THE EVALUATION PROCESS FOR 4-H PROJECTS

Part one of the 4-H spring achievement for 1968 involved the evaluation Saturday of over 1,000 projects put on display at Smith Hall. Here evaluator John White chats with a 4-H'er about his electrical project. Open house at Smith Hall was Sunday. Additional pictures and story about this weekend's style revues are on Pages 7-A and 11-A.

For 'meritorious service' in Viet Nam

2 from county win Bronze Star

Two Clinton County soldiers have been awarded the Bronze Star Medal for "meritorious service" in Viet Nam.

The U.S. Army reported last week that Army Maj. Richard A. Summers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arlin W. Summers of Summer Lane, R-1, DeWitt, received the medal during ceremonies near Long Binh, Viet Nam, Jan. 12.

Friday afternoon former Staff Sgt. E-6 Jesus Villarreal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Villarreal of 630 W. Gibbs Street, received the award in a brief ceremony at his parents' home.

Villarreal received his Army discharge about eight months ago. The Bronze Star Award was given on behalf of the U.S. Army by Maj. Ivan Darling, assistant professor of military science at Michigan State University.

The citation to Villarreal was "for meritorious service in support of United States objectives in the Republic of Viet Nam during the period August 1966 to June 1967, while serving as a member of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 2nd Battalion, 8th Infantry, 4th Infantry Division.

"HIS CONSTANT and diligent devotion to duty earned him the respect and confidence of all members of his unit. He performed his duties as a fire team leader, squad leader and scout platoon leader in an outstanding manner, and his knowledge, skill and loyalty proved to be invaluable assets.

"Staff Sgt. Villarreal devoted long and arduous hours under adverse weather and combat conditions in his contribution to the success of the 4th Infantry Division mission in Viet Nam. The untiring efforts, professional ability and dedication of Staff Sgt. Villarreal are in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect real credit upon himself, his unit and the United States Army."

St. Johns, Ovid-Elsie millage votes Saturday

Voters in the St. Johns and Ovid-Elsie school districts are expected to turn out in good numbers this Saturday for separate millage elections which officials of both districts term as vital to the future educational programs.

There's a striking similarity in the financial problems of the two districts. St. Johns is asking for 12.8 mills (an increase of 8.3 mills over last year) while Ovid-Elsie is asking for 12.75 mills (up 4.25 mills over last year).

Both districts will have a two-year deficit accumulation of around $100,000 by the end of this school year. The proposed new millage won't get rid of the deficit, if passed, but it should prevent any future deficits in 1968-69. Both districts plan to apply any state aid increases this year to retiring the past deficits.

Neither school district plans to expand their programs with the new millage. It's a status quo situation in both areas, with the school boards and/or citizens committees recommending the lowest possible millage figure to ask for and still maintain current school programs. Any smaller millage figure, they say, would necessitate cutting out some programs.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday in both districts. All registered voters, regardless of whether or not they own property, are eligible to vote in a millage election, according to state law.

St. Johns' 12.8 means status quo

The St. Johns School District is basing its millage request of 12.8 mills on a conservative plan of holding the line with the same type of an educational program they've been offering this year.

Only one big improvement is planned for next year if the millage issue passes — that will be bringing the rural elementary program up to snuff with the program in the city elementary schools.

Up to now the rural elementary program has been conducted in various one- and two-room schools, but next year the four new elementary buildings at East Essex, Eureka, East Olive and Riley will be ready for use, and the school board says it must provide physical education, music and art instructors to visit those rural schools to provide a program similar to that in the city schools.

Salary increases, transportation cost hikes (primarily because of the need to transport rural elementary students, many for the first time), higher fixed costs and the need for new teachers to meet growing enrollments are expected to amount to around $367,500 EXTRA next year in order to maintain a similar program.

THAT'S EXPECTED to drive the school budget for next year to around $2 million. A big part of the increase over last year is in instructional salaries, but figures and charts shown by school personnel at a series of public meetings in recent weeks point that such increases will be necessary to keep good teachers on the staff.

St. Johns teachers salaries are running about average — perhaps a little lower — among half a dozen other districts in this part of Michigan with which St. Johns must compete for its staff. In order to remain competitive, the board says, additional pay must be provided.

In all, the board anticipates the need for about $172,500 in extra pay for teachers next year, but this figure represents placing 46 teachers on a salary schedule which they weren't put on last year, additional pay for the 145-teacher staff and the hiring of new teachers because of higher enrollments.

School officials have been quick to point out the district's low ranking among other mid-Michigan districts in the amount of local support for schools. St. Johns ranked 13th out of 14 area districts of comparable size by levying only 19.7 mills for all school purposes.

Even with the proposed increase, St. Johns is expected to continue to rank low on that score, because most of the other districts are also seeking additional millage this year.

The school board has said it would bring the millage issue back for another vote in June if voters fail to approve it Saturday. In the meantime, they point out, many of the teachers are likely to move on to more-assured jobs in other districts. Unless the millage is approved by September, schools might not be able to open (unless the district levies 12 mills in local support it won't qualify for about $900,000 in state aid).

WITHOUT EXTRA voted millage from the people, the district would have only 8.2 mills, or whatever the county allocation board will allow schools, next year, not enough to qualify for state aid.

School board members point out they probably could get voter approval for only 3.8 mills (enough to make the 12 mills), but that would not meet the costs of operating the present program and a curtailment of the educational program would have to be made. They've listed some possible places to cut the program, but the citizens committee had no recommendation on what to cut.

The St. Johns junior high and symphonic bands participated in the district band and orchestra festival March 2 and both received first-division ratings

Last Saturday at the Central National Bank community room in St. Johns there was a Cub Scout training session. Coming up March 30 will be a Boy Scout Leader Training Session.

O-E sets millage at 12.75

OVID-ELSIE — Voters in the Ovid-Elsie School District will cast ballots this Saturday on a proposed extra-voted millage issue of 12.75 mills to operate the schools next year.

There has developed in the past week somewhat of a controversy over the amount of the millage — the school board set it at 12.75, but the Ovid-Elsie Teachers Assn. claims the board ignored several recommendations to ask for even more millage.

A prepared statement said the teachers were presently bargaining with the board for a contract next year that would involve a total school improvement program including decreased class loads in the lower elementary grades, physical education, art, music and other improvements in the elementary and junior high, and better salary schedules to attract the best possible teachers.

Supt. Robert Beauchamp said the 12.75 millage figure the board decided to ask for will merely maintain the present educational program. The board's decision followed on the heels of a citizens committee's report.

A group studying the curriculum of the school suggested additions to the school district program be made when the money becomes available.

The school board set the 12.75 mills figure apparently feeling it would be easier to obtain from voters than would a higher figure. Although it will provide 12.75 mills next year, the resultant increase over this year is only 4.25 mills, since 8.5 mills expired with the December tax collection.

Beauchamp said the 12.75 package would bring in about $308,000, enough to just maintain the present educational offerings of the district. It will do nothing toward wiping out an $85,000 deficit of the 1966-67 school year or an anticipated $18,000 deficit this year. That debt would be retired by applying any increases the district might get in state aid next year.

An NFO member uses a high-powered rifle to shoot hogs in a mass grave near Bannister Tuesday afternoon in a protest against prices paid farmers for meat. Some 204 head of hogs, cows, calves and sheep were killed and then buried.

NFO plans supper for April 6

The monthly meeting of Clinton County NFO was called to order by president, Paul Love. A discussion was held on the supper which is to be April 6 at the Ovid-Elsie High School. Homer Jackson, Manager RPCA of Rifle, Colo., will be the speaker.

Reports were given on the holding action. Grain on the market has been a lot lower the past few weeks than it was in January.

The members listened to two tapes from the National office reporting on the holding action.

CONTRACTS ARE being signed for $32 per cwt on cattle and $23 per cwt on hogs. Leading NFO negotiations are going on with major packers.

March 6, the NFO enrolled more new members than on any other single day in its history of collective bargaining.

The next NFO weekly meeting will be held in the community room of the Bank of St. Johns, at 8:30 Wednesday night, March 20 and 27.

NFO slaughters 204 head of livestock, buries them in protest

By HAROLD SCHMALTZ
Griatiot County Herald

In a gruesome demonstration of protest, more than 100 members of the National Farmers Organization killed 204 hogs, cows, calves and sheep, then buried the carcasses Tuesday afternoon.

The protest against livestock prices took place on the farm of Mrs. Maxine Kramer, R-1, Bannister. NFO members from many areas of Michigan took part. The animals were killed with high-powered rifles in a pit approximately 65 feet long and 15 feet deep. A bulldozer had prepared the mass grave.

Ernie Cook of Cass City, NFO market area chief for Michigan, said the action was to demonstrate to the Swift Co. of Chicago, in particular, that farmers mean business.

"If we can't get the price we want, we'd just as soon kill them (the livestock) and bury them like we're doing today."

Shiawassee NFO supper this Saturday

The fourth annual Shiawassee County NFO Sausage Supper will be held this Saturday evening, March 23, at the ZCBJ Hall on Cornum Avenue in Owosso. Serving will be from 6 to 8 p.m.

Glen Utley, NFO national director from Ft. Branch, Ind., will be the speaker at 8:30 p.m., addressing the audience on general NFO topics and the present all-commodity holding action which currently covers grain and meat.

Utley is 49 years of age, married and the father of three children. He was born on a farm in Gibson County, Ind., near Princeton. He received his education in the Francisco schools.

He returned to diversified farming, after serving three years in the U.S. Army, and presently operates 400 acres near Ft. Branch, Ind.

He joined NFO in 1956. He started working for NFO as a national staff organizer, then became an assistant national organizational director. He is presently serving his 10th term as national director from Indiana.

Questions and comments on any phase of the NFO program or its policies of collective bargaining for agriculture will be discussed by Utley. The public is invited to the supper and meeting.

According to Cook, "This is just the beginning, and there is going to be more."

Cook said Gratiot County was selected as the site of the demonstration because of its central location. He added, "Every county in Michigan is involved in this drive."

Ed Dering of R-1, Cass City, said, "All we want is the cost of production and a reasonable profit, just like any other businessman."

An NFO member who happened to be standing by said, "Food is cheaper today than it has ever been, only at the expense of the farmer."

When Cook was asked how he felt this action would affect the meat processors, namely Swift Co., he said "We definitely feel that Swift will be hurt by our action. Where Swift goes NFO will be there to head them off."

He further stated, "All the farmers here are doing this on their own; there has been no pressure put on them at all.

"Swift has offered us 19 cents per pound for our hogs with 20 cents being the extreme top price, and 27 and 28 cents for our cattle. We feel we have to have 23 cents for our hogs and 32 cents for our cattle to even afford to raise them."

Cook said there were farmers represented at the slaughter scene from places as far away as Alpena, Huron, Alcona, Monroe, Newaygo and Presque Isle counties.

There's more at stake than just higher taxes

Dear Editor:

Since the coming vote on school millage is so important to the future of many of our children in the St. Johns School District, I feel that I should publicly express my views in this regard.

I do not like to pay higher taxes any more than anyone else. However, I feel there could be considerably more at stake than paying higher local taxes. Many people say they are already paying too many taxes now so why not vote this millage down so the board of education will be forced to economize. Also maybe some of the teachers who are not as well qualified as others could then be dismissed, etc.

Certainly we need to econ-mize in these days when the taxpayer's dollar seems to be spent so foolishly in some ways. True, many teachers are not as competent as most are in methods of instruction. Does this mean that those who are doing an excellent job of instructing our children, should be penalized by the comparative few who are not competent? Should the children now be denied the use of facilities the voters so wisely provided in the new school buildings?

Will voting against the millage save taxes or will this merely give impetus to the possible passing of a bill similar to House Bill No. 4095? This bill is in committee in our State Legislature now and chances are it will not be reported out of committee this year. However, each millage issue voted down which causes dire financial problems to the local school districts gives further reason for a bill of this nature to be passed.

What is this bill? Under House Bill No. 4095 as it exists now, teachers would all be put under state civil service. A master contract would be negotiated for all teachers. A state education fund would be established to provide operating funds and construction funds to local school districts. Where would financing come from for this program? Under House Bill No. 4095 a state property and personal tax would be levied in addition to a 1.75 per cent increase in the state income tax and a 3 per cent corporation tax. This money would then be returned to the local district for use in operating the schools.

If we go this far in letting the state take over the financing of our local school districts we will have lost one more of our precious freedoms in this country. This could be just the first step to the eventual running of our schools by the federal government which is then only a short step to the totalitarian state.

I believe the people of this community still feel enough responsibility to their children and in the case of many, their grandchildren, to keep as much local control of education as possible and while it will mean extra taxes a vote for this millage proposal will for the time being help keep this control of education at our local level. A vote against the millage could mean even much higher taxes with control at the state level in the future.

'No' vote might be request for lower millage

Dear Editor:

I am concerned with the letters and efforts of some to indicate that the up-coming millage issue is all or nothing, that a No vote would mean school would not be any more, or that people who vote No are against good schools.

It's just possible that a person who votes No is not in favor of Belt tightening is the answer

Dear Editor:

Might I suggest that the school board and the administration tighten their belts a little. I feel resentful when they accuse us of being "flow man on the totem pole" when it comes to the education of our children.

We have just passed a large tax increase for the new high school; did they forget that? And it contains many frills; just ask anyone.

We all will have to tighten our belts till the federal and state governments give us a little tax relief. We have never in history had a war as expensive as the Viet Nam War. This has to come first.

The state taxes are at an all-time high and our people are getting tax poor. I wish I could help the city and schools more, but I just can't afford any more right now, especially something as high as 12.8 mills.

Sincerely,
A DISTRICT RESIDENT

Some facts for your pocketbook

Dear Editor:

Here are some facts for your pocketbook on additional taxes.

Winter Taxes	1967	1968

Extra Voted Oper.	4.50	(Expired)
Debt Service	7.00	7.00
Special Education	.75	.75

Paid in 1967 ($15.00 plus $26.26)	$49.56	$49.56

$8.30 compared to $41.26 equals a 20 per cent increase for 1968, and the school board and a few others call this a SMALL increase?

Cold winter in England

Think Clinton county had a rough winter? According to some correspondence Donald Tummore of rural St. Johns received from his native England the winter there was pretty cold.

From January on, Tummore's brother-in-law, George Bishop, who is the head warden at Hickling Broad, a state supported conservation area, had to feed all the wild birds that had come there for the winter.

The birds were unable to find food for themselves at the broad, which is a fairly large body of water located in the northeastern portion of England, as it had frozen solid.

HICKLING BROAD is one of many such bodies of water located in the several hundred-acre area known as Norfolk Broads.

Tummore received a clipping from a newspaper in Norfolk, area which called his brother-in-law the "Bird Man of Hickling" and had a picture of Bishop out on the ice feeding the birds.

Says schools mean high-caliber citizens

Dear Editor:

Remarks have been made about the foreigners, or outsiders, who have moved to our town with expensive ideas on education, urban renewal, etc. What kind of a city would you have if it were not for these outsiders? Would it be better if we faded out entirely? Where have your children moved to? Are those towns, cities and hamlets referring to your children as outsiders, or are they providing schools and a well-planned community life for all citizens?

Because you happen to have been born within the boundary lines of the school district does not make you more of a citizen of the community than the family that has moved here within the last year, month, week or day, for that matter. The new forward-thinking families that have moved into our community are the life blood that keeps the com-

Every, Brya in Salt Lake City

St. Johns' two state Golden Gloves champions, Bob Every and Doug Brya, are in Salt Lake City, Utah, this week for the national Golden Gloves finals. The two fighters will have to win five or six bouts to go all the way to the national championship. Every is a 139-pound light welterweight; Brya fights in the 125-pound class.

Al VanNess, Lansing Golden Gloves director, is with the six-man Lansing area team, and St. Johns Trainer Wayne Beaufore has gone too, thanks to voluntary contributions toward that cause by St. Johns boxing fans.

While the immediate aim for the St. Johns boxers is a national title, both are looking toward possible Olympic trials. Every in particular, is determined to make it to the trials, and VanNess was quoted last week as saying he had a good chance.

There are several routes open to the Olympic trials. If the Golden Gloves door is barred by other boxers, Every and Brya have the possible route of the State and National AAU tournaments. The State AAU tourney will be held March 29 at Cobo Hall in Detroit, with the Grand Rapids State Golden Gloves champs fighting the champs from Detroit.

The winners there advance to the National AAU Boxing Tournaments April 4-6 in Toledo, Ohio. National champions automatically qualify for Olympic trials.

EVERY, BRYA AND other St. Johns Golden Gloves boxers were guests of the St. Johns Lions Club last Wednesday evening for

Name tourney leaders entering final week

The high actual for men went to Mike Demitroff with a 685 and the high actual for women went to Norma VanDugteren with 535. The high game for men was a 249 by Mike Braun and for women the high game went to Verna Soule with 191.

The tournament closed Sunday.

dinner. The team presented trainer Beaufore with a trophy in appreciation for his many years of work with Golden Gloves in St. Johns.

Beaufore spoke briefly, commenting that "This has been a tremendously good team. It took a lot of hard work, a lot of worry and a lot of courage." He pointed out the St. Johns team took nine of the 22 district championships from 14 boxing centers which sent teams to the district tournament.

Beaufore thanked the Clinton County Athletic Club for getting behind the team and for providing the training quarters in the old Kitchenette building at Railroad Street and North Clinton Avenue. "I feel the boys now have a good home and good backing."

The Lions Club presented a check for $100 to the athletic club for continuation of its programs with Golden Gloves, Little League and the Soap Box Derby which will also make use of the facilities.

Werbish wins letter at Adrian

Al Werbish was awarded a basketball letter last week at Adrian College during the annual winter sports banquet. Werbish, a junior, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Werbish of 408 Giles, St. Johns.

"Al was probably our hardest working player, in addition to being honorable mention All-MIAA, second in scoring and second in assists on the team," Coach Gregg Arbaugh said. "He was never one to complain, but there were many times this year when he continued to play and a lesser man would have taken the chance to recover more fully from his injuries. He led us to our victory over Wayne State in overtime, he was the driving force behind us when we came back from 16 points down at Kalamazoo, and who will ever forget those two free throws in the last three seconds to tie Albion."

Al finished the season with 305 points, or 14.5 per game, and also second on the team in rebounds with 8.5 per game. He hit 77 of 111 free throws for 69.3 per cent on the season, and led the team in assists with 40. Adrian compiled a 11-10 season record, including six wins in a row in January. It was the best season record since 1961, and Coach Arbaugh expressed hope that the Bulldogs would continue to improve their record next year.

The team won all five of the overtime games it played, including four at home, and lost only one non-conference game all season, that to Defiance College.

Adrian, a charter member of the MIAA, currently enrolls some 1,500 students.

West-state team ends Fowler tourney trail

FWLER — Being cold during a hot basketball tournament can be fatal, and so it was that the Fowler Eagles' 1967-68 basketball season came to an end Friday night.

The Eagles were cold and their opponents were hot, and Fowler lost an 81-54 decision to West Michigan Christian of Muskegon in their first game of the Ferris State College regional tournament at Big Rapids.

Ironically, the season ended somewhat like it started — with a defeat at the hands of a west-state team. In the season opener last fall, Fowler lost to Freesoll and then won 18 straight games before losing Friday night.

The Eagles' shooting Friday was unlike anything that happened all during the year. An airtight Christian defense forced them to shoot from well out-court, and they just weren't up to it. Only 17 of 69 shot attempts went through the nets — a poor 24.6 per cent.

Ironically, the Eagles used the free throw to keep themselves in the game. Fowler hit 12 of 14 first-half free throws as the lead changed hands 12 times and the score was tied six times. West Michigan Christian led, however, 17-16 at the first stop and 36-32 at halftime.

George George hit two baskets in the first quarter and Bud Conley had a pair in the second to keep Fowler in the thick of things. The game was tied 32-32 late in the half before Fowler relinquished the lead for good.

AFTER GEORGE HIT three points to start the second half.

INDUSTRIAL MIXED LEAGUE (March 15)—High team game and series: Fire-Balls 682 and 2207. High individual scores: for the women, Joan Hardman 191 and 537; for the men, John Fabus 219 and Frank Masarik 570. Other 200 games: Frank Masarik 211, Jerry Bashore 202, Bernie Wawczyk 213 and Fred Fernholz 200. The P.S. team leads the league with a 71-41 record, only one game better than W.P.

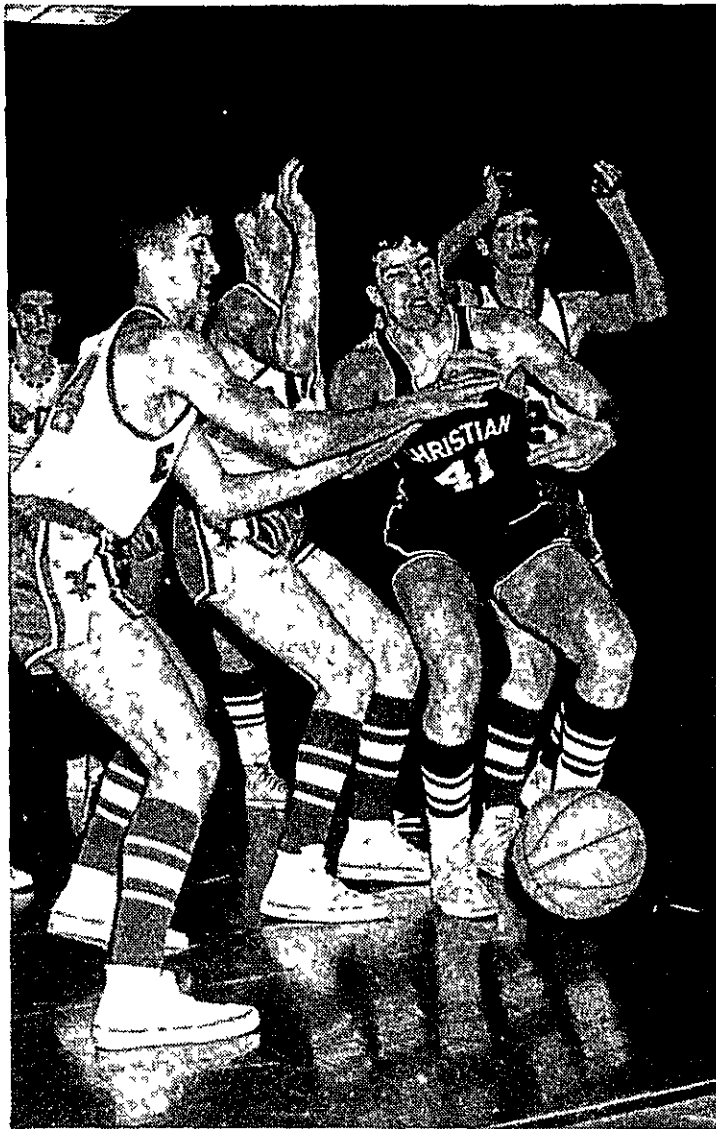

the Eagles cooled down and for five minutes couldn't score, while during the same time the Warriors were blasting the strings for 16 points to build a 53-35 margin.

And the Eagles suffered a serious blow when Conley, who had hit for 11 first-half points, picked up his fourth personal foul early in the frame and went to the bench with five a short time later. Gary Schueller finally got the Eagles going again with 1.53 in the quarter with a basket from the right corner. Joe Koenigs-knecht and George combined for five more Eagle points in the closing minute, but Fowler still trailed 59-42 at the third-period buzzer.

The scrappy Eagles had other problems besides their own cold field goal shooting. One problem was the Warriors' hot shooting. They meshed 30 of 61 shots for a torrid 49.2 per cent from the floor and they made 21 of 34 free throws (Fowler, however, beat them in that category, canning 20 of 28).

Then, too, West Michigan Christian was a tall team, and they showed what effect that can have against a cold-shooting team by out-rebounding Fowler at both ends of the court. They had a 66-30 edge, including 38-18 margin in the second half.

Scoring summaries:
FWLER SCORING (vs West Michigan Christian): Joe Koenigs-knecht 3-6-12; Bud Conley 3-5-11; Neil Hafner 0-0-0; Gary Schueller 3-3-9; George George 5-5-15; Stan Pohl 1-0-2; Bob Fox 0-1-1; Gary Feldpausch 1-0-2; Mike Noback 1-0-2; and Mike Wieber 0-0-0. Fowler totals 17-20-54, with 24 personal fouls (Conley and George fouled out). West Michigan Christian totals 30-21-81, with 22 personal fouls.

Ovid-Elsie Jaycees launch 'helping hands'

OVID-ELsie — As part of a nation-wide project, "hands" will be appearing in windows of homes throughout the Ovid-Elsie area as a wordless sign for children in trouble, as a place of help and a haven. This project is being initiated by the Ovid-Elsie Jaycees chapter.

If children have an injury, are bullied by other children, become lost, or more terrifying, are threatened by a child molester, the youngsters may know they can run to a home displaying a "helping hand" to receive aid.

Jaycee President Gerald Ross said the drive has been launched in Ovid and Elsie in time to have two homes in every block in these towns posted with the "helping hand" sign before school is dismissed for summer.

This will be a continuing program with the Jaycees and is comparable to programs being carried on in many states throughout the country.

The Jaycees have obtained the support of the Ovid-Elsie Area Schools; the board of education; Robert Beauchamp, superintendent of schools for the Ovid-Elsie area; both P.T.A. councils; the police departments in both villages; the presidents of Ovid and Elsie; and both village councils.

THE PARENTS AND interested people in Ovid and Elsie who wish to help the Jaycees organization to get this worthwhile project underway, are to be commended for their civic-mindedness and assistance in protecting children in these villages, "Ross said.

The signs are being posted two to a block by the Jaycees. Homes with the sign will all have been investigated relative to the character of the home and the importance of having someone home during the school hours.

Persons displaying the "helping hand" symbol are instructed to assist the child by summoning the parents and the proper emergency agency. They are advised against any application of medication.

The symbol of help is an 8 by 9-inch placard on which a dark blue hand has been placed. On the back of the card are listed the local emergency telephone

French's Corners FB group meets March 12

The Farm Bureau Group, "Pioneers of French's Corner," held a meeting last Tuesday evening, March 12, at the home of Mrs. Gladys Hankey. Eleven members were present at the meeting.

Reports were presented by Mrs. Junette Rosekrans, representing the Woman's Group; Clarence Burk, minute man; and Elmer Swagart, package reporter.

Melvin Smith led in discussing the topic "School Problems." The idea of a tax on local incomes was suggested to supplement the property tax in order to better finance our schools.

Mrs. Grace Stevens entertained with a selection from the Edgar Guest Collection and refreshments were served.

The April meeting will be held on Monday evening, April 8, in the Stevens home.

numbers and instruction to the volunteers.

Leigh Darling, "helping hands" project chairman, has asked parents to please explain the symbol to their family and locate, together with the child, the homes in their area with the hand in the window. A word or two about the reasons for needing help when dangers arise is also advised. This would be up to each parent.

"As spring nears, the threat of child molesting increases. It is felt that the "helping hands" project will greatly assist this problem by giving additional protection to the children, thus discouraging this type of crime," Ross pointed out.

The presidents of both Elsie and Ovid plan to proclaim April as "Helping Hands Month." This will be the major distribution month.

As this is just getting underway in the Ovid-Elsie area, volunteers are needed in both villages. The Ovid-Elsie Jaycees urge any people who are willing to participate in this project and offer their home as a haven for children in danger to request an application to fill out.

For additional information, contact any Jaycees Member or phone any of these people: Project Chairman Leigh Darling; Jaycee President Gerald Ross; Mrs. Lyle Craven; or the secretary of the school P.T.A., Mrs. Harold Hehrer and in Ovid Mrs. Janette Baese.

PE, music in Bath spotlight

By MARILYN SIDEL
Bath High School

The Bath High School Band, directed by Mr. Koolman, journeyed to Breckenridge Saturday, March 2, to compete in the District Band Festival.

They were judge on a march, Thunderer; a selected number, Overture for Winds; and a required number, Music for a Ceremony; and a sight-reading number.

The band was disappointed, however, because after long hours of practice they were judged as fourth in the competition.

Bath High School recently purchased a trampoline for the physical education classes taught by Mrs. Maryann Maddy and Mr. Dick Wilt. It was purchased for $350 from the Michigan State University gymnastics team, who used it for a year. It was originally purchased from the American Trampoline Co. To help pay for the trampoline and to show their appreciation, the physical education classes will participate in a gym show to be held this spring.

Mrs. Selfridge and 29 other students will be going on this trip and in order to help finance it they have been selling such things as popcorn, brownies, and fudge during noon hour to help raise money.

Col. Allen lauded for Viet role

LT. COL. FLOYD W. ALLEN

Lt. Col. Floyd W. Allen, son of Mrs Iva L. Allen of 201 S. Oakland, St. Johns, has been commended by a U.S. Marine Corps combat commander for the part he played recently in providing close air support for two Marine patrols.

Col Allen was aboard one of two AC-47 Dragonships which came to the aid of Marines under heavy enemy attack.

In a letter of commendation, the commander of the 3rd Reconnaissance Battalion, 3rd Marine Division, said, "One of the patrols was in a night harbor site when they observed lights moving in their direction. The team began to receive sniper and automatic weapons fire. Artillery was called and AC-47 support was requested.

"During this action," the Marine commander continued, "the Dragonship crew fired within 15 to 20 meters of the team. He cleared a path for the team to a helicopter landing zone and then cleared the landing zone."

Commenting on the other action in which a Dragonship took part, the Marine commander wrote, "The team received two dud grenades and exchanged small arms fire with the enemy. The Dragonship came in and, despite bad weather, fired within 40 meters of the team. The enemy began to leave the area after the AC-47 began firing. The patrol leader states that he feels the team would have been overrun without Dragonship support."

Colonel Allen is a member of the 4th Air Commando Squadron based at Phu Cat Air Base.

St. Johns firemen were called out late Tuesday afternoon to 105 S. Ottawa Street where flames destroyed a car.

Spartan Asphalt Paving Co., Inc., of Holt was granted the contract for construction of a paved apron adjacent to the paint maintenance shop of the west side of Capitol City Airport, plus the construction of a paved auto parking area on the west side of the airport and the construction of a taxiway in the T-hanger area. Their bid was $13,888.50; the work is expected to start the first part of April and be completed by July 1.

DeWitt Township firemen have been busy with grass fires the past two months, too. In February they answered eight and so far in March there have been at least five.

DeWitt Township will seek federal funds for the proposed extension of East State Road to Chandler Road and for beautification of US-27 between Sheridan and State roads.

The St. Johns Exchange Club has set up a committee to work with other groups promoting an early construction of a new US-27 freeway through Clinton and Gratiot counties. Their primary aim is to reduce traffic hazards at such intersections as US-27 and M-57, US-27 and Clark Road, US-27 and Round Lake Road and others.

Roads are beginning to break up badly in many parts of the county due to the frost coming out so rapidly. However, this is not all bad; the sooner the frost leaves the more quickly the ground will settle and the road beds can be worked back in place. A good heavy rain to complete the process would be much appreciated right now, but a heavy, wet, slushy snowfall would be about the worst thing that could happen to the gravel roads hereabouts. We are hoping for the rain and not the snow.

$78,000 to remodel elementary school

An open meeting to discuss the elementary building program with the people of the community was held at the Fowler High School March 16 at 8 p.m. William Kane and Don Archenbeau of Manson, Jackson and Kane Architect Firm were present to discuss enrollment projection and space requirements that will be necessary to accommodate the estimated enrollment.

A minimum of 13 classrooms with auxiliary area will be needed by the fall of 1969. Renovation of the present elementary building was discussed. DeWitt studying millage, school building proposals

DeWITT—Members of the board of education are studying plans for two possible millage issues at the annual school district election June 10.

One of the issues will likely be for general operational millage and the other for a proposed new Middle School.

The board is currently working with architects on design of the new school planned for Schaefer Road behind the present high school building.

James Ritchie, superintendent, said cost of the school has not been determined and a committee of board members consisting of Roland Lewis, James Décatur and Lloyd Ballard will meet with architects from the Lansing firm of Manson, Jackson and Kane.

Other announced plans are for the formation of a blue ribbon citizens education committee of 40 members to assist in the planning the new building.

Ritchie said, the committee would also help present to the voters reasons for constructing the Middle School and for approval at the polls of added operational millage.

Voters also will fill three board posts at the same election, one for a two-year term and two others for four-year terms. Incumbents are Mrs. Merry Sellhorn, Earl Coryell and Roland Lewis.

Ritchie said contract negotiations are continuing between the board and the DeWitt Education Assn.

5th graders give patriotic play

Children in Mrs. Margaret Hicks' fifth grade at Perrin-Palmer School put on a play, "Our Freedoms," last Friday, and it concerned the time of the writing of the U. S. Constitution before the Revolutionary War was won.

The play stressed how the authors made sure the freedoms they were interested in were guaranteed in the Constitution. The play also emphasized the bill of rights, or the first 10 amendments.

Most of the children had speaking parts. Those who did not helped with making signs or with stage arrangements. The entire class closed the play by singing "America the Beautiful."

Bath group seeks road levy vote

BATH—Bath Charter Township's better roads committee has stepped up efforts for a special election May 4 on a 4-mill levy that would provide funds for improving rural roads.

If approved at the polls, the levy would be matched by Clinton County funds over the next four years.

Leaders of the project, at a meeting of the committee last Tuesday night, annual cost to property owners would range from $15 to $30.

A citizens action group is the way the committee has been described.

Clinton County road engineer and adviser to the committee Don Haskey said the extra voted millage would allow rebuilding of roads that are now hazardous for driving instead of temporary patching which the county has been doing in recent years.

Chairman of the group, Kenneth Munson, said petitions calling for the election are currently being circulated and would be filed in time to set up the special vote.

The Blue Lodge will sponsor dances at the Masonic Building for the Rainbow Girls. The first one is scheduled Friday (March 22), the second one April 19 and others every three weeks until school is out.

Ovid-Elsie's two new FFA state farmer candidates, Duane Whitmyer and Calvin Moore, talk over the program of events for the FFA state convention this week with FFA Advisor Albert Ackley. Ackley is accompanying the chapter delegates to the convention at MSU.

O-E seniors named FFA State farmers

OVID-ELSIE—Two Ovid-Elsie High School FFA members will receive the State Farmer Degree at ceremonies today (Thursday) at the FFA State Convention at Michigan State University.

Recipients of the award are Duane Whitmyer and Calvin Moore, both seniors at O-E High. State Farmer recipients have to apply for the honor, and qualifications include leadership in all areas, a wide scope of projects and earning or investment of at least $2,500 in farming.

Moore, 17, is the son of Mr and Mrs Robert Moore of Elsie. He's been in FFA all four years of high school, is a past vice president of the chapter and now serves as its president. He was a delegate to the state convention last year and also went to the national convention.

Moore helps his father on their seed farm northwest of Elsie, and his FFA projects have included both crops and swine. He's had a swine project four years. He works in partnership with his brother, Carl, on 80 acres of land. He is a junior director of the Clinton County Soil Conservation District.

Moore is also a member of the National Honor Society at O-E, attended Boys State last summer and was a delegate to the American Institute of Cooperation at Purdue University. He plans to take up an agriculture course at Michigan State University next fall.

Moore will also receive a cropping efficiency award today at the convention.

Whitmyer, 18, is the son of Mr and Mrs Richard Whitmyer of rural Laingsburg. He has been in FFA for four years, was secretary last year and is vice president of the chapter this year.

He has been in 4-H projects for nine years and is now a junior leader. His FFA projects have included crops, dairy and beef. Whitmyer plans to go into partnership with his father on a 310-acre dairy farming operation after graduation. They have a 30-cow herd of Holstein and Guernseys.

Whitmyer won an agriculture proficiency award at Ovid-Elsie last year.

DeWitt bonds unsold

VALLEY FARMS — DeWitt Township's sewer bonds have failed to sell at the 5 percent interest rate allowed in the ordinance, and the township now must wait for a meeting next week with the State Water Resources Commission to find out what to do next.

A widely inflated municipal bond market has apparently killed any hope of selling the $1.5 million of sewer bonds at 5 percent interest. Julius Hanslovsky, township bond consultant, said efforts to attract buyers have failed completely.

Hanslovsky and Supervisor Reginald Nelson will meet March 27 and 28 with the Water Resources Commission to see what can be done now. The township probably will ask for an extension of a federal grant and a commission order setting March 7 as the date for having the bonds sold.

Additives make for superior products

By HELEN B. MEACH
Extension Home Economist

So often we're told, "You can be sure, Mabel, if you read the label." So occasionally we put on our glasses and read every word on a food package label. The product is identified, the weight or volume is indicated also the packing company and usually a recipe or two. And unless there is a standardized, accepted formula for the product the list of ingredients will be indicated—usually in the tiniest script possible. But I guess the size of the print isn't important because most of us can't understand what the words mean—such terms as sodium carboxymethyl, cellulose, carrageenan, agar, lecithin, paraben, chlorotetracycline, etc.

Whether the list is on a loaf of bread, some processed cheese, salad dressing, a package of instant dessert pudding or any other food product, there will certainly be included some unpronounceable words with no meaning to most of us. We can lump all such words describing ingredients into a group called food additives.

A FOOD ADDITIVE is a chemical added to food to produce a desired result like salt, pepper, cinnamon, baking powder or soda. Additives are nothing new but with all the emphasis on new and convenient foods, with the development and use of synthetic foods and the use of new processes to convert the raw agricultural product to the take-home, ready-to-use package on the grocer's shelves, an increasing number of additives are being used in our food.

The reasons for using additives are easier to understand than are the names of the additives themselves. They're used as preservatives, emulsifiers, acidulants, stabilizers and thickeners, flavoring agents and enhancers, leavening agents, coloring agents and as sequestrants.

We're all familiar with the use of artificial sweeteners and such common additives as vitamin D in milk, iodine in table salt, vitamins and minerals in cereals, macaroni, margarine, etc.—all added to increase the nutritive value of the end product.

TO USE FOOD additives to preserve food is one of the oldest uses. The chemicals produced in wood smoke have been used since prehistoric times to preserve meat. Today there are a wide assortment of additive compounds used to control molds, yeasts bacteria and other organisms found in food.

Food additives are used for emulsifying agents so the salad dressing will have a uniform consistency and not separate out into oil and thickening agents. Remember when peanut butter would be one-half oil and half a concrete life substance? It was difficult to get it worked into a smooth consistency. Emulsifiers are the top selling additive for U. S. foods.

SEQUESTERANT ADDITIVES are used to round up and tie up (chemically) any stray trace metals in a food which could cause off flavor, color or even breakdown of the food.

Color is added to thousands of foods on the market today—cheeses, packaged desserts, candy, soft drinks, bakery goods, etc.—to make them more attractive and appealing.

Flavor additives, real or artificial, are also used in thousands of foods. Salt, spices and herbs and flavorings such as lemon, cola, grape, wintergreen, etc. are as familiar as spice cake, ice cream and sausage.

OCCASIONALLY WE hear expressed a worry on the part of the consumer about food additives, particularly those used as preservatives. In 1900 the food additive amendment to the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act of 1938 took effect. This law provided that no additive could be used in foods unless the Food & Drug Administration after careful review, agreed that the compound was safe for the intended levels of use. An exception was made for all additives that, because of years of widespread use in foods were generally recognized as safe. (GRAS is the word coined to identify these.)

So when you read the list of ingredients on a package of rice casserole—mono and diglycerides, monosodium glutamate, butylated hydroxyanisole, butylated hydroxytoluene, propyl gallate, propylene glycol and citric acid—even though we may not understand them, the enforcing agencies can. They are listed for our protection and are serving such purposes as flavor enhancers, preservatives, artificial sweeteners, nutritive enhancers, anti-caking and anti-foaming compounds, emulsifiers, etc. Without such additives many of the new foods today would be impossible or at least grossly inferior by our present standards.

For at least 1/3 of your day, it's a nuisance.

Nobody spends all day near a kitchen phone. Or a hall phone. (Or wherever it is you have the ringing thing.)

We're guessing that at least 1/3 of the time, a one-phone family does cross-country running through the house or scrambles down some stairs to take the call.

You can't call that modern living. In fact, 40% of the families in America aren't living like that.

They've got an extension phone somewhere else in the house.

That second telephone would cost a lot less than you probably think. Something like 4 cents a day if you choose the basic color and style.

(And that's a bargain—you already pay about four times that for the phone you've got now.)

Call our business office or ask the men on the telephone trucks you see around town.

Hello, extension telephone; goodbye, nuisance.

Merry Mixers to celebrate anniversary

DEWITT — DeWitt Merry Mixers will celebrate their second anniversary Saturday, March 30, with a Zodiac Dance at the DeWitt Senior High School. The dance will begin at 8:30 p.m. and last until 11:30. There will be three callers present, Les Fuhrman of the Lansing Shindiggers, Chuck Wilbur of the Charlotte Twirlers and Russ Farr of the DeWitt Merry Mixers.

IT IS EXPECTED that there will be at least 400 Western style, square dancers in attendance.

Officers of the Mixers are Alan and Donna Couling, president; Tom and Lois Kromer, vice president; Chuck and Barb LaMacchia, treasurer; Russ and Jo Janz, secretary and Arnold and Ruth Ordway, Federation delegate.

The Mixers are affiliated with the Lansing Area Federation of Square and Round Dancers.

MEMBERSHIP IN THE group has grown from four couples to about 20. The original members are Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Ordway, Mr. and Mrs. Charles LaMacchia, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Fuller and Mr. and Mrs. Otis Hiltz all of DeWitt.

In order to become a Mixer one must graduate from a 15 lesson course. The lessons are held once a week and last two hours.

The Mixers have two regular dances each month on the second and fourth Saturdays at the DeWitt Junior High School.

One must have graduated from the course of lessons before attending any of the regularly scheduled dances.

The fellow who's still boasting about last year must have done something very important then—or nothing, much since.

Open Letter from VAN W. HOAG

Dear friends,

The South Carolina Advocate wrote of funeral directors as, "men who have elected to serve humanity in an area of life which is filled with heart-break, wonderment, sorrow and grief. Their own efforts to live with nearly constant death... must in large measure have arisen out of a desire to help the stricken families and bring a little comfort in a material way. We are glad they are at hand."

Respectfully,

Van W. Hoag

Color is "in" for linens

tered open areas assures a close, even weave.

Its all-out color today in both towels and bed linens. Designers have really let-themselves go in promoting color and patterns. It's possible to completely coordinate bed and bath items with matching towels, blankets, sheets and bedspreads. If you wish, you can even carry the coordination to bedroom and bath rugs and other accessories.

Whatever your preference you can find splashy geometrics, soft florals, bold stripes or brilliant solids. Jacquered weaves and shearing techniques offer interesting designs and soft velvety effects for towels. Though shearing of loops in terry towels reduces the absorbency to a degree, many people are willing to make this sacrifice for luxurious appearance and feel. Each consumer has to decide which is more important in her individual situation.

PERMANENT PRESS and super-sizes are perhaps the most important trend in bed linens, while light weight polyester blends in a wide range of color and design continue in popularity in the blanket department.

When selecting terry towels some knowledge of what to check in addition to price can be helpful in making the decision as to which towel to buy. The hem or border areas are excellent indications of the underweave. A firm, close weave is desired. Uniformity of weave insures longer and more even wear. Holding the towel up to the light and seeing tiny, uniform pinpoints of light rather than scat-

GENERALLY THE more loops there are, the better the absorbency and longer wear. Too long loops are likely to catch and snag and too short loops don't absorb as readily.

Firmly stitched, even hems with reinforced end stitching are points of quality. Important to each individual need is the size, weight, softness, color and design.

Helen Mueller is TOPS queen

The weight recorder reported there were 30 members present recording a 23 1/2 pound loss and a 27 1/2 pound gain. There were three turtles and three KOPS also present.

Helen Mueller was queen of the week with 4 1/4 pound loss. The leader Mary Masarik read a letter about the Area Recognition Day March 25 at the Women's Club House in Lansing. Several of the members decided to attend.

Helen Peck was winner of the mystery prize.

Judging by what he delivers to our house, the mailman should be called the junkman.

John Morrow, Sexton of Wacousta Cemetery, was given permission to purchase all materials necessary to fence in the cemetery. Motion was also made and seconded that there be no Sunday Burials, except in case of extreme emergencies, at the approval of the Sexton, and if there has to be such a funeral that an extra charge of $25 be made.

Patriotism is not dead

Who says patriotism is dead? Not here, say the teachers at Perrin-Palmer School in St. Johns. Mrs. Geraldine Whyman's and Mrs. Dorothy Bakita's sixth graders recently did essay work in preparation for junior high.

One essay subject concerned the meaning of the United States flag. In connection with that unit, Eric Bond, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Bond of 920 N. Clinton Avenue, composed a poem that in the teacher's minds "is expressive of what America and the United States flag means to these youngsters." Here's Eric's poem:

OUR AMERICA

The people of America
Are proud of this great nation
We've struggled through in battle
To save each situation

Our flag in all its glory
Waves brightly in the sky
To show the world around us
Americans will stand by

Our nation has its problems,
But the world can all rely
On the strength of our great leaders
To help our colors fly!

BARBED WIRE and Babbling Brooks

Spring sun shines on babbling brooks — and barbed wire. A bird song lifts prettily on fragrant air — and a sniper shot splits the silence. New green burgeons through brown winter grasses — and red blood drenches jungle earth.

One's description of the season depends upon location. In some parts of the world there are happy people, enjoying the spring, looking forward to Easter services. Other faces of this globe find suffering people, anguished by the sunshine, hungry, afraid, lonely, dying.

Centuries ago on black Calvary hill, Jesus of Nazareth demonstrated perfect love. Down through the ages, His life and teachings have pointed the way for mankind to heal the ills of the world.

So, in this Lenten season let us offer ourselves—our time and talents—to the service of His Church, in its task of making His kingdom come upon earth.

Literary Club told beware of fake cures

Woman's Literary Club members, their husbands and friends listened to a talk on "Quackery in Drugs" by William G. Carlton of the Food and Drug Administration in the Saginaw district Tuesday evening at the Masonic Hall.

Drugs are medicine and appliances that are advertised as safe and effective but quackery presents a false face, he said. Among the types of fraud are: misbranding of machines, such as a vacuum cleaner, which destroys bacteria in air and cleanses the home of germs; television ads on smoking; "Iron poor blood"; arthritis cures; cosmetics including hair-growing aids and cancer treatment.

Carlton urged every one to beware of anyone who claims to have a cure for a complicated ailment, machines for diagnosis or anything by mail that needs fitting such as shoes, dentures and glasses.

TO SPOT a quack, Carlton said you always find he has a big secret to share with you or he is battling medical. Check source of information such as magazines, newspaper, TV and friends.

He emphasized his department as constantly concerned with drugs that are misused. Drugs and cosmetics are removed from the market if they are found to be useless or harmful, he added. Carlton displayed a quantity of "junk," that is sold "in good faith" by carnival hawkers and

This truck is actually building a highway. One out of every three miles of Michigan's street and highway system is paid for by trucks. One large truck pays as much in highway-user taxes as do 30 automobiles. Heavy trucks (20,000 pounds or more), comprising 1% of all vehicles, pay 16% of all highway costs. Our interest in good highways is for real. We want to pay our fair share.

Highway users pay in advance, for roads yet to be built, and generally, in proportion to the use they derive from them. Highway costs the Federal government nothing; they have no effect on the Budget. If expenditures for highways are cut back, the tax paid by users still accrues in the Highway Trust Fund, which was created by Congress to finance the world's finest highway improvement system, and is by law earmarked for highway purposes only.

Interstate Highways, built for reasons of national defense (but with not one penny from the Defense Budget), have been of great benefit to all motorists. The trucking industry has certainly benefited. But once and for all, let the record show:

THERE IS NO SUBSIDY FOR HIGHWAYS!

Change in thinking needed, agribusiness director says

More "brain power" instead of "muscle power" will be needed for profitable agribusiness ventures in the years ahead, according to Robert J. Eggert, director of agribusiness programs at Michigan State University.

Eggert, speaking at the 14th annual Agricultural Marketing and Agribusiness Clinic at MSU March 12, said that while "muscle in the marketplace" was a current catch phrase often applied, "improved management coupled with factual information is what the industry really needs."

"The expanded use of the computer to aid in management decision making and marketing research to assist in evaluating the desires of the customer," he said, "will be essential and powerful tools for increasing profits for agribusiness firms in the future."

"Rapidly expanding commercial farmers in cooperation with agribusiness processors will need to be in a position to trade some of the production decision freedom they have had in the past for more price decision freedom in the future."

The MSU agribusiness head said that good "secondary" outlets for most agricultural products would be essential to maintain price and profit goals in the future. A minimum profit goal of 10 per cent after taxes should be the target for future capital investments in the agribusiness area. He pointed out that this is being accomplished in some of the well managed individual firms today.

Eggert said the new agribusiness major now being offered jointly through the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources and the College of Business at MSU should help provide the industry with capable, profit-oriented people in the future. Agribusiness firms should lend their support to increased interest among prospective students in the 20 or more programs offered by the College of Agriculture, he concluded.

Early planting pays

Farmers lose one bushel per acre for each day of delay in corn planting after May 1-10, contends Dr. E.C. Rossman, Michigan State University crop scientist.

"Farmers should be ready to plant corn as soon as proper seedbed can be prepared after May 1," says Rossman. "Even the last week of April is not too early if the weather is good and the ground is ready to work."

Rossman explains that early planted corn produces higher yields because silking and early ear development occur before late July and August when Michigan often has dry weather. Plants still in the silking stage at this time can undergo "moisture stress" which can adversely affect corn yields, he states.

Long-time date-of-planting corn research for Michigan shows that each day planting was delayed increased plant height by one inch, delayed silking three-fourths of a day, and increased the moisture content at harvest by one-third of 1 per cent.

"It's not necessary to wait until the soil warms to the 50 degree minimal temperature for corn germination if high quality seed with a good cold test germination is planted," says Rossman.

Even if spring frosts kill part or all of the above-ground leaves after the seedlings have emerged, chances are still good that the new leaves will develop from the growing point or "heart" of the plant. That's because the growing point remains below the soil surface until the plants are 8-10 inches tall.

"WAIT A FEW DAYS BEFORE REPLANTING," urges Rossman. "Frozen corn that recovers will be ahead of replanted corn."

What plant populations are best?

Rossman says 16,000 to 18,000 plants per acre consistently result in the highest yields. When fertility and rainfall are favorable for 100 bushels or more per acre, 20,000 to 22,000 plants per acre yield best.

However, during a dry period, plant populations of 22,000 to 24,000 will suffer more than those in the 16,000 to 18,000 range, and will require more fertilizer. Lodging and barren plants will also be more of a problem with the higher plant populations.

To increase yields with high populations (20,000 or more) all operations must be done effectively and on time.

To determine whether to plant more or less seeds per acre this year, calculate the average air-dry weight of each ear of each plant (including barren plants), suggests Rossman. Population has been optimum for prevailing fertility and rainfall if ear weight averages four-tenths to five-tenths of a pound.

If less than this, plant population was too high and should be reduced this season. If the ear weight averages more than this figure, population was too thin, and yields might improve with a higher population.

The crop scientist reminds farmers to plant 20 per cent more seed than the number of plants he expects to have at harvest time, if the crop is planted before May 10. About 10 per cent is needed if it's planted after May 20.

COMPARING RESEARCH ON ROW-SPACING, Rossman admits that narrow (18-inch) rows have shown 15 per cent higher yields than 36- to 40-inch rows. But, he cautions farmers that these high yields are only part of the story and that several factors need to be considered before switching to narrow rows.

He says switching to narrow rows might be advantageous if:

—All other corn production practices are being utilized to a maximum.

—Present corn yields exceed 90-100 bushels per acre.

—Present planting and harvesting equipment needs to be replaced.

—At least 100 acres are devoted to corn production.

—A uniform narrow row width is convenient for all row crops (corn, beans, soybeans).

"One of the most important production practices is choosing the best corn hybrid," says Rossman. "There is usually little or no difference in seed cost, and since there is no additional planting expense, the increased yields are nearly all profit."

MSU's 1967 corn performance trials, conducted at 17 locations throughout Michigan showed the best hybrids yielded 26 bushels more than the average and 54 bushels more than the lowest yielding hybrids.

Performance data on all Michigan hybrids can be found in Bulletin 431, "Corn Hybrids Compared for 1968," available at all county Extension offices.

Says dairy marketing outlets badly needed

In an era of sharply growing competition from substitutes, are the days of the dairy cow really numbered?

"The situation is threatening, but certainly not lost," says Roy Robichaux, president of Roy's Sanitary Dairy, Monroe, Wis.

To counteract the competition, processors should join ranks in the production of modified products, he told an Agricultural Marketing Clinic at Michigan State University March 12.

"We need all the products we can research and manufacture to sell dairy products and to give to the producer of milk additional markets for manufacturing milk, which will demand the very highest return to him for his efforts," he said.

"As buyers turn toward such products as margarine, which is cheaper and more appealing to some because of its low unsaturated fat content, we've got to increase the selling power of our dairy products."

Robichaux feels he has a good competitor for margarine in a new 40 per cent dairy spread, which he calls "Butterite."

He said the new spread is made through a process involving the blending of sweet cream, vegetable oil and milk, and then working the product by a chilled buttermilk patented process.

"Modified butter may be below in butterfat—important in a diet-conscious market—and is less expensive, spreads easier and will keep longer," he claims.

The Wisconsin dairyman also intends to begin manufacturing a 10 per cent dairy blend margarine in the near future. This will initially be for out-of-state sale, he said, because of wording restrictions in a current Wisconsin state statute.

ASC PROGRAM

List final dates to apply for price support loans

This year for most 1967 crops, there has been increased activity in loans and price support over recent years. More and more, producers have become knowledgeable about the price support programs and the assistance they provide. With extended loans available now on warehouse-stored commodities, more interest than ever has been shown by producers in the loan program.

The price support program was designed to assist producers in the orderly marketing of their crops. Through loans, the producer can obtain operating capital during low market price periods and still retain title to his crop, and sell it when he feels the market is at its best.

Spring fever hits farms

It's about that time of year when kids want to get out of their overcoats and galoshes, housewives like to "get out of the house" and farmers are itching to get out in the field.

It's still a bit early to start cropping work, but there are plenty of things that can best be taken care of now, reminds George McQueen, Clinton County agricultural Extension agent.

"For instance," says McQueen, "drag out the conveyor with the electric motor and clean it up. Try the motor and make sure it's free of dust and dirt or bird's nests and make sure the chain is free to run."

Warm, sun-shiny March days are excellent for calibrating equipment, like drills, planters and sprayers. Get the hay mower ready to go, time the baler now, the county agent suggests.

Use spare time to take a close look at the farm layout and analyze possible changes. One possibility might be to make a good farmstead layout drawing showing the location of water spots, mud holes, tile lines and other services or problem areas. These problems are apparent now, but are less apparent during summer months when the ground is dry.

Producers should remember that the price support loan can be a straight financing operation, and the exceptionally low interest rates can be a big advantage to producers, even though the support price loan rate is lower than the market. The interest rate averages only about 3 per cent per year.

Under the price support program, producers retain title to their crop placed under loan, and when the market improves. They have the privilege of disposing of their crop on the open market and redeeming their loan. If the market price remains below the loan rate, then producers may deliver the collateral to the government, and settlement will be made on the basis of the support price for the quality delivered. In this way, the price support loan is also a guarantee of a minimum price to the producer in addition to the orderly marketing feature of the program.

THE AVAILABILITY of price support for the different crops in Michigan varies, depending upon the marketing year for that particular crop.

For 1967-crop wheat, barley, rye and dry edible beans, the maturity date is April 30, 1968. Requests for price support must be made by this date; however, producers who wish to obtain loans must make a request at their local county ASCS office by April 1, 1968.

The maturity date and final date for requesting price support for 1967-crop oats is May 31, 1968; however, requests for loans must be made by April 30, 1968.

An important feature in the 1967-crop price support program this year is the resale program which has been expanded to permit extension of warehouse-stored loans at the request of the producer. Extension will not be automatic; each producer with a farm-stored or warehouse-stored loan will be informed, in writing, of the maturity date of the loan which is the final date for requesting an extension of his warehouse-stored loan.

For wheat and barley, the final date for requesting loans is April 1, 1968, and the final date for requesting extended warehouse-stored loans is April 30, 1968. In the case of oats, the final date for requesting a loan is April 30, 1968, and the final date for requesting an extended warehouse-stored loan is May 31, 1968.

Resale or extension privileges for 1967 crops apply only to wheat, oats, barley, corn and soybeans. Prior year crops of 1964, 1965 and 1966 corn, 1965 and 1966 oats, and 1966 wheat and soybeans may also be resold on the farm for another year.

For corn, soybeans and grain sorghum, the final date for requesting loans is June 30, 1968, and the final date for requesting extension of warehouse-stored loans is July 31, 1968.

Family skeletons used to hide in closets. Nowadays they seem to promenade in miniskirts.

A good 'crop' demands good care

No elections in recent years have meant so much to so many people as do the school millage elections coming up this Saturday, March 23, in the St. Johns and Ovid-Elsie school districts.

They are millage issues that deserve thorough consideration of the facts and deep concern over the necessary alternatives of a yes vote.

In both districts, the alternatives to a yes vote are steps backward in the educational programs being offered. Both school districts are in the red by about $100,000 over the past two years, and without new and higher millage for next year they'll have no choice but to curtail some phases of their programs in order to finish next year in the black ink.

The requests of both school districts are not out of line, certainly, since neither is proposing any vast new programs. The requests are conservative, as a matter of fact, and if any objection is justified it should be to the effect that not enough millage is being asked to provide improvements in the curriculum.

The St. Johns district proposes to update its curriculum in the rural schools to put them on the same level as the city schools within the district. Beyond that, everything is status quo.

It's too bad the status quo has to be expensive, too. But school districts, just like individuals and businesses, find they can't keep good employees by paying the same wages every year while other places are paying more; that they can't maintain their buildings at the same level at the same cost year after year while costs of maintenance materials go up.

Not only do costs go up, but rising enrollments add to the woes.

Conservation education is for everyone

"Learn To Live With Nature" is the theme for National Wildlife Week 1968, March 17-23. Conservation education is the key to discovering how to make the most of our precious natural resources.

"The Standard three R's of learning should be increased to four. In addition to Reading, 'Riting, and 'Rithmetic, every child should be learning about Resources," said Verne M. Bathurst, state conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service in Michigan.

Today, men are learning how to fly to the moon, tour the world in supersonic jet liners, and beam television waves from one side of the earth to the other. We have discovered how to save lives with miracle operations and live for months at a time on the ocean floor.

But are we learning to take care of the resources that make up this, the only world in which we shall ever live? Are we doing what is necessary to care for our environment? With the rise in air and water pollution, litter, and resource waste, it appears that Americans have not realized the urgent need for conservation.

People need to "Learn to Live With Nature." We need to understand the ways to protect our nation's resources and beauty, states Lloyd B. Campbell, work unit conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service assisting the Clinton Soil Conservation District.

Conservation education holds the answers. It means teaching people how to care for the land, protect wildlife and stop poisoning our streams and fouling the air we breathe. It also teaches people to take an interest in what others are doing to the environment—the polluters, litter bugs, and junkers.

Learning about conservation is like all other forms of vital education; it should be required for our young people. Every school should conduct a program that teaches the ways and means of living WITH nature—not in spite of it.

At the same time, every adult should become conservation-minded so that there will be enough of this beautiful and pro-

And so the cost of education goes up with the general cost of living. What hurts particularly now is the comparison of the new millage figures with those which have been levied in past years rather than what SHOULD have been levied. We've been getting a bargain, you and I, these past few years.

It all boils down to more taxes, though, and that's hard for anybody to swallow. For St. Johns School District residents, the millage proposal means $12.80 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation—$8.30 more than last year. For Ovid-Elsie Area School District residents, their proposal means $12.75 per $1,000 of SEV—$4.25 more than last year.

This is the "cost of living" for the schools, for mere maintenance of their educational programs. As hard as it hits the pocketbook, we can see no real alternative to a yes vote.

A "no" decision in either district means deterioration of buildings, deterioration of fine teaching staffs, deterioration of educational programs for your kids, my kids, your grand-kids and your friends' kids, and—what is perhaps the saddest thing to watch—the slow but sure deterioration of community (district) morale.

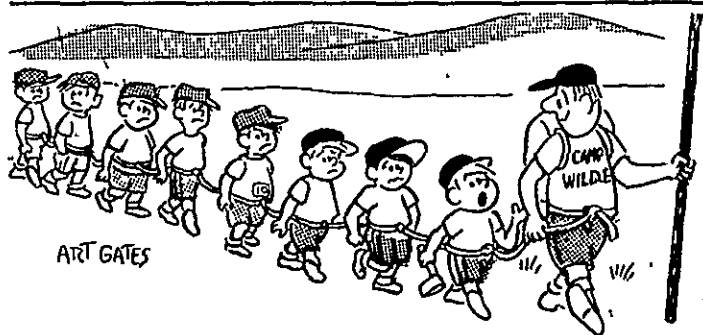

The school systems we have now are models for countless others and a tribute to wise leadership and a progressive citizenry. We can be proud of what we have. We built it and now we must maintain it, much the same as the homeowner must take care of his lawn and the farmer must take care of his fields.

Don't let "weeds" ruin our schools. We can afford a yes vote to guarantee a good educational yield; we can't afford a no vote.

ductive country left for the next generation. While the schools are teaching the dangers of pollution and erosion, the adult community should be working to keep our country a healthful place in which to live.

"Conservation education is for everyone," said Stanley Baird, chairman of the Clinton County Soil Conservation District. "Begin by appreciating the many natural resources that bless this land. During National Wildlife Week take time to consider how important it is to 'Learn to Live with Nature,' then improve your understanding of conservation."

The 1968 National Wildlife Week observance in Michigan is being sponsored by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs.

"Shouldn't we have taken off these ropes when we got down the mountain?"

25 YEARS OF SERVICE TO MANKIND

Catholic Relief Services, overseas aid agency of American Catholics, was founded in 1943 by the bishops of the U.S. to help alleviate the anguish of civilians in Europe caught in the disruption and devastation of World War II. Initially, CRS collected, purchased and shipped to war-torn countries huge quantities of food, clothing, medicines and other relief supplies which were distributed to millions of displaced persons, prisoners-of-war, bombed-out families, widows, orphans and other war victims.

As conditions in Europe improved in the late 1940's and early 1950's, the works of mercy conducted by Catholic Relief Services spread to other continents and areas—Asia, Africa and Latin America, wherever mankind was in want or distress—helping all in need, regardless of race, religion or color.

During the quarter of a century since the agency's inception, over eight and one-half million tons of supplies, valued in excess of $1 1/2 billion have been shipped overseas by Catholic Relief Services and distributed to the impoverished. Today, CRS is the largest private voluntary relief agency in the world and its programs benefit an estimated 40 million needy men, women and children in more than 70 countries each year.

Over the course of the past 25 years, Catholic Relief Services has brought aid and comfort to the helpless victims of the many floods, hurricanes, earthquakes and famines that occur so often and so unexpectedly, leaving tragedy and misery in their wake. More recently, the agency has concentrated substantial portions of its overall aid programs in areas where armed conflict has driven innocent victims from their homes and created new and staggering refugee populations and problems, specifically in Vietnam and the Middle East.

To the millions in Latin America, yearning for social justice after years of grinding poverty, ignorance and near serfdom, Catholic Relief Services distributes food, clothing, medicines and other relief supplies. In Africa, CRS helps the newly independent countries with their mounting problems of social and economic development and dire human need.

In addition to alleviating the immediate needs of the poverty-stricken by direct relief, the programs of Catholic Relief Services also encompass long-range development projects designed to help individuals, families and entire communities raise their standards of living and attain economic viability. Such projects run the gamut from simple road-clearing projects

The U.S. government has awarded the Purple Heart decoration, posthumously, to Cpl. Ralph D. Barber, who made the supreme sacrifice recently while serving with the armored forces in North Africa. Cpl. Barber was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Barber of Victor.

People working in nearby war plants must arrange to share-ride with others if they are to get gasoline. That is the edict of the OPA and it will be enforced in this county according to Ration Chairman, Ed Willbrandt.

Contracts

By W. E. DOBSON

A contract is a document
By which folks do agree,
To do a given job of work
For a given wage or fee.

Time was when documents so signed
Were held in sacred trust,
As mutual protection
In agreements fair and just.

The kind of contract has not changed
So far as I can say,
They call for certain payments,
On a given week or day.

A contract is a contract
But the ink's not dry these days,
Ere signers change to hold outs
For a substantial raise.

We find it in our cities,
'N it's rampant in our schools,
Good faith is too oft missing,
With a contract fur a tool.

The folks who run our nation
Oft the worst example set,
By their words and by their actions,
As they seek all they can get.

When nations that are strongest
Make smaller ones their prey,
They break off solemn contracts
In a ruthless sort of way.

I'm crabby 'n old fashioned
But I must loud dissent,
When current valid contracts
Fall so far short of good intent.

How can we teach our children
When we the example set,
Of "contract or no contract
I'll take all I can get!"

Life just isn't simple anymore. You and I have noticed this for some time, in general terms, but it has taken Dick Allen, columnist for the Tuscola County Advertiser, to put it down in black and white based on living color television commercials.

This week I'm quoting his analysis.

"When I was a kid, the world didn't seem so complicated a place in which to hang one's beanie. Today, it has either changed drastically, or I am simply the victim of more exposure to the facts of life than I was in that so-sheltered long ago.

"Foregoing all else, Mom's domestic department is becoming more complex. Used to be there wasn't so much indecision, for example, on what brand of soap to purchase. Mom either used Super Suds or Lux for her dishes, and that was that. It was a simple advertising pitch billed as good a soap as any to get the crud off the supper plates and the prune prints off Susie's milk cup. Today, they offer 100 and 1 brands, each with some secret formula and all are reputedly better than brand X. I highly suspect that good old Super Suds is now in the brand X category, but that's life.

"Toothpastes, soap and the like were lauded for doing a good job at keeping your personal hygiene up to snuff; no miracles like today's gimmicks; you merely tried it and if you didn't like it, you bought something else.

"We weren't aware then that cigarettes could kill you, that booze was bad for ulcers or that obesity could be cured with anything other than refusing that second helping or a good trot around the block periodically. Today, you can lose weight only by taking those colorful diet pills along with pills to slow up or increase your blood pressure, depending on which color diet pill you take. We also have diet candy and gum, liquid diet dinners that taste like last week's dishwasher and other means of losing weight which play largely on a regulation of proteins, calories, fats, etc. The list is endless.

"THE MODERN DAY advertising industry has gone absolutely ape in its effort to sell a product. First, they convince us we are either sick, smelly, overfed, don't smoke enough of the "right" brands of cigarettes, or that we should drink more of this beer because...? Then, they move in with their endless list of cure-alls.

Can you imagine what his mental and physical condition would be if the industry had convinced him he had bad breath, tooth decay, headaches—not ordinary headaches, but Excedrin headaches—stomach disorders such as ulcers, nerves, under-arm problems, fallen arches, obesity, dandruff, stuffed-up noses and nasal passages, vitamin and iron deficiencies, corns, arthritis, all topped off with a not-so-mild case of irregularity!

Hard to believe, pal, but I know people who go from one to another just like clockwork.

"But man, you got nothin' to worry about because they got a cure for it all. For example, bad breath can be eradicated with mouthwashes, toothpaste with powerful XYZ formulas, candy like anti-bad breath mints and chewing gum which has a refreshing air that lasts up to 10 hours or 10 feet, or guaranteed your bad breath back. For tooth decay, they offer basically the same types of preventive products and, in the event it's too late for you, they'll sell you something to keep your dentures sparkling good as the day you bought them.

"For headaches and the like, you can purchase tablets, capsules, fizzes, liquid pain-killers, or, like the commercial suggests, you can simply eliminate your mother-in-law entirely.

"PERSONALLY, one of the few commercials I find that uses good taste and a bit of humor on a personal subject can be heard over the Arthur Godfrey radio program daily where the pitch goes out for bran flakes as the endorsement of all "regular fellows." I'll bet they sell a lot of the stuff.

"I am somewhat insulted by the majority of commercials which appear to be geared for a bunch of dummies who are supposed to rush down to the drug store the minute the commercial is over. Specifically, I refer to that poor slob whose breath is so bad it takes a glass shield to protect society from him; or the nice looking chick who gets her jollies by singing three verses of the Winston song with the full accompaniment of a band. They're not geared to reality, pal, they possess no degree of creativity nor a thimble's worth of humor.

"Now if you'll excuse me, I've got to take something for my Excedrin headache... all this has made me a very sick man!"

NEW BERN, N. C., SUN.

JOURNAL: "The superintendent of schools in a small mountain town in North Carolina made a plea for more financial help for the high school student who isn't a scholastic hot-shot. . . Most scholarship programs are aimed at top-ranking high school seniors who are headed for college. . . But how about the senior who isn't top-ranked and who needs, say, $250 upon graduation to take a machine course in a technical school, or to learn how to become a painter, or to become skilled at some other job? Wouldn't it be better to help this boy than to have him panic and drop out of school to take an unskilled job in the belief that this is his best bet to make a living? . . . There is no better investment for banks, businessmen or educators than to develop a future taxpaying average citizen instead of a future welfare client. Think it over!"

WATERLOO, WISC., COURIER: "President Johnson has promised the postal employees an increase in wages and has tied (the) raise in postal rates to the package. The question becomes: Is the post office department a service of the government for the people or is it to be a self-supporting institution? If it is to be self-supporting we feel that the government should get out of the business. It won't be long before it will be out of the parcel post business anyway as private parcel delivery services are taking over in many areas due to quicker service and better rates. We look for an increase to be adopted this fall. . . Every person throughout the country will be affected by postal rate increases. Those who use few postal stamps will feel the bite in other ways as the business people who operate on small profit margins will have to raise their prices to absorb the cost of their mailings."

MICHIGAN MIRROR

Economic expansion hopes look bright for Michigan

Michigan compares quite favorably with the national average in economic growth, and all indications point to continued expansion during the next decade. These are findings of the Michigan Office of Economic Expansion in its annual report for the year ended June 30, 1967.

Growth accelerated in 1963 and has increased at a rate "well above the national average," the report discloses. Michigan excelled in family spendable income, total labor force, capital investments and gross state product.

Population figures for 1966 show Michigan with an estimated 8.5 million residents. Although the birth rate fell, Michigan added 117,000 people that year. Many were attracted to the state because of the favorable economic climate, the OEE maintains.

The auto industry accounted for 80,000 new jobs in the four-year period 1963-66, but other sources brought an additional 240,000 jobs to the state's economic climate. Major expansions in mining, chemical, wood, cement, electronic, furniture and other industries indicate that Michigan will continue to benefit from programmed growth in years to come.

Defense contracts pushed military spending over the $1 billion mark, the first time since the Korean War that defense spending exceeded $600 million. During 1966, some 450 companies announced plans to expand facilities, construct new sites or move new production facilities into the state.

THE OEE NOTES THAT a considerable amount of expansion was stimulated by legislative action and cooperation between the state and industrialists. Legislation has been enacted which assists industry to meet competition from other areas in the nation in production costs. Tax recognition was granted to industries which have excessive costs in tool and design changes. A municipal bonding act now permits communities to build and equip plants for lease to industry. Funds were provided for research which denotes economic advantages in various areas of the state.

The growing Department of International Trade and Port Development and others serve to stimulate industrial expansion and economic growth. Coupled with natural resources, technical know-how, and an ample supply of skilled labor, it is easy to see why Michigan industry has made such an impressive record. Letters to legislators can have an important impact on pending laws. Lawmakers are generally sensitive to feelings of their constituents and many look to mail from "the folks back home" before deciding whether to support legislation or oppose it.

This is especially true if the issue is "hot." Last year's daylight savings time and abortion bills are good examples. Letters ran so strongly against legalizing abortion that the bill never got out of committee.

The volume of mail on a particular bill is very important. It is estimated that between 70,000 and 100,000 letters have already been received in support of the current aid to non-public schools issue. Letters opposing the legislation arrived later. While lawmakers do not have time to personally assess every bill, several thousand letters will assuredly bring a second and closer look at proposed legislation.

PERSONAL INSULTS serve no purpose in letters and may cause a negative reaction, the lawmakers agree. Letters are usually more effective than telephone calls or telegrams. They should be personally written. The best letter will point out exactly what action is requested and why, in terms the lawmaker can understand and consider reasonable.

Concerned citizens may wonder what will happen to the state's unemployment benefit fund if a large number of workers are ever unemployed. Some 94,000 more people were employed in Michigan in 1967 than in 1966.

Nonetheless, payments to the unemployed rose 80 per cent in that one year, from $62 million to $111 million! The Michigan Employment Security Commission attributes the increase to three major factors: liberalizing eligibility and length of pay periods; raising the ceiling of payments; cutbacks in automobile production with accompanying layoffs.

All three factors resulted in more claims for benefits in '67 than in 1966. Most of the increase came from the metropolitan Detroit area.

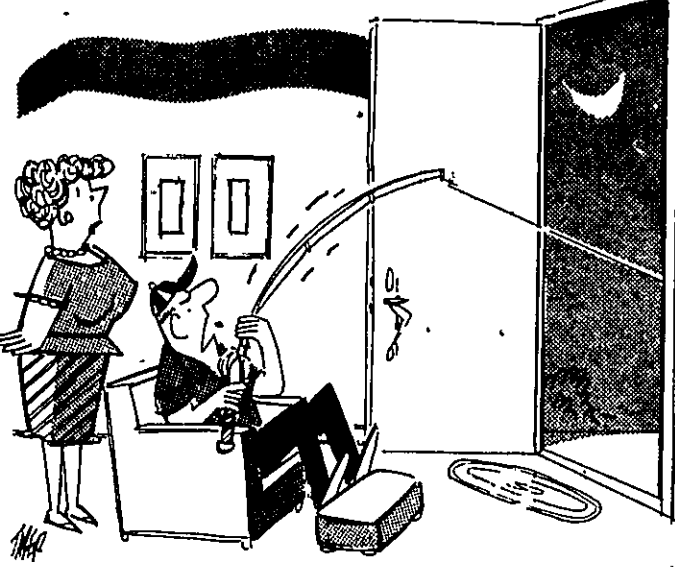

A HEN AND A PIG were walking leisurely down the road and saw a sign which read: "Ham and eggs for sale."

The hen said, "I'm always proud when I see that sign."

The pig replied, "All you have to make is a donation, but I have to make a real sacrifice."

The "Low Down"

From the
Congressional Record
By Joe Crump

Guaranteed annual income hocus-pocus

Senator John G. Tower (Texas) "... A substantial publicity build-up has been taking place during the past several years to sell the American public either of several schemes for paying cash sums to persons who have not earned it through work.

"The proposals mainly are of two types: First, the negative income tax proposal and the second, guaranteed minimum annual income proposal. Both propose to utilize government channels for distribution and both rely on taxation to raise the revenue needed for payments.

"Under the guaranteed income proposal each citizen would be granted as a right an allowance 'regardless of whether or not he worked, could work or was willing to work.' Regardless of the precise amount, the cash he would receive would be a claim upon goods and services produced by others.

"Our form of government was never intended as a gigantic economic machine to cough out an unearned income to millions of voters in the lower economic brackets.

"One important point which should not be obscured in the tremendous administrative problem posed by the plans.

"NOT ONLY WOULD they give birth to a whole new bureaucracy with attendant expenses and red-tape, but they would encourage fraud since there would be no 'means test.' An applicant for a subsidy would, under the guaranteed income plan, simply fill out a form avowing that he received less than the minimum income and would then be given the sum to correct the difference between his income and the minimum stipulated by law.

"It is safe to assume that those applying would be a much greater number than are currently on welfare rolls, since those currently earning incomes up to whatever is the eventual stated minimum, say $3,000 or $4,000 for the initial operation, who have not previously applied for welfare, could be expected to lay aside their trades and apply under the new program.

"Consider the productive taxpayer family, already overburdened with taxes, and the effect on it of this tremendously expensive and socially disrupting welfare program. Forced to shoulder the burden of caring for the indolent and providing them with unearned benefits. To make ends meet, the family may temporarily have to borrow from the children's school fund and thus some child's college education may never materialize. Or perhaps the family will have to forego next spring's house painting.

"Now we would substitute for voluntary charity a government enforced and administered system, costly, impersonal, and, I feel unjust.

"We must never even lose sight of the fact that the guaranteed income proposal is forced charity.

"Not only is the proposal of unearned income immoral; it is economically oppressive for income earners who must support it and may prove fiscally disastrous for the nation."

A GRASSROOTS COMMENT
World War II was a contributing factor, but the fact remains that England's cradle to the grave welfare system has brought near economic collapse.

Many Englishmen, interested in retaining a fair share of their earnings, are leaving the country. England has had to restrict immigration to stop the flood of individuals who could possibly add to the welfare burden.

Charity for the unfortunate should always be available, but productive work provides the incentive, and the taxes to support the less fortunate.

Even Soviet Russia discovered that without capitalistic incentive, their system of government couldn't exist.

14 enjoy golf vacation in South

The topic of discussion the past two weeks during "coffee breaks" at the local restaurants has been the 18 holes of the Gulf Hills Dude Ranch and Country Club at Ocean Springs, Miss. There was a good reason for this as an area group of 21, 14 of them Elsieites, had recently returned from a week at the "Sportsman's Resort" which is a golfer's paradise.

There hasn't been much said about the great scores nor the weather but there was no end to the fun a "bunch of guys" enjoying golf and relaxing from their daily business, could talk about.

In spite of the weather reports, they managed to keep ahead of the icy storms. They found most of the day sunny and warm and never missed a day on the golf course.

There were other sports to enjoy, such as fishing, boating, swimming, horseback riding, picnics and planned entertainments.

THEY ALL agreed that the food at Gulf Hills was fabulous with breakfast served in the "English Manner from the Sideboard", informal lunches and evening dinners, buffet-style with tempting and unusual dishes.

Gulf Hills is a 1000 acre vacation spot located just across the bay from Biloxi, Miss., and only two hours from New Orleans, La.

The golfers reported that the beautiful championship course was a thrill and challenge to play. This was the third year in succession that the Elsie group has made the trip.

Elsie OES met Thursday

Mr and Mrs Archie J. Moore presided for the March meeting of the Elsie Chapter No. 69, OES, Thursday evening of last week.

The calendar of future events was announced by Mrs. Moore; Job's daughters to exemplify their degree work at Masonic and Eastern Star Night April 8 at 7:30 sharp in the Elsie Masonic Hall and refreshments will be served after the meeting; dinner honoring the OES Grand Family at Flushing High School April 17 with grand officers exemplifying the degree work; and "Friends Night" at the Elsie Chapter, April 20.

During the business session, reports were given by the Sunshine committee and thank you notes from Mrs. Kelley Carter, Mrs. C. S. Goodrich and Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Lusk were read.

Janitor duties were outlined by the worthy matron and Grand Chapter letters were read from the Masonic Relations and Villa committees. A financial report of the recent dinner served to the Woman's Literary Club and their guests was presented.

At the close of the Chapter, Mr and Mrs Moore served refreshments during a social hour. Mrs. C. H. Sills drew the mystery package.

One of the highlights of the entertainment while at Gulf Mills was a surprise birthday party honoring Dr. E. M. Slag with a candle-light birthday cake and gift. Later he was called upon to attend several who had a touch of flu. Some admitted it was just plain over-eating, probably the stuffed clams they were served.

DR. SLAGH'S SON, Michael and Fred Beno, both of Elsie, who are attending the Southeastern Louisiana College at Hammond, La., visited the group one day. There were sightseeing trips and a few night clubs also visited by the "young at heart".

THE TRIP TO Mississippi was made by three automobile loads and three different jet flights. A few of the golfers arrived early in Mobile, Ala., and stayed a couple of days on Dauphin Island about 30 miles south of the city in the Gulf of Mexico and reached by a long bridge.

The island was originally called Massacre Island because of the skeleton-strewn beach encountered when the French arrived in 1699 and established a base for colonization of Louisiana. The island played an important role in the War of 1812 with Spanish, English and French building forts during different eras.

In addition to its historical background, the island was of particular interest to the Elsie men as they played at the Isle Dauphine Country Club. The beautiful course was laid out among the sand dunes, green hills and near the sugar-white sand beaches. Known as the "Paradise of the Gulf", the island had its first snowflakes as the men completed their 18th hole.

Fire at cycle shop Saturday

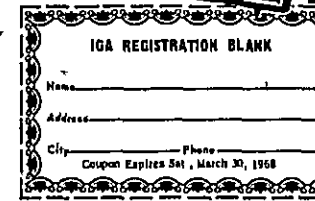

Mr and Mrs Art Davis have returned to their home after spending the winter in Florida. Their homecoming was somewhat marred by an early morning fire at their cycle shop Saturday. Fire evidently started around the heating unit and spread rapidly through the rear of the building.

About 35 motorcycles were removed from the building along with accessories and office equipment.
