Outstanding young farmer sought by Jaycees

St. Johns Jaycees are still seeking the outstanding young farmer in the eastern half of Clinton County. A number of candidates are being considered by judges, but the winner will not be named until the Jaycees' Feb. 8 meeting when the Outstanding Young Farmer award will be presented.

LeRoy Hanson, chairman of the OYF program for the Jaycees, said a selection committee consisting of himself, C. Lester Jenkins of the Clinton National Bank, P. Earl Haas and George McQueen of the Cooperative Extension Service, Lloyd Campbell of the Soil Conservation Service, and William Smith of the ASCS are considering selections for the award.

THE WINNER will be chosen on the basis of his progress in agriculture, the extent of his soil and water conservation practices, and his contributions to state, county and community. Last year's winner was Eugene Havens of East French Road, St. Johns.

The Outstanding Young Farmer Award will be made at the Jaycees' dinner meeting Feb. 8. An agriculture-oriented meeting is being planned.

The Central National Bank will conduct business in its new bank building at Walker and Spring streets for the first time Monday morning.

The new building has been under construction since last June and adds a modern architectural styling to the downtown business district. The bank has been operating out of leased quarters at 212 N. Clinton Avenue since November 1964.

THE NEW building features drive-in facilities on the east end, a large interior banking lobby and a basement area that includes a spacious auditorium for public gatherings.

A grand opening for the bank is being planned for the near future, according to Robert Leonard, executive vice president.

Maple Rapids OKs caucuses

MAPLE RAPIDS — The Maple Rapids Village Council has approved the caucus method of nominating candidates for the village election this March.

Robert M. Montgomery, director of elections for the Department of State, wrote village clerks in the state that the public act passed by the Legislature in 1965 requiring primary elections instead of caucuses could be disregarded for the coming election. The act was not given immediate effect on passage, and it won't now become effective until March.

PROCEEDING on that information, the Maple Rapids council approved holding caucuses again this year.

Registration for the election will be from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Feb. 14 at the home of Village Clerk Helen Howe. Caucuses will be Feb. 21 and the election March 14.

Fertilizer firm to locate here

Construction will start soon on a new liquid fertilizer manufacturing plant along Railroad Street in St. Johns that will have a capability of producing 80,000 tons of fertilizer a year.

Douglas W. Cook of North Lowell Road, St. Johns, founder and president of Sure-Crop Liquid Fertilizers, said he expects to start production about March 1.

Cook said he expects to employ 15 people at the new plant. Dealers will be set up throughout Clinton and nine other Central Michigan counties.

The manufacturing plant will be located on lots 120, 121 and 122 between the Standard Oil Co. bulk station and US-27 on the north side of Railroad Street.

IT INCLUDES the part of Swagles Street recently vacated by the city between Railroad Street and the Grand Trunk Railroad property. Frontage on Railroad Street includes 561 feet.

The plant area, in an industrially zoned section of the city, will consist mostly of storage tanks, pipes and plumbing. Cook said, although a two-story 30-by-30-foot office building will be constructed.

The plant will have a dry storage capacity for 400 tons of potash, which will be converted to liquid fertilizer. In addition, there will be tanks for the storage of about 2 million gallons of liquid—both raw material and finished product.

COOK SAID a total of forty 25,000-gallon tanks for the storage of aqua ammonia would be put in. A large Morhead aqua converter for changing anhydrous ammonia to aqua ammonia, with a capacity of 25 tons per hour, will be installed.

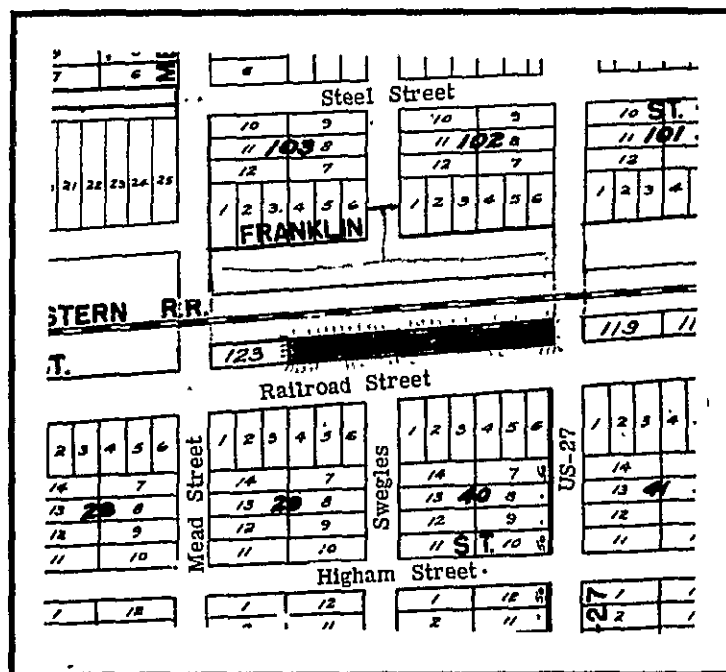

In addition, a scientific liquid formulation (SLF) plant with a capability of 25 tons per hour (with a slight modification up to 50 tons per hour) is a part of the Sure-Crop Liquid Fertilizer Co.'s plans.

RECEIVING AND shipping of raw and finished materials will be by both truck and rail, Cook said. Shipments will be mostly by truck; however, because of the lack of a lot of rail siding in that area.

Sure-Crop Liquid Fertilizers Co. was formed Jan. 10. Cook is president and general manager; Flint Watt, now with Welch and Watt, attorneys-at-law at Ionia, is secretary; and Harold Beardslee of Ovid, former Ovid banker, is treasurer.

Cook said the company has applied for incorporation.

By the end of the second year, Cook said, it is expected $250,000 will be tied up in the new St. Johns industry.

Kroger enlarging St. Johns store

Remodeling of the Kroger store at 900 S. US-27 in St. Johns is well under way with completion scheduled for April.

Enlargement of the present facilities is additional evidence of the retail food company's confidence in the business stability and future development of the St. Johns area, according to H. Arville Ferguson, division vice-president.

"With the remodeling, our Kroger store here will be one of the finest and most modern in our entire Grand Rapids division," Ferguson explained.

THE MAJOR PART of the remodeling will be the addition of 3,125 square feet to the store that will increase the total store size to 13,125 square feet. The interior of the store will be completely redecorated with new lighting and shelving. The frozen food and dairy departments will be enlarged and a heated vestibule entrance will be installed. The produce department will be moved to the entrance aisle for more convenience.

"The local store, one of Kroger's more than 1,400 located throughout the United States, presents a startling contrast to the first small store opened in 1883 on Cincinnati's riverfront by B. H. Kroger. That was just a small room with a pot-belly stove, shelves of assorted merchandise, a counter, a cat and a scale," Ferguson explained.

"IN CONTRAST, some of today's features would make Mrs. Shopper of 1883 think she had wandered into a glittering fairyland. Such details as chrome-trimmed shelves, psychologically-planned colors for a more pleasant atmosphere, gleaming enameled cases, air conditioning, and "magic-carpet" automatic door openers form a background for the more than 6,000 food and non-food items lining the walls and broad aisles.

"It's all a part of the food industry's effort to give the homemaker exactly what she wants in a food store," Ferguson added. "Today's homemaker likes convenience and she likes to shop in a pleasant atmosphere," he concluded, "and the modern food industry is going to continue to give her what she wants."

Proclamation

As American history is one of the most cherished possessions of those fortunate enough to live in this country, so blessed by God, I call upon all citizens to observe this month in some way to show our patriotism.

Let us read again the stories of the founding and growth of the United States of America, born of the hopes, toil, adversities, adventures and sacrifices of those who left their native land to tread a rugged and dangerous path, of those who fought and died for a cause in which they truly believed down through the years.

I therefore proclaim February American History Month in conjunction with the other communities of the nation.

Vice Mayor
City of St. Johns

REX SIRRINE

Plan history essay contest

An essay contest in the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades will be sponsored in February by the River Wabwaysin chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution.

Certificates, awards and medals will be offered to the students who write the best essays on the subject "George Washington's Advice." The essays will be collected by the various teachers in the schools. Mrs. Roland Sleight, chairman of American History Month in St. Johns, will head the judging committee to pick the winners.

THE ESSAY CONTEST is one of the highlights of the American History Month observance in St. Johns. DAR officers call it "one of the most important months of the year . . . the time when patriotism quickens in the hearts of the people."

"Our patriotism should assert itself. But patriotism means more than flying flags," the officers said. "Our real Americans are working strenuously to help save our country."

"Let the youth lead you on a quick rerun of our glorious history of those who made it from sacrifice, pain and self denial and carefully preserved it and passed it down through the generations to us."

VICE MAYOR Rex Serrine of St. Johns has proclaimed February as American History Month.

Graham movie set Saturday at Grove Church

"World's Fair Encounter," a film story based on two young people who actually visited the fair during its first season of operation, will be shown Saturday evening at 7:30 at the Grove Bible Church, corner of Shepardsville and Price Roads.

Pamela Baird, a Walt Disney national talent contest winner whose career has included feature roles in a number of major studio productions and numerous top-ranking television productions, plays the role of a graduate nurse from Montana, Jean Luc Ray, making his acting debut, portrays a Swiss-French exchange student who is enrolled as an architect major at a New York university.

THE ENCOUNTER of these two young people and their growing friendship during a day at the fair is the vehicle through which film viewers are at once entertained, informed and inspired.

The United States Pavilion with its Hall of Challenges and the Illinois Pavilion's treatment of the life and times of Abraham Lincoln are featured settings in the development of the contrasting backgrounds of Dorothy, the American girl from Custer, Mont., and Eric, the Swiss student from Geneva.

THE STORY CLIMAX takes place in the Billy Graham Pavilion where the wide-screen motion picture, "Man in the 5th Dimension," makes its impact on the film's principals. The young couple's impressions of the unusual cinema presentation become a symbol of the actual response by thousands who have found spiritual meaning and purpose of life amid the glitter and excitement of the New York World's Fair.

4,627,641,913 gallons of water

A lot of water has gone over the dam since 1946, and a lot of it has spilled out of the taps in St. Johns. About 4,627,641,913 gallons, as a matter of fact.

Along those 19 years, yearly water consumption has more than quadrupled. Back in 1946 the total gallons of water pumped at the city's water plant for the year was 102,338,300 gallons, or a daily average of only 280,379 gallons. The 1965 total was 445,699,000 gallons, or a daily average of 1,220,800 gallons.

THE YEARS 1950, 1951 and 1962 were the only years that total gallons didn't increase over previous years, City Manager Ken Greer noted in his report on the water usage growth.

Industry has played a big part in the growing use of water in growing St. Johns. No breakdown on industrial use was available until 1951, when figures showed industry used 26,266,100 gallons, or 20 per cent of the 130,437,900 gallons used by the whole city that year. Since then it has risen sporadically but surely.

AFTER HITTING 27 per cent of the city use in 1954, industry's water use dropped off to 20 per cent for two years, then down to 14 per cent and to 12 per cent in 1958. From 15 per cent in 1959, it went to 38, then 39, 50 and 52 per cent before relapsing to 43 per cent in 1964. But 1965 was a big year, with industrial water use hitting an all-time high of 255,568,500 gallons — 57 per cent of the total water used by all of St. Johns!

Road Commission Weekly Report

Last week we failed to report the awarding of the contract for furnishing a new 25-ton truck-mounted crane. This contract was given to the low bidder, the Miller Equipment Co. of Grand Rapids, for a Link-Belt crane.

The Board of Clinton County Road Commissioners held a special meeting last Thursday, Jan. 20, to resume labor negotiations. The board, engineer, clerk and attorney met with union officers of Local 794 and their representative. After several hours of discussion an agreement was reached.

THE NEW labor contract will be for one year and will have the added provisions of a modified shop and checkoff for union dues. A pay increase of 10 cents per hour was granted, and the commission agreed to pay group insurance on dependents.

The group policy was changed to Blue Cross, Blue Shield effective Feb. 1. The pay increase is to be in effect starting with the current pay period.

SOME MINOR pay adjustments were made on certain work classifications and an extra 1/2 holiday day was granted. The total economic package will amount to about $24,000 per year, which is about 5 1/2 per cent increase.

Both the commission and union expressed satisfaction with the agreement. The union held a special meeting on Monday, Jan. 24 and ratified the settlement.

The signal will stop traffic on M-57, but will have 12-inch oversize heads for better visibility, replacing the 8-inch heads now in use. The intersection was recommended for safety improvement because of the large number of accidents there.

A member of the committee appointed by Lansing Mayor Max Murningham to study the Grand River will show pictures to the Greater Lansing Historical Society Feb. 9 at 8 p.m. at Post Oak School on Lansing's north-east side.

New library for Elsie

The hopes and dreams of this community for a new building to house the overcrowded Elsie Public Library are taking shape. As the result of interested citizens meeting to discuss the future of the library, there is now a site available on W. Main Street.

The combined committees of the Friends of the Library and the Board of Trustees of the Elsie Public Library met with the Duplain Township Board of officers, earlier this month.

They now report that a site for the new library building has been selected and arrangements made for the purchase of the Lloyd Craven property and the building to the east, now occupied by Ben-singer's Barber Shop.

PRELIMINARY plans are now under way by the building and site committee, composed of Kelley Carter, Andrew Cobb, Norval Thornton and Walter Kaufman Jr. They are assisted by Pat Foran, president of the Friends of the Library, and the fund-raising committee, Mrs. Everett Rule, Dr. G. W. Bennett, Kelley Carter, Elwyn Whitaker, Mrs. Rex Waggoner, Ed Betts, Mrs. Milford Clark and Mrs. Lawrence Olson.

It has been just a year since the Friends of the Library, was organized to consider the community's need for expanded library service.

A building fund was established which now totals over $2,500 with proceeds from a Community Auction, a three-day rummage sale and donations from the Woman's Literary Fund, Parent-Teachers Assn., Green School Extension Study Club and individuals.

OTHER organizations, clubs and youth groups have made plans to include a money-making project or contribution in their new year plans.

The Friends of the Library have scheduled meetings to plan for the future projects on Feb. 8 and 22 and March 8 and 22 in the Elsie High School Home Ec. Room. A repeat of the community rummage sale is being considered for April. Dr. G. W. Bennett is heading a brick sale project when patrons may buy bricks for an amount to help build the new library. Details will soon be announced.

LIBRARIAN Mrs. Orpha Clement reported that there is now an active membership of 836 patrons of the Elsie Public Library which is literally "bursting at the seams." Since Elsie is located near the intersection of four counties, she has listed the number of patrons, revised as of Jan. 1, 1966, according to location: Village of Elsie—303; Duplain Township, Clinton Co.—231; Elba Township, Gratiot Co.—120; Fairfield Township, Shiawassee Co.—145; and Chapin Township, Saginaw Co.—97.

She also noted that the circulation for the year has increased from 15,074 to 16,025 with 1,719 adults and 6,764 juvenile memberships served. The circulation in the past decade has nearly doubled, she said.

In 1955 there were 255 new adult books and 355 new juvenile books purchased, along with 93 received as gifts. There is now a total of 8,211 books. In addition to these, 230 books have been loaned from the Michigan State Library.

With the nation-wide drive for greater study and increased awareness in study, a library is the first line of defense against ignorance and indifference. This is the opinion of the many people of this community who are working toward the new library and its extended services. Everyone will be given an opportunity to help in some way.

Women's Club plans convention

Conn of Ovid; Mrs. Ray Jones of Ovid; Mrs. Van Hoag of St. Johns Woman's Club; Mrs. Henry Grossman, Mrs. Wilbur S. Warren of Victor Civic Club; Mrs. Elwyn Love of Ovid; Mrs. Edna Hehrer of Elsie, and moving to California following her marriage to Milan Stodola of Owosso about two years ago.

Palomares Adobe is a Spanish casa that has stood at its present location for 112 years. Its saga goes back to 1837 when Don Palomares and Don Vega of the Pueblo of Los Angeles petitioned the Mexican governor, Juan Alvarado for a land grant of 15,000 acres in what is now Pomona.

UPON RECEIVING the grant, they brought their families and worldly goods by ox-drawn carretas along with their vaqueros, servants and livestock to establish their homes and large rancherias.

With Indian-made adobe bricks and large timbers brought down from the mountains, the 13-room hacienda was constructed and soon became a popular rendezvous for the Spanish and early Californians of the region.

The City of Pomona acquired the old homestead and restored Palomares Adobe to its original condition and is now open to the public.

Spanish and colonial American furniture, Indian artifacts, early costumes and historical furnishings are housed within the adobe walls at the intersection of Orange and Cucamonga Avenue.

NESTLED amid the palms and cactus with a vine-covered walkway, the rambling structure has been a gracious home for the pioneer Palomares family, a stage coach stop and a gathering place for Spanish caballeros and señoritas, early immigrants, Indians, explorers and whip-cracking drivers of the legendary 20-mile team freighters.

In the Adobe's patio, the visitors can see an ox-drawn carreta, the casa's original hitching post, a well, blacksmith shop and an old oven.

Inside there are a bed and dresser brought across the country by covered wagon, hand-carved chests from China and furniture from England.

There are old paintings and rugs, antique pianos, Spanish guitar and other musical instruments, old rockers and a hatrack made from the horns of cattle raised there some 125 years ago.

THE TWO young ladies were photographed among these historical heirlooms that offer a vivid reminder of a glamorous era of California's history with Indian uprisings, gay Spanish fiestas, of pioneers, rustlers, miners, Yankee troops and the flags of three nations.

Mrs. Stodola and her husband live at nearby Ontario where he is a real estate agent. She is employed in theater advertising on the Pomona newspaper. She worked at Universal's in Owosso before moving to California, and returned last summer to visit her family and friends.

Former Elsie girl models for feature

La Casa Adobe de Palomares, the most famous historical site of Pomona, Calif., drew its 100,000th visitor this month.

A former Elsie girl, Pauline Stodola and Carol Nunamaker were selected as models for the occasion in the magazine supplement of the Pomona Progress Bulletin.

Mrs. Stodola is the former Pauline Hehrer, daughter of Mrs. Edna Hehrer of Elsie, and moving to California following her marriage to Milan Stodola of Owosso about two years ago.

Cancer Society meets for orientation Jan. 19

An orientation meeting for a District Crusade of the American Cancer Society was held in the Danish Society Hall at Greenville Wednesday at an all-day session.

This district, composed of 11 counties, was represented by 50 volunteers. The Clinton County contingent of 24 ladies was the largest group present. There were 11 from St. Johns, 8 from Elsie, and three each from Duplain and DeWitt.

Michigan division staff members were in charge of the program which featured talks, displays, charts of statistics, film strips and a question and answer period.

They were: John Harrell, Crusade Director; Robert Waite, assistant vice president and Gail Smith, professional director. They had recently returned from the National Crusade "Kick-off" in St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 13-14 where Gregory Peck was honorary chairman.

DIRECTOR Harrell was concerned that 31 per cent of those taking Part One of the National Health Test on television week were not able to identify even one of the seven danger signals of cancer.

It was also noted that one of every two could be saved, according to the American Cancer Society, without any new knowledge. An annual health check-up, early diagnosis and prompt treatment could accomplish this.

It was also learned that of every 100 deaths by cancer, 55 are males and 45 females.

MICHIGAN'S GOAL, this year is $1,190,000. Bob Waite reported that over $320,000 of the 1965 research fund of the American Cancer Society was returned to Michigan in grants to Adrian College, $3,192; US Dept. of Agriculture, East Lansing, $80,000; Michigan Tech. of Houghton, $12,572; MSU, institutional $25,000; University of Michigan, $109,231 and Wayne State University, $110,137.

Several film strips were used to show scientists, physicians and clinics at work in cancer research and also results of their efforts.

Mrs. Albert Fruchti, chairman of the Clinton County Chapter,

ACS, announced that several meetings throughout the county are scheduled where films of vital interest to all women will be shown.

The Green School Extension Study Club will sponsor the showing of films "Time and Two Women" and "Breast Self-examination" at the Knight Elementary School in Elsie Thursday evening, Feb. 10, at 8 p.m. All women of the area are urged to attend.

BUYER BEWARE!
By Fred Trump

"Like to double your money?" "Buy, now or lose the chance." "Sign here-it won't cost you a cent; yours absolutely free!"

These are some of the favorite come-on lines used by clever promoters who victimize the consumer to the astounding tune of hundreds of millions of dollars annually. Almost every facet of daily life provides an angle for the schemer — and those who can least afford a loss are most often the victims.

"Buyer Beware!" sets forth concise, reliable information on hundreds of the schemes — how they operate, how to avoid being taken in, and what to do if you are.

FRED TRUMP has long been interested in consumer protection and offers ample evidence that the prospect of getting a "special deal" makes the average person easy prey for the enterprising huckster. These promoters operate in many fields — home improvements, magazine sales, health schemes, charities, and hobbies, to name a few.

This comprehensive source book offers much solid constructive help for the consumer who wishes to protect himself and his family from the schemers who lie to wait.

SPECIAL SECTIONS in the book are devoted to detailed advice on the national, state and local agencies to which the reader may turn for help.

Fred Trump is assistant editor of Michigan Farmer magazine and since 1957 has served as director of their protective service department. A native of Westfield, N. Y., Trump is a graduate of Cornell University.

He makes his home in East Lansing with his wife and four children.

FLICKA, RICKA, & DICKA BAKE A CAKE
By Maj. Lindman

As appealing as ever and pictured in their familiar bright red dresses, Flicka, Ricka, and Dicka undertake to bake a fine yellow cake. It is to be a surprise for Mother's birthday.

When the cake they mix is placed in the oven, the girls go outdoors to play, forgetting it must be carefully watched. Then Flicka remembers; "The cake," she cries. But the cake is scorched beyond use and must be replaced.

Maj. Lindman's new book is simple enough for the beginning reader to enjoy and at the same time will delight the pre-school listener as well. Gay, lighthearted illustrations help make the book great fun to look at and easy to read.

History of DAR covers 75 years

In commemoration of the Diamond Jubilee observance of the founding of the National Society of the DAR the following paper was written by Mrs George H. Brooks.

Frequent requests have been made by various members of the public to know more about the purposes of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

It has three purposes which are historical, educational and patriotic and the same as when the society was organized 75 years ago and chartered by an Act of Congress in 1895.

This historical, educational and patriotic work of the National Society is promoted through 24 National, State and local Chapter Committees.

In addition, the National Society maintains two important public facilities in its national headquarters, an Americana museum with 28 period rooms and furnishings predating 1830 and a genealogical reference library.

For the past 30 years DAR has provided a privately owned auditorium at Constitution Hall. This is a tangible contribution to the cultural and educational life of the Nation's Capitol, especially when no other or similar facility has existed in Washington, D.C.

There is nothing political about the Society and each member is cautioned about activity done in the name of the DAR which might be construed as political.

The DAR maintains and helps several schools for the education of boys and girls and colleges for the young men and women. There is St. Mary's school for Indian girls in Springfield, N.D., which is an Episcopal School.

Tamassee and Kate Duncan Smith Schools has provided grade and high school and college education in the mountains of South Carolina and Alabama for children who had no schools in their community.

before the meeting. A discussion on school drop-outs, riots and vandalism was led by Rolan Sleight. There was some discussion on scarcity of pheasants. The meeting was closed by a musical contest with Mrs Irene Upton and Arthur Curtis winning.

Weekend split costs Wings share of conference lead

St. Johns dropped out of the West Central Conference first-place tie over the weekend, but by winning the second of two games they remained in the race

The Redwings were trounced soundly Friday evening by Ionia, 65-52, but rebounded Saturday night to beat Greenville 75-64 and even the season's series at 1-1. The Redwings now have a 5-3 record and are tied with Charlotte for second place a half-game back of Alma and Hastings.

IONIA HAS been playing the spoiler roll in the conference this season. On Jan. 14 they clipped Alma to drop them into a tie for first with Hastings and St. Johns. Friday they were still fired up and knocked St. Johns out of the first-place tie.

The Redwings were never in the game as Ionia held scoring advantages in every quarter. The Wings fell behind 17-12 at the end of the first quarter and trailed 34-23 at halftime. They were outscored 14-13 and 17-16 in the last two periods.

BILL DeGROOT was the only consistent scorer for the Redwings; he got points in every quarter and ended the night with 15. Jim Leonard got 12 points, while Gene Rademacher had 8, Gary Boyce and Dennis Springer 4 each, Bob Orwein 3 and John Wilson and Roger Leavitt 2 each.

Ionia's scoring was well balanced. John Lamphere led the way with 17, while Charles Stewart had 14, Bruce LaPoint 11 and Brad Cornelius 10.

SATURDAY evening the Wings, still on their home floor, were in different form as they beat Greenville 75-64. Four St. Johns players scored in double figures, led by a red-hot Dennis Springer with 31 points.

Jim Leonard added 14, while Bill DeGroot had 13, Gene Rademacher 11, Bob Orwein 4 and Randy Humphrey 2.

Accuracy from the free throw line spelled the difference in the game. Greenville held a 24-21 edge in field goals made, but St. Johns potted 33 of 43 free throw attempts, while Greenville made

Fowler rolls easily over Saranac, 70-45

SARANAC — Fowler grabbed a 16-10 first quarter lead and rolled to a 70-45 victory over Saranac in a non-league basketball contest here Saturday night. The victory left Fowler 8-1 for the season. George Spicer led Fowler with 16 points while Colin Cady scored 13 for Saranac.

only 16 free throws. GREENVILLE TOOK the early lead in the ball game and led 16-14 at the end of the first quarter. But Jim Leonard came to life in the second quarter with two field goals and four free throws as the Wings bounced back to take a 37-34 halftime lead.

The third quarter was a hectic, evenly-played game with the Wings barely managing to maintain their lead; it was 49-46 starting the fourth period. That was where Springer got busy and led the Wings to a commanding margin.

SPRINGER was deadly on jump shots and free throws, scoring 14 of the Redwings' 26 points in the fourth quarter. From a 57-53 lead with just over 4 minutes left in the game, the Redwings scored seven straight points. At one point they led by 14 points before settling back to the final victory margin.

Ed Shroyer led Greenville with 16 points, while Bob VanSickle had 14, John Nelson 13 and Rick Williams 12.

DeWitt comes within breath of upset win over Portland

DEWITT — The DeWitt Panthers, full of spice and ginger in their first game in their new gymnasium, came close as can be to pulling off the upset of the year in the state basketball Friday night.

With four seconds left in the game they led undefeated Portland, 54-53. But the Raiders' Riley Quinn sank two free throws at that point to keep Portland in the undefeated ranks, 55-54.

PORTLAND IS now 8-0 in the Central Michigan C league and 9-0 overall. DeWitt is in last place with a 2-6 league mark and 2-8 overall record.

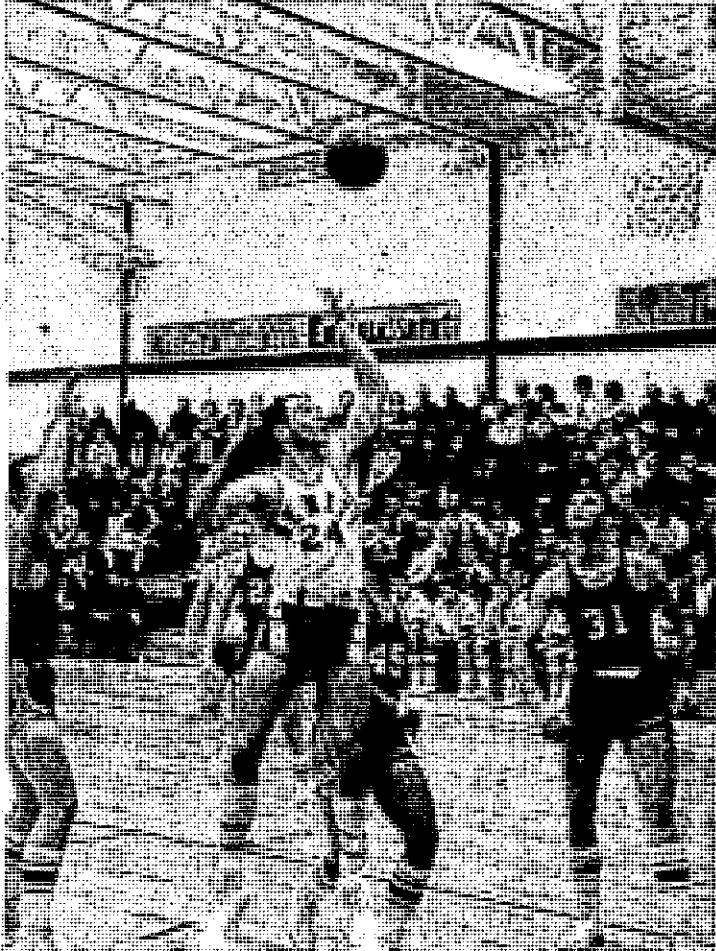

But DeWitt looked like anything but a last-place team as they extended Portland to the limit before bowing in the heartbreaking finish. The Panthers battled to a 13-12 first quarter lead and then outscored Portland 14-12 in the second quarter to lead 27-24 at the half.

THE PANTHERS' best quarter was yet to come. In the third period they held a 14-11 scoring edge and led 41-39 going into the last period. In the fourth quarter they steadily built their lead to 11 points with slow deliberate play. But Portland rallied sharply in the last 3:36 of the game to squeeze out the victory and prevent a major upset.

Bill Watson carried the big stick for DeWitt that almost clubbed the Raiders. He had 22 points on five field goals and 12 free throws. Rick Keck contributed another 14 points, while Jan Hanson had 10, Dave Parker 5, Dale Foster 4 and Jim Schavey 2.

Dennie McCrumb and John Nowak had 10 points each to lead Portland, while game hero Quinn had 9.

DeWitt's Bill Watson works inside for a shot and two points against Portland Friday night. Portland defenders include John Nowak (45) and Bob Showerman (31).

Blanchard trips Fulton, 95-75

MIDDLETON — Fulton High School trailed all the way last Tuesday night, Jan. 18, in dropping a 95-75 basketball decision to Blanchard.

Bill Cartwright and Chris Vansickle turned in their best games of the season, scoring 25 and 24 points respectively. But their performances couldn't offset balanced scoring by Blanchard. Fulton was outscored in almost every quarter — 21-14 in the first, then 24-19 in the second and 24-22 in the fourth.

BLANCHARD had five men in double figures; Walkington and Curtis led the way with 24 and 23 points, respectively, while Marston had 14 and Boyer and Barnes 13 each.

City asks curb, gutter on 7 more city blocks

The city commission of St. Johns has asked for a city manager's report and recommendations concerning curb and gutter for seven more blocks of city streets.

The commission passed an initiative resolution last Tuesday asking for preliminary plans for curb and gutter in the 600 and 700 block North Swegles, 400 block W. Lincoln 800 and 900 blocks North Ottawa and 900 and 1000 blocks North Oakland.

ANOTHER NINE blocks of city streets have been petitioned for by property owners and have been approved for plans and specifications by the city commission.

These include Oakland Street from Lincoln to Gibbs; Mead Street from Lincoln to Gibbs; Traver Street from Higham to Railroad; Elm Street from Clinton to Oakland; and Baldwin Street for a distance of 300 feet west of Morton.

In addition a petition was received last week for curb and gutter on Oakland Street from Mead north to US-27.

A REASONABLE quantity of curb and gutter to insure good bids is around 20 blocks," City Manager Ken Greer said. "As you can see, we're not too far from this goal."

The commission set March 1 as a deadline for petitions from other residents for other curb and gutter work this year.

The seven blocks covered by the commission's initiative resolution should be ordered in by the city, the city manager said. The Ottawa Street project "will be necessary to properly grade around the new water plant and the two wells that are east of Ottawa Street."

"IF WE DID not do the last block on Ottawa Street between Floral and Lewis streets it would leave one block of uncompleted street in the area."

"The Swegles Street and Lincoln Street projects are badly needed to properly route trucking from both the stockyards and Federal Mogul and to assist the residential streets in this area by diverting said trucking to those wider streets."

On another street matter, City Manager Greer was appointed the city's highway administrator to represent the city in maintenance contracts with the State Highway Department.

Noting that a burglary occurs every 46 seconds in the United States, the Insurance Information Institute says many of these could be avoided if homeowners would lock their windows and doors and take a few other simple precautions.

City commission news notes

In miscellaneous business last Tuesday night, the St. Johns City Commission took the following actions:

—The commission referred to the planning commission a request of Mrs. Agnes Schlarf to rezone property at 210 N. Traver Street to allow her to operate a home for the aged. It is presently zoned single family residential; the property is owned by Lloyd Hartman and is being leased to Mrs. Schlarf. She said the home would not involve nursing care, and she has received a state permit to operate such a home. She presented a petition signed by 20 neighbors, stating they had no objection to her plans. The commission is asking for the planning commission's recommendation on the petition.

—THE COMMISSION tabled action on proposed new municipal building rules pending further study of the proposals.

—Requests by Parr's Drug Store and H & H Lounge for special sewer rates because of their use of water-cooled air conditioners were denied by the commission. Investigations disclosed the air conditioning water is going into floor drains and into the sanitary sewers. Prior special rates for air conditioning users were based on the facts the water had either been used for lawn watering or had gone into storm sewers, thus not passing through the sewer plant.

—The commission is considering covering over the huge clarifier at the new water plant with a canvass so it can be painted yet this winter.

—COMMISSIONER Raymond Kentfield Jr. asked for a report on parking meters, receipts, expenditures and other facts in an effort to assess what kind of job the meters are doing. That came up during a discussion of handling parking meter fines and collecting fines overdue. Parking meter receipts were up in 1964-65 from previous fiscal years, City Manager Ken Greer reported. The commission asked police to continue sending out reminder cards to persons whose parking fines had not been collected; this method has had fairly good response in the past, Police Chief Everett Glazier said.

—An ordinance will be drawn up for future passage by the commission establishing the position of associate municipal judge. A similar ordinance was passed last year so that Judge Alba Wert could have a vacation and the court could continue to function. The ordinance was repealed after Wert's return. Probate Judge Tim Green took the associate judge post last year and reportedly has agreed to do the same this year.

Federal-Mogul Honored for Bloodmobile Support

Federal Mogul employees were honored last Thursday by the Mid-Michigan chapter of the American Red Cross for F-M's excellent participation in the Red Cross Bloodmobile program. Steven Hopko, board member of the Red Cross chapter, presents the plaque to Bill Asher. Seated are F-M employees Ray Signs, Mrs. Doris Prowant and Leo Bensinger. Standing are Mrs. Bobbie Spicer, chairman of the St. Johns Bloodmobile visits, Hopko, Asher and F-M plant Manager Ed Idzkowski. Federal-Mogul employees donated 129 pints of blood in the last two Bloodmobile visits, and all employees are now eligible to get blood free even if they are not from Clinton County.

Silver anniversary marked by trip to Hawaiian Islands

"Aole oe noh y lke ia Hawaii" is an old Hawaiian saying which means "you have not lived until you have seen Hawaii."

These words are true according to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hawes of Elsie who recently returned with three other couples from a 12-day trip to the Aloha State. The other vacationers were Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Holden of St. Johns, Mr. and Mrs. Oren Goodrich of rural Ovid, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Stephens of Mount Pleasant, former Elsie area residents.

All but the latter couple were celebrating their 25th wedding anniversaries and started their vacation planning last August with a travel agency.

Because of a severe snow storm they were rerouted to San Francisco for a night stopover on their flight from Detroit to Honolulu on the island of Oahu. Upon arrival they were greeted by the traditional flower leis before transferring to the Surfrider Hotel overlooking the Pacific.

The highlight of that first evening was the Hawaiian luau (feast) on the beach of Waikiki where they had native foods such as Kalua pig cooked in underground ovens, chicken and taro, pineapple spears, papaya, Kona Coffee, poi and coconut puddings.

There was entertainment by Polynesian talent, Hawaiian, Samoan and Tahitian in their native costumes.

EARLY THE next morning they flew to the island of Maui where they motored to Iao Valley to see the strange "Needle" a volcanic spire; awe-inspiring view from Mt. Haleakala and its rare silver-sword plant; Lahaina, historic whaling town and former capital of the Islands; the white sand beaches; the lush vegetation and groves of guava trees and freakish results of lava action.

The island of Hawaii, nearly twice as large as all the other islands combined, was the next stop.

Here they saw the Black Sand Beach, tropical jungle growths and gigantic fern trees, millions of exotic flowers, taro patches and banana, breadfruit, banyan and Calabash trees.

THEY DROVE around the slopes of the Hualalai Volcano and along the Kona coast visiting Kealahou Bay, the legendary "City of Refuge" at Honauiaua and a Buddhist Temple.

The following morning they took an excursion on the "Captain Cook" along the Kona coast and at Kealahou transferred to a glass bottom boat to view the coral formations in the bay.

In the afternoon they flew to the island of Kauai via Honolulu and were able to see the many other islands of the archipelago.

KAUAI IS THE oldest of the inhabited islands of the group.

The four commenced with a visit to Nawiliwili Harbor and continued along Waimea Canyon, Kalalau Lookout and Spouting Horn. Kauai is called the garden island because of its pandanus-shaded white sand beaches, lush vegetation, exotic flowers and native birds.

This island was the scene of "South Pacific" movie filming. They flew back to Honolulu where they spent several days including New Year's Eve with its brilliant display of fireworks.

GOLFING AND swimming were enjoyed along with a tour of the Sea Life Park, fashionable Kahala residential district and the world's famed landmark, Diamond Head Crater, an extinct volcano about 15,000 years old.

Adventures in dining at Fisherman's wharf, Queen's Surf, Banyan Court and Top of Waikiki, a revolving restaurant were interspersed with native entertainments.

An around-the-island tour of Oahu included the Iolani Palace grounds and museum, Country Club, Mormon Temple, Schofield Barracks (site of "From Here to Eternity") Hickam Air Force Base and sugar and pineapple plantations.

A cruise into Pearl Harbor to visit battleship row, the sunken USS Arizona and the Utah and the historical War Memorial will long be remembered by the Michigan vacationers.

They attended a Sunday worship service at the Kaimuki Christian Church in Honolulu where a third of the congregation was made up of Japanese.

THEY ATTENDED a Sunday worship service at the Kaimuki Christian Church in Honolulu where a third of the congregation was made up of Japanese.

Travel on the islands was by limousine or bus. The temperatures averaged an ideal 75 degrees to 80 degrees.

There was leisure time to watch the surfers, hula shows, flower arranging and shopping.

Some of the flowers native to the islands were orchids, hibiscus, gardenia, poinsettia, jasmine, plumerias and wild ginger blossoms.

The couples will never forget the hospitality of the Hawaiians, their music and singing and fabulous costumes, the magnificent scenery and well planned itinerary of the travel agent.

Football players for the Hula Bowl arrived at the Hotel as the Michigan couples were preparing to leave.

They spent their last night on the islands at "A Night in the Philippines" in the Reef Tower Hotel for an evening of entertainment, delicious food and enchanting native dancing in colorful costumes, featuring Filipino beauties.

The next day was filled with leisure time to relax before leaving Honolulu's International Airport for Los Angeles. They stopped at L. A. for a short time before continuing on to Chicago and Detroit.

MRS. HAWES' 4th graders at Knight Elementary School each received a picture post card while their teacher was in Hawaii and are now sharing her wonderful vacation experiences since her return to the classroom.

One "hide-away" you won't find concealed in Allbright-Nell's. It's used by the meat processing industry and can remove up to 75 hides an hour from cattle carcasses.

Have patience, tree lovers told

Sick elm trees, infected with Dutch elm disease, have prompted many property owners to invest in treatments of dubious value, according to the Michigan Department of Agriculture. As yet, the only recommended control is spraying to kill elm bark beetles that spread the infection, along with destruction of diseased and dead trees.

Desperate elm owners, in last-ditch attempts to save valuable trees, have tried many short cuts. Epsom salts and lime were used by some tree owners. One treatment which received wide publicity during 1965 was injection of a chemical into the tree itself. Used this way, the compound—called a systemic insecticide—was supposed to have entered the tree's circulatory system and poisoned the disease carriers.

SOME SORT of systemic treatment does have promise, tree experts admit. But research has not yet taken the "bugs" out of such treatments for bugs. Expanded research in the use of systemics is planned in 1966.

So, concour experts of both the Michigan Department of Agriculture's Plant Industry Division and the Department of Entomology at Michigan State University, tree lovers had best stick with the tried-and-true spray treatment. When a better elm-saver is found, they promise to advise the public.

Start modern math course here for parents

The Central School PTA and the St. Johns Public Schools will sponsor a 10-week course on modern math beginning tonight (Thursday) at Central School.

Mike O'Connor will teach the class. He taught a similar class in St. Joseph School last year and said parents who came to the sessions found them rewarding and a big help in understanding some of their children's problems in math.

TONIGHT'S FIRST session will start at 6:30 p.m., earlier than normal because of PTA that evening. The class will last one hour. All interested persons are welcome. The only cost for the course is $1.50 to cover cost of materials. If enough people show interest, a double session will be scheduled, with one class at 7 p.m. and another at 8:30.

What's happened to signs of children playing in snow

Have you reached the age where you miss seeing children playing in the large round circles in new fallen snow, complete with cross sections to resemble a huge meringue pie?

It was a game called "Fox and Geese," and the only requirements were the cooperation of Mother Nature, any number of children over two, any age beyond the creeping stage and space.

Preparing the circle, involved shuffling the feet through the snow which was a challenge to exert your talents in perfecting a true circle — no out of shape, oblong or uneven pie sections would do.

It was good exercise and active enough to keep you toasty warm in cold, snappy temperatures.

Also missed is the viewing of "snow-angels" outlined along the roadsides.

THIS WAS accomplished by standing erect with outstretched arms and falling backwards into a soft bank of deep snow, working the outstretched arms up and down, leaving the impression of the winged angel in the snow.

However, it would be rather meaningless for us to release our children from the 90 degree warmth of the family car to fall in a snow bank, return to the car, soaking the upholstery with the melting snow, only to have cars pass by the "angels" unobserved. Guess I've reached the age!

Mike Pohls purchased home on Hall Road

Getting acquainted and settled in their recently purchased home on Hall Road is no problem for Mr and Mrs Mike Pohl and son.

Mike, son of Mrs Gerald Ranshaw and the late Alie Pohl, was born and raised on the homestead. After his marriage, with the exception of residing in St. Johns a short time Mr and Mrs Pohl have occupied the tenant home of his employer, Peter Kurnez, on Colony Road.

The house was purchased by the Pohl's when Mr and Mrs Ranshaw moved to St. Johns where they continue to operate their rest home.

Although the Pohl's are not new residents in the community, they are reportedly happy to be raising a family in Mike's birthplace and the home of his parents.

Bill Roof family went to Tip-Up-Town

"Weather, whether or not," failed to keep the Bill Roof family from being present during the Tip-Up-Town winter ice events at Houghton Lake.

After viewing different events, including motorcycle races on the frozen lake and eating their homepacked picnic dinner, the boys experienced a "little" luck at ice fishing.

Phil Waigle got 3 mountain lions in Utah

Phil Waigle and a friend from Phoenix, Ariz., spent 10 days hunting in southern Utah, about 500 miles north of Phoenix, on the north side of the Grand Canyon. Waigle killed three mountain lions, the largest being eight and one-half feet long, an unofficial world's record. Waigle killed the lions with bow and arrow. He had another exciting experience when he crawled for 30 feet in a cave and brought a young lion out alive which was put in a cage and will be kept at a zoo.

The large lion will be mounted and will be on display at Phil's Sport Shop on W. M-21 sometime in July. The hunt was done on horseback. Phil was lucky having only one hand clawed by the vicious killers. Many farmers in the area had reported the lion killing as many as two cattle a week.

Grange group reelects Morrison, Cressman

Russell Morrison of St. Johns was reelected to the board of directors and Almond Cressman of St. Johns was reelected to the audit committee of the Grange Seven Credit Union last Wednesday night.

Robert Berkimer of Bellevue was reelected to the credit committee. All three elections were for three-year terms.

Grange Seven Credit Union represents Clinton, Gratiot, Shiawassee, Ingham and Eaton counties. President of the group is Clarence Hill of St. Johns, who announced Wednesday night the group had paid a 4 per cent dividend to shareholders. This was highly unusual for a new organization, he said.

HILL ALSO advised members that a 5 per cent rebate had been paid on interest paid in by people who had borrowed money.

Entertainment at the Bingham Grange Hall meeting was provided by the Clinton County Senior Citizens Kitchen Band. Door prizes were awarded to Jennifer Minsky (a fruit cake), Mrs. Lula Fox (a broiler) and Mrs. Myrtle Harte (a briefcase).

2 killed on M-57 in Gratiot

Two men were killed on M-57 west of Ashley last Wednesday morning in a head-on crash a half-mile east of US-27. One of the dead men and a passenger, who was seriously hurt, were on their way to work in St. Johns.

The two drivers were killed. They were Richard Brandal, 26, of R-2, Ashley, and David Lee Nalek, 24, of Matherton. They died of skull fractures, according to Gratiot County Coroner Clarence G. Whiting of Breckenridge.

TERRY L. SMITH, 19, of R-3, Ihaca, a passenger in Brandal's car, was seriously injured and was transferred Wednesday to Saginaw General Hospital after first being taken to Gratiot Community Hospital in Alma.

Brandal and Smith were headed for work in St. Johns; Nalek was on his way to work in Ashley, it was reported.

The two cars met head-on near the center of the highway, which was straight but slippery with new snow.

Seeks change in ordinance

An ordinance amendment to allow taverns which do a big food business to serve food to minors accompanied by adults has been introduced to the St. Johns City Commission.

Attorney Jack Walker, on behalf of James Nuser, owner of the Roadhouse on East State Street, made the request last Tuesday at the city commission meeting.

WALKER SAID the Roadhouse's business is about 30 to 35 per cent food business, but they must turn away customers who stop to eat but who have children with them. The city ordinance allows taverns to serve no one under 21 unless the business of the establishment is 50 per cent food business.

Walker said the State Liquor Commission has no rule prohibiting serving food to minors in such establishments. On behalf of Nuser, he proposed an amendment.

The commission, with members Jack Smit and Charles Colletta absent, tabled the proposal until the next meeting.

Firemen ask for park for July 4 fete

The St. Johns Fire Department has requested the use of the city park again this year for its Fourth of July celebration. The city commission is studying the request and promised to have an answer for the department within 30 days of last Tuesday.

Richard (Sonny) Cornwell and Bob Provant presented the department's request last Tuesday. Cornwell said the wheels are turning for the carnival and celebration July 2, 3 and 4 and the department would like to know what part of the city park it can use.

LAST YEAR some concern for the well being of the softball playing area was expressed at the last minute, and the carnival site was shifted to the football practice field area just east of the football field.

The firemen claim the softball playing area does not suffer any harm by locating a carnival on it; the softball diamond itself is not used, they said. In fact, Cornwell said, the use of the field for carnivals in the past has even improved it.

HE SAID the department would like to have the carnival on the softball outfield this year because it would provide more room to spread out the rides and would also place them closer to the band shell, where other events are taking place during the three days.

The city delayed providing an immediate answer to their request. The city and the St. Johns Public Schools are presently dickering on a lease arrangement for land at the park, including the practice field. The city plans to contact the school about the request before making a decision.

Words, sold door-to-door

We hear that door-to-door salesmen are in the neighborhood, selling "vitamin preparations" with apparent concern about your health. These men are not likely to be physicians or pharmacists, and thus are neither professionally qualified to talk about your health nor to prescribe vitamin products. This is your physician's job, just as it is your pharmacist's job to fill such prescriptions. Remember what the door-to-door salesman sells best is words.

In last week's article I discussed service to local industry and explained reasons we in the Chamber felt that the business-industry coffee breaks were important: they offered business an opportunity to express its thanks and appreciation to local industry.

Today I would like to expand a little on this topic and discuss the community as it relates to industry. For, obtaining industry cannot be the sole responsibility of one organization, but it involves the combined efforts of everyone in the community.

THE ATTITUDE of the community toward new enterprise, for instance, is an important element in industrial growth.

No manufacturer can afford to locate in an unfriendly town, and few, if any, will do so. Factions, community leaders who are cold to industry, zoning which smothers business growth, unkempt residential areas, inadequate school systems, lack of good medical facilities and many other elements combine in the decision as to whether or not an industry will locate in a community.

While it is true that items such as access to major highways, raw materials, railroads or air facilities are important, almost every community has some of these basic requirements to attract industry. Therefore, other items such as community attitudes become important, and often the attractiveness of a community to an industry rests to a great extent with the people of the community and what they have provided for themselves.

THE COMMUNITY whose people truly appreciate the value of industry and who show they are genuinely friendly and co-operative toward new enterprise is the community which will experience industrial growth.

One of the most important requisites for the people of a community desiring industry is for them to realize that it takes more than an urge and wishful thinking to induce manufacturers to locate in their city.

It takes long, persistent and well-directed effort. The community must have tangible advantages to offer and while many of its residents may not realize, or care to admit, that the community lacks elemental requirements for successful industrial growth, manufacturers in search of a location have no difficulty in recognizing these facts.

No campaign to attract industry, however ambitious and well planned, can therefore be effective unless it is backed up by much more than a mere desire on the part of residents for industry.

SEVERAL YEARS ago a city, right here in Michigan, and with much to offer in the way of community facilities (it had a harbor, good port, good roads, railroads, air facilities, good schools, good medical facilities, nearness to market areas and everything that made a city desirable for industry) found itself rejected by a national firm which referred to it as "dirty old . . ."

The firm did not mean by this that the city was covered by dirty smog or smoke, put there by competing industry. What they meant, they said so publicly, was that the people of this particular community were lacking in pride. Houses were unattractive. Litter covered the streets and lawns. Property was in a state of disrepair.

NEEDLESS TO say, the joint this city received soon found its residents realizing that all the efforts of their city officials and Chamber of Commerce had been in vain. They themselves—the people—were responsible for the loss of this important industry which located elsewhere.

Another industrialist told me one time that his firm had shied away from another Michigan community simply because its people did not put enough stress on the importance of education. In turning down that city, he cited the fact that the local voters had turned down a proposed high school. This had resulted in overcrowding of the present school with the result that students were attending only for half days.

"We simply could not ask our employees in management, who would have transferred to that city, to set up the plant and run it, to do so. The education of their children was too important," he said.

INDUSTRIAL FIRMS are also known to "get the feel" of a community first hand by sending in representatives who sometimes do no more than coffee hop from restaurant to restaurant. What they hear can be all important. Are the townspeople speaking highly of their community? Did the waitress greet them with a cheery "hello" and was service good? Or did they find people sitting around complaining bitterly about "all that's wrong in our town?"

Industries are known to subscribe to a community's local paper too, oftentimes for many weeks in advance of their even approaching community officials. This is another way in which they can "feel out" the community. They can tell quickly if the community is "on the go," if its people have pride and if all is well.

SOME OF THE other questions

Michigan travel events

Ten big winter events are on the Michigan Tourist Council's calendar during the next week or so.

Industry wants answered before it decides on a city include: what kind of a recreation program do you have? what are the civic activities in your community? do you have nice parks and playgrounds? are you close to a college? what kind of restaurants do you have? what is there for children to do such as bowling, skating and dancing? are there organized Boy and Girl Scouts, 4-H and other clubs? what type medical facilities do you have and are there churches of all denominations?

The Clare County Winter Sports Carnival at Clare, Harrison and Farwell runs Friday through Sunday; the Charlevoix Winter Sports carnival is Saturday and Sunday. Other Saturday-Sunday events are the Detroit News Open Ski Races at Mt. Holly, Northern Michigan Speed Skating Championships at Petoskey, and Winter Festival on Missaukee Mountain at Lake City.

SUNDAY-ONLY events include Junior Alpine Ski Races, point meet, at Boyne Highlands, Snowmobile Rally at Manistiquette, and Tip-Up Festival at Hillsdale. The Michigan Tech Winter Carnival will be held at Houghton Feb. 1-5, and the Gogebic Range Winter Carnival at Ironwood-Bessemer-Wakefield will be Feb. 4-6. The Winter Sports Carnival at Petoskey continues through Feb. 6.

Seek 'careless driving' law here

The St. Johns City Commission has had the first reading of an ordinance making "careless driving" a criminal offense in the city.

A similar state statute will go into effect about March 31. City Atty. Harold Reed suggested a "careless driving" ordinance for the city, violation of which would be a lesser offense than reckless driving.

CITY OFFICERS could write "careless driving" tickets under the state statute after it becomes effective, but fines collected under it would go to the state. Written under a city ordinance, the fines could be kept at home.

Reed noted it is hard to convict a person of reckless driving, and he felt many reckless driving tickets could be more justifiably written as careless driving. Guilty pleas under a careless driving ordinance would be easier to obtain than under a reckless driving ordinance, he said because the fine and other penalties would not be as harsh as under reckless driving.

All's fair in love and . . . politics!

"All's fair in love and war. . ."

The origin of this quotation escapes us, but we think it could be brought up to date by changing it to "All's fair in love and politics."

It seems, from all that we hear and read, that those in office today are concerned mainly with getting votes for the next election. Of course, this begins right after an election and continues, even though it will be four years before another election comes around.

IT SEEMS THAT whatever our men in government do today, it is done with an eye to the next election. This bill passes because it will mean a lot of votes next election year. That bill is vetoed or never gets out of committee because it will antagonize the people and lose votes at the next election.

It doesn't seem that responsible men who were elected by the people to represent them would be so inclined, but this doesn't appear to be the case. Of course, we're not talking about all, but there seem to be enough this way to make the old saying "one rotten apple in a barrel . . ." seem quite appropo.

A FEW YEARS AGO the cry was, to pay our legislators and congressmen more money to insure getting better men interested in serving their country in this capacity. We did just this, and today the salary and fringe benefits seem to be too good to let this man do anything between elections except campaign for the next election.

If you've read the papers or listened to the news lately we think you will know of what we speak.

AS WE'VE SAID before, "All's fair in love and politics."

This "All's fair in love" we can understand, because it is between two individuals, usually. But in government we can't understand it because our government was setup to be "by the people, of the people, for the people," and this is too big a group for a love affair in any language.

Youth for Understanding gets a deserved boost

It was encouraging to read in last week's paper that further local efforts are being made to expand the student exchange program being carried out in St. Johns.

A local committee has been formed to take care of much of the organizational work for a student exchange that was previously handled by an area representative in Grand Rapids. We're talking about the Youth for Understanding Program conducted under the auspices of the Michigan Council of Churches and the US Department of State.

THE LOCAL COMMITTEE should be complimented for seeing the importance of this program—both for education and for world understanding—and trying to expand on it. By taking over some of the organizational problems of a project like this, and giving it more local publicity, the new committee should generate more local response.

We wish them all kinds of luck. We know of no better way to broaden the horizon of knowledge and to better world understanding than with youth. The Youth for Understanding program is designed for this; it will prosper and expand with a local committee.

Working well past the 5 o'clock quitting time and Saturday mornings may at first appear to be a noble gesture of a hard-working man. But lest I lead you astray on my motives, let me point out that those hours, to a certain extent, are as much a defense against the television cartoon as anything.

Since my daughter was first able to recognize the quick-moving and funny sounding characters on TV, I have found the extra work put in each night and on Saturday to be both good for my work and good for my peace of mind.

FOR AWHILE I was able to watch the cartoons with some enjoyment. As Kathy became older and understood what she was seeing she became a rabid fan of the cartoon shows, and I began to detest them with equal rabidity.

The cartoon show is a breed of television all by itself. No other regularly scheduled shows could send Scott McClellan, "Space Angel," into the same danger on the same planet five times. No other regularly scheduled shows could have Snagglepuss getting into the same hot water with the Major four times. Five times, eeeeven.

WHILE OTHER television shows limit themselves to summertime reruns, the cartoon shows seem to be in a fast, permanent orbit, coming back over our TV set every few months or so.

While this is wearing on we adults at home, the little one seems to care not, and any attempt to switch channels to something more enjoyable to us creates quite a rucus. But even Kathy is beginning to notice the familiarity of some of the cartoons after she's seen them four or five times.

EVEN ON THE rare days when there is a fresh cartoon on, the sheer numbers of cartoons are beginning to really wear us down. There are morning cartoons and afternoon cartoons. And on Monday, Wednesday and Friday good old Huck Hound or the "better than the average bear," Yogi, is on in the evening. And for three-quarters of the day Saturday there are cartoons.

This is where I "exit, stage right" and flee to the comparative quiet of the office, where there are few reruns in the events of life.

Reminiscing

By W. E. DOBSON

Most folks take 't' swappin' stories—
Their memoirs of long ago
When all traffic wasn't halted
By a fresh new fall of snow;
And I find myself recallin'
All the spots we used to roam,
When we rode the swell-back cutter,
And the horse knew the way home!

Never had that useless spinnin'
Of the wheels on crusted snow,
Didn't have to search for snow-treads
When we'd once decide to go;
Never froze the radiator,
In daytime or evening's gloam,
When we rode the swell-back cutter,
And the horse knew the way home!

Sure the air would be plum frosty,
And the horse white-whiskered too,
But once she was hitched in harness,
She knew what she was to do;
Talk about your scenic travels—
We had earliost "Vista-Dôme,"
When we rode the swell-back cutter,
And the horse knew the way home!

Come bad weather we weren't halted
By the "news" there'd be no school,
Willing farm-hands routed snow-drifts,
And we made it as a rule;
Wasn't long on fancy fixtures,
Didn't sport a lot of chrome,
When we rode the swell-back cutter,
And the horse knew the way home!

Yes, I know we glamourize it
Now that we the past review;
To be sure it had its drawbacks—
Present methods have those too;
But the buffalo robes were comfy,
Usually we didn't groan—
When we rode the swell-back cutter,
If we dallied getting home!

A decision for the insured motorists

Each insured motorist in Michigan has a decision to make about protecting himself and his family against loss caused by an uninsured driver when he receives his new automobile insurance policy this year.

The question is whether to rely on the new Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Act, for which he must pay $1 when he buys his car license plates, or to also have Uninsured Motorist Insurance, which generally costs $3 to $4 a year.

A COMPANION law to the Claims Act requires uninsured motorist insurance in each automobile insurance policy delivered after Jan. 1, 1966, unless the motorist rejects it in writing.

For about half of the state's insured motorists, this raises the question of whether to retain the uninsured motorist insurance they already have. For some it renews an offer they previously had declined. For others it will be a first exposure to the coverage. In each instance an understanding of what is involved is important.

BOTH THE state fund and the insurance provide death or injury coverage of $10,000 for one person and $20,000 for more than one in any accident for which an uninsured motorist is legally at fault.

The Claims Fund covers property damage up to $5,000, but not the first $200. This is not in most uninsured motorist insurance because insured motorists have broader vehicle protection in their collision coverage. It pays regardless of who is at fault, and whether or not another vehicle is involved, or is insured. If damage is caused by an uninsured vehicle, many policies also pay the deductible amount, which may be $200, but usually is $100 or $50.

THERE IS a major difference between the Claims Fund and uninsured motorist insurance in their method of payment. The fund cannot pay unless the uninsured driver who is involved agrees, or does not object within 30 days. Otherwise, the person who has suffered injury or damage faces the expense and time of getting a court judgment. Uninsured motorist insurance pays an injured motorist from his own insurer, with no uninsured driver or court involved. Any disagreement is arbitrated, but this has been rare in nine years of the coverage.

The claims fund also requires court proceedings in hit-run claims. Uninsured motorist insurance does not.

SOME DIFFERENCES in coverage are involved, too. The claims fund pays only for accidents which occur in Michigan. Uninsured motorist insurance pays anywhere in the United States or Canada. The claims fund does not pay relatives or friends from other states who are injured in a Michigan car. Uninsured motorist insurance does, both in Michigan and in the other states and Canada.

Another consideration is that the claims fund is secondary coverage to an uninsured motorist insurance claim. This means that a motorist with uninsured motorist insurance has maximum coverage of $20,000 for one person and $40,000 for more than one, if he needs it for a serious injury accident.

Notice of the uninsured motorist insurance and of the provision for rejecting it if desired now is included on the cover of all automobile insurance policies.

The "Low Down"

From the
Congressional Record

By Joe Crump

Rep. John P. Saylor Proposals to set up an automobile and beautification fund through retention of a portion of the present excise tax on new cars should be considered seriously

"An accumulation of from 30 to 40 million old cars has produced thousands of unsightly junk piles around the country, and something has to be done about them and the 5 million other cars that are being assigned to auto graveyards each year

"I am including as part of my remarks an article from Consolidated News on this subject." (The condensed article follows):

THERE'S GOLD in those automobile graveyards—potentially, at least. That's the word from the US Bureau of Mines, which has a process under development that may be used to convert these national eyesores into assets. And there's certainly no scarcity of rusty automobile bodies. They litter America's roadsides from coast to coast.

The new process holds hope for a practical method of using metal scrap with ore.

from junked autos in treating a now useless type of iron ore to make it suitable feed for blast furnaces. The ore is called non-magnetic taconite. If the bureau's process can be used to bring it into production, millions of tons of unsightly scrap cars will be consumed each year.

OUR ROADSIDE clunkers have enemies in high places. No less a personage than President Johnson has publicly called for their elimination. He said the first lady is even more impatient that he about cleaning up our littered highways. And coal men have more than casual interest in getting rid of our abandoned automobiles. The scrapped car bodies are mixed with a coal product (coke), among other things, for feeding the blast furnaces. The fact that the process was developed by the US Bureau of Mines is also significant.

This is welcome news to scrap dealers, because their markets have been reduced greatly since the peak years of the 1950s. Metal producers often find it costs more now to sort scrap and removal of junked cars is a double liability whose aesthetic appeal is even lower than their market value. Public criticism of auto graveyards is increasing, and efforts are being made to find some way of eliminating them.

AS A RESULT, scrap prices fall as supplies pile up. The piles of old cars are a double liability whose aesthetic appeal is even lower than their market value. Public criticism of auto graveyards is increasing, and efforts are being made to find some way of eliminating them.

A GRASSROOTS COMMENT
Making junked automobiles commercially profitable is a sure way to remove them from the scene.

The program of stockpiling essential material for use in a national emergency might include junked cars compressed into cubes. The new process being developed by the US Bureau of Mines appears to promise a way out of a growing predicament.—J.C.

HOPPER

By STEVE HOPKO.

THE 15TH OF October movement in Ann Arbor is getting more publicity these days than the famous university's league-leading basketball team.

In case you have forgotten or haven't kept up with the news this is the day that a large group of the university's student body decided that our military action in Vietnam was illegal and immoral. To show their disapproval of this action they decided to have a sit-in at the local draft board office.

WHAT DID THEY hope to prove by sitting in a draft board office? The answers seem to extend from, "I was acting in the best interest of my country" to "The sit-in was a semi-emotional, semi-intellectual attempt to show other people that some feel so strongly their government is wrong that they're willing to suffer through the legal system."

Well, the legal system went to work and convicted some of these students of the trespass law. Now the Selective Service says they also violated specific sections of the draft law and has changed their classification from 2-S deferred to 1-A and eligible for induction into the military service; the students are shouting foul.

IT'S NOT ONLY these students, but every time you turn around today someone who has deliberately broken the law starts yelling foul, we're being discriminated against or they are using us as an example.

This may be true, and if it is, I am heartily for it. I think anyone who deliberately breaks the law should be discriminated against to the point where he is made to pay for breaking the law and his punishment used as an example to others that crime does not pay.

ACTUALLY THIS is what we have been doing for years with our courts and penal system. The threat that is hung over all of our heads is "Obey the laws or suffer the consequences."

But getting back to the students being reclassified. My question is this: why should these people be given any deferments to start with? Why are they any better qualified to stay home from the services than the fellow who graduated from high school and instead of going on to college decided to work in some other field, say in a factory, or in a store learning the retail trade from the bottom of the ladder? These fellows have as much right to be deferred as a student, but their chances of getting one is pretty slim, like a cold day in you know where.

IF A COLLEGE or university student thinks he is being discriminated against because he is reclassified, pity the poor guy who couldn't go to college. He is the one being discriminated against. He has no recourse except to do as he is told. Of course there are some in this category who try everything to stay out, but usually when the time comes they go without a lot of hysterics. The student is given so that he can finish his education without interruption, but what of the kid who becomes an apprentice in a trade? How about the interruption of his life? Is this so much less that he is expendable where a student isn't. I think not.

Dickie thinks Charlie is an OK pet

Many kinds of milk on the market now

BY HELEN MEACH
Extension Home Economist

MILK MAGIC — Cows produce the same milk they always did — but the dairy industry doesn't. The dairymen take the milk as cows give it . . . and then the work begins. In addition to regular milk containing approximately 3 1/2 per cent butterfat, dairies offer skimmed milk with almost no butterfat. These two choices don't please everyone, so the dairymen offer low-fat milk containing two per cent butterfat. Low fat milk boasts a distinctively different flavor which some customers prefer. Most dairies also manufacture butter milk and chocolate milk to please other customers. Many dairies also make non-dairy drinks such as fruit juices, and fruit punches; and processed egg nog some months of the year.

Modern fresh dairy sour cream is a product of delicate flavor that adds a gourmet touch whenever it's used. Fresh dairy sour cream is generally made from coffee cream and contains about 18 to 20 per cent butterfat, or just about 60 calories per tablespoon. It is pasteurized and homogenized to insure smoothness and uniformity. The zesty, tangy flavor and the thick, velvety, smooth texture of fresh dairy sour cream are carefully protected by a regulated process of adding a special lactic acid culture to the cream. This is why sour cream is often called "cultured" cream.

You can make whipped toppings from non-fat dry milk. You can use tap water instead of ice water to make this topping. Tap water can be used because non-fat dry milk acts more like an emulsifier than other proteins, and it calls for room temperature mixing conditions. Whipped milk and cream toppings are high in fat and require ice cold ingredients and utensils.

The following procedure is recommended: 1. Whip on low speed until the milk and water are completely mixed. Then whip on high speed until the foam forms soft peaks. 2. Add a little acid (usually lemon juice) to help the mixture form a stiff foam. Continue until the foam holds stiff peaks. 3. You are now ready to add your other ingredients, such as sugar and fruit. These should be folded into the mixture carefully. Use the proportions of ingredients called for on non-fat dry milk carton. These will vary a little among brands.

A thoroughly chilled dessert, served on the same day it is prepared, is the tastiest. It loses its fluffiness and begins to separate if it stands over-night in the refrigerator.

CHOPPED FRUIT purees combine well with whipped toppings for a pleasing dessert that is modest in calories.

While non-fat dry milk toppings are a boon to dieters, they do not really take the place of whipped cream for many desserts. Whipped non-fat dry milk lacks the rich taste and feel of whipped cream. It also has a somewhat sharp flavor from the acid that is added.

He wanted what? ... for Christmas

By SANDI RATHBUN

Just imagine what Santa must have thought when an eight year old Victor township boy didn't ask for any of the usual toys for Christmas. No, he didn't want an electric train, a model plane, an Erector set or even a racing car. The only thing he wanted Santa didn't even keep in stock for young fellows.

Richard "Dickie" Archer asked for a snake and not just any kind either. Dickie wanted a boa.

Santa tried very hard to get the unusual pet to Dickie for Christmas but he just couldn't get one in time so he left a note saying that Dickie would get the snake at a later date. Along with the note Santa left the glass aquarium for the snake to stay in at night and a book about snakes.

ABOUT TWO weeks later word came from the pet shop that Dickie's snake had arrived. He (the boa) was named "Charlie" when he came to live at 7666 Linton Road, R-5, St. Johns.

Charlie is three to four years old and is 52 inches long.

Charlie is a friendly snake and gets along well with Dickie's younger sister, Dawn, who is almost 6, and with Dickie's mother.

er, Mrs. Richard Archer. But his older sister, Debbie, almost 10, is not nearly as thrilled with Charlie.

Charlie spends the evenings out of his glass home with the family. Nights and mornings he is confined in the aquarium which is kept in Dickie's bedroom right next to his bed.

When I asked Dickie if he had taken Charlie to school yet he said, "No."

"CHARLIE WOULD catch a cold and cough if I took him out in this cold weather," he added with almost a superior air.

"Then we would have to keep him warm under the heating unit for him to get over his cold," he said.

But he added that he plans to take Charlie to see his second grade class at Cedar Lake school when the weather gets warmer.

Mrs. Archer said Charlie is tame and is already a member of the family. She assured me he liked to be held because he liked the warmth from hands.

Before I left the Richard Archer home I found out that Charlie really does like to be held and he is a very friendly snake.

The Archer children don't find Charlie too unusual for a pet

'Nothing new' under the sun' in state Legislature

Observing the legislative process closely year after year often makes one wonder whether this function of civilization has fallen behind other segments.

In this area, the adage of "nothing new under the sun" seems to hold fairly true despite constant change in other elements of society. Colored television and computer advances in the electronics field, new fabrics in merchandising, faster methods of cooking, etc.; these tell in vivid pictures of the advances being made.

In the state Legislature, however, much the same processes are being used today as were in vogue 10 or more years ago. The subject matter under discussion points up the lag also.

HARDLY A YEAR has gone by in recent memory that someone hasn't blamed the Conservation Department for allowing hunters to kill off too many deer, either bucks or does.

We're told taxes won't be on the agenda this year, but that won't keep fiscal reform out of the floor discussion, it can be assured. Then there is the all-too-familiar subject of compensation of legislators. Even on the first day of the current session there were bills introduced to provide possible action in this area.

There's also the decade-old subject of the governor's mansion. Lawmakers in 1964 thought they could deal quickly with this one because the new Constitution issued a mandate for providing a home for the chief executive. The question is far from solved and there are many, many other perennial.

THE REPETITIOUS nature of legislative affairs will be increased this year, although there was enough previously, by another part of the 1963 Constitution. It provides that bills not disposed of in the first year of the legislative biennium shall carry over into the second.

Some 1,500 bills were left from the 1965 session at various stages of consideration. With about this number expected to be introduced again, this carry-over factor does lend something new "under the sun" in legislative activity: a new challenge to the memory of those who try to keep close track of what is being done.

TIMING IS all-important in politics. Every politician and advisor knows this. But judgments are required to determine whether the timing is right, and this is where politicians and advisors sometimes disagree or go wrong.

Detroit's young mayor apparently has decided that his time is now. He seems to care little about being governor, the post viewed as his next logical step when he was first elected.

Mayor Jerome Cavanagh also apparently is convinced that to get to the US Senate he must run this year. Someone has told him it would be easier to get senior Senator Patrick McNamara's seat (which he ran against Philip Hart four years from now. Waiting another six years, if McNamara ran this year and served the full term, would put the mayor in the position of a nobody or an also-ran if he were still in his present post.

AS FAR AS interrupting a college education goes, I think if you will look back a couple of military actions ago you will find a lot of people whose education was interrupted in the late 40s. These fellows went back to school and finished without it hurting too much, and in some cases it helped because they were more mature because of their interruption.

And speaking of maturity, I think this is what some of the boys who are yelling foul now lack. There's an old saying that goes something like this, "If you are going to dance, you have to pay the fiddler." It made sense a hundred years ago, and I think it still makes a lot of sense.

Land owners should consider conifer windbreaks, strip cropping and other conservation treatments to stop this loss of topsoil and plant food from farms in Michigan.

Money making farm programs planned

Money making ideas that will keep the farmer of the future in profit making business 15 years from now will be unfolded at the Michigan State University 1966 Farmers' Week Jan. 31 through Feb. 4.

"Every department has arranged programs that will help keep Michigan farmers moving forward," according to General Chairman Byron Good. Special programs for women and youth are also scheduled.

EXHIBITS WILL be open from Monday noon through Friday noon

In the Spartan Stadium concourse, agricultural engineering building, livestock pavilion and at the dairy research center and livestock farms.

More than 30 farm-related organizations will hold annual meetings during the week with the dairy breed associations opening the week with sessions on Monday.

Special honors will be presented to the "dairyman of the year," "agricultural engineer of the year," and to three farmers for distinguished service to Michigan agriculture.

ON TUESDAY, Wednesday and Thursday, all departments will have major meetings for visitors both morning and afternoon. There will be evening banquets and free entertainment programs most nights of the week.

Complete programs are available at county Extension Service offices and can be obtained at major exhibit and meeting areas on campus. Special parking and food arrangements are being made for the thousands of visitors expected during the 51st annual farm week.

Winter competition is feature Michigan outdoor attraction

Some of the world's outstanding ski racers and jumpers as well as speedskaters will compete for national, state and regional titles in Michigan this winter, according to the Michigan Tourist Council.

The events are expected to attract many thousands of spectators as the athletes vie for honors that for some may lead to Olympic fame.

HIGH ON THE list are the National Ski Jumping Championship and the Kiwanis Invitational Ski Tournament March 5-6, respectively, on Pine Mountain, the world's highest artificial ski jump, at Iron Mountain.

The national meet was won last year by John Balfanz who holds the North American distance record of 325 feet.

Ishteping, home of the National Ski Hall of Fame, will be host to one of the nation's oldest ski jumping tournaments Feb. 19-20, as American and foreign flyers shoot for the Suicidal Hill record of 257 feet set last year by a Japanese skier.

THE CENTRAL United States Ski Assn. has scheduled nine down-hill events in Michigan, featuring the midwest's top junior and senior performers.

CUSSA senior meets are set for Feb. 5 at Pine Knob near Clarkston and Feb. 19 at Boyne Highlands, followed by the Michigan State Championship Feb. 26 at Sugarloaf Mountain near Traverse City, and the six-state division championship March 5 at Boyne Mountain. The latter event is sponsored by the Chicago Sun Times.

SOUTHEAST MICHIGAN will have two weekends of top amateur competition Jan. 22 and 29-30 as the The Detroit News and Mt. Holly Ski Area team up to sponsor the annual Michigan Open Slalom Ski Meet and the annual Interscholastic Invitational.

Other ski meets include the State High School Ski Championships Feb. 19 at Sugarloaf Mountain near Traverse City, and the Nub's Nob Open Ski Races March 12-13 at Harbor Springs.

THE MICHIGAN Speedskating Championship is set for Feb. 12-13 at the Alpena Sports Rink. It was at this meet several years ago that Terry McDermott of Essexville, Mich. the United States' only gold medal winner in the 1964 Winter Olympics, began his rise to international fame.

A half-dozen other speedskating meets are scheduled including US Olympic Style Meet Feb. 5-6 at Flint; and the Gold and Silver Skates Championships Feb. 19-20 at Detroit.

AGRICULTURE in Action

by M. L. Woolf

If a person must get sick or have a serious accident, it would be wise to carefully pick the time and place.

The way things are now in a number of Michigan communities, a person might well have a better chance to find a doctor of veterinary medicine to treat a sick cow than a general practitioner to treat a sick child. According to John A. Doherty, executive secretary of the Michigan Health Council, there are more than 140 Michigan communities currently seeking general practitioners through the placement service of the council.

"ALL THIS AT a time when big-hearted Michigan residents have spent over a billion dollars on a network of hospitals second to none — with many not operating at a full rate because of the acute doctor shortage," Doherty says.

In a growing list of communities, there are doctors who want to retire because of age or health, but the principal reason for the shortage in most communities is that 78 per cent of the young doctors are going into specialties. "There now are more surgeons than general practitioners," Doherty reports.

FARMERS WHO remain more isolated than most Michigan residents, and yet suffer from one of the higher industrial accident rates, have a great deal at stake in doing everything possible to ease the doctor shortage. Most of the communities which are short of doctors are in agricultural areas.

In some states farmers have taken direct action — Illinois, for example, where the Illinois Farm Bureau has teamed up with the Medical Society in providing loans to medical students who promise to go into rural practice for five years.

IN MANY STATES, including Michigan, farm groups are working at the job of interesting students in health careers.

Obviously farmers must have a vital interest in "helping" solve the doctor shortage problem. Things have reached a critical state where they sometimes find it easier to get a cow treated for mastitis than to treat a mangled hand.

Many self-cleaning ovens are equipped with a heating element that makes 840 to 920 degree temperatures possible. A Michigan State University home economist says anything splattered on the oven is decomposed by the intense heat. Safety features such as automatically locking oven doors are included with the cleaning device.

Lockwood Receives Award

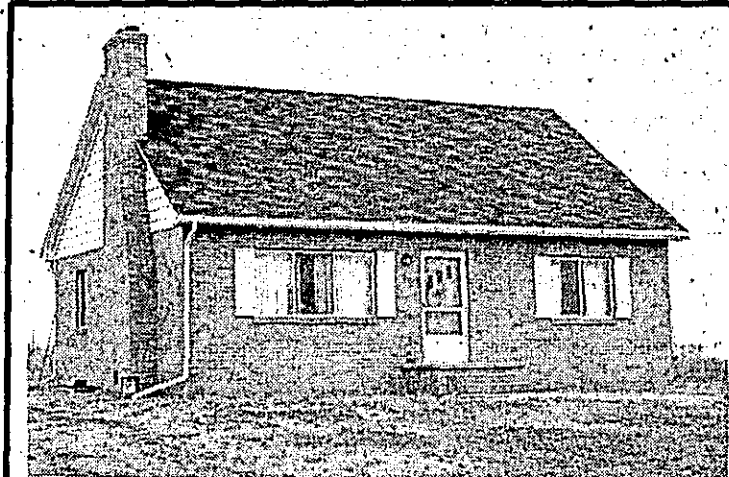

State Sen. Emil Lockwood of St. Louis (left), senator from Michigan's 30th senatorial district, received the Michigan Agricultural Conference "Legislative Service to Agriculture Award" recently from Elton Smith, president of the Michigan Farm Bureau. Lockwood noted that the 30th district, comprised of Shiawassee, Clinton, Eaton, Montcalm and Gratiot counties and the area around Williamston, is the "richest agricultural area in the state," producing one-fourth of the pea-beans grown in the United States and nearly all the colored beans produced in Michigan. The district also produces one-half of the Michigan cucumbers and over one-third of the Michigan potatoes, making it the fastest-growing potato area in the world. "We further have many successful cattle feeders and excel in other agricultural areas," he noted.

How to increase timber's value

Improvement of the rate of growth is important to the timber grower. However, more critical for the owner is distribution of increased growth-rate. Wood production alone is not as important in Southern Michigan hardwoods as the species on which the growth has occurred, according to Elton Twork, Conservation Department area forester.

Improvement cuts in timber can get more of the growth on the desirable trees by eliminating the competition of others. This type of cut removes trees which are undesirable for growing stock because they make poor growth on the site where they are established. It may remove trees because of poor form, high incidence of decay or because of the low market value of the species compared with others in the stand.

TO IMPROVE the composition of the stand and favor the growth of species most favorable to the site and the owners' chances of profit is an expense. However, the increased value of growth after improvement usually exceeds the cost in short time. Upon application to the ASC committee, the expense may be cost shared up to 80 per cent of the cost of doing the job recommended and estimated by the area forester.

Shop in Clinton County.

Directors of the Clinton County Soil Conservation District are making the final plans for the district's annual meeting Feb. 5 at Smith Hall in St. Johns. Left to right are District Chairman Robert Moore, William Mayers, Stanley Baird, Keith Wright and Clarence Manning. Moore's and Baird's terms on the board expire this year, and they are seeking reelection at the annual meeting.

Grass is greener at home, Clinton residents learn

Residents of Clinton County apparently find that the grass is greener right where they are. Their record shows that they do less moving about from one locality to another than people in most parts of the country.

The findings are based on data compiled by the Census Bureau. The purpose was to determine the extent of internal migration in the United States and to discover why people dig up their roots in one place to take up residence somewhere else.

THE NATIONAL picture appears to be one of high mobility. In a period of just one year, from 1963 to 1964, no less than 36 million people — nearly one out of every five in the population — moved to new addresses.

Clinton County residents are less transient than that. Some 19,365 of them were found to be in the same houses they had been living in five years before, according to a detailed study based on data gathered in the last census.

THE NUMBER of local people who did move during the five-year period totaled 13,104. Of these, 5,807 merely changed to other locations within the county. Another 7,297 came in from other areas to take up local residence.

No figures are available to indicate how many may have left the county to live elsewhere.

It boils down to the fact that only 40 out of every 100 people in Clinton County were living in different houses after a period of five years.

THIS MOBILITY rate, 40 per cent, was lower than the rate reported for the United States as a whole — 47 per cent.

The rate in the East North Central States was 48 per cent, and in Michigan, 44 per cent. The Census Bureau lists a number of circumstances to account for the restlessness shown by so many Americans. Sometimes it is changing moods that account for the shifts. City residents get the urge to live in the suburbs and those in the suburbs decide to try urban living.

ECONOMIC considerations are a frequent cause. Better working conditions in another area, or a drying up of a source of livelihood in his present location may lead a person to move.

Change in social status is another. Marriage, as well as the breakup of marriage by divorce or death, account for much of the moving.

Criminals to pay 10% more fine

Persons found guilty of committing a crime stand to pay 10 per cent more for it in cash now than they did before the first of the year.

The Law Enforcement Officers Training Council Act of 1965 (Senate Bill 30) provides for courts to charge 10 per cent of the fines assessed in criminal cases, except for traffic, parking or conservation cases.

The 10 per cent amount is remitted by the court to the county treasurer, who submits it to the state. There the money goes into a special fund used for the training of police officers at all levels of government.

MSU prof to speak at SCD meet

Dr. Louis Wolfanger, professor and research professor in land use at Michigan State University, will be the main speaker Feb. 5 at the annual meeting of the Clinton County Soil Conservation District.

Wolfanger will speak on soils maps and their value in planning land use.

The annual meeting will begin at 11 a.m. with judging of FFA soil and water conservation exhibits, and the dinner will get under way about noon. During the business meeting to follow, two directors will be elected. Terms expiring this year are those of Chairman Robert Moore and Stanley Baird, who is filling out Loren VanOstran's term.

3 make dean's list at Ferris

Three residents of St. Johns were among the more than 700 Ferris State College students who were named to the dean's honor list for academic excellence during the past quarter. Dr. Robert L. Huxol, vice president for instruction at the college has announced.

To be named to the dean's honor list a student must maintain at least a B average while carrying a full academic load.

The students were Gordon W. Delo, junior in the Department of Education and son of Mrs. Ruth Delo; Kenneth L. Love, freshman in the Trade and Industrial Division and son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Love; and Keith L. Thurston, sophomore in the Trade and Industrial Division and son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Thurston.

The word "vaccination" comes from the Latin word "vacca," meaning cow. The term originally referred only to the injection of cowpox virus into the body to prevent smallpox.

MSU TO HONOR MICHIGAN FARM LEADERS

For "Distinguished Service to Michigan Agriculture", three agricultural leaders will be honored at Michigan State University next month. The citations will be presented during the annual MSU Farmers' Week January 31 — February 4.

Named for the award which has been presented for the past twelve years are: Lester Allen, Ithaca; Blague Knirk, Quincy, and J. Stanley Sherman, East Lansing. Allen, Gratiot county livestock farmer currently serves in the Michigan Legislature from the 88th district. Knirk is a member of the Michigan Agricultural Commission who operates a 1,000-acre Branch county livestock farm. Long a leader in the grain marketing field, Sherman is manager of the Michigan Elevator Exchange in Lansing. The citations will be presented by Dean T. K. Cowden of MSU's College of Agriculture at an agricultural leaders' luncheon February 2.

Stress new ideas at Farmers' Week

Agricultural engineering programs will have new ideas on parade for Michigan State University's Farmers' Week Jan. 31 to Feb. 4. In displays of innovations in farm equipment and in discussions of new practices, engineers will aid visitors in planning modern farming methods.

Latest farm equipment will be on display in the Agricultural Engineering building all week. Visitors will find new ideas in farm building designs, sprinkler irrigation, and crop and feed handling equipment. Tractors—extra large for big jobs, and compact for the backyard—will also be on display, along with just other farm machinery.

ON TUESDAY, ag engineers present a program devoted to the growing of more and better corn. MSU and midwest authorities will speak on all phases of corn handling—from growing to moving to the storage of silage.

Since corn is a $138,000,000 annual crop—corn is "King for a Day!"

Tuesday night visitors attend the Ag Engineering Banquet. Speaker will be Neil Burnside of Ford Motor Co., Detroit.

"What's new in engineering for the farm," is the topic for Wednesday's discussion. A potpourri of new engineering ideas will be presented. Highlighted will be both the compact and high-powered tractor, hydrostatic transmissions, liquid manure equipment and new uses for combines. Also discussed by the MSU engineers will be wide span farm building trusses, trends in irrigation, and innovations in crop harvesters.

AGRICULTURAL engineers are working constantly to reduce the stress placed upon farmers. According to the department, 80 per cent of the problems facing farmers involve engineering.

The engineering show concludes on Thursday a report of the new facilities developed by engineers. University specialists will discuss new facilities in handling livestock wastes, with a final session on dairy barns and equipment.

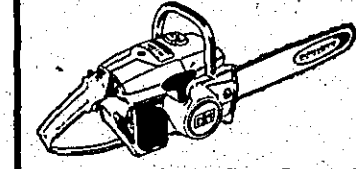

Employers reminded of unemployment tax

Employers who employed four or more individuals during some portion of at least one day of each of 20 or more weeks in 1965 must file a return and pay the federal unemployment tax.

A. M. Stoepker, district director of internal revenue in Michigan, said this return, Form 941, should be filed on or before Monday, Jan. 31.

Michigan State University scientists expect the population of the state to reach 10.5 million in the next 15 years. Although two million additional consumers will require more food and farm products, only 3 per cent will be in farm families.

Sealed Power calls 25-cents dividend

Paul C. Johnson, president of Sealed Power Corp., has announced that the company's board of directors, meeting Jan. 18, declared a regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents per share on its common stock, payable March 10, 1966, to shareholders of record of Feb. 17, 1966.

Foods and nutrition specialists at Michigan State University say the length of time frozen food may be kept varies directly with the temperature. The length of time quality can be maintained is cut in half with each five degrees the temperature rises. Foods will keep well for one year if the temperature stays at zero.

WHO SHALL SPEAK FOR FARMERS?

Who, Indeed?

Many groups, government officials, labor leaders and other non-farm "spokesmen" would like to speak with the voice of the farmer in Michigan and the United States.

But only farmers, through their own organizations which they create, finance and control, can truly speak for farmers.

If you farm, join FARM BUREAU, and speak for yourself in Washington and Lansing.

Television instruction is now widespread, popular in St. Johns school system

Television — that oft-called "vast wasteland" — has come into its own in recent years for educational purposes, even if not for entertainment purposes. Educational TV is bringing the world into the classroom, giving students an added dimension in learning.

The St. Johns Public School System, like a lot of others, has taken this popular instrument and used it as a valuable teaching tool. All elementary students in the St. Johns schools are regular viewers of educational television from Channel 10, WMSB, Michigan State University.

All rural schools were provided with TV sets this fall so they may use the programs.

NOT ALL THE programs aired on WMSB are regularly used. Teachers and principals use their judgment as to which ones are viewed. The telecasts watched will depend on the age of the students, the number of grades in the room, the interests of the students and teachers and the daily classroom schedule. The only program all are asked to use is Spanish.

Science, children's literature, Michigan social studies, art, modern mathematics and kindergarten are available. The TV programs are really no different than educational films. They are not intended to take the place of a teacher but rather to give her or him another way of making school interesting and challenging for the children. Many teachers have found that watching a program has led children to read about what they learned, or in areas like science, to perform experiments.

EVEN THE BEST classroom teachers can't offer their students some things, like talks with leading statesmen, or over-the-shoulder looks at famous artists working in their studios, or tours of the insides of nuclear reactors.

It gives every student, front row seats in demonstrations, and it enables every student to benefit from the skills of top teachers in a particular field.

Lessons focus primarily on subjects where the classroom teacher needs help, materials and can handle only with great inconvenience.

FOR EXAMPLE, a TV lesson on electricity incorporates various pieces of equipment, demonstrations, and diagrams, presented by a teacher who thoroughly knows electricity. In most cases, the guests on the visual aids used would be impossible to bring to individual classrooms.

The schools' long range goal is to have one receiver in every classroom in the district. "We think it's important for students and parents to accept TV as a normal part of the school day," a school official said.

"There may be some question as to why we don't offer educational television at the high school level. We have not forgotten the senior, high students on purpose. The main problem is merely one of scheduling. For example, a television program on government may appear on the schedule for 10 a.m. and the government class meets at 12:36 p.m.

AT EAST ESSEX School, where the pictures on this page were taken Jan. 14, the TV programs have led students to develop displays that create or show the principles of what they saw on television. Some were inanimate displays; some were active, moving, working displays; all were interesting and showed creativity, ability and interest in what the student had been watching on TV.

All teachers are provided with manuals that give them suggestions to use before and after telecasts to help stimulate and direct the interest that does build up on TV programs.

The programming of educational programs for school pupils is not on closed circuit TV. The same programs seen in the classrooms can be seen in the homes. In the event parents would like to tune in to see what their children are studying via television at any given time, the St. Johns Public Schools has provided this schedule of programs telecast by WMSB, Channel 10:

MONDAY: 9:30 - 10, Modern Mathematics, grade 6; 10:45-11, art, grades 1 or 2; 11-11:15, Spanish, grade 6; 11:15-11:30,

More puppets to be available for hospital's young

The Clinton Memorial Hospital Auxiliary Board met last Wednesday night, Jan. 19, to hear reports by various chairmen.

Several women have joined the puppet-making committee, enabling the hospital to have a bigger supply of puppets for young patients. Plans are being made for a new class of candy strippers. The gift cart and counter are being well received, it was reported.

The home economics class of Fowler High School made tray favors for patients on Christmas Day. During Christmas week, Miss Martha Duffer made cheery holiday tray cards for each patient.

Science is a popular TV subject for students in the St. Johns system, and when the lessons moved to health recently, Mrs Beatrice Jorae's fourth, fifth and sixth graders paid good attention. Here David Hynes (left) holds a drawing of the heart and some statistics about it. Deborah Cook takes Michael Welch's pulse, Betty Shinabery holds a microscope slide for Sheryl Copine, and Mark Young gets set to jot down Sheryl's findings.

First graders in Mrs Beverly Baker's classroom at East Essex read with excitement about passenger trains and freight trains and even pretend trains as a result of their children's literature class on television. One of their projects arising from this study was to build trains, and these pupils show off their work. Left to right are Vicki Bailey, Jean Karek, Karen Forquer, Janet Feldkamp, Scott Nicholas and "engineer" Armond Smith.

?Comprende Espanol, mi amigos? Sixth, seventh and eighth grade students of Mrs Reva Ward have been paying more than just a little attention to the television classes in Spanish. These six students built displays to represent Spanish words they have studied. From left to right are James Findlay, Rachel Harlow, Vicki Amos, Connie Frost, Robin Wilson and Nate Ellis.

The TV science subject in recent few lessons has been on magnets, and Mrs Mary Welton's second and third graders at East Essex School built these demonstrations and displays of the polarities of magnets. Dale Mitchell and Gary Whitford at left display an electromagnet; Kevin Young and Denise Snyder use magnets to "fish" for metallic objects; and Ted Loznak, Ronnie Dershem and William Huss use magnets to propel thumb tack-bottomed "ducks" along a pond of water.
