Plan 850 for experts' corn, soybean clinic

A day-long program, rich in farming ideas, is being promised next Thursday when 850 or more farmers are expected to "meet the experts" at a corn-soybean clinic in St. Johns.

The program, sponsored cooperatively by six nationally known agricultural firms, is one of 64 held in 23 states across the nation.

GENE STOUTER
"Corn Profit"

The St. Johns clinic is one of two strictly Michigan clinics. The 850 people are expected from all over the state from lake to lake, but about 60 per cent will probably be from the Clinton - Gratiot area.

The program, which will start at 9 a.m. next Thursday at Smith Hall, is billed as an "idea" clinic. "We want to sell farmers ideas — narrow row planting, herbicides . . ." said Wayne Farmer of Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co., one of the sponsors.

"THERE WON'T be any selling here," Farmer said. "There won't be time to sell anything except ideas." The clinic sponsors claim they will reap their share of profits when the farmers put some of their new ideas to work.

Sponsors of the clinic are Allis-Chalmers, Amchem Products, Inc., DeKalb Agricultural Assn., Allied Chemical Corp., Shell Chemical Co., and Behlen Manufacturing Co.

Speakers at the clinic are experts in their fields, and this is one of the reasons for the success of past corn-soybean clinics across the United States corn belt. Each of the sponsoring organizations will have a 30-minute segment during the day in which to present their ideas on specific farm programs.

FOLLOWING the awarding of a door prize at 9:30 a.m. sharp, the kickoff and key-note talk, entitled "Profit Program for Corn," will be delivered by Gene Stouffer of the DeKalb Agricultural Assn. He will give a rundown of all that's new and important to more profitable corn production.

Next will be Marvin B. Horton of the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co., who will talk on "Tractor and Planter Economics." Horton will cover such matters as narrow-row equipment and minimum tillage.

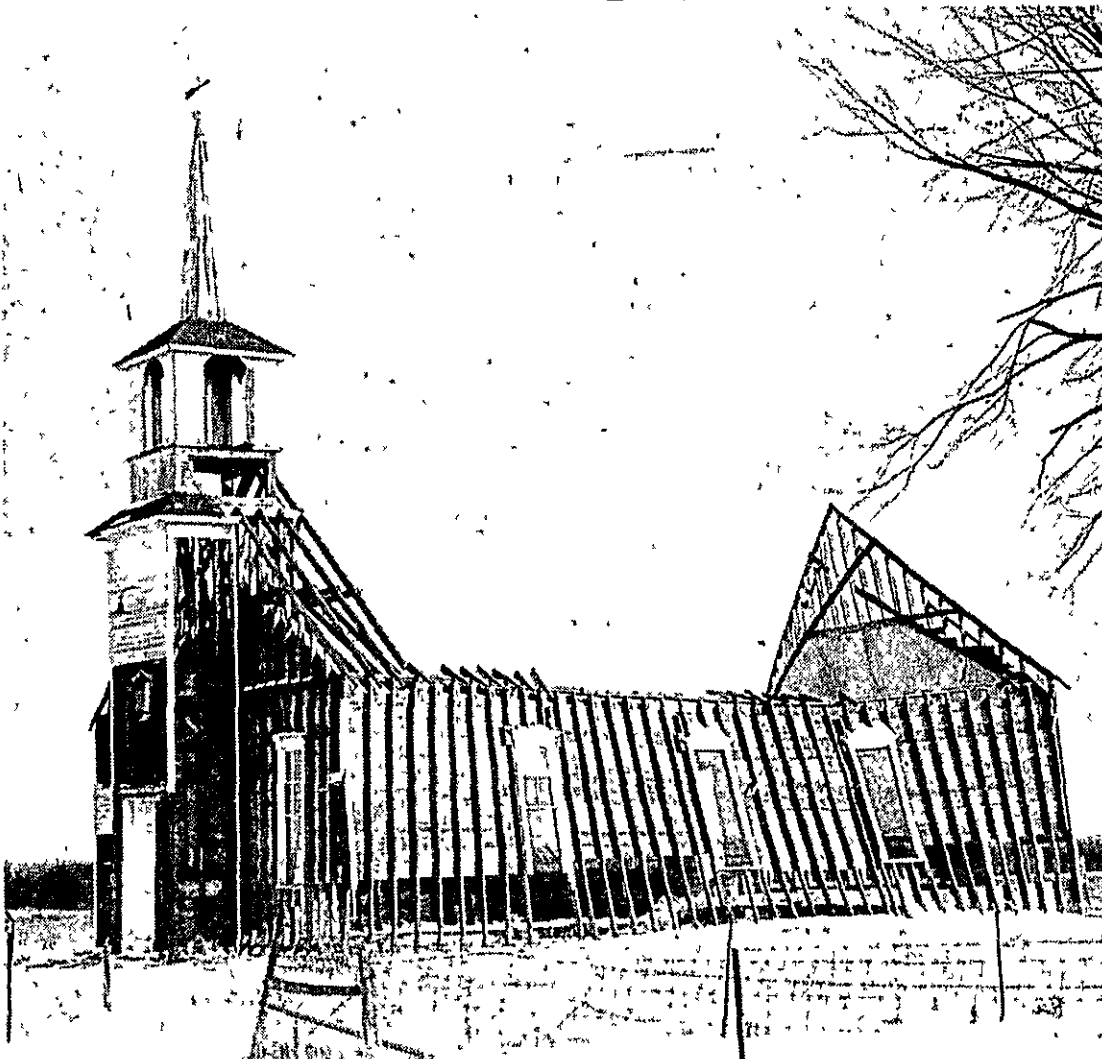

The question "What Does It Take for 200 Bushels of Corn?" will be answered by Bob Dougherty of Allied Chemical Corp. Dougherty is the clinic's fertilizer expert. Then the agricultural chemical experts will take the stage to tell what's new in controlling weeds and insects.

FIRST WILL BE Irvin Pintke of Amchem Products, Inc., whose subject will be "More Jack From Your Beansstalk." Pintke will talk mostly about soybeans, but will also give a rundown of herbicides for corn.

John Rutherford of the Shell Chemical Co. will show how to control soil insects.

The time slot from noon until 1 p.m. will be devoted to dinner. Following lunch, the speakers will assume they have the corn and beans raised and will turn their attention to harvesting, drying and storage. The experts claim the biggest losses in crop profits occur at this end. Allen

Tall and Godly in Face of Destruction

The steeple stands in almost awesome splendor above the remains of the old Fulton Zion Church at State and Taft Roads north of Bridgeville in southern Gratiot County. The church, more than 70 years old, was vacated over 2 1/2 years ago, was sold and is being torn down. Its former members, who numbered only six or eight in recent years, now attend the County Line-Salem EUB Church.

Village caucuses Monday

Monday will be primary election day or caucus day in the villages of Clinton County, but there won't be any political activity in some of them.

At Elsie, Ovid and Fowler, there are no contests within the parties, so the primary election has been waived. And in some communities caucuses will be held yet this year instead of primaries, as required by a new law.

THE CAUCUSES have been approved, however, by Robert M. Montgomery, director of elections for the Department of State. He wrote village clerks in January that the act passed by the Legislature in 1965 was not given immediate effect on passage, and it won't become effective until March.

Maple Rapids is one village that will hold caucuses. The Progressive Party will meet at 7:30 p.m. and the People's party at 8 p.m. in the village hall to pick candidates for village offices.

At Hubbardston, caucuses will be held Monday at 7:30 p.m. at See CAUCUSES, Page 4-A

Boy's effort to quench fire fails, 2 brothers, sister die

A fire extinguisher failed to work, and flames a young Wacousta boy was trying to put out trapped and killed two brothers and a sister last Thursday night.

He and two other sisters escaped.

Johnny MacDougall, 13, told sheriff's officers and firemen he woke up shortly before 11 p.m. last Thursday and smelled smoke. He got up and saw a sheet of flames on a curtain behind an oil stove.

HE YELLED to the five other children in the house that the house was on fire. Johnny tried to put the fire out with a fire extinguisher as his father had taught him, but it didn't work.

Johnny's twin sister, Janet, 13, and Kathryn 11, ran to the home of a neighbor, Jane Platt. After calling the fire department, they all ran back toward the house, which by that time was all afire. They heard an explosion, and glass was blown out of the windows.

JOHNNY AND HIS two sisters were the only ones who escaped. Elizabeth Karen MacDougall, 10, David Conrad MacDougall, 8, and Paul Douglas MacDougall, 6, died in the flames.

They were children of Mr and

Pedestrian hit, hospitalized

A pedestrian was hospitalized Monday evening after she was struck by a car while crossing US-27 in St. Johns.

Mrs. Iva L. Allen, 76, of 201 S. Oakland Street, was described in "fairly good" condition Tuesday at Clinton Memorial Hospital. She was crossing US-27 from east to west between Cass and State streets when she was struck by a car driven by John F. Hinton, 80, of 300 Gibbs Street, St. Johns. Hinton was driving south when Mrs. Allen walked in front of his car, city police reported.

School bond issue vote set for May 9

Building outline approved

A bond issue election for building purposes in the St. Johns Public School District has been scheduled for May 9 this year, but no monetary figure has been set yet.

The board of education set the date Wednesday evening and also approved a high school building plan that would have 47 teaching stations. Using rough estimates, the high school and rural elementary building programs will probably come to about $4.75 million.

THE ACTUAL projection of the cost will not be available for three or four weeks. Architects for both building programs are now working on their preliminary drawings, during which time they'll pinpoint more closely the exact costs.

The millage asked May 9 will probably be in the neighborhood of 6 or 6 1/2.

Both the millage and the total cost of the building programs will undoubtedly be higher than school officials originally anticipated. A sharp upward trend in construction costs in the last few months, plus a federal reserve increase in bond interest rates, have resulted in a higher anticipated cost for the whole program, officials said.

"CONSTRUCTION costs have gone up now to about $15 a square foot," Supt. Earl Lancaster said, "and our architects project them at $17.50 by the time we can get around to taking bids. With 176,000 square feet in the proposed high school, that's $3,100,000 for that construction alone."

"All our figures now are only tentative," Lancaster said. "Our architects will be pinpointing the cost more closely in the next few weeks."

Binda and Associates of Battle Creek are architects for the high school, which will be located on the southwest side of town south and east of the city park. St. Clair and Douglas Pardee are designing the rural schools, which will involve two completely new buildings in the southern part of the district and additions to the Eureka and East Essex schools on the north side.

THE BOARD has changed its direction slightly on the rural program. Originally it was intended to add on to the present Olive Center School; now that school will be left as it is and will be retained for instruction. New buildings will be built somewhere east and somewhere west of US-27. No locations have been decided on.

Population studies made by Walt Nickel, assistant superintendent in charge of rural schools, indicated the need for a building east of US-27, it is reported.

The board's high school plan, adopted last Wednesday night, is a forward-looking one that provides for classroom space for 1,000 students and a core area (gym, auditorium, cafeteria, etc.) capacity of 1,400 students.

THIS WOULD provide plenty of room in the early years of the building's use, but by 1975 the classroom capacity of 1,000 is expected to be reached. Architects are designing the building so classrooms can be added relatively easily; the core areas are being included now so they can be used in the future with the added classrooms.

The plans for the building will include such devices as folding walls between rooms in the various departments, making possible team teaching and other teaching methods that may come along in the future years. A display store window will be included in one of the business education rooms.

"WE BELIEVE there's going to be more emphasis in the future on vocational training," Lancaster said, "and the board wants to provide for total education right in the building." Such things as the display store window would be an aid in retail training for students.

An electronic learning center, sometimes called a language lab, is included in the plans for the high school. The St. Johns board is changing the name, however, because plans are to use it for other purposes than strictly language training; other departments will use the center, too.

Departments will be expanded from what is now available. The music department will have two large rooms instead of one; the industrial arts and agriculture departments will have six teaching stations instead of 4. Also included will be a fenced, black-topped and roofed area for the building trades and farm shop departments.

IN THE PHYSICAL education area are included a gymnasium with a seating capacity of 2,000 on floor bleachers and 500 on a balcony, and a natatorium (swimming pool) of Olympic size, with seating for 400 persons.

The library will seat 100 to start and will have 10,000 volumes to start. An auditorium with a larger stage than is now available will seat 700 persons.

The cafeteria and study hall will be combined and will be located near the gymnasium for use as a concession area during basketball games. The kitchen will be able to prepare food for 900 high schoolers and also for the junior high, where the food will be catered.

The school administration office will be attached to but not accessible from the high school building.

Need 20 rural class rooms

Twenty additional classrooms will be needed in the rural areas by 1969 to adequately accommodate rural students, the St. Johns board of education was told last Wednesday night.

Walter Nickel, administrative assistant in charge of rural schools, reported on his population study of the last couple of months. The 20 additional rooms will be necessary with an average of 30 pupils per room.

THE SCHOOL board is using the population study in determining what plans to make for the rural building program. Preliminary plans have been approved for additions to the East Essex and Eureka schools and new buildings in the southwest and southeast parts of the district. Olive Center School will continue to be used also.

In kindergarten through sixth grades, Nickel said, there will

Grand Ledge firemen dampen every last spark early last Thursday morning after a fire destroyed a small frame home near Wacousta and killed three youngsters. The bodies of two of the boys were found in a bedroom where firemen in the background are standing; the other victim was in the near bedroom at right. The fire broke out about 11 p.m. last Wednesday when a stove exploded.

9 involved, only 1 injured in 2 related crashes

Nine persons were involved in a pair of related traffic accidents on US-27 in Olive Township last Thursday afternoon. One complained of pains as a result, but none of the others reported any injuries.

About 4:30 p.m. a car driven by Robert J. Lowe, 18, of R-1, St. Johns, was passing Charles C. Smith, 18, of R-5, St. Johns, when Lowe lost control and hit Smith's auto. Lowe's car went into a ditch on the east side of the highway; Smith's auto crossed the median and went into a ditch on the west side.

FIVE PASSENGERS were riding with Lowe. He was ticketed for failure to have his car under control.

A few minutes later, Kathleen B. Mishler, 37, of 102 E. Cass Street, St. Johns, stopped for traffic which had stopped for the Lowe-Smith accident ahead. George O. Curtis, 52, of R-4, Bath, was driving behind her and his car hit the rear of Mrs. Mishler's car.

She was taken to Clinton Memorial Hospital where she complained of pains.

The accidents occurred about 4:30 p.m. last Thursday on US-27 a quarter-mile north of Price Road. Both accidents originated in the northbound lane.

Zoning appeal still undecided

The St. Johns zoning appeal board has recessed until next Tuesday in its deliberations about granting a building permit for the proposed Sure-Crop Liquid Fertilizer Co. plant here.

The board termed "inconclusive" the information it received from similar plants at Monon and Arcadia, Ind., regarding public health, air pollution, and other related items.

Further contacts with other plants will be made this week. The appeal board was going to ask Allied Chemical Co. for more complete listing of such plants.

"SURE-CROP" is appealing a previous zoning board ruling in which the firm was denied a building permit on the grounds it had presented insufficient details concerning its proposed operation. Douglas Cook, president of the new firm, appeared at the meeting last Tuesday and answered questions from both the board and neighbors of the proposed site.

Sure-Crop has plans to build a liquid fertilizer plant on Railroad Street between US-27 and the Standard Oil bulk plant at Mead Street. Residents were told the firm anticipates only three tank trucks per day at the site when operating at maximum.

The board will reconvene at 1:45 p.m. next Tuesday.

2 cars collide at Hollister, M-21

Two drivers escaped injury last Thursday afternoon in a crash at M-21 and Hollister Road west of Ovid. John D. Somers, 31, of Owosso, and Earl M. Slagh, 57, of 207 Ovid Street, Elsie, were the drivers.

Both were going west on M-21, according to the sheriff's department report on the accident. Somers slowed to turn left. Slagh was passing him. Slagh's auto skidded into the side of Somers' when Slagh braked hard to avoid a left-turning car in front of him.

Car hits tree

Wanetta Mae Gantz, 23, of Midleton, complained of pains when her car went off County Line Road and hit a tree Friday morning about 9 a.m. The crash occurred a half-mile east of Harris Road. She said something went wrong with her steering gear, causing the crash.

Gov Romney here at Lincoln Day dinner

As Lincoln cared about his fellow men so does the Republican party, Gov. George Romney said at the Lincoln Day Banquet held last Wednesday evening at the VFW Hall.

In the past three years Republicans have improved state services, modernized and strengthened local governments and cured Michigan's floundering economy, Gov. Romney said.

The Republican party has increased appropriations for mental health and educational facilities, he said.

"LINCOLN STARTED" the land grant college program," Gov. Romney said.

The program was begun to give the rural youth the advantages of education. In Michigan we have Michigan State University one of the first land grant colleges and the Republicans increased appropriations for it by 73 per cent, he said.

With the new Constitution we have strengthened local government. There must either be self-government or all the power will shift to Washington, he told the 400 gathered at the dinner.

THE PARTY will help those needing help as with the veterans homestead exemption program the greatest relief should go to those needing it the most and not just across the board, he said.

The party is founded on basic principles equal opportunity for all, limited government, encouraging the private aspects of life and using the law without fear or favor, he said.

Republicans have given the leadership to bring about the peace the Lincoln won militarily, he said.

"MICHIGAN PUT equal rights in the constitution," Gov. Romney said.

In order for these beliefs to remain strong they must be inflexible or like a tree without a strong base it will die, Gov. Romney said.

Old-time formula back for Lions' minstrel show

The St. Johns Lions Club has been in rehearsal for the past month for their 15th annual Minstrel Show which will be presented in the St. Johns High School auditorium Friday and Saturday, Feb. 25 and 26.

The Lions are returning to the old-time formula for minstrel show this year with the interlocutor, endmen and chorus. The show is under the direction of Ralph Lynam.

Headlining the acts this year will be the "Banjo Bills," a banjo duo who have appeared on radio and television throughout the country. They play both ragtime and classic music to tell stories with melodies.

FILLING OUT the bill will be an accordion duet by Lee Shavey and Mike Rademacher, both of St. Johns, who are students at the Don Lee Studios in Lansing; a snake dance ballet by 10-year-old Rita Riley of Owosso who attends the Carolyn Bohaty School of Dancing; skip rope routine, an acrobatic number by Kim Burek, Jean Bloomfield and Judy Graves, all students at the Bohaty School of Dancing; an organ solo by Rhonda Woodbury, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Woodbury of St. Johns; Pat Courser, vocalist, who is 14 and a freshman at Rodney B. Wilson High and is a voice student of Gordon Vandemark.

At intermission, Jean Woodbury will be at the organ. Julia Silvestri, another student at Rodney B. Wilson High, will be featured on her electronic accordion. Julia has won many local honors and has appeared throughout the area.

MALE SOLOIST will be John Anderson of St. Johns, who has appeared locally for many years. The Fowler Family with Judy 18, Jan 15, Patti 11, Tom 13, Pam-mie 6 and "Bunny" (mother) will do barbershop harmonies. Also appearing on the show will be the Michigan Debutantes, a dance line of professional ability. Five of the 12 girls in the line appeared in the New Year's Eve program at the "Mr. C Playboy Lounge" in Flint. Six of the girls were picked for the General Motors dance line and appeared at the General Motors National Convention. Miss High School of Michigan and two runners up to this title are also in the dance line. The girls have appeared on television and in many areas throughout the state.

INTERLOCUTOR for the show will be Alba Wert, and Treva Hill will be at the piano. The chorus will be made up of Lions members and their wives. Tickets are available from any St. Johns Lion member.

be 1,050 pupils next year for the public schools and 272 pupils for non-public schools. By 1969 there'll be 1,000 public and 280 non-public school students.

In general 20 per cent of the students in K-6 in the district are non-public school students, Nickel said.

IN OTHER business last Wednesday, the board recognized the St. Johns chapter of the Michigan Education Assn. as the bargaining agent for teachers in the school system. Supt. Earl Lancaster was appointed chief negotiator for the school board, with board members Bill Richards, Jr. and Fred Meyer also on the negotiating team.

The board rejected several bids because they did not meet specifications.

The board also approved the rental of office space above Fred Lewis' law offices at the corner of State Street and Clinton Avenue. Walt Nickel and Steve Bakita, administrative assistants to Supt. Earl Lancaster, and Rosemary Houck, their secretary, will occupy the offices.

Corunna man dies of injuries

A Corunna man died Tuesday morning as a result of injuries he sustained Saturday morning in a one-car accident on M-21 west of Wacousta Road in Ben-gal Township.

Ole Price, 67, of 212 Pine Street, Corunna, died at Owosso Memorial Hospital. He had reportedly been taken there by a Corunna ambulance following the accident about 8 a.m. Saturday.

He was a passenger in an auto driven by his wife, Florence M. Price, 67. She lost control on a frosty and icy spot on the highway as she and her husband were driving west. The car clipped a tree, went across a ditch and straddled a fence along a field west of Wacousta Road.

MR AND MRS Louis Schmitt, on whose farm the car ended up, drove into the field and took Mr Price from the car and up to their home. He refused to be taken to a hospital here, saying he wanted his own doctor.

Deputy Sheriff Hilary Hafner, who investigated, said Mr Price also refused to let him call a local ambulance to take him to Owosso. During this time it was necessary for someone to hold Mr Price upright in a chair.

MR AND MRS Price reportedly waited for a son to arrive from Corunna to take them back home. When the son arrived, he called a Corunna ambulance to come and take his father to the Owosso hospital.

The sheriff's department was notified at noon Tuesday that Mr Price died Tuesday morning as a result of the crash injuries.

DeWitt council parries probing by trailer park

DEWITT — The DeWitt City Council parried another probe by the proposed "King Arthur's Court" trailer park during its regular meeting last Tuesday, Feb. 8.

A Mr Powell representing the trailer park appeared before the council to ask that group's opinion as to where they stood concerning the proposed park. He stated two real estate firms had approached his company, interested in taking over the land now held under option for the proposed trailer park.

POWELL ALSO said that during the day he had talked with some members of the council and other members of the community and was under the impression a change of heart may have developed among the people of DeWitt concerning the trailer park.

Powell asked for a written opinion from the council to enable his firm to proceed either on the present proposed location or to look to other land areas for a trailer park.

THE WRITTEN opinion Powell wanted from the council had been prepared by Powell and handed to Mayor Buck to read. It read to the effect that the DeWitt City Council had changed its mind as

Chamber unit backs location for firm here

The Industrial Development Committee of the St. Johns Chamber of Commerce went on record last week supporting Sure-Crop Liquid Fertilizers in their endeavor to locate along Railroad Street in St. Johns.

Betty Jane Minsky, Chamber manager, advised the zoning board of appeals of their decision at a hearing in the Municipal Building on the matter last Tuesday afternoon.

In a letter, later sent to the members of the zoning board of appeals, the Chamber said:

"IT IS THE unanimous opinion of the Chamber's Industrial Development Committee that this property is best suited to industrial use which lends itself to an operation of this type.

"INASMUCH as Sure - Crop would be co-ordinating with Allied Chemical Co., which has a reputation nationally as being a desirable firm to locate in one's community, the Chamber feels that the firm and its operations as proposed would be an asset to the community and of economic value to the people therein.

"THE INDUSTRIAL Committee has discussed the proposed operation at great length with Mr Cook and can foresee no reasons that would make the firm undesirable, either to the adjoining property owners or to the community as a whole."

Group discusses giving cow to deserving 4-H'er

The directors of the Clinton County Holstein Friesian Assn. met Friday at the home of Secretary-Treasurer Robert Wilcox of Ovid.

The donation of a registered Holstein heifer calf to a deserving boy or girl in 4-H Club work was discussed. Leon Miller, president, appointed a committee to study the matter further and to make recommendations to the board.

A DAIRY tour is scheduled for March.

The members were asked to make plans to attend the joint meeting of the Clinton and Shiawassee association on Feb. 15. The meeting concerns the district Black and White Show at Corunna next summer.

Refreshments followed the adjournment of the meeting.

the village hall. The People's Party is the only one there.

AT WESTPHALIA, a primary election will be held. There's only one party, the Republican, but a contest has developed for the offices of village trustee. Denis Fandel, an incumbent, is-Idor Miller, Stanley Wieber, Robert Hengesbach and William Hanes Jr. will battle it out at the polls for nomination to three trustee positions.

Elvan Pohl for village president, Donald Schafer for village clerk, Earl Wieber for village treasurer, and Aloysius Droste for assessor are unopposed. The polling place will be the Westphalia Village Hall, and voting will be from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m.

THERE ARE no contests in the village nominations at Elsie, at least within the parties. So there won't be any primaries; the candidates will carry forward until the March 14 village elections.

Citizens' Party candidates are Durward Conklin for president, Orpha Clement for treasurer, Alice Blunt for clerk, Stanley Loznak for assessor and Joe Bartek and Woodrow Bashore for trustees. The People's Party has three candidates up for the three vacant trustee seats; they are Ira Bashore, LeRoy Vincent and Pat Foran.

Fewer candidates were nominated by petition, and since no competition developed, no primary election is needed. The incumbent officers, President Martin Edinger, Clerk Mark Fox, Treasurer Charles Halpman and Assessor Earl Frechen will all be on the ballot in March. So will incumbent Trustees Vincent Goerge and John Klein. Roy Goerge will not seek another term after serving the village for 18 years, and Robert Pettit has filed for his seat on the board of trustees.

THERE IS NO intra-party competition at Ovid, either, but a contest is in the offing in March for the three trustee seats. The Citizens Party is running Clara Tubbs for clerk, Audrey Bancroft for treasurer, and Edgar Kelly, Dale Serviss and Joe Michutka for councilmen. The People's Party has Harvey Darling seeking reelection as president, Duane Chamberlain seeking reelection as assessor, and Hazel Dietz, Marshall Monroe and Larry Martin running for councilmen.

Speeder fined

Ernest L. Shelp, 18, of Lansing was fined $95.10 plus $4.90 costs last Friday on a charge of speeding 90 miles an hour in a 55 mph zone in Greenbush Township. St. Johns Municipal Judge Alba Wert assessed the fine.

2 earn all-A's

Two St. Johns students at Michigan State University have earned all-A's in their first term at the university. They are Lorraine Anderson of 609 W. Higham Street, and David Poculis of 209 N. Ottawa Street.

Eugene Stouffer of Elsie (right) puts emphasis on a slide projection picture pertaining to next week's Corn-Soybean Clinic. Making final plans with Stouffer for the clinic are David Callahan and Harry Patterson Jr. (both seated), and Betty Jane Minsky, Howard Wyler and Wayne Farmer.

Wilke of Behlen Manufacturing Co. will talk on "Conditioning and Storing Your Harvest Dollars."

MASTER OF ceremonies for the all-day clinic will be Dan Chisholm, sales manager of the Agricultural Chemicals Division of Amchem Products, Inc.

One of the highlights of the day, at least according to past clinic experiences, will be a question and answer period. All of the speakers, plus some added starters, will assemble on the stage and the audience will ask them questions about corn and bean production. The question and answer period will come either at the end of the individual talks or at the conclusion of the program.

An early dismissal is promised, so farmers can get home in time for chores.

ALL WILL not be listening and sitting at the corn-soybean clinic. Display booths manned by local and area dealers of equipment, feeds, fertilizers and services will ring the inside of Smith Hall. Planting and harvesting machinery, chemicals, trucks, combines, sprayers, planters and other such equipment will be displayed outside the main building.

"All phases of farming will be covered by the instructors or the exhibits," a clinic official said. "We know in a few years food won't be so plentiful, so we are all pushing for more per-acre production."

Local dealers of the sponsoring organizations will provide meal tickets for the all-day clinic. They are also available at the St. Johns Chamber of Commerce, which has been instrumental in helping with the arrangements for the clinic.

4 from DeWitt seriously hurt

Four DeWitt Marines were seriously injured early last Wednesday morning in a one-car crash while they were home on leave. The accident occurred on DeWitt Road a half-mile north of Sheridan Road.

Injured were Larry J. Fowler, 20, of 12545 W. Geneva Street, the driver; Dennis Kibby, 20, of 4566 Cutler Road; Ronald J. Lyon, 21, of 403 Cherry Street; and Robert Cowan, 20, of 2320 W. Main Street.

THE CAR STRUCK a guard post on the west side of a one-lane bridge, careened 179 feet, went off the east side of the road, struck a tree stump and flipped over. The car was described by one person as "a ball of metal."

All four youths were pinned in the car, Kibby for 45 minutes. He suffered multiple leg fractures, cuts and bruises. Lyon received multiple leg fractures and possible back injuries; Cowan suffered cuts and bruises and back injuries. All were taken to St. Lawrence Hospital.

FWOHLER was taken to Sparrow Hospital with multiple fractures and possible internal injuries.

Lansing and DeWitt Township fire departments were summoned when the gas tank of the car ruptured, but there was no fire. The accident occurred at 1:15 a.m.

Pay taxes now, avoid 4% fee

County treasurer Volma Beaufore stated that all winter taxes for 1965 should be paid to city, village and township treasurers on or before Monday, Feb. 28, to avoid the 4 per cent collection fee and interest rate of 1/2 per cent per month.

The Public Acts of 1964, section 44 states: Taxes collected by the township treasurer after the last day of February shall have added a 4 per cent collection fee and interest on tax at the rate of 1/2 per cent per month, therefore all 1965 taxes will be turned in to the County Treasurer's office on March 1 and all taxes payable to the county treasurer thereafter.

County Treasurer Beaufore said that all taxes not collected by March 1 will be turned over to her for collection and the collection fee and interest rate will be added.

Many of the walls of the new Ovid-Elsie High School are now standing, and workmen continue on the job despite most of the inclement types of weather that have hit the county this winter. The plastic and wood triangle structure at left behind the main wall is a kind of "greenhouse" — it keeps the workers warm and makes the building grow.

Ovid-Elsie hits snag as building costs soar

OVID — Ovid-Elsie's new school building program may provide the buildings, but just how the landscaping and equipping will be financed is not certain anymore.

Skyrocketing construction costs in the last six months, and particularly the last 90 days, have hiked the cost of the elementary school construction well beyond that originally anticipated by the architects.

CONTRACTS ON all construction phases of the Ovid-Elsie school merger project have now been let. The latest one was let last Monday evening, Feb. 7, when Karsten Construction Co. of Grand Rapids got the job of constructing the addition to the Ovid Elementary School on a bid of $121,700.

multpurpose room with a stage and tables to serve for cafeteria purposes. Kitchen facilities, a health room and office space are also included in the job.

The addition will make available hot lunch facilities as well as music and physical education areas for the students attending school in the building.

THE KARSTEN Co. also received the contract for the new Ovid elementary school and the addition to the E. E. Knight elementary school in Elsie.

Ovid-Elsie school officials felt the higher cost of construction—which they said will probably continue to rise—made immediate contracting for the projects a necessity; delays in awarding the contracts would mean increases in cost.

tracting of all construction phases, the board is faced with the problem of no money for the equipment, landscaping and some site development work on each project. The board and the administration are reported giving this problem some deep thought to see what solutions can be found.

Meanwhile, Karsten indicated they will begin work soon on all three elementary projects.

Supervisors ask help in returning personal tax forms

Clinton County's rural supervisors have appealed to residents for assistance in preparing tax information before the boards of review date of March 8.

The supervisors are asking that personal property tax statements, mailed out to residents some time ago, either be delivered or mailed back to the supervisors as soon as possible.

Most supervisors are busy making adjustments in the Yoh Co. appraisal figures, and without the help of their township constituents it will be almost impossible to finish the work before the March 8 deadline.

UNLESS THE personal property forms are returned to the supervisors, they will have to call on residents to pick them up. "We have deadlines to meet," the supervisors said, "and there's just not time for us to do everything without your help."

Mixers to meet

The forty Mixers' Dinner Dance will be held Thursday, Feb. 17, at the Municipal Building. There will be a potluck dinner at 7:30 p.m. and the dance will begin at 8:30 p.m.

Michigan State Police vehicles traveled 1,711,241 miles during December, of which 1,036,876 were on traffic patrol and 674,365 were to investigate criminal and other complaints.

After that the top button sellers will be competing for the position of queen and for places on the queen's court.

Three out-of-town judges will interview the girls at a dinner in April. The girl named queen and the members of her court will be notified and will appear during Michigan Week at festivities where the queen will be crowned and the members of her court announced.

FOLLOWING that the queen's ball is being planned so the Chamber can officially present Miss St. Johns, 1966 to the public. Details on this will be announced later after plans are completed.

The contest will again be open to girls 16 years of age and older who are attending St. Johns High School.

The contest, held last year for the first time, will be an annual event for the St. Johns Chamber of Commerce. The girl selected queen will represent the Chamber at public functions throughout the year.

THE CHAMBER of Commerce has advised that within a few days entry blanks will be available along with a complete set of rules and the list of the many prizes to be presented to this year's queen.

"In the meantime, any girl who wishes to participate can call or stop by at the Chamber of Commerce office and leave her name. We will make certain we get an entry blank to her as soon as they are printed," Mrs. Betty Minsky, manager, said.

Two representatives of the St. Johns Chamber of Commerce, Manager Betty Jane Minsky and Steve Hopko, publisher of the Clinton County News, will join a group of Lansing Chamber of Commerce members for a tour to Toledo today (Thursday). There they will participate in the US Chamber's Aircade For Citizenship Action.

The Aircade is a fast moving question and answer program relating to congressional action.

DeWitt ups hot lunch prices

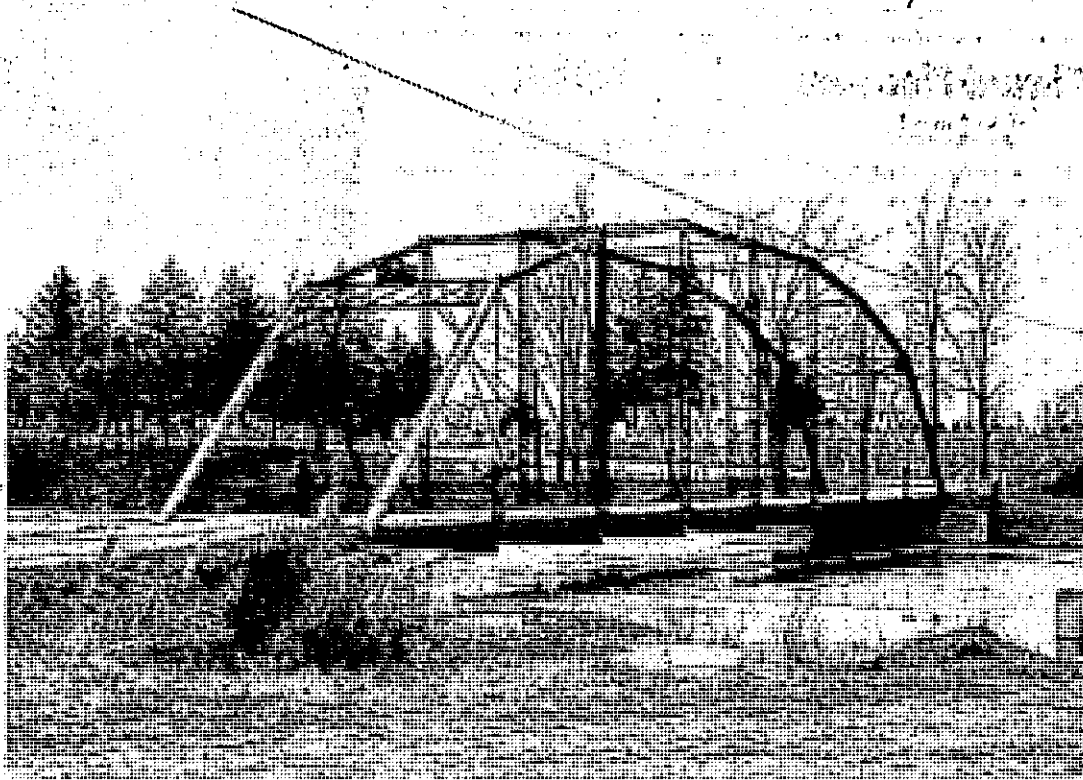

DEWITT — The rising cost of living, a 50 per cent cut in the government subsidy and the hiring of additional kitchen help have been singled out by the DeWitt Public Schools Board of Education for the decision to raise hot lunch prices at DeWitt.

Starting Monday, the cost of hot lunches will go up from 30 to 35 cents a day for elementary pupils and from 35 to 40 cents a day for secondary students.

Island Road Bridge's Days Are Numbered

Road commission sues for bridge right-of-way

The Clinton County Road Commission has started condemnation proceedings to obtain about three acres of land for right-of-way for the new Island Road bridge approach on the Maple River west of Elsie.

The commission reported Tuesday they were too far apart on the price offered and the price asked for the three acres belonging to Robert Bloomer. The commission has purchased 12/100 of an acre from Verne Tweedy and 16/100 acre from Anne Pray for right-of-way for the new route.

THE NEW BRIDGE will be built south and west of the present old steel truss span. Island Road will be relocated in a straight line from Elsie west across the present pond; it presently swings north across the river and skirts the pond on the north and west sides.

Fry Construction Co. of Lansing was awarded the contract for Shop in Clinton County.

The bridge is scheduled to be open to traffic by Sept. 1, with final completion by Oct. 1. The need for condemnation proceedings for the right-of-way is not expected to hold up the work in any appreciable sense.

A HEARING on the condemnation suit is scheduled for March 10.

The old Island Road bridge crossing the Maple River just above the dam will be closed to traffic when the new span is completed. North Upton Road traffic from Elsie will use the new route across the Maple River pond and then swing back north and east along the present route.

Derby executive committee named

Appointments to the executive committee for the 1966 Clinton County Soap Box Derby in St. Johns were announced this week.

William McCarthy has been named derby director, with Bernard Feldpausch as dealer ship director. Race committee chairman is Jack Downing, with Robert Cole and Elmer Upton as assistants; Roger Feeman is inspection committee chairman; Elden Sample is clinic committee chairman; Don East and Leon Brewbaker share the parade committee co-chairmanship; Steve Bakita is promotion committee chairman; and Lowell Rinker is publicity committee chairman.

A secretary-treasurer will be appointed at a later date.

THIS YEAR'S Soap Box Derby will be held June 5, with June 12 as an alternate date in case of rain. The Soap Box Derby is open to all school boys aged 11 through 15 years as of Aug. 1, 1966. To enter a boy must register in the company of a parent or guardian at Bee's Chevrolet in St. Johns.

The winner of the St. Johns derby will receive a $500 savings bond, a handsome championship trophy and an expenses-paid trip to Akron, Ohio, to compete in the All-American championships.

THE LOCAL derby is totally a community supported project, and only some prizes and advertising are sponsored by the Chevrolet Division of General Motors.

The St. Johns Jaycees are at present the only committed organization for the support of the '66 derby. The total cost of sponsoring the derby, plus the parade and all other activities, is in the neighborhood of $2,300.

DAR wants redwoods saved

Mrs. Robert Rand was the hostess for the River Wabwaysin Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution Thursday, Feb. 10.

Mrs. Harold F. Millman, regent, conducted the business meeting.

Miss Maralyse Brooks gave a paper to observe Conservation month. Since redwood grows only in America it has become America's privilege to protect these for her people and the world. There is a renewed effort to save the giant California redwoods which are rapidly disappearing.

IN 1949 THE DAR contributed over $26,000 for the preservation of the National Tribute Grove in Jeddiah Smith Redwoods State Park. The grove was dedicated to the men and women who lost their lives in WW II.

Last August land transactions were begun to build a four-lane expressway which if built would bisect the grove. In spite of Gov. Brown's declaration that no redwood would be cut while he was in office, freeway construction is expected to begin this month.

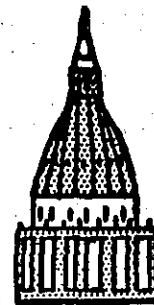

Mrs. Harold Millman gave a book report on the Charles Dickens trends in America in 1848.

Can We Inspire Another "Edison"?

Sometime — from someone — young Thomas Edison whose birthday we celebrate this week, revived the inspiration and encouragement which led to the invention of the first successful light bulb — and the magic of electricity spring forth to change the world.

Like Tom Edison, modern youth has an inquiring mind. It is the responsibility of persons "in the know" to enlighten and inspire these youngsters.

Consumer Power, through sponsorship of conferences like the recent Youth Conference on the Atom, helps create a stimulating atmosphere for Michigan youth looking for answers. Sponsorship in other programs like the Junior Engineer Technical Society and scholarships to advanced educational institutions, also encourages science-minded boys and girls. Junior Achievement and 4-H support help still other youths gain insight into the business and professional world.

Youth deserves answers and encouragement and we at Consumer Power strive to supply some of the answers... some of the inspiration.

A mother's dream given by Mission Circle

The Ladies Mission Circle meeting of the First Baptist Church was held Feb. 15 in the church basement with 45 present. A group of women from Ithaca were guests for the evening.

Vice president Josephine Penix opened the meeting with the hymn "Count Your Blessings," scripture and prayer. She informed the group of the fire which destroyed the Alcaraz home that day and reminded the women to give thanks daily for their many blessings. The children of the Alcaraz family attend the Sunday School.

The White Cross report was given by Mrs. Harold Phillips and Mrs. Fred Crowell gave a report on the Lansing Rescue Mission.

A SKIT, "A Mother's Dream" followed in which a Mother, played by Mrs. Nelson Showers, played at plans made by her daughter, (Mrs. Richard Woodhams) to enter the mission field. However, as she dozed comfortably in her chair, she was approached by women representing several foreign countries who in sometimes pleading and sometimes accusing tones expressed their need for messengers of the gospel in their countries.

Finally, as the Mother awakened from the dream, she felt convicted of her selfish attitude and not only added her support to her daughters plan but also re-dedicated her own life. Mrs. William Smith, Mrs. Kenneth Snider, Mrs. Frank Winters and Mrs. Willard Goldman portrayed women from Africa, South America, India and China in vivid and authentic costumes.

Mrs. James Bates gave the Missionary Report. The missionaries selected for the month were the Rlys, the Kings, and the Deyksterhouses. The ladies then divided into smaller groups for prayer.

Refreshments were served from a brightly colored table by hostesses, Mrs. Carl Burk, Mrs. Jerry Livingston and Mrs. Vern Wood.

Announcements

The Elizabeth Circle of the First Methodist Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Raymond Hull of 700 S. Mead Street Tuesday, Feb. 22, at 1:30 p.m. Mrs. Lester Sworthwood will serve as co-hostess.

Lines, frayed tempers await late plate buyers

If you enjoy a good tugging match, frayed tempers, long waits possibly in near-zero weather, then wait until the last day or two before buying your 1966 Michigan license plates.

But if you're not too enthused about any of the above, Secretary of State James M. Hare urges you to get into your nearest branch office for plates in the next couple of days or so.

"I don't like telling people they will encounter long waits, possibly outside in bitter winter weather, but unfortunately that's what is in store for a half-million Michigan car owners unless they buy plates right away," said Hare.

THE WEEK of Feb. 20 is the last full sales week, with Monday, Feb. 28, the final day. All vehicles must have 1966 license plates by March 1.

Hare said the reason he is pessimistic about the last few days of the sale is because of collections for the Motor Vehicle Accident Claims fund being conducted in conjunction with plate sales.

"These collections have been slowing our normal transaction time, and it's taking up to two and three times longer to handle each plate customer," Hare said.

He announced some additional hour schedules for the two Saturdays prior to the deadline, Feb. 19 and 26, and for the Monday, Feb. 20, for civil service branches.

ON FEB. 19 and 26, outstate civil service branches in Grand Rapids, Saginaw, Flint, Lansing, St. Joseph, Kalamazoo, Jackson, and Battle Creek will be open from 8:15 in the morning to 5 p.m.

On Feb. 28, all civil service branches will open from 8:15 a.m. to 9 p.m. or until everyone in line has been taken care of.

Hare specified that this schedule included only the civil service branches and did not involve hours for the more than 200 fee branch offices located throughout the state.

Fowler defeats Pottersville

FOWLER—The Fowler Eagles clamped a tight defense on Pottersville and rolled to an easy 88-31 victory Friday night in a Central Michigan D Conference game.

After leading 33-15 at the half, Fowler put on the clamps again, limiting Pottersville to 6 points in the third period while they scored 15. Fowler had a 20-10 scoring margin in the last period.

Luke Koenigsnecht was a high scorer for Coach Charles Trimmer's Eagles. He had 19 points. J. Koenigsnecht had 3, Feldpausch 4, Bruce Thelen 8, Lester Thelen 2, Robert Pohl 10, Mike Nobach 2, Brendon George 2, George Spicer 8, James Simon 6 and Schueller 4.

Rick VanFossen led Pottersville with 18 points.

With the league race still deadlocked, the big game of the season will be this Friday when Fowler plays St. Patrick's at Portland.

Fowler ekes out win at DeWitt

DeWITT—The DeWitt Panthers, carrying a slowly 2-11 season record into the game, gave Class D Powerhouse Fowler a big scare last Tuesday night, Feb. 8, before losing in three overtimes.

The Eagles eked out a 78-74 victory when it was all over, shakingly improving their record as of that date to 12-1 for the year.

DeWitt's Dale Foster dropped in a pair of free throws in the closing seconds of regulation play to tie the score at 64-64. Fowler's Luke Koenigsnecht and Bruce DeWITT—The DeWitt Panthers shot 48 per cent from the floor and took advantage of a big second quarter to defeat Pewamo-Westphalia 77-71 Friday night.

P-W led the Panthers 12-11 after the first quarter, but DeWitt exploded in the second quarter, outscoring the Pirates 25-10 and taking a commanding 36-22 lead. Pewamo - Westphalia chipped away at the lead throughout the second half but weren't able to rally enough.

DAVE PARKER led the way for the winners with 29 points, while Mike Fuller had 4, Dale Foster 13, Rick Keck 15, Jan Hanson 10, Jim Schavey 4 and Jim Decatur 2.

Ken Miller led P-W's scoring with 19 points, while Glenn Smith had 18, Bruce Thelen 2, Ervin Thelen 8, Bill Barker 11 and Gary Bissell 2.

Laingsburg	1-11	4-10

The league standings changed little, with the only change being by DeWitt, which moved out of a tie for fifth to hold that spot all alone. The Portland-Perry showdown Feb. 25 will apparently still be the decider.

Thelen put the finishing touches on the game with 25 seconds left in the third overtime. Koenigsnecht scored on a layup and Thelen dumped in two free throws.

DeWITT, TRYING to break a seven-game losing streak, pounced into a 19-15 first-quarter lead, but Fowler caught up and the two teams left the court at halftime deadlocked at 31-31. Fowler took a one-point lead into the final period, but then Foster tied the game at 64-64 as regulation play stopped. Both teams scored 4 points in each of the first two overtimes.

Koenigsnecht was the game's high scorer with 27 points, while Thelen had 18 for Fowler, Robert Pohl 8, Mike Nobach 6, George Spicer 11, James Simon 6 and Schueller 2.

Others scoring for the Bears were Follett 10, Burk 11, Lytle 2 and Keck 14.

Wings survive bad quarter; title race tight

St. Johns survived a poor first quarter against Charlotte Friday night and barely managed to recover in time, edging the Orioles 58-54 to remain in contention for the West Central Conference crown.

Charlotte scored 11 baskets in the first quarter, including five by Lance Rochester, to take a 26-13 lead. St. Johns hit only four baskets and found themselves behind the proverbial eight-ball early.

STILL shooting at a 33 per cent clip, the Redwings got back seven points of their 13-point deficit in the second quarter as Dennis Springer scored 10 points, six of them on free throws. St. Johns outscored Charlotte 18-11 but still trailed at the half 37-31.

The Wings managed a 13-11 third quarter scoring edge and set the stage for their fourth quarter rally. It was Springer again who set the pace, getting four baskets as the Wings hit six of 14 shots from the field and outscored Charlotte 14-6.

The Redwings had a shooting percentage of 36, hitting on 22 of 61 shots during the evening. They were cold from the free throw line, scoring only 14 of 27 tries, but it was at the free throw line the Wings won the game. They had 14 free throws to only six for Charlotte, while the Orioles outscored St. Johns from the field, 24 baskets to 22.

SPRINGER WAS St. Johns' high scorer, getting 22 points on eight field goals and six free throws. Gary Boyce had 14 points on four goals and six free throws. Others scoring for St. Johns were Jim Leonard and Bob Ortwine 7 points each, Bill DeGroot 4, and Gene Rademacher and John Wilson 2 points each.

Rochester was high for Charlotte with 10 points, while Tom

Wright had 12 and John Whitley 10.

Besides leading the scoring, Springer led the team in rebounding with 11, while DeGroot had 8, Ortwine and Wilson 7 each and Leonard and Rademacher 6 each.

Charlotte had a field goal shooting percentage of 37, making 24 of 65 shots.

The league race tightened up after Greenville dumped Hastings Friday night. St. Johns is now just one game out of tie for first. Greenville vacated the cellar and moved up into a tie for sixth place. The Wings have two more games, the last against a tough Ionia team which beat St. Johns here; Hastings has comparatively easy games at Charlotte and Grand Ledge.

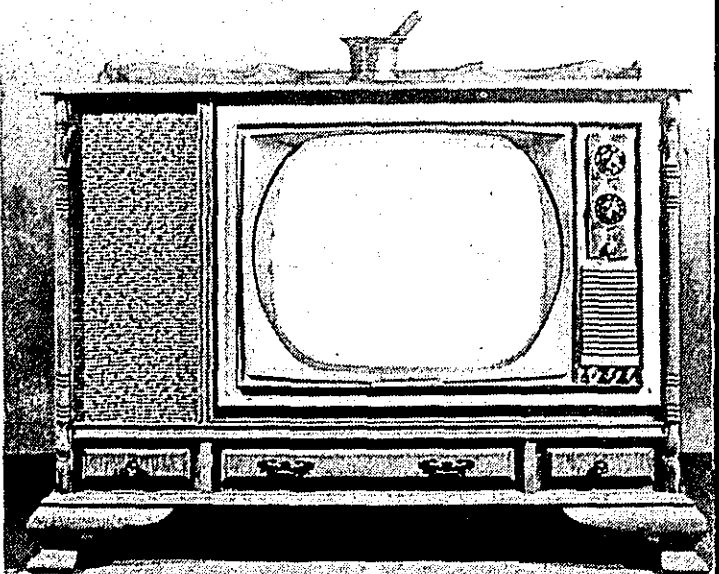

Portland wins slow-down game

OVID—The Ovid Romans played a slowed-down, deliberate style of basketball Friday night, but didn't manage to limit league-leading Portland to fewer points than the Romans themselves scored.

Portland won the game 47-40 for their 13th consecutive win this season.

Dennis Love scored 15 points to lead Ovid, while Doug Behrens had 4, Dean Simpson 9, Bob Garcia 8 and Dan Tubbs 4. John Nowak led Portland with 18 points.

Every wins state Golden Gloves title

St. Johns High School senior Bob Every survived the toughest of the state's lightweight boxers and captured that novice division's boxing championship Saturday night.

Every won a decision over Joe Curry of Saginaw Saturday in the Golden Gloves state finals in Grand Rapids. It was his first time in state competition after four years of Golden Gloves competition.

BOB EVERY

Every had no trouble with Grand Rapids' Rick McCarty in the semi-final bout or with Curry in the finals. Some ringside observers said Every displayed one of the best left jabs in the tournament.

HE WAS PART of the Lansing boxing team which won the state trophy, seven individual championships and six runner-up spots.

Every got into the state tournament by beating a fellow St. Johns Golden Glover, Terry Dean of St. Johns, in the district finals in Lansing last Wednesday night.

Five other St. Johns boxers bowed out in the Lansing finals. In the open class, defending middleweight champion Pat Pohl of St. Johns lost a decision to Dave Thack of Battle Creek, who went on to win the state title in that weight class.

IN THE NOVICE division, Roger Durbin of St. Johns lost on a TKO at 1:25 of the third round. Cleo Franco of Caravan won that bout and went on to win the state flyweight title. Carlos Vallin of St. Johns lost a featherweight decision at Lansing to Wayne Woods of the Service Opportunity Center, and Woods won the state title.

In the sub-novice division, Chuck Muckle of St. Johns lost a featherweight decision to Dave Carrigan of Nashville in the Lansing finals, and Jerry King of Diamond decided on Ken Harris of St. Johns in the lightweight class.

Convenience foods save homemaker

By HELEN B. MEACH
Extension Home Economist

"Mix and Bake" and "Heat and Eat" have replaced a lot of peeling, slicing, squeezing, boiling, baking and frying done by Mrs. Homemaker.

Out of the kitchen and into the process, a new plant has been the route of food preparation since the early 1900's. We talk much about the convenience foods of today but we do have some old timers. Bakery bread, ground beef, frankfurters, canned goods are a few prepared foods that have been around for almost 100 years.

Some new comers that have arrived since the 1930's are the washed and packaged vegetables, ready-to-cook poultry, frozen fruits and vegetables, cake and pudding mixes, the partly prepared and completely prepared meals.

CONVENIENCE IS becoming an accepted part of our today's way of living. Our homes have changed from production centers to consumption centers. If you question this, look about you—how many folks have vegetable gardens these days, for just one example?

Employment outside the home, difficulty in getting household help, community responsibilities and recreational activities reduce homemakers' time available for food preparation. However, to some people, food completely prepared at home seems the most tasty, colorful and nutritious.

Now how about cost comparison? When you consider just the money spent for products or ingredients, some canned and frozen fruits and vegetables (for example) cost less than purchased fresh ones. This fact is due primarily to savings in commercial storage and transportation costs—less weight, bulk and waste to ship.

PREPARED, ready-to-serve items (such as baked products) and specialty dishes (lobster newberg) usually cost more than the same food prepared at home. But this cost may be figured by you to replace unavailable time, energy or skill.

Remember price and cost are not the same! The best measure of cost is cost per serving. To figure this, divide price of the retail article by the number of servings it will make.

Convenience foods can eliminate some routine tasks, shorten cooking and cleaning up time. They may reduce storage needs in your home.

Many processed foods are available year 'round making menus more interesting for families. Foreign foods or specialty foods are made available for families now by the new processing methods.

TO LEARN MORE about new food developments, is the aim of the County Extension Home Economics Study groups. Twenty-five project leaders have received special training from Consumer Marketing Information Specialist, Eileen Bell.

You may be buying some of these "new" foods without knowing it; freeze-dried, foam mat dried, explosive puffed, dehydro frozen—the process is not al-

Wives view coaching profession in St. Johns

Coaching is not an 8 to 5 job, it requires many extra hours taken up with practices, games and clinics. The extra hours are compensated for, it was pointed out by their wives, by the enjoyment and satisfaction their husbands receive from working with their teams.

MRS SMILEY

THE WIFE of the head football coach, Mrs. William "Bill" Smiley, hasn't missed a football game in her husband's coaching career.

Before coming to St. Johns five years ago, Smiley coached at St. Charles near Saginaw. He played part of a year for a pro football team in Canada. The Canadian team was a training camp for the Detroit Lions.

In addition to his coaching duties, Smiley teaches biology and physical science.

The Smileys have three children identified on the label. They are all new for you Mrs. Homemaker. Your purchasing of one product and not another is the way to tell producers and processors what you want.

dren Kathryn, 11 1/2, Tom, 10 and Tim, 6.

Mrs. Smiley, the former Mary Alice Dawson of Bay City, has taught at the French School for three years. This year she has 32 students ranging from kindergarten to eighth grade.

Smiley is a 1956 graduate of Michigan State University and Mrs. Smiley hopes to obtain her B.A. by next January.

"The most important thing about sports is that every child no matter what his background is has the opportunity to excel," she said.

"The greatest disadvantage of coaching for us is the children have little time to spend with their father," she said.

MRS FEEMAN

MRS ROGER Feeman, of 207 S. Prospect Street, wife of wrestling coach at Rodney E. Wilson, says her husband's job is time-consuming but he enjoys it and likes to work with the students.

Feeman, a 1959 graduate of Central Michigan University, has been in St. Johns since graduation. Feeman and the former Peg Stearns were married the same year. They have two children Julie, 5 and Cathy, 2 1/2.

Mrs. Feeman is working towards a B.A. in elementary education. She attends classes two nights a week.

"We try to be active in the community because this is where our children will grow up," she said.

She said she enjoys wrestling and football as spectator sports and skiing and swimming as a participant.

MRS ROSENGREN

THE FRANK Rosengrens of 205 E. Baldwin Street were married in 1958. He is the assistant football and track coach and the freshman basketball coach. Rosengren has been in the St. Johns school system for the past four years coming from Saginaw St. Andrews.

He is a 1959 graduate of Central Michigan University.

Mrs. Rosengren, a 1958 graduate of Alma College, is the former Joanne Sturner of Royal Oak. They have three children Brek, 6 1/2, Paige, 4 and Judsen, 2.

Mrs. Rosengren said the advantage of being the wife of a coach is "knowing that Frank is happy in his work and it is worthwhile."

Shortage

The shortage of competent anesthesiologists is creating a serious bottleneck in modern surgery, reports Dr. E. M. Pappe, professor of anesthesiology at Columbia University. The shortage is compounded by complex operations that often require as many as three anesthesiologists, confining them to one operation for a period in which, normally, they could work with several patients.

How to 'bug' the cold bug

Common cold viruses are so pushy that even people who shun society often find themselves playing "host" to one of the barbarous little bugs.

What to do, then, if you find you're a victim? Your first thought may well be how to keep from passing the ailment on to those nearest and/or dearest to you. Your second thought (or maybe it's a photo finish) will be your own woe condition and how to keep from getting worse.

FORTUNATELY, there's a double action treatment that works on both fronts. It's safe, simple, and pleasant—nothing to buy. The treatment: take it easy. Avoid undue exertion. Keep to yourself as much as possible. That way you'll rob friend virus of any advantage he might have derived from tension or fatigue on your part; and your chance of infecting anybody else will be minimized.

Colds are highly contagious in the beginning stage. That's why rest and isolation, as far as possible, are important when symptoms first strike.

Of course there are other things you can do—things that can help by making you feel less miserable, though actually no specific cure is known for the common cold. Keep warm. Drink plenty of liquids. Forget the old wives' tale about "feeding your cold," overeating never helped anybody but the druggist. If you use any nasal sprays, be sure they've been recommended by your doctor.

SPEAKING OF your doctor—better call him if your cold doesn't improve within a few days. A cough or cold that doesn't clear up can be symptomatic of a serious respiratory disease. The Christmas Seal Assn. has an informative leaflet, "Facts About the Common Cold," published by the National Tuberculosis Assn.

Floyd Robinsons return from West

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Robinson have returned after spending several weeks in California, Arizona and Colorado. They accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Renne of Lansing to the Rose Bowl game and stayed on for a visit with their son, Don and his family of New Port Beach, Calif.

While there they also visited with the Glenn Tappers of Orosi, Calif., formerly of St. Johns.

On their return trip the Robinsons spent 10 days with Mr. and Mrs. Wade Olin of Mesa, Ariz. They also visited their son, Dean and his family of Denver, Colo.

TOPS club gets 4 new members

After a short business meeting, a birthday party with games and light refreshments was enjoyed by all at last week's TOPS Club meeting.

Everyone was urged to plan to attend State Recognition Day April 27 and 28 in Kalamazoo.

The club has four new members: Mrs. Paula Cords, Mrs. Chris Cords, Mrs. Sally Schultz and Mrs. Charlene Coleman. Mrs. Coleman is the queen of the week.

Michigan Beekeepers Assn. notes that bees annually contribute $100 million to the state by pollinating important crops and wild plants.

MRS SPENCER

MRS ROBERT SPENCER of 103 S. Swegles Street is the wife of the head cross-country and track coach. She is the former Shirley Risser of Ionia. The Spencers were married in 1953 and have four children, Jack, 12, Bobby, 11, Sherry, 8 and Andrew, 4.

Spencer graduated from Alma College in 1956 and has been in St. Johns for the past 10 years. In addition to his coaching duties he teaches geometry.

Mrs. Spencer says she doesn't get to many of the meets.

THE DOUGLAS Japings of 404 W. Park were married in 1962. He is a 1961 graduate of Hope College, Holland. They have two children Kimberly Lynn, 3 and Dawn Royann, 6 months.

Mrs. Japinga is the former Mary Brower of Grandville.

Japinga teaches speech and remedial reading in addition to his coaching duties in football, basketball and track.

"But he gets a great deal of enjoyment from his work and this makes up for the disadvantages," Mrs. Japinga said.

MRS SWEARS

MRS William "Bill" Swears of 605 S. Kibbee Street is the former Sandy Darling of Big Rapids. They have two children Dana, 8 and Jeff, 5 1/2.

Swears, coach of varsity basketball and tennis, has been in St. Johns ever since his graduation from Ferris State College in 1958.

Mrs. Swears says she had attended every game her husband coached until recently.

"I enjoy a basketball game when it is well played," she said.

at PARR'S PHARMACY Proven cream makes wrinkles diminish or vanish in 2 weeks

With a substance new to cosmetics, named Genava, aging skin can start looking younger and younger—not older and older.

After a two-week trial on a selected group of women, a noted dermatologist reports on the ingredients in Genava.

"Disappearance of small wrinkles was accomplished in two-week period; even the very deepest wrinkles showed very great improvement."

Dr. W. P. also comments "the small superficial wrinkles responded dramatically." And he adds that the skin was "more translucent and smoother in appearance." These results are nothing short of amazing. And it took a new cosmetic compound to do it. Genava was developed by the trustworthy Nina laboratory. Designed to be used twice daily—under makeup and overnight—it is absorbed instantly by the skin. Start using Genava today. In just two weeks your wrinkles will vanish or diminish greatly. Skin becomes more translucent, smoother. You will look gloriously younger! 1.65 oz. $3.50; 4 oz. $5.00.

MYF discusses teen activities

ELsie—What can we do? Where can we go? These are some of the questions being asked by teenagers today, according to the Methodist Youth Fellowship, who met Sunday evening.

Jennifer Keys presided at the regular weekly meeting held in the MYF Chapel. Jackie Moore and Kathy Tribelner led a discussion with all the young people presenting their views about teenage activities. These questions were brought about when it was learned that the Elsie Theater will soon show its last picture.

THE THEATER, built some 20 years ago has provided entertainment, not only for children and teenagers but also adults.

The building was recently sold and will be remodeled and equipped for retail automotive supplies and warehouse.

Some teenagers have been distressed over the loss of the theater and felt that there is nothing left for them in Elsie, for entertainment.

The MYF will miss the weekend movie but they pointed out many other activities and entertainment are also available here. Mentioning various school activities, athletic programs and church fellowship and added that youth organizations would welcome more members and also leadership. There are musical groups, choir and band, school dances which are well sponsored and outdoor winter sports.

MYF's CONCLUDED that they owed a great deal to the village and their parents for these opportunities but it would be only through their own efforts that they would be fulfilled.

Members of the MYF agreed teenagers could not expect their parents and taxpayers to finance a youth center. The young people felt that it would be up to them to initiate their own project and use their own time, energies and talents.

Adult supervision would be necessary at all times to make it a success and this would involve future financial help, they realized, in addition to whatever assistance could be given by parents.

They pointed out that the new Ovid-Elsie Area High School, that is under construction, plans for the new Elsie Public Library and improvements at Elsie's two churches are all for the good of the youth as well as the entire community.

DAVID WILLIAMS gave the devotional service and Jackie Moore, a special prayer for the young people. During the business meeting, Jennifer Keys read letters from Mrs. Ed Temple (formerly Lora Mae Mort of Elsie) who recently returned with her husband and three children, from a furlough in this country to Sarawak, one of the 13 states of Malaysia, where they are missionary-teachers at the Methodist High School.

Mrs. Temple wrote about their country on the island of Borneo and their work among the Chinese and Iban people.

David Showers, president of the Central District MYF urged the young people to attend the Sunday morning church service when reports of the recent Mid-Winter Institute at Big Rapids will be heard. Sharon Dunham, Cindy Lentz, Sandra Grubaugh and Jennifer Keys will join David in the service.

SANDRA Grubaugh invited the MYF to her home Sunday afternoon, Feb. 27, from 3 to 5 p.m. (weather permitting) for a brief service followed by skating and sledding at the Maple River and refreshments. The members are welcome to bring guests.

Next Sunday's Senior MYF will meet earlier than usual, from 6 to 7 p.m. with Ken Lentz in charge of discussion and Kathy Tribelner, the worship service. The Quarterly Conference of both the Elsie and Duplain Churches will be held at 7:30 p.m. Jennifer Keys, as president of the MYF, will report on the activities of the young people.

The MYF Circle Benediction closed the meeting.

Institute reports by MYF members

Youth predominated the Sunday morning Methodist Church service as Cindy Lentz, Sandra Grubaugh, Jennifer Keys, Sharon Dunham and David Showers, members of the Elsie MYF, each reported on the Mid-Winter Institute they recently attended in Big Rapids.

gram and activities while at the Institute replaced the morning sermon by Rev. Gordon Showers.

The Junior Choir under the direction of Jennifer Keys with Sharon Dunham at the piano sang the responses and special anthem "Worship the Lord."

KEVIN HOWARD, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kent Shinnaberry, was baptized by Rev. Showers during the service.

Robert Bloomer concluded with remarks concerning the future plans of the church in remodeling or building and quoted estimates on both. He represented the preliminary building committee which has been making a study during the past two months.

Other members of the committee are Dr. G. W. Bennett, Mrs. Alpha Grubaugh, Gene Stauffer, Clifford Dunham and Leslie Sturges.

HOBBY CLUB MET TUESDAY The North Fairfield Hobby Club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Harold Hehrer. Eight members spent the afternoon making candy. Mrs. George Winkler brought the mystery package and it was won by Mrs. Lyle Dunham. Two members received birthday gifts from their secret pals. The March meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Lyle Dunham.

Michigan has the world's busiest waterway, the Detroit River. Enough fresh water for every manufacturing plant in every city in America flows by Detroit each afternoon.

160 saw cancer films Thursday

ELsie—Nearly 160 women saw the educational films "Breast Self-examination" and "Time and Two Women" at a special meeting in Knight Elementary School, Thursday evening.

The program was furnished by the Clinton County Chapter of the American Cancer Society and sponsored by Green School Extension group. Serving as hostesses were Mrs. Raymond Thornton, Mrs. George Ellis, Mrs. Garth Brewbaker, Mrs. Kenneth Munson and Mrs. A. D. Pearl.

All who attended were urged to watch for any of the seven danger signals of cancer. If any signal lasted over two weeks they were advised to see their doctor at once.

It was stated that 49 million Americans now living will develop cancer if present rates continue but one out of every two could be saved, according to the American Cancer Society, without any new knowledge.

THESE FILMS are available through some funds given as memorials, according to Mrs. Albert Fruchtl, chairman of the Clinton County Chapter.

They may be shown by any organization in the county. Mrs. Luelia Canfield, county health nurse, will assist in the scheduling.

This meeting was in preparation for the Cytology Clinic to be held in Clinton County from Feb. 15 through the month of April. Last year, when Gratiot County held a similar clinic two women were saved by discovering lumps and undergoing surgery.

Dr. G. W. Bennett was present to answer questions after the movies and instruction material on cancer detection and treatment was distributed.

Mrs. Raymond Thornton, Duplain township and Mrs. Henry Allen, Elsie chairmen of the Cancer Crusade, sent letters to most area women prior to the meeting.

Wednesday morning at 10 a.m. the Cancer Crusade workers will receive their campaign materials and instructions at the St. Johns Congregational Church. Donuts and coffee will be served.

There will be a progress report on the new Elsie Public Library at the next meeting of the Friends of the Library and those interested in the project Feb. 22 at the Elsie High School. At the meeting, Dr. G. W. Bennett will present information on the "brick sale" soon to be launched.

Mrs. Robert Justice underwent surgery at the Clinton Memorial Hospital last week.

New foods discussed by W. Elsie group

The West Elsie Economics Study group met at the home of their chairman, Mrs. Charles Fizzell for their February meeting last Thursday.

Mrs. Wayne Peck and Mrs. Howard Whitaker discussed "New Foods and Packaging." The topic matter was classified under headings of canning, dehydration, freeze-dried, space foods, new food forms, food packages of tomorrow.

The preparation of food for outer space might influence our "on the ground commodities." Another interesting fact was the percentage of cost of the so-called time saving and convenient forms of packaging, even to future eatable packaging materials.

Mrs. Burton Tabor will be hostess for the March meeting. "Wills and Distribution of Property" will be discussed at that time.

Buckele, Finch are temporarily as Scoutmasters

The Elsie Boy Scouts recently lost their young scoutmaster, Keith Thornton, who is now attending Lansing Community College.

Robert Buckele and Ira Finch of the local Scout Council have taken over the duties temporarily the last few meetings and would appreciate help from others who are interested in working with young boys.

Race relations Sunday to be held in Elsie

ELsie—Race Relations Sunday will be observed at the Elsie Methodist Church next Sunday morning when Riley Dennett, a teacher in the Saginaw Junior High, with an MS degree in music from the University of Michigan and also a member of the AME Church will speak.

He will be assisted by a choir of 14 voices also from the AME Church in Saginaw.

A special offering will be taken for Christian higher education for Negroes.

The Methodist-related colleges historically operated for Negroes have been in a key position to make an important contribution to the lives of Negro youth. Their graduates have become important leaders in church, community, nation and the world.

AMONG SOME of these colleges and student centers, which get support from the annual Race Relations Sunday offering in Methodist Churches are Bennett College, Greensboro, N.C.; Bethune-Cookman College, Daytona Beach, Fla.; Clark College, Atlanta, Ga.; Dillard University, New Orleans, La.; Huston-Tillotson College, Austin, Tex.; Paine College, Augusta, Ga.; and Morgan Christian Center, Baltimore, Md.

Following the morning services, the congregations of both the Elsie and Duplain Churches will join for a cooperative dinner at Fellowship Hall in Elsie.

Everyone is asked to bring table service and extra food for the special guests. Beverage, rolls and butter will be furnished.

have featured the recent meetings.

Buckele urges other young boys to join the Boy Scouts at the American Legion Hall for their regular meetings each Tuesday night from 7 to 8 p.m.

Saturday, the group enjoyed an afternoon of bowling at the Tri Aml Alley in Ovid. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Buckele.

Dick Bell of the Cooperative Extension Service, LeRoy Hansen of the St. Johns Jaycees, and John Schwark, the Jaycees' "Outstanding Young Farmer" award winner, chat following last Tuesday evening's award dinner. Bell was the speaker at the dinner; Hansen was in charge of the OYF selection.

Has bright outlook at farm business

A bright outlook at the declining farm business would probably best describe Dick Bell's report to St. Johns Jaycees last Tuesday evening on the results of Project 80.

Bell, assistant extension director for the MSU Cooperative Extension Service, was the featured speaker at the Jaycees' Outstanding Young Farmer award dinner. About 30 persons attended.

BELL WARNED the Project 80 statistics were only projections of what agriculture might be like in 1980 if present trends continue. If they do, the cost-price squeeze will continue, production will increase and be encouraged by the federal government, and the number of farms will decrease considerably.

Commenting on the agriculture structure in 1980, Bell projected a "fairly bright" future as far as income is concerned, but there are adjustments that will have to be made. In the last 15 years, he noted, agriculture gross income has increased 40 per cent; prices haven't increased, so that means production is up. Costs, in the meantime, have risen 60 per cent.

BY 1980, HE SAID, the Project 80 forecasters saw a state average production of 13,000 pounds of milk per cow. Egg production will be up. Wheat yields will go up from 39 bushels per acre average in 1964 to 52 bushels per acre average in 1980.

Corn yields will have an average of 90 bushels per acre, compared to 62 bushels in 1964. The number of farms in the state will decrease from 112,000 in 1964 to only 65,000 in 1980, but the family farm will still dominate.

Whereas 88 per cent of today's farms are specialized farms, all of them will be by 1980. There will be only 9,000 dairy farms then, compared to 22,500 in 1959. There should be only 300 poultry farms by 1980, but big ones with a 50,000 flock average; there were 2,000 poultry farms in 1959.

LIVESTOCK FARMS will increase. Cash-grain farms will drop from 12,500 in number now to around 10,000. Fruit farms will decrease from about 3,800 to 3,300.

The average farm in 1980 will be about 190 acres in size, Bell said, compared to a 132-acre average between 1959 and 1963. Average farm investment will shoot up from $34,000 during that period to $85,000 in 1980. Cash marketings will go up 144 per cent, but production expense will rise about 158 per cent. On strictly commercial farms, investment will go from $50,000 average now to $130,000 by 1980.

Realized farm income on those farms will be 85 per cent higher in 1980 than in 1959-63.

BELL CAUTIONED his audience again the figures were merely projections, all based on the assumptions there would be no "major war," inflation would continue at 1 1/2 per cent per year, the weather would be average, and the population would increase 30 per cent.

Concerning the population, Bell quoted a Wisconsin economist as predicting the State Department would assume more control of food production and the Agriculture Department less in the face of a world food problem. In the future the government will be urging more food production instead of less.

POPULATION by the year 2000 will be about 6 billion (world population), and at the present rate the population is growing faster than the food production.

Consumption demands will change by 1980, Bell projected. Pork consumption will be down, and chicken and beef consumption will be up.

Despite the problems of cost-price, "The opportunity for young fellows to make money in farming is bright," Bell said.

LeRoy Hansen, chairman of Farms, acreages down, production rises

While the number of Michigan farms has decreased by more than half since the 1933 high of 200,000 units, farm production has made spectacular gains in the same period, according to the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Latest figures show 98,000 farms operating in 1966 with 13,800,000 acres. This is an acreage decline of one-fourth along with the halving of farm numbers. Average farm size is up about half — from 92 acres the Jaycees' Outstanding Young Farmer program, presented the plaque award to Ovid farmer John Schwark of East Colony Road. Guests at the meeting included members of the OYF selection committee and other candidates for the award.

in 1933 to 141 acres today, the Michigan Crop Reporting Service figures show.

"SPECTACULAR gains in production have been accomplished in the face of declining numbers in farm acreage and farms, due to advances in scientific agriculture," said Director B. Dale Ball of the Michigan Department of Agriculture in issuing the report.

"Grain, corn production has nearly tripled during the 32-year reporting period, up from 35 million bushels to 99 million bushels. Potato production per acre quadrupled. Oat production, about the same in 1965 as in 1933, required less than half the acreage, said the agricultural official.

"WINTER WHEAT production per acre has doubled, with 28 million bushels produced in 1965 on less acreage than needed for the 14 million bushels grown in 1933," Director Ball said.

Production improvements were attributed to better seed sources and livestock breeds, improved fertilization and soil management, gains in plant and animal insect disease controls, along with better mechanical equipment for tilling, harvesting and processing the huge Michigan farm crop worth about $840 million last year to farmers.

By the year 2000 some 240,000 persons will be seeking job opportunities in the tri-county region of Clinton, Ingham and Eaton counties — more than twice the number in the present work force.

Farmers on the urban fringe will have problems

Without restraints, the first movement of the city to the country will be to exploit road frontage. This results in ribbon development — residences and commercial concerns are lined one-lot deep along the improved roads and begin to throttle highway traffic.

The farmer who wants to continue to farm on the urban fringe will discover most of the new residents are former city dwellers who moved to the country. This is in contrast to the rural communities that were populated by retired farmers or people who had some kinship to farming.

MANY OF THESE new residents will have no acquaintance with modern farming and if they are so inclined, they can create an urban-rural conflict. They can complain about flies, odors, tractor noise, slow moving farm vehicles on the roads, dust and debris. If they really want to concern themselves with agricultural problems, they can even generate concern about spray and dust programs.

When the areas contiguous to residential lots are farms, the farmer can be confident he will have cause for complaint because the children will spill over onto his cropland.

A PARCEL MAY be set between lots and cropland, known as a buffer strip, that could be used for the children's recreational area, owned by the lot-owners in common. This buffer should be developed at the time of original plotting of the new subdivision.

Agricultural zoning has become a serious topic for discussion among land-owners in the Lansing area.

The Price of Security

What is the difference between 3.625 per cent and 4.2 per cent? And between $4,800 and $6,600? This is not just an abstract little mathematical quiz. It was felt—in the pocketbook—on Jan. 1 by everyone who is subject to the social security tax. And it will be felt on every payday from now on.

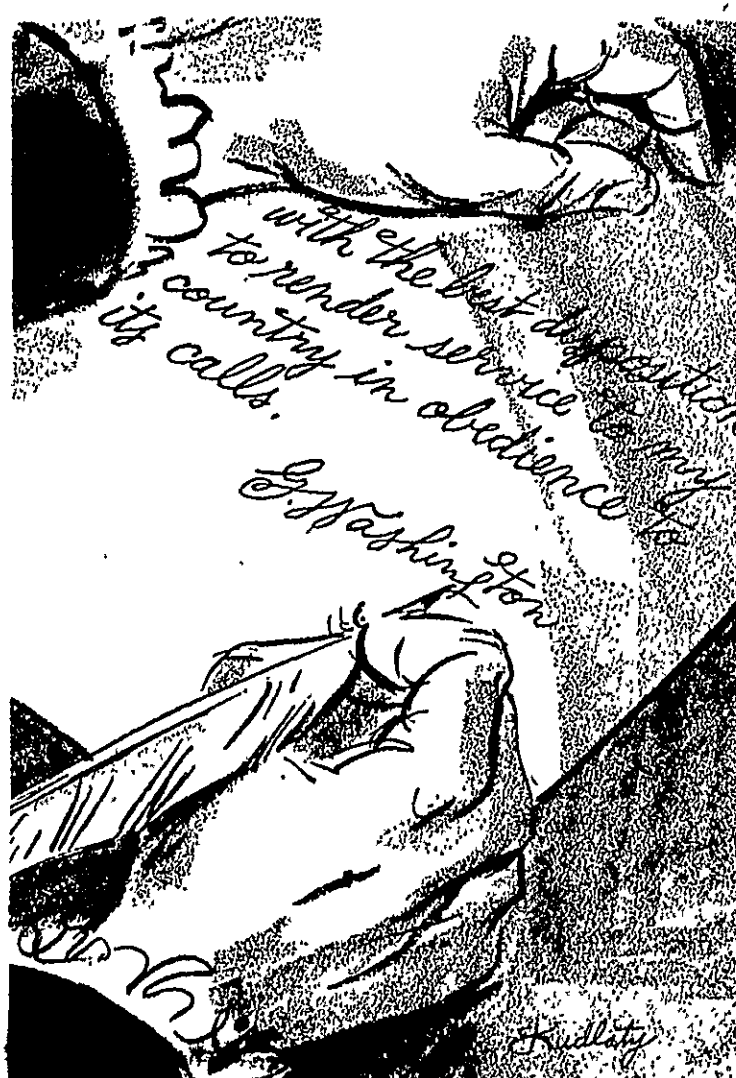

The story is this: For 1966, the social security tax rate has been raised from its former 3.625 per cent of taxable income to 4.2 per cent. Additionally, the taxable income figure has been increased from $4,800 to $6,600. The employer pays the same amount as the employee. And the rates are due for more increases in the future.

SOME OF THE increase will go for increased payments to social security recipients. Some will go to finance, or help finance, the new medicare program, whose ultimate cost is now a matter of conjecture. In any event, these tax boosts will largely or wholly offset the tax cut that have been made in late years.

So — what the government gives with one hand, it takes with the other. Finally, in the long run the price of government-provided security is freedom.

Experience means learning the exceptions.

RAMBLIN' with Rink

By LOWELL G. RINKER

This letter from a rural reader northeast of St. Johns arrived last Thursday:

After "Ramblin' with Rink" through his column in the Feb. 3 issue of the Clinton County News, my sympathy and admiration is extended to him on his brave approach to our recent sub-zero temperatures.

His column expresses the efforts of Michigan residents in accomplishing the trying chore of both keeping warm and looking happy.

DURING A RECENT house fire in this rural area, with a -5 degree temperature backed by a 25-mile-an-hour wind, Rink arrived on the scene complete with camera equipment, to get a picture story of the fire.

It would be unfair to say that the smiles which quickly appeared on the over-weight spectators outnumbered the smiles of the people with less of nature's padding, or which were true smiles, but... when this photographer appeared, HAT-LESS, I concluded that the smiles were not skin deep — not frozen pain, but rather the sympathetic, "you gotta be kidding" type of smiles.

WITH YOU LOOKING on the bright side of the weather, Rink, and the daylight hours lengthening, until you can enjoy long hours of sunlight, please wear a covering on your head in such severe weather.

We can still take in the "dancing, sparkling eyes" and you will know that the smiles you receive are broad and true, whether or not they originate from thick, bulky, cold-blooded persons or the thin, properly insulated, happy individuals who brave our Michigan winters.

THE SPRINGLIKE weather that swept into our area last week turned a lot of the talk at the local coffee houses to the subject of golf, for golfers are somewhat similar to fishermen when it comes to talking about their sport, although golfers don't seem to stretch their scores like fishermen stretch their fish. I think they do brag about their good scores more.

Speaking of golf, there are eight less men hanging around the coffee houses of Elsie this week. Last Friday eight of this fair village's residents left by car for a week of golfing at Ocean Springs, Miss.

IN THIS group of Elsieites were: Gene Schoendorf, Sid Keys, Herb Betts (now of Ithaca), Lumsford Melvin, Bernard Conklin, Jim Roope, Gus Patrick and Carl Hovey.

This crew will be returning this weekend to tell (?) all about the wonderful weather and great scores they shot.

THERE ARE rumors circulating that a few of the fellows from St. Johns will be leaving shortly for golfing in the Carolinas!

THE ST. JOHNS Lions Club has been in rehearsal for the past month for their annual Minstrel Show which will be held at the St. Johns High School auditorium on Feb. 25-26.

This year the Lions will be returning to the oldtime minstrel form for their show.

THEIR FEATURE act for the show is a banjo duet called the "Banjo Bills" who they say rate ahead of the Banjo players who were here a few years ago.

Also on the program are a variety of local acts to supplement the Lions chorus and end-men.

ALL PROFITS from their show go into the fund for Lion charities which include: Wolverine Boys' State, Leader Dogs, Welcome Home for the Blind, the purchase of glasses and white canes and other equipment for the blind and to support the Clinton County Association for Retarded Children.

I RAN ACROSS this little essay written by, I presume, a little girl I thought was worth passing along. It is entitled, "What a Grandmother Is."

"A grandmother is a lady who has no children of her own, so she likes other people's little girls. A grandfather is a man grandmother. He goes for walks with the boys and they talk about fishing and tractors and like that."

GRANDMAS don't have anything to do except be there. They're old, so they shouldn't play hard or run. It is enough if they drive us to the market where the pretend horse is and have lots of dimes ready. Or if they take us for a walk, they should slow down past things like pretty leaves or caterpillars. They should never, ever say "hurry up."

Usually they are fat, but not

Growth & change—in what direction?

Clinton County residents, and others in the tri-county region of Clinton, Ingham and Eaton counties, are frequently encountering at public meetings, club meetings and other such gatherings programs on the Tri-County Regional Planning Commission's studies.

The planning commission is seeking response from the citizens of the region as to their (the citizens') preference of several possible growth patterns that could be formulated between now and the year 2000. That is not really far off — only 35 years! — and it behooves us as citizens of this region to do some serious thinking about the possibilities.

THE PLANNING commission's report on "Growth and Change" presents some interesting questions. We quote from the TCRPC Newsletter for January:

"With a population of over 325,000 persons, the tri-county region is one of the largest metropolitan areas in Michigan. It not only offers a wide variety of residential, commercial, and industrial advantages, but it is also one of Michigan's outstanding cultural areas."

"But, like every metropolitan area, it has problems — traffic congestion, water and air pollution, inconsistent development policies, vanishing open space, lack of recreational facilities, and obsolescence. These problems are steadily becoming more serious despite the efforts of many people and agencies."

"FOR THE MOST part, this is caused by continued growth within the region coupled with a lack of basic development controls required to insure that such growth is orderly and efficient. Population in the region will more than double by the year 2000, reaching an estimated 700,000 persons. The labor force, likewise, will double, reaching 240,000 persons by 2000. Vast acreages will be required to support increased development — over 62 square miles to be consumed by residential uses alone in the next 35 years. Automobile registrations, also will increase by 40 per cent by 1980 and double by the year 2000."

"What kind of a place will the region be in years to come? Will it meet the challenge of the growth outlined above, or will it still be struggling with the problems that plague us today?"

"A great deal depends upon what we, as citizens of the region, want and how far we're willing to go to get it. It depends upon the form of the region — on the creation of a development pattern that will produce the best possible environment for ourselves and for future generations. It depends, in great measure, upon the way in which local governments within the region shape its growth."

"THREE POSSIBLE alternative forms for the region are outlined. Each is simply a graphic presentation of a set of policies intended to produce that particular form. They represent a beginning, a departure, and a foundation for discussion and eventual agreement regarding the most appropriate plan for future regional development."

"These proposals and additional information are contained in a new TCRPC publication entitled 'Growth and Change.' Sufficient copies of the report are available for review and discussion by any group, as well as individual citizens within the region."

The Tri-County office is at 535 N. Clipper Street in Lansing.

Dollar Diplomacy

BY W.E. DOBSON

I'm not so very prudish,
Though I am old-fashioned quite —
I could confess to many things
I fail to do just right;
But certain governmental trends
To me don't ring quite clear;
Where money is the master
Ethics tend to disappear!

The cancer link in cigarettes —
(Their taxes bring much wealth)
Resulted in new labels
Of "injurious to health;"
But Uncle Sam must harvest tax,
Though health costs sure are dear —
Where money is the master
Ethics tend to disappear!

That export market can be helped
So our government now spends
Some three hundred thousand dollars,
To subsidize these ends;
The health of foreign folk — who cares?
No one should interfere;
Where money is the master,
Ethics tend to disappear!

Our rate of auto accidents
Is a national disgrace,
And major part of it is said
To liquor influence trace;
Though costs in property and men
Multiply from year to year,
Drink still commands such revenue
That ethics disappear!

Soft pedal all disturbing truth,
That might arise today!
Quite disregard the health of youth —
Let revenue hold sway!
If we do land office business
Then what have we to fear?
King money still is master,
So the ethics disappear!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

I HAVE JUST returned home from having a few days' stay in Clinton Memorial Hospital. Previous to my stay in the hospital I heard a lot of comment about the hospital and a well-known doctor; also I have heard comment about the care one receives while there. I feel now I am in a position to voice my opinion. First of all let me say this well-known doctor has done more and many unknown things for people than one could write about or express. It is like our boys, who have gone and given the best of their life for our country and when they come home we forget they helped save our lives.

SECOND THING: What's wrong with our hospital? What would this community be like if we didn't have one? I have heard so much about a hospital in a nearby city that people think it is so much more efficient than our hospital. Now I am not degrading any other hospital; I feel each one serves in its own community.

Now about the care one receives from Clinton Memorial, doctors, nurses, aides, dieticians and all who work that help make our hospital run and give help for those who are ill; Hats off to you people; you did a number one service in my behalf.

A SATISFIED CITIZEN

A Look Into The Past . .

Sawmilling at the Turn of the Century

The sawmill operations of 1905 era looked something like this one on the Ed Emmon's farm in about 1905. A steam engine drove the power saw. The picture was donated by Mr and Mrs Glen Emmons of R-2, St. Johns, who now live on the same farm.

Readers are invited to submit old-time pictures for this series. But because of the large response we've had in recent weeks, the Clinton County News cannot promise immediate publication. Two or three months may pass before a picture can be worked into the schedule.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

Never enough money is state's problem, too

Never enough money to do the things desired or necessary; that is the problem of state government as well as most families in Michigan.

Despite a proposal to increase Michigan's spending by $125 million, many complaints have already been heard that some members of the state family will still be forced to live beneath their needs.

Loudest complaints to date have come from the institutions of higher education.

ONE OF THE unhappy college spokesmen is University of Michigan President Harlan Hatcher. He termed the governor's budget recommendations "very disappointing" because they "fall far short of meeting the full need."

Higher education is not alone in its demand for greater funds to complete plans for new or expanded programs, build new physical facilities, and hire additional staff.

Whether it be higher education, agriculture, civil rights, mental health, or whatever, a vicious circle develops similar to one common in a private family situation.

EXTRA INCOME encourages the family to move into a bigger, perhaps newer home. This requires some new furniture and perhaps allows the family members to broaden their activities. There may be room, for example, for a ping pong table. This may call for special lighting fixtures, and so the story goes.

The expenditures for equipment all too often get even larger than the extra income which permitted the initial change in the family's life.

Where does it end? Only common sense can keep living costs within the budget, whether it be in a five-member family or among the several units of state government.

GOV. ROMNEY proposes to dip into the fat surplus of revenues for over $68 million in the coming fiscal year spending.

A survey of each agency as it sees its forthcoming needs would, no doubt, show every penny of the current $136 million surplus could be spent and still leave someone crying for more.

SOME CRIES never seem to be resolved. The critical problems of local school districts fall in this category, and particularly the teacher shortage.

As far as memory goes back, it seems school teachers have always been in demand. This year apparently will be no exception.

Michigan State University officials report that despite a new high in enrollments of elementary and secondary education students, the supply is still falling short of the demand for teachers at these levels.

STATISTICS SHOW Michigan State, with 1,600 potential teachers graduated last year, leading the nation in training educators.

Still, Donald F. Harden, MSU placement officer, says the graduates from East Lansing can essentially handpick the area in which to work. This is especially true for elementary school teachers, since greater numbers of students select the secondary level.

Dr. Leland W. Dean, director of MSU's School of Teacher Education, notes that the shortage of elementary school teachers has been present since World War II. Educators are hesitant to predict when, or even if, the supply will catch up with the demand.

REORGANIZATION of state government is formally in effect now. A more accurate term for the process, might be reshuffling.

For, while there are now fewer units with the name "department," there are essentially the same number of agencies. In most cases just the title has been changed.

What it has meant in the departments' reshuffled the longest has been a change in many of the procedures. Where a council was once independent, its staff must now go through several channels to do its work because it is now part of a larger unit, the department.

OTHER CHANGES are resulting by executive edict. The governor has distributed a memo requiring different handling of publicity and one regarding the filling of high-level personnel vacancies.

It seems the executive office wants to be notified of vacancies, presumably including some which would be covered and filled through the civil service process.

Regarding publicity, any press releases are to be channeled through the upper levels of the departmental structure rather than released by a person who might previously have headed the public relations work in a given council or sub-department unit.

MANY STATE employees, and others outside, are still watching to see the full effect of the reorganization changes and the governor's edicts.

All are hoping the changes might result in less red tape for the public in dealing with state government. The overriding fear, however, is that the government procedures are getting even more complicated and cumbersome than ever before.

As school children settle down to the three Rs again, parents and teachers are concerned about the "fourth R" — rheumatic fever. Children of school age are the special targets of this cruel disease which peaks in mid-winter, says the Michigan Heart Assn., a Michigan United Fund agency.

The "Low Down"

From the
Congressional Record
By Joe Crump

Rep. Harold D. Cooley (N.C.) "I am submitting for the Record (a condensed) address by Ernest W. Brackett, a assistant deputy associate administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration."

On the wall of the office in which I used to work was a facsimile copy of the first airplane contract made by the US Government. It called for the delivery of one heavier-than-air flying machine, capable of flying 40 miles an hour. It had to be so constructed that it could be taken apart, transported in Army wagons and reassembled within an hour. The price was $25,000 and the contract was signed by the Wright brothers. Someone had written on the white margin of this picture copy: "From little acorns."

WE ARE IN THE acorn stage of space exploration and not a great deal further, relatively, than the Wright brothers were when they flew the first airplane in North Carolina. But we are making rapid progress.

There is another area which is growing and will continue to grow, in importance to commercial industry. It is the new and improved products which are the fallout benefits from space research and development.

A new sealant developed for sealing seams in spacecraft will be used in caulking bathroom tiles. Three companies have been licensed to produce a new alkali silicate paint developed at a NASA research laboratory to resist weather. A heat-resistant material, polytic graphite, used on nose cones to resist the tremendous heat generated when a space capsule reenters the earth's atmosphere, will be used to coat the inside of tobacco pipes. A fuel cell developed to generate electricity for space vehicles by converting hydrogen and oxygen into electricity can be used for tractors, golf carts, and spot welders. A NASA contractor recently invented a tool which is used to drill holes in plexiglass without shattering it, which has been a problem in the past.

THERE ARE thousands of bits of scientific knowledge, such as new methods of soldering or new materials, generated under the NASA program which are of value to industry.

In order that companies may find out about these and put them to use to improve their commercial products, NASA has instituted a technical utilization program. These scientific reports are placed on computer tape and sent to regional dissemination centers.

COUNTRY FLAVOR

Winter dusk is rich in satisfying beauty

HAYDN PEARSON

This is half way on Winter's toll road, and over the fields and the hillsides snow lies deep on the grasslands and covers the pools of the marshes. Foxes travel their trails through the woods, and partridges bud in the orchards. In the darkness of night, owl's hoots in the woodland, and the soft calls that reach to the farmhouse blend with the season's spirit and the low key life of winter.

This is the time when between day and night, the dusks are pagants of beauty. No longer a quick drop of Night's curtain when Day's stage is cleared of action. As the sun slides behind the mountain, colors mass on the southwestern horizon. Dusk comes more slowly now that the sun has turned toward the zenith. One almost thinks at day's end that the sun stands suspended a moment before it slips from one's vision.

COLORS ARE bright and the palette is splashed with hues of scarlet and purple. Sometimes the dusk painting is narrow and follows along the horizon; sometimes hues reach high in the sky and the painting is vast and breath-taking. Then when the light starts to lessen and bright colors thin to pastels, there is a poignant period when soft beauty blesses the landscape. Not now the long lingering dusks of late spring; not now a green world and its flowers. But a winter dusk with its glory and grandeur is rich in heart-satisfying beauty.

When day is done and the colors faded, the stars that break through Night's curtain are lights in the sky that signal to man-made lights below.

The fellow who sticks to his good resolutions like glue may eventually mend his ways.

Boy Scouts Get 'Feel' of Municipal Court

Four Boy Scouts of the Chippewa District spent last Tuesday on a tour of St. Johns city government offices, the Clinton County News and county government offices. It was one of the special events of Boy Scout Week. Gary Weber of Troop 79 at Fowler, Alan Waldron of Wacousta Troop 60, Mike Walker of Bath Troop 67 and Randy Atkinson of St. Johns Troop 81 get the feel of St. Johns' municipal court. Looking on are Robert Arnold, Scout executive, and Ken Greer, St. Johns city manager. William Morris of St. Johns conducted the boys on the tours during the day.

1st Cropland Adjustment agreement

Glenn D. Tooker, of R-2, Holt, on Jan. 18 became one of the first farmers in the nation to have a Cropland Adjustment Program agreement approved. The announcement was made today by Frank Light, chairman of the Michigan State ASC Committee.

Tooker owns and operates an 80-acre farm in Section 22 of Delhi Township in Ingham County. Twenty-four acres of cropland are being diverted by Tooker to protective conservation use for a period of five years. This consists of a 12-acre feed grain base and 12 acres of cropland normally devoted to non-allotment crops. In addition, Tooker has an 18.2-acre wheat allotment which was planted to wheat last fall.

He will qualify for marketing certificates in 1966 under the annual wheat diversion program for this land already planted to wheat. In 1967 he will be eligible to sign up his entire wheat allotment, plus the required minimum diversion, in the Cropland Adjustment Program.

THE VOLUNTARY Cropland Adjustment Program will help farmers to divert cropland to protective conservation use for periods of five to 10 years. Participants will receive adjustment payments calculated as a portion of the value of the crops which otherwise would be produced on the land. They will be eligible for conservation cost share payments on the diverted land. Those who agree to permit free access for fishing, hunting, hiking, and trapping may get an additional per acre payment.

Light pointed out the program is one of the features of the Food and Agriculture Act of 1965 enacted by Congress last fall. The program will help local, state and other government agencies to acquire cropland for non-farm uses. This could include the preservation of open spaces and natural beauty, wildlife development and recreation, and the prevention of air and water pollution. The program will share the cost with these agencies of establishing conservation practices on the cropland. It will make available for non-crop uses a large amount of acreage that otherwise would be in surplus production. It supplements, rather than replaces, the annual commodity diversion programs.

MICHIGAN WAS the first state in the nation to start signing up farmers in the Cropland Adjustment Program. The sign-up began Jan. 10. No final sign-up date for 1966 has been announced. County ASC committees who administer the program at the county level are limited in approving agreements as to the percentage of cropland acreage which may be placed under the program. This is designed to avoid serious effect on the economy of the community or local trade area.

Fifty years ago, it took one man-hour to produce a bushel of corn, a Michigan State University agricultural engineer said recently. If those methods were used today, it would cost $3.06 instead of 84 cents to produce a bushel of corn in the U.S. Corn is king. It is the leading crop in the US, which produces nearly half of the world's supply—112 million tons.

Number of dairy herds may drop 80% by 1980

There will probably be only one-fifth as many dairy herds in Michigan in 1980 as there are now, but total milk production for the state will probably be higher, reports a Michigan State University dairy extension specialist.

"There were about 620,000 milk-producing cows in Michigan in 1965," says Paul Wilkes, "but there will be only 450,000 to 500,000 by 1980. Furthermore, the average herd size will increase to about 50 cows, and this would mean less than 10,000 dairy herds in 1980 compared with over 50,000 in 1959."

WILKES EXPECTS that increased production per cow will offset declining cow numbers. And he expects better management, through dairy herd testing, to account for much of the per cow increase.

"The 10,000 dairymen we expect to be in business in 1980 will be very efficient, with average production per cow in the 13,000 - pound area," he says. "These dairymen will be using most of the improved production practices of today plus those which have yet to be innovated."

"Also, a higher percentage of these men will be participating in a herd production testing program to do a better job of culling their poor producers. While we would like to think that all dairymen would be on test in 1980, we expect between 60 to 75 per cent to be participating in testing programs at that time. This compares to about 24 per cent today."

THIS MEANS, says Wilkes, that over 250,000 cows will be on test in 1980 compared to about 150,000 today.

"If each DHIA (Dairy Herd Improvement Assn.) supervisor would test 20 DHIA and 40 owner-sampler herds each month, it will take about 75 supervisors to get the job done. This is about the same number as we have now, but each supervisor will be testing 3,000 cows per month instead of the 1,400 he is testing at present."

Wilkes says fewer herds will make it possible for supervisors to be more efficient and to test a larger number of cattle. Furthermore, there will be a "significant increase" in central butterfat testing labs.

"WE HAVE about 15 central labs in the state at present, but it will take 35 or more in 1980 to get the job done," he comments. "Electronic machines will continue to do more of the computations and ultimately provide the dairyman with more management information."

The MSU extension specialist is concerned that 75 per cent of Michigan's dairy cows are not on test at present. He feels more dairymen should take advantage of these programs to improve their knowledge about their herds and to do a better job of management. New testing programs are being evaluated on a trial basis to get more herds into the programs.

"AT THE present time, MSU's dairy department and the Michigan DHIA are conducting an experimental testing program in three counties in which cattle would be tested every three months instead of monthly," says Wilkes. "This program is called tri-monthly testing (TMT) and is designed to give herd owners complete information on their cattle with fewer herd tests."

"Our main objective is to accumulate information and experience necessary in developing an inexpensive, less complex, relatively accurate production testing program that would be both salable and functional to those dairymen that are presently not on test."

The fellow who buys too much on the cuff usually has something up his sleeve.

Michigan travel events

More winter sports events are on the Michigan Tourist Council's calendar for the coming week. Saturday is the State High School Ski Championships at Sugar Loaf Mountain, Traverse City. Saturday and Sunday events include the Gold and Silver Speed Skating Championships at Detroit, Invitational Ski Jumping Tournaments at Ishpeming and Les Cheneaux Winter Ice Carnival at Cedarville-Hessel. Beginning next Monday and running through Feb. 26 will be a winter carnival at Marquette. The Vicksburg Showboat at Vicksburg is scheduled for Feb. 24-26.

Physical illnesses, often so mild that they are not recognizable, may interfere with a child's ability to read, says a Fairleigh Dickinson University psychologist. Dr. Harold A. Solan called such disorders "ill-defined laterality," an improper organization of the nervous system that prevents one side of the brain from becoming dominant. Dr. Solan says that normally one side of the brain must become dominant to enable a child to learn to read.

Group concerned about adequacy of area roads

Concerned about the inadequacy of area roads and streets in meeting rapidly growing traffic demands, a group of Clinton County residents has organized to study possible ways of coping with roadway problems.

Although no formal organization has been set up, early discussions have indicated a considerable amount of interest in seeking solutions for the county's roadway problems, according to Kenneth G. Greer of St. Johns, spokesman for the group.

COUNTY AND municipal officials have expressed concern over the ability of area roads and streets to handle the mounting traffic loads the roadways are expected to bear, Greer said.

"It is our intention to investigate possible remedies for our programs are needed to provide and streets. Then we will try to develop support for whatever problems of inadequate roads safe and sufficient roadways for the people of this county," Greer commented.

He said the group will welcome the support of persons interested in obtaining better roads for the county and asked them to contact him at the St. Johns Municipal Building.

Michigan's $50 million nursery industry places the state fifth among nursery stock producing states.

Russet Burbank top potato

Russet Burbank was quick to become Michigan's top potato.

Although produced in the Upper Peninsula for market and seed purposes for several years, the Russet Burbank became "the big potato" with the start of the new processing plant at Greenville in 1965.

As a result, 994 acres of certified seed of the Russet Burbank variety were grown in the state in 1965 for 1966 planting. The average yield for the Burbank seed potatoes grown was 304 hundredweight an acre.

THE ONLY POTATO that out-yielded Russet Burbank was another new variety used by the processing industry—the Norgold Russet which yielded 331 hundredweight an acre on the 100 acres grown for seed. Both varieties were grown under irrigation.

Second in acreage to the Russet Burbank, according to R. W. Chase, crop scientist at Michigan State University, was the Sebago with 783 acres for seed. Onaway with 477 acres was third in volume.

Only 198 acres of Russet Rural seed potatoes were produced in 1965. A decade ago this was Michigan's leading variety.

CHASE REPORTED 1965 was one of the most unusual growing seasons in history for potatoes. In nearly all areas irrigation was needed to prevent damage to the crops. By and large, the season was cool, which may have helped keep the dry conditions from being more severe.

Some areas of the state reported frost injury at least once each month throughout the entire growing season.

Wet conditions during harvest hampered the normal operations, but Michigan produced more than 3,000 acres of potatoes which qualified for certified seed with an average yield of nearly 250 hundredweight.

Dairy associations elect state officers

Michigan dairy breed associations elected officers during the 51st Farmers' Week at Michigan State University.

Officers elected were:

Holstein-Friesian Association of Michigan: James Chestnut of Allegan, president; Harold Greenhoe of Carson City, vice-president; John Smith of Williamson, secretary-treasurer; and Ralph Piepkow of Springport, member of the executive committee.

Michigan Jersey Cattle Club: Paul Piepkow of Olivet, president; Jack Tindall of Lapeer, vice-president; and Bruce Larson of Howard City, secretary-treasurer.

MICHIGAN BROWN Swiss Breeders' Assn.: Roland Krauss of Sebawaing, president; Merle Donbrook of Coldwater, vice-president; and Dorothy Helsler of Springport, secretary-treasurer.

Michigan State Guernsey Breeders' Assn.: Harold Shook of Quincy, president; Dale Anderson of St. Johns, vice-president; Warren Watson of Hemlock, treasurer; and Walter Frahm of Frankenmuth, secretary.

Michigan Ayrshire Breeders' Assn.: All 1965 officers were re-elected: Alvin Frahm of Frankenmuth, president, and Mrs. Paul Taylor of Salline, secretary-treasurer. The vice-president is Charles Miles of Metamora.

Michigan Milking Shorthorn Assn. elected Jasper Tahash of Byron president; John Gustafson of Cadillac, vice-president; and Stanley Powell of Toila, secretary-treasurer. Clyde Gibbs of Albion was elected a junior member of the board of directors.

ISAAC NEWTON DISCOVERS MERCURY!

"If Sir Isaac had had a car like this, he would have been too busy having fun to discover gravity," says Delaware insurance executive.

Isaac B. Newton, 52, of Milford, Del., didn't believe such a car existed before he drove the new Mercury.

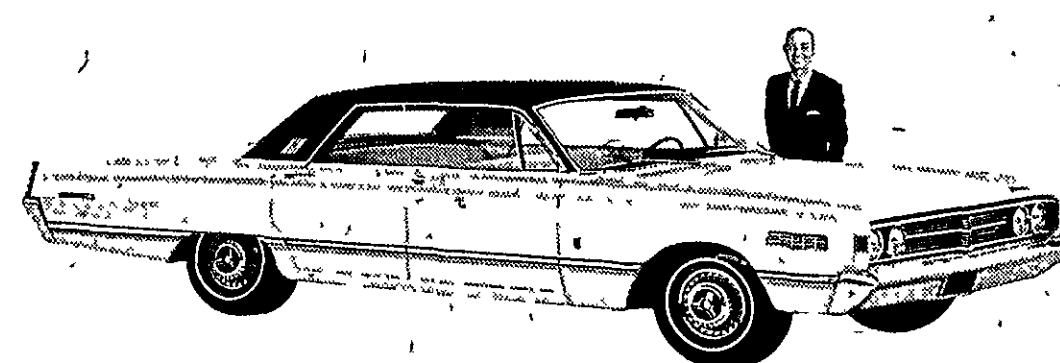

Here's what he said about some of the discoveries he made, after looking over the full line: "About the power steering," he said: "Drives with such little effort and so stable on the road! Made parking a cinch."

About the 410-cu.-in. 4-barrel V-8 power plant: "So quiet! Can't hear it at all. That pick-up's really terrific!"

He summed up: "Mercury's my choice after that ride!"

And what did Mrs. Newton discover? "Living room comfort! And the lines of the car are so beautiful."

Mural Gives Outdoor Touch to Federal Mogul Lobby

This painting of Tahquamenon Falls now graces the lobby at Federal Mogul's St. Johns plant, adding an imaginary source for the muffled roar of machinery. Ed Idzkowski, plant manager, Ida Osborn and Mary Ellen Clark look over the painting. Mrs. Osborn, a bearing machine operator, painted the picture on consignment of Mrs. Clark of the inspections department, who took up a voluntary collection among the hourly employees of the plant to have the painting made.

And now—a little bit of plarism.

During the last week one's thoughts could easily have turned toward spring. Imagine - 55 per cent and the first part of February. It was during this warm spell we received the annual packet of information from "Keep America Beautiful, Inc."

I was especially taken with one little brochure titled "Ideas for beauty-minded people" and I'd like to share some of the remarks contained in that brochure with you readers today, because they point out that keeping America beautiful cannot be left to a few dedicated people in that organization or any organization. Like so many things—keeping America beautiful is the responsibility of each and every one of us living in this great nation—in this fine American city.

"SINCE THE first pioneer footsteps on the Atlantic shore, Americans have drawn strength and inspiration from the natural beauties of their land. In too many places that beauty has been sullied—its inspiration lost... Now, across the nation there is a growing intent to redirect the patterns of progress. Americans are asking what they can do to protect, and restore, the beauty of their surroundings."

"FOR THE HOMEOWNER OR TENANT—

"Look with fresh eyes at your yard. Is it pleasingly attractive? Develop a landscaping plan that includes trees and flowers. Water them. Mulch them.

"Window boxes or pots filled with bright blooms and shrubs will enhance the beauty of your neighborhood.

"If you have a surplus of plants, pass them along to friends and neighbors.

"Involve your children in your gardening activities. They can be good workers, and their lives will be enriched by the clean and colorful environment you foster.

"FOR THE SCHOOL CHILD

"Look at your school grounds. Are they messy? Do they have plants?

"See that you and your schoolmates put that milk carton and candy wrapper in the wastebasket; then your school will be the cleanest spot in the community.

"Ask your teachers and parents to help you obtain flowers, shrubs, and trees for your school.

"Find an expert in your community who can teach you how to place and care for plants and flowers.

"Do the work yourselves.

"FOR CIVIC AND SERVICE ORGANIZATIONS

"Designate a beautification committee from among your membership (This I'm going to put on our board of directors' agenda for the next meeting. How about you other club and organization members...why not get your club involved, too?)

"Select a project (such as the highway entrance to St. Johns), and landscape it with trees, shrubs and flowers. Inviting approaches to communities encourage visitors to stay, rather than drive through.

"WORK WITH county extension agents or public spirited nurserymen to obtain trees at minimal cost and make them available for community planting days.

"Convert unused lots into attractive small parks and play areas.

"Counsel residential neighborhoods on block improvement programs.

"Grant certificates or awards to individuals or groups who make notable contributions to beautification.

"SPONSOR SCHOOL education programs." As you can imagine, there are many more ways in which we here in St. Johns can make our community even more attractive than it already is.

In next week's column we'll

AGRICULTURE in ACTION

By M. L. Woell
MICHIGAN FARM BUREAU

For the first time, all Michigan farmers are included in the state-wide MANDATORY Workmen's Compensation Act, and once again, it appears that farmers are caught in the middle. On one side are the pressures to comply with what farmers contend are unworkable sections of the act, while on the other side are all the cost - price squeeze pressures which have already wrung much of the income out of agriculture.

Farmers say that the new law, as originally written, is unworkable—and from their view—undeniable. They say that the act is confusing and complicated and in its present form, impossible to administer.

FARM LEADERS point out the unique nature of each farm operation with the use of "piecework" help which may be totally unemployable elsewhere, and the unusual part each member of the farmer's family plays in working in the farm "factory."

But above all, farmers object to proposed rates which include a $234 "minimum" premium fee, and which at $8.35 for each $100 of payroll, they say would substantially increase production costs—and, in some cases, actually drive farmers out of business.

Because the new law is confusing to everyone, the legislative committee of the Michigan Farm Bureau has asked that the Legislature, in this session, amend the law to give consideration for the employer who hires persons unemployable in other industries and on other jobs, such as the physically handicapped. To allow time for such action, Farm Bureau has asked the Legislature to delay the effective date for agricultural coverage beyond the presently scheduled May 1, 1966 date.

AT A MEETING in Lansing, the group of farm leaders also asked that classification of farm workers be arranged so that rates for each could be based upon actual hazards involved. They called for clarification of the law as to how it will apply to members of the farm family, and asked for a provision to place limited coverage on seasonal employees, many of whom are presently covered by medical and liability insurance. Finally, they said the proposed rates should be "reviewed and reduced."

Road Commission Weekly Report

Figures for the 1965 operations are now complete. Income for the Road Commission reached an all-time high, and expenses kept pace. Primary road construction was over $272,000 last year, compared to $185,000 in 1964. Local road construction for 1965 was $128,000 while the previous year was $87,000. Maintenance costs were also much higher, showing an increase of $129,000 over 1964.

Townships contributed the largest increase in income. Total township participation in road construction and maintenance was $185,500.00.

THE BOARD of Clinton County Road Commissioners will hold their next regular meeting Friday, Feb. 18. Bids will be opened for all types of insurance.

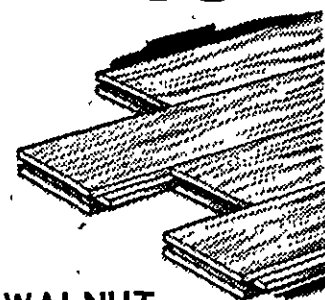

The commission has had several extra sessions this past week in an effort to expedite the contract for the building of the Island Road bridge near Elsie. Five bids were received last week, ranging from $120,500 to $165,400. Fry Construction Co. of Lansing was the low bidder. This company has built five bridges in our county since 1961 and is highly regarded for good workmanship.

WINTER RETURNED to our county over the last weekend. The freezing temperatures brought an end to some of the mud problems, but rain and snow left most county roads very slippery.

Temperatures this year nearly repeat of 1965

Snow disappeared almost entirely from the Clinton County landscape last Thursday, on the heels of three days of balmy and rainy weather.

It was the first time since Christmas Eve area folks were able to see the ground. The warm temperatures that reached the mid-50s last Wednesday melted all the snow except that piled along curbs and in deep ditches along roadways.

DESPITE THE nearly two months of white, which was different than last year, temperatures have been just about the same, in general, as last year. The cold snap period of a week or so ago had temperatures practically the same as the like date in 1965. Moderate temperature trend came at about the same time as similar trends in 1965.

It might be really hard to convince someone last year's temperatures weren't being rerun this year.

Since Jan. 1 this year, the weather station in St. Johns has recorded five below-zero days, two with low reading of -10. In 1965 during the same period there were four below-zero days, with a low of -7 on two occasions. The high this year since Jan. 1 has been 55 (Jan. 7); the high last year was 60 on Jan. 8 and 9.
