintained, "our entry into these new education and training programs in vocational agriculture would be made a great deal easier.

"This is the key which unlocks the door to the whole project."

If you are the type of vacationist who likes to rough it a little, state forests in Michigan have your kind of camping. All campgrounds are located on lakes or streams and are generally off the beaten path.

Become food skeptic

Special foods, food supplements and phony cures for diseases cost Americans close to a billion dollars a year. The most widespread and costly quackery today is the promotion of special foods and food supplements.

To help combat this problem is a booklet offered through the extension service entitled "Believe It Or Not." It asks people to become "intelligent skeptics."

INTELLIGENT skeptics think critically and are not misled by false and misleading claims. They are better informed consumers and base their choices on rational decisions.

They also become aware of the great power and influence they have as customers. Refusing to buy is one of the most powerful weapons the consumer has.

MANY PEOPLE in the county have received copies of "Believe It Or Not" and are better informed about what they can do to combat food misinformation.

Other books available at the Extension office include: Food—The Yearbook of Agriculture, 1959; Food Becomes You, Ruth Leverton; Your Diet, Digestion and Health, Edmund Nasset; Nuts Among the Berries, Ronald Deutsch; Medicine Show, editors of Consumers Report; and many others.

AGRICULTURE in ACTION
 by M. L. Voell
 MICHAEL PAUL BUREAU

THE POLITICAL ARTS
 Politics is the art of the possible, and if farmers want to place their programs into the framework of the "possible," they must become much more active in the partisan political processes.

This is the opinion of a respected agricultural economist, Dr Dale Hathaway, of Michigan State University. He, along with other leading farm political observers feel that the farm vote under certain conditions can be the crucial vote in any national election, in spite of dwindling farm numbers.

With farmers now representing only 5.6 percent of the population in Michigan and about 8 percent in the United States, the advice for them to "get active" or be prepared to lose out, had special significance.

"THE DAYS of rural dominance of political affairs is gone and nostalgia will not change this fact. There is evidence that many of our present agricultural leaders do not understand the changes that have occurred and how to be effective within the new environment," Hathaway says.

HE ADDS, "If farm people are to have an effective voice in determining the course of public politics of crucial importance to agriculture, they must become active participants in the partisan political processes--and in both parties. Politicians listen to those who participate far more carefully than to those who do not. Part of the reward for participating is the reward of getting heard on policy issues. Farm people and their leaders must learn to participate to become effective," Hathaway believes.

HIS sentiments echo the thinking of other economists and political scientists who contend that farmers and their organizations ought to "identify" themselves and their policies with both political parties and have direct channels to them.

Flowers for the 4-H Fair

Georgia Goscinski, 15, of the Jolly Pioneers 4-H Club, had two 4-H projects this year—flower garden and foods. She'll be displaying flowers from this garden at the 4-H Fair next week. She and her older sisters Sonja and Janice, also 4-H'ers, are the daughters of Mr and Mrs George Goscinski of Greenbush Township.

Says management ability farmer's biggest need

An agriculture banker told farmers Wednesday that they face a dim future if they feel labor, rather than management ability, is their most important asset.

Speaking at the 16th annual State Farm Management Tour, Andrew Lampen, president of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of St. Paul, Minn., reported that labor was the dominant input in agriculture as late as 1945. "But by 1960 non-real estate capital resources were more than double the labor input that went into farming," he said.

LAMPEN SPOKE during the noon program held at the Quincy High School between tours of the Dean Pridgeon hog operation at Montgomery and the Leo Sanderson dairy farm near Quincy. The tour was sponsored by the Branch County and Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service.

The banker pointed out that those farmers must accept the fact they do not have the ability, desire or capital to compete in agriculture's rapidly changing technology.

"FARMING in the future will no longer be a way of life, but a well organized business where the major objective in making decisions will have to be on net earnings," predicted Lampen. "The farmer who succeeds will have definite objectives and methods for accepting or rejecting each so-called technological advance."

2 county 4-H groups win district ribbons

Two musical groups which placed second in the Clinton County 4-H show July 18 won blue ribbons Aug. 4 at the district 4-H Share-The-Fun Festival in Battle Creek.

Kathy Cornell and Scott Heibek with an accordion duet received blue ribbons, and a group number called Indonesian Interlude also won a blue ribbon.

MEMBERS OF the group were Sylvia Becker, Sharon Greene, Ed Johnson, Linda Johnson, Allen Sibley, Carol Sibley, Susan Sibley, Barbara Smith, Shirley Steinhart, Colleen Wood and Lenore Wood.

Also competing at the district program were Patricia Courser with a vocal solo; and Kathy Nichols, Kathy Davis, Linda Davis, Claudia Ritter, Carolyn Plaza, Sharon Stoy, Susan Wickerham, Bill Stoy, Mickey Plaz, Randy Davis and Eric DeLong, all calling themselves the Country Cousins.

ACCOMPANYING the 4-H'ers to Battle Creek were Mr and Mrs Carl Steinhart, Mr and Mrs James Smith, Mr and Mrs Alger Sibley and Mrs Russell Sibley.

Lampen stressed the need for more superior record keeping methods than those commonly used by farmers today. At the same time, he urged record keeping for management reasons—not just to fulfill tax requirements.

THOSE OF us in the farm credit business find this to be one area where farmers are notoriously weak," commented Lampen. "We see farmers everyday who want to expand simply because their present incomes aren't adequate and not because their records indicate that expanding will increase their net profits."

"In too many cases, expansion just means more work and responsibility for the same net income. And worse yet—such expansion can cause a credit crisis which could wipe out all equities built up over the years."

He cited MSU's Telfarm record keeping system as an efficient means for helping to overcome many of these obstacles. Modern computers are used to give farmers complete and accurate records of income and expense.

THE FURTHER complexity of farming will bring an end to the jack-of-all-trades who is completely qualified in all areas of agriculture. "Farmers of the future will make considerably greater use of outside help in farm decision making," added the bank president. "Farmers will need to make greater use of their extension agents, agricultural college personnel, farm credit specialists and others."

Discussing the all-important role of credit in financing farming in the future, Lampen listed several expectations:

—Perpetual debt will become part of the farm picture, and sons purchasing the family farm will assume the debt that goes with it.

—FARMERS making use of large amounts of credit will be required to justify the use of someone else's capital.

—Large amounts of credit will require more confidence and better communications between the farmer and the lender.

"The farmer has become a part of the miracle of American agriculture," pointed out Lampen. "And by combining good management and financial planning with hard work and dedication, he is reaching his objectives."

"YET WITHOUT the miracle of changing technology that surrounds the modern farmer, he would not have been able to make this much progress."

In conclusion, the bank president stated that "if one farmer produced enough for his family and eight others in 1940, then he should strive to produce enough for 100 persons by the year 2000. Instead of apologizing for his fantastic production, the farmer should ask how he can continue his fantastic advancement in order to feed the 379 million people predicted to populate the United States by the close of this century."

Congratulations

 "The Quality Fertilizers"

State farms grow in size

The average Michigan farmer expanded his acreage by 30 per cent in the last four years. But there was less than a 50-50 chance that he bought this added land.

A recent survey showed that rented land accounted for considerable more than half of the acreage added to farm since 1959 in the Thumb and the South Central portion of Michigan.

MELVIN L. Cotner, Myron E. Wirth and George D. Irwin, USDA agricultural economists working out of Michigan State University, report that one-third of the total farm land in both areas is now rented. For the South Central area, especially, this was a marked increase over 1959 when about one-fifth of the land in farms was rented.

The South Central counties included in the survey are Ionia, Clinton, Shawassee, Barry, Eaton, Ingham, Livingston, Calhoun, Jackson and Washtenaw. Included in the Thumb area are Huron, Tuscola, Sanilac, Lapeer and St. Clair counties.

DAIRYING IS the most common type of agriculture in both areas of the state. General livestock farming is second in the South Central area, while cash crop farming occupies this position in the Thumb area.

Cotner, Wirth and Irwin point out that nearly half of these farmers bought or rented some land during the 1959 through 1963 period. Of those who acquired land, 16 per cent both bought and rented it, while 58 per cent rented only and 26 per cent bought only.

RETIRED landowners and new landowners with full-time off-farm jobs were by far the largest source of land supply. In the survey, almost half of the land purchased and one-third of the land rented during the 1959 through 1963 period was supplied by retired landowners.

One out of every five tracts purchased and two-fifths of the tracts rented came from landowners who had full-time off-farm jobs. The economists suggest that narrow profit margins and inconvenience of renting were the most important factors in the offer of land for sale by owners having full-time jobs off the farm.

ASC PROGRAM

County wheat allotments will be mailed Aug. 17

W. M. SMITH
County ASC Manager

We have computed the 1965 wheat allotments for wheat producers in our county. The county. The allotments will be mailed from our office on Aug. 17, 1964.

There is very little difference in the 1965 allotment with last year. The national allotment acres was reduced from 55 million acres to 49.5 million acres, the same as last year.

WHEAT PRODUCERS in our county who signed-up to participate in the 1964 program can stop at our office and sign their compliance certifications. We are starting to make wheat certificate payments this week to producers who are in the wheat program only.

Producers in both feed grain and wheat will be paid for wheat as soon as we determine they have enough diverted acres for both programs.

DETAIL OF the 1965 wheat program were just announced by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Operation of the program in general will be the same as it was for the 1964 year. Although some program provisions are changed, farmers who participate can make about the same return as they did from the 1964 program.

Our county support rate is $1.24 per bushel. Domestic certificates will have a value of 75 cents and export certificates will be 30 cents per bushel.

WE PLAN TO enclose an informational leaflet explaining the 1965 wheat program with each wheat allotment notice.

The 1965 wheat program sign-up begins on Aug. 24 and ends on Oct. 2.

MSU probes milk drops for answers

Spray-dried milk products of the future will probably be of better quality, thanks to some recent basic research conducted by Michigan State University scientists.

Agricultural engineers Dennis R. Heldman and Carl W. Hall and food scientist T. I. Hedrick point out that spray-drying of milk involves heating tiny droplets in air.

THE COOLING effect produced by the evaporation of the liquid protects milk solids from heat damage. But, after the product dries and becomes a solid, prolonged exposure to heat can discolor the dry milk particles and deteriorate their quality.

The MSU researchers found excessive exposure of dry milk particles to air temperatures above 150 degrees will result in browning. The study also showed that processors can expose milk particles to air at 300 degrees without discoloration or deterioration—but the exposure must be less than two seconds.

THESE FINDINGS, plus other basic information uncovered in the tests, will be passed on to designers of dry-milk equipment who can then adjust processing techniques to insure high quality during the spray-dry process.

Whether on a picnic or vacation, take along equipment that will keep foods either below 40 or above 150 degrees.

If you plan to take prepared hot and cold foods, you'll need at least two containers. An insulated chest or a wide mouth thermal bottle will do for the hot. You'll need another chest for cooling salads, beverages and desserts.

It is very important, too, that each box is carefully cleaned after each use. Keep that special outing safe and free from sickness.

Elsie man realizes great need for the Peace Corps

ELSIE— Life in Cucuta, Columbia, South America, for Chris Meriam is creating much personal interest and satisfaction as he carries on his duties as a Peace Corps Volunteer.

Chris, son of Mr and Mrs L. W. Meriam, is a graduate of Elsie High School, Michigan State University and recently graduated from training at the School for Social Work at Columbia University, New York City.

ONE OF 26 volunteers sent by jet to Columbia, South America, last June, Chris found its capital city, Bogata as Spanish as they

AGRICULTURE in ACTION

by M. L. Woell

MICHIGAN FARM BUREAU

You can't tell them apart anymore, but thousands of farm people, including many from Michigan, are mingling with the crowds at the World's Fair.

If they expect to see agricultural exhibits, they will be disappointed, for basically this is an industrial fair. Even though agriculture is the number-one industry in the United States and the World, it is almost completely ignored at the Big Fair where thousands of dramatic manufactured products command attention. These range from a 10-foot tall, two-ton Swedish steel drill-bit to Chrysler's huge "motor" into which groups climb for a tour of the inside.

TRUE FARM exhibits are almost impossible to find. There is a small scattering of farm machinery in several of the buildings and some mention of food in those exhibits dealing with the future. A good example is found in the General Motors building where the farm technology of the future is described.

Blooming deserts are predicted through irrigation made possible by de-salting ocean water and piping it inland. Jungle growth is to be controlled and replaced, with high road-building machines making all parts of the rainforest areas useable and accessible. Sea-farming is shown in vivid scenes with underwater resources developed through strange mechanisms that harvest the deeps.

NO MATTER what you hear, food at the fair is not necessarily costly. It is true that one can spend upwards of $20 per person for wonderful meals in night-club atmospheres -- but where does cost of food stop and that of entertainment begin? Hot dogs here still cost only 25 cents -- hamburgers, 35 cents and a good-enough meal under $2.

In short, United States farmers have done such a good job of producing food at such modest costs almost everyone takes it for granted.

THIS IS A great compliment, yet distributing to U.S. farm people, whose unique productive ability has allowed industry, arts and sciences to advance to a point where fairs such as this are possible.

Luck or genius seldom accomplish as much as hard labor.

come. Located up in a plateau in the Andes, he found it to be a cultural center with universities, museums, churches and theaters.

Chris was held over three days in the city by an offer on radio and television communication (his major in college) but he turned it down to continue the work to which he felt dedicated.

THE NEXT stop, Cucuta, is to be his home for two years. He was the first volunteer assigned to this particular barrio (slum area), and located on several hills, dry, dusty and poor, between the airport and the city. The barrios are built and owned by the government. There are about 700 people living in this barrio, all Spanish-speaking, he said.

Cucuta is situated close to the northern border of Columbia and Venezuela with a population of over 100,000 people residing within a group of mountains, well sheltered from the rains.

THE FIVE-ROOM house rented by Chris, is void of furniture except for a carbon stove. The various stages of homesickness were soon behind him as he saw the need to know the local inhabitants, help them with their problems and work toward a solution.

He slept on the floor for two nights, ate meals standing up and used his brief case as a desk to write letters and make reports. He secured a native woman to come in each day except Sunday, to cook the food, take care of the laundry and general cleaning and do the shopping on the open market where one bargains for food from a large open table.

CARE came to his rescue with a tool box, a little lumber for building shelves, a few pieces of furniture and the promise of a complete set of garden and carpentry equipment and a bicycle.

The first few days were spent with very poor facilities, even water has to be purchased, he said. His trunk did not arrive for several days and when it did it was "better than any Christmas." His typewriter, set of kitchen utensils for his housekeeper, plastic curtains which he used as room dividers and doors for his cupboards were very welcome.

His home is all wood and plaster. The roof is made of wooden poles tied together with larger beams underneath for support. The ceilings are 15 to 20 feet high with an open space at the top for air. There are no windows except in the front room, he wrote, but it is too large to use, anyway. The kitchen doors open up into a back yard enclosed by a brick wall. He plans to put in a garden soon.

EACH MORNING, Chris rises at 6 a.m., studies and writes letters before starting his day at the barrio. "My work like all urban developers is extremely unstructural," he wrote, "which means that for months, there will be little to do except get to know the people and really learn their language."

"As volunteers, we try to encourage the people to help themselves and to give them a purpose in their living. We suggest to them that they can't expect their nation and the United States to supply them with money, schools, good roads and clean water if they refuse to make an effort toward their own progress."

"ACTUALLY, I never know what's going to happen from day to day," he wrote to his parents. One day he helped another volunteer, David Miller, build a foundation around the school at Barrio Bellin to fence in a play area.

Another day he might spend the time fixing up his own home or helping another volunteer and then talk to Russian men in the city about architects coming out to discuss a site for a new school in the barrio.

ONE WORK day in the barrio consisted of straightening a section of water pipe, lowering it and moving to a new location enabling the water to flow faster. "It was their idea and we furnished the job, but there weren't many people working. This is one of the biggest problems a volunteer faces," he said.

"The encouraging part was that they did have a work day and some people did want a better water system."

He said that the people love to dance and they do so at the drop of a coin. That may be the reason they don't get much work done, he said.

THE NEAREST city is Boucar-amunga and the bus fare is cheap to Caracas, Venezuela so he can visit other volunteers.

The bus system is indescribable with drivers going either too fast or too slow and if they see a person crossing the street, they go out of their way to hit them (And, I'm not exaggerating, he wrote).

People carry everything on the bus. Typical of them was a woman with six live chickens, legs tied together to a rope. As she boarded the bus, the driver started up quickly, causing her to stumble. No one would give her a seat, consequently, the chickens were in everyone's lap. It was absolutely crazy, he wrote.

THERE WERE three younger boys in the barrio who became good friends of Chris helping him with his Spanish and Chris in return helping them in English. This resulted in teaching English classes twice a week by Chris.

There are doctors in Cucuta and they are very good about treating the Peace Corps Volunteer. This is in answer to the usual question asked by the parents.

Living expenses are very reasonable but of course wages are low. He wrote, "I don't compare prices anymore, in fact, I pinch my pesos and save my centavos."

He spent one day with friends climbing the mountains to take slides. The scenery is simply breath-taking, he wrote.

CONCERNING his housekeeper, Ana, he said his first problem was to teach her the necessity of dipping fresh fruits and vegetables in boiling water. He doubted she understood as the first orange she brought him for breakfast was boiled. Her cooking amounts to rice, potatoes, some kind of bacon, beef and rice soup, so he is now trying to convince her that vegetables and not so many starchy foods are better for one's health.

Chris has been with the Peace Corps but a brief time, but his letters reveal that he understands the need for volunteers and is doing his part to help solve some of their problems.

This program has been developed and administered in cooperation with CARE.

Report alfalfa hay contains better sheep "lactation factor"

Alfalfa hay contains a "Lactation factor" which makes ewes milk better and puts faster gains on their lambs. Earlier research has suggested this and recent University of Wisconsin experiments give further proof.

Animal scientists H. W. Schefsky, A. L. Pope and W. G. Hockstra tested lamb gains by dividing ewes into four lots and feeding them on different rations before the lambs were born and until the lambs were eight weeks old.

hay as roughage with added energy supplies as corn. Oat straw was the roughage in the other three rations. In the straw rations protein was balanced with soybean oil meal and energy varied with shell corn. One oat straw ration also contained 10 per cent alfalfa leaf meal.

pounds per day where the ewes were fed 70 per cent oat straw, plus soybean oil meal and corn. Lambs from ewes fed alfalfa hay also gained faster than the group fed the higher energy ration with only 50 per cent straw in the ration.

Ewes gained the same on all four different rations during their gestation period and had normal lambs. This suggests that the alfalfa in the ration made little difference to producing normal, healthy lambs as long as the rations were balanced in energy and protein.

DURING THE lactation period lambs did better where their mothers were fed alfalfa hay. Lambs in this group gained .75 pounds per day compared to .6

WHAT IS THE "lactation factor" in alfalfa meal? They don't know for sure, but they say it appears not to be protein, energy, minerals or known vitamins.

Attends farm business meet

Muriel Jean Becker of St. Johns, daughter of Mr and Mrs Lawrence Becker, 5200 W. Kinley Road, attended the 36th annual national farm business conference of the American Institute of Cooperation at Michigan State University this week.

Miss Becker was sponsored by the Michigan Milk Producers Assn. and the Michigan Association of Farmer Cooperatives. She has been active in 4-H for the past nine years.

THE CONFERENCE, Sunday through Wednesday, is the largest annual gathering on farm business opportunities, techniques and problems, drawing over 3,000 leaders of farm business, credit, marketing, agricultural extension, and rural education. An estimated 1,000 farm youth and young farmers participated in their own discussion and tour programs.

Youth scholars engaged in panel discussions on ways to be successful in farming and other careers in the agricultural business and on how to utilize the services of farm purchasing, marketing, and service organizations.

THEY STUDIED the American Economic System and the future of cooperatives in the private enterprise system. They met heads of US and Canadian rural youth groups and young people from other states and foreign countries to swap personal experiences.

The Institute is chartered as a "University" in Washington, D.C., and is the educational and research organization for farmer cooperatives. It meets each summer on the campus of a prominent land-grant college.

Check livestock health before heading for fair

Livestock farmers and youth with summertime desires to head for the county fair need to review the requirements governing exhibition of livestock, says Dr Charles Reed, Michigan State University veterinary medicine specialist.

All species of livestock, the veterinarian points out, have certain requirements governing their exhibition.

CATTLE MUST be identified by ear tag, tattoo or registration number. Official vaccinated animals under 30 months of age, native steers or calves under 12 months of age are not required to have a health certificate for show purposes. Reed also says Michigan cattle are not required to have a tuberculosis test in order to be exhibited at the fairs.

Horses, sheep and poultry must be free from all infectious and contagious diseases for exhibition at fairs.

ALL SWINE exhibited in Michigan must be identified by ear tag, tattoo or ear button and be accompanied by a certificate signed by a veterinarian stating the hog cholera and immunization status. Swine must be vaccinated at least 21 days before the opening of the show.

The tests show that commercial varieties of red clover differ in virus resistance. Bollard and Kenland are among the most resistant. Wisconsin Common is least resistant.

THE THREE breeding lines of red clover, which may some day be new varieties, show real promise. Their resistance was equal to or better than the best varieties and twice as good as Wisconsin Common.

Stuteville and Hanson also developed clones which are immune to most strains of BYMV, PCMV, and RCMV. These are being incorporated into new varieties.

SINCE APHIDS carry viruses, the researchers compared attractiveness to clover plants to aphids with virus susceptibility. They found that some clover plants are more attractive to aphids than others, but there appears to be no relationship between this attraction and reaction of plants to viruses.

Test red clovers against viruses

The list of viruses that infect red clover read like alphabet soup. There's BYMV (bean yellow mosaic virus), RCMV (red clover vein mosaic virus), PCMV (Pea common mosaic virus), AMV (alfalfa mosaic virus), and WPSV (Wisconsin pea streak virus). Susceptibility to those and other diseases is one of the big problems of red clover.

But prospects are good for developing varieties and strains that are resistant to some of these virus diseases, according to E. W. Hanson and D. L. Stuteville, plant disease specialists at the University of Wisconsin. They inoculated red clover with these five common viruses and then looked for naturally resistant plants.

DOLLARD, KENLAND, Lakeland, Pennscott and Wisconsin Common were the varieties tested. Several breeding lines were also tested. The scientists planted these in the greenhouse and inoculated all the plants with the five viruses one month after seeding. They repeated inoculation four times during the experiment.

Wisconsin pea streak virus (WPSV) infected all the plant varieties and breeding lines. It worked fast, too. Over 90 per cent of the plants were infected after the first inoculation. By the second and third inoculation all plants had symptoms of WPSV.

SECOND MOST infectious was alfalfa mosaic virus (AMV) which infected 88-93 per cent of all the plants by the end of the experiment. Infection was around 50 per cent after one inoculation.

The other viruses encountered a fair amount of resistance in each variety and high resistance in some of the new breeding lines.

Keep poisons safely out of tots' reach

Keep poisons away from children, warns a Michigan State University extension safety specialist.

Keep poisons away from children, warns a Michigan State University extension safety specialist.

Each year 600,000 children under 5 years of age swallow poisonous substances found in their homes, says Richard Pfister. About 450 of these cases are fatal.

Children about a year old are most likely to get into cleaning and polishing materials, rodent and insect poisons, solvents, and kerosene, he says. All these materials are often stored close to the floor, under sinks, or on low shelves. They are a prime target for the youngster whose hands move faster than his feet.

THE NATIONAL Safety Council's theme for Farm Safety Week this year is, "Safer American Families Everywhere," says Pfister. They recognize the seriousness of poisoning by medicines and common household cleaning agents by the more than 100 deaths per month from these preparations.

Modern labeling laws require that hazardous products be marked to indicate their degree of danger. However, the small child can't read and is prone to eat anything, despite irritating fumes or obnoxious taste or smell.

IT'S UP TO parents to keep these poisons out of the reach of children, says Pfister. In 75 per cent of child poisoning cases, the toxic substance was within easy reach.

He urges parents not to tell children that medicine is candy to induce them to take pills without fussing. They may later take a dangerous overdose in the innocent belief there can be no harm. Some other way of persuasion can end this chance.

IF A YOUNGSTER should swallow a nonedible substance, call a doctor at once, he says. In some cases symptoms are slow to become apparent. If possible have the container handy so you can tell the doctor the brand name and contents so that he can determine the best remedy.

Michigan's No. 1 crop in value is corn with production attaining 110 million bushels in some years. Second to this comes hay and pasture, and from these crops stem livestock and livestock products that make up 54% of Michigan's agricultural income.

Research making veterinary medicine better, Howe says

Veterinary research has advanced so markedly in the past few years that a whole new field of vaccines are saving countless farm animals.

Dr Nelson Howe Jr., veterinarian in St. Johns for 27 years, was enthusiastic about the progress made.

"When I first started," he said, "we didn't have injectibles for treating milk fever, and it was considered impossible to do abdominal surgery on animals because of infection. It was thought impractical to heal a broken leg on a horse or a cow."

"NOW IT'S routine. Since the war we've developed techniques of inserting metal pins in fractured bones to stabilize them. And although it was done practically from the start, caesarean sections in all animal births are a common thing."

Many do not realize, he said, that animals that once could not be saved from disease or injury now can be. He cited the recent case of a calf whose neck was swollen and covered with warts. He said modern vaccines are helping the calf to recover. In earlier days, that probably would not have been possible.

WHEN HE returned from service in World War II, Dr Howe said, bangs disease had a high incidence. Now modern techniques and medicines have almost wiped it out. Howe is presently vaccinating a large number of calves in the area against bangs disease to keep up the immunity to the disease among the animal population.

Poultry can now be vaccinated by medicating the feed and drinking water, he said, and this

DR NELSON HOWE method is being developed for other animals.

Tools, too, have helped the veterinarian in his work. The two-way radio and the portable X-ray units are two items Howe considers essential in being able to treat animals quickly and efficiently.

DR HOWE set up his practice here in December 1937, and it was largely a horse practice, he recalled. But by the time World War II was over, tractors were being used on the farm and there were few horses.

These warts on a cow's neck once meant the cow would have to be put to death. Now, modern veterinary medicine can save her. Dr Nelson Howe of St. Johns says the animal will recover with treatment now being given.

The swing in veterinary practice here, he said, has been to dairy cattle, and the last few years has seen his pet business grow by leaps and bounds. A large part of his work space in the back of his home on 903 N. Clinton is devoted to quarters for them.

THE strong trend toward dairy herds is narrowing down, Dr Howe said, as many farmers begin to work in the factories.

"Pets are more and more purebred animals, and the smaller ones like poodles, which were once a luxury, are becoming more and more popular," he said.

Dr Howe graduated from Michigan State College in 1935 and worked for two years testing cattle in Texas for the government before coming to St. Johns. His practice has grown to the point that he has had an assistant for the past five years.

HE IS NOW in the process of remodeling his veterinary quarters.

AGRICULTURE in ACTION

By M. L. Woell
MICHIGAN FARM BUREAU

It has been a good harvest in Michigan—yet wheat farmers are bitter and discouraged. Not because of the yield, for most of this year's wheat was impressively good. There was little "lodging" and few shrunken kernels were found. But the crop is bringing a shrunken price.

Where most wheat sold for around $2 per bushel last year, it is bringing from $1.16 to $1.30—a drop of about 70 cents per average bushel. Apply this to a total crop of 40,700,000 bushels to see the enormity of the loss in Michigan. It comes to over 17 million dollars of farm income.

AT THE SAME time, the price of flour has jumped and soon will be reflected in the prices of bread. Why? How have these things happened?

Farmers trace the trouble directly to the Wheat Certificate Plan which Congress enacted by a scant margin after farmers had turned the same scheme down in national referendum. It passed as a supposedly "voluntary" program, promising much, talking of $2-per-bushel wheat and predicting better farm incomes because of government "help."

The wheat program calls for flour millers to pay the government 70 cents for each bushel they mill. Exporters pay another 25 cents. These funds are supposed to help finance the program.

"THE NEW WHEAT certificate plan will not affect the price of bread"—promised Agricultural Secretary Orville Freeman when rounding up votes in Congress in support of the bill. But millers have naturally reflected the higher cost of doing business in the price of flour—and bakers will, in turn, in the price of bread.

To keep his promise, Freeman has been depressing prices by dumping government-held surplus wheat on the market. He released 7,500,000 bushels in the first week of July just as the new crop Michigan wheat was coming to market.

Farmers paid the bill. FORTUNATELY, the provisions of the "Agricultural Act of 1964," which allowed the secretary of agriculture to enforce the wheat certificate plan without grower referendum, expires in 1965.

There is little doubt that by then Congressmen will fully understand how farmers feel.

Protein varies with condition of milk cows

Consumers may want more protein and less fat in their milk in the future, so dairy farmers need to know more about how protein varies under different conditions. That makes up a whole field of study for dairy scientists at the University of Wisconsin. Preliminary studies give some information on how protein varies in milk through the lactation period.

Dairy scientists W.J. Tyler and L.H. Schultz found that percentage of protein was highest from October through March and lowest April through September in the University herds.

During a lactation period cows had highest protein the first 30 days following calving and from the 120th day to the end of the lactation. Protein didn't vary as much as fat through the lactation period.

Fault-finding is easy—so easy it's a drug on the market.

This 4-H tractor operator uses safety rules, driving skills and mechanical know-how.

Tractor program teaches skills

The 4-H Tractor program has trained well over a million youths to drive safely, handle the big machines and keep them in working order year around. The project is planned and supervised by the Co-operative Extension Service. In this state and 39 others, educational aids and awards are provided by the American Oil Foundation.

With today's big investments in farm equipment, it is vital that tractors are adequately maintained and put to maximum use, breakdown could mean financial loss on crops.

THERE IS ALWAYS plenty to do in this project, even for the beginner. The program is divided into four sections. The first year participation acquaints the member with the tractor and safe rules for operation.

Second year members learn to operate the tractor and what it takes to keep it going. Care of battery, spark plugs, cooling system and tires is taught. Operating costs, including fuel and lubrication also are studied.

"IMPROVING Your Skills" is the title of the third unit. This emphasizes highway safety, power take-off, brakes, power transmission, winter care and ownership costs.

The fourth year and advanced unit goes into detail on machinery care such as servicing and maintaining tillage tools, planters, harvesters and sprayers. By the time 4-H'ers have completed the fourth year, they usually have assumed responsibility for not only the farm tractors, but other machinery as well.

Feed cattle prices lower

Feed cattle are going to be cheaper this fall than at any time since 1956-57.

In a survey of cowmen, feeders, market specialists and bankers, Farm Journal found that:

FEEDERS expect to pay no more than $19 to $22 per hundredweight for steer calves this fall—maybe less. Cowmen expect to get $21 to $25 for these same calves.

Feeders now are selling for $4 to $7 per hundredweight less than a year ago at this time. This is the sharpest decline since 1952-1953.

What kind of cattle will be in strongest demand this fall?

BRUCE RUSSELL, Farmers National Co., Omaha farm management firm says: "I suspect calves will be in the strongest position. They cost fewer dollars per head; will let a man use more home-grown feed; can be run over a longer period and offer more leeway on when they can be sold; and they probably appeal more to a banker for the men who have lost a lot of equity feeding in the last 18 months."

WITH 15,000,000 cattle added to the nation's supply since 1957, Jim W. Mitchell, National Finance Credit Corp. of Texas, believes 6,000,000 head must be worked off if prices are to get better. He expects this might take three years.

INCENTIVE Behind every man who keeps ahead of the times is a woman who's doing the pushing.

Lack of 4-H clubs seen one of Russia's farm problems

In Russia there are no 4-H Clubs to teach boys and girls a better way of life and work; no agricultural extension service to show better methods for raising crops and livestock; no specialists to help improve homemaking skills; no business men to support this "massive, informal, educational program" which includes 4-H.

However, Premier Khrushchev did learn something about the Co-operative Extension Service during his visit to the U.S. In a Pravda article, Khrushchev revealed a "secret" to the Russian people. He admitted that certain extension practices were "borrowed" when the Soviet agricultural system was overhauled recently.

"I HAVE IN MIND, he said, the introduction of scientific achievements. In the United States of America a farmer's service exists under the universities and colleges. The agents meet with the farmers and persuade them to introduce this or that method, help them in organization of production and furnish them with plans."

He got most of the extension picture, but apparently missed the role of extension for the last 50 years in developing the 4-H Club program.

IN THE early days of 4-H, the 4-H safety work keeps fires down

Nearly every farm fire could be prevented, says the National Safety Council, and periodic inspections would remove most hazards.

Well aware of the situation are the state's 4-H Club members who try to use safety measures year-round in their homes, on the highways, on the farm and wherever their daily tasks take them.

Read labels to stop cheats

A Food and Drug Administration home economist called upon homemakers to report abuses of the law when they suspect a product is illegal.

Speaking to a College Week for Women audience at Michigan State University recently, Diane Place, FDA consumer consultant in Detroit, said, "Consumers can protect themselves against both economic and nutrition cheats if they are responsible for reading and heeding the labels on the products they buy and respond when they suspect that the product is illegal by reporting it."

SHE REMINDED homemakers that foods in interstate commerce are protected by the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act. This law provides for the purity, wholesomeness and honest labeling and packaging of food.

trained extension agents worked with the children of farm families. The plan provided the wedge that opened the door for the agents to reach the farmers and their wives.

It has been suggested that Khrushchev might further improve farming under communism if he also had initiated a program for youth patterned after the 4-H Clubs. Seventy other foreign countries have. But Russia lacks the incentive and backing provided by private enterprise.

US INDUSTRY has backed 4-H work right from the beginning. It provides technical know-how, financial aid and recognition. More than 55 leading business firms cooperate with the extension service and the National 4-H Service Committee in sponsoring individual projects.

Today there are at least three dozen areas of 4-H Club work.

SOME OF the newer programs and their sponsors are: Photography, Eastman Kodak; Conservation, John Deere; Foods-Nutrition, General Foods; Alumni Recognition, Olin Mathieson; Dog Care and Training, Ralston-Purina.

Fifty years ago there were only a few projects: growing tomatoes and canning them; growing corn and raising pigs to eat the corn.

SPONSORS that have supported 4-H for 20 or more years are: Armour and Company; Santa Fe Railway; Burlington Railroad; Milwaukee Railroad; Chicago & North Western Railway; Coats & Clark; Conrad Hilton Hotel; Cudahy Packing Company; Firestone; Illinois Central Railroad; International Harvester; Kerr Glass; Livestock Conservation Incorporated; Montgomery Ward; Sears-Roebuck Foundation; Westinghouse Educational Foundation; Wilson & Co.; Standard Oil (Ohio); General Motors; American Oil Foundation.

COLLECTIVELY they make the National 4-H Club Congress possible. One of the most coveted awards for the 4-H'er is the congress trip given to one boy or girl per state in a specific program. Altogether about 1,600 young people from 50 states travel to Chicago each fall to participate in this educational event.

Now is time to revive sick, weedy lawns

You may be able to revive a weedy lawn this August with a few simple renovation practices, according to James Beard, Michigan State University turfgrass researcher.

"Renovation may be the best procedure where the lawn is infested with high percentage of broad-leaved weeds and annual weedy grasses, but still has some perennial grasses present," he comments. "The cost and effort for renovation is much less than for complete re-establishment."

BEARD LISTS the following

1. Determine and correct the original cause of lawn deterioration. The soil should be tested for acidity, phosphorus and potassium.
2. Eradicate summer annual grasses (crabgrass, barnyard grass, sedge and foxtail) if present. Use disodium monomethyl arsonate (DMA) or ammonium monomethyl arsonate (AMA) according to the manufacturer's directions in two applications seven days apart. Control of annual grasses should be started three to four weeks before seeding--early August is best.

3. ERADICATE broad-leaved weeds if present. Apply 2,4-D or a related material according to the manufacturer's directions. Clover can be controlled with 2,4, 5-TP or related materials. Broad leaved weed control should be completed two to three weeks before seeding.
4. If the soil is very acid (pH below 5.0), correct with an application of lime.

5. For small areas, remove the dead vegetation and thatch by vigorous raking with a steel garden rake, so that the new seeding can come in contact with the soil. For larger turf areas, renovation machines are available for removal of old vegetation.
6. Apply 10 to 15 pounds per 1,000 square feet of 12-6-6, 12-12-12 or similar fertilizers, then water in thoroughly.
7. For small bare areas, rake to loosen soil for the seedbed. On larger areas a power spiker or aerifier can be rented for use in loosening the soil surface.
8. Seed the proper perennial grasses at one half the normal recommended rate and rake lightly. On larger areas spike twice following seeding. The seeding should be completed during the last two weeks of August. . . by Sept. 1.

9. WATER seedbed lightly and keep moist until the new seeding is established.
10. During the seeding and establishment phases, it is sometimes necessary to lower the mowing height to reduce competition between the existing grasses and the new seeding. As the new seedlings reach the lowered cutting height, the mower can again be raised to the normal level.

Hocked the Silver

A London housewife was granted a divorce on grounds of cruelty recently after testifying that her husband pawned the family cutlery just before guests arrived for dinner. "This was absolutely the last straw," she said.

Watch pesticides in feed

The Food and Drug Administration is stepping up its policing of chemical residues in milk and other food.

Aiding the intensified campaign is a new chromatograph so precise it has enabled the FDA to lower tolerances far below previous levels, Farm Journal reports. In the case of heptachlor, used to control alfalfa weevil, tolerance has been reduced to one-tenth the former level.

THE NEW device already has spelled disaster for a number of Maryland dairymen, who have been forced to dump their milk because of traces of heptachlor. Traces of heptachlor have been picked up not only in the alfalfa hay, but also in protein supplement, brewers grain, beet pulp, corn silage and wheat straw.

No one knows yet how long it takes for a cow to rid itself of all traces of heptachlor. But R.F. Davis, University of Maryland dairy scientist, has these suggestions to help dairymen:

1. Make sure feed is free of pesticides. Some colleges now test feed samples, so do commercial laboratories.
2. Dry off cows nearing the end of the lactation.
3. Where the pesticide level is near zero, flush cows with heavy feeding so they won't use body fat to produce milk. Heptachlor is stored in fat.
4. For higher levels of pesticide, cut back on grain so cows thin down and lose any heptachlor stored in body fat, then push feed to them again when the pesticide drops near the tolerance level.

State police plan auction

A children's swing and slide set, a sewing machine, a lawn mower, television sets and radios, and a five by six foot picture window are among about 1,500 items to be offered at the 10th annual public auction by the state police beginning at 9 a.m. next Thursday, Aug. 20, at department headquarters on South Harrison Road, East Lansing.

Other articles include boys and girls bicycles, a refrigerator, an outdoor motor, a space heater, a canvas tent, tools, cameras, rings, watches, clothing, hunting and sporting equipment, and car parts and accessories, tires and almost anything else a person might be interested in.

Dedication to his office brings praise for Lockwood

Many resolutions praising his work for the past two years of service in the Michigan Senate have been received by State Senator Emil Lockwood (R-St. Louis) and copies are being mailed this week to various groups in the new 30th Senatorial District. Dedicated to his duties to the point he never missed a Senate meeting, Sen. Lockwood is seeking re-nomination on the Republican ticket in the Sept. 1 primary.

SENATOR LOCKWOOD

Resolutions received recently include one from the St. Louis board of education, on which group he formerly served as a member, commending him for his efforts on behalf of Michigan schools. The city commission of Alma passed a similar resolution. From the Mecosta County sheriff and the county clerk, no longer in the senate district to be served by Sen. Lockwood, came letters adding their approval to the growing list congratulating the Senator for the tremendous job accomplished.

A certified public accountant by profession, he has served as a member of both the Senate taxation and appropriations committees but has also been active in the education and mental health fields of state finance. Long an advocate of a State Scholarship Fund, he played an important role in passage of this legislation and believes it can be expanded further. — Pol. Adv.

New bridges replacing old in Clinton County

The Clinton County Road Commission is running ahead of schedule on its 10-year plan for replacing primary road bridges in the county.

By the end of this year—with the lapse of 2 1/2 years on the plan—12 new bridges will have been all but completed. Thirty-three bridge projects were included in the original plan, some including two or three bridges.

FOUR BRIDGES will be replaced this year, according to Road Commission Clerk Don Ewing. One, the Wood Road bridge over the Looking Glass River in DeWitt Township, is presently under construction.

Completion date is Oct. 31, but Ewing said the contractor, Fry Construction Co. of Lansing, expects to get it done in September. Concrete abutments were poured within the last few weeks.

THREE OTHER bridges, all under one contract, will be built yet this year on Colony Road, replacing present narrow ones. Bids will be opened on the project Aug. 12. The bridges are to be open, according to specifications, by Dec. 15, with the entire project to be done by May 15, 1965.

The Wood Road bridge will cost $65,000. The three bridges on Colony will come to an estimated $75,337. Those on Colony will all cross the south fork of Hayworth Creek at various points.

THE COLONY Road project was a substitute for a bridge originally planned over the Maple River on Island Road near Elsie. That was shelved pending Maple River drain plans but is again on the commission's slate for tentative construction in 1965.

The Island Road bridge would be about a $110,000 project, Ewing said, and would be the biggest chunk of $180,000 to be spent next year on bridges in the county. Other tentative projects include a new bridge on Howe Road across the Looking Glass River in Eagle Township and a Shepardville Road bridge across the South Maple River drain in Ovid Township.

THE 10-YEAR plan developed in 1962 from a meeting with county road commissioners and the road and bridge committee of the Clinton County board of supervisors.

The most important conclusions reached were that one of the most critical needs in the road program was the construction of bridges and that the county appropriation for matching federal aid road funds should be used as much as possible on bridges.

The board of supervisors has, in each year since, appropriated $75,000 from the general fund (compared to $25,000 previously) and earmarked it for use with matching federal funds for bridge construction.

UP TO 1963, Ewing said, the county had federal aid funds in reserve totalling $123,844.31. It had not been used and was in danger of being turned back to the state for use by other counties.

When the supervisors made the $75,000 available, most of the federal aid money backlog was used in building six bridges in 1963. The $49,000 available in 1964 from the government will be added to what was left last year to help pay for this year's projects.

THE 10-YEAR plan started almost immediately with the supervisors' appropriation in 1962.

Road Commission Weekly Report

Among the 42 projects on which bids are being opened Aug. 12 at the Lansing Civic Center is Clinton County's project to replace three old narrow bridges carrying Colony Road over the South fork of Hayworth Creek.

These bridges are in Essex Township and are each about 50 foot spans. The contract for all three is estimated to run about $70,000.

COMPLETION date is May 15, 1965, but it is expected that the new bridges will be built and open to traffic this fall.

We were reminded that the summer was getting along last

Money wasn't available until 1963, but the road commission threw funds into the building of two bridges in 1962.

Those funds, Ewing said, were going to be saved until 1963 for use with federal matching aid then, but the road commissioners decided to go ahead as long as the board of supervisors would be helping out in the future.

SO, IN LATE 1962, two bridges were built with road commission funds and without any federal aid. They were on DeWitt Road over Stony Creek in Bingham Township and on Wacousta Road crossing Hayworth Creek in Essex Township. The Stony Creek bridge cost about $16,000.

One 1963 project was done entirely with county funds. That was on Forest Hill Road south of Colony Road in Essex Township where a narrow bridge was replaced with an eight-foot diameter tube. Total cost there was $5,000.

FOUR OTHER bridges built in 1963 were with federal matching funds, with the county paying half the cost and the federal government the other half. These projects were:

—Forest Hill Road, crossing Hayworth Creek in Essex Township. Total cost, $38,000.

—Upton Road, crossing the Looking Glass River in Victor Township. Total cost, $53,000.

—CLARK ROAD, crossing the Remy-Chandler drain in DeWitt Township. Total cost, $24,000.

—Forest Hill Road, crossing the Cox drain in Essex Township. Total cost, $23,000.

A SIXTH project completed in 1963 was a tube replacing an old plank bridge at the corner of Clark and Niles roads in Eagle Township. Total cost of this job was $5,000, half of which was paid by Eagle Township and the other half by the county.

Engineering for bridges makes up a good part of the total cost. This year, for example, the four bridge projects will cost a total of $6,314 in engineering fees and plans, Ewing said this is not an excessive amount. The G. L. McLravy firm of Lansing is engineering the bridge projects for the county this year.

"BRIDGE building is a big business," Ewing said. "We're making it a big business of ours in order to bring our bridges up to standards."

"The reason we're having to do it now is that all the pressure in the last 60 years has been on road building, with no attention being paid to keeping the bridge up. This has been a general tendency since the early part of the century."

Now, he said, steel on the old bridges is rusting and concrete is crumbling. The bridges will have to be replaced, in many cases, or else the roads will have to be closed, he said.

Ewing pointed out that many old bridges are solid and safe but are too narrow for safety. On primary roads, these are being replaced under the 10-year program. When the primary roads are also designated federal aid routes, which is almost always the case, federal money can be used to pay half the cost.

REPLACEMENT of bridges on local roads must come entirely from county funds, and Ewing said he feels that before the 10-year program has elapsed work will have to be started on local-road bridges, or else many will have to be closed.

week. We received notice that a shipment of 90 tons of rock salt for winter maintenance would be shipped in about four weeks.

TRAFFIC accident reports for June showed 167 killed in the month, which is five less than the 172 killed in June of 1963. Total accidents for the month stood at 21,590—an increase of 18 per cent over last year.

Traffic deaths for the first six months of this year were up 21 per cent over 1963.

FATALITIES in Clinton County to July 1 were four—an increase of one over 1963. Forty-two counties reported an increase in deaths and 27 counties had a decrease, while 14 counties were unchanged. The grim toll and high cost of careless driving continues to rise.

Clinton's Fair is unique among Michigan events

The enthusiasm of youth and the scores of new faces among the exhibitors are among the most important of the reasons for the continued success of Clinton county's 4-H Club Fair which opens next Monday at the city park here.

There is continuity in dedicated leadership, of course, but interest in the annual show is maintained because of the enthusiasm of new exhibitors and their ambition to do as well eventually as their older brothers, sisters and neighbors.

That's why, in its 27th year, the Clinton fair is truly "bigger and better than ever."

DON'T GO OUT to the fair grounds next week looking for carnival hoopla and commercial displays. You won't find them.

The Clinton exposition has never lost sight of the true purpose of a fair. It continues to be the show window of the work that 4-H youngsters have done during the past year. As such, it has no equal in any Michigan county and Clinton people can be proud that they have given it unqualified support over the years.

Take time to attend the fair and tour the exhibits next week. Your interest is the encouragement our young people need to help carry on the good work they are doing.

... And how fares that other Fair in New York

Speaking of fairs, as we were in the paragraphs above... how is the World's Fair doing? What's there to see? Are we missing something? Should we go?

The most popular reaction seems to be it's a Fair well worth the trip. In fact, report many, the big industrial pavilions alone are worth $2 spent at the gate. They're entertaining, they're educational, and just as appealing, they're free.

There are, of course, some grumbles to be heard, but most Fairgoing veterans have spotted the antidotes. There is a hotel problem (so choose a moderate-priced one and reserve well in advance), the Fair's high price of meals (study guidebooks, be selective, bring your own picnic), and the crowds. (No beating that one; it's the price of a popular spectacle.)

WHAT ARE the Things To See? The public's four-star ratings get pinned with striking regularity, it seems, on a nucleus of top ranking pavilions. The formula to fun, it appears, is General Electric, Spain, the U.S. automakers, and Johnson's Wax. The ingredients of these Fair hits vary widely. General Electric and the auto pavilions tempt visitors with peeks into the past and future. Johnson offers a delightful movie about the joys of living. Spain simply presents its cuisines, dances, and art treasures in the most tasteful of pavilions. But, for all their diversity, there is a common denominator—they all have something for everybody.

AT GENERAL Electric's Progressland, for instance, there's the treat of happy nostalgia for old folks watching Disney's incredibly real "audio-animatrons" recreate home life in the old days. Young homemakers are treated to the full elegance of today's all-electric living in a skit sparkling with fun and frolic.

Youngsters—wherein lies the future of progress—squeal with delight at G.E.'s mighty bang of nuclear fusion, then leave richer for knowing that what they saw may become the world's power source during their own lifetime.

So rolls on the Fair, accelerating from a slow start in a cold, damp spring to a steady summer pace of more than a million visitors a week.

"They Say the Scenery Here Is Wonderful!"

RAMBLIN' with Rink

BY LOWELL G. RINKER

Do you ever think about food? It's a common thing to do and most people do it a lot. Fortunately, the uncommon factor in thinking about food is not being able to do anything about it.

A week ago Sunday I happened to watch The Twentieth Century TV program which dealt with "We Feed Our Enemies." I enjoyed it—not because I liked watching people in bread lines, digging through garbage dumps, and fighting each other over food.

I ENJOYED it because it made me feel extremely lucky to be an American and be in a land of plenty where I've never had to go hungry. And it made me proud to live in a rich agriculture area which helps keep America strong.

As I said, I've been lucky I've never had to go hungry, and there's never been a problem of food in our house because of a lack of money or a lack of food itself. I can vaguely remember the late days of World War II when there was some rationing in effect. But Americans were lucky even then in comparison to the people in the countries where the war was being fought.

IT'S HARD for me to realize people scrounging through garbage dumps for scraps of food. But there were films of that. And it's hard to realize, living here in Clinton County, that there are Americans who are in just about the same straits.

Did you ever think about food? I mean REALLY think about it? About what it does for your body and mind, outside of just stopping the rumblings in the tummy?

FOOD KEEPS a person's mind active. Without it he can be driven wild by lack of it and will do things—he wouldn't do otherwise. He'll go to any means to get it. The means are many times shameful and revolting.

Unfortunately, there are countries in the world even today which are having food problems. Russia, for one, has turned to the United States for help in supplying food to its people.

SHOULD WE feed our enemies? That was a question put forward on the Twentieth Century program, and one on which there probably will always be debates. But one gentleman answered it this way: as long as we're Americans we'll share our food.

Coon Reciprocity

BY W. E. DOBSON

The coon family reunion Was held in my corn patch, They messed up umpteen dozen ears With neatness and dispatch.

I stood for all their carry'n' on, Night after darkened night, Before I called in officers To aid me in the fight.

A sturdy trap they brought me, And showed me how to set it— And told me if I caught one just— Release it and forget it.

Our conservation law you see, Protects our cunning friends, So catch 'em and release 'em The law says here it ends.

Of course they volunteered an out— I could cart it away, Before releasing it again For more sweet corn foray.

On other corn than mine you see Sir Coon could get his fill And who am I to disapprove? Some neighbor pays the bill!

Remembering the damage done In my own fine corn patch, I wondered at what neighbor's I'd be wise to pull the latch?

So it's a deep dark secret, Where the varmints were set free, Lest other coon so captured, Might all be dumped on me!

I wonder if our discipline In other fields today, Where punishment is needed, Is dispensed in the same way?

When rules are broken at a cost And someone the point belabors, Are we inclined to turn crooks loose To prey upon our neighbors?

A boom season in north country

Michigan's north country is buzzing like never before this summer. The hot spells in lower Michigan and throughout the midwest, coupled with general prosperity, have brought vacationers in greater numbers to the resort areas.

On a couple of short sorties to the northern vacationland in recent weeks I found, in talking with business people, that they had few complaints. This is unusual. It's been my observation over the years that folks who depend on the resort trade are often chronic complainers. Not so this year. Everything's fine and dandy.

EARLY LAST month we spent a weekend with the Dorr Andersons of St. Johns at their Higgins Lake place. It was the first time we'd ever spent more than a few minutes at Higgins and we were impressed with the lake and the tremendous activity there.

The Andersons have worked out a most satisfactory arrangement at their place. In addition to their own attractive cottage, they have a couple of comfortable rental apartment units on the property. These units bring in some income as well as providing overflow accommodations for the growing number of Anderson grandchildren.

The Higgins Lake territory is thickly populated with present and former Clinton County residents. Scores of families from this area own or rent cottages there and several operate year-round businesses on or near the lake. You don't travel far there without running into a familiar face.

LATE LAST month we took a couple of midweek days for a trip into the Potosky and Straits country. This is now the fastest developing resort section in the state. The money being spent for new facilities runs into the millions of dollars.

Except for short periods in late Fall and early Spring this northwestern Michigan area is enjoying steady tourist trade. The skiers take over during the winter months; trout fishermen open the Spring season; then comes the summer vacation trade, followed by folks to view the magnificent Fall colors and hunters after birds, small game and deer.

The larger ski resorts, like Boyne Mountain, Hidden Valley, Nub's Nob, Shanty Creek and others, are open summer as well as winter. All have swimming pools and nearby golf courses and at Boyne Mountain there's outdoor ice skating at a sheltered rink.

Back Thru the Years

★ Interesting Items from the Files of The Clinton County News

10 YEARS AGO From the Files of Aug. 12, 1954

Two barns were destroyed by fire Wednesday afternoon on the Gunnsville Road, a half mile north of the Bath Road. The first was at the farm of Dan W. Weiss, and flying embers apparently started the second barn fire at the farm of Floyd Rosecrans, which was located across the road, some 30 rods from the Weiss farm.

25 YEARS AGO From the Files of Aug. 10, 1939

Always a busy spot during the summer months, the St. Johns city park set a new season's record Sunday, Aug. 6, with 18 family reunions, six picnics and four ball games. These 27 events drew an attendance estimated at 3,000 people.

Residence building has enjoyed a considerable boom in St. Johns the past few years, and 1939 is no exception. Five new homes are now under construction here, two of them rapidly nearing completion.

Although several "dry holes" have already been drilled, hope of finding oil somewhere under Clinton County's surface has not yet been abandoned. The latest test is being made on the Locke farm in Watertown Township, about 4 1/2 miles southwest of DeWitt Village.

50 YEARS AGO From the Files of Aug. 13, 1914

Among the thousands of Americans who are in Europe and who may be held there many weeks because of entanglements of war are Mrs. Ella Butler Babcock of Ann Arbor, formerly of this place, and Miss Genevieve Forsburg, a few years ago a popular teacher here.

The annual picnic and rally of the Essex, Greenbush and Washington Farmers' Clubs will be held in Allen Smith's grove on Aug. 20.

A fine farm home belonging to George F. Baker of Victor was burned to the ground Sunday, the origin of the fire being unknown.

Flattery is the time-worn practice of sprinkling salt on the tail of vanity.

BOYNE HIGHLANDS, the new multi-million dollar promotion a little north and east of Harbor Springs, is still under construction. The big and beautiful main lodge is nearing completion and earth-moving machinery is much in evidence around the grounds.

Birchwood Farms Lodge, a new and comfortable motel resort located along the scenic drive from Harbor Springs north to Cross Village, is doing a thriving year-round business. The place is owned by Jack Davis, former Ford Motor executive, who also has interests in the Colonial Inn at Harbor Springs and Hidden Valley at Gaylord.

Without much question the best meal to be found in northern Michigan is the Thursday buffet dinner at the Colonial Inn at Harbor Springs. You need a reservation and men must wear jackets and ties. The $4.75 price per plate may seem a little high until you see the mountains of food it buys. And the service is superb.

IT IS RARE for St. Johns to have three changes among the clergy in three of our major churches within a period of months.

Since June, however, the community has welcomed three new men of the cloth—the Rev Hugh E. Banninga, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church; the Rev John E. Young, assistant pastor at St. Joseph's Catholic Church; and most recently, the Rev Gerald Churchill, new minister of the First Congregational Church.

All appear to be highly regarded by their congregations and the public at large and are worthy replacements for their respected predecessors. I'm glad to live in a town where churches, through the years, have played so important a role in the community and have worked together for the common good.

A strange coincidence involving one of the new clergymen—the Rev Mr Churchill—is the fact that his daughter and son-in-law, Capt. and Mrs Richard Haines and family, have just been transferred from Robins Air Force Base at Macon, Georgia, to the Elmendorf Base at Anchorage, Alaska. The Churchills came to St. Johns after two years of ministerial service at Anchorage.

It seems that Alaska can't get along without some of the Churchill family. The Haines and their three children have been visiting here this past week.

BILLBOARD CONTROL PAY-OFF

(From The Milwaukee Sentinel)

Wisconsin collected a dividend the other day for the controls the legislature imposed on billboards and other advertising signs along the interstate highway system. It was a check for $103,000.

By the time all 453 miles of "I" road in the state are finished, the amount will total about $1 million. It represents the "reward" of 1% of the 90% federal matching funds that congress provides for states whose restrictions over advertising along the I system meet federal standards.

THE REAL dividends from billboard control, however, will not be the extra dollars. They will be the increased pleasure of driving along uncluttered highways, the lovely vistas protected from ugly signs and the extra measure of safety the reduced number of signs will provide.

Receipt of the check should remind citizens that other highways are unprotected from billboard encroachment except as counties have imposed some restrictions and scenic easements have been obtained under the 10 year, multi-million-dollar recreation land program.

Yet these other highways need protection as much as, if not more than, the I roads do because their rights of way are narrower and they serve areas of the state that in general are more beautiful than those traversed by the I routes.

State employment racial study not conclusive

BY ELMER E. WHITE Michigan Press Ass'n.

A count of people in minority racial groups in state employment turned up some informative but less than conclusive figures.

The Civil Service Commission, which ordered the study and received the report, agreed that it "neither proved nor disproved the existence of racial discrimination."

Primarily aimed at determining where and how many Negroes hold state posts, the study included all non-white racial groups. It was prompted by Negro leaders' demands for equal employment opportunities for members of their race.

SINCE no racial classification was listed on employment records in past years, the study was largely dependent on supervisors' counts of employes in their jurisdiction.

It showed that 8.6 per cent of state employes are non-whites, slightly less than the 9.4 per cent figures of non-whites in the total state population.

In the southeastern metropolitan area, however, the percentage of non-whites on the state payroll is higher than the population rate in that area, the study showed.

MORE white employes receive promotions once they are in the state service, according to the survey. White workers also have a higher median pay than non-whites.

Commission members said

these conclusions could not lead to any generalizations about racial discrimination, however.

"There is no question that the Civil Service examination program discriminates against the less qualified candidates," the report said.

WITH THE education level among the non-whites generally lower than Caucasians, the Commission report said it could draw no conclusions on whether discrimination existed on criteria other than job capacity.

A similar study in the future could only be meaningful, the report said, if race were listed on the job application. This change is currently under study.

The racial designation would show how many non-whites apply for jobs and why they do not succeed in competitive examinations.

MICHIGAN consumers may soon see an end to the milk price war which has been waged over several years between grocers and dairymen.

Members of the dairy industry at the retail level have blamed much of the situation to the wholesalers, who they say have sold milk to grocers at lower prices than it can be delivered at home.

Wholesalers deny this, saying the grocers were at fault for selling milk below cost as a loss-leader item to get consumers into the store.

LOSS-leader milk prices in the grocery stores, nonetheless, have been putting retail dairies out of business at an increasing pace in the past five years or less.

BY ELMER E. WHITE Michigan Press Ass'n.

Legislative attempts to regulate dairy pricing methods have failed, largely due to opposition from all segments of the industry.

Now, Gov George Romney calls for strict industry regulation from its own membership, threatening government control if this is not forthcoming.

LOSS-leader selling results in demoralization of the industry involved, the governor said.

"When price is the only thing you're selling, you're on the way to real trouble, and in the long run it is the customer who pays for the trouble," he said in a meeting with industry representatives.

"We don't like governmental regulation," said Romney, "but if it is necessary we would require it."

LARGE figures cited to support little or nothing to the average man.

The increases in public school enrollments is one which is easily translated on a small scale because it effects every parent in Michigan.

The total figure involved, however, remains impressive. Experts tell us Michigan public schools have increased in enrollments by more than 55,000 annually in the last few years and will likely continue at this or an even greater pace.

"Looking backward"

BY IRA "Sawmill" BIRMINGHAM

Allow me to introduce Mr Tobias Bowser, a real gentle man dog, who has been with us for 12 years. His first mark of distinction was the day he was born, being one of a litter of 13.

His dam was a Collie, a top notch cow driver. His sire was an English Shepherd who gave him the pure grit I am about to tell you about. His first coon was only half grown, but so was Tobey. The next one was bigger but was killed and without help.

WHEN HE SAW me, he jumped to the ground and the fight was on, the coon squealing when bitten and Tobey yelping when the coon scored on him. In perhaps a minute, the coon was glad to climb a nearby tree. Tobey wanted to stay near for another chance, but I took him home. There were eight holes in his nose made by the coon's canine teeth, and next day the nose was swelled to twice normal size.

Across the road from our house is an old barn, now used for storage of farm implements by a local dealer. There is a partition of woven wire fence used when sheep were fed there.

THAT SPACE was full of hay balers and combines.

A couple of weeks after the fight in the brush, also after the coon hunting season opened, about sunset, there was a great commotion in the barn, Tobey barking his loudest, and my grandniece and nephew yelling to me to hurry over there. Just before I got there Tobey came out from under the machines, tall between his legs and crying in pain. He ran out of the barn and appeared thoroughly licked.

My nephew said he had seen some sort of animal, but couldn't tell what it was. I picked up a stout oak and climbed over the three foot woven wire fence. I promptly wished I was out side of that fence, for Mr Coon, having licked Tobey, came marching out at me. I knew I mustn't miss him, and I didn't. He weighed 18 pounds and was in good fighting condition.

IT WAS too early for good fur but I had heard that our local fur buyer would pay a little for coon carcasses, so the next morning when my wife said we needed some groceries, we loaded the coon and got one dollar for him. I asked the buyer what he was going to do with the coon and was told that the market was in Saginaw, near the Chevrolet foundry, where, because they can endure the heat, 2000 colored men work.

All that sounds good, for they must have colored cooks there, too.

Aerial circus of chimney swift enjoyable to watch

HAYDN PEARSON

When Day is about ready to slide over the horizon and shadows run long from fence posts and silos, chimney swifts stage their evening circus. The chimney swift is a true bird of the air; so far as scientists know it never rests on the ground.

It is good to sit on the screened farm porch and watch the aerial circus as the birds climb and dive, swoop and circle. One of its folklore names is Chimney Sweep, but it does not sweep chimneys. It sweeps the skylanes.

CHAETURA pelagica is not a bird of colors; its cloak is sooty black and it appears to have no tail. But with its long, curved wings and stubby rudder it mounts into the air and performs graceful acrobatic stunts.

For once, a native bird is well named, for scientists believe this is the swiftest of all our birds. It migrates back and forth from Brazil and it nests over a wide area of the nation. The nest is a rough platform of twigs, glued with the birds' sticky saliva to the inner walls of chimneys, caves, or hollow trees. The glossy white eggs look like large pearls when one peers down an old chimney.

THE CHIMNEY swift may resemble a "flying cigar" but in the air it is a symbol of grace as it executes intricate patterns of zigzags, curves, dives and climbs. And somehow, on a hot August evening as the countryman hears the birds twittering as they settle for the night, the familiar monotone notes blend with the thickening darkness on the land.

By Elizabeth Millman

More good fiction for hot summer days includes "The Rector of Justin" by Louis Auchinclose, "Accident" by Elizabeth Janeway and "This Rough Magic" by Mary Stewart, which have just arrived.

"The Rector of Justin" is a full length portrait of a rector-headmaster of a New England boys' school. It shows the whole workings of a private boys' school as well as the character of the master. The author, Louis Auchinclose, has written many fine novels and this one is one of his best.

ELIZABETH Janeway's new novel, "Accident," is the story of people who are forced to reconstruct their lives. A serious accident resulting in the permanent crippling of his friend brings the hero up to facing his responsibilities for the first time in his young, pampered life.

The results of the accident create a change in his parents as well as himself and restore the family to a more meaningful existence. The story progresses through the self-appraisal of each character and each one's analysis of the events as they occur.

IN "THE Rough Magic" we have a colorful suspense novel by Mary Stewart who excels in this type of story. This one has its setting on the Island of Corfu. In it we find mystery, suspense, violence, spirited characterizations, romance and unrelenting excitement all stirred up together to make "This Rough Magic."

Historical novels are always popular and Bruce Lancaster is one of the best liked writers of this type of fiction. His latest is "The Big Knives."

This is based on the life of George Rogers Clark and is a story of savage Indian raids on settlements in Virginia and Kentucky during the 1770's. Clark organized the Illinois detachment of the Western Army and the book follows his fight against the raiders.

LANCASTER gives his stories true historical backgrounds. Many readers have enjoyed his novels based on American history. His "Guns of Burgoyne" is an all-time favorite.

"The Wooden Horseshoe" by Leonard Sanders is a novel of men in high offices. The scene is laid in a Texas city where the struggle for power between those who would bring us law and order and those who cause chaos and evil is constantly being waged.

The book exposes the maneuvers made by men in public and

Shoppers inspect Sidewalk Sale Items

This was the common, crowded scene in downtown St. Johns last Thursday and Friday as thousands of shoppers checked over merchandise at the Sidewalk Days sale. The St. Johns Business Unlimited, sponsors, and merchants reported the sale to have been one of the best ever. Clear skies and moderately warm temperatures accentuated the merchants' sale offers.

private life for their own ends. One gets a new sense of one's responsibility as a citizen through the reading of this story.

Problems are created by the man who fails to plan his work.

Sidewalk Days furnish many opportunities

BY MABEL OPPENNEER

A lot of St. Johns homes are prettier, children are readier for school and women and men are better dressed since Sidewalk Days.

The weather man cooperated and the crowds were waiting when the stores opened Thursday morning.

THE EVENT is an opportunity for merchants to dispense with summer stocks and make space for incoming winter merchandise. And it gives homemakers an opportunity to replenish their linen supplies, find clothes for Mary and Johnny for school at a price they can afford and pick up a few knick-knacks for the home.

Not only that, but friends met that hadn't seen one another for some time. "Well, hello. Where have you been? Haven't seen you all summer," was heard 'round about.

IT'S A SAFE wager that a lot of husbands kept their real thoughts to themselves when their spouses brought home their prizes which included new shirts that they selected in moments of money-saving madness.

One woman picked up a handy, little, footed tray exclaiming, "Some of these would be handy to have in the car, wouldn't they, John?" But hubby took care of the situation real fast with "You'd never have them with you when you wanted them," and they left in search of greener pastures.

BY MIDAFTERNOON, supplies were limited, children were tired and shoppers were exhausted. Men who don't like to shop stood on street corners, first on one foot and then the other, awaiting their wandering wives.

Definitely, Sidewalk Days serve many purposes. All this—and fun, too.

Civic group promotes village improvement

BY MRS GEORGE THOMPSON

MAPLE RAPIDS—Once upon a time . . . in a cool green spot beside the Maple River . . . a village was born.

A village that was to grow from the first in its county to one of the most active and progressive, comparatively, in the state of Michigan.

Then, somehow, time slipped by and this same active village became more and more quiet.

THE RIVER boat stopped its regular run, the lumber mills closed, all but one of the six taverns, the clothing store, millinery shop, hotel, hostelry, blacksmith shop, harness shop, livery stable, boat building factory, feed mill, bank and newspaper businesses either ceased because of lack of need or chose other locations. Some were destroyed by fire, as was the high school building, and never replaced.

On Nov. 6, 1962, a group of civic-minded folk got together to do something about the situation. A committee was appointed to compose a charter and by-laws. On Oct. 1, 1962 the Maple Rapids Improvement Association was formed.

Things began to happen.

NEW businesses were established. Val's Tasty Freeze drive-in was built, Tony Wieber & Sons opened a new furniture store, Lyle Chick opened the Chick's White Rose Service Station, Fay Blackledge purchased and began operating the Rainbow Lake bus which makes one trip per day, five days a week, to Lansing.

Bob Upton invested in heavy duty earth moving equipment and kept it busy, Mrs Ted Powers began operating "Dawn's Beauty Shop." Of course, some of these may have begun anyway, but the M.R.I.A. could not help but feel there was a different attitude, a new enthusiasm.

THE citizens echoed the unanimous agreement of the Association upon one definite need in the community. A doctor must be found. A committee was appointed, plans made, and Dr William Steigerwald, his wife, Caroline, and their three little daughters became most welcome, and much-needed residents of the village on June 29.

The cooperation of individuals and groups were so gratifying it was decided to solicit their aid in a village homecoming. The last such event was in 1934. Everyone worked with such diligence and vigor that the event of Sept. 28, 1963 was successful in spite of pouring rain.

Once again the association decided to plan a homecoming.

THE CHOSEN day, July 18, was a full bright day with only an occasional promise of rain.

Lowell Rinker, Clinton County News photographer, was present to cover the day—but—"Rink" had lost his own camera and did not do as well as he had hoped with a borrowed one.

The result—one picture of Mr Ke-Ko the clown—which was duly appreciated by the children. This is understood for who else but Mr Ke-Ko would donate $10 of his own funds to be given to the children in change when he ran out of the huge supply provided by the association?

Who also but he could give a small boy a cherished memory because he sat "right next to him and helped him eat ice cream"; and make a little girl laugh with delight because he wiped away her tears. Mr Ke-Ko, who donates his time and his money, is just one example of the interest and cooperation lent to the efforts of the association.

MANY organizations participated by setting up booths. The Baseball Boosters sold hot dogs, barbecues and soft drinks; the PTA sold hamburgers, hot dogs and soft drinks near the Blue Star Mothers who took care of the dessert with home-made pie, ice cream and coffee. The Blue Star Mothers had fish ponds and a drawing. The first prize, a coffee urn went to Lyle Snyder, second, a sofa pillow, to Mrs Orrison Bailey, and the third, a rug, to Mrs Wilbur Bancroft. Three enterprising young men set up a game of skill of their own contrivance. Their money was contributed to a good cause through the advice of watchful parents.

UNDER THE auspices of the Maple Rapids Improvement Association, games of skill were operated. Those on the street were managed by Pete Blomaster and those in or near the municipal building were managed by Pete Warren. The M.R.I.A. sponsored the street dance to the records and calling of Wendell Law; imported rides for the children, gave a talent show and held a drawing.

A new organization, the Tri-Village Jr. Chamber of Commerce (Perrinton, Middleton, and Maple Rapids) contributed greatly to the excitement of the day by setting up a ball-dunking machine. Ronald Schafer, Gerald McVannel, Thomas Burr and Jack Schnepf, teachers of Fulton High School, made the game fun for the youth by permitting themselves to be dunked.

RAY FRICKE, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, joined the teachers. This group prepared to serve 600 chicken barbecue dinners. They did—all but three.

St. Martin Deporres Altar Society and the Woman's Society of Christian Service also contributed toward the activities of the day. The Sorosis Club arranged a collection of "long-ago" pictures in the display windows of Upton's Hardware and Wieber & Sons Furniture Store. Mrs John Brown and Miss Athol Gamble were co-chairmen on the Sorosis Club committee. Coach Lyman VanSickle arranged a baseball game between his Pirates and the Perrinton team—Perrinton won.

MR AND MRS F. Spears and Mr and Mrs Alvin Drummheller planned games and races offering prizes donated by the Blue Star Mothers. These young people are planning a more successful day for next year.

Mrs Helen Howe was director of the talent show. In spite of the fact that many of the children were away at church camp or vacationing, Mrs Howe managed an entertaining show. Pete Warren and his daughter, Leslie, began the show with a number of duets on the electric organ and piano. Lillian Hicks and Mary Brunner each played an accordion solo; the three Underwood sister, Linna, Janet and Carol, sang in trio; Curtis Swanson sang to his own accompaniment on the guitar; Charlotte Sanford and Leslie Warren did a song and dance routine to "Five Foot Two" attired in dresses of the flapper age and another number of their own origination.

THE KITCHENETTE Band of the St. Johns Senior Citizens played on their improvised musical instruments and sang several songs directed by Mrs Beatrice Rivard of St. Johns. The Senior group also played a comedy skit. Mrs Howe thanked everyone for sharing their talents under her direction.

Just before the talent show began, a slight young man in dark-rimmed glasses entered near the stage door. Mrs Howe stuffed a sheaf of paper into his hand and hurried on about her affairs. Perhaps the greatest reward he can be given for his effort as master of ceremonies is the confidence of the director when she said, "That is 14-year-old Fred Underwood. He hasn't seen the order of the program until just now. He can handle it." And he did. His announcements were interspersed with humor and good mimicry of famous persons.

THE DRAWING followed the talent show. First prize, a card table, went to Duane Rehm; second prize, a lawn chair, to Mrs Carl Ball; fourth, a $5 grocery order at Opal's & Milo's Market, to Mrs Frank Hogan; fifth, a $5 grocery order at Gleason's Grocery, to Mrs Dorothy Lentz; a special prize of five silver dollars donated by the Commercial National Bank of Middleton to Mrs Chauncy Moore.

The Fulton School Marching Band under the leadership of Donald Proko led the parade. Carl Eyer of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, assisted by Donald Allen, was in charge of the parade formation and route. Two ancient fire engines and cars were entered by the Lansing Antique Club. The business places represented were, Upton's Hardware, Ruth's Beauty Shoppe, Pete's Body Shop, the Warren's Body and Beauty Shop bowling team.

MODELS for Ruth's Beauty Shoppe were Nelda Rehm, Gloria Kidder, Charlotte Sanford, Diane Stephens, Lynette Camp and Vicki Harlow, who rode in one of the cars loaned by Pohl Brothers of St. Johns. The Blue Star Mothers marched bearing the colors. Twenty-eight decorated bicycles entered. The association awarded first, second and third prizes to both the boys and the girls and sent all 28 to Val's Tasty Freeze for ice cream.

An outstanding feature of the parade was the honor paid to Mrs Jennie Foss as the eldest citizen of the village. She was presented a corsage from the M.R.I.A. and a box of candy from the Wilbur Bancroft Garage.

MR AND MRS William Bird were cited as the eldest couple but were unable to ride in the parade. The eldest folk were determined through the efforts and investigation of Mrs Preston Corson. Mr Corson entered a float with a picnic table, his handi-craft, surrounded by his grandchildren enjoying a feast of watermelon.

Following the parade the Fulton School Marching Band assembled near the park for a concert.

Plans are already being made for next year's activities, improvement projects are being outlined and committees appointed for detail work. All this has come about because a group of interested people decided to do something worth while.

William Aldrich, Donald Allen, Harold Amis, James Bancroft, William Blomaster, Hubert Becker, Erland Gleason, Stanley Hicks, Milo Podolak, Harriet Scott, Joseph Sherman, Robert

Upton, Ruth Warren and Wheeler Wilson are among the leading workers.

Through their time and effort a village has begun to work together toward general improvement through civic interest, public relations, promotion of business interest, and clean-up which, after all, is the basic purpose of the Maple Rapids Improvement Association.

To be most useful, both to his electors and to his state, a representative in a law-making body like the State Legislature should be experienced in public service as well as the problems connected with law and law enforcement. A NEW ROAD

"Let's find a new road!" That's a game we play often when we take a family ride.

These little journeys of discovery have led us to some beautiful, serene sections of our community that we never would have seen if we'd stayed on the busy highway.

At times, life itself can seem like a crowded, noisy highway. The years rush by... we promise ourselves that some day we'll take the time to look around us and try to understand where we are and why... but worldly interests tend to fill every minute to the brim. We wonder why the pleasures that we work so hard to obtain fail to bring us happiness... and we sense that life has a deeper meaning, if we could find it.

The Church can guide you and your family to a new, wonderful road. Discover the warm fellowship, the renewed courage, the refreshing peace of mind that grow from membership in your neighborhood church.

Bride of year adjusts to life as farm wife

BY MABEL OPPENHEER

RHEUBOTTOM— On June 22, 1963, attractive, blonde Sally Pulling of St. Johns became the bride of a successful Rheubottom farmer and faced squarely the problems of transition to a successful farm wife.

She had misgivings about several things and many of her friends offered only discouragement. "You'll never like living out there away from everything. You'll be sorry," they said.

Now, a year later, Mrs Allan Boron is a happy farm homemaker and wife. She has learned a lot, through both happy lessons and sad ones.

"MY MOTHER was a very intelligent person," Mrs Boron said. "She taught me so much that not even she realized."

When Sally was 10, her mother taught her to clean her room. Lessons on homemaking continued until, finally, when her mother, Mrs J.D. Pulling became critically ill, Sally took care of the home for her father and brother until after her mother's death.

"I shall always appreciate my parents bringing me up the way they did, she said. "They gave me understanding, guidance and a practical education at home besides a college education."

ONE OF the greatest bugbears of her new home was the electric stove. She had been accustomed to cooking with gas. "The first three weeks," she exclaimed with despair, "I burned everything. I had no trouble with the oven but the adjustment of those burners!"

In her home, meals were scheduled at certain hours. "But, I never knew when Allan would be in for dinner," she said. "I'd plan on 6:30 p.m. and maybe it would be 9:30. Finally, I learned, during harvesting, to prepare foods with which I could make meals flexible."

Then there was the problem of how much to cook. "I started using a cookbook with Recipes for Two. This was no good."

"ALLAN works hard and needs a lot of food. I finally found a satisfactory solution. I cook for four. He eats three portions. I eat the fourth. It works fine."

Although she had never made a pie, she found that her husband was real fond of desserts. "My mother-in-law (Mrs Lewis Boron who lives around the corner) helped me out there," she said. "She called me one day and said, 'Sally, I have everything ready. Come on over. I'm going to help you make a peach pie.' Now, she makes all kinds of pies. She had many things to learn about the farm and her husband's father has patiently explained many of these things to her."

SHE LIKES her own cooking and is constantly fighting the "battle of the bulge" as most Mrs Americas does. But she has determination.

Gravy taste good? freeze it to keep

Ever have a gravy that you thought so good you hated to toss the leftover gravy away?

No need to. Just freeze it. First reheat it to keep down germs. Then, chill it quickly and pack it into regular freezer containers. Moisture-vapor proof containers will hold the gravy well for up to a few months.

honeymoon. Since they are both fond of sea food, they took advantage of the variety and abundance of it. She gained 15 pounds. But, she lost the amount in time to enable her to wear a desired dress to a wedding in October.

Mrs Boron believes that a successful marriage must be built on understanding, tolerance and faith in one another. Neither believes in divorce.

THEIRS was not a whirlwind romance. They started dating the day after their graduation from Rodney B. Wilson High School in 1959.

Sally had planned to attend college so she enrolled at Albion College for a year and graduated from Michigan State University in 1963. Next winter, she plans to start work on her masters degree in guidance and counseling.

Last year, she taught school at Owosso driving a round trip of 25 miles per day besides taking care of her home. She taught journalism and drama and was adviser for the school newspaper and year book and the director of school plays.

SHE IS historian for the Zeta Tau Delta Alumni Club at MSU and scholarship adviser to the college chapter.

She is also the new correspondent for the Clinton County News in the Rheubottom District.

She likes the quiet of the country and the animals on the farm. They both enjoy camping, tenting, outdoor cooking and canoeing. She recently took a large group of Girl Scouts on a canoe trip down the AuSable River.

SALLY BORON has acquired a fortitude to meet the problems of life. She has a charming home and appreciated that through the cooperation and hard work of both her and her husband, it came into being.

Concerned about this generation? An hour of conversation with Sally would give you new confidence.

A statue of Our Lady of Fatima talking to the three children, Lucia, Jacinta and Francisco, beautifies the lawn at the home of Mr and Mrs Julius C. Thelen of 211 S. Mead Street. They chose this particular statue because it was in the year of 1917 that the Lady of Fatima appeared before the children as they watched their sheep in the mountains near Lisbon, Portugal, and told them that "Prayer and Penance are the only and safest way to an abiding Peace." The Thelens were married in 1917 during World War I. The Blessed Lady told the children she would soon take Jacinta and Francisco to Heaven in answer to their request but not Lucia who had a mission here. She grew up to become a nun and is, reportedly, still living.

Blanching of corn is worth the extra time

BY BETTY KETCHAM
County Extension Agent
Home Economics

A. B. C. Always blanch corn, if you want corn at its best when you take it from the freezer this winter.

Short cuts you take now—will cost you flavor, aroma and texture later on.

I wish you could hear some of the reports I receive from people that did not blanch corn on the cob last year. This year they are going to blanch!

BLANCHING is important—it stops the growth of enzymes. Up until the time vegetables are ready to pick, enzymes help them grow and mature. After that they cause loss of flavor and color. If enzymes are not slowed down or stopped the corn can develop off flavors, discolor, or toughness.

Use a gallon of boiling water for each pound of prepared vegetable. Have the water boiling vigorously. A blanching basket or wire basket allows you to immerse and remove all the vegetable at once.

THE next step is cooling: This is important and should not be skipped. Plunge the basket of blanched vegetable into a large quantity of cold water. Change water frequently, use cold running water or iced water. Use about one pound of ice for each pound of vegetable.

Speed in processing any home canned or frozen food is important. For the best eating—the shorter the time from the field to the can or the freezer the better.

Keep it cool is also another good practice to follow—especially with corn. Pick your corn early in the morning and process immediately. If you buy corn keep it cool from the market to your own home by storing it in your beverage cooler.

CORN needs to be blanched different lengths of time according to whether it is cream style, whole kernel or corn on the cob. The size of the ear also determines the length of the blanching time.

Sleep Comes from Fort Michilimackinac

When a little girl gets tired, she practically goes to sleep with her clothes on. Or maybe it was because she liked her new hat, a vacation memento, that Kathleen, 3-year-old daughter of Mr and Mrs Lowell Rinker, 110 N. Lansing Street, wore it to bed. At any rate, the hat was still on and her teddy bear clutched close three hours after Mommy put her to bed.

Now's time to make fresh fruit desserts

With fresh fruits now plentiful, here are two recipes from the files of Mrs Raymond Locher of DeWitt that are timely and will please your family.

Fresh Cherry Dumplings

1 qt. sour cherries
2 cups sugar
2 cups water
Dumpling batter

Wash, stem and pit cherries. Put into a deep sauce pan. Add sugar and water. Cover and cook over medium heat for five minutes.

Drop dumpling batter by spoonfuls on top of cherries. Cover and cook gently for 20 minutes. Serve at once.

Dumpling Batter

1 cup sifted flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1/4 cup sugar
3 tbsps. butter
Grate rind 1/2 lemon
1/4 cup milk

Mix and sift dry ingredients; cut in butter, add lemon rind and milk, mixing quickly until just combined. Do not beat until smooth.

For cool eating try this salad

Warm weather calls for cool eating. Place shredded iceberg lettuce in salad or soup bowls; arrange drained canned crab meat, strips of cheddar cheese and tomato wedges on top.

Cut ripe olives into wedges; mix with salad dressing and a little lemon juice, crushed dried tarragon and chopped parsley with onion. Spoon into center of each salad. Garnish with whole ripe olives.

Watch for the sales on meats

When the meat retailer runs a special on large cuts, take advantage of the economy. He will be glad to cut the meat, custom-styled in sizes for your family.

If you like meats for broiling buy a full beef loin and have the following steaks cut in thicknesses to suit your family: sirloin steaks, small T-bone and club steaks.

Should you be pressed for freezer space, have the beef loin cut into boneless steaks as follows: boneless sirloin steaks, filet mignon (tenderloin), top loin steaks (New York strip steaks or Kansas City steaks).

Either type of cutting will also give you packages of ground beef to be used for grilling out-of-doors as well as in the kitchen.

Cuts fish odor

When washing dishes that have been used for fish, use one tablespoon of ammonia in the water to make sure no fish odor remains.

Office for a copy of the USDA bulletin—Home Freezing of Fruits and Vegetables.

Raspberry Pie

1 unbaked pastry shell
3 cups raspberries
1 1/4 cups sugar
1 tsp. butter
1/4 tsp. salt
2 tbsps. minute tapioca

Mix berries with sugar, salt, tapioca and butter. Pour into pie shell and cover with top crust. Bake at 425 degrees for 10 minutes; lower the temperature to 350 degrees and bake 35 minutes longer.

Fresh fruit is wonderful in desserts

A chilled combination of spiced fresh fruit and choice canned fruit is a wonderful dessert after a heavy meal; or as fruit course to start off a Sunday morning brunch, or a tasty mid-evening snack.

Make a spiced syrup with sweet whole spices; add the fruit and chill until serving time. Two or three fruits should be used which are different in color and shape, with crisp, honey flavored cereal added for texture.

THIS time of the year there is a wide variety of fresh fruit to pick from; bananas, blueberries, strawberries, cantaloupe, honeydew, water melon, pitted cherries, grapes, oranges, exotic papaya, mangoes, pineapple and plums, and of course canned pears and apricots.

For a dramatic effect, cut the fruit into slightly larger than bite size pieces and serve in a simple glass bowl which will show off the natural beauty of the summer ripened fruit.

SPICED SUMMER COMPOTE (Serves 4-6)

1/3 c. sugar
3/4 c. water
1/3 c. wine vinegar
1/2 tsp. whole allspice
1 tsp. whole cloves
3 2-inch sticks cinnamon
Thinly pared rind from 1/2 lemon
1 tsp. tarragon leaves
2 tbsps. fresh lemon juice
1 quart mixed fruit
2 c. rice honey breakfast cereal
1 pint Ricotta cheese

Combine first 8 ingredients in saucepan; cover and simmer gently 20 minutes. Strain. Add lemon juice. Pour over fruit.

Cover and refrigerate 5 to 6 hours. Just before serving, drain thoroughly. Toss with rice cereal and serve with Ricotta cheese.

Turn bedroom into a cozy, quiet retreat

Turning a bedroom into a private retreat for adults of the family is more than just a question of rearranging furniture. To become a sitting room and a place for private moments away from the rest of the family, it must provide furnishings for such things as writing, reading, television, enjoyment of music, and bedtime snacks.

DECORATING experts have found you can have all this and super-size bedding, if you plan judiciously. A super size mattress adds only about six inches to the bed's length and less than two feet to its width—an insignificant difference in floor space when measured against the increased comfort and rest you will enjoy.

WHEN BUYING bedding, get the best quality. Thousands of nights of restful sleep are at stake, and when you amortize the purchase over the years you'll use a mattress, the cost comes down to only a few cents a night. Most outsize mattresses, which require adequate strength and support, are of cotton inner-spring construction and are preferred by nine out of ten buyers, according to a government survey.

Brighten the hamburgers for small fry

Whatever the age of your youngsters, they'll go for these surprise hamburgers. And you'll have fun watching their expressions as you serve up a plateful of hamburgers with funny faces.

These hamburgers are just the thing to brighten a birthday supper or teenage get-together.

Make the hamburger patties just as you usually do—with crumbs, an egg, and seasonings. Pan fry or broil them. Then, just before serving, add the funny faces.

OLIVES or slices of tiny onions held in place with a clove make the eyes. Use celery pieces for eyebrows and ears. Put on a peanut nose, or a nose made of cheese or pimento. For a mouth, use a cheese or pimento strip and if you want a tongue sticking out—add a two-inch piece of cooked carrot.

Cover and refrigerate 5 to 6 hours. Just before serving, drain thoroughly. Toss with rice cereal and serve with Ricotta cheese.

Ovid musician chosen again for honors band

OVID—Dennis Borton, president of the 1964-65 Ovid High School Band, recently received notice that he has again been accepted in the Michigan State Fair Honors Band.

Membership in this band is determined by tape recorded auditions which were forwarded to Detroit in June. Last spring Dennis, a drummer, received a first division rating in the State Solo and Ensemble Festival in Grand Rapids.

THIS IS the third consecutive year that Ovid has been represented in this organization. In 1962 Lucelia Warren, bassoonist, was selected from Ovid and last year, Dennis.

Bandsmen will leave for Detroit Wednesday morning, Aug. 26, and return after the final concert Aug. 30.

Honors band members are the guests of the state fair board, their only expense being their transportation to and from Detroit.

These young musicians will be housed and fed in one of Detroit's finest downtown hotels.

THE BAND will present five concerts in the state fair music shell following a rehearsal schedule exceeding four hours each day.

He will return to Detroit again on Tuesday, Sept. 1, as a member of the Ovid Senior Band. He is the son of Mr and Mrs Chester Borton of East Oak Street.

Ovid to have new apartments

OVID—An eight-unit apartment house was started this week in Ovid by Charles Snider and Richard Dougherty, Lansing builders, on land recently purchased from Robert Lawrence.

The apartments will be de luxe, single, balcony bedroom apartments with complete kitchens and will be unfurnished. Work is expected to be completed about the last of September. Rentals are now being accepted by Tony Stinocrop, who is acting as rental agent.

THE HEART-BEET OF MICHIGAN

During 1963 Michigan farmers harvested and delivered over one million tons of beets to the state's five sugar factories for processing. This crop produced over 279,000,000 pounds of pure sparkling sugar for sale exclusively in Michigan during the current marketing year.

In an average year, the beet sugar industry of Michigan will derive from $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 from the sugarbeet crop. From this crop Michigan sugarbeet growers will receive approximately $15,000,000 in company and conditional payments.

These dollars which the sugarbeet growers and processors of this state receive for sugar produced in Michigan affect economic units all around their own horizons and far beyond Michigan's 17 county beet producing area. Remember, every time a sugar beet grows—so does Michigan.

Bath family reports an exciting vacation

BY MRS ALICE LOOMIS

BATH— Your correspondent and family have returned from a 3-week vacation.

My husband, Wayne, two sons, Steve and Mark, and I left July 11 in our pickup camper. We drove to Niagara Falls that day in time to see the falls illuminated that night.

After spending two days at the falls we drove on to New York City and to the World's Fair. We were at the fair all day Friday and Sunday.

THE EXPERIENCES of being able to go to the World's Fair are almost undecipherable. We had been told that some of the pavilions had long waiting lines so we were concerned about being able to get into the ones we wanted to see. By being at the gates when they opened, we were fortunate in being able to get into the two busiest pavilions with only a combined wait of 40 minutes. These pavilions were General Motors Futurama and Ford Rotunda. Some of the other pavilions we went through are Bell Telephone, General Electric, Chrysler, Alaska, Eastman Kodak, House of Formica, Coca Cola, Boy Scouts, United States, Illinois, New Mexico, SoconyMobil, Sinclair, Protestant and Orthodox Center.

Each of these pavilions had its own story to tell and its different architectural design.

OF COURSE, for us, as for every fair goer, one main attraction was the Unisphere. This is a 12 story stainless steel model of the earth, in the center of the fair. It is surrounded by fountains and is one of the most beautiful things we have ever seen. The Unisphere is the symbol of the Fair, "Peace through Understanding."

On Saturday our day was spent sight-seeing in downtown New York City. We took the boat trip around Manhattan Island, went up to the 102nd floor of the Empire State Building and numerous other things.

FROM New York we drove to Washington D.C. where we were able to tour the Capitol Building, were able to see the Senate in action and also the House of Representatives, as well as the beautiful architecture of the building.

While in Washington we also saw the Washington Monument, Lincoln Memorial and Jefferson Monument.

WE WERE, however, unable to visit the White House because of visiting foreign diplomats. Also while in the Washington area we visited Mount Vernon, Arlington Cemetery, where we saw President Kennedy's grave and the tomb of the Unknown Soldier and changing of the guard.

Upon leaving Washington, we drove to the Shenandoah National Park in Virginia. We drove on the Blue Ridge Parkway all the way from Shenandoah in northern Virginia down through North Carolina to the Great Smoky Mountains National Park in Tennessee.

After leaving the Smoky Mountains we drove straight up through Kentucky and Ohio and southern Michigan to our home, arriving Friday, July 31.

The only important stop we made was to visit the American Museum of Atomic Energy in Oak Ridge, Tenn.

We all thoroughly enjoyed our vacation and the interesting things that we saw while we were gone.

Bath Township picks workers for election

BATH— The board of canvassers for the forthcoming election at Bath will include Mrs Henry Miller, Mrs Albert Stanke, Mrs Donald Richey and Mrs Vern Barrett. The names of election workers were withheld by the Bath Township Board pending their notification.

Appointments were made at the meeting of the board. The George McPhail Insurance Agency of Laingsburg was approved to handle the township insurance.

TOWNSHIP Clerk Lee Reasoner reported that 100 new voting registrations have been placed for the primary election. He also gave a report on the Pleasant Hill Cemetery. A new fence has been installed around the cemetery.

The board approved to purchase a 5-gallon-per-minute pump for the fire department. This pump will be mounted on the new fire pickup. A new set of tires for the township police car was also approved.

Kin are reunited after 52 years

BATH— James McConnell, 76, of Britton Road, Laingsburg, who spends most of his time at the home of his daughter, Mrs Walter Clark of 6873 Clark Road, has visiting relatives from Toronto, Canada.

They are his nephew, Vernon Cooper, whom he hasn't seen for 52 years, and his niece and her husband, Mr and Mrs Graham Elliott, whom he has never seen. The visiting relatives are staying with Mrs Clark. They left for home Aug. 8.

Mr and Mrs Douglas Wagner and sons spent several days at the county park near Muskegon, on the shore of Lake Michigan.

Mr and Mrs Herman Heiden and family spent the past week camping out at Burk Lake with friends and former residents of Bath, Mr and Mrs Gerald Pullman and daughters, now of Alma.
