

Voters recall Smith, defeat ordinances

BATH TWP.—Voters in this southern Clinton County township soundly defeated two zoning and building code proposals by a 2-1 margin Saturday, and approved a recall question by a narrower margin, turning Supervisor Duane Smith from office. More than 1,100 voters turned out to defeat a uniform building code for the township, 751-350. They also voted down a zoning ordinance by a similar margin, 756-370. Smith was recalled in a closer race, 621-510.

The election, which had been brewing for almost two years as petitions circulated throughout the township asking for the recall of Smith.

"I am naturally disappointed in the election results and I'm surprised," Smith said Monday in a prepared statement.

"I was taught, and I have taught my children, that honesty, truth and sincerity are essential and if they are not followed, a person will fail," Smith said. "How do you explain to your children that it's wrong to lie, to violate moral and legal laws or to maliciously attack people, when they do produce results if a person or persons have a character to use them?" Smith said.

"All of the campaigning by the Citizens for Smith center around tell it like it is and 'just the facts, folks,'" he said.

Smith was opposed by a group called Citizens for Better Government, headed by Eugene Rounds, 5781 Sleight Rd., Bath and an employee of Oldsmobile. He was not available for comment Tuesday.

THE GROUP had charged Smith with mismanagement of township funds, although Smith had denied the allegations.

Water department plans hydrant flushing

ST. JOHNS—The St. Johns Water Department will be flushing the fire hydrants in the city to remove sedimentation from the water mains during the week of May 10, Stanley Toburen, department superintendent said.

The schedule for flushing will be as follows and all flushing will be done between the hours of 11 p.m. and 6 a.m.

Section 1. All hydrants north of the Grand Trunk Railroad, Monday May 10 to Tuesday morning.

Section 2. All hydrants east of Whittemore St. (U.S. 27) and south of the Grand Trunk Railroad, Tuesday May 11 to Wednesday morning.

Section 3. All hydrants between Oakland St. and Whittemore St. and south of the Grand Trunk Railroad, Wednesday May 12 to Thursday morning.

Section 4. All hydrants between Lansing St. and Oakland St. and south of State St. (M 21), Thursday, May 13 to Friday morning.

Section 5. All hydrants west of Lansing St. and south of the Grand Trunk Railroad and the hydrants in the downtown area, Friday May 14 to Saturday morning.

He said he would take legal action against the group for circulating a flyer one week before the election that indicated he had not paid taxes on his property. Smith said that he had purchased the property, an extension of his home lot, on M 78, two months after the board of review closed. He said the taxes for 1970 were paid by the former owner, although his name would appear on the books after that time as the new owner.

The Better Government group maintained Smith had neglected to pay taxes on the property for the year.

Smith charged the group with "maliciously misrepresenting the issues time after time. . . ." He added that the group did not offer proof "to the so-called charges."

Smith said that when he first took office almost two years ago, he was "advised that you can't fight city hall." He said that there was a strong county governmental influence over the townships. "They can be fought and beaten, but not by someone sitting on his posterior doing nothing."

NOW THAT HE'S out of office, Smith said

Fine Arts festival Friday

DeWITT—DeWitt High School will present its first annual Fine Arts Festival, featuring students' works, displays, presentations, productions and performances, Friday beginning at 7 p.m.

No admission will be charged and the public is invited to attend the festival sponsored by the school's department of arts. There will be a continuous exhibition of art works by students of Sonja Cornell. The paintings will be on display in the east hall and in the art rooms.

A book fair will be produced in the instructional media center by Mary Jo Lott, librarian. A display of projects from the industrial arts department will be featured in the industrial education room under the direction of instructor Ray Unger.

In all halls, the writings of students from he would continue to work for the improvement of the township. "I'll work toward that goal whether in or out of public office," he said.

In his statement, Smith expressed thanks to those who had supported him, especially, he said, to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Martin. Later, Smith cited the defeat of the zoning ordinance and building code was linked directly to his recall vote. The Citizens for Better Government had also circulated petitions against the two proposals last month.

Smith said he sees the township at a standstill without the new ordinances. "People will stay away from the township," he said. Earlier, Smith said that if the ordinances would be defeated, the township would die as a strong political unit. Others had maintained the new ordinances would hamper development by Bath citizens.

A new election will be designated to replace Smith, who is ineligible for the post. Neither group would declare a candidate immediately, but from earlier statements made before the recall election, both the Citizens for Better Government and the Citizens for Smith would produce a new candidate for the election.

the communications arts department classes of Barbara Schneider and Penny Pennell will be on display.

Dramatic presentations will be staged in the cafeteria by the students of Thomas Mauro and Miss Pennell. Students Don Bordua and Dave Lankford will star in the "Ghost Scene" from Hamlet, while Tom Keener and Cindy Gilbertson will be featured in "The Box" by Neiderman.

Later, Debbie DeBow, Craig Miller and Jack Snetting will perform "The Brute" by Chekov. A concert of music and dance, directed by Anne Johnson and Robert Masacek, will include performances by the Modern Dance Ensemble, High School Chorus and the High School Band.

The programs are scheduled to end at 10 p.m.

Holzhei president

ST. JOHNS—Bob Holzhei has been elected president of the St. Johns Education Association (SJEA) for 1971-72, succeeding Charles Agerstrand, current president, it was announced last week.

Other officers elected were John Arehart, vice-president; Dick Kramer, treasurer; Joel Boyd, secretary; Bruce Barber and John Russell, regional council delegate to the Michigan Education Association (MEA) Lannie Fisher, regional assembly delegate to the MEA; Joe Cross, delegate to the NEA convention.

In accepting the new position, Holzhei praised the organization and the experience of its members.

"It is extremely gratifying to have such a fine staff of association officers for next year," he said. "The combined experience in association work at the local, state and national levels is greater than it has ever been in the past."

He noted that there is a full compliment of 14 building coordinators, six committee heads and six negotiators. "In each of these categories we have alternate members who will work with the assigned people, so that they can easily fill in if someone has other commitments."

Coffey resigns zoning post

RESIGNS

William Coffey, Clinton County zoning administrator, announced his resignation last week, effective May 1. He has accepted a position with a housing construction firm in Perry.

ST. JOHNS—William Coffey has resigned, effective May 1, as Clinton County Zoning Administrator to take a management position with a housing manufacturing firm.

Coffey has been with the zoning office since 1965 when he started as assistant zoning administrator. He was selected to be zoning administrator by the Board of Supervisors in 1967.

"I just couldn't turn down the opportunity of this position. I have been working with preconstructed housing for a number of years and by taking this position I believe that I can benefit a great number of people who need low cost housing," he said. "I'll make sure that the houses are good."

Coffey will be working for Tri-Par Homes, an affiliate of National Mobile Homes. He will be working out of Perry.

LOOKING BACK over the years Coffey said, "I believe that I have made the public aware that zoning ordinances can be beneficial, rather than just a law to obey. I could not have made the ordinances workable without the understanding and help of the people of the county."

"I have enjoyed working with the people of the county for the last few years and I am going to miss being in county government," he said. "However, I will still be able to help on many of the projects I have started and worked with. My company wants to participate in County Government."

Coffey had some advice for the next man to take over his job. "He must be able to communicate with the people, to exercise good judgment and most of all understand the problems of the county."

He said the biggest job to do is to "teach the people to use the legal tools of the county to their advantage."

Coffey said that many people have called him wishing him well and that makes me feel good to know that people are concerned.

St. Johns man dies in motorcycle crash

ITHACA—Roland Dale Burgess, 33, R-3, St. Johns, was killed Friday on U.S. 27 near Ithaca when he lost control of his motorcycle and hit a soft shoulder.

Police reports indicate that Burgess was traveling north on U.S. 27 near the Washington Rd., exit when he attempted to pass a truck, but swerved too far into the left lane and went off the road.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at Gratiot Community Hospital.

A companion, Calvin D. Ceasar, 33, also of St. Johns, was not injured in the accident. Funeral services were held Monday by Rev. Carl Stone, of the St. Johns Church of God. Burial was in the Eureka Cemetery. Burgess was born in St. Johns Aug. 2, 1938. He was the son of Alfred Burgess and the former Marguerite Tomlinson, and lived all his life in Clinton County. He was employed at Motor Wheel Corp. in Lansing.

He is survived by his sister, Mrs. Ruth Bolles of DeWitt and two brothers, Rex and Allen Burgess, R-3, St. Johns.

Draft board remains

ST. JOHNS — Clinton County will not be losing its local draft board, despite earlier plans to combine Local 19 with the Ingham County selective service office.

The present board and offices, located at 201 1/2 N. Clinton Ave., will remain open following a decision by the national director dropping the idea of creating a tri-county or four-county regional board.

Under the earlier plans, the local board would be absorbed by the Ingham-area office, which would include Eaton County.

In a related development, Col. William Meyers, Michigan Selective Service assistant director, attended a meeting Monday of Local 19 board members. The members assured the director that they would remain at their posts until replacements could be found.

Four of the five members had resigned two weeks ago following the court martial of Army Lt. William Calley for the murder of 22 Vietnamese non-combatants at My Lai.

Goerge bound to circuit court

ST. JOHNS—George W. Goerge, 20, 380 Pine St., Fowler, was bound over to Circuit Court Friday after preliminary examination in District Court on a charge of involuntary manslaughter.

Goerge was charged in the death of Lee Volz, 18, 1690 W. Culter Rd., DeWitt, a senior at St. Johns High School.

Sheriff reports indicated that Goerge, along with a passenger, was driving on Price Rd. when they saw two boys riding bicycles on each side of the road.

Goerge told deputies that he saw Volz jog his bicycle out into the road. Goerge said he applied the brakes but lost control of his vehicle.

According to deputies' reports, the Goerge auto dragged the youth through a fence and into a water-flooded field about 300 feet from the original impact point. Volz was killed instantly.

Trial has been set for May 10. Goerge is free on a $5,000 bond.

Treize bill would help ambulance service

LANSING—A bill to assist local units of government to support ambulance operations was introduced into the House of Representatives Thursday by State Rep. R. Douglas Treize (R-Owosso).

The bill, now known as House Bill 4772, would allow local governmental units to use their special assessment procedures to raise funds for the operation of local services or contract with others to provide this service. It limits the amount which can be raised through this method to the equivalent of two mills of property taxes.

"Private ambulance services and funeral directors have been legislated out of providing ambulance service in the less populated areas of our State by the imposition of service and equipment standards, minimum wage laws and similar regulations by the state and federal governments," Treize said.

"As a result, townships, cities and counties have had to move to fill this void and provide service either by establishing a service of their own or by subsidizing a private operator."

Treize's bill would provide the means for them to pay for this service without jeopardizing other local services. At the present time all costs must be paid from existing general fund revenues.

"Actually, we are only proposing to do with ambulance service what is already allowed for under state law in the provision of garbage and trash service," Treize said.

"It seems to me," he concluded, "that ambulance service should be accorded the same consideration in our laws."

Officials see car crusher at work in Mecosta County

By BOB GAVAN
News Staff Writer

Two Clinton County officials observed first hand how the junk car crushing operation works in Mecosta County.

The county is considering using the same operation, Michigan Car Crusher, Inc. to clean out the county of its junk cars.

Gerald Shepard, chairman of the board of commissioners and William Coffey, zoning administrator, were given a briefing and tour of the operation by Pat Farrell, co-owner of the company.

Farrell took them to the courthouse where they saw how the county coordinated the program.

Youth groups obtain the release of the cars from the owners and they are filed at the courthouse.

Each morning a wrecker crew picks up the releases and they haul the junk car to central dumping areas. These areas are usually donated by residents.

After there are a certain number of junk cars in the collection area, the portable car crusher moves in and clears the area out.

The crushed cars are then carried by flat-rack trucks to be shredded in Detroit.

According to Farrell, the crusher can adequately take care of 200 cars a day, but they normally only do 100 a day.

DAN HINKLEY, who is in charge of the junk car operation stated, at present we have with-

A CAR?

William Coffey stands on top of a car that just went through a car crusher. After initial compacting, up to three of the singles are compacted into units and hauled to a reclamation center in Detroit.

in the county, working with the board of commissioners and various youth groups, a hauling crew of people on welfare, who thus far removed more than 1,300 old cars and innumerable other pieces of junk from our midst. In addition, several hundred others are ready to be hauled away, as soon as the trucks can get to them.

Right now, the youngsters, who have been offered $2 for each old car they get permissions to have removed for disposal, have signed up in excess of 530 vehicles.

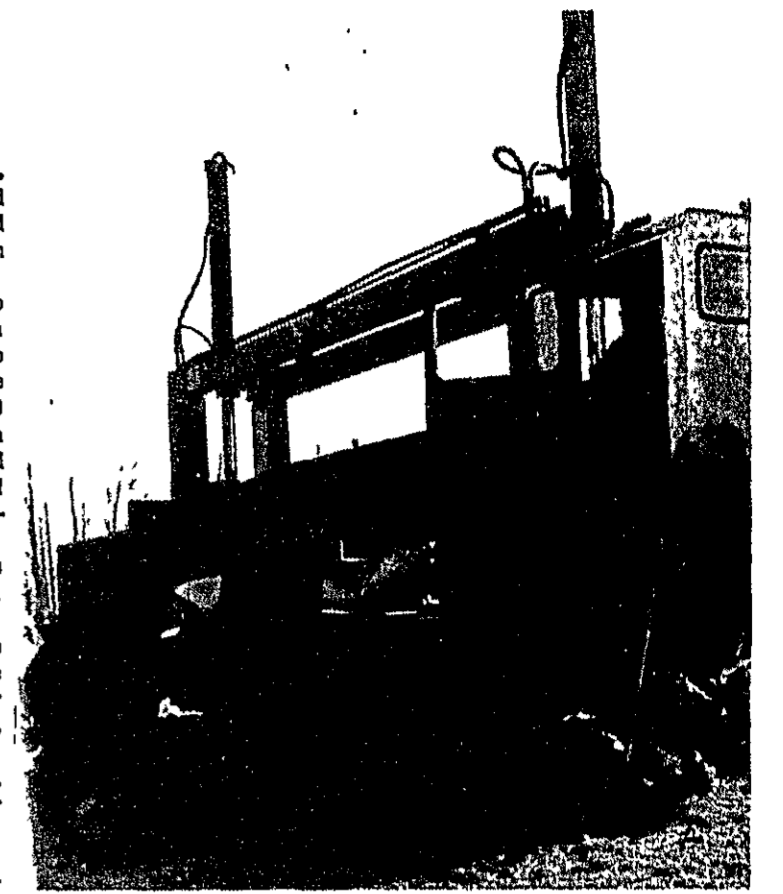

Many of the youth groups are planning outings and trips with the money they earned while getting a feeling of contributing to the public welfare.

One group of Boy Scouts has earned more than $500 for a trip this summer to Colorado.

Both Shepard and Coffey were impressed with how clean the area was left after the crusher was removed to another site.

Farrell said that here is hardly any spillover from the crusher. Everything goes inside the car including the glass.

The crusher powered by a 471 GMC Diesel exerts over 3,000 pounds of pressure. Both ends of the crushing bar can be operated separately to seal in any part which is loose. When the metal is ready for the scrap truck, no loose parts are left to litter the highways.

GOODBY JUNK CAR

The high hydraulic cylinders have lowered the weight slowly and what was once a pile of unsightly junk will become a marketable piece of scrap metal.

Letters to the Editor

'Is justice served?' News reader asks

Dear Sir:

Is justice served by punishing one man, Lt. Wm. L. Calley Jr. for an act committed in a war between nations?

America is at the crossroads. It could do much good for humanity's sake were we to take the following steps:

-Restore full freedom and military honors and pay to Lieutenant William L. Calley Jr. with the public apology due him.

-Demand members of Congress and President Nixon to exert every effort for the return of our prisoners of war.

-Settle an undeclared war at a peace table and return our service men from Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia, etc. immediately.

-Instant use of our human resources in making and restoring America and other parts of the world.

Will you take the time to ask your friends, neighbors, clubs, churches, to write, telephone or wire without delay to President Richard M. Nixon and members of Congress, Washington, D.C. And on behalf of our prisoners of war, won't you also write for their release?

To: President Tom DucThang, Democratic Republic of Vietnam, Hanoi, c/o American Red Cross Help our P.O.W.'s, Box 1600, Washington, D.C. 20013.

Let's all keep writing, working, praying, until victory is achieved.

Sincerely,

TIPS FOR THE PURCHASER

It's unwise to pay too much...but it's worse to pay too little. When you pay too much, you lose a little money...that is all. When you pay too little, you might lose everything because the thing you bought was incapable of doing the thing it was bought to do.

The common law of business balance prohibits paying a little and getting a lot --- it can't be done. If you deal with the lowest bidder it is well to add something for the risk you run. If you do that, you will have enough to pay for something better.

KMB gets clean-up background

By BOB GAVAN
News Staff Writer

ST. JOHNS—"A river is the backyard of the county. It's where sewage, garbage and trash are invariably dumped", said James Miner, Owosso attorney and chairman of the Shiawassee River Clean-Up project.

Miner was invited to give his slide talk before the Keep Michigan Beautiful (KMB) chapter on the successful clean-up of the Shiawassee River. KMB will be coordinating a similar project on the Grand River this summer.

Miner said that until people have pride in their rivers they will always be the backyard of the county. Only when people have pride in their rivers will they be a safe and added attraction to the area.

The Shiawassee river project was started in 1965 by citizens of Owosso to rebuild the deteriorating river that was running through the city.

Miner's slides aptly demonstrated what concerned citizens can accomplish in a relatively short time if they all work together.

His slides pictured the river before the work was started. The banks were falling down, the bottom was filled with trash and undergrowth had almost obscured the river.

His slides showed the progress on the river over the last six years. The bottom has been dredged and cleaned, the banks have been cleared and winding sections were straightened. Now the banks gently slope to the river's edge, trees and sod have been planted. A bicycle and foot path has been constructed along the banks so that the people can now enjoy the beauty of the river.

ALL THE WORK on the river was done by volunteer help. Citizens and businesses donated machinery, supplies, money and mostly, time and labor to complete this project. Miner said, "Once the people became interested there was no stopping them."

What was once an embarrassment to the city, now is a tourist attraction, the project is nearly completed after six years of work, Miner said, "If you begin to clean up where people live, they then begin to have pride in their city, their county and their state."

Miner has given his slide lecture to numerous groups in the state. He is dedicated to the idea of cleaning up the state's rivers.

He hit hard on the point that non-urban areas must be cleaned up now, because eventually they will be urban areas. "They must be cleaned now so that they will be habitable in the future," he said.

After the lecture, Miner had an open and candid discussion with interested KMB members. He warned the group, "Don't let your rivers become the backyard of your county".

Failure to pay as you go makes the return trip difficult.

CONCERNED

James Miner, chairman of the Shiawassee River Clean-up project discussed the many ways to start clean-up projects after his slide lecture to the KMB chapter Tuesday night.

Teacher of the week

Hallabrin's idea is to communicate

FOWLER—Richard Hallabrin, first-year high school English teacher believes the best way to teach English is to teach students to express themselves by communicating ideas through all media.

Luther named to Valparaiso honors list

VALPARAISO, Ind.—Douglas Charles Luther, 206 Wight St., St. Johns, a junior majoring in elementary education, was among 384 students named to the honors list for fall semester at Valparaiso University.

University and is formerly from Detroit said "Students must become aware before they can express themselves and the only way to become aware is to communicate and become involved."

"Usually the student sits back and simply listens because that is the way he has been taught. The students must learn that they are human beings and should be able to express themselves without fear of rejection of the part of their teachers or their peer groups."

Hallabrin attempts to teach the students they can communicate by using written, visual and artistic symbols to convey meaning and understanding.

Hallabrin, besides teaching literature, teaches a course in journalism. Next year he plans to implement a course called, "Audio-Visual Communications."

"They will study all forms of communications to learn how people express themselves through different types of media."

"They will study films, literature, artistic works and other modes of expression to learn how people communicate," he said. "The kids are coming up with a number of ideas for next year. There are so many possibilities to explore for a course of this type," Hallabrin said.

Hallabrin and his wife, Sharon, live in Portland. "We like it around here. It's quite a change from Detroit," he said.

Commenting on his first year of teaching, he said, "Students can be the greatest educators of all. So many of them have insight into the present educational system. I learn so much from them in our discussions."

Summarizing his philosophy he said, "I believe that students have to be challenged in order to learn and one way is to have open discussions on topics of interest to them. When they are in this situation they are open and honest."

Library week at DeWitt High

DeWITT—It's National Library Week at DeWitt High School.

And Mary Jo Loit, director of the instructional media center at the high school, is directing a campaign to get the students back to the books.

"Every person has a right to read," she said. "And that is what's being stressed by the Library Club at DeWitt High School."

She said that several activities would be taking place during the week, slated for April 18-24, including a book fair and a fine arts program Friday night.

"National Library Week puts the spotlight on the benefits we all get from reading—and our libraries," Mrs. Loit said. "Unfortunately, far too many public school and college libraries are understaffed. During National Library Week find out about the school libraries in your community."

She added, "Remember—a school library is a key to learning."

Open Letter from VAN W. HOAG

Dear friends,
Many clergymen and doctors, while attending the dying, have reported seeing the apparition of the spirit leaving the body at death. Many survivors have reported the momentary appearance of the spirit of a loved one at the moment of death. If these marvels were more generally known, the doubting Thomas would find greater conviction in the resurrection of Christ and of our own promised resurrection which we celebrate this glorious Easter Season.
Sincerely,
Van W. Hoag

Former local author visits library

ST. JOHNS(c)—Bement Public Library was a scene of social activity Sunday afternoon, as nearly 100 people came and went at the open house which marked the beginning of National Library Week. The occasion honored Doyle Fitzpatrick, former local resident, and author of the recently published book, "The King Strag Story."

The honored guest was kept busy greeting friends and autographing copies of his book. He was assisted by Mrs. Fitzpatrick and Marian Hunt of Lansing. On display was a picture of the entire student body of the St. Johns High School, taken in front of Rodney B. Wilson school building in the fall of 1925, when Fitzpatrick was a senior. The picture, property of Mrs. Gaylord Desprez attracted much attention during the afternoon as many old schoolmates found themselves and others in it. Nearly all of the 317 persons in the picture had been identified by Library staff members Mrs. H. M. Bross,

Mrs. Desprez and Alice Jumper, with the assistance of others in the community. Copies of this list of names are available at the library. Refreshments were served by Friends of Bement Public Library, with the president, Mrs. Margaret Paige in charge, assisted by Mrs. F. E. Countryman, Mrs. Lawrence Fish and Mrs. Anthony Kuntz. Cookies were furnished by members. Punch and coffee were served by Mrs. Glendon Fitzpatrick, Mrs. H. F. Millman, Mrs. Hugh Bannings, Mrs. Robert J. Merrill and Mrs. Beulah Ballantine. Music Club study Wilson and Bernstein

Mrs. Richard Jacoby opened her home for the meeting of the St. Johns Morning Musicale on Thursday, April 15.

Acting president, Mrs. Duane Davis announced that there would be a special bake sale at the next meeting, April 29 to benefit the two scholarship winners.

Mrs. Manning Bross reported that this year's scholarship winners were Paul Wigen for voice and cornet, and Sue Davis for violin. This year the auditions were held in the choral room of the high school.

It was suggested that all future auditions be held in the high school and that each year a special refreshment committee be appointed to serve those present at the auditions.

All members enjoyed the clarinet solo "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes" by Jerome Kerns played by Rhonda Woodbury and Van Patterson's trombone solo "Seventy-six Trombones" by Meredith Wilson. Mrs. Duane Davis accompanied both students.

Mrs. Richard Amstutz presented the commentary on the lines of Meredith Wilson and Leonard Bernstein.

"The Music Man" depicts the genuine, warm personality of its composer, Meredith Wilson, who made use of rhythmic lyrics and the sentimental flavor of an American small town.

Those who admire Leonard Bernstein point to his strong characteristics—the driving sincere force that he uses when directing members of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, and his genuine personality that has made him well received all over the world.

His music in "West Side Story" was heard by members in the form of two vocal solos "Tonight" and "Somewhere" by Mrs. Jack Stenberg. Her accompanist was Mrs. Duane Davis.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Richard Amstutz April 29, members are asked to bring baked goods for the bake sale.

Centennial celebration set at Free Methodist

ST. JOHNS(c)—This week marks the 100th birthday of the Free Methodist Church in St. Johns. The Rev. R. C. Bentley, minister of the church, has announced that Centennial observances start at 7:30 p.m. Friday, April 23, and continue through Sunday, with Bishop W. Dale Cryderman as featured speaker.

Organizer of the first Free Methodist meetings to be held in St. Johns was Rev. John Ellison Superintendent of the Grand Rapids District, who resided here. During the winter of 1870-71, meetings took place in the Ellison home and in the home of Caleb Ash, leader of the first class of 16 members.

In March of 1871, the church was officially organized and meetings were held in the Baptist Church, which then stood on Church Street one block north of where the Free Methodists erected their own building in 1872, at the cost of $4,500. Before that structure was completed, services were held for a time in Hicks Hall. The Free Methodist Church building has been remodeled twice, so that its appearance has changed.

Charter members of the church were: Caleb and Hester Ash, Jeremiah and Jeanette Aiken, Daniel and Henrietta Patterson, A. D. and Harriet Carrier, Thomas and Eliza Placer, Horatio Parks and Mrs. Parks, Walter Rall and Mrs. Rall, Mary Robinson and Louise Letts.

This church is unique for having entertained annual sittings of all three Free Methodist Conferences in Michigan, the East Conference, the South Conference 73; J. G. Witham 1873; C. F. and the North Conference, which was organized here.

Bentley, present minister, was appointed at the 1970 Session of the East Michigan Conference. He and Mrs. Bentley and their five-year-old daughter reside next door to the church, at 307 Church St.

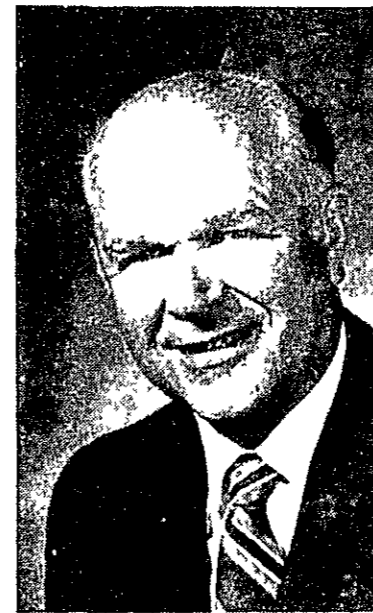

Present members of the Board of Trustees are Dr. W. F. Stephenson, R. Lee Ormston and Richard Knapp. The board of stewards is composed of Mrs. Iola Slagell, Mrs. Ileen Cleveland and Mrs. Norene Rozen. Richard Knapp is superintendent of the Sunday school, and Mrs. Ralph Snider is president of the missionary society. Mrs. Grace Ann Ormston serves as secretary of the church, and Frank H. Ormston is treasurer.

The three days of celebration begin with a service at the church Friday evening at 7:30 p.m. Bishop Cryderman will speak at all services. The meeting Saturday night at 7 p.m. will feature special music. The Sunday morning service will be at 10 a.m., with Carl W. Koerner of East Lansing, conference superintendent as a guest. MR. AND MRS. THOMAS RUMZEK

Celebrate anniversary Susan Albaugh bride of David Cole

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rumzek of 3168 West State Road, Lansing were guests of honor at an open house held in their home in celebration of their 25th wedding anniversary. The event was held Sunday, March 28 and hosted by their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Rumzek of St. Johns, their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Fellem of St. Johns and their son, Randy Rumzek at home. The couple was married at the Community Church parsonage in Okemos on March 25, 1946 and have resided at their present address since their marriage. Mr. Rumzek is employed at the Lundberg Screw Company in Lansing.

ELSIE(c)—Susan Albaugh and Specialist David Cole exchanged wedding vows Saturday, March 20, at the Emerson Presbyterian Church of Breckenridge. The Rev. Ross MacDonald performed the double ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Albaugh of rural Bannister. Mr. and Mrs. William Cole of rural Breckenridge are the groom's parents. The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white lace. Long, puffed sleeves, deeply cuffed and with soft lace of the empire waisted skirt, flowed into a circular train. The bride's shoulder-length veil was attached to a beaded crown and she carried a bouquet of white carnations and yellow sweetheart roses with baby breath and ivy filling in to set it off. The groom wore his dress green Army uniform with a white shirt and bow-tie. His boutonniere was a yellow rose to match the bride's bouquet. Patricia Albaugh, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a yellow, floor-length gown trimmed in white with elbow-length white gloves and carried a basket of white carnations, yellow roses, and baby breath trimmed with white ribbon bow and streamers. Stephen Cole served his brother as best man, wearing a brown vested suit and a yellow tinted carnation boutonniere. Mrs. Joyce Foster, sister of the groom, acted as hostess while Richard Cole, brother of the groom ushered the guests. The reception, following the ceremony, was held in the church basement. Here the new Mr. and Mrs. David John Cole greeted approximately 100 guests. The three-tiered wedding cake, decorated in yellow roses, sugar bells, swans and a sugar Bible, was made by Mrs. Geraldine Winkler of rural Elsie. The guests were served by Mrs. Joyce Foster, Mrs. Effie Keck, Mrs. Doris Sherwood, and Mrs. Leona Rumbaugh. Patricia Albaugh helped the bride and groom open their many lovely gifts. The couple plan to reside in an apartment near Baltimore, Md. after graduation of the bride in June. They will live there approximately one year while the groom, an administrative specialist, finishes his tour in the Army before moving back to Michigan.

Circle Tuesday, May 4 on your calendar. Use bright red ink or lipstick. Now with indelible ink, write 8 p.m. at St. Johns High School Auditorium across your forehead.

Now, with those two reminders you won't forget that the InkSpots will on that date, at that time, in that place perform in concert. Really. The St. Johns Chamber of Commerce has arranged for one of the great all-time groups plus two other acts from the "Ed Sullivan All-Stars" to perform a one-night stand. Tickets for the concert are available from any chamber member and will be available at the door. If you're expecting to pay a sky-high price, forget it. Adults pay only $2 and students just half that.

We don't know about you but we're going to dig our old black leather jacket, chinos and engineer boots. Put the Big M in bobby sox and pig tails and try to pass as teenagers.

HOW LONG does it take to bake a potato? Well, at our house, Big Mama digs a hole in the backyard, lines it with anything flammable, tosses in a few rocks and a gallon of gas, touches it off, drops in the spuds, covers the hole and walla!...two days later, baked potatoes.

Now you probably put yours in the oven for about 45 minutes. Anyway, both answers are wrong. It takes four minutes, or less. And if you don't believe it, stop at Kurt's Appliance Center between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Friday.

Mrs. Ruth Carlson, a home economist from Consumers will be demonstrating the G.E. electronic range. Besides baking potatoes in four minutes, it can defrost frozen foods in seconds, cook hotdogs in buns in less than 2 minutes, and it does it all electronically, without heat.

Financing education

Rep. Douglas Trezise
87th District

When Gov. Milliken last week announced his plan for revising the method of financing secondary education in Michigan, he presented the most revolutionary plan ever seen in the history of Michigan education. And it is a concept that almost everyone in the 87th District should be able to accept.

Ever since public education began, it has had a tradition of being supported primarily through the property tax. We all know how this dependence on property taxes has brought about many inequities in our system. These inequities have probably been with us for a long time; but, it is only as the rates of taxation—the actual millage levied—have reached today's proportions that they have become so apparent.

The increasing refusal of the voters to authorize additional property taxes for use of the schools should be positive indication that this method of educational support has reached or exceeded its limit.

One thing should be made clear. Any major correction of the situation will have to wait until the 1972-73 school year. For at least one more school year—the one starting this fall—it appears the present method of a hodge-podge of revenue from different sources will have to serve. This is because it will be necessary to have a state-wide election to consider a change in the State Constitution before the Governor's program can be implemented.

In essence, the proposed plan would reduce the property tax levied for school operations to zero and substitute an increase in the individual income tax plus instituting a new "value added" tax to make up the loss in property taxes.

I emphasize the word "SUBSTITUTE" in this program. At the present time, property taxes throughout the state produce approximately $1.118 billion. Of this, $618 million comes from individual taxpayers and $500 million from business.

It is estimated that an increase of 2.3 per cent in the individual income tax rate would produce the same $618 million. But, it would shift the burden so that the tax would bear a relationship to the person's ability to pay it.

SIMILARLY, IN the business area, the Value Added Tax would be a substitute for the property tax as, at a rate of two per cent, is calculated to produce the same $500 million which would be lost through elimination of the property tax.

It can be argued that this tax on business will only be passed on to us, the consumers, and that it is unfair since a tax must be paid even though the business may not make a profit. I would point out, however, that today's property tax must also be paid when no profit is made and is a part of the cost of manufacturing a product and, as such, is already reflected in the cost you and I pay for the product.

I am not sure I would be enthusiastic about the Value Added Tax as a new source of revenue, but as a substitution for the property tax, it seems to make good sense.

Another point should be stressed in any discussion of reforming our education finance program at this time. The Governor's program, as presented, covers only the collection of the money. The next question has to be, "How will it be distributed to the more than 600 school districts in the State?" This is probably the tougher part of the problem and will be the subject of much discussion during the coming months. It is hoped that this plan will be developed and explained to the public before any of us have to vote at the polls this fall.

There are other aspects to the program presented by the Governor which I would like to discuss in later articles. There are also some very serious political aspects which could hinder legislative action in the taxation situation discussed here.

I can only urge all of you to read as much as you can on this subject during the next few months so we can reach an intelligent decision. It will probably be the most significant decision the voters of this State will have to make since the adoption of the Constitution in 1963.

Marauders still unbeaten; topple Redwings, Panthers

OVID-ELSIE—The Ovid-Elsie Marauders made it four in a row here last week by slipping past the St. Johns Redwings 66-52 and bombing the DeWitt Panthers 87-31.

Two school records were smashed and another equaled as the Marauders remained unbeaten in non-conference competition.

Dick Bates, competing in the shot put event, broke the school record he owns from last season by tossing the shot 47-1 1/2, against the Redwings, bettering the old mark of 45-4. He turned around Wednesday and shattered the record again with a toss of 47-3, although he came in second in that event against the Panthers' Larry Sanborn.

Sanborn, one of Coach Evert Stevens' surprised standouts, heaved the metal ball 49-4 to take the top spot.

Keith Nelson of O-E equaled his own mark and school record set last season in the long jump, with a leap of 21-3 1/2, against the Redwings, Monday.

The Redwings managed wins in the two-mile run, high jump, mile run, 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash and the pole vault.

In the high jump, Steve Mead of St. Johns found himself in a three-way tie for first spot with two Marauders, Cal Woodard and Nelson. They all had a leap of 5-4.

Fred Root took the mile event with a time of 4:54.4, while Daye Flermoen edged Ovid-Elsie's Bates and Dan Bowles in the 100-yard dash with a time of 10.45.

Rick Flegel of St. Johns topped two Marauders in the two-miler by tossing the shot 47-1 1/2, against the Redwings, bettering the old mark of 45-4. He turned around Wednesday and shattered the record again with a toss of 47-3, although he came in second in that event against the Panthers' Larry Sanborn.

Redwings split league openers

ST. JOHNS—The St. Johns Redwing batsmen, still stinging from a 16-hit barrage by the Lakewood Vikings, head into the second week of the 1971 baseball season, preparing to face Alma and arch-rival Ionia, in league play.

The Redwings, 2-1 overall and 1-1 in the West Central conference, slipped during the first inning of the Lakewood contest to allow the Vikings six runs, spelling doom to the possibility of an unbeaten season. The loss snapped a two-game winning streak.

In the first contest of the season, the Redwings held off a late Yellowjacket rally to secure a 4-3 win. St. Johns' Ed Boettger went the distance, striking out three, to nail down his first victory of the season.

Dirt circuit opens Sunday at Owosso

The Owosso Speedway will host the first race of the season, for newly formed '71 Dirt Circuit Sunday evening. The '71 Dirt Circuit is a combination of three tracks which will present a complete week-end of exciting auto racing each week during the summer.

The weekly '71 Dirt Circuit program will be complete with the opening of new Clarke's Motor speedway, located just off I-96 between Lansing and Grand Rapids on May 7 and the Mr. Pleasant Speedway on May 1.

The season's opener at Owosso will feature drivers from all over the state, many of who will be driving new cars that have just been completed during the winter.

determined to challenge last year's two front runners.

If you enjoy exciting auto racing, Owosso's 1/2-mile dirt oval is recognized as the "World's Fastest" track of this type, and those fans who made it a point to attend a race last year found that six miles west of Owosso on M 21 was the home of the most exciting racing to be found.

Time trials for the season opener will be at 6:30 with racing starting at 8:00 p.m.

Boys club to show fight film

ST. JOHNS—The Clinton County Boys Club will present a series of boxing films featuring the heavyweight championship fights April 28 at 7:30 p.m. in the Rodney B. Wilson Junior High School auditorium here.

Jack Downing, representing the Boys Club, said the special showing of the old championship battles would be free and open to the public.

Redwings top Vikings in golf opener 169-196

ST. JOHNS—The Redwings of St. Johns High School opened the 1971 golf season Thursday, dumping Lakewood by 27 strokes, at the Clinton County Country Club course. St. Johns topped the Vikings 169-196.

The Redwings, defending their West Central conference title, were led by John Estes, who turned in a 41-stroke performance. Greg Lounds followed with a 42, while Ken Schueller and Randy Devereaux posted twin marks of 43.

Coach Mike Humphrey said he was pleased with the grouping of scores and was pleasantly surprised by Devereaux's performance.

HUMPHREY SAID he was surprised since "this is his (Devereaux's) first year out for the team." Devereaux is a sophomore this season.

The St. Johns junior varsity literally had no competition. The Lakewood JV's couldn't make the trip, so the junior Redwings went ahead anyway for the practice.

Their scores were impressive as Bill Ploszak led with a 43, followed by Tom French at 46, Tom Pung at 48 and Mark Wawczyk at 51 for a 188 score.

Lakewood's scorers were Steve Garglinger (42), Dallas Gelgee (51), Brad Vanzyl (51) and Jim Valentine (52).

Agriculture land bill may be called in state legislature

LANSING—State Sen. William S. Ballenger (R-Ovid) said Wednesday that he will urge the House and Senate Taxation Committees to take up consideration of either of two bills (HB 4100 or SB 130), calling for the assessment of agricultural land on the basis of its use for farming rather than its market value, immediately after the Legislature returns to Lansing from its Easter recess.

Speaking to nearly 100 members of the Michigan Bankers Association at the annual MBA Agricultural Financial Clinic at Boyne Highlands Resort in Harbor Springs, Ballenger said that unless the Legislature takes action this year, thousands of farms will be forced out of production during the next decade due to the proliferation of "slurbs" or "urban sprawl".

"You get the picture of what is happening in lower Michigan when you realize that only 2 of Michigan's 83 counties produce 2/3 of our agricultural products," Ballenger noted.

"Unfortunately, most of those 22 counties are directly in the path of projected urban growth which demographers predict will, by the year 2000, encompass all the land between New York and Kansas City."

"IF PREDICTIONS of this urbanization prove correct, most of the state's prime farmland will be wiped out," Ballenger added. "And once choice farmland is paved or converted to cities and subdivisions, it's lost forever."

Ballenger said that either HB 4100 or SB 130 is designed to protect the farmer against being forced—by unfair and unduly high assessments—from his land simply because someone else wants to buy it.

He emphasized that an important feature of both measures is the three-year "roll-back" tax clause designed to protect the state against either farmers or speculators who would hold such property for several years with the intent of making a financial killing on rising land values.

Gas limits may hit crop marketing

EAST LANSING—The natural gas supply problem hit Michigan crop drying and storage facilities last November. And it may further disrupt normal crop marketing this fall, reports Robert LaPrad, elevator industry specialist at Michigan State University.

Elevators served by Consumers Power Company are restricted to gas usage rates for July 1, 1969 through June, 1970. This restriction was effective Nov. 1, 1970.

Forecasts for Michigan indicate increased 1971 acreages for most crops requiring artificial drying, and this could multiply the effects of the gas usage restriction, points out LaPrad.

Beans, corn, soybeans, wheat and other grains are perishable if not dried to safely storable moisture levels by nature or artificial means.

"Restricting natural gas supplies for crop drying may cause increased crop losses," says LaPrad. "With the predicted strong demand for grain and beans, decreased supplies may mean higher food prices."

Outdoor notes

LANSING—Fisheries officials for Michigan's Department of Natural Resources hope to obtain free Atlantic salmon eggs from Sweden next winter as rearing stock for an experimental introduction of 100,000 fish in the spring of 1973.

Wayne H. Tody, DNR fisheries chief, reports that "progress is being made" to gain disease-free certification of the eggs, which is required before they can be imported into this country.

Once that step is cleared, hopefully by this summer, he will make a formal request for 200,000 Atlantic salmon eggs through the Director of the Fisheries Board for Sweden.

Tody notes: "We may hit a snag along the way which could set our plans back a year or two, but we're going to keep working on this program because we think Sweden has a source of Atlantic salmon which holds a lot of exciting potential for our state."

If the DNR succeeds in getting the eggs, he sees a good possibility that the fish to be raised from them could help fill the summer gap in this state's Great Lakes stream fishing, and produce excellent cost-benefit returns.

Evaluate apple production cost

EAST LANSING—Compare your apple production cost to $1.55 per bushel.

"This cost figure provides a guide to help apple growers list production costs and evaluate their farm situations," explains M. P. Kelsey, Michigan State University farm management specialist.

A 57-cent cash cost, including a charge for operator labor, is added to labor and machinery harvest costs of 60 cents for a total variable cost of $1.17. Adding 38 cents per bushel for fixed costs of machinery, buildings and orchard overhead gives a total cost of $1.55. This example assumes 400 bushel per acre yields.

"Economics of Apple Production in Southwestern Michigan," MSU Agricultural Economics Report 184, February 1971, provides Michigan apple producers a framework for evaluating production costs for individual blocks of apples and the total apple enterprise, notes Kelsey.

Cost figures can be very helpful when compared with returns in deciding on the future value of a block as well as evaluating the costs and returns from specific field operations, according to Kelsey.

The report can help a grower determine his costs for particular operations of the total apple enterprise. It also includes trends and outlook for the apple industry.

The report is available free from county Cooperative Extension Service offices or from: Department of Agricultural Economics, Michigan State University, East Lansing, Mich. 48823.

TODY EXPLAINS that "Atlantics" move up streams in the summer which means they would provide action for Great Lakes fishermen during the slack season between spring steelhead runs and the fall migrations of steelhead and salmon.

From the first eggs to be sought, the DNR hopes to be able to raise about 100,000 smolts (4-7 inches) for planting in the spring of 1973. The first runs of adults from that release would occur in 1975, with additional runs taking place through 1977, reports Tody.

After next winter, the DNR would like to obtain another 200,000 eggs from Sweden for each of 4 more years to span the 5-year life cycle of Atlantic salmon.

It needs continued supplies of the eggs over that period in an effort to establish Michigan's own egg source, and to see whether Atlantic salmon take hold in this state.

Tody reports that a stretch of the Boardman River below the Brown Bridge Dam is the DNR's current No. 1 choice for planting the first batch of Atlantics it hopes to raise. He explains that the Boardman has exceptionally favorable water temperatures and stream flows for salmon during the summer period.

The Pere Marquette River is also rated high on those key biological points and is being considered as the second best stream in Michigan for the opening Atlantic salmon releases.

The Boardman holds an important edge over the PM because its physical features offer better opportunities to control Atlantic salmon runs for egg-taking, limited fishing, and research work.

Unlike coho and chinook, all Atlantic salmon do not die after spawning in streams.

Some of them—only a few, admittedly—survive spawning and escape anglers to return to big waters where they put on additional growth before running back up streams the next season.

Those which go through more than one spawning season and, consequently, enjoy extra growth in open waters, may reach 30 pounds or more. On the average, adult Atlantics weigh about 10 pounds, says Tody.

IN ANY CASE, these fish offer trophy-class catches and they are highly rated in sport-fishing circles because they hit readily on gaudy flies and make sensational leaping runs when hooked.

Tody is particularly impressed with Sweden's egg supply because that country has worked out a rear-and-release system which has succeeded in reversing the long decline of Atlantic salmon in waters of the Baltic Sea.

Angler returns from the program's planted fish are running up to 20 per cent and that, in Tody's opinion, is "extremely good and the kind of batting average we'd like to have with Atlantic salmon in our state."

Tody is especially enthused about a pure strain of landlocked Atlantic salmon in Sweden which has been self-sustained by natural reproduction for some 4,000 years. The fish mature in Lake Vaner and spawn in Gullspring River where a relatively modest number of their eggs are taken each year for stock improvement and propagation in other areas.

Tody would like nothing better than to get at least 10,000 eggs from the Gullspring run next winter as part of the 200,000 eyed eggs which he plans to seek from Sweden.

"The Atlantics produced from this pure strain are exceptionally fine fish and they would fit beautifully into our fish management niche for the Great Lakes. Unlike many other strains of Atlantic salmon, the Gullspring fish spend only one year in a stream and then live 4 years in open lake waters where they grow tremendously—many to 30 pounds and up."

TODY ADDS: "This means that it wouldn't take much time, money, or effort to raise these fish to planting size. We could plant them out at minimum costs and draw maximum returns by letting the fish grow to lunker size in the Great Lakes. And believe me, when we plant a fish at 4-6 inches and some fisherman catches it a few years later at about 30 pounds, that's a nice, big dividend."

Tody says the DNR's regular hatchery budget could absorb all of the shipping, handling, and rearing costs for the 200,000 Atlantic salmon which the Department hopes to get from Sweden next January or February.

Public auction sale of government owned bins, equipment set

EAST LANSING—Nick Smith, chairman of the Michigan State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, announced another public auction sale in Michigan of Government-owned grain bins and equipment. On Monday, May 3, starting at 10:30 a.m., two flat storage bins, with a capacity of approximately 44,000 bushels each; 36 round bins with 3,250 bushel capacity each, and 32 round bins with 2,350 bushel capacity each, will be offered for sale by public auction, Smith stated.

Also included at this sale will

Fewer problems with three-phase dryer fan motor

Buy a three-phase electrical motor for that crop dryer fan. It costs less to buy, starts better and gives you fewer maintenance problems than a single-phase motor, according to Truman Surbrook, Michigan State University agricultural engineer.

"Three-phase power is recommended when available, even though the cost per kilowatt hour may be double that of single phase," says Surbrook. "You'll just be better off with the three-phase motor in the long run."

"When only single-phase is available, a soft-start motor or a three-phase motor and phase converter may handle the job. However, these alternatives are limited to medium to easy starting loads. For hard starting loads, they are useless."

Surbrook says farmers should always check with the power supplier before committing themselves on equipment that will require a large electric motor.

And he adds this note: "Electricity is by far the most convenient and a maintenance-free energy source for stationary power jobs."

be many miscellaneous items such as aeration equipment, electrical equipment and ladders he said. This sale will be held at the Vernon bnsite, Shiawassee County, located at the south city limits of Vernon, and details of the sale may be obtained by contacting the Shiawassee County ASCS Office, 310 N. Shiawassee St., Corunna, 48817, phone number 517-743-3191, or by contacting the nearest county ASCS office, Smith advised.

EACH PURCHASER of a bin will be required to certify that the bin will be used in connection with the storage or handling of agricultural commodities or, if purchased by a nonprofit agency or organization, an authorized official must certify the bin will be used for the purpose of such agency or organization, Smith stated.

Farmers may finance the purchase of these bins through the Farm Storage Facility Loan Program provided they meet eligibility requirements; however, the prospective purchaser must bring a memorandum from his home county ASCS office so stating his eligibility, Smith advised.

Additional auction sales of government-owned grain bins will be announced in the near future, he said.

Mental pollution

Mental pollution is taking its toll on Americans as rapidly as pollution of water and air. Urban dwellers are constantly pelted with the sounds of jet planes and freeway traffic.

Yet something as simple as a tree offers a solution. Trees, shrubs, and grass planted closely together along freeways and busy thoroughfares act as sound barriers against these grating noises, according to the American Association of Nurserymen.

A row of trees or shrubs in the back yard of a private home can accomplish a similar feat, by protecting the tranquility of the residents from the noise of the street and the neighborhood.

AGRICULTURE IN ACTION

by GARY A. KLEINHENN
MICHIGAN FARM BUREAU

Our reality of life can be clouded over by the false security offered by the comfort of modern technology. It is easy to forget that food still comes from the land and not a tin can.

The growth of the cities, however, is spreading out into the countryside taking people back closer to the land their ancestors left. But still agriculture on a large scale is a strange phenomenon to many people, and this lack of knowledge can be detrimental to agriculture, or for that matter any industry. It can bite off the hand that feeds us all.

A historical experience to clarify the point is available from the pages of Time-Life book, "The Cooking of China."

"In Hong Kong every Chinese is a farmer at heart. Given a tiny plot of land in the most unlikely place, even in the middle of a city, a Chinese will keep chickens and—if it can possibly be squeezed in—a vegetable garden. Spaces between homes are planted with growing vegetables and interspersed with high piles of manure for fertilizer throughout the city."

This is still the practice in the 1970's and permitted by government. In fact, throughout history high officials even care for their own gardens. But it hasn't always been this way.

"For a century before World War II the colony had been run by British officials," according to the Time-Life book. It reports, "Inside Hong Kong landlords forbade all tenants to grow vegetables in their backyards or keep livestock on the premises, for Westerners objected to the smell of manure, and filth would have been attracted by pigs and poultry."

THE BRITISH regulations ended with the Japanese takeover a century later. Throughout the British period famine threatened, but with their exit, the city was literally transformed overnight. "Every Chinese who could lay claim to a scrap of land, even if it was no larger than a handkerchief, began to cultivate it."

Peasants, bankers, lawyers, doctors and art dealers were all in it together. Soon crops were growing on every spot of land, and chickens roamed the streets, and people enjoyed a higher quality of life, denied them for a hundred years because the controlling power lacked foresight into the reality of life—the continual need for food.

Trees, man's best friend

The tree may replace dog as man's best friend. Americans are just beginning to realize the incredible pollution-fighting characteristics of plant materials.

Here are a few pollution-fighting characteristics listed by the American Association of Nurserymen.

1. They absorb harmful carbon monoxide from the air and release fresh oxygen into the atmosphere.
2. They trap polluted particles in the air and hold them until they are washed into the ground.
3. They act as sound barriers when planted closely together, reducing a major factor of urban tensions.
4. They tie down topsoil and prevent its being washed into rivers and streams, or blown away.

BUICK BARGAIN DAYS ARE HERE

Buick Bargain Days are saving days.

A bargain price on a stripped-down car is no bargain. But a Buick or Opel at a bargain is something else again. Because we're not selling some special stripped-down model. We're selling Buicks and Opels, (the same great cars we've sold all year.

With one difference. The deals have never been better. Which means that you can move out in a new Buick or Opel at a price that's hard to believe. When Buick talks about a bargain, we give you something to believe in.

Opel 1900 Sport Coupe. With a 1.9 liter engine that operates efficiently on low-lead or no-lead gasolines. Hydraulic valve lifters for quiet engine operation, power front disc brakes and more.

Skylark Custom. With Buick's exclusive nickel-plated engine exhaust valves for smoother operation on today's cleaner fuels. Comfort-Flo ventilation system and more.

Your Buick-Opel dealer will give you better reasons to buy a new car now than anybody else.

The business of auto safety.

Auto safety is everyone's concern. But it's our business. And we think the attention that's being paid to auto safety now is a good thing. Because it will result in better driving for everyone.

And, frankly, better driving for everyone means better business for us.

We say Buick is something to believe in. That's why we're trying to make it easy to be safe by putting in safety features that work by themselves. You don't have to do anything to make them work.

Like side guard beams. And the energy absorbing steering column. And the cargo guard between the trunk and back seat. They start "working" even before you get in the car.

But two safety features, two of the most vital, are worthless unless you do something first. Seat and shoulder belts.

Unfastened they do nothing. And you've seen enough statistics to know what a difference they can make. So use them.

But that's not all you can do. Because the most effective safety feature of all can't be added to our cars or anybody else's.

That feature is you. And the way you drive. Which should be defensively. And rested. And sober. We're all in this together. And together we can solve the auto safety problem once and for all. And the time is now.

problem in 1970. It became serious when early maturing varieties ripened early during warm weather. We commonly found four to five different kinds of rot in county fields. Heavy corn borers escaped severe leaf blight damage in 1970. Planting early gives higher yields and less lodging, too.

Another point was early planting. "Early planted corn usually escaped severe leaf blight damage in 1970. Planting early gives higher yields and less lodging, too."

He advised farmers to control weeds. "Weeds help keep surface humidity high, favoring leaf blights, stalk rots and many others," he said.

He advised farmers on what actions to take this year. "Select varieties known to yield well in past years," McQueen said.

Plants improve air by trapping dust

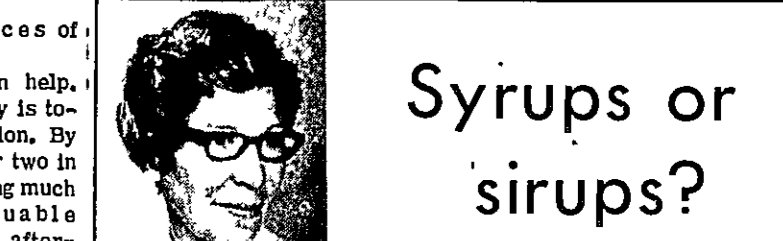

The air above the United States is literally the dirtiest place in the world. Twelve million tons of particles such as dust, grit, and cinders are released into our atmosphere each year. The dirt comes from almost every place. The automobiles, industrial furnaces, incinerators, jet planes, and home heating systems.

In urban areas, one has only to wipe his forehead or clean his glasses to see evidence of this pollution. Persons with lung ailments feel pain when they breathe unclean air, and an increasing number of city dwellers

Syrups or sirups?

By HELEN MEACH Extension Home Economist

Whether you spell it syrups or sirups, the dictionary describes it as a thick sweet liquid for taste or cooking uses.

There are dozens of syrups on the market, many of them nothing but flavored sugar syrup. The old standard syrups include corn syrup which ordinarily carries the lowest price tag among the syrups on the store shelf.

Next up the price ladder come the flavored syrups, often priced between 60 and 65 cents a pint. These 60 and 65 cents a pint. And these are the syrups that you can use on the table as such, they are used extensively in cooking.

Maple syrup is the most expensive of the syrups with the average price of $1.00 to $1.25 per pint. If pure white sugar were refined from maple syrup it would not differ from the white sugar made from sugar cane.

Abusing our birthright

It's now the middle of Earth Week, a time set aside for all citizens to get out and clean up the trash and garbage left behind in the winter thaw.

It is also a time of debate and/or reflection on the state of the ecological movement.

Most of us can think back to childhood and remember the time when the air was clear, highways (except for billboards) were cluttered only with scenic farms and quiet streams. The beaches and lakes were to be enjoyed, without the threat of disease or injury.

Children could play baseball on green grass and adults could attend lake pavilion dances without the stench of pollution that has infiltrated even remote recreational areas.

Meat, fish and vegetables could fill millions of plates without fear of causing illness or death from contamination.

But these thoughts, for most of us, are only memories. Sure, there are areas where much of life continues on from year to year without drastic changes, but they are destined to the same fate.

In Clinton County Saturday, children from school, church and social clubs joined in a county-wide highway cleanup campaign, to rid the roadside of litter and garbage carelessly discarded by their elders. It has become an annual ritual for these youngsters — cleaning up after sloppy adults. What's worse—the kids are losing the war.

Each year, there is an increasing amount of garbage and trash on the roadside, causing more hours to cover the same ground. Next year, we can assume that there will be even more trash tossed from passing autos.

It seems that Americans, including Clintonites, will not exercise the power they possess over technology to control the environmental destruction. It's a sad state of affairs, indeed, when we must depend on our children to correct the abuse of our birthright.

Second hundred years

Observance of its 100 years in the St. Johns community speaks well of the strong foundation on which the Free Methodist Church was built back in 1870.

And certainly in today's changes and alterations of social standards, of moral issues and great challenges to a God-fearing community, a strong church is of great importance.

A church that can speak out, a church that can answer questioning minds, and a church that can look forward to its second 100 years with confidence is an important institution to any community.

We congratulate the St. Johns Free Methodist Church congregation and wish them well as they pay tribute to the past and plan to meet the challenges of the future.

Thomas, the Twin

By REV. HUGH BANNINGA

In John's gospel, chapter 20 we read, "Now Thomas one of the twelve, called the Twin, was not with them when Jesus came. So the other disciples told him, 'We have seen the Lord.' But he said to them, 'Unless I see in his hands the print of the nails, and place my finger in the mark of the nails, and place my hand in his side, I will not believe.'"

Eight days later, his disciples were again in the house, and Thomas was with them. The doors were shut, but Jesus came and stood among them, and said, "Put your finger here, and see my hands; and put out your hand and place it in my side; do not be faithless, but believing." Thomas answered him, "My Lord and my God!" Jesus said to him, "Have you believed because you have seen me? Blessed are those who have not seen and yet believe."

Thomas was not with the other disciples when Jesus first appeared to them after the resurrection. He would not believe until he had come face to face with his Lord. He was not about to take someone else's word for it. He wanted to touch the wounds before he would commit himself. Because of his reaction, Thomas has been called throughout the ages "Doubting Thomas." This name, however, isn't quite fair. It's true Thomas did doubt the fact of the Resurrection, at first, but remember he did become a believer.

One thing we can say about Thomas is that he was a man of courage. He first appeared in the Lazarus story in John's gospel. News had come that Lazarus was ill, and for two days Jesus made no move at all to go to his friend. He did this on purpose, so Lazarus would die and he could then raise him from the dead. This would help strengthen the disciples' belief.

THEN JESUS made ready to go to Bethany. By this time the Jewish authorities in Jerusalem were determined to get rid of Jesus. Already on two occasions he had been in danger of being stoned to death. To go to Jerusalem seemed like an act of suicide.

But Thomas spoke out and said, "Let us go, that we may die with him." Thomas couldn't see anything but disaster in Jerusalem, but he was ready to face death with his leader.

Would you have had that kind of courage? Thomas was also bewildered. In the upper room Jesus was telling the disciples about what was going to happen. He told them of the many mansions in His Father's house and that He was going to prepare a place for them. Then he would return for them so they could be together.

And while Jesus was speaking, Thomas interrupted and said, "Lord, we do not know where you are going, and how can we know the way?" Jesus' answer to Thomas is clear. Jesus said, "Thomas, I know that you do not understand what is happening. No one understands. But whatever happens, remember that you always have me, I am the way, the truth and the life."

In this world, in the last analysis, what we need is not an argument, not a scientific proof, but a Presence—a holy Presence of the Resurrected Christ. No argument is really convincing anyway, and what Jesus offers us is not an argument, but Himself.

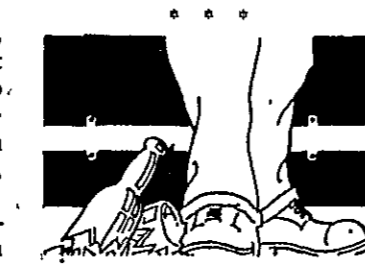

If you are bewildered like Thomas was, start looking for Jesus' Presence in your life, and forget about coming up with a believable argument or a convincing scientific proof of Christ's existence.

THOMAS WAS a man who could not believe for a while. But he did become a man of devotion and faith. He saw Jesus face to face and blurted out, "My Lord and my God!" His doubt was turned to certainty in the presence of his Lord. From that time on Thomas was a devoted disciple.

How devoted are you to Jesus? One item stands out in the story of Thomas. It is that Jesus blames no man for wanting to be sure. Jesus didn't blame Thomas for his doubts. He knew that once Thomas had fought his way through his doubts, he would be the surest man in Christendom. Jesus never says to us, "You must have no doubts." He says, rather, "You must never profess a faith of which you are not absolutely sure, and you must fight your battle until you reach your certainty."

How sure are you?

That noise of something fragile being shattered was the last of the New Year's resolutions being broken.

People who can laugh at trouble usually do—at the other fellow's.

Alliances

By TIM YOUNKMAN

The "War to end all wars" seemed to end an era in the United States. An era that was marked with the bloodbath effect of entangling alliances of other foreign powers.

For a time, during the 1920's and 1930's, American isolationism kept us from making and breaking alliances and treaties that would involve us in future conflicts.

We even managed to charge into World War II against the Japanese and Germans without many of these alliances, except for the British-orientated lend-lease policy. It was by direct actions taken against the United States—Pearl Harbor by the Japanese and declaration of war by the Germans—that this nation became involved in the shooting war.

But American cold war policy, directed against the communists, has been entangling the United States so completely that today another major conflict is inevitable. Most Americans will not believe that another World War will take place, mainly due to nuclear weapons, but the old pattern cannot be denied.

For example, due to the treaty with Germany, the Allies were bound to keep forces in each of four sectors in that nation. The result, of course, was the foundation of East Germany and East Berlin. Though justified in invading the Germans, especially during their reconstruction period, it evolved in one more binding alliance. If the Russians mobilize on the border, American soldiers must mobilize too.

We have established alliances and treaties for military defense in Europe, under the NATO pact, and in the Pacific, under SEATO. Through the North Atlantic Treaty Organization or NATO we are bound to 10 European nations and Canada, and if any are attacked by an outside force then all would go to war to defend territorial rights.

THROUGH SEATO, another collective defense pact, the U.S., Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines, Pakistan and Thailand agreed on the defense of the Pacific.

We have other agreements with Spain, Portugal and Panama. We are still protecting South America under the Monroe Doctrine, except for Cuba.

We have been forced to intervene in Korea, Lebanon, the Dominican Republic, Laos and Vietnam.

And the Americans are not alone. The Russians have been busy making similar collective defense pacts and individual treaties, including the Warsaw Pact, and they have proven that they intend to maintain these agreements.

War clouds have always been the most visible and the most complex of political issues. It was inevitable that war against England would break out in 1776 and 1812. Revolutions in France and Russia were not without years of warning—only no one in power attempted to correct the existing conditions to ease the long-term crises.

Historians insist that, by 1914, there was no way to avert a world war because of the treaties—Austria, Germany and Turkey linked to one side and Serbia, Russia and France to the other. In 1912, some of these nations were already involved in war.

The world is witnessing a condition in the Middle East that could involve most of the European nations in war again. Private agreements between Egypt and Russia, Egypt and the other Arab states, Israel and some European nations and Israel and the U.S. make it a distinct possibility.

SIMPLY BECAUSE the Americans have been able to avert full-scale war there does not preclude the inevitability of war. Israel's chief military figures are positive that there will be war before the end of the year. The Americans and the Russians are now too involved in the conflict to be of any value in peace keeping efforts.

The only real alternative that the world possesses for a uniform peace is through the United Nations. Since national sovereignty takes precedence over world-government sovereignty, that alternative is dim.

Americans have maintained that war is never the best solution to international problems, yet conditions are created and recreated to make war inevitable.

Clearly, collective defense agreements and security pacts, have not secured peace. It's about time for Congress to explore these agreements before we drift helplessly into a world conflict again.

'IF IT FITZ . . .'

Uncle Walt must live

By JIM FITZGERALD

It has recently occurred to me, tragically, like a kick in the gut, that some day Uncle Walt is going to die.

Skeezix was 50 years old in February, God help us all, and time stops for no man when he lives on Gasoline Alley.

Little Orphan Annie hasn't aged a minute in 40 years. Egad, she hasn't even changed her dress. Dond! was an Italian orphan of World War II and the poor kid is still in elementary school today. Charlie Brown has been a little leaguer for 15 years. Dagwood's wife is built better today than she was 30 years ago. And Dick Tracy is the world's only active cop older than J. Edgar Hoover.

That's the way it goes in most comic strips. The characters never age. Except on Gasoline Alley.

Uncle Walt found the infant Skeezix on his doorstep in 1921. Skeezix has always been 5 years older than I, sort of a big brother. We grew up together and went to war together. We've raised our families and wrestled with milk bills together. And now we're beginning to grow old together.

But my father died a few years ago. So what about Uncle Walt? He's been aging right along with Skeezix and me. He's got to be closing in on 80. He can't live forever. Not on Gasoline Alley where everything is honest.

I'm not sure this nation can handle the death of Uncle Walt.

LOOK WHAT HAPPENED a few times on TV. A soap opera star has grown sick of the suds and run away to Hollywood.

The writers explained the character's absence by having him killed in a plane crash or dying suddenly of the mange. And there was great wailing and gnashing of upper plates from the public. Housewives demanded that Professor Bob be brought back to life or they would quit buying the sponsor's soap.

That's the type of threat that makes sponsors responsive to public opinion. So now the stars are never killed. If an actress quits, she is simply replaced with another actress.

The character's sudden change in appearance is explained by an overdue visit to the most marvelous beauty shop. And everyone is happy.

But Uncle Walt cannot be replaced in this manner. His problem is that he's heading to Hollywood. It's that he will begin to lose his believability when Skeezix celebrates his 90th birthday and Walt shows up at the party.

And the final loss of Uncle Walt will create a national uproar many times louder than any caused by a TV death.

Soap operas are fleeting things, never lasting more than a few years at the most. But Gasoline Alley and Uncle Walt have been with us every day since 1921.

Can you imagine the mourning when Walt is erased for good? It will be the world's most watched death scene. What a funeral that will be! Skeezix will get a billion letters of condolence. And several newspaper offices will be stormed and bombed.

Truly, there is a sad day coming. The more I think of it, the more cataclysmic it gets. I think this tragedy must be avoided, for the good of the nation. Uncle Walt must live.

I can't think of any better solution than a heart transplant from Little Orphan Annie. I haven't liked that kid for 40 years anyway, ever since one day I got gosh-awful sick from drinking too much Ovaltine.

From the State House

Milliken's plan

By REP. DICK ALLEN

Milliken's school tax proposal is what we've been waiting for!

It won't solve all our problems but it strikes right to the heart of two of the most serious. Number one, of course, is the inequity of the property tax as a major source of school funding.

Milliken's proposal would eliminate property tax for school operation. This will be a tough provision to hold to, but in this area I hope there will be no compromise.

Don't read the articles too rapidly and assume we are talking about no property tax. Both school construction and local government would continue largely on property tax. However, eliminating school operational millage will be major relief, especially in small towns and rural areas.

Only the complete elimination of operational millage gives our 88th District area the kind of property tax I think we deserve. You may remember that I was not a strong supporter of the program proposed by the Governor last session.

The proposal then was to move to a Statewide operational tax of 16 mills. While this would have been a significant reduction from the average of 26 mills, it tended to give the most relief to the areas that I felt needed it least.

Many wealthy suburbs run fine schools by levying millage around 40 mills. Most of the schools in our area have around 20.

THUS A REDUCTION to 16 would have been great relief for the very areas that tend to support property taxes, but would not do much for the kind of districts (like ours) that seem most upset with this form of taxation.

The second major problem that should be greatly lessened by the new proposal is that of school costs increasing much faster than tax revenues. The income tax and the value added tax recommended to replace property tax should grow with the economy and we will not need the constant increase in rates that has been necessary with property tax.

Since for each dollar of tax relief there will be at least a dollar increase on someone else, a critical question is this. Who will be helped and who will be hurt?

Primary benefits will fall to low income property owners such as retired people and businessmen with high investments in property related to their income, such as farmers. It seems to me both these groups are in desperate need of the relief.

Those hurt most will be salaried and professional people with high incomes related to the amount of property owned. Does this group deserve to be so treated? The truth is no. They are already heavily hit by graduated Federal taxes. But in my opinion their relief should come from the Federal level, especially as defense spending is reduced.

Are there other problems? Yes. A major one in my opinion is that in moving to State tax sources we will lose some of the local control we have cherished in the past. More about this later.

Guest editorial

Fooling ourselves in Vietnam

Editors' note—The following editorial is taken from a speech delivered by Tom Wicker of the New York Times. He was speaking at an anti-war teach-in Feb. 22 at Harvard University, and sums up, we feel, the mood of the Indo-China War.

(Reprinted from Lapeer County Press.) This old war, from beginning to end, has been rooted and grounded in misapprehension. I recall being in Vietnam in early 1966 with Hubert Humphrey, who was then Vice President. At the conclusion of that trip, we were taken around to the Ambassador's house. The Ambassador was then Henry Cabot Lodge — I'm sure most of you remember Henry Cabot Lodge. And Mr. Lodge sat at one side of the portico there, and the Vice President of the United States sat at the other side, and they lined up the television cameras back here, and in between they sat six hapless, helpless American advisers to local district officials, and they said "Fellas, how's it going? They told them how it was going. It was going pretty good.

And I was a rookie at that game and was taking notes pretty madly there, and a friend of mine who had spent about two years in Vietnam came up to me and said, "This sounds good, doesn't it? You ought to have heard what that fellow told me the other night when I was talking with him in his tent. What he said did not go anywhere near what he said on the television cameras."

So I think that, in many ways, is the story of this war. We've been fooling ourselves. We've been fooling ourselves time and time again. In 1961 the White House press group at the time went down to Fort Bragg with President Kennedy, and we saw the Green Berets at practice for what we called counter-insurgency in those days. While this show was going on, a reporter from Agence France-Presse came over to me and whispered in my ear and said — he had been in Indo-China as far back as 1951 — "All this looks great. But none of it worked when we tried it in 1951." And it didn't.

But we fooled ourselves with counter-insurgency. We fooled ourselves with the bombing campaign. I remember when the planes went north from Danang and Pleiku. We all heard glorious stories of how we were going to pulverize them up there and within 18 months they were going to come to the conference table and bring peace. There was a story in the New York Times that deserves honor — at least one on that occasion. It was written by a man named Charley Mohr, who was then and is now our premier war correspondent. Charley brought out an important point. He said that the problem at Pleiku — those of you who have read the history may remember that that was the place where there were some American airplanes and some American troops before they officially had a combat role, and that base was guarded by a perimeter of South Vietnamese troops. The perimeter was pierced, and the Vietcong came through and destroyed our planes at the base and killed a number of Americans. The next day, President Johnson ordered the beginning of the bombing attacks on the North. Charley Mohr pointed out in his article what has been true of this war from the start: that if the South Vietnamese can't hold the perimeter against the Vietcong in the South, then you can't do anything by bombing the North. But we fooled ourselves at that time into thinking we could do something with bombing in the North.

We fooled ourselves that we were pursuing the lesson of Munich. We fooled ourselves that somewhere in Peking, or in Hanoi, perhaps, but somewhere over there, there was a Hitler and we were holding the line against aggression. We fooled ourselves that a half-million ground troops put in there with all their firepower could take care of a few little brown men.

Well, we've found since then that in the efforts to go in there — if there was ever any validity to the effort of going in to try and protect people, if that's what we thought we were doing — we found that in the long run to protect those people we were having to destroy them. And that was fooling ourselves with a vengeance.

We fooled ourselves in the progress we were making. I was at a dinner party in Washington along about that time — the fall of 1966, I believe. A very high Administration official came up to me and assaulted me, verbally, in front of a lot of people that I didn't like to be assaulted brutally in front of. He said to me, "Why does your paper print lies? And I said, "Well I can't defend that case. Which lie are you talking about?" And he said that when "the Buddhists attacked Hue last month, you printed a story in your paper that said they captured the radio station and held it for two hours and broadcast anti-governmental propaganda." And he said, "I didn't believe that." And he said, "I picked up the phone and called our man in Hue. And he said they didn't take that radio station over there, to broadcast their propaganda. Now, why do you print lies like that?"

I said, "Mr. Secretary, there isn't very much I can do about that. I don't know." A few months later, I was in Vietnam, and I went to Hue and I found the Secretary's man in Hue, and I found that he was only too eager to tell me that the Buddhists had indeed taken that radio station, and broadcast propaganda. But you didn't expect him to tell that to the Secretary of State in a long-distance telephone call. Well, we fooled ourselves. The American people are still fooling themselves. We are fooling ourselves on the Vietnamization program. We are told Vietnamization will bring a generation of peace. And not just peace but peace with honor, which is going to prevent the establishment of a Communist government or something less than a non-Communist government in South Vietnam. Vietnamization isn't going to do any one of those things. And, furthermore, even to the extent that Vietnamization will remove our troops from Vietnam, whether or not it brings a generation of peace, whether or not that peace has honor, Vietnamization has required the invasion of two countries and the bombing of three to evacuate one, and that is a policy that seems to me to have very little future to it and very little profit.

Worst of all, we are fooling ourselves that this war is winding down. This war is not winding down. It's not winding down for six million refugees. It's not winding down for the people on whom the bombs drops, for the children on whom the napalm drops, for those one million people who are going to be moved out of the northern provinces into the southern provinces. It's not winding down for the nearly one million refugees created in Cambodia after the incursion there. It's not winding down on the Plaine des Jarres, where we have dropped more bombs than we did throughout World War II. It's not even winding down for the Thais, because the Chinese have resumed building a road through the northern part of Laos up to Thailand. With our incursion into Laos, the Thais are going to become vulnerable.

So this war is not winding down. It's another case in which we are fooling ourselves. The American people have been fooling themselves over there for 10 long years that their aim is selfless and their cause is just. Yet the truth of the matter is that it has always been a war for American objectives, however dubious and illusory they may be. It has become in recent years a war to conceal original American folly, if not original American sin. It has become a war to preserve American vanity, a war to preserve American self-regard and to preserve American delusions of grandeur. It's become a war of war crimes for those purposes.

We are fooling ourselves when we think that the war is winding down, and, above all, when we think that through any means whatsoever there can be honor in the end in a war which had no honor in the beginning and has even less in the process.

And, in the great tradition of this war, many of us, and many of us here in this hall tonight, are still fooling ourselves. There are some who are fooling themselves that nothing can be done. Well, something has been done. I wouldn't want to characterize it as much or little, but something has been done.

We stopped the bombing once; we suggest that it could be stopped again.

We got negotiations going once, and perhaps we can do it again.

We got one President out, and perhaps we can do that again.

We got one party turned by the hunger of being out of office from a war party to a peace party, and perhaps we can do that again.

We have done some things, and I say we can do more things.

There are some in this hall, however, who are fooling themselves into thinking that we can do it overnight. The history of this war is not merely a history of misapprehension — it is a history of the search for a quick fix. Something that would get it over with quickly — invasions of Laos and Cambodia. And, among those who want to end the war out of peaceful motives and who want to restore the character of America, those who think that they can do it with a quick fix are just as wrong, and, in the long run, are going to do just as much damage. This is true because the American people have not simply been duped and misled into a disaster. I think we must face up to the fact — and I know many who do face up to the fact — that there is something deeply wrong in our country. Something has gone wrong in our country, and it is not merely the war in Vietnam. The war is the sickest fruit of what is wrong in our country — it is not the only thing wrong. They all stem from the same basic problems in our society, which are the distorted values by which we have sought personal affluence and physical power and military power in the world as against human values and things that improve the human quality of life.

I believe that we can stop this war and I believe that we can deal with the problems that face the United States of America. I believe that we can redeem the soul of our country — I believe in redemption, and I believe that we can do it. But suppose, ladies and gentlemen, suppose we cannot. Just in case we can't, I will tell you what I think. Suppose we cannot redeem our country. I believe with the poet that a man's reach should exceed his grasp. I believe with William Faulkner that the basest of all things is to be afraid. And I hold with Cavalry Honor to those who guard their Thermopylae, even if in the end Ephialtes will appear and the Medes will go through. If we're going to think that only success matters in the effort to redeem America, then we shall fail before we begin.

Ballenger vows, ed plan support

LANSING—State Sen. William S. Ballenger (R-Ovid) Tuesday praised Gov. William G. Milliken for his updated Special Message on Educational Financing and pledged his support to legislative efforts to enact the Governor's Program immediately.

"The Governor's proposals should be recognized for no less than what they are—a mandate to the Legislature to move off dead center on the single most critical issue now facing the State of Michigan, and that's the quality and financing of K-12 education in Michigan," Ballenger said. He said he was "particularly delighted" by Milliken's suggestion that property taxes for local school operations be eliminated completely.

"In my opinion, the Governor has come a long way since his original Educational Reform message of 1969," Ballenger added. "The sheer boldness and sweep of what the Governor is now recommending should excite educators throughout the state as well as the general public."

Ballenger said that public school administrators, school board members and teachers throughout Michigan should fall behind the Governor's program as quickly and forcefully as possible.

"THE TIME for nit-picking has long since passed," Ballenger declared. "The people of this state can no longer afford the luxury of pulling and carping and whining about this, that, or the other thing that they don't agree with 100%. Let's face it: We're never going to get any sort of Educational Reform package that's perfectly acceptable to everybody."

But what the Governor has come up with represents about a 500% improvement over the status quo, which is downright miserable." Ballenger said he was willing to forego his long-time championing of the so-called "Spencer" plan of financing Michigan K-12 education because, in his words, what the Governor is now proposing "ranges far beyond the Spencer plan in courage, imagination, and vision."

The 30-year-old lawmaker said that he would be willing to support efforts to scuttle the Spencer School Aid Plan for 1971-72 and adopt the Governor's 1971-72 School Aid Plan instead if he could be assured that the Legislature would enact most or all of the Governor's recommendations for 1972-73 and place two key amendments to the State Constitution on this coming November's General Election ballot for a state-wide referendum.

By WARREN E. DOBSON
We harp about our young folk
With too much time on hand,
Why can't they be more helpful?
We'll never understand
But often we discover
Our juvenile laws a mess
That restrict the would-be laborer
To a life of idleness!

Until you are eighteen or more—
So our labor laws advise—
You must have ready permit
Before you exercise;
You must not wander near machine,
You must not tilt or that,
Watch out for an electric spark
If you should stroke a cat!

The family car or motor-boat
Of course are quite O.K.,
But lift as much as fifty pounds?
It's certainly X-Nay.
You still can roam about at large,
Handle weapons of destruction,
But never are allowed to run
The tools of production,

There's jobs awaiting all who yearn
To help make worthy goals,
E'en though we still deny to them
The freedom of the polls,
A job well done is building
That benefits us all,
Why force unwanted idleness,
When they would carry the ball?

Ed and tax reform

By SEN. WILLIAM S. BALLENGER

Gov. William G. Milliken earlier last week unveiled his long-awaited updated and amended Education and Tax Reform package which he hopes to see enacted into law by July 1, 1972.

The "education reform" part of it is pretty much the same as the portion of his program which failed the first time it was offered to the Legislature—largely, at that time, because it became enmeshed in the Parochial debacle.

The "tax-reform" aspect of the Governor's package has some new features, but essentially it would:

—Eliminate the property tax as a source of operating funds for schools;

—Increase the personal income tax by 2.3 per cent to a total of 5.9 per cent. This would be in addition to a one per cent increase he recommended for other purposes earlier in the year; and —Apply a 2 per cent "value added" tax—which, depending on how you look at it, would be a restoration of the business activities tax or, more realistically, an addition to the sales tax.

Calling the "value added" tax a "sales tax" makes sense because, let's face it, manufacturing taxes are always passed on to the consumer ultimately.

The Governor claimed his proposals would shift major school financing from the property tax to what he terms "more equitable" taxes—the income tax and the "value added" tax.

HE WANTS THE Legislature to call a special odd-year General Election this fall to submit his property tax proposal (and another to make the State Board of Education an appointive, rather than elective, body) to a statewide vote of the people. This is necessary because the two proposals require changing the State Constitution.

The Governor said "total property tax relief" would be $1.1 billion—with $618 million falling to individual property taxpayers and $500 million to business.

He said the loss on individually-held property would be made up by the 2.3 per cent increase in the income tax and the loss of the business tax would be made up by the "value added" tax.

The Governor said he would also propose a "substantial reduction" in the present business franchise tax.

While the Governor's message did not put any dollar value on his package, he did say that "a simple 'trade-off' of tax dollars is not sufficient; there must be more money for schools."

The message proposes turning "completely away from the property tax for general school operating purposes." Another section of the message recommends that "an optional locally-voted millage be allowed up to a maximum of six mills."

There is little quarrel generally with the idea of shifting major emphasis on school financing from the property taxes to other means. But some legislative tax experts feel that elimination of the property tax completely as a means of financing education may be too drastic a move because it would remove an important element of stability which the property tax provides.

One tax expert opined that "if this program had been in effect this year, with the national economy down and the 67-day General Motors strike, most school districts of the state would have been in bankruptcy."

But cutting through all the descriptive and explanatory verbiage, I think the Governor's proposals should be recognized for no less than what they are—a mandate to the Legislature to move off dead center on the single most critical issue now facing the State of Michigan, and that's the quality and financing of K-12 education in Michigan.

IN MY OPINION, the Governor has come a long way since his original Education Reform message of 1969. The sheer boldness and sweep of what the Governor is now recommending should excite educators throughout the state as well as the general public.

I believe public school administrators, school board members, and teachers throughout Michigan should rally behind the Governor's program as quickly and forcefully as possible.

The time for nit-picking has long since passed. The people of this state can no longer afford the luxury of pulling and tugging and shinning about this, that, or the other thing that should be done with 100 per cent.

Let's face it: We're never going to get any sort of Education Reform package that's perfectly acceptable to everybody. But what the Governor has come up with represents about a 500 per cent improvement over the status quo, which is downright miserable.

Washington Reports

This week

Rep. U.S. Garry Brown 3rd, Congressional Dist.

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Following is a summary of the major activity in the House and Senate last week. Congress is in recess this week.

Major Action in the House: Feed Grain Base: The House defeated a proposal which would have given certain sugar beet farmers access to the feed grain base. The bill was initially introduced to provide relief for sugar beet farmers in Utah, Montana and Minnesota, where several sugar beet processing companies have closed down plants recently, eliminating major market areas for sugar beets.

To participate under the proposed legislation, the farmers would have had to idle 20 per cent of their base acreage.

The successful opponents of the measure contended that even if you assumed that the sugar beet farmers were deserving of some relief, this was no way to provide it. The government would have been paying sugar beet farmers not to grow corn which they had never grown in the first place.

Office of Education Appropriation Bill for Fiscal Year 1972: By a vote of 354-7, the House approved a $4.8 billion budget for the Office of Education for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1972. That is a quarter of a billion increase over the present fiscal year, and a net increase of $131 million over the President's request.

An amendment to increase these expenditures by more than $700 million was offered on the floor of the House and was narrowly defeated, 192-187. Last year a similar increase was approved by the Congress and then vetoed by the President. The President stated then that such an increase would be inflationary. Nevertheless, the Congress overrode the veto.

Investigatory Authority for Committee on Education and Labor: The House approved the Committee's conducting investigations in areas falling within its jurisdiction in order to determine the needs for legislation.

Major Action in the Senate: Export-Import Bank Amendments of 1971: The Senate approved measures to allow for greater expansion of United States export trade, including the exclusion of the Bank's receipts and disbursements from the Federal budget and extending for three years the period within which the Bank is authorized to exercise its functions.

This Week in Congress: Congress is in recess. The Senate will reconvene Wednesday, the 14th, and the House, Monday, the 19th.
