

An array of color in sight and sound

The sounds were as brilliant as the colors this past weekend when students at Rodney B. Wilson High School staged Lerner and Loewe's liting musical, "Brigadoon." And those who could force themselves from humming at play's end had nothing but praise for the production which was presented three consecutive evenings to near SRO crowds. Lead roles were played by Chris Cornell, Bob Friesen, Tom Fowler, Sheryl Pulliam and Teresa Smith, but the collective talents of the entire cast, musicians and production crew shone brilliantly and brought steady responses from the audience which ended with long applause. The production was under the direction of Eric VanCamp of the high school's music department.

Marie Feldpausch fund started for kidney machine

The Marie Feldpausch fund inched its way toward the $5,000 goal this week after employees of Federal-Mogul Corporation in St. Johns contributed a total of $560. The fund, established by a group of Fowler residents for the purpose of purchasing a kidney machine for Mrs. Feldpausch, was started this month and contributions have begun coming in steadily.

To date, a total of $3,900 has been received. The cost of the machine is now $2,900 and the balance of the fund will be needed for accessories, filters and medications.

Mrs. Feldpausch has been on a kidney machine since last winter and travels to Lansing General Hospital, two or three times a week for treatments. She was afflicted with toxic poisoning during her last pregnancy and now has one kidney that completely fails to function and the other is in poor condition.

Mrs. Feldpausch is 38 years old and has seven children. She was born in Fowler and graduated from Fowler High School. Her husband is employed at Oldsmobile in Lansing, and they reside at 531 N. Main Street, Fowler.

On Sunday evening, May 4, Mrs. Feldpausch suffered a convulsion and fell cutting her eye. This injury required four stitches to close. Her mother, Mrs. Clara Schafer, of Lansing, reported that a call to her daughter on Monday morning disclosed that she was feeling much better.

Mrs. Feldpausch has received extensive help from her mother, Mrs. Schafer, and two sisters, Mrs. Robert Thurston and Mrs. Leona Miller.

Several anonymous donations have been received for the fund and residents who would care to contribute may send contributions to the Marie Feldpausch Fund, care of the Fowler branch of Clinton National Bank and Trust Company, 124 N. Main Street, Fowler.

NEW LAUNDROMAT FOR FOWLER

Ground-breaking ceremonies were conducted Monday morning for a new laundromat on east M-21 in Fowler and present for the event were, left to right, Richard Spaans, Harold Ball, Dick Christensen, and Jim and Bob Fedewa. The new building will be owned and constructed by Fedewa Builders, Inc. and Ball will be owner-operator of the business. The facility will house fifty units and construction plans call for an August first opening.

Hear mental health plans

The Clinton County board of supervisors lumbered through a regular session Monday, considering resolutions from nearby county supervisors, mental health, tornado identification, zoning, county employee insurance programs and a few spur of the moment suggestions from their numbers.

Highlight of the morning session was a presentation by Walt Nickel outlining the needs for a mental health services program in Clinton County.

The statement, prepared for presentation to the supervisors as well as the Act 54 board which was formed to coordinate a mental health program in the county, pin-pointed the critical areas in the county and suggested the merit of a satellite program to increase the effectiveness of mental health treatment.

The establishment of a satellite program in the county, to operate on a budget of $15,000 "looks favorable" Nickel told the supervisors. This budget, he explained, will be supplemented with in-kind contributions such as donation of office space and consultation rooms, possibly at the Clinton Memorial Hospital.

Currently, mental health clients, students and adults, are being referred to facilities at Lansing and it is hoped that a mental health satellite program in the county will alleviate the frequent trips between points in Clinton County and Lansing.

Nickel pointed out that the principal office will be in the Clinton Memorial Hospital but interview and contact points will be established at various locations throughout the county.

Manning the program initially will require two full-time and one part-time person, Nickel explained. The Clinton County satellite operations will be a part of the tri-county Mental Health Center currently offering services in Eaton, Ingham and Clinton counties.

Based on information compiled since the group's first general meeting in February, incidence of referrals for mental health treatment from areas closer to Lansing suggests that time and distance are hindrances to regular referrals. In addition the report suggests that local facilities would encourage greater use because residents would be more familiar with them.

Other encouragements for instituting a satellite program was the availability of qualified professional help, savings potential through preventative services which would cut future populations of mental hospitals, prisons or other institutions and helping persons become fully contributing members of society.

Nickel urged the board to appropriate the necessary funds and was generally accepted by most supervisors.

Charles Frost, county civil defense director, presented a film strip and printed literature to the board outlining various cloud formations related to tornadoes. His film and comments were supported by pamphlets on "Skywarn" a system of storm notification designed to alert residents threatened by severe weather.

A representative from the Grand River Watershed Council reviewed the program designed to provide recreational and flood-control facilities in the Grand River basin. Stoney Creek and the Maple and Lookingglass rivers through Clinton County, are part of the overall plan which will eventually see man-made reservoirs in areas of the county. One is the Sleepy Hollow project and the other is the Portland project which will backup waters from the Lookingglass to form a large lake in the southwestern corner of the county. The entire development is a fifteen year plan.

Supervisors generally voted concurrence to the suggestions of Individual letters of thanks sent to Federal-Mogul employees

Employees and management of Federal-Mogul Corp. have received letters from the Feldpausch children thanking them for their contribution of over $560 toward the fund to provide their mother with a kidney machine.

The letter contained the names of all seven of the Feldpausch youngsters, including Tom, 18; Judy, 17; Debbie, 16; Beth, 15; Jerry, 13; Ellen, 11 and Jeff, 4 months.

The letter explained the youngsters' desire to thank everyone in person and briefed each of the recipients on their mother's current status. A note of thanks also was extended the women who took time to organize the collection, the completion of which was accomplished entirely on their own time.

The four who conducted the drive were Doris Prowant, Alvina Bast, Julia Gavenda and Doris Thompson. The latter pair made a special change of shifts to insure that all employees at Federal-Mogul were contacted and given an opportunity to share in the contributions.

According to Mrs. Prowant, the amount collected averaged out to approximately $100 per hour and each of the donors were encouraged to sign a roster. Nevertheless, many anonymous gifts were received from donors wishing to have their names omitted from the list.

The letter from the Feldpausch children was mailed to individual employees and management at Federal-Mogul and read as follows:

"Dear Federal Mogul Employees and Management: We would like to thank each of you personally for what you have done for our mother but that would be impossible. So we hope you will accept this as a big 'THANK YOU'!!!

"Right now our mother is in the hospital again, where she has spent most of her time the last five months, but we hope someday when we will get the machine and more prayers she will be able to be home with us.

"We would also like to thank the women for their time and effort for having the campaign for us. We would also like to thank the ladies who sent us all the goodies.

"Thank you again, The Feldpausch Kids."

Everyone Carts Home the Savings with IGA WINNING PRICES!

Jack Smit, president of Northwest Salvage Incorporated of Williamston and several employees have been busy this past week with the tearing down of a house at 105 Spring Street. Smit, estimates the age of the structure at 60 years and says it was unusual in that most of the wood used in its construction was oak and maple, (the majority of homes built at that time were pine).

Supervisors approve employee insurance, deny rezoning requests the county planning commission as Chairman Bill Coffey presented data and recommendations regarding requests for rezoning designations.

The first support came on a request for the operation of a gravel pit on DeWitt Road between Stoll and Clark roads. The commission recommended denial and the supervisors disapproved the request.

The second disapproval was tossed against a request for rezoning an area on Taft Road immediately west of US-27 for construction of a duplex housing unit. The request had been entered by Robert Smith. The final denial was extended to Herman Bosma's request for redesignation of an area on M-21 adjacent to the Masonic Lodge for use to operate a used car lot.

Following these actions the board approved the appointment of Stan Loznak of Elsie to the education division of the planning commission.

And finally, after some parliamentary antics, the board approved the installation of an insurance program June 1, 1969 for all full-time employees and elected officials in the county. Included in the benefits are death payments of $7,500 and $5,000, based on the amount earned by the employee.

Supervisor Maurice Gove indicated displeasure with that arrangement and attempted to tack on an amendment which would call for even payment of $7,500 for everyone. The motion was defeated and Supervisor Gene Landford's motion for the original policy and coverages was accepted.

Cost of the plan is $703.29 monthly with indemnity for all eligible persons amounting to 70% of weekly salary for a period of 26 weeks with an initial week time lapse.

WELCOME VISITORS TO NURSING HOMES

Mrs. Kitty Becher and Mrs. Betty Mabie of the Rivard Nursing Home in St. Johns extend an invitation to all to visit area nursing homes during the week of May 11 through the 17th. Mrs. Becher lives at 207 S. Swegles Street, and hopes to go home soon. She has six children, 17 grandchildren and 22 great grandchildren. She was employed at the E. F. Bron Company for several years before she retired.

Agri-Business Involves Farmers and Consumers

Agriculture and related agribusiness is big business in Michigan. Michigan produces agricultural commodities with a retail value of nearly 2.5 billion dollars annually.

Latest figures indicate the trend toward fewer, and larger, farms is continuing in Michigan, as more of the rural population seeks life in suburbia.

At the same time, value of farms is increasing. At the end of 1967, farm land and buildings in the state were valued at more than 3.5 billion dollars.

Many residents of Michigan are surprised to learn that the Department of Agriculture devotes approximately 75 percent of its time to consumer protection services.

Through its programs of meat, dairy and food inspection, insuring the purity and wholesomeness of food supplies, it serves primarily as an agency of protection for Michigan housewives and their families. It also checks on plant pests and diseases which can destroy lawn shrubs, plants and trees. The department laboratory conducts the necessary tests to support these programs.

All these activities are carried out by the department's Bureau of Consumer Protection, which is responsible for the administration of more than 200 laws and regulations involving purity and sanitation of foods, weights and measures standards for foods and other retail products, as well as matters affecting the ability to produce and process foods.

The Department's activities are many and varied. Just a few examples of its other areas of responsibility include: the Michigan State Fair, cooperating with county fairs throughout the state, the Racing Commission, various commodity groups such as the Apple, Bean, Cherry and Potato organizations, and the State Soil Conservation committee.

Damaged Currency
The U.S. Treasury will redeem a damaged bill at face value if three-fifths of the original is intact. If less than three-fifths but more than two-fifths of the bill remains, it is worth half its face value.

Deadlines

Because we haven't heard of a newspaper that suddenly materializes with all news, advertising copy and pictures in place and in A-1 condition, it becomes necessary for the Clinton County News to impose deadlines to insure a smooth flow of copy so that as much material as possible may be printed in proper form. Toward this end, these deadlines are now in effect:

- Display advertising.....Monday noon.
- Classified advertising.....Monday noon.
- Letters to the editor.....Thursday, 5 p.m.
- News for farm pages.....Thursday noon.
- Wedding stories, pictures.....Thursday noon.
- Other contributed pictures.....Monday noon.

- Regular columns.....Friday, 9 a.m.
- Sports page items.....Monday, 5 p.m.
- Teen activities page items.....Thursday, 5 p.m.
- Other contributed items.....Monday, 5 p.m.

Earlier submission of news items is greatly appreciated, with the result that more attention can be given to them. Items will be accepted after the deadline, but will be used ONLY if time and space are available. Requests for pictures to be taken by the County News staff should be made as soon as possible and never less than 24 hours before the picture time.

4-H Club Chatter

By JOHN AYLSWORTH
Extension 4-H Youth Agent

The Clinton County 4-H clubs, the Ovid-Elsie FFA and FHA were out in force Saturday in cleaning up the county roadsides. Many of the clubs indicated the roads they cleaned up last year were much easier this year, but the others were quite heavy with litter. A number of groups will be working this Saturday in cleaning their area so a final report will not be made until next week.

Forty-three 4-H members will be leaving Saturday for the County 4-H Award Trip to Detroit. They will be touring Greenfield Village in the morning, eat lunch at the Top of The Flame Restaurant and attend a cinerama in the afternoon.

4-H club officers are reminded to attend the county 4-H Officers Training Workshop on Thursday, May 15, 7:30 p.m. at St. Johns High School. Adult resource people will work with the presidents, vice presidents, secretaries, treasurers, newsreporters and recreation leaders on their duties and responsibilities in their local club.

The public is invited to the county 4-H talent contest on Friday, May 9, 7:30 p.m. at St. Johns High School. There are 20 acts in the categories of instrumental, vocal, dance and drama. Four acts will be selected to represent the county in the district contest on July 11 at Ionia.

Progress report on contributions for Kathy Nichols' trip to Japan on the National 4-H Teen Caravan Program show $550. Contributions this past week included $10 from Lucky Riders 4-H Club, $40 from Olive 4-H Projects Club, $4 from the Happy Hustlers 4-H Club and $32.40 from our 4-H Roller Skating Activity on April 29.

Our congratulations go to Kathy Davis of the Olive 4-H Projects Club and to Larry Borton of the Watertown-Grove 4-H Club who have been selected to serve as leader-developers for the State 4-H Youth Week at Michigan State University, June 11-14. Larry and Kathy were delegates to the Youth Week last year and were asked to return to help with the program.

Any 4-H club interested in having a 4-H softball team this summer should contact the Extension Office by May 10. If we have enough teams we will set up a schedule for the summer.

Members with 4-H beef projects are reminded to attend the 4-H beef fitting and training meeting on Wednesday, May 14, 7:00 p.m. at Smith Hall in St. Johns. Dr. Richard Dunn, Extension Specialist from Michigan State University will be present to discuss fitting and showing of beef cattle, judging of beef and trimming of the animals feet.

The Victor 4-H Club members have selected Mike Rann as their club president for this year. Mike is an eight year member active in rabbits, photography and outdoor cookery projects. Other officers elected were as follows:

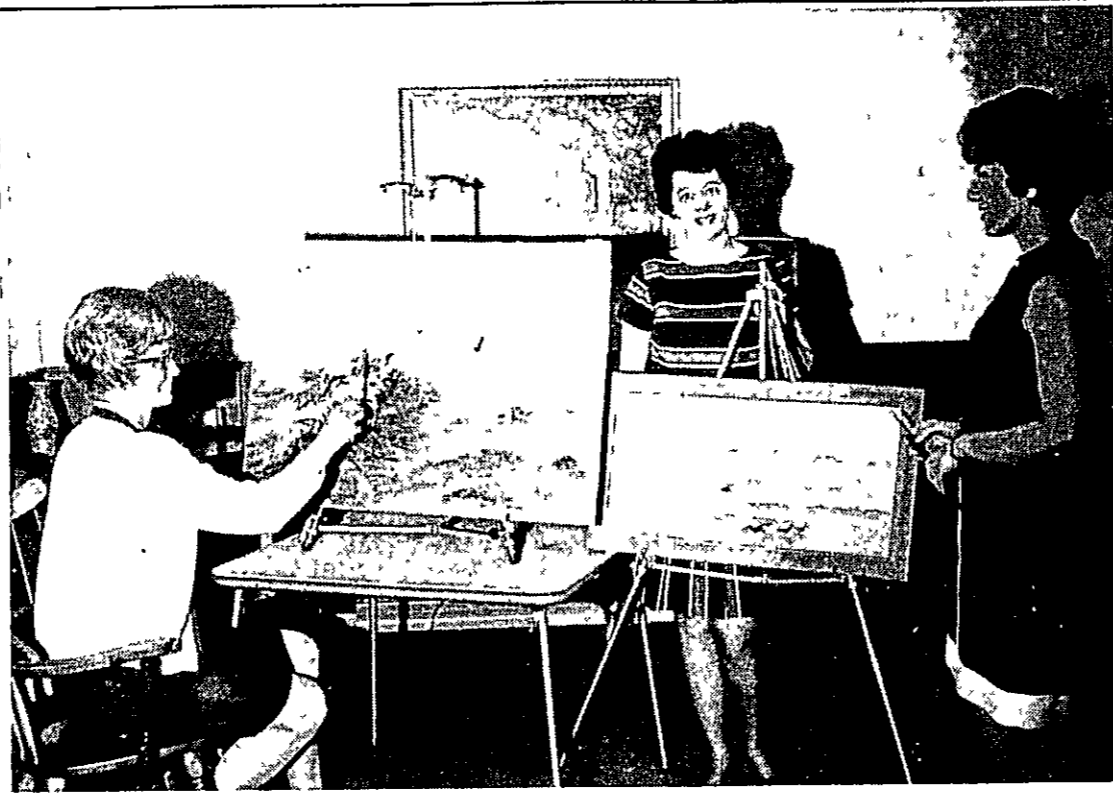

vice president, Marry Dunn; secretary and reporter, Linda VanVelsor; and treasurer, Lori Matleson. The club voted to participate in the county litter clean-up project last Saturday. The new organizational leader this year will be Mrs. Larry Jones. Members were enrolled for the year following the meeting.

The Border 4-H Club composed of 4-H members near the Clinton-Eaton County line have elected officers for the summer program. They are: president, Vicki Roesch; vice president, Josie Wohlschled; secretary, Tena Tower; treasurer, Laure Palmeter. The officers will attend the officers training workshop on May 15 in St. Johns. The members are planning an active program including a grocery shopping tour, summer evening snacks for parents, a family potluck supper and a taste exhibit.

The Spring Valley Coolettes 4-H Club of Ovid held their organizational meeting for the summer under the leadership of Mrs. Jack Schwark and Marie Bancroft. Officers elected were as follows: president, Julie Jorae; vice president, Judy Schwark; secretary, LuAnn Bancroft; news reporter, Annette Chamberlain; recreation leader, Cindy Arnetty; pledge leader, LuAnn Rummell; teen leaders, Lois Hibbard and Annette Chamberlain. Food projects for the summer were discussed with home design and ceramics added this year. A ceramics course will be available at reduced prices for 4-H'ers in the Ovid area. Anyone interested in this project should contact Mrs. Jack Schwark. Demonstrations were given by Judy Schwark on "How to Measure" and by Julie Jorae and Annette Chamberlain on the "ABC's of Kitchen Safety." The club cleaned up their assigned area Saturday on "Operation Clean Sweep" litter project.

The Stony Creek 4-H Club members will meet on Monday, May 12, 7:30 p.m. at the Bingham EUB Church. Business includes election of officers and planning the club program. Members taking the vegetable and flower projects are to bring a pencil drawing of their garden map listing size and varieties they plan to plant. A demonstration will be given by Janet and Diane Davis. The club leaders are Mr. and Mrs. Duane Davis, Mrs. Gary Lawrence, Dale Kuenzilt and Denny Morrison.

The Green Clover Community 4-H Club will have 21 members enrolled for the summer program. The elected officers are as follows: president, Eric Barks; vice president, Ann Smith; secretary-reporter, Pearl Pytlowany; treasurer, Sally Rademacher; and recreation leaders, Cathy Rademacher and Melvin Rademacher. Annual meeting of hospital board set

The annual trustee meeting of the Clinton Memorial Hospital has been slated for the evening of May 15 beginning at 7:30 and according to Board President Alan R. The bride who was given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of ivory organza over taffeta. The skirt was trimmed with lace roses. The bodice featured seed pearl trim and a high lace neckline. Her chapel train was attached at the shoulders and the mantilla-type illusion veil was fingertip length, outlined with roses and secured to an ivory crown.

The high bodice featured a bow and soft pleats from the neckline to the floor in back. The attendants each carried arm bouquets of mums the color of their gowns. Their veil headpieces were secured to a crown of matching color.

The bridesmaids were Miss Selinda Powers, sister of the bride, who wore pastel blue nylon; Miss Victoria Hogel, sister of the groom, who wore pastel apricot; Mrs Daniel Olson in pastel green; and Mrs Harold Zigler, pastel yellow. The bridesmaids gowns were styled identical to the maid of honor.

Melinda Moats of Charlotte, cousin of the groom, was flower girl. She wore a white floor length gown with a white net headpiece and carried a miniature bouquet identical to the bride's.

Dale Canull of Albion served as best man and groomsmen were Russell Granger, Richard Decker, Xelle Wyble and Aaron Wyble. Ushers were James Gavena of Maple Rapids and Gary Emery of Albion.

Master Michael Sillman of Maple Rapids served as ring bearer.

The bride's mother chose a yellow lace dress with matching accessories. The groom's mother wore a pink suit with matching accessories. Each wore a corsage of white mums.

Mrs Helen Howe was organist and accompanied Mrs Joan Williams of Perrinton who sang "Somewhere," "Hawaiian Love Song," and other numbers, with the songs interspersing the ceremony. A bit of sentimental tradition was observed in the music as Mrs Williams sang at the

King's Players to present play May 11

ELSIE (C)—David Showers and Miss Brenda Key play the parts of Dr Marcus Whitman and his wife, Narcissa in the stirring religious, historical drama, "A Mighty Fortress," to be presented by the King's Players Inc., in the United Methodist Church at Elsie. The play will begin at 7:30 p.m. on May 11.

David Showers is in his first year with the King's Players. He is a graduate of Ovid-Elsie High School and is now a speech and drama major at Asbury College, Wilmore, Ky. He plans to attend the Asbury Theological Seminary in the future. His parents are Rev and Mrs Gordon Showers, who is now pastor of the United Methodist Churches at Elsie and Duplain.

Rivard Nursing home hosts meeting

An open meeting was held on Wednesday evening, April 30, at the Rivard Nursing Home to discuss current legislation regarding convalescent homes in the state.

William Ballenger, district representative, was guest for the evening. Mrs Gladys Hetzel and Mrs Beatrice Rivard were the hostesses. Others who attended were Jack Rank, central regional director of the Green Meadows Nursing Home in Stockbridge, Mrs Dietz of the Ovid Manor Nursing Home, Mrs Corp, Mrs Martin, Mrs Woolley and Mrs Beach. From the Avon Nursing Home, Mrs Stanley, Gerald Gillson, Chicco Day and Judy Stocking. Mrs Robert Koeppin of the Lutheran Church was also a guest.

The group discussed the problems involved with nursing home care and the laws being made by the state to control them. Many nursing homes are having difficulty operating under the new restrictions. The first consideration should always be for the benefit of the patients and often they consider a nursing home their "permanent home" and they dislike being moved about.

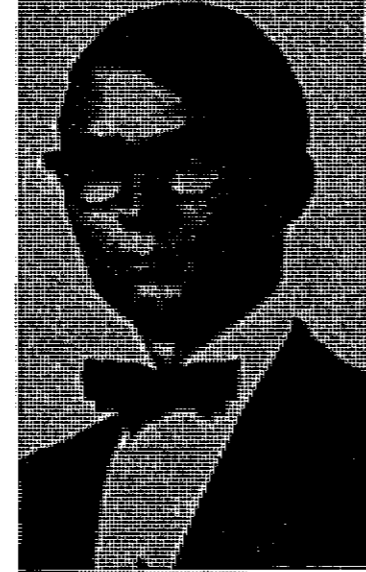

Beginning on Mother's Day, May 11th the nation will observe National Nursing Home Week. Everyone is extended a special invitation to visit the patients and see the homes during this time.

Brenda Key is also a sophomore at Asbury College majoring in speech and drama.

"A Mighty Fortress," written by Jane Erickson, is based on the factual history of Dr Marcus Whitman, a medical missionary to the Oregon Territory in 1836. He served the Cayuse Indians in the northwest. The play also concerns his wife Narcissa, the first white woman to cross the Rocky Mountains. It depicts the lives of these dedicated, pioneer missionaries, in an enthralling story full of suspense, adventure and courage.

The King's Players, Inc., is a non-profit religious drama group incorporated in the state of Kentucky, composed of Asbury College students under the direction of Dr and Mrs Mark B. Lloyd, speech professors at Asbury. This is the sixth year that the group has toured.

A free-will offering will be taken to cover the expenses of the tour. Invitations to other churches in the area and all interested people are extended.

Regional VA office moves

Clinton area residents who regularly correspond with the Veterans Administration will soon be advised of a new address for the agency. As of May 9, the regional office will occupy new quarters and their address will be as follows: VA Regional Office, 801 W. Baltimore at Third, P.O. Box 1117-A, Detroit, Michigan 48232.

At the present time the G. L. Bill education and training program is the veteran benefit that most interests returning Viet Nam era veterans. This was confirmed by more than 23,000 such veterans who either mailed or personally brought to the Veterans Administration a reply card inviting them to check specific veteran benefits on which they wanted more detailed information.

The reply card was enclosed with a letter which the VA sent last December to recently discharged veterans reminding them of the various benefits to which they were entitled. Education and training was checked on 67 per cent of the cards received from these 23,000 veterans.

The next most frequently checked benefit on which more information was desired was VA medical or dental treatment — 58 per cent.

A close third at 52 per cent was the G.L. Bill home loan program.

Employment ranked next at 39 per cent, followed by the VA hospital program (35 per cent), on-the-job training (33 per cent), converted Servicemen's Group Life Insurance (23 per cent), and service-connected disability compensation payments (13 per cent).

These statistics represent the per cent of times each benefit area was checked in relation to the number of cards returned.

Except for their greater interest in on-the-job training (44 compared with 31 per cent), disadvantaged veterans who had not completed high school before entering service expressed almost the same degree of interest in the various veteran benefits as veterans with a high school education or more.

All of the nearly 75,000 veterans now being returned to civilian life each month receive this veteran benefit information letter from VA.

Extra for Soap Box Derby builders

Michigan Soap Box Derby builders will be competing in an extra feature event this year.

Not only will the boys be constructing their coasters for local racing competition leading to the All-American in Akron, Ohio, but also for competition in the first annual statewide Soap Box Derby Exposition Week to be held in Pontiac July 7-12.

The Exposition, sponsored by the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission and Michigan Chevrolet dealers, is the first of its kind and is designed to give boys an added incentive to enter the 1969 Soap Box Derby and produce quality coasters.

"The boys who build these racers put in many hours of hard work," said Gerard Lacey, Exposition director. "We feel that for the amount of time and effort it takes to build a quality car, the boys should have more opportunity to display their fine work."

The week-long Exposition at the Pontiac Mall, located at Telegraph and Elizabeth Lake Roads, will feature racers from all over the state competing in this year's Derby.

The cars will be judged by a special panel for a variety of qualities:

- Best overall designed and constructed racer
- Best designed racer
- Best constructed racer
- Best upholstered racer
- Best painted racer
- Most novel design (to be judged by a popular vote of Pontiac Mall patrons)

At stake for first place is a four-year tuition paid scholarship, valued at $3,000, offered by the Lawrence Institute of Technology in Southfield.

All Michigan boys registered in the 1969 Chevrolet Soap Box Derby are eligible to exhibit and compete in the Soap Box Derby Exposition Week and can sign up at their local Chevrolet dealer and derby director.

Tough new licensing law making its first impact

LANSING—Lose your driver's license in Michigan because your lights aren't working just right? And have your insurance rates go up because of it? And to boot, spend three ignominious days in jail? And maybe lose your car in the bargain?

It isn't likely, but it could happen under a new Michigan law which is now making its first impact on the state's driving population.

Secretary of State James M. Hare describes the new law as "too harsh for the traffic violation involved."

"I opposed it when it was introduced in the Legislature last year. And its effects are worse than even I first anticipated," said Hare, in telling about the law commonly referred to as the "Maher bill" named after the former Detroit traffic court judge.

"I backed the so-called 'Illinois' system bill at that time and still feel it would have been far more effective in curbing the 'ticket juggler' in this state."

THE SECRETARY of state traced a hypothetical case which might have occurred last Jan. 1. "Say a motorist received a Jan. 1 ticket for a burned out headlight. His court hearing is set for Jan. 10. At the time of his hearing, he does not appear.

The court under the new law then notifies the motorist of his 'failure to appear summons'. The driver makes no response. His failure to answer summons is mailed by the court to the Central Records section of the Department of State. The motorist is then notified by mail by the secretary of state's office that

Board approves trailer sites

The Clinton County Zoning Board of Appeals approved the location of three trailers in the county at sites other than established trailer courts.

Given permission to occupy mobile homes were Robert Kleeman, Mr and Mrs Albert E. George and Harold Bauman, Jr. The sites approved are properties owned by the occupants of the mobile homes.

The Veterans Of Foreign Wars were happy to have the use of a new Buick Sedan for their District 9 rally at Hemlock on May 4. The car was furnished by Cains Inc., at 210 Higham Street.

his license has been suspended. This becomes a permanent record in the file. All suspensions do.

"The motorist's insurance company, upon learning of this, either cancels or ups the premium on his insurance policy.

Credit bureaus checking against driver files learn of the suspension and take adverse action against the driver's credit rating.

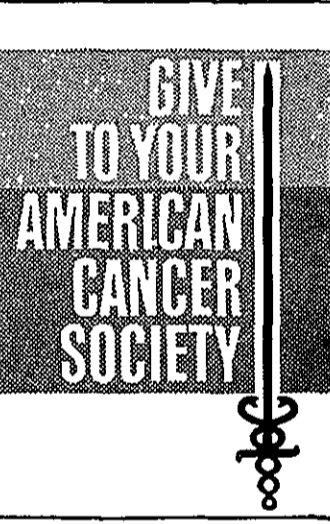

"And all the while, the motorist who may have moved and not notified the secretary of state of a change of address may not know he is suspended.

"HE CONTINUES to drive, oblivious of the problem. He is stopped and charged with 'driving while under suspension'.

"Conviction for this charge is two-fold. The first part is imprisonment of the person's car if he owns it. And the second is a minimum mandatory three-day jail sentence.

"All for a relatively minor equipment violation."

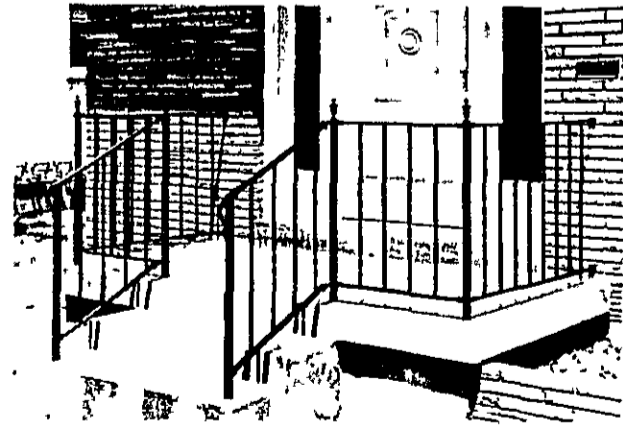

Hare admitted that this isn't likely to happen too often. But it could happen given the right set of circumstances, he said. There were 100,000 equipment violators last year.

Annual meeting held by Clinton County Woman's Club

The 65th annual convention of the Clinton County Federation of Women's Clubs met on Wednesday, April 30, at the United Methodist Church in St. Johns. The St. Johns Woman's Club served as hostess club.

The theme for this year's meeting was "Individual Involvement." The guest speaker for the afternoon session was Dr. Laurine Fitzgerald from the office of student affairs at MSU.

Dr. Fitzgerald chose as her subject, "Campus or Battleground." The current demonstrations around the nation were discussed with a question and answer period following.

She stated student riots, demonstrations, and sit-ins on the college campuses today are created by minority groups, (about three to six per cent). These leaders often have exceptional "leadership ability." They use "words" to their own advantage and can frequently control the masses this way. The followers often feel they would like to be more "involved in society."

Communists are frequently at the base level and some student organizations are, admittedly, directly supported by Communist countries, such as Cuba. Their

The afternoon session was called to order and music numbers presented by the "String Ensemble" of the high school. Dr. Fitzgerald then gave her speech and the committee reports were given.

Mrs. John Rumbaugh served as general chairman for the event and in charge of the morning coffee were Mrs. Oliver Montague, Miss Evelyn Putnam, Mrs. Gayle Vauconsant, Mrs. George Judd and Mrs. Floyd Robinson.

The reception committee was made up of Mrs. Walter Graham, Miss Florence Dexter, Mrs. K. L. Jones and Mrs. Marlon Walling.

The literature and publications for the meeting were under the direction of Mrs. James Spousta, Mrs. Manning Bross, Mrs. John Minsky and Mrs. Stewart Smith.

The elementary art exhibit was presented by Mrs. Winchell Brown, Mrs. Dorra Anderson, Mrs. Peter DeCamp and Mrs. Lawrence Fish. Mrs. Harold Roberts, Mrs. Lloyd Harris and Mrs. Fraser MacKinnon had charge of luncheon arrangements.

Favors for the day were done by Mrs. Van Hoag, Mrs. Joseph Spousta, Mrs. Herman Bosma and Mrs. Arthur Wood. Mrs. Roy Davis introduced the guest speakers and musical numbers for the day.

As a new project for the coming year the county federation voted to work on the immunization clinics for the County Health Department. All of the county clubs will participate.

Mrs. Wayne Finkbelner, projects chairman of the Girl's Town Foundation, Incorporated, spoke to the group about their state-wide project which helps emotionally disturbed girls.

Mrs. Kenneth Leatherman, president of the West Central District, gave a report on the convention in Detroit and also the

'Quiana' - a name to become aware of Textile manufacturers continue to turn out wonderful new fabrics for us. A few new fibers appear from time to time, but most of them are improvements of now fairly well established fibers. A luxury nylon fiber has been fairly recently introduced in some of the women's apparel from a few high fashion houses.

It's a name to be aware of - Quiana - since evidence is such we may see it more and more often.

Quiana is expected to find its way into almost all types of apparel, including hostery. Reports are that Quiana has the feel and appearance of our always popular silk yet also carries those very desirable characteristics of so many manmade fibers - wash and wear-ability, crease retention, wrinkle resistance, shrink resistance, durability, lightness of weight and breathability.

Though higher in price than current nylon, Quiana is still less than real silk. As with most new things, as production increases cost will likely drop some. Research is already underway on a new fiber to compete with Quiana.

stated purpose in the past has been to undermine the educational systems of this nation and we are presently witnessing the result of these plans.

The demonstrations now being staged at some colleges against ROTC are frequently Communist inspired, with the purpose being to degrade the military training of the young men who volunteer for the class.

According to Dr. Fitzgerald, the eighth grade level will be the next target for the Communists. Her advice to parents is to teach children a stronger respect for the law, and the laws of the nation. Get detailed reports from their students on what is going on in the school. Encourage students to find a job when possible to give them a sense of involvement in the world and in current affairs.

Another aim of the Communists is to undermine the administration of schools on the high school and college level. She emphasized, however, that not all students who are involved in these demonstrations are Communists.

During the afternoon session the federation was entertained by the "Octaves" of Rodney B. Wilson High School. This group is composed of Tom Fowler, Jim Mead, Chris Cornell and Bill LeFevre.

The reports were given by the officers and a roll call of the clubs was held with a two minute report given by the various club presidents. A luncheon was then served at the church, and those members who were interested, visited the courthouse where Ernest Carter, county clerk, gave them a tour of the new addition.

Brown named to urban group

Representative Robert A. Taft Jr., (R-Ohio), chairman of the House Republican Research Committee, has announced the appointment of Third District Congressman Garry Brown to the Task Force on Urban Affairs.

The purpose of the special House Republican group is to determine priorities on the problems of urban America, recommend constructive alternatives to ineffective urban programs, and to propose new and imaginative legislation to answer the needs of the cities.

In announcing the formation of the Committee and Brown's appointment to it, Taft said: "Admittedly there have been a number of studies and research papers in the area of urban affairs, but we believe the problems are so complex and so crucial to the future of this country, that additional work is needed."

Taft praised Brown's qualifications and legislative activity in the field of urban problems and said he is particularly suited to membership on the Task Force. He is a member of the Banking and Currency Committee and the Housing Subcommittee which handles all fiscal aspects of urban affairs. In addition, Brown is a member of the National Advisory Commission on Low Income Housing, and a member of the Select Bi-partisan "Visits to Cities" Committee of the Congress.

"He brings to the Task Force board experience, a searching mind and a willingness to work for results. We all look forward to working closely with him during the month ahead," said Taft.

John Sinteropi was elected to the board of directors to fill a vacancy created by the recent resignation of Willie Tabor. He joins other board members Francis Johnson, Dave Houghton and Larry Martin.

state convention. She encouraged the club members in their planned activities for the coming year.

To close the meeting the "Club Collect" was sung by the St. Johns Morning Muscalle Ensemble.

★ IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our mother, Clara M. Hettler, who passed away on May 7, 1958. Gone is the face we loved so dear, Silent is the voice we loved to hear, Too far for sight or speech, But not too far for thought to reach. Sweet to remember her, who once was here, And who, though absent, is just as dear.
--Her five daughters. 1-1p

In love and memory of our dear husband and father, Nelson C. Jolly who passed away 9 years ago, May 10th.
MY HEAVENLY WISH
If I could be given a chance to go to a place where I've never been, I'd like to knock at the Pearly Gates and ask to see Dad again. And God would say, "May I help you?" Is there someone here you know?
I'd say, "I'd like to see my Dad. He left us nine years ago." And he would say, "Come in my dear, I'm glad you came today."
Your Dad's in a beautiful mansion, come, I'll show you the way."
"I know your Dad quite well," he'd say, "Since he came up to dwell.
Your Dad is a friend to every man, And he was on earth as well."
"He speaks of you all with loving words, And I saw a tear in his eye, And he said, "I'll see them all again, I'll meet them all by and by."
As I marveled at the beauty of the mansions as they shone, I said to God, "It isn't fair That I should see Dad alone."
Then like the smoke from a Gentle's lamp, There sat my Dad in his chair.
With all of his loved ones around him, In that Heavenly place up there.
We talked of all the happy times, And all those happy years.
He smiled as we gathered 'round him, We were smiling through our tears.
We thanked God at the Heavenly Gates
For making a wish come true, We said, "We'll surely miss you, Dad, But someday we'll all be with you.
Loving wife, sons and daughter. 1-1p

Ballenger offers tax share plan

State Representative William S. Ballenger has introduced a resolution urging Congress to implement a federal-state tax sharing plan. The measure, presented last week, received the support of 77 other House members of both political parties who co-sponsored its resolution. Representative Ballenger advocates the "block grant" concept of tax sharing. Under this system the federal government would return a portion of taxes paid to each state, with no strings attached. The state would then be free to apply the funds toward any project it chose, and channel other parts of the block grant to local governing units.

"There are many reasons for establishing a tax-sharing plan," Ballenger said. "One of the most important is the shift of power to the federal government over the last few decades. A tax-sharing plan would give states more adequate resources to meet their problems, thereby revitalizing state and local government."

"To date, the federal government has tried to meet the increasingly complex financial problems facing the states chiefly by means of an impenetrable tangle of grants-in-aid," says Ballenger. "From 18 programs totaling $126 million in 1935, the system by 1969 has grown to some 170 different federal aid programs totaling $15 billion in a governmental maze which gives a local official the feeling he's running an obstacle course with no certainty he'll ever reach his destination." According to the Free Press, "The attempts to radicalize welfare recipients, through such organizations as the Welfare Rights Organization, are more likely to intensify resistance to welfare reform than to promote it."

"The American middle class feels that too many people are putting a gun to society's head and saying: 'Give us what we want or else.' It isn't right, and it is increasingly less likely to get the results the protesters want."

At any given moment there are 2,200 thunderstorms in the world.

Dear friends,

If a family death occurs in another city, immediately call your funeral director to arrange for transshipment. Should the authorities at place of death cause the body to be returned to a local funeral director not of your choice, you may properly insist that transfer be made to your funeral director for burial services.

Respectfully,

Michigan, one of only two major industrial states boasting a toll-free highway system, has built nearly 83 percent of its original allocation of the interstate freeway network. The national average is 65 percent.

Opening of the final section of the Chrysler Freeway (I-75) in Detroit in January boosted Michigan's interstate mileage to 693.5.

Michigan's share of the original 41,000-mile national network was 1,081 miles. Congress added 1,500 miles to the system last year and the Federal Highway Administration allocated 68 miles to Michigan.

Some of the toughest interstate construction still lies ahead. This includes 18 miles of I-696 through southern Oakland and Macomb counties and the portion of I-96 to be known as the Jeffries Freeway, which will run from downtown Detroit through some northwest suburbs.

Other lengthy sections to be built are the 30-mile I-275 skirting metropolitan Detroit on the west and 22.5 miles of I-196 in Allegan, Kent and Ottawa counties.

Construction is under way or scheduled on:

- M-59 freeway from west of M-150 east to Utica.
- US-10 from M-115 to US-27 at Clare.
- M-78 from Flint east to Lapeer.
- US-31 from Montague north to Pentwater.
- US-131 north from Grand Rapids to near Howard City.

TO REPRESENT ST. JOHNS AT BOYS' STATE

Bob Rehmann, Mark Barber, Roger Davis and Doug Nicholson have been chosen to attend Wolverine Boys' State at MSU. The students will be there for eight days and will learn how the federal government is set up and run. They will meet students from all over the state of Michigan and get first hand experience living on campus.

- M-14 from M-153 east to the planned interchange with I-96 and I-275 near Livonia.
- US-127 from Lansing north to near DeWitt and from US-12 to M-50 south of Jackson.

Speak Up for Michigan!

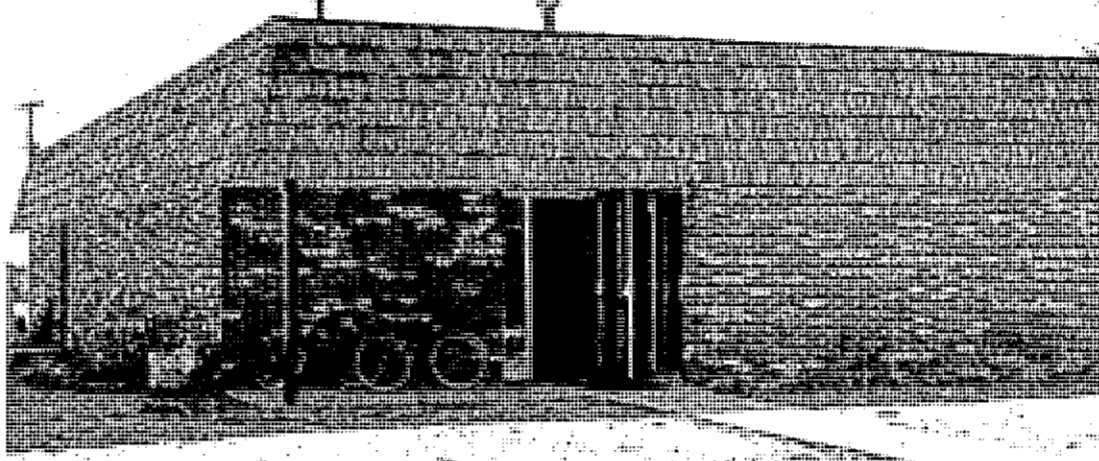

Have you said anything good about Michigan lately? Some of us here in Michigan have an inferiority complex—or maybe it's just a modesty complex. We don't like folks to think we're bragging, so we go to the opposite extreme and say nothing at all.

It's time for a change and there's no better time than the 16th annual Michigan Week, May 17-24.

Modesty has no place in Michigan during Michigan Week. It's a no holds-barred period for unabashedly proclaiming that this state is the best.

Think positive! Michigan has too many "firsts" for us to do anything else. Michigan's miles of waterways make our state tops in commercial navigation, pleasure boating, fishing, recreation and vacation areas. Her highways, her farms, her forests—her museums, colleges, cultural assets—take a backseat to no one. Michigan is first in 19 manufacturing categories from cereals to cars, is a haven for hunters and winter sports fans alike. We could go on and on, but you take it from there.

Learn about your home state and don't be afraid to tell others about it. Michigan Week gets bigger and better each year as more and more Michigan citizens join the celebration. Do your part—talk up Michigan!

City park gets clean-up by volunteers

Troop 71 and 81 of the St. Johns Boys Scouts have been doing a marvelous job of cleaning at the St. Johns City Park. On April 28, they raked, cleaned up dead branches, and picked up debris.

Another tree cutting detail is scheduled to take care of dead elms in the park on May 10. This group is composed of the St. Johns merchants ball team. More equipment and volunteer workers are needed to complete the job, on six or eight dead trees, throughout the park area.

To volunteer services or equipment please call either Bob Pakti or E. J. Schmitt. With the help of the Scouts, ball teams and other interested citizens, our city park can be a safer and better place for the youth of Clinton County.

The picnic tables are now out and this year reservations will not be taken for their use. It will be handled the same as last year on a first come first serve basis. Residents should be reminded that when they visit the park please place refuse in proper containers. The Scouts have cleaned the area—let all of us keep it clean for a summer of happy picnics and recreation. All should do their share.

Deficient eyesight plays a leading role in many hunting accidents, warns the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

Nearly one in every four victims in big-game hunting accidents was wrongly identified as an animal by a fellow-hunter; another 13 per cent were wounded because the hunter shot indiscriminately at anything that moved, reports the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness. Each year during the hunting season the National Society receives many reports of such accidents in which hunters are blinded, seriously wounded or even killed.

The drive to the finish line in the races at the St. Johns home track meets is a little bit more inspiring this year, because there are pretty cheerleaders waiting there. The girls are all business, though, because they're handling the timing of the various events. Karon Lundy and Lexa Swatman (with watches) call out times at the start of the final lap in the mile run while Cindy Liszewski and Colleen Rademacher watch. Says consumer can find out what's in his credit report

Any consumer in the Clinton County area who has been refused credit can find out what is in his credit report by visiting the Credit Bureau of Clinton County, a division of Credit Bureau of Shawansee County, Inc., it was announced here by F. J. Idle, president.

Consumer interviews by local credit bureaus are one of the principal operating policies included in the Policies for the Protection of Privacy recently adopted by Associated Credit Bureaus, Inc., leading trade association in the credit bureau industry.

The Credit Bureau of Clinton County is affiliated with ACB and has adopted the Policies for Protection of Privacy.

The credit bureau policies were formulated by an Advisory Committee on Protection of Privacy, consisting of 16 representatives of nine consumer trade associations, and are official operating policies for the more than 2,100 independent ACB credit bureaus.

"Although these policies represent only minor departures from procedures already being followed in many far-sighted credit bureaus," said Idle, "their adoption will serve to standardize procedures for all bureaus."

IDLE SAID THAT strong support by credit granters who use credit bureau services would enable the industry to implement the guides in a uniform, self-regulatory posture. "We believe that the relatively few credit bureaus outside ACB will freely adopt our code for the good of the consumer and of free enterprise," Idle said.

The new code provides the following consumer protections:

1) Bureaus have pledged to provide trained personnel to explain the credit report and to advise the consumer on his credit difficulties.

2) Credit bureaus will provide non-credit-granting government agencies with identifying information only. Any other information, with the exception of security investigations, will be supplied only in response to legal process.

3) Contracts with credit granters will require that a bona fide business transaction be involved for each credit report requested.

4) Specialized information developed for a personnel report will be kept separate from and not incorporated into a credit report.

5) Credit bureaus will record public record information and note whether the disposition or adjudication is shown in the bureau file. Credit granters will be urged by credit bureaus to inquire further as to the details and disposition of public record information which might be of significance to the credit decision.

6) CREDIT bureaus will assign a definite file-life to each kind of information placed in file. Bankruptcies, for example, will be deleted 14 years from date of discharge. With some exceptions, other items will be kept only seven years.

The consumer credit industry trade associations which participated in formulating the guidelines included the American Bankers Assn.; American Industrial Bankers Assn.; American Petroleum Credit Assn.; American Retail Federation; International Consumer Credit Assn.; National Consumer Finance Assn.; National Foundation for Consumer Credit; National Retail Merchants Assn.; and Associated Credit Bureaus, Inc.

Development of the guidelines started two years ago when ACB began an intensive study of the policies, procedures and operations of member credit bureaus.

"The purpose of this study was to make certain that credit bureau members of ACB protected the privacy of consumers and permitted bona fide credit granters to intelligently evaluate a prospective applicant for credit," Idle explained.

"These guidelines are the result of intensive research and study. They were developed by credit granters representing all segments of consumer credit; by credit bureau managers; through discussions with state and federal legislators; and through consultation with educators and attorneys."

Three given degrees at WMU

Three Clinton County students were awarded degrees from Western Michigan University this month during ceremonies which featured Michigan Governor William G. Milliken as speaker.

The three were: Gary Bashore, Eise; Charles MacLean, Lansing and Elaine Blackman, St. Johns.

Bashore received a B.A. degree and certificate for secondary education and MacLean received his degree as Bachelor of Business Administration. Miss Blackman received a Bachelor of Science degree with an elementary certificate.

Graduation ceremonies at Western Michigan University were conducted April 19.

Economist outlines farm credit 'rules'

Five rules for wise use of credit in farming have been offered by a Michigan State University agricultural economist.

Dr. John Brake suggests that every farmer:

1) "Know where in his business an additional amount of capital will earn the best return." All investment alternatives should be weighed, and the one that provides the best return should be chosen.

2) "Know how much credit he can carry." Lenders cannot be expected to tell a farmer when he has had enough credit. A farmer can determine his own credit load by starting with his gross monthly or yearly income, and subtracting the amount of money needed for family living, farm expenses and present debt commitment. The amount left over will provide some indicator as to what can be used for new investments or repayment of new debt.

3) "Know where to get credit." Credit provided by merchants, dealers and finance companies can be very high. A farmer should get credit from people who understand farming. In addition, he should know the terms and costs of credit from various institutions.

4) "Know how much credit he will need." Past farm records can aid in determining this. The loan should be large enough to cover contingencies. Farm advisers or other farmers who have been through the same sort of expansion program being planned can be valuable information sources.

5) "Work closely with his lender." The lender can be a sounding board for ideas the farmer has of things that should be done in his farm operation.

"We are, and have been, in a period of tight money," Dr. Brake says. "But the use of credit is one of the tools that is needed to build a good farm operation. And looking at the trends in credit over the past 15 or 20 years, it continuous open announcement.

The State Civil Service Commission said today it will close its open examination for State Police Trooper positions effective May 16.

Applications on file by that date will be more than sufficient to provide candidates for the September State Police Training School which will fill vacancies within the limits of the present authorized strength of the State Police, State Personnel Director Franklin K. Dewald said.

He indicated the examination would be reannounced later this year if the current session of the Legislature approved additional State Trooper positions.

4-H project of weather study begins

Weather has intrigued man as long as history has been recorded. There isn't much man can do about weather except record it and on the basis of these recordings make predictions.

The 4-H weather project provides young people with an opportunity to study all aspects of weather, according to John Aylsworth, Extension 4-H Youth Agent.

The project includes five areas: 1) understanding weather, 2) building a weather station, 3) weather maps and forecasting, 4) severe weather and 5) air pollution and fallout.

Aylsworth says younger youths can learn about the elements that make up our weather and older youth can apply the knowledge they learn in forecasting weather, making homes more comfortable, protecting crops from extreme weather or safeguarding themselves and their families from violent weather conditions.

The project gives instruction in building weather instruments, such as the rain gauge, wind vane, anemometer, barometer and

School paper wins award

The Wilson Torch, student newspaper at Rodney B. Wilson High School in St. Johns, has received a first-class rating in the 80th All-American Newspaper Critical Service.

The critique was conducted by the National Scholastic Press Assn. for the first semester of the 1968-69 school year. The Torch was judged on every phase of journalistic style, printing and typography. The paper got the highest rating on superior coverage of every aspect of news.

A total of 3,400 points is required to get an All-American rating, and the Torch received 3,230 points for a first-class ranking.

Mrs Dorothy Bates is advisor to the newspaper, with Debbie Witgen as editor and Judy Whitlock and Patti Zuker as co-editors.

With these instruments a weather station can be built and daily records made.

In one Michigan county, youths in the 4-H weather project recorded rainfall for several parts of the county to determine variations. This type of activity can provide scientific information the U.S. Weather Bureau does not have the time or manpower to collect, says Aylsworth.

The Weather Bureau is interested in the weather informa-tors. The paper appears once every two weeks and is printed on a mimeograph. Pictures are an integral part of the paper.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS NOTES: The junior-senior prom May 24 will have as its theme "My Hawaii Nei". . . Student teachers at the high school this spring include Bruce Barber in the world history and international relations area, Bruce Scott in history and Mrs Joanne Siragusa in languages. . .

Projects of this kind can provide and is willing to cooperate closely with youths in this type of project.

Due to the growing interest in this area, more adult leaders are needed to provide guidance. Adults and youths who would like more information on the 4-H weather project should contact the Cooperative Extension Service County Office at 1003 S. Oakland in St. Johns or phone 224-3288.

FHA girls at P-W receive highest honors

The Future Homemakers of America Club of Pewamo-Westphalia High School is proud of its newly elected state officer, Chris Casari. She was elected state vice president of degrees at the FHA state convention in Kalamazoo on April 24.

Chris belongs to GAA, Performing Arts Club, and is parliamentarian in the FHA Club. She earned her state FHA degree this year.

Chris and Connie Theis, region 8 chairman, and also a member of the P-W chapter, will attend the National FHA convention at Fort Collins, Colo., in July. Rosanne Stump, regional treasurer of P-W, was elected Region 8 alternate.

Eight girls from the chapter received the highest honors that can be earned in the club, "State Degree." Collectively, these girls completed 63 major goals which either helped themselves, their families, the chapter or the community.

Some of their projects included family gardens, canning, entire wardrobes, home decorating, teaching religion classes, presenting assemblies, making exhibits, writing newspaper articles, and giving public talks and radio shows.

The girls were presented their state degrees at the convention on April 25. They included Chris Casari, Gale Cotter, Rae Horn, Irene Pline, Chris Rademacher, Colleen Schafer, Rosanne Stump, and Shirley Smith.

Who doesn't like to be remembered? It's natural to feel a certain glow when you receive a greeting card. It means that someone has thought of you, that someone cares.

Yet how foolish it would be for any of us to ever believe that we are alone or friendless. There is always Someone who cares, who cares very deeply... who cared enough to sacrifice His only Son for us.

At times we are all lonesome. Yet we are never really alone. There are few places in the world where we cannot, if we but look, find a church that will welcome us wholeheartedly. God's house is not like other houses. There is always room in it for one more. And when that one more has entered, there is room for yet another.

Start taking part in the life of the Church today!

Outline practices for soil erosion control

By ROBERT MOORE, Director Clinton County Soil Conservation District Member State Soil Conservation Committee

All users of land have a responsibility to control the soil loss from their land. The farmer, the real estate developer, the highway builder, the school house contractor, and many others have all in the past allowed too much valuable top-soil to leave their lands and flow into our county drains, rivers, and county tile lines. Soil kept in place is a lot less expensive method of sediment control, then, to have to dig up a county tile line, clean the tile of sediment and re-lay the line. County drains (open ditches) are expensive to make clean-outs every few years to maintain them at their original depth and grade. When all is considered it is less expensive for all the people—if everyone practices good soil conservation practices and techniques in the management of their lands.

Some practices that keep top-soil in place are: Cover crops like Ryegrass, Tall Fescue, Oats, Rye, and Buckwheat. When developing a farm for real estate it is good conservation practice to open only those areas that will have houses built on them, leaving the rest in natural cover for sediment control. The roadside ditches should be seeded to tall fescue as soon as the finished grade is completed—Dig (grade) —Plant method of road-side ditch seeding is very successful when the clay does not get an opportunity to dry out before the seed is spread on the surface.

Another successful conservation practice is to seed the play areas of a school ground as soon as leveling is done, but before construction of the building starts. This method allows the new seeding to be three or four years old before the children start to use the building—The feet are not as hard on a three year old sod as they are on a new seeding made after the children get into the building.

Windbreak plantings of conifers are a good conservation practice to stop wind erosion. A good evergreen windbreak that shields the newly leveled soil for a street so it does not blow into existing houses. The developer that plants and plans ahead of his actual construction of the subdivision, will be thanked by housewives in their new homes. I believe, that District chairman Stanley Baird in his annual report to the Clinton County Board of Supervisors on April 15, 1969 expressed the directors' thinking on sediment control when he said, "We as directors are interested in the control of sediment from our agricultural lands, roads, and developing subdivisions. We hope to be able to work more with the county agencies in the future, to establish guide lines that will control sediment in proposed subdivisions. We wonder, if all the people would be better served, if applications for subdivisions were referred to the district to have soil's capability and limitations recorded on the area under proposed development before any county agency makes a tentative approval to the developer. Some counties in some states are doing this—this seems to have merit, and we as directors, will be happy to consider this procedure, if you as supervisors wish to have us render this service.

"You know a Soil Conservation District is an entity of State Government without taxing power and only has authority to provide technical information to land users who voluntarily cooperate with the District. Our main resource is the Soil Conservation Service of the Department of Agriculture who provides this technical assistance to these voluntary district cooperators. In our judgment, sediment control provisions should be incorporated in the planning stage for most effective application in the construction stage of any development."

Beans need manganese

Field beans and soybeans grown on organic or dark-colored sandy soils often need manganese, according to Maurice Vitosh, Michigan State University soil scientist.

"This is especially true if the soil pH is higher than 5.8," he says. "Lake bed soils or depression areas that have grey subsoil color and a pH above 6.5 are also likely to respond to manganese fertilizers."

To prevent manganese deficiencies on these soils, Vitosh recommends applying 5 to 10 pounds of manganese per acre. He says the manganese should be mixed with the fertilizer and applied in a band about one inch to the side and two inches below the seed.

"Foliar applications of manganese are also effective and often preferred, especially in the production of soybeans," he notes.

Russia harvests more timber than the United States, but uses one-third of it for fuelwood. With its higher utilization, the U. S. leads in all wood product types except lumber.

Two years of continuous growth—topped by a "goal-busting" statewide membership of 54,200 families, has been announced by the Michigan Farm Bureau.

The membership growth report was made during a regular session of the organization's board of directors meeting in Lansing, April 29.

Unlike other farm groups which base their membership count on individuals, Farm Bureau considers a total family as a single membership. As a result, the 54,000 figure could be doubled or tripled for size comparison, making the organization by far the largest farm group in the state.

Telegrams to Michigan Farm Bureau President Elton Smith from American Farm Bureau officials cited Michigan as the second state in the midwest and fifth in the nation to reach state and national Farm Bureau membership goals.

The membership gain was seen as especially significant—coming as it does in a period of declining farm numbers and lower farm income.

"It shows that farmers are getting set to meet their problems head-on," Smith said. He noted sharp increases in the organization's membership throughout the nation, specifically 90,000 more family memberships reported in the American Farm Bureau Federation compared to last year at this time.

Jubilant county leaders and local Farm Bureau membership workers have been holding "Victory" celebrations in many parts of the state. In some cases, the occasions have been combined with observance of the 50th anniversary of the founding of Farm Bureau in Michigan. It was in 1919 that farmers met on the campus of the "Michigan Agricultural College" (as Michigan State University was then called) in East Lansing, to form the state organization.

Soil Stewardship Week scheduled May 11-18

Soil Stewardship Week, a nationwide observance which places emphasis on man's obligation to God as stewards of the soil, water and other related resources, will be celebrated locally May 11-18, according to Stanley Baird, chairman of the Clinton Soil Conservation District.

This year's observance with the theme "Confronting The Issues" underscores the responsibility which each citizen has in dealing forthrightly with current issues involving stewardship of renewable natural resources. The Clinton County Conservation District and some 3,000 companion districts throughout the nation along with their state and national associations are sponsoring the event for the 15th consecutive year.

The Clinton County Conservation District has distributed, upon request to churches of all faiths, bulletin inserts and booklets created particularly for this year's observance.

The materials were prepared by the National Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts, in cooperation with a Soil Stewardship Advisory Committee composed of leading church men

Jorae given HFAA cattle 'trade mark'

James P. Jorae, St. Johns, will have the exclusive use of "Jorae" as the prefix in naming all Registered Holsteins bred under the same ownership in which the prefix is reserved. The use of this herd identification name has been granted by Holstein-Friesian Association of America, Brattleboro, Vermont. It will be the first part of the name when used. There are more than 50,000 officially recorded prefixes in the Association's files.

By reserving a prefix, a Holstein dairyman establishes a "trade mark" which is used in all published information concerning the performance of his cattle.

The origin of prefix names often stems from farm names, family name combinations or unique geographical or historical features of the farmstead. Members of the immediate family of the person for whom the prefix is recorded may also be allowed to use the prefix on animals they own when the animals are all handled as one farm unit.

ASCS providing farm photocopies

The Michigan Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation State Committee has provided farmers with photocopies of the aerial photographs covering their farm land. These photocopies are very valuable to the farmer. They clearly show the entire farm including farm boundaries and farm buildings. The farmer can indicate on the particular fields which crops were planted during the year and thereby keep an accurate record of the various crops grown on the fields in past years. He can also use this photocopy to keep a record of the amounts of lime and fertilizer he applies to each field. Most of the photocopies show official acreages for the fields of crop land, and the farmer can depend on these acreages when he participates in a Federal farm program. This is very important since farmers that participate in Federal farm programs must accurately report their planted and diverted crop acreages. The official acreages on the photocopy help him to plan for farming operation and also help him to report his exact acreages in compliance with Federal program requirements.

If a farmer has changed any field boundaries or purchased or sold any farm land so that his photocopy is no longer accurate, he should immediately notify the local ASCS County Office so that they can give him a correct photocopy and also correct their records.

Shallow planting can get your corn off to a fast and vigorous start. This picture shows the contrast in root development between shallow and deeply planted seed. According to tests conducted by DeKalb AgResearch, Inc., corn planted at about 2 inches results in the best stands and produces the healthiest root system. This stronger root system has a better capacity to absorb water and nutrients and has the ability to help the plant bounce back faster if it should experience a late frost. Shallow planting is a way to boost profits without increasing expenses.

Advices early, shallow planting for corn profits

Plant early at a shallow depth and you're certain to increase your corn profits without adding to your costs.

"I can think of no other practices which provide a corn grower more opportunity to boost his yields without additional investment," reports Wayne Fowler, agronomic education director for DeKalb Ag Research, Inc.

Fowler backs up his statement with data obtained from extensive testing at locations in Ohio and Iowa.

In actual on-the-farm experiments at a 370-acre demonstration plot in south-central Ohio, data showed the optimum planting period in 1968 to have been from April 20 through about the first week of May.

At the DeKalb Dayton, Iowa, research farm, in the north-central part of that state, the highest yields over the past six years have come from corn planted in late April.

The Ohio experiments showed that seed planted at a depth of about two inches resulted in the best stands, healthiest root development and produced the highest yields. In these three important factors the two-inch depth was superior to depths of both three inches and four inches.

IN THE IOWA tests, the two-inch planting depth has also proved to be the most efficient.

At both the Ohio and Iowa locations, emergence time was longer and the percentage of emergence dropped with deeper planting.

In Iowa plots planted May 4, the seed dropped at a two-inch depth emerged in only 10 days. The emergence period lengthened to 12 days for seed planted at 3 inches. Emergence was 14 days for seed planted at four inches and 18 days for seed planted at five inches.

Percentage of emergence was 90 per cent for seed planted at two inches. There was 84 per cent emergence for seed planted at three inches, 80 per cent for seed planted at four inches and 72 per cent emergence for seed planted at five inches.

Fowler says the early planting and shallow planting practices go together. He explains that in late April the soil at the one- to-

MATHEWS ELEVATOR

FOWLER, MICHIGAN

You step out and gas cleans up! That's what it's like when you have a '69 gas range with the self-cleaning oven. All you do is set the oven controls for self-cleaning and within a short time your oven is sparkling clean — cleaner than you could do it by hand. The self-cleaning oven is only one of the many joys of a new gas range... it puts an end to pan handling and pot watching — starts and stops the oven — keeps meals warm for slowpokes — and features the same wonderful flame that has always made cooking with gas a matter of good taste.

12 attend 65th convention

Mrs Charles Walker, Mrs John Spencer, Mrs Clarence Mead, Mrs Ray Jones, Mrs Clayton Sherwin, Mrs Florence Phelps, Mrs Harold Smith, Mrs. C. H. Green, Mrs Hubert Hilton, Mrs Clarence Kalfirder, Mrs Glen Parks and Mrs Harold Frisbie, all of the Ovid-Duplain Library Club, were among those who attended the 65th annual meeting of the Clinton County Federation of Women's Clubs at St. Johns on April 30.

The morning program opened with an organ prelude by Mrs Duane Davis. Mrs C. W. Lambert called the session to order promptly at 9:30. The invocation was given by Mrs George Brooks. The Pledge of Allegiance was led by Mrs Stuart Smith. A song "My Country is the World," sung to the tune of "America" was led by Mrs Walter Carter. Greetings were given by Mrs Marian Walling of the St. Johns Woman's Club and the response by Mrs Charles Walker, county vice president. The present officers and past county presidents were introduced.

A group of young men from the St. Johns High School, calling themselves "The Octaves," entertained with a medley of Stephen Foster songs.

Mrs James Dorman of the Elsie Literary Club presented a very beautiful memorial service. Seven from the various clubs had passed away throughout the year. As each name was called, little Miss Green put a memorial flower in the vase.

The roll call of clubs found 66 in attendance, but there was a larger group for the luncheon. Mrs John Rumbaugh told of her duties as district extension chairman and Mrs Winchell Brown outlined her duties as fine arts and public speaking chairman.

Mrs Wayne Finkbeiner, projects chairman for Girls' Town spoke on the home and told about some of the 82 girls who have lived there since the home was started. The girls are a part of the community and must attend church services. She described the conditions as one big happy family. Girls are brought to the home from all over the state.

Mrs Kenneth Leatherman, president of West Central District, gave some highlights of the state federation, which she attended. She announced that West Central District would meet in Ionia on October 16. The state federation will meet in Lansing next spring.

New business brought up concerned a project in which all clubs in the county could help. It was voted to help with the immunization program held each month. Each club is to help once during the summer months of May, June, July and August, and possibly at other times during the year.

The meeting adjourned for luncheon at 11:45 a.m. The WSCS of the St. Johns United Methodist Church served a very delicious luncheon. After the luncheon, several of the ladies took a tour of the new wings of the County Court House.

The meeting reconvened at 1:15 p.m. with entertainment by a string ensemble from the St. Johns High School. Dr Laurine Fitzgerald from the office of student affairs was the main speaker for the afternoon. Her topic was "Campus or Battleground." She stated that the SDS were at the base of all uprisings. They were distinctly of Communist origin. She told of a student that had purchased a mailing list of high school council members and student officers and that he had sent each one a brochure on how to cause chaos in the high schools.

Following the speaker's address, Mrs John Spencer gave the historian's report. The election committee made their report and the new officers were introduced. Mrs Spencer read an invitation from Mrs George Parmenter, president of the Ovid-Duplain Library Club, inviting the county federation to meet with them in the spring of 1970.

The meeting closed with the singing of the Club Collect by members of the St. Johns Morning Musicales.

MRS HASKINS GUEST OF CLUB

Twenty-two members and one guest enjoyed sweet rolls and coffee as the members of the Ovid-Duplain Library Club met at the home of Mrs Clarence Kalfirder on Friday, May 2, for their annual May coffee. Mrs Clayton Sherwin, Mrs Wilmet Ridsdale, Mrs Glen Parks and Mrs John Bracey were the committee in charge.

Mrs George Parmenter, president, called the meeting to order. Roll call was to name a famous woman of the Bible. The club was pleased to know that the American Beauty Roses given to the honored members were the gift of the program chairman and the table favors were the gift of the president and vice president of the club. Pictures were passed around that were taken at the anniversary luncheon. All seemed well-pleased when told they were given with the compliments of the Ovid-Elsie Banner and the Clinton County News. Hostesses were selected for the new year. Suggestions were also asked for the program for next year. Mrs Charles Walker, county president, brought some highlights of the recent county federation.

Mrs Pearl Haskins was our guest speaker. She spent two years in India as a Peace Corps worker. She worked with the younger people. She was located just south of Calcutta, near the Bay of Bengal. In the Peace Corps you are not assigned a job but a niche. You are sent to a village or area and told to work your way into the hearts and lives of the people. She had a garden and used a grub-hoe to work up the soil. Many other instances were related.

The pictures showed a graduation class putting on a drama in the main street of a village, with modern stores on one side and market stalls on the other. In the railway station, each class of people has its own ticket agent for each of the three classes of people. Each person in the post office does just one thing. She taught English to the seventh and eighth grade classes. Some of the pictures showed these classes and the houses where she lived and taught; also, her co-workers and the work they were doing.

She had many mementoes of her work there. After the program was over she showed us how the Indian women put on their saris.

Mrs Haskins was presented with a gift from the club. The next meeting will be the picnic on June 6, with Mrs Christine Snyder as hostess. The committee for the day will be Mrs Clarence Kalfirder, Mrs George Parmenter and Mrs Robert Watson.

Mr and Mrs John Spencer were guests on April 29 of Mr and Mrs Guy Cox of Lansing, Mr and Mrs L. B. Crane, former Ovid residents, were also guests of the Coxes.

The price of repeal

A basic law of nature has always been work or starve. The expanding U. S. welfare state has, in effect, promised its repeal. But already, signs are appearing that removal of this stern dictate may have its drawbacks, particularly for the remaining workers who must pay the price of repeal.

In 1960, social-welfare spending took $52.3 billion, or 38 per cent of total government expenditures. In 1968, it took $112.4 billion, or 43.7 per cent of all government expenditures. Skyrocketing social-aid costs now take more than four out of every 10 taxdollars.

Estimates also indicate that by the mid-1970's, the welfare bill will total some $292 billion each year. Welfare has reached the point where government expenditures for needed public works, improved police protection and other necessary public services and projects are being deferred.

Goodwill Week

Observance of National Goodwill Week this year, which takes place between May 4 and 10, holds more than usual significance. The nationwide self-help program of Goodwill Industries, providing training and employment for the handicapped, is a particularly fitting and unique illustration of the manner in which it is possible for a worthwhile endeavor to stand on its own feet through the voluntary actions and support of the American people.

The far-flung operations of Goodwill Industries are kept going by the generosity of those among us who provide the organization with the substance of its existence—used clothes to be mended, as well as used toys, furniture and other objects that, with repair, may be sold for revenue to perpetuate Goodwill work.

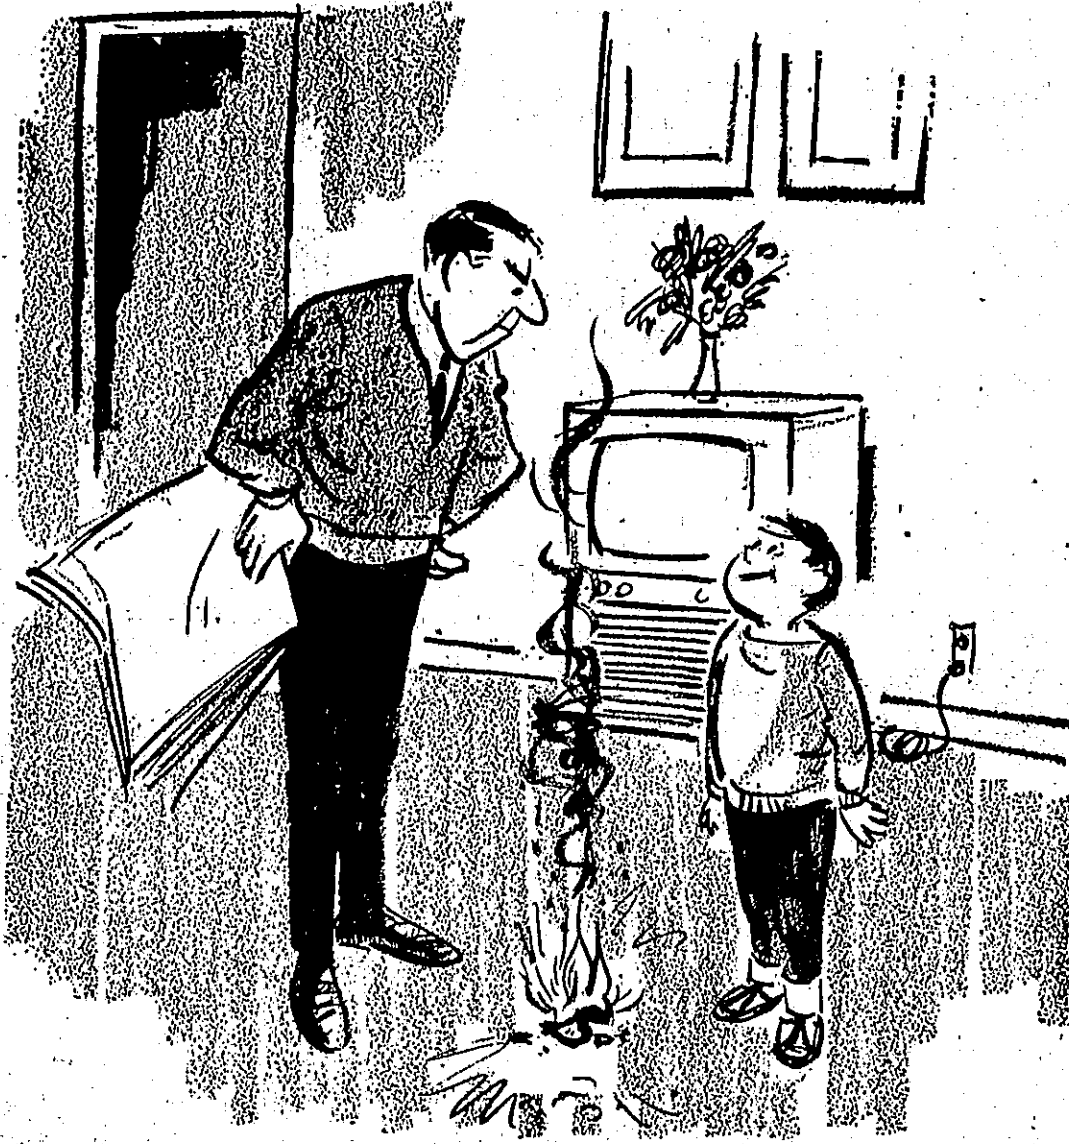

Over the years, countless thousands of handicapped have found new hope, jobs and economic independence through this outstanding organization. Goodwill Industries has demonstrated the capacity of the U. S. system to combine generosity with good business principles. At this time, as answers are being sought for a wide range of social problems, this holds a special significance for the entire nation.

DILLON, S. C., HERALD: "We are facing hot competition from foreign nations like Japan, which are moving into many American market areas with great selling success. And as our wages go up, and prices increase, our products are being priced out of the world market in many cases. Figures show that our trade surplus in 1968 was only $500 million, when it should have been three or four billions—using the past as a guide."

KITTANNING, Pa., LEADER-TIMES: "Federal Judge William Sweigert recently issued a preliminary injunction ordering the federal government to stop financing San Francisco's Western Addition project until an adequate plan is approved for relocation of area residents. The effect is to halt further work on the project until the wishes of the people involved are taken into account. . . The San Francisco ruling is the first real relief for people caught up in urban renewal projects. It raises the hope that such practice may soon be a thing of the past."

GOSHEN, IND., NEWS: "The reason so many college students nowadays are critical of the free enterprise system is because they don't understand it, says a professor, Dr Gerald Warren, a DePauw University economist. The students' main hang-up, says Warren, is this: 'They don't understand the tremendous amount of interaction and interdependence that has to occur in order to feed, clothe and house millions of people at the level that now exists in America. They don't know how productive forces are generated. They have little concept, he adds, of the necessary production, distribution, transportation and all the auxiliary services that have to underwrite the mass production of soap flakes, breakfast foods and automobiles.'"

TAKING FIVE

Potluck pleasure

By RON HUARD

It's been rumored that George Washington was late for the historic Delaware River crossing because he was enjoying a pot-luck supper in Philadelphia and couldn't tear himself away from the table.

Similarly, tales of Duncan Hines suggest he came upon his practice of sampling restaurants after many years of evaluating various dishes at pot-luck suppers.

And the only objection, it's been said, that the late Winston Churchill had to pot-luck was that there were no candles burning during the meal.

The practice of pot-lucking it has become traditional in America and aside from offering samples of m'lady's culinary abilities, the typical pot-luck supper also provides a warm atmosphere in which friendships are made or cultivated and pleasant conversation is shared.

A potluck supper is always a welcome invitation but when two such occasions present themselves in the span of only three days it's almost too much to expect. This was our pleasure a few days back when we attended the Band Boosters dinner at Smith Hall and then two nights later shared, as guests, the fare at the monthly gathering of "The Congregators," a long-standing couple's club of the Congregational Church.

One of the aspects of the Boosters dinner was the efficiency with which it was conducted. Frequently fund raising events of this type, while always enjoyable, do not take place with the steady, yet relaxed, timing which marked this dinner. That, coupled with the delectable array of foods and prepared dishes and the attentive service made the meal most satisfying. The band itself has a difficult act to follow!

The Congregators' gathering was none the less pleasurable. A fine assortment of tasty foods enhanced the warm and friendly atmosphere and a highlight of the evening was a rhubarb pie baked especially for us by Mrs Verne Brewbaker. While I rarely complete a meal with dessert, my wife assured me Mrs Brewbaker's pie was the tastiest she had eaten in a long while.

I'm sure George, Duncan and Winston all had smiles on their faces last week from merely watching us share the pot-luck.

They may not have been able to see it for the chewing, but we were smiling too!

Idle thoughts . . . Wonder who it is the pollsters keep getting answers from. With all the results of polls being released you'd think living proof of their findings would be as prominent as the polls themselves.

The word "recall" has many uses but none quite so unerving as when applied to a government official . . . or a brand new car.

It used to be one would get the "D-T's" from too much drink, but now too much fish might add an extra "D" to the affliction. —RAH

Youth supports our stand in Viet Nam

Dear Sir:

We are the generation of generations. The establishment says that we have so much more than they did. In many ways we do. We have maniacs that are out to destroy the world, we have a power struggle between the whites, and the Negro, we also have a "nation of sheep."

Credo

There's a passage in the scripture, From the land of Bethlehem, 'Tis a story of great beauty, To be read and read again. 'Tis a picture for the ages, Casting still a ruddy glow, With a daughter-in-law responding, "Where thou goest I shall go."

You who know the Bible story, Need not now me to repeat, How Ruth speaks to Naomi, "To leave you do not intreat, I shall lodge where'er thou lodgest, Though you seek to tell me no, And thy people shall be my people, Where thou goest I shall go."

Here was charm amid the pathos, Constancy of high degree, One who spurned a worthy offer, When her kind would make her free, Thy God shall be my God ever, Though cruel winds of chance may blow, Lead me now and I shall follow, "Where thou goest I will go."

Though success became Ruth's portion, Not mine to here tell that tale, Rather would I hail the impact, Of a faith that cannot fall, If the seed of love here nurtured, Could be taught for all to know, Would its secret truly guide us, "Where thou goest I shall go?"

W. E. Dobson

We are also the young generation. We are not afraid to ask, Why? Many of the "older" generation says that we should not question our involvement in Viet Nam. I think that this is wrong. We, the young people in the United States, have a right to know what we are going to die for.

I believe in the Viet Nam war because the communists are a threat to our own freedom. A small fraction of the populace say that this war takes away the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. To have these freedoms we must have to be able to make a sacrifice. I think that we can do this in the following ways:

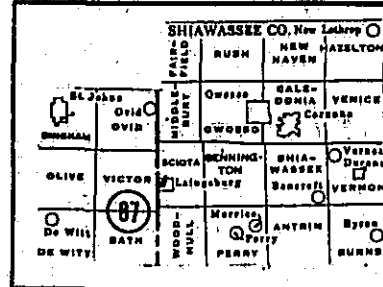

Life: I would gladly give up my life if it would help to end the unrest in the world. I'd fight until the good Lord decided to take away what He and no one else has given, Life!

Liberty: What is liberty in your eyes? To me it is being able to say what I want to say and to do what I want to do. You and I wouldn't be able to do this if we didn't live in a free country. In Viet Nam we are saying this freedom by stopping the Communist machine from taking over the world. By doing our small share in keeping this country free, we should all be willing to make the sacrifice.

Pursuit of Happiness: The pursuit of happiness does not have to be a selfish goal. You could be happy by keeping your friends and relatives free from harm. You could be happy by hearing someone say: "He gave his life so you and I could go on living in peace." This happiness doesn't have to be a physical thing but it could be an emotional stimulation, such as being able to see the beautiful things around you.

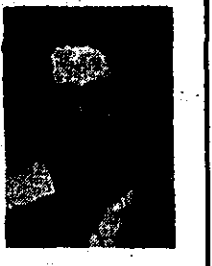

This is why I believe in the Viet Nam war. These are also the reasons why I am going into the service and do my part for this beautiful country and to GOD.

By WILLIAM S. BALLENGER State Representative

The argument that the United States Supreme Court is actually writing social legislation rather than interpreting the Constitution has been raised once again. A Supreme Court decision last week dealing with welfare may have a very important effect in Michigan.

It is feared by many in state government that roving tribes of welfare "gypsies" might be the result of a high court ruling that one-year residency requirements for welfare recipients in Michigan and 39 other states are unconstitutional.

This decision is bound to increase the number of persons migrating from one area of the country to another to take advantage of higher welfare payments.

Since Michigan has done more than most other states to provide assistance to its poverty stricken citizens, naturally our state will be high on the priority list of nomadic welfare seekers.

This influx of new welfare recipients from other states will have two effects. It will cost the taxpayers of Michigan more money, and will decrease service to Michigan residents receiving welfare.

What the Federal Bureau of Investigation is that Michigan, New York and other states with relatively high welfare assistance foot the bill for other states which have failed to provide adequately for their own citizens.

In July, 1968, the monthly national average for Aid to Families with Dependent Children was $42.15 per recipient. New York state ranks first among individual states; it pays $71.00 per recipient. Michigan ranks sixteenth; we pay $45.10 per recipient, about $3 more than the national average. The low states and territories are Florida, Arkansas, South Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi and Puerto Rico, which pay only $7.50 to $21.00 per recipient. Obviously, welfare recipients in these six states would be much better off if they migrated to Michigan or other high-paying northern states.

The Supreme Court seems to me to have really stretched the point in claiming that residency requirements are an unreasonable burden and restriction on the freedom to travel within the United States.

Residency requirements for welfare recipients were intended to prevent one method of welfare abuse by discouraging the migration of welfare recipients from one section of the country to another in order to collect bigger checks. But the Supreme Court apparently feels that welfare abuse, at the expense of Michigan taxpayers, is a dandy idea.

There is no clear estimate of how much this ruling will cost Michigan, but it is anticipated that the additional federal expense will be $125 to $175 million. Welfare costs in this state during the next year are estimated at over $500 million, with about $230 million coming from state funds. The new Supreme Court welfare rules will undoubtedly boost that figure, although some state officials say they aren't too worried. According to Thomas Behnke, deputy director of the Wayne County Department of Social Services, "Most of our applicants have been here quite some time—longer than the year they would have to wait if they came only to collect welfare."

All the same, it would seem that if the Federal government insists that more and bigger payments should be made to welfare recipients, it is about time it started to pay these massive bills instead of putting the crushing burden on the people of Michigan.

Adding fuel to the fire, a score of ADC mothers, and at least one father, staged a Capitol camp-in last week to enforce their demands for an expanded $60 million clothing allowance for their children.

Identifying themselves as members of the National Welfare Rights Organization, they queued around the Governor's office and said they would continue to "bug" the Legislature until their demands were met.

Now, the notion of anyone on public welfare demanding, as a matter of right, that he or she be given an increase in some allowance is fundamentally obnoxious.

"The Federal bureaucracy," emphasized Ballenger, "is so confusing" that a local official is often forced to tailor his program to federal guidelines, regardless of whether these guidelines fit the most efficient local solutions.

Ballenger also pointed out that Michigan is one of 18 states that pays more per dollar to the U. S. treasury ($1.36) than it received in federal aid ($1.00). "A federal tax-sharing plan would also increase public confidence in government," Ballenger added. "A recent Gallup Poll showed that 70% of adults favor a tax-sharing program. And 49% of all adults believe state government spends its money more wisely than the federal government, while only 18% believe Washington spends public funds more wisely."

Ballenger said that he is pleased that although President Richard M. Nixon and the Republican Party are most strongly identified with the concept tax sharing, he was able to secure 34 House Democratic co-sponsors for his resolution. "I just hope the Democratic majority in the U. S. Congress will listen," Ballenger concluded.

If given approval by the Michigan Legislature, Ballenger's resolution would be sent to Michigan's congressional delegation, if it is to meet today's needs, in hopes it would begin pushing in Washington for a tax-sharing plan. A copy of the resolution is attached.

'IF IT FITZ . . .

It's hard to be a rotten kid

By JIM FITZGERALD

It's incredible—but comforting—that Scurvy could still be alive and well in a Detroit burlesque theatre.

It's comforting to be reminded that kids didn't always get their behind-the-barn kicks by smoking pot and printing dirty words in school newspapers. They used to skip school and steal away to the big city to see strippers jiggle while baggy-panted comedians panted.

It's incredible that Scurvy could still be at it. I first saw him in 1942 and he didn't look too young then. But there was an ad in the Free Press, just last week, for the National Theatre, "Detroit's biggest & best burlesque." And it said "hilarious comedy by the one and only, original Scurvy." He must be 90 by now, the world's oldest Dirty Old Man.

Ah, nostalgia. . . A dozen high school boys would leave home for school but go to the poolroom instead. We'd then break up into groups of 2 or 3 and hitch-hike 60 miles to Detroit where we'd assemble in front of the Avenue Burlesk. There was no question of a kid naving his own car, or swiping his Dad's. It was early in World War II and everything was rationed except a father's wrath. But thumbing a ride was easy. When a motorist stopped, I'd tell him we were on our way to Detroit to enlist in the Marines. At the same time, my buddies would sing "Remember Pearl Harbor." I remember one old man who not only gave us a ride but also $1 each with the admonishment to "kill one for me."

The box office sign said minors weren't allowed inside the Avenue. But they had a bicycle rack outside. I was 14 the first time I went and the kids with me called me Pop. To be too young to buy a ticket to the Avenue, you had to be a fetus.

We sat in the front row. The comics were always peering down and saying something hilarious, such as "I see kindergarten got out early today." Boy, I would kill on the floor. The first comic who said this to us became famous on TV about 10 years later. Remember Pinky Lee? He was a lot funnier at the Avenue.

The prat-fallers were fun. So were the hucksters who sold pictures previously available only in France. To fully appreciate the photos, you had to hold them up to a bright light. That meant you had to go home before you learned you'd been gypped. There were dirtier pictures in the National Geographic.

But all of that was incidental. We were at the Avenue to see the girls take it off. Zowie. They'd flick their tassels right in our noses. The drummer would whoop his drum, a redhead would shake her shaker, and I was a man of the world. What was there left for me to do, except maybe kiss Betty Grable? And hurry back to school to tell the sissies what they'd missed.

That was yesterday. Kids don't sneak off to burlesque houses today. Why bother? On the TV Academy Award show, Barbra Streisand showed as much skin as any Avenue stripper. Many waitresses dress below the belt only, and not much there, if a movie doesn't have a nude scene, it probably isn't a talkie.

This doesn't mean the kids are worse today. It just means the burlesque business is lousy. The strippers have diversified, with outlets on every corner, and you'd better check out the Avon lady before asking her in to meet Grandmother.

We adults have fashioned a world in which it's darn hard for Junior to feel illicit and illegal. He can't do it behind the barn because it's a glass carport. He can't do it laughing at Scurvy because Mom is home laughing at dirtier jokes on the Johnny Carson show.

That's progress, I guess, just like air conditioning and anti-ballistic missiles. Only an old fogey would knock it.

But please pass me a bright light while I thumb through my old scrapbooks.

GI sends poem in reply

Dear Editor:

Having just received some past issues of the home town paper, I happened to find the article in "Letters to the Editor", dated 19 March, 1969. The article was about a boy's supporting the demonstrators. Well, Sir, inasmuch as this is a democratic society, I would appreciate your printing a soldier's view of the demonstrations. It has been written in a little different way as you will agree.

"MARCH ON, FOOLS"

Here we are, in a land torn from years of war. We're helping them fight, knowing very well we could lose our lives. We fight and work for hours on end, giving our best—a hand to lend. But we don't mind the trouble and pain when we see poor people murdered and slain. There's a war to be won for freedom's sake; so we fight the V.C. the ones that we hate. Has God given right

50 YEARS AGO TODAY (MAY, 1919)

Mark A. Dewitt, youngest son of Mr and Mrs O.P. Dewitt of St. Johns, has been taken into the firm of O.P. Dewitt and Son, dating from Jan. 1st of this year. O.P. or said it's okay to go in the night and murder and slay, and take from the people, their homes and their lands? They're outnumbered alone; so we've lent a hand. I read in the papers and see in the news protesters marching and spreading bad news. March on, you fools, march down the streets; march 'round the school; march from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast. Be my guest; I'll be your host. But remember one thing, while protesting the war. It's a freedom you're doing, and nothing more. People are fighting, and dying and more, so you'll have the freedom to protest the war. Viet Nam is small. Oh, this is true. But, you silly fools, have you not gone to school? The resources are great, and the people are real. We can't stand by and let them be killed. If we didn't fight this wouldn't be the last; another small land, and acre of grass—and then one day, before your eyes, we'd be alone, against the world wide. We'd be defeated, without a doubt. Then a world dictatorship would come about. You wouldn't march or protest a thing; you wouldn't pray or even sing. So march, march on, carry your sign and sing your song. As long as others continue to fight, you can march all day and into the night.

This poem was written by a young Spec/5, and it is a well supported one. It expresses just how my fellow soldiers and I feel towards all that's happening back there in the world. I listen to you taking the time to listen to our side of the story. Maybe it will make a few people stop and take another look at the problem.

Thankfully yours, Pfc. MITCHELL R. LOUTH APO, S. F., Calif.

Mother claims bad example is being set

To the Editor: Due to the seriousness of the times in which we find ourselves I feel that as a teacher and a mother, silence can no longer serve as an answer to our problems.

When an elected official of the people sees fit to "side-step" the city in general and their own particular premises or prove themselves slackers the present method still proves satisfactory.

A petition to pave Clinton Avenue, between Ross and Gibbs Street, signed by a majority of the property owners, was presented to the city commission at the regular meeting on May 6. Should the cost not exceed expectations, it is likely that the paving will be done this season.

Spencer plan is not tax reduction

The great political oversell! A few years ago enthusiastic proponents of school consolidation convinced many rural property owners that this would be much more efficient and millage increases would not be needed in the future.

Two years ago supporters of a statewide income tax convinced many school administrators and local property taxpayers that this was a complete answer to school finance problems.

Consolidated schools may be educationally superior, they may be more efficient. They have not eliminated the need for more operating millage. The income tax has made possible increases in state aid to public schools and colleges. It has brought in money for public health, medicare and social services. It eliminated payless paydays and allowed minor property tax relief through exemptions for senior citizens and farmers personal property.

It has not been a complete answer to school finance or the property tax problem. Public disillusionment persists over both these issues. I think it is due to the fact that we were originally oversold on the benefits. It's like switching to Saab and then discovering that beautiful girls don't tromp through the woods with you.

The Spencer Plan for public school finance is being oversold. Concerned property owners all over the state are being told this is the tax relief we have been looking for.

The Spencer Plan imposes an additional 1 1/2 per cent personal and 3 per cent corporate income tax with the proceeds to go to local districts. Distribution of aid is based on the willingness of the local district to tax itself. Poor districts will have about the same to spend as richer districts if they impose equal millage. Twelve mills operating will produce $50.00 per student, 15 mills, $60.00 and 20 mills, $80.00. Local income tax, up to 2 per cent, can be imposed in place of part of the millage but aid drops off if less than 12 mills are imposed.

In many of our school districts dropping back to 12 mills for operating schools would not be a large drop in total property tax. Some districts might like to impose more than 12 mills to take full advantage of state aid and run an outstanding school system. Does this mean I am against it? Not I am a co-sponsor. I think law whenever it suits his personal "whim" how can we say to our children, "Adults obey the rules in this society, why don't you?" Representative Chamberlain is quick to lecture on "law and order," "student protest," but very slow to set examples worthy of the obedience of child or adult.

Sincerely, CAROL STEPHENS Teacher DeWitt Public Schools

It is a solid step in the right direction. It would assure, even at the basic 12 mills with no additional, more money for local schools than many presently get with around 20 mills. It emphasizes local control and local responsibility. It shifts burden for schools from local property tax toward a statewide tax. In some areas it would provide substantial property tax reduction.

While the Spencer Plan is school finance reform it is not primarily property tax reduction. I do not want to be a party to selling it on that basis.

Mr. Young, school counselor, has been taking students to visit various college campuses. These visits are intended to aid students in their college choice.

MSU students from county are honored

Two students from Clinton County were among 390 honored for outstanding academic achievement recently by Michigan State University Acting President Walter Adams and Provost Howard R. Neville.

The two were Earl D. Bice, 6335 Park Lake Road, Bath and Kathy L. Bashore, 201 E. Townsend Road, St. Johns.

Bice a senior, is majoring in Industrial Administration and Miss Bashore is studying home economics with communication arts. She is a sophomore. The two were among those feted at an Academic Achievement Dinner Monday, April 26. To receive the recognition each student must attain a grade of 4 or 4.5 (A or A-Plus) in every course to be placed on the honor roll offering "recognition of the highest attainment in scholarship."

"Music enriches life" theme for Music Week

A short while ago Astronaut Wally Schirra said: "In my youth I studied trumpet for about eight years . . . From the study of music I appreciated all phases of music. I think this is the important part. I would encourage anyone to at least apply yourself to studying music rather than just waiting for it to come to you."

Studying music or being able to play an instrument may not make you an astronaut, but it certainly will enrich your life in all kinds of wonderful ways. That's something to keep in mind, especially this week.

May 4-11 is National Music Week, an annual observance sponsored by the National Federation of Music Clubs and its 600,000 members.

The theme for this year's celebration is "Music Enriches Life". And indeed it does for America's 44 million amateur music makers. Just ask them. Just ask the cast of "Brigadoon". Their performances have certainly heralded National Music Week for residents of St. Johns.

Remember, music is for everyone. It offers challenges as well as rewards. Why not make 1969 the year to hop on the music bandwagon? Join with our local, state and National Federation of Music Clubs in their 46th Annual Observance.

More of them needed, officials say

Foster parents—the 'greatest'

Foster homes in Clinton County are badly needed, according to William Fox, case worker in charge of family and children services on the staff of the Clinton County Department of Social Services.

Foster care of minor children involves, for the most part, love, patience and a normal type home environment. These homes are especially needed in the teenage group. Couples with average income and adequate space in the home can become foster parents. They file an application and participate in an interview with a staff member from the department of social services.

All of the child placements are under the direction of the department of social services. Once a child is placed, the family receives the interest and counseling of a trained staff for as long as the child is in the home. The main concern of the department is the welfare of the child.

Foster children range in age from a few days through 18. Each child receives complete medical expenses, books and a monthly sum paid to the foster parent for food and room and board. However, money should not be the reason for accepting a foster child. You can't get rich at it.

Foster parents can offer a better life to the less fortunate citizens of tomorrow. Many of these children have never had a happy, normal home life and this is their greatest need.

"CLINTON COUNTY makes an ideal rural, strong-type home environment that can be a very healthy atmosphere for children," Fox says "especially for those from the metropolitan areas."

Each of the children, when necessary, are given psychiatric testing before placement and the foster parent is then informed by the social worker of any personal problems that he may encounter with the child.

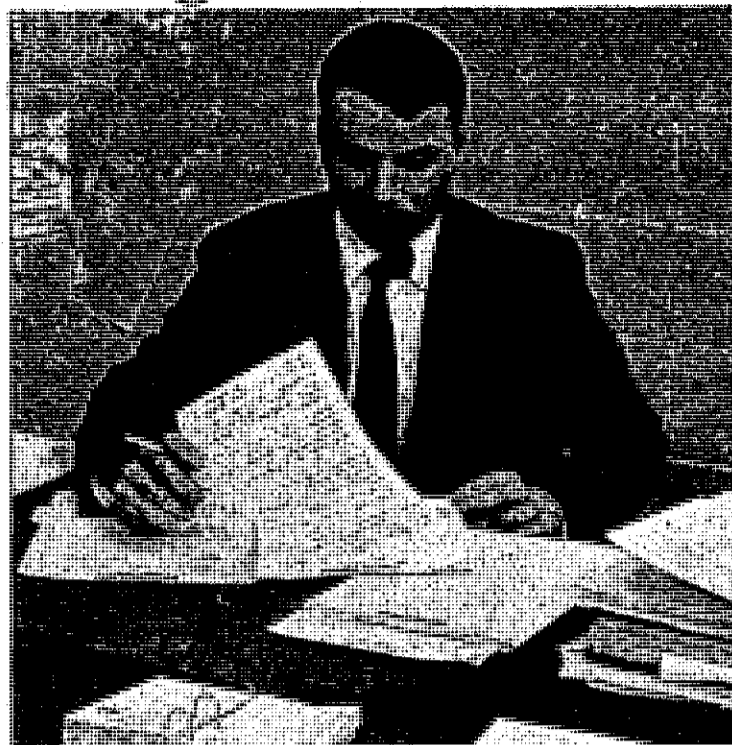

Often the child may stay with a family only a few days; at other times if the placement is successful it can be for several years. The length of the stay depends on such factors as the circumstances of the parents, adoption, etc.

The requirements for foster home parents, while lenient in some areas such as family income, are strict in other areas. The parents must have a desire and love for children or the placement will fail. These parents are asked to give love, understanding, patience and time to these children and then be able to give them up when the time comes. This is "quite an order" to love, to give and then say goodbye, and this is why foster parents are often referred to as the greatest parents in the world. The bright spot in the situation is that often another child is waiting who may be in desperate need of foster parents. The home often doesn't remain empty for long.

Frequently the parental rights of the child have been terminated by the courts either from parental neglect or other reasons. Sometimes the parent may have a temporary problem that can be worked out in time and they need assistance for only a brief period. This can result from either an illness, a death in the family or an alcoholic condition that makes the home unsuitable for the minor. All children are committed by the courts.

MINORS MAY COME from homes where discipline and control have been non-existent and the parent shows little interest or concern for the child's welfare. In general the child feels that "no one cares." Minors over 12 with severe delinquency problems are placed in the training schools for treatment in a confined setting. However, the social workers of today feel that the child with minor behavior problems or adverse home conditions is much better off if he can be placed in a family home type environment as soon as possible and treated as a normal member of a family.

The sex and age of the children can be requested by the foster parent. According to Fox, an impor-

Bill Fox at the Department of Social Services checks the children's records against the applications filed by prospective foster parents. The department places great emphasis on making successful placements.

Eureka

Mrs Gordon Waggoner

Mr and Mrs Ronald Hankey and daughter Ratha were weekend callers of his mother, Mrs Gladys Hankey. They were here to attend the ground breaking ceremonies of the Eureka church.

Mr and Mrs Frank Ruess have returned here following their winter stay at their home in Florida.

Mrs Gale Wood and four children called at the home of Mr and Mrs Gordon Waggoner and girls, Sunday afternoon, May 4.

Mr and Mrs LeRoy Drury of Bennington, and Mr and Mrs Steve Eckart and son of St. Johns, were callers of Mr and Mrs Frank Ruess, May 4.

Mr and Mrs Milford Clark called on Mr and Mrs Gordon Waggoner and daughters, Saturday morning enroute home from their cottage at Houghton Lake.

Making sure everything gets put in its proper place at the new Elsie Public Library was a team effort. Mrs Elizabeth Hess, chairman of the library board, checks the library card file and a tall Jack Keys double checks the book on the shelves in the background. Other cross-checking is done by Mrs Jean Lannen, vice-chairman of the library board, and Pat Foran, who helped the Elsie Lions Club engineer the move.

71 men to leave for physicals on May 21

According to Mrs Opal Podolak, executive secretary of selective service system, local board 19, this month's pre-induction group is the largest in several years. Seventy-one men are scheduled to leave for physicals on May 21. They will depart from the Central National Bank Building at 6:30 a.m.

The group includes: James Stewart, Reo Miller II, Blon McVeigh, Dennis Stump, Thomas Parks, Brent Bailey, Roger Arntz, Thomas Bullard, Bruce Byrnes, Kurt Woodbury, Wayne Peplau, Charles King, Paul Jopke, Gary Risdon, James Paquet, David Depond, David Casiner, Richard Kimble, David Bell, Michael Barnes, Brian Bedaine, Ralph Stevenson, Forrest Parks, Brent Law, Lee Hodges, Wayne Kingman, William Beardsley, William Bengel, Michael Fenels, William Harris, James Fink, James Wedel, George Mehney, Daniel Schroeder, Roger Feldpausch, Andrew Girvin, Michael Henning, Ronald Wickerham, John Vance, Michael Sandborn, Allen Boettger, Wayne Elrschele, Bobby Sees, Kenneth Stirm, John Lawrence, William Nemeik, Michael Dague, Douglas Anderson, David Wiseman, Gary Derke, Barry Taft, William McConnell, Norman Seelhoff, Matthew Courter, David Howe, Donald Rasmussen, John Madill, Douglas Spitzberger, Daniel Leonard, Jody Smith, Cary Hambleton, Dale Willet, Michael Beebe, David Diehl, John Barnes, Edward Remer, David Gutshall, Ronald Rademacher, Michael Rutter, and David Peck Jr.

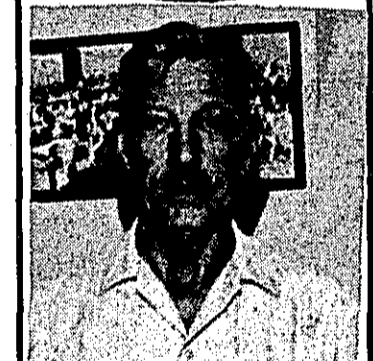

tant item to remember is that these children do not change overnight. It takes love, patience and deep understanding on the part of foster parents. The child is often exposed to a completely new way of life that is like stepping into a new world.

The social service department stands ready to assist foster parents at any time.

Anyone interested in further information on the program may contact Bill Fox at the Social Services Department at 1003 S. Oakland Street.

"Let's talk dry cleaning" by Dana Antes This is a season of color. Bright, gay colors and subtle shades. Jewel tones in plains, in prints and in variegated patterns. Color caught in an infinite variety of fabrics.

Color takes special care in cleaning. While today, most fabrics are yarn-dyed and color-locked, occasionally we find colors that run. A fluke can occur even with the finest fabric manufacturer. And this often presents a serious problem for the cleaner, particularly in printed fabrics where several colors have been blended to form the pattern.

This is just one of the reasons why it is always wise to send your colorful and printed garments to a reputable cleaner who will recognize the importance of testing the fabric for color-fastness before determining the best cleaning method. Often a color fixative can be used to prevent fading or running of colors.

The old adage about the old way of doing a thing being the best way is not generally true where cleaning is concerned. Modern science is continually developing new and better methods to care for new fabrics, new dyes, etc. We make a point of keeping up with the latest cleaning developments, so send us your most delicate colors, your most fragile fabrics, for safe, thorough cleaning.
