

State report ranks Michigan's 525 districts

Bath teachers average highest pay in Clinton

By RON KARLE
Editor

Among Clinton County's six school districts, average teacher's salaries are highest in Bath Community Schools, according to a report issued by the State Department of Education.

The report, based on salaries for the 1968-69 school year, shows that teachers in the Bath system average $8,424 annually.

Other Clinton districts, according to the highest average pay scales, are DeWitt, $8,392;

Ovid-Elsie, $8,155; St. Johns, $7,991; Fowler, $7,414 and Pewamo-Westphalia, $7,187.

"Average teachers' salary include salaries of teachers only and not salaries of administrators, principals or supervisors," says John W. Porter, acting superintendent of instruction.

"The average salary is computed by dividing the total salaries of regular teachers in elementary, secondary and special education by the related number of teaching positions," says the bulletin.

The Michigan study showed that the statewide average for fiscal 1968-69 was $9,145.

The salary average at Bath schools ranked 238th among the state's 525 districts.

DeWitt ranked 246th, Ovid-Elsie 307th, St. Johns 348th, Fowler 470th and Pewamo-Westphalia 492nd.

The study shows that DeWitt spends 63 per cent of its (then) current operating expenses for teacher's salaries, Bath and Ovid-Elsie 58 per cent, St. Johns 54 per cent, Pewamo-Westphalia 51 per cent and Fowler 50 per cent.

Average pay for teachers from the Detroit suburb of River Rouge ranked No. 1 in Michigan at $12,009, while Lansing was second in the state at $11,214.

Rounding out the top five were Grosse Isle, $11,073; Trenton, $11,054 and Dearborn, $11,035.

Observers attribute the high River Rouge average to the tax base provided by the Ford Motor Co's huge complex located in that Downriver community.

Detroit, at $9,891, was ranked 49th.

Officials said Detroit's relatively modest ranking was attributed to the fact that the system has a rapid turnover in its teaching staff resulting in a large portion of it at or near the lowest rungs of the pay scale.

In contrast, is the Lansing system which has a highly stabilized and much older force with many more teachers in the top pay brackets.

At the bottom was the remote

Beaver Island district with only five teachers employed to teach its 78 pupils. Teachers on the island, located 35 miles off Charlevoix in Lake Michigan, averaged $3,025.

St. Johns, the largest district in the County with 3,816 pupils, ranked 130th in size in the state.

Ovid-Elsie, with 2,411 pupils, ranked 209th in size, while DeWitt ranked 331st with 1,430, Bath 338th, with 1,405, Pewamo-Westphalia was 453rd with 661 and Fowler 486th with 479.

The report did not deal with salaries of administrators, topped by the $43,000 paid to Detroit's superintendent, Norman Drachler.

Another report from the National Education Association showed Michigan teachers' salaries averaged $9,823—compared to the $9,145 figure arrived at by the State Department of Education—third highest in the nation.

Alaska at $10,560 was first, while California at $10,155 was second.

Bar owner blasts slow DeWitt police

"It took the police 45 minutes to arrive," Don Karman told the DeWitt City Council Monday night, "I'd like to know why."

Karman owns the DeWitt Bar, which is approximately two blocks from the police station, and which was the scene of a brawl last Saturday night.

"It's the first time in four years that I've had any problem," Karman told council members. He said most of his money from his liquor goes toward police protection.

"I'm tired of depending on this local police force."

"I've asked them to periodically check in there," he said, "but in the last four years they've only been there once."

Karman said he would like police to regularly check his bar, and that his clientele was not the type who would be uncomfortable by the presence of the police.

According to Karman, police arrived 45 minutes after he had been assured that a car was on the way. Karman claimed that the policeman also used profanity toward his 16-year-old son, who works in the bar's kitchen.

"We'll look into this," said Mayor Lawrence Keck.

"I'd like to thank Don for bringing this to our attention," said Councilman John Hatt who is also on the Police Board.

The council discussed the incident for several minutes before turning the problem over to the Police Board, who will report back to the council.

The Police Board made six recommendations which were accepted by the council to alleviate unsafe intersections due to crowded parking.

The council received an estimate of $48,857 to install sewers on Dill Road. In 1965 it was estimated that the same sewers would cost $36,000.

"It's up to the people out there to pay for it," said Keck. No action was taken as the council decided to see if Dill Road residents wished to have sewers installed there.

In other action, the council: —Decided to pay Florence Smith the total cost of repairs she had made to a sewer line in front of her house.

—Announced that new house numbers had been sent out to Lake Geneva residents and that numbers for the rest of the city would follow shortly.

—Received a letter from Armada, Michigan that they would not participate with DeWitt in next month's mayor exchange program.

—Complimented the snow removal staff for doing an excellent job in the two recent storms.

—Received a letter from the DeWitt School Board stating that school elections would be held on June 8.

—Moved that the four main corners in town be blocked off from noon Aug. 21 to noon Aug. 23 so tents could be set up for the Memorial Association's annual Ox Roast.

School millage votes in 5 Clinton districts

Voters in five of Clinton County's six school districts will be asked to approve operational millage in an election June 8.

The only district which is not seeking millage approval is St. Johns where voters last year approved 14 1/2 mills for two years.

In DeWitt voters will be asked to approve an increase of 2.5 mills for operating—from 18.5 to 21. But the debt retirement millage will be reduced from 10 to seven mills which means even if the 21 mills is approved, DeWitt residents will be paying one-half mill less.

At Ovid-Elsie, 14 mills expire but the board has not yet decided on the amount they will seek.

At Fowler, 13 mills expire and voters will ballot on a millage proposal but the amount has not yet been set.

At Pewamo-Westphalia, 13 mills expire and voters will be asked to approve millage but no amount has been set.

No millage amount has been set in Bath where 10 mills expire but officials are expected to decide the amount in the near future.

Terms of 11 board members expire in June and voters will be asked to fill the seats.

Only one term expires in Ovid-Elsie, that of Kenneth Austin, secretary.

Two terms expire on each of the other five boards.

They are:

St. Johns—William Richards and Wendell Waggoner.

DeWitt—Roland Lewis and Willard Reed, president.

Fowler—Marvin Thelen, trustee, and Charles Mathews, treasurer.

Pewamo-Westphalia—Carl Kramer, president and Ronald Schaffer, trustee.

Bath—Paul Seeger, secretary, and Cleo Friend, trustee.

Chamber is preparing tourist booth

The tourist season is fast approaching and members of the tourism committee of the St. Johns Chamber of Commerce are working toward a Memorial Day opening of their information booth, adjacent to Daley's Restaurant on US-27.

According to Stan Cowan, chairman of the committee, a number of volunteers have already been lined up to man the booth during the tourist season, however, openings in the schedule do remain.

Individuals or groups who may desire to participate in the booth's operation may contact Cowan for details.

114th Year, No. 49 ST. JOHNS, MICHIGAN — WEDNESDAY, APRIL 8, 1970 15 CENTS

NOT AGAIN

Yes, it was true. Just as Clinton County residents were recovering from an unexpected spring snowfall the week before, Old Man Winter made what is hoped his final bid last week—the heaviest snowfall of the season. And so, everywhere in the county, snow removal crews were back on the job, including Edward Covert (above) at Ovid. But as usual there were some people like these three St. Johns youngsters who didn't seem to mind if winter ever ends. They are, from left, Scott Henning, Elizabeth Pouch and Kathy Miller.

City Commission is still numbered over millage

City Commissioners were still shaking their heads Monday night over the defeat of a millage election a week earlier in St. Johns.

A proposal calling for five mills was solidly defeated by 133 votes—658-474.

The commissioners met briefly Monday night and accepted the results as certified by the county board of canvassers which showed the proposal losing in the first precinct by 130 votes, 378-248 and in the second precinct by 62 votes, 278-226.

It was the fifth time in three years that St. Johns residents had rejected measures which would have provided additional revenue to the now financially pressed city government.

"Apparently the voters don't want any taxes—of any sort," said Mayor Robert Wood. Jeanne Rand said she personally was in favor of a city income tax and "will work for it."

"I don't see how the commission can work when there is no money to work with," added Mrs. Rand.

She said she thought that there was nothing left to do but seek an income tax although some of

Cobb, Andrews express support for Tri-County

By BOB CALVERLEY
News Staff Writer

"Things seemed to be in an uproar," said Andrew W. Cobb, Clinton Commissioner from Duplain-Elsie. He was describing the Tri-County Regional Planning Commission when he was initially appointed to it.

"I wasn't very much in favor of it," says Cobb.

"But it has straightened out since then," he added, "they've put some sound business techniques to use. I'd hate to see the supervisors (now called commissioners) cut it off."

Cobb's constituency is located in about the farthest corner of Clinton County from Lansing.

"But Lansing is the hub of this area," he says, "quite a few people from here work there and a lot of them do their shopping there."

There are facts to support Cobb.

In 1960 a Tri-County survey revealed that 45 per cent of the workers living in Clinton County commuted to Ingham County to work. It seems unlikely that this percentage has since decreased.

"If an industry falls in Lansing, it affects Clinton County as well," says Herbert D. Maier, Tri-County executive director. "Clinton is an integral part of the Lansing-East Lansing metropolitan area."

"We're trying to solve problems bigger than a corporate area," says Maier. "Housing, transportation and sewers aren't problems which occur only in Clinton County."

"This (Tri-County) is as close as we can get to a natural region within the political boundaries," says Bill Rowden, assistant director.

Maier and Rowden feel that as the smallest county in Tri-County, Clinton may have the most to gain. Just as Tri-County learns of problems developing in the Detroit Metro area before they develop in this region, so will many problems develop in Ingham and Eaton counties before cropping up in Clinton.

They point out that the trend for dispensing federal money is to area-wide agencies.

"The little area grants are drying up," says Maier, "ever since 1965 the federal government has been going toward area agencies."

"If Tri-County is dissolved, HUD money will not be coming in," he says.

"The people will be the real losers," says Rowden. "The only way to solve metropolitan problems is on a regional basis, but there's no reason for counties not having planning agencies. The two should dovetail," he says.

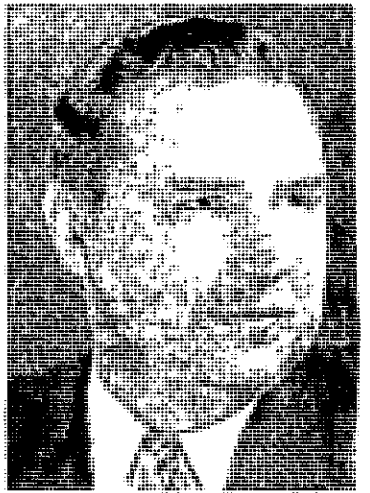

Taxpayers expect governing officials to get the best use out of the tax dollar.

Tri-County supporters feel that getting the best use out of the tax dollar includes adequate planning.

in cities. By 1975 the population will be 225 million, and almost 80 per cent will live in cities. In the Tri-County Region the population will swell to 440,000 in 1975 and to 590,000 in 1990. It was just under 300,000 in 1960.

This means Lansing will grow at a tremendous rate, spilling out into the countryside and Clinton County. Places for work and industry can become entangled with farms, places to live and rec-

WALDRONS HONORED

Cyrus Waldron and his wife Nina were honored at an open house Sunday when a new $700,000 elementary school in Fowler was dedicated in their name. Mrs. Waldron who retired in 1964 as principal of Fowler High School, had devoted more than 40 years of her life to education. Mr. Waldron was a member of the Fowler school board from 1956 to 1962.

Construction plans set for Maple River bridge

A $110,000 bridge project in Northern Clinton County is one of 32 construction and maintenance projects which will be open for bid April 14 by the State Highway Department.

The Clinton project, scheduled for completion by December, calls for the construction of a bridge carrying Shepardsville Road over the Maple River, 4 1/2 miles north of Shepardsville. Statewide projects in 26 counties are expected to cost $21.9 million which is the largest bid opening since May 9 when the department received low bids totaling $10.45 million on 40 projects in 26 counties.

Another project involving Jackson plus Ingham, Calhoun, Jackson, Livingston, Lenawee, Hillsdale and Washtenaw Counties involves $10,000 worth of chemical weed spraying at various locations along US-127, M-52, M-106, and M-78. Completion is scheduled for June.

recreation areas. Miles of streets, freeways, railways and sewer lines will crisscross the region. Drainage basins for sewer systems and transportation networks do not occur according to the governmental boundaries within Tri-County, and there are 79 such governmental units in Tri-County.

"We're trying to develop plans on a broad scale that overlaps political jurisdiction," says Maier.

"Our problems are mutual," says Jack Andrews, another Clinton Commissioner supporting Tri-County. "We're just tapping the information we've got in Tri-County."

"I'm for both regional and county planning," says Andrews. "We can't afford not to work together," says Maier, "our problems far exceed our ability to pay for them."

Immunization clinic free

The free immunization clinic will be held Thursday in a new location, the basement of St. Joseph's Catholic Church from 8:30 to 11 a.m.

Shots will be given by Dr. P. F. Stoller and nurses from Mid-Michigan Health Department.

Immunization will be given for DPT, DT, Typhoid, Smallpox, Measles, Oral Polio and the Tuberculin Skin Test.

Commissioners still numbed

the "commissioners wouldn't agree with me."
"I was extremely disappointed because I thought the millage would pass," said another commissioner, Dr. James Grost. Dr. Grost indicated he did not advocate an income tax.

"With five defeats in three years, as far as I'm concerned, that's the end," said Grost. "I assume the people don't want taxes. We'll have to make do with what we've got. We'll just have to be more prudent."
Grost noted that two years ago the city was forced to borrow $90,000 and another $60,000 last year.

"This year I think we won't have to borrow anything," he added saying he thought this was a credit to the city administrators.
"The sad part is that the city will continue to go downhill," said Commissioner Charles Coletta. "There's no money for capital improvements and I don't know how a city can exist without a capital improvements program."
"The city's operating expenses will have to remain on an austerity program," he added.
Coletta cited two examples of how the city's financial plight is detrimental to its residents.
"We almost have to purchase a new fire truck to provide proper fire protection," he said. "But how with only 10 mills that's out of the question."
"St. Johns has 11 miles of streets which are beyond ordinary maintenance," he added. "But all we can do is just render first aid."

"The only thing I can say is that as far as I'm concerned we will go along with what we have and do the best we can," said Commissioner John Hannah.
Hannah termed talk of an income tax as "conjecture" and said there was nothing of that nature officially before the commission.
"I wandered around the country quite a bit," he says, "been in every state except Vermont."
During World War I, Dr. Henthorn was an officer in a machine-gun battalion and fought in the Argonne.
Following a three-year period with the U. S. Public Health Service in Grand Rapids he came to St. Johns, in 1924.

After 60 years in medicine, Dr. Henthorn retires

By BOB CALVERLEY
News Staff Writer

"As Maine goes, so goes the nation," was a well-known 1888 Republican slogan; Maine went Republican and Benjamin Harrison, a Republican, defeated Grover Cleveland to become President. That year, in Wallace's Theater, DeWolf Hopper recited a new poem, "Casey at the Bat." George Eastman perfected a box camera which worked with roll film. The Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) was formed, thwarting unscrupulous promoters from taking over amateur sports. And New York defeated St. Louis to win the world's baseball championship.

While citizens in Louisville were using the Australian secret ballot for the first time in America (they called it "kangaroo voting") further up the Ohio River in the tiny community of Vanceburg, Arthur Henthorn--St. Johns' Dr. Henthorn, was born. "You could stand in my dad's backyard and throw rocks in the Ohio River if you had a good wing," he says remembering growing up in Vanceburg.

DR. ARTHUR HENTHORN

Dr. Henthorn has practiced medicine for 60 years, since he graduated from the University of Louisville in 1910.

1910: Teddy Roosevelt campaigned for the "new nationalism" or "square deal" as he called it. In a speech at Osawatomi, Kansas. He was for a graduated income tax, control of trusts, labor protection, conservation and an adequate army and navy. Fed up with two years of Republican President Taft, Americans elected a Democrat Congress for the first time since 1894, and even put in the first Socialist, Victor L. Berger from Milwaukee. A young Franklin Roosevelt was elected to the New York State Senate. The Christian Endeavor Society of Missouri began a campaign to ban all motion pictures depicting kissing between people who were not relatives. Barney Oldfield roared down Daytona Beach at 183 mph, "the fastest speed ever traveled by man." The Earth was passing through the tail of Halley's comet... many farmers took to cyclone cellars... workers stayed home to die with their families... nothing happened.

After an internship in New York, Dr. Henthorn went to Garrison, Kentucky where he was a horse-and-buggy-family doctor. Then he became the surgeon for the Ohio and Chesapeake Railway, from 1913 to 1921.

"I wandered around the country quite a bit," he says, "been in every state except Vermont."
During World War I, Dr. Henthorn was an officer in a machine-gun battalion and fought in the Argonne.

Following a three-year period with the U. S. Public Health Service in Grand Rapids he came to St. Johns, in 1924.

1924, that was the year Henry Ford manufactured his 10 millionth car, and Fords were selling for $290 (no electric starter).

TOO PERFECT

Mother Nature can do most anything, but copying the illustrations in seed catalogs just about stumps her.

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in San Antonio that year ruled that the Theory of Evolution was untenable and the Methodist General Conference meeting at Springfield finally gave up its ban on dancing and theater attendance. Americans were going to movies like the Thief of Bagdad, Beau Brummel, the Ten Commandments, Girl Shy and Sea Hawk. George Gershwin performed Rhapsody in Blue and Eugene O'Neill's tale of lust, Puritanism and sordid family relations, "Desire Under the Elms," won wide critical acclaim. The nation "kept cool with Coolidge" as Cool Cal defeated John W. Davis, the Democrat.

"There were a lot of good people in St. Johns then--still are," says Dr. Henthorn. "If I've got an enemy in town, I don't know it."

"I liked it here. I wouldn't have stayed here if the people hadn't been so nice."

Some of Dr. Henthorn's old friends, whom he went hunting and fishing with, were John Hicks, Otis Fuller, Burt Glaspie, O. P. DeWitt, Frank Fehrenbach, Fred Burke, Al Jones, A. C. Morton, Frank Spalding, and Sheriff Jack Barnes. The names appear frequently in old editions of the Republican News.

Dr. Henthorn remembers when, "Clinton Avenue was a solid mud-hole north of the railroad," that there were 12 doctors, two factories and no hospital in St. Johns, when he arrived, and "reading an awful lot to keep up."

The horse and buggy had faded, Dr. Henthorn had a car in St. Johns, "and we did night work."

he says. On his vacations he went hunting and fishing.

"I've hunted all over North America," Dr. Henthorn retired on Feb. 1 this year and he hasn't been hunting for five years.

Now it's 1970 and the latest edition of the Encyclopedia of American Facts and Dates quits in 1962. When the historians catch up to the present they'll doubtless list accomplishments like organ transplants as significant in medicine but few will notice that nice little towns like St. Johns don't have as many doctors as they used to.

"We could use about three more," says Dr. Henthorn.

"The younger doctors aren't being taught like us," he says, "they're not teaching doctors to sit down beside a patient and find out what's wrong with him."

"They've got a doctor for your right ear and one for your left ear." But he quickly adds, "I couldn't do a lot of the things they can do."

"In the old days you got the silk hat treatment," he says, "a doctor was respected and people expected you to be good."

"But today it's all changed... the doctor isn't as important in the community as he used to be."

Although he hasn't done any surgery since 1940 Dr. Henthorn says he could still do it in an emergency.

"I'm doing the hardest job I ever did in my life--loafing," he said sitting in his study filled with hunting and fishing trophies, pictures of old friends and his 1970 Physicians Desk Reference.

"Time gets away from you so fast," he said reflecting over his 60 years in medicine.

As Daisy Mae is talking to Li'l Abner before the Sadie Hawkins Race, she exclaims, "Has yo figured out how ah'm gonna catch yo so's we both know what we's doin'?"

This is just one of the lines Karen Rhyndard will say when the Bath High School chorus and participating students will present the musical, LI'L ABNER, on Friday, May 8.

The cast has been practicing for six weeks, plus painting and arranging scenery, under the direction of Mrs Richard Peterson.

Some of the other main characters are: Marryin' Sam played by Dave Ankney; Earthquake McGoon by Kim Danes; Pappy Yokum by Steve Dunlap; Mammy Yokum by Carol Beachler (the Yokums are Li'l Abner's folks); Li'l Abner by Cleo Friend; General Bullmoose by Roger Brook, and Dr Rasmussen T. Finsdale by Burnell Richey. Many other characters and Dogpatchers are also in the cast. Pam Christmas is student directing the case and Denise Bos is the piano accompanist.

As almost everyone knows, LI'L ABNER is the story of Daisy Mae's never ending battle to catch Li'l Abner and make him ask her to marry him while Earthquake McGoon continually chases Daisy Mae.

The musical also centers around the possibility of the US Government using Dogpatch as an atomic testing site unless the hillbilly town can be found to produce or grow something useful to the US citizens. Something useful is found, but you'll have to come find out what "puts Dogpatch, USA on the map."

Tickets are $1 for adults, and 50 cents for students. The musical will be presented on Friday, April 24, at 7:30 p.m., in the Junior High Gym in Bath.

PANCAKE TIME

How about another cup of coffee or more pancakes? This familiar scene will be repeated Saturday when the St. Johns Exchange Club conducts its annual Pancake Day at Smith Hall. Exchange Club members John Paradise and other members will serve up more of those delicious pancakes starting at 5:00 p.m. Tickets are now on sale by members and are available at the door.

Home Ec helps students at Pewamo-Westphalia

By LINDA STUMP

In today's society, an important factor in survival is homemaking. Throughout the years, mothers have been the principal teachers of such knowledge. She taught techniques that her mother taught her and so on down the line. But in 1970, many of these techniques are no longer applicable for the complicated problems of today's society.

This is why many schools offer classes such as home economics. At Pewamo-Westphalia High School, Homemaking education is changing rapidly.

Ninth grade homemaking begins with canning. This is in addition to other, first semester instruction in embroidery, sewing, cooking, and decorating a girl's bedroom.

While Home Economics I students are achieving their major goals, Home Ec II girls are going further into their studies. In sewing, they work with wool, velvet and using more complicated patterns. They also learn the good and bad principles for laundry techniques. One important topic is the Home Nursing and Civil Defense Course. Other things are included in first and second semester courses, such as decorating, house cleaning tricks, buying small appliances and outdoor cookery.

It is apparent that homemaking is important but this is not all, for while all these many different things are going on there are special classes for juniors and seniors. This is opened to both boys and girls. These classes are all one semester classes. One of the classes is Child Development. There are many other important topics such as Consumer Education, which is for wise buying and money management. Interior Decorating prepares the girls to plan beautiful homes. Money management helps with your time, money, and energy problems of home and marriage life. Also, any wage earning course will be offered where jobs are available in this community.

There are 150 enrolled for these different Home Ec. courses in Pewamo-Westphalia High School, 20 of these are boys.

Open Letter from VAN W. HOAG

Dear friends,

Because of the many differing religious beliefs, doctrines and dogmas, it would be presumptuous of any funeral director to analyze or appraise any of them. But one thing is sure - the funeral service can, and often does, renew, reinforce, or even originate a person's belief in spiritual survival.

Respectfully,

Van W. Hoag

Serving the Clinton Area Since 1856

Ovid clerk unique

Katherine Huss is elected Municipal League secretary

Katherine Huss, village clerk of Ovid, has been elected regional secretary for Region VI of the Michigan Municipal League.

The league serves as a liaison between small Michigan governmental units and the national legislature.

Regional meetings have been held by the league for the past 16 years in each of 10 separate regions in the state. These area meetings serve to bring more than 440 member cities and villages into closer contact with the league and provide the opportunity for an exchange of ideas and cooperative action on matters of mutual concern.

Mrs Huss said her function was to transmit problems concerning Region IV communities and federal policies to the league's representative in Washington. She encouraged members in local governments to contact her with such problems.

In her third year as Village Clerk in Ovid, Mrs Huss is in a unique position. She's a Democrat.

"This is a strong Republican town," she said.

"I wanted to prove that there's a few good Democrats around," Mrs Huss is the former secretary of the Clinton County Democrats.

Before she ran for office, she had already been performing the duties of Village Clerk for six months.

"I had the desk all cleared and the work caught up before the election," she remembers, because she didn't expect to win.

Mrs Huss has lived in Ovid for 14 years and was formerly a dental lab technician. Her husband works for Michigan Milk Producers and the U.S. Post Office. She has two children living at home, two married, and one granddaughter.

Music students sell candy to finance piano

Students involved in the St. Johns High School Music Department will soon have boxes of candy on sale to help pay for the school's new grand piano, says Walter Cole, chairman.

The boxes, containing chocolate-covered nuts and caramel, sell for $1 each.

Cole urged residents to support the students in this project as the piano not only benefits the students but the entire community since it is available for public concerts at the auditorium.

Fr. Osborn appointed to key post in Flint

Fr. Douglas R. Osborn, a native of St. Johns, has been named chairman of the religion department at Flint's new Luke M. Powers Educational Center now nearing completion.

In announcing the appointment, Bishop Alexander M. Zaleski of Lansing said Fr. Osborn will begin his duties immediately to allow sufficient time to staff the department and firm up a program before the opening of Powers to high school students in September.

He will be responsible for all programs of religious education at the educational center, the Bishop said.

Fr. Osborn, 31, has served since last September as chairman of an Ad Hoc committee to formulate philosophy and objectives for the Religion Department at the educational center. He also assisted Sedgewick, Sellers & Associates, Inc., architects for the project, in plans for the chapel in the building.

Ronald L. Rohlfman, deputy superintendent for the Genesee Catholic Office of Education, applauded the selection, describing it as the "most important staff appointment at Powers because of our commitment to maintain a God-centered educational program."

Rev Robert D. Lunsford, diocesan associate superintendent for religious education, expressed confidence that "under Fr. Osborn's leadership, we will have a model program of religious education which is forward looking while firmly rooted in Catholic doctrine."

Fr. Osborn, who is associate pastor at St. John Vianney Church in Flint, was ordained a priest in June 1968.

He served at Our Lady of Fatima Church, Michigan Center, until assigned to St. John Vianney in August, 1968, where he will continue to reside.

"I welcome this opportunity to serve in the Luke M. Powers Center," Fr. Osborn said. "The Religion Department, of which I have been asked to be chairman, will constantly strive to provide a Catholic atmosphere in which the students, faculty and staff can grow together as a Christian people ever mindful of their relationship to God and their fellowman."

"Since it is such an important and difficult task to present the living faith I call upon the parents of these young people, the priests and the whole community to support and to assist in this great endeavor," he added.

Fr. Osborn is the son of Mr and Mrs Ray C. Osborn, 309 East Clark, St. Johns.

Contest brings memories

The Clinton County News Easter Coloring Contest, sponsored by a dozen merchants in St. Johns, brought entries from far and wide, including one from Camp Hill, Pa.

That one brought a few fond memories for Ray Parr, owner of Parr's Drugs. The entry was from Marian Holliday, second grade daughter of Al Holliday, a former speech correctionist in the St. Johns public school system.

Holliday, who acquired many friends in the area during his work here, is now a public relations director for the state of Pennsylvania. Holliday's address is 1836 Walnut, Camp Hill, Pa.

Trackmen Tom Hungerford, John Pearson and Pete Motz have been confined to the corridors so far this season, winter refuses to give up.

St. Johns track team looks for improvement

As long as it doesn't snow in the corridors, the St. Johns track team should be in good shape.

Every afternoon for the past few weeks, a pack of athletes has been running through the hallways, up stairs, downstairs, through the cafeteria, across the stage in the auditorium and then back again.

Head Coach Jeff Smith says he has about 55 prospects out for the team this year.

"I feel we're a better team this year," says Smith. "Last year the emphasis was more on recruiting and holding interest in the sport. This year we're working more on techniques."

With 13 seniors returning and several excellent underclassmen out, Smith is hopeful of improving on last year's sixth place finish in the West Central Conference.

He considers Charlotte, last year's champions, and second place Waverly still the favorites. A pair of juniors—Bill French and Dave Flermoen—will have much to say on how the Redwings finish this time around.

"Those two kids are both capable of being state champions when they are seniors," says Smith. "You'll see when you see them run."

French anchored the two-mile team at the Huron Relays a week and a half ago.

"He got us a fifth place finish and a medal," said Smith. "He also placed second in the half-mile run at the Ferris State Invitational last month."

French holds the school record of 10:23.2 in the half-mile run. "Flermoen looks like he could be our most improved person over last year," says Smith. "He ran a beautiful leg in the 880 at the Huron relays."

Four seniors also hold important keys to the team's fortunes, says Smith.

They are Gary Moon and Bob Jones, who both run the half-mile; Kirk Simpson, who runs the mile and Roger Cavis, a pole vaulter, who also competes in the high hurdles and the high jump.

Moon, Jones and Davis were among four captains elected by the team last week. The other captain is Al Rappuhn.

Other seniors rounding out the squad include Rich Jones, quarter-mile; Rich Holm, half-mile; Pete Motz, Jim Adamski, Tom Hungerford and John Pierson, all two- or one-mile run; Al Rappuhn, pole vault; Walt Ailles, shot; and Dale Rennells, long jump. All are back from last year's team except for Ailles. Underclassmen expected to

"All these kids have been looking good and have shown lots of promise," says Smith.

Smith, in his second year as track coach, is assisted by Linden Lade who also coaches cross country in the fall.

Mike Young coaches the freshman track team.

Carl Wohlfert, tournament manager for the Fowler Bowl's annual Singles Classic, presents first place trophy to Rick West. West also received $500 for his first place finish in one of Clinton County's most popular bowling events.

Dick West's 699 takes Fowler Bowl

The lead changed twice in the exciting finish of the Fowler Bowl Sixth Annual Singles on March 29.

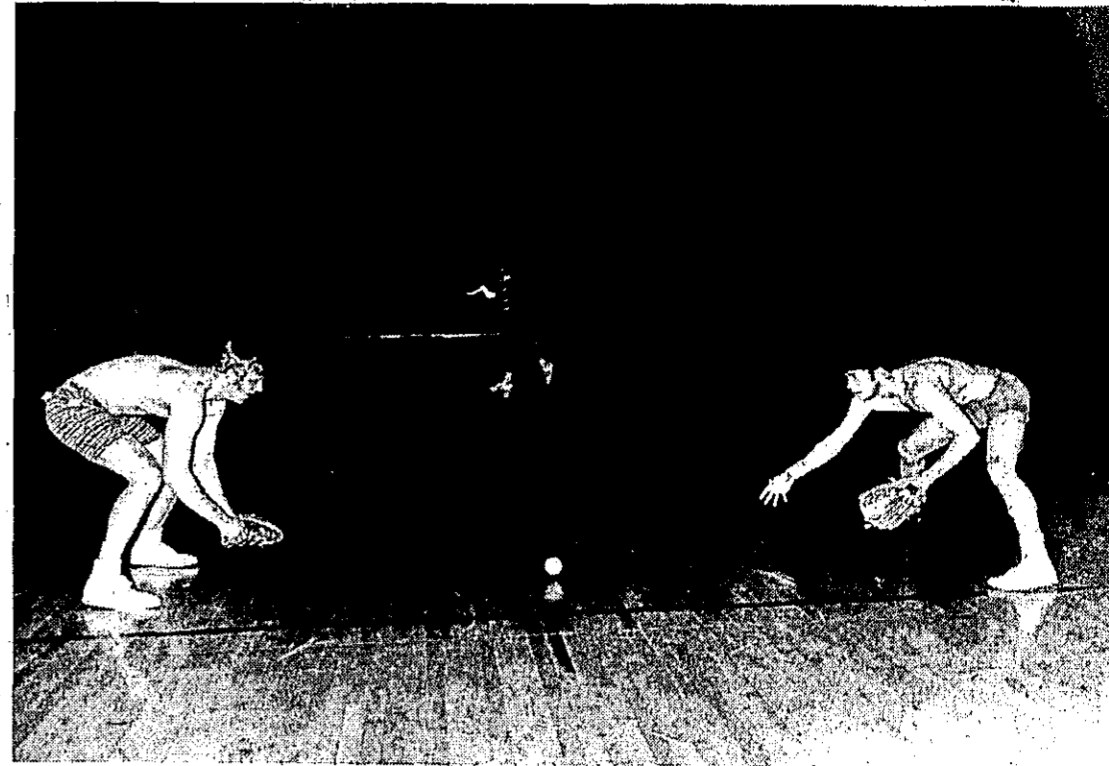

Dick West of Lansing ended up as winner with a 699 on the 5:00 p.m. squad, overtaking the lead from Thomas Ryan of Dimondale on the 2:00 p.m. squad, who rolled a 692. First prize was $500 and second was worth $275.

Completing the top ten were: Roger Hall Jr. of Fowler—686; Larry Thelen, Fowler—685; William Cox, Mason—684; William Reid, Perry—682; Lloyd Morris, Mason—674; William Chapko Jr., Elsie—674; Grover Pearson, Lansing—670 and Larry Kohagen, Fowler—662.

Lloyd Morris rolled the high actual—651—for $100. Ron Fulton and Tom Ryan tied for men's high game with 255, and Blanche Stevens took women's high game with 230.

The tournament ran six weekends and attracted a record 628 entries, with the top 90 places in the money.

Checks will be distributed following verification of averages.

Third baseman Brian Ballinger and outfielder Doug Brzak at baseball practice in the St. Johns gym while outside it was good packing—for snowballs.

'Play (snow?) ball!' That's what schedule says; Redwings to open Monday

By RON KARLE Editor

Thw-a-a-ck! That, in case you're confused, is the sound of spring.

These days it's echoing among the rafters of the gym at St. Johns High School.

It's the sound of baseball when the ground is covered with snow. "So far, drills in the gym have been progressing as well as can be expected," said coach Doug Japinga last week.

Which means he was wondering if his club would get some practice outside before the season opener, five days from now.

The schedule has Ithaca at St. Johns Monday at 4:15 and two other games, both away, set for Tuesday and Thursday at Charlotte and Lakewood.

Japinga, in his second year as head baseball coach, has a pretty fair group of ballplayers coming back.

The club's leading hitter, Ron Waggoner, a senior, will be back at first base where he also led the team in fielding. Besides hitting at a .343 clip, Waggoner handled 104 chances without an error.

Randy Atkinson, a junior, will be back at second base. Atkinson hit .156 last year and his fielding average was .805.

At third base will be Brian Ballinger, a senior, who hit .278 and had a fielding average of .898.

Both Atkinson and Ballinger are expected to see some action on the mound before the season is out.

"At shortstop we've got a pretty good battle going on," said Japinga.

In the thick of it are Larry Hayes, a .286 hitter up from the junior varsity and Tom Rasdale with a .217 average last year. Both are juniors.

Dan Redemacher, a front line pitcher, is also expected to see some action at shortstop when he isn't on the mound.

Last year Redemacher pitched 23 innings for an earned run average of 3.92. His record was 2-2. He gave up 24 hits, walked 17 and struck out 24. Eighteen runs were scored on him, 13 earned. He hit .187.

Three other pitching prospects are up from the junior varsity—Bob Lewis, Jim Shumaker, both juniors, and Eddie Boettger, a sophomore.

Larry Wakefield, a junior, will be back behind the plate where he played nearly errorless ball last season. Handling 75 chances, Wakefield errored only twice for a fielding average of .974.

Doug Brzak, a senior, with a batting average of .263 and a fielding average of .909, will be in left field and Roy Pederson, a junior who played 67 innings last year, will be in right. Pederson hit .120 and had a fielding average of .833.

The departure of Chuck Romig has opened quite a battle for the centerfield spot with Lynn Henning, a senior, battling several juniors and sophomores up from the junior varsity. Romig, who hit .324 for the Redwings last season, has made the varsity as a freshman at Alma College.

Last season St. Johns finished the season at 5-8 overall and 3-4 in conference play.

The Wings finished in a two-way tie with Grand Ledge for fourth in the West Central Conference last season behind Hastings and Ionia who tied for the championship and Alma in third place.

St. Johns show next Local Golden Glovers win three of five

As a final tuneup for an upcoming boxing show at St. Johns, local Golden Gloves fighters continued their winning ways at Portland Saturday taking three of five bouts.

Bob Avery, down for the count of eight in the first round of his match in the 132-pound open class, picked himself off the canvas to decision Don Stemler of Portland.

In the 134-pound open class, Armando Rositas decisioned Ken Willis of Portland while another St. Johns fighter, Carlos Vallin, decisioned Al Fracker of Michigan Center in the 147-pound open class.

Two other St. Johns fighters, Chuck Stewart and Tim Wieber, lost their bouts by decisions.

Local fighters, sponsored by the St. Johns Boys' Club, will participate in a boxing show Saturday, April 18 at the St. Johns High School gym.

Tickets for the match, set for 7:30 p.m. are $1.50 each and are available at Pierce Bakery, 105 North Clinton or from members of the Boys' Club.

Also available are 100 ring-side tickets for $3 each. Ring-side seats are all in the front row.

At least 13 St. Johns fighters will compete on the 15-bout card. The bouts are all three rounds with each round lasting two minutes.

The boys are separated into weight divisions and experience is considered in matching opponents.

A boy starting out is classified as a sub novice until he wins his first fight. At that time he becomes a novice until he wins four fights and then he competes on the open class.

Smith names Gonzales assistant football coach

By RON KARLE
Editor

"Coaching is still one area where you can get close to the students—even more so than in the classroom," says Joe Gonzales. "Also, I like sports. This is a big part of it, too."

That's how Gonzales responded when asked why he is a coach.

The 27-year-old language teacher has recently been appointed assistant varsity football coach at St. Johns High School. He replaces Phil Desper who resigned to study for a master's degree on a full time basis.

"I'm real glad to have Joe as an assistant varsity coach," said Head Coach Jeff Smith in announcing the appointment. "I feel he has a good grasp of football."

Smith said that Gonzales will work with the interior defensive line and the offensive line.

Gonzales, who came from Lake Orion High School last fall after 2 1/2 years there, has been teaching French and Spanish at Rodney B. Wilson Junior High where he was head freshman coach. He is also coach of the freshman baseball team and has been working with the fifth and sixth grade intramural programs.

JOE GONZALES

When asked if he was surprised when Smith asked him to accept the position on the varsity coaching staff, Gonzales said, "I felt that if someone were doing a good job within the system, Jeff would pick someone from within the system rather than from outside. In that respect I wasn't surprised."

When asked how he thought he and Smith would work as a team, Gonzales said, "Our views don't coincide 100 per cent, but we both have the overall view that we want the student to get the most out of sports."

"I've known Jeff since the beginning of this school year and I really go along with the way he does things," added Gonzales. "He values education and he's an educator."

"Also, I like the way he takes a very serious approach to both education and sports," he said.

"The way I look at it, sports aren't the prime reason for us being here. The classroom is. Sports should be an aid to the entire program," said Gonzales.

Gonzales characterized himself as a disciplinarian. "I think I have a reputation of being pretty rigid on rules and enforcement," said Gonzales. "I think if there is a rule it should be followed. Why have a rule if you're not going to enforce it?"

He also considers Smith a disciplinarian, too.

"Jeff doesn't have much problem with discipline because he tells the players right at the beginning what he expects," he said.

"I've seen a loose coach work, but sooner or later there's problems," Gonzales added.

Gonzales, a 1966 graduate of Michigan State University, taught at St. Johns as a student teacher in his senior year in college.

At MSU he majored in foreign language and he said he "hadn't planned on a coaching career but when I went to Lake Orion I got involved so I decided to stay with it."

Gonzales played high school football and baseball at Saginaw Arthur Hill.

He and his wife Edna have a son, Steve, 5 years old.

Soap box derby clinic scheduled

All boys who are interested in participating in this year's soap box derby or who have already signed up, are invited to attend the first of three scheduled clinics to be held at 10 a.m. on April 11 at Bee's Chevrolet on US-27.

Members of the Derby Committee will be on hand to offer advice on the building of derby cars and to help out with construction problems.

Basic hardware for derby cars—bolts, cable, turnbuckles, etc.—will be available for purchase, to eliminate any confusion on the part of the boy or his sponsor as to what has to be purchased.

Other clinics are scheduled for April 25 and May 9.

KAY PENIX

Kay Penix wins Lansing tournament

Kay Penix, 205 W. Railroad, St. Johns won the Ladies' Match Tournament held last weekend at Timber Lane Bowling Alleys in Lansing.

The tournament was a no handicap, 18-game affair with six games for qualifying bringing the field to the top 12 bowlers. The last 12 games were head to head matches.

Kay averaged 183 over the entire tournament. Betty Nichols of Lansing was runnerup.

Kay won $100 plus a trophy for her first place finish.

BILL ARMBRUSTMACHER

Meet an All-Star: Bill Armbrustmacher

Just to set the record straight—meet Bill Armbrustmacher.

Armbrustmacher, named to the Clinton County News All-Star basketball team, was one of the main reasons that Fowler coasted to the Central Michigan Athletic Conference championship.

But when the All-County team was announced, the wrong picture was inadvertently above Armbrustmacher's name.

So if you thought you didn't recognize him, you were right.

But Fowler's opponents sure knew him.

The six-foot senior was the Eagle's second-highest point-getter with 244 on the season. He hit on 90 of 214 shots attempted from the floor for a 42 per cent average and was a serious contender for the Clinton County News Free Throw Award hitting on 60 of 85 attempts for a 70 per cent average from the line.

"He is a good defensive player and usually the one the kids went to when the pressure was on," said his coach, Charles Trierweiler.

Armbrustmacher was also named to the CMAC All-Star team.

Long way from home

Michigan State has two varsity basketball players—Menominee's Pat Miller and Trout Creek's Bob Gale—from the far-flung Northern Peninsula of Michigan. "Their homes are so far away," says Spartan basketball coach Gus Ganakas, "that when they came to State they qualified for foreign aid."

Drive-In to open

The Family Drive-In Theatre located North of St. Johns on US-27 will be open weekends starting Friday April 10. The season opening had been delayed two weeks because of inclement weather according to Howard Kortez, owner.

Type gremlins at work here

The gremlins of typography were active last week causing a statement on pollution expressed by Mrs Roy Ebert to be credited to Mrs Ray Ebert. The error occurred in a report of a sampling taken by the County News concerning local opinion on pollution. Mrs Roy Ebert told the News staffer that she felt pollution exists in some areas but felt St. Johns was not too bothered. She also stated her belief that pollution would not cause the end of life, but felt it is a problem.

The observations were inadvertently attributed to Mrs Ray Ebert, who was out of the city at the time the survey was taken. The Clinton County News regrets the error.

MSU Ag marketing clinic to view vertical integration

The focus will be on vertical integration in marketing at the fruit and vegetables session of the 16th annual Agricultural Marketing Clinic at Michigan State University, Tuesday, April 21.

Offering their opinions on combination marketing will be a farmer, shipper, processor and retailer.

Michigan State Agricultural Economist W. Smith Greig will set the stage with a 10 a.m. program-opening presentation of the various methods of market coordination.

Dr Greig will be followed by Peter Nesbit of Pinehill Farms, Albion, N.Y. Nesbit will discuss possible integration arrangements between growers and processors.

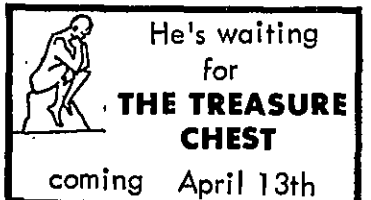

Grower-shipper-retailer arrangements will be discussed by Robert DeBryn, Jr., DeBryn Produce, Inc., Zeeland. DeBryn Produce ships onions, carrots, celery and other products.

The processors' viewpoint will be offered by Jerry Crossland, Diamond Fruit Growers, Hood River, Ore.

This year's luncheon speaker is Michael J. O'Connor, executive director of the Super Market Institute. The institute, the world's largest single organization of supermarket companies and grocery wholesalers, has 870 member-companies which did more than $46 billion in food or food-related business in 1968. O'Connor will address himself to "The Questions of Consumerism."

The afternoon fruit and vegetables program will begin at 1:30. The first speaker will be Richard Bere, merchandising manager for the Kroger Company, Solon, Ohio, who will present the retailers' thoughts on vertical integration.

The extent of corporate farming in the United States as revealed in recent U.S. Department of Agriculture studies will be discussed by Bert Sundquist, Economic Research Service, USDA, Washington, D.C.

The growth of conglomerates in the food industry will get broad consideration by Dr James Shaffer, MSU agricultural economist. The nature of conglomer-

Clean quarters can control pig disease

Sanitation and good management practices are the best ways to control swine enteritis, generally recognized as the most common cause of death losses in young pigs.

Dr David J. Ellis, extension veterinarian at Michigan State University, says that since no effective treatment has been found, the control of enteritis must consist of an adequate program of prevention.

Although swine of any age may have transmissible gastroenteritis, it is the young animal of a few days to a week or so of age which is most severely affected. Death losses are greatest in this age group.

Although the disease may occur at any time of the year, it is more widespread during the winter and spring.

In young animals the symptoms include vomiting and diarrhea. Other signs are rapid dehydration and loss of weight, depression and evident of chilling.

Fatality of 100 per cent can be expected in pigs five days of age ates—their advantages and disadvantages, whether new laws are needed to control them, and what their social and political consequences are—will be dealt with in Dr Shaffer's presentation.

A question and answer session involving all speakers is the final item on the program.

Anyone interested in attending the conference should write or call Ed Farmer, conference coordinator, Continuing Education Service, Kellogg Center, Michigan State University, East Lansing, 48823. Telephone: (517) 355-4557. Conference fee, which includes a luncheon ticket, is $6.

or younger. A 30 to 40 per cent loss can be expected among pigs 11 to 15 days old.

The disease is transmitted from infected animals to susceptible animals through virus-containing fecal materials.

Dr Ellis says an outbreak of virus enteritis is quite difficult to control in a herd under a continuous farrowing program because of the spread from one litter to another. Under such conditions, it may be necessary to suspend operation for a time to allow a break in the disease cycle.

Variety

For variety and interest in the home garden, try planting okra, endive, cos lettuce, buttercrunch lettuce, white radishes, gold nugget bush squash, vegetable oysters, swiss chard, sweet potatoes and peanuts, suggest Michigan State University horticulturists.

4-H Chatter

Style Review this weekend

By JOHN AYLSWORTH

The county 4-H Style Review will be held as scheduled on Friday and Saturday, April 10 and 11 at the St. Johns High School Auditorium in St. Johns. The Junior Miss 4-H members will style at 7:30 p.m. and Senior Miss 4-H members will style at 8:30 p.m. on Friday, April 10 and the Young Miss will style on Saturday, April 11 at 10 a.m.

The snow storm caused the 4-H Project Evaluation for Saturday, April 4 to be cancelled as well as the open house on Sunday. Since the facilities will not be available for a later time the evaluation will not be rescheduled. The members will have the opportunity to have their projects judged at the county fair in August.

I would like to encourage local 4-H clubs that do not hold a local club achievement program to do so this year so the parents can see what all the members accomplished.

Many of the members and leaders were disappointed the evaluation had to be cancelled as they looked forward to having an adult resource leader make comments about the projects on the good points and constructive criticism for improvement.

Final plans are being made for the county youth litter pick up and beautification activity for Saturday, April 18. At the present time the following 4-H clubs have indicated they will participate in this event: Happy Hustlers, Kountry Kousins, Olive 4-H Projects, Nimble Fingers, We Hah Kay Asta, Maple River Craftsmen, Happy Hands, Merry Makers, Double M, Spring Valley, Bengal Community, Jolly Green Giants, Charlie's Gang, Willing Workers, Saddlemates, Jolly Knitters, Parker's Workers, Blackmore Riders, Elsie 4 Corners, Prairie, Green Clover Community, Eagle Border, Termite, Eagle Beavers, Country-side, Fowler Busy Bees, Fowler Busy Boys and Fowler Eager Eagles. Any other club wishing to help should contact the Extension Office right away for an area to cover.

Clinton County will be represented at the food leaders training workshop at Camp Kett on April 15 and 16 by Marie Thelen, Goldie Moore, Virginia Davis and teen leader Sharon Stoy. The objective of the conference is the Concern Consumer. They will be learning about consumer protection, share innovative foods and nutrition project ideas, develop an appreciation for new food habits as well as learning how to incorporate consumer information in food project ideas.

Letters have gone out to 4-H members who have won the county 4-H award trip to Yankee Springs weekend, April 24 - 26. Members are urged to return their reservation cards as soon as possible so we have a good idea of how many will be attending. Parents are needed to help drive and supervise the group. Any adult wishing to drive and help with this weekend trip should contact the Extension Office.

April 16 is the final night for the 4-H Roller Skating Activities at the Ranch Roller Rink in St. Johns. The following 4-H clubs have made reservations for that night: Westphalia 4-H, Handy Andys, 4-H Wonders, Prairie, Pioneer Trail Riders, We Hah Kay Asta, Kountry Kousins, Dipsy Doodlers, Charlie's Gang, Riverside Riders, and Lucky Riders. The Eagle Borders 4-H working members visited the Capitol City Lumber Company in Lansing. Mr Jenkins showed the boys different ways of finishing wood. The club will participate in the county 4-H litter pick-up activity on April 18 cleaning the roadsides of bottles and cans in their area.

The Nimble Fingers 4-H members discussed final plans for evaluation, the spring clean-up, 4-H Poster Contest and the 4-H Talent Show. Demonstrations were given by Jim McQueen on "Some Uses of the Yankee Screwdriver," Jean Buggs on "How to Bindoff," Brian Puetz on "How to Make a Sanding Block," Harry Moldenhauer on "How to Put Wood Tape on Wood," Rhonda Kanaski on "How to Put Fringe on a Scarf" and Suzy Chimiko on "How to Hem."

The Kountry Kousins 4-H Club members decided they will help with the county litter pick up activity on April 18. Walter Pytlowanyj demonstrated "Using a Woodworking Plane" and Rose Miller showed "How to Make Yarn Flowers." The next meeting will be on April 7 when the members sign up for the summer program.

The 4-H woodworking members of the Happy Hustlers along with their leader Ben Wieber toured the St. Johns High School Shop looking at the different electrical tools available to the students such as a drill press, grinder, sander, planer, jig saw, circular saw, etc. The group also saw the automotive shop where the students were painting a car and putting an automotive motor back together again.

Litter award presented to Clinton 4-H group

The Clinton County 4-H Youth Group has been selected to receive an award from "Keep Michigan Beautiful, Inc." for its outstanding action in the field of litter control and beautification during the last two years.

The presentation will be at the Keep Michigan Beautiful Awards Ceremony and "How to" workshop on April 8, 9 a.m. at the Kellogg Center on the Michigan State University Campus. Randy Davis, president of the Clinton County 4-H Teen Leader Group will accept the award in behalf of the Clinton County 4-H Members.

Roger W. Powers, director, Field Services, of Keep America Beautiful, Inc. will be the main speaker.

Twenty-seven 4-H clubs in the county have volunteered their services again to clean-up litter along the county roadsides on Saturday, April 18.

Final plans are being completed for the groups to dispose of the trash picked up. The 4-H and youth groups working on this project will be receiving more information later on the program.

Feed program lags

Final reports of 1970 Feed Grain Program sign up in Michigan show 54,571 farmers signed in the Feed Grain Program and 60,381 farmers signed in the Wheat Program; both slightly behind the 1969 sign up.

Nick Smith, Chairman of the Michigan Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee, says that Michigan farmers will earn payments for setting aside such acreage and at the same time will be doing their part in reducing the production of these grains which are in surplus.

It probably all started when man tamed the first "Fido" and upset the balance of nature. You see, the two of them (man and canine) teamed up to improve the odds against the law of the fittest. The order of things was further upset when a brighter than usual Cro-Magnon man must have discovered the idea of planting seeds of a sort in one limited area.

The plan was to cover seeds with the soil and wait for plants to grow to provide edible food that could be gnawed at by pooch and man alike back at the cave. The unaltered event must have marked the beginning of modern times. No longer would man spend full time roaming the valleys, planes and hillsides searching for that pacifier which would stall off his persistent, growling hunger pains. Now for the first time he had food in his own front yard.

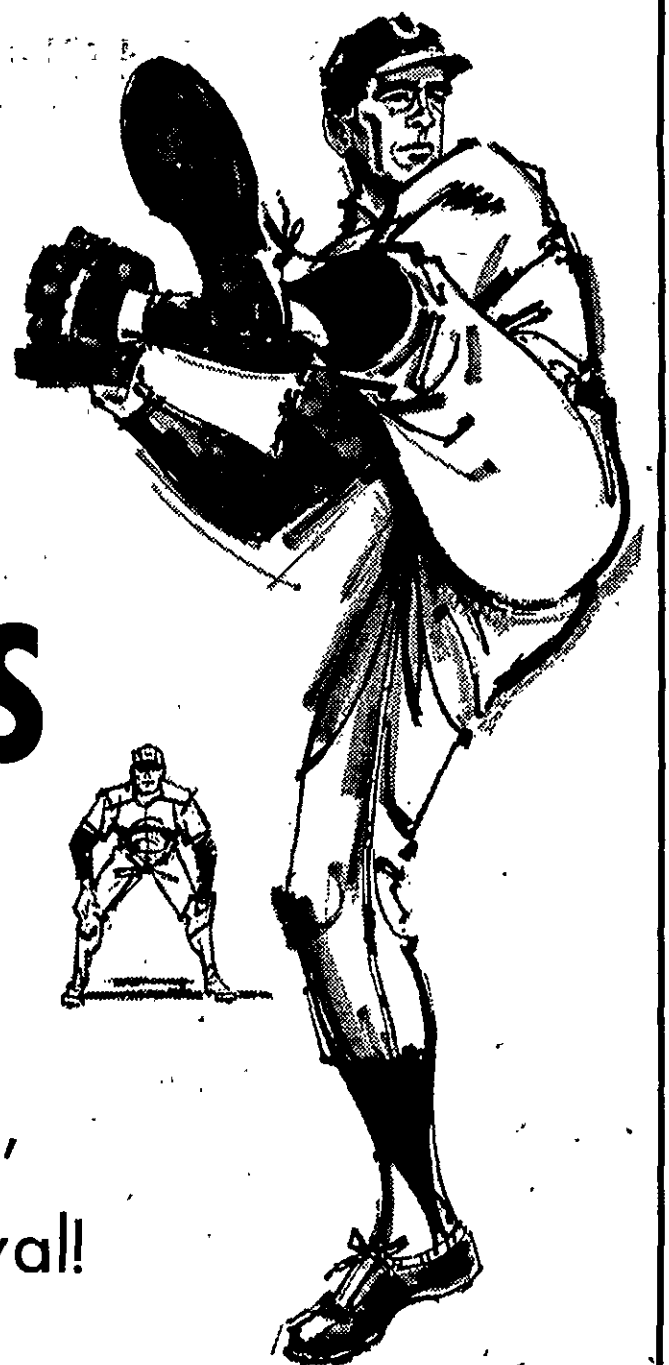

MEANWHILE, in the forest, less fortunate creatures were simply overjoyed. They probably figured that with this field of abundant food they could quit traveling and retire to enjoy the fruits of this man's labor.

Mr Cro-Magnon must have found ways to somehow prohibit animals trespassing and eating up all of his hard work. But his protective methods certainly couldn't keep out the "little guys" like the bugs and insects -- all of those nasty little crawling things that plunder and disease food and fiber. For the first time there was an abnormal concentration of food in one spot and the "little guys" took advantage. They multiplied their kind at an abnormal rate, to the point where the "garden party" really got out of control and the work of Mr Cro-Magnon was in ruin.

FEW CROPS sprouted for harvest and those that did were of immense poor quality, now infested with the pests of nature. Even old Fido suffered, having to put up with pests embedding under his skin, living off his flesh and threatening to shorten his life. While he scratched away... the pests took over. A dream was halted. But our cave man kept planting. Discovering new methods, he progressed out of the cave into the cabin, and his best friend went with him too.

Mentally ill between 16 and 24 'Cry Help'

The Michigan Society for Mental Health has commended to Michigan viewers on NBC television white paper on emotionally ill youth to be shown at 7:30 p.m., Saturday, April 25. 'Cry Help,' the 90-minute NBC-TV special, depicts an exploding problem upon America—the mentally ill person between 16 and 24, how he is neglected, how some are treated, how millions are left to their own devices, and something about their specific needs.

serious problem pressing down on us." Dr Wattenberg pointed out that while there are some six million residents of America between 16 and 24 in need of help for mental disorders, almost all treatment services for mental disorders, almost all treatment services for mental difficulty are geared for children or adults. "The most misunderstood mentally ill patient is the adolescent," he said. "No longer a child, but not an adult yet, he presents problems different from either age group. Yet this is the fastest growing group of mentally ill patients we have to deal with."

MOOOVE OVER, WINTER

It's supposed to be spring in the country. But if you ask these gals it just ain't so. But the food's good and the barn's warm so they'll just have to wait out old man winter with the rest of us. Photo was taken at the Harold Arbrustmacher farm, rural Fowler.

Law students help towns write better ordinances

"You help a community write better laws for itself, and you help everybody in that community," says a group of University of Michigan law students, and they are doing just that. Having recently organized themselves as the Legislative Aid Bureau (LAB), some 45 student-lawyers are volunteering their service to any community in need of legislative assistance—in drafting new ordinances, revising old ones, or in researching the issues and questions related to law-making.

library, the faculty, and so on—in the country. "All this gives us the ability to effectively assist communities of all sizes and locations, if they need help." LAB's primary objective, the U-M students stressed, is to provide a community with legislative aid best suited for its own unique problems and needs. LAB members do not criticize the past or present performance of local governments in their law-making process. But they are confident that many communities, small and big, would welcome LAB's service. In fact, said Prof. Pierce, "I fear they may be asked to do too much."

At the moment, LAB members are sending formal introductory letters to councilmen in southern and southeastern Michigan. They hope eventually to expand their service to the rest of the state and perhaps throughout the Midwest.

There is no doubting the value of such a service, according to Prof. William J. Pierce, who acts as the LAB's faculty advisor. "One of the most difficult things for the local government, especially the small unit, is to find someone who has the knowledge, time, and resource to draft local laws, or even amend old ones."

Another point LAB members stress is that they are "a service agency," not a political organization nor a lobbying group for special interests or points of view. "This is one of the potential pitfalls we must avoid," Schelle and Smith said. "We are dealing with a political system, usually made up of two or more political parties. Our primary goal must be to prepare a product which is nonpartisan and without any political overtones, but is workable for the community as a whole."

How will the LAB operations be financed? The members' work will be completely voluntary, and the service to the requesting governmental unit will be "without any obligation or fees," Schelle and Smith said. "But since we will have some operating expenses to meet—secretarial help, postage, and the like—we are hoping that the client government, if it can, will pay us an honorarium."

LAB also is exploring the possibility of receiving grants from individuals, foundations, and corporations.

Anatomical transplants covered under law

By FRANK J. KELLEY
Attorney General

(Editor's Note: This is a public service article explaining in general terms a provision of Michigan law. Individuals who wish to determine the effect of any law upon their private legal affairs should consult a private attorney.)

Consistent with, and in recognition of the brilliant successes the medical profession is currently achieving in the fields of research and anatomical transplants, the 1969 Michigan legislature has enacted a new and more comprehensive uniform anatomical gift act to take effect 90 days from the end of the current session of the legislature.

The purpose of this act is to help promote medical and dental science and enhance the availability of organs for transplantation by facilitating gifts of bodies or organs thereof.

Any person of sound mind and 18 years old or older may make a gift, effective at death, of all or any part of his or her body, to specified persons or institutions for specified purposes as follows:

1. To a hospital or doctor for medical or dental education, research, advancement of science, therapy, or transplantation.
2. To any accredited medical or dental school, college or university, for education, research, advancement of science, or therapy, or transplantation.
3. To any bank or storage facility for medical or dental education, research, advancement of science, therapy, or transplantation.
4. To any specified individual for therapy, or transplantation, needed by him.

The gift may be made by will and is effective on death and before probate. Even though the will later may be declared invalid, it is effective to the extent acted upon in good faith.

A gift may also be made by a document signed by the donor and witnessed by two witnesses.

In addition, in the following order of priority and after or immediately before death, the spouse, an adult child, a parent, an adult brother or sister, a guardian and any other person authorized or obligated to dispose of the body may, when persons in a prior class are not available at the time of death and when they have no actual notice of opposition by a member of the same or a prior class, give all or any part of the decedent's body to any person or institution for any purpose specified above.

If the donee accepts a gift of part of the body, he shall cause the part to be removed before embalming. Thereafter, custody of the body vests in the surviving spouse or other persons having authority to arrange the funeral, burial or other disposition of the body.

Any person who acts in good faith in accordance with the terms of the act or of a similar act of another state of country cannot be held liable for damages in any civil action or subject to prosecution in any criminal proceeding for his actions.

Gifts by will may be amended or revoked in the manner provided for amending or revoking wills and also by the above methods.

The recipient may accept or reject the gift. If he accepts the whole body, those having authority may, subject to the terms of the gift, authorize embalming and use of the body in funeral services.

Any person who acts in good faith in accordance with the terms of the act or of a similar act of another state of country cannot be held liable for damages in any civil action or subject to prosecution in any criminal proceeding for his actions.

A gift may also be made by a document signed by the donor and witnessed by two witnesses.

In addition, in the following order of priority and after or immediately before death, the spouse, an adult child, a parent, an adult brother or sister, a guardian and any other person authorized or obligated to dispose of the body may, when persons in a prior class are not available at the time of death and when they have no actual notice of opposition by a member of the same or a prior class, give all or any part of the decedent's body to any person or institution for any purpose specified above.

If the donee accepts a gift of part of the body, he shall cause the part to be removed before embalming. Thereafter, custody of the body vests in the surviving spouse or other persons having authority to arrange the funeral, burial or other disposition of the body.

Any person who acts in good faith in accordance with the terms of the act or of a similar act of another state of country cannot be held liable for damages in any civil action or subject to prosecution in any criminal proceeding for his actions.

A gift may also be made by a document signed by the donor and witnessed by two witnesses.

In addition, in the following order of priority and after or immediately before death, the spouse, an adult child, a parent, an adult brother or sister, a guardian and any other person authorized or obligated to dispose of the body may, when persons in a prior class are not available at the time of death and when they have no actual notice of opposition by a member of the same or a prior class, give all or any part of the decedent's body to any person or institution for any purpose specified above.

If the donee accepts a gift of part of the body, he shall cause the part to be removed before embalming. Thereafter, custody of the body vests in the surviving spouse or other persons having authority to arrange the funeral, burial or other disposition of the body.

State already has laws to battle air pollution

Each year 143 million tons of pollutants are dumped into the air in the United States by the major sources of air pollution. Transportation, alone, accounts for 86 million tons of these air pollutants. Each year air pollution is becoming a bigger and bigger problem.

Noxious, poisoned, filthy air is responsible for disability and death caused by chronic and acute respiratory disease. Death rates from chronic respiratory disease are double in areas where air pollution is most concentrated.

Citizen concern about air pollution is becoming manifest through the creation of "clean air committees," "citizens for clean air" and other such groups. Students are planning "teach-ins" to discuss the total problem of pollution—waste, air and water. Many feel that nothing is really being done to clean up the air.

"There is something that can be done about air pollution in Michigan," says J. Irvin Nichols, executive director, of the Michigan Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association. There are laws that protect the public against harmful air pollution.

In 1965 the Michigan legislature passed an act to create an Air Pollution Control Commission. In 1967 they followed with the rules and regulations under which the Commission operates.

"In summary the rules and regulations encourage plant visits by the Commission members, a procedure by which complaints are handled, cooperative avenues for working with local air pollution agencies, and sampling procedures. They also provide for community air pollution studies, emission inventories, a burning permit system, and a tax exemption for air pollution control systems," said Nichols.

Bernard D. Bloomfield, assistant chief of the Division of Occupational Health for the Michigan Department of Public Health, in summarizing the extent to which this legislation has been successful, said, "Industry has for the most part been cooperative and can point to committed programs for the future, to work now being done, and to completed installations which account for the expenditure of $100 million or more since 1965."

Nichols added that the citizens can play an active and important role in the fight to clean up the air. It is often the influence and pressure of citizen groups that bring about the improvement of local air pollution problems. When a citizen feels that there is unnecessary smoke and waste coming from an industrial or commercial chimney he should call the local health department or write the office of the State Air Pollution Control Commission, 3500 North Logan Street, Lansing. To this point Bloomfield said, "Complaints from citizens are a very important source of information for us and account for much of the time which our engineers spend in the field."

What's so important about young drivers?

What is the real problem when a youngster starts to drive the family car or purchases his own automobile?

Is it his safety? Concern for others? Or the cost of auto insurance?

Insurance companies hear much about auto insurance rates for the young driver, the Insurance Information Institute states. But these auto rates recognize and encourage safe driving in a situation where safe driving is too often forgotten.

Consider these facts:

Although only 20.9 per cent of the nation's motoring population is under age 25, drivers 24 years of age and younger were involved in 34.6 per cent of all reported accidents. This same group had 33.9 per cent of the fatal accidents in the United States in 1968.

The number of drivers involved in fatal accidents, ages 20 through 24, was 117 per 100,000 drivers in 1968, almost twice the average rate of 67 for all age groups, according to the National Safety Council.

Because younger drivers as a group have more frequent and more serious accidents, they run up larger claim costs for the insurance companies. As a result, auto insurance rates are higher for this age group than for other groups of drivers.

But a good driver—who demonstrates he is one—can get lower insurance rates than other drivers in his age group, and still get maximum protection. Most insurance companies offer a premium discount for youthful motorists who have satisfactorily completed a recognized driver education course offered by high schools and colleges.

Insurance companies were the leaders in the field in recognizing that students who have completed driver education have better safety records. Many states now set higher minimum age limits—generally 18 years of age—for an operator's license unless the youthful driver has completed driver education.

Illinois, for example, raised the age limits without driver education from 16 to 18 years of age last year.

Many insurers also offer a premium discount ranging up to 30 per cent for young drivers who maintain good grades in school, according to the Institute. This reflects the fact that generally good students also have good driving records.

A slip can bring financial misery

More than 10,000 persons will slip and die in falls this year. Approximately 60 per cent of these fatal tumbles will happen in the home. This can spell money worries for the homeowner or the renter even if the person falling is a non-resident of the home or rented property.

Of the 28,500 accidental deaths recorded in urban dwellings and farm homes in 1967 by the National Safety Council, 11,700 resulted from falls.

Home accidents caused another 4.8 million persons to be disabled. And the National Health Survey estimates there were an additional 17 million persons who suffered less serious injuries.

Home accidents will cost more than $1.5 billion this year alone in lost wages, medical expenses and insurance administrative costs.

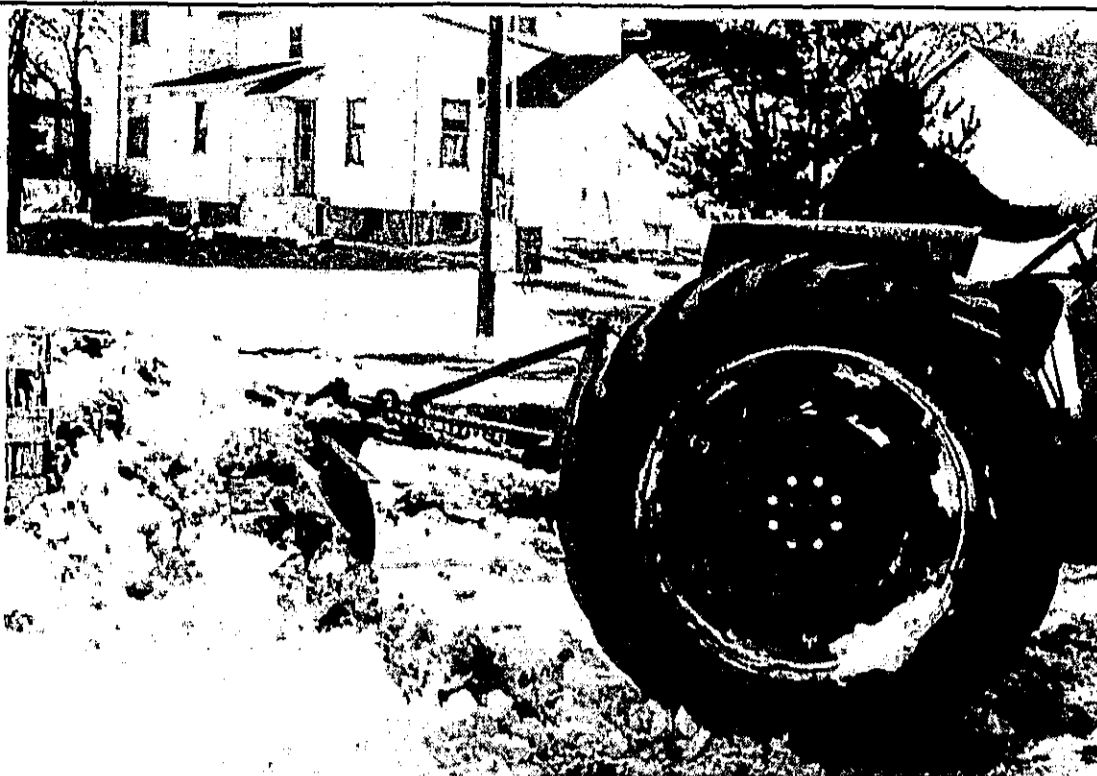

A homeowner is protected by his homeowner's insurance policy against the financial cost of injuries suffered by persons coming on to his property with his permission or to perform a service, the Insurance Information Institute (I.I.I.) points out.

Those who rent get this same protection from their homeowner tenant's policy.

Minimum coverage in the standard policy in both instances pays $500 in medical payments to an injured person regardless of fault. The policy will pay up to $25,000 in medical payments if more than one person is injured in a single accident.

Protection for larger dollar amounts can be added to the policy if desired.

The I.I.I. states that if the milkman or even the postman should slip and fall in the house, or on the sidewalks or driveway, it could be financially disastrous for the owner or tenant if he is determined to be liable for the accident.

NO SPINNING WHEELS HERE

When it snows like it did last week, city folks find themselves in traffic jams caused by slipping and sliding cars and spinning wheels. But then when the white stuff hits the farm, you just hook up the snowplow to the tractor and you're in business. Harold Armbrustmacher of rural Fowler shows how it's done.

Four million pounds of beans donated to lunch programs

More than 4.2 million pounds of dry edible great northern and pea (Michigan navy) beans were purchased last week by the U.S. Department of Agriculture for domestic donation according to Nick Smith, Chairman of the Michigan State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. The entire purchase, he stated, is for distribution to schools under the school lunch program and needy persons.

About 3.1 million pounds of the 4.2 million pounds purchased were pea or Michigan navy beans. Distribution of 935,000 pounds to school lunch programs will be in 50-pound packages while the 3.1 million pounds for distribution to needy persons will be in two-pound packages similar to the packages in local grocery stores, he stated.

Purchases were made on a competitive bid basis and two Michigan packaging firms, J. P. Burroughs and Michigan Bean Company, Division of Wickes Corporation, both of Saginaw, received orders for over 3.1 million pounds of the 4.2 million farm products. The beans, Smith stated, were for delivery during the month of March and for destinations ranging across the United States from Portland, Maine to California. Michigan destinations included locations at Boyne City, Iron Mountain, Cadillac, Lansing, Saginaw, Holland, Flint, and Marshall. These are central locations from which distributions will be made.

Smith pointed out that while this is classified as a farm program, the direct benefit in this instance is to the consumer, a fact often overlooked in discussing farm programs and a very beneficial use of funds provided to the Secretary of Agriculture.

Mustiness threatens stored dry beans

Dry beans from the 1969 crop, now being stored on the farm or at elevators, should be watched carefully the next several weeks for heating and deterioration, Michigan State University plant pathologists advise.

Purchases are financed with Section 32 funds provided by law from import duties collected under customs laws to the Secretary of Agriculture to encourage domestic consumption of farm products.

Drs. Axel Anderson and A.W. Saethler report that dry bean samples recently received at the MSU Plant Disease Diagnostic Laboratory have shown a greater than normal degree of off-odor. Other evidence suggests that beans from the 1969 Michigan crop may be unusually sensitive to the development of mustiness during storage.

Dr. Wayne Adams, MSU plant geneticist, believes that these potential storage problems are due to a change in the internal composition of beans. This makes them unusually prone to heating and spoilage, even though the seed moisture content is well within normal safe storage limits—under 18 per cent moisture. The scientists advise growers

Chevrolet to publish camper magazine

The Chevrolet Motor Division this spring is introducing the first owners' magazine devoted exclusively to the fastest growing market in the auto industry—the recreational vehicle field.

Called the "Chevy Camper," the 24-page full-color magazine will be published quarterly and will highlight features and photos on the complete camping story from the best places to visit to the best foods to take along. First issue is scheduled for April.

The magazine, which will present a variety of vehicle types in each issue, will highlight the best places to visit and then illustrate the best way to get there.

All aspects of camping will be discussed and illustrated in each issue. Some of the features include: scenic areas, historical sites, sports, hobbies, full vacations, extended holidays, weekend trips, conservation developments, new equipment and camping tips to make trips more enjoyable.

The schedule for the 1970 issues is: spring—introduction and spring camping; summer—summer vacations; fall—new product announcements; and winter—sun country camping.

Distribution of the Chevy Camper will be limited by Chevrolet to more than 700,000 families on the Kampgrounds of America (KOA) list. KOA is the largest privately owned, public campground system in the United States.

The Chevy Camper will emphasize family recreational ve-

Remove the target

For some time now the Clinton County Board of Supervisors and Tri - County Planning have taken pot-shots at one another with unloaded weapons. It's time the guns be loaded or laid aside.

There can be little doubt that consulting or service agencies eligible for federal grants are well aware of the requirements that must be met to secure such funding, and if the efforts to gain the financial base were directed toward the project itself much time and money would be more efficiently used.

On the other hand, effective planning is the key to organized development and conscientious consultants versed in theory and practice can lend a great deal to any planning situation.

But the current hassle has gone on long enough. If county government believes in their planning consultants, projects should be pursued with enthusiasm and cooperation. If, however, a serious division exists, there is little reason to continue the association.

It's time to reset the sights or take down the target.

What now?

For the fifth time residents of St. Johns have voted down a proposal to provide increased revenue to the city's general fund. It should be inferred that voters are fully aware of what has been denied and consequently will anticipate further reduction of services.

However, we feel this thought is unrealistic. Citizens will continue to expect clean streets, snow removal, recreational facilities and all services normally associated with a properly funded municipal budget. The needs and demands will not lessen.

So what now?

City officials have offered no definite proposals or plans for the future. Nor have they speculated as to possible cutbacks which may be necessitated by the charter amendment defeat. They have, however, been unanimous in their sense of need and this agreement should provide impetus for quick action.

There has already been much lost and the stakes in the game are getting higher. The need has been acknowledged. There is little reason for idly asking, "what now?"

More plans, fewer houses

Russia isn't the only country that seems to go in for detailed economic planning, often referred to as "five-year plans." Spokesmen for the U.S. government also have a penchant for planning, often with no better success than the Russians. Back in 1949, the housing goal was construction of 800,000 public housing units in six years. After 20 years, about 700,000 have been built. The 1968 housing act has set goals of 216 million units a year for 10 years. This too looks like another bit of wishful dreaming on the part of government planners. Home construction is declining as costs rise.

Local public officials now believe increased federal subsidies are necessary to stimulate an increase in building. Meanwhile, as inflation continues to eat away at the purchasing power of the dollar, many families are finding their own answer to the housing problem—with the help of the ingenuity of industry. They are turning to factory - produced mobile homes which now number 6 million and are a permanent part of the American landscape.

Back Thru the Years

Interesting Items from the Files of the Clinton County News

ONE YEAR AGO April 9, 1969

Two weeks of public meetings had produced only two solutions for St. Johns' financial plight—a city income tax and a three-mill capital improvements bond issue. There was no clear-cut indication of which solution was favored by a majority of the people at the meetings.

The Clinton County Canvassing Board found minor irregularities in the Elsie election held a month previous when the liquor by the glass proposal was turned down. Civil Defense Director Charles Frost announced that St. Johns would be getting a new "Skywarn" system for spotting tornado clouds in time for the tornado season.

Spring 4-H Achievement Awards were awarded to 105 4-H members.

10 YEARS AGO April 7, 1960

St. Johns assessed valuation climbed $329,200 from the previous year to $7,032,200.

Olney B. Moore, lifelong resident of St. Johns, was named as secretary-manager of the St. Johns Chamber of Commerce.

The St. Johns City zoning board of appeals declined to go along with plans for an addition to the Rivard Nursing Home.

The worst spring breakup in 25 years ruptured nearly every county road. Several heavy trucks had become mired in paved roads and schools had trimmed their routes in half to eliminate roads where there was danger of buses getting stuck.

25 YEARS AGO April 12, 1945

The Clinton County Board of Supervisors elected George Carter of Duplain as chairman of the board.

Gerald Karber, a local youth, hitch-hiked 2,000 miles on a sight-seeing trip from St. Johns to New York in five days.

Clinton County residents were asked to cooperate and file descriptions with retail coaldealers to avoid confusion in the threatening coal famine.

St. Johns residents were being asked to contribute 12 1/2 tons of serviceable clothing for use by war refugees by Dr. R. M. Kraft, head of the Clothing Drive committee.

Editorial on the Yalta conference—"If Britain and ourselves are having difficulty getting along with Russia, let's find out about it now. Let's not fool ourselves into believing that the Russians are generously cooperating in a tri-power plan for world peace and prosperity if they are not."

50 YEARS AGO April 8, 1920

All of St. Johns factories were going strong a little more than a week following the disastrous tornado which wrecked many of them. "St. Johns is a long way from a wrecked city," said the Clinton Republican, "if you want to borrow any money, come over."

Although Herbert Hoover had announced that he was a Republican in the Michigan primary.

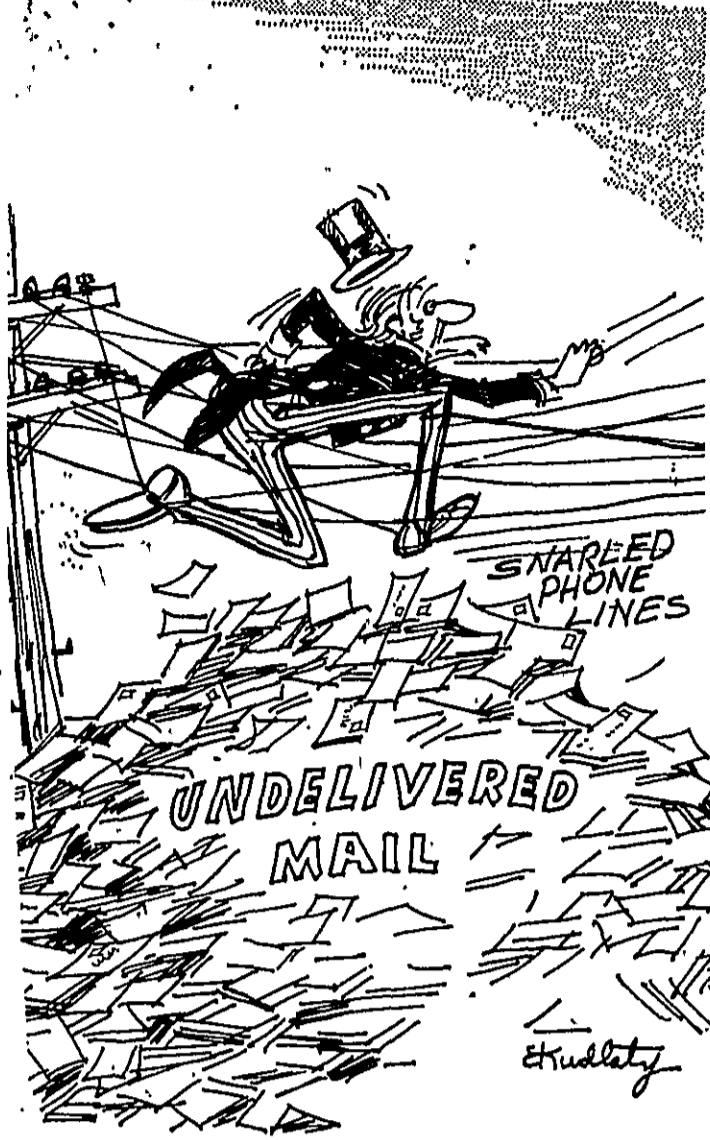

A tornado on the last Sunday in March with heavy rain, and a howling blizzard the following Sunday which dumped six to eight inches of snow on Clinton County made residents wonder if spring was ever coming or if it was worth waiting for, anyway.

Harrison Dravenstatt herded his family to his basement just as the tornado hit his house. Part of the house blew in on Dravenstatt, he felt a warm stickiness spreading over his face and he thought he was bleeding to death. Dravenstatt was hit in the face by a basket of 15 raw eggs.

STERLING, 111., GAZETTE: "Much of what passes for bargaining in labor-management relations resembles the process of buying a rug in an Arabian bazaar. A union may know pretty well what a company can afford in the way of wage raises and improved fringe benefits. The company in turn may have a good idea of what its employees are willing to accept. But as with the rug seller and rug buyer, it would be unwise for either side to come right out and say what it is willing to settle for."

Tied Up

That Time Again

There's commotion in this corner And confusion over there, The TV's disconnected 'N buried my big chair; The curtains are out airing 'N I still am wondering when Housecleaning will be over, So we start to live again!

The walls n' woodwork must be scrubbed, The davenport's kaput, I need no one to tell me There's dirty work afoot! I bravely try to enter, But I'm halted at the door, 'Drop all those books n' papers, Don't track up my clean floor!

A snack is served out on the lawn— There is no time to cook— The house is like a jungle 'N I never may look; One thought alone sustains me When once more I dare to speak, 'I'm thankful spring house-cleanin' Don't happen every week! W. E. DOBSON

From the state house

By DICK ALLEN 88th District Representative

Yes Judy, politics is fun. I was recently chastized by a good friend as follows:

"I am dismayed by your weekly newspaper columns. Now, I have known you for 25 years and I am telling you that your columns are not the real Dick Allen. You have always been a fun loving type that quickly sees the humorous side of most situations. But, your columns seem so serious. I think you're attempting to deceive the public!"

Well, Judy has a point. I am enjoying Lansing and often get a big chuckle out of events here. But, somehow the humor centers around situations and characters and it is very difficult to relate.

Take Representative McCollough for instance. Lucille, as she is called by good friends, is a 16-year veteran of the House from Dearborn. Her chief claim to fame is that she is the only member who has served for any time at all who has a 100% attendance record.

She never misses a vote. Not for a phone call, not to run an errand, not for a funeral, not for anything. Her record is marvelous testimony to the dedication, good health and regular habits.

But among the Legislators, Mrs. McCollough has another noteworthy characteristic which transcends her voting record. She never votes for taxes. For social services, education, public health, mental health, good roads and the Indian services, Yes, For taxes, No.

She goes further than this. She is always a supporter and often a sponsor of bills granting tax exemptions to senior citizens and other worthy groups. Some view this as inconsistent, but apparently not Rep. Mc-

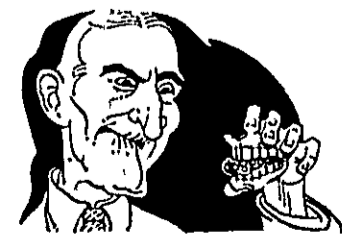

Collough. We should do something for the children of our state, so let us pass this 200 million dollar education increase. Having done so much for the children, it seems appropriate to do something for their parents. So let us reduce taxes. This attitude causes some resentment, but over the years the House members have learned to live with Lucille McCollough's quirks.

Recently, as the votes for the cigarette tax went on the huge board, with 110 green and red lights, a rare phenomena took place. A few legislators stood and began to applaud, then a few more and shortly the entire membership realized the situation. Mrs. McCollough's green light was on! Mrs. McCollough had voted for a tax increase!

Humor in Lansing seems to be of two kinds. Situation and character humor, in which the essence is lost to outsiders, and another variety unprintable in a family newspaper: But I tried Judy.

'IF IT FITZ ...'

I couldn't tattle

By JIM FITZGERALD

When I was a little boy, one of the worst things a kid could be was a tattletale.

If my Dad threatened to burn my entire collection of comic books, I still wouldn't tell him who helped me swipe them from the drugstore. Nobody wanted to be a squealer, a stool pigeon, a flink.

Of course, no publisher ever offered me $50,000 to write a book about how Dick Johnson, the minister's son, was the lookout while I stuffed Superman comics under my baggiest sweater.

I wonder if I would have sold out? Perhaps the price of my young integrity was 10 cents for a Saturday afternoon movie. Lord, knows, a baby-faced shoplifter doesn't need help carrying his scruples. But still, I like to think I would have remained silent no matter how grand a bribe was offered.

Dick Johnson was my best buddy. We told each other things we'd never tell anyone else. Until I confessed to my wife 20 years later, Dick was the only soul on earth who knew I was once in love with Betty Grable and had seen 1 of her movies 17 times. "Down Argentina Way" co-starring Aléc Faye, who was a little too fat, and Don Ameche).

I couldn't possibly tattle on Dick. No more than Tonto could knife the Lone Ranger. Gosh, we had a hidden cave in a riverbank where we spent long hours hiding from the world. The cave was a tight fit and I had to exhale when he inhaled. How could I rat on anyone that close to me?

That's the code I grew up with. A gentleman simply doesn't flink on his friends. But the code sure feels uncomfortable and old-fashioned today.

Today, Detroit Tiger Bill Freshan writes a book full of lockerroom secrets about his Detroit teammates. Sam Johnson writes a book revealing private moments in the life of his brother, Lyndon. A member of the Chicago 7 jury writes newspaper articles telling everything that went on in the once-sacred jury room.

And everyone who was ever close to John and Jackie Kennedy writes a book giving such historically important information as how much she spent on shoes and how angry he got about it.

The world is full of tattletales, all doing their thing for a buck. Maybe it's ok. Certainly, this flinking is what a lot of people want. Publishers wouldn't print "sensational, behind-the-scenes" nonsense if there weren't a panicking public eager to buy every word.

The tattlers always say they did it because "it's history" and "the public has a right to know" and all that crud. I wish just one squealer would honestly admit he sold out for money, the heck with loyalty. I can understand greed and it doesn't make me throw up as quickly as dishonesty.

As a professional writer, maybe I should be expected to violate confidences—particularly when a stab-in-the-back might improve readership and put more bread in my box. But it was several years ago that I did considerable soul-searching and bookkeeping and discovered this marvelous fact: I can already afford more hangovers than I want to live through.

And a drink—or anything else—is 200% better shared with a friend who trusts you. Heck, Dick Johnson wasn't even his real name.

About Denny and the coffee grounds

By RON KARLE, Editor

My mother is mad at Denny McLain.

Which shows you how far this nonsense has gone.

My mother is pretty hip to what's happening except for sports. Like most women, she has more important things to concern herself with than grown men playing games.

The last time she made what I thought was an unprompted comment on sports was the day I came home from playing hockey with a few stitches in my head which was wrapped in 700 yards of bandages.

I could tell she was really concerned because she didn't even tell me to wipe my feet when I came in.

(I was 14 years old before I realized that "wipe your feet" wasn't the standard greeting of welcome).

Anyway, my father worked for The Detroit News for 45 years and for 45 years he brought the paper home every night. Yet, I was never sure if my mother knew The News had a sports section.

She might have seen it on the kitchen floor, though.

That's where my father wrapped the garbage in what became sort of a nightly ritual at our house.

My father has a knack of placing the newspapers in just that special way so the coffee grounds won't seep through.

The thing that made the wrapping of the garbage especially interesting was that about three days out of seven nobody remembered that the coffee grounds were still in the pot.

That was always discovered after my father had trudged out to the trash can in the cold, bleak night to deposit his little parcel.

So there would be a special wrapping just for the coffee grounds.

But one foray into the night was all that was expected of my father and so the coffee grounds would be set on the steps so they could be taken out in the morning.

Now when I was in school, my mother always packed my lunch which she could do in her sleep since I insisted on peanut butter and jelly sandwiches for the first nine years before developing a taste for balled ham.

The thing that always amazed me was that in 12 years not once did I ever open my lunch to find I had taken the coffee grounds by mistake. It's little things like that over the years which makes a guy develop a certain unquestioning faith in his parents.

Things like my father's dancing ability fall into that category, too.

You see my father is one of those rare guys who can fox trot through anything. Waltzes, Cha-cha-chas, anything. And very convincingly.

I never really appreciated that until about five years ago when I realized that the last popular dance I had mastered was the Twist.

It was all rather neat and everything because I learned to Twist with this girl from the University of Something-or-other Easter Sunday night on the beach at Daytona.

Man, I thought, I'm set for life. I know the latest dance. Well, six months later they were all doing the animal or whatever and I was still twisting.

But the maturity of my years and a sound grasp of the fox trot has brought me over to my father's way of thinking. He's a smooth one, all right.

I'll bet that if Denny McLain knew how to fake a good fox trot my mother might reconsider and give him another chance.

But I know one thing. If Denny McLain ever comes over to our house and doesn't wipe his feet she'd never forgive him.

Even if he remembered to include the coffee grounds with the rest of the garbage.

Hats off to Howdie

By RON HUARD

Being one-half of a management team raising four kids, I am more than occasionally accosted by situations which challenge my parental prowess. A simple question of "May I go to the movie?" can cause me to stutter and stammer worse than Marion Lorne in one of her classic quandaries.

The routine usually follows a set pattern.

After sputtering for 30-40 seconds, I grab the Legion of Decency ratings and after scanning that revered list I check the newspaper ad for the movie industry's self rating. Comparing these is like combining evolution and the book of Genesis into a universally accepted answer for why we are.

Nevertheless I make the effort and after going through the motions end up with a mouth full of tongue.

I doubt that this situation is unique to our family and for those of you who share this dilemma here's a note of encouragement. Our eldest was turned away from the Clinton Theater!

Nope, it wasn't for carving her initials in the seats or plastering her Holloway sucker on the screen. It wasn't even for spitting her gum in the water cooler drain. It was plain and simple — too young!

I have no idea of the subject matter of "Easy Rider," but I suppose it doesn't take much imagination to arrive at a fairly good idea. The ratings weren't as bad as some have been in recent months and by rationalizing just a wee bit the management team at our house nodded approval.

We were overruled by the management team at the Clinton Theater and it was only a matter of minutes after leaving that our eldest, followed by quartet of friends, was tearing through the back door giggling as only teenage girls can. "They wouldn't let us in!" they cried in glee.

I was both elated and embarrassed. Elated to think that despite the accusation directed toward movie exhibitors for grabbing money from youngsters regardless of their age, there was at least one theater that held out for what they believed to be right. And I was embarrassed to think that after sharing in those gripes I still lacked the courage to say to that oldest kid, "No, kid, you can't go to that movie. Stay home and play jacks."

I also was proud of the girls. Instead of sulking and strutting indignantly behind false sophistication (as I might have done at that age) they readily laughed at themselves and the entire situation and they were thrilled to share their experience in a manner that was wholesomely refreshing.

As I write this, my hat's off to Howard Kortes and the staff at the Clinton Theater. In this confused and confusing society of ours we sometimes fail to find a true example of sanity. By refusing my kid and her friends admittance to his theater, Howdie brought a bit of the truly good life into our home.

P.M. SESSION

Chairman Nobis called the board together as a committee of the whole at 1:30 p.m.

Present were Chairman Nobis, Cobb, Underhill, Serrine, Montgomery, Shepard, Gove, Chamberlain and Andrews. Supervisors Hufnagel and Lankford were absent.

The matter of the attempt by the City of Lansing to annex the Capitol City Airport came up for discussion.

Supervisor Montgomery express his views on the matter. It is apparent that Watertown Township will not willingly give up any territory to the City of Lansing. The consensus of opinion is that the Board of Supervisors should support the Townships in their legitimate enterprises and to do all possible to prevent this attempt by Lansing to effect the annexation.
