Big costs big hurdle

Ask public drive to open swim pool

A community effort proposal to open the St. Johns swimming pool this summer has been given cautious approval by the city commission.

St. Johns attorney Timothy M. Green suggested last week that a non-profit corporation could be set up to operate the pool. Green offered his services as a central point for questions, comments and contributions should such a plan prove feasible. He'll also act as a "clearing house," he said, for information on the costs of operating the pool.

City commissioners had no objection to the pool being open this summer if funds could be obtained to operate it. Last year the cost was about $18,000, including $12,000 for salaries, city officials said. Gross income from lessons and admission prices was about $4,300.

Mayor Charles Coletta pointed out the pool's filters are in bad shape and he estimated it might cost about $11,000 just to get them working properly again. This alone, on top of normal operating costs, would be a large hurdle to overcome in opening the pool, he said.

GREEN'S SUGGESTION carried a plea for community service clubs and veterans' groups to become involved, as well as individual citizens.

The commission last week also accepted civil defense forms from Dr. R. L. Wohlers, a member of the city's civil defense committee, for licensing the municipal building and the First Methodist Church as civil defense shelters. The municipal building would provide about 64 shelter spaces and the Methodist Church about 57 spaces.

Wohlers also urged regular testing of the five air horns in the city which are used as civil defense sirens. They haven't been tested since their use last April 21 when tornadoes bounced around the area.

In other business last Tuesday night:

*The commission denied a request by Moriarty Lumber of Michigan to place 4 x 4-foot buildings for safety patrol shelters at the corners of either State and Traver or Baldwin or US-27. The request was denied because of proposed advertising on the shelters.

*MUNICIPAL JUDGE Harold Reed requested student help during the Easter school vacation, but the commission denied that request, too, referring to their earlier agreement for an austerity program.

*The commission voted to open the road on the east side of the park athletic field so it could be used as an alternate route in getting to Smith Hall for the Chamber of Commerce's upcoming Farm, Home, Auto and Sports Show the end of this month.

Disaster unit here prepared

The Clinton County Red Cross Disaster Committee which worked so fast in the April 21 tornado at Fowler last year is hoping for a breather this year — but they're ready for more such duty if the need arises.

The Clinton County Disaster Committee is made up of Robert Prowant and Willis Hettler Jr. of St. Johns. Bernon Willett is in charge of the disaster communications.

Charles J. Shawnee, disaster committee chairman for the Mid-Michigan Chapter of the American Red Cross for Clinton County, lauded the work done by Prowant and Hettler last year and said they have put in many hours already this year in making arrangements for possible future needs.

Arrangements have been made with food distributors for emergency rations and for clothing, shelter and medical aid if needed in the event of any natural or manmade disaster in Clinton County.

Shawnee said the disaster committee is tied in with the state police alert network and in case of disaster the committee would be immediately notified and then local area volunteers would be alerted.

County's 8th fatality recorded

Clinton County's eighth traffic fatality of 1968 — compared with only two at this time last year — occurred early Saturday morning when Donald L. Gundersen, 21, of Maple Rapids Road, Fowler, died in a one-car accident.

The mishap occurred on Francis Road just south of Taft Road. Sheriff's deputies said Gundersen's northbound car left the road at a high rate of speed after clipping the Stoney Creek bridge and then hitting a culvert about 200 feet north.

Cheese Counter roof blown off

County flaps in high winds

Clinton County stood up fairly well under the constant force of heavy winds Monday, but major damage was reported at two places in St. Johns, including the new high school.

Winds gusts raised the back portion of the roof at Herbruck's Cheese Counter from the building and smashed it down on two automobiles parked in front of the store on US-27 just north of the city.

It was the second time in less than a year the roof has been blown off. A tornado last April 21 took the same section of roof off, but that time there were no cars damaged.

Monday's wind damage came about 12:45. The car smashed worst was one driven by M. J. Lamphere of Tampa, Fla. He and a companion, M.M. McClellan, also of Tampa, had stopped at the Cheese Counter for refreshments and had been inside the building about 10 minutes when the roof blew off. The other car belonged to an employee, Mrs. Althea Conklin.

THERE WAS NO estimate of damage available. The portion of roof blown off was at the rear of the store over a storage room — the same place where the roof was lost last year. The roof was also blown off the building about 12 years ago.

Other major damage occurred at the new St. Johns High School, where a wall forming the north side of the music rooms was toppled by a strong gust of wind about the same time Herbruck's roof went.

The wall, standing alone, had been firmly braced, but it was broadside to the wind and the bracing and everything was blown down.

Winds were so strong that workers weren't permitted to go back on the job during the afternoon as a safety precaution. There was no estimate of the amount of damage, although it is covered by insurance.

The winds were accompanied by blue skies and bright sunshine all day. The weather bureau at Capital City Airport reported a constant wind of about 30 miles an hour, and some gusts were estimated as high as 65 miles an hour.

The wind was responsible for tree limbs and whole trees being toppled all over the country, and in many places electrical

About those 13 fires this past week . . .

St. Johns firemen are still answering fire calls.

The first one last week involved a roof, and wind-fanned flames did considerable damage to the home of Mrs. Mary Gorbunko at 1526 S. Lansing Street, south of Townsend Road.

The fire apparently was touched off by sparks from the house's chimney. It started on the southwest corner of the house and then, fanned by the wind, ate its way under the roof and pretty much undermined the whole thing. Firemen had a tough time putting out the flames because they kept springing to life in the wind.

Water damage to the interior of the house was lessened when firemen immediately covered all the furniture.

A PASSERBY called firemen and another alerted Mrs. Gorbunko, who was not aware the roof was on fire. She had been cooking at a coal-fired cook stove.

Less than 18 hours after the area has been washed down by two heavy rain showers, firemen were called out for a grass fire. The alarm came in a 12:50 p.m. Friday, but the fire at the Donna Carter home at 500 W. Walker Street didn't amount to much, and the fire trucks were out only about eight minutes.

Since then, however, firemen have really been hopping, answering mostly grass fires brought on by trash burning during windy weather.

Saturday afternoon firemen spend about an hour out on a fire on the Huguélet farm 3 1/2 miles west of US-27 on Jason Road.

Sunday there were four fire calls. Two were grass fires, one 4 1/2 miles east of US-27 on Price Road in Victor Township and the other at the corner of Williams and Maple Rapids roads in Greenbush. The first call was at 3 p.m. and the call at 3:26, while fire equipment was still at the first fire. At 6:11 and 7:15 p.m. firemen were summoned to the city park where foam rubber padding in the pole vaulting pit at the athletic field was afire.

Monday was a daytime nightmare of activity. At 10 a.m. firemen made their first run for a grass fire on DeWitt Road near Hyde; at 12:30 p.m. they answered a grass fire call at Beck's Orchards where flames from burning brush swept across a field and into some woods; at 12:45 p.m. the stand-by force in town was called to 201 S. Mead

Major damage in Monday's high winds was caused at Herbruck's Cheese Counter just north of St. Johns where the back portion of the roof of the building was blown off. Parts of it landed atop two cars parked in front of the building. Just about a year ago the same portion of roof was blown off in a tornado.

This portion of wall at the new St. Johns High School was blown in about noon Monday by high winds.

The Keusch Brothers apartment complex, south of Herbison Rd, lost a carport Monday when the high winds hit the area.

and telephone wires were snapped by the falling trees. St. Johns had a rash of this sort of thing.

The winds also blew down a carport between two apartment houses on US-27 north of Clark Road in DeWitt Township, and ripped aluminum siding off several buildings, including an apartment house on the south edge of St. Johns owned by Dr Paul Stoller.

A PLATE GLASS window at Lundy Motors was blown out by a gust of wind, a golf driving range shack near Daley's Restaurant was reduced to rubble, and the front door at the 2 Brothers Food Store on East State Street in St. Johns was blown out.

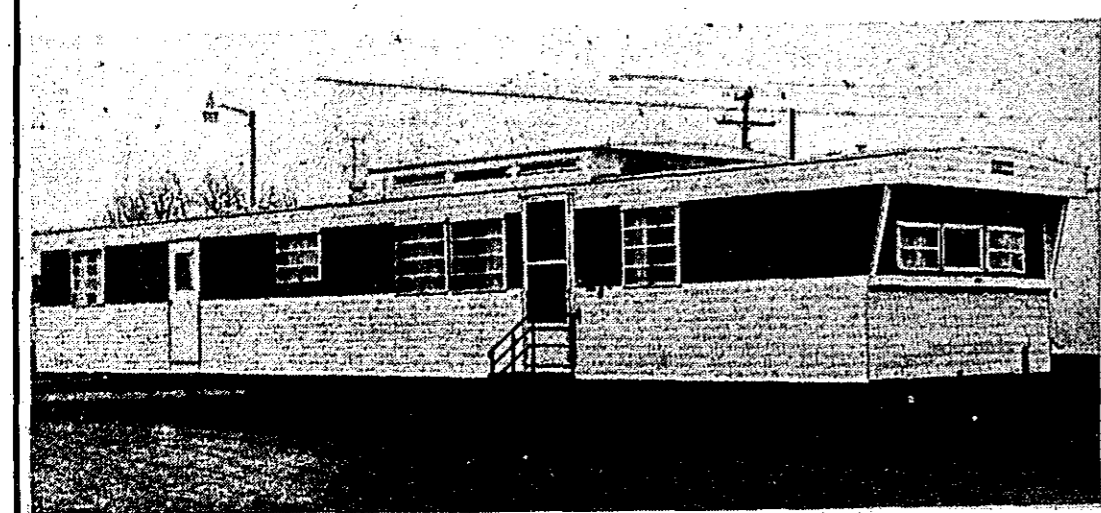

Individual homes around the county suffered roof damage from shingles being raised up by the strong winds.

On top of the winds, St. Johns firemen had a rough time with fire calls during the day, four of them for grass fires. Fortunately, none of them caused any real damage.

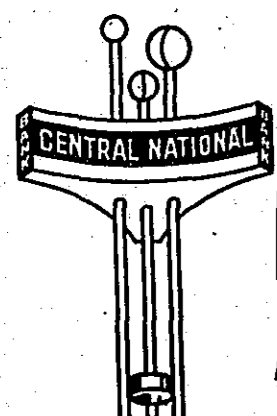

INSTRUMENTS STOLEN

and state government at the University of Michigan.

Serving as an active Republican for many years, Woods was elected Republican county chairman in 1955. Through the years he has served as delegate to many county and state Republican conventions. In 1964 Woods was selected as secretary of the Republican State Convention and in 1967 as chairman of its Credentials Committee.

Among his earlier efforts in this area, in 1958 Woods founded the Alma College Republican Club, while also serving as precinct captain and deputy clerk of Arcadia Township. Woods was honored by Michigan Republicans when he was selected from Republicans throughout the state to work on Governor Romney's leadership council task force, whose purpose it was to examine and develop the foundation for the Michigan Republican position and platform. Woods is now serving as a member of the Republican County Executive Committee.

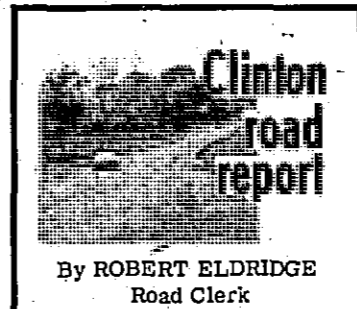

Presently vice president of the Gratiot Isabella County Board of Realtors, Woods has been in the real estate business since 1959 when he began development of Willow Bend Subdivision. As a real estate broker Woods is now working with business and investment properties throughout the state of Michigan. Most of his work consists of dealing with business and industrial concerns in the transfer of ownership and in providing new sites for plant relocation and/or expansion especially in the central Michigan area.

The component contracting division of his T.M.W. Enterprises has built an apartment house and builds private homes in the Gratiot County Area. As a partner in Sandwood Investments, Woods has worked to develop the partnership interest in rental properties and in several other business concerns in Alma and in Lower Michigan.

Under the leadership of Woods, The Bi-Partisan Political Action Committee of the Alma and St. Louis Chambers of Commerce has examined and adopted positions on such issues as lower court reorganization and with the help of the national Chamber has worked to inform its members of many issues affecting the business community. The committee is also sponsoring a non-partisan citizens political action course.

As an active member of the Alma Jaycees, Woods is presently chairman of its parks and community survey project. In Kiwanis, Woods chairs the business and community affairs committee, and is presently heading a multi-county drive to establish a Big Brother Agency for the communities. Woods is also an active member of the Arcadia Sodbusters, the Local Chapter of the Michigan Farm Bureau, a member of the Alma Chamber of Commerce and the First Presbyterian Church.

Born in 1939, the son of Rev and Mrs R. V. Woods, Thell Woods, his wife, Bobbie, and his six months old son, Micah, now make their home at 4239 Riverview near his subdivision west of Alma.

By ROBERT ELDRIDGE Road Clerk

The Clinton County Road Commission owns a number of areas — there are at least three that come instantly to mind — that are naturally scenic and would make ideal spots for small parks or recreation areas. A local community group has expressed interest in taking over one of these areas, and the commission is very willing to have them do this. The other areas are not situated well enough for any other such organization to readily take them over.

These areas should be developed and would undoubtedly be well used by county residents if they were improved. They are all readily accessible and are located at bridge sites on the county's larger streams. The commission is interested in making picnic areas and fishing sites at these locations and will do so if and when funds are available.

Last Wednesday the commission spent part of the morning attending the bid opening at Civic Auditorium in Lansing. They were interested, naturally, in the bids on the Tallman Road Bridge over the Maple River. Initially, the C-Way Construction Co. of Spring Harbor submitted the low bid. Their bid was rejected, however, because they were low bidder on another project and were qualified to do only one project at a time. The next higher bidder, Parmalee & Carpenter of Lansing was awarded the bid, their price being $234,552.00. Other bids on the project ranged on up to $257,991.00. The commission has 30 days in which to deposit a check for half the amount of the bid with the State Highway Department and then construction will be started.

Load limits on county roads will be lifted by the time this is published. Originally, it had been planned to lift restrictions last Monday morning, but at that time there were still areas that were soft and wet. The high winds Monday and Tuesday's sun dried them considerably and so it was decided to remove the limits Wednesday morning.

The high winds Monday, incidentally, kept both our telephone lines busy a good share of the time all afternoon. Trees were going down all over the county and all our crews were kept busy removing them from the road ways. Some of our men put in overtime before all the roads were opened to traffic.

I received a call from Fowler requesting that we put up warning signs at the approaches to a bad area of Wright Road south of the town. The caller stated that at least one driver had damaged his auto by going through this stretch at high speed not knowing in time that it was there. In checking with the foreman for the district, I found that on three different occasions warning signs had been erected as requested. Once, someone had deliberately smashed them both down by driving against them and bending them completely over. Another time blinker warnings were put up and fastened securely — these were stolen that same night. Red flags were put out and these too were stolen. The mentality of people who do these things is difficult to fathom — they are the cause of an expensive problem through their childish actions that no reasonable person would make exist.

Sidebars

By LOWELL G. RINKER

Several persons questioned us last week about why the American flags were being flown at half-mast. It was by orders of Gov. Romney in respect for the memory of Dr Martin Luther King, who was assassinated last Thursday evening.

Dr King's death has stirred the country up as much as any death since, perhaps, the assassination of President Kennedy over four years ago. A lot of people have expressed the feeling that news coverage of Dr King's death was overdone, and I felt that way myself for a time. But because of the racial overtones involved, it got extensive coverage on radio, TV and newspapers and in mouth-to-mouth conversation.

St Johns firemen don't seem to be running down much in their quick response to fire calls. They still manage to get one truck out of the garage and under way before I have a chance to gather up my camera, light meter and coat and get downstairs.

Mrs Marylin Moore had words of praise for the department Friday when I talked to her about the fire at the home of her mother, Mrs Mary Corbenko. She said they immediately covered up all the furniture in the house, and apparently it prevented any water damage to the furniture while firemen worked on the roof with water and axe. They had a tough time of it for awhile because a brisk wind kept fanning sparks alive.

There's strong competition among firemen when it comes to getting to the fire hall first. On a country fire the first six in the hall get paid for a fire run while the others are paid for stand-by. Fire Chief Clare Maier was moaning Monday. He was in the municipal building and handled a fire alarm call himself, but he didn't get to the fire hall in time to make the run. Other firemen had just returned from another fire and were still in the hall.

The House of Representatives

The House Education Committee has proposed a comprehensive revision of Michigan's State School aid formula, with the aim of providing more support for poorer school districts. The bill, incorporating the aid formula changes, also provides some $615 million in general fund payments to schools for 1968-69, about $5 million more than recommended in Governor Romney's budget. The bill will now be considered by the House Appropriations Committee, to see if the funds are available. School aid appropriations for the present fiscal year total some $555 million, about $60 million less than recommended for next year.

Under the new bill, the present two-phase aid formula would be changed to a four-phase plan. The classifications would be determined on the basis of state equalized valuation of property in the school district. Most of the increase in school aid would be directed at districts with a low state equalized valuation per school child. For example, a district with only $5,000 valuation per pupil would receive an increase of over $50 per child. High valuation districts would receive a smaller increase. For instance, a school district with a $30,000 S.E.V. per pupil would receive an increase of $1.92 per student.

One of the most significant improvements proposed by the committee is a $6.3 million "middle cities" proposal for inner-city school problems. This new money would be used primarily to aid children of indigent families, minority groups, broken homes, sub-standard housing, dense school population, and low-grade level achievement.

House Republicans are encouraged that the new school aid bill has been reported out of committee this early in the session. Early final approval of the school aid measure will be beneficial to schools in establishing their programs for the coming school year.

Legislative activity reached a high level of intensity last week, and the pace promises to continue to increase over the next several weeks.

The House of Representatives passed 38 bills last week, more than doubling the total for the entire year. A total of 72 bills have now been approved by the House during this session.

On an 84-1 vote, the House approved Governor Romney's "sweat equity" plan. The State Housing Authority could start putting up three-bedroom houses for persons in the $5,000 and under income range. Many low-income families don't have individual homes because they cannot afford a down payment, therefore, instead of a down payment, the person buying the home would pledge to devote at least 500 hours in helping to build the house. House Republicans strongly support this concept, since it promotes individual initiative and pride in home ownership. Once a person has put his own sweat and effort into building his home, he is more likely to want to protect it and keep it in good condition.

The House also passed a Republican-sponsored bill last week which would make it a felony to interfere with a fireman in the performance of his duty. This bill would make it a felony offense to use a firearm with intent to obstruct or interfere with firemen on duty. Damage or destruction of fire fighting equipment would also be a felony, and refusal to cooperate with a fireman's order would be a misdemeanor.

House members also approved a G.O.P. highway safety bill, aimed at restricting reckless drivers. The bill provides that anyone involved in a fatal accident or three accidents over a two-year period may be called in for a review of his driving record, and possibly facelicense suspension. Another was approved which would allow Viet Nam soldiers to qualify for various veterans benefits. The bill extends the definition of "veteran" to include those having served in the Viet Nam era. The bill specifies this era as the period beginning Aug. 5, 1964, and ending on a date set by the President or the Congress. Another bill raises veterans homestead tax exemptions across the board, but gives special consideration to disabled veterans.

House members also approved a G.O.P. bill establishing a state commission to determine salaries of legislators and other state elected officials. The measure (HB 3775) removes the authority for setting executive, judicial, and legislative pay from the Legislature.

Speaker at NFO dinner

'Parity prices only answer for farmers': Coloradoan

A united effort by agriculture to obtain parity price for farm products is necessary if family farming is to continue to exist and if the world's future food needs are to be met.

That was the gist of a talk by Homer Jackson before some 400 persons who stayed for the last part of a Clinton County NFO Swiss Steak Dinner and program at Ovid-Elsie High School Saturday night.

Jackson, manager of the Production Credit Assn. at Rifle, Colo., said parity prices appear to him, through years of experience in the farm credit business, to be the only hope.

"We have too many organizations now, and so none are as effective as they should be," Jackson said. "We are wholly ineffective when our voice is broken down."

Jackson claims the rule of supply and demand in setting farm prices is outmoded now by large chain-stores, America has a $94 billion annual food bill, he said, and 80 per cent of it is handled by 36 companies. He said purchasing agents for the large stores set the price they will pay for dressed meat, and only two of 25 of the companies have procurement agencies that bid for farm products.

THE RESULT, HE said, is that the farmer is at the mercy of non-competitive companies. He claimed the large chain stores control prices at the farm, on the wholesale level and for the customer, and as such they are a monopoly. He called for legislation to control such monopoly and protect farm prices.

"I'm not advocating that government run our business," he said. "But if farmers are to survive, we must obtain a parity price floor. The government role would be to govern buying prices so that firms cannot buy products below parity."

Jackson said that many people in agriculture sell at prices below the cost of production "and at a time when we have the greatest demand for food and are paying the highest prices." The downturn in farm prices, he said, is putting the farmer "in the most difficult cost-price squeeze ever experienced in agriculture."

Because of the squeeze, Jackson said, farmers are borrowing twice as much money now to operate their farms as they were five years ago and five times as much as they were 10 years ago.

"Interest cost is now a major cost of farming," Jackson said, "and it has built up so high farmers can never pay off the principal." He said the loaning agencies have reached the point where they are seriously wondering how much longer they can support a losing business.

"Our rural economy is facing bankruptcy," he said. "We are now in the most critical financial position that has ever faced rural America."

THE IRONIC THING about lower farm prices, Jackson said, is the growing need for food. There was a 70-million person increase in world population last year without any improvement in food production, he said. There are less than one-half the number of sheep there were 100 years ago, and cattle today are being slaughtered faster than they're raised.

The world population will double in the next 30 years, and there will be a 300-million increase in the next four years alone. And America is exporting foodstuffs faster than it is producing it.

"Oversupply is nothing but a misleading myth perpetuated through food channels," Jackson charged. "In order to force low prices being paid," he said American farmers are thus subsidizing retail business and consumer-paid prices.

"Unless we receive immediate help, farms will fold up so fast that even the large corporation farms won't be able to save the situation."

How do we get price out of a controlled marketing system? Jackson asked the audience. "The holding action is now considered workable. Set the price and hold it until the buyer meets your price. This is the same that is done in all other areas of the economy."

More than 800 persons attended Saturday night's NFO dinner, served in the cafeteria at Ovid-Elsie High School. Less than half were on hand for the post-dinner program.

The poor, misunderstood extension telephone.

What it is, what it isn't.

It is a second telephone in your home. It isn't paying for a separate line into your house. Or paying for a separate number.

And it isn't paying a double telephone bill.

What it is is merely an extension from your present phone. And if you have to dash through the house or scramble downstairs to say out-of-breath hellos, it's something you need.

And it isn't a big expense. The cost—if you choose the basic style and color—is something like 4 cents a day. (Which is a bargain; you pay about four times that for your regular phone.)

It's not even a sensational new fad—by now four out of ten homes in America already have an extension phone. And the average family takes over 400 incoming calls a year on it, and uses it for at least that many outgoing calls.

Last of all, it wouldn't cost much to try one for a couple of months and this would tell you everything.

Whether it is, or isn't, for you.

Call our business office or ask the man on the telephone truck.

EVERY MICHIGAN AAU WINNER

Bob Every of St. Johns was one of four repeating champions in the 1968 Michigan Amateur Athletic Union boxing championships in Detroit's Cobo Hall March 29. Every, winner of the 147-pound title last year, dropped to 139 pounds this year to repeat. Here the Lansing Community College student accepts his award from Frederick C. TAXPAYERS ASK IRS

Q - To help promote goodwill for my new business, I plan to give gifts to my best customers this Christmas. Is it true that there is a limit on what you can spend for these gifts?
A - The law limits the amount you may deduct on business gifts to a total of $25 for any one individual during the tax year. For the purposes of this provision, the customer and his spouse are generally considered one individual. That means you can't give a $25 gift to a customer and a $25 gift to his wife and be able to deduct them both as a business expense. Gifts which cost $4 or less are not subject to this $25 rule if your name is clearly and permanently imprinted on them and they are distributed in quantity. This would cover items like pens and calendars.

Want to learn new ways to prepare meats

"Bone Up On Meat" is the title of the Extension Home Economics classes for April. The first of three meetings will be held in St. Johns April 16 at Smith Hall, beginning at 1. Like classes will be taught in Ithaca on the 17th at the First Methodist Church and in Corunna on the 18th at the Casino in McCurdy Park. The time for each is 1. A repeat evening class will be held in Corunna on the 18th beginning at 7.

When you shop at the supermarket, you are offered many choices. How do you ever make up your mind? If your food dollar is your guide then you are like most family shoppers who are limited in the amount which they can spend on food. Meat commands a higher proportion of the family food dollar than other foods of similar nutritive value. Its delicious aroma and flavor along with a lasting feeling of satisfaction after a meal account for meat's popularity. Every homemaker rates herself as a cook on the quality of her meat cookery.

THE CLASS, "Bone Up On Meats", offers homemakers an opportunity to review basic methods of cooking meats and other protein foods and to explore new ways of preparation.

Questions concerning meat tenderizers, food values and costs will be discussed. Members will be given an opportunity to prepare and taste several meat dishes.

These classes are planned for homemakers of all ages. Beginners as well as experienced homemakers desiring more variety in meat preparation will have an interest and may attend. Area Extension Economist, Helen Meach will be teaching. If you have questions regarding the classes call the Extension Office in your county.

Helping Hands homes needed

Helping Hands or Block Parent Plan, as it is known in some areas, was started in St. Johns a year ago to provide the children of the community a place of safety to turn to when they are in danger.

The homes children can seek shelter in are easily identified as an 8 by 9 inch placard with a hand in dark blue on a white background is placed in a window easily seen from the street.

THESE WORDLESS signs are presently in 300 St. Johns homes and it is planned in the near future to add another 100 homes, according to Mrs Roderick Brown, chairman of Helping Hands, a Jaycee Auxiliary community service project.

Anyone wishing to obtain a Helping Hand card for their home may contact either a school official or their clergyman for a recommendation.

IN ORDER TO qualify as a recipient, one must be at home during the hours children are on their way to and from school. The final determination on the placement of the cards is based on the location of the home. The goal is to have two cards on each block in the city.

The responsibilities of having a Helping Hand in your home include: Call the police immediately in any case no matter how minor, involving a crime of an adult against a child; If you should call the police, be absolute sure to write down the name and rank of whom you talk to, the time and date; Helping Hand signs are not to be transferred to another person or another home, when and

Lutheran ladies plan bake sale for April 20

The April 2 meeting of the St. Johns Lutheran Ladies Guild was begun with devotions conducted by President Lillian Tiedt. Fifteen members were in attendance.

A baked goods sale will be held April 20 at the Sears store of Southgate Plaza, beginning at 9 a.m. All members of the parish are reminded to contribute articles for the sale. The committee in charge consists of Carolyn Ebert, Mildred Luther, Alvina Strgar and Frances Diehm.

It was decided to give $5 to the Cancer Fund. Mrs Rachel Snyder was welcomed as a guest at the evening's meeting.

The meeting concluded with the unison recitation of the Lord's Prayer.

Martin Kloska and Vivian Rafferty answer questions about the friendly skies.

Woman's Club hosts 21st Senior Girls tea

St. Johns Woman's Club hosted senior girls of Rodney B. Wilson High School at their 21st annual Senior Girls Tea Wednesday afternoon, April 3.

There were 99 girls attending. Mrs S. R. Russell was chairman of the day and members of the tea committee headed by Mrs George Judd were Mrs Alan Dean, Mrs Lloyd Harris, Mrs John Caudy and Mrs Donald Walton.

Representatives from United Airlines presented the program, "Wings have Charm." Martin Kloska of Pittsburg, stewardess recruiter and co-ordinator, told of the requirements to be accepted as a stewardess.

IN ORDER TO APPLY to United Airlines, a girl must be 19 1/2, not less than 5' 9" tall and have a high school diploma. United prefers stewardesses that have two years of college or two years of experience in working with the public.

Kloska warned the girls that no school in the United States can guarantee jobs as stewardesses other than schools run by the airlines. Many of these schools are quite expensive to attend. The schools operated by the airlines do not charge for attendance.

ALSO AT THE TEA was United stewardess Vivian Rafferty of Muskegon. She told of the five and one-half weeks of training in school at Chicago.

A trio of senior girls, Sue Wickerham, Kathy Zuker and Helen Benson, sang several selections. They were accompanied at the piano by Linda Spouta.

Mrs John Rumbaugh, president of the club, announced the annual meeting Wednesday, April 17, at 11 a.m. in the undercroft of St. Johns Episcopal Church will be followed by a luncheon salad bar at noon. The program will be presented by a department of Conservation representative on the Sleepy Hollow project and will begin at 1 p.m. Guests may attend the luncheon and program.

Ham, lamb or turkey for Easter dinner

By HELEN B. MEACH Extension Home Economist

Ham or lamb — which is traditional for Easter dinner at your house?

If you are planning for ham here are some shopping tips. A ham labeled "country-style" was processed by using a dry cure, slow smoking and long drying process. It has a good ham flavor, is firmer textured, low in moisture and needs cooking before serving. Modern processing takes much less time to come up with a tasty, milder and more tender ham.

A ham labeled "smoked" needs additional cooking before serving. A "smoked and full cooked" or just a "fully-cooked" ham is ready to eat. Canned hams are "fully cooked" and can be served without further cooking. In brief, if hams are not labeled as "fully cooked" or "ready to eat", assume they must be cooked further before eating.

HOW ABOUT A spring lamb roast? Look for meat that is pink, firm and fine textured. The cross section of bones should appear red, moist and porous. The outside fat should be firm but its color varies so it does not indicate the quality of the lamb.

To roast, preheat the oven to 325 degrees... that's a slow oven. You don't have to remove the thin, papery covering on lamb roasts before roasting. Put the roast with fat side up on a rack in a shallow roasting pan and add your favorite seasonings. If you have a meat thermometer, use it. Roast uncovered, without added liquid, until the meat thermometer registers 180 for well-done or 170 for medium.

AFTER ROASTING, LET the lamb stand for a few minutes before carving. This makes for easier slicing. For a festive touch to your spring lamb, ask your butcher to remove enough meat from the shank end of a leg roast to expose an inch or more of bone. For special occasions, decorate this bone with a paper frill.

If you can throw tradition to the winds, you can't do better than to buy a "turkey for Easter."

THE CURRENT PRICE is right. Storage stocks of frozen turkeys were 70 per cent above the five-year average Jan. 1. It is reasonable to expect that turkey prices will not be as low again for several years to come.

For the family that can use a big bird, the large size is the bargain. Weight added beyond the 12 pound mark is meat; bone weight remains constant at this point.

LAMB, HAM TURKEY — which ever you select, be a label reader. Your choice of cooking method depends to a large degree on weight and label information. Shop wisely to insure happy eating for Easter.

Man does not live by bread alone, but if he did, says a University of Wisconsin scientist his daily water bill would be for more than 300 gallons. This amount, well over a ton of water, is what is required to grow enough wheat to produce 2.5 pounds of bread.

Tips for care of new fabrics on labels

By Lorraine Sprague Extension Home Economist

Hang tags or labels on garments or household furnishings can mean a wiser selection for you, a longer wear item and less dissatisfaction with care performance. Hang tags or labels should be carefully read and interpreted. Some will include only bare essentials while others will give you many clues about that which you are buying.

By law, fiber content must be on all clothing and furnishing textiles. Such information gives you a basis on which to anticipate wear, care, appearance and satisfaction. You need to learn the difference between a fiber generic (family) name and brand or trade names to accurately understand what you are reading.

LEADING MANUFACTURERS include descriptions of finishes and their recommended care to maintain the finish. Modern fabrics require very different care than those of yesterday. Following old traditional methods of care is what brings unhappiness to many of us today. Temperatures for washing are different, detergents are different, drying conditions are different and even the lengths of time involved for many of these operations are different. Equipment used for laundering textiles has also undergone many changes.

In a brief column such as this it is not possible to discuss all of the things you might find on a hang tag. However it seems questions about permanent or durable press labels are among those most often coming to the Extension office. This is a relatively new shape setting process applied to both clothing and furnishing items. Successfully applied, this finish assures the customer that the item will maintain a neat, smooth appearance in use and that it retains its pressed appearance after laundering.

ONE OF THE secrets to this finish is tumble drying in warm air. The dryer does the ironing. Since permanent press is shape-set with heat, the process pre-shrinks the garment at the same time. This means permanent press items should be purchased to fit.

Less well understood is the fact that alterations which would expose previous seams, creases or pleats should be avoided unless the manufacturers' label carries specific instructions. Since there are many brand names for permanent press features, as consumers we need to be alert to the names and we need to carefully read any information provided.

ASC PROGRAM

Measurement services on fields can save dollars

W. M. SMITH
County ASC Manager

The use of measurement services save time and mean more income for today's farmer. Measurement services can be used to measure and stake out the Floate 230 and Rudy Masarik 581. Other 200 games: Leo Brunner 202 and 204, Martin Richards 209, Bruce Woodbury 222, Dick Urban 201, Keith Penix 209 and 200, Clare Floate 230, John Jakovac 217, Bob Cartwright 214, Rudy Masarik 201, Russell Mudge 212, Steve Michalek 209 and Joe Trefil 200. Lake's Jewelry leads the league by three games over second-place Frechen's Tavern.

CAPITOL LEAGUE (April 8)—High team game and series: Frechen's Tavern 919 and 2536. High individual scores: Leo Brunner 205 and Russell Mudge 559 (with a 204 game). Moorman Feeds and Frechen's Tavern are tied for the lead with 73-47 records, only a game ahead of both Carling's Beer and Hi Klas Beverage.

exact amount of permitted acres for wheat and feed grain program purposes prior to planting time. Also a farmer can ask for an official measurement of all the fields of cropland on his farm that do not already have an official acreage.

The value of measurement services is especially important to farmers in certification counties. The entire state is on certification for the 1968 crop year. That means farmers in all counties who participate in federal farm programs will be reporting their acreages to the local county office. We will spot check a certain percentage of these farms to be sure that they are correctly reporting their acreages. Some farmers who guessed at their farm acreages in 1966 and 1967, had substantial reductions in their wheat or feed grain payments because they erred in their estimate. There are four distinct advantages of having a measurement service.

1) Money will not be lost in labor; machinery, seed and fertilizer;

2) The producer will be able to plant the entire permitted or intended acreage of wheat, feed grains and other crops and will not lose money from underplanting acreage in order to be sure that he is within the permitted acreage.

3) Additional income will not be lost from excess diverted acreage that could have otherwise been planted to another crop, and

4) The farmer will be sure of being eligible for price support and other program payments.

The cost of this service is only $5 plus 10 cents an acre. A small price to pay for all the advantages and just plain peace of mind.

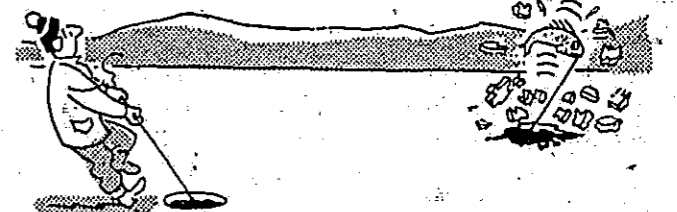

FARMERS SHOULD MAKE their requests as soon as possible so our office can complete the measurement service prior to planting time.

We will need a few reporters to help measure acreage this spring and summer. We are looking for people who have a farm background, are good with figures, and have their own transportation. This is a part time job and works well for people who wish to earn extra money.

It has come to our attention that there is a new variety of corn on the market that is called sterile high sugar corn. Some dealers have been selling this sterile high sugar corn for silage and stating it is not a feed grain; they are in error. Sterile high sugar corn grown for any kind of feed grain will be classified as a feed grain. Anyone having a question about what is considered a feed grain should contact our office.

Remember, there can be no pasturing of diverted acres from March 31 to September 1.

Underground drains and culverts to carry away water were not known until the 19th century!

23 at Crescent Club learn of drug abuse

The Ovid Crescent Club met Monday, April 1, at the home of Mrs. Mitchell Das. Twenty-one members and two guests were present.

The speaker for the evening was William R. Brock, professional service representative for the Smith, Kline and French Laboratories, Brock, who lives in Holt and is a 1956 graduate of Michigan State University, has worked with Smith, Kline, and French for eight years.

Brock's talk, "The Hidden Sickness" dealt with the problem of the abuse of drugs. Drug abuse started back in the days of ancient Rome when the women used drops to increase the size of their pupils to make their eyes darker.

VICTIMS OF DRUG abuse often avoid help instead of seeking it. Drug abusers most often use those drugs that affect personality. Many times drug abusers start by deliberately experimenting with drugs. Other times they by-pass the physician and use drugs recommended by friends. Adult misusers usually have a history of a mentally or emotionally disturbed life, while juveniles usually start in a group, doing it on a dare and not having enough courage to withstand the pressure of the crowd. The habitual drug abuser develops many of the same characteristics of the alcoholic.

Controlling the source, the illegal interstate drug traffic is one way to curb the abuse of drugs. Another way is to make sure that unused medicine is not lying around the house for anyone to use. A question and answer period followed Brock's talk.

The business meeting followed the program. Mrs. David Houghton reported that the travel department will meet April 22 instead of the regular date. Mrs. John Gobel reported that the home and garden department will also meet April 22.

The State Convention will be held April 23 - 25 at Traverse City. The County Convention will be held May 7 at the Main Street Building in Ovid.

Election of officers was held. Those now holding office were reelected. They include Mrs. Clarence Semans, president; Mrs. John Gobel, vice-president; Mrs. Gordon Spalenka, recording secretary; Mrs. Bruce Elliott, corresponding secretary and Mrs. Clare Crawford, treasurer. Mrs. Earl Fisher was elected to be a new member of the executive board.

THE PRESIDENT announced the program committee for 1968-69 as Mrs. John Gobel, Mrs. James Whittemore and Mrs. William Case. Mrs. Ina Woodworth has taken Mrs. Leonard Hall's place on the telephone committee.

The next meeting will be held

May 6 at the home of Mrs. Louis Terpstra. Frank Patee from Robbins Furniture in Owosso will present a program on interior decorating called, "The Magic of Decorating."

Mrs. Willie Tabor was a guest for the evening.

Following the adjournment refreshments were served by Mrs. Anthony Sinicropi, Mrs. Carl Anderson, Mrs. Larry Bakke and Mrs. James Whittemore.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Bancroft and Greg and Miss Mary Zeigs spent the weekend at Great Lakes where they attended the graduation of Gale Bancroft from recruit training.

Mrs. Sarah Buck and Mr. and Mrs. Max Angell were in Flint Wednesday April 3, where they attended the funeral of Roy Rice, 93 year-old brother of Mrs. Buck. Mr. Rice was a native of Ovid. He had lived in Flint many years.

Bath road tax officially backed

BATH— Two tax increase proposals in Bath Charter Township are in the news this week.

The township board has gone on record supporting a four-mill levy for four years to improve township roads. The measure will be submitted to voters May 4.

A citizens group is pushing the "bridge" which reportedly would allow rebuilding of roads that are now hazardous because of only temporary patching being done in recent years.

The township board April 1 voted to extend the time limit for submitting petitions on a new sewage treatment plant until May 6. Petitions are being circulated by a Bath Township Sanitary Sewage Committee, but there are reportedly petitions also being circulated against the proposal for economic reasons.

Here's a general look at taxes

With Michigan and Nebraska enacting new income taxes in 1967, there are now 31 states which have both a state sales and income tax. Six of these states also levy local income taxes, 11 of them levy local sales taxes, and two, Alabama and New York, levy both local income and local sales taxes.

All of the states except four have general income tax withholding. California, New Jersey, and North Dakota withhold on non-residents only while Mississippi has no withholding at all.

Seven of the states do not levy a sales tax on food for home consumption. Tennessee has a 3 per cent sales and use tax and a 6 per cent income tax on interest and dividends only.

Shepardsville

By LUCILLE SPENCER, Correspondent

Library Club learns of Michigan

The Ovid-Duplain Library Club met at the Shepardsville Church on Friday, April 5, for a potluck luncheon at 12:30. On the committee in charge were Mrs George Parmenter, Mrs Hubert Hilton and Mrs Clarence Mead. There were 17 members and four guests present.

Mrs Charles Walker presided over the business session. It was announced that West Central District Federation would meet in Ovid this fall with the Club women in Clinton county acting as hosts. Mrs Mildred McNally, president of West Central District, will be the guest of the Ovid-Duplain Library Club for their May Coffee. Election of Officers for the ensuing year resulted in the following being elected: President, Mrs George Parmenter; first vice president, Mrs Robert Hebel Sr; second vice president, Mrs Alfred Rademacher; secretary, Mrs Ray Jones and the treasurer will be elected at a later time.

The committee for the May Coffee will be Mrs Clarence Kaltrider, Mrs Glen Parks and Mrs Florence Phelps.

THE HISTORIAN, Mrs John Spencer, gave a report of an annual meeting held exactly 50 years ago.

Mrs Christine Snyder had charge of the Michigan song fest. Mrs George Parmenter and Mrs Hubert Hilton had charge of the program entitled Michigan Hiways and By-ways. The slides included pictures of the Parmenter farm, flowers grown by Mrs Parmenter in her green house, the Upper Peninsula, Hartwick Pines, Porcupine Mountains, and back home to the Shepardsville Church.

After viewing the pictures, everyone told of interesting places they had seen in Michigan.

The table decorations were given to Mrs Effie Wilson, Mrs Ray Miller, and Mrs Johanna Birmingham.

The May Coffee will be at the home of Mrs John Bracey on E. M-21, Friday, May 3, at 9 a.m.

The general meeting of the Shepardsville WSCS will be Thursday evening, April 18, at 8 at the church. The Afternoon Circle will be in charge of the program. There will be election of officers.

Mr and Mrs John Spencer spent Sunday with Mr and Mrs Guy Cox and family of Lansing.

Miss Annette Hill of Owosso spent the weekend with Mrs Peggy Elliott.

Mrs Peggy Elliott attended the funeral of an uncle, William Ferrall, one day this week. Mr Ferrall died in Florida and his body is being returned to Michigan for burial.

The Price and Shepardsville Churches will hold a Maundy Thursday Communion Service at the Price Church Thursday evening, April 11, at 7:30. The Easter Sunrise service will also be at the Price Church at 8:30 Sunday morning, with breakfast following. The MYP of both churches will have charge of the service and, the WSCS of both churches will serve the breakfast.

Mr and Mrs Robert Henderson are now the grandparents of Laurie Ann Henderson, who was born April 1 at Lansing General Hospital. She weighed 7 pounds 1 ounce. Her parents are Mr and Mrs Dennis Henderson.

CHURCH NEWS NOTES
Ronald James, the infant son of Mr and Mrs Steve Leonard, was baptized during the worship service Sunday morning. Mrs Leonard is the former Susan Dietrich.

Nathan Casteel was received into church membership on confirmation of faith during the Sunday morning service.

Miss Pattie Wilcox and Miss Lorene Tait are acolytes for April.

The banner for this week was made by Michael Swender. It is the Palm leaf and signifies the entry of Jesus into Jerusalem just before He was crucified.

Mrs Johanna Birmingham of St. Johns spent the weekend with her niece, Mrs George Parmenter and her husband.

Mr and Mrs Jerry Haskins of Saginaw were guests of her parents, Mr and Mrs Clare Alderman.

Before the Civil War, southern belles were supposed to accept hospitality only up to a certain point. They politely accepted barbecue or dinner invitations but ate a meal before the event so they'd seem to be dainty eaters.

The play was directed by Dennis Pilmore, with Roger Schneider, Kevin Thelen and Beth Hogle as student directors.

"Get Witch Quick," a three-act comedy by David Rogers, was presented to the high school Friday, March 29, by the play production class. It was about a college of witches who get into lots of trouble. Craig Wilkens, a freshman, played the role of Steve Wharton, a young man in his early 20s who comes to the witches college as a new teacher.

Phyllis Beard-sley, a sophomore, played the role of Junelle Kemp, a very attractive girl in her early 20s who gets involved with Steve Wharton.

Other students who starred in the play were Andrea Morrison, a senior, who played Mrs. Blackwell and Mary LaPratt, a junior, who played Lucinda, a very attractive witch.

"You Can't Kiss Caroline" was presented by the first-hour play production class Friday afternoon, April 5, for the high school students. This play is about a new girl, Caroline, portrayed by Berta Six, who comes to a high school and is envied by all of the other girls. Bev Mollahan plays Susie, Caroline's younger sister, and Phil Ross plays Joe, a member of the "smooth set."

Mrs. Rosenhaft directed both of these plays. The senior class of Bath took a trip to the capitol Thursday, March 28. While they were there they saw the Legislature in session and visited the museum. They found it very interesting as it was a government trip. Mr. Ron Skorch and Mr. Hal Beatty accompanied the seniors.

The sophomore class ordered their class rings Thursday, March 28. They had to choose between four different styles of rings. They also had the option of ordering round rings or, for the girls, dinner rings.

Easter cantata Sunday evening

Grover Cleveland did not coin the expression, "A public office is a public trust," but he many times gave expression to the sentiment. This served to fix the authorship upon him in the mind of the public.

John Peterson's Easter Cantata, "Hallelujah! What a Savior!" will be rendered by the senior choir of the First Baptist Church of St. Johns Easter Sunday night at 7 p.m. in the church auditorium. Solo and duet parts will be sung by Mrs. Ralph Green, Mrs. Willard Goldman, Mrs. Roger Harrison, Helen Benson, and the director Rev. Roger Harrison. Mrs. William Patton will be the accompanist, with narration by Robert Dimer. Everyone is invited to attend this special musical presentation.

HALLELUJAH

Eddie was the smallest one in the choir today. He stood at the end of the front row, stretched tall as he could, and sang with his whole heart.

I looked up at his round freckled boy-face and wondered what he was thinking as the Easter anthem rose in crescendo and blessed the April air. Were his thoughts on chocolate bunnies and rainbow-colored eggs, or on the stirring story he was singing — "He is not here, but is risen"?

Of one thing I am certain. When he is grown and thinks of Eastertime back home, it won't be the candy eggs and Easter baskets he'll remember; but the smell of lilies at the chancel rail, the joy of joining his voice to a Hallelujah chorus.

Give your child a lifetime gift. Celebrate special Sundays and every Sunday by going to your church and taking him with you.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Death call hoax attempted here

St. Johns police and the American Red Cross are cautioning local parents of servicemen against believing telephone calls that their son has been killed. A St. Johns family was the victim of such a hoax call last week, and it caused considerable grief before the truth was known.

"A boy's death is never relayed to the family over the telephone," Mrs. Jeanne Rand, executive secretary for the Red Cross in Clinton County, said last week. "In all cases, two military personnel from the nearest military installation come to the home with the news, and then details follow the next day by telegram."

Mrs. Rand urged that anyone receiving telephone messages of military deaths call her immediately so that a quick check can be made by the Red Cross. "We can find out within an hour at the most if there is anything to it."

In the death call hoax in St. Johns last week, the distraught mother telephoned Mrs. Rand, who immediately checked with officials at Ft. Knox, Ky., where the youth was stationed. He and his mother were talking to each other on the phone within 20 minutes of the mother's call to Mrs. Rand.

State sales tax collections for the first six months of fiscal 1968 are running 5 per cent ahead of the same period last year, the Michigan Department of Revenue reports. The largest monthly increase was 8.34 per cent for November 1967 on October 1967 taxable retail sales.

Sunday and Monday mark the 56th anniversary of the sinking of the Titanic when it hit an iceberg on its maiden voyage across the Atlantic in 1912. Some 1,517 persons lost their lives. Henry Dellar of St. Johns tells us one of the victims was his brother-in-law, Walter Barringer, who was a first-class steward on the Cunard lines ship.

"Let's talk dry cleaning"

by Dana Antes

EASTER... a day of joy. The nature of any special day of the year is often expressed in the terms we most often associate with it... and Easter Sunday has its own special words... like "Joyous" and "Happy Easter." The flowers and other symbols tell us much, too... and the Easter Lily, fresh and pure and white, suggests this time of hope and happiness. Easter is a day of re-birth and the fulfillment of the promise of the new life. And like the fresh blooming flowers of the season, we humans too blossom forth in all our best finery for the traditional Easter Parade. That new Easter outfit is more than an indulgence of midday's vanity. It is an expression of the joy we feel at this wonderful celebration, which comes so fittingly at the end of winter and the beginning of a new season. We hope that we played a small part in giving your Easter outfit a fresh, clean look. We hope you'll come in often whenever you want your clothes to look their best for any special occasion. Meantime, we wish you and yours a Happy Easter!

SPRING ALONG THE MAPLE RIVER

There hasn't been any over-abundance of snow around Clinton County this winter, but still the streams and rivers through the county are running full and in some cases spilling out of their banks to flood wooded and crop lands. The Clinton County News camera of Sandi Rathbun caught this scenic look at the overflowing Maple River near Hubbardston.

"Doing Time" in the Oven?

Before you do another "stretch" in the oven, see your electric appliance dealer and meet the range with the self-cleaning oven. We'll wager the next time your oven needs cleaning, you'll be "pardoned"—electrically! No more getting on your knees to scrub and scrape. Just close the oven door, set a couple of controls and turn the oven "on."

That abolishes the dirtiest job in the kitchen. Now consider such features as a rotisserie, flexible heat controls, automatic meat thermometer... all good reasons for "doing time" at your electric appliance dealer's for a new electric range!

Soybeans 'fastest' state crop

Soybeans, the fastest expanding major crop in the United States and Michigan, are the most important U.S. export crop, according to Stuart C. Hildebrand, Michigan State University crop scientist. The scientist said that U.S. Farmers produce about two-thirds of the world's soybean consumption. In 1967 Michigan's soybeans passed the 500,000 acre mark, producing over 10 million bushels. The national figures were one billion bushels from about 40 million acres, Hildebrand said.

Although soybeans are basically a Midwest crop, they are also being grown in the southern and southeastern states. Illinois leads the nation in acreage (about six million) and bushels and frequently in yield per acre. The 1967 Illinois average was 31 bushels per acre, compared with Michigan's average of 22 bushels per acre.

Hildebrand reports an estimated 30 per cent of the nation's soybean crop is exported in the form of whole beans, oil and numerous oil meal products. The chief importers are Japan, Canada, Pakistan, India and several western European countries.

THE BEANS AND their products are used in a variety of forms. About 90 per cent of the oil used in the United States goes into margarine, shortening, salad and cooking oils, and mayonnaise and salad dressings, Hildebrand said. Almost all of the oil meal is used as protein supplement in poultry and animal feeds. About one-third of Michigan's soybeans are grown in Monroe and Lenawee counties in the southeastern part of the state. Saginaw County has the next largest acreage, he said. There are very few acres in soybeans north of Isabella, Midland and Arenac counties because the northern growing season is too short. The earlier varieties that are available yield less, he said.

"Soil quality is just as important to soybeans as it is to corn," Hildebrand said. "Soybeans do better on fertile, well-drained soils and yield poorly on drought soils." They are grown successfully on muck or organic soils in the southern part of the Lower Peninsula where late spring and early fall killing frosts are not a serious problem. Michigan's average soybean yield is 22 bushels per acre. This doesn't sound bad until we consider that some growers average higher than 40 bushels per acre and others are producing less than 15 bushels per acre.

"At this lower level of production, soybeans are not a profitable crop," Hildebrand said. "We need more growers in the 40 - 50 bushel class."

Lagoon system bid letting halted

OVID—Bids will not be let on construction of a village sewage lagoon system until the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission approves a date for the bonds to be sold, Village President Harvey Darling reported last week.

Bids have been advertised and received. The sewage system will cost about $682,000.

Faultfinders usually carry a microscope with them, but they seldom look into a mirror.

MMPA wants pesticide control retained as is

The Michigan Milk Producers Assn. has taken a strong stand in favor of keeping control of agricultural pesticides in the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

The action came at the MMPA annual delegate meeting, when 400 representatives of the 7,900 members of the state's largest dairy farmer cooperative adopted policy guidelines for the future. Besides the position on pesticides, MMPA delegates endorsed a proposed new advertising program to be paid for through a mandatory contribution by all Michigan dairy farmers, and strongly backed adequate state financing of research on cattle problems.

The pesticides matter, now before the Michigan Legislature, may be the most pressing question facing farmers at this time.

MMPA's policy states: "Under no circumstances should extraordinary governmental regulations or bans be imposed in response to uninformed even though well-meaning pressure generated by non-agricultural groups." Strong moves advocated by conservationists in recent months may be needed, but they should be undertaken only with careful study and then by those who have long worked with pesticides, the MMPA delegates indicated.

"WE OPPOSE ANY attempt to remove authority for control of pesticides from the Michigan Department of Agriculture, and we urge that department to work closely with other agencies of government to assess effects of farm use of pesticides," the MMPA resolution said.

"We believe that programs of information and education on pesticides should be undertaken by the Agriculture Department, and that such programs should be directed to both urban and rural residents."

The resolution on pesticides also praised the work of the Michigan State University pesticides research center, established last year with backing from MMPA members, and noted that information concerning the "many unanswered questions concerning pesticides" can best come from such research facilities.

New barley OK'd by MSU

A new winter barley variety, especially adapted to the northern fringe of Michigan's winter barley growing area, has been released by Michigan State University.

The variety, Lakeland, was developed by Dr John Grafius, MSU crop scientist. The field trials conducted at East Lansing over the past five years, Lakeland has averaged 82 bushels an acre — 12 more than the average for the Hudson variety.

In announcing the new variety, Dr Lawrence O. Copeland, MSU crop science Extension specialist, said the Lakeland is best adapted to the northern fringe of the winter barley area which includes counties as far south as Ingham and as far north as Gratiot. He said the variety has not performed well in southern Michigan where its winter hardiness is not as critical to good yields.

Copeland further noted that Lakeland is superior to Hudson in lodging resistance, but is slightly inferior in test weight (kernel size). However, Hudson is superior in yield in southwestern Michigan.

Copeland and Grafius further noted that Lakeland does not have good malting quality and will be used as feed.

They said both certified and foundation seed for the new Lakeland variety will be made available in 1968. The certified seed will be sold at most grain elevators, while the foundation seed will be sold through the Michigan Foundation Seed.

Corn growers must consider early varieties

Corn farmers must change their prejudices against early maturing varieties to minimize harvest losses, get more dry grain, and have a longer and better harvest season.

This is the opinion of John Comstock of Adrian, county Extension agricultural agent in Lenawee County, one of Michigan's largest corn growing counties.

Speaking at a recent marketing clinic at Michigan State University, he said farmers were "confused" about moisture discounts at elevators during most corn harvest seasons. Much of the discount problem could be avoided, he explained, if farmers would plant early maturing varieties that yield high in trials.

Too many corn growers haul too much grain to elevators at peak harvest time in the October-November harvest in Michigan, said Comstock. When elevators get more corn than their facilities will dry, many increase the price discount deductions for moisture, primarily because they want farmers to quit hauling.

The Lenawee County agricultural agent said elevators would have better public relations with farmers if they would refuse to take wet corn when they are loaded to capacity, rather than raising the discount on wet grain. Standardization of methods of measuring moisture by elevators would also help farmers understand the moisture problem, he noted.

Farmers should plant some land to the good early varieties listed in the MSU Extension Bulletin "Corn Hybrids Compared," Comstock said. These hybrids will help farmers get more crib or bin-ready corn at harvest time this fall.

Watch out for deer on highways

Motorists looking for greener pastures in the Spring of the year should be on the alert for deer grazing along the highway, the State Highway Commission warns.

The big Michigan whitetails, so evasive during the hunting season, are an increasingly deadly target for motorists.

There were 7,077 car-deer accidents in 1967, an increase of nearly 14 per cent over 1966. Three persons were killed and investigating authorities suspect that deer were also responsible for some one-car fatalities. Attempting to avoid deer at highway speeds can lead to serious collisions with other objects.

Lower Michigan motorists, secure in the belief that "it can't happen here," should be extra cautious. More than 6,000 of last year's car-deer accidents were in the Lower Peninsula and more than half of these were near heavily populated areas. The heaviest tolls were near Howell, Jackson, Battle Creek, and in Barry County.

The Department of State Highways has experimented with several proposed methods of keeping deer off highways, to no avail, so it's up to motorists to be on the lookout.

The highway commission reminded drivers that a deer grazing along a highway is a spectacular sight, but if the animal turns and leaps in front of a car it can be a frightening and often dangerous experience.

Certified seeds give pure variety

A superior variety farm crop will resist diseases, have better winter hardiness and give greater yield results when crop farmers plant certified seeds, advises George McQueen, Clinton County Extension agricultural agent.

Certified seeds are grown under specific requirements set up by Michigan Crop Improvement Assn., which is closely affiliated with state agricultural experiment stations.

Michigan State University crop scientist Larry Copeland explains that first foundation seeds are freed of off-variations, weeds and disease, and are planted in field where other varieties have not been grown for several years. The field must be at a distance from other variety crop fields to prevent cross breeding.

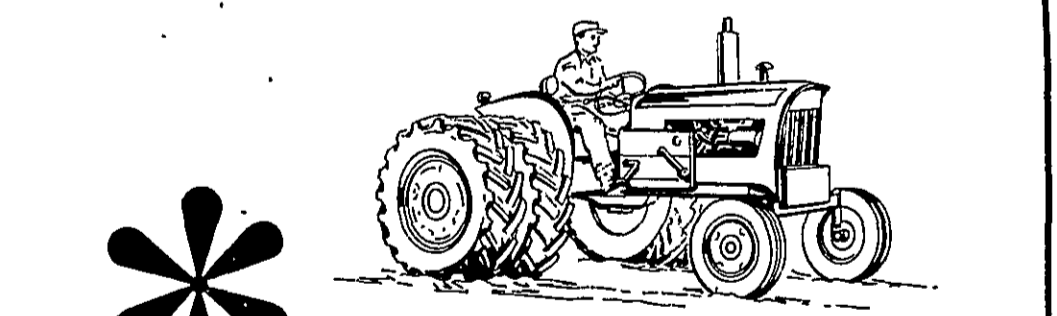

A pedigree record of the seeds is filed with the Michigan Crop Improvement Assn. as an application for certification, according to Copeland. Fields are inspected and seed lots are tested to meet standards before an official tag labels the seeds as "certified."

Information on certified seed varieties that will give the best production for your particular area is available at your county Extension office.

Motorists and property owners will see some strange yellow crosses on and near several of Michigan's state highways this spring, the State Highway Commission reports.

The commission said, however, that the crosses do not necessarily mark an area of planned highway construction. The 15-foot crosses, painted on the pavement or made of oil cloth and staked to the ground, are reference points for aerial photography.

Early spring, when trees and bushes are void of foliage, is the best time for the work.

Certified seeds improve crop

By upgrading quality of seeds planted, Michigan crop farmers can increase production and raise their profits, according to George McQueen, Clinton County Extension agricultural agent.

Seeds certified by state certifying agencies are a high-quality genetic seed, free of noxious weeds, and have high purity and germination, according to Michigan State University crop scientist Larry Copeland. He says that a superior crop variety from certified seeds will increase production, resist disease and adapt to Michigan conditions.

A survey conducted by MSU crop scientists showed that Michigan farmers could have $25 million increase in profits if they planted certified seeds. When the survey was taken, 15 to 20 per cent of Michigan farmers were planting certified seeds and 80 per cent were planting their own seeds or seeds grown by their neighbors.

A soybean survey comparing the use of certified and uncertified seeds showed a three to five-bushel-per-acre increase in yield for the certified seeds. Extra return per acre was $8 to $13. After deducting the price of seeds the net increase was $8 to $12 per acre.

May seed clover in wheat in April

Soft red and sweet clover in winter wheat with a grain drill for early April plantings, advises Michigan State University authorities.

To get a better stand, Michigan State University crop scientists recommend using a grain drill with fertilizer when planting the red clover varieties — medium red, June and one-cut mammoth clover.

MSU crop scientists advise seeding clover by drilling across the wheat rows.

"The disks on the grain drill should be set to cut about one inch deep, and the clover seed should fall through the grain and fertilizer tube into the drill disk furrow," MSU scientists say.

"Seed red clover at 6 to 10 pounds per acre and sweet clover at 12 to 15 pounds," MSU agriculturalists advise. They recommend using 100 pounds of 0-20-0 or 0-20-10 fertilizer per acre.

You . . . and water pollution

A special report by the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce March 26 contains some facts and ideas we must all consider

It has been an easy matter in the years now behind us to fix the blame for our pollution problems. Each of us has accused either industry, our communities, or our neighbor for the mess we now find ourselves in as a nation.

And yet by our apathy we have permitted this degradation to occur while we have merrily gone on our way, too busy with the important things in life, to worry about anything except our own comforts and happiness.

We have listened to the conservationist preaching on the street corner and called him radical. We have read over hurriedly the reports that pointed up dangerous crises in the near future and, then ignored them until some future time.

It is a well known fact that with very few exceptions the people of this country will not move together as a unit, until the time of crisis is upon us. And this is true of water pollution.

Suddenly we have realized that what the radicals were saying was really true. A serious pollution problem is upon us, and it is going to take a tremendous amount of money and work to correct a situation that should have been corrected two decades or more ago.

NEW STATE AND FEDERAL LAWS

For the first time both state and federal governments have passed new and far-reaching laws. The Michigan State Chamber of Commerce has worked hard in this area to seek better legislation that would do the job.

From time to time we have suggested that the authority for pollution control should remain with the state, where it rightfully belongs. The fact that many states were not moving fast enough to effect reasonable pollution control caused much of the local control to pass to the federal government by default.

Along with federal control came the inevitable promise of more federal funds to do the job properly. Unfortunately, these funds are not being supplied in the amount promised, and we in Michigan find it hard to build sewage treatment plants on promises alone.

BONDING BILLS ARE PROPOSED

Two identical bills have been introduced in the House and Senate that would set up the machinery for the individual to assume a direct role in combating pollution on a broad front. House Bill 3852, and Senate Bill 1189 would authorize the issuance of bonds in the amount of $335,000,000 for the express purpose of providing a complete construction program of facilities to abate and prevent pollution of the water in and adjoining the state.

On Feb. 9, House Joint Resolution NN was introduced by Rep. Copeland and 40 others which would amend article 9 of the Constitution to authorize a vote on the bonding issue to combat water pollution.

The goal of the proposal is to affect full control of pollution by 1980. At the present time there is a need for at least 210 new sewage treatment plants, improvements on 126 existing plants, and sewers for 8 1/2 million people of Michigan.

The total of $335 million is all earmarked for pollution control, and will provide $285 million to pay the state's share of the cost of treatment plant construction, and to pre-finance half of the federal share. The rest of the money, or $50 million, will provide sewer construction assistance and a loan fund to help the hard pressed communities which want to move toward pollution control but do not have the money.

One of the key values of the bond proposal is that it will guarantee local bond issues to hesitating communities, thus reducing interest costs and local sewer charges by up to one-third.

It should be remembered that progress in pollution control on an individual and community level is just as important and essential as it is for industries.

INDUSTRY IS MOVING AHEAD TOO

In recent years there has been many indications that industry, with some exceptions, has started to move ahead in pollution control. New laws, both state and Federal, have added impetus to this movement.

But aside from this, industry has long been aware of its problems with pollution and have moved, and improved as the public has demanded it improve. Individual apathy then, is as much to blame for industrial pollution problems as community pollution and yes, individual pollution.

Industry has never been something apart from the public but is an inseparable phase of it. Industry is really an arm of the public and exists only to fulfill public demands for the essentials, and conveniences of life.

Industrial management, including the labor force and the stockholders are people with the same likes and dislikes and the same desires for clean water as anyone else. They enjoy fishing, swimming, water-skiing and all other water-based recreation. They must have the products of water-based agriculture to live. They must have water fit to drink. If it could do so, industry would tomorrow begin returning wastewater in fully as good quality as it receives it.

By and large, industry has no money of its own, any more than government does. It creates wealth and distributes it to its product consumers, its labor force, its tax receivers and its stockholders. These are the INDIVIDUALS—which is to say, the general public—who must pay for pollution control.

So again, pollution will be brought under control only to the extent that the individual wants it and is willing to pay for it. Make no mistake about this.

HOW SERIOUS IS OUR POLLUTION PROBLEM?

Following a nine-day conference in Chicago, conferees from the four states bordering Lake Michigan, working in cooperation with the Federal Water Pollution Control Agency, a series of conclusions were outlined which suggest that we can no longer wait for someone to do the job for us. WE are going to do it.

All water uses of Lake Michigan for municipal water supply, recreation, commercial fishery, sports fishery and esthetic enjoyment, are presently impaired by pollution says the report. The sources of this pollution include wastes from municipalities, industries, federal installations, combined sewer overflows, agricultural practices, watercraft, natural runoff, and related activities throughout the drainage basin.

The report details many other related problems, such as the rapid aging of Lake Michigan, the bacterial pollution of tributary streams entering the lake, excessive inshore algae problems brought on by phosphate concentrations in many areas, excessive sludgeworm populations in certain sections, oxygen depletion near stream mouths, excessive heating in industrial areas, spills of oils from vessels, pesticides and the discharge of untreated and inadequately treated sewage, which all contribute to the total problem and which we must attack vigorously if we are to win the pollution battle.

There were some encouraging statements regarding some of the findings reported at the Chicago conference which should spur us on to new efforts, including the proposed bonding proposal, aimed at curtailing further pollution of our waters.

For example: The oxygen depletion is confined primarily to tributaries emptying into Lake Michigan and in some harbors. At present the main body of Lake Michigan has not evidenced signs of oxygen deficiency.

Another example: Although the bacterial quality of Lake Michigan is generally good in deep water, the water is degraded at some points along the shoreline and in harbor areas.

HERE IS WHAT WE MUST DO

Following the nine-day conference a set of recommendations were adopted, which is in effect, a timetable for the establishment of pollution control throughout Lake Michigan. We should assume that similar controls will be affected on a state-wide basis through the activities of the Water Resources Commission.

1) Waste treatment is to be provided by all municipalities to achieve at least 80 per cent reduction of total phosphorus an affluent that will not result in degradation of Lake Michigan's water quality. This action is to be substantially accomplished by December 1972.

2) Industries not connected to municipal sewer systems are to provide treatment that would meet the water quality standards for Lake Michigan. This action shall be accomplished by December 1972.

3) Within six months each state water pollution agency shall list the municipalities and industries discharging waste water to the Lake Michigan basin. Detailed action plans for treatment of all wastes having a deleterious effect on Lake Michigan will be developed.

4) Continuous disinfection is to be provided throughout the year for all municipal waste treatment plant effluents. This action is to be accomplished as soon as possible and not later than May 1969.

5) Adjustable overflow regulating devices are to be installed on existing combined sewers, and treatment facilities shall be modified where necessary to minimize bypassing of effluents at critical times.

6) Effective immediately, combined sewers are to be separated in coordination with all urban reconstruction projects, and prohibited in all new developments. Pollution from combined sewers is to be controlled by July 1977.

7) Each of the state water pollution control agencies are to accelerate programs to provide for the maximum use of area-wide sewage facilities to discourage the proliferation of small treatment plants in contiguous urbanized areas and foster the replacement of septic tanks with adequate collection and treatment.

8) State water pollution control agencies shall compile an inventory of all sites where potential oil spills may occur which may affect the water quality. A report will be submitted within six months.

9) The water pollution agencies shall arrange for a broad spectrum of water quality analyses, including planktonic algae counts, to be performed at least twice weekly at certain key points. Results will be reported on annually.

STATE CHAMBER ACTION PROGRAM

For years the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce has supported a more aggressive pollution effort on all fronts. We cannot effect full pollution control without the support of every citizen. The State Chamber urges that you support proposals for a minimum of $335 million bond issue as a positive approach toward cleaner water in the State of Michigan.

It is going to cost a lot of money, even more than these proposals. But without this beginning there will never be an end to pollution. It is time for the individual to assume his rightful role in pollution control.

Easter—faith

This is the Easter season when faith is the byword. Faith in the authenticity of the first Easter is the basis for Christianity.

Just as it is in religion, faith is the basis for life. It is the basis for democracy — faith in our elected officials. It is the basis for our day-to-day living — faith in our friends, in the quality of the food we eat and actually in such things that gravity will continue and we won't fall off the surface of the earth.

Easter has a touch of thanksgiving — we give thanks for the resurrection of Christ, and we give thanks for the awakening of plants and trees with the coming of spring. But most of all, Easter is a time to renew our faith, to tell ourselves that indeed Christ did rise from the dead, did ascend into Heaven and is at the right hand of God.

And it is time to renew our faith in mankind that struggles here on earth against all kinds of troubles. Mankind is basically good, and we must be willing to be flexible and to yield a little, whether it be on the battlefields of Viet Nam, with the hot political issues of our nation and our communities or whether it be in our own personal confrontations with others.

Easter is a symbol of man's faith, and it is effective. But it must be observed year around.

RAMBLIN' with Rink

By LOWELL G. RINKER

Last week was a week of high points for me, beginning when my wife told me to go fly a kite.

There was no malice in her voice; it was more of a plea because Kathy had been bugging her all one day about flying kites, and she remembered that we had several left over from last year's gas station visits.

This year I learned some good lessons about kite flying—by experience and from neighbor Cliff Miner. There were adjustments made to the string tension on the kite itself and to the length of the tail. Most of these adjustments came after harrowing experiences with kite-eating trees.

Such trees are real and not merely figments of the imagination of Charlie Schultz, the creator of the Peanuts comic strip. We don't have any tall trees in our back yard, but there are trees in the neighbors yard that seemingly sit and sulk until a kite wanders by them and then they suck it down to doom.

Kathy could probably have made it work, but I demanded that she let me get the kite up in the air first and then she could fly it. She agreed; that way we could share, she said.

I HAD BEEN A LITTLE too conservative with the tail of the kite, and before it was up in the air too far it began a series of fatal swoops that carried it too near the kite-eating tree. The surface-to-air string tangled in twigs and branches of the tree and the whole thing was hung up.

The spot of entanglement was about 15 feet high. The kite itself, I noted with a quick, investigative glance, was still free of the tree and straining at the string as it was pushed by southwesterly winds. Perhaps, I surmised, I could pay out some of the string here and let the kite blow on out away from the tree. When it got far enough away, I could jerk the string off the branches without running the risk of tearing the kite.

Good thinking, Batman! The wind blew the kite out and away from this particular kite-eating tree, as I had planned, but with such vigor that it finally wound up entangled in the branches of another neighbor's tree on McConnell Street. Cliff Miner happened out of his house about then and offered assistance in getting the string out of his tree. He probably wondered how I could manage to get the kite tangled up in two different trees. I didn't want to brag, so I didn't tell him I was good at such things.

I got my ladder out of the garage and with him holding it I stealthily climbed as high as I could take myself into and then used a small broom to unhook the string from three or four branches. Then we waded through shrubbery, winding up string until we got out into McConnell Street and I was finally able to pull the kite out of the second tree.

IT NEEDED A LITTLE patching up with tape and three or four more strips of cloth for the tail before it was ready to fly again. This time it went all the way up, expending all my string. Unfortunately, by this time Kathy had tired of watching dad climbing around in kite-eating trees and had run off to the neighbors to play. Thus she was not present to share in my moment of glory.

I was just patting myself on the back for having earned my wings when the stupid kite started showing off again with loops, figure-8's and twists. I was a good 120 feet away from the nearest tree, but there proved to be 125 feet of string and when the kite came down you know where it went!

Again I was lucky; it pulled free from the tree quite easily and required only a few string adjustments to be ready to fly again. But alas, something so simple as a strong gust of wind proved the kite's final undoing. The vertical stick snapped cleanly.

No sooner had I gotten into the house than Kathy came around wondering about the kite. She was perturbed to see it broken and stuffed in the wastebasket and somewhat disbelieving when I told her I really had gotten the kite up as far as it would go. She put up a little static, and for one day I was about to tell her to go fly a kite. But I couldn't; that's how this whole thing got started.

Here's positive plan for opening pool

Dear Editor:

We wish to express to you that your editorials since the recent city election have been meaningful and well written. We do have a fine town and everyone should be proud of it. It is like an unpolished diamond that is waiting to be polished.

The problem that we have now cannot be settled overnight, in one month, or in three months. During this interim, we know, the good thinking people will compromise and the City of St. Johns will start forward again. Everyone should read the late President John F. Kennedy's "Profiles in Courage." This shows and states how men have to compromise for progress. Enough said.

Our biggest problem now during this lull or interim is the children of St. Johns for their summer program, primarily the swimming pool. There are at least 80 per cent of the families and children who cannot go swimming during this coming summer unless it is good weather when they go on vacation with their folks.

You can remember when we were kids before World War II we went swimming at Baker's or Walling's gravel pits. This was all we had. We will never forget the Sunday at Baker's Gravel Pit when I helped pull the McFadden boy who had drowned. This is a subject that no one in St. Johns wants on his conscience this summer.

We would like to suggest a plan on how to solve this problem. First, have two people from both sides of our city problem meet with the city commission and find out what the minimum cost of opening the pool would be. There would not have to be any lessons this year. Have it open with life guards only in the afternoons and evenings. Figure the income from swimming at the same rates as last year and subtract it from the cost. Last year was a cold summer, but this summer could be the hottest one we have had in years. If it is, God help us, because these kids will be hitchhiking, riding their bikes, or walking to a supervised swimming place.

After an estimated cost is settled on, then go to the service organizations with the idea of opening the pool through free contributions from everyone, including the whole county and not just St. Johns. Possibly the Veterans organizations should lead this because when we built the pool through contributions it was named the Veteran's Memorial Pool.

The Chamber of Commerce office could be the center of the drive and handle mailed-in contributions. Your newspaper and the radio station could give free plugs and advertising.

Just think about the fruits of this project. The children would have a place to swim that is supervised and possibly save one life. This would be a community effort and could get the city back in a forward mood.

We have only 2 1/2 months until the swimming season, and this should be moved on quickly. You can print this if you want to, but the only reason for the letter is for someone to take an idea like this and make it work. Good luck.

Sincerely,

Lacks sympathy for residents demanding pool

Dear Editor:

The names of 66 boys and girls appeared in the CCN issue of March 28 appealing for the reopening of the city park—but about two out of three electors in the recent election for either an increase in millage or an income tax practically demanded that the park be closed and other services suspended for lack of funds.

The city commission should be commended for not entering into a program of deficit spending. At the moment there is no hope of resuming normal city functions. In the future an accumulated debt would only complicate another problem which from past performances the "taxpayers committee" could not comprehend either. This self-appointed organization must feel mighty proud, I wonder if they have stopped paying dues at the country club.

'Bath drains just too much burden now'

To The Editor:

First off, we would like to say that we have nothing but the highest regard and respect for the county supervisor, and for those who so ably run our community. But we have a few comments. If we are wrong, we will listen to correction. Our real value was recently raised a full $1,000 on, what as far as we are able to determine, a structure that has been on our property for some six years. It was there when the state assessor came through a couple years ago, and our taxes took a jump then too. No one would ever give us, for our home, what they now have us assessed for taxwise.

Now comes the question of a costly drain. It would take another very huge bite out of our already stretching budget, what with rising grocery prices, and other rising costs; we get only half as many groceries for our money now, as we were able to get a short time ago. We personally have no need for this drain—we have our own, so far very efficient, drain system. Many of us will be hurting badly if the drain project goes through. Some of us just can't do it, at this time.

If that drain, that is going to really hurt many people, badly, financially, really necessary? A drain that will put some of us on the verge of bankruptcy? If it is for the benefit of the school, as we have been told by some that it is, then why are only a small percentage of the Bath residents asked to finance it? Isn't the school a community thing? In a few years, if the population of Bath does grow as some predict, then a drain probably would be necessary, but if and when that happens, if it could be financed as a community tax for all, and not just a few, it might seem more reasonable. By then there'd be more people to divide the cost up among, and it'd be a little for everyone, and not a lot for just a few. We cannot believe that a drain, at this expense to so many of us, is really necessary.

We, like many others, have a son in service. Even though it sounds like now, maybe, Pray God, the war just might end, our boys will still have to remain in service to serve their time out. Is it right to make the sacrifice all theirs. It is our war, and our country too, not just theirs. We'd like to help our son through these years that are difficult and lonely for him, by giving him something specific to look forward to. We'd like, for instance, to be able to bank a little each month, so that when he gets out he'll have a little to fall back on. We remember how hard it was to get started after World War II. We'd like to be able to allow him the privilege of phoning home now and then. And when furlough time finally rolls around, from time to time, we'd like to be able to help him get home as fast as possible, so he doesn't have to spend all his leave time on the road, going to and from base. We'd like to be able to pay his plane fare home, hopefully twice a year till 1971. This costs in the vicinity of $125 a leave.

It's just that a guy's paycheck will only go just so far. For those of you who have no boys in service, and for whom there is no war we envy you. But for those of us who do have sons away from home, and daughters who are with their servicemen buddies, we'd like to be able to help make things just a little bit easier for them, until they can once again be home. Please let us do so. What this drain will do to the finances of many people, to us, seems unthinkable.

Sincerely,
A BATH RESIDENT

Hospital staff, program wins her praise

Dear Editor:

After five months stay at Clinton Memorial Hospital, I would like to evaluate its many services to its patients. I place good care as number one. Many of the nurses and aides have a talent for radiating happiness to their patients. I put nurses, Bandt, Haske, Barnes, Love, Lee and aides Britton, Houghton, Cook, Henry and many others in this category.

A sick person responds to a cheerful person. A word of praise and thankfulness to those who are caring for us will help them to carry on day by day, and keeps the patient from too much self-concern.

Pesticide control authority destined to be a hot issue

By Elmer E. White, Michigan Press Assn.

Pesticide poisoning of humans and wildlife is a growing concern for many conservationists and agricultural leaders.

General concern, far beyond the scope of agriculture alone. GENE GAZLAY, assistant director of the Department of Conservation, said that present legislation is limited and that a "new approach" is needed for control.

WHEN OLEO WAS first introduced, dairymen were successful in passing legislation to prohibit the sale of "milk-filled" products in Michigan.

They feel that present research methods can develop still safer chemicals and keep pesticide residue below the danger level.

Public hearings will bring to general attention many of the ramifications of the issue, it can be expected that the issue will become a hot one before it is settled.

The industry now seems convinced that it cannot legislate against the will of the consumer. Their new idea: We must provide dairy products in the form the consumer wants rather than pass laws which try to make the consumer buy what we produce in the form easiest for us.

Legislation proposed by the Department of Conservation would establish an ad-hoc committee with absolute authority over pesticide use.

Consumer acceptance of imitation milk may take longer than was originally feared by the dairy industry.

The Michigan Farm Bureau is reassessing its position and may propose repeal of the very laws they advocated 20 years ago!

Call of the soil

By W. E. Dobson

There's a lot of dis-enchantment With the way the deck is stacked, And many one-time factors Seem no longer to attract;

There's more quick remuneration For the toiler from day to day Who punches time-clocks in the shop—

There's no hours of traffic bucking, Goin' to 'n from the job, There's no bowing of neck to mandates, Or dictation from the mob;

I've no quarrel with manufacture, Or the cities boom 'n' bust There is hope in greater effort— Organization is a must;

given choices for the next day's meals. Knowing a little of the calorie content of each serving helps us to mark our cards wisely.

One Sunday a father accompanied by his three small sons visited the boys' mother who had been hospitalized for five weeks.

The consumer will benefit from this new approach to dairy foods. There is little doubt that research will develop substitute products which are as nutritious as whole milk.

Silent invasion

Sen. Ernest F. Hollings (S.C.) . . . Recently there appeared in Pace magazine an article entitled "The Silent Invasion," concerning our returning young veterans from Viet Nam . . .

Something happened to these men in the jungles of Viet Nam that has put maturity into their thinking and determination in their guts.

Our city, like many others, not only expect a good job but actually demand it and rarely express any appreciation.

ONE OF THE SCORES of returning veterans interviewed by Pace for this penetrating report summed up the feelings of many.

The colleges particularly the junior colleges, are filling up with veterans many of whom were high school and college dropouts.

Can students say with pride 'That's my town'?

Dear Editor: As a college student, somewhat removed from my hometown, I have been concerned and upset about events in St. Johns.

As a youth goes off to school his hometown becomes but a background on which he must structure his life.

Personal or class prejudice reared its ugly head again last week with the slaying of the Rev. Martin Luther King.

FOR THOSE WHO have never been part of a minority group, it is hard to understand or even comprehend what one must go through, or endure, to be accepted as a human being.

ALTHOUGH REV KING died from a bullet fired by someone with a personal or class prejudice, many other worthwhile attempts to improve our society or our area are killed by ballots marked by those with only a personal or class prejudice against an individual.

Our own city and county has seen prejudice against an individual or group of individuals cause the rejection of worthwhile projects.

continually baited by such professors. Asked if war had soured his desire for involvement in curing social issues, Sammy Marquez shot back, "It has added fuel to the fire."

area we have seen that once a project or issue is rejected by the people, these people are retaliated against by the elimination of necessities rather than nonessentials.

IN BOTH CASES it could be, and probably is, because of a prejudice against an individual or group.

Prejudice against individuals, issues or groups are the ones we encounter most in our area. These prejudices are as evil, here, as are those which the Rev King faced in his fight to win freedom for his race.

FOR NO MATTER what the issue, when it is deterred, defeated or retaliated against because of a prejudice of any kind it is wrong. I think it is wrong to judge any issue on one person or small group of persons.

We may not think much of a certain individual, whether he is the president, governor, chairman of the board of supervisors, mayor or what have you. It is wrong to condemn everything connected with these people simply because of our prejudice against one man.

MEN OF HIGH ideals have been assassinated by bullets, issues of great importance have been assassinated by the ballot, and people have been retaliated against because of their beliefs.

I think the time is now. The time to stop condemning any issue because of an individual who happens to be associated with it.
