New Lansing go-go trend doesn't bother officials

DEWITT TOWNSHIP—It took a while for it to reach Lansing and Clinton County, but topless go-go dancing can be viewed nightly at a popular DeWitt Township night club.

"Business has naturally picked up," a spokesman for C.D.'s management said. "And we have had no trouble at all here."

The show, which has featured three girls who dance about 15 minutes each hour, is in no danger from closing, according to Clinton County officials.

"I haven't had any complaints about the show," County Prosecutor Jon Newman commented Thursday. "There is a serious question as to whether there is anything wrong at all with this show. To label it as indecent exposure seems somewhat unfair."

Newman said his office and the sheriff department would utilize the Michigan Liquor Control Commission's regulations. "I think that would be the proper way to go about it. The Liquor Control Commission has problems enforcing the rulings. The word 'obscene' is a pretty general thing."

The county and state officials are awaiting a decision from the courts in Detroit before asking club owners to halt the shows or give their performers more clothes. The case concerns a show at the Playboy Club in Detroit that was closed by the Circuit Court, but is currently on appeal. Until the appeal is heard by the courts, the clubs can remain open with their shows. Newman said the ruling could come any time between 60 days to six months from the time the appeal is filed. If the appeal is ruled, upholding the original decision, Newman indicated that some sort of vague standard would be set up to govern the shows.

C.D.'s spokesman, however, indicated that the club's show is different from the ones in Detroit. "This is a different type of thing and it's not going to hurt anything. We try to run the show in good taste," he pointed out that the girls do not dance continuously, only two numbers an hour, with a short routine between band sets.

"Most of the time, people are dancing while the girls are performing on stage," he said.

He added that representatives from the DeWitt Township police department and the Liquor Control Commission had seen the show and, "said it was in good taste." He noted that the show was not the "bump-and-grind" type that is prevalent elsewhere. "We also try to keep good bands for entertainment," he added.

He said that business was "real bad" before opening with the go-go dancers, but

Robertson ends nearly 50 years of service

PORTLAND—The Maynard-Allen State Bank of Portland has announced the retirement of Malcolm B. Robertson, vice-president. Robertson's retirement was effective Dec. 31, 1971.

Robertson joined the staff of Maynard-Allen State Bank in December, 1922. During his tenure, he served the bank in almost every capacity. He was appointed to his current position of vice-president in January, 1957 and was elected to the board of directors that same year.

Robertson and his wife Trophena, reside at 230 S. Lincoln St., Portland. Their daughter, Jane, is a speech pathologist for Barry County. Robertson is a former member of the Portland Volunteer Fire Department in which he was active for 29 years.

that business has turned around. "We have real good crowds now."

Karl N. Toney, of the Liquor Control Commission, said the show is legal as far as the commission is concerned. He said that while the Detroit case is pending "bare bosoms are legal."

The DeWitt Township police department indicated they have checked out the show and find it within the law. "They have kept the show within the law and it is basically a clean show," commented police Chief Bruce Angell.

"We did insist that the girls be covered in moving from one part of the club to their posts at the stage," Angell said. "They have cooperated real well."

Angell added that with the standards set up so far, several other Lansing night spots would go topless.

Iacovoni wins promotion as regional supervisor

By TIM YOUNKMAN
Editor

ST. JOHNS—Gordon Iacovoni, 38, parole and probation agent in Clinton County, has been promoted to a supervisory capacity with the Michigan Department of Corrections, it was disclosed Monday.

Iacovoni will assume his new duties as district supervisor in Traverse City, a region incorporating 22 counties in both the Upper-Lower Peninsulas. He will be in charge of supervising eight parole and probation agents assigned to the Traverse City district.

Iacovoni, who has been the Circuit Court probation officer for nine years, came to St. Johns from Mt. Clemens where he was Macomb County's parole and probation agent for one and one-half years. He had also worked for three years as a counselor at Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson.

He noted that there had been several new programs instituted through the state correction department since he came to Clinton County, citing the work-pass program, the furlough system for prisoners and the correction center concept.

He pointed to the work-pass concept as giving the prisoner a better start once he is released from prison since he can work at a trade and receive a paycheck to help with family responsibilities.

"We are still trying some of these programs and are in the process, really, of evaluating them," Iacovoni said.

Iacovoni, who is responsible for probation and parole for Clinton County and parole for Ionia County, has about 70 people assigned to his office. He noted that the number is on the increase, which is basically a state wide trend. He said that at one time there was a period when the figure went down, although he couldn't pinpoint the reason. "Now, it is on an increase."

He said the parole and probation programs "have merit. The amount of success outweighs the problems. You have to define what you mean by success or by failure and it is sometimes hard to do. This is an individual thing."

Iacovoni is married and resides at 1006 Hampshire in St. Johns. He and his wife, Evelene, have four children. They are David, 15, Stephen, 14, Janice, 13, and Danny, 13.

Iacovoni will be succeeded by William H. Hudson, a parole agent in Grand Rapids.

GORDON IACOSONI

Hudson was formerly assigned department duties at the Ionia Reformatory before moving to Grand Rapids. The personnel change is expected to take place sometime in January, Iacovoni said.

Ice, rain bring minor accidents

ST. JOHNS—Slippery roads accounted for several early morning property damage accidents Thursday, according to the Clinton County Sheriff department.

Richard Laverne Hennewald, 22, 3829 Palmer St., Lansing, told deputies that he hit some clumps of snow and lost control of his auto, sliding into the roadside ditch early Thursday morning in Greenbush Township. Hennewald's auto struck a state highway department road sign. No violations were cited.

Another accident at about 7:55 a.m. sent deputies to US-27 at Livingston Road in Greenbush Township.

Lynn Michele Bernadett, 17, 30122 Fiddler's Green, Farmington told officers she tried to stop, but skidded into the rear of an auto driven by Rose Jean Stevens, 23, 2700 Eaton Rapids Road, Lansing.

The Stevens vehicle was attempting to avoid a collision with another auto that was stuck in a roadside ditch, and she did not see the Bernadett vehicle until the impact. Officers said the road was "very slippery" and no violations were cited.

Jennifer knows hospitals

By ANNETTE WHITE
News Society Editor

She may only be two years old but little Jennifer Lynn Seibert knows her way around the hospital.

Jennifer, daughter of Mrs. Gail Seibert of Centerline Road, St. Johns has been in and out of hospitals since she was born.

After her birth Dec. 2, 1969 in Carson City, doctors told Mrs. Seibert that her child had a cleft palate and lip and that he would like doctors at Children's Hospital in Detroit to operate to correct the trouble.

After a series of operations and while in the recovery room following her third operation another problem arose and it was discovered that her heart was not functioning properly.

On Jan. 19, Jennifer will return to Children's Hospital for open heart surgery. A team of doctors at the hospital will repair a hole about the size of a dime in the lower two chambers of her heart and also repair a damaged valve.

"The doctors are very confident that there will be no problems, however, the most important thing now is that she doesn't catch a cold before the operation to weaken her lungs," said Mrs. Seibert.

"Jennifer only weighs 17 pounds as her food intake is quickly taken to help her overworked heart," reports her mother.

Except for her slight build Jennifer has the same interests and looks like a healthy child. "She sets her own limits and when she gets tired she takes a rest," says her mother.

Mrs. Seibert expects that Jennifer will be in the hospital for about three or four weeks following the operation.

When she recovers completely she will re-enter the hospital to have further treatment which will involve about three or four more operations to correct the congenital fissure of her mouth.

Referring to her child's heart condition Mrs. Seibert said that she was able to talk to another mother whose child had received open heart surgery. "Talking to someone that has gone through it builds your hopes and keeps you going. I have lots of faith."

Mrs. Seibert has another child, Larry, five years old.

Jennifer Lynn Seibert and her brother, Larry won't be able to play together for awhile as Jennifer will enter Children's Hospital in Detroit for open heart surgery on Jan. 19. PHOTO BY ANNETTE WHITE

Kallman says he'll run for judgeship

Among the numerous organizations he belongs to, he is a member of the National Council of Juvenile Court Judges and the Michigan Probate and Juvenile Judges Association. He is a member of the Williamston Baptist Church and resides in Okemos, Michigan, with his wife and six children.

OKEMOS — Ingham County Senior Probate Judge, James T. Kallman, has announced his candidacy for Ingham County's Fifth Circuit Judicial seat being vacated by Judge Sam Street Hughes. Judge Hughes has indicated his retirement since he is constitutionally ineligible to succeed himself.

Circuit Judges serve a six-year term and will be included as candidates on the November 1972 ballot.

Judge Kallman has held the Probate Court seat since he was appointed by Governor George Romney to fill an unexpired term in February of 1963. While serving as the Senior Ingham County Probate Judge, Judge Kallman has also acted as a visiting judge to the Wayne County Circuit and Recorders Court Bench pursuant to appointment by the Michigan Supreme Court Administrator's Office. Judge Kallman was one of the first Probate Judges in Michigan to have been so honored.

Kallman, 44, graduated from Gladstone High School, the University of Michigan and the Wayne State University Law School. He is a veteran of World War II and the Korean conflict. Judge Kallman began practicing law in Lansing in 1958 and was appointed Circuit Court Commissioner in 1960.

After Governor Romney's appointment in 1963, Kallman ran and was elected, in 1964 and again in 1970, to serve successive six-year terms as Judge of Probate.

Kallman was elected by the Probate Judges of Michigan to serve as their first member on the Judicial Tenure Commission for the state of Michigan. He was also a former member of Governor Romney's Crime Commission.

Christmas Eve thieves net phone

DEWITT—And Merry Christmas to you, Lady. That appears to be the sentiment of thieves here Christmas Eve according to the Clinton County Sheriff reports.

Mrs. Rose Pitchford, 11281 Francis Road, DeWitt, told deputies that someone had stolen her telephone. Reports indicate that a rear door of the Pitchford residence was opened and the lock broken Christmas Eve while the family was away.

Missing is a beige plug-in type telephone that had been sitting on a table near the door. The phone, property of the Grand Ledger district General Telephone Company, has not been recovered.

Fix-It Tip

Before winter sets in with a firm grip, remember to turn off the water supply to the outside faucets and to drain them. Should a pipe freeze, turn off the water supply, open the faucet and apply heat slowly until thawing starts. Use electric heating cable, a hair dryer or a heat lamp. In case a pipe splits, you should have a few pipe clamps on hand and some pieces of rubber hose. These will hold things until repairs can be made.

Soil district holds nomination meet

ST. JOHNS—The Clinton County Soil Conservation District nominating committee met Dec. 22 to nominate candidates for the position of district director to be elected at the Annual Meeting, Feb. 12 at Ovid-Elsie High School.

Keith Smith is a farmer in Victor Township and Gordon Howard is a partner in the S&H Farms in Greenbush Township. Robert Moore is a certified seed producer in Duplain Township and Stanley Baird is a dairy farmer in DeWitt Township.

Terry Powell, 1750 W. Chadwick Road, DeWitt, told deputies that his 1970 Ski Doo snowmobile had been stolen from his car port at about 4 p.m. Tuesday. The vehicle was valued at about $1,100.

DEWITT—Clinton County Sheriff deputies are investigating a DeWitt resident's complaint that his 1970 snowmobile had been stolen from his home Tuesday.

Open Letter from VAN W. HOAG

Dear friends, It deserves emphasis that the time, the place, the character of the funeral service, the merchandise used, the cemetery selected - these are decisions of the family of the deceased. The funeral director acts only as a representative of the family. The clergyman should be consulted in matters that concern him before any decisions are made.

Respectfully,

Van W. Hoag

ST. JOHNS FOWLER MAPLE RAPIDS OVID

Diane Vanderstow now Mrs. James Wierman

Diane Vanderstow became the bride of James Wierman Saturday, Jan. 1 in a double ring ceremony performed in St. Johns Lutheran Church at 4 p.m. Rev. Robert Koeppen officiated at the service before an altar decorated with lavender and white carnations.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Vanderstow Jr. of R-1, St. Johns and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin R. Wierman of 114 West Alward Road, DeWitt.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and chose an empire-style peasant gown of tulle lace over taffeta featuring a scoop neckline, Bishop sleeves with a ruffle cuff and a deep ruffle at the hemline. A pink sash set off the waistline and formed a bow in the back with long streamers. A peasant-style lace hat secured her mantilla veil and she carried a white Bible centered with a lavender orchid arrangement.

Maid of honor was Lynn Riley of St. Johns and serving as bridesmaid was Mary Huntley of Fort Wayne, Ind. The attendants wore peasant-style lavender taffeta gowns styled after the bride's gown. They carried a nosegay of white carnations and lavender rosebuds with lavender streamers.

Best man was Mike Wierman, brother of the groom, and Carl Murray, friend of the groom, was groomsman. Seating the guests were ushers Wayne Underwood and Dan Boos, Matthew Underwood, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the church for 200 guests.

The couple are both 1971 graduates of St. Johns High School.

If you want to rearrange heavy furniture, lift one end at a time and put a child's roller skate under each end. If you are moving the piece over bare floors, first glue felt to the skate wheels.

Knitted or crocheted coasters come in handy to use on metal cans that might leave rust rings in the bathroom. If you have no coasters of this type, make some out of the tops of worn socks. These coasters work fine and save scrubbing up.

Regardless of what kind of window cleaner you use

(even plain water with a squeegee and chamolis), be sure to wipe the window until it is COMPLETELY dry or the window will streak.

Spray an insecticide around the casings after washing windows on the outside and they will stay clear of spider webs when you put up the storm windows.

To keep small tools in easy reach, cut off the top of an old leather glove, nail it where it will be handy, and place the pliers, screwdriver, wrench, etc., in the fingers of the glove.

Don't drink and sell

ST. JOHNS—Driving and drinking don't often mix. But an Elsie man found out that drinking and selling his vehicle don't mix either.

He reported the theft of his license plates to the Clinton County Sheriff department Wednesday, after apparently selling his truck to two patrons of the Bannister Bar after he had struck up a conversation with them.

He said after talking for a while the two men offered to buy the 1951 pickup truck for $47.50 and an old range. They told Louis Southwell, of 117 E. Oak St., Elsie, that they would return the license plates, but failed to do so.

The truck is a light blue 1951 Ford pickup truck and the plates were identified as Michigan DKT-2161. On the sides of the truck appears "Ernie Highwater-Light Hauling."

Bits and Pieces

Futile Conflict . . .

By HAROLD SCHMALTZ

You've read in the history books about the war between the North and the South and you've probably also seen it referred to as a needless bloodbath. Indeed it was? Because of foolish pride and a principle that was so tainted with selfish motives, our nation was scarred with ugly marks that will never be erased. Yet, I'm not so sure we've learned anything from the mistakes of those who lived that experience over 100 years ago. Let us pray that we have.

The study of the Civil War has always been an intense interest of mine and it may have very well been cultivated when as a young child I saw the motion picture, "Gone With The Wind". How impressionable that movie must have been, for as a child of six or seven years of age when I first saw it, I never forgot it. I thought it would be an interesting experience to view the movie once again, only this time through the eyes of an individual with a deeper understanding of events.

As a child I remembered scenes depicting the horror and suffering caused by war. Blue or gray, it didn't matter to me then. I only knew Americans were killing Americans and I couldn't understand why. It might be strange, but I still don't understand why, even after 20 some years. The answer still evades me. The only answer that historians can offer is that on one side, namely the Confederates, were so filled with foolish pride and arrogance that they thought they were actually fighting for a principle. This principle was in essence so filled with false motives that self-gain through avenues of least effort was really the principle and nothing else!

THE SOUTH AT THAT TIME was filled with aristocracy so great that no one recognized the signs of a sick society that was developing. Observers from the Northern end could see it happening but would the South listen? Indeed they would not. It took total destruction of everything that was beautiful to press the point. The South thought the perfect answer was to secede from the Union and start a country a government of their own. Who was the intelligence in this thinking?

Maybe if we were to understand that our country at that time was less than 100 years old and the spirit of revolution was still flowing through men's minds from the struggle for independence from England, perhaps we could see an evidence of how the situation came about. Apparently, there was much unharnessed feeling of not wanting to be told what to do and how to do it. Perhaps it took more than that span of time from England's rule to bring society's thinking into focus.

A YOUNG COUNTRY might very well be identified as a young child suddenly given responsibilities and privileges at too young an age. Maybe our people then weren't able to cope with situations that required little more than communication of ideas.

I think perhaps both sides of the conflict were a bit hasty in their actions toward one another. The North felt a sense of duty to hold the country together and the South obviously wanted no part of their plans to accomplish this. Two totally different civilizations were heading in opposite directions and that's where the friction started. It might be said that both sides couldn't see the forest for the trees. In spite of how it may have happened, it did happen and we can't turn back pages of history and undo what has been done. We can only hope that something was learned out of it all.

Happy Homemaking By BARBARA BAKER

When taking ashes out of the fireplace, dampen a folded newspaper on one side and turn face down over the scuttle or bucket. Simply lift a corner of the paper as you put in each shovelful of ashes and the damp paper will catch the flying dust. The cardboard that comes in a laundered shirt is a more satisfactory "picker upper" than a shovel.

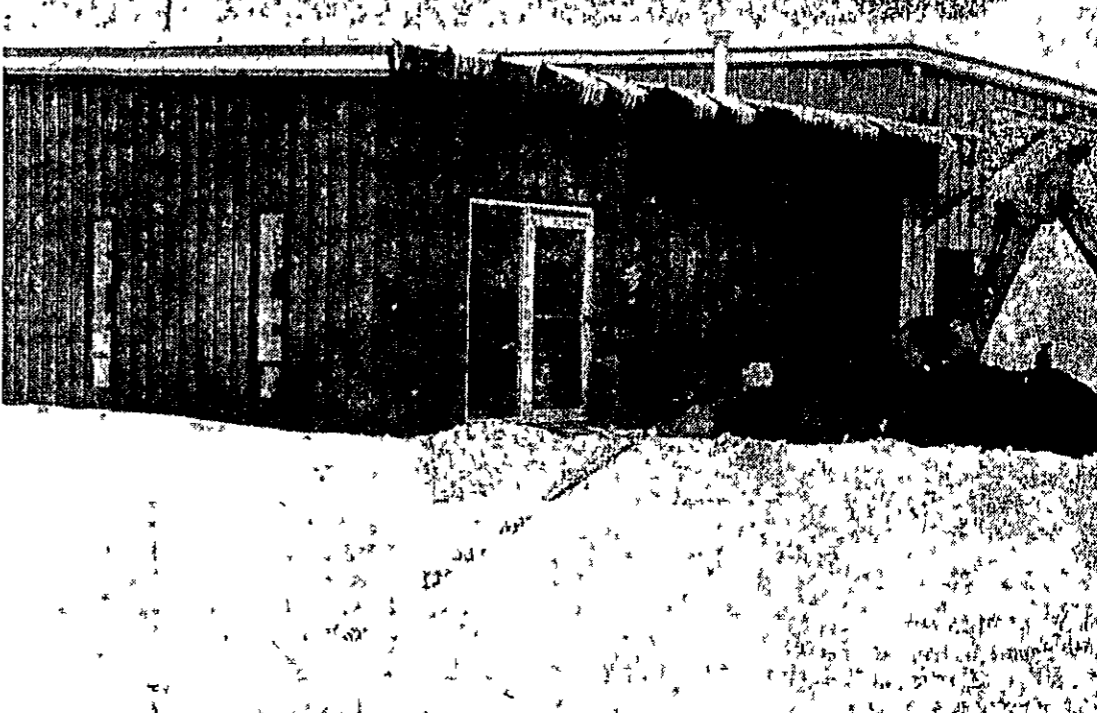

Keep cleanser handy in the bathroom. After taking a shower, it will be easy to scrub down the shower stall walls and floor while you are still in it. Without respect for people no man can be of real service to himself or others.

Following the caroling, they returned to Wesley Center for a time of fellowship and refreshment. Several from this area attended Christmas Eve services at the Elsie United Methodist Church. Business notes

By MIKE PREVILLE

Well, at least I picked Oklahoma to win. Let's wrap up the football season with several presentations and of course the big prediction.

I think after watching the bowl games that the top three teams in the country are Nebraska, Oklahoma and Colorado. . . all from the Big 8 Conference.

Now for the awards.

Most over-rated team: Alabama, of course. Why I think Michigan could beat them.

Most over-rated player: Alabama's galloping Italian stallion, Johnny Musso. But, he did make some yardage when Nebraska started playing freshmen and cheerleaders.

Biggest Crybaby: Cornell's Ed Marinaro. After telling all he should have won the Heisman Trophy he excused his two crucial fumbles in the Shrine game by saying he was playing "out of position." He sure was. . . about 2,500 miles out of position.

Most unappreciated player: Oklahoma's Jack Mildren. This man made the wishbone go and should have received the Heisman.

Most exciting player: Nebraska's Johnny Rogers. I can't fault Alabama's punt coverage (nor Oklahoma's if you remember Thanksgiving Day) but that little dude sure can run.

Worst Bet of the Season: I gave Red Devereaux at Bee's Nebraska and 3 points.

And in the Super Bowl. . . Miami, all the way.

once they are in the classroom they feel alright, can do the work and even to some extent, enjoy themselves as much as their less fearful classmates.

should go, the symptoms get increasingly worse, and he will forcibly resist being walked to school, or taking the bus.

THE CHILD WHO FEARS SCHOOL

Every year in the fall, as we all know, children either start for the first time, or return to school after summer vacation.

While not all youngsters are thrilled about going up vacation and enjoyment, most of them are reasonably eager to return; some are reluctant, but have no serious difficulty in accepting the fact; a few are fearful and refuse to attend.

While their number is relatively small, their predicament is a serious one. Parents should be aware that the problem exists and that if it touches their household, there is help available through our mental health centers.

In our area, we consider "school phobia," as our professionals call it, a true medical and psychological emergency.

LEAVING HOME

The term school phobia, or fear of school, is not really accurate, since the child's apprehension is more about leaving home in the morning than about staying in school.

Many of these youngsters, in fact, find that while they are very reluctant to get to school,

TRUANCY VS. PHOBIA

It is easy to distinguish between the child who is having a problem in school (hasn't done his homework, is being bullied by an older youngster, can't get along with a particular teacher), and the truly fearful school boy.

The youngster who wants to skip school for reasons of his own, has no trouble leaving home. He never does get to school; he is tardy; he gets involved in other activities away from either home or school.

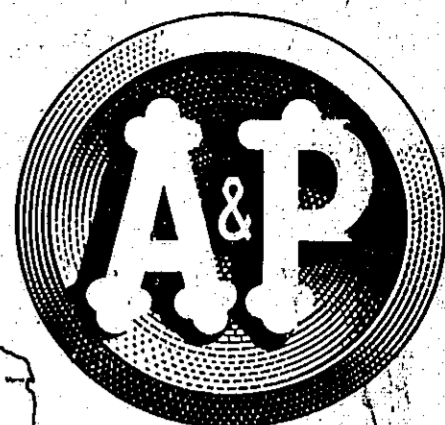

The child with the problem is truly afraid to get out of the four comforting walls of his home. He is something of a homebound little character, to begin with, very attached to both the immediate environment and the important people within it.

He may or may not be described as "nervous" by the parents, but he usually is quieter, more subdued, less sociable but more polite than the average child. As the time approaches when he needs to get ready for school, he becomes more and more terrified. He cries, he has a stomach ache, throws up and may even develop a slight fever.

Winter wonderland

Fallen trees and tangled shrubs add a battle-field effect to the early hours after last week's snowfall.

After spring-like temperatures in the early days of December, winter seems to finally arrive to the area as the snow was piled up in the center of Clinton Ave. before road crews removed it.

The snowy riverbanks are closing in on the flowing Maple River and soon all movement will stop as ice will form, signifying the start of several months of freezing weather.

Free clinic to be held

The free immunization clinic will be held in the Congregational Church basement from 8:30 a.m. to 11 a.m. on Jan. 13. COMMUNICATION-

TION!

IT'S A BIG WORD BUT OFTEN HAS LITTLE MEANING

But beginning Wednesday, January 12 we at Clinton National Bank will be doing something to make communications between us and our customers more meaningful.

On that date we'll begin a series of "banktalks," a program of weekly gatherings in the customer lounge area of our main lobby. These evening chats will be attended by our top level officers and customers who have indicated a desire to participate. They'll last as long as the conversation does and cover any bank related subject that happens to come up. We hope you'll tell us what you like or dislike about Clinton National, our policies or practices. Conversely, we'll try to give you an insight into our business and the role we see ourselves playing in our community. Hopefully, along this line of communication we'll have a better understanding of where we both really stand.

From these chats we look forward to new and refreshing ideas from outside. Too frequently we try to think like a customer but end up deciding like a banker and through this series of "banktalks" we expect to stockpile a reserve of ideas and suggestions that will lead to more effective service to customers and our community.

This is our way of making the big word "communications" take on a little more meaning.

If you'd like to meet with us one of these evenings, give us a call.

Speedway.

The only sports snowmobile of its kind made in the U.S.A.

Speedway. Completely new. It's unlike anything on the market. It's as snowmobile as a snowmobile can be. But it's more. It's a snowmobile built in the tradition of Ferrari, Corvette and Jaguar. A sports machine with flair and integrity. In design. In engineering. In performance.

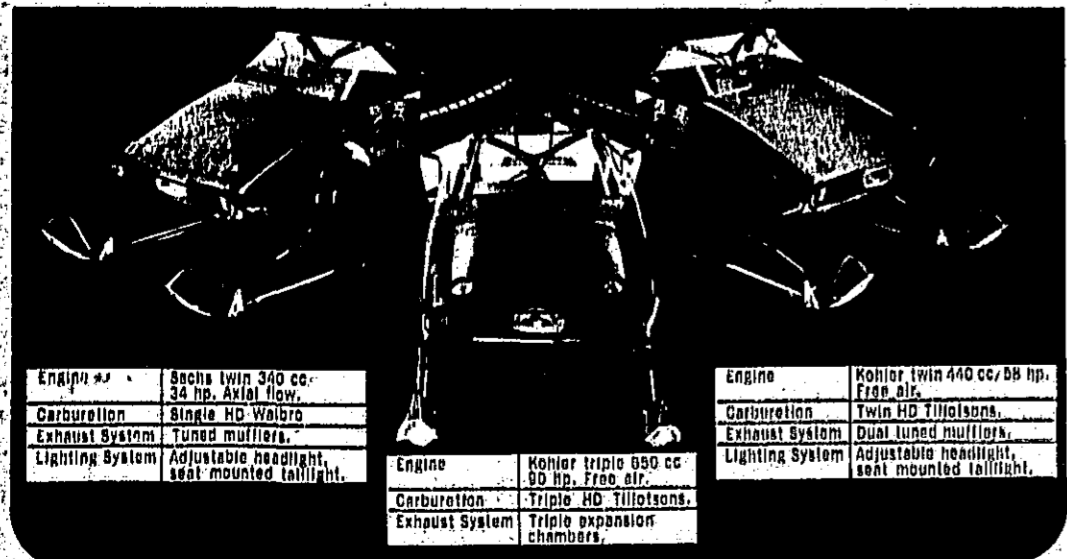

Speedway. America's first true sport snowmobile. It's a snowmobile with decidedly crisp, clean, and functional lines. Its styling and pace-setting engineering share as much design finesse with Italy as with California.

As you'd expect from a thoroughbred, you get fiscal integrity. You get a speedometer and tachometer. Standard. A fuel gauge. Standard. Dual sprocket track drive. Standard. Ram-air induction hood with racing lock pins. Standard. Silder suspension. Standard. Shock absorber ski suspension. Standard. There's even an adjustable thumb/hand throttle control. You guessed it. Standard.

The slide rail suspension, plus the quad-leaf/shock absorber ski suspension means agility. The Speedway carves through slaloms like clay and comes out as straight as a Trevino tee shot. Power abounds throughout the three model line but dyed-in-the-wool competitors will really respond to the nearly limitless power in the Speedway 650. Fantastic!

Now if all this doesn't trigger a flow of adrenalin, maybe you'd better look over the entire 3 model line. 340, 440, and 650. Buy any other snowmobile and all you get is today's snowmobile. Buy a Speedway and you get a piece of tomorrow.

Let's dream a little

As a new year comes into being it is always better to approach it with positive thoughts, good hopes, happiness in our lives and those with whom we associate.

So often it is easy to think of all the wrong things, the baddies, that have occurred the past 12 months and look, perhaps realistically, at some of the stumbles facing us in the coming year.

We suggest that always looking at things realistically isn't the best solution in working toward more Utopian aspects of our lives. Dreams have a way of coming into being, and if we don't have good dreams, then the future is bound to look more dismal, more nightmarish.

It is so human to worry about the little things that don't amount to much, one way or the other. And, the past few years have brought us many major problems that occupy our minds and our lives.

But to look at every change as bad, before being proven that way, is being a pessimist in the strongest way. It is a rut that is easily come by and we've all been in it.

So our suggestion to our community and our people for 1972 is to look at things in a brighter, more positive way; to make our lives and those with whom we associate more pleasant. To do this, we must assume that all of us are honest, sincere individuals who have some thoughts about practicing the Golden Rule.

A good year ahead

Good news bolsters spirits, and tends to fulfill itself. And forecasts for next year's economy should come as welcome news to all.

The consensus of forecasters says that 1972 will be a moderately good year. The return to relative prosperity. Obviously, in political terms it could mean the reelection of Richard Nixon. Of course, political fortune is only a by-product, not the purpose, of prosperity; and prosperity should be measured in the moral and mental health of a nation, more so than a dollar total," editorialized the Christian Science Monitor.

Carson is wrong

Sometimes we see and hear injustices. One occurred on the Tonight Show a few days back as host Johnny Carson ripped General Motors pretty good.

We forgot it, until the next night, that is, Carson cut up GM again. We tuned in a few days later and for a third time heard Carson lampoon the largest auto maker, this time saying that the reason GM Chairman James Roche was celebrating another birthday was because he never rode in any of his firm's cars.

Television and the right to broadcast belongs to all of us. That's why it is regulated by a federal agency, the Federal Communications Commission.

At least this was our understanding. When cigaret advertising was banned from TV the reason given was that a public medium shouldn't be used to advertise a product detrimental to the public health.

Carson and his network are using a public property to put a private business in a bad light. And that isn't right.

More legalized gambling is on its way to Michigan and to tell the truth I'm a little disturbed by the apparent trends. The gambling extension currently given the best odds (five to three might be a smart bet) early success is a State Lottery. This issue is heading for a public ballot, perhaps as early as April.

Public polls indicate that almost any extension of legalized gambling put to a statewide vote would pass. The majority of our citizens do not have any strong religious or moral stand on the gambling issue. Even some who are strongly personally opposed are willing to allow others to judge especially if it adds the State Treasury sufficiently. While I am perfectly willing to support certain kinds of legalized gambling I am against the State Lottery.

Gambling is still a moral issue to many. It certainly is capable of causing damage to certain individuals and their families. It cannot be classified as a productive enterprise, except perhaps in tax dollars. I do not believe the State of Michigan should directly conduct or promote a gambling enterprise. Turning the actual operation over to private enterprise under a monopoly guarantee does not much alter the relationship. It will be the MICHIGAN LOTTERY just as there is now a New Jersey lottery and a Massachusetts lottery.

For success State lotteries require promotion and advertising with a lot of hoopla. Do yourself and the State of Michigan a favor by buying a lottery ticket every week!" will be the hard sell message. The State of Michigan should not attempt to restrict citizens private, moral and financial lives by prohibiting gambling. Not only is it unfair to individuals but it is a very unhealthy stimulus to organized crime.

The State should regulate gambling but neither prohibit or promote it. We should tax it heavily indicating its lowly status amongst the many enterprises necessary for food, shelter and other basic necessities of life.

How about an entire year without even one dumb broad stand-

A rational alternative

By TIM YOUNKMAN

With the year end reports, it seems we might have reached the point of no return—as far as violent crimes go.

Figures indicate that it is about time for a decision to be made soon about gun legislation. The question is no longer whether guns should be restricted by law or not.

The real problem boils down to whether or not we have reached the point whereby such legislation would be fruitless—if not detrimental.

The whole law and order issue several years ago brought a sharp division between the blacks and whites, young and old, left wing and right wing, leaving little middle ground from which to work a compromise.

Now it seems we may pay for it. Activists in the gun legislation movement foresaw the terrific growth in the crime rate which has been spreading from the sprawling urban areas to the rural communities. Breaking and entering, armed robbery, assault, rape and murder have become commonplace in large cities. All but rape and murder are common to rural communities—and that could change quickly to include all of the crimes.

Year end figures recently released in Detroit show that 690 murders were committed in that city during 1971. A sizeable jump from the 550 recorded in 1970. The police throw up their hands and say the courts turn loose suspects as fast as they are arrested. The courts blame sloppy police work. Prosecutors won't prosecute without airtight cases, or, at best, settle for grossly reduced charges, to get a conviction.

A vast majority of those 690 murders were results of shooting incidents. It included the largest mass slaying in Michigan history—seven died during the peak of the so-called Drug War when pushers were knocking off suppliers and vice versa.

However, one fact presented by the Detroit Police Department cannot go unmentioned. That is, more than half of the 690 murders were direct results of family disputes or disagreements with friends. Most of these were without pre-meditation, or as lawyers would put it, they were crimes of passion.

These, at least, might have been prevented had a gun not been readily available. The victims might have had a chance against the assault. As it is, 345 of these Detroiters are dead due to the easy availability of firearms.

But the central question remains. Are we past the point of no return as we swing into 1972? Some sociologists have predicted that within eight years, America will be an armed camp. Everyone will leave their homes in the morning armed to the teeth as they used to be in the Old West. Maybe we will revert back to strapping on a slide arm and holster outfit whenever we step outside.

That may not be far fetched. How many times have you traveled through a rough part of one of our big cities, Lansing included, and thought you should have a gun for protection? How many times have you decided that you would go get a permit and buy a gun at some discount store as soon as possible—just in case?

An alternative to a weapon—and probably a stronger deterrent—would be to own a large dog, trained by voice-command to attack an assailant. In most cases of larceny, assault and so on, the dog would be a solid deterrent, and a more rational alternative to murder in self defense.

'IF IT FITZ . . .

A bleeping good year

By JIM FITZGERALD

1971 wasn't a bad year. It's probably all on tape, so why not skip 1972 and run 1971 again? Bleeped.

I got this brilliant idea while suffering through one of those ho-hum Christmas parades on TV. I'll swear I've seen all this a hundred times before," I said to the cat. I'd have talked to my kids but there was no one there to introduce us.

Then the TV voice said: "Because of bad weather, the balloons you saw in this year's parade were actually on tape, from last year's parade."

"They could have done that with the entire parade and saved a lot of time and money. No one would have noticed the difference and Lasse's mother could have been home for Thanksgiving for a change," I said.

"You're absolutely right," the cat said. So why not rerun the whole year? With proper bleeping, of course. That's the important part of my idea.

How many times have you watched Johnny Carson's lips move with no sound coming out? It can drive a viewer bug with curiosity. The studio audience is falling on the floor laughing at Carson's dirty words. But the poor slob at home can only guess at what's so funny. Miss Priscilla Goodbody, the NBC censor, has edited Johnny's tape. Her job is to bleep out everything blue except Blue Ribbon.

How about an entire year without even one dumb broad standing around the supermarket, refusing to trade her soap for another well known brand? Or how about that aspirin lecturer moving his lips but making no sound? That smirking sap has caused more headaches than Bayer could cure in 10 years. Bleep to him.

Snowmobiles and motorcycles. Those are two marvelous candidates for bleeping. Man spent thousands of years working his way out of the cave and into hardtops with heaters. Now some clowns buck the wind and snow with their bare skin and call it adventure. Except you can't hear what they call it because of the lousy noise. Bleep, bleep and all hail to Henry Ford. He should send Christy around to thank me.

There are a lot more things that should be bleeped out of 1971 before it is rerun for 1972. But I've probably edited out too much already. Once the gaps are spliced together, we'll end up with a 5-month year, sort of a Readers Digest calendar.

Which would be OK except there wouldn't be time for all the football games. In which case someone better have bleeped Howard Cosell.

Onward and Upward.

No-fault

Rep. Douglas Trezise 87th District

One of the subjects being discussed widely as an important issue facing the Legislature during the 1972 session is "no-fault" automobile insurance. Like many labels applied to many other things these days, the term "no-fault" is used to cover a broad range of ideas and means different things to different people.

Some apply the expression to any insurance plan which provides for payment of any part of the costs of an accident by the driver's own insurance company. To others it means complete elimination of the fault concept in auto accidents and the escape from legal responsibility for one's actions behind the wheel of his car.

Even Governor Milliken has gotten into the act by endorsing no-fault insurance. We will find out on Jan. 13 when he delivers his State-of-the-State message to us just what that expression means to him.

Voters in our 87th District also support the idea of no-fault in the auto insurance field. The question, "Would you favor amending the auto insurance law to require prompt payment of property damage and personal injury claims regardless of who was at fault?" brought a 70 per cent favorable response on my recent questionnaire.

What is back of this clamor for change in our insurance laws? Certainly the cost of automobile insurance today is a big factor. Proponents of no-fault claim significant reductions in premiums can be achieved through one of these plans.

But probably more compelling is the record of payments under the present system. Settlements are usually delayed while fault is being established through the courts with accompanying hardship on the victims. A U.S. Department of Transportation study in 1970 found that only 45 per cent of all persons injured in auto accidents received any compensation. It further showed that victims with losses of $500 or less recovered up to 4 1/2 times as much as they lost while those whose loss reached $25,000 recovered an average of 30 per cent of their losses.

So it is obvious that the system today is not doing what it should be doing—compensating for the losses suffered as a result of an accident.

Will no-fault insurance solve this problem? Many people think it will come a lot closer to providing more equity in our program.

The one concept in all no-fault insurance proposals on which there is agreement is that a driver's own insurance company should pay the basic losses he suffers as a result of the accident.

There is a great deal of differing opinion about the amounts which should be paid before returning to the principle of establishing responsibility. Some plans put a limit on the amount to be paid by the driver's own company and allow for a determination of fault to recover the balance. Other plans completely eliminate any recovery for non-economic losses—called "pain and suffering"—by insurance people—but place no limit on the amount recovered from a driver's own company for medical expenses, loss of wages, etc.

From my vantage point it would seem there is no question but what Michigan will have some kind of no-fault system by the end of this year. I find sentiment strongly in favor of the general idea among legislators of both parties and insurance experts from the public and private sectors.

The 76th is dead

By SEN. WILLIAM S. BALLENGER

The Legislature is dead! Long live the Legislature!

That is to say, the 76th Michigan Legislature completed its labors for 1971 on December 15 and—except for a corporal's guard, which will wind things up sine die on New Year's Eve—will not return until January 12, 1972.

This year's session encompassed a stormy and unpredictable 12 months. It witnessed its share of triumphs and statesmanship—not to mention a generous quotient of irresponsibility, pettiness, procrastination, and vacillation.

Any individual legislator, like myself, was bound to feel tempest-tossed a good deal of the time—catapulted onto the high ground of public office, invested with a certain amount of power and prestige, yet mindful that no matter how hard he tried, he couldn't seem to really do much to change a society raging out of control.

What's the major body of literature of our age? The motion picture. And if I turn to the cinema for an illustration of the plight of the politician in the midst of contemporary ills, the film that supplies the sharpest metaphor is a rather obscure, flawed but on balance brilliant film released just last year entitled "Burn!"

"Burn!" is a political interpretation of history on an epic scale, an historical adventure film lit with an insurrectionary fuse. Its imagery is lush and poetic, luxurious and ecstatic. If you've never heard of "Burn!", it's not surprising. Because of threatened economic reprisals, the producers got cold feet. Parts of the original film were deleted, others reshot, and after numerous delays and extra expenses, the picture has still not been released widely. It was "dumped"—meaning that it was distributed without the usual publicity and advance screenings. It seems fairly certain that the producers "dumped" the film not because of its incendiary potential (which it has in abundance) but because the company evidently decided it had poor box office potential. I think the producers blew it.

"Burn!" could have been a hit—especially because it plays right into the current feelings of the young movie audience (among whom I saw it) as have "Easy Rider" and "Billy Jack". In any event, if you ever have a chance to see it, don't miss it. "Burn!" is set in the fictitious Caribbean island of Queimada (Portuguese for "burn") in the 1830's. Sir William Walker (played by Marlon Brando) is an adventurer employed by the British Admiralty to foment a revolution in the colony, which is owned by Portugal.

Walker goads a strapping black porter named Jose Delores into inciting the island's downtrodden native population to open rebellion. The Portuguese are overthrown. Delores' army is persuaded to lay down its arms in favor of a white-colonist British government, and Walker, his mission accomplished, is off to Indo-China to make more mischief.

To round things out, Walker is rehired 10 years later by the British Sugar Company that controls the island. His job: Destroy the Frankenstein guerrilla leader (Delores) he created and who, his thirst for freedom whetted a decade earlier, is now on the verge of recapturing control of the island for keeps. We are left with the irony of Brando's Walker, the Agent Provocateur who started the first revolution, being called on as military adviser to put down the second. In the end, of course, Walker scores a pyrrhic victory—Delores is martyred and Walker is destroyed.

It's Walker that fascinates me. He's clearly the personification of colonial manipulative policies. But because of the cynical bravura of Brando's performance, Walker comes off as a daring white loner who loves and betrays the blacks, and it may be difficult for many viewers to understand his motives and why he is so zealous in crushing the rebellion.

But I think I understand. Brando's Walker exemplifies a deterministic theory of history. He is merely an instrument, and he knows it. He is an actor in a play not of his own making. He doesn't really know why he's doing what he's doing but he says he must do it nonetheless. ("Maybe I'm doing this because it's the only thing I do well"). He knows the blacks will eventually win but plays out his role by slaughtering them and burning their village anyway.

Though Walker purports to believe it's madness for Delores to sacrifice his life in the end, it's apparent to me that Walker is the only white (read "politician") who is capable of understanding the blacks' (read "society's") true passion for freedom and that it is this passion that makes the blacks superior, and will make them win.

The end is only the beginning. The spirit of the film is one of triumph for Delores, who prefers death to compromise and who sets an example for the survivors and for the slaves on other islands. A despondent Walker is assassinated on the docks as he prepares to take leave of the island.

Am I Walker? Are most individual legislators Walkers? Faced with the problems of our society, do we see them for what they are, understand them, but still participate in them only to the extent of posing, strutting and fretting at crucial moments hanging back and "letting it happen?" If revolution came tomorrow, how many of us, of your elected officials, if any, would share in the leadership assumed by the new order? Are we capable of it? Are we capable of recognizing what's at stake? Or will it take someone new—in the metaphorical guise of Delores and the blacks—to show the way, to reveal once again the timeless message that freedom is worth all the suffering it takes.

In the darkest nights of the soul down in Lansing during 1971, I've often wondered.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor:

I enjoy Tim Younkman's column and wish to encourage him to keep up the good work he's doing. After all, isn't that what the paper is for, that the public might share, by commenting pro or con on printed articles?

Mr. Younkman, in his article of Dec. 22, said, "It will be a long time, if ever, before individual nations combine for a World Government, but, it would be the only way the United Nations could work effectively." We hear so many times the United Nations is failing in its purpose of solving World problems, and if true, what is to happen? Maybe we are putting our hope in the wrong direction. Instead of the Government that can't fail, God's Kingdom that will bring peace to the entire earth. As to combining for a World Government, I have heard from different sources lately that a World Government is in the making now, many are not aware of it, and this could be in fulfillment of Bible prophecy at Revelation the 13th chapter, showing a great Power to be set up over the earth, referred to as a "Beast," and every person will be given a number, that without it they cannot buy or sell, and unless they accept the Power and its functions, also bow to the Image set up thru it, they, according to the scriptures, shall be killed. Being called a "Beast," it is not sanctioned by God, and no wonder when the Bible says "Satan is the god of this system of things," 2 Corinthians 4:4. Also, this Power deceives those who dwell on the earth.

I know many will say the Revelation is symbolic, but who can prove now, that all of it is? Would it not be well worth our time and effort to read that chapter over and reason on it, in the event it does happen the way it's recorded? What would our reaction be if a World Power were set up that forced a religious belief on us we could not accept? Could we take a stand against it, even if we knew it would mean being killed?

Our faith would get the "Real" test in that event, and doesn't the Scriptures show we will be tested and separated, like sheep and goats? Many have had to die for their faith. It's not impossible we may have to before this is all over with.

I read as much as possible, anything presented, although I don't always agree, I'm always open to reasoning and discussing this subject with anyone else who is, however, it isn't very often find anyone of that mind.

Often people say their Religion is a "personal thing" to them, but the day may soon come when it will no longer be "personal". I hope I never get to the point where I think I know everything, or let someone else do my thinking and make my decisions for me, I want to look into important matters. Others might be wrong, and as Jesus said, "When a blind man leads a blind man, they both fall in the ditch." Also, instruction to listen before making our mind up is recorded at Proverbs 18:13, "He that answers on a matter before he hears it, it is folly and a shame to him".

As to saying the "Beast" performs great wonders, even making fire come down from above, do we maybe see a beginning of that fulfillment now, in this space age? Man has gone to the moon, photographed other planets, etc. To man this is a big accomplishment, but to God, who made the whole thing it is nothing. God can go as far in space as He wishes, in that man is limited. Man's reason for doing, seems to be to find other habitable planets to move people from earth to them because of future overpopulation and because man is ruining earth, given to him to care for and beautify, not abuse, yet I wonder if God intends for man to succeed in this in view of the words at Psalms 115:16, "The Heavens belong to God, the earth was given to man". Apparently that is why outer space was made uninhabitable for man, the earth is his abode.

Saturday basketball set Jan. 8
ST. JOHNS—Saturday morning basketball will be held again this year at the Rodney B. Wilson Junior High School gym from Jan. 8 through Feb. 9. The gym will be open for fifth and sixth graders from 9 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. on Saturdays and from 10:30 to 12 noon for seventh graders up to adult.

Les Schwartz is in charge of the basketball program which is free of charge to the public.

Eight records shattered by Marauder gridgers O-E wins

Until the final game of the year, which found the Marauders at the short end of a 21-16 score against St. Johns, Ovid-Elsie had won 15 straight contests setting a school record. The team also allowed the lowest number of points in a season, 39 (until that last game they had given up only three TD's all year). The Marauders rolled for 2,600 total yards, a record and allowed the least number of yards by the opponent, 752.

Bill Foran set two individual records during the 1971 season by kicking 14 extra points and hitting on one field goal, the first in O-E's history. Tom Kirinovic, the quarterback, and Ron Mead teamed up for the longest pass completion, 81 yards, during the MMB clash with St. Louis. Rob Nethaway, who will be a junior next season, landed on seven enemy fumbles for another record.

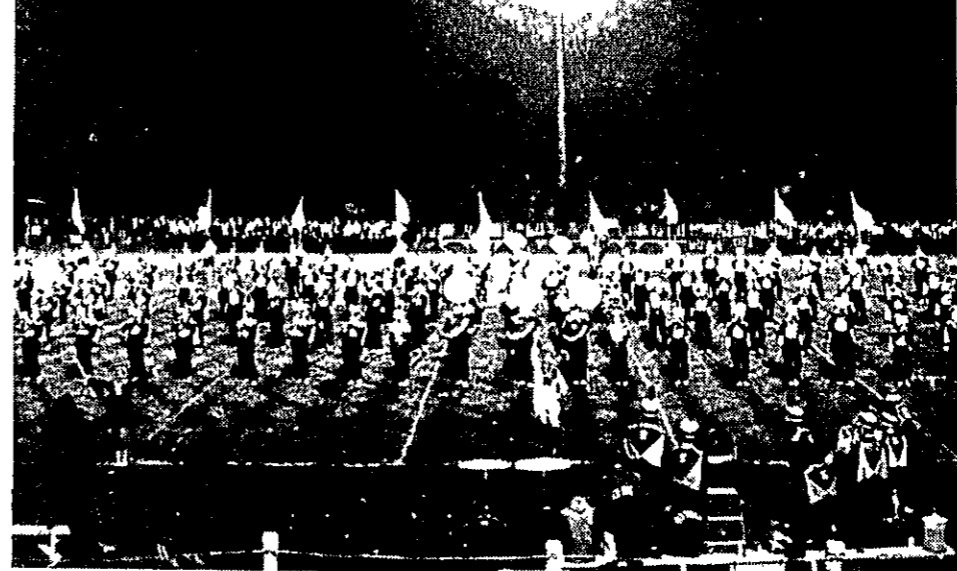

In individual statistics, Gary Groom led the Marauders with 712 rushing yards in 109 carries for a 6.5 average and caught four passes for 15 yards. He led the team in scoring with 52 points and was named to the Mid-Michigan B all conference squad.

As a punter, Groom, who will be a senior next season, averaged a solid 38.0 yards per kick. He punted 25 times for 750 yards. In the passing department, Tom Kirinovic, who will be a senior next season, tossed the pigskin 100 times with 48 per cent accuracy and 664 yards. He was second in scoring with 30 points and fourth in rushing with 213 yards.

Frank Quine, a senior, led the Marauder defense with 38 solo tackles and 29 assists, while junior Lynn Webster netted 37 solos and 30 assists. Rob Nethaway, a sophomore, was in on 27 tackles and added 37 solos to one of the toughest defensive units in the central Michigan area.

Ron Mead led the Marauder's in passing yards with 276 in 11 catches. He also scored 20 points for the MMB champs. Mead is a senior this year.

With most of the defensive leaders back next season and with the top Marauder scorers returning, the O-E fans will be looking for even more records to fall next year when the Marauders take the field to defend their third straight MMB championship title.

The St. Johns High School marching band will present a special show during halftime ceremonies Friday night at the St. Johns-Charlotte basketball game.

Marchers plan show

ST. JOHNS—The St. Johns marching band, under the direction of John Speck and Walter Cole, will be featured during the halftime ceremonies at the St. Johns-Charlotte basketball game Friday night.

The band has prepared a special show for the cage fans who wanted to see the band again after they witnessed a fine performance during a halftime break at a basketball game last season. The band has had only a few days to adapt to the basketball court's limitations, something they did not contend with on the football field. However, Speck said, they have practiced well and should be in top form for the show. They will be performing some modern music and will have a surprise or two for the fans, Speck said. "It should prove to be very interesting," Speck added.

Games at glance

ST. JOHNS—The St. Johns Redwing sports schedule was unusually light last week with no activities planned, but they will get underway Tuesday night against Alma (Jan. 4) with both the varsity and junior varsity seeing action.

The Redwing freshmen will host Alma's Frosh in a basketball game Thursday at 6:30 p.m., while the varsity will host Charlotte Friday night following a 6:30 JV tilt.

The St. Johns matmen will get underway again on Jan. 13 when they tangle with the Ionia Bulldogs there beginning at 6:30 p.m.

The Redwing cagers will host Forest Hills on Jan. 14 beginning at 6:30 p.m.

OVID-ELSIE—The Ovid-Elsie Marauders made it seven straight in wrestling Monday night when they traveled to Lansing Catholic Central and tripped the Cougars 35-21.

Two six-point forfeits aided the Marauder cause in both the 185-pound division and the Heavy-weight class. Neil Schulz was credited with the win in the 185-pound class, while Rob Nethaway was awarded the victory in the heavyweight division. Glen May, wrestling in the 132-pound division, kept his perfect record intact by decisioning his opponent, Joe West, by a slim 3-2 margin. May is now 13-0 on the season.

Two Marauders recorded pins, Jay Southwell at 126 pounds pinned Joe Levi of Lansing Catholic in a 1:48 time margin. Cayle Reha, at 167 pounds, pinned LCC's Tom Pritchard at 5:48.

Other action included: O-E's Everett Reynolds was pinned by Catholic's Joe Perrone in the 98-pound class; Fred Enos (O-E) and Frank Verderese (LCC) wrestled to a 6-6 draw in the 105 pound class; Dan Purnford (O-E) was pinned by Steve Kapuscanski in the 112-pound division; Al Cobb (O-E) decisioned Tom Terranova (LCC) 5-0 in the 119-pound class; Paul Tomasek (O-E) was decisioned by Ray Bauer (LCC) 4-0 in the 138-pound division; Frank Enos (O-E) decisioned Rick Ward (LCC) 4-0 in the 145-pound class; and Mike Buck (O-E) was decisioned by Rob Reid (LCC) 6-3 in the 155-pound division.

Buck who has been eyed for state-wide honors come tournament time lost his second match of the year—and both losses have been to LCC's Bob Reid. Buck is now 12-2 for the season.

The Marauder matmen will travel to Midland Bullock Creek Thursday to take on the tough Lancers. O-E is now 2-0 in the league and is hoping for a repeat conference championship title again this season.

Farmers can learn about next year's corn prices

Farmers can learn some new ways of taking the uncertainty out of next year's corn prices by enrolling now in a series of hedging workshops sponsored by the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service. The workshops will be held Feb. 3, 10 and 17 at Smith Hall, St. Johns, according to George McQueen, Clinton County Extension Agent.

"They're back by popular demand," McQueen says. "Most of the 200 farmers who attended last year and a lot of new fellows, too, have asked that they be held again."

The workshops cover price

fluctuations, forward contracting, the futures market, export markets and hedging. But the best parts of the meetings, as far as most farmers are concerned, are the seven actual case studies which workshop participants tackle.

Workshop instructors include members of Michigan State University's Department of Agriculture Economics, commodity brokers, commercial grain marketers, and members of Michigan's Extension Marketing Program.

The workshops concentrate mainly on corn, but other commodities are considered.

"The main thing is that farmers become acquainted with economics, the markets, the terms and so on," comments McQueen. "Our basic text is the commodity page of the Wall Street Journal."

How valuable did farmers find last year's workshops? "Well, one participant figured he made $250 an hour by selling four futures contracts (30,000 bushels of corn) last February at $1.54," McQueen says.

Of course, participating in the futures market does not guarantee a profit, McQueen cautions. "But those who are better informed have a better chance." Farmers wishing additional information should contact George R. McQueen, at Clinton County Extension Office, telephone 224-3288.

Dock strikes hurt farmers

EAST LANSING—United States farmers know they must compete and they know how to compete. According to Nick Smith, Chairman, Michigan State ASC Committee, we are the world's largest exporter of farm products. The dock strikes are a major disruption and a major threat to our entire farm marketing system.

Last year U.S. agricultural exports reached a new high of $7.8 billion and farm exports contributed more than $8 billion to the nation's commercial trade balance. If foreign buyers cannot depend upon getting a dependable quality and quantity of U.S. products, they will buy what they need from others. Some of the lost sales will probably be recovered after the strikes are over, but many will be lost forever.

Smith said that strikes of this kind also seriously affect domestic transportation needed for internal shipments of agricultural commodities both during and after a strike.

Rail cars, barges and trucks are tied up in the temporary storage of commodities loaded for movement to ports. Since these carriers cannot immediately be rerouted to domestic traffic, there is a prolonged period of severe shortages of these forms of transportation.

Smith added that the transportation and storage problem is especially difficult this year due to the large grain crops. Corn production, the largest crop in history, is up 31 percent, sorghum 28 percent and wheat 18 percent from last year.

This increase in production would be hard to handle under normal conditions, but the situation becomes critical because of the uncertain conditions and work stoppages in our nation's ports.

These are some of the problems which farmers face and cause lower farm income and higher government costs because of the dock strikes.

At a time when we are desperately trying to get our nation's economic house in order, we all need to work together in order that we may all benefit from a strong economy and a unified nation.

Great Lakes Hybrid will have new home

OVID — Great Lakes Hybrids Cooperative will have a new home soon.

The Ovid-based co-op, which has been operating from an office at 102 S. Main St., will be moving within a month to roomier quarters at 915 W. M. 21, east of the Ovid village limits.

The new building, which will provide ample storage for the corn seed the co-op markets, will have a reception area, offices for the general manager and sales staff, plus a utility area.

David J. Hill, general manager, said the building should be completed within a month.

The co-op handles the corn seed marketing program for seven Michigan producers, including that of Robert Moore of Elsie.

In the early 1960's, members of the Michigan Certified Hybrid Seed Corn Producers Association decided that if they were to survive in the seed corn business they should market as a group, rather than individually. In May, 1965 they incorporated under the Great Lakes name. They hired Hill as general manager in February, 1966. At the time, the Great Lakes offices were in East Lansing and the firm moved to Ovid three years ago.

The co-op has five full time employees and two on a part time basis. It is the responsibility of Great Lakes Hybrids to complete all phases of marketing of the hybrid seed corn produced by its members, including advertising, promotion, selling, invoicing and collections.

Members of the co-op are Carl Abel, Lyle Aldrich, John Canfield, Steve Dickerson, Basil McKenzie, Carl Mantey, Edgar Mantey and Moore.

Kroger to test nutritional labeling

GRAND RAPIDS—National labeling of food products will be tested by Kroger for a three month period starting early in 1972, in cooperation with the Food and Drug Administration of the United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

David A. Burt, vice president of the Grand Rapids Division of Kroger Food Stores, said the three month test will cover five food products distributed through 66 Kroger Food Stores in the Greater Cincinnati area.

The products which will carry nutritional information on their labels during the test are: Kroger Mel-O-Soft White Bread (20 ounce loaf), Kroger Homogenized Vitamin D Milk (1/2 gallon), Kroger Grade A Large Eggs (one dozen), Kroger Pork and Beans (16 ounces) and Kroger Peanut Butter (28 ounces).

Although the Grand Rapids Division area is not a part of the official test with F.D.A., Burt said that Kroger Eggs and possibly some other of the items, which are distributed by Kroger in this area, will carry the same nutritional information as the test stores.

Each label will carry a listing of major nutrients in the product and will indicate their importance as measured against the Recommended Dietary Allowances (RDA's) for adults, as established by the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Academy of Sciences.

Purpose of the test is to assist the FDA in determining the type of nutritional labeling which will be most helpful to consumers in planning family meals. Dr. Ogden Johnson, director of the Division of Nutrition for FDA, will be responsible for analyzing the results.

Prophet Foresaw Auto Nahum, the ancient Biblical prophet, seems to have foreseen the coming of the automobile. Some 2,500 years ago, he stated: "The chariots shall jostle one another in the broad ways; they shall seem like torches; they shall run like the lightning."

Farmers can learn about next year's corn prices

Farmers can learn some new ways of taking the uncertainty out of next year's corn prices by enrolling now in a series of hedging workshops sponsored by the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service. The workshops will be held Feb. 3, 10 and 17 at Smith Hall in St. Johns, according to George McQueen, Clinton County Extension Agent.

Fluctuations, forward contracting, the futures market, export markets and hedging. But the best parts of the meetings, as far as most farmers are concerned, are the seven actual case studies which workshop participants tackle.

Workshop instructors include members of Michigan State University's Department of Agriculture Economics, commodity brokers, commercial grain marketers, and members of Michigan's Extension Marketing Program.

The workshops concentrate mainly on corn, but other commodities are considered. "The main thing is that farmers become acquainted with economics, the markets, the terms and so on," comments McQueen. "Our basic text is the commodity page of the Wall Street Journal."

How valuable did farmers find last year's workshops? "Well, one participant figured he made $250 an hour by selling four futures contracts (30,000 bushels of corn) last February at $1.54," McQueen says.

Of course, participating in the futures market does not guarantee a profit, McQueen cautions. "But those who are better informed have a better chance." Farmers wishing additional information should contact George R. McQueen, at Clinton County Extension Office, telephone 224-3288.

Great Lakes Hybrid will have new home

OVID — Great Lakes Hybrids Cooperative will have a new home soon.

The Ovid-based co-op, which has been operating from an office at 102 S. Main St., will be moving within a month to roomier quarters at 915 W. M. 21, east of the Ovid village limits.

The new building, which will provide ample storage for the corn seed the co-op markets, will have a reception area, offices for the general manager and sales staff, plus a utility area.

David J. Hill, general manager, said the building should be completed within a month.

The co-op handles the corn seed marketing program for seven Michigan producers, including that of Robert Moore of Elsie.

In the early 1960's, members of the Michigan Certified Hybrid Seed Corn Producers Association decided that if they were to survive in the seed corn business they should market as a group, rather than individually. In May, 1966 they incorporated under the Great Lakes name. They hired Hill as general manager in February, 1966. At the time, the Great Lakes offices were in East Lansing and the firm moved to Ovid three years ago.

The co-op has five full time employees and two on a part time basis. It is the responsibility of Great Lakes Hybrids to complete all phases of marketing of

Dock strikes hurt farmers

EAST LANSING—United States farmers know they must compete and they know how to compete. According to Nick Smith, Chairman, Michigan State ASC Committee, we are the world's largest exporter of farm products. The dock strikes are a major disruption and a major threat to our entire farm marketing system.

Last year U.S. agricultural exports reached a new high of $7.8 billion and farm exports contributed more than $6 billion to the nation's commercial trade balance. If foreign buyers cannot depend upon getting a dependable quality and quantity of U.S. products, they will buy what they need from others. Some of the lost sales will probably be recovered after the strikes are over, but many will be lost forever.

Smith said that strikes of this kind also seriously affect domestic transportation needed for internal shipments of agricultural commodities both during and after a strike.

Rail cars, barges and trucks are tied up in the temporary storage of commodities loaded for movement to ports. Since these carriers cannot immediately be rerouted to domestic traffic, there is a prolonged period of severe shortages of these forms of transportation.

Smith added that the transportation and storage problem is especially difficult this year due to the large grain crops. Corn production, the largest crop in history, is up 31 percent, sorghum 28 percent and wheat 18 percent from last year.

This increase in production would be hard to handle under normal conditions, but the situation becomes critical because of the uncertain conditions and work stoppages in our nation's ports.

These are some of the problems which farmers face and cause lower farm income and higher government costs because of the dock strikes.

At a time when we are desperately trying to get our nation's economic house in order, we all need to work together in order that we may all benefit from a strong economy and a unified nation.

Kroger to test nutritional labeling

GRAND RAPIDS—National labeling of food products will be tested by Kroger for a three month period starting early in 1972. In cooperation with the Food and Drug Administration of the United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare, David A. Burt, vice president of the Grand Rapids Division of Kroger Food Stores, said the three month test will cover five food products distributed through 66 Kroger Food Stores in the Greater Cincinnati area.

The products which will carry nutritional information on their labels during the test are: Kroger Mel-O-Soft White Bread (20 ounce loaf), Kroger Homogenized Vitamin D Milk (1/2 gallon), Kroger Grade A Large Eggs (one dozen), Kroger Pork and Beans (16 ounces) and Kroger Peanut Butter (28 ounces).

Although the Grand Rapids Division area is not a part of the official test with F.D.A., Burt said that Kroger Eggs and possibly some other of the items, which are distributed by Kroger in this area, will carry the same nutritional information as the test stores.

Each label will carry a listing of major nutrients in the product and will indicate their importance as measured against the Recommended Dietary Allowances (RDA's) for adults, as established by the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Academy of Sciences.

Purpose of the test is to assist the FDA in determining the type of nutritional labeling which will be most helpful to consumers in planning family meals. Dr. Ogden Johnson, director of the Division of Nutrition for FDA, will be responsible for analyzing the results.

Prophet Foresaw Auto.

Nahum, the ancient Biblical prophet, seems to have foreseen the coming of the automobile. Some 2,500 years ago, he stated: "The chariots shall jostle one another in the broad ways; they shall seem like torches; they shall run like the lightning."
