County Board approves policy study

Clinton County Commissioners unanimously approved a Policy Determination Study and Land Use Planning brochure at their meeting February 5. Roman Koenigsknecht, chairman of the Clinton County Planning Commission made the presentation to county board members. Koenigsknecht explained that the study identified policy inconsistencies in the county's future land use plan and submitted them to the Clinton County Planning Commission for resolution. In formulating the policies, joint meetings were held with zoning commissioners, members of the county board of commissioners, and the county board's land use committee. The Land Use Planning brochure presents a general overview of the planning process in Clinton County. Copies will be available at schools, the county zoning office, and township, city, and village offices.

The county's approval was proceeded by the Clinton County Planning Commission's adoption of the documents Jan 30. Under contract as consultants for the 1-year project was the Tri-County Regional Planning Commission.

Meeting set to discuss county historical society

ST JOHNS -- A meeting will be held Feb 28 at 8 pm in the upstairs meeting room of the St Johns Memorial Building to discuss the formation of a Clinton County Historical Society. An organizational committee will be elected at the 1st meeting Feb 28. Activities of the organization are planned to be in conjunction with activities for the 1976 Bicentennial. Presiding over the meeting will be St Johns Mayor Robert Wood. The public is invited to attend.

Hat's in the ring

Charles P. Larowe, outspoken economics professor at Michigan State University, announced last week that he is entering the Democratic primary for the Sixth District seat in the US Congress presently held by Charles Chamberlain.

"The kind of Democratic candidate we need in the Sixth District is one who understands the problems facing the people, who will discuss those problems and offer solutions," Larowe said at a press conference. "As an economist who has been studying and dealing with these problems during my entire professional career, I believe I am qualified to do that job."

Larowe, who has never sought political office before, has taught labor economics and labor law at MSU since 1956. "Politics is too important today to be left in the hands of professional politicians," he declared.

The Sixth District consists of all of Ingham County except Williamstown Township, all of Jackson County except Concord and Parma Townships, the city of Howell and the twelve westernmost townships of Livingston County, the twelve westernmost townships of Washtenaw County, and Bath Township in Clinton County.

Recall advocates say petitions are ready

By Linda Heyboer
County News Writer

BATH TWP -- A jubilant Bath Township Citizens Committee, has reported that enough petition signatures have been gathered to place the issues of recalling supervisor Roy Van Sickle and incorporating the charter township before Bath voters.

Committee spokesman Dick Whited, 13604 Vine, said he expected the petitions would be validated by the township clerk sometime this week.

"We're well over on both petitions," Whited said confidently, "but if for some reason there are not enough signatures, we will have a 10 day period to get more."

Whited said he was "very pleased" with the response of township residents to the petition drive.

Supervisor Van Sickle, however, maintained that those pressing for recall and disincorporation represent only a minority of residents.

"IT IS LONG past time," he said, "that the silent majority of the electorate in Bath Township wake up to the realization that they are being governed by a small minority of the people rather than by their majority desires, as it should be."

Van Sickle, who said the petitioners have used "whatever means are necessary" to obtain signatures, charged that the petitions contain false statements.

"From reports I receive from people who have been contacted by the petition circulators," he said, "it has been shown that truthful statements are not being used to obtain signatures."

Township would suffer. Van Sickle asserted that the township would suffer more from the petition drive than he would.

"Outside of my pride, I cannot be harmed," he stated. "There are many jobs open for trained assessors with better working conditions and as much or greater salaries than I am now getting."

Whited, using the controversial sewer project as an example, said that charter township government was not responsive to the residents because they were not able to vote on the project.

But Van Sickle said disincorporating the charter township would "really take the township back into the dark ages."

He added that the sewer project would probably continue whether or not the petitioners were successful.

Number 19 still important for County Roads

ST JOHNS -- Clinton County's Board of Road Commissioners again remind county residents that it is still important to make certain Number 19 is on the auto registration, when 1974 license plates are purchased.

Although both the name and number of the county appear on the registration form it is up to the vehicle owner to be certain they are correct to insure that auto license and gas tax money will be returned to improve Clinton County roads.

Officials of the Road Commission said, "The response to last year's plea to check Number 19 when buying plates was great. It is still important so keep up the good work."

"Help Clinton County roads -- make sure your registration has both Clinton and Number 19 in the proper places."

Mental Health Board psychiatric director resigns

Dr Jose' J. Llinas, psychiatric director of the Clinton, Eaton and Ingham Community Mental Health Board for the last 9 years, is leaving his position for a similar one with the Northcentral Florida Community Mental Health Board in Gainesville, Fla, as of July 1.

He will also be a professor of psychiatry and community medicine at the University of Florida.

In making the announcement, Edgar Fleetman, Eaton County Commissioner and chairman of the Tri-County Board, praised Dr Llinas for his many years of faithful and competent service.

"Dr Llinas was our first psychiatric director," Fleetman remarked, "and when he was appointed in 1965 we had an annual budget of less than $100,000."

Almost a decade later, the board operates 47 distinct service programs and employs about 300 staff persons. More people than ever are receiving services, and the board has yearly expenditures of $5 million."

Dr Llinas expressed his gratitude to past and present board members for their help and support throughout the years.

"I think the time I have spent in Lansing marks the most productive period in my Professional life as a public service psychiatrist," he said. "I regret very much that family concerns force me to make this decision, but the fact that I will continue in community mental health is an indication of how much I have enjoyed my work here."

Prior to coming to Lansing in 1965, Dr Llinas was director of the Beth Moser Mental Health Clinic in Jackson, where he was also in the private practice of psychiatry.

A graduate from the University of Havana, Cuba, Medical School in 1954, Dr Llinas took his psychiatric training at the University of Michigan shortly thereafter, and has lived in the state ever since.

The physician and his wife Maria have 6 children.

"We will always have fond memories of the Lansing community," Dr Llinas said, expressing the feelings of the entire family, "and it's going to be very hard to leave the area, after so many years of pleasant associations."

"Dr Llinas has touched each of our lives with his warmth and dedication. He has been a friend as well as an inspiration to all of those who have been in contact with him over the past decade," said Mr Fleetman on behalf of the Board and staff.

VFW celebrates 75th anniversary during week of February 17-23

ST JOHNS -- The St Johns VFW, along with VFW organizations across the nation, is celebrating the 75th anniversary of the organization during the week of Feb 17-23.

One of the activities in conjunction with VFW Anniversary Week is the annual awards banquet at the Hall on US-27, when 32 posts in this district will participate in announcing Voice of Democracy winners.

Activities for the banquet begin at noon Sunday with dinner and awards will follow at 1 pm.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars' Voice of Democracy program annually attracts a half-million young persons who vie for $400,000 worth of scholarships.

Value of the Voice of Democracy to the Veterans of Foreign Wars will be stressed during the national observance of VFW Week, Feb 17 to 23, as part of the celebration of the VFW's Diamond Jubilee.

Annually attracting a half million young persons in all parts of the United States and overseas areas where the VFW has Posts, the Voice of Democracy program was begun 27 years ago with the endorsement of the U.S. Office of Education and the National

The presentation was made by Post Commander Mike

Association of Secondary School Principals.

In those early years it was sponsored by the National Association of Broadcasters, Electronic Industries Association and state associations of broadcasters.

THE VFW JOINED in sponsoring Voice of Democracy in 1958-59, along with the broadcasters, but in 1961-62, the VFW and its Ladies Auxiliary became sole sponsor.

At that time the national scholarship award consisted of one $1,500 scholarship for the first place winner.

However, in the past 12 years of VFW sponsorship, the annual national scholarships have been increased to 5, totaling $22,500. The first place winner receives $10,000 to attend the school of his or her choice.

Student participation also has tripled and participation by individual schools has doubled.

In the past year more than 7,000 schools took part and more than 4,200 Posts and 3,200 Auxiliaries sponsored the program on the local level. More than 2,300 radio and television stations cooperated with the sponsors.

provided by VFW Posts, Auxiliaries, County Councils, Districts and Departments (states) amounted to more than $400,000 last year. This is in addition to the national scholarships and an annual budget of more than $100,000 to conduct the Voice of Democracy program.

More than 3 million students have taken part in the Voice of Democracy in the 12 years it has been sponsored solely by the VFW Awards have totalled more than $2 million.

In each year Department winners are brought to Washington during the VFW's Midwinter Conference for the final contest. Besides vying for the first place prize, they are taken on an extensive tour of the national capital, given an opportunity to meet their Congressmen and to watch Committee hearings. They are guests at the annual Congressional Banquet, which often is addressed by the President of the United States.

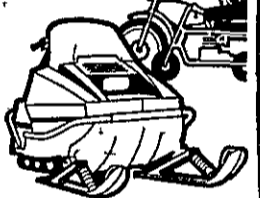

Each contestant prepares a broadcast script on a subject chosen each year stressing the responsibility of citizenship in a democracy. Winners at the Post level then participate in contests at the next highest step until they reach the Department (state) competition.

Educators, public officials and leaders in all walks of life have praised the Voice of Democracy as a positive contribution to the American way of life.

Charged with careless driving after accident

A St Johns man was charged with careless driving Feb 7 after the car he was driving went off the road and hit a fallen tree.

According to a Clinton County Sheriff Dept report, Bernard John Barrett, 18, of 504 Euclid, was northbound on Williams Rd near Colony Rd at 10:15 pm. He apparently lost control of the car, went off the east side of the road and struck the tree.

A passenger, Chris Hettler, 19, of 306 W. McConnell, was treated for a forehead laceration at Clinton Memorial Hospital and released the next day. Barrett was not injured.

Highway funds up

LANSING -- The State Highway Commission reported last week that motor vehicle highway fund collections for the fourth quarter of 1973 are up 12 per cent over last year's, despite anticipated revenue declines due to the gasoline shortage.

For Clinton County, this means a receipt of $321,320, compared to $278,161 received last year.

John P. Woodford, director of the Dept of State Highways and Transportation, said the increase for the quarter is attributable to an increase of 2 cents a gallon in the gasoline tax that went into effect Feb 1, 1973.

Firm names Max Deibert its "Scientist of the Year"

A former St. Johns resident was honored recently by being recognized for his contributions to the Lexington, Mass. firm where he is employed.

Max Deibert, a 1955 Rodney B. Wilson graduate, was named "Scientist of the Year" for Environmental Research and Technology, Inc. and along with his selection goes a family vacation to the Caribbean.

Deibert's firm provides services, products and integrated systems for air pollution monitoring and control specifically designed to assist utilities, industry and other large power users. The firm's efforts are directed toward assisting its customers to meet statutes governing air quality.

In citing Deibert, his supervisor stated that "Dr. Max Deibert has made significant contributions to the design and operation of the AIRMAP system. The growth and success of this system would have been impossible without his untiring personal dedication to ERP. Max has single-handedly changed AIRMAP from a small and modest endeavor to a first-class, professional and most sophisticated system in the United States."

DEIBERT

THE "AIRMAP" system is an anachronism for "Association of Industries for Regional Monitoring of Air Pollution" and is among the principal air quality control systems offered by ERT. Deibert, as director of engineering services, spearheaded AIRMAP into the company's top system.

Deibert graduated from Cornell in 1960 and received his doctorate from MIT in 1964. Later he served for five years as a professor at MIT. He is the son of Mrs. Fran Deibert and the late Basil Deibert who was a

Letter to editor

Reader defies pro-Nixon ad

I write in reply to the advertisement on page 9A of your Jan 31 issue. The ad pleaded for our support of Mr. Nixon. I will reply to a few of the many "glittering generalities" which appeared in the ad.

Yes, Mr. Nixon did receive "60 percent of the 1972 vote". This is not a very high percentage considering Mao Tse Tung, with the aid of his "Red Guard" receives 100 percent support from his people in Red China. Mr. Nixon's "plumbers group" was not exactly identical to a communist secret police force-but it sure had a tinge of similarity. With the bugging, burglary, and smear tactics he used-it seems Mr. Nixon could have mustered more than 60 percent of the vote.

The ad claims, "the news media has dramatized and prolonged the events relating to... Watergate". Mr. Nixon is responsible for the "drama" of Watergate-not the news media. Mr. Nixon denied any knowledge of Watergate-then suddenly declared his denials "inoperative". Mr. Nixon offered full cooperation to Archibald Cox-then blatantly fired him (without consulting Congress or the Judiciary). Mr. Nixon had more Cabinet Officers resign than any other President-simply because they could not see things his way. Mr. Nixon fought court subpoenas demanding vital information from certain tapes-finally he turned them over with certain mysterious "erasures". Mr. Nixon surrounded himself with despotic, ego-inflating subordinates-many of whom are now in prison or under indictment. And we can go on and on. No, the news media is not creating these events-Mr. Nixon is the "super star" of this drama.

The ad justifies Mr. Nixon's mistakes because previous presidents have made mistakes. Yes, they made mistakes-but there was no purge of Cabinet Officers-no cover ups--no breaking of laws. To protect their images. They had the courage to swallow their pride-they did not chase to "fight like hell" to satiate a super-ego. They put their country before self.

The ad blames the news media for exploiting Watergate-Watergate is no longer the prime issue. The issue is Mr. Nixon's persistent misuse of the Executive and Judicial Branches as well as his mockery of the News Media and the American people.

The ad blames Congress for playing "partisan politics". It so happens that Sen. Percy, Sen. Brooke, Gov. Milliken and many other proponents of a Nixon resignation-are members of his own party.

The ad pleads for us and Congress to move on with "problems of energy and inflation". Let the business of this country come to a complete standstill-if it must-until our laws are enforced equally to all-for a government, with laws nullified by "executive privilege" is a government of totalitarianism.

Let the halls of Congress echo the search for truth and justice and honor-for a nation that places prosperity before principle perishes promptly. Americans can support Mr. Nixon or they can support their country-they cannot do both. Joseph F. Arens Westphalia, Mich.

Ounce of Prevention

Drug abuse is not new

By Jose J Llinas, MD
Director of Community
Mental Health Clinton,
Eaton and Ingham

"Drug addiction and drug abuse are frightening words to many people," Dr. Kenneth Faver, Director of the Ohio Dept. of Mental Health said recently, "even the word drugs, no matter what the context in which it is used, sends a cold chill down everybody's spine." The idea that a young person may intentionally take a drug to alter the way he feels seems incomprehensible to many persons. "Drugs" seems to be a strange and new phenomenon sweeping America, threatening the stability of its youth and undermining the vitality and morality of society. Drugs, however, are in truth virtually as old as mankind's recorded history. Drugs are not new, strange or a product only of today's culture. For as long as mankind has written of its history, it has written also of drugs, substances which change the way a person felt or changed his view of the world about him. The oldest drug of consequence is alcohol in its many forms of beer, wine and distilled spirits. Alcohol has been known by man, used by man and enjoyed by man since the dawn of his written history. Even opium, the basic substance from which morphine and heroin are derived is an old and familiar companion of man. Opium is referred to in Sumerian Tablets of 3 to 4 thousand years before Christ. Hesiod in the 8th Century B.C. mentions the town of Nemea near Corinth where the opium poppy was grown. Hippocrates noted the therapeutic use of opium in the Fourth Century B.C.

Marijuana or Cannabis is a drug derived from the hemp plant, which was described around 600 B.C. In the Second Century A.D. Chinese writings described the intoxicant qualities of the hemp plant. Another drug, cocaine, can be traced at least back to the Incan culture in 1230 A.D. Still other drugs are of more recent origin. L.S.D. was synthesized quite by chance, in 1937. The barbiturates, "downers," and the amphetamines "uppers" or "speed," were chemically synthesized only in the past few decades.

Symphonettes to present Grove Bible Church concert

The Symphonettes, 14 students from the Grand Rapids School of the Bible and Music, will present a musical concert at Grove Bible Church on February 17 at 6:30 & 7:30 pm.

The Grand Rapids School of the Bible and Music is a technical training institute offering a concentrated education in the Word of God. Music is also a major emphasis at the school, and over 100 of the 650 students are involved in weekly musical ministry.

A recently acquired, campus has enhanced the school's facility for meaningful training. Rev John Miles, the school's founder and president for the past 26 years, has stated, "The unique character of the Bible institute meets a burgeoning need in today's society. That need is to relate man to God in a positive manner as prescribed in the Holy Scriptures."

The music of the Symphonettes is designed to fulfill that concept. Their director, Miss Betty Harris, has planned their repertoire to give a balanced program of hymns, gospel songs and spirituals that are conservative in arrangement but bright and pleasing in style.

The public is invited. There is no admission charge.

“Some days, Mary just doesn't feel like cooking... We'll eat in style at Burcham Hills.”

We're going to move to Burcham Hills soon...for a number of reasons.

We don't really need the house any more and keeping it up seems to be wearing Mary down. Lately, she's tired all the time. Lots of days, she doesn't even feel up to making dinner.

Planning the move to Burcham Hills is just about the smartest thing I've done since I asked that girl to marry me. We'll be able to do a lot of things we've always planned, without a lot of the work we always thought would have to go with it.

Take Mary and cooking. She's a good cook...but she's been fixing meals for me for thirty years and more. Doing the shopping, cooking and cleaning up. She's earned a rest and I'm going to see that she gets it, at Burcham Hills.

Let me set one thing straight. We won't be eating in a cafeteria. We'll sit down and be served by waitresses in a beautiful dining room. And those big family dinners Mary loves? We'll still have them. We just reserve a private dining room and select the menu we want. Mary's very pleased about that. As for me, I'm not a fussy eater, but I'm diabetic. The staff dietician will see that what I eat suits my diet.

Food isn't the only reason we're moving to Burcham Hills, but if you don't eat right, you don't feel right and it sure is nice to have someone take the work off Mary and give her more time to spend with me...at Burcham Hills.

In our neighboring County of Ingham, the Williamston Federated Women's Club is backing their county library 100 percent.

A library was started by the Williamston club more than 50 years ago - long before the county was really interested. During the past 10 years, the club has renewed their interest and has taken an active part in supplying materials and furnishings that make it comfortable and pleasant, as well as efficient.

From the Williamston library can be borrowed not only children and adult books, but also new magazines, records and films.

The Williamston Women's Club is extending a most cordial invitation to all neighboring communities to pay them a visit during these special weeks of publicity and recognition.

Dear Friends,
Hi, Norm Wood here. Some of you may know me, but many will not. My wife Adele along with our daughter Laurie live in the Middleton area. I work at Fisher Body in Lansing but am also the Lay Pastor for the Greenbush Methodist Church.

Many of you live in this area and if you do not have a church home why don't you come worship in the house of God with your friends and neighbors of the Greenbush area.

The Sunday school hour begins at 10:30 o'clock with the worship service following at 11:30. There is a Bible study group that meets each Wednesday A.M. at 9:00 at the Elmer Swagart home. Youth Fellowship meets on Sunday evening. Many special services and activities are planned from time to time for your interest and enjoyment and spiritual growth.

This is a warm, loving, caring church, with people of many walks of life. We have found many new friends here at Greenbush. Come and join the good people of the Greenbush church and we are sure you will find this most true.

Come believing and you will go away rejoicing in the Living God. No matter what your problem or trouble God can and will meet your need. The Bible tells us "We must first ask Him". Matthew 6:33. But seek ye first the Kingdom of God and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.

Come join us, and see for yourselves.
Yours in Christ

Five more qualify for state

St Johns swimmers upset powerful Alma

The St Johns swim team will be sending 5 more swimmers to the State Swim meet in March, because of their outstanding performances in the 92-00 victory over Alma. The victory made it 4 in a row for the young Redwings and cinched a 2nd place in the West Central Conference race. The St Johns tankers now have a full schedule of meets until the State meet.

Their next meet is Thursday, Feb 14 at 7:30 pm at the St Johns High School pool.

Coaches Wayne Morrison and Bruce Barber feel one of the main reasons for the swimmers success this season is due to the fantastic support of the parents and spectators.

Both coaches and the team hope for a large turnout for the last dual home meet of the season this Thursday. St Johns will also host the Conference meet on March 8-9.

Outstanding swimmers in the Alma victory were Larry Feldpausch, Tom Villereall, Eric Grost and Harold Wellman, in the 200 yd medley relay with a state qualifying time of 1:52.2.

John Mailand, a triple winner, also-qualified for the state meet in the 200 yd freestyle and took 2 firsts in the 500 yd freestyle and the 400 yd freestyle relay.

Eric Grost, a sophomore, set a new varsity record in the 100 yd breast stroke. Grost swam an outstanding time of 1:10.5 clipping 2 tenths of a second off the old mark.

Larry Feldpausch again broke his varsity record in the 100 yd backstroke with a time of 1:03.4, less than 1 second off the state qualifying time.

The coaches again expressed their appreciation for the support of the parents and spectators and hope to see another capacity crowd this Thursday at 7:30 when the tankers host a strong Corunna team.

Three more qualify for state

In a meet Tuesday night with Haslett, the Redwing swimmers had 3 more qualify for state competition.

Qualifying were Jeff Livingston, Mike LeVeck and Cliff Montry.

In addition, Harold Wellman qualified in a 3d event and John Mailand in his 2d event.

Details will be in next week's County News.

St Joseph School

Catholic Schools Week, first in St Johns

"Different Where It Counts: Message of Christ, Community of Christ and Service" is the theme of Catholic Schools Week, Feb 17 to 23. St. Joseph Catholic School, St. Johns has as its objective the total growth of the child committed to its care, that is, the spiritual, intellectual, physical, social, emotional, and moral.

This is accomplished through the coordination of many educational influences. Education is truly Catholic when the fundamental relationships of man, with God and his fellowman, are considered in every area of the curriculum and integrated in every subject.

St. Joseph School provides a good instructional program but they are different from many schools because they are able to provide Religious experience. Some of these are:

A daily Religion class in which the basic doctrine of the Catholic Faith is taught. Much of the spiritual life of a Catholic evolves around the way he celebrates and lives the Eucharistic Liturgy of the Mass. The Mass is a small but very important part of the child's religious experience each week.

It gives the children different spiritual and educational opportunities relating to Religion. They attend once or twice a week. The children prepare and plan their own liturgy. The offerings made during this worship are symbols of giving to God the gifts they have received. They include signs of their work, beauties of nature, signs of friendship and love, gifts for the poor, infirm, or lonely, etc. The Handshake of Peace is extended at every Mass. Sometimes the children leave their places to give it to the other participants, showing the peace and unity between all members. Greater participation is brought about through using gestures in song and prayers on some occasions. Banners or posters relating to the theme are often made and placed in church as reminders.

On special occasions children leave their places and gather round the altar. This enables them to feel more closely united with the priest in making the offering to God. Greater participation is shown by sharing some of the actions of the Mass such as reading some of the prayers and scripture passages.

Other living experiences regarding the sacraments are provided for the children. They are given an opportunity to participate in Penance celebrations and are able to make a private confession. Baptismal ceremonies are held and the children have been able to witness the Baptism of infants and on occasion a classmate. Receptions are held after the celebrations to welcome the new members into the Family of God.

The priests are involved in sacramental preparation. They visit the classrooms, participate in instruction, and interview the children. Prayer services are also held. During Prayer Unity Octave Week the entire student body gathered in church to pray for Christian unity. Children of other faiths were invited to attend. Other types of prayer services are held to highlight the distribution of Religion books and New Testaments for the first time or to celebrate a special event relating to the Religion lesson or things happening in the children's lives.

Prayers are said to start the day, end the day, or when an event conducive to praying occurs.

The children assist missionaries in spreading the faith by their prayers and spiritual support, giving donations from their own earnings, bake sales, selling of Christmas seals or other fund-raising activities.

The children grow in understanding and love of the elderly by sharing their spiritual opportunities. They prepare Masses, rosary services and other prayer services. They prepare Masses that are celebrated at the nursing homes.

There are many objects throughout the school which remind the children of their Catholic Christian heritage. Some of these are crucifixes, statues, pictures of our Lord and the saints, and sayings and posters related to Christian themes.

These are ways St. Joseph School is different.

How will St. Joseph School celebrate "Catholic Schools Week"? The week will be filled with various events. There will be an all-school Mass developed around the theme "Catholic School Education, Different Where It Counts" on Thursday, Feb 21, 8:30 am. Everyone is welcome to participate.

Since people are the mainstream of any program, each day of the week will give special recognition to different groups within the school:

Monday, Feb 18 - Students' Day.

Tuesday, Feb 19 - Volunteer Helpers' Day.

Wednesday, Feb 20 - Faculty Day.

Thursday, Feb 21 - Parent and Community Day.

Friday, Feb 22 - Vital Helpers' Day (Cafeteria, playground, maintenance workers, Librarian, Secretaries, Speech Therapist, Social Worker, Diagnostician, School Nurses, Bus Drivers)

Since Thursday Feb 21, is Parent and Community Day the school will be open to the public from 9:30 to 2:30. All are welcome to attend.

Sister Rita Sheaffer is conducting a daily Religion class for First Year Students.

Children of the First Communion class are working on the cloth used to cover the offering table.

Charles Green earns State Holstein award

Charles Green, 17, Elsie, was named Michigan's Distinguished Holstein Boy for 1974 at the State Holstein Association Annual Meeting February 2 at Hastings.

Charles began his first step toward his ladder of success with holstein cattle 8 years ago when he received his first registered holstein dairy calf. Since that time, he has show his dairy animals in many holstein dairy shows on the county, district, state and national level.

A number of his animals have been classified as All-Michigan and some All-American.

In showing his dairy cattle, Charles says, "I have learned winning should not be the entire purpose of showing. I have spent time at both the top and the bottom of the class... Exhibiting cattle has another purpose that has benefited me immensely. It is the people that I have met and the friends that I have made that has made showing such a rewarding experience."

GREEN

Besides being an excellent showman, Charles is pretty good as a judge of dairy animals also. In 1973, he was on the State 4-H Dairy Judging Team participating in the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Judging Contest. He was high individual in Holstein classes and oral reasons over all breeds. He has won "many showmanship contests in the county, district and state shows.

Charles was selected as the Clinton County Holstein Boy in 1973 and President of the Michigan Junior Holstein Association in 1974.

He is a member of Brush & Halter 4-H Club near Elsie. Presently, Charles is a senior at Ovid Elsie High School and plans to attend Michigan State University this fall in the dairy area. He plans to return home upon college graduation to join his father and uncle in the operation of Green Meadow Farms. His parents are Duane and Grace Green of Elsie.

He is a member of the United Methodist Church in Elsie, sings in the choir, and held a number of offices in the youth group. Other school activities include FFA, Student Council, Band and Honor Society. He was in the National FFA Band in 1973 at Kansas City, Mo. He was a member of the state FFA meat judging team representing Michigan in the National FFA meat judging contest at Kansas City.

Morning Musicales discusses 2 19th Century composers

ST. JOHNS - St. Johns Morning Musicales focused its attention on two national composers of the 19th century, Bedrich Smetana and Antonin Dvorak on Jan 24 at the home of Mrs Howard Woodbury.

Mrs William Escher revealed how Bedrich Smetana worked through his music for a better life for his people of Bohemia. "Folklore and local color were not used as picturesque ends in themselves; they constituted the very soul of what he had to say." Smetana's music expressed the change in human thought and in turn influenced the aspirations of the Bohemian people.

Of his 8 operas on the patriotic theme of his native land, The Bartered Bride attained worldwide fame.

Mrs Kenneth Jones related the text of his comic opera. A solo selection was sung by Mrs Paul Martis and Rhonda Hambleton, pianist played from the Overture, the Act of the Strolling Players, and the Finale, revealing its authentic national flavor. In the establishment of Smetana's reputation, Vltava (The Moldau) was his finest achievement in orchestral music. In this tone poem the famous river became a poetic symbol mirroring the very soul of the Czech people. The piano version of this work was played by Mrs Maurice Witteveen.

The expansion of the nationalistic movement came to life in the melodious compositions of Antonin Dvorak. The best known work being The New World Symphony. The nostalgic strains in the Largo movement were captured on the organ played by Mrs Howard Woodbury, "Songs My Mother Taught Me" was sung by Mrs Lawrence Fish, and the program closed with the impetuous rhythmic dance numbers of Dvorak played by guest pianist Rhonda Hambleton.

The next meeting of the club will be Feb 14 at the home of Mrs Paul Martis.

Gen Tel Speakers program explains phone "miracle"

The telephone - taken for granted by almost everyone who uses it - is described as "just the tip of the iceberg" in a new public program developed by General Telephone. It's called "Everyday Miracle".

The 20-minute slide program is available to groups and organizations in General Telephone served communities by calling the company's business office.

"Most people really don't understand how the telephone they use every day actually works," Judd Perkin, director of public affairs of General Telephone, said. "The objective of this program is to provide a basic, easily understood explanation of what happens when you dial."

The path of a telephone call may take - from origination through cables and complex electro-mechanical switching equipment to its destination - is described with photos and narration in the program. The program also explains the key roles played by employees in providing telephone service.

The program is a part of General Telephone's speakers bureau; however, presentations are also made by local personnel as well as state headquarters-based employees in an effort to curtail travel, a part of the company's energy conservation effort.

Other speakers bureau programs available from General Telephone include: "The Laser In Your Future", a layman's introduction to the use and potential use of laser light; and "Lady Beware", a program primarily for women's groups detailing common sense prevention and defense tactics.

Area Career Center experiences

increase in enrollment, popularity

Valve sets donated by Sealed Power

ST JOHNS — Now in its 2d year of operation, the Clinton Area Career Center in St. Johns, has had increasing success, according to director Roger Enyart.

He explained the success of the automotive repair training center as increased enrollment, new equipment such as tune-up machines, an increased awareness that the center services the public's vehicles and an eagerness on the part of the students to get as much as possible out of the educational program.

Students in the center are becoming skilled in such diversified auto repair and maintenance areas as lubrication, wheel balancing, complete brake service, exhaust system, tune-ups, headlight adjustment etc.

Practical application of learned skills is made possible through work on vehicles taken to the center by members of the area communities.

During their training in engine service, students are instructed on complete engine rebuilding. Training in this area is possible through the use of several engines which belong to the school in addition to some engines owned by students.

While working on the engines, students become skilled in such areas as correct disassembly and assembly procedure, use of precision measuring tools, operation of valve grinding equipment, diagnosis of engine malfunction.

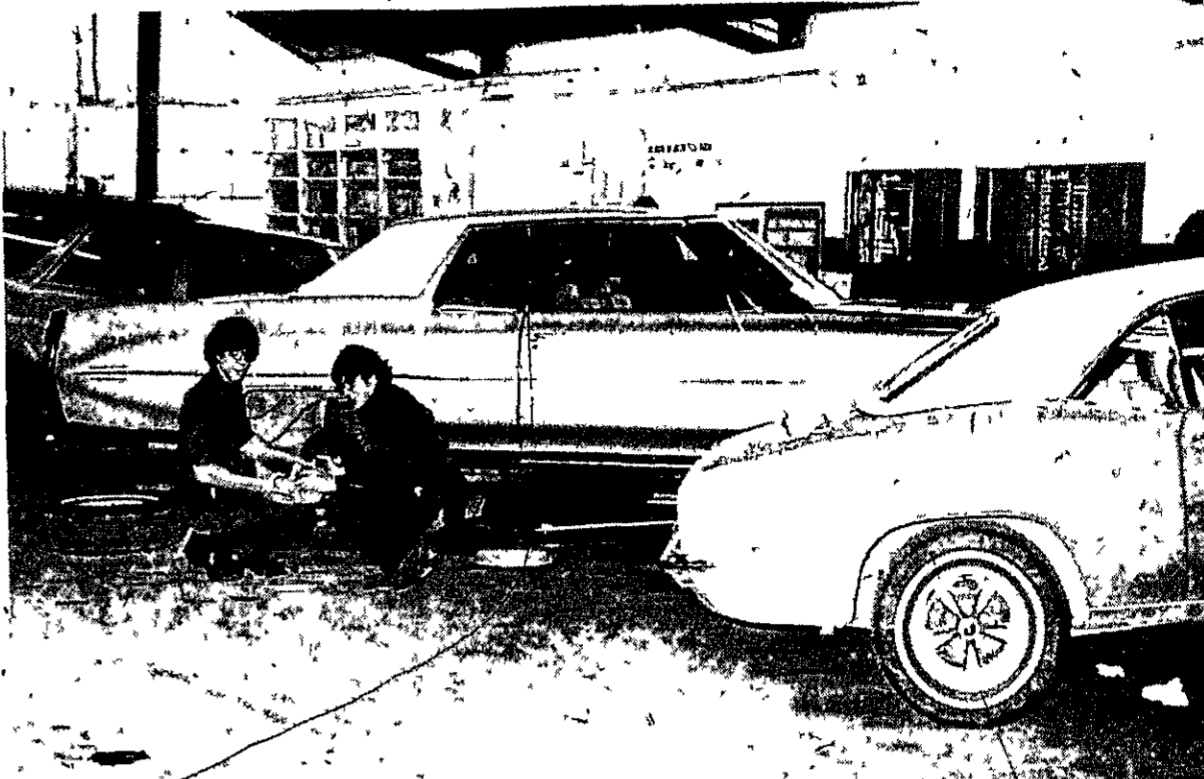

After each engine is completely assembled, each student electrically connects up his engine and starts it.

IN THE SHOP training area, several piston ring sets were donated by Sealed Power Co.

During complete drum and disc brake service, students undergo 3 weeks of in-depth theory of operation and about 4 to 5 weeks of actual experience. They become skilled in assembly and disassembly, use of the brake lathe and remanufacturing of drums and disc rotors, plus trouble shooting problems such as vehicle pull or pulsating disc brakes.

About 60 students were in the programs, with this year's enrollment increased to 80.

The classes, conducted in 2 1/2 hour blocks are being attended by students from Ovid-Elsie, Fowler, Pewamo-Westphalia and Bath.

Toni Heathman in CMU production

MT PLEASANT — Toni Heathman, a senior at Central Michigan University, is wardrobe/makeup coordinator in the University Theatre production of Samuel Beckett's "Waiting for Godot," to be presented Feb 13-16.

She is the daughter of Mr and Mrs Charles Hazle Rt 2, St Johns and is majoring in English.

"Waiting for Godot," considered a classic in the Theatre of the Absurd, shows the senselessness of life and the non-communicativeness of language. The play's central characters are two tramps who wait for help which never comes.

You're using less natural gas but it's costing you more...

There are several reasons

You've dialed down your thermostat. You're following all the hints for energy conservation. And still, your bills for natural gas are higher. Why...?

FIRST, THERE HAS BEEN A RATE INCREASE. EVERYONE IS AFFECTED, BUT BIGGER USERS ARE HAVING TO PAY MORE. The answer lies, in part, in the energy shortage. The Michigan Public Service Commission feels that, in these times when energy must be conserved, it no longer makes sense to encourage greater use by successively lower rate-blocks. In other words, you now pay the same rate per unit, regardless of how much you use, just as you do for fuel oil, or gasoline.

THERE ARE OTHER REASONS WHY YOUR BILL MAY BE HIGHER

The weather recently has been somewhat colder than last winter at the same time. That means it takes more energy to keep the temperature at 65 or 68 degrees. Your current bill may cover a longer period than usual—anywhere from 32 to 35 days—and this would make a difference. You can check the dates on your bill.

The energy crunch has boosted the cost of natural gas liquids from which synthetic gas is made. Canadian feedstock for synthetic natural gas, which cost $3.50 a barrel a year ago, now costs $9.10 a barrel. These higher costs of producing the energy you use also are reflected in the rates you pay, being shared proportionately by all customers under what is known as a "fuel adjustment." Of course, if fuel costs went down, the rates would go down, too; but, up to now, the only way that costs have gone is up.

Consumers Power Company wishes it were possible to continue delivering plentiful natural gas at last year's prices. Unfortunately, that isn't possible. Inflation affects all of us. And, because the costs of supplying natural gas to our customers are continuing to go up, there is no way we can avoid raising the rates you pay. All we can promise is that we will continue doing everything possible to insure that you have the best possible service at the lowest rates consistent with good management.

Fire Chief relays message of caution about carrying gas containers in vehicles

ST. JOHNS -- Clare Maier, St. Johns fire chief, cautions local motorists about carrying portable containers of gasoline in their cars and relays the following message from the Michigan State Police Fire Marshal.

"Concerned at the dim outlook over fuel supplies, motorists are carrying portable containers of gasoline in their cars; many are storing dangerous quantities of gasoline in their homes as insurance against anticipated shortages.

"Gasoline is highly volatile; it vaporizes at relatively low temperatures. The vapors are heavier than air and will seek the lowest point of a surface; they are easily ignited and will burn violently with explosive force. We urge everyone to be aware of this and the requirements of the Michigan Flammable Liquids Regulations.

"An approved portable gasoline container must be of substantial metal construction with all opening equipped with liquid-tight, screwed or spring metal caps or covers. They must be painted a bright vermilion red and be lettered with either the words "GASOLINE", "NAPHTHA" or "BENZINE".

6 Gallon Limit
"No more than 6 gallons of gasoline, in approved containers, may be carried in a passenger vehicle or the passenger-carrying portion of a commercial vehicle. Containers cannot be filled unless they are removed from a passenger vehicle or the passenger-carrying portion of a commercial vehicle.

"Portable flammable liquids containers shall not exceed a capacity of 60 gallons and again, must be substantial metal construction with all openings having liquid-tight, screwed metal covers. These containers shall also be painted vermilion red and have either the word "GASOLINE",

"NAPHTHA" or "BENZINE" printed on them.

"When being transported, the containers must be secured in or on the vehicle in a manner appropriate to the container size and contents, and the design characteristics of the vehicle.

"Six gallons of gasoline, in an approved container, may be stored in a private dwelling providing it is in a room ventilated to the outside and is away from a source of ignition. Gasoline cannot be stored in a basement or pit. Quantities over 6 gallons must be stored outside, 40 feet from any building and 25 feet from property lines and must be approved by local authorities.

"Where there are unusual or special conditions, consult your local fire department or the nearest State Police Post. State Police Fire Marshal Division offices are at the posts located in Lansing, Detroit, Flint, Bay City, Jackson, Paw Paw, Rockford, Traverse City and Negaunee."

Dr. Howard Brighton (left) regional director, continuing education service, Michigan State University Center; presents certificates to Linda Biddinger and Garry Biddinger of the St. Johns fire department. Dr. Brighton presented certificates to those completing the emergency medical technician course given last year at the Delhi Township Volunteer Fire Department in Holt. ## 88th District Report by Stanley Powell State Representative

Year-round Daylight Savings Time may go down in history as one of the hottest, most controversial issues in Michigan during 1974.

Since we set our clocks ahead last January 6, school districts have objected to it, parents of children who must travel to school in the dark have objected to it, and construction workers who must wait an extra hour in the morning to begin working have objected to it.

The nationwide move to Daylight Time was ordered by the US Congress as a means to conserve energy and, as we previously reported, the power companies have reported minimal energy savings, if any at all.

BECAUSE OF A PROVISION in the federal act, Michigan had the option to exempt itself from the year-round fast time because two parts of the state are geographically located in different time zones.

Several of our Representatives introduced H. 5533, a bill that would exempt Michigan from the year-round fast time next winter. Our bill has now been passed unanimously by the House of Representatives and sent to the Senate.

Governor Milliken, who initially supported the move to DST, has now written to President Nixon and the Michigan congressional delegation urging the repeal of the year-round fast time provision.

The Governor apparently reconsidered his support of DST after he gave it a fair trial and became convinced that the intent of the move was not being accomplished.

INFACT THE Governor wrote, "Unless the rest of the nation has experienced a significantly greater energy saving than we have experienced so far in Michigan, I seriously question whether year-round DST is worth the serious disruptions it has caused."

"The states were narrowly restricted in seeking exemption from year-round DST. We were advised that we could be exempted if we could show 'undue hardship' or if we could establish that an exemption could produce energy savings. We were advised that the problem of children going to school in the dark did not constitute grounds for an exemption since Congress specifically stipulated that state and local authorities, for the most part, have to deal with the problem," the Governor continued.

He added that while it has been difficult to demonstrate significant savings directly attributable to DST, "we had no estimates before the deadline for filing for an exemption that indicated that advanced time would actually result in a net energy loss, nor do we have any evidence that this has actually been the experience."

It's tax time

Who's afraid of big, bad form 1040?

By P. Thomas Austin, CPA President
The Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants

Many persons who have successfully managed to finish high school or obtain a loan from a bank or sell a house or take out a driver's license consider themselves unable to unravel the mysteries of Federal Income Tax Form 1040. For most, this belief is probably unfounded.

The secret is not to let yourself be cowed by the rows of numbered entries on the 1040. Take them one at a time and they are not so threatening.

The person settling out to square his annual account with Internal Revenue Service should first get his income records together -- W-2 withholding reports from each employer he has worked for during the year, plus information from banks, brokers, etc. on interest and dividend income the taxpayer has received. If you are going to itemize deductions (and if you are not you may be eligible to use Form 1040A -- the short form) you will need canceled checks, receipts and other evidence of deductible expenses: taxes and interest paid, medical and dental costs, charitable contributions, and unreimbursed business expenses.

Next, you'll need the applicable tax forms -- the 1040 plus the Schedules for submitting various categories of lists. The IRS usually sends taxpayers the same documents they used the previous year, but if you need new ones this year you can pick them up at almost any bank or post office, or you can write to the nearest IRS office.

One government document that's indispensable is the Instruction Booklet for Form 1040. Among other things it tells you what documents you will have to submit, and how to fill them out.

Now, with all the needed papers on hand, simply start at the top of page one, with your name and address, occupation, etc. If you are stopped by a question, consult the instruction booklet, which lists 21 steps to be taken, in order, and augments the guidance included in the forms and schedules themselves.

If your financial affairs are too complex to permit you to handle Form 1040 on your own, that fact will soon become apparent.

Persons likely to require professional help in filing their tax returns in most cases are those whose affairs are complicated by factors such as:

Large capital gains or losses; The selling of a home during the year;

A large jump in income over previous years that may suggest income averaging; Self-employment, with several sources of income;

A drastic change in dependency relationships during the year, as through divorce.

But for most people such complications are rare. Millions of us obtain all or most of our incomes in the form of wages, salary or commissions. Our incomes and expenses are not drastically different from those we had last year. Our family relationships have not changed. For the millions in this category there's no reason in the world to be afraid of Form 1040

A PERSONAL LOOK AT THE NEWS

Between the lines

with Jim Edwards

A couple of events this winter have reinforced my belief that much of our problems today and the distrust of 1 person for others is the lack of individual, human importance.

To re-hash the old cry, we are becoming nothing but numbers.

The 2 specific instances I speak of are the persons who lost their lives to the elements because their source of heat was shut off by a company who had not received their money.

That is their prerogative, of course. It is only practical to expect money for the service rendered and the product supplied.

But, I wonder if the person who was, at the end of the line, finally responsible for saying "shut 'em off" would have done so if the deceased had been a face and name instead of just a number on a ledger sheet.

It is 1 thing to remove services or products from a person when it doesn't mean their life—it is quite another action to remove a source of life from an individual.

Certain officials now ask that life sustaining companies such as power companies be required to contact welfare agencies, social service agencies or whatever before removing such services from a household.

That is a step in the right direction.

On the other hand, there is the argument that a person in his right mind would take steps to preserve himself in such an instance where his heat was turned off in freezing weather.

At the same time, it isn't too difficult for me to imagine the frustration and hopelessness of a person in such a situation.

Most of us have gone through the consternation of arguing with a huge company's bookkeeping department or, in most cases, the blamed computer.

It becomes, in so many cases, a case of "getting nowhere fast."

During the past year, the County News has assisted at least 3 individuals straighten out difficulties that seemed hopelessly muddled.

That is not to say the County News performed any great miracles.

In 2 recent cases that come to mind immediately, it was merely a case of the County News contacting the firm in 1 case and a government agency in the other case.

What the County News accomplished was to make the firm and government agency realize the human element not present in a printed form.

In 1 instance, a telephone call to the east coast prompted an employee to open a file and say "yes," the customer was right, but there had not been sufficient time to notify the proper department." I commented to the effect that it seemed 6 months had been sufficient time. The problem did not come up again.

In the other case, the contact was a personal phone call from the person having the problem. However, repeated calls resulted in negative results.

We then placed the call for her. After 3 calls in 1 afternoon, the information she wished was finally obtained. No answer came to the query, "If you could find the information for a newspaper, why couldn't you find it for the person who called."

Once again, the answer boils down to the human element. In the publicity free realm of dealing with the complaining individual, the nameless person in the agency who balked at cooperation was safe in his or her anonymity.

But, to the employee, the case became personal and individual when the person's name was requested and the lack of cooperation would be reported to his or her superiors.

Because of that human element, he or she was suddenly able to understand the human element on the other end of the telephone.

"If It Fitz . . ."

When does Nixon play?

Editor, Lapeer County Press

By Jim Fitzgerald

Let the shallow people wonder whether President Nixon should be impeached or enshrined. What I want to know is does he or does he not get up in the middle of the night to play the piano?

Who is telling the truth, his wife Pat or his daughter Julie Nixon Eisenhower (speaking of shrines)?

Julie told the world her father was having trouble sleeping and sometimes crawled out of bed and padded to the piano. But, a few weeks later, Pat denied it.

No wonder the American public is confused.

According to United Press International, Mrs Nixon's eyes flashed when she said her husband didn't get up in the middle of the night to play the piano. He plays "before he goes to bed," she said.

It is well known that Mr and Mrs Nixon do not share the same bedroom. Her flashing eyes probably keep him awake. And Julie doesn't live in the White House at all, Washington, Florida, California or Camp David (which is a place, not a description of Julie's husband). The young Eisenhowers live in a castle rented from Bebe Rebozo for $1.98 a month.

So, how can either Pat or Julie be sure exactly when the President plays the piano?

It is from such crevices that credibility gaps grow.

It may well be the public will never be told the entire truth. At least, not until after Nixon's death, when Ron Ziegler's memoirs will be published. In Washington, it is general knowledge that Ziegler turns the pages of Nixon's sheet music, and sometimes even hums along.

Judge Sirica could subpoena the piano-room tapes. But what would they prove? The sound of music would mean the hills were alive and Nixon was playing. But it would not be fair to interpret every silence as indicating he was sleeping. It has not been proved that Nixon spends every night either sleeping or playing the piano. There are other things to do during the night's most lonely hours. He could be reading, or writing, or breaking into a psychiatrist's office.

Likewise, it would be unfair to become suspicious of an 18-minute hum in the piano tapes. That could simply be a solo by Ziegler.

Obviously, as important as it is to have an informed public, it would not be feasible to take the question directly to the President. He could not answer without calling either Pat or Julie a liar. Then the lie, whichever, would have to be explained. The explanation, of course, would be that the lie was told in the interest of national security. The same as in bombing Cambodia.

The American public has enough to worry about. People should not be told their security depends upon when their President plays the piano. So I hereby agree to squelch my newsmen's curiosity in favor of patriotism. (Is that the National Anthem I hear?) Play it again, Dick. Whenever.

View from the Senate

By SEN. WILLIAM S. BALLENGER

An unusually brief State Supreme Court ruling has started a rush for seats in the Michigan Senate that promises to rank in history along with the frenetic Oklahoma land and California gold rushes.

A state legislator, a former legislator, the son of a legislator and a former Congressman all are reportedly in the running for two vacated Senate seats.

At last report, at least 27 people were interested in the seats left vacant by the resignations of former Senators Coleman Young and Charles N. Youngblood, Jr., both of Detroit. Young was elected mayor of Detroit last November, and Youngblood resigned in early January after being convicted of conspiracy to bribe a state official.

In addition to these two races, there are prospects for another rush soon if, as expected, Senator Robert VanderLaan of Grand Rapids is elected to Congress to succeed Vice President Gerald R. Ford, Jr. At least one House member already has expressed interest in seeking VanderLaan's seat if he wins.

Still another rush could develop if Senator Robert Richardson of Saginaw wins the Congressional seat that will be vacated by Congressman

James Harvey, who has just been named to a federal judgeship.

Among those listed in the running for the two Detroit Senate posts are State Rep David S. Holmes, Jr (whose wife, Avis, was temporarily in the race but withdrew); former Rep Nelis J. Saunders; Maurice Ferguson, son of Rep Rosetta Ferguson; and former Congressman Harold, who is also a former State Senator.

Oddly enough, State Rep Jackie Vaughn III, whose suit won Supreme Court reversal of the long-standing constitutional interpretation that barred House members from running for vacated Senate seats, decided against seeking election to the Senate. He would have had to resign his House seat and move to a nearby district to qualify.

The court ruling had some interesting aspects. It was extremely brief and quoted no legal sources or constitutional interpretation. It simply said: "We are persuaded that the people did not intend that members of a bicameral legislature should be separated by a barrier which prevents movement between the two houses by popular election."

In fact, the decision flies in the face of contrary citations and observations made earlier by Justices John Swainson and G. Mennen Williams, who signed the latest decision.

In writing the ruling opinion in the case involving Young, Justice Swainson cited a 1968 court ruling which held as unconstitutional a 1968 law that indicated the words "election" and "civil appointment" were not synonymous. The present ruling would seem to reverse the court's earlier decision. In effect, the high court now seems to be saying that, at least in the case of state legislators, seeking an "elective" office in the other house is not the same as receiving a "civil appointment."

Ironically, in a concurring opinion in the Young case, Justice Williams noted: "Historically, as my Brother Swainson clearly points out, 'appointment' means 'election' as well as 'appointment'." But historical precedent, even its own, has never bothered the State Supreme Court.

Tax reduction bill

REP DOUGLAS TREZISE
87th District

Almost buried in the attention given the energy crisis and the economy of the state in recent weeks was another significant tax reduction bill which got approval from both houses of the Legislature.

For the first time, beginning with returns filed in 1975, the state will be providing some special tax relief to people who are disabled and dependent on social security disability income. The bill also improves the 1973 tax reduction provisions for some blind and senior citizens.

The new law expands some of the concepts which were included in last year's $380 million tax reduction and was part of what Governor Milliken advocated in his recent State of the State message. If you think passage of such a bill within two weeks of hearing the message is a new miracle, you're right, but a good part of this action has already been approved by the House of Representatives and the rest was added by the Senate.

The most significant addition to the tax reduction package is in extending a modified form of the senior citizen's program to the disabled. Thus, a person who is under age 65 but classified as totally disabled by the Social Security Administration, will get a greater credit than at present. This credit will use the same income schedule as the senior citizen but the refund or credit will be limited to 60 percent of that granted a senior citizen. The cost of this program will be about $5 million.

The bill also solves some of the problems which have been showing up in the administration of the 1973 tax reduction. For instance, we authorized a special exemption for a blind person last year but this bill assures that when both individuals filing a joint return are blind a double exemption is available.

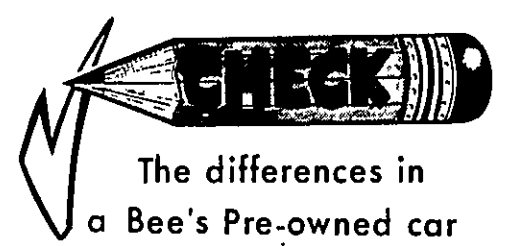

Similarly, a problem arose in defining "inventory" as it relates to the business credit for personal property tax paid has shown up and this was straightened out.

One trouble with the senior citizen program has been that as the former $2,500 property valuation exemption program fades out this year some people — those with just the right combination of household income and homestead valuation — could end up paying a higher tax than before. The law has now been changed to allow these people, who qualified for the homestead tax exemption in 1973 to continue the use of that procedure in coming years. It is not a costly change as far as the state is concerned but it can be very important to the person who is affected.

Label quiz

Chloe Padgitt
Clinton County Home Economist

How long has it been since you took a test? How about testing your knowledge of food labels with this quick quiz?

- All food labels list ingredients contained in the can or package. (True) or (False)
- The manufacturer's name and address is required to be on all food labels. (True) or (False)
- A manufacturer can add any amount of vitamins or minerals to any food he chooses. (True) or (False)
- If salt is added to a vegetable during processing, it will be mentioned on the label. (True) or (False)
- If an item such as Vitamin C is mentioned on the label, it is no guarantee that the contents do contain it. (True) or (False)
- Persons on salt-free diets have difficulty sometimes in determining if a food is OK for their diet. (True) or (False)
- All packages are labeled to tell exactly what's in them. (True) or (False)
- There is no difference in a can that is labeled "Contents: orange juice concentrate, pineapple juice, water, sugar"; and a can labeled "Contents: water, sugar, pineapple juice, orange juice concentrate." (True) or (False)
- Within a few months all food packages will have labels to tell you the nutrients they contain. (True) or (False)
- A food label is designed to sell the product, so nutritional claims are to be taken "with a grain of salt." (True) or (False)
- Unless a person used only those foods whose label indicates a serving contains 100 percent of each vitamin or mineral, a person will be improperly nourished. (True) or (False)

- The Food and Drug Administration is primarily a law enforcement agency concerned with food safety and protecting the consumer against fraud. (True) or (False)
- The new labels make it easier to make wise choices when shopping in the supermarket. (True) or (False)
- When nutritional labeling is used, it must be placed adjacent to the main panel and in a prescribed form. (True) or (False)
- Open dating is required by law. (True) or (False)

Here are the answers:

- False. Hope you disagreed with this statement. Foods for which a standard of identity has been established do not need to list all ingredients. For instance, fruit jams must contain 45 parts fruit and 55 parts sugar. Raisin bread must have raisins equal to half the weight of the flour.
- False. Did we catch you? Either the manufacturer, the distributor or the seller must be named and his address given.
- False. There are limits to what and how much the manufacturer can add.
- False.
- False. The FDA requires accuracy in labels.
- True. Salt is a very common additive. It is included in the standard of identity of many items. Hence, for those items it need not be listed.

- False. Those standards of identity again.
- False. Contents must be listed in decreasing order of amount. The first has more orange and pineapple and less water and sugar than the second.
- False. Nutritional labeling is voluntary on all foods. Not until January 1975, will food labels not complying have to be put off the supermarket shelves.
- False. Though labels do help sell products, the nutritional claims are serious business and most honestly represent the product.
- False. Surely you intend to eat more than one serving of one food each day. Furthermore, the U.S. RDA (recommended daily allowance) used on the label is the largest amount needed by anyone in the 24 age-sex categories. Older women and young children need less than 100 percent from the total food eaten, including unlabeled items.
- True. That's their business.
- True. There really is a lot of information on these new labels.
- True. This makes it easier for the consumer to compare products.
- False. Not yet. Make use of it when you find it. Let store managers, manufacturers and others know you appreciate it. Our thanks to Anita Dean for this information.

Michigan lost 1000 farms in 1973, but farms are larger

The number of farms declined 1 percent across the nation during 1973, while the average size of the American farm became 2 acres larger, according to Dorn Diehl, State Executive Director of the Michigan State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office.

Diehl said that in Michigan the decline was 1,000 farms. Farm size averaged 154 acres in the state.

Diehl said that the 1973 figures were recently released by the US Department in Washington, D.C.

The State official indicated that the national figures mean that some farmers added new acres to their operations last year. These farmers are following a trend that started almost four decades ago - a trend to fewer but larger farms. The average farm is now 365 acres, 2 acres larger than last year.

Total farms by the end of 1973 was 2,821,000 - 1 percent less than in 1972 - and they cover almost 1 billion 87 million acres of the nation's land.

Although the loss of farmland to other uses is fractional - three-tenths of 1 percent - it totaled over 2 1/2 million acres in 1973. This is an area twice the size of the state of Delaware. In 1971, farmland lost to other uses totaled 3.5 million acres, in 1972 the figure was 3.2 million acres.

Diehl said the report indicates that while all individual yearly losses in farmland represent only a very small part of the total, there is some concern about the long term impact of the losses. However, it is interesting that the conversion of farmland to nonagricultural uses, such as highways, housing areas and shopping centers, has not caused a decline in the national farm output.

Also, effects vary locally, but in most cases it is evident that improvements in farm technology have more than offset losses in agricultural land.

Grow your own asparagus

Jim Pelham
Clinton County Extension Director

Each year many people drive on country roads looking for a few spears of asparagus. This may not be quite as common in Clinton County as in areas where most of the tasty little green shoots are grown commercially, but it is not uncommon seeing people hunting it.

Looking for stray or wild spears might seem like the easiest way to get it, but the crop is not difficult to grow and when harvested regularly, it is much more tender and delicious.

California, New Jersey, Washington, Illinois and Massachusetts are ahead of Michigan in production, but Michigan is gaining rather steadily. Commercial production is greatest in Van Buren County and several processors are located in southwestern Michigan.

Asparagus can be established as a part of the home garden and thrives under a wide range of conditions. Good drainage is essential, but very droughty soils should be avoided unless irrigation water is available.

The home gardener could start asparagus from seed, but one entire year's production is lost by going this route rather than starting plants from one year old crowns. (Year old crowns are preferable to two year olds and its not a good idea to start new patches from the roots of old established plants). From time of setting until the first harvest requires a minimum of two years under Michigan conditions when crowns (roots) are used.

Once established and properly cared for, asparagus plants tend to get stronger and more productive. Although it is claimed patches get old and eventually lose thriftiness, the writer has not observed this when the stand was well maintained. In fact, while managing the state prison farms, five year old stands were found to be more productive than newer plants, ten year old plants out yielded the five year olds and the most productive plot was known to have been established at least 20 years earlier.

There are a few rigid rules to follow in asparagus production such as limiting the length of harvest on newer stands, limiting the dicing of stands to control weeds and making more use of chemical weed control, and properly fertilizing, but in general the results are well worth the effort. Once established, asparagus will be one of the easiest things you can grow!

Farmers Bulletin 2232 "Asparagus" from the U.S. Department of Agriculture is available to anyone commercially interested in the crop and Michigan State University Bulletin E-675-B "Asparagus" is available free to anyone at your county extension office. Stop in or telephone for a copy!

4-H Chatter
4-H interstate exchange trip

By JOHN AYLSWORTH

Clinton County 4-H'ers will have an opportunity to participate in a 4-H interstate exchange trip to Rockingham County, North Carolina July 5-13. Eleven members and two leaders from each Clinton, Gratiot and Shiawassee Counties will make up the bus group from the 3-county area. The group will travel on July 5 and 6, stay 5 days with a 4-H host family in Rockingham County and travel 2 days July 12 and 13 returning home.

Staying with a 4-H host family provides each member with a great experience meeting new friends, learning their life and customs, learning about their 4-H projects and sharing of ideas and programs. Their Extension 4-H Agent - Judge Pierce and Home Economics Agent - Jane Stuart will be involved in planning and working with our exchange.

Four years ago our area had an interstate exchange with a different North Carolina County and the 4-H members had a wonderful experience. Many of the 4-H'ers still correspond and even last year some of the members were still visiting back and forth.

Any 4-H member interested in participating in the interstate exchange program should contact the Extension Office in St. Johns or phone 224-3288. Members should be at least 15 years of age to apply. Approximate cost for the trip will be $25 per person. Selection of delegates will be made by May 1. Next year a bus load of 4-H'ers from North Carolina will be visiting our 3-county area where we will be serving as host families.

She would be happy to tell you started on the "inky trail" of pen pals where they can learn about new friends, activities and ideas. Clubs may also contact Mrs. Grunwald to arrange for a slide show of her recent trip to Belize and Stann Creek which is St. Johns' sister city in Central America.

The Sewing Basket 4-H Club members decided to have their meetings every 2 weeks. The members participating in the 4-H poster contest are urged to get them completed. The clothing members are busy working on their projects so they will be ready for evaluation day on March 30. The members plan to attend the Feb 16 modeling workshop at St. Johns.

The Westphalia 4-H members will be holding a club style revue on Thursday, March 28 at St. Marys Hall in Westphalia. They will be ready for evaluation on March 30 and the County Style Revue on April 6. If anyone wants their birthdate on the local calendar they can pay by $1.25 to the sponsoring group. They reminded everyone of the 4-H open house on Sunday, March 31 where their projects will be on display from 2-5:30 pm at Smith Hall in St. Johns.

The Knit'N'Stitch 4-H club members will be holding their local club evaluation on March 19 at Alice Heibek's home in St.

Johns. Delmas Moldenhauer will evaluate the members garments for this activity. The members discussed the 4-H modeling workshop on Feb 16 and Evaluation Day on March 30. Several members plan to enter the 4-H poster contest by Feb 15. The honor club score sheet was discussed and the members thought they could make an honor club this winter. Demonstrations were given by Carmen Karber and Leslie Smith on "Good Health with Exercise"; Vicki Kingsley and Kathy Bappert on "How to Fit a Pattern." At an earlier meeting Leann Karber, Leslie Fonger and Julie Smith did a play on a shopping spree. The members went roller skating on Jan 17.

Six entries have been received to date on the 4-H Poster Contest. The deadline is Feb 15 when all entries are due at the Extension Office. The poster can be on anything but should tell the public what 4-H is and does. The posters may be as small as 8 1/2" x 11" and as large as 14" x 22". Five county entries will each receive $5 prize money and will go on to the state 4-H Poster Contest at MSU.

The following 4-H clubs have reservations to go roller skating at the Ranch Roller Rink in St. Johns Thursday, Feb 21 from 7-10 pm: Fowler Busy Bees, DeWitt Go Getters, Stoney Creek, Jolly Knitters, French's Corners, Willing Workers, Boots & Buckles and Fowler Fireballs. Clubs interested in 4-H roller skating in March or April are urged to contact the Extension Office in St. Johns.

A WORD ABOUT OUR FOOD SUPPLY

We, too, are feeling the squeeze of the current nationwide trucking strike.

As a result, we may be somewhat low on a few items.

Just as this strike is only temporary, so are our shortages.

Please bear with us.
