

The junk car scourge

With or without owners' cooperation, county zoners plan to clean them up.

By LOWELL G. RINKER, Editor

Take a ride through the countryside of Clinton County and count the number of "junk cars" in the yards and behind the barns as you go.

Chances are it won't take more than a couple of miles to run out of fingers to count them on.

Citizen complaints about the presence of junk cars in their neighborhoods are growing in number daily, reflecting the growth of a problem which the Clinton County Zoning Department refers to as kind of a cancer.

"Something has got to be done . . . and will be done," promised Bill Coffey, assistant zoning administrator.

TEN ARREST WARRANTS were issued through the prosecutor's office last week for county residents charged with violation of Article 22 of the county zoning ordinance.— the article dealing with junk cars.

Coffey and Zoning Administrator Gerald Walter promise there will be more, but they hope most junk cars will be taken care of by the owners before drastic means are necessary.

The problem is almost too much to handle already. Despite the long, snowy winter, Coffey said hundreds of residents managed to drag home old or wrecked cars to salvage from them what they could. In most cases, however, the hulks have remained in the yards and behind the barns — an eyesore to the neighborhood and even a danger.

"They're a hazard around a yard," Coffey said. "Children crawl around on them and fall or get cut. And they're a great harboring place for bees and wasps."

Junk cars are no new problem. They were recognized as one when the county zoning ordinance was written, and the ordinance states that the presence of a "dismantled, partially dismantled or inoperable motor vehicle or parts of a motor vehicle on any platted or unplatted parcel of land in violation of the terms of this ordinance is hereby declared to be a public nuisance."

Coffey said the zoning office gets a lot of calls about junk cars, and even gets them at home. "It's a growing problem and people are becoming aware of it," he said.

"People see one area that's bad, and they don't realize the problem is county wide."

There are junk cars in every township of Clinton County, but "the farther south you get the worse the problem gets," Bath and DeWitt have the greatest junk car population now, Coffey said, but the problem is also acute in Victor Township and is growing rapidly in Watertown.

COMPLAINTS USUALLY REFER TO two or three junk cars in the yard of a neighbor, but in some cases there have been as many as 10 or more. Sometimes old junker cars come and go so fast it's almost as if the property owner or resident was running an unlicensed junk yard. In many of the cases, however, the cars stay on for weeks or months.

What value are junk cars, anyway? To the owner they have — or at one time had — some value. They were driven or towed home and then stripped of anything that might be useful in another car or cars. Sometimes the hulk is burned out and sold for scrap. Most of the time it sits around and rusts.

Many offenders of the junk car ordinance say the old cars are for their teenage sons to tinker around with, but according to Coffey most of the junk cars don't involve teenagers.

The zoning department has placed emphasis on cleaning up the junk cars just during the past few months, mainly because (See END OF JUNK, Page 4-A)

Mayor trade, Milliken talk top 'Week'

The appearance of Lt. Gov. William G. Milliken in St. Johns next Tuesday and the exchange of mayors by several communities in the county highlight next week's Michigan Week observance in Clinton County.

The annual week-long celebration will be without a lot of the hoopla that accompanied last year's observance — parade, floats, Miss St. Johns contest and Senior Citizens district meeting — but county Michigan Week Chairman

Mrs. Betty Minsky promises a lot of meaningful activity.

Lt. Gov. Milliken will be the main speaker at next Tuesday's rural urban dinner, a joint effort of the Farm Bureau and St. Johns Chamber of Commerce. The dinner will start at 7:30 p.m., served by the Bingham EUB ladies. A social hour at 7 p.m. will precede the dinner.

ALSO ON THE PROGRAM are the Fowler 4, a barbershop quartet. Tickets for the dinner are on sale from Farm Bureau and Chamber of Commerce offices and at the main offices of the two groups.

St. Johns, Ovid, Elsie and DeWitt will be exchanging their mayors with communities in other parts of the state Monday.

At Ovid, Village President Harvey Darling and his wife and Larry Martin and his wife will be traveling to Athens, a community of 996 people southeast of Kalamazoo. Athens President Donald Rumery and his wife and Councilman Kenneth Daniels and his wife will come to Ovid for the day. A boy and girl from each of the senior government classes in the schools of the communities will also make exchange visits.

Darling will return to Ovid late Monday afternoon for an evening banquet.

AT ELSIE, MICHIGAN Week Chairman Guy Mitchell said a Mayor's Exchange Banquet will be held Monday night at the Masonic Temple under sponsorship of the Elsie Lions and Commercial clubs. The Order of Eastern Star will serve the dinner. Special guests will be Mayor James Hauseman and his wife and another couple from Three Oaks, a town of 1,703 population near Lake Michigan and the Indiana state line.

Elsie President Durward Conklin and his wife will go to Three Oaks.

The Three Oaks group will be escorted around Elsie Monday by Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Cobb, (See MICHIGAN, Page 4-A)

Grand Ledge mayor, Coletta to swap positions on Monday

St. Johns will be host Monday to Grand Ledge Mayor Alvin Kempf and his wife during the annual Mayor Exchange Day program of Michigan Week.

At the same time, St. Johns Mayor Charles Coletta and his wife will spend most of the day in Grand Ledge.

Mayor Kempf has held that post in Grand Ledge for two years and was recently elected to another two-year term. He was an alderman four years prior to that. He was named Grand Ledge's outstanding young man in 1961, the year he was president of the Jaycees.

HE IS A FORMER scoutmaster and neighborhood commissioner, steward of the Methodist Church, and a member of the Improvement Assn.

Mayor Kempf will be shown around St. Johns during the morning and afternoon, with special emphasis on the new water treatment plant here.

At noon there will be a luncheon at Walkers for invited guests, which will include two ex-mayors, Harry Bradley and Clarence Ebert. Mayor Kempf will also present service award certificates for former Commissioners and Mayors Jack Smit and Ray Kentfield Jr. and Dorr Anderson and Dr. P. F. Stoller.

During the evening, a joint banquet of officials from both Grand Ledge and St. Johns will be held at the Steinhaus restaurant midway between Grand Ledge and Lansing. It will start at 7:30 p.m., with a social hour preceding the dinner.

Hospital Assn. to aid search

A stepped-up search for additional medical doctors for St. Johns is being launched from Clinton Memorial Hospital.

At last Thursday's annual meeting of the Clinton Memorial Hospital Assn., a committee for community medical needs was appointed from the trustees, directors and medical staff.

Heading up the committee as chairman will be Lawrence Sexton, while other members include Dorr Anderson, Fraser MacKinnon, Alan R. Dean as president of the board of trustees, Ink White as chairman of the board of directors, and Dr. P. F. Stoller as chief of staff at the hospital.

DR STOLLER NOTED in his report to the association last Thursday that the medical staff has been searching for additional medical doctors for the community for the last two or three years. He noted that several doctors have come in to look the town over but for one reason or another none have stayed.

The search is being made for doctors in all of Clinton County. In the immediate St. Johns area, it was noted there are only five medical doctors — Drs. W. F. Stephenson, Stoller, James Grost, S. R. Russell and Arthur C. Henthorn.

Dean, president of the board of trustees, said everyone recognizes the dire need for more doctors in the community and this is why the search is being intensified.

HE SAID NO particular plans have yet been formulated for the search, but it will be done in any way possible, including continuation of the current method of advertising in medical journals and other such publications.

Three new members were elected to the board of trustees at last Thursday's meeting. They were Martin Eddinger of Fowler, Stan Loznak of Elsie and Keith Blizard of DeWitt. They replace the late E. F. Boron of St. Johns and William Buck of DeWitt and Kelly Carter of Elsie.

The board of trustees reelected their officers — Al Dean as president, Ink White as first vice president, Con Selm Jr. as second vice president, and Judge Leo Corkin as secretary-treasurer and director.

Incumbents Chairman Ink White of St. Johns, Vice Chairman Dr. Robert C. Beach of Ovid and William Richards Sr. of St. Johns were reelected to the board of directors. Carry-over directors will meet soon to choose their officers for the new year. Also appointed at last Thursday's meeting was a committee for study of by-law revision. It includes Leo Corkin as chairman and Con Selm Jr., Robert Conn, Justin Marzke and Paul Nobis.

REPORTS HEARD at the May 11 meeting of the Clinton Memorial Hospital Assn were from Chairman of the Board of Directors Ink White, Secretary-Treasurer Leo Corkin, Hospital Administrator Harold Reed, Chief of Staff Dr. Paul Stoller, Auxiliary President Mrs. Jerry Stone, Auxiliary Treasurer Mrs. Esther Hendershot, Red Cross Volunteers President Mrs. Doris Prowant, and Mrs. Ruth Sirrine with a report of history of activities of the Hospital Auxiliary.

3-way race for 2 seats on board

There will be a three-way race for the two four-year seats opening up July 1 on the St. Johns Board of Education.

Richard L. Root of 5210 S. DeWitt Road filed his petition before the Saturday deadline for a place on the June 12 ballot with incumbents Alden Livingston of 2224 Livingston Road and Leon Schumaker of 8256 Francis Road.

Root's petition has not been officially certified by the school board as meeting all legal qualifications, but the board was expected to take this routine action at a special meeting following the high school ground-breaking ceremonies Wednesday afternoon.

At the regular school board meeting last Wednesday, the board approved a list of election workers for the June 12 board election. They are:

Precinct 1, Ladd Bartholomew, Rudolph Mohnke, Barbara Davis and Alberta Cornwell; precinct 2, Lois E. Upton, Marguerite Gove and Mrs. Charles R. Smith; precinct 3, Gladys Hankey, Deloris Harger and Barbara Blair; precinct 4, Agatha M. Simon, Jean Harte and Mary Barks; and precinct 5, Elmer Marten, Alberta Huhn, Wilma Bandt and Edward Witt.

County fluoride program planned

The Clinton County fluoride program will be held during the months of June, July, and the first week of August. The schedule goes as follows:

Fowler Elementary School, June 6 through June 13; DeWitt Griswold School, June 15 through June 28; Ovid Elementary School, June 30 through July 12; Swegles School, St. Johns, July 14 through July 25 and July 26 through Aug. 4.

Some 650 children are scheduled to have the topical fluoride treatments this year, which is a light schedule. If anyone is still interested in having the treatments, the county health office does have room to take more children, especially in the St. Johns group. The other areas have some room left also. The Clinton County health office is at 106 Maple Street, St. Johns. The fee is $3.50 for one child, $6 for two children and $15.00 for each additional child.

The program is sponsored by the Clinton County Health Department and the nurse in charge is Mrs. Luella Canfield, R. N.

OK new rural combinations

The combining of 10 rural elementary schools and the purchase of two new portable classrooms for city schools were approved by the St. Johns Board of Education last Wednesday evening.

It was an unusually busy session for the board, during which they made a number of important decisions to ease the problems of high enrollment in the district next year.

Three different combinations of rural schools make up the 10 schools affected by last week's decision.

One affects the Rowell, Richmond, Parker and Sage schools. Kindergarten and first grade students from all those schools will meet for classes at the Rowell School; second and third grades will meet at Richmond School; fourth and fifth grades at Sage School; and sixth, seventh and eighth grades at Parker School.

ANOTHER COMBINATION affects the Price, Krepps and Cramer schools. Cramer will be used for the kindergarten, first and second grades; Krepps will handle grades three, four and five; and grades six, seven and eight will meet at Price School.

Frink, Harper and Bengal Center schools would also be combined under the new plan. Kindergarten, first and second grades would be at Harper; third, fourth and fifth grades at Bengal Center; and sixth, seventh and eighth grades at Frink.

Placement of teachers in each of the schools hasn't been decided yet, and enrollment at each school is also indefinite.

THE SCHOOL BOARD is also considering a combination of Merle Beach, Stoney Creek, Lamb, Chapman and South Riley kindergarten, but details on that proposed plan haven't been worked out.

School officials point out the combinations are a step toward the eventual housing of all the rural elementary grades in the five neighborhood elementary schools. By combining grades they hope to make more efficient use of teachers and equipment.

Several other adjustments were approved for the rural schools. Kindergarten and first grade from French School will be sent to East Essex unless East Essex enrollment proves to be too high. Sherwood School kindergartners and first graders will be sent to Eureka School.

In both cases, the kindergarten students at French and Sherwood are presently attending East Essex and Eureka schools, respectively.

ONE OF THE TWO NEW portable classrooms in the district next year will be at the high school, quite likely on the north-west lawn. School District Administrative Asst. Steve Bakita said the board decided on the new portable room following a fruitless search all around the area adjacent to the school for an available room.

Another portable will also be installed at Perrin-Palmer school for first graders. At this time details on what first graders will attend there haven't been worked out.

At Central School, the anticipated higher junior high enrollment will be directly affected by two decisions made by the board of education last Wednesday night.

Class sessions next year will be cut down in length and increased in numbers. There will be eight class sessions, continuing through the noon hour, instead of six as there are this year. Classes will be only 50 minutes in length next year compared to about 57 minutes this year.

The change is being made to handle the increased enrollment without increasing the size of any particular class session.

THE ST. JOSEPH Parochial School Board and the public school board have reached general agreement on a plan to share a physical education program by using the St. Joseph school gym. The public schools will rent the gym from the church, and then the inclusion of St. Joseph School seventh and eighth graders to the physical education program will make the public schools eligible for additional state aid.

This plan was necessitated because high school enrollment next year will prevent the use of high school facilities for the Central School junior high students. Central seventh and eighth graders will now receive an expanded physical education program, but scheduling of classes hasn't yet been worked out.

The move will make necessary the hiring of another gym teacher.

SPEAKING OF enrollment, the school district will have at least 190 kindergarten students in the city schools next year. That was the number who were signed up May 5, and school officials are positive there will be more when fall classtime rolls around.

In other business last Wednesday night, the board approved the purchase of 110 band student uniforms, two directors' uniforms and one for a drum major at a unit price of $89.53. The price was a bid of the Sol Frank Uniform Co. of San Antonio, Tex. The only other bid was from the DeMaullin Brothers and Co. of Greenville, Ill., through Rehmann's Clothing Store for $101 per uniform.

The board voted to put back into plans for the four neighborhood elementary schools 11 classroom folding partitions at a total cost of $31,780. The partitions were at first excluded from bids contracted.

The board approved the placing of the general fund depository account with the Clinton National Bank and Trust Co. for the next

Petitions seek sewers at Bath

By MRS ALICE LOOMIS
Bath Correspondent

BATH — Petitions are now being circulated for the installation of sewers in the Bath area. The proposal calls for establishment of a sanitary sewer district that would include the main residential and business community of about 200 acres. It would be bounded by Allen Street on the north, Drumheller Road on the south, the east edge of the school property and Nelson's subdivision on the west.

Bath is unincorporated and is neither a city or village, although the area proposed for sewers is within Bath Charter Township.

Estimated cost of the sewer installations and a lagoon-type treatment field is $475,000. Needed on the petitions are signatures of owners of 51 per cent of the property involved.

At the same time there is a counter petition being circulated against the sanitary sewer system.

DeWitt gets good bids for addition

DEWITT — The DeWitt School Board received favorable bids last Thursday night for two construction projects for the district—one an eight-room addition to the Scott Elementary School and the other renovation of the Fuerstenau Junior High School.

Architects are preparing the contracts for both construction projects. The refurbishing of the junior high will be completed this summer and the addition later this year.

Hausmann Construction Co. won the general contract for the Scott addition on a bid of $176,372. The mechanical contract went to the C. G. Brenner Co., Inc., for $41,573, and the electrical contract was awarded to Fox Electric for $15,673.

Six classrooms, a special education room and a library are included in the project. The bids averaged $16.55 per square foot, according to Supt. Hobart Jenkins.

The renovating and improvements to the junior high school will cost a total of $196,489, with the Stew Construction Co. getting the general contract, F. D. Hayes Electric the electrical work and Shaw-Winkler the mechanical contract.

The two projects are being done with bond money approved by voters in a $400,000 bond issue vote last June.

Probate judge echoes need for local mental health care

It will probably be a couple of weeks before Chairman Ernest Carter of the board of supervisors announces his appointees to the new Clinton County Mental Health Board which the supervisors approved last week.

It was only a couple of hours after they voted to set up the board that Probate Judge Timothy M. Green appeared before supervisors to urge some thought to a county mental health clinic. He had been unaware of the board's action during the morning.

Judge Green said he felt Gratiot and Clinton were both too small to have their own clinics, but he briefed the board about a successful Shiawassee County mental health clinic which he said would probably handle Clinton referrals.

THE JUDGE SAID there is an increasing need for mental health care in the county. "Many persons could be treated locally at a savings to the county," he said, pointing out that last year the probate court committed 14 persons to state hospitals.

Shiawassee, he said, committed 17 persons to state hospitals in 1965, but in 1966, following establishment of the mental health clinic there, there were only two commitments.

Supervisor Gerald Shepard, who introduced the motion to set up a Clinton County Mental Health Board, said he was sorry the supervisors didn't know of Judge Green's feelings before taking their action, but he pointed out any Clinton mental health board would probably contract with others for mental health services rather than establishing its own clinic.

In other miscellaneous business last Tuesday:

* THE BOARD VOTED down by a 13-6 count a request to give courthouse employees a day off on Monday, May 29, the day before Memorial Day. Supervisor George Moore, Derrill Shinabery, Ernest Carter, Walter Thelen, Don Clark and Lorenz Tiedt voted yes. "No" votes were cast by Supervisors Gerald Shepard, Raymond Mayers, Maurice Gove, William Hufnagel, Reginald Nelson, Russell Howe, John Setterington, Walter Nobis, Earl Barks, George Austin, Claude Underhill, Elden Smith and Ray Price. Three supervisors were absent.

* The board accepted a resolution brought in by Mrs Henrietta Prince and Mrs Lawrence Sexton of the Clinton County Republican Women's Club concerning beautification of the courthouse lawn. They recommended the hiring of a landscape architect. Mrs Prince said the Republican Women were conducting a drive to beautify the city, and "it should start at the courthouse lawn because it is the focal point of the city."

Supervisor Shinabery said the board has had some thoughts along this line, and recommendations are being sought from the Cooperative Extension Service at Michigan State University.

* CIVIL DEFENSE Director Charles Frost inquired about the necessity of maintaining the fifth warning siren in the city, that one atop the courthouse. It was not used during last month's tornado warning because of courthouse construction. Supervisor Charles Coletta of St. Johns told Frost it was up to him and city civil defense Director Everett Glazier to determine whether it was needed. Coletta said he would put on the city commission agenda a proposal that the city buy a federal surplus compressor for $100 to be used on the courthouse siren.

* Frost said DeWitt Township Police Chief Bruce Angell has been named civil defense director in that township, and Jack Christi is deputy CD director.

* County Clerk Paul Wakefield was instructed to write to State Reps. Blair Woodman and Lester Allen urging passage of a bill now in the House which would establish two-year appointive terms for county dog wardens. Under the bill the wardens would also take the dog census each year.

* BOARD CHAIRMAN Ernest Carter turned over to the board's zoning committee for consultation with the zoning commission a request of Marvin McGuire for rezoning of a parcel of land in Watertown Township to enable establishment of a trailer park. McGuire contends the zoning commission's refusal to rezone the land earlier should have been brought before the county board for final action. County Prosecutor Norman White recommended that McGuire's only path of appeal of the zoning commission's decision is to circuit court, in which case a legal test of the entire Clinton County zoning ordinance might be forthcoming.

* The board acted on several resolutions sent them by other county boards. They concurred with one from Hillsdale opposing any additional sums for school aid raised by state levied property tax, adding that they also object to any state property tax bills. They tabled a resolution from Grand Traverse County, which rebuffed the state for not paying half the salary of the probate judge, as is required by law; the Clinton County board was informed the county is not paying the state's half as Grand Traverse apparently is. They also tabled a resolution from Arenac County requesting a return to 50-50 sharing of costs by the county and the state for county TB patients.

They also tabled a letter from the Mackinac County Board requesting the dropping of bridge tolls and the establishment of a quarter-cent per-gallon gasoline tax to pay off the bridge bonds.

* The board was informed the State Tax Commission is apparently accepting the county's equalized valuation figure of $123,684,166, one of the first times in years the STC has done so.

Michigan Week

DEWITT MAYOR Elden Smith will spend Monday in Tawas City as that community's mayor for the day. He'll be accompanied by his wife and by Mayor Pro-tem and Mrs Lawrence Keck. Tawas City is about the same size as DeWitt and is located on the north end of Saginaw Bay.

Exchanging places with Smith will be Tawas City Mayor Russell Rollin and his wife. Lee Rummell will be chairman of the host committee showing Mayor Rollin around DeWitt.

Maple Rapids, Fowler and Westphalia are not exchanging mayors this year.

John McGoff and Bob Rentschler of Panex Corp. in Lansing will act as judges for a contest of best room displays for grades one through six in all schools of the county. They'll also judge an essay contest for older students on the topic "What My Community Could Do To Make Michigan Week More Meaningful." The judging was to be done this week.

THE ROOM DISPLAY contest will be based on any historic, industrial, agricultural, religious or other topic with a Michigan theme. Judging will be based on originality in picking a theme and in carrying it out, obvious student participation, and overall appearance.

In the essay contest, judges will select what they consider the best entry submitted from students throughout the county at each grade level. Teachers have already picked the best entry from each room.

Trophies will be awarded to the first, second and third place winners in each contest and in each case will go to the school rather than the student.

In St. Johns, there will be Michigan Week posters all over town, and kindergarten through third grade pupils will receive Michigan Week buttons Monday.

There will be an industrial exhibit all week in the community room of the Central National Bank.

A PARADE TROPHY last year has been donated by Lester Lake and will become a traveling trophy awarded each year to a local group which the committee feels did an outstanding community project during the year. It will be presented for the first time at next Wednesday's rural-urban dinner.

Brandon C. White is St. Johns' Michigan Week chairman. Mitchell Das is heading up Ovid's observance.

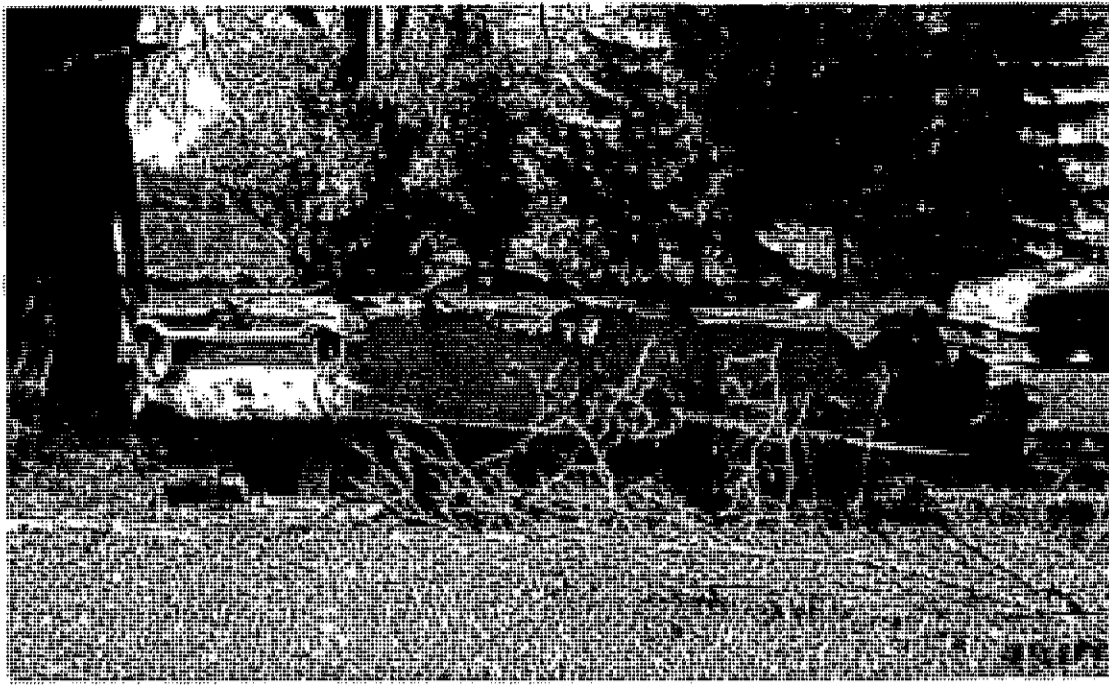

As part of the Michigan Week observance, the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service will telecast a "Michigan Citizenship Test" over WJIM-TV (Channel 6) Sunday evening, May 21. Questions featuring Indian culture, agriculture, natural resources and political personalities from the past make up the half-hour show, starting at 6:30 p.m.

8 from DeWitt OK'd for Honors Institute

In the area of mathematics the participants include Jill Gogard, Debbie Ohm and Ann Howard. In biology are Dave Horvath, Sue Graves and Grant Hills. In electronics are Lee Hodges and Mark Salemma.

End of junk car scourge pledged by zoning office

(Continued from Page 1-A) of the tremendous growth of the problem over the winter. There has always been a certain policing of the problem all the time in an effort to keep it in check.

LAST YEAR, FOR INSTANCE, the zoning department made a concerted effort to get rid of junk cars on properties along M-21. It was pretty much successful, but even now there are "new" junkers appearing.

"They start out with one or two cars behind the barn," Coffey said, "and unless we clamp down it will spread to three or four or more."

"A lot of people give us the excuse they can't get rid of them, that it's too costly to remove them. But when they bought or got the car and took it home they were certainly aware of it."

The cost of hauling a couple of junk cars away could be very small compared to what it might cost if the violation is taken to court.

Justice of the Peace Gordon Willyoung, who is handling the 10 warrants issued last week points out the ordinance provides for fines of between $10 and $100, plus court costs, and possible jail terms ranging from one day minimum to 90 days maximum.

COFFEY SAID THE ZONING Department doesn't like to handle the problem through the courts, if it can be done other wise. "I certainly don't like serving warrants on people," he said. "We'd much rather have the cooperation of the people."

Coffey, Walter and Justice Willyoung all believe the violators get more than a fair chance to correct the problem before there is any court action taken. "Infact, we take a lot of time," Coffey said.

He makes sometimes two and three trips to a place, first to warn the violator, then again later to check on any clean-up, and finally again, if necessary, to serve a warrant.

Justice Willyoung provides the violator with yet another opportunity. After getting the warrants from the prosecutor last week, he wrote the violators a letter, ordering them to appear on such and such a date. If they don't, the warrants are turned over to the sheriff.

In their appearance, Justice Willyoung said, he gives them a week to get their cars cleaned up, in which case only a small fine and costs will be assessed. Further delay, however, could bring the maximum penalties, he warns.

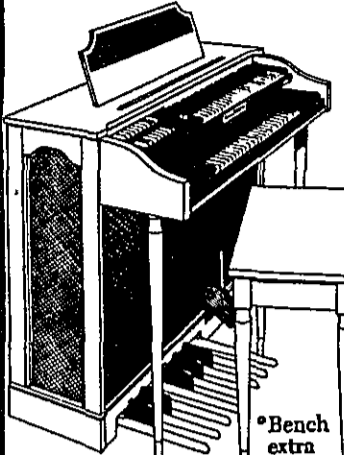

Violation of a junk car article is a misdemeanor, the justice of the peace warns, and each day the violation persists is deemed a separate case.

THE ZONING OFFICE HAS HAD to press most of the complaints themselves. They've found many people willing to call the zoners' attention to a problem but few are willing to sign actual complaints. Violators, when contacted, usually also point out other violators and insist that they be prosecuted, too.

The result has been more and more cases to check up on. Many of the violators are cooperative once they have been approached and warned. Others are balky and require legal persuasion. Most of the violators are repeaters — people who have been warned in the past about other cars.

"Most of them are aware of the law but just don't believe it will be enforced," Coffey said. "But it will, as much as we dislike having to do it."

5 school districts have competition for school board seats

Five area school districts will have contests for the vacant school board seats in the June 12 school elections.

At Bath, incumbents Darwin Clise and William Brook are seeking reelection to their two seats on the school board, with opposition from Mrs Virginia Zeab. The terms of election will be for four years.

In DeWitt, James Decatur and Roy Strait have filed petitions for a place on the ballot, each seeking the single four-year seat on the board being vacated this year by Al Pierce. Pierce is not seeking reelection.

In St. Johns, incumbents Leon Schumaker and Alden Livingston are seeking reelection for four years, with Richard Root also seeking one of the two vacant seats.

THE OVID - ELSIE School Board has three vacancies this year, and six men are seeking two four-year seats and two after a two-year term. Four-year candidates are incumbent Robert Baese and Merle Green, Robert Bloomer, Paul Jones, Howard Maltz and Charles Palen. Baese is currently filling out an unexpired term; the other current board member whose term is expiring, Elsworth Cook, is not a candidate for reelection.

Seeking the two-year term are Andrew Cobb and Wayne Flegel. The current holder of this term, Stan Loznak, is resigning effective June 30.

In the Ashley School District, Lloyd Burk and Stephen Davis are unopposed in seeking reelection for four-year terms, but incumbent Raymond Slavik is being opposed by William Porubsky in his bid for reelection for a two-year term. School district voters will also ballot on a six-mill operations tax levy again this spring. A current six-mill levy expires this year.

In the Pawamo - Westphalia district Eugene Cook is the lone candidate for a four-year seat on the school board. He has been filling out the last weeks of a term of Louis Cook, who resigned. P-W voters will have a three-mill tax levy issue on the ballot on the same date.

IN THE FULTON School District, Henry Wiseman and Ronald Bellinger, both incumbents, have

2 parked cars hit each other

Two parked and driverless cars collided with each other Sunday afternoon. Of course, no one was injured. Damage was not great.

The odd mishap occurred on South Lansing Street just south of Park. John L. Moon of Lansing had parked his auto and set the brake, he said, but it did not hold, and the car rolled into another parked car owned by Donald Bashore of R-3, St. Johns.

In two other traffic mishaps during the week in St. Johns, one of the two drivers pulled out in front of the other, thinking he had plenty of time only to find out he didn't. Both accidents happened within two hours of each other last Wednesday afternoon.

IN THE FIRST a car driven by Mildred M. VanHorn of East French Road pulled off Sturgis Street from the east and collided with a southbound car driven by Robert D. Wagner, 22, of 307 W. Walker Street, driving on US-27. Mrs VanHorn was ticketed for failure to yield the right-of-way.

The other accident occurred at the intersection of East State and Baker streets. Thomas E. Danley, 20, of 606 S. Baker, told city police he stopped for the stop sign, thought he had time to pull onto State Street but didn't and hit a car driven by Ralph B. Baker, 71, of 1771 Shepardsville Road, Ovid.

Last Wednesday morning an auto driven by Evelyn R. Holstein of 77605 DeWitt Road, DeWitt, hit the rear of a car operated by Margaret L. Burnham of 404 E. Cass Street, which was slowing down for cars ahead of it. The accident occurred in front of 506 E. State Street.

TWO CARS BACKING up collided Saturday afternoon on Brush Street just north of Higham. Gordon H. Harris, 19, of 209 S. Emmons told police he was backing up from the corner so he could pull into a parking place. But he backed into the left side of a car, operated by Eugene L. Downing, 31, of 698 N. Lansing, who was backing out of a parking place.

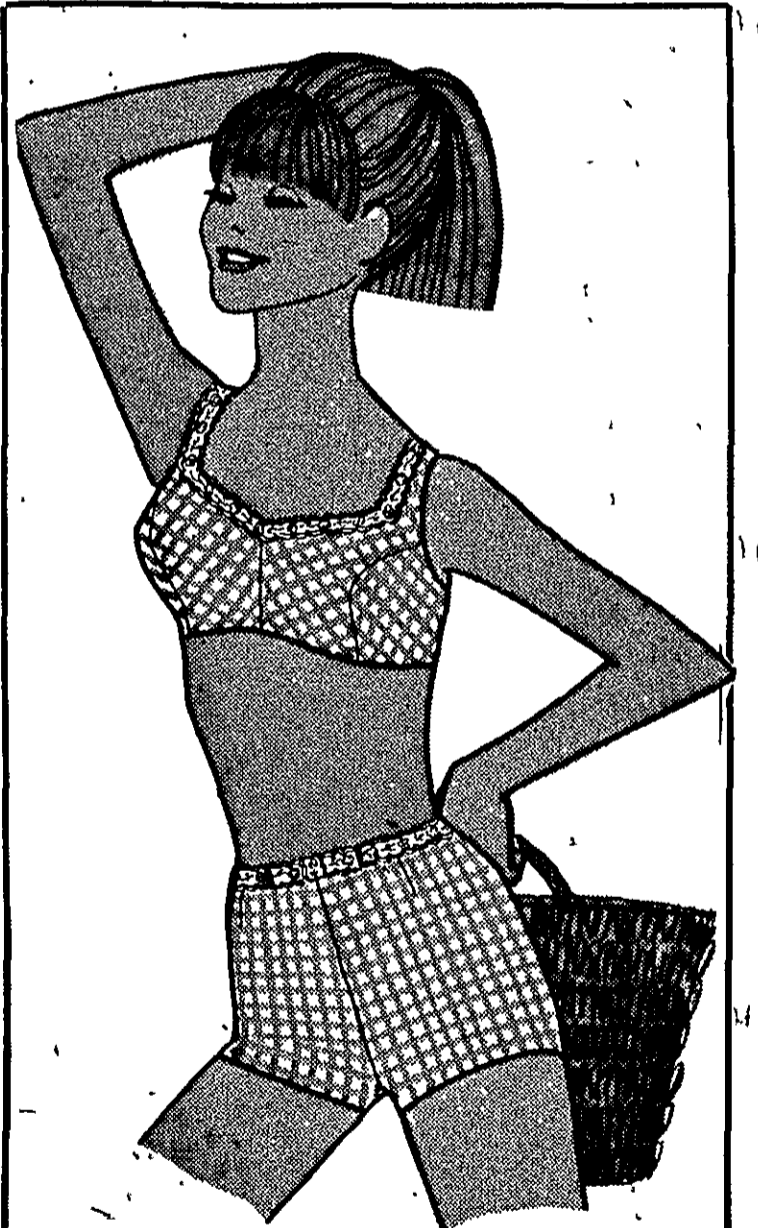

No one was hurt in any of the St. Johns accidents.

HUB CAPS STOLEN

Four hubcaps - type hub caps were stolen from a car parked in the Egan Ford Sales lot, company officials reported to St. Johns police last Friday.

Maple Rapids hosts county women's clubs

The all-day session of the Clinton County Federation of Women's Clubs at the Maple Rapids Congregational Christian Church last Tuesday, carried out the theme "Teamwork for Success". The Maple Rapids Sororists Club hosted an early coffee hour while Mrs. Dee Allen provided a prelude of organ music.

Mrs. Keith Wright of Fowler presided at the morning session. Rev. Henry Voss gave the invocation. Mrs. Erwin McMaster of the Victor Civic Club led the pledge of allegiance and Mrs. Edgar Walker of Maple Rapids extended greetings.

The county officers and several past presidents were presented. A corsage was given to Mrs. Mina Gordanier, a charter member of the Maple Rapids Sororists Club since its organization 65 years ago.

A memorial service was presented by Mrs. G. W. Bennett of Elsie. She was assisted by vocalist Kathy Zuker and accompanist Karen Rumbaugh of Rodney B. Wilson High School. Tribute was paid to the club women, who passed away during the past year. They were Mrs. Myrtle Cook of Elsie; Mrs. Rex Upton of Maple Rapids; Miss Althea Whitlock of St. Johns and Mrs. Nina Wall and Mrs. Mable Moore of the Victor Civic Club.

THE DEPARTMENTS of the Michigan State Federation were represented by Miss Sadie Jones of Grand Ledge, Mrs. L. M. Dalby of Lakeview, Mrs. John Spencer of Ovid and Mrs. L. O. McMally of Byron, who spoke respectively on the following projects: conservation, Girlstown, historian and the recent MSFWC convention in Muskegon.

Before recessing at noon, the Fulton High School Glee Club, directed by Donald Proko, gave a vocal concert.

LUNCHEON WAS served next door at the Methodist Church by the WSCS. Nearly 90 guests were seated at tables decorated with spring flowers. Miniature American flags and several small gifts marked each place.

Displays of scrapbooks, posters and free literature and program materials were also arranged.

THE OVID CRESCENT and Acme Clubs extended an invitation to meet in Ovid for the 1968 convention. Various other committees reports were given after which the new officers for 1967-1968 were presented by Mrs. Wright. They were: president, Mrs. Donald Warren of Ovid Acme Club; vice president, Mrs. Clifford W. Lumbert of St. Johns; recording secretary, Mrs. Charles Conn of Ovid Crescent Club; treasurer, Mrs. John F. Caudy of St. Johns and chairman of nominations, Mrs. Ray Miller of Ovid-Duplain Library Club.

Other parts of the program consisted of a humorous talk by Mrs. Clarence Hill and readings by Mrs. Marie Newman and Mrs. Floyd Upton. Arthur Thelen sang two songs in German, accompanied by his brother, Leo, on the harmonica. The harmonica band, consisting of Mrs. Elzie Exelby, Mrs. Carl Harris and Leo Thelen, with Sydney Christmas at the piano, played several numbers.

AS THE INCREASING attendance makes the Drop-In Center rather crowded it was voted to hold the next meeting, May 23, in the Undercroft of the Episcopal Church.

This is located in the 400 block of the East Walker Street and the entrance to the Undercroft is on the east side of the building.

Some of the members are planning to go to Lansing May 24 to the annual state-wide meeting of senior citizens. Those wishing to attend should contact Carmen Tranchell before May 17 for reservations.

Beginners' Band entertains

There were 55 senior citizens present at the April 19 meeting. The program was arranged by Mrs. Carl Harris and Mrs. George Shaw.

More than 40 members of the Beginners' Band of the school, composed of sixth graders and under the direction of Walter Cole and Gordon Gillett, entertained with solos, quartets and numbers by the entire band.

Other parts of the program consisted of a humorous talk by Mrs. Clarence Hill and readings by Mrs. Marie Newman and Mrs. Floyd Upton. Arthur Thelen sang two songs in German, accompanied by his brother, Leo, on the harmonica. The harmonica band, consisting of Mrs. Elzie Exelby, Mrs. Carl Harris and Leo Thelen, with Sydney Christmas at the piano, played several numbers.

ranged in the church. The guests were also given an opportunity to join a car caravan tour of nearby Rainbow Lake.

THE HIGHLIGHT of the afternoon program was a talk "Opportunities for the Handicapped" by Alan McNeil, executive director of Goodwill Industries, Flint.

Through Goodwill Industries, collection and repair of such articles as clothing, furniture, appliances and other small items, is now done by the handicapped. Through vocational rehabilitation, many have become janitors, truck drivers and mechanics, upholsterers and various types of repairmen.

He cited several instances where the handicapped were trained so they could earn and provide for themselves, General Motors inspection jobs paid one half million dollars in wages at Flint to the handicapped, who are now contributing to society.

A BUSLOAD OF young men and women from the Lapeer Home and Training School are brought daily into Flint's Goodwill Industries, where they have been trained. Many now have jobs and 15 are now able to support themselves and are no longer wards of the court.

McNeil praised the employers who gave opportunities to the handicapped and there are many, he said. He added that no other group had done more than the women's clubs in aiding the handicapped. Supporting local schools with adequate revenues, special education programs, fund raising and donations, volunteer work in hospitals and rehabilitation centers were some of the ways mentioned.

HE NOTED THAT the greatest individual help in Flint's Goodwill Industries was the gift of 3/4 million dollars from Charles S. Mott two months ago. He closed with a reading, "The World is Mine; Oh, God, Forgive Me When I Whine".

During the business session, roll call of the seven clubs of the county was taken as each president gave a brief resume of her own club's activities and achievements for the past year.

The Ovid Crescent and Acme Clubs extended an invitation to meet in Ovid for the 1968 convention. Band alumni meeting shaping up nicely here

Plans are progressing nicely for the first St. Johns Band Alumni meeting scheduled for the high school Sunday, May 28, at 3 p.m.

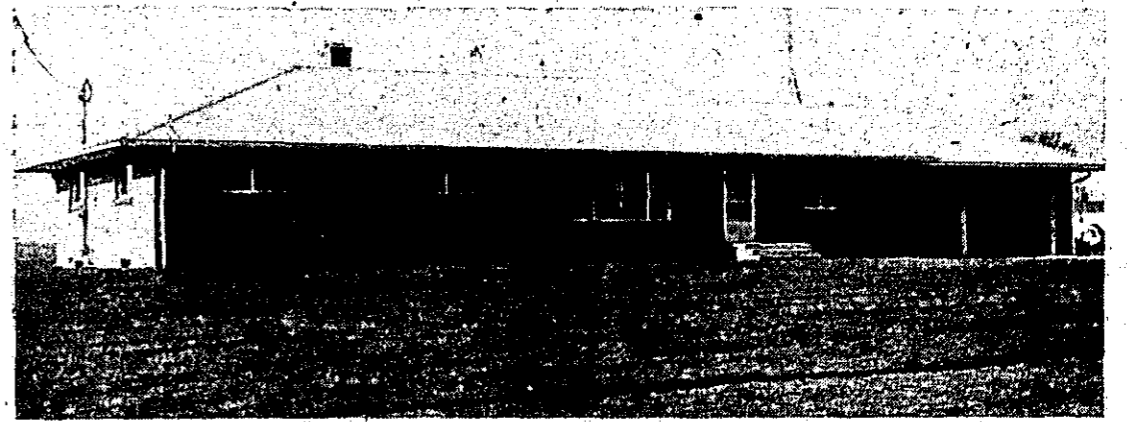

One of the major problems the committee has run into, however, has been getting the names and addresses of all former band members from Rodney B. Wilson High School. Band alumni are urged to attend even though they may not have received a letter; names and addresses will be taken so that a more complete listing will be available in future years.

The program will consist of a short concert by the symphonic band, the old grade band, and a social hour.

Grads are urged to bring their horns, but they may borrow those of the symphonic band if they don't have theirs. All alumni are urged to contact former band members and bring them along to the meeting.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

BITE IS DYNAMITE
He's no hermit, but the "brown recluse" is a spider with a bite probably more toxic than that of the black widow. Now found in a dozen Midwestern and Southern states, the shy brown spider seems to be expanding its territory. Often a person isn't aware that he has been bitten, but later the bite becomes painful and swollen.

Westphalia—today, tomorrow

LAST OF A SERIES
BY Sandi Rathbun

The village of Westphalia just grew and until a few years ago offered to the residents very few conveniences that people in other areas had come to expect.

With the village of Westphalia just growing, there were few streets, just about the only complete block in town until recently was Heyer Street, which ran one block south of Main Street. Heyer Street, Westphalia Street, (the main north-south street) and Main Street (the main east-west street) comprised the village street system. Now there are more than six miles of streets on the system.

Westphalia has a water system, fire protection which many in the area consider the best volunteer fire department in the county, a locally owned telephone company and hope in the future to install a sewage disposal system.

THE WATER SYSTEM was begun in 1951 while Aloysius Droste was the mayor. The village has a pneumatic system, rather than a tower, with an auxiliary gas unit in the pumphouse. The auxiliary unit provided water for Westphalia during the recent tornado even though the electricity was off for 24 hours.

The system was financed with revenue bonds so there was no tax increase. When the system began operation there 96 customers and at the present time there are about 220.

Droste served as mayor from 1948 until 1957. He is a native of the area and was born about a mile and a half from town. He owned and operated the Westphalia Creamery for 37 years. The creamery was located two blocks east of town. The building now serves as an apartment building.

GREG THELEN, Westphalia's mayor from 1957 until 1965, considers the road building program during his administration as his contribution to Westphalia's growth. Because Westphalia just grew and at a later date was platted, land for streets had to be bought. Later the land was donated by the owners to the village for streets.

At the present time the village is out of the road building business, now streets are built by those wishing to open areas for home building and then given to the village. The village maintains them.

The six miles of village streets now open to traffic are located within the mile square village limits, which extend a half a mile in each direction from the main corner of town.

Thelen owns Thelen Hardware. The hardware is located on the site of the old tin shop.

THE PRESENT mayor of Westphalia is Elvan Pohl, owner of Pohl Oil Company and Safety Center. Pohl is also a native of the area. He graduated from St. Mary's High School.

He was active on the council, as have been the former mayors, before becoming mayor.

In order for Westphalia to continue growing, Pohl said, we must continue to look ahead. More of the conveniences of city living have to be offered.

He hopes a sewage disposal system will be the next village improvement.

ALTHOUGH THE residents of Westphalia keep looking to the future, they have not forgotten their past. One of the reasons, most often given for staying in the area is their roots are there.

The German background of the area easily explains their love of music. In Westphalia, there is a community band, one of the few in the state.

The present band has about 24 members. Paul Koster is the director. They rehearse once a week. Not only do they play for their own amusement but the band plays at the annual Fourth of July picnics and also entertains in other areas.

THE FIRST BAND was begun in 1876 by Prof. Frank Loehner. He was a graduate of Leipzig. Loehner had charge of the organ at the church and trained the choirs.

The second leader was Louis Fink. In 1910 Westphalia had a cornet band and Ferdinand Platte was elected as the leader. In 1922, John Fink was the director. He was followed by his son, Francis, who was the band leader until four years ago.

PAUL KOSTER, the present band director was described by one of the band members as a "determined" leader. It makes little difference how poorly a number sounds the first time it is played by the band or how

Bishop Zaleski blesses school

Most Rev Alexander Zaleski, D. D., S.S.L., bishop of the diocese of Lansing, blessed the new St. Mary's school of Westphalia Tuesday, May 9, at 11 a.m. The new building replaces buildings erected in 1873, 1885 and an addition in 1939.

The new building has fourteen classrooms, two special education rooms, a library, two offices, two supply and work rooms, a clinic and teachers' lounge. The present enrollment is 516 students in the eight grades. The school is staffed by five Sisters, six lay teachers, and two special education teachers from the public school system on a part-time basis.

Architects for the new building were Manson, Jackson and Kane of Lansing. Granger Brothers of Lansing, were the general contractors.

BISHOP ZALESKI was assisted in the ceremony by Fr Martin Miller of Milwaukee, brother of Fr Aloysius Miller, the local pastor, as deacon, and Fr Francis Hackett, pastor of St. Joseph of Pewamo, as sub-deacon. Fr James Sullivan, secretary to the bishop, was the master of ceremonies.

After the blessing of the exterior and interior of the building, Bishop Zaleski, the visiting clergy, the teachers, students, and parishioners gathered outside the building for a flag-raising ceremony and the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner". The St. Mary's School Band, under the direction of Tomas Spencer from the P-W school system, accompanied the singing.

Guests at a luncheon prepared by the Christian Mothers Confraternity were those mentioned above and the following neighboring pastors: Fr Albert Schmitt of Fowler; Fr William Hanked of St. Johns; Fr Eugene Fox of ounces will also say twenty-eight ounces.

The name of the game is "food shopping." If you really want to win you will be a bargain hunter and a label reader.

Today's markets boast 6,000 to 8,000 items, so don't forget your reading glasses when shopping.

Who could possibly keep track of all these many products? Who would even want to? The labels do the job for us. All we have to do is be prepared to read them and they are coming up with more information.

July 1, 1967, several new labeling regulations will go into effect making our task of family food buying easier than ever. For example, each label for foods (except meat and poultry which are covered by existing laws) will soon carry two net content statements. The first will show ounces for clarity. The second will be expressed entirely in ounces to make price-per-unit comparisons easier for us. A label now reading one pint, twelve

AFTER JULY THE weight of a package must be prominently displayed on the front of a package — on the side or bottom. In addition labels will identify what is meant by a "serving" when the contents are identified as yielding "two servings" or "four servings." This information will help us know whether the serving the canner had in mind would satisfy a teen-age boy or be just right for the family parakeet.

Finally, such terms as "jumbo quart" and "giant pound" will be forbidden nationally. They are already outlawed in Michigan.

IF SOME OF THESE regulations seem unnecessary, consider the questionnaire presented to a group of women in Detroit last year asking if they would buy a "regular quart" of salad oil for 67¢ or if they thought the "jumbo quart" at 69¢ was a better buy. A little more than half of the women said a quart was a quart and they'd take the 67¢ bottle. But the rest were misled by the term "jumbo." So after July 1, out it goes.

The rules of the shopping game? Take time to shop, compare prices and read labels. Chances are you will win by saving food dollars.

difficult a piece it is, if he (Koster) decides they are going to play it they will and they will play it well.

The German wit is still very much in evidence in Westphalia today. When two former mayors and the present mayor got together recently to discuss their town, there was not only a great deal of serious talk about the future, as well as the past there was a great deal of laughter.

Contrary to what many may believe about Westphalia being a very clannish area, I found the people there very friendly and helpful.

Their concern about the future without forgetting their past will make Westphalia continue to grow. In just the past few years an average of eight new houses have been built every year and the grade school population has increased by over 150.

Jaycees launch pennies for Viet Nam drive

A state-wide drive to raise $185,000 during Michigan Week, May 21-27, to construct a medical facility for the "children of Viet Nam" and in "memory of Michiganians who have fought and died in Viet Nam" was announced this week by Daniel Martin, president of the Westphalia Jaycees.

The Michigan Jaycees hope to enlist the support of every state educational and teacher organization, civic groups and veteran units. The project has the complete endorsement of Governor Romney and the Michigan State Board of Education. The project will serve as an opportunity to rekindle "old-fashioned patriotism among Michigan school children. The "Pennies for Viet Nam" project was adopted by the State Jaycees' executive board.

Each school child, public and parochial, will be asked to contribute three pennies a day during Michigan Week. "I'm confident the school children of our community will respond to the project knowing they are extending a helping hand to those less fortunate and in need of medical care and attention" Martin said.

THE LOCAL JAYCEES will assist area participating schools in the collection of pennies. He also extended a welcome to other civic and fraternal organizations to take part in the project.

The state-wide project is headed by Robert Williams of Detroit, a past national director of the Michigan Jaycees and commissioned officer in the Michigan National Guard.

Wendell Smith, Michigan Jaycee state president from Plymouth, said coordination of the project in South Viet Nam is being handled by Dr James Turpin, recipient of the U. S. Jaycees' "Ten Outstanding Young Men of America Award."

SMITH SAID endorsements of "Pennies for Viet Nam" have also come from the Michigan Education Association, Michigan Parent Teacher Association, Michigan Association of Administrators and School Boards, and Greater Michigan Foundation.

"We want to make this project from the people of Michigan and welcome the moral and financial support of all freedom-loving American," Smith said.

When school closes June 9 it will mark the end of a long career of service by two veteran teachers of the Bath Community School System. Emil Hegerberg, currently principal of the James Couzens building and his wife, Edna Hegerberg, who teaches one section of first grade in the elementary school are retiring at that time.

The Hegerbergs came to Bath in 1941 and Hegerberg has taught here continuously since that time. At various times he has served as high school teacher, athletic coach, high school principal and junior high principal. He has also been active as a Boy Scout leader, an officer and worker in the Bath Methodist Church, as well as in other community activities. He has been president of the local MEA (Michigan Education Association) chapter and of the county MEA, delegate to the district MEA council and president of the Tri-County Athletic League, composed of Clinton, Shiawassee and Ingham counties.

Before coming to Bath, he taught for 15 years in schools at Brown City and St. Clair Shores. While at St. Clair Shores he was president of Tri-County Athletic Association there.

MRS HEGERBERG also taught at Brown City, has served the school at Bath as a third and a first grade teacher for 13 years and taught for 11 years in the DeWitt schools. She is a graduate of Western University.

Hegerberg is a graduate of East Jordan High School and of Central Michigan University.

THE HEGERBERGS have one son, Robert, who is a mortician at Battle Creek. They have two grandchildren.

Mrs Spencer hosts Afternoon Circle May 11

The Afternoon Circle of the Shepardsville WSCS met Thursday, May 11, at the home of Mrs John Spencer, with 11 members in attendance. The meeting opened with a short prayer by Mrs Grace Baker. After the usual reports, Mrs John Spencer read from the conference newspaper, Highlights, excerpts about community house in Grand Rapids. The auction sale netted $16.90. This will be used to complete the $200 pledge to the general treasury.

Mrs Pearl Miller had charge of the devotions. Mrs Grace Baker read a meditation from The Daily Reminder, a pamphlet of Bible readings for daily use. Mrs Ralph Baker had charge of the program. She had as her topic an article about J. C. Penney.

He was recently honored at a Christian businessmen's breakfast. Prayer helped him while he was seriously ill in the hospital. This occurred during the depression years of the 1930's. Words from the 91st Psalm helped him. The verses were 14-16. He had these painted and sent to several important business men. Here was a wealthy man, 56 years old, and down and out. He turned to God for help and received it, recovered his health and once more put his business on a strong financial footing.

The June meeting will be at the home of Mrs Lena Gutshall. Mrs Mabel Keck will have devotions and Mrs Robert Hebel Sr. will have the program. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Retirement, not yet—pews are only 79

The old pews at Gunnisonville Church served their congregation for the last time Sunday, May 7. As the congregation was seated, not one pew was empty.

The old pews have served Gunnisonville Church and the community for 79 years and if they could talk, think of the memories they could tell.

The Gunnisonville Community Methodist Church was built in 1888. Andrew West, who lived where Mrs. Helen Wels now lives, north of the church on Wood Road, cut oak trees in his woods, had the lumber sawed and built the old pews in his barn. When they were finished he loaded them into his wagon and hauled them down to the church.

Last Tuesday morning they were loaded on a big truck and hauled to a little church in Mount Pleasant where they will feel at home because they know the young preacher, Rev. Arthur Fritz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Fritz.

Back in 1940, when Rev. Harry Moon was the pastor at Gunnisonville, the youth group conducted a Sunday worship service and "Art", then 13, preached his first sermon.

Who knows, maybe the old pews will see another century of service. The new pews were installed Thursday and in use by Sunday, May 14.

DeWitt student in MSU honorary

Miss Susan Zischke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Zischke, 10470 Grove Road, DeWitt, has been elected to Epsilon Kappa chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, national education honorary society at Michigan State University, for the second year in a row.

Miss Zischke, a senior, was chosen from the top 15 per cent of junior and senior education majors for membership in the society.

She was also elected to Kappa Delta Pi last May in her junior year.

Miss Zischke will graduate from MSU on June 11. She plans to teach in the Lansing area.

the crash of a light plane at the Capital City Airport last Wednesday evening, with the plane falling about 300 feet straight down about 150 yards east of Airport Road and about 150 feet north of the west end of the main runway.

It immediately burst into flames, spelling a fiery death for the three occupants, Emil MacKelburg, 25, and Chris W. Ruble, 36, of Detroit, and Marlon B. Orchard, 35, of Roseville.

Ward J. Mayrand, aviation information supervisor for the Michigan Aeronautics Commission, said it was only conjecture, but it appeared that after completing an ordinary practice approach the craft might have had a power failure or turned and stalled.

Airport officials said Orchard was giving advanced instruction in night flying to the other two men. Moments before the crash, the pilot — unidentified at this time—radioed the control tower he wanted to practice an instrument landing.

The plane made the simulated run, the tower controller said, and then veered about in a 180-degree turn to prepare for a real landing and apparently stalled.

The plane, a 1961 Beechcraft "Debonair" owned by a Cleveland corporation, was half destroyed by the fire which enveloped it after the crash. It was a four-seater plane.

Catholic fund appeal starts

The 11th annual Catholic fundraising appeal for the Diocese of Lansing—the Diocesan Development Fund—will begin at St. Joseph Church in St. Johns next Sunday (May 21), the Rev. William Harker, pastor, announced this week.

The Most Rev. Alexander Zaleski, bishop of the diocese, has appealed to all Catholics in the Clinton area to share in Christ's work in the 15-county diocesan area at the broader level beyond the local parish.

The Diocesan Development Fund provides the bishop with the financial means to operate homes for orphans and elderly people, sponsor a network of Catholic Social Services agencies, assist in the education of more than 35,000 children in the 90 Catholic schools of the diocese, and to carry on a number of activities for people most in need.

Msgr. Herman P. Fedewa, diocesan campaign chairman, said that all Catholics are being asked to consider 1 per cent of their annual income as the minimum guideline for contributing to the 1967 DDF. The drive opens next Sunday in all Catholic parishes of the diocese and will continue through Sunday, June 4.

Allocation board shuffles millage

The Clinton County Tax Allocation Board proposes some big changes compared to last year in the amounts of tax millage allocated to the various governing units of the county for 1968.

In a preliminary order adopted Monday afternoon, the board set aside 7.415 mills to the school districts, 6.415 mills to the county, 1 mill to the townships, and .17 mill to the intermediate school district.

That adds up to 15 mills, which is the millage, which the allocation board is charged with distributing to the various units. Any millage assessed by any of the units over and above their allocation must be approved by voters.

The allocation is a change from that of the past two years in which the school districts received 8.5 mills and the county 5.33 mills.

A final public hearing on the allocations will be held May 25 at 10 a.m. at the courthouse. The allocation board had met on April 17 and 24 and May 3, 8 and 12 prior to Monday's preliminary determination.

Members of the board are County Supt. of Schools Carl Bates; Treasurer Valma Beaufore; Charles Coletta, chairman of the appropriations and finance committee of the county board; Ronald Zeeb of DeWitt; V. J. Wiswasser of Bath; and Kenneth Thelen of Fowler.

Rural music show tonight

Rural school students will exhibit their musical talents tonight (Thursday) with a music festival concert starting at 8 p.m. in the high school gymnasium.

Kindergarten through second grade, third and fourth grades, and fifth through eighth grade students will be singing songs which they have worked on the last few weeks.

When the kindergarten through second graders have finished singing, they will meet in the high school auditorium for cartoon movies.

A morning rehearsal has been scheduled for this date. All students will be transported to the high school and returned to their schools by bus.

The program is under the direction of Gordon Vandemark, director of Gordon Vandemark Humphrey.

Music teachers Edna Brookover, Doris Livingston, Violet Pope, Eleanor Williams, Stephen Staples and Joyce Haney are conducting the practice sessions in each rural school.

Parents of the students are asked to bring the children to the high school by 7:30 on May 18.

Spring serenade for strings

MISS JEAN WILSON
Orchestra Director

The singing strings of the St. Johns Public School orchestras will sweep out over the high school auditorium next Tuesday evening when the "Spring Serenade for Strings" public concert is held at 8 p.m.

It is an annual concert where not only the high school orchestra but others, too, from the fifth grade on up perform. For the orchestral program of the St. Johns Public Schools — like the other musical programs — involves students at practically all ages.

Miss Jean Wilson, orchestra instructor for the schools, has noted an overwhelming interest in string instruments at the grade levels recently, perhaps influenced by brief programs put on by the high school orchestra. The result could be an even larger orchestra program in future years.

For instance, the high school orchestra performed during the past several weeks for pupils at both Perrin Palmer and Swegles schools. They gave the string touch to such "Mary Poppins" favorites as "Chim Chim Cheree," "A Spoonful of Sugar," "Supercalifragilisticexpialidocious" as well as "The Happy Hobo" by Bowles and "String Section Suite" by Milkey.

And at each school, the pupils were given a chance to try out any of the instruments they desired.

Rural students have had the opportunity to hear the orchestra at the choral concert given in the high school auditorium.

Similar programs are given each year for the elementary students to introduce them to the string family of musical instruments. Potential string players at St. Johns are selected on the basis of high scores received on musical aptitude tests. Additional decisive factors are academic standing and teacher recommendations.

As the string program stands now there are two fifth grade string classes meeting 30 minutes daily during which time they learn the basic fundamentals; a sixth-grade string class also meets for 30 minutes. Next year class time for both grades may be increased to an hour.

In the seventh grade, class time is increased to a full hour. Ensemble playing is stressed in order for the students to become individually better players.

Eighth graders have the opportunity to play with the high school orchestra, and that group rehearses for one hour every school day. On Tuesday evenings selected wind and percussion players join the strings for a two-hour rehearsal.

This year's orchestra activities outside of regular class time included district and state solo and ensemble festivals, accompanying student solos, playing at the "Music Man" musical, concerts and performances for other schools.

Here's orchestra program

Giving the public an opportunity to hear them, all orchestral students in the St. Johns Public Schools and St. Joseph School will take part in the spring concert, "Spring Serenade for Strings," next Tuesday evening, May 23, at 8 p.m. Tickets may be purchased that evening or prior to the concert from any string player.

Making their debut on the program will be elementary and junior high strings, including rural and St. Joseph students.

The fifth graders will open the program with two selections entitled "Gilding" and "Jolly Fellows" by Buchtel. Next, the sixth graders combined with rural and St. Joseph students will perform the "Victory March" by Holmes and a Bach "Minuet" arranged by Applebaum.

John Eldridge, a sixth grader from Central, will play a violin solo entitled "La Cinquaine" by Gabriel.

The seventh graders will perform "The Carnival of Venice," an Italian Folk Song by Siemicki, and "Happy Hobo" by Bowles. Janet Leonard, a high school bass player, will assist the group on their last number.

Under the direction of Miss

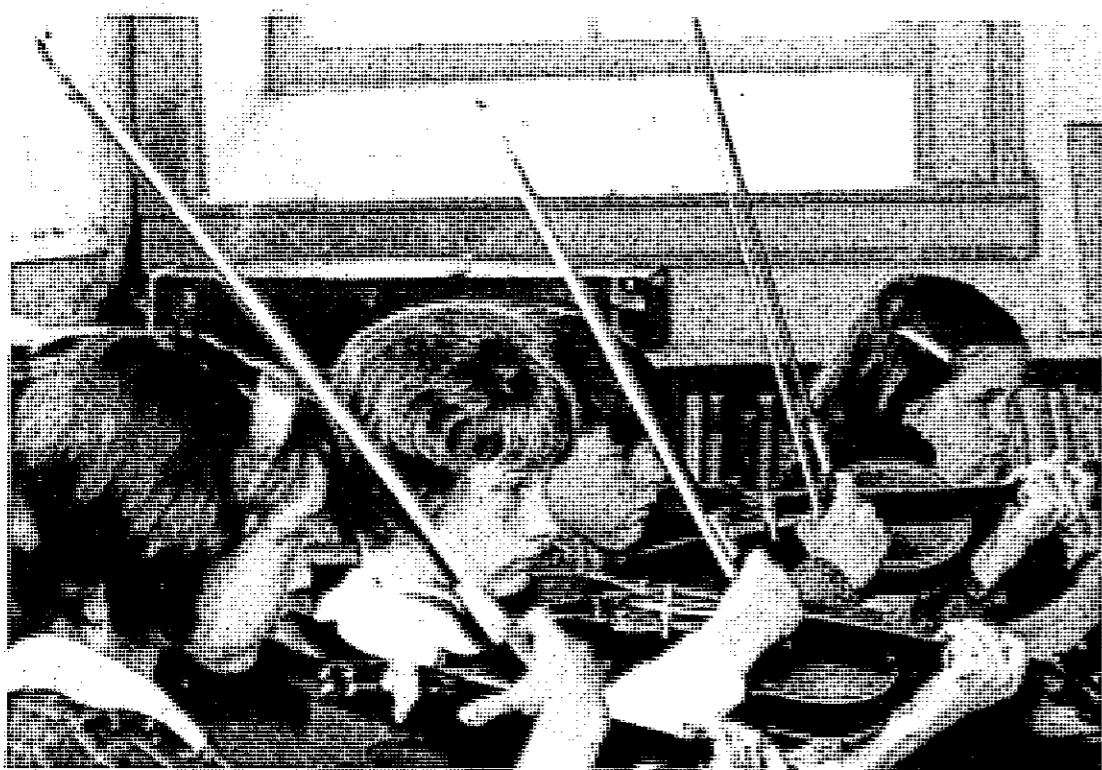

Jean Wilson, the high school orchestra will perform a variety of numbers including the first movement of Haydn's "London Symphony," Mozart's "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik," Lecuona's "Andalucia Suite" which is known for its ever popular "Malaguena," William's "Dream of Olwen," "Highlights from Carousel," and Gile's "Russian Sailors Dance."

Featured soloist with the orchestra will be Jon Cleveland. He will perform the piano selection, "Dream of Olwen."

The Beethoven award will be presented to the outstanding senior member of the orchestra.

CULMINATION OF YEARS OF STRING TRAINING - ST. JOHNS HIGH SCHOOL ORCHESTRA

13 attend CD radiological refresher course

Thirteen persons attended a radiological monitoring refresher course May 11, at the road commission garage in St. Johns. Attending were Donald B. Allen, Dean Ball, Jerry Bird, Wendell Blemaster and John Setterington of Maple Rapids; Harvey Thornton, Frank Prochazka, Walter Wagar, Richard Wagar and Mrs. Dorothy Cressman of St.

Johns; and Bernard Weber, Alán Weber and Daniel Simmon of Fowler. Don Ewing was instructor for the one-class-period refresher. Clinton County civil defense Director Charles Frost, who also attended, said there are now 46 persons in Clinton County who are trained radiological monitors. Civil defense officials say 220 are needed to cover only minimum needs. Refresher courses for past monitoring graduates will be held about every six months, Frost said; they are sponsored by Michigan Technological University. He detailed reporting procedures for the county and outlined the communication system expected upon completion of the emergency operating center in the new courthouse wing. Certificates were presented to the April 13 graduating class.

24,151 licenses issued in 1966

Some $365,624.56 was collected in motor vehicle registration fees in Clinton County during 1966, according to a summary report from the Michigan Department of State. The money was collected for a total of 24,151 license plates. That number included 15,823 passenger car plates, 3,553 commercial, 892 farm vehicles, 3,005 trailer, 400 trailer coach, 507 motorcycle, and 271 municipal vehicles plates. Ducks have flattened beaks for shoveling their food from the muddy bottom of streams.

War is still hell, St. Johns soldier in Vietnam relates

"War is hell" is what they used to say about wars numbers one and two and the Korean "conflict."

Things haven't changed much. It's pretty much that way in Vietnam, according to Pfc. Daryl Arntz of 9440 Williams Road, R-1, St. Johns.

The soldier, home on an emergency leave for the funeral of a brother, told something of the war, of Vietnam and of his experiences during four class periods with eighth graders at Central School recently.

And however hellish it might be, Pfc. Arntz is going back into it. He is scheduled to report next Monday in San Francisco for deployment back to Ple Djereng, South Vietnam, near the Cambodian border.

HE'LL BE GOING back to what Pfc. Arntz calls a "beautiful country over there. But the VC (Viet Cong) sort of ruins the whole outlook. There are beautiful mountains, and it all looks a lot like the States . . . if the temperature wasn't so high."

The temperature stays up around 130 degrees, Arntz said, and of course it is very humid. When it rains, "it's just like one big lake of mud."

The biggest problem, of course, is the enemy and the related problem of not really knowing who the enemy is. Arntz said the VC most of the time are normal villagers who fight guerrilla style part-time. Americans are caught in the unenviable position of having to be shot at first before shooting back. They can't very often be on the offensive because they can't be sure whether the people they're shooting at are actually Viet Cong or whether they are friendly villagers.

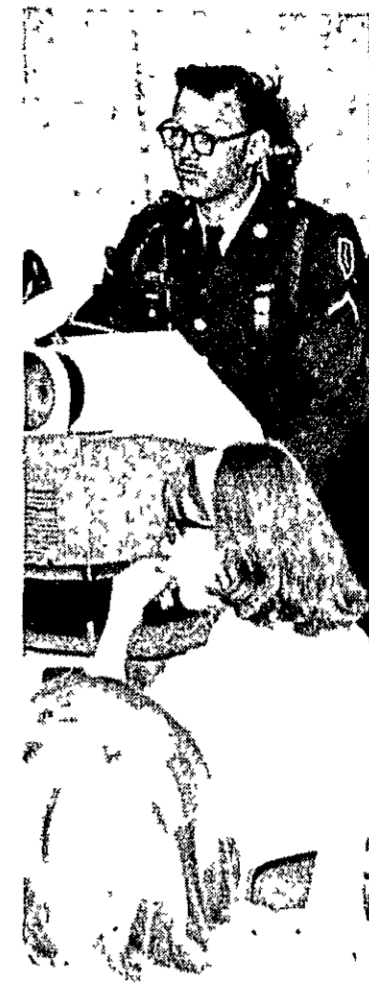

They have to wait to be fired upon much of the time. It means such precautions as sleeping under ground much of the time because of sneak mortar attacks.

"THE VC DON'T know what they're fighting for," Pfc. Arntz told the students. "All they know is someone tells them to go out and fight the Americans or they'll be sorry if they don't. They get all doped up and they don't know what they're doing and they go out and attack."

Regarding the Vietnamese people in general, the private said it is not safe to trust any of them because it is impossible to tell if they are really friendly or whether they are Viet Cong.

"But the people in general think highly of us over there," he said. "They know why we are there."

Getting to know the Vietnamese language isn't too difficult, he said. Soldiers are issued Vietnamese phrase books, and Arntz said that after being around the people for awhile it isn't too hard to pick up an understanding of the language.

"ONE PHRASE THE Vietnamese have is they'll call you Number One," Arntz said. "If they call you Number One that's good, because that's the best. But if they go calling you Number 10, that's as low as you can go."

In answer to a question from one of the students, Pfc. Arntz said he couldn't really compare the Vietnam war with other wars, because this is the only one he's been in. But some of his descriptions will undoubtedly be familiar to former GIs who fought in other wars.

For instance, one of the most common jobs for the soldier is filling sandbags. "You start sandbagging the first day you get there and you're sandbagging when you go," he told the students. "The sandbags were put up around the tents they occupied, then around foxholes in front, then around bunkers beyond that and also around ammunition and powder dumps."

Doing the laundry even has a war-time tinge. "We get some ammo boxes, soap, water and brushes. Then we scrub the clothes and hang them up on barbed wire."

AS IF THE WAR wasn't enough, there is weather and natural pests to put up with. The weather is hot and muggy, and there are a lot of whirlwinds, some pretty good size.

Arntz said he hasn't seen too many snakes, but there are snakes there, including the cobra. He described one of the most bothersome of the pests—the centipede.

"It looks like a worm," he said, "and some have 20 to 50 legs, each one equal to the sting of a wasp. Once they get on you you can't pull them off; they just keep digging their legs in deeper. The way you get them off is to put your bayonet underneath and cut the legs separate from their body. Later on you figure out how to get the legs out."

PFC. ARNTZ'S RESpite from the war in Vietnam is now about over. He's on his way back to Ple Djereng after his emergency leave arranged by the American Red Cross.

He's not happy about going back, nor is he bitter. He said his feelings are about the same as most GIs in Vietnam. "We feel the war over there is necessary to prevent the spread of communism."

Fallout shelter survey starts

Davenport Associates of Grand Rapids has been awarded a contract by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers for a complete fallout shelter up-dating survey in Clinton, Isabella, Gratiot, Shiawassee, Ingham and Eaton counties.

The survey, according to Clinton County CD Director Charles Frost, is to review existing shelters and bring into the inventory all buildings constructed since the original survey was made in 1962.

The last updating of the 1962 survey was about a year ago and was a spot survey done at the request of Frost.

The general updating survey was to have started May 10.

P-W officials meet with college frosh

Chester Casari, principal, and James Cotter, counselor, at Pewamo-Westphalia High School, attended three principal-counselor-freshmen conferences within the last two weeks. On April 26 conferences were at Central Michigan University, on April 27 at Lansing Community College, and on May 4 at Michigan State University.

The purpose of these annual conferences is to give the school representatives an opportunity to interview former Pewamo-Westphalia students. This interview enables the faculty and administration to more accurately assess to what degree the total school program is meeting the needs of individual students.

Seaman THOMAS E. BENNETT, USN, son of Mr and Mrs Thomas M. Bennett of R-1, DeWitt, is one of over 400 crewmen aboard the newly commissioned combat stores ship USS Niagara Falls.

Niagara Falls, the third ship of her type, embodies an entirely new replenishment-at-sea system. She is capable of simultaneously servicing two ships, one on each side, as well as replenishing other task force ships by helicopter. Along with fleet oilers and other types of service ships, she will allow a task force to remain at sea virtually independent of any shore base.

The Niagara Falls carries refrigerated, dry, and general provisions, plus technical spare parts, for issue to the fleet. She will be homeported in San Diego, Calif.

He will now receive at least four weeks of specialist training before being assigned to his first permanent unit.

Area guardsman wins award

Spec. 5 Mark A. Klein, 22, of R-2, Fowler, is one of 53 enlisted men of the Michigan Army and Air National Guard selected to receive the Detroit Free Press Military Achievement Award during an Armed Forces Week ceremony yesterday (Wednesday) in Detroit.

Each guardsman was picked for the award on the basis of his attendance at scheduled training assemblies and annual field training, qualification as a "sharpshooter" or better with his assigned individual arm, qualification in his military occupation specialty, and other criteria.

Klein is a member of the 46th Aviation Battalion at Grand Ledge. In civilian life he is a carpenter for Fedewa Builders, Inc. and a farmer.

Fulton schools to take census

Census enumerators for the Fulton School district have been appointed by the Fulton Board of Education. Residents of the Fulton School district, who have children between the ages of one day and nineteen years of age, can expect a visit by an enumerator beginning on May 15 and continuing throughout the month of May. All census enumerators will carry with them a letter of identification to verify their identity as census enumerators.

Enumerators for the Fulton Schools will be the same as for the past several years with the exception of the Maple Rapids area, where Mrs Richard Andrews will be the enumerator.

The cooperation of all residents complying with the State requirements will be appreciated by the enumerators.

Retailers promise difficult times ahead for shoplifters

Shoplifters will be having a more difficult time plying their "trade" in St. Johns from now on.

Members of the Retail Division of the St. Johns Chamber of Commerce voted definitely last Wednesday to crack down on shoplifting by prosecuting all persons caught in the crime.

Employees of all stores are being trained to be on the lookout for shoplifters and to recognize the methods shoplifters use. They're also being informed on how to handle the situation should they catch a shoplifter in the act.

THE RETAIL DIVISION accepted the recommendation of a special committee for all-out prosecution of offenders - young people as well as adults. The retailers have been assured the cooperation of the St. Johns police and the probate court.

"Shoplifting concerns every customer in every store," the retail division pointed out. "Every loss must be counted in the cost of doing business and thus becomes a part of the total sales price. The overwhelming majority of people who are honest must help pay this cost. So in a sense shoplifters are actually stealing from their fellow honest customers."

The State of Michigan in 1958 recognized the growing menace of shoplifting by enacting the "Michigan Shoplifting Law."

"breaking - in" of crime for juveniles," police note, citing a recent case in a midwestern city where an actual "crime school" for teenagers and younger children trained them to steal and deliver merchandise to an adult leader. Other juveniles steal for "kicks" or as a way of showing off.

JUVENILES ARE a big part of St. Johns retailers' problems, but adults create a bad situation, too. One St. Johns store has prosecuted four persons over 20 years old since the first of the year.

An important fact pointed out by police is that few shoplifters steal from actual need. In addition to juveniles, typical shoplifters are housewives, middle-income citizens, or professionals. And without exception, most steal luxury items, usually items they do not need. A woman picked up in an eastern supermarket for shoplifting cheese had more than $500 in currency in her handbag.

Shoplifting is also a favorite method of obtaining money for narcotics addicts. Kleptomania or the psychiatric compulsion to steal is so rare as to be practically nonexistent.

Most shoplifters, even amateurs, unconsciously follow a definite pattern, according to reports from law enforcement officers throughout the country.

Occasionally, a shoplifter will hope to get away with his theft through sheer audacity. Witness, for example, the gentleman who filled his basket to overflowing and then tried to wheel it directly past stunned store employees. A pair of shoplifters in Michigan carried a boat off a showroom floor, loaded it on their car, and then were captured when they came back for the paddles.

MICHIGAN RETAILERS estimate that shoplifting losses are over 12 million dollars each year in the state. State and local governments too, lose considerable tax revenue on this stolen property, as, for example, Michigan's 3 per cent sales tax.

The shoplifting total has been growing during the past 20 years, paradoxically during the period of the greatest prosperity ever enjoyed by the country. Of course, it has also been during this period that the number of self-service "stores" has grown, offering "greater" opportunities for shoplifting.

How do shoplifters shoplift? Methods range from the amateurs who merely stuff a scarf or a can of imported caviar in their pockets or handbags to the practiced individuals who utilize such intriguing gimmicks as full coats with myriad pockets fore and aft for quick transference of pilfered property; empty boxes which open to admit stolen merchandise; or oversize wearing apparel such as skirts, bloomers, or coats - also to be used for transporting stolen property.

A PRACTICED SHOPLIFTER in a midwestern city was captured after an alert clerk noticed an alarming gain in weight during the 10 minutes the "customer" was in the dressing room. And small wonder, with eight dresses concealed under the one she wore in.

From here on in, when shoplifters see posters saying "This Store Is Protected by the Michigan 'Shoplifting' Law," they had better pay attention. Store employees and law enforcement officials in this area join in promising that each sign means exactly what it says.

Yellow crosses survey points Yellow crosses on highways or in fields are guides for highway progress and not cause for concern, the State Highway Commission advises. The six-foot painted and paneled horizontal crosses are ground reference points being used in the Highway Department's spring aerial survey program. The aerial photographs, taken when tree foliage is at a minimum, are used in making land contour maps prior to route location decisions, State Highway Director Howard E. Hill said. Aerial survey work is presently in progress in the following counties: Bay, Berrien, Cass, Clinton, Eaton, Genesee, Hillsdale, Isabella, Macomb, Mecosta, Oakland, Saginaw, St. Clair, St. Joseph, Tuscola, Van Buren, Washtenaw and Wayne. *Bean styles, like autos,
may change*

The next time you eat a plate of baked beans look them over and see if they were the same style you were consuming 10 years ago. You expect women's clothes and automobiles to go "out of style," but if someone told you beans did you would think they were off balance.

But Michigan State University crop scientists say over 90 percent of Michigan's more than a half-million acres of white pea beans to be planted in June will go into varieties not known to farmers 10 years ago.

Michelite—the bean that made Michigan famous—is no longer available in certified seed. Neither is Saginaw, an even newer variety of the vine type pea bean. Dr. Milton Erdmann, MSU crops extension specialist, says the trend is altogether toward the bush variety bean.

Sanilac, Gratiot, and Seaway—three MSU research produced varieties—are all bush beans and will account for most of the acreage.

Navy bean production is concentrated in the fine-textured lake bed soils of the Thumb and Saginaw Valley areas. Canning factories like the Michigan varieties of beans, and as a result Michigan growers produce most of the crop that goes into cans as baked beans. Dry Michigan Beans are also exported to England, and Europe where they are canned.

New varieties tend to be less susceptible to diseases which cut yields and deprecate quality, Erdmann says.

Agriculture is by far the nation's largest single industry. While the percentage of farm people to total U.S. population is declining, there still are about 14 million persons living on farms. The value of farm products sold in 1966 was in excess of 40 billion dollars.

Foundations-key to sound buildings

A good foundation directly influences the structural performance of a building. It helps prevent sagging roofs, warped walls, and hard-to-open doors. However, the actual cost of a foundation is only a small part of the entire cost of a building. Foundation walls may either be cast-in-place concrete or concrete masonry.

For either type of installation a trench must be dug below the frost line. It should have a flat, level bottom its entire width. This assures that the building weight will be distributed evenly to the ground. If the earth along the sides of the trench doesn't crumble, concrete can be cast against the earth. In sand or loose soils, forms should be used.

Concrete mixes for footings and foundation walls should contain at least five bags of cement per cubic yard and no more than seven gallons of water per bag of cement. The mix should also be an air-entrained concrete. With masonry foundation walls, block are set directly on a concrete footing. Mortar joints both inside and outside should be tooled to compress the mortar and make the joints more watertight.

Foundation walls for farm buildings are usually eight inches wide. Footings should be as thick as the wall is wide; footing width should be twice that of the wall.

Beetle control individual job

The job of controlling the cereal leaf beetle is now the sole responsibility of the growers who have the insects in their fields. But these growers should not treat for the insect unless they have evidence that potential damage to the crops exists, comments F. Earl Haas, Clinton County Extension agricultural agent.

He points out that the discontinuation of federal and state programs for control of the beetle has made it necessary for growers their own needs for handling the insect.

Drs. Gordon Guyer and Ray Janes, Michigan State University entomologists, told Haas that it would be "very unusual for the cereal leaf beetle to be equally damaging on all cereal crops" and that a clear-cut need for control of beetle adults "is not available." The MSU specialists also pointed out that emergence from over-wintering will vary from one location to another.

"The only good reason to consider adult beetle control would be in the case of heavy damage

wheat sale plan told

A new program for more orderly marketing, promotion and expanded export sales of soft wheat has been announced by the Michigan Farm Bureau.

Called the Farm Bureau Soft Wheat Marketing Program, it is designed by and for Michigan Farm Bureau members. The objective is to increase the dollar returns to members from the sale of their soft winter wheat.

The producer will deliver wheat to a participating elevator and will receive a partial payment in about three days, County FB President E. J. Bottum explained. The wheat will be sold throughout the marketing year with sales completed by May 31 of the following year at which time final payment is made.

"OHIO HAS COMPLETED one year of this program, and it has worked out quite well," Bottum said. "The more this program grows the more effective it will be."

Farm Bureau members can participate in the wheat program after signing a marketing agreement before June 15. Additional information is available from the Clinton County wheat marketing committee consisting of Chairman Gerald Gove and Robert Kissane, Wilbur Thurston, Martin Sands and Norm Spitzley. Information is also available at the Clinton County Farm Bureau office, St. Johns Cooperative and Fowler Cooperative.

"Records show that in nine of the past 12 years, farmers would have received more income from the sale of wheat if they could have marketed their wheat in an orderly method rather than selling it at harvest time," Bottum said. "The Farm Bureau Wheat Marketing Program gives farmers both cash at harvest time and participation in orderly marketing."

to the foliage of young plants," says Haas.

CONTROL FOR THE larvae (grubs) should be considered when at least one of these larvae is found on each stem of cereal plants. This intensity of population would be more critical on fields planted to poorer soil or where the plants have been under stress from lack of moisture."

Haas says information on cereal leaf beetle control is available in Cooperative Extension Bulletin 443 which he has on file in his office. He also urges farmers to contact him or some other member of the county Extension staff before treating for the beetle.

ASC PROGRAM

Wheat acreage must be reported by June 15

This year producers who are participating in the feed grain and wheat programs will certify their acreage.

A number of producers certified to their wheat acreage when they signed up to participate in the program. Others had to measure their wheat, and some wished to adjust their acreage before they certified.

Wheat acreage must be certified by June 15 and feed grain acreage by July 15.

Producers in both programs can certify to both wheat and feed grain acreages at the same time, when no feed grains will be planted, or feed grains have been planted at time of certification of wheat.

TO HELP PRODUCERS report their acreage, we have prepared an aerial photocopy of the area in which their farm is located. On this photocopy, we have outlined their farm and entered field acreages where available. These field acreages will be considered correct for the current year unless the field boundary differs from the boundary lines shown. Photocopies are being mailed out to producers.

Certification differs from past programs, in that a reporter will not visit each farm to measure acreages. However, after acreage reports are obtained in the county office, acreages will be measured on at least one out of five farms, selected at random. If the measured acreage is not within program regulations, the producer will lose all program benefits.

Producers must stay within the wheat allotment and feed grain base on all farms they have an interest in when participating in the programs.

If participating in one program, this would apply to the program in which the producer is participating and not both wheat and feed grains.

WHEN CERTIFYING acreage we will give you all the help we possibly can in making sure that your acreages are correct. We will measure any acreages you are not sure about, either before or after planting, upon your request and payment of the cost of $5 plus 10 cents per acre. We will also assist you in the county office in determining crop acreages when possible.

Anyone interested in measurement service should contact the county office as soon as possible, because we are limited in the number of farms we can service due to the lack of reporters.

If you have excess wheat acreage for wheat, please make adjustment before coming to the ASCS county office to certify.

Remember, June 15 is the final disposition date for wheat, and July 15 is the final disposition date for corn and grain sorghum.

W. M. SMITH
County ASC Manager

that it will be erected and ready at the time of harvest.

PRODUCERS WHO are able to store their production on the farm do not have to sell it at harvest time when prices are the lowest, and are able to take advantage of any price increase that may occur later in the marketing year.

Farm storage facility and drying equipment loans afford producers who are eligible for price support low interest money, which is 4 per cent, to purchase and erect this additional storage space or provide for drying equipment, and these loans may be repaid in four equal annual payments.

County ASCS offices are in a position to loan up to 85 per cent of the purchase price of any grain dryer or storage structure approved by the county committee. The minimum downpayment of 15 per cent must be paid to the dealer prior to authorization of the loan by the county committee. The facility must be completely erected before the loan is made, which is the reason I urge farmers to make preparations for their structures and loans now so that they will be erected at harvest time.

PAYMENTS ON THESE loans may be made in cash or by deduction from any price support payment that the farmer might earn during the year that the installment is due. If a producer is eligible for price support, the county committee will grant a loan on enough storage capacity to store one or two years' production based on the projected yield of his permitted or diverted acres, whichever is larger.

Producers needing additional storage space and wanting to borrow money at 4 per cent interest from their local county ASCS office should determine their eligibility for a loan immediately and have the storage facility erected prior to harvest time. Another advantage that producers have whose price-supported commodities are stored on the farm and who have loans on them is that they may resell their crops for an additional year and receive storage payments.

Silage steps important

Low-moisture hay silage is an ideal forage for milk and beef producers. Repeated experiments and farmers' experiences show that this feed offers high feeding value and palatability.

Hay silage (with 45-55 per cent moisture) in concrete silos boasts many of the advantages of hay without the problems of producing it. And, since it is stored in silos, it is adaptable to automatic feeding operations.

There are several important steps to be taken to ensure high quality hay silage, according to Ed Martin, managing director of the National Silo Assn., Glenview, Ill.

1) FORAGE must be harvested

In early growth stage—alfalfa bud or prebud.

2) Forage wagons should be covered to reduce losses.

3) Moisture content should be 50-55 per cent.

4) Forage should be chopped short (one quarter inch) with knives kept sharp. This is necessary to keep out air. Small amounts of water may be added to control gum buildup in chopper and blower.

5) Mechanical distributor should be used in filling.

6) Silo should be filled as fast as possible.

7) Silo doors should be sealed and silage covered with a plastic film—with special care taken to cover along walls.

These precautions will help ensure quality low-moisture hay silage in conventional concrete silos.

Grange moves swiftly into its second century

With 100 years of non-partisan, national legislative accomplishments behind it, the National Grange today is moving swiftly into its second century with new legislative goals for rural America and the entire country.

It is sometimes forgotten that most of the major laws passed in this country that affect farmers and rural Americans were either sponsored or supported by the Grange, as were many broader social and economic measures affecting all Americans.

We should remember, for instance, that:

*The Grange was the bulwark in achieving legislation that provided for interstate highway programs.

*Initiated legislation which removed the federal tax on fuel for "on the farm" use - saving farmers $100 million annually.

*Won its fight to preserve trip-leasing privileges in agricultural trucking, saving rural people $200 million a year.

*Was solely responsible for the creation of rural free delivery and the parcel post system.

*Led the fight that gave cabinet status to the Agriculture Department.

*Laid the groundwork for establishment of farmer cooperatives.

*Developed the original Farm Credit Act and played a major role in obtaining legislation which gave the administration farmer control and ownership.

*Championed the Soil Conservation Service, Farmers Home Administration, Extension Service, vocational agriculture program and the crop insurance, upstream small watershed, school lunch and milk, Great Plains, rural area development, food for peace programs - all of which now are taken for granted.

*Played a paramount role in the formation and operation of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization and of the International Federation of Agricultural Producers.

The list is endless, but perhaps the greatest contribution of the Grange to the legislative backbone of this country was the drafting of the Granger Laws.

These laws formed the basis of our concept of the relationship between business and government. The state-by-state Grange fight for regulatory action in connection with the sprawling railroad network resulted in seven U.S. Supreme Court landmark decisions in 1876 which established the fundamental principle that the state has the right to regulate monopolies.

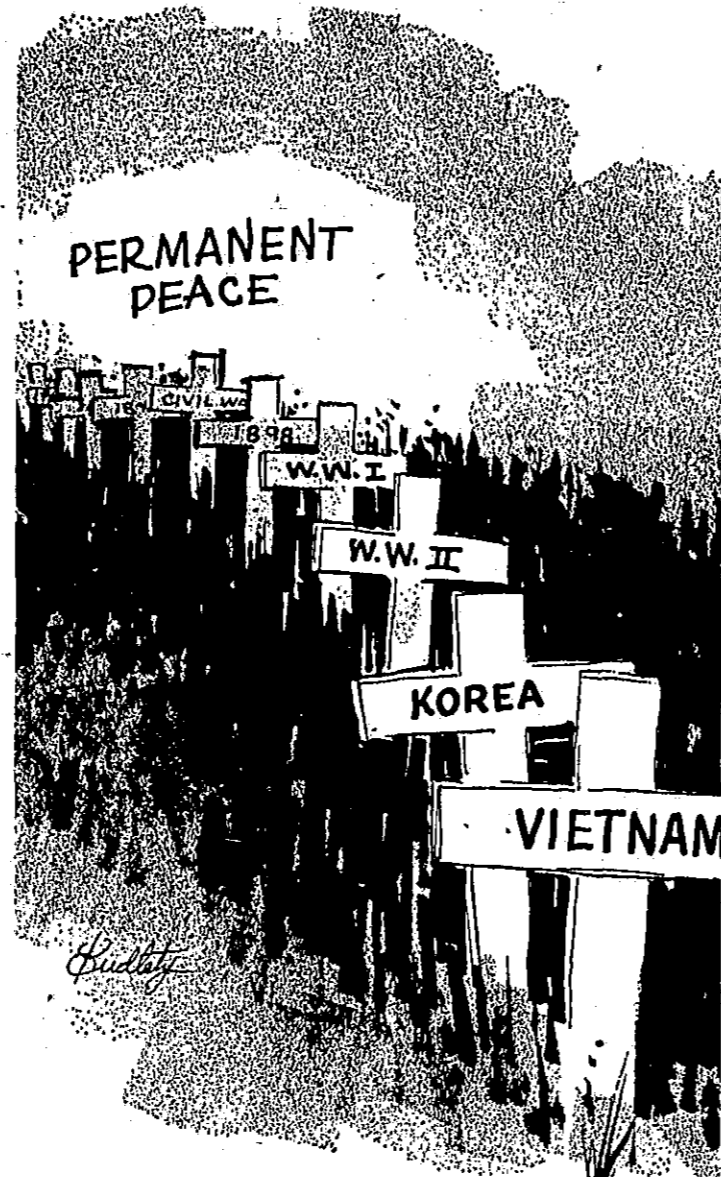

The public is asking for strike protection

When business and industry got too big for their britches, 50 years or so ago, the people through their elected representatives cracked down on them.

As labor monopolies have grown in wealth and power, they are following the same arrogant course that brought strict controls and antimonopoly laws to business. The public has suffered great inconvenience as the result of uncontrolled strikes in recent years and more are threatened now. Due to public and national defense interests which suffer in nationwide strike warfare, President Johnson has established a study group to search for ways to cope with strikes that threaten the nation's welfare.

This is the only result that can be expected when any monopoly thumbs its nose at the public. This is not a case of being pro-labor or anti-labor. It is simply a case of being pro-public interest, and the public is asking for protection.

It's a Long, Long Road

Letters to the editor

Sharing some thoughts about America

Editor: I have just read in a book by Frederick Brown Harris some things about American and Americanism, which I thought should be shared with other readers: - I quote:

"American is a thing not of the earth, but of the heart. It is a way of thinking and a way of acting. It is not bound by oceans, rivers, or degrees of latitude, but by principles, ideas, and attitudes more precious than life itself. America, sweet land of liberty, is an unbarred thoroughfare for freedom. It is a stairway of opportunity open from the first step to the top. It is a classless society whose aristocracy is based not on pedestals, but on personality; not on birth, but on worth; not on who you are, but on what you are.

"America is the Pilgrim Fathers, the public schools, and temples of religion. America is its legislative halls. It is democracy and opportunity, it is Washington and Jefferson and Lincoln. It is Phillips Brooks and Cardinal Gibbon and Jacob Reiss. It is in part men and women who were born under other skies. It is a vast melting pot in which is being produced a richer and more varied culture than the world has yet known.

tion 'I am an American' is stored a power greater than the atom bomb, a treasure beyond the price of gold or rubles, a challenge which makes tyranny tremble; a message so potent that at last it will leap every fence, topple every wall, pierce every curtain with the emancipating truth of a liberty which desires nothing for itself that it does not passionately covet for all the earth.

"The voice of a true American declares in trumpet tones that to every citizen worthy of the name the United States is never a trough for swinish greed. It is the greatest adventure in human freedom that this earth has known. It is the solemn realization that when anyone tries to debunk the Ten Commandments and the Sermon on the Mount, he is preparing for himself hell in this world, to say nothing of the next. It is a deep concern, not as to what one can get from this country but what he can give to his country.

"To be an American is to believe as we look at any man, that he, too, is a child of God, no matter what the color of his skin, the accident of his birth, or the particular creed which he may profess. For in the kingdom of democracy no one has a priority on abundant life. It means that in this blessed land of room enough ordinary men and women uncoerced, can grow to their full stature.

"When we leave the territory bounded by that faith, we forsake America and are no longer Americans. That is why it is national suicide to become un-American. Americanism is not just the rule of the majority. It is also the sacred rights of minorities.

"IT HAS BEEN SAID the Constitution is the source of our freedom. That is a misleading statement. Our right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness comes not from government, but from God. That is the reason, and the only reason why no government has the right to take those rights from the people. The Declaration of Independence trumpets: 'All men are created equal, . . . they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable Rights.' It is God who assures them. A government simply secures them. That is the meaning of the flag which flies above the national emblem on all naval ships during divine services. It is out of the sense of God that there comes a sense of worth of man.

"While we are rightly always pointing out that those who kneel around the cradle of our republic passionately believed in the separation of church and state, let us remember that they did not believe in the separation of religion and state. That is different. Because we do not recognize the difference, our education system is being tragically strangled by leaving out the fundamental meaning of life itself - God.

"Experts have stopped the decay of our priceless parchments in the archives of the nation. We must stop the decay of the principles which penned them, or the parchments will outlast the republic. America is doomed on all counts unless, to use Lincoln's great phrase, it goes forward 'under God'. The only possibility for democracy is Duty." End of quote.

I heartily believe in the above statements. HAZEL L. HALSEY 509 S. Clinton St. Johns

Jayceettes offer thanks to community

The members of the St. Johns Jayceettes would like to extend a sincere thank you for the enthusiasm and support we received in our community in launching the Helping Hands project.

Wholehearted cooperation has been extended by the city commission, Chief of Police Glazier, the school board and PTA groups, and religious and civic organizations.

Our requests for placing Helping Hands in homes were met with almost unanimous and enthusiastic acceptance.

THE SCHOOL administration, teachers and parents have done an excellent job in educating the children to the meaning of the signs. Without their efforts our project could not have achieved its purpose.

A special thanks to the staff of the Clinton County News for their outstanding efforts in informing the public and publicizing our progress. They gave us unlimited assistance and cooperation throughout the initial phases of the project.

Betty Minsky's contagious enthusiasm and her prompt support gave our small group the confidence we needed to attempt an undertaking of this size.

We have been overwhelmed by the response we've received from the citizens of this community. Our projects by no means finished - each fall we will contact the homes displaying Helping Hands and will continue to place cards as needed.

We sincerely hope the primary contribution of Helping Hands is prevention and that it will never need to be used.

'Music Man' cast, crew win praises

Editor:

Much has been in the newspapers and on television lately concerning the problems of the younger generation. The very small per cent of young people who do find mischief to their liking receives far more publicity than necessary. They also cast long shadows on the tremendous generation which our country is producing.

Those of us who have the privilege of working with young people every day are tremendously impressed with the future generation. We have no fears of what may come because of the fine people who are going to be in charge.

Last weekend our community experienced one of the finest overtures of talent, enthusiasm and responsibility that can be crammed into one department of the school. The music department of the Rodney B. Wilson High School is to be commended for the splendid musical they produced for us in "The Music Man."

These young people are to be complimented. A production of this size took not only the many, many people who were on the stage and in the pit orchestra, but also large numbers of persons who worked back stage, on committees and ushering, to make this one of the finest musical productions that St. Johns has ever seen.

May all those who participated rest assured that we of the community greatly appreciate the effort that they put forth.

Sincerely yours, KEITH A. BOVEE Pastor, First Methodist Church (Editor's note: Amen.)

RAMBLIN' with Rink

By LOWELL G. RINKER

Part of the glamor of the newspaper business has always been in the tales that veteran newsmen tell about the stories they covered, the people they met, and the experiences they had.

It basically isn't any different from the glamor that surrounds any profession. But there is a particular glamor about the news business, perhaps because it affords the chance of such a wide variety of experiences, of stories and of people.

Newspapering novels are full of tales by newsmen, and not all are fiction. Certainly it is not fiction that tales are told. I may not be old enough to have a library of personal experiences to unfold before wide-eyed journalism students, but even at 28 I've been a lot of places and met a lot of people I wouldn't have had I been in another line of work.

AS WHEN ANY PROFESSION interests the newcomer, it was the glamor of the newspaper that got me interested in journalism as a career. . . and kept me interested even after the hard work became apparent. Such books as "Park Row" by Allen Churchill, which details the life and times of the great newspapers and newspapermen in New York City's once-thriving journalistic era, provide inspiration.

The interest is kept alive by informal chats with such old-time newsmen as Otto Brinkman and Ed Murphy of the Peoria Journal-Star where I used to work. I probably sat open-mouthed and wide-eyed at some of their tales about covering fires, accidents, murders and other news events. Alas, many of their stories were tales of violence, but inwardly I think everybody has a hankering to tell others they were involved, they were there, they saw. . .

AS MUCH AS I DISLIKE writing that kind of story and knowing that such violent activity exists, I admit that being able to participate in the spreading of facts produces a bit of glamor to my profession - at least to me. Last Wednesday night's air crash at the airport was a tragedy nobody liked, but it did happen and I was one of the comparative few who got to the scene. When the tornado smashed through Fowler, I was able to get into town that night yet most others were turned away.

But most of the newspapering glamor that affects me is associated with the end product - turning out a newspaper that informs. It is awe-inspiring, dangerous, scary . . . and yes, glamorous . . . to know that what you write and what you picture is going to be purchased and read by upwards of 8,000 people every week.

There's glamor in knowing that a news story or feature you write does some good for a worthy cause or brings into the open a festering community sore that it might be healed.

THERE'S EVEN GLAMOR in burning the midnight oil, although I don't relish it. There's glamor in being recognized by people even though you don't recognize them by name in return.

All of these things provide the glamor that keeps me in the newspaper business - not the different kind of glamor the big city and wire service boys have. In the weekly newspaper field - particularly in Clinton County - it is the glamor of satisfaction and yet new challenges in putting out a more personalized product for your readers and knowing they do read it and like it.

Whenever there's any doubt in my mind about the advantages vs disadvantages of being in the newspaper business, I always remind myself of the score or more of newsmen I've known who grumble about the working conditions, the problems, the "heartaches" and the long hours . . . but who wouldn't change their profession if they had the chance. There's too much glamor. -rink

Political pose

By W. E. DOBSON

Politics is a funny game, It has peculiar rules, N some of 'em are twisted To make a trap for fools; So a fundamental question Faced as candidates appear, To tell 'em what you really think? Or what they want to hear?

A sixth sense is essential Where candidates may go, To give them all right answers-- Local people want to know; And once the "dope" is certain, Do you play it then by ear? 'N tell 'em what you really think, Or what they want to hear?

It takes a lot of courage To go against the tide; When votes are in the balance, And differences are wide; So you make your mind up early, Chart the course you aim to steer, Do you tell 'em what you really think? Or what they want to hear?

There is successful, failure, 'N there's failure in success, Or so I've come to reckon; And oft decks are stacked I guess; Still the question often haunts me-- Does he lead from strength or fear? Does he tell 'em what he really thinks, Or what they want to hear?

GRASSROOTS OPINION

SULLIVAN, ILL., PROGRESS:

"After several years of inaction, government officials are suddenly becoming concerned about growing . . . crime in our country. More important yet, they are suddenly aware that . . . criminals are now receiving a lot of special benefits and protection as the result of recent rulings of the highest court of our nation. The court seems to have suddenly become more concerned with rights of criminals, than it is with the rights of all the other citizens . . . Law enforcement officials . . . are getting discouraged-- they put forth a big effort in solving cases and capturing criminals, only to see them go merrily on their way, unharmed and unconvicted on technicalities so vague that they often reach the point of being silly."

MDA's consumer protection standards nation's highest

BY ELMER E. WHITE Michigan Press Assn.

A search for cheating and error makes up some 65 per cent of the work done by the Michigan Department of Agriculture. In its program to protect the public, MDA continually checks just about everything from alcohol content of liquors to milk from the state's dairy herds.

consumption per capita of any state in the Union.

Other meats must meet equally high standards. Hamburger and ground beef minimums are more exacting to most other states.

HOW DO OFFENDERS REACT when cited by the department? "Most people want to abide by the law," says Ball, "and each case is handled on its own merits." Circumstances vary, as do the reactions of those involved. The deciding factor is usually "intent or severity of the violation."

If the MDA feels an offender has accidentally erred or if the offense is caused by mechanical failure, the owner is simply warned and told to correct the oversight.

If he persists after the warning, the MDA, working through the county prosecutor, will press charges. On rare occasions, the department works through the state attorney general's office.

Joe E. Wells, information specialist, relates case after case of fraudulent crackdown by MDA staff. Not long ago a bread manufacturer began adding "300 units of . . ." to his labels. A lab analysis showed no such additive.

When confronted with the charges, the manufacturer replied, "Yes, I 'spose that's right. But all the other manufacturers were putting it on . . ."

As a result of these standards, Michigan has the highest sausage a gas station attendant who "pumped" almost 11 gallons of gasoline into a compact automobile. The owner began wondering how 11 gallons could fit into an 8.7 gallon tank. He called police who called the MDA.

Investigation showed that eight of the 10 pumps were registering over-gallonage. In such cases, pumps are locked with seals until corrections are made.

Merchants benefit too. The MDA has aided many retailers in cases of fraud. One such instance involved a meat market selling fryers.

The birds were shipped from the south in cardboard crates. During a routine check the MDA found the weight specified on the crates ranged about three pounds heavy. Further checking showed that the retailer was, in fact, being charged the specified weight rather than the actual weight of the fowl.

This averaged about a $600 per week overcharge, Wells stated. "When word got out, we had some fryer shippers flying in from the south," he said. The retailer was reimbursed his losses.

LATEST SCHEME currently under investigation involves gas stations which "rig" gas pumps to allow attendants to activate the mechanism without clearing the dials.

Wells points out that the situation can be especially "ripe" for the customer who asks for a fill-up when a pump shows a $1.00 sale. Most people don't keep close track of the pumps, he stated, and are charged an extra dollar.

For those consumers who do run into situations which smack of fraud, Ball suggests a letter or post card to the Michigan Department of Agriculture, Lewis Cass Building, Lansing 48913. "Just briefly list your suspicion and the establishment's name and address," he says. "We'll take it from there."

The great teeth of the hippopotamus, which weigh up to seven pounds each and have a length of more than 30 inches on the curve, were formerly used for dental ivory and are still used for ivory ornaments.

Korea, South Vietnam; Is Near East next?

Senator Jacob E. Javits (N.Y.)

"I address the Senate today on the very important subject of a cloud in the sky which could become another Vietnam. That cloud is the Near East.

"Several months ago I tried to interest the Department of State in taking some cold and affirmative actions with regard to the Near East. It seems to me then that the quickening pace of armed clashes in that area and the impending British withdrawal from Aden made it incumbent on our government to take steps before the situation got out of hand.

"I WOULD SUGGEST that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee look carefully at five key issues: "First, the strategic and political implications of the United Kingdom withdrawal from Aden. "Second, the possibility of the United States, the United Kingdom and France reaffirming their commitments under the Tripartite Guarantee Pact of 1950 to keep the peace and maintain existing territorial boundaries. (Here we go again).

"Third, proposals to the Soviet Union to deescalate the arms race in the Near East. "Fourth, the future role of the U. N. in Near East peacekeeping operations.

"FIFTH, what is in effect, aid to the terrorist Palestine Liberation Organization through UNRWA aid to Arab refugees. The United States is now the heaviest contributor to this U. N. operation.

"Aden is a particularly vital area for the West, and the implications of the impending British withdrawal from that base must be carefully considered. Aden is in a highly strategic location on the principal East-West trade routes, standing at the gateway to the rich oil lands of the Arabian Peninsula and the Persian gulf and forming the southern flank of the Arab Near East . . .

"Aden is also a vital factor in regard to peace in Yemen. Yemen has been a battlefield for the United Arab Republic and Saudi Arabia ever since September of 1962. Today, about 40,000 Egyptian soldiers, using Soviet-made jets and reportedly even using gas, are engaged in that country . . .

"IF THE UNITED Arab Republic (UAR) is allowed to take over in both Yemen and South Arabia two serious consequences could follow. First, it could lead to a direct and all-out clash between the United Arab Republic and Saudi Arabia. Second, it could well mean the end of the newborn South Arabia Federation of which Aden will be a part . . .

"The arms race in the Near East, initiated and sustained by heavy shipments by the Soviet Union is the fire that makes the kettle 'boil' in that area . . .

"I therefore urge that—privately or publicly—we invite the Soviet Union to seek with us a mutual means of imposing an embargo on arms and materials of war to the Near East . . .

A GRASSROOTS COMMENT The British couldn't care less about the Tripartite Guarantee Pact of 1950. They're pulling out of the Near East. The French are only interested in siphoning our gold out of Fort Knox. They'll let us worry about the 1950 Pact.

The Soviet Union won't agree to any embargo that would conserve American lives and treasure. The Communist plan to get us militarily bogged down in distant places appears to be shaping up.

Those Americans who had trouble finding Vietnam on the map will now be busy trying to locate "Aden" and "Yemen."

Forest fingers nature's way of reclaiming her own

HAYDN PEARSON

A true forest is not a woodland. It is a vast area of wooded stretches, open intervals and meadows, swamps and rivers. It has mountains, ridges and upland plateaus. It is an area with all the components that make our natural environment.

That is what the pioneers found. They cleared areas of trees to make cropland and pasture. They used stones and stumps and rail fences to build boundaries and contain their livestock. And wherever man took the land for his use, Nature quickly began to take back its own along the fences. Now one sees the hedgerows, fingers of the forest, crossing the slopes and extending beside the fields.

Forest fingers may be narrow along the boundaries. They may be wide along the edges of woodlands where the birches, sumacs and alders take over abandoned land, providing cover for young evergreens, maples and oaks. As the decades pass and the longer living trees grow tall, the fingers of birches, alders and sumacs move farther forward.

A hedgerow along a wall is a miniature forest with its elms and maples, birches and saplings. Weeds and wildflowers grow along the outside edges; but always the hedgerow is widening as elms and pines, maples and oaks stretch higher. The hedgerow is a sanctuary for wildlife. Woodchucks and rabbits make their homes in its protection; birds build their nests and paper hornets hang their cones. Foxes use the woodland fingers in their rounds and pheasants nest in their shelter.

The woody fingers extend and widen year by year. The soil grows richer as leaves and wind-carried topsoil are held by the growth. The fingers of the forest are taking back the land that men once took for their use—nature's method of protecting our basic resource.

A first-year member of the Future Farmers of America is called a "Green Hand."

COUNTY PROCESSING FILM

County Clerk Paul Wakefield is now processing (developing) film as part of his duties. He is taking temporary charge of the county's new Prostar film processor for the developing of microfilm. The new unit, located in a room across from the clerk's office, has been in use now about two weeks; it cost approximately $3,800. At the present time, most of the microfilming is done through the register of deeds' office, but the county expects to do more microfilming of its records in the future, and they figure the savings by developing the film themselves will eventually offset the cost of the new unit.
