

Smith defends need for ordinances

By TIM YOUNKMAN
Editor

BATH TWP.—The recall question, attempted by a local citizen's committee to oust current Supervisor Duane Smith, is not the only hotly contested issue on the April 17 ballot.

The same group, Citizens for Better Government, has been circulating petitions to defeat two other proposals on the ballot. They are the Uniform Building Code and the Comprehensive Zoning Ordinance.

Smith, in an interview Tuesday morning, would be considered non-conforming use, code issues have been linked strongly with his recall attempt, but that's not the way he wants it.

"If they're out to get Smith—that's one thing," the supervisor said, "but they shouldn't have to wreck the township to get me."

Smith, however, feels the recall issue must be kept separate from the new proposals.

"The township needs these zoning and code ordinances for the orderly development of the township," he said.

"We've gotten away from the simplicity of this question."

Smith pointed to two other ideals he thinks the township should look for in passing the ordinances. "There will be an increased convenience to the public with building permits available at the township hall, building inspections available at the hall, which would reduce the necessity of going to St. Johns for these things."

He said that another benefit in passing the ordinances would be the local enforcement issue. The local officers know the township situation, Smith remarked, and they would be responsible for enforcing the ordinances.

"It is the same thing as the county zoning ordinance," Smith said. "It is a standard ordinance." He noted that only the areas specifically pertaining to Bath Township's characteristics have been added to the county guidelines.

Smith said he was concerned with the campaign being waged by the opposition. He claimed the group was not informed of the specific issues and was using the ordinance issues to oust him indirectly.

DUANE SMITH

"The people aren't taking time to check this out," Smith said. He cited the case of an elderly citizen who was operating a fruit stand in the township. Smith said the citizen's group told the man that the new ordinance would prevent him from doing any more business.

"This is totally false," Smith said. "Any business existing before the ordinance would be considered non-conforming use." Under the non-conforming use clause, the elderly man would be able to operate his fruit stand legally," Smith added.

He also pointed to the argument that various youth groups such as the 4-H, FFA, FHA and Boy Scouts could not have vegetable gardens or raise their own calves, "They can. There is nothing to prevent this," Smith said.

Smith said that he had been receiving personal threats, mostly indirectly, since he has taken office more than two years ago.

"My kids have received 'suggestive type' threats, too," Smith added. He said his children's teachers have attributed some problems in school to the recall campaign, although Smith declined to name the people involved.

The supervisor said he hoped for a large turnout Saturday in order to pass the ordinances. The silent majority in Bath, Smith feels, will hold the fate of the election issues. He said if these people don't turn out, the proposals would certainly be defeated.

When asked about his personal fight to stay in office, Smith said he was confident. "I'm not worried about it. I am more worried about these ordinances."

If the zoning and code go down to defeat Saturday, Smith said it would be up to the planning commission to re-educate the public on the needs of the township.

"There is a choice here," Smith said, "either the people would be misinformed, or they want the township to die."

"The township is on its last legs," Smith cautioned. "We have brought it back to its knees and the next step is walking."

He cited various improvements in the township since he has taken office, including the police department, fire department, street lighting system and proposed sewer projects.

The police department was completely revamped with the hiring of current Chief Mark Steffes. "He is a professional officer and we are now recognized by the surrounding police units," Smith beamed. He said the growth of the fire department in the township will necessitate a new station house at Park Lake in the near future. "We're looking for manpower now," he said.

He said the township is in line for some state aid monies for the proposed sewer system project. He said the township was assured of money for connectors, although federal aid on interceptors and treatment facilities is still cloudy. The plans were recently revived from a tabled plan issued in 1966.

"The people should realize that they have an investment in the planning and zoning ordinances," Smith said. To date the township has paid about $3,400 toward the plans which, with outside aid, cost a total of $11,000.

Bath has about 1,800 registered voters and Smith said a good turnout Saturday would be a minimum of 1,000.

"With 1,000 votes, we'd be in good shape," he said.

By comparison, there were 1,800 votes cast in the general election, the highest in Bath's history.

'Shades of Elliott Ness' in Cowan Motors theft

ST. JOHNS—It was just like the days of Elliott Ness early Easter morning, according to Officer Mark Veasey, of the St. Johns police department, after investigating a breaking and entering and a malicious destruction complaint.

Officer Veasey was patrolling the streets Sunday morning, about 5 a.m., when he received notification of a malicious destruction and theft complaint from Russell Kramer, N. Clinton Ave. He answered the call and upon arriving at the scene noticed a person in the rear of Cowan's Motors, 506 N. Clinton St.

When Officer Veasey shouted, "halt," the suspect jumped into a 1969 Lincoln that was parked in the garage and rammed through a 12 foot by 14 foot rear door and then crashed into two International tractors.

Officer Veasey ran around to the rear of the building and saw the Lincoln still running, but the suspect was gone.

Officer Veasey observed that entry was gained by breaking a small window at the side of the building. He also observed blood stains on the broken glass and on the floor inside the building.

Immediately Veasey notified Chief Everett Glazier and they proceeded to the home of a person that was observed wandering the streets earlier in the morning.

The officers talked to the possible suspect, who had a freshly bandaged cut on his left arm. According to the subject he had just arrived home.

The subject was brought to the police station for fingerprinting and questioning. Also a pair of tennis shoes were brought in to match footprints outside the Cowan building.

The State Police were then called to take fingerprints of the crime area, along with blood samples and footprints.

A warrant has not been issued on the suspect pending further investigation.

Kramer's vehicle, which had the windshield smashed and other damage, is estimated to have about $500 worth of damage. The Lincoln, which belongs to Dr. P.F.

Stoller, has about $1,500 damage, according to Stan Cowan. Damage to the building will exceed $1,000.

According to Officer Veasey, the evidence indicates that the suspect began smashing Kramer's car to gain entrance and when he couldn't do this he proceeded to Cowan's garage and broke into the building.

Officer Veasey said, "The suspect was in that car and had smashed through the back door before I even knew it, just like they used to do in the old days. I hope we are not returning to them," he added.

Lions club plans White Cane Week

ST. JOHNS—The St. Johns Lions Club and more than 500 Lions Clubs throughout Michigan will join forces Sunday for the start of White Cane Week, dedicated to informing the public on laws protecting blind persons.

High light of the week's activities is the annual White Cane sale in St. Johns, as dozens of members will take to the streets corners seeking donations for the Lions Clubs activities.

Local elementary schools, drivers license bureau and police department will assist in this educational effort by distributing leaflets furnished by the Lions of Michigan in cooperation with the St. Johns club.

The local members are planning a donation drive in the business district of St. Johns, at the Andy's IGA-Redwing Lanes area and at the Kroger shopping center.

State legislation, in 1936, included an ordinance granting the right-of-way to a person carrying a White Cane. The purpose of White Cane Week is to provide understanding and courteous assistance to bearers of the white cane whenever possible.

The week of April 18-24 has been designated White Cane Week in Michigan.

Youths begin Clinton's road clean-up Saturday

See related map on page 3A

More than 40 youth groups will be cleaning up 250 miles of secondary roads Saturday in an all out effort to help beautify Clinton County. This year's theme for the project is called "Operation Pride."

The youth groups consist of 4-H clubs, FFA chapters, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts and independent groups.

Plans have been made to use the sanitary landfills in St. Johns, Essex Township, Greenbush Township and Elsie to dispose of the trash in the northern part of the county.

In the southern part the Grand River landfill and the East Lansing landfill will be utilized.

In parts of the county where landfills are not available, the Clinton County Road Commission will set trucks in central area where groups can dispose of their trash.

The leaders of the project are asking that the groups separate the glass from the rest of the trash and bring the glass to the fairgrounds. The glass will be sent to Charlotte for recycling instead of going into a landfill.

Motorists are being asked to be very careful on the secondary roads this weekend.

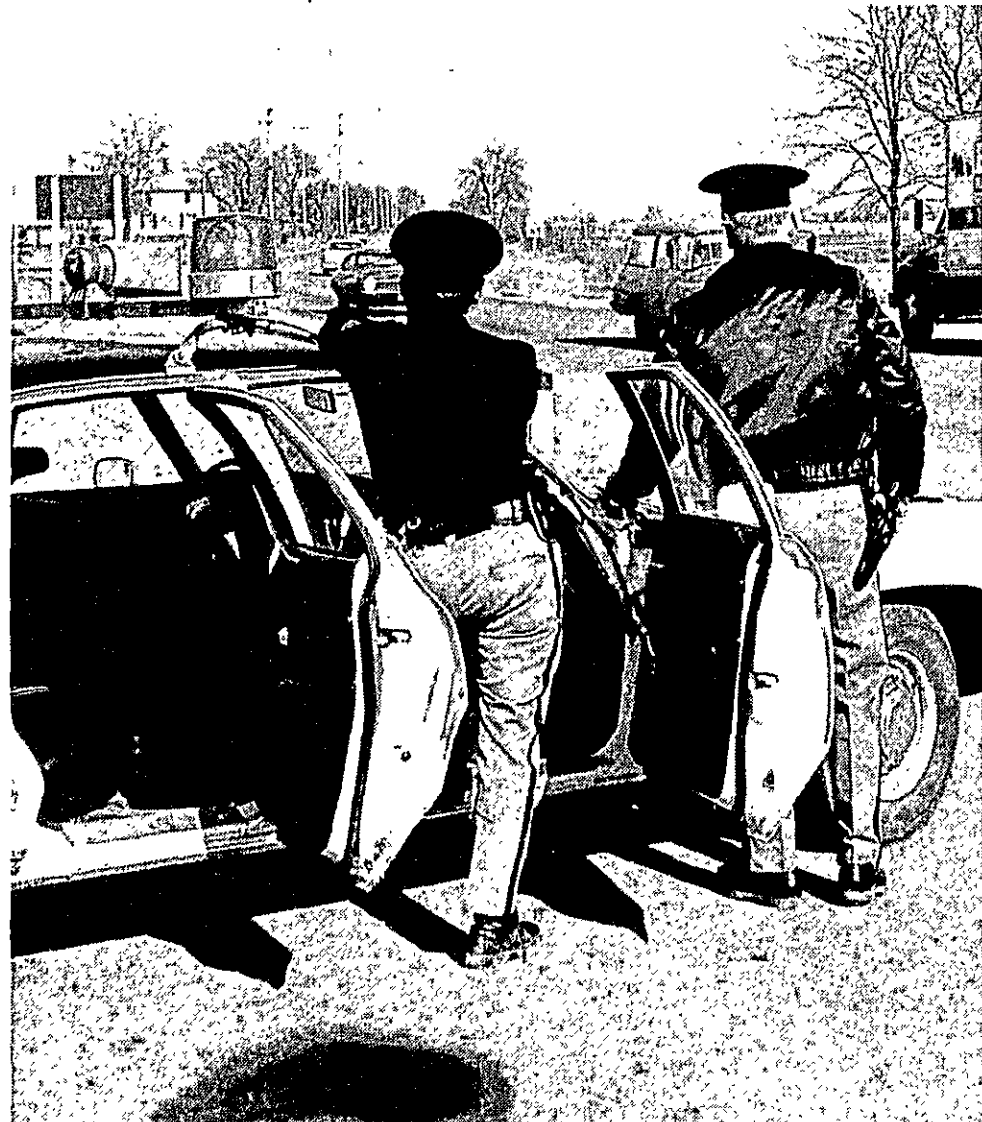

Last year in Clinton County 33 groups with 518 youths worked a total of 2,299 man hours in cleaning up 262 miles of roads. The groups picked up a record 110 truck loads of trash.

Bruce Campbell, Chairman, Keep Michigan Beautiful (KMB) states that there will be many other projects to help keep Clinton County beautiful that are projected for the future.

May 1, county 4-H clubs will be picking up glass containers to be recycled.

A number of projects will be undertaken to clean-up the Maple, Looking Glass and Grand Rivers, where possible recreational sites could be constructed along the banks. The projects will begin in June to allow ample time to prepare and coordinate.

In May KMB will coordinate efforts of William Coffey, zoning administrator and other groups to dispose of junk cars in the county. A portable car crusher will locate at four central sites in the county to be announced in the future.

TENSE MOMENT

Two Clinton County sheriff's deputies stand poised at a roadblock east of St. Johns, watching passing vehicles for possible suspects in the slaying of a Genesee County deputy and wounding of another officer. The shootings took place in Flint and reports had indicated that the suspects might be driving toward St. Johns. They were apprehended afterward in Genesee County.

OEEA, board reopen salary negotiations

OVID - ELSIE—Negotiations have been resumed between the Ovid-Elsie Education Association (OEEA) and the Ovid - Elsie Board of Education to discuss teacher salaries and fringe benefits, it was learned Monday.

During a preliminary meeting, ground rules were established with each group offering the names of two articles for discussion.

Under the terms of the 1970-72 master agreement, each side may discuss two issues of the contract each year for renegotiation.

AN OEEA spokesman declined to disclose any of that group's proposals to change the base salary of teachers, currently set at $7,500. He said that there was "nothing definite" in setting a new minimum and that exact areas of new fringe benefits have not been determined.

Chief negotiator for the OEEA is Joseph Shaltry, Ovid-Elsie High School agriculture instructor. School Supt. Robert Beauchamp heads the board of education's negotiations.

The next scheduled meeting of the two groups is Thursday, May 13.

MABC-DHIA computer use planned

EAST LANSING—Two dairy farmer cooperatives have joined forces to provide members better services.

The Michigan Animal Breeders Cooperative (MABC) and the Michigan Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA) announce a new computer facility at 3655 Forest Road that will serve Michigan dairy farmers three ways.

MABC members will be served through access to a larger, faster computer expanding management information systems and cow evaluation programs, according to Jack Dendel, Allegan dairyman and president of the cooperative.

DHIA records will be carried on the new system giving 2,500 farmer members faster and more efficient service, points out Ralph Frahm, Frankenmuth dairyman and president.

Research data relating to both farmer cooperatives will also be available to the MSU Department of Dairy Science, adds Peter Spike, Michigan State University dairy specialist.

The facility should be ready for operation about April 1. It will include areas for computer operations, keypunching and storage.

Work completed on GenTel Elsie phone exchange

ELSIE—Construction work on the expansion of General Telephone's Elsie exchange has been completed, according to L. R. Zanter, Owosso District Manager.

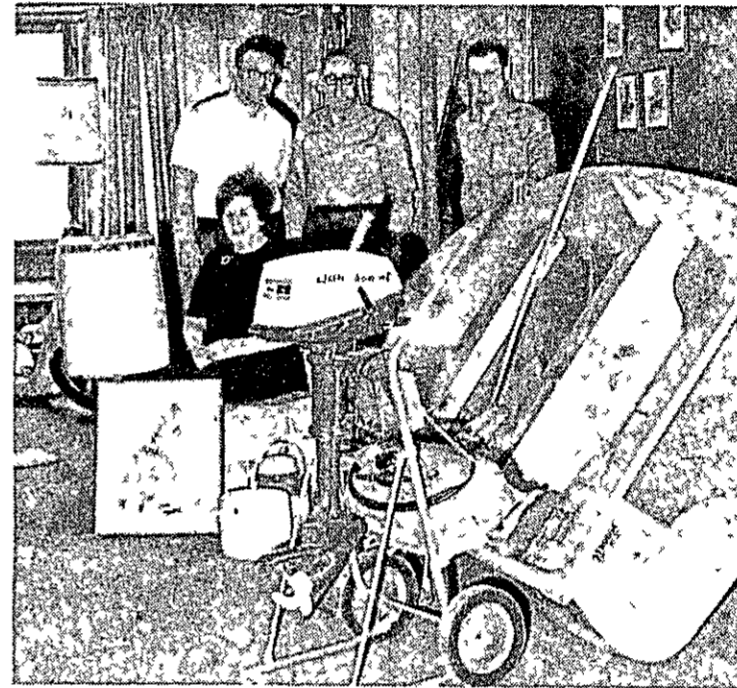

"The work was done sooner than expected", he said. "The bulk of the $200,000 allocated was used for office expansion and buried cables, which will make telephoning easier and cause less trouble."

The new construction is designed to reduce all rural lines to not more than four parties per line. In Bannister only one and two party services will be provided.

Added to the existing 600 lines and 1,100 terminal at the Elsie office, were 200 lines and 100 terminals.

The basic reasons for this addition is to have adequate equipment available to reduce all rural lines to not more than four parties per line and to provide for forecasted growth at the rate of 2.9 new stations per month for the service period extended to December, 1974.

A similar installation will take place at Owosso to provide additional facilities between Elsie and Owosso. Over the past three years long distance calling between Elsie and Owosso has increased at an annual average rate of nine per cent.

PLAN CARNIVAL

Guidance staff for parent talks

ST. JOHNS—Now that students are registering for next fall, high school counselors Bert LeFevre, Arlene Scramlin and John Furry are available to meet with parents concerning their child's class schedule. Letters have been sent to the parents of next year's 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th graders.

The counselors will make every effort to help a student look at his interests and abilities and to help him choose subjects which will prepare him for tentative career opportunities. Counselors are also available to help students with any other problems they may have as they progress through school, school officials said.

If parents are interested, the guidance staff will arrange group meetings. They are also available to attend meetings of service clubs and other community groups.

If parents wish to see a counselor, students whose names begin with A through G are assigned to LeFevre; H through P to Mrs. Scramlin; and Q through Z to Furry. Call 224-2394 and ask for the counselor to whom your child is assigned.

The counselors are very anxious to improve communications with parents not only about educational plans and subject choices, but about any other problems that may influence a child's progress in school, officials said.

Four Clinton districts to benefit

LANSING—State Sen. William S. Ballenger (R-Ovid) has co-sponsored a bill (SB 241) to restore the seven mill minimum for local school bond loan eligibility. If passed, the measure would affect four school districts in Clinton County.

According to Ballenger, school districts affected by the School Bond Loan Bill within the 30th State Senate District include Bath, DeWitt, Fowler and Pewamo-Westphalia.

Ballenger emphasized that the Michigan School Bond Loan Program, now more than a decade old, has become extremely helpful to many school districts.

This program has been refined substantially since it was first passed," Ballenger said. "But the need for more refinement is at hand. Statistics bear out the need to cut back the amount mandated for local district levy obligations to a flat rate of seven mills, as existed prior to the amendment in 1969 that established the sliding scale and a state equalized valuation eligibility of up to $20,000."

Ballenger noted that when the seven mill minimum was first established in 1964, most schools with levies of nine to 12 mills existing for debt, naturally cut the local levies back to seven and borrowed the remainder from the School Bond Loan Program.

This sudden involvement in the program, along with the usual new construction, caused what Ballenger terms a "scare" that can still be noticed in those who have not kept pace with relative developments.

Since that time, he said, the annual amount of money being loaned for school construction has tapered off and $2 million

Sunday marks bus safety week

LANSING—Gov. William G. Milliken has declared the week of April 18th as School Bus Safety Week.

In a proclamation issued last week, Governor Milliken said, "In Michigan, an estimated 950,000 students are taken to school and home again daily by approximately 12,000 school buses."

The drivers of those buses cover an estimated 120,000,000 miles each year in Michigan and have compiled an excellent safety record. Among the primary factors in Michigan's outstanding record are its driver education program, the careful maintenance of buses and the watchful inspection conducted by Michigan State Police.

In Clinton County, drivers who have completed special training programs will give classroom lectures and talks to PTA and school organizations.

"THEREFORE, in recognizing the many accomplishments of the school bus program in Michigan, I, William G. Milliken, Governor of the State of Michigan do hereby proclaim April 18-24, 1971, as SCHOOL BUS SAFETY WEEK in Michigan and urge Michigan citizens to exercise constant courtesy and caution concerning school buses in order that children of our state have the best and safest possible system of transportation.

And I urge further that Michigan citizens be aware of the skill and dedication of the thousands of people who make that system possible."

To be named to the academic honors list, a student must maintain at least a B average while carrying a full academic load.

The announcement was made by Dr. Robert L. Huxol, vice president for instruction.

Macrame's the 'in' thing, Judy McEnaney insists

ST. JOHNS—Macrame is the "in" thing for high school art students," says Judy McEnaney, art instructor.

"Macrame is the art of knot tying," she says. "It's artistic and functional. A variety of items can be made out of different types of twine, string, yarn and leather that the students can wear or display."

Mrs. McEnaney taught English for one year at Ovid-Elsie before coming to St. Johns. This is her first year here. She lives in Lansing with her husband, Steve, an instructor at Lansing Community College and Ingham County Commissioner and their six year old daughter, Miltz.

"WE TEACH a variety of projects. No longer do we try to teach students to be artists, but attempt to teach the students how to appreciate art and how to express themselves. They learn that they don't have to rely entirely on manufactured products," she said.

"This is where macrame comes in, they can express themselves, it looks hard to do, but it isn't. The boys like to make belts for themselves and they really enjoy it," she added.

The elective art courses are very popular with the students. 250 are enrolled in Art I and 120 are enrolled in Art II.

Mrs. McEnaney, who was graduated from Michigan State University in 1969 said, "I like teaching at St. Johns and hope to teach here a long time."

St. Johns to compete in mechanics contest

ST. JOHNS—St. Johns High School will participate in the 1971 Plymouth Trouble Shooting Contest in Detroit, America's premier competition for auto mechanics students.

The contest, to be held April 30 on downtown Detroit's Kern Block, will determine those who excel both in the classroom and in actual mechanical work.

The contest will be one of about 100 scheduled throughout the nation this spring. Winners in regional meets receive trips to the National Trouble Shooting Finals in Indianapolis June 14-16 at the famed "500" Speedway. There they will compete for more than $125,000 worth of college scholarships and other awards.

The extra emphasis on the scholastic side of the contest this year was stressed by both Plymouth executives and school officials, according to the Plymouth Regional Service Manager.

This year, some teams will be eliminated following the written examination as a further inducement for students to master their classroom work. A team consists of two students, and those who survive the written examination will then be assigned a deliberately sabotaged car to be put in running condition. All of the cars will be identical and will have a series of identical malfunctions installed beneath the hood—more problems than would occur in the average car's lifetime. Teams will race the clock and each other

Frost outlines spring tornado shelter plan

ST. JOHNS — Charles Frost, Clinton County Civil Defense director, laid out guidelines for citizens to follow in case of tornadoes this spring during a conference with Weather Bureau Chief, Robert Babb, of Lansing.

According to Frost, when reporting a tornado, a person should give his name and address, the location of the sighting, the direction the tornado is moving, approximately how fast it is moving and whether it is touching the ground.

Babb was firm in his belief that every family should have a plan in case of a tornado and if they don't they should make one. There are certain precautions that should be followed if a tornado approaches. In homes, open some windows (but stay away from them) and take shelter in the basement or under heavy furniture in the center of the house.

In schools—move quickly (following advance plans) to shelter areas or to an interior hallway on the lowest floor. In factories move quickly, following advance plans, to shelter areas. Post a look-out, if this can be done safely. In open country—move away from the tornado's path at a right angle. If there is no time, lie flat in the nearest depression with your hands shielding your head. Be alert for flash floods.

Babb urges that all people know the difference between an announced tornado "watch" and tornado "warning."

A tornado watch alerts the public that tornadoes may develop over a certain area and they should listen for developments.

A tornado warning means that a tornado has been sighted in the area or its presence is indicated by radar. When a tornado signal is sounded, officials advise all people to take cover immediately. A three minute up and down siren in St. Johns is a warning to take cover. A one minute straight siren is the signal for all clear.

Baker submits low bid for airport work

LANSING—L. A. Baker of Lansing submitted a low bid of $21,202 for construction of a sanitary sewer at the west end of Lansing's Capital City Airport, the aeronautics commission of the Michigan Department of Commerce announced Wednesday.

The project calls for construction of an eight-inch sanitary sewer and lift station to serve hangars and other buildings at the west end of the airport. The sewer system will replace a septic tank which is no longer adequate. Construction is scheduled to start in early May and be completed by the end of July. There were a total of 11 bids on the project.

Open Letter from VAN W. HOAG

Dear friends,

Many clergymen and doctors, while attending the dying, have reported seeing the apparition of the spirit leaving the body at death. Many survivors have reported the momentary appearance of the spirit of a loved one at the moment of death. If these marvels were more generally known, the doubting Thomas would find greater conviction in the resurrection of Christ and of our own promised resurrection which we celebrate this glorious Easter Season.

Sincerely,

Van W. Hoag

Former local author plans St. Johns visit

By ANNETTE WHITE
News Society Editor

ST. JOHNS — Author Doyle Fitzpatrick will be guest of honor Sunday, April 18 at an open house at the Bement Public Library from 2 to 4 p.m.

The event will open American Library Week at the library and be sponsored by the Friends of the Library and members of the Library Board.

Fitzpatrick who has recently authored a book on the biography of King Strang, the Mormon leader who lived on Michigan's Beaver Island during the mid-19th Century, was born in St. Johns and was a member of the second graduating class of Rodney B. Wilson High School in 1926.

The book, "The King Strang Story," took Fitzpatrick seven years to research and write and is based on factual and documented information about Strang, collected by the author and also acts as a clearing house for changing the 120 year accumulation of historical deception about James Jesse Strang, the Mormon "King".

Fitzpatrick was a former resident of Vauconsant Street in St. Johns and has lived in Lansing now for the past 40 years.

Interested in American history he has spent many years researching the Strangite Mormon phenomena, collecting manuscripts, photos, papers and books on Michigan's early statehood, specializing on the life and era of Strang.

The Yale University Library, authorized for the first time, a complete microfilming of their Coe Collection of Strang Americana to the author, prior to the writing of the book.

An alumnus of Michigan State University, Fitzpatrick has a home on Beaver Island built on property owned by Strang, hero of the novel. He also owns an authentic door from the former home of James Jesse Strang.

"Because Strang was assassinated at a young age I might build the door into a wall that leads nowhere" said the author. Fitzpatrick is employed at Oldsmobile as a supervisor of art and chart. Prior to that was owner of a Sales Promotion Company and held the vice presidency of the company.

St. Johns K of C will hold a spring dance April 24 in the St. Joseph School Gym from 9 p.m. to 1 p.m.

Those attending will be dancing to music supplied by the Music Makers and tickets may be purchased at the door. Proceeds will be used for the new church building on US 27.

Chairmen of the event are Mr. and Mrs. Leon Miller.

SPECIAL COPY

Doyle Fitzpatrick formerly of St. Johns presents a copy of his book to Gov. William G. Milliken during a recent visit to the Governor's office.

During his visit to the Bement Library he will be available to autograph copies of his book.

Early this year he met with Gov. William G. Milliken, to present an autographed copy of his book. Milliken, according to the author, had shown an interest in the book and had followed the manuscript's progress.

Fitzpatrick said he would donate $1 from the proceeds of each book purchased that day to the Friends of the Bement Library.

Mrs. William Patton hostess of music club

Musical works of Richard Rodgers and Jerome Kern were topics of study by Morning Musicales members at their March 25 meeting, held at the home of Mrs. William Patton.

Mrs. Duane Davis, chairman of the day, introduced Mrs. Clifford Lumbert in charge of the commentary.

She stated, "Jerome Kern and Richard Rodgers are two of the most celebrated names in musical comedy which is distinctly original in America. Kern turned out some sixty shows, using such themes as; the West, the intimate type of show especially for small theater, realism, and life in American college campus. His greatest success, 'Show Boat' which has become an American classic, was a masterpiece of its kind. Critics asked, 'What Kind?' But Gilbert Chase prefers to call it 'An operetta in the tradition of American musical comedy.'"

"Richard Rodgers had a remarkable gift for melody. He celebrated with Lorenz Hart for eighteen years, their first outstanding production being 'A Connecticut Yankee' based on Mark Twain's novel. After Hart's death in 1843 Rodgers and Hammerstein became a new musical team. They produced 'Oklahoma', a genuinely American musical comedy - different in character and idiom from anything known in Europe. It had 2,202 performances - the longest run of any musical show in the history of Broadway. Other Rodgers and Hammerstein productions include 'South Pacific', 'Carousel', 'Allegro', 'The King and I', and 'Me and Julie'."

Mrs. Harold Lundy played excerpts from "Slaughter on Tenth Avenue" by Rodgers, and gave the group a musical quiz by playing selections from musical comedies by Rodgers. Each was to guess the selection and the musical for which it was written. Mrs. Lumbert had high score. Mrs. Raymond Torpey sang "Sound of Music" and "Climb Every Mountain" from "Sound of Music" by Jerome Kern, accompanied by Mrs. Lundy.

"Why Do I Love You" from "Show Boat" and "Whip-Poor-Will" from "Sally" by Kern, were sung by a sextette. Mrs. Harold Lundy announced the establishment of a musical scholarship fund in memory of her mother to be known as the "Ruth Cogshall Scholarship Fund."

Rita Johnson to attend girls state at Eastern

RITA JUSTICE

ELSIE(c)—Rita Justice has been chosen to be among the 504 girls who will be attending American Legion Auxiliary Girls State this year on the campus of Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti, June 13-20.

The primary objective of Girls State is to stimulate girls to take a deep interest in the development of home and community life and to encourage them to be better citizens of tomorrow.

American Legion Auxiliary Girls State brings a knowledge of national, state and local government through actual practice. It gives them a state of their own, a session governing themselves through democratic procedures. Officials of town, county and state are elected, and in this way the girls have an opportunity to understand just how the government in their state operates.

Rita is sponsored by the Woman's Literary Club of Elsie through the St. Johns American Legion Auxiliary. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Justice of 431 N. Ovid St., Elsie, and a junior at Ovid-Elsie High School. She has two brothers Robert of St. Johns, who is married, and Randy, a freshman at O-E H.

She is a member of the Elsie United Methodist Church and has been a member of its choir for eight years and the United Methodist Youth Fellowship for five years.

In 4-H activities for three years, she has completed projects in knitting and sewing. Among high school activities were: Athletic Association Club, Science Club and several years in the School Band. Rita also served as Band Council representative, assistant editor of the Yearbook Staff and costume committee for the Junior Play.

Rita plans to attend college after graduation from high school, majoring in commercial art. This summer she will attend the Art Seminar at University of Michigan and also classes of water color painting, sketching, oil painting and art histories. In addition to this Rita plans to work part time through the summer.

Business notes

By MIKE PREVILE
News Advertising Manager

The St. Johns Co-op held the first of their six weekly drawings Saturday. The drawings, part of the Co-op's spring sale, are for Alpine picnic jugs Zebco rod and reel sets and a G.E. color television set.

Winning picnic jugs Saturday were Larry Phinney and Gale Boron of St. Johns. Planning a fishing trip with his new rod and reel is Jim Jorae of St. Johns.

To have a chance of winning all you need to do is stop in the Co-op and register. And while you're at it, pick up a free kite.

OUR HEARTIEST CONGRATULATIONS to Luke Becker. Twenty-five years ago Luke opened Becker Furniture in Fowler. This week, in fact for the next couple of weeks, Luke will be celebrating these twenty five years with his twentyfifth (of course) pre-inventory sale.

Over the years the store has changed location and expanded. Earlier this year, in fact, Becker's opened their carpet annex. . . which has more floor space than the entire original store.

We wonder how many fathers get blessed with the task of helping the kids color Easter eggs. . . None of the old-timers told us what to expect (catastrophe). . . but to prove we care for our fellow man, we'll clue in all the new Dads. Fathers of the world, do not let the kids do it themselves and above all don't smart-off with them. What happened was this:

Friday evening the Big M went Easter shopping and left us with instructions to help and supervise our two yo-yos color eggs. We supervised alright. . . from flat on our back on the couch while the two madartists worked.

We were half asleep and so when our youngest toddled in to ask how to spell something or of a "bad" word and sent him on his way. . . Never thinking.

The Big M woke us and with just a touch of sarcasm invited us to the kitchen to see what a lovely job the boys had done.

They had. The eggs were gaily colored, the counter top, cabinets, the floor, the dog, themselves. . . everything was colored even, and only heaven knows how, the ceiling. And that "bad" word? . . . would you believe every egg had that "bad" word neatly printed on it.

So, fathers, beware. You might better spend an hour coloring eggs than the weekend cleaning counter tops, cabinets, floors, dogs, kids and ceiling. . . as well as trying to erase "bad" words off Easter eggs.

Double-Header opens season

DeWitt — Baseball season opened last week for the Panthers against Byron with a double-header, each team winning one game.

Pat Botke, at the mound, held Byron down to one hit for an easy win 9-1 in the first game.

The second game was a different story, Panther pitcher, Roger Wardell allowed eight hits to credit the team with their first loss 12-4.

Wardell fared better at bat, getting four out of five hits and a home run.

Ron Wilcox hit four out of eight and batted in four runs.

Coach Tom Isanhart said, "The team looks real good for this early in the season. If our pitching continues to improve we should have a good chance of doing well this year."

The Panthers will meet Ovid-Elsie Thursday at DeWitt. According to Isanhart, "It should be a tough game."

DeWitt - 9 runs, 13 hits, 3 errors.

Byron 1 run, 1 hit, 1 error. DeWitt - 4 runs, 7 hits, 2 errors.

Byron - 12 runs, 8 hits, 1 error.

At least two Clinton County track coaches expect their teams to win conference championships this season.

DeWitt's new head coach Ewart Stevens and Ovid-Elsie's coach John Oberlin expect fine conference performances from their returning lettermen.

Stevens said Monday that he is awaiting the Panthers first contest, which will be today against Ovid-Elsie, to test his young squad against a more seasoned team.

He said that it is difficult to determine the strengths of other teams since it is his first year, although he added that the Panthers could expect some strong competition from Laingsburg.

"I'm not certain about them this year," he said about the Wolfpack, "since they have lost some from last year."

"We will be a good contender again," Stevens said. The Panthers have been dominating the Central Michigan Athletic Conference during the past two seasons.

"We have a well-balanced team with sophomores and freshmen." The Panthers will have 22 members on their team, a drop from last year's turnout of 26 runners.

COACH OBERLIN indicated that his Marauders are "a dark horse team for first place" in the Mid-Michigan B conference.

"We're assured of second place," he added. He said that Midland Bullock Creek looked to be the strongest in the league, although Ovid-Elsie has a host of returning seniors to bolster Marauder chances at the title.

Marauders win two track contests

OVID-ELSIE—The Marauders jumped off to a flying start last week as their cindermen locked up two impressive victories in non-conference meets.

The Marauders dumped Portland Tuesday 84-34 and then demolished Perry and Olivet in a triangular. Ovid-Elsie took the meet with 88 1/2 points, followed by Perry with 40 and Olivet with 19 1/2.

In the win against Perry and Olivet, two schools records were shattered and the Marauders took 11 first places in 14 events. Keith Nelson set a school record in the long jump with a mark of 21 - 3 1/2. Teammate Cal Woodard came in second with a jump of 20-4.

Dick Bates set a school mark in the shot put event with a 45-4 effort.

In defeating Portland, the Marauders took 10 first place finishes in the 14 event field.

Ovid - Elsie swept the first three spots in the long jump with Nelson leaping 20 feet, followed by Woodard at 19-6 and Jim Lawrence at 18-8. They took the top three spots in the 880 run with Marc Flegel timed at 2:11, Tom Miller at 2:14 and Ralph Lockwood at 2:20.

The Marauders also took the top three positions in the high hurdles with Woodard, Tim Bouck and John Peters. Rick Gruesbeck, Byron Prange and Rob Irons scored 1-2-3 in the two-mile run.

Shot put—Marks (P) 46-11.

He said Chesaning would be another strong contender with St. Louis right behind. He indicated Ithaca and Corunna would be trailing the pack by June.

He was quite proud of this year's schedule which includes five non-conference dual meets and several relay invitations to Tecumseh and Chesaning.

"We will be a dominant factor in those relay events," he said. The only real opposition outside the conference will come from Owosso, Oberlin said.

The Marauders are already 2-0 on the season, as of Monday, with meets against St. Johns and DeWitt this week.

High hopes for the Panthers will ride on the success of the Reed brothers in the long distance runs, according to Stevens.

Ed Reed who is out temporarily with a pulled muscle, will compete in the two-mile run, while brother Tom Reed will compete in the one-mile. Tom will also run in the quarter-mile relay team.

LARRY SANBORN will be hard to beat in the shot-put events. He has a good chance at breaking the school record of more than 48 feet, Stevens said. His best effort last season was 48 feet even.

Stevens also cited John Black, a long jumper, as a fine performer who will improve his 20 foot effort of last year. Steve Tews, another veteran in the high hurdles, "looked very good in practice," Stevens said.

"We will have potential in the quarter-mile with Jim Ashley, Tom Reed and Brad Hills," Stevens said.

The squad was third in the Spartan relays in East Lansing two weeks.

He also pointed to Tom Ashley, a sophomore, who is a shot putter and who "runs a good 440-yard dash."

The team, loaded with sophomore and junior talent, will be a factor this season and a definite threat next year.

THE MARAUDERS only lost one senior from last season's team, Mike Bowles in the relay. But Oberlin claims brother Dan Bowles has filled in the void in fine shape.

"Dan runs like a deer in both relays," Oberlin beamed.

Cal Woodard, a standout in three sports at Ovid-Elsie, "will be good in the dual meets," Woodard runs both hurdle events, long jump and high jump.

Woodard has run 15.5 in the high hurdles, 21.4 in the low hurdles, has jumped 5-10 in the high jump and leaped 19-11 in the long jump. "Woodard should beat all of these marks," Oberlin said.

Dick Bates, another standout, competes in the 100-yard dash, low hurdles, 880 relay and the shot put. Bates owns the school record in the shot put event with a toss of 45-4 and the low hurdle record of 20.85. Bates topped the league last season in the low hurdle events.

Keith Nelson, who holds the current long jump record of 21-3 1/2, also runs the quarter-mile, mile relay and high jump. Nelson is owner of the school's high jump record, with a 5-11 effort.

Others Oberlin cited were Jim Stewart in the 440 yard event, Byron Prange in the two-mile (and is recovering from a wrestling injury) and Dan Bowles in the quarter-mile, 100-yard dash and both relays.

Coaches, team physicians meet

High school coaches, team physicians and trainers will confer at Michigan State University April 22 to learn the latest about the best possible treatment for athletic injuries.

Four speakers in the morning will stress the importance of conditioning. They are Gene Washington, all-pro end with the Minnesota Vikings; Daniel W. Litwhiler, MSU head baseball coach; Gayle B. Robinson, MSU head trainer, and James E. Biggs, MSU assistant track coach.

Laurels to sponsor girls softball clinic

LANSING — The fifth annual softball clinic for young girls will be held at Lansing's Marshall Field, Saturday, April 17. The clinic, scheduled to open at 9:30 a.m., is for girls between the ages of 11 and 18, and is jointly sponsored by the Lansing Laurels Women's Fastpitch Softball Club and the Lansing Recreation Department. The purpose of the clinic is to instruct the young girls the basic fundamentals of softball; how to hit and throw, and how to play the various positions, according to Kay Purves, Manager of the Laurels. "We don't attempt to teach the girls how to be great softball players, but rather we show them the basic fundamentals. We feel that the girls will enjoy playing and will have more fun if they know how and understand the game," Miss Purves said.

"This year, for the first time, the clinic has been opened to include girls and women of all ages, from 11 years' on up."

FOLLOWING THE instructions, the girls will be divided into teams according to ages, and will play a softball game under the supervision of the Laurels, she said.

"Girls who wish to play city recreation league softball this summer will be able to sign up for the program during the clinic. For those who do not have a particular team they wish to play for, someone will be there to help them choose, or will assign them to a team," Miss Purves said.

"This does not mean that the clinic is restricted to just Lansing girls. In the past we have had girls attend from all over central Michigan, and some of them are now playing ball for the Laurels," she said.

More than 100 girls attended last year's clinic, and at least one may be playing for the Laurels this year. Lois Hallfax of Eaton Rapids is competing for an infield position on the 1971 Laurels team, according to Manager Purves.

Three other Laurels attended the clinic in past years. Second baseman Kathy Strahan and outfielder Sue Sims of Lansing, and third baseman Twilla Marish of Nashville all attended at one time, Miss Purves said.

The girls will receive instructions from the Laurels who are members of the strong Michigan-Ontario Fastpitch League, considered one of the major leagues of women's softball.

ON HAND WILL be Manager Purves who starts her 26th year of organized women's major league softball. She was selected to the Michigan All Star team last year and was named to several tournament All Star teams.

Other Laurels, also named to the Michigan All Stars, are: E.J. McConkie who led the team in home runs last year; Marie Gouber of Detroit, who is considered the best first baseman in the mid-west; and pitcher Jean Berens of Grand Rapids, who compiled a 26-12 record last year and pitched a perfect game in tournament play.

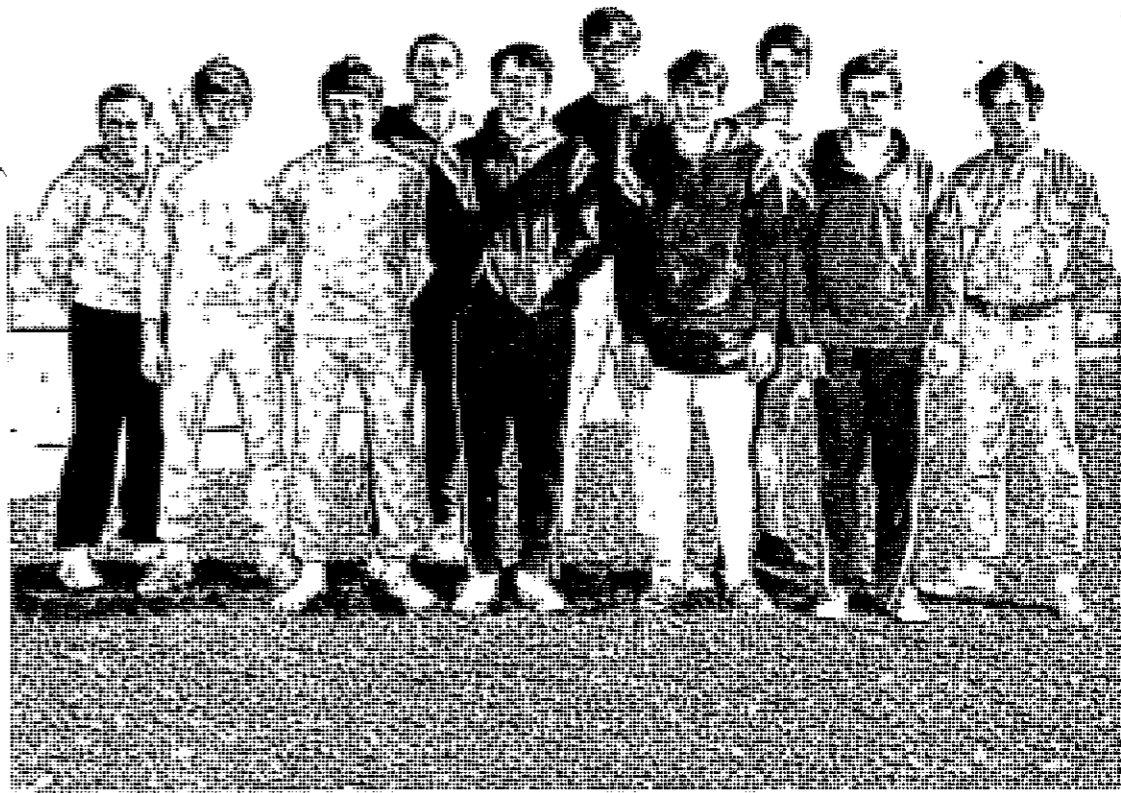

The Laurels captured the Michigan - Ohio League Championship in 1969, and finished in second place last year.

In past seasons they have played in several National Tournaments, and have hosted teams from Salt Lake City, Indianapolis, Detroit, and Kitchener, Ontario. The Laurels will play a home weekend series against a strong Orlando, Fla. team in the powerful Atlantic Coast League later this season.

By Mrs Wm. Ernst

(Omitted last week)

Visitors during the past week of Mr. and Mrs. William Ernst and Maxine were Herman Noller of rural Hubbardston on Tuesday, March 23 and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Bancroft and Jay of S.W. Dallas on Thursday evening, March 25.

On Wednesday evening, March 24 Mr. and Mrs. Louis Moritz and her mother, Mrs. Clarence Damon of St. Johns came to the Lansing airport by plane from Tucson, Ariz. They spent the past two weeks with her sisters, Mrs. James Phinney and children and Mrs. Fred Witt and Mr. Witt. They attended the 25th wedding anniversary party for the Witts.

Among the interesting side trips that they took were to Old Mexico and the Grand Canyon. Mrs. Damon had visited her daughters for about a month and returned home with the Moritzes.

Tuesday evening, March 23 Mr. and Mrs. Robert Beckhorn of Ionia were dinner guests of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William Ernst and Maxine.

Cheryl Tiedt of Ithaca visited during the weekend of March 27 her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Tiedt and family while Rhonda Tiedt spent the same weekend with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Jerold Tiedt and family at Ithaca.

Often the man who lacks confidence in himself wonders why others won't trust him.

Michigan farmers plan corn planting increase

Michigan farmers, benefiting from last year's high corn prices that resulted from blight problems in heavy corn-producing states, indicate they will increase corn planting by 12 per cent in 1971. That's the forecast from Crop Reporting Service, a federal-state cooperative affiliate of the Michigan Department of Agriculture. "Crop planting estimates are based on results of a survey of farmers conducted in late February and early March," B. Dale Ball, director of the Michigan Agriculture department, explained. "Accurate estimates aid farmers and processors in planning for market conditions."

Michigan farmers expect to plant 2,003,000 acres of corn, an increase of over 200,000 acres from 1970, the survey shows. Soybean plantings are expected to total 620,000 acres, up 15 per cent from last year. Projected plantings of barley total 29,000 acres, up 4,000 acres from 1970. Winter wheatacreage was 590,000 acres, about one per cent higher than a year ago. Other planting forecasts include oats, 46,000 acres, a drop of 14 per cent from 1970; hay, 1,411,000 acres, one per cent less than in 1970; and dry edible beans, 635,000 acres, sugar beets, 90,000 acres, and potatoes, 39,800 acres, all down three per cent this year. Nearly 800,000 acres of woodlands, in eight Northeastern states were destroyed by Gypsy moth infestations in 1970. But Michigan has been free of this serious pest since 1967, through efforts of the Michigan Department of Agriculture and Plant Protection division, USDA. B. Dale Ball, department director, said Michigan's eradication program began in 1954, when 86,000 acres were treated. A small pocket of moths was found and treated in 1967, but none since. However, nobody is claiming a permanent victory, since the battle to protect Michigan's crops and vegetation never ends. Mature moths don't harm foliage, but their ravenous offspring, caterpillars by the millions, chew the leaves off trees and can wipe out whole forests, explains Dean Lovitt, chief of the department's Plant Industry division. Sex leads Gypsy moths to their doom if they ever make it to Michigan. Special sex-scented traps are used to lure male moths from far and wide. In 1969, a total of 1,200 traps were set in a 196-square mile area which included parts of Calhoun, Eaton and Jackson counties. Not a single Gypsy moth was found in any of the traps, Lovitt said, so no treatment was needed. Cooperating with the Michigan Department of Agriculture in the fight against pests are inspectors of the Plant Protection, Plant Quarantine and Forest Service divisions of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Other serious plant pests that will be under the watchful eye of the Michigan Department of Agriculture in 1971 include the cereal leaf beetle, the most destructive pest known to small grains; cherry fruit fly, a major pest for one of Michigan's largest fruit crops; and Japanese beetle, which feeds on more than 250 kinds of crop or ornamental hosts.

In Jamaica Former Elsie girl to represent state

RETHA HANKEY

ST. JOHNS—Retha Hankey of Litchfield and formerly of Elsie, has been selected to represent Michigan on the 4-H International Program for 1971-72. This program aims to promote international understanding and develop better informed youth leaders. Of the 100 selected for the International Farm Youth Exchange Program (IFYE) about 20 are assigned to the Youth Development Program (YDP). Retha has been selected as a YDP delegate to Jamaica along with one other delegate. They will work in a host country for about 14 months and assist with further development of 4-H or related youth programs. They will work with extension staff or volunteer leader counterparts in conducting educational programs, training leaders, organizing new clubs, assisting club members, and in overall administration of the youth program. The assignment runs from June 1971 until August 1972. Three others from Michigan will be working on a 6 month IFYE program in other various countries.

most recently served as coordinator at the Holmes St. School 4-H program. Retha is a junior at Michigan State University studying Human Ecology. Upon her return from Jamaica, she hopes to complete her study and go into community service work thru home economies. Retha is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rolland Hankey of Litchfield, former residents of the Eureka-Elsie area. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Gladys Hankey of Eureka and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford R. Dunham of Elsie.

Corn insurance applications in area halted

COLDWATER—Acceptance of 1971 corn applications for federal crop insurance has been stopped in Ingham and Shiawassee counties according to Earl Wilson, (Indiana-Michigan) state director. Applications for the all-risk protection are being made at a record rate and liability limits have been established for corn in all counties for 1971.

The protection offered covers all natural hazards including excessive moisture, plant diseases and insects, drought and hail. Wilson stated, "Each year, crop losses are certain - the only uncertainty is whose crop." Current policyholders who have protection on corn will not be affected by the limitation. In all counties where federal crop insurance is offered on corn, protection is also available on soybeans and wheat. There is no limitation on the amount of insurance protection for these crops, Wilson reported. Interested farmers in this area where corn protection is still available are asked to contact the district office at 1105 West Chicago Road, R-5, Coldwater, 49036.

AGRICULTURE IN ACTION

By GARY A. KLEINHENN
MICHIGAN FARM BUREAU

William F. Buckley, syndicated news columnist, author, publisher and T.V. talk show star, thinks he has a right to work without compulsory union membership.

But the union thinks he should button his lip over the T.V. waves until he pays his dues. Not so, thinks Buckley and he's now taking the union to federal court to settle the dispute.

Says Buckley, "I expect, unless this country has lost hold of its reason, the Supreme Court will acknowledge the validity of the complaint."

One spokesman in the Buckley camp said, "...No one—for lack of a union card—should be prevented from exercising his First Amendment rights. And that's the essence of the Buckley suit, as I see it."

Surely there is injustice in making people pay money for the constitutional right to work. In attempting to torpedo the practice, Mr. Buckley may inadvertently stir the general public into actively supporting this move to regain a lost liberty.

In agriculture, it has been a matter of policy for the near two million family member American Farm Bureau to also work to prohibit compulsory unionism.

How compulsory dues money is spent by unions, furthermore, is a potent election campaign reform topic that adds gravity to the Buckley-union dispute. Reportedly, unions pump millions into support of campaigns for political candidates. (Estimated $60 million in the 1968 political elections alone.)

"POLL AFTER POLL shows that the American people overwhelmingly oppose the notion that free Americans should be compelled to support political candidates and ideologies with compulsory dues money," says Reed Larson, Executive Vice President of the National Right to Work Committee, 1900 L Street N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

What about campaign reform laws? Larson reports the statement of Kansas Senator Bob Dole, "Some of us talk about it, and others get the money."

On this merry-go-round, compulsory union dues is the heartbeat of the union giants, the checkbook of union power. Who can control it? Mr. Buckley's step forward for the simple right to work is a wick that might blow this powder ke.

If man but had a crystal ball the fortunes of life would be his, might well be a melancholy tune for farmers since corn blight wiped out much of the nation's corn crop last year and threatens to follow suit in '71.

All farmers can do this season is stand by and wait to see where the disease will take its toll, but it won't always be this way because something almost as good as a crystal ball may give farmers the needed beforehand information to check the disease before it becomes a runaway.

This hope is dressed in an unmanned environment-observing satellite, blasting off about a year from now (March '72), where through infrared photography 500 miles up, may even detect a sick elm in your own backyard.

Says Saturday Review, this crystal ball may help study urban growth patterns, analyze the efficiency of transportation networks, calculate food crop yields, detect disease and insect infestations of farm lands and of trees, monitor forest fires, measure snow accumulations, predict floods and volcanic eruptions, and maybe even earthquakes, and trace air and water pollutants to their sources.

Although the "Review" warns we may expect too much too soon, the ability of these distant robot observers in eyeing mother earth in her changing condition is still measurably great.

WHAT WE MIGHT be asking is how can a machine do all these things? The infrared photographs will detect information by the variances in tones and shapes of images watched. For instance, in appearance all plants have their own distinct style; a wheat field looks only like a wheat field, different from corn, soybeans or sugarbeets. This distinction is known as the object's signature, which will be classified into a memory bank of the satellite.

When an earth object is photographed from outer space it will match instantaneously with its likeness. Abnormalities in the signatures would indicate trouble spots. Conceivable, after 1972 this "crystal ball" will tip the farmer off as to where to begin an eradication program.

But this brilliance didn't happen overnight. In our state, the Willow Run Laboratories of the University of Michigan, like others, have been engaged in infrared research for the past two and a half decades.

Farmers must obtain ok to sell stored commodities

ST. JOHNS—Farmers who decide they want to sell or use farm-stored commodities such as wheat, oats, barley, rye, corn, grain sorghum, dry edible beans or honey which they have placed under price support loan through the county ASCS office must obtain prior approval before moving such commodities according to Laurence J. Hart, chairman of the Clinton County ASC Committee.

Written authorization can be readily obtained in the county office, he stated, and is necessary to protect the Government's interest in the commodities under loan since certain legal documents such as notes and chattel mortgages are involved.

PRODUCERS MAY make arrangements by writing to the county office, by personal visit or by a telephone call. However, the written authorization will be issued only upon request of the producer who has the loan.

He also added that producers who plan to use the stored commodity must first repay the price support loan at the county office.

In instances where the commodity is being sold, the producer, he explained, must provide the name of the buyer and meet other requirements which include repaying the loan within 15 days from the date the removal was authorized.

State-owned bins, equipment on sale

ST. JOHNS—Nick Smith, chairman of the Michigan State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, announced the first of several public auction sales in Michigan of government-owned grain bins and equipment.

On Monday, April 26, starting at 12:30 p.m., two flat storage bins with a capacity of approximately 40,000 bushels each, 17 round bins with 3,250-bushel capacity each, and one round bin with 2,250-bushel capacity, will be offered for sale by public auction, Smith stated.

Also included at this sale will be many miscellaneous items such as aeration equipment, electrical equipment, ladders, etc., he said. This sale will be held at the Elsie binsite, located at the north city limits of Elsie, and details of the sale may be obtained by contacting the Clinton County ASCS Office, 100 S. Ottawa Street, St. Johns, phoning 517-224-3720, or by contacting the nearest county ASCS office, Smith advised.

EACH PURCHASER of a bin will be required to certify that the bin will be used in connection with the storage or handling of agricultural commodities, or, if purchased by a nonprofit agency or organization, an authorized official must certify the bin will be used for the purpose of such agency or organization, Smith stated.

Farmers may finance the purchase of these bins through the Farm Storage Facility Loan Program provided they meet eligibility requirements; however, the prospective purchaser must bring a memorandum from his home county ASCS office so stating his eligibility, Smith advised.

Additional auction sales of Government-owned grain bins will be announced in the near future, he said.

SCD show available to teachers

ST. JOHNS—The Clinton County Soil Conservation District presented a slide-tape show, entitled "Washout," Tuesday (March 30) concerning the problems of pollution and natural resources.

The show, narrated by Lloyd B. Campbell, district conservationist, is now available to teachers who have a tape player and Kodak carousel slide projector as teaching aids. Children in Government, Ecology and land use classes would find the show educational and helpful when studying natural resources, a district bulletin explained.

The tape-slide show was presented to various Clinton County officials including township supervisors and the county commissioners. During the session, held at the Central National Bank meeting room in St. Johns, another show was presented by area engineer Daniel H. Smith. His slide presentation centered on farm animal waste disposal systems.

Extension leaders, to meet

By HELEN B. MEACH
Extension Home Economist
ST. JOHNS — The time is set for leaders of Extension Study Groups, members of community groups and interested home-makers to meet in April.
On April 20, in St. Johns, Central National Bank; April 21, Rhaca, Bank Building and April 22, Corinna Extension Hall. All meetings are from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.
This Spring meeting is all about "Understanding Prejudice." How about you — are you prejudiced toward people with green hair or bath tubs with legs? Could be that you as a Ford owner are prejudiced against all Chevrolet owners.

Almost everyone is prejudiced about many things whether he wants to be or not, and scarcely anyone is willing to admit it. We build prejudiced attitudes toward objects, people and places.
Extension Home Economist, Helen Meach, who will teach the classes in three counties states that prejudice is learned, not inherited. "If a person can't inherit prejudices where then does he learn them? . . . From his surroundings . . . they can be caught. They are learned in directly and with emotional reactions in many situations."

How do people get this way and what can be done about it will be the focus of the classes. Background and reference material, teaching outlines, matching exercise and Michigan State bulletins will be available to those attending these afternoon meetings, said Mrs. Meach.

EXTENSION REPORT

Pros and cons

By GEORGE McQUEEN

No tillage? Better check pros and cons first.

Pros are:
—Less labor.
—Lower production cost. May save $8 to $14 per acre.
—More moisture saved.
—Less soil erosion.
—Easier double cropping.
—Food and cover for wildlife.

Disadvantages include a lower soil temperature and the possibility of increased insect, rodent and disease problems. Seed germination may be slower in the spring, but moisture conserved by the mulch may offset this delay later in the growing season.

Lower soil temperatures may be a key problem for Michigan corn growers, believes Robert Lucas, Michigan State University soils specialist.

Soil temperatures may be four or five degrees colder under no-tillage compared to conventional tillage systems. Farther south this soil temperature difference has much less effect than on the northern edge of the corn growing area.

The crop before a no-tillage corn crop appears to affect yields. On one Lapeer county farm, no-tillage corn planted on corn stubble yielded 105 bushels per acre, 95 bushels on alfalfa sod, and 85 bushels per acre for corn planted on idle ground.

AGRONOMISTS report a vast difference in response of soils to various tillage practices.

On a rolling, light-colored silt loam, a complete crop residue cover left on the soil surface contributed 30 bushels per acre to the yield compared to plow systems.

By contrast, a complete cover of residues on poorly drained dark loam in northern Indiana caused a 30 bushel reduction in yield.

The moisture-conserving aspects of minimum tillage farming may be partly responsible for the effectiveness of the system on well drained silt loam soils.

But weed control problems in a no-tillage system can be three times as severe as under conventional tillage systems, notes J.L. Williams, Purdue agronomist.

Weed problems change, and often intensify, with adoption of no-tillage systems. Williams points out that with no-tillage systems annual grasses often become dominant in fields previously troubled by broad-leaved weeds.

After two or three years of no-tillage farming, the annual grass problem often shifts from foxtail and other species to fall panicum.

"Systems with decreased tillage rely on herbicides more and put more pressure on the herbicide system used for weed control," Williams concludes.

CORN CAN BE planted with no tillage after a sod crop anywhere in Ohio—if the internal drainage of the soil is adequate for crop growth without tile drainage, according to reports from Ohio State University.

These viewpoints emphasize that no-tillage can boost yields in many cases but it doesn't guarantee higher yields.
Consult with your County Extension Agent and other farmers who have tried no-tillage to help you evaluate the possibilities of no-tillage for your farm.

WATCHFUL EYE

Checking over the milking operations in the milking parlor at Green Meadow Farms near Elsie is Victor Wrotslovsky, left of Detroit. Applying the milking machine to a cow in the farm's milking herd is Bill Raymer. Wrotslovsky is studying for the Rabbinate (Jewish Clergy).

Green Meadow Farms producing kosher milk

ELSIE — While Christendom observes the Easter season, the Jewish community in Michigan and elsewhere will be commemorating Passover, a period which celebrates the sparing of the Hebrews in Egypt when God struck down the firstborn of the Egyptians.

As in the past several years, the dairy industry helped the Council of Orthodox Rabbis of Greater Detroit arrange for an adequate supply of kosher milk for use by the Jewish community in Michigan during Passover. Rabbi Chaskel Grubner, the council's executive director, was in charge of the instruction, guidance and supervision required in the production of the kosher milk supply.

RABBI GRUBNER made arrangements for the kosher milk with Michigan Milk Producers Association, a statewide milk marketing cooperative, and the Daily Creamery in Hamtramck, the dairy which bottled the milk in special blue quart cartons.

Among other things, Hebrew Law states that foods consumed during Passover must be kosher, that is, ritually clean and pure. For milk and milk products, that means personal supervision by a member of the Jewish faith of all procedures from the farm to the dairy to guarantee that the milk does not come into contact with anything considered unpure. That requirement even prohibits mixing kosher milk with milk obtained during milkings at the farm that were not under Jewish supervision.

This year, the supervision started at Green Meadow Farms, a large MMPA member farm near Elsie, where two students training for the rabbinate (Jewish clergy) were on hand every minute of several eight to nine hour milking periods during which the required volume of milk was obtained.

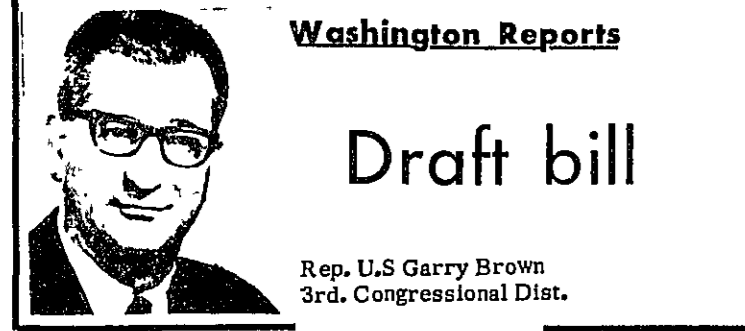

Victor Wrotslovsky and Abraham Silver, both of the Detroit suburb of Oak Park, alternated the supervision duty on basically a four-hours-on, four-hours-off basis.

IN ADDITION to the milking time supervision, the students personally inspected the milk tanks and pipelines, both before and after the kosher milk supply was obtained.

"Of course, there really is no problem nowadays with the milking and sanitation procedures that are practiced. But we still have to make sure personally," Wrotslovsky explained.

The same requirements applied to the farm bulk pick-up — only kosher milk in a personally supervised clean tank — and at the MMPA Ovid plant where the kosher milk was stored briefly in a separate silo before being taken in a separate load to the Daily Creamery in Hamtramck for bottling.

At Daily, care had to be taken to insure the kosher milk was not co-mingled with any other milk and all lines and machinery had to be especially cleaned and sanitized before and after the load of kosher milk was bottled.

Newsman privilege

If Sen. Robert Griffin has his way, newsmen in the United States may be able to breathe a bit easier this year.

Under strong pressures from high places, including the Vice President, newsmen in general have been criticized and threatened for expressing unkind views of the present administration.

The media members have lashed back with other criticisms of their own -- and it may appear to have turned into a type of mass paranoia.

But the feeling of persecution may not be unfounded. During the past two years, our nation's top newsmen have been ordered by courts to release names and notes and unused film to be used as evidence in criminal trials.

It is in this atmosphere that Sen. Griffin has co-sponsored legislation protecting newsmen from divulging their sources.

We support the passage of the Newsmen's Privilege Act of 1971 as another step in preserving one of the cardinal rights of America -- freedom of the press.

It is imperative in this free society that newsmen not become an undercover arm of the police. Writers, whether on a local level or nationally, must be able to protect news sources to produce serious journalism. Without it, there will be another tool to be used in chipping away the "free" from free press.

Pat Michaels, KGO radio San Francisco

Sick of our sickness

I am sick . . . and there are those who claim that ours is a "sick" society. That our country is sick, that we are sick.

Well, maybe they're right. I submit that maybe I am sick . . . and maybe you are too.

I am sick of having policemen ridiculed and called "pigs" while cop killers are hailed as some kind of folk hero.

I am sick of being told that religion is the opiate of the people . . . but marijuana should be legalized.

I am sick of being told that pornography is the right of a free press . . . but freedom of the press does not include being able to read a bible on school grounds.

I am sick of commentators and columnists canonizing anarchists, revolutionists and criminal rapists but condemning law enforcement if it brings such criminals to justice.

I am sick of paying more and more taxes to build schools while I see some faculty members encouraging students to tear them down.

I am sick of Supreme Court decisions which turn criminals loose on society -- while other decisions try to take the means of protecting my home and family away.

I am sick of being told policemen are mad dogs who should not have guns -- but that criminals who use guns to rob, maim and murder should be understood and helped back into society.

I am sick of being told that it is wrong to use napalm to end a war overseas . . . but if it's a bomb or molotov cocktail at home, I must understand the provocations.

I am sick of not being able to take my family to a movie unless I want them exposed to nudity, homosexuality and the glorification of narcotics.

I am sick of pot smoking entertainers deluging me with their condemnation of my moral standards on late night television.

I am sick of riots, marches, protests, demonstrations, confrontations, and the other mob temper tantrums of people intellectually incapable of working within the system.

I am sick of those who say I owe them this or that because of the sins of my forefathers -- when I have looked down both ends of a gun barrel, to defend their rights, their liberties and their families.

I am sick of cynical attitudes toward patriotism. I am sick of politicians with no backbones.

I am sick of the dirty, the foul mouthed, the unwashed.

I am sick of the decline in personal honesty, personal integrity and human sincerity.

And most of all, I am sick of being told I'm sick. And I'm sick of being told my country is sick -- when we have the greatest nation man has ever brought forth on the face of the earth. And fully 50 per cent of the people on the face of this earth would willingly trade places with the most deprived, the most underprivileged amongst us.

Yes, I may be sick. But, if I am only sick, I can get well. And, I can help my society get well. And, I can help my country get well.

Take note, you in high places. You will not find me under a placard. You will not see me take to the streets. You will not find me throwing a rock or a bomb. You will not find me ranting to wild eyed mobs.

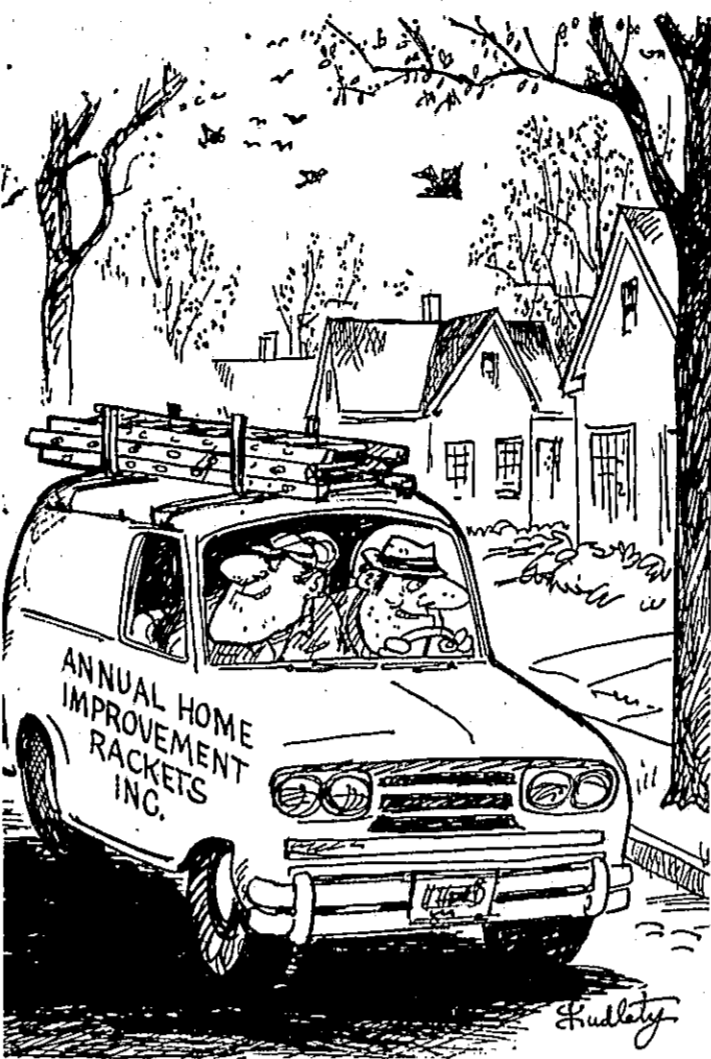

But you will find me at work within my community. You will find me expressing my anger and indignation in letters to your political office.

You will find me canceling my subscription to your periodical the next time it condones criminal acts or advertises filth.

You will find me speaking out in support of those people which contribute to the elevation of society and not its destruction. You will find me contributing my time and my personal influence to helping churches, hospitals, charities and those other volunteer backbones of America which have shown the true spirit of this country's determination to ease pain, eliminate hunger and generate brotherhood.

But, most of all, you'll find me at the polling place. There you'll hear the thunder of the common man. There, you'll see us cast our vote . . . for an America where people can walk the streets without fear . . . for an America where our children will be educated and not indoctrinated . . . for an America of brotherhood and understanding . . . for an America no longer embarrassed to speak its motto "In God We Trust."

The Clinton County Board of Supervisors is no more. Now they are the Clinton County Board of Commissioners and have been since March 20 when Michigan Public Act 139 of 1969 changed their names.

The final decision by Provincial House, Inc. to establish a 117-bed nursing home unit in St. Johns was greatly influenced by efforts of the St. Johns Development Corp. The $950,000 building will be located south of St. Johns on a 5.5 acre parcel of land adjacent to US 27 at Sturgis Street.

DeWitt police were exonerated last week of any tardiness to break up a brawl at the DeWitt Bar a week ago Saturday.

Speaking to his "fellow Americans", George Price, premier of British Honduras, told 2,000 students in St. Johns last week that he believes youth unrest around the world is good because "they want to create a better world."

"We're going to organize from Main Street this time", said Bill Cross. "That was my idea, last time we passed out leaflets at the plants." Cross, a UAW union representative and a veteran of the labor movement, has opened an office in St. Johns, "to get acquainted" with local workers interested in the union.

Crowded conditions at Rodney E. Wilson Junior High School and at least three possible solutions to the problem are under consideration by the St. Johns Board of Education.

Thirty-three Clinton County youth groups resume their annual war on litter in the county Saturday. The project is to be called "Operation Eliminate Crud."

Ronald Huard, publisher of the Clinton County News, has been named Clinton County Michigan Week chairman.

Suspense and interest has continued to mount this week in the first-degree murder trial of Richard J. Pohl, 21, of Westphalia. Pohl is charged with the Aug. 31, 1968 murder of his neighbor, Mrs. Anna Hengesbach.

Interest in the trial has been bolstered by the fact that Vincent

Hengesbach, 54-year-old stepson of the murdered woman, was tried for the murder in Dec. 1958. He was released when the jury reached a hopeless 6-6 deadlock.

Ink White, editor of the Clinton County Republican-News at St. Johns, announced this week that he would be a candidate for delegate to the Constitutional Convention at the Republican primary on July 25.

Recognition of the 50th anniversary of Sealed Power Corporation, whose St. Johns division is one of the city's principal industries, was a highlight of Tuesday's session of the Clinton County board of supervisors.

Named president of the St. Johns Rotary club Tuesday for the year beginning July 1 is Kurt Becker, local hardware man. Becker succeeded Owen C. Teeters who has served for the past year.

Walter L. Thelen of Westphalia was the only new member of the county board of supervisors reporting for Tuesday's session here. He succeeded George P. Thelen of Westphalia for the position.

School district, township, city, village and county treasurers are faced with the complications of exempting certain groups of World War II veterans. In some cases the taxing units must also make refunds for taxes collected in 1941, 1942, 1943 and 1944.

Members of the St. Johns post of the American Legion are using a new 1946 Ford as a prize in a money-raising campaign which will start here in the near future.

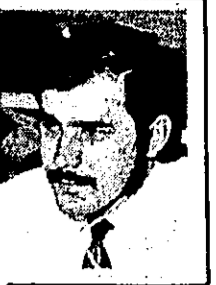

The St. Johns Civic League is anxious to poll Clinton county people who ship in St. Johns on the advisability of adopting a two-hour parking limit on Clinton (the city's main street).

Miss Louise Kelly, saleslady at Hicks Store, will round out approximately 48 years of service in St. Johns stores with her announced retirement for May 1.

Second English bride to join her husband in Clinton county is Mrs. Harold Mead who arrived in New York April 4, after sailing from South Hampton, England, on the Queen Mary. The Meads are now making their home with the husband's parents on their farm near Ovid.

American way

By TIM YOUNKMAN

Remember the feelings that existed during the early 1950's, especially near the end of Korea?

The nation was in a semi-post-war boom, with the construction of entire cities, almost in the suburban sprawl idea. New churches, schools, shopping centers, parks, roads and ranch homes popped up overnight.

Television was in its toddling years, and one of the most fantastic shows for children was the cartoon - radio version of Superman come to life.

Remember the opening scene's slogan? "Faster than a speeding bullet," and so, and at the end, the announcer would say that Superman was protecting the nation for, "Truth, Justice and the American Way." Suddenly the image of Clark Kent melted into the gallant Mr. Superman with the flag as a backdrop.

Not many people have thought about "The American Way" at the time. We were getting out of Korea only a few years after World War II. We wanted peace and thought we were going to get it soon.

Obviously, things didn't turn out that way. We managed to get involved in Vietnam with the French at Dien Bien Phu, Berlin, Hungary, Lebanon, the Congo, Laos, Dominican Republic, Cuba and Vietnam again. At the same time we built up our standing forces in Europe --

Germany, France, England, Greenland, Turkey, etc.

We had bases throughout the Pacific, residuals of World War II and Korea. We had bases in Alaska, Central America and Cuba, plus a moving navy of Aircraft carriers that amounted to self-support bases.

We've also spent billions and billions of dollars on devising the most complex offensive and defensive military complex in the history of the world.

It has indeed been the American Way -- at least for the past 20 years.

But history has a way of adjusting and clarifying the time frame we've just witnessed.

We had the same flag-waving patriotism and emotionalism that has been prevalent in America during the past decade or so during the Revolution. The enlistment of colonists in the cause was easily handled by patriotic speeches and slogans -- plus an honest desire to forge a new nation from the wreckage of European colonial politics.

It was pure patriotism that kept the freezing soldiers from leaving the cause at Vally Forge during that devastating winter.

But once the war was won and independence gained, Americans didn't need the blinding impact of emotional patriotism. The expansionist effort of 1776-1790 was replaced with a form of isolationism. It became a realistic patriotism -- and at times a questioning patriotism. We had to stand back and gather in all that had happened in the previous years and set a solid course for the nation in international affairs.

When we drifted too far in our foreign desires -- there was trouble at home.

It has happened time and again. We had brilliant patriotic surge during the War of 1812, and it subsided afterward to rebuild and reassess.

We had patriotism and it was blinding at that, during the Mexican War. We had it on both sides during the Civil War and it subsided during Reconstruction.

Patriotism burned brightly for the Spanish - American War, World War I and World War II. It is only the natural order of things that the restless people at home are sick of foreign expansion and have called for a New Isolationism.

This feeling for stepping back for a moment and getting things in order is true clear-headed patriotism.

Those that seek a New Reconstruction are not traitors or Communists or cowards. They are patriots in the same breath as Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln, Wilson and Roosevelt, who demanded the same policy years ago.

'IF IT FITZ . . .'

The hairy problem

By JIM FITZGERALD

A lot of cocktail hour liberals parade their broad minds by praising Martin Luther King and then adding: "I don't mind long hair, either, if it's clean."

Heck, give me an extra cocktail: I don't even mind if the hair is a bit dirty. Cleanliness is greatly overrated in this country anyway. I don't think it's next to Godliness. Judging by the TV soap commercials, cleanliness is next to absurdity.

That many nutty women, ecstatic over enzymes, can't be right. No matter what Proctor & Gamble say, grime is no crime. This great country was built by honest sweat, long before you wished everyone else used Dial.

(Please notice that I called the country great, and the sweat honest. I insert such adjectives regularly to confuse investigators from the FBI, CIA and Army Surplus.)

The sheriff of my favorite county might well think I'm subversive. He has a Vietnam war hero (two silver star medals) locked up in his jail for smoking pot. The hero wore his hair long because that's the way he likes it. But his jailers insisted he get a haircut or serve his six months in solitary confinement.

The hero finally gave in to the shearing because "I was lonely." Short haircuts are a jail requirement for health reasons, the sheriff explained. He's afraid of lice and apparently he prefers to prevent them with scissors rather than soap.

"BUT WHAT about women prisoners?" I asked the sheriff. "Do they also get a mandatory mow?"

"We don't get many women prisoners," he answered, if you can call that an answer.

You might think the sheriff isn't properly concerned about lice on female heads. Not me. I think he is overly concerned with something that's really none of his business -- how another man wears his hair.

But the longhairs shouldn't stage a protest march around the jail. Their problem is much bigger than that. The sheriff pretty much reflects the thinking of the people who elect him, which is what he's supposed to do. I'll swear the Middle American, the guy in my boat, has developed a king-size mania concerning young men's hair.

I have friends who turn red and nasty at the sight of a boy with long hair. I've seen fat, ugly men in shorts inspect boys whose only sin was to appear in public with hair covering their ears. One woman wrote that a Vietnam veteran had no right to expect the respect and gratitude of his fellow Americans until "you get your hair cut and look like a man."

GEEZ. I AM ashamed for my contemporaries. There are a lot of grave problems making a mess of this world. Long hair is not one of them. What the hell do I care how some kid I don't even know wears his hair? Why should anyone else care? It's his hair.

It's time Middle America dropped the nonsense and began worrying about important things. Like, for instance, the other day I saw a Rotarian wearing bell-bottom pants!

Of course, I really don't care as long as they're clean.

From the State House

OTB on move

By REP. DICK ALLEN

They're off and running!!! Montgomery takes lead; State-treasury a neck behind; Michigan governor on the rail; Mafi-abookie trying to cut them off at the turn; Allen's back in the pack; Council of churches refuses to run.

Hold it folks! Hold it! Montgomery has stumbled on the turn! All of the above translated into understandable language says this. A bill for legal off track betting has again been introduced. Sides are being taken but the prime sponsor, George Montgomery of Detroit failed in his initial attempt at House passage. George is not called willy George for nothing; the bill will be back and has about enough votes to pass.

The arguments against the bill fall into the moral, religious and family life category. Desiring something for nothing is a human weakness and legalized gambling encourages weakness. Some religions hold gambling to be a sin and believe it to be the duty of governments to enforce this viewpoint.

Gambling can become a personal obsession, disrupting family life and literally taking the food out of the mouths of needy children.

WITH SUCH JUSTIFIED opposition many wonder how the Legislature even comes to consider such "trash" legislation. Well the other side makes some points too.

Strongest with Legislators is probably the revenue argument. We all hate to vote for taxes, but realize the necessity to raise the money we spend. The 40 million dollars for State and local government promised by proponents is tough to resist.

Reduced illegal gambling with funds going to gamblers is another argument. Estimates of current illegal off track horse bets is 500 million per year with gross savings to operators of around 10 million dollars. This is "horse" bets alone. It does not include basketball, football or "number" activity. Our information indicates each of these forms of gambling is in the hands of a different group.

A "numbers" man putting down a little "horse" money gets the traditional treatment he would have received in 1930 Chicago. The fact that we don't find more people at the river bottom is an indication that the "rules" are well understood, not that they have changed.

PEOPLE ASK US to crack down on the racketeers but the truth is this. The State is powerless to enforce a law that does not have the complete support from a solid majority of the population. And a large number of our citizens feel there is no great harm done if they bet a few bucks on a horse.

Which leads to another argument currently gaining favor. Gambling is primarily a moral and religious issue. The people, by a decided majority, have recently voted for the principal of separation of Church and State. Our present restrictive laws on gambling are an interference by Government in what is primarily the business of the State.

Should off-track betting be legal? Pick your side and write your letter.

Most wanted men

By WARREN E. DOBSON

In a score of public places We observe them now and then, As the F.B.I. produces Mugs of ten most wanted men; Each has reason to be wanted As a fugitive from grace That provokes the advertising And the showing of his face.

There's another group we're wanting Though we're lacking face or name These are leaders in our efforts By life's rules to play the game; Not in dollars we're rewarding This new group we seek to find But with laurels and self honors Sure to bring them peace of mind.

There are leaders who lead Who can others inspire, With courage and skill That is never for hire; There are leaders who train Our girls and our boys, Who go far to give Without fanfare or noise.

The ones we are wanting -- There's no limit of ten -- Are experts at building Self-respect in all men; They cannot be captured -- They're happy and free Brave men and good women, Of days yet to be!

Knowing Jesus

By REV. HUGH BANNINGA

In John's gospel, chapter 20, we learn that Mary Magdalene went in the early hours of the morning to the tomb where Jesus was buried.

When she saw that the tomb was open, she ran to tell Peter and John. These two disciples ran to the tomb to see for themselves. And sure enough, there were the grave clothes lying there, but with no body inside.

After Peter and John saw and believed, they went back home, but Mary Magdalene stayed. She was sobbing when she went into the tomb and there she saw two angels who wanted to know why she was crying.

After she had answered that someone had taken away her Lord, she sensed that someone was behind her. So she turned around and thought she was talking to the gardener. She said, "If it is you who took him away, please tell me, so I can take him." And then Jesus said, "Mary!"

It was then that Mary recognized her Lord. She turned to him and said, "My Master!" Mary finally "saw and believed" in the risen Lord.

There are three things we can note about Mary at the empty tomb. The first is that she could not find her Lord, because she was looking for a dead body. And isn't this what many people do today? They look for the Lord, but can't find Him, because they are looking for a kind of body that doesn't exist. They have never had a real experience of the risen Lord, and so cannot recognize Him even when He is right in front of them.

These people believe in Jesus all right, just as much as they believe in George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. But they have never really known Jesus in a personal way, just as they have never known Washington and Lincoln. So the faith of these people is something less than Christian-ity.

MARY DIDN'T recognize the risen Christ, because she was looking for a dead body. But she did recognize Him finally, after He called her by name. This is the second thing we notice about Mary at the empty tomb. In spite of her searching for her Lord, she didn't find Him—He found her.

That's the whole point of the Gospel—that God is seeking us. And the reason He is seeking us is that we are constantly getting lost. In our pilgrimage here on earth we are always tempted to take those little side trips off the main road. And every time we take one of those side trips, we end up getting lost and further away from God.

Sometimes we succumb to the temptations of these side trips and sometimes we openly rebel against God and turn away from Him. How often have you turned down the roads of "idle talk, flattery, love of money, ignorance, prejudice, lust, hypocrisy, self-righteousness and pride?"

In the parable of the Lost Coin Jesus told about the woman who lost a coin at home and turned her house upside down until she found it. She spent a great amount of time searching for the coin, because her state of poverty could not endure the loss of it.

When she found the coin, she was so happy about it that she called her friends and neighbors over to rejoice with her. She was so happy, because something of great worth to her had been restored.

Jesus' intent here is to point out to us that each one of us is precious to God, and that when one of us becomes lost to Him, we are greatly missed in the house called the Kingdom. What Jesus is saying in this parable is that God doesn't like to lose even one of His precious children, and so He will ransack his universe for one lost man, woman or child.

The third thing we notice about Mary at the empty tomb is that she did not recognize Jesus when she saw Him. When she first turned and looked at Him, she thought He was the gardener.

Isn't this the way it is with us? Something terrible happens in our life, and we see only the superficial event—just like Mary. We can't see beyond our noses to God's deeper meaning and purpose for us in the event. We are blind.

How often have you met some unattractive person—someone who needed a friend and a helping hand—and you did nothing for him? You saw this person only as the gardener in the cemetery, when in reality it was Christ Himself.

And then Christ asked you, "Did you not recognize me? It was really I, whom you passed by there."

How blind we are sometimes when it comes to recognizing Christ in our lives. He is there in the people with whom we come into contact every day, but we just don't see Him.

This is the Easter season. Make the most of it. Don't look for the dead body of Jesus. Look for His risen body. Then let yourself be found by Jesus. Finally, don't be blinded by sin, but recognize Jesus when He confronts you.

Yes, the Lord is risen! He is risen indeed!

Society to blame for Calley crimes

Dear Sir: I am writing in regards to the Lt. Calley Court Martial and the gross injustice that was perpetrated there. I am not of the opinion that what Lt. Calley did was right because I do not believe that he was, but this is not the question that we must concern ourselves with.

Lt. Calley's major wrong was not refusing to take up arms in the immoral war in which the United States is involved. If Lt. Calley is guilty so are the people who are responsible for sending him to Southeast Asia with the sole purpose of taking human life.

Our society must accept the guilt for the murder of millions of innocent people. These murders cannot be corrected or justified but we can save the lives of thousands of the other people by the complete and immediate withdrawal of our forces in Southeast Asia.

One man, Lt. Calley, has accepted the guilt and the punishment for our entire nation. If our conscience can be eased by the sacrifice of one man then hope for our society and for the future of mankind is as dead as the thousands of young soldiers that have died needlessly.

Very sincerely,
SCOTT B. MUNGER
OTSN U.S. Navy

mean that their schools cannot continue to operate in the face of precipitously mounting costs of education and that their children may be forced to attend public schools where they cannot obtain the type of religious education their parents desire for them.

The truly regrettable thing about Parochial is that it created bitter feelings on both sides—something which is almost inevitable when religion is involved, especially in the realm of government.

The task immediately before everyone, particularly the Legislature, is to forget our differences and work to insure the best education obtainable for all Michigan school children.

One as yet unsolved question resulting from the court ruling that Proposal C is constitutional is what happens to the $22 million appropriated to parochial schools by the Legislature last fall.

The court ruled that disbursement of a proportionate share of the $22 million may be made to parochial schools for services rendered between Sept. 14 and Dec. 18, 1970, the latter date being when Proposal C took effect.

All bills are not yet in but it is estimated that they will amount to $8 1/2 to $9 million, theoretically leaving $13 million of the $22 million unspent.

But, unfortunately, this $13 million is only a "paper figure." Back in December when Gov. William Milliken ordered a budget cut of $150 million to make up an impending deficit, $11 million of that fund was included in the cut.

So any hope of a small financial windfall as a result of the State Supreme Court decision is exceedingly slim.

View from the 30th Proposal C rule

By SEN. WILLIAM S. BALLENGER

The long-awaited Michigan Supreme Court ruling last week on Proposal C—public aid to non-public schools—leaves the situation essentially as it was before the Parochial issue was first raised seriously three or four years ago.

Translated into non-legal language, the court ruled that because of an amendment to the State Constitution approved by voters last Nov. 3, public tax money could not be paid to parents or teachers of parochial school children.

The court also reaffirmed the right of the state to provide auxiliary services such as street-crossing guards, health, nursing, speech correction and counseling services.

It also upheld the legality of "shared time"—in which parochial school children receive part of their instruction from public school teachers.

So, barring appeal to the United States Supreme Court (which seems unlikely at present), all but part of one sentence of Proposal C becomes part of Michigan's State Constitution.

About all the amendment does is spell out more definitely what many contended was already there—a prohibition against use of public tax money for private school instruction.

Proponents of Parochial, who earnestly felt they should be able to share in tax money for the education of their children, naturally are disappointed—and understandably so.

For many, it will mean paying more to subsidize their religious schools.

FOR MANY OTHERS, it will

Vital Detroit

Rep. Douglas Trezise, 87th District

This was a rough week on the City of Detroit in the House of Representatives and unfortunately, that beleaguered city is still no closer to the solution of its financial problems.

And, in my mind, these problems should concern all of us, not just the residents of that city itself. What is happening in Detroit is just a prelude to what can happen in a lot of our out-state districts.

We all have a vital stake in the future of Detroit. In many ways, we share in the benefits derived from the metropolitan area. A good portion of our state revenues comes from this area and we all depend on those revenues. Collapse of Detroit could well signal the collapse of many governmental services throughout the state.

I think it is appropriate to note that Detroit taxes itself at a higher rate than any area of Michigan. They have a 30 mill school tax; 20 mills for city purposes, they tax their incomes at 2 per cent and impose other local taxes on themselves such as a tax on utility bills.

The bill before the House this week would have allowed the City of Detroit—and all cities of the state for that matter—to levy a local income tax up to 2 1/2 per cent on residents and up to 1 1/4 per cent on non-residents employed in the city.

AS ORIGINALLY prepared, the bill would have applied only to Detroit; but, after hearing testimony from officials from almost all cities in the state where an income tax is levied, it was amended to include all incorporated cities.

In my opinion, the bill was not perfect but I voted for it. Opposition of the Detroit suburban legislators was mainly responsible for its defeat. And, they have a point. The potential increase in non-resident tax was probably excessive. After its defeat, the bill was returned to committee for review and probably amendment. One of the surprising aspects of the vote was that not all Detroit Representatives were in favor of it while it did have support from many outstate legislators. I think many of us felt we should encourage local solutions of these problems and give local units the authority to attempt these solutions, rather than again face the problem of handing out bloc grants of state funds to help local governments as was done last year.

THIS WEEK WAS just the first round of what will probably be many this year on the subject of saving our urban areas. Revenue distribution formulas, mass transportation and others will be facing us later.

Our function in the Legislature is twofold: One is corrective—that of remedying the problems which already exist in our densely populated areas; the other is preventative—to establish machinery to see that similar crises don't develop in other areas as we grow.

And, we all have a vital stake in finding solutions to these problems!!!

1040 U.S. Individual Income Tax Return Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q Why are there so many tax tables in the 1040 instruction book?

A More tax tables were needed this year because they were extended to cover taxpayers with incomes up to $10,000. Previously, tables were only provided for incomes up to $5,000.

This change will make it possible for millions of additional taxpayers to figure their tax due just by looking at a tax table rather than having to make a percentage calculation. Besides being convenient, the tables should also help reduce the number of errors in arithmetic.

Q If I move before my refund comes, will it be forwarded to me?

A Yes, if you have notified your postmaster of your new address. Failure to provide a forwarding address delayed the delivery of many refunds last year.

Q When you reach 65, can't you deduct all of your medical expenses?

A No, only those expenses that exceed 3 per cent of adjusted gross income can be deducted if you itemize. This applies to all taxpayers, regardless of age.

Note that one-half up to $150 of the premiums paid for medical insurance may be deducted without regard to the 3 per cent rule. Medicare premiums may be included.

Q I will pay some tax on my 1970 return because my tax withholding was not enough. If I increase my withholding for 1971 can I avoid filing a declaration of estimated tax?

A Yes, if your withholding will leave you with a balance of tax due of less than $40 when you file your 1971 return then you will not be required to file a declaration of estimated tax. The purpose of the estimated tax system is to enable all taxpayers to pay their taxes on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Q How long should I keep the records I used for my 1970 return?

A Tax records must be retained as long as they are needed to administer any Federal tax law. In general they should be kept at least three years after the due date of the return. Some records, however, such as those relating to the purchase of stock or a residence should be kept longer because they will be needed for your tax return when the asset is sold or exchanged.

Q Last year, I had income from some free lance work I did, as well as from my regular job. Do I have to pay both social security and self-employment tax?

A The maximum earnings subject to these taxes in 1970 is $7,800. If the wages from your regular job amounted to that much you won't have to pay any self-employment tax. Use Schedule SE to compute your liability, if any, for self-employment tax.

Q Do I have to pay tax on the wedding gifts I received?

A No, recipients of gifts are not liable for federal income or gift taxes on the gifts. However, generally speaking, income derived from the gifts is taxable to you.

Q How does the dividend exclusion work?

A The law provides that you do not have to pay tax on the first $100 in ordinary dividends. Any dividend is an ordinary dividend unless the paying corporation indicates otherwise. If the stock is owned jointly by husband and wife, then $200 in ordinary dividends may be received tax free on a joint return.

Q I lost the envelope that came in my tax package. Where should I send my return?

A Send it to the service center for your area. The address is given in the Form 1040 instructions.

Q I made a charitable contribution in December but the check wasn't cashed until January. Can I deduct this on my 1970 return?

A Yes, you may take the deduction for the year the check was mailed as long as you had sufficient funds in your account to cover the check.

Q My mother just started collecting her social security pension. Does she have to pay tax on it?

A No, social security benefits are not taxable and do not have to be reported.

Q I drive several hundred miles a week going back and forth from my home to work. Can I deduct anything?

A Commuting costs are a personal expense and not deductible. However, you may deduct the state and local gasoline taxes you pay as a result of this and other personal driving.

A convenient table to help you determine the amount of your gas tax deduction may be found on Page 8 of the Form 1040 instructions. It is based on the tax rate in your state, number of miles driven and type of car.

Q Do the tax tables in the instruction book include the surcharge?

A No, after you have determined the amount of your tax from either the table or the schedules, you will have to add the surcharge. Use the surcharge tables in the 1040 instructions to determine the surcharge.

Q Where can I buy a copy of your income tax guide?

A A copy of Your Federal Income Tax, Publication 17, may be purchased for 75¢ and is sold at our offices. The Tax Guide for Small Business, Publication 384, costs 75¢ and is sold at our offices. They may also be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

Q Can you include the cost of a house hunting trip with other moving expenses for income tax purposes?

A Yes, under certain conditions. For details on moving expenses, send a post card to your IRS district office and ask for Publication 521 and a copy of Form 3903. This form must be completed and sent in with your return if you claim this deduction.
