Alma man new assessor

St. Johns will have a full-time assessor again Jan. 1 after being without one for about six months.

The City Commission Tuesday night passed a resolution appointing Donald Clark of Alma to the position. He will fill the vacancy left by Kenneth Greer when Greer was appointed city manager in August.

CLARK, 34, MARRIED and the father of five children, is presently deputy assessor at Alma. He was appointed to that position in 1961 after serving as Alma city treasurer for four years.

Clark served with the United States Army for two years, being released in 1953. He attended Central Michigan University at Mt. Pleasant, where he received his bachelor of science degree in 1957.

administrators have taken and are taking.

HE HAS completed a course in municipal finance administration through the International City Managers Assn. and is now taking a course in personnel administration. These are the same courses which City Manager Greer and several other city

Clark was born in Alma. He has been active in the Alma Jaycees for the past five years and is presently that group's first vice president. He is also the institutional representative for Troop 108 of the Boy Scouts at Alma.

Local man's hip broken in crash near Grayling

A St. Johns driver suffered a broken hip Saturday afternoon in a two-car crash on US-27 between Grayling and Houghton Lake in Rosecommon County.

Robert F. Salters, 45, of 1009 S. Clinton Avenue, was in "fair" condition Tuesday at Mercy Hospital in Grayling with a broken hip. His wife Geraldine, son Terry, 12, and his father Marshall Salters were bruised and bumped in the crash. They were treated at the hospital and released.

STATE POLICE reported a car driven by Maynard L. Castle Jr.,

21, of Saginaw came off a side road, stopped for the highway, and then started across, apparently not seeing Salters' southbound car approaching. Castle's car hit Salters' broadside.

A passenger with Castle, Howard Hodges, was also injured.

Castle was issued a ticket for failure to yield the right-of-way.

THE SALTERS family had been to their cottage near Grayling and were coming home to St. Johns when the accident happened about 4:30 p.m. Saturday.

HE WILL serve on the Clinton County board of supervisors, the St. Johns city charter specifying that the assessor is automatically one of the city's representatives. Besides being assessor for real and personal property tax purposes, he will be zoning administrator, building inspector and office manager.

The appointment of Clark as assessor came after a long, close look at a number of applicants by the city commission. The job has been open since Greer's appointment to his present post in August. Prior to that, Greer had held the job of assessor for seven years—fulltime until June when former City Manager Ralph Precious resigned. Greer was active city manager from then until August, handling both the manager and assessor jobs.

An 11-year-old boy suffered cuts and bruises when struck by a car on Airport Road in Essex Township Friday afternoon.

THE ACCIDENT occurred in front of the Joseph Plaza home at 3464 N. Airport Road, where the boy was spending the day. He apparently was running behind a pickup truck driven by his uncle. When the truck turned north on Airport Road, the boy dashed across the road and into the path of a car driven by Casper A. Feldpausch, 27, of R-1, St. Johns.

Feldpausch was traveling south on Airport Road when the accident happened about 1:15 p.m.

Set meeting on DeWitt city status

A public meeting will be held in DeWitt next Tuesday night to explain plans for the incorporation of that village as a city. Voters will go to the polls Dec. 15 to decide on the question.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the high school gymnasium. The village council will conduct the session, which is designed to inform the citizens of DeWitt about the proposition and to answer questions they may have.

JOHN J. HUNNEWELL of the Michigan Municipal League will be present to help answer questions.

If voters approve incorporation as a city, DeWitt would become a separate legal entity from the township and would be eligible for two members on the county board of supervisors. The boundaries of the village would be the boundaries of the city.

ALSO TO be voted on Dec. 15 will be selection of nine members of a charter commission. Should the incorporation of the city be approved, the nine members will write the new charter for submission to the people.

Deadline for filing nominating petitions as candidates for the commission was Tuesday at 4 p.m., and at that time 15 persons had filed. Village Clerk Ray Price listed them as: Richard Keck, Lloyd Berkimer, Paul Mulford, Robert Ballard, Marshall Warren, John Lenneman, Mrs Virginia (Vernon) Ackerman, Lawrence Keck, Orla McGuire, Howard Woodruff, Lawrence Ridsdale, Lee Rummell, Keith Blizzard, Arthur Newman and Don Steavens.

Pohl Brothers sell auto agency

The sale of Pohl Brothers Chevrolet-Olds Co. to Bernard Feldpausch, a 20-year employee of the firm, was announced this week by George and Herman Pohl, operators of the business since 1924.

Feldpausch, 40, has been a partner with the Pohls for the past 10 years.

With the change in ownership also comes a change in the business name. It will be known as Bee's Chevrolet and Oldsmobile, Inc.

Officers of the new corporation are: Feldpausch as president; Adeline Feldpausch, his wife, vice president; Casper Feldpausch, secretary and treasurer; and Carl Ludwick, Francis Feldpausch and Gayle Stevens, board members.

THE CHEVROLET and Oldsmobile agency, located at the corner of Higham and Brush Streets, employs 31 persons and has grown in the past 40 years to the extent that about 800 new and used cars are sold each year. The Pohl Brothers, during their 40 years at the helm of the business, sold approximately 15,000 cars and trucks. For 20 years they also sold and serviced Allis Chalmers and J. I. Case farm machinery.

Feldpausch, as president and general manager of Bee's Chevrolet and Oldsmobile, Inc., has practically life-long experience in automotive work. He was born and raised on a farm south of Fowler and attended high school at Fowler. For two years he operated a farm repair shop on his father's farm.

Herman, George Pohl sold 15,000 cars in 40-year span

On Oct. 24, 1924—40 years ago—George and Herman Pohl purchased the Chevrolet agency in St. Johns from the Whittaker brothers. Since then they survived a fire, depression and the normal business problems to build the successful auto agency that has borne their name.

In their 40 years, they sold approximately 15,000 cars and trucks.

POHLS STARTED out with the Chevrolet agency but soon added Oldsmobile to their line. A few years later they represented Allis Chalmers and the J. I. Case line of farm machinery in the St. Johns area, and were dealers for that machinery for about 20 years.

Prior to coming to St. Johns, George Pohl was in the threshing and farming business, and Herm was connected with the factory branch of the Oakland Motor Car Co., selling cars in the Lansing area. This car was later renamed Pontiac. George and Herman also were building and selling homes and store buildings in Lansing.

A DISASTROUS fire leveled the old building in which they operated on Jan. 29, 1929. For the next 16 months Pohl Brothers operated in the old Triangle Truck building. In 1929 they sold 873 new and used cars and trucks from that location. The same building later was occupied by Saylor-Beall Corp.

The present location at Higham and Brush streets was purchased by the Pohl brothers, and a new building was erected and moved into in June 1931. Additional space was purchased on Brush Street from Clark, Beach and Aultman, and a new building of 50 by 150 feet was erected. It is now used for servicing cars.

SOME YEARS later the north corner was purchased from the Roosevelt Oil Co. and used for clean-up and parking space. In 1962 the old home on the northwest corner of Brush and Railroad streets was purchased from Mrs Maude Zacharias. The house was removed and the lot used mostly for storage of new cars and trucks.

Both Mrs George (Zora) Pohl and Mrs Herman (Genevieve) Pohl worked side by side with their husbands in the operation of the business through the years, which included the depression.

GEORGE POHL and his wife lives at 204 E. Cass Street. He spends most of his time looking after his other interests and at his cottage at Houghton Lake where he enjoys fishing and the summer outdoors.

Herman Pohl, his wife and a niece Judy Fox live at 511 S. Oakland Street. Their daughter Karen is married to Barry Knight, son of the William Knights, and they live at 805 Hampshire Drive in St. Johns. Herm Pohl spends his time looking after his other interests, enjoying his two grandchildren and being at his cottage at Crystal where he tries to beat someone at the game of golf in the summer.

Yuletide fantasy theme for senior prom Saturday

Saturday night juniors and seniors at Rodney B. Wilson High School in St. Johns will take time out from studies and other usual weekend activities for the social event of the Christmas season—the senior prom.

AN ADMISSION charge will be made for the first time this year because of the higher cost of putting on the prom and the generally lower funds of the classes.

Cronkrite said, however, that the seniors were making all of the decorations themselves and that none of it was bought outright as in past years.

OFFICERS OF the senior class are heading up the arrangements for the prom, but there are other committees in charge of specific functions. The officers, in addition to Cronkrite, include Dennis Whitlock, vice president; Betsy Hufnagel, secretary; Cathy Salters, treasurer; and Dennis Becker, John Vitek, Molly Sapp and Mary Witt, student council members.

Committees and their members are: bandstand, Terry Allen; hall, decorations, Ted Bedell and Jean Foote; food, Rosemary Motz and Terry Cornwell; favors, Sue Humphrey and Ron McLuckie; entrance, outside and gym, Celia Ebert, Ken Love and Candy Lyman; gym decorations, Debbie Wirick, Kay Hendershot, Roger Eaton, Janice Eldridge, Janice Miller, Bob Vollbracht and Gary Crawley.

Car hits window at Launderwell

An 11-year-old girl apparently started her mother's car and put it in gear last Wednesday, and the auto smashed the plate glass window at the Launderwell laundry in the Plaza Shopping Center.

Mrs. Ellen Jumper of R-6, St. Johns, had left her daughter, Christine, 11, in the car just before the accident. It happened about 5:05 p.m.

Ticket driver for running stop sign

A rural Elsie man was charged with running a stop sign Monday afternoon after a two-car crash at the corner of Oakland and McConnell streets in St. Johns.

City police ticketed Arthur C. Porubsky, 20, of R-2, Elsie with running the stop sign. He was going east on McConnell and reportedly did not stop at Oakland, pulling in front of a southbound car driven by James M. Grost, 37, of 110 S. Oakland Street.

No one was hurt. The accident occurred at 12:20 p.m. Monday.

3 Clinton youths in national Derby booklet

Booklets describing plans Soap Box Derby directors should follow for 1965 include pictures of three Clinton County youths.

One picture shows Allan Smith of Westphalia, this year's county winner, with hands clasped above his head in a victory pose. Another shows Jim Theuerkauf, runnerup, and John Tatro, winner a year ago, talking with Terry McDermott, Olympic Gold Medal winner, at this year's Derby in Akron, Ohio.

Bernard Feldpausch, director of the Clinton County Derby, said the booklets are mailed out by Chevrolet, national sponsor of the derby, to derby directors all over the country and world. The boys are not identified by name in the pictures, but Clinton County appears on the T-shirts of all.

Santa coming back Saturday

Santa Claus won't be content with his one visit to St. Johns last Saturday. He's planning three more before Christmas so that children can talk to him.

Santa will arrive in St. Johns each Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, being carried on a float and accompanied by a small band. He'll make his St. Johns headquarters next to Jim's Insurance office on Clinton Avenue. He'll stay there between 3 and 5 p.m. to talk with children and to pass out candy.

Falls asleep, car crashes

Donald Hartenburg, 18, of R-2, St. Johns, was taken to Clinton Memorial Hospital after his car ran off the road and crashed on Airport Road about 1 a.m. Saturday.

He reportedly suffered cuts and bruises. Deputy Sheriff Ramon Terpening said Hartenburg fell asleep at the wheel of the car. The accident occurred on Airport Road a quarter-mile north of Pratt Road in Riley Township.

Sparkling idea

Sparkling water is used to perk up laggard oil wells. When the level of a well drops so low that pumping the oil becomes a problem, water charged with carbon dioxide is injected into the well, forcing the oil closer to the surface. This is called "water flooding" and helps in further developing oil supplies.

New Catholic bishop to be installed at Lansing Dec. 15

Michigan's second largest Catholic Diocese will welcome a new bishop at colorful ceremonies to be held in St. Mary's Cathedral in Lansing Dec. 15.

Auxiliary Bishop Alexander M. Zaleski of Detroit will be formally installed as coadjutor bishop and apostolic administrator of the Lansing Diocese to succeed retiring Bishop Joseph H. Albers.

BISHOP ALBERS, who was named first Bishop of Lansing when the Lansing Diocese was established in 1937, asked to be relieved of his administrative responsibilities because of his health.

The Lansing Diocese is the smallest in the state in area next to Detroit but has the second largest Catholic population. More than 200,000 Catholics live in the 15-county diocese.

COUNTIES IN the Lansing Diocese include Berrien, Branch, Calhoun, Cass, Clinton, Eaton, Genesee, Hillsdale, Ingham, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Livingston, Shiawassee, St. Joseph and Van Buren.

Archbishop John F. Dearden of Detroit, upwards of a dozen bishops and several hundred priests from throughout Michigan will attend the installation ceremonies.

Slides on ice into 2nd car

A car slid on slippery pavement through a yield right-of-way sign Saturday afternoon and collided with another at the corner of Ottawa and Walker streets in St. Johns.

William C. Buehler, 63, of R-5, St. Johns, told city Police Officer Edward Teachout he tried to stop at the corner but couldn't. He was driving north on Ottawa and slid into the side of a car going east on Walker.

The second car was driven by William R. Ortwein, 21, of 604 N. Lansing. Neither driver was hurt. Buehler was ticketed for failure to yield the right-of-way.

BISHOP ZALESKI, who was ordained a priest in 1931, was named auxiliary bishop of the Archdiocese of Detroit by Pope Pius XII in 1950 and was consecrated bishop on May 23 of that year by the late Edward Cardinal Mooney.

Announcement of his appointment as coadjutor bishop of the Lansing Diocese was made by Pope Paul VI on Oct. 14 while Bishop Zaleski was in Rome attending the Ecumenical Council.

BISHOP ZALESKI has served as vicar general of the Archdiocese of Detroit since 1954 and has been pastor of St. Alphonsus Church in Dearborn since 1956. Prior to 1956, he served as pastor of St. Vincent de Paul Church in Pontiac for seven years.

THE DIOCESE has 97 parishes, missions and chapels with 208 priests.

In the field of education, the Lansing Diocese has 92 elementary and high schools with a student enrollment of 37,000.

The Catholic population of the Lansing Diocese has tripled from 68,000 to 204,000 since it was established 27 years ago.

AUXILIARY BISHOP M. Joseph Green of St. Johns will assist Bishop Zaleski in the administration of the Lansing Diocese.

More than a million-and-a-half veterans may not know that they are eligible for the re-opening of GI insurance, Veterans Administration officials say.

They are those whose disabilities, although adjudged to be service-connected, are so slight that they do not rate monthly compensation payments.

THE FACT, however, that their disabilities are service-connected makes them eligible to apply for National Service Life Insurance.

Robert M. FitzGerald, VA's regional manager for Michigan, explained that the VA has no way to trace these individuals to notify them of their eligibility. Veterans receiving compensation checks, on the other hand, can be notified through the mails.

THE MAJORITY of these million-and-a-half veterans have lost complete touch with VA, since there was no reason to notify the agency of their whereabouts.

VA records show, however, that 1,600,000 veterans of World War II or the Korean Conflict period have been adjudged service-connected in a non-compensable category.

THE VA IS enlisting the aid of patriotic, military and other service organizations in an effort to reach these veterans who may otherwise never learn of the opportunity to obtain the GI insurance coverage that they either failed to take during service or allowed to lapse all or in part, since that time.

These veterans are probably entitled to the lowest insurance rates under the re-opening plan since their physical impairments are of such a slight nature, VA officials said.

VETERANS interested in the re-opening of the GI Insurance Program may obtain a general information sheet by telephoning, writing, or calling at the Veterans Administration Regional Office, 210 Gratiot Street in Detroit.

The telephone number is 963-4900.

Workmen were competing with rain and cold Friday when this picture was taken at the new Ashley Corp. plant under construction at the northwest edge of Ashley. The steel fabricating plant is on schedule in construction. Steel which men are putting up was brought in on a railroad siding installed about two weeks ago.

Ashley area busy preparing for expected population boom

While steelwork rises on the Ashley Corp. factory at Ashley, residents of the Gratiot County community are already busy preparing for the planned opening of production next spring.

Several zoning changes have already been approved to make way for new residents expected to come when the Ashley Corp. hires about 200 employees for next spring. The Sadler addition has been platted at the northeast edge of the village and rezoning has also been approved for a new trailer park.

THE SADLER addition is over a block in size, and two homes in it are already under construction. The Saylor Trailer Court, two blocks west of the business district, will have room for 32 trailers.

One realtor said houses in the immediate Ashley area are practically impossible to buy at this time and there are few building lots left.

ed hard to get the steel fabricating firm to locate there, said Friday the firm will soon begin taking names of persons for their employment list. He said training classes are scheduled to start in January for persons who will be working at the plant. He said the classes would be held regularly for about a year before all personnel expected to work at the plant will be fully trained.

He said he understands classes will be at the high school for instruction in welding.

THE NEW $400,000 fabricating plant is located on a 15-acre site in the northwest corner of town. It fronts on the Ann Arbor Railroad near the intersection of the Grand Trunk Western Railroad. A railroad siding has already been constructed at the site, and steel for the building is coming in by rail.

"Everything is on schedule," Dr Berndt reported, "and in fact possibly a little ahead of schedule." He said the Ashley Corp. officials have expressed pleasure with the way work has been going and with the way the community is responding.

THE INITIAL work force at the plant will be around 200, but projected employment figures reach to about 500. Ashley's present population is around 400.

Finds balloons, card released from Wisconsin

Gene Schneider of Green Road in Olive Township was hunting in the woods last Tuesday when he came across a balloon hanging in a tree. He pulled it down and found attached to it a postal card wrapped in plastic, identifying it as a science project at a Racine, Wis., junior high school.

The card stated that the balloons (another attached to the card had already burst) had been released from Starbuck Junior High School in Racine by a Marryann Isaacson on Nov. 20, four days before they were found. A check of a map disclosed that Racine is 225 miles away, Schneider said.

THE STAMPED, self-addressed postal card bore spaces for identifying the finder, when and where it was found and any comments the finder wished to make.

The card and balloons were found only two miles from where a US Weather Bureau balloon was found several weeks ago. That apparently came from Muskegon.

Gilbert Innes, president of the Paragon Bridge and Steel Co., Inc., of Novi is president of Ashley Corp. The new plant will produce specialized railroad equipment.

WORKING closely with the industry officials are Paul Beck, Dr Berndt, Village President Wayne Barnes and Councilmen Robert Kent, Joseph Liska Jr., Ivan Osborne, Kenneth Boeskool and Wayland Buckingham.

Christmas seal giving improves

Christmas Seal giving in Clinton County and throughout Michigan is exceeding all previous records, the Michigan Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Assn. reports.

As of Nov. 27 this year, county residents had donated $1,620 in the first three weeks of the campaign, compared to $1,401 during the same period last year.

THIS AMOUNTS to 43 per cent of last year's total county donation of $3,793. This is slightly above the state average of 41 per cent. Some $458,100 has been contributed throughout the state, compared to $418,378 a year ago.

"This increase reflects the awareness of Michigan residents that tuberculosis remains a dreadful threat to our people and a costly matter to taxpayers," Lauren S. Elliott of Flint, state campaign chairman, said. "More than 13 million dollars is being spent each year in tax funds alone in Michigan to combat tuberculosis."

GROWING CONCERN because of the increasing toll of emphysema, which now kills twice as many persons as tuberculosis, chronic bronchitis and other respiratory diseases is also a factor in the increased Christmas Seal giving, Elliott said.

He urged residents of Clinton County who have not yet sent in their contributions to do so immediately.

MANY YEARS of effort from extension homemakers throughout the United States has resulted in the release by the Post Office Department of a 5 cent commemorative stamp honoring homemakers and the 50th anniversary of the Cooperative Extension Service.

After an exchange of ideas, displays and a workshop, members and guests left the meeting with one or more handmade gifts.

Since the death of her husband, Mrs Edwards has continued as supervisor of the school. The Rev and Mrs Stewart will assist her in giving the 100 boys enrolled in the school an elementary education and in teaching them a trade according to the standards of the Indian Government.

Families Put On Outdoor Home Show at Holidays

From Santa and his reindeer to strings of beautiful lights in all shapes and sizes to illuminated likenesses of the manger scene, families today really put on an outdoor show around their homes at Yuletide.

Many families have outdoor decorations that they use every year, and to add more originality there is a vast quantity of new decorative pieces, in all price ranges, that can be found in local stores and included in any home display.

Most families build up their displays, making them more and more elaborate every year. Good beginning, might be a string of lights to place along the roof or on shrubs and trees, with other ideas added each Yuletide.

Living Christmas trees, whether they are traditional evergreens in the North, or palms in the South, make a good base for decorations.

Wreaths and other greens to adorn the front door might include an electrically-lighted candle, and even apartment dwellers can participate in this kind of "outdoor" lighting.

Whatever the type of outdoor decoration, setting up can provide fun for the whole family from year to year.

Northern pike, muskies in trouble in state waters

Two of Michigan's most highly-touted fish—the northern pike and muskellunge—are in trouble and they're not going to get out of it until sportsmen give them a better break, according to Conservation Department fish managers.

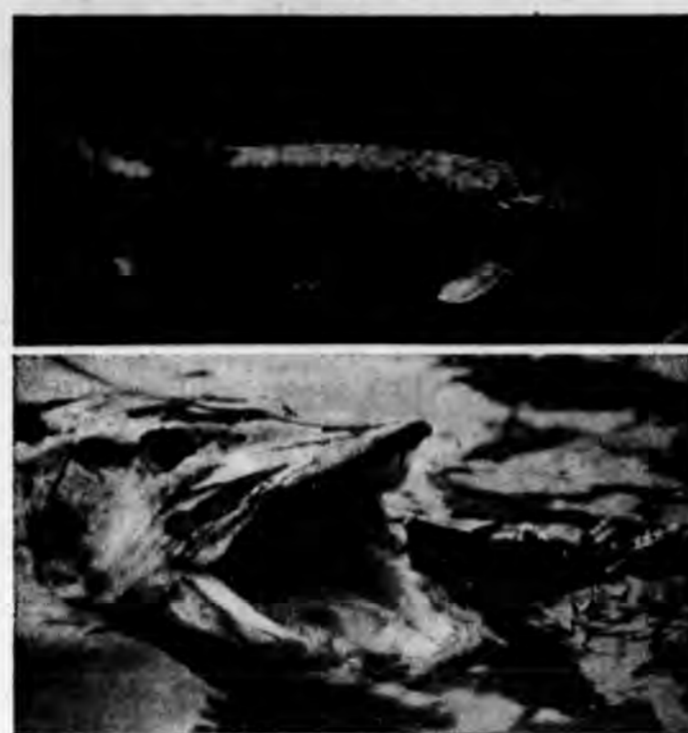

In the case of both, heavy-angling pressure and under-protective fishing regulations have combined with other factors to put a tight squeeze on their populations.

EXPLODING panfish numbers and shortages of natural spawning grounds are also stacked against pike, while muskies are being hurt in another way, by the very thing which has helped make them such a glamour fish in Michigan. Because muskies are limited to a very small number of waters much remains a mystery about their populations.

Over the last few years, the Conservation Department has been experimenting with musky plantings to see if these fish can be successfully introduced to more waters of the state. In other ways, too, it has been searching for answers which will lead to better musky management.

FOR PIKE the Department has been working to improve spawning conditions at a number of larger lakes, and to knock down panfish populations which have contributed to the decline of northern.

Promising as these efforts have been, it's become crystal clear to department biologists that many of the problems facing muskies and pike go back to regulations which are not giving these fish a fair share of protection.

These two prized fish—the northern pike (top) and muskellunge—are having population problems in Michigan as a result of increased angling pressure and shortcomings in their reproduction.

KNOWING THIS, the department is calling for several regulation changes which will give both species a better chance to help themselves.

Among them is a longer closed season which would span the entire spawning period for these fish by running from March 1 through May 14 in all waters except Lake St. Clair. Muskies would be off limits to the state's Lake St. Clair fishermen from Feb. 1 to the first Saturday of June.

Department plans are also aimed at raising the minimum size limit on muskies to 34 inches, save again for Lake St. Clair where it would remain at 30 inches. In all waters, including this lake, a two-a-day catch quota is proposed for muskies.

St. Johns boy keeps plugging, wins contest

There are some who say youngsters today don't have stick-to-itiveness. Witness for the defense: Chris Kramer, 11-year-old son of Mr and Mrs Lewis A. Kramer of 205 N. Mead Street.

For 11 weeks this fall, Chris has entered the Clinton County News Football Contest with the hope of winning the $20 given each week. For the first 10 weeks he was unsuccessful; but he didn't give up, even though the last contest of the season was coming up. He entered again, and he won.

CHRIS' SCORE was not exactly the highest—he missed five of the 20 choices. Everybody else but one missed more than that. Mrs. Jane Jolly of 109 E. Steel Street also missed only five, but she was five points off on the tie-breaker score, and Chris missed it by only two.

A check for $20 went to Chris Monday, his reward for his stick-to-itiveness.

SOME $220 has been distributed to winners of the contest this season, and the advertisers who sponsored it say thanks to all who entered, congratulations to the winners and better luck next year to those who didn't win.

Greenville lad is area PP & K winner

Gary Baragar, 12 of Greenville, was the only area boy to become an area champion in the Ford Punt, Pass and Kick championship. He and five others of different ages won in the area competition at the Detroit Lions-Minnesota Vikings pro-football game in Detroit a week ago Sunday.

Department and Ontario fish experts are seriously concerned over the downgrading impact that Michigan's regulations have already had upon fishing in Lake St. Clair, one of the Midwest's top musky waters.

In 1963, fish taken from these waters by Michigan anglers averaged about 10 pounds, with very few of them hitting the 20-pounder class. This is a big comedown from the years before 1955 when musky catches averaged a hefty 15 pounds, and some trophy fish were landed, tipping the scales at up to 60 pounds.

THE WEIGHT difference is tied closely to fishing pressure and success which have ballooned an estimated 1000 per cent since 1955. Prior to that, the state's fishermen took less than 500 muskies each year from the lake. Compare this with last year when they hauled in 8,800.

There is no immediate danger of the lake's musky population being "fished out," but these facts and figures leave no doubt about the need for a longer closed season and a catch limit to protect this much sought-after species.

ELSEWHERE in the state's waters where reproduction is far from Lake St. Clair's standards, the present 30-inch minimum size limit is working a real hardship upon musky populations by putting female fish into the "keeper" class before they even have a chance to spawn once. The recommended 34-inch limit matches the size at which these fish reach spawning maturity.

Also accounted for in the Department's recommendations is the fact that pike, as well as muskies, are now only being protected during part of their all-important spring spawning season. This has allowed fishermen to cut deeply into the reproduction of both fish at either end of the season.

BECAUSE OF their close concentrations when spawning, pike can virtually be taken like fish from a rain barrel.

Under its new look-ahead program, the department will continue to chemically treat problem lakes to remove over-populations of panfish which exploit and crowd out young pike and muskies. It will also give stepped-up emphasis to the development of pike spawning marshes on larger lakes to boost natural reproduction.

RESEARCH will be pushed forward to find ways and waters in which muskies can make the grade on a bigger and broader scale. At the same time, the department will go all out to establish musky populations in several lakes. These lakes will be tapped for brood stock in future years when research findings give the cue for launching larger musky plantings.

Rademacher-Moore marriage vows said

MR AND MRS LARRY J. MOORE

Mary Lou Rademacher became the bride of Larry James Moore in a double ring ceremony at St. Joseph Catholic Church Saturday, Nov. 21, at noon. Rev Edwin Schoettie officiated at the nuptial high Mass.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs Harold Rademacher of 200 West Steel Street and the late Harold Rademacher. Mr and Mrs Ted E. Moore of R-6, St. Johns are parents of the bridegroom.

The bride was escorted to the altar decorated with white gladiolas, red carnations, and white mums by her uncle, Howard Duck, of Muir, who gave her in marriage. She was wearing a white, full-length, velvet sheath with appliques of pearls, sequins and alencon lace. A separate velvet train, adorned with pearls and sequins, was attached at the waist. The gown's long sleeves were pointed at the wrist and featured tiny velvet buttons. A waist-length, triple-tiered veil of French illusion was attached to a crown of alencon lace and pearls. The bouquet she carried was a cascade of white roses and gardenias from which white velvet streamers fell. Her jewelry consisted of a single diamond necklace which was a gift of the groom.

THE BRIDE'S cousin, Daniel Rademacher, along with Dean Elsler, served as altar boys.

Maid of honor to the bride was her sister, Rosemarie Rademacher, who chose a ruby-red dress of velvet. The back of the ballerina-length, belted, skirt was adorned with a bow and floor-length streamers. The dress featured three-quarter-length sleeves. A matching velvet bow was used for the headpiece.

The maid of honor and the bridesmaids, Linda and Colleen Rademacher, sisters of the bride and Janet Griffith, carried cascades of white gardenias. The attendants' dresses were identical to that which the maid of honor chose.

Roger Moore assisted his brother as best man. The bride's brother, Joseph Rademacher, was one of the groomsmen. Others were Don Rademacher, cousin of the bride and Daniel Yurek. Terry Brya and Walter Pierce seated the guests.

FLOWER GIRL and ring bearer were, respectively, Pattie Moore, daughter of Mr and Mrs Lawrence Moore and Gary Rademacher, son of Mr and Mrs Roman Rademacher of Fowler. The flower girl, who carried a basket of red rose petals, wore a dress which consisted of a top made of white velvet and a skirt of red velvet. She wore a matching bow headpiece.

The bride's mother appeared at the church wearing a peacock blue dress, accessorized in brown. The groom's mother chose a brown, double knit suit and coffee-colored accessories. Their corsages were constructed of single white orchids.

Following the high Mass, which was sung by J. F. Idle of Owosso with accompaniment by Mrs Herman Smith, the bride and groom placed a bouquet of white gladiolas at the altar of the Virgin Mother.

Elsie

By MRS. NEVA KEYS, Correspondent

Brothers place high for military record

ELSIE— "Do the seven Kjera brothers hold a record for military service?" was a question asked recently by the Veterans Administration. Since then many American families from Minnesota to Massachusetts posted their claims.

Elsie has often boasted of its nine Baese brothers with at least one serving his country in unbroken succession since 1941.

The Baese brothers saw service in both theaters in World War II and in the Korean Conflict. Born in Elsie, the sons of Mrs Thelma Baese (their father, Onas, died in 1953), went to Elsie High School with their three sisters.

The girls, all living near Elsie, are Mrs Mary Lou Blackburn of Lansing, Mrs Gerald (Onalee) Austin of Otsego, and Mrs Richard (Diane) Bates of Elsie who is now with her husband, who is stationed in Germany.

JAMES, or Versil, as everyone calls him, is now the postmaster in Elsie and was the first to enter the armed service. He joined the army in 1941, serving first on Kiska Island, Alaska. From there, he went to Italy with the tenth Mounted Battalion, where he took part in the invasion of the Italian Peninsula. There he won the Purple Heart and a number of other decorations.

Robert was a member of a demolition squad in the Army Corps of Engineers during World War II. He fought in Burma and China and helped build the Ledo Road connecting the two countries. It was while he was in the steaming Burmese jungle that Robert contracted malaria. He now lives with his family in Elsie and works for the Federal Mogul Co., in St. Johns, as assistant general foreman.

Eldon was a member of the Air Force during the final days of World War II. After the war he was sent to Japan, where he served during the Occupation. He is married and lives in Elsie. He is also employed at Federal Mogul in St. Johns.

Another settling in Elsie is Lewis. He served in the Army during the Korean Conflict. He fought at the Pusan beachhead and in the Seoul area as a member of a supply unit. Lewis works at the Auto-Lite Manufacturing Co.'s plant in Owosso.

A MEMBER of the Army Signal Corps in microwave communication, Gale entered the service just after the Korean Conflict. He lives with his family in Elsie and also has a job with the Auto-Lite Co., where his brother, Lewis works.

The St. Joseph Altar Society's annual Christmas bazaar, which will be held Tuesday, Dec. 8, with an 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. luncheon, will employ the items being made by, left to right, Mrs Alvin J. Thelen, candy booth; Mrs Louis Eisler, general co-chairman; Mrs Norman Rademacher, general chairman; and Mrs Michael Hatta, baked goods.

Merle served in the Army during the war in Korea. He makes his home in Elsie and is employed at the Michigan Milk Producers Association in Ovid. Merle fought in the Pusan and Seoul areas with his brother Lewis.

Joining the Army in 1955, Raymond lives in Elsie with his mother. He spent much of his enlistment with the Corps of Engineers at the port of Whittier in Alaska.

Owen, who joined the Marines in 1959, serving with the Infantry and administration, also lives at home in Elsie. Owen works with brothers, Robert and Eldon, at Federal Mogul in St. Johns.

Captain Richard Baese is currently stationed at K. I. Sawyer Air Force with the 410th Bomb Wing, where he was assigned in 1963 as a B52 co-pilot.

Their mother's memories, on Veterans Day, can go back through the years quite a way whether they have set a record or not.

Lovely, Lasting Are Gifts of New Leather Fashions

Something elegant and easy to wear, something smart now and next season, too — these are her specifications when it comes to fashion gifts, and one way Santa's helpers are planning to meet them is with pleasing presents of new leather apparel.

Suede dresses, smooth and grained leather coats, new embossed and printed leather separates have fashion importance, and can be found in every style, color and price range, so that individual tastes and budgets may be served.

Standouts in style detailing of leather coats are detachable fur collars for dress wear, the use of quilting and the return of the classic wrap-around.

Traditional leather separates such as jackets and over-blouses now are joined by skirts, stoles, pants, jumpers and tunics.

CHRISTMAS LIGHTS reflect gaily from sparkling jewelry gifts, such as this set of bracelet, necklace, earrings. By Trifari. FEMINE LACE flatters her at Christmas. Glamorous gift suggestion here is a black lace mantilla. In Ban-Lon lace.

Accessories Gifts Can Prove Little Things Mean a Lot

Point the way to a Merry Christmas for her with a gift of gloves, in every length from shortie to above-elbow. Hand her a handbag to carry Yuletide good wishes and her many scarves and stoles.

Deck her with fashion jewelry—bracelets, pins, earrings, necklaces, rings. There's a sparkling selection this Yuletide, with the accent on the glowing look and the "real look" in gems.

Whatever Santa's choice of accessories gifts, he'll discover that little things do indeed mean a lot to her, in terms of fashion, practicality, beauty.

Going around in the best fashion circles, belts make a welcome gift for her, in casual to elegant styles. Hankies, headwarmers, umbrellas, aprons, even little touches of fur are still more of the gifted ideas accessories departments offer for her.

Perhaps one of the most important accessories gifts, with regard to both Santa's investment and her long-term use, is a handbag. With this one style-right gift, she can solve a clothes problem, secure her fashion reputation and score a double gain in wardrobe beauty and practicality.

For a handbag with all-around appeal, choose a daytime style such as a satchel or pouch. In brushed or grained leathers, these will serve her smartly through busy hours of working, shopping, visiting, running errands, ad infinitum.

If she's an advocate of the handy shoulder-strap bag, give her one of the sleek new versions now available.

Beautifully detailed envelopes and clutches in smooth, suede, fine-grained or embossed leather textures accompany her.

Will Gift of Pet Be Welcome? It Pays to Be Sure!

Planning to give someone a pet this Christmas? Almost everyone, no matter what age, likes animals, but make certain first that the pet will be welcome. If the pet is for a child, be sure his parents are for the idea.

Dogs and cats are among the most popular pets. They can be bought for a small donation to a local animal shelter, or can be more costly, especially if they are pedigreed.

When selecting a dog or cat as a gift, make certain the animal is healthy and has had all its proper shots. If there's any doubt, take it to a veterinarian.

In the case of a dog, choose a frisky, bold puppy who romps with his kennel mates. Don't be taken in by the sad-eyed pup who stays in the corner all the time. Puppies are ready to become pets when they're eight weeks or older.

Cats should be clear-eyed, with no suggestion of a sneeze or cough, and, especially if they're kittens, lively and playful. Most kittens are ready for "adoption" into a human family at about six weeks, but in the case of some breeds, it's best to wait a little longer.

Learning, fun equal in child's best toy

Most everyone likes to bring a present to the family's newest baby and with Christmas near at hand the practice will be even more prevalent. Perhaps because we all remember what fun it was to get toys when we were young, toys are the favorite item for presentation.

make sure the colors are non-toxic. Avoid gifts with small, easily detachable parts because babies love to taste-test everything, even toys. Breakaway toys should be made up of large, unswallowable parts.

Not everyone knows which toys to get, however. Friends and near relatives who are childless especially have problems selecting the proper gift.

WHEN possible, try to choose toys that will aid the developing infant's coordination, mental agility, physical development and other skills.

Sound thinking by manufacturers of toys has helped gift selection a lot in recent years with clear labels giving the proper age groups for the toys in question. And today toys are available for children as young as six months.

Try to match the gift to the child's current age and abilities but with some room in which he can grow. Don't buy a toy that has an upper limit of two years for an infant who's already reached his second birthday. Find one with some room for his growth.

THERE ARE certain things to look for in any toy.

Buy colorful toys because children of all ages are influenced by the strong reds, bright blues and oranges and greens in the objects before them.

Select gifts that will stand up under the vigorous handling of today's children. Check for sound construction and enduring materials.

A last word of advice to prospective toy givers: leave the buying of electric trains to the proud papa . . . after all he'll play with them far more than baby.

JOHNNY KARBER

Mischievous days prove Johnny Karber's growth

BY PATRICIA HOLMES

What's the best way to tell that a baby's growing up? When he starts getting into mischief. And Johnny Karber's mother is sure he's growing.

"Johnny is pulling the leaves off plants and getting pans out of the cupboard to bang on," she said. "He's also chewing on the arms of chairs, but with 'no teeth yet' he doesn't hurt anything."

Johnny, son of Mr and Mrs Larry Karber of 817 Church Street, was seven months old, Nov. 27. Since he was born, April 27 in Clinton Memorial Hospital he has also been the adopted son of the Clinton County News that has been reporting his progress every month and will continue to do so until he reaches year one.

IN ADDITION to a change in actions in the last month, Johnny gained another pound, pushing his weight up to 18 pounds and shortened his sleeping habits. He takes one nap in the morning and one in the afternoon.

"Johnny also sits at the table at mealtime now," his mother said. "but he makes quite a mess."

Could it be he's not getting what he wants? More likely, he's getting what he doesn't want, Mrs. Karber said.

"Johnny likes his food, but doesn't care much for vegetables," she said. This means that mother has to "hide" the vegetables in his other foods. One thing she can't get away with is not putting sugar in his water. Johnny wouldn't consider drinking that.

THE NATURAL plagues of babyhood came to Johnny this month.

For the past three weeks, Johnny has been wearing corrective shoes. He wears them day and night but only seems to mind the nights, when he gets them caught in his blankets. While the small white shoes, joined by a curved metal slab look forbidding they probably hurt mother more than Johnny and she can always rationalize that Johnny will not have flat feet.

Unlike his first two inoculations, the third one left a reaction and mother was up nursing a temperature all night, which makes her somewhat hesitant to take him in for a vaccination. But, by the time we see him again it will be all over.

ALTHOUGH Grandma and Grandpa Karber who were supposed to come from Texas couldn't make it to see Johnny on Thanksgiving, those two sisters, Sharon and Janis, and a brother, Dean, are making certain that he's kept busy.

He's not quite ready for Dean's game of wrestling, but enjoys Sharon, who is little mother while Mrs. Karber is busy.

Mrs. Karber classified them all as little influences on Johnny. We'll see.

Variations enhance meals during advent

Serving the same dishes again and again during the advent season can put you in a rut. To keep your family from complaining about the "Same-old thing" for dinner, spend a little more time planning meals and give that "special" touch to dinners. To make them interesting, plan to serve one new food or a new variation of an old favorite at least once each week.

Sour cream and chives dress up many foods. The next time you are planning to serve this tasty pair—STOP—try this! Add the sour cream and chives to a corn muffin mix along with the egg and milk.

SOUR CREAM AND CHIVE MUFFINS

Makes 12 medium-sized muffins

- 1 12-oz. pkg. (2 c.) muffin mix
- 1 egg
- 2/3 c. milk
- 1 tbsp. chopped chives
- 1/4 c. dairy sour cream

Heat oven to hot (400 degrees F.). Grease medium-sized muffin cups. Empty contents of package into bowl. Add egg, milk, chives and sour cream. Blend only until dry ingredients are moistened. (Batter should be slightly lumpy.)

Fill greased muffin cups half full. Bake in preheated oven (400 degrees F.) about 15 minutes or until golden brown. Serve piping hot.

A NUTRITIOUS dish with which to serve these muffins, that would be a variation from the eggs and cheese plates, is one featuring seafood.

SALMON SALAD

- 1 can (1 lb.) salmon
- 1 can (13-oz.) pineapple chunks well drained, or 1 1/2 c. sweet green grapes
- 1/2 c. diced celery
- 1 tsp. mayonnaise
- 2 tsp. prepared mustard
- 1 tsp. French dressing
- 1 to 2 ripe bananas

Drain salmon; remove skin and round bones; break into chunks. Add pineapple, celery, pickle relish, and salt. Blend mustard, mayonnaise, and French dressing; mix in lightly. Slice bananas about 1/4 inch thick; fold in. Serve on crisp greens. 6 servings.

Note: Tuna may be used in place of salmon. Cooked chicken or veal may also be used.

USDA publications give economical tips

By BETTY KETCHAM
County Extension Agent
Home Economics

CHECK YOUR fireplace and chimney. Are they safe and ready for use?

If you are planning a new laundry area—or are dissatisfied with the one you have, you'll be interested in a new publication issued by the US Department of Agriculture.

To assist you in this annual inspection, the US Department of Agriculture has issued a new publication, "Fireplaces and Chimneys," (FB-1889). This 24-page, illustrated bulletin provides information on design and construction as well as maintenance.

In "Laundry Areas" (MP-961), housing specialists of USDA's Agricultural Research Service and illustrate efficient arrangements of laundry areas and suggest convenient locations in the house—including the kitchen or family room, the bathroom, basement, and workroom.

The bulletin tells how to check for tightness—by use of a smoke test—defects, and excessive soot. Chimneys in the average home do not usually need cleaning, but if they do, vacuum cleaning by a commercial firm is the best method.

Chemical soot removers are not very effective and can create a fire hazard, the bulletin points out.

THE NEW publication shows the minimum space required for washing, drying (mechanical as well as line-drying), ironing and sorting. For example, a work space 3 feet in depth and 3 feet, 8 inches in width is needed in front of the washer to allow space for a laundry basket or cart and for convenient handling of the laundry. The recommendations are based on space-requirement studies and other research conducted by State experiment stations.

Although fireplaces are not an economical means of heating a home, a well designed, properly built fireplace can provide supplemental heat and can enhance the appearance and comfort of a room. The bulletin outlines how the homeowner can assist in designing his own fireplace or chimney and how he can inspect and maintain the unit after it is built. He should, however, leave the actual construction to an experienced person.

A summary of standard sizes of laundry equipment, as well as general information on the installation of automatic equipment, also is included in the publication.

"Fireplaces and Chimneys" was prepared by Archie A. Biggs, architect of USDA's Agricultural Research Service, Beltsville, Md. Single copies may be obtained free from the Office of Information, US Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C., 20250.

If you are planning a new laundry area or thinking about making changes in your present laundry, stop by the Extension Office, in the basement of the Courthouse and pick up a copy.

Hard on cleaner
Never use vacuum cleaner to pick up hairpins, tacks, pins, pieces of glass, or other hard or sharp articles. They may puncture the dust bag.

Baby's teeth important to dental health

Unless he gets proper care of his baby teeth, a child can become a "dental cripple" for life, warns a University of Michigan specialist.

Dr. William E. Brown Jr. says it is completely erroneous to believe primary teeth can be safely neglected.

"If a primary tooth is lost prematurely, the space will tend to close in so that the permanent tooth cannot erupt into its proper position. This may result in the need of comprehensive orthodontic correction or a crippled dentition throughout life."

DR BROWN is a professor in the U-M School of Dentistry and a specialist in pedodontics (dentistry for children). In a talk under the auspices of the State Dental Assn., he offered guidelines to help parents plan their child's first visit to a dentist:

—Select the dentist early, before serious problems develop.

—Plan the first visit by age 3, or soon after all 20 primary teeth have appeared.

—TREAT THE appointment as a normal event so the child does not feel alarmed.

Because of modern changes in dentistry for children, Dr. Brown recommends that parents "tell the child as little as possible in advance of the first visit." Children may be upset, he believes, if the actual procedure in the dentist's office differs from what the parents told him to expect.

ANY DENTAL problems found on the first visit will probably be minor ones, he said. Routine cleaning and careful inspection of teeth and gums may be all that is necessary. But even if there are cavities or other disorders, "improved anesthetics, instruments with a feather-like touch, and new techniques enable the dentist to correct these problems quickly and almost without distress to the patient."

But the major reason for the early visit is that the dentist can "plan a preventive program of dental care that will reduce the child's dental problems significantly over the years ahead."

Court may be limiting its church-state stand

Although it didn't put anything in writing, the Supreme Court appears to have signaled that there are limits to its demand for separation of church and state.

The hint is in a High Court decision, made public last month without comment, refusing to review a lower court opinion that a flag salute containing the words "under God" can be recited in public schools without violating the Constitution's separation provisions. By refusing to review it, the court lets that ruling stand.

THE FLAG case had worried friends of the court who supported its earlier controversial decision striking down classroom use of Bible readings and prayers written by school officials.

Many of these "separationists" believed the court should go no further because of the widespread opposition its previous religion rulings evoked.

This outcry, at its hottest, produced a push in Congress for a Constitutional amendment to allow school prayers. And Sen. Goldwater criticized the religion rulings in his Presidential election campaign.

EVEN THIS turmoil, however, might have seemed miniscule alongside any High Court ruling that "under God" couldn't be used in the official flag salute adopted by Congress in 1954.

Once that step was taken, authorities believed, similar demands for eliminating references to God on currency and public buildings and in official ceremonies would have been difficult for the court to dodge.

THE FLAG salute recommended by the Richmond County School Board in Staten Island, N. Y., and attacked by some parents there, is the "official" one, reading: "I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all." The parents argued that the school board's recommendation of the salute raised a "fundamental issue of separation of church and state. For public school children to be required to learn and vocally express a belief in the existence of God by regularly reciting the Pledge of Allegiance . . . poses serious" Constitutional questions, they said.

In 1962, the Supreme Court struck down a West Virginia state law making the salute compulsory. The New York Supreme Court noted this in ruling against the parents from Staten Island. The New York court reasoned that Richmond County hadn't made the salute compulsory and thus it wasn't objectionable under the 1962 opinion.

GUEST EDITORIAL

SURE WAY TO COMMUNISM

(From the Gladwin County Record, Gladwin)

The Rev Kenneth W. Sollitt, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Midland, was preaching to his congregation. He said: "If I were the Devil and wanted to turn America into a Communist hell, I think I would do something like this:

"I would cultivate among the people the idea that the individual is nothing, the indiscriminate mass of people everything. I would also seek to convince Americans that God and Christian ethics and an honest desire to make one's way in the world are old-fashioned. I would get elected to office on the promise of helping everybody at someone else's expense. Then I'd treat the Constitution as a sort of hand-book on the philosophy of government to be referred to only if it served my purpose.

"I WOULD INCREASE the size and scope of government in every way possible, going into every conceivable business in competition with established enterprises, paying the state's business losses out of the treasury. I would try to keep hidden how this could lead at the right time to the nationalization of industry. I would create a government strong enough to give its citizens everything they want. Thus I could create a government strong enough to take from them everything they have.

"By a combination of inflation and taxes I would rob the very people I pretended to help until, if they should ever want to return to freedom they couldn't—but would be completely dependent on the state. Next, I would gradually raise taxes to 100 per cent of income (we are one-third of the way there now)—so that the state could have it all.

"THEN I'D GIVE BACK to the people enough to keep them alive and little enough to keep them enslaved. In the meantime I would take from those who have and give to those who want until I killed the incentive of the present ambitious man and satisfied the meager needs of the rest. The police state would then be required to make everybody work—and the transformation of America from a republic to a second-rate Communist nation would be complete.

"Do you see in this any similarities to what we have been doing for thirty years. The Communist slogan is 'From each as he is able, to each as he has need.' We are acting as if our slogan were 'From anyone who has something, to anyone who wants something.' The difference between these two is the same as the difference between the alligator and a crocodile."

"You Making That for THIS Christmas or Next?"

RAMBLIN' with Rink

BY LOWELL G. RINKER

One of the big factors in modern living is organization. There is an organization for just about everything you want to do, want to see, or want to hear. Most of it is relaxing, because it takes you away from the workaday events. Much of it is educational. Little of it is stimulating.

This topic of organization has been on my mind for some time, and I'm not yet quite sure how I feel about it. As it concerns adults, the conclusion is plenty foggy; as it concerns children, I have a few more definite thoughts.

AN ARTICLE, "Speaking Out," in the Sept. 29, 1962, issue of the Saturday Evening Post contained some thoughts which come close to mine, although they're a bit more barbed. It was entitled "We're Cheating Our Children" and was written by Betsy Fancher. She claimed the "parent-sponsored rat race has warped the meaning of childhood."

A few quotes from the article will give the gist of it.

"AMERICANS DO love their children! But childhood? There seems to be a vast movement against it. The bitterest epithet in our society is 'immature.' It was recently bestowed on my nephew who, as he put it, 'goofed a test.' This was in his first quarter in kindergarten . . .

"The busiest of us (meaning adults) had time to chase butterflies or catch lightning bugs, to climb trees or just lie in a clover field watching a cloud-blown sky . . .

"THIS MANIA for scheduling every minute of every day for our children is madness. Not only are we robbing our children of the precious gift of childhood, we are denying them the freedom they need to be themselves, to fulfill their creative impulses and develop their own inner resources . . .

"The one real advantage we can give them is a climate of love, understanding and guidance in which to grow—and the time and freedom to grow as tall as they will."

I GO ALONG with that. Organization of our youngsters in Little Leagues and Scouting and 4-H, etc., is fine; it's fun and it's educational. But I'm not sure what the long-range effect will be—whether it is better to be taught and drilled in activities of these organizations or whether it would be more beneficial to learn them on their own.

The danger, as Mrs Fancher pointed out, is in organizing our youngsters' time to the extent that they aren't thinking for themselves about what they're going to do next. Today's youngsters are brighter than ever, I'm convinced; let's not dim that brightness by organizing them anymore than they are. Let's give them the freedom and the time "to grow as tall as they will."

Vanishing Thanksgiving

By W. E. DOBSON

Once upon a time—as stories go We lived a quiet life; The summer sun and winter snow, Occasioned no great strife; November followed Hallow'een; No one assumed to doubt it But now, you know just what I mean, Folks try to do without it.

No sooner is the pumpkin crop Cut up in funny faces, 'N Christmas decorations hop Into the window spaces; So quickly do we seek to sell 'Steen million gifts for giving, We've hardly left a decent smell Of good old time Thanksgiving.

In times long gone our Santa came To all on Christmas Eve; But now in chariots of flame So children must believe, He comes to town a month ahead To scramble our way of living; Such stir and bustle, we're all dead! What happened to Thanksgiving?

About 'big' men in 'small' towns

Over at Lapeer, my former hometown, the publisher of The County Press declared last week that his newspaper would no longer present its annual Austin Gwinn award to some person in the community who had performed distinguished public service.

The Lapeer newspaper has for the past 16 years been presenting such a plaque annually to some man or woman who has, in the judgment of a special committee, earned such recognition.

There have been times in the past when we here at The Clinton County News have been tempted to follow the Lapeer example and institute a similar award. Goodness knows, there are scores of county residents who merit some token of community esteem for public service above and beyond the normal call of duty.

THE LAPEER experience, sadly recounted by Publisher Bob Myers, only confirms an apprehension we have had about such awards in our staff discussions at The County News.

Writes Myers: "It was suggested by some local leaders that The County Press drop the annual presentation of this 16-year-old Distinguished Service plaque. Since I had grown weary of the controversy this award has repeatedly caused, I agreed.

"You would think there is nothing less likely to cause a fuss than the simple presentation of a bronze plaque to some citizen who has served the community. I thought so too."

"BUT A SMALL town knows no heroes," the publisher continues. "It places no man on a pedestal. Small town people know—and some will disapprove—if a man drinks, goes to the 'wrong' church (or not all all), gets involved in a school dispute, uses poor grammar, gets some business away from a competitor, or makes more money than the next man.

"We never could find a saint to give the award to, and anything less got us into trouble.

"I once said in presenting the award: 'It takes big men to live in little towns, and not themselves grow smaller day by day . . . to stand the endless flick of envious tongues, and not to mind too much!'

"THERE IS smallness everywhere but it's easier to see in a small town. And some men become what they see.

"So each year there were little nips and digs from the disappointed, the jealous and the angered. Finally I was gently told the Chamber of Commerce would prefer the award not be given at its annual meeting.

"I can appreciate the Chamber has enough troubles of its own without becoming involved in those created by The County Press. I wrote about it not in criticism but solely to explain why the award will no longer be given.

"I AM SATISFIED that all the men and women who won the award fully deserved it. Discontinuation certainly does not reflect upon them.

"I'm not sure what it all proves. Does it make Lapeer a 'small' town indeed? Or does it simply show it is a mistake to single out for honors anyone in a small town?"

What a bargain food is, Ward says

DID YOU ever wonder what you pay per pound or quart or bushel when you buy the groceries?

I have often sold apples wholesale in 100-bushel or 1,000-bushel lots, by the pound or hundred-weight or bushel. One lot of hand-picked orchard-run Spys was a total of 1,258 bushels at $2.75 a hundredweight. There were deductions for taxes, sorting, commission of my broker and other items, and I actually received for the 1,258 bushels—a total weight of 55,000 pounds—only $1,243, quite a lot less than $1 per bushel.

THE JOKER is that these apples should have been fancy quality and more carefully picked and handled. Some turned out to be rots and ciders that cost me $12 labor at the plant. Cheap enough at wholesale.

So you see my problem of price

Letters to the Editor

HERE IS an ad for sorgum. No flavor quite like it. Not too sweet, a little sour and a stand-around sweet of 100 years ago. Make it into cookies or candy or use it on pancakes. Yum! Yum! Guinea fowl, equal to pheasant for fine flavor. Only 79 cents each! Ready to cook.

TAKE A thrift package of one pound of cashew nuts, usually 79 cents, or walnuts at $1 per pound or a little more. But suppose you want a few broken walnuts for candy. The thrift package, marked "thrift," is 29 cents for two ounces. This figure $2.32 for one pound, plus 10 cents tax, while $1 plus the four cents tax would have bought the whole pound. What a bargain when you buy by the pound!

What does a pound of round steak cost you? Perhaps 79 cents per pound. Hamburg is 33 to 39 cents per pound. Ground steak plus pork steak at 49 cents per pound makes meat loaf, a very nutritious meat at a bargain price.

THE GROUND steak would be the same flavor and could not be detected in the finished product. The cost would be at least twice what the hamburger would cost.

There are hundreds of bargains in the stores at this time of year at low prices. A year-old hen brings the farmer 5 cents per pound; she may have a 3-cent egg already to lay—quite a bargain when you can get a whole nice young, fat hen for 25 cents, plus free egg. You do have to dress her. What a treat for a poor family on Thanksgiving Day!

Never was meat such a bargain. Turkeys 39 cents per pound; ready stuffed 59 cents per pound. Twenty-pound Toms 31 cents.

OH, YES! No stamps at these prices. Who wants to lick stamps? I can save 10 per cent at least by the "no stamp" deal plus 2 1/2 per cent on $10 in free merchandise. Read the ads and save dollars.

As ever,

Comments on change are to his liking

I HAVE enjoyed your editorials, particularly the last two, "Change or be left standing," and "More talk of changes to come."

We are living in a changing world. New and advanced methods of production are to be seen on every hand. Old methods have been discarded because they no longer meet the needs of a modern age.

By technological advancement and automation we can produce more and more with fewer and fewer men. This is a tremendous social question in itself.

THIS CALLS for some kind of a planned economy which will meet the needs of all rather than the few. It's an indictment against any country to have hunger in the midst of plenty.

As far as the election returns go, they only indicate to me that there are more progressives than reactionists, and that the Republican party will have to cease opposing social reforms if it is to ever again become the party of the people.

Schools frustrated by failure to raise funds

School district officials throughout the state are frustrated that their efforts to meet local educational needs were stalemated by a 1964 legislative act.

The local property tax is no longer adequate to provide revenue for the schools along with other community services, they say, and voters vent their ire on school millage proposals because of high taxes at all levels.

THIS YEAR the Legislature adopted a law declaring a moratorium on all local taxes except the city income levy.

Now, local school board members are hoping a legislative committee will recommend to the 1965 session authorization for school districts to levy excise taxes rather than relying almost totally on the property tax revenues.

THE COMMITTEE headed by Rep. James N. Folks, R-Horton, has been told school districts suffer heavily in nearly every extra millage and school bonding proposal. Voters defeat such questions because they have no direct control over other taxes.

School districts now get part of the state sales tax, cigarette and liquor tax collections in addition to the share of local property assessments. A number of school officials feel they now should be allowed to impose excise taxes on items such as gasoline, cigarettes, intangibles, incomes and sales.

OTHER EDUCATION-oriented spokesmen contend additional funds for local school operations should come from a bigger cut in existing or new state revenues.

"Education in Michigan needs a great deal more money, and the only adequate way to meet this need is through a state income tax, a significant portion of which should go back to the schools," says Henry Linn, Grosse Pointe president of the Michigan Federation of Teachers.

With a substantial surplus in the treasury from the last fiscal year, it is certain these divergent views among school people will be strongly represented in lobbying attempts next year to get a bigger share of state funds available.

MUCH HAS been heard in Michigan about the smog problems existing on the West Coast, largely blamed on Michigan-made automobiles.

Although the blame is more dispersed among several industries, some areas of Michigan also have expressed deep concern with the general problem of air pollution. Much less has been heard to date about this problem in Michigan, however.

Specific authority to control air pollution of any origin has rested solely at the local level for many years, although the State Health Department has worked with community officials on projects to eliminate air pollution.

Next year, however, Gov. George Romney has indicated he will propose to the Legislature the first state-wide regulatory legislation and appropriation for an air pollution control program.

BY PROPOSING the creation of an air pollution section within the Health Department, Romney hopes the state will qualify for some federal funds under the new Federal Clean Air Act.

Romney may attempt to get a state appropriation which would give the new working unit about $80,000 in combined state and federal monies for the initial program.

BY ELMER E. WHITE
Michigan Press Ass'n.

The governor said the start of the program "will be a major forward step toward assuring the people of Michigan that the air we breathe is as free from contamination as modern science and vigorous education and enforcement can make possible."

VOTER REJECTION by a wide margin of the so-called Massachusetts ballot enacted by the 1964 Legislature came as a big surprise to many, including some Democrats in high positions.

Democrats organized the petition drive which led to ballot placement of the controversial measure.

It appeared to be a well organized petition campaign and resulted in the filing of more signatures than ever before gathered on a referendum question.

THE OPPOSITION movement then seemed to disappear. Little publicity was directed to urge a "no" vote on the state proposal.

One state elections official, a non-partisan civil servant, said he was very surprised that the vote was so decisive. His reaction was based largely on the fact that the wording on such proposals is often unclear to many voters and rarely has such a controversial question been decided without an extensive campaign by proponents or opponents of it.

ANOTHER state officer elected on the Democratic ticket expressed similar surprise at the outcome of the Massachusetts ballot question.

"We were very lucky on this one for some reason," he said. "Another time using as little campaign effort as was exerted after the petition drive we might not be so fortunate," he said.

"The thing I like about you is . . . ME!"

'Making' land an enjoyable job for boys back then

HAYDEN PEARSON

It is interesting to watch the circle close. A basic part of the American Dream was clearing land for pasture and crop. It was the fulfillment of fundamental urges that caused men to go from settled towns to the wilderness and hew out a farm.

Now that a farming nation has become a great urban social order, too much land is a handicap and tax money goes to those who remove land from production.

ALONG IN November, Grandfather was sure to say, "We'll make a little piece of land." A 12-year-old was happy to join him on a Saturday and to help pull stumps and remove rocks from an area where the trees had been cut a year or two previously.

Grandfather was a master hand at making land. He had learned how to attach chains to stumps and rocks; he knew which roots must be chopped and which would give way when the sleek Morgan mares leaned into their collars and muscles rippled in their sleek flanks.

A LAD LIKED to handle the team. It was his task to drive the horses with a tangled-rooted stump dancing and jerking at the end of a chain to the edge of the lot where the stumps formed a jungled fence. Big rocks were twitched into a line to make a wall; smaller stones were hauled on the stoneboat to a pile in the corner.

Not very exciting, perhaps, to modern lads who ride a snorting tractor. But half a century ago, boys enjoyed the work on a brisk, late-autumn day, and perhaps they too learned a little of the deep feeling of accomplishment in making land for crops and pasture.

IT IS A NEW era, and less, not more land, is the need. But an important part of our natural heritage is written in the work and sacrifice of those who made farms from the wilderness.

Flames Destroy Car on US-27 North of St. Johns

This car was destroyed by fire shortly after 12:30 p.m. last Wednesday. It was driven by Jim Flore of Benton Harbor, a Central Michigan University student on his way home for the Thanksgiving holidays. The fire started at the rear of the car and burned everything up to the motor firewall. St. Johns firemen answered the call and put out the fire eight miles north of town on US-27. Firemen identifiable are, left to right, Richard Cornwell, James Karber, Bob Prowant and Jerry Bunge. No one was hurt.

MSU ag economist views outlook for farm products

John Ferris, Michigan State University agricultural economist, gives the following outlook for farm products in Michigan.

MILK — Milk production in 1965 will be about the same as the 125.7 billion pounds for 1964. Marketings will exceed commercial use. About eight billion pounds of dairy products are expected to move to the Commodity Credit channels or be exported. Fewer cows, but increased production per cow will keep total production of milk at the 1964 level.

CATTLE—FED cattle prices recovered some of the early October loss in late October and early November. Feeder prices were strengthened, while slaughter continues at high levels. From July to September, fed cattle marketed from 28 states was up 9 per cent over 1963. Total slaughter of steers and heifers under federal inspection was up 12 per cent. The differential between choice and standard steers has widened to about $4.50. This past summer, USDA purchases amounted to 3 to 5 per cent of commercial production. The demand for beef will be stronger in 1965, with less competition from pork.

HOGS— Continued high level of slaughter this fall raises the question whether spring pig crop was down 8 per cent as the USDA estimated. Prices probably hit their seasonal low at $15 to $16. Prices should recover some this winter.

POTATOES — OCT. 1 estimates of the 1964 fall crop were down slightly and 9 per cent less than 1963 due to heavy frosts. An orderly movement of potatoes through the storage season is suggested.

SUGAR BEETS—A record US crop of 24.6 million tons was estimated in October. This is 5 per cent over 1963. National acreage limits of 1,375,000 were recently announced by USDA for the 1965 crop.

APPLES— Demand has been good. Prices have held well considering the size of the crop.

Fertilizer men at sales meeting

Eleven key employees of Klein Fertilizer Co. in Perrinton attended a two-day sales training meeting in Toledo, Ohio, Nov. 23 and 24. The meeting was sponsored by International Minerals and Chemical Co. of Skokie, Ill., suppliers of raw materials to the fertilizer industry.

Those attending from Klein's were Charles McNeilly and James Sall of Perrinton, Robert Parsons, Elwood Copeland, Dennis Judd, Clayton Klein and Darrell Klein of Fowlerville, James Parsons and Max Barry of Shepherd, and James Dietrich and Kenneth Rice of Marne.

"This is an annual sales training meeting, McNeilly, production manager of the firm said, "and we try to have as many of our people attend each year as we possibly can. This helps us keep up with the latest trends in the fertilizer industry."

Opportunity works wonders—and ability gets the credit.

WHEAT— About 48,000 wheat farms signed up in Michigan for the wheat program this fall. Wheat acreage in the Midwest should drop. Public Law 480 was extended for another two years and will help in surplus disposal.

DRY BEANS— COOL, wet weather delayed maturity and slowed harvesting operations in Michigan. Crop was estimated at 6,854,000 bags, down 19 per cent from 1963. A further reduction in this estimate is expected for November. Market continues to register expectations of a possible short supply situation.

SOYBEANS— Prices remain well above supports. Since supply appears ample; no more than a normal seasonal price rise can be expected this crop year.

CORN— OCT. 1 crop estimate of 3.6 billion bushels was 2 per cent under the September estimate, and 13 per cent under 1963. Total feed grain production this year is expected to be 12 per

Vegetable growers' meetings slated

Several meetings of interest to vegetable growers will be taking place in the coming weeks. Kenneth A. Hicks of St. Johns, has reported the sale of one registered horned Hereford bull to Ron J. Shepler Jr., of Alma.

In addition to its fertilizer value, manure returns organic matter to the soil that fosters the growth of micro-organisms essential to good soil structure and plant growth.

Peter Kurnez, Greenbush Township farmer, looks over his fine stand of rye cover crop and crop residue obtained from this 30-acre field. He got 135 bushels of shelled corn per acre and returned the stubble to the soil as mulch by using a flail chopper.

Shredding corn stalks good conservation

BY HARRY HARDEN
Soil Conservation Technician

Many cooperators of the Clinton Soil Conservation District are catching on fast to a new method of shredding corn stalks. This conservation practice provides a mulch for the soil and gives it good protection from severe rains and winds during the coming months.

Flail chopping of corn crop residue makes for ease in farm tillage come planting time next spring. It leaves a mulch on the surface to protect the soil from compaction and leaching caused by severe rains.

THE FINE CORN crop of Peter Kurnez, Greenbush Township farmer, was harvested with a picker-sheller and has returned approximately five tons of dry matter back to the soil. Research and experience have pointed to the need for judicious use of nitrogen fertilizers when large amounts of crop residues are left on the soil surface following stubble mulch tillage.

In the control of soil erosion and leaching, many Clinton County farmers are using a cover crop in their row crops at the last cultivation. Along with residues, this gives very good soil protection.

STOPPING erosion in upstream watersheds is very important. Damage caused from floods and sediment are costing the American people on the average of a half-billion dollars a year.

AGRICULTURE in ACTION

by M. L. Woell
MICHIGAN FARM BUREAU

A prominent Kent County dairyman has taken a look at the future of farming, and plainly likes most of what he sees. Farming in the future will be a dynamic, expanding industry, growing in every area but one, according to Elton Smith, recently elected president of the Michigan Farm Bureau.

The one area of limitation, says Smith, will be in the number of farms and farmers, "which will continue to decline, but their importance will not."

SMITH feels that in the last few years, a number of fallacies concerning agriculture have developed in the minds of people — fallacies which need exploding. "First is the unfounded idea that farming is a declining industry; secondly, that it is a poor vocation for a young man or woman to follow," Smith says.

"In my estimation, exactly the opposite is true. Making it so is our ever-growing United States population, now around 190 million people, all of whom must be fed, clothed and provided with a widening list of services."

IT TAKES about three non-farm workers in "agri-business" to keep one man operating on the farm, according to Smith, who sees dozens of farm-connected business opportunities opening.

"Only a few years ago, 'agri-culture' was limited to direct farming. But progress brought changes in production techniques, quality-control, mechanization, communications and many other fields which caused agriculture to expand in many ways.

"NOW, agriculture includes 'agri-business' and such new jobs as processing of seed and feed; distribution of insecticide, pesticide and fertilizers; inventing, manufacturing, retailing and servicing farm machinery; and sciences of plant and animal health, of hormone and growth control. These jobs and many more are all part of the big business that has become agriculture."

Many young people could and should become part of this dynamic non-farm agriculture industry that has helped people of our country to be fed and clothed with the safest, most wholesome products found anywhere in the world, Smith says.

4.5 million tractors have displaced 22 million work animals on US farms. It would take 76 million acres to grow feed for these animals.

DeWitt farmer gets use of Holstein prefix

J. R. Pennell of DeWitt, will have the exclusive use of the prefix "Penru" in naming all Registered Holstein animals bred in that herd from now on.

Use of this prefix name has been granted by the Holstein-Friesian Association of America. It becomes a permanent part of official breed records at that organization's national headquarters in Brattleboro, Vt. Each prefix is a "trade mark" for the purebred Holstein breeder since it is used in all published information concerning his animals.

Shepardsville man ends 43 years of railway postal work

Hubert M. Hilton of North Shepardsville Road retired Nov. 28 from the Postal Transportation Service after traveling nearly 1 1/2 million miles in 43 years of service.

That distance was covered on trains while Hilton helped transport mail from city to city. He served five years in the Detroit terminal of the Railway Mail Post Office; 16 years on the Buffalo and Chicago, west division, Railway Post Office; and 23 years on the Port Huron and Chicago Postal Transportation Post Office.

"MANY CHANGES have taken place in that time," Hilton said, "some improvements and some not improvements. Many railway postal installations have been discontinued because of curtailment of service of transportation by carriers, the improvement of highways making possible the use of highway post offices and star routes.

"It has always been a source of amazement to me how a piece of mail can travel a long distance and arrive at its destination in a surprisingly short time," he went on.

HE GAVE an example of a letter going from Kansas City, Mo., to Mackinaw City, Mich. A letter placed on board the Chicago, Ft. Madison and Kansas City train 12 leaving Kansas City at 12:35 p.m. will be delivered to the Mackinaw City addressee the next morning. He said the same is true of almost any other post office in southern Michigan.

Train 12 arrives in Chicago 10 minutes before the Port Huron and Chicago train 14 (Grand Trunk Western) leaves, he pointed out. Upon its arrival in Lansing, the first mail to be unloaded is the Cadillac star route and the Mackinaw and Detroit Highway Post Office mail for transfer at Clare.

THE ENTIRE northern half of the Lower Peninsula is served in this manner, Hilton said, insuring delivery in all of that area early in the morning. The mail to Mackinaw City arrives there at 7 a.m.

"The volume of mail transported over trunk railroads in something to stagger the imagination," Hilton said. "Storage cars are loaded at Chicago destined for unloading at Lansing, Flint and Toronto, Ont., all dispatched over the Grand Trunk Western Railroad. Other railroads operate trains which consist entirely of mail and express."

DISTRIBUTORS are examined on their knowledge of distribution and connections for transfer to other carriers. "There is always one best route for transporting of a piece of mail to its destination," Hilton said.

"It has been a rich and rewarding experience to me," he said of his 43 years on the railroad. "There is always something interesting, or perhaps tragic, in the mail. My one object was to see that it was dispatched so as to insure delivery to the addressee at the earliest possible moment."

HILTON LIVES on a farm two miles north of Shepardsville, and he plans to spend a lot of time there now that he is retired. But he does want to do some traveling, now that he has the time.

Tourist Council list attractions

Early December events of possible interest around Michigan include the following, as announced by the Michigan Tourist Council.

Dec. 4-Jan. 3, annual Christmas exposition at Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn; Dec. 5, indoor speed skating meet at Midland; Dec. 5, Perchville parade at Tawas Bay; Dec. 6, Northern Michigan Rifleman Trophy Shoot at Manistee; Dec. 6-31, Christmas carnival at Cobo Hall in Detroit; and Dec. 7-10, Detroit Junior Livestock Show at the state fairgrounds in Detroit.

MORE THAN 50 winter events, scheduled by communities and winter sports areas, are listed in the December-March edition of the Michigan Calendar of Events, just released by the tourist council. Copies of the calendar are available without charge by contacting the council in the Stevens T. Mason Building in Lansing.

Peace Corps test is Monday

For the first time in history, the Peace Corps will give its nationwide placement test on a weekday— next Monday, Dec. 7.

The usual second Saturday in the month isn't possible because of the Christmas rush at the post offices where most Peace Corps tests are held.

IN THIS area, the Peace Corps tests will be given at the post office in Ann Arbor, Battle Creek, Grand Rapids, Lansing and Saginaw and the Federal Building in Flint. They will all begin at 3 p.m., are non-competitive and will take about an hour and a half to complete.

The next cycle of Peace Corps training starts in February, still time for those who take the Dec. 7 test. The major training for 1965 will take place in the summer. Questionnaires are available at most post offices and college placement offices or by writing the Peace Corps, Washington, D. C. 20525.

Bement Library Book Shelf

By Elizabeth Millman

"The Report of the Warren Commission on the Assassination of President Kennedy" is a document of great historical importance. The Library has received a copy of this report published by Bantam Books with the help of the national staff of the New York Times.

It is one of the most thorough presentations of the facts concerning the tragic occurrence of one year ago. It contains an introduction by Harrison Salisbury, Managing Editor of the Times, with other interpretative articles by well-known columnists. There is also a complete picture section.

SINCE President Johnson felt that it was very important that the whole truth of President Kennedy's death be given to the world, copies of this book were airlifted to all important cities. Book-of-the-Month also distributed copies as a special book dividend. It would be good for us all to read this book and know the truth about the crime of the age.

Pablo Picasso is one of the greatest of the modern artists. His life is told in a book by Francoise Gilot who shared a decade of her life with him. "Life With Picasso," is an intimate and revealing portrait of a gifted man. She throws a light on his philosophy, his views of other great artists and his life in modern Paris. In this he comes from behind the screen of myth and legend and emerges as a mortal man.

THESE books listed among the best-sellers by the Chicago Tribune in their magazine, "Books Today," cover a variety of subjects. "Herzog" by Saul Bellow is a tale of man's search for his own character. "The Rector of Justin" by Auchincloss is the story of a headmaster in a boy's school in New England. "The Lost City" by Gunther takes us to Vienna before the Nazis came. "A Song of Sixpence" by Cronin is laid in Scotland. "This Rough Magic" by Mary Stewart gives the reader suspense and romance on a Greek island. "Julian" by Vidal takes us back in history to a pagan Roman emperor, and "Armagedon" by Uris is strife in post-war Germany.

In non-fiction Chaplin's "My Autobiography," is having great popularity. It gives a most interesting picture of the early days of the movie industry.

THESE books are all to be borrowed from the Bement Library.

Road Commission Weekly Report

The Board of Clinton County Road Commissioners will hold their regular meeting Thursday. The commission will open bids on a new pickup truck to replace the sign crew truck that was damaged in an accident on US-27 last week.

The Board will also have some new subdivisions, county line road agreements, winter maintenance problems and the requests of Local 794 of AFSCME for changes in the working agreement for 1965 to consider.

COLDER weather slowed the construction programs. The bridges on Colony Road, however, are scheduled to be opened to traffic as soon as the decks can be sealed and some work on the approaches finished. This should be done in less than two weeks, weather permitting. These bridges will be finished in the spring.

Maintenance crews were concerned with winter work, including tree removals. As previously reported, a new investigation has revealed a count of dead trees along county roads of 8 or 9 thousand. Plans call for removing these hazards along the more traveled primary roads as fast as possible.

CUTTING OF dead trees on local roads will depend on co-operation of local land owners in disposing of the wood. The disposal of the trees is time-consuming and costly. We need help with this problem. How much help we get in getting rid of the wood will determine how much progress is made on the problem.

Litterbugs disgrace

Litterbugs continue to be a disgrace to streets and highways, according to an organization called "Keep America Beautiful." The higher standard of living and increased amount of leisure time, says K.A.B., results in Americans producing more trash annually than ever before.

Men who lack the courage to stand alone aren't fit to lead.

ASC PROGRAM

Call meetings to name ASC community committee

This year ASC community committees will be elected at meetings held in each township the afternoon of Dec. 10. In our county each township is considered a community for ASC administration purposes.

These election meetings will be conducted by the incumbent community committee. The chairman of the community committee will serve as chairman of the election meeting.

THE COMMITTEE to be elected consists of a chairman, vice chairman, regular member and first and second alternate. The chairman, vice chairman, and regular member of this committee also serve respectively as delegate, alternate delegate, and second alternate delegate to a county convention, where the ASC county committee will be elected on Dec. 17 at St. Johns.

4 from county compile all-A record at MSU

Michigan State University has honored four Clinton County students who were among 330 earning all-A records during the spring and summer terms at MSU this year.

Linda Greer, daughter of Mr and Mrs Kenneth Greer of St. Johns, is majoring in journalism. Mrs. Belya R. Howe of R-1, Eagle, is majoring in elementary education. Alan F. Lietzke, son of Mr and Mrs Loren Lietzke, 3880 Cutler Road, and Barbara A. Ondrias, daughter of Mr and Mrs Roy Ondrias, 2960 E. Howe Road, are both from DeWitt. Lietzke is majoring in electrical engineering and Miss Ondrias in elementary journalism.

THE STUDENTS' names will be placed on the university's honor roll, which offers "recognition of the highest attainment in scholarship," MSU President John A. Hannah said.

W. M. SMITH
County ASC Manager

Programs administered by the committeemen include the Agricultural Conservation Program, Acreage Allotments, Marketing Quotas, Commodity Loans, Feed Grain Program, Voluntary Wheat Program, Sugar Act Program, National Wool Program and Farm Storage Facility Loans. Other duties are assigned to the committee by the secretary of Agriculture as the need arises.

THESE meetings will be held at 2 p.m. in the township hall or village hall. A letter will be mailed to each farmer in the county giving the location of these meetings.

Post office speeds delivery of parcels

A new "scheduled delivery" system now permits overnight delivery of ZIP coded parcel post between the St. Johns area and all post offices in a 22,000-square mile area of southern Michigan.

J. D. Robinson, St. Johns postmaster, said the delivery area includes all of southern Michigan below a line from Bay City to Mt. Pleasant to Muskegon. The counties of Huron and Sanilac in the northeast part of this area, and a portion of Berrien County in the southwest are not included, however.

THE AREA includes over 460 post offices and over 7,200,000 persons—nearly 90 per cent of the state's population, Robinson said. Robinson received details of the plan at a luncheon meeting in Detroit Nov. 23.

Mailing deadlines for the service will be 5 p.m. in St. Johns and most other offices in the area. Extensive testing has assured the success of the new program, Robinson said, which in effect offers "first-rate service" for fourth-class mail.

THE POST Office Department found through extensive study that one of the major problems of the parcel post service has been the lack of dependability of delivery. For many mailers, it is often more important to know when a parcel is to be delivered than it is just to get it there in a hurry. For these reasons the Post Office Department developed the concept of scheduled delivery.

In the Michigan scheduled delivery area, parcels will be transported to the destination post office overnight and will be delivered to the addressee on the next scheduled parcel delivery. In most cases this will mean next-day parcel service, Postmaster Robinson explained, because parcel post deliveries are made five days out of the week.

Latest USDA figures show the average American farmer now produces enough food, fiber and other products for 31 people; 26 in this country and five overseas.

Each year American farmers harvest 70 million acres of forage crops as hay and 10 million acres as silage. Forage seed production in the US amounts to 875 billion pounds annually.

Soap Box Derby franchise awarded

St. Johns is one of 38 cities in the United States that has already been awarded a franchise to conduct a local Soap Box Derby contest, prelude to the Chevrolet-sponsored national championship at Akron, Ohio, next Aug. 7. Five Michigan cities are on that list. No date for the local contest has been announced.

Clinton's Civic Calendar

Officers of these organizations are advised to notify The Republican-News at least one week in advance of the date of publication of the issue in which any change in the regular schedule should appear.

We Won!

Garry and I won first prize last Saturday! It was the young people's Olde Tyme costume party at the church, and we had a wonderful time.

I go to almost everything the club puts on, and of course there are lots of activities besides parties and dances. We visit hospitals, we collect and repair toys for underprivileged children, and we help with various church events. We have regular religious discussion groups that often get me so interested I continue the discussion around the family dinner table all week long! Mom and Dad don't mind, though. They think it's good for me to be mixing with other young Christians, and they never worry when I'm over at the club.

Your own church offers many enjoyable and worthwhile activities for Christians of every age. Why not join? You'll be warmly welcomed.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Plan visit of Bloodmobile here

A pint of life-giving blood is being suggested as a perfect Christmas gift this year, and the Clinton County Bloodmobile will be in St. Johns Dec. 22 to help pass along the gift to those who need it.

Some 200 pints of blood are sought by officials of the Clinton County Blood Bank program, which conducts a semi-annual blood drive in St. Johns. Mrs. Kenneth Spicer of 804 E. Baldwin Street is chairman for the city's bloodmobile program.

THE RED Cross will set up the Bloodmobile at the St. Joseph School Gym, and it will be open from noon until 6 p.m. on Tuesday, Dec. 22.

Mrs. Spicer pointed out that blood donated will actually help people in the county. Clinton County is a member of the Red Cross Blood Bank region, headquartered in Lansing, and anyone living in the county is eligible to receive needed blood free, regardless of where they might be in the United States at the time.

DONATIONS of blood will keep Clinton County in the Blood Bank program, so that area folks can benefit directly. Mrs. Spicer pointed out that a donation of a pint of blood would be a Christmas gift of year-round significance. Many persons in the county need blood annually, she said, and with it costing $35 a pint, the savings to every potential user is tremendous.

A telephone campaign will be held prior to the Bloodmobile visit, with volunteer workers calling persons who have donated blood previously. The volunteers will ask for pledges of blood, Mrs. Spicer said, and will assume that people who make the pledges will actually show up for the Bloodmobile Dec. 22.

BLOOD COLLECTED in the St. Johns drive will be sent directly to the Lansing Regional Blood Center where it will be typed and stored. The names of donors will be sent to the Red Cross office in St. Johns.

Dairy calves have been shipped to Europe on a passenger jetliner in specially made heavy-duty cardboard cartons and arrived in fine shape, says the North Dakota State University College of Agriculture. The trip took six hours.

Carson City Hospital building 4 new homes

Construction began last week on four homes to house interns and residents of Carson City Hospital. The homes are on Maple Street in Carson City.

The board of directors of the hospital approved the construction of the new homes "in order to offer facilities which will continue to attract physicians in training of the highest caliber."

THE TRAINING of interns and residents has been an intricate part of the operation of Carson City Hospital (Osteopathic) since 1938. It is the only hospital in this area approved for this training.

Each of the new homes will consist of two bedrooms, bath, living room, dinette, kitchen, utility room and closets. Two units will be constructed jointly so that the homes may be increased or decreased by one bedroom, depending on the size of the family to occupy them.

EACH DOUBLE unit will be 76 feet by 29 feet and of brick construction. It will be equipped with full utilities and completely furnished. Each unit will have a half basement for storage, heating plant, water heater and softener.

The current-income Series H US Savings Bond is attractive as a safe, well-paying investment, with a yield of 3 3/4 per cent interest, when held to maturity.

Land landings

Christmas tree law explained

Don't transport Christmas trees, evergreen boughs, or certain decorative native plants without having first received a bill of sale from the seller or giver, advises Agricultural Director G. S. McIntyre.

Transportation of even one tree without a bill of sale is illegal. There is one exception to this. During December when most citizens buy trees for their homes, two Christmas trees may be transported without any bill of sale.

THE PURPOSE of the law, passed in 1962 and superseding a similar previous act, is to prevent theft of Christmas trees and other decorative plant materials. The previous law also was effective in checking illegal removal of Christmas trees and other such material from private and public lands. Such thefts had been extensive in some areas.

For landowners transporting their own trees, it is necessary for them to have in possession a current tax receipt or deed to the land from which the trees or other cut plant materials were removed.

THE BILL of sale forms to be used in the transportation of Christmas trees and decorative materials are available at offices of the Michigan Department of Agriculture's Plant Industry Division at Lansing or elsewhere. They also are available at Conservation Department offices, state police posts, or the offices of sheriffs or county Extension directors.

The law authorizes employees of the Michigan Departments of Agriculture and Conservation and all enforcement officers in the state to enforce the act.

Week in honor of leader dogs

ELSIE— Jack Hawes, president of the Elsie Lions Club, reminded the citizens of the community that Nov. 29 through Dec. 5 has been proclaimed "Leader Dog Week" by Gov. George Romney. During Leader Dog Week attention is called to the important rehabilitation program being conducted at the Rochester leader dog school in the state.

A non-profit school, Leader Dogs for the Blind, was founded in 1939 by Lions of Michigan, and has since trained over 2,000 leader dog teams (leader dog and blind person). Leader dogs are furnished, without charge, to all eligible applicants. Lions arrange the enrollment of every eligible person who expresses an interest in obtaining a leader dog and sponsors projects for the growth of the school. Lions also supply many German Shepherds, Labrador and Golden Retrievers, between the ages of one and two years for the leader dog training program. All dogs are contributed to them.

Any blind person interested in obtaining a Leader Dog may contact members of the Elsie Lions Club. Anyone interested in contributing a potential leader dog may write Leader Dogs for the Blind, Rochester, Mich.

Play presented by EHS juniors

ELSIE—The performance of "The Worm Shall Squirm" was given by the Junior Class at Elsie High School Saturday evening before a large crowd.

The cast showed the results of weeks of rehearsals under the direction of Mrs. A. W. Cobb.

PRECEDING the opening act, Ralph Stull, principal of EHS and Mrs. Stull were escorted to the stage by members of the class. Dean Schulz, who served as master of ceremonies, presented Stull with a ribbon on behalf of the Junior Class and dedicated the play to him for his many years of service. Mrs. Stull was given a box of candy.

Mrs. Cobb and student directors Terri Randolph and Ron Stamber-sky were given corsages.

FOLLOWING the play, about 50 members of the junior class and guests, attended a party at the home of one of their members, Nancy Thornton. Records and dancing provided entertainment. The hostess and her parents, Mr and Mrs Norval Thornton, served refreshments.

A large cake decorated with the play's theme centered the buffet table.

Archery Club will be shown African film

ELSIE— The Ovid-Elsie Archery Club will sponsor "An African Travelogue," narrated by Len Stuttman at the American Legion Hall in Elsie, Dec. 12, at 8 p.m.

Len Stuttman, an experienced film producer, world traveler, and lecturer, lives close to the people during his travels, sharing their daily experiences and translating them on film. He has produced films for the US Fish and Wildlife Service in Alaska, Coronet Industrial Films, CBS-TV and others.

The East Africa adventure represents a trek from Nairobi to the forbidden shores of Lake Randolph. The mystery lake is 180 miles long and 30 miles wide and lies at the extreme northeast tip of Kenya.

THE SAFARI, beginning at Nairobi goes to Rumuti in the highlands where Carr Hartley captures game animals for zoos around the world. It continues on to the mountain, Ol-Iolokine, legendary elephant graveyard and then descends into the famous Rift Valley. The safari then reaches its destination, Lake Randolph, with its colorful flamingoes, myriads of waterfowl, six-foot war-trogs, tribal fisher men, rare fish, and 20-foot crocodiles.

This color film is the first in a series of programs by the Ovid-Elsie Archery Club. Tickets are on sale by members, at Debar's Garage, J & M Restaurant in Elsie, and Stedman Barber Shop in Ovid. Other events planned are potlucks and dances.

The Ovid-Elsie Archery Club had its start a few years ago as the "Missing Arrows" with less than a dozen members. It now owns ten acres of land, two miles south and 1/2 mile east of Elsie, and has a membership of 27 families. Last summer they constructed a clubhouse, equipped with kitchen, dining, and heating facilities.

THEY HAVE 28 targets, half of them field targets and other half animal. During the winter, the club meets on Wednesday evenings and in the summer on Thursdays. Children are eligible on family memberships until they reach the age of 18.

The Archery Club is a member of the Central Michigan Archery Association. The local group conducted a tournament last summer and plans another for 1965. Ribbon award winners were Dick Morley, Mike Lewis, Jim Hurst, Jim Doten, Gary Lee Wiltsie and Lowell Lockwood.

Several members took advantage of the bow and arrow hunting season but only one returned with a 90 pound spikehorn deer. Officers of the Ovid-Elsie Archery Club are: Jim Hurst, president; Jim Doten, vice president; Don Hugelot, secretary and treasurer; Lowell Lockwood, field captain; and Duane LaRue, assistant field captain.

County Cancer Club thanked for check

ELSIE— The Clinton County Chapter of the American Cancer Society has received an acknowledgement for the $1500 gift they presented to the Medical Center, University of Michigan.

The letter written by Jere M. Bauer, MD, associate professor of internal medicine at the Medical Center, said in part:

"I want to acknowledge officially the receipt of the check for $1500 from the Clinton County Unit for support of the cancer research in my laboratory. I would also like to express my thanks to the members of your unit for taking time out to pay us a visit. It is always an inspiration to me to see how much interest the workers in the American Cancer Society take in all phases of the cancer problem and particularly in the research aspects . . ."

Each day there are 8,000 more Americans to be fed, says the University of Maryland Extension Service. By 1975, the US population will require 25 per cent more milk, 35 per cent more fruit, 36 per cent more beef and 45 per cent more chicken, pork and eggs than is now being produced.

Movie on smoking shown at Senior Citizens' meeting

Dr R. L. Wohlers of St. Johns was speaker last Tuesday at the Senior Citizens' Day meeting at Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall.

Dr Wohlers spoke briefly and showed a new film, "Beyond a Reasonable Doubt," concerning cigarette smoking. It portrayed four college athletes, one of whom smokes, and his pregnant wife.

DR WOHLERS pointed out that he "didn't come here today to frighten people or to convert them. But 'beyond a reasonable doubt' the lesson is clear. Cigarettes," he charged, "can ruin beauty, health, cause cancer, heart trouble and premature births."

He noted that over 4,000 teenagers are starting to smoke each day. Although a few quit or cut down, cigarette sales continue to rise.

THE NEW film is available for groups of all kinds. Dr Wohlers will help make arrangements for showing it.
