FACT finder

Are you concerned about getting the straight facts on a question which arises but don't know where to find the answer? We'll find the facts for questions submitted by our readers. Just drop us a line at FACT FINDER, Clinton County News, St Johns 48879.

FACT FINDER READERS:

During the past few weeks, FACT FINDER has received numerous complaints about the condition of roads in Clinton County.

Responding to the complaints, R.J. Hebner, superintendent of the County Road Commission, told FACT FINDER, as many roads as possible are being graded and gravelled.

He said, however, when some of the roads are full of mud and water, it is a waste of time and money to put in gravel. Those roads, he indicated, will have to dry out before major gravel work can be done.

Hebner told FACT FINDER that road crews worked overtime this past weekend to take advantage of drying conditions, but the snowfall Monday and Tuesday will probably cause more problems.

Winter finale?

Winter stopped by Clinton County for 1 last visit Monday and Tuesday, blanketing the area with wet, sticky white snow. As for "1 last visit," that is wishful thinking on the part of many Clinton County residents who have had their fill of snow. Think Spring.

Cancer Society goal set at $26,600

CLINTON COUNTY -- A county goal of $26,600 has been announced by Geraldine Crowell, American Cancer Society Crusade chairman for Clinton County, for their fund drive taking place this month. Mrs. Crowell reported that over $24,000 was raised last year. Funds collected will be used for educational programs, service to cancer patients and research.

Mrs. Crowell was among nearly 400 volunteers from all over the state who attended the Kick-Off in Lansing recently.

Featured on the program with Minnie Pearl, star of the "Grand Ole Opry" and Win Schuler, 1973 State Crusade chairman, were Ted Louckes, Division Crusade Committee chairman; H. Marvin Pollard, MD, National Past

President of the American Cancer Society; Robert E. Stone, PhD, University of Michigan Medical School, with Laryngectomy Patient John Miller; Roscoe V. Stuber, MD, Division Service chairman, who discussed the latest cancer research; Jack Hendrickson of Marcom Inc, who presented the 1973 Media Material; and Charles O. Long, MD, Mich. Division President, who spoke on Cancer Society programs in Michigan.

It is estimated that 14,400 will die of cancer in the state during 1973. Encouragement, however, comes from the fact that there are now 1,500,000 Americans cured of cancer.

Dean Bredwell earns national teaching award

FOWLER -- Dean Bredwell, science teacher at Fowler Junior High School was elected "Best Earth Science Teacher of the Year" at the national convention of the National Science Teachers Association in Detroit last weekend. Bredwell teaches earth science using the area around Fowler as his classroom, taking the students on field trips which involve them in the interpretation of what they see, and providing activities which give them a better understanding of where they live.

Since field trips have become curtailed, he wrote guides for school bus routes, so that understanding of the outdoors could still be a part of his earth science instruction.

He is active in the Michigan Earth Science Teachers Association and the Michigan Basin Geological Society. He is involved in the preparation of a field trip guidebook of the Grand Ledge area which will result from a new study being made of the geology.

He is a graduate of Michigan State University, where he is working toward his Masters degree. He lives in Potterville with his wife and 2 children.

Nice Work?

Well... sometimes he and she feel left out in the cold. And they don't always have enough room to work in, or just the right materials to do the best job.

Of course, a lot of people give them free advice.

Red tape frustrates them.

It's hard to raise enough money for the kind of work they do.

Sometimes they get blamed for things they can't control.

Do they like their work? You bet they do. They're teachers.

It's a great profession!

Fluoride program set for 4 school locations

The summer topical fluoride program will be held in the following schools this summer according to Mrs. Luella Canfield, RN, chairman of the program.

In Fowler - Waldron Elem - June 14-June 26.

In Elsie - E. E. Knight Elem - June 27-July 10.
In DeWitt - David Scott Elem - July 11 - July 27.
In St Johns - Perrin Palmer Elem - July 30-Aug 15.

According to Mrs. Canfield,

600 children have been enrolled in the program and there is still room in Elsie, DeWitt and St Johns. The procedure consists of 4 visits to the clinic at approximately 2-day intervals. The child's teeth are cleaned on the 1st visit and a fluoride application is then applied. It is re-applied on the 3 succeeding visits. This technique has been shown to reduce tooth decay by about 40% compared to the 60-65% reduction obtained with fluoridated water, she said.

In addition to providing protection against tooth decay, the program offers a valuable dental experience for children with no discomfort. Dental health education by the clinic personnel also is an important part of the program. This year we are again giving a free toothbrush to each child who participates in the program. Parents of children enrolled in the program will receive appointment cards in May.

In addition to the 4 clinics in Clinton County, about 40,000 children will be receiving fluoride applications this summer in 200 similar clinics throughout Michigan.

Seventy attend concrete seminar and at the plant and a descriptive analysis of the properties and makeup of concrete.

Dean Henning, general manager of Karber Block Company, sponsor of the seminar made the announcement to the attending group that Karbers would be offering a new transit concrete service sometime in May.

Henning said the company plans to operate a fleet of about 5 trucks which he said would benefit the Clinton area's contractors, home builders and farmers with quality product and expedient service.

It's "dream trip" time

ST JOHNS -- Upwards of 3000 boys from 10 thru 14 years of age will be taking "dream trips" to California in an unusual annual contest now going on in area IGA stores, according to an announcement today by Rick Anderson, owner of Andy's IGA, St. Johns.

The lucky boys are going to win all-expense-paid trips just by having their friends, neighbors and relatives vote for them each time they visit a participating store. Special ballot boxes have been set up in all supermarkets and customers are being asked to vote for their "favorite" boy. The "dream trip" winners will be those who receive the most votes.

Anderson said that the winning boys will travel by jet to Los Angeles for 5 full days. Their "dream trip" includes a red-carpet visit to movie studios, major league baseball games, Disneyland, Marineland of the Pacific, as well as to many other glamor points.

"Unlike most elections, this is one case where it is quite in order to vote often", said Anderson. "In fact, we encourage it -- friends and neighbors of the boys can vote every time they come into a participating market. Many of the winners will be from the Michigan area." The winning boys will leave for Los Angeles at a future date announced in June or July.

"Through the contest the lucky boys get a wonderful chance to enhance their education and see some of the greatest entertainment the country has to offer," said Rick Anderson, owner of the IGA supermarket in St. Johns. "Just about every boy

O-E Jelly

Week success

The Ovid-Elsie Jaycee Jelly Week drive for handicapped children was termed a success with the sale of 840 jars, according to a club spokesman.

Proceeds from the drive in Clinton County will be used to help furnish the Intermediate School Special Education facility in St. Johns with needed equipment.

The Jaycees would like to thank the Ovid-Elsie FFA for their help in the sale of jelly, the staff from the St. Johns Intermediate District and all the people who contributed.

Thanks for Jelly Week participation

To The Editor: The Jaycees and the handicapped children of Clinton County wish to send out a sincere thanks to all who made Jelly Week a big success.

Many businesses sold jelly during the week which helped ever so much and to aid in this the Jaycees played an important role.

We could go on and on naming names of people who helped but our big thanks are to those people who opened their hearts and their wallets and bought our jelly because without them there wouldn't have been Jelly Week.

Our goal of 960 jars was reached with great ease and while selling our jelly we even had a few cash donations and they were all appreciated.

Our Thanks To All.

Learning centers offer new experience

"What would I wear if I lived near the equator?" "Which metal does a magnet attract?" "How shall I begin a story about a wild horse?" These and many other questions are being asked and answered every day as children in the second grade at Riley Elementary go from one learning center to another. They work on individual and group projects which are designed to be fun and exciting as well as educational. With the guidance of their teachers Mrs Marilou Holly and Mrs Barbara Iken, and with the help of volunteer mother aides, the children do activities best-suited to their needs and abilities.

YOU'RE LOOKING AT Apollo

BY BUICK

The difference between a small car and a small car by Buick.

Power. Apollo isn't a typical compact - not when you add a Buick V-6 under the hood. There are two 350-cubic-inch V-6s available for Apollo. Both are the same engines that go into our most expensive Century models. And both have the durability, reliable starting, and smooth idle that have become traditional with Buick V-6s.

Hide. Apollo is not a sports car. We designed it for comfort, not for competition. And we did it with coil springs up front, multi-leaf springs in the rear - each selected by a computer according to the way each Apollo is equipped.

Quiet. Per Buick thinking, Apollo comes in for more than its share of sound-deadening. On all Apollo models, sound deadeners are applied to the roof, doors, floors and wheelhouses. There's insulation below and behind the instrument panel. With V-6 engines, a full fiberglass hood blanket is included. And to help isolate noise and vibration, rubber isolation mounts are used between the body and frame.

Interior. This is perhaps Apollo's most impressive asset. Thick carpeting is standard. So is a handsome instrument panel with wood-grain vinyl accents. So are front and rear armrests and ashtrays. The full-foam seats are very un-small-car. They're big, thick, and comfortable - with room for legs, hips and shoulders.

Weight. Crosswinds are going to have trouble pushing this small car around. Because Apollo weighs as much as 450 pounds more than some other compacts. When ordered the way we suggest, Apollo weighs more because Apollo comes with more. Standard equipment includes a rather imposing bumper system with full-width steel reinforcement, Large E78 x 14 tires. And all that insulation. Then there are Apollo's available and eminently desirable V-6 engines and Turbo Hydra-matic transmission. The result is one of the heaviest small cars offered today.

What it all boils down to is this. Apollo is a smart investment. One with performance, prestige, and style. One that moves as easily on the highway as it does on crowded city streets. One with interiors that are both beautiful and deceptively roomy. We think that's the kind of small car America has been looking for. If that's the kind of small you've been looking for... well, you've just found it.

"Reach to Recovery" - - a blessing for mastectomy patients

Mrs. Frosty Flory, coordinator for the Reach to Recovery program in Ingham County, emphasized that the organization is a service free of charge. "There is absolutely no cost to the patient," she said. Currently there are 2 trained Reach to Recovery volunteers in Clinton County.

Part 1 of a 2-part series

By Laurie Kipp
County News Writer

"I'm not a woman anymore... What will my husband and children think of me now?" These are thoughts which will go through the minds of many of Michigan's 3000 estimated breast cancer victims this year, most of whom will undergo a mastectomy.

A mastectomy, more commonly known as breast removal, is one of the types of surgery most dreaded by women. It is also one of the most difficult to undergo because of problems in achieving complete physical and psychological recovery. Surgeons can provide the physical cure for mastectomy patients, but they are often too busy to provide emotional counseling. And, the patient is faced with many questions and fears which are often not fully answered by a medical doctor's explanations and assurances.

What she needs most at this period in her recovery is someone who has undergone the same surgery and faced similar doubts about herself. She needs a friendly face—someone who can convince her that she will once again lead a normal life, wear pretty clothes and participate in the same activities.

An emotional boost for these women can now be provided by a program called, "Reach to Recovery," sponsored by the American Cancer Society. This pioneer program was begun in 1952 by Mrs. Terese Lasser of New York City after her own surgery convinced her of the need for such a service. The program became an integral part of the American Cancer Society in 1969, and has been adopted in many foreign countries.

Clinton County's 2 Reach to Recovery volunteers were trained in East Lansing last fall through the Ingham County Cancer Society. This training session was the 1st one ever held in the area. A total of 6 volunteers were trained under the auspices of Mrs. Frosty Flory, coordinator for the program.

Mrs. Flory, who initiated Reach to Recovery in this area, is enthusiastic about the program's success. A corseliere by profession, she has had a great deal of contact with mastectomy patients and their problems. "I sat across a desk from these women for 10 years," she said, "and heard about husbands leaving them and thoughts of suicide."

Mrs. Flory said that when she heard of the Reach to Recovery program, she knew this could be the answer to emotional recovery for many of the mastectomy patients in the greater Lansing area.

Patients discover that, with determination, they can recover to the point where they can swim, golf, drive a car, do housework and participate just as they did before surgery.

A Reach to Recovery volunteer is a special kind of woman. She must be a mastectomy patient herself, and have been screened and judged by her doctor and her surgeon as emotionally stable and physically well. She must be able to demonstrate motor skills with ease of movement.

Volunteers are taught professional methods of being a helpful visitor. Mrs. Flory emphasized that volunteers only strive for emotional and physical rehabilitation and at no time offer medical advice.

Each volunteer brings the patient a Reach to Recovery kit containing exercise instructions and materials, a temporary prosthesis which can be worn until the patient is surgically fitted with a permanent breast form, letters to the patient, her husband and teenage children, and the Reach to Recovery manual written by the founder of the program. They also provide advice on clothing adjustments and cosmetic devices for disguising scars and discolorations.

Volunteers call on mastectomy patients only after they have obtained written permission from the physicians in charge. Volunteer visits are arranged at the request of the patient, her family or her nurse. Patient names are kept completely confidential between the hospital and volunteer.

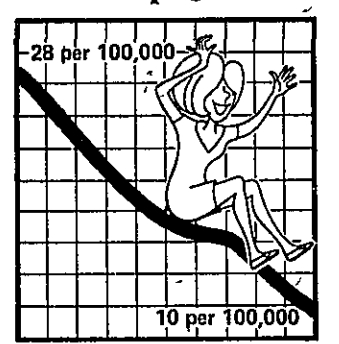

In addition to benefiting the patient, Reach to Recovery volunteers provide a needed service for doctors. "Doctors are busy enough trying to meet the physical needs of the patient," Mrs. Flory said, "But the emotional strain caused by the surgery cannot be ignored."

"Reach to Recovery, by helping the patient psychologically, can supplement the doctor's treatment of his patient," she added.

Mrs. Flory indicated that a training session will be started soon, but a date has not yet been selected. This session will probably meet at the East Lansing Cancer Society Building. A training center for Clinton County has not yet been established, although she is hopeful one will be started.

Further information about Reach to Recovery may be obtained by calling the American Cancer Society's Ingham County Unit at (202) 351-0430.

Public Service Commission denies CP price increase

LANSING -- The Michigan Public Service Commission today announced that applications for a $142-million rate increase recently filed by Consumers' Power Company have been dismissed by the Commission.

"We have taken this step because we are convinced that the applications filed by Consumers are inflationary and in violation of our own rules and the Phase III Regulations of the President's Economic Stabilization Program," Commission Chairman William G. Rosenberg said. "At a time when drastic steps are being taken at the national level to control inflation and rising prices, when consumer concern over food costs and other price increases is at an all time high, and with Michigan industry and unions holding prices and wages within the guidelines of Phase III, the Commission believes that utility companies must moderate their rate increase demands so as not to be inflationary," the Chairman added.

The applications filed by Consumers requested rate increases amounting to $83 million for gas and $59 million for electricity. The rate increases would have resulted in a 23.8% overall gas revenue increase and a 13.5% overall electric revenue increase. In May of 1972, the Commission granted Consumers an increase for gas of $12.3 million and in November of 1972 an increase for electricity of $29 million.

The order dismissing the applications was a unanimous one, signed by Commissioners Lenton G. Schultorpe and William R. Ralls, as well as Rosenberg.

"We wish to emphasize that our action should not be interpreted as being a decision to unfairly penalize utility companies in Michigan," Commissioner Schultorpe pointed out. "We intend to provide a responsible forum for the resolution of critical rate relief issues facing all Michigan utilities in the 1970's so that the companies will have adequate earnings to provide quality service and have the ability to raise the required capital for expansion of facilities to meet their customers' needs. We will not, however, consider applications which so clearly violate both the letter and the spirit of the program to end inflation and control prices," he said.

The order dismissing the applications cites four major reasons for the action which was taken on Thursday, April 5, at a Commission meeting:

First, the order states that the applications violate the Commission's Emergency Rules, which were adopted pursuant to the economic stabilization program and which were the first in the country to be certified by the Federal government, in that the requested rate of return on common equity is clearly in excess of any increased cost of capital which may have occurred since November 24, 1972, the date of Consumers' last rate increase. The requested revenue increase to cover the increased rate of return is approximately $34 million and reflects a requested increase in the rate of return on common equity from 12.12% to 14%.

Secondly, the order states that the applications violate both the spirit and the letter of the Cost of Living Council Phase III Regulations, which are to be applied by utilities and state regulatory agencies, in that the requested rate of return on common equity is excessive and inflationary.

Thirdly, the order states that another application recently submitted by Consumers deals in part with the cost of gas which is the same subject matter involved in the present Consumers' gas application. Approximately $33 million is involved in the duplication.

Fourthly, the order states that the applications seek to re-litigate the issue of rate of return on common equity decided in the November 24, 1972 rate case, which was preceded by a voluntary settlement entered into by Consumers and several intervenors including the Attorney General.

"Gas and electric service are basic material requirements of life, therefore, the Public Service Commission, on behalf of the public, must act vigorously to protect all customers against exorbitant price increases," said Commissioner William R. Ralls. Commissioner Ralls pointed out that the applications, if they had been granted, would have resulted in the following exorbitant price increases to Consumers' customers:

For an average family presently paying $12.25 per month for electricity, an increase of $1.58 per month or 12.93%.

For an average family presently paying $18.08 per month for gas, an increase of $3.92 per month of 21.6%.

For the small businessman presently paying $42.87 per month for electricity, an increase of $5.63 per month of 13.12%.

For the small businessman presently paying $85.00 per month for gas, an increase of $22.50 per month or 26.7%.

"After carefully reviewing the applications, I believe it is our duty to dismiss them in order to actively protect the people against such exorbitant increases. The individual customer must accept gas and electric service at the price offered since there is no alternative service available to them. The price increases requested are inflationary, exorbitant and unacceptable under the Economic Stabilization Act," Commissioner Ralls said. The Commission order is believed to be the first of its kind in the country.

Frank Kelley supports denial

LANSING -- Attorney General Frank J. Kelley today firmly backed the State Public Service Commission's action rejecting the $142 million rate increase filing of Consumers Power Company.

"The dismissal of the application was fully warranted," Kelley said, "because of Consumer Power's failure to comply with Public Service Commission and federal price stabilization rules. The Commission is to be commended for acting promptly in dismissing the application."

Kelley said that he did not expect any appeal to the courts by Consumers Power Company, but that he was prepared to vigorously defend the Public Service Commission's action, if necessary.

Kelley warned that today's dismissal of the $142 million rate hike request does not foreclose Consumers from seeking a rate increase. "The utility company may well file another application for gas and electric rate increases in compliance with today's Public Service Commission order."

SJ City Commission Approves park bids

ST JOHNS -- Business was rather routine at the Monday night meeting of the St. Johns City Commission.

Anthony Kuntz, president of the Library Board, presented a request including a change in the insurance policy, making coverage of the city hall and library separate. Kuntz announced that the board is in the process of obtaining contracts from outlying townships to give their penal fines to Bement Library. He estimated fines from all sources will total approximately $14,607 for the coming year.

Kuntz also asked the Commission to consider allowing the board to expand the library into the auditorium in the Municipal Building. A final request was for operating funds to make up the difference between total penal fines and estimated operating costs.

A public hearing was held at 8 pm regarding Ordinance 254, which would change the minimum lot area and width in medium and high-density residential zones. A proposed change in width to approximately 75 feet was disputed by Randy Briggs, Bill Richards and Roy Briggs, who want the requirements to remain at the present 55 feet. They argued that there is a need for small lots to facilitate construction of single family dwellings.

The Scott Rd Storm Sewer proposal was discussed, with Jerry Atkinson reporting that he had contacted neighbors. He said that Lawrence Radolph wishes to be contacted personally by the City Commission.

City Manager Harvey Weatherwax presented a report on the Cass Street Special Assessment for water, curb and gutters and storm sewer. The report was accepted, and a public hearing was scheduled for April 23.

Randy Humphrey presented bids for the park project. Spartan Asphalt Co was the low bidder for paving the tennis courts, with a bid of $34,462. E. J. Schmitt Electric Co had the low bid of $21,517 for lighting the baseball diamond and tennis courts. The bids were accepted.

The total park project will cost an estimated $98,633, with the city's share amounting to $30,731. The federal or state government will provide the remaining funds. The project includes provision of play and picnic equipment, lighting, the baseball diamond and 4 tennis courts, and adding 14.2 acres.

A letter from several residents on S Swegles St was read, requesting the city manager investigate the problem of storm water in the area.

The 1973 Assessment Roll was read and approved. Loader bids were tabled to allow the City Manager more time to study the bids and make recommendations to the Commission.

The first reading of Ordinance 255, prohibiting the operation of motor vehicles off the roads and parking areas in the park was given the area.

Walter Cole, St. Johns High School band director, was on hand to ask the city to make proclamations this summer when the city will host a German orchestra and a choir from the Netherlands.

Adjournment was at approximately 9 pm.

ST JOHNS -- Mrs. Hila Bross, (rear) librarian at Bement Public Library, and Mrs. Walker (in foreground) took the 6th graders at East Essex School on a tour of the facility last week. The students registered for library cards, learned how to use the card catalog and checked out books.

It's Library Week in St Johns

ST JOHNS -- This is Library Week in St. Johns. A registration drive is being conducted to sign up residents for cards, as well as remind those with overdue books to return them, according to Mrs. Hila Bross, librarian.

Mrs. Bross said that suckers will be given away to all children who return overdue books. Coffee and cookies will also be served. Sixth graders from East Essex School recently toured the library as a part of their Behavioral Objective program. Their teacher, Mrs. Walker, explained that the students learned how to use the card catalog and how books are loaned to supplement their program.

The Friends of the Library are helping with the registration drive, in addition to past activities such as the used book sale, sponsoring prizes for children's book reports and purchase of a bicycle rack.

Officers of the Friends include Don Isbell, president; Mrs. Dale Finch, vice president; Mrs. Lawrence Fish, recording secretary; Mrs. Delbert Conklin, corresponding secretary; and Howard Casler, treasurer. The club has approximately 60 members.

The governing board of the library, whose members are appointed by the St. Johns City Commission, includes Anthony Kuntz, chairman; Mrs. Frazier MacKinnon, Roger Feenan, Hugh Banning and Ladd Bartholomew.

Mrs. Bross said special emphasis will be made to seek return of their overdue books from 1972.

Poor weather may lower snowmobile deaths

Poor weather - rather than safer snowmobilers - was the probable reason why Michigan recorded 25 snowmobile fatalities this past winter as compared to 30 during the 1971-72 snowmobile season, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

"We suspect that the snowmobile death toll will again climb upwards next winter due to the recently enacted state law that allows snowmobilers to drive on most highway rights-of-way in southern Michigan," said Fred Rehm, Auto Club general manager.

The impact of the new law, which took effect in January despite strenuous objections from Auto Club, the State Police and other organizations concerned with snowmobile safety, is hard to gauge at this point, Rehm said, noting that:

"Compared to previous seasons, this past winter was a disaster for the snowmobile sport. Warm weather and lack of snow almost completely eliminated snowmobiling in the Lower Peninsula during most of January and March."

Trails in southern Michigan generally were reported open only five weeks this past winter. All-round good to excellent snowmobiling prevailed throughout the state for roughly one week in December and two weeks in February. The 1972-73 season ended about six weeks earlier than usual.

"Snowmobilers are to be congratulated for the 17 percent reduction in deaths this winter as compared with the season before," stated Rehm. "At the same time, the snowmobiler should keep in mind that the shorter-than-usual season played a major role in the reduction and efforts to make snowmobiling a safer sport should not be relaxed."

An Auto Club analysis of this winter's 25 snowmobile deaths shows these facts:

o Fourteen (or 56 percent) of the deaths involved snowmobiles that were in operation on highways or on highway shoulders. Eleven deaths were off-road fatalities. These figures continue the pattern set last season, when 66 percent of the snowmobile fatalities were highway related.

o Eight of the 15 highway-related fatalities occurred south of an imaginary line between Bay City and Muskegon, an area where snowmobilers previously were prohibited to travel on or adjacent to roadways.

o Collision with other motor vehicles caused eight snowmobile fatalities, including five deaths as result of collision with cars. Eight other persons died by colliding with fixed objects, such as trees or parked cars. Six deaths occurred when victims, driving on lakes, went through ice and drowned.

o Darkness was a contributing factor in an estimated 72 percent of the snowmobile deaths. Eighteen fatalities occurred between 6 pm and 3 am, including 12 between 10 pm and 3 am.

o The average snowmobile victim was a 34-year-old male. The youngest victim was nine years old and the oldest, 63. Five of the 25 who died were women.

In assessing the 1972-73 snowmobile season, Auto Club notes as a bright spot the fact that 53,500 Michigan youngsters successfully completed snowmobile safety courses this winter. The safety instructions, coordinated by the State Department of Natural Resources, will become mandatory after Jan. 1, 1974, for all children aged 12 to 15 who want to operate snowmobiles without adult supervision.

SECTION B APRIL 11, 1973

By Laurie Kipp

It's personal

"Love" is kind of a funny word, and can mean many different things to different people. Romantic-type love seems to be plenty abundant, as does parental love, but what really is missing in our society is "brotherly-love."

I hear many people say that nobody wants to become involved with the problems and successes of others, and upon reflection find it's true. I'd be willing to bet that much of the frustration felt today could be alleviated if people would just take the time to be concerned with the happiness of other human beings.

It takes so little to make someone else feel good. Even a friendly smile and hello can make a big difference in a person's mood. A sincere compliment at an appropriate moment can work wonders too.

After a very depressing day last week I noticed smoke coming out from under the hood of my car. Great, I thought, try to find service for a foreign car on a Saturday afternoon where I can use a credit card. Prospects were looking pretty grim.

I'm happy to report that I found 2 of the friendliest people at a gas station, who not only fixed my car but provided me with a cup of coffee and seemed truly concerned about setting me on my way again. It was so nice to be treated this way. So, what began as a lousy day ended with me smiling. And they've just gained a customer.

The other night a friend of mine was surprised by a birthday supper given in his honor. There were about 14 of us and we signed a card and ate chicken and drank wine. It was sort of a spur of the moment party, and everyone had a good time. The best part, though, was the grin on Ed's face. It's a fine feeling knowing you have friends who care, and it took us so little to let him know.

Little things like these enhance the pleasure of life so much. It seems a shame everyone doesn't show at least a small amount of brotherly love toward one another.

IRS keeps eye on food prices

DETROIT -- On March 30, Cost of Living Council Director, John T. Dunlop, announced that the Internal Revenue Service began a nationwide surveillance effort Monday, April 2, to assure compliance by food firms with the meat price ceiling regulations.

"President Nixon has taken a dramatic step in the fight against inflation by establishing this ceiling," Dr. Dunlop said. "And we certainly expect the continued cooperation of the housewife, the farmer and the food industry in this joint effort to bring down the rising crests of food."

"However, any program such as this requires steps to assure compliance and we are again calling on the IRS to assist us in this area."

The IRS will have a 250-investigator force working on enforcement of the new rules. These investigators will supplement the regular stabilization staff of 2,500.

IRS and Cost of Living Council officials met Friday with the heads of the major food trade organizations to review and explain the regulations.

On Monday, IRS District Offices contacted all the major food firms with corporate headquarters in their areas informing the firms of their obligations. Before the ceiling prices are posted as required April 9, IRS will review the major firms' method of computation and verify the accuracy of the ceiling prices.

IRS will make available to all food firms technical and interpretative assistance and a standard format for computing ceiling prices.

After posting, IRS routinely will spot check retail, wholesale and manufacturing firms for compliance with the ceiling prices. Monitoring will be done on an item basis (e.g., chuck roast, bacon, pork loin).

The new regulations requires retailers to post prices by April 9. Thereafter, consumers who detect counter prices exceeding posted prices should contact their local IRS office.

CEILING PRICE

The ceiling price with respect to a sale of an item of meat to a specific class of purchasers is the highest price, at or above which, at least 10 percent of those items were priced by the seller in transactions with that class of purchasers during the 30-day period prior to March 28, 1973; or in the case of a seller who had no transactions during that period the nearest preceding 30-day period in which he had a transaction.

The following examples show a firm how to compute a ceiling price on each item of meat offered for sale. The meat ceiling price computation form may be used to compute meat ceiling prices.

EXAMPLE

Ceiling Prices
The store sells bacon, T-bone, and pork chops.

During the 30-day period prior to March 28, 1973, the store sold the following:

T-Bone
200 lbs @ $1.69 per lb.
100 lbs @ $1.70 per lb.
30 lbs @ $1.75 per lb.

Bacon
100 lbs @ $1.30 per lb.
30 lbs @ $1.33 per lb.
15 lbs @ $1.35 per lb.

Pork Chops
200 lbs @ $1.40 per lb.
300 lbs @ $1.39 per lb.
50 lbs @ $1.45 per lb.

Calculation of Ceiling Prices

T-Bone
Total lbs sold equals 330
30 @ $1.75
100 @ $1.70
200 @ $1.69

30 divided by 330 equals .09
$.175 would not be the allowable ceiling.
30 plus 100 divided by 330 equals .39
$.170 would then be the allowable ceiling for T-Bone.

Bacon
Total lbs sold equals 145
15 @ $1.35
30 @ $1.33
100 @ $1.30

15 divided 145 equals .10
$.135 would then be the allowable ceiling for bacon.

Pork Chops
Total lbs sold equals 550
50 @ $1.45
200 @ $1.40
300 @ $1.39

50 divided by 550 equals .09
$.145 would not be the allowable ceiling.
50 plus 200 divided by 550 equals .45
$.140 would then be the allowable ceiling for Pork Chops.

Miracle drug

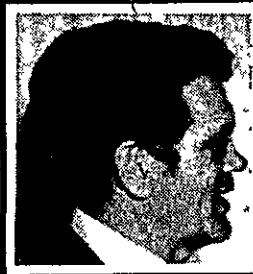

A wise public health official once made a startling statement about cancer: "If someone invented a drug that would cure half of all cancer cases the excitement would be beyond belief. We have such a drug: It is communication."

The truth of that statement lies in the fact that half of all those with cancer could be cured if the disease were found soon enough and received prompt treatment. At present, only one-third are being saved, mainly because people don't go to the doctor in time for early diagnosis.

So we are faced with a massive problem of communication and motivation. What this means in terms of human lives is that more than 108,000 cancer patients died last year who might have been saved by earlier and better treatment.

During the month of April, the American Cancer Society conducts its annual educational and fund-raising Crusade. Volunteers will be spreading the word that annual health checkups, including cancer tests, can save lives. They will be distributing leaflets which tell about cancer's seven warning signals.

The volunteers will ask you for funds to support the American Cancer Society's threefold program of education, research and service to cancer patients. They will urge you to have a health checkup now -- if you have not already had one -- and do so every year.

Oppose meat boycott

REP DOUGLAS TREZISE
87th District

Far be it from me to be critical of the Michigan Senate but I could hardly believe it when I noted last week that our "upper house" had adopted a resolution supporting the boycott of meat by Michigan housewives. Would a legislative body in Michigan really endorse a program aimed against a segment of the second largest industry in our State?

Unfortunately, it is true. Including such rhetoric as "astronomical meat prices" and "prices are at an all-time high," a resolution sponsored by 25 senators from all over the state was adopted, urging that Michigan citizens abstain from purchasing meat during the week of April 1-7.

I can't help but wonder what the reaction would have been had the resolution urged Michigan citizens to refrain from purchasing new automobiles when the last price increase on those items was announced.

Or suppose the Legislature took a position against people coming to Michigan to spend their vacations because motel rates have gone up. What kind of reaction would there be if this had happened?

It's not that I'm eager to pay today's price of meat. But I have a strong conviction that the market place is where the question will be settled and not through some temporary, "artificial boycott entered into with the sanction and even support of government.

After all, isn't that what has happened to the automobile business? When prices of Michigan-built cars skyrocketed, customers in the free market decided to buy cheaper, foreign models. I can even see some of those cars in the Capitol parking lot belonging to fellow legislators.

But the point is that each buyer, looking at his own pocketbook and the product, made up his own mind as to which product he would buy and at the price he was willing to pay. There was no government persuasion or pressure involved. Isn't this the same thing that should happen to meat prices?

Shouldn't the buyer be free to make up his (or more likely, her) own mind as to what will be purchased without governmental persuasion? To this I say "Yes."

Should the government of a state where agriculture is so important an industry try to discourage the purchase of its own products? To this question my response has to be an emphatic "No!"

There was probably a lot of good politics in the resolution adopted by the Senate. Friends can be won by supporting this kind of legislative action. After all, there are more people buying meat than selling it. But, I suggest it is darn poor economics and, in the long run, it's good economics, not good politics, which will determine whether the state of Michigan is going to be a good place to work and live.

For the past year and a half, we have had some form of wage and price control on most of our economy. During this period, food prices have been uncontrolled and left to seek their natural levels with respect to the rest of the economy. It was only after a long period of adjustment that the President, last week, imposed controls by saying, in effect, "the adjustment has gone far enough."

To a great extent I feel farmers should be grateful for this opportunity to catch up with other segments of our system. And, if food prices, with respect to the rest of our economic system, have really caught up then I don't think there should be too much unhappiness that some of the programs which were designed to artificially equalize farm income have been discontinued.

Whether meat prices will stay where they are or fall is, indefinite. But it seems to me that whatever happens should be the result of a relatively free market with you and I making our own decisions about buying or not and not as the result of an artificial, temporary market situation brought on by something as emotional as a boycott.

From Me To You
Surprises!

BY HAROLD SCHMALTZ

For those of you who followed state basketball tournament action a couple of weekends ago, wasn't that just a big bundle of surprises?

One particular game drew my interest. That was the one between Grand Rapids Covenant Christian and Flint Holy Rosary in Class D. Some of you might recall that it was G.R. Covenant Christian who lost to Fowler in district finals last year in double overtime. Wow, what a game that was! I still remember the sadness of the Grand Rapids crowd when their big star, Jon Bol, fouled out with about two minutes left to play. His six-foot seven inch frame certainly came in handy this time around as the team which was about the same fellows as last year went on to upset number one ranked Holy Rosary for the state title.

You've got to hand it to those kids from Grand Rapids for fighting such obstacles as not having their own home court to play on. According to reports I've read, they've used about six different gymnasiums throughout the season as the school itself has only been in existence about six years and has a small enrollment. You'd just have to mark it up to one tremendous amount of desire and talent.

SPEAKING ON SPORT TOPICS, what in the world happened last week to the famous "Louisville Lip" alias Cassius Clay alias Muhammad Ali? Once feared in boxing rings everywhere, the Lip met his Waterloo for the second time at the hands of a mister nobody. Even my mother, and believe me, she's no sports fan, voiced her delight in Ali getting beat. Gosh Mom, I didn't know you cared! Here you've had me faked out all these years.

When Dad and I used to watch the Wednesday and Friday night fights boxing apparently had a fan it didn't know it had.

Names in boxing sorta come and go. I used to keep up on all of them, especially in the days of LaMotta, Sugar Ray, Jersey Joe and Marciano. Oh yes, I remember the night Joe Louis beat Billy Conn, too. I never could figure why Dad was for Billy Conn. I wanted the "Champ" to win. Apparently there was a little racial prejudice floating around those days too. In spite of what Dad thought I still think of Joe as the "Champ" as I'm sure many people do.

Let's see, what sport takes the limelight now? Oh yes, baseball gets underway and all of us can now start talking about the Tigers and their pennant chances. Just one tip...don't buy your World Series tickets yet.

Back Through the Years

County News' files of 1971, 1962, 1947

25 YEARS AGO

April 8, 1948
The City Commission instructed City Manager Palmer Tuesday night to take steps immediately to effect the repair and reconstruction of defective sidewalks in St. Johns. The Commission's action came after the City Manager reported that at least 125,000 square feet of sidewalk in the city needed to be repaired or rebuilt.

The James DeRose and Son store, which has been operated by members of the DeRose family in St. Johns since 1914, has been sold to Joseph and Alfred Bozzo, of Chasaning.

Clinton County is over the top in the 1948 Red Cross drive. The quota of $6,000 was passed this week and the drive total now stands at $6,257.07, according to Norman R. Sleight, chairman of the Clinton drive for funds.

Lester Lake had his "thrill of a lifetime" Friday afternoon when he bowled the 711 series that enabled him to take the singles lead in the ABC tournament at Detroit. Though his tenure as pacesetter was short-lived, he experienced the thrill of being top singles man in the tournament, an honor that most kieglers would give their eye teeth for.

10 YEARS AGO

April 11, 1963
William Hufnagel of Dallas township, the only new member of the Clinton County board of supervisors, took the chair formerly occupied by Joseph Feldpausch Tuesday morning when the board convened for its annual organizational meeting.

Norman J. White of Saginaw, 28-year-old graduate of the University of Michigan School of Law, was appointed assistant county prosecutor this week by Prosecuting Attorney Fred M. Lewis. White will also associate with Lewis in private practice.

A petition bearing 53 signatures asking that 80 percent of the Hurd School district be transferred into Lansing public school system was submitted last week to County Superintendent of Schools Carl Bates.

Although the Clinton County goal is $7,000, only $4,430 was pledged on the county share of the interfaith chapel at the Traverse City State Hospital, according to County Chairman Tony Kuntz.

The 1963 Easter Seal fund campaign is lagging in Clinton County, according to Mrs. Fred Tiedt of Fowler, county chairman of the drive.

ONE YEAR AGO

April 12, 1972
City commissioners expressed a willingness to annex 153 acres into the City of St. Johns at Monday night's commission meeting if they can agree on zoning.

Construction work has begun for a $400,000 water pollution control system at the St. Johns division of Federal Mogul Corp. John Fox, plant manager announced Friday.

Food prices in the county are decreasing with the biggest drop at the meat counter. The thrifty shopper can buy many cuts of meat at a savings of at least 10¢ per pound.

A rise in the 1972-73 operating budget for Capital City Airport will push expenditures above the $500,000 mark, according to Robert Mooney, Capital Region Airport Authority treasurer.

The White Oak Subdivision in DeWitt Township will have street lights within the next two months. This move was taken Monday night at the regular township meeting after the White Oaks residents petitioned the township for action.

The wrong kind of father

Editor, Lapeer County Press

By Jim Fitzgerald

And then I wrote . . .
The right kind of a father spends his weekends doing jobs around the house and playing with his odd kids.
Or something like that. Sometimes it is difficult to understand exactly what my wife is saying, especially when she talks at the same time she is doing something else, such as hitting my ears.
Anyway, it was Saturday and the sun was shining and the air was warm. Perfect weather for outdoor athletics. And that's what I was doing -- watching some outdoor athletes on TV.
"Come out and play basketball with me," my son Eddie asked.
"I'm too old for that game," I answered.
"Gee," he said.
"What kind of a father are you?" my wife asked. "Your only son asks for your companionship but you'd rather watch TV."
"Speaking of TV," I said cleverly, "I keep seeing these commercials where the mother and daughter are frolicking together and they are both so well stacked no one can tell which one is the mother until she opens her mouth and you see it full of Grape Nuts. But you never see commercials where no one can tell the son from the father. The reason that Dad works too hard to stay young and trim, with soft hands. He is too busy making money to buy jeweled identification bracelets for his wife and daughters so they can tell each other apart. I think I'm going to cry . . ."
"If you don't play basketball with Eddie, you will have something to cry about," my wife said (or was it my daughter?).

Anyway, I played. And in only 5 minutes my weary legs buckled and I fell hard to the ground. I heard a rib crack. Every kid in the neighborhood was watching. I wanted to bounce right up to show them what a great sport the old man was. Except I couldn't move.
"Are you ok, Dad?" Eddie asked after he'd picked up the ball and made 2 points while standing on my hand.
I assured him I'd live. The only question was whether I'd ever get on my feet again. I kept hoping my moaning and screaming would bring my wife to the door, tears in her eyes. But she never showed. I finally staggered into the house and collapsed at her feet.
"The bulb over the sink in the bathroom just burned out," she said. "Change it."
"Don't you care that I have been mortally wounded while making my son my buddy?" I asked.
"Do you want to shave in the dark?" she answered.
"I had to stand on the sink. A huge globe enclosed the bulb. It stuck. I jerked. The globe fell, breaking into millions of pieces and smashing a hole in the side of the sink. I do not make these things up. Just stop by and ask to use our purple rest room. Move the soap dish a few inches and you'll see the hole which shall remain in our family forever as a reminder that the man of the house is not the right kind of father."
Onward and Upward and my ribs still ache.

Letters to the Editor

The Editor:
As inflation roars along on its destructive path, it's getting harder and harder to find a Republican, of all of the excuses for the destruction that comes out of Washington. There's none good enough to explain the reasons for Hooverizing amidst a plenty. There's just no way these facts add up, it appears the Republican administration is out to get even with their constituents for voting them in office -- maybe we can't blame them either.

This is not to be taken that there was any choice the last round at the polls, the record shows that the great majority of the voters didn't want to see any American creeping across North Vietnam, to surrender this country to a few International gangsters, we prefer to do the job standing, then it can be said with honor and for those who fail to understand the double-talk they can bug the Watergate and get the answer.

Over the past twelve years we have heard of the New Frontier, The Great Society and even the Great Politician. We have had Donkeys and Elephants and quite a few rats, because they have wasted over 55,000 American lives, $200 billions of dollars and cut our natural resources to the bone plus creating many thousands of cripples to suffer the balance of their lives, not to mention almost pulverizing our supposed friends South Vietnam as well as our supposed enemy, the North and all of this for what? The Washington arm chair architects of war just wouldn't allow our people to win. It was like a boxing match, with one man forced to stand in a keg. We can't blame one President, one political party or one group, but the records show the whole action was nothing less than criminal. Now it's time to NIX ON inflation and that about says it.

Dear Editor,
The members of United Dairy Workers Local #86 of Michigan Milk Producers' Association, Ovid, wish it to be known we are against and do not support the meat boycott.

At the Local's regular meeting Tuesday, April 3, 1973 the members voted unanimously against the boycott and the feelings were very strong.

It is the feeling of our members that this action could do nothing but defeat itself and cause an even shorter supply of meat from the producers and therefore the result would be an even higher price to the consumer.

Many of our members are very closely tied into both producer and consumer end of this situation and know very well what the costs and other matters that are involved in meat production. Members of Local #86 United Dairy Workers Michigan Milk Prod. Ass'n Ovid, Michigan 48866

Educator's viewpoint

By Don Kenney,
Ovid-Elsie superintendent

Today every teacher faces baffling questions. What shall I teach? How do I teach it and how can I tell if it has been taught?

These questions are complicated because of new developments in the material of instruction and because of a growing demand on the part of educators and others outside of education for the evaluation of learning outcomes.

All educators agree that temporarily learning what the book says is fruitless. I think many of us can testify to this fact. Very few of us who had Algebra can remember anything about it. Does this mean that Algebra was valueless? For many people yes but for many no. Learning to read the lines in a book or newspaper is not enough. We must be able to read between and beyond the lines. You must be able to interpret, to be critical in reading, listening and observing and be able to apply your learning.

What should be the goal of education in a given school district? For that matter what should be the goal of education in this country? Many people these days are making statements on the ultimate goal of education below the college levels. We hear that every child should be given a saleable job skill. Is this a right statement -- I don't know. Ten years ago, employers were saying just give us a high school grad who can think and we'll train him to our needs. Now our career education push is to give every student a job skill. Personally, I feel that most 18 year olds do not yet know what they want as a life work and before they are 30 will have changed not only similar jobs but will have moved to entirely unrelated types of jobs.

Let's briefly look back at what our educational process has done for the country to this point.

We probably have the highest standard of living in the world. Americans eat better, own more, travel more, leisure more than any other group in the world or for that matter in the history of the world. If the goal of education in this country has been to achieve the highest standard of living for our people -- we have achieved it. Our technical advances are unmatched. Therefore, we have arrived right? Are you sure? Is there any material thing generally lacking in our society today? Material things -- hardly, spiritual, aesthetic, brotherly things, yes.

We have high crime rates, accident rates, suicide rates, and drug addiction problems. Why? Is education falling down? Not if our goal has been toward an affluent society, because we have arrived there. Is it possible that a high standard of living, of acquiring material possessions is not enough for a full life? If it is possible then we need to have some discussions as to what is lacking. Where do we need to change our emphasis? The schools have really provided society with products (Students) that have fit in well with our goals.

Where we have problems today is in the area of human relationships. Is it important to love your neighbor or is he there so you can have a goal to shoot for -- like keeping up with the Jones? Is it important to see beauty in nature or does nature exist as a raw material for us to use for gain? Should it be important for those who have greater talents to share with those who don't, or is it every man for himself?

A long time ago, it was possible for every man to be for himself, but I think we have come of age. The world powers have the capability to destroy each other 20 times over. This thought boggles the mind. The whole world can be destroyed in a few hours. Whether or not your neighbor has a better car than you do can be of very little importance, if everyone decides to use their destructive potential.

This is a time I think for all of us to look for goals in the education of man which will allow us to live in harmony, appreciating and tolerating differences, capable of spiritual and aesthetic thought -- goals which I feel are needed to keep this world together.

Ballenger stresses music education

OWOSSO -- State Senator William S. Ballenger told a crowd of over 1000 at the Owosso All-City Music Festival yesterday, April 3, that the future of music education in Michigan is "inextricably bound up in the future of all education."

Speaking at Owosso High School, Ballenger declared that not only the quality but frequently the very existence of music education is a meaningful indicator of the quality of the total educational program in any given school or school district.

"In general, where a good educational program exists, music education is regarded as an indispensable part of the curriculum," he noted.

"Where a mediocre program exists, music education is considered a 'frill', expendable when an extra-voted millage request goes down to defeat. And where a poor educational program exists, music education may not exist at all."

The 32-year-old lawmaker, a member of both the Senate Education and Taxation Committees, stressed his opposition to the idea of dictating curriculum by law as a means of ensuring the presence of music education in Michigan elementary and secondary schools.

"To have the Legislature dictate curriculum I accomplishes nothing," Ballenger stressed. "I think the Legislature is coming to realize that so many curriculum requirements have been written into our statutes in the past that our schools probably find it impossible to completely obey the law today."

Ballenger advised teachers, parents and students that if they really wanted to see music education given its rightful stature, they should exert their political "muscle" by encouraging the Legislature to respond "not with edicts or directives or dictated curriculum, but with dollars."

Ballenger also pointed out that over the past years, the Michigan Legislature's support of the arts has grown dramatically. As evidence, he cited an initial appropriation of only $5000 to the Michigan Council for the Arts in fiscal year 1965-66.

"Our appropriation to the Council has grown to $251,000 during this current fiscal year," he added, "yet funds for music programs account for less than 10% of this. In his annual budget message to the Legislature two months ago, Governor Milliken recommended that appropriations to the Arts Council for 1973-74 be more than doubled over this year."

Should the Legislature follow his lead and actually appropriate some $600,000 to the Arts Council, you should see a real increase in the number and quality of music programs, offered by Michigan citizens around the state in coming years.

"How big the increase is may well depend on how effective and influential music people are in convincing the Legislature it should honor the Governor's recommendations and how much clout they have with the Arts Council in seeing to it that a substantially higher percentage of its budget is allocated to music," he concluded.

Social Services director objects to new regulations

Social services for millions of Michigan citizens, including programs ranging from day care to senior citizen centers, would be eliminated or sharply curtailed under proposed federal regulations, according to R. Bernard Houston, director of the Michigan Department of Social Services.

In a letter to Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Caspar Weinberger, Houston has objected to the new regulations, stating they would "wipe out, or substantially reduce services to the poor, leaving a void in the face of proposals which may never see life."

Houston outlined some implications of the federal regulations for specific programs in Michigan:

Protective services and services to battered children would be reduced 30 percent. This represents services to 21,995 children who are neglected by parents who live at poverty levels by Michigan standards.

Services to adults -- including 128 receiving protective services, 631 receiving self-care services and 298 receiving foster care -- would be cut by $1.6 million.

The pending $3 million service program for Detroit public housing residents will be dropped. Similar programs in Lansing will be dropped.

"We share the concern of DHEW for accountability and controls on costs in social services," Houston wrote. "However, . . . we cannot besile in the face of attempted undercutting of services to potential recipients who are mentally retarded, drug addicted, alcoholics, in need of family planning, foster care of day care, all or which have Congressional protection."

The Social Services Regulations published in the Federal Register by HEW on February 16 have drawn protests from a number of day care, welfare and senior citizen groups, including the National Council of State Welfare Administrators. The regulations, which HEW officials say represent an attempt to prune back social services programs and dollars as painlessly as possible, are seen by these groups as a major blow to delivery of such services.

Under the proposed federal regulations, states may not use privately donated funds toward their matching share in obtaining federal money to implement social service programs. Foundations and charitable groups frequently donate to governmental welfare agencies for specific programs such as the purchase of day care services or the initiation of community mental health projects.

Eligibility for social services would be limited, for all practical purposes, to those receiving public assistance. Only the "poorest of the poor" would receive help.

The definition of "former" and "potential" welfare recipients would be changed.

HOW TO UNLOAD A HOSPITAL

It may come as a surprise to you that your Federal government is the proud possessor of about 130 million dollars worth of crated emergency medical supplies and hospital equipment. At least, it surprised me very much when I read about it in a recent issue of the journal, Medical World News.

That this material has been stashed away for a number of years was discovered by the new Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, Caspar Weinberger. In Washington's bureaucratic circles, Mr Weinberger is affectionately known as "Casp the Knife", because of his well recognized budget-slashing and reducing type of leadership.

The medical cast offs may be offered to state and local agencies, but because of the limited time allowed for disposal of the packages, some 25 million dollars worth of equipment and supplies will not be government inspected and revamped, and thus will have to be destroyed.

UP IN THE ATTIC Just as families put things away in the attic, hoping to be able to use them some day, government sometimes gets carried away, apparently out of similar motives.

The supplies we are talking about were collected over the years by HEW's division of emergency health services, which is to be phased out by July, 1974.

They consist of over 2,000 prepackaged hospitals, each of which provides all the material, except the building, to set up and maintain a 200-bed unit during an emergency; including complete operating room equipment, lights, supplies, laboratory gear, drugs, bandages, cots, blankets, diesel power generators, and water pumps.

LIMITED COST BENEFIT Everyone will agree that, like the boy scouts, the government better "be prepared" for any kind of medical emergency or disaster which may involve large numbers of people.

Two questions are important to understand, however, why the government is so anxious to unload the "boxed" hospitals. The first one is, How many times have the packages been used?

The answer is that there has been an average of 20 emergencies per year when some of the supplies were used.

The second, and most important question is, How much does it cost to maintain the program?

If you are an average taxpayer, the answer will make your hair stand on end.

It costs upwards of 8 million dollars a year to keep the hospitals in moth balls!

I would say, immediately, as an administrator, "For God's sake, get rid of the darn thing!"

But, it isn't that easy.

"It takes four men four days of work to check and revamp one hospital package", says one of the HEW chiefs, "and they'd have to make hundreds of trips; there is 70 million dollars worth of equipment in 12 depots around the country, and 60 million dollars more spread through the states!"

THE OUNCE OF PREVENTION

Hoarding away for the future is a habit that not only individuals, but government bureaucrats get into. Constant vigilance is needed, so that being prepared is not perverted into paying large sums of money to get help for a disaster which may never come.

The ol' come-on can prove costly.

"Save 6¢ on Fryers," "Save 3¢ on Pork and Beans," "Get a Melamine cup and saucer free." Sound exciting? You bet they do - on the surface. But whether they really save you money or not depends on what's underneath the surface.

If the store that offers these "specials" jacks up a lot of other prices, these come-ons could cost you more in the long run.

At Kroger, we have come-ons, too. We call them Bonus Bargains. We identify them with an "X" in our ads. Our Bonus Bargains are made possible by special purchases or manufacturer's allowances or favorable market conditions.

The important part to remember is: along with our come-ons we have Xtra Low Everyday Discount Prices throughout the store. Since they are planned to save you money on your total food bill in themselves, our come-ons - Bonus Bargains - really mean additional savings for you.

X What are Bonus Bargains?

When you see an "X" next to an item in Kroger's ads or stores, it means a Bonus Bargain, good for a limited time and made possible by a special purchase or a manufacturer's allowance or a favorable market condition.

Water treatment operator exam set for May 22

An examination for Michigan certification of industrial and commercial wastewater treatment facility operators has been scheduled for May 22.

Under Michigan legislation, every industry and commercial enterprise which discharges liquid wastes into State waters must have waste treatment facilities under the supervision and control of the Water Resources Commission. The Commission examines wastewater treatment plant personnel and determines each one's ability to meet the knowledge and experience requirements.

In addition to providing an opportunity to certify principal operators, this examination will accommodate individuals serving as assistant or back-up operators. This allows persons unable to attend the previous sessions or those who were unsuccessful in obtaining a passing grade to take the test.

Application forms for admission to the exam may be obtained from the Water Resources Commission, Bureau of Water Management, Dept. of Natural Resources, Stevens T. Mason Bldg., Lansing, Mich. They must be filed with the Commission no later than April 23.

Applicants will be notified of testing locations and times at least 2 weeks before the May 22 examination date.

Underwriters to meet

The Mid-Michigan Chapter of the Society of Chartered Property and Casualty Underwriters will hold their April meeting at the Albert Pick Motor Hotel in East Lansing April 10 at 6:30 p.m.

This will be the final meeting of the current year for the Chapter. Election of officers for the coming year will be held. Plans will also be completed for the All-Industry Clinic to be held in Detroit on the new Michigan No-Fault Automobile Insurance law.

"CLEAR SEEDING" ALFALFA IS BRIGHT ALTERNATIVE

By WILLIAM LASHER
Extension Agriculture Agent

"Clear seeding" of alfalfa offers a bright alternative for livestock farmers who have difficulty getting good seedlings in oats or who have little use for oat straw.

Farmers who want a high amount of home-grown protein during the establishment year will find clear-seeded alfalfa superior to any other annual legumes grown for forage. Three tons during the seeding year is an attainable goal for clear-seeded alfalfa cut two or three times in the seeding year.

The new system calls for seeding alfalfa alone in April (the earlier the better) and harvesting three tons of clean hay in the seeding year. A herbicide replaces the companion crop and gives the necessary weed control. The hay crop provides income during the seeding year, Lasher explains.

Three years of Michigan State University research shows that spring "clear-seeded" alfalfa yielded an average of 3-1/2 tons during the seeding year. Saranac alfalfa seeded on May 2, 1969, yielded 3-1/3 tons per acre when cut on July 30 and Sept. 23. In 1971 tests, Saranac seeded on April 10 yielded 4.4 tons in three cuttings - July 9, Aug. 20 and Oct. 27. In 1972 tests, Saranac seeded on April 27 yielded 3.1 tons in three cuttings.

Twelve pounds appear to insure greater yields, fewer weeds, and cleaner hay than if eight pounds per acre were used. Eight pounds is the "standard" seed rate for alfalfa seeded in oats. MSU tests show that yields the year after taking three cuttings of a clear seeding are as good as or better than seedlings made in oats or seeded alone in summer.

Lasher lists nine guidelines for successful clear seeding of alfalfa:

1) Correct the pH by liming to at least 6.8. Soil should be well drained and of good water-holding capacity.

2) Seed as early as possible in April on a well-prepared seedbed.

3) Control annual weeds with three pounds EPTC (Eptam) acid equivalent per acre sprayed on the seedbed and worked into the soil immediately after application. Or spray 3/4 pound 2, 4-D-B ester when the seedlings have two or three leaves, usually four to five weeks after seeding. If broad-leaved weed problems develop after using EPTC, 2, 4-D-B can also be used.

4) Inoculate and band seed 12 pounds per acre of a fast-growing wilt-resistant alfalfa such as Saranac. Saranac outyielded Vernal by a half ton per acre in 1971 trials. Seed rates of 16 pounds or more per acre gave no greater yields.

5) Fertilize according to soil test, and band the fertilizer under the seed for a quick start. Three hundred pounds of 0-14-42 will supply the phosphorus and potassium for a 3-ton hay crop.

6) Use press wheels on the drill or cultipacker behind the drill to compact the soil around the seed and cover it shallowly for fast emergence.

7) Check the second cutting of alfalfa for leafhoppers in July and August. Spray with an appropriate insecticide if most stems have one or more leafhoppers. Insecticide cost per acre is about $1.50 for material and $2 for application.

8) PLAN FOR 3 cuttings for more hay of better quality. Take the first when the alfalfa is flowering in early to middle July, about 3 months after seeding. Make the next 2 cuttings at 6-week intervals - about Aug. 20 and Oct. 10. Three cuttings in 1971 and 1972 tests yielded about 3/4 ton more than 2 cuttings. 9) For high second yields, topdress in the fall or next spring according to soil test.

For women only

You're invited! What's the occasion? College Week for Women June 18-21 at Michigan State University. It's loaded with classes and activities specially designed for today's busy women.

This year's theme is "Women Can... Can You?" Assemblies and classes will paint a picture of women's interests, concerns and potential. It is a picture of opportunities: you can become what you want to be, choose among a wide variety of life styles and careers and "do your own thing."

Two major assemblies will focus on self-understanding and communicating with others and on women's potential and choices. The speaker will be Ruth Morrison, director of Human Relations Associates in Three Rivers.

Choice of classes will range from careers and vocational opportunities for women, communicating with children and population control to getting the most for your money, playing your role in politics and knowing your legal rights.

The evening hours will feature a host of get-acquainted activities and demonstrations in college, creative stitchery, weaving, flower arranging, stone polishing and pottery.

College Week is more than classes and assemblies, of course. It's a chance to meet and share concerns and interests with other Michigan women. It's an opportunity to get away from it all and give dorm life a whirl. It's exciting, it's educational-but mostly it's just plain fun.

And it's for you, no matter what your educational background might be.

The cost for full-time participants-10 meals, three nights' lodging in MSU's Akers Hall and all activities-is $45. If you can't come for the whole 4 days, come for just one-$5 will cover activities and lunch. Commuters pay only an activities fee of $10 (meals are not included).

If money is an obstacle, contact the Cooperative Extension Service at 224-3288, 1003 S. Oakland St., St. Johns for information on scholarships. The women's Extension Council believes in extending the opportunity to attend College Week to all women and they are accepting names during the month of April.

Farm Bureau Services holds feed prices

Area livestock and poultry producers who placed feed orders last fall during the 45-day booking period sponsored by Farm Bureau Services will remain fully protected against current soaring prices, according to Farm Bureau officials.

Art Roming, manager of the St. Johns Co-operative which supplies Farm Bureau services feeds locally, announced that the cooperative will hold firm on livestock feed prices in spite of recent cost hikes for high protein type feeds and feed grains.

Art Roming, said action by the cooperative assures farmers who took advantage of the booking program a savings of from $50 to $100 per ton on feeds.

Farm Bureau Services may be the only major feed supplier which is holding its price line. Several others have discontinued the advance booking plan or shortened the coverage period.

Under the Farm Bureau Services program, livestock men who placed orders during the 45 day period starting in mid-September are guaranteed delivery of feeds at the lowest price during that period. The guaranteed price holds for a one-year period.

Shortly after the Farm Bureau Services feed booking period, feed costs skyrocketed and many farmers not in the program have seen prices rise to record levels.

Measurement of acreage is still available

EAST LANSING -- Producers who have enrolled for the 1973 wheat and feed grain programs still have time to request and get measurement and inspection services before the final certification date, Walter Wittenbach, Chairman of the Michigan Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) Committee, said.

"Measurement and inspection services are provided at a nominal charge which covers the cost of ASCS as a service to farmers to help them assure compliance with the farm programs they participate in," Wittenbach said.

Trained ASCS personnel

measure, stake and reference the acreage a producer is designating as set-aside and the cropland acreages the producer wants measured so that a farmer knows when he certifies that his certification is correct. Even if an error were to be made in the land measurement, a producer who followed the area staked when the land was measured is guaranteed he will be considered in compliance with program acreage requirements, Wittenbach said.

The same is true for quality of set-aside land. If the set-aside land is inspected ahead of certification and accepted for eligibility and productivity the producer is guaranteed he has complied with set-aside requirements. The ASC Committee Chairman pointed out that only a few weeks remain before the final certification date and urged farmers to make their measurement requests as soon as possible.

Horse physical fitness important

EAST LANSING -- "With the increasing interest in horse activities, the physical condition of a horse is particularly important," reports Dr. Hyram Kitchen, Michigan State University veterinarian.

"Proper condition of the horse is necessary to performance in any athletic event," he says, "but it is especially crucial to the fast growing sport of competitive trail and endurance riding." He suggest that riders condition their horses gradually. But before riding, they should determine fitness by checking the horse's temperature, pulse and respiration (TPR), recover rates and signs of fatigue.

Kitchen says pulse can be taken on the leg or under the jaw of the horse. Respiration can be measured by watching the in halation-exhalation movement of the ribs or by holding your hand by the horse's nostril to feel the exhalation breath.

The ratio of a horse's pulse to his respiration rate should be about 3 to 1 at a complete rest. Kitchen says a horse is potentially in danger if the ratio is less than 1 to 1 and is seriously in danger if the ratio is 1 to 2.

"THE SECRET to conditioning a horse is pushing him one day and slacking off the next," says Kitchen. "Ride every day when the horse shows no signs of stress from simple exercising. Work up to a strenuous 10-mile ride one day followed by a relaxing, quiet five-mile ride the next. "You never have to ride 40 miles to go on a 40-mile endurance ride," said Kitchen. "The most important thing to remember is the rate at which you do the exercise."

The worst things you can do to a horse the day before the ride or show is change his tack or put on new shoes, comments Kitchen.

"SOIL SAVER"

A NEW TWIST TO TILLAGE! A totally new and different approach to soil management! The Glencoe "SOIL SAVER" creates a non-compacted, "ridged" field that just naturally protects against erosion by wind and water! Instead of simply turning over the soil and leaving it bare to the elements the "SOIL SAVER" opens up the land down deep to catch and hold available moisture. Controls runoff, holds and stores rainwater for thirsty crops -- soil surface is left open and blended with crop residues that protect precious topsoil! Cutting "slicers" cut up heavy stalks, leaves and root crowns and leave the soil ready to be turned under by the helical blades following. Designed so you can work your stubble immediately after harvest, generally without chopping or shedding. See our display today!

Duplain Cancer Crusade and Education Kick Off — Eighteen Volunteer Cancer Workers gathered at the home of Mrs Eleanor Thornton for the Duplain Township Cancer Crusade and Education Kick Off.

Following the breakfast the kits were given to the workers. The slogan this year is "We Want to Wipe Out Cancer in Your Lifetime." Volunteer workers are Eleanor Thornton, Chairman, Jerine Mead, Neva Betzer, Florine Peabody, Nellie Washburn, Dorothy Harmon, Dorothy Ballantine, Hazel Ballantine, Helen Fabus, Helen Beck, Anabel Peck, Pat Erickson, Joan Ladiski, Kathy Walters, Bernice Walker, Norma Hilton, Andrea Warren, Sue Greene, Kathy Webster, Mearl Kindel, Dee Holley and Delores Batora.

The preceding Saturday 6 from Duplain Township, namely Eleanor Thornton, Florine Peabody, Neva Betzer, Helen Fabus, Dorothy Harmon and Nellie Washburn, went with the County Group to Ann Arbor to the State Cancer Crusade and Education Kick Off at Weber's Inn. Between 4 and 500 hundred men and women were there to hear talks by Dr Pollard, Dr Long, Dr Stuber as well as several other interesting and educational speakers.

Everyone enjoyed Minnie Pearl who is the Co-Chairman for the 1973 Crusade. The subject of cancer is very near to her heart because of losing her favorite sister, Dixie, with cancer.

Mrs Ethel Scanlon of Cheboygan called on the Betzer and Mead families last Friday.
