highlight of the assembly. It was the first Wilson estate scholarship awards, which will be made annually to probably two students after this year.

The scholarships are grants from a trust created by the wills of the late Arthur E. and Norena Wilson of St. Johns. In their wills, the Wilsons stipulated that Rodney B. Wilson scholars be chosen from among graduates each year who stand in the upper third of their class scholastically; exhibit all-around citizenship qualities within the school and community; demonstrate high moral character; and demonstrate need for financial help in their college career.

MEMBERS OF THE selection committee were Earl R. Lancaster, W. S. Lusk, Rev Gerald Churchill and Bishop Joseph Green.

JAMES P. LACLEAR

Bath area man killed in Viet Nam

The first Clinton County man to give his life for freedom in the Viet Nam war was killed last Thursday in a battle near Da Nang.

James Phillip LaClear, 19, son of Mr and Mrs Hessel H. LaClear of 15428 Upton Road, died of fragmentation wounds in the left shoulder and back, reportedly from a hand grenade.

A private first class in B Co., 1st Battalion of the 9th Marines, LaClear was reportedly with a squad of 14 men in a battle to clear out a small village near Da Nang. A Viet Cong soldier, thought to be dead, hurled a grenade as the squad was departing from the village, and 12 of the 14 men were reportedly killed.

PFC LACLEAR's body is being returned by rail to Bath, and a military funeral is being planned at Rose Cemetery on Upton Road May 27 or 28.

LaClear was sent to Viet Nam Jan. 14 after having spent the Christmas holidays in Bath with his parents and family. Officials at Bath High School, from which he graduated last June, remembered him as a quiet, unassuming youth. He lettered in baseball and football at Bath High.

A SPECIAL memorial service is being planned at the Bath High School commencement exercises next Thursday evening. Roger Friend will speak the eulogy, and a special prayer will be offered.

LaClear was born Nov. 14, 1946, in Lansing. He is survived by his parents; two brothers, Hessel and Harvey; and a sister, Dora.

Courthouse wing, CD unit get go-ahead

Supervisors gave the final go-ahead on the proposed east wing of the Clinton County Courthouse Friday afternoon. The wing will house a civil defense emergency operating center.

The board met two times last week before making a final and definite decision. Last Tuesday, May 10, they tabled a single motion to go ahead with the building and emergency operating center after it failed to get the necessary number of votes.

Friday they passed, in effect, the same idea, only it was in the form of two motions.

THE NUMBER ONE motion was to construct the new east wing, and it passed 19-2, with Maurice Gove of Bingham and John Setterington of Essex voting against it. Supervisor Bill Buck of DeWitt was absent.

The number two motion was to include the emergency operating center in the new wing. It passed 18-3, with Willard Krebel of Riley, Ernest Carter of Watertown and Don Clark of St. Johns voting no.

Last Tuesday, everything was wrapped up in one motion, and it carried 10-7, with five supervisors absent. Prosecuting Atty. Norman White ruled that on motions concerning construction a two-thirds majority of the supervisors or 15 votes—was needed for passage. The motion was then declared lost.

LATER IN THE DAY last Tuesday, the board voted to reconsider the vote, but then it was tabled until Friday.

The main objection last Tuesday to the motion was that some members of the board felt a feasibility study they had asked for some time ago hadn't been presented to them and that only a recommendation as a result of the study had been presented.

There was also some argument in that the original plans for the new west wing, now in use, had been changed to provide thicker basement walls in order to locate the EOC under the patio between the wings. The extra cost of the thicker wall turned out to be $2,046.

Don Williams, a representative of Clark Ackley, Architect, of Lansing, presented a plan to the supervisors last Tuesday that calls for the operating center to be on the basement level of the proposed east wing. It would have thicker — and windowless — walls in the basement plus a thicker ceiling and a thicker roof on the top of the building.

THE DOWNSTAIRS would be equipped for use as offices, but easily movable in the case of emergency when it would be used for the emergency civil defense operations.

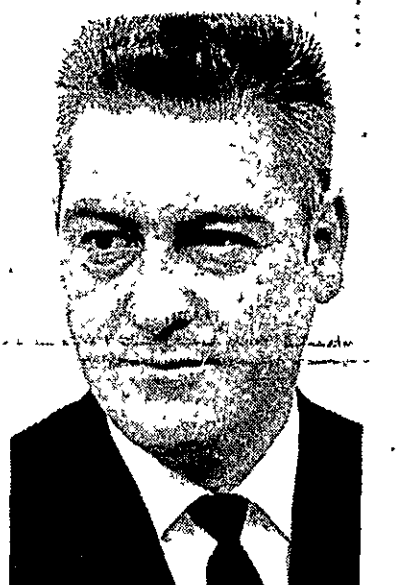

The supervisors spent half the morning and nearly all afternoon last week on the building issue. But they also voted to appropriate Tri-County Regional Planning Commission $12,325 as the county's share of the 1966-67 Tri-County budget.

Friday, on another Tri-County matter, Alan R. Dean of St. Johns, currently chairman of the planning commission, was reappointed to a two-year term, and Supervisor Oliver Angell of DeWitt Township was named as the board's representative for a one-year term.

THE BOARD ALSO passed a resolution dissolving the position of county health officer and thanking Dr P. F. Stoller for his "long and faithful service" to the people of the county in this position. With the formation of the Mid-Michigan District Health Department, the position of county health officer is superceded.

The board will hold its next meeting June 6.

ROGER HAMMONTREE

Roger Hammontree, manager of Glaspey Drug Store, has been elected president of the St. Johns Jaycees and will assume those duties July 1. Other new officers are: Sam Sample, external vice president; Lowell Rinker, internal vice president; Rod Brown, secretary; Mart Livingston, treasurer; and Jack Downing, director. Roger Feeman was named the outstanding club member for the past year, Hammontree the outstanding new member, and William McCarthy the outstanding project chairman. Wynn Warren was inducted as a new member of the Jaycees last Tuesday evening.

Allocation board makes no changes

The Clinton County Allocation Board proposes no changes from last year in the amounts of tax millage allocated to the various governing units of the county for 1967.

In a report Monday evening, the board set aside 8.5 mills to the schools, 5.33 mills to the county, .17 mill for intermediate school district, and one mill for townships that need it.

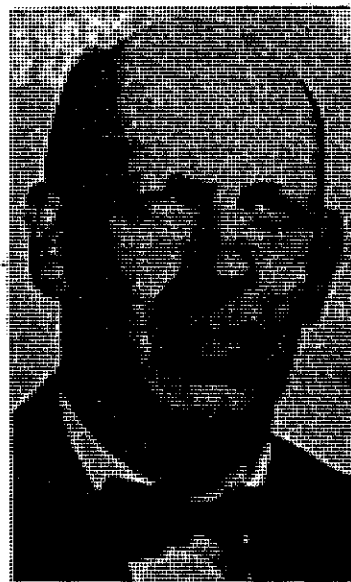

All millage raised by the units above those amounts must be voted by the people.

THE ALLOCATION board's final hearing on their proposal will be at 10 a.m. next Wednesday, May 24.

Members of the board are County Supt. of Schools Carl Bates; Treasurer Velma Beaufore; Charles Coletta, chairman of the appropriations and finance committee of the county board; Harold Green of Ovid; Ronald Zeib of DeWitt; and V. J. Wiswaser of Bath.

Clinton Memorial Hospital addition plans discussed

An $800,000 addition and updating of facilities at Clinton Memorial Hospital were discussed at the annual meeting of the hospital's board of trustees and Women's Auxiliary last Thursday evening.

William W. Barber, chairman of the board of directors' building committee, told the trustees the hospital had been assured of a $400,000 grant from federal Hill-Burton funds to help finance the proposed project.

BARBER SAID after contractors had submitted bids and definite costs of the project had been determined a special meeting of the board of trustees would be called to seek their approval of the building and financing plans. He said the directors hoped such a meeting could be held in late June.

PLANS SHOWN to the trustees and auxiliary members Thursday provide for a two-story addition to the west of the present structure and a one-story addition on the east of the present kitchen to accommodate increased food preparation and dining room facilities. More than 18,000 square feet of additional space is included in the two additions.

The proposed west addition would provide a large lobby, admitting and administrative offices on the ground floor plus additional space for physicians' record and conference room. An approximate gain of 15 beds for patients would be made possible by the project, Chairman Barber reported.

INCLUDED IN THE $800,000.

figure quoted to the trustees was $40,000 for new x-ray equipment, $5,000 for new laundry equipment and an estimated $20,000 for other furnishings for the new addition.

Re-arrangement of space in the present hospital building will make possible many improvements and increased efficiency of patient services, Barber said.

LORENZ A. TIEDT of St. Johns was elected to the hospital's board of directors by the trustees. He succeeds Robert A. Conn of St. Johns who retired from the board after 20 years of faithful service. Conn continues as a member of the board of trustees. Re-elected as members of the board of directors were William W. Barber and Roy F. Briggs.

Elected as new members of the board of trustees were Lawrence G. Sexton, manager of the St. Johns division of Sealed Power Corp., and Marvin Barclay, a foreman in the shipbuilding department at the St. Johns division of Federal-Mogul Corp.

SEXTON AND BARCLAY replace the late R. G. Clark of St. Johns and James C. Matthews, a former St. Johns resident who moved with his family to Arizona during the past year.

Re-elected as officers of the Clinton Memorial Hospital Assn. were Alan R. Dean, president; Ink White, first vice president; Conrad Seim Jr., second vice

Fireworks donations total $300

The St. Johns area is in for a small fireworks show on the Fourth of July unless donations to the fire department's fireworks fund roll in in a groundswell before Friday.

As of this Monday only $300 in donations had been received. That's $700 short of the amount paid for fireworks last year.

This Friday is the deadline for donations as far as firemen are concerned. They will have to order the fireworks supplies then in order to have enough time to construct the displays and assemble the aerial pieces. Several men will travel to Illinois this weekend to pick up the material.

FIREMEN HAVE said they'll spend all the donation money for fireworks, but only as much as has been received by Friday. Contributions for the fireworks show should be sent to Ray Kentfield Jr., secretary-treasurer of the fire department or to Box M in care of the Clinton County News.

The Crown Amusement Co. will provide the carnival show for the Fourth of July celebration, and plans by the St. Johns Lions Club and Rotary are going ahead for a local talent show.

The firemen will have a unit in this Friday evening's Michigan Week parade, and firemen will be stationed along the street to take donations for the fireworks show.

Lingering cold damages crops

The lingering cold weather of recent weeks has already affected some agricultural crops in Clinton County, and the delay it is causing in the planting of other crops is also of some concern.

A hard freeze early last week — with temperatures dipping to as low as 18 degrees — seriously set back alfalfa and hay production for the first cuttings. Some 25 acres of cherry trees in the county were also damaged by the cold and 20 acres of peaches were also hit hard.

It is still too early to tell how bad the 400-some acres of apple trees were affected, the Clinton County Cooperative Extension Service said.

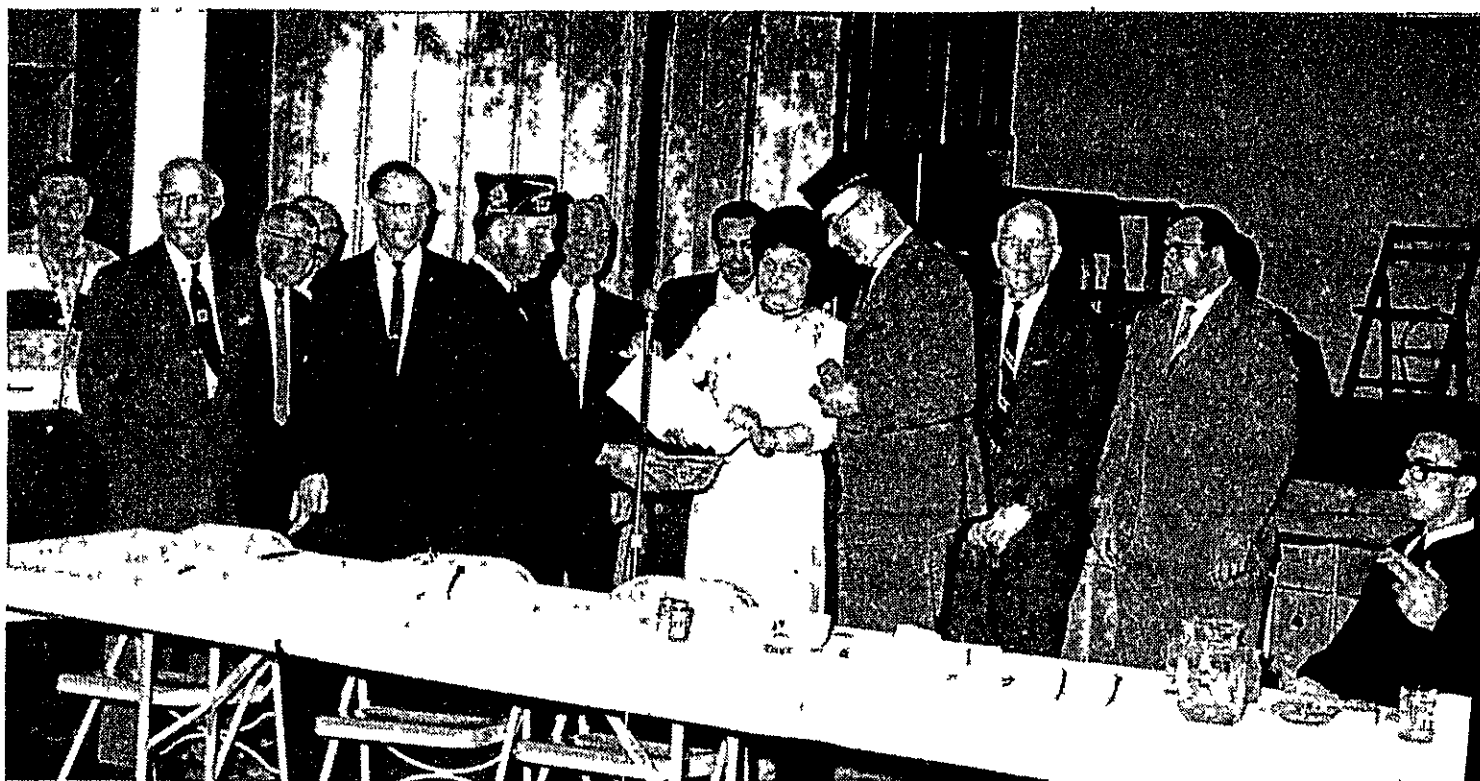

One of the big concerns over the cold weather has been the delay in corn planting. Many farmers had intended to start planting April 25 and most would have had their fields in by May 15. As it stands now, very little corn has been planted.

MEMORIAL SERVICE SET Memorial services are scheduled for Union Home Cemetery at 2 p.m. Sunday, May 29.

VFW burns post building mortgage

St. Johns Post 4113 of Veterans of Foreign Wars reached a long-sought goal Saturday evening—the burning of the mortgage on the North US-27 post building.

The burning was the highlight of a 21st birthday dinner, awards presentation and dance Saturday evening. Between 150 and 175 persons attended the event.

Howard Barhite of Muskegon, national assistant inspector general for the VFW, participated in the burning of the mortgage. Clare Feneis, commander of VFW Post 4113, lit the match to the document, and Mrs. Mary Kuhns, auxiliary president, placed the burning mortgage in a bowl until it was ashes.

THE VFW BUILDING was constructed in 1950, and the mortgage burning Saturday night signified it to be clear of debt.

The post presented a plaque to be hung in the building in honor of all who made the building possible. Richard Worrall, toastmaster for the evening, presented it to Commander Feneis for presentation to the membership.

The plaque read: "Post 4113 St. Johns. This building is dedicated as a memorial to all those people, both living and dead, whose devotion and generosity to a cause have made it a reality."

$128,502 in sales taxes paid here during February

Clinton County folks paid a total of $128,502.89 in sales taxes and another $5,262.64 in use taxes during February, the Michigan Department of Revenue reports.

The department collected that amount from 493 businesses during March, reflecting the business transacted during February. Food sales accounted for the biggest single proportion of the total—$45,487—while automotive sales were the normal second at $40,417.

Other major business categories and the amounts reported for them were: building material $15,978; general merchandise $3,907; apparel $1,904; furniture $5,018; miscellaneous retail $5,452; and non-retail $10,336.

Dinner Tuesday to honor Dr Binkert, founder of Carson City Hospital

A capacity crowd of some 250 friends and associates of Dr. Emmett Binkert, founder and surgeon of Carson City Hospital, are expected at a testimonial dinner planned in his honor at St. Mary's hall in Carson City next Tuesday evening.

Started as a project of the Carson City Lions club several months ago, sponsorship was extended to 20 civic, social, and service groups of the Carson City community when a spontaneous response indicated a general support of the idea.

A CITIZEN'S PLANNING committee, headed by G. L. Vaughan as general chairman, has completed the arrangements. Reservations in charge of James Rehmann, were limited to the 250, most of which have already been taken.

Principal speaker for the dinner will be Michigan's Chief Justice Thomas M. Kavanagh, native of Carson City who gave up his law practice here to become the attorney general and later a member of the supreme court. Toastmaster will be John P. Wood, D. O. of Birmingham, orthopedic surgeon. Music for the occasion will be provided by the music department of the Carson City-Crystal Area schools, under the direction of Devere Fader.

AMONG THE testimonials to Dr. Binkert to be given as part of the program will be those by Ben F. Dickinson, D. O., president of the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons, Pontiac; Paul R. Koogler, D. O., president of the American College of Osteopathic Surgeons, Mt. Clemens; Clifford W. Millard, D. O., president of the State Board of Osteopathic Registration and Examination, Hillsdale; William Jordan, D. O., chief of staff at the hospital; Fowler; Mrs. Leroma Henderson, director of nurses at the Carson City hospital; of Sheridan; and Carson City Mayor Herschel Haradine.

Dr. Binkert, who has been the "guiding light" of the Carson City Hospital since its founding in a residence here in 1935, has by no means limited his activities to the hospital. He is a charter member to the Carson City Lions club; a member and past president of the American College of Osteopathic Surgeons; a fellow of the American Osteopathic Board of Surgeons; and a member of the Michigan Board of Osteopathic Registration and Examination since 1958.

HE HAS ALSO served as a member of the board of trustees of the Michigan Osteopathic Assn. and is a past-president of the Michigan Osteopathic Hospital Assn.

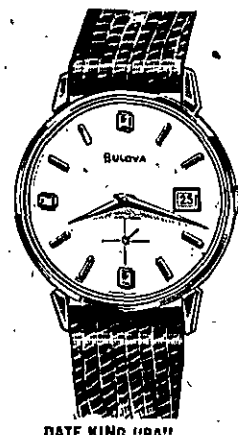

A native of Albuquerque, N. M., he received his pre-medical education at Quincy College, Quincy, Ill., and his degree from the Kirksville, Mo. College of Osteopathy and Surgery.

After interning at Detroit Osteopathic Hospital, he began his practice in Carson City in 1933. Established first as a three-bed private hospital, it was later organized as a non-profit corporation, with the doctor remaining as chairman of the board and chief of staff.

IN 1940 THE HOSPITAL was enlarged to 15 beds; in 1951 to 25 beds; 1957 to 50 beds; in 1962 to 65 beds. Announcement was made last month of plans for the immediate addition of a 42-bed extended care facility.

For many years the hospital has been certified for intern training, and scores of young doctors have been indoctrinated into the profession by the personal attention of "Dr. Binkert, surgeon."

He received his AB degree in political science and history at Hope College and did further graduate work in these fields at American University and Michigan State University. does he look worried?

Not with the plans Charlie's got. He knows that between now and the time his family's grown he'll probably borrow over $60,000. But the way Charlie figures, it's really part of his long range savings plan. Here it is: save regularly at a bank, and to keep savings intact and growing, let the bank help out with money for the big, important things his family needs. Things like:

- A house $20,000
- Two babies 1,000
- New cars over the years . . . 15,000
- Necessities like appliances . . . 1,500
- Home improvements 3,500
- College for the kids 20,000

How about you? Isn't that pretty close to what you'll be borrowing

Charlie knows he can make his savings do double duty at a Full Service bank. First, his nest egg keeps growing with guaranteed interest. Second, his savings help him borrow at lowest bank rates.

You see, most families must borrow a great deal in a lifetime for things they need. So lower loan rates can save you hundreds—even thousands—of dollars over the years.

Take advantage of your Full Service bank—to save, borrow and build. How do you find one? It's the place where you keep your checking account.

Where you save, borrow and build

(or already have) while your family's growing up? Handle it like Charlie and much of what you pay back on your loans will actually be building a solid estate. How? Even before he and Betty were married they went to the Full Service bank where Charlie kept his checking account and opened a savings account.

1 driver injured in 4-car accident

A four-car chain-reaction collision Sunday on US-27 in Valley Farms resulted in the driver of one of the cars being injured and ticketed for failure to stop in assured clear distance.

She was Virginia M. Cummings, 16, of R-1, DeWitt, who suffered cuts and bruises and was treated at St. Lawrence Hospital. Her car hit the rear of a car driven by James F. Slocum, 25, of Lansing, which hit the rear of one driven by William J. Lyon, 42, of Lansing, which in turn hit the rear of one driven by Andrew J. Armstrong, 26, of Coleman.

Armstrong had stopped in the passing lane and was signaling for a left turn into a gasoline service station, and the other cars stopped behind him because of heavy traffic.

Nowdays, it costs more to bring home the coffee than the bacon.

MRS. E. LYLE MAGEE

Open house set for Sunday at Fulton school

Mrs. E. Lyle Magee, commercial teacher at Fulton High School, has announced her retirement at the end of the present school year, completing 23 years of service to the Fulton High School.

In honor of Mrs. Magee and her years of service to the Fulton Schools, an open house will be held Sunday, May 22, from 2 to 5 p.m. with a special program at 3 p.m. Former students and associates of Mrs. Magee are urged to attend.

In addition to her regular teaching duties, she has taken a deep interest in the extra-curricular activities of students and has had charge of one or more of the following at one time or another: yearbook, newspaper, junior and senior class plays, junior-senior banquet and prom and has managed the high school activity funds.

UPON HER graduation from Carson City High School in 1916, Mrs. Magee attended Ferris Institute for one year and following that taught at Gladstone for two years. Deciding to gain further education, she returned to college at Eastern Michigan and Ferris Institute for the next two years, receiving her life certificate in 1921. Then followed six years in which she taught one year at Reed City, one-half year of office work, and four and one-half years teaching at Northville. This was a period of time, as Mrs. Magee puts it, "I was trying to make up my mind whether I wanted to be a teacher or not."

Her plans were completely changed in 1927 when she married Don Magee of Carson City and remembers quite vividly the bank holidays of the great depression in 1932. She and Mr. Magee have been continuous residents of Carson City since their marriage.

THE URGE TO TEACH overcame her and, in 1943, she accepted a position as commercial teacher in the Fulton Schools, a position she has held continuously up to the present.

Mrs. Magee earned her degree from Ferris State College in 1954.

For centuries the Swiss Constitution has required that every mature male be issued a gun by the army reserve. Although these guns are kept in the homes, Switzerland has virtually no armed crime.

Church's parsonage started

Construction on a new parsonage for the Salem EUB Church on Gratiot County Line Road is underway following recent ground-breaking services. An autumn completion of the new home is being hoped for.

Rev. Lawrence Taylor, conference superintendent from Grand Rapids, held the ground-breaking services on the ground beside the church which was purchased for the building.

REV. RALPH CONNIE is pastor of the church. Members of the building committee are Gerald Kindel (chairman), Mrs. Mariam Randolph (secretary), Dennis Phillips, Elmore Randolph, Mrs. Thelma Woodbury, Raymond Kindel, Oliver Beck, Earnest Wing and Mrs. Gladys Hankey.

It looks like a tornado hit, but actually this house near the corner of State Road and US-27 was blasted apart by a tanker

Truck smashes home in spectacular wreck

Two persons suffered injuries Friday morning in a spectacular accident at the corner of US-27 and State Road where a loaded tanker truck smashed into a home.

About 11:50 a.m. Kenneth Reeves, 39, of St. Louis was driving south toward Lansing with about 94,000 pounds of liquid chloride aboard a Michigan Chemical Corp. tank truck.

AS HE NEARED the State Road intersection his brakes failed when he started to slow for a red light. He swerved off the highway into the parking lot of a furniture store on the northwest corner, crossed State Road and wheeled through the Reed Standard Service Station on the southwest corner.

A gas station attendant, crossing the station drive to wait on another customer, was knocked down as the truck roared between the gas pumps. He was James A. Williams, 29, of 4720 Turner Road. He suffered leg injuries.

AFTER KNOCKING Williams down, the tanker truck smashed a 6 x 12 storage shed and a tire rack belonging to the station and then rammed a house belonging to LaNoble Realty of Lansing.

Clyde M. Haney, 27, the occupant of the house, was thrown out of the bed in which he was sleeping, but he was not injured. The tractor part of the truck was completely buried in the house, and part of the trailer was inside when the truck finally stopped.

The back side of the house, away from the impact, was split wide open, and furniture and appliances were strewn around. The house was pushed violently from its foundation.

truck which rammed it late Friday morning. The tractor shows beneath the rubble in the upper picture.

THE ACCIDENT occurred about 11:50 a.m. Traffic along US-27 was snarled all afternoon as motorists slowed to look at the wreckage, and several other minor accidents were recorded as a result.

Wey to erect a commercial garage on a parcel of land used primarily for residential purposes in Section 33 of DeWitt Township.

Gladstone said the two will be part of an exhibition team of five drag racing vehicles of various sizes. They will race three times a day June 5 and 6 and June 11 and 12 at the new track. In between they will talk to car clubs and attempt to further promote drag racing in England. Theirs' is the only

Little League clinic, tryouts next week

Little League baseball in St. Johns will open Monday evening with a baseball clinic and Tuesday and Wednesday evenings with tryouts at the city park athletic field.

The Little League, sponsored by the St. Johns Jaycees, is entering its second full year and the third summer of play. There are six teams in the league, each with its same squad of players this year except those who "graduated" because they were too old.

THE TRYOUTS next Tuesday and Wednesday will be to fill the holes in the teams left by the graduates.

Monday night's clinic, however, will be for all boys of Little League (8-12) and Pony League (13-14) age. Fathers of the boys are also urged to attend, especially if they would be interested in managing a Pony League team or helping with a Little League team.

The clinic will be held from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Monday in the Rodney B. Wilson High School Gym. High school Coach Bill Smiley, who will be in charge of the Little League scheduling and general arrangements, will conduct the clinic with the aid of several high school baseball players who will give tips on pitching, catching, bunting and sliding.

BOYS WHO PLAN to try out for the vacancies in the Little League rosters will be assigned numbers at the clinic for use the following evenings at the tryouts. Pony League hopefuls will be issued a different set of numbers.

Boys will be signed up according to the following:

Derby inspection Saturday

Boys don't have to have their Soap Box Derby cars completed to bring them to the Saturday clinics being planned the next two weeks.

Roger Feeman, inspection committee chairman, emphasized this point after only three boys turned out last Saturday for the first inspection. The inspections are to determine whether the cars meet certain requirements as to length, height and other standards. They don't even have to be covered yet.

More inspections are scheduled for this Saturday morning at the railroad depot. Boys needing transportation for their cars to get them to the inspections are invited to call Bee's Chevrolet, and the Jaycees will make arrangements for transportation.

ing to the numbers, and the numbers issued them will be pinned to the back of their shirts. During the tryouts the managers will be able to pick their choices of players by the number and will not have to worry about names at that time. Boys should keep the numbers issued them and wear them to the tryouts.

Only the Little League tryouts will be held Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. Dates and times for the Pony League tryouts will be announced later after it is determined at the clinics how much interest there is in such a league.

THE LITTLE LEAGUE tryouts will be held at 6:30 p.m. After next Wednesday night's tryouts, managers of the six teams will meet to conduct their draft of the needed players. The last-place team last year will get first choice of a player, the next-to-last-place team the second choice, and so on—the same method used by the professional athletic teams.

Last year the Yankees, managed by Lee Pederson, finished first place in the league, with Jack Downing's Tigers in second. The Cubs, managed by Louis Eisler, were third. George Eberhard's Sox were fourth, Bob Root's Indians fifth and Ken Spicer's Orioles were last.

THE OPPOSITE order will be followed in this year's draft.

Meanwhile, several work bees have been held at the Little League field donated last year by Saylor-Beall Manufacturing Co. and located near the northwest corner of Walker Street and Scott Road. The field has been rolled several times and the dirt portion scraped so that both Little League and Pony League games can be played on the diamond.

The outfield fence has been moved back 25 feet and now is 200 feet from home plate in all fields.

If a Pony League is formed, it is anticipated there will be fewer Little League games this year than last. Last year league play didn't wind up until about Sept. 1.

Swimmers work on mile times

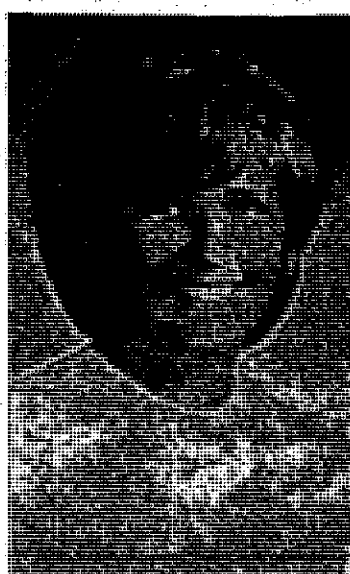

The St. Johns Swim Club has begun qualifying all its swimmers for the annual Michigan Mile Championships to be held June 11 and 12 at Patten Pool in Detroit.

Each team in the championships times its swimmers for a mile swim and sends the times in. The six top swimmers in the state, on the basis of their times, are then chosen to swim in the finals. Each swimmer finishing the mile will receive the traditional mile patch.

Last Saturday the following swimmers qualified: Brad Huntley 37 minutes 19 seconds (a very good time for a 13-year-old, Swim Coach Larry Cramer said); David Diehl 37:30, Cathy Stoddard 42:16, Jean Muckle 43:45, Jane Morris 45:13.9, Shirley Damon 50:20.3, and Debbie Meyers 57:30.

The club will have nearly 100 per cent of its members qualified by the deadline of June 4, Cramer said.

Mrs. Bashore said it was a special honor to do this duty as this was the first group she worked with in Vacation Bible School years ago.

Rev. Gordon Showers also gave a few remarks using as his theme, the class motto: "The future is not in the hands of fate, but ours."

JENNIFER KEYS, president of the Methodist Youth Fellowship and also a 1966 graduate, introduced her classmates who then presented their own parents.

Each member told of future plans: Regina Crosson, Reta Platner and Joan Gelger have enrolled at Lansing Business College; Barbara Hess will major in history and Ken Waggoner in history and political science at Central Michigan University; Sherry Moore plans to teach English and speech and will attend Owosso College; Sherry Wassha has chosen a nursing career and Jennifer Keys, elementary school and music teacher, although they are undecided as to their choice of colleges.

Barbara Warner and Dennis Baese were unable to be present but both plan to attend college, Barbara to CMU and Dennis, Michigan State University.

ON BEHALF OF THE young people, Jennifer expressed their thanks for the part the church has had in their lives.

Kathy Melvin and Janice Kelley sang "I Believe" and Graduation Days," accompanied by Sharon Dunham and Janice also played a cornet solo. Mrs. Emerson Dunham was program chairman.

A cooperative supper was served by the Wesley Circle while the local church activities committee was in charge of the kitchen. Ralph Stull gave the invocation.

THE SENIOR CLASS colors, blue and white were used in decorating the tables and souvenir programs. Their table was centered with a long cake trimmed with blue and white flowers and inscribed with the class motto. Mrs. Harold Hehrer made the cake.

Miniature silhouettes of graduates with tiny diplomas marked the places for the seniors.

Chris Meriam told of S. American life

Chris Meriam, recently returned from two years with the Peace Corps in South America, was guest speaker for the Future Teachers Club at Elsie High School Thursday evening when parents of the members were also guests.

A graduate of EHS and Michigan State University, Chris worked for a publishing company in New York City for a year before joining the Peace Corps in February 1964.

Not satisfied with his work and knowing that there were opportunities to serve the needs of others, he applied for training in the Peace Corps project.

There followed an intensive three-month training at Columbia University, New York City in a group of 80 trainees, assigned to Colombia, South America. Only 20 finished the training. They studied the history and culture of Colombia, Spanish language, US history and world affairs and had training in the techniques of community development.

With the aid of Mrs. Telma Rule, FTA sponsor, Chris showed colored slides of his work and travels in South America.

CHRIS WAS assigned to a barrio (slum) outside of Cucuta, a city of about 150,000 population. His barrio was inhabited by nearly 7000 people, most of whom were poor, many unemployed. The average family consisted of eight children and the average worker made eight pesos, or 40 cents a day.

He showed many pictures of the homes, narrow streets and paths on the mountain sides where the poorer people lived. Poverty, hunger, disease and ignorance of the people was much in evidence.

AS HE SHOWED several pictures of the work projects, Chris explained how a "Junta" similar to a village council, was organized to discuss needs and problems. Once organized, they built bridges, sewage systems and engineered a water supply for piping water from Cucuta's main line to the barrio, which saved them a half mile walk every day for water.

Helping to make the people self-sufficient in their nutrition, sanitation, health and social problems gave one a feeling of satisfaction, he added. To do this, Chris lived in the barrio to gain the respect of the people who were slow to accept him in the first place. His cement house had no running water, electricity only part of the time and he even built his own furniture.

AT NO TIME, he said, did the Peace Corps volunteers force themselves upon the people but were always ready to assist in bettering their living conditions. As a result he can now count many friends made during his stay in Cucuta and becomes a little homesick when thinking of Colombia.

When asked about his leisure time, he stated that most of it was spent reading. The Peace Corps had supplied him with a trunk of 300 books, all of which he read. Occasionally he saw American Movies with Spanish subtitles, and a 12-string guitar helped him while away some of his lonely hours.

The volunteer has to learn to adjust to a slower pace and a lonely kind of life, he said, as the sun went down at six o'clock and everyone was in bed by 9 p.m.

A FEW WEEKEND vacations of travel were enjoyed by Chris and other volunteers. Shown in pictures were scenes of the beautiful snow-capped mountains and tropical rainforests of Colombia; a boat trip on the Amazon River; Rio de Janeiro in Brazil and Caracas in Venezuela; and the Indian culture of La Paz, Bolivia, a very beautiful but poor country.

Chris is now attending Michigan State University, working on his master's degree in anthropology. He hopes to go back to Latin America sometime.

The FTA girls served refreshments and were assisted in arrangements by their sponsors, Mrs. Rule, Mrs. Geraldine Hawes and Ronald Hoshal.

There was no ringing of church bells Sunday morning at the Elsie Methodist Church but it neither affected the attendance at the early breakfast and fellowship of the Men's Club with their wives as guests nor the congregation for the worship service and church school. The heavy ropes gave out after years of calling families to church but Rev. Gordon Showers assures his congregation that they will be repaired in time for the next service.

All of Michigan's 55 chapters shared in the conference activities. The special-project exhibits demonstrated how each chapter had capitalized on the needs, interests, and assets of their particular communities and the talents in art, music and literature of their particular groups.

'Miss Burma' coming to St. Johns

Miss Burma, the world's most famous elephant and queen of the Mills Brothers Three-Ring Circus, is coming to St. Johns for afternoon and evening performances under the big top on May 26. The circus is being sponsored here by the St. Johns Chamber of Commerce and Jaycees to help raise money for their community projects.

The RFD men — rural people directory on legs

If you're looking for someone who knows everybody—and we do mean EVERYBODY—in a certain section of the county, turn to the rural mail carrier.

"They know the name of every man, woman, child, dog and cat," St. Johns Asst. Postmaster Keith Mishler said last week with a chuckle. City carriers have the same knowledge about the people living in town.

The carriers are experts with names, especially those on their particular routes. There are a lot of names involved. In fact, on the St. Johns six rural routes, there are 1,734 families, and if you multiply that by the number of people in the average family, you can see that's a lot of people to keep track of.

ROBERT PRATT, who delivers mail on Route 1 out of St. Johns, has 222 families including some in Maple Rapids, Jack Walton on Route 2 has 253 families. Warren Anderson's 316 families on Route 3 include some in Eureka.

Carl Bair has Route 4 and Richard Worrall Route 5. They both have 313 families. Ronald Hyler on Route 6 has 317 families.

The rural carriers put in a six-day week, working on the average of 37-39 hours per week. Their day starts between 7 and 7:30 when they report in to the post office and begin sorting out the mail for their patrons.

ONE OF THE BIG stumbling blocks to smooth sorting comes from letters and cards addressed to someone at a particular house number on a particular road, but without the postal route number. When that happens the letter has to be passed down the line of carriers until one of them recognizes it as belonging on his route.

"Persons sending mail to someone on the rural routes should be sure to put the route number on it, with or without the house number and road," Mishler said. "Our mail is sorted by routes, and this is the best way we can handle it."

But it could mean faster delivery than if the letter were addressed to a wrong route number. In that case, the postal manual requires that such wrongly addressed letters be returned to the sender. If they have no route number or are addressed simply "RFD", each rural carrier will get an immediate opportunity to see if it belongs on his route.

THE RURAL carriers hit the road between 8:30 and 9 a.m., and they're usually able to get back into the office after completing the day's deliveries by about 1:30 or so. Then they're done for the day.

The mail routes are rather intricately set up, and there is even occasionally some overlapping of the routes—but no duplication of families.

On the accompanying map, for instance, look just to the north of St. Johns. The Route 1 carrier, Pratt, covers patrons along the highway all the way into town from Kinley Road. Anderson, the Route 3 carrier, doesn't deliver along the highway on his way in from the north, but he does swing west on Walker Road and north about three-quarters of a mile on DeWitt Road. Anderson also has a small section of his route in the city where postal patrons have mail boxes along the highway and streets.

AND SO IT GOES. The routes are all set up according to the layout of roads in the county and how easy it is to get from one to the other.

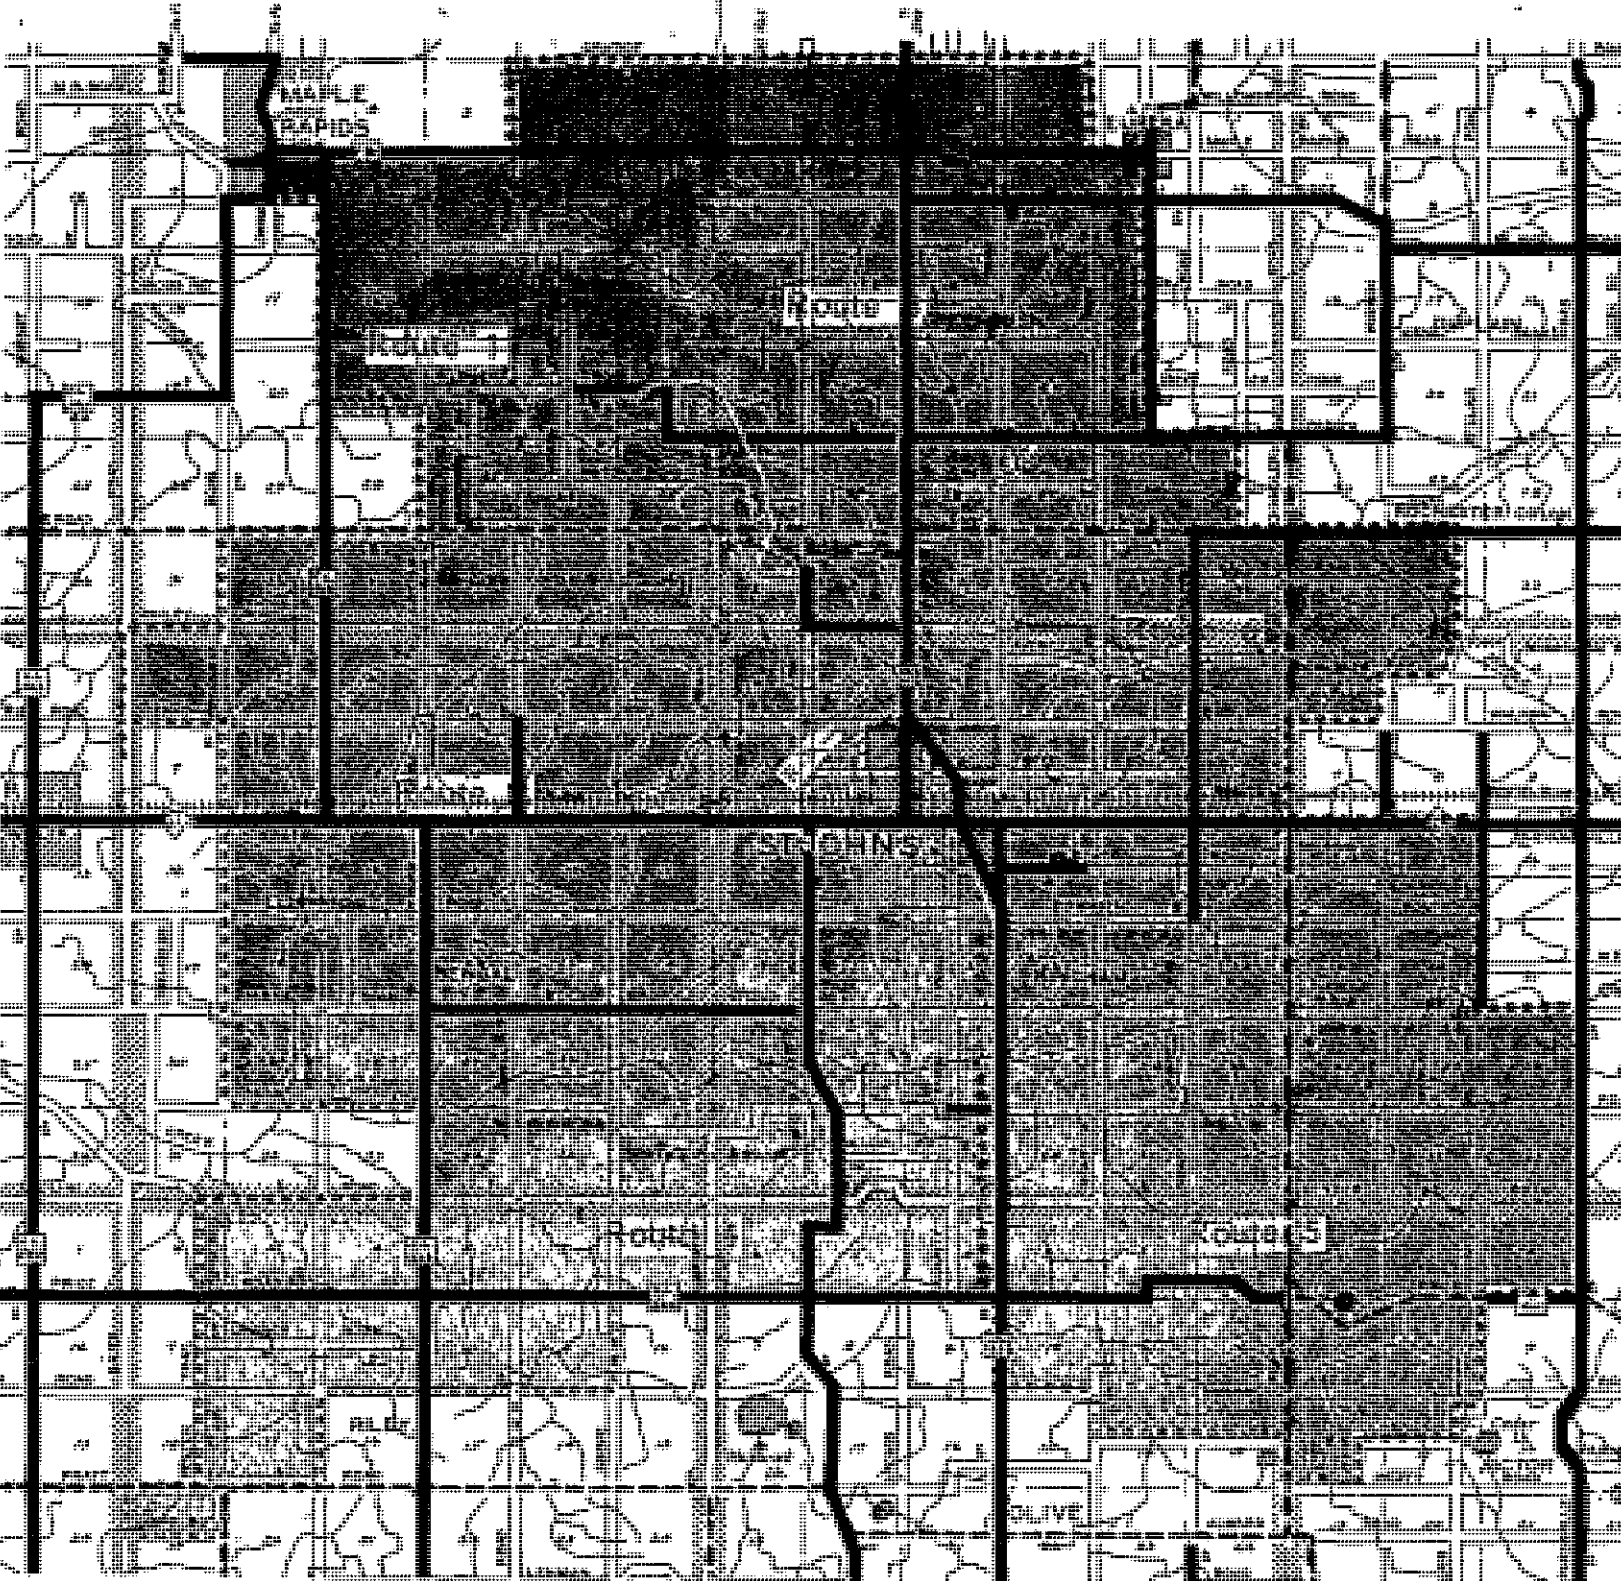

In only a couple of cases do postmen drop at mail boxes on both sides of the road. This always happens only where two different carriers travel the same road in opposite directions, or where one carrier goes down a road and then has to backtrack.

But like any regular route, rural mail carriers soon get used to the intricacies that may seem to exist, and they also soon learn by heart the many, many names that belong to the many, many families they serve.

THE COMMON names of Thelen, Fedewa and others don't need as much study on the St. Johns routes as they do on routes of other area post offices. Similarity of names isn't too much of a problem, Mishler said, on the St. Johns routes.

Michigan's forest product industries contribute over $650 million annually to the economy of the state.

High School Principal B. Stanley Pocus and librarian Mrs. Nancy Horst look over some of the new books received by the school in memory of Harold H. Warner, a member of the graduating class of 1917 who died in Lansing in January.

New books memorial to '17 grad

Rodney B. Wilson High School in St. Johns has received $150 worth of new books as a memorial to the late Harold H. Warner of the St. Johns Class of 1917.

Principal B. Stanley Pocus and Mrs. James Trebilcock of Ludington, daughter of the late Mr. Warner, have corresponded since shortly after Mr. Warner's death in Lansing in late January. He had been an attorney in Lansing for 41 years.

The late Mr. Warner was a Lincoln scholar and a lover of words, so the new supply of books reflects these traits by including a number of volumes on the civil war and Lincoln era, books of quotations and a thesaurus.

There are about 35 volumes in the new supply of books.

North Bengal By Mrs. Wm. Ernst

About 75 relatives and friends attended the silver wedding celebration for Mr. and Mrs. Louis Moritz Sunday afternoon at the Lutheran Hall at Fowler. The anniversary cake was served by Mrs. Fred Witt, a sister of Mrs. Moritz from Tucson, Ariz., and another sister, Mrs. James Philney of St. Johns presided at the punch bowl. The silver coffee service was attended by Mrs. Lloyd Nequette of Lansing, a cousin of Mr. Moritz. Guests were present from Tucson, Ariz., Lansing, Battle Creek, Grand Rapids, Reese, St. Johns and Ashley.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hecht entertained the Farm Bureau Group at their home, Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Ernst and Karl, Karen and Ronald of Battle Creek were Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Ernst and Maxine.

Mrs. Leon Armbrustmacher and Mrs. Bernard Simon entertained the neighbor ladies at a stork shower for Mrs. Mary Ann Thelen Harr at the Armbrustmacher home Tuesday evening. Games were played and refreshments were served. Mrs. Harr received many lovely gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Walker entertained relatives at their home Sunday at a baptismal dinner in honor of their infant son, Vern Andrew.

Callers during the week of Mr. and Mrs. William Ernst and Maxine were Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Mohnke of South Bengal and Mrs. J. D. Bancroft.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schmitt attended a Mother's Day dinner at the home of their son, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Schmitt and family, of Fowler Sunday, May 8. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schmitt and family, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Feldpausch and family, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Van Ellis and children and Mr. and Mrs. Hilary Schmitt and Eileen.

CLAYT FISHER, our east side maintenance foreman, has been ill nearly two weeks.

Orville Jones, our shop foreman, returned from vacation last week. He spent some time in Charleston, S. C.

Construction crews have been working, when weather permits, on Clark Road in Watertown Township and on Stoll Road in DeWitt Township.

Herbison Road near Lake Geneva, in DeWitt Township, had to be closed last week because of dumping of rubbish in our gravel pit. Littering, plowing into roads, filling ditches and other encroachments of right-of-way are a constantly increasing problem.

THE HOWE Road bridge across the Looking Glass in Eagle Township is nearly complete with slopes being sodded this week. The Island Road Bridge and new approaches at Elsie are coming along well with a substantial portion of the new fill in place. The re-located, new structure is scheduled to be opened to traffic Sept. 1.

Doll collection shown at Literary Club

ELSIE — Dolls-dolls-dolls were everywhere as the Woman's Literary Club and their guests, older mothers of the community met Tuesday evening at the Fellowship Hall of the Methodist Church for the annual Mother's Day party.

Greeting the guests were hostesses; Mrs. Durward Conklin, Mrs. Lawrence Hess, Mrs. Carl Maynard, Mrs. Paul Platner, Mrs. Lucas Marton and Mrs. Edwin Myler.

Mrs. Iwin Reed of rural Shepardsville dressed in a long-old-fashioned dress and sunbonnet was guest speaker. She exhibited a large part of her 250-doll collection.

BEGINNING WITH the dolls from different countries, Mrs. Reed pointed out the difference in faces and dress. She said that there were about 30 foreign countries represented and that many were brought home by servicemen and a few missionaries and travelers.

Included in her display were a "frozen Charlotte," Shirley Temple and Little Colonel, antique, modern, character, china, bisque, rubber and celluloid dolls.

There were mechanical dolls, storybook dolls, and everything from small baby dolls to dancing dolls. Some were hand carved, hand painted and dressed in hand made clothing. Each had a story behind it and Mrs. Reed related many of the more interesting ones. She has several antique dolls.

THE OLDEST DOLL in her collection was dated 1869 and named Miss Very Smart. It had a china head with wooden hands and feet and body. Along with her exhibit was an old doll carriage, many old fashioned toys and a doll house being furnished with miniature furniture.

The program opened with welcoming remarks by club president, Mrs. Paul Platner. The Misses Kay Acre and Jennifer Keys provided vocal selections from several Broadway shows to entertain the women.

At the close of the program, refreshments were served by Mrs. A. W. Cobb, Mrs. Duane Green, Mrs. Don Richards, Mrs. Norman Blakely, Mrs. G. W. Bennett and Mrs. Loyal Hinkley.

EACH TABLE WAS centered with a standing modern doll surrounded by ivy and flowers. Individual places were marked with tiny doll favors. Mrs. Woodrow Bashore and Mrs. Boyce Wooley were in charge of the decorations and table arrangements.

Mrs. Russell Bouck was program chairman, Mrs. Roland Schadt in charge of music and invitations were by Mrs. Myron Tethal and Mrs. Pat Foran.

The next meeting Tuesday, May 24, will mark the close of the club year. Reservations for the evening dinner at the local Village Inn are being taken by program committee—Mrs. G. W. Bennett, Mrs. Earl Seybert, Mrs. Durward Conklin, Mrs. Merle Green and Mrs. Russell Bouck.

Parents of the Elsie Boy Scouts and others interested in the Scouting program are invited to meet at the American Legion Hall Tuesday evening, May 17, at 8 p.m. If they wish to continue the program. Awards and badges will be presented in a Court of Honor at that time.

Mrs. R. C. Parks has returned to her home after several weeks treatment in Owosso Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Roberta Barnhill and Mrs. Mark O'Donnell of Elsie attended the annual meeting of the Clinton County Chapter of the National Foundation for Polio.

Mr. and Mrs. Asa Stewart have returned home after spending the winter in Tucson, Ariz.

Deep Strength

Spheres which contain the men and equipment in newly developed deep-diving research submarines can withstand a total surface pressure of 60 million pounds — a force equal to that more than 14,000 feet below sea level. The spheres are precision-machined from high-strength nickel alloy steels.

Check claims on nursery stock

All but a tiny fraction of the people in the state who sell nursery products are reputable dealers, but that tiny fraction comes to public notice with the arrival of spring when people are in the planting and gardening mood.

Concerned about the sharp selling and advertising practices of a few are the Michigan Association of Nurserymen and the Michigan Department of Agriculture's Plant Industry Division. This division is responsible for nursery stock inspection as well as protecting potential buyers against unscrupulous sellers. Its men check out complaints.

IN MICHIGAN buyers of nursery stock spend millions of dollars each year. Most of it is with reputable local nurserymen who value satisfied customers for future business. But there are some unscrupulous salesmen and some misleading advertisers who make extravagant claims which bring customer dissatisfaction.

Sometimes the claims are preposterous. The common tree of heaven, generally regarded as a weed tree, has been represented as a tree that will make several feet of shady growth in a single year. On other occasions pictures of a rosebush with several hundred blossoms have been shown prospective buyers. Climbing berries or vegetables of great production have been offered as a "new horticultural discover." Often nursery stock offered at give-away prices has failed to meet the claims for it.

B. DALE BALL, DIRECTOR of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, points out that persons who solicit sales of nursery stock are required to carry an agent's permit. This is requested from the department by the firm the agent represents. If a prospective buyer is in doubt, he should ask to see the agent's permit. He also might check doubtful claims with the department's offices in Lansing or any regional office.

US oilmen set a new average depth record of 4,380 feet while drilling more than 41,400 holes during 1965. The holes ranged in depth from a few hundred feet to more than 20,000 feet. Nearly 87 per cent of the exploratory wells were dry holes.

Wig demonstration at Urbanite meeting Thursday

Human hair wigs were demonstrated at the Urbanite Extension Study group meeting Thursday, May 12.

The group met at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Ford of Chetwyn Drive, Lansing, for their last meeting of the season.

Mrs. Barbara Allman, wig stylist from J. W. Knapp's of Lansing showed several types of wigs and wiglets.

MRS. ALLMAN said there are several types of wigs. One type, the machine-made, can be recognized by the stitched dot found in the center.

The semi wig is also machine made.

The most expensive type of wig is all hand made. Each strand of hair is doubled-tied to the base.

As part of her demonstration, Mrs. Allman brought a wig that was set in rollers and showed how they were combed out and styled.

SHE SAID WIGS could be set at home using special wig shampoo and spray. They are set with the same type of rollers and clips used for regular hair settings. She cautioned against using a hair setting lotion that would make the hair stiff.

"A special wig spray must always be used. Regular hair spray will build up on the wig because it isn't cleaned as frequently as your own hair is," she said.

The fitting of the wig is very important, Mrs. Allman said. After head measurements are taken and adjustments in the base of the wig are made, it is then styled to the individual.

SHE ALSO HAD several types of wiglets on display and explained the uses for each type.

After the demonstration was completed, a potluck luncheon was served.

The mystery prize was won by Mrs. Ford.

Mrs. Lloyd Ford (seated) is trying on a wig. Standing from left to right are Mrs. Allen Going, Mrs. Earl Lancaster, Mrs. Gordon Luther, Mrs. Clyde Peck and Mrs. Allman, the stylist.

Miss Matthews new Scottsdale '66 debutante

Kathie Matthews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Matthews, former St. Johns residents, recently was crowned Miss Debutante of 1966 for the Scottsdale (Ariz.) Honors Cotillion.

Miss Matthews is a senior at Scottsdale High School.

The Scottsdale Honors Cotillion was composed of a group of 40 girls selected from Arcadia, Coronado and Scottsdale high schools and the Judson School of Paradise Valley, Ariz.

COTILLION MEMBERS were chosen on the basis of school scholastic record, extra-curricular activities, religious affiliation and attendance, high moral character and civic service projects.

The girls attended regular weekly meetings from October through March. Purpose of the meetings was to give instruction and bring speakers who could help the girls broaden their experience in civic and cultural activities, improve their grooming and further develop their personalities and leadership capabilities.

The Matthews family moved from St. Johns to Arizona late last summer. Miss Matthews' father is now owner and operator of Port of Entry, a welcome-wagon type of business in Phoenix.

Can control summer invasion of ants

Summer is on its way, and with it comes the annual problem of ants in your house.

Common household and lawn ants, as well as their larger cousins, carpenter ants, are common Michigan insects. However, there is one important difference between them. Carpenter ants are wood destroyers while smaller house and lawn varieties do not damage wood.

Carpenter ants should not be confused with termites. Carpenter ants often restrict their wood damage in houses to a door jam, window sill, or corner section of a foundation plate.

IN ADDITION the tunnelings made by carpenter ants are clean and almost polished appearing and are cut across the grain of the wood. Sawdust produced by these ants is coarse and stringy.

Termites leave no sawdust and their tunnels follow the grain of the wood and tend to be rough and tooth-notched.

Dark brown to black in color, carpenter ants range from one-fourth to one-half inch in length. They often nest in rotten parts of trees in the yard and travel from these nests into houses during the summer.

Common household and lawn ants look like carpenter ants but most are much smaller. They may be black, brown, red, or yellowish in color.

THESE SMALLER ants invade your home in search of food, mainly sweets and fats and to establish nests. Once they are established in a building, it may be hard to get rid of them.

Ant control in buildings is not easy, but the following control measures are suggested. With carpenter ants the best solution is to find the nest if possible. Noting where the ants come from and where they return is the best clue. Once the nest has been found, one of the following solutions may be injected into it:

2 per cent chlordane oil solution

1 per cent lindane solution

1/2 per cent dieldrin oil solution

5 per cent pentachlorophenol oil solution.

FOR TREATING carpenter ant-infested trees and wood in the yard, spray with 2 tablespoons of 40 per cent wettable chlordane powder or 3 tablespoons of 50 percent wettable DDT powder in 1 gallon of water. Be sure to treat firewood at least 30 days before storing it in the basement or burning it.

Ants tend to travel along well established runways. Applying an insecticide, such as rotenone dust, to their runways helps control or even eliminate them.

Elimination of household and lawn ants follows the same procedures as for carpenter ants. Since some of these ants infest lawns as well as buildings, control should begin with the lawn, progress to the foundations and porches, and end up inside the building.

MICHIGAN STATE University Cooperative Extension Service has printed a bulletin, No. E497, entitled "Wood Damaging Insects in the Home." This may be obtained from your local extension office without charge.

Do not apply any insecticide listed here to vegetables and fruits. Read the label for each material used and always follow the directions carefully.

Hawaiian vacation recounted

ELSIE—The Hawaiian Islands in all their beauty and color were shown at the regular P.T.A. meeting in the high school cafeteria Monday night. The pictures were taken by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hawes on a 12-day Christmas and New Year's holiday vacation to the Islands with three other couples from this area.

The severe snowstorm of last Christmas Day interfered with their original flight plans but was soon forgotten when they sat down with 700 others to the Hawaiian luau (feast) on the beach of Waikiki to enjoy native foods and entertainment in temperatures of 75 to 80 degrees.

Among the colorful scenes were a profusion of orchids (40,000 varieties) lush tropical vegetation, coconut groves, Kona coffee, pineapple and sugar cane fields against a background of green-covered mountains and valleys.

OTHER PICTURES included the world-famous Diamond Head Crater, the legendary "City of Refuge," Buddhist Temple, Captain Cook's Monument, Sea Life Park, Lahaina historic whaling town and first capital of the Islands, Kahala residential district and high-rise hotels.

The Hawes purchased pictures of Pearl Harbor with its battleship row to show their friends as they were not allowed to photograph their own.

They spoke of their experiences while flying around the Islands and touring four of them by limousine or bus. Their adventures eating such native foods as Kalua pig cooked in underground ovens, chicken and taro, pineapple spears, papayas, poi, fish cooked and raw, coconut pudding and Macadamia nuts were accompanied by enchanting native dancing by Polynesian, Tahitian and Hawaiian talent.

HAWES TOLD ABOUT the Hawaiian New Year's Eve when $250,000 in fireworks provided a brilliant display in Honolulu. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hawes were dressed in the colorful shirt and mumu with lei typical of the building.

GOD'S WORD for a NEW AGE

An old man in Australia holds his Bible with shaking hands. Painstakingly his pointing finger follows along a well-loved passage. In a village in Guatemala an Indian lad reads joyfully from a New Testament written in elementary Spanish. In a rural area of Japan a lively youth group discusses the Scriptures using Bibles printed in their mother tongue.

People like these, and thousands more in every corner of the earth, read Bibles today because of the work of the American Bible Society. Founded on May 8, 1816, the Society's sole object is the widespread circulation of the Scriptures. Now, faced with a worldwide population explosion and mounting literacy, the Society sees an exciting challenge in rededicating itself to its goal; that no matter what his language, whether rich or poor, or where he lives—no man, woman, or literate child should be without the Scriptures.

In our space age of confusion and change, the Bible remains constant. Read and study the Bible faithfully, and attend your church regularly. Hear the word of God—His greatest gift, so freely given.

After Mrs. Corsi returned to her own home, Mrs. Jones received a letter from Mrs. Corsi, asking many questions and wanting all the information Mrs. Jones could give her about 4-H work and projects. PAUL H. TODD JR.

Todd seeks reelection to Congress

Paul H. Todd Jr., Democratic congressman from Michigan's 3rd District, has announced he will seek reelection to the United States House of Representatives.

"Serving the 3rd District in the Congress has been a wonderful experience for me," Todd said in making his announcement. "But that is only a small part of my reasons for wishing to run this year."

"MORE IMPORTANT, I think, is the great progress all of us in the Third District have made this year in bringing to the forefront a constructive, forward-looking and responsible point of view on issues of public concern. We have discussed the issues; we have faced the facts; we have successfully shown that to be responsible we need not be negative and that to be compassionate about people we need not be wasteful of our resources."

"There is a growing number of people in this district who today are taking a direct involvement in public policy. It is this direct involvement of citizens in politics—unhindered by bosses, unafraid to speak out, fully conscious of the need for constructive and responsible participation—that is the key to our democratic system."

"To continue this progress and to contribute to it—these are my fundamental reasons for wishing to run this year."

"If I win the Democratic nomination, I shall campaign vigorously this fall on my record, on the issues, and on the proposition that there is a key need in our political system for broad, informed and responsible citizen participation in politics. Most of all, I shall not campaign looking back toward the past, but rather looking forward into the future—of our area, of our state and of our nation."

A lot of feeding on low horsepower

On a farm in Nebraska, exactly at 9 a.m., a time switch automatically starts a feedlot auger. After a short delay, a grinding mill starts turning over, then the ingredient augers begin to rotate. Next, a silage unloader comes on—followed by a motor which automatically lowers the unloader. As all these units are running, a specific amount of ration is delivered to one side of the divided feedlot. Then a differential mixer is mixed and delivered to the other side. The system clears itself and then shuts down.

Farmers who are told this would say—impractical or, too expensive or, what if something clogs up or a motor doesn't start—the whole thing would come to a stand-still and the motors would burn out!

BUT SYSTEMS LIKE the one described "above" are operating and are designed to use low-horsepower electric motors, making the systems economical to install and economical to operate. These systems are the result of ideas and efforts put forth by the Omaha Public Power District in southeastern Nebraska. In an article titled "A Lot of Feeding With Low - Horsepower," Farm Quarterly editors describe what they saw as they toured the area with Omaha Public Power representatives. "Our approach is simple," Bill Witmer OPPD farm service specialist said.

"We think it is ridiculous for a farmer to sit around a farmstead managing equipment. He should be managing crops and livestock. So we give him a lot of little motors to do the work and a good control system to manage the motors."

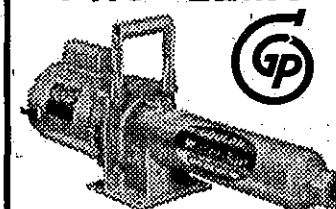

FOR EXAMPLE, auger motors are electrically interlocked. If one auger fails to deliver an ingredient to the mill, the entire system shuts down, as it does if any auger plugs or if any motor fails. "We also designed into the system a sequence of starting and stopping," Witmer continued. "The stopping sequence is so designed that everything empties before it shuts down, so no equipment has to start up under a load and the power requirements are low. This clearing sequence is one of the secrets of low-horsepower systems."

Another secret of the low-horsepower system is to use an auger with higher capacity than the mill output, and then run the auger below full capacity; this drastically reduces horsepower requirements, expense and maintenance.

With the proper planning, a low-horsepower installation can produce more profits, help a man become a better manager, and free the farm for expansion in the future.

By ALVIN ROOT, Extension 4-H Agent in Clinton County

Why join a 4-H Club? Well, one could write a book on that subject, but let's limit our short discussion here to the 1966 summer 4-H Club program.

Our 4-H Club program is an educational program for boys and girls, age 9-18. All boys and girls are eligible to join regardless of where they live. The program is conducted by the MSU Cooperative Extension Service in all of the counties in Michigan. Boys and girls enroll in 4-H Clubs to learn. They take projects like foods, flower gardening, home improvement, conservation, gun safety, beef, sheep, dairy, swine, crops, vegetable gardening, small motors and plant science.

THESE ARE THE projects that boys and girls are enrolling in for the summer program. There are many more, of course, and plans are to get club members enrolled now.

Anyone interested in organizing a club should contact the extension office in the basement of the courthouse in St. Johns.

While taking part in club work, young people have lots of opportunities for fun and recreation activities. Club members who are eligible may take part in the 4-H softball program and talent show. Trip awards and recognition for good work are available for those who achieve.

WE DON'T WANT our 4-H people to forget our county 4-H Demonstration Day set for July 27 at Smith Hall. Club members may give a regular demonstration or do an illustrated talk. In an illustrated talk, the member tells how with illustrations such as pictures, posters, etc. There will be junior and senior divisions, age 10-12, 12-14, and 14-19.

Let's all get our 4-H Club enrollments to the office if we have not already.

More farmers like cornage

Cornage is a coined name for high-moisture corn. It is gaining favor among dairymen as a means of harvesting and storing corn grain. Many beef cattle feeders also like the crop, according to F. Earl Haas, Clinton County Extension agricultural agent.

Cornage can be stored in concrete stave, poured concrete or gas-tight silos as ground ear corn, ground shell corn or whole shell corn at 25-35 per cent moisture levels.

HIGH MOISTURE corn handled in this manner offers certain advantages over conventional corn handling methods.

The county agent points to these advantages:

1) Harvesting can be done two to three weeks earlier than for storage in crib. Frequently this could mean the difference between saving or losing much of the corn crop.

2) Studies show 7 per cent less field harvesting and storage losses for 25-30 per cent moisture corn than with dry corn.

3) Storage costs are comparatively low. Estimates indicate annual silo storage cost, including unloader, are 2-4 cents per bushel less than crib storage and about 8 cents per bushel less than for heat-dried shell corn.

4) STORAGE IS relatively rodent-free.

Mechanical feeding in the lot is also simplified. Cornage can be made either from shelled corn or ground ear corn.

A new MSU Extension Bulletin No. 447, available from the Clinton County extension office at St. Johns, gives complete information on the making, storage and feeding of cornage. It is available without charge, the agricultural agent advises.

Since that date, the rate of earning has been about 4.15 per cent. Those bonds that have not reached the extension period earn even more than 4.15 per cent for the remaining period to first maturity.

Few people know about fallout

"Most Americans know about the destructive power of nuclear explosions, but a fewer number know about a material called radioactive fallout," William M. Smith, chairman of the Clinton County USDA Defense Board, said Friday.

At a recent meeting of the USDA Defense Board, Smith said, "An explosion of a nuclear device would cause radioactive contamination many miles downwind from the primary area. There is no way of knowing in advance where fallout may land."

"HOWEVER, even though fallout may be hazardous if it is present in large amounts, it will not cover the world and kill everything," he emphasized.

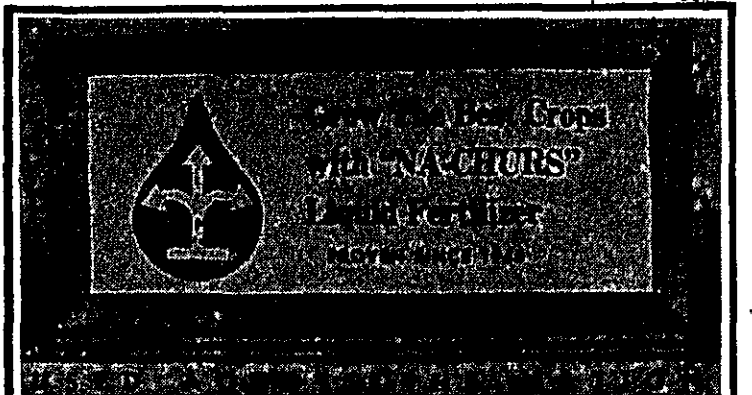

Smith said radioactive fallout is produced when a nuclear explosion occurs at or near the surface of the earth. Tons of soil are sucked up into the mushroom cloud and each particle becomes radioactive.

He added, however, that knowledge about the effect of fallout on farms is still incomplete. The effect could differ from situation to situation, depending on such factors as wind and weather at the time of the explosion.

"USDA AGENCIES HAVE certain responsibilities for monitoring radioactive fallout and determining its location, strength and danger to humans and animals."

BEAN GROWERS ATTENTION! Davco Di-Syston Fertilizer Is Now Available

WHAT IS IT?

It is Davco 10-20-10 Wonder Gro fertilizer with 2% Manganese, 1% Zinc premixed in a homogenous granule. This fertilizer is then impregnated with 0.5% (10 pounds of actual 100% Di-Syston per ton.) IT IS MANUFACTURED EXCLUSIVELY BY THE DAVISON CHEMICAL DIVISION to meet Michigan bean growers needs. Di-Syston is a systemic insecticide which enters the plant by absorption through the roots. The insecticide placed near the roots is translocated to all parts of the plant and kills sucking insects feeding on the plant. The active ingredient is released slowly giving long protection during the plant's susceptible early life.

WHAT INSECTS WILL IT CONTROL ON BEANS?

It will control aphids, leafhoppers, Mexican bean beetle larvae, mites and thrips.

HOW LONG CAN I EXPECT CONTROL?

Up to the first 6 to 7 weeks after planting. This varies according to weather conditions.

WHAT IS THE RATE OF APPLICATION?

Side dress at time of planting with 200 pounds of Davco Di-Syston fertilizer per acre. This complete one time application will furnish your proper Di-Syston needs plus needed manganese and zinc requirements, with an ample supply of nitrogen, phosphorous, and potash.

WHAT ARE THE ADVANTAGES OF USING DAVCO DI-SYSTON IMPREGNATED FERTILIZERS?

- Safer and easier to handle.
- Faster and more accurate placement than using separate applicators.
- No drift or dust.
- Weather cannot wash it off.

General rules of pesticide safety are not enough

Recently in California, a 21-year-old man fell ill after applying phosphate ester and sulfur to strawberries. He was carried to the hospital and the pesticide label was given to the doctor. But the doctor was confused by the large dose of antidote called for on the label.

So the doctor, not having seen a case like this and not convinced that such an antidote was called for, gave him instead a prescription for a much smaller dose of first-aid antidote and sent him home. Early the next morning the man was dead.

CASES LIKE THIS are all-too-common. A physician can easily practice for 30 years and never see a man poisoned by agricultural chemicals. Consequently and understandably, a doctor may be unable to provide the proper treatment.

Recognizing this, the staff at California State Polytechnic College (San Luis Obispo, Calif.) has developed a farm chemical safety program that goes far beyond the general rules of following label directions, wearing protective clothing and disposing of containers. Information on this enlightening program was published in the spring issue of the Farm Quarterly Magazine in an article titled "A Cool Approach To Hot Chemicals." Among points brought out by this article are four basic procedures that every farmer handling chemicals should follow:

1) FIRST, AND MOST important, the farmer should visit his doctor at the beginning of the farming year. He should list with his doctor the exact pesticides that will be used on his farm, and he should provide a label for each. He should ask the doctor to acquire additional information on these pesticides and the treatment of persons affected by them.

2) Next, if the farm uses many different chemicals, a master chart should be posted in a location known and readily available to all employees and family members. There should be a strict rule that any person on the farm handling or applying pesticides must first list on the chart the pesticide and the time of its use.

3) AT THE FIRST sign of an illness or any unusual reaction, the farmer should be taken to his doctor and with him should go the information from the master chart of what pesticide he had been using at the time.

4) If the farmer uses organic phosphates, he should have periodic blood samples taken to check his cholinesterase level. (Cholinesterase controls the nervous system.) Usually these should be taken once a week while these pesticides are being used extensively and less often when used intermittently. (These tests are important, not only because they guard against a gradual buildup of organic phosphates, but because susceptibility to these chemicals varies among individuals. A dose of pesticides that would hardly affect one man might kill another man of the same weight but with a different body chemistry.)

A farmer who understands the characteristics of his pesticides fully and who takes the added precautions as listed above can look forward to the productivity available through the use of agricultural chemicals without a worry.

PROGRESS on the wheels and under the wheels is captured in this photo as a farmer near Battle Creek drives his team over a new road-bed for a spur of I-94 under construction in Calhoun County. ASC PROGRAM

Summer cover crop practice is approved

This year we have a new conservation practice approved for our county. The practice is to encourage and assist farmers in the establishment of vegetative cover for summer protection from erosion.

Practice requirements: A good stand and good growth must be obtained, it may be left on the land or turned under. Pasturing consistent with good management may be permitted but none of the growth may be harvested for hay, silage, or seed, except that the state committee may authorize the harvesting of the growth for hay or silage in areas where it determines that a serious shortage of hay or silage exists, due to adverse weather conditions, and the growth harvested is needed for use on farms in the area. Volunteer stands will not qualify for cost-sharing.

Pines cited for growth under influence

Some pine seedlings may grow better under the influence of alcohol.

This rather startling fact is the discovery of S. A. Wilde, soil scientist at the University of Wisconsin. Working with Monterey pine seedlings in a tree nursery, he found that under certain conditions, treatment of the soil with allyl alcohol will make the young seedlings grow faster.

Alcohol works best in prairie soil which lacks certain fungi to stimulate the growth of young seedlings. Adding allyl alcohol to the soil stimulates the growth of another kind of fungus called trichoderma. This fungus furnishes nutrients to the young seedlings to stimulate their growth.

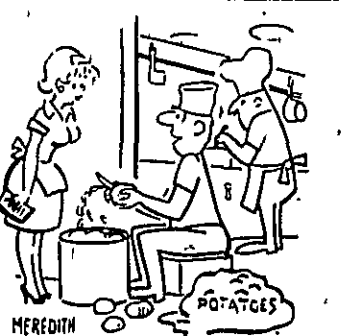

THE ALCOHOL treatment not only made up for the missing fungi, it stimulated growth more than in normal soil conditions.

Wilde added 100 gallons per acre and 200 gallons per acre of alcohol to the prairie soil in which the seedlings were being grown.

On virgin prairie soil without any additives, the pine seedlings grew about 6 inches in 11 months. When the soil was inoculated with the fungi that the seedlings needed, crown growth was about 15 inches.

WHEN THE SOIL was treated with allyl alcohol—100 gallons per acre—seedling growth was about 20 inches. And 200 gallons per acre of alcohol stimulated the seedlings to a height of 25 inches.

Alcohol is not without harmful effects in trees. With the abnormal stimulation of the crowns, root development was inhibited.

"I learned this trade in the Army."

THE FOLLOWING seedlings are approved: Sudangrass, 20-25 pounds per acre; oats, 6-8 pecks per acre; buckwheat, 4 pecks per acre and sorghum - sudangrass crosses, 12-15 pounds per acre.

The cost-share assistance for sudan grass is $1.32 per acre; oats, 70 cents per acre; buckwheat, $1.04 per acre; and sorghum-sudangrass crosses, $1.20 per acre.

There is cost-share for seedbed preparation. Where it is necessary to plow and fit before seeding the cost-share is $5 per acre. Seedbed preparation by disking and seeding, the cost-share is $2 per acre.

WHEN THIS PRACTICE is established on acreage diverted under the 1966 wheat or feed grain programs, it cannot be pastured until after Oct. 1 of this year. This is a practice that will effectively control weeds on diverted acreage.

I urge everyone who has acreage diverted that does not have adequate cover to consider this practice if they need assistance to establish a cover.

Remember, cost-sharing must be requested before the practice is started, and the practice must be established by June 30.

On May 12 we offered for sale and sold 3,800 bushels of corn from our Elsie binsite. The high bid accepted was $1.27 and low bid accepted was $1.26. On May 19 we are offering 5,000 bushels for sale from the Elsie binsite. Since the first of the year we have sold 97,500 bushels of corn.

Report acreage by June 15

This year producers who are participating in the feed grain and wheat programs will certify their acreage.

Each producer participating in the wheat program is requested to come to the ASCS county office before June 15 and certify to his wheat acreage. Feed grain producers must come to the county office and certify to their acreage by July 15.

Producers in both programs can certify to both wheat and feed grain acreages at the same time when no feed grain will be planted or has been planted at time of certification for wheat.

TO HELP PRODUCERS report their acreage, we have prepared an aerial photocopy of the area in which their farm is located. On this photocopy, we have outlined their farm and entered field ac-

The traffic safety barrier

The tragic headlines which announce the loss of American lives in Vietnam make us constantly aware of the senselessness of war. The only consolation—if, indeed, there is any consolation—is that this fight in a steaming far-away land is being waged in the name of freedom and decency.

But there are other tragic headlines. Too many, in fact. And we manage to turn away from them without compassion. These are the headlines dealing with the loss of life on U. S. highways.

Yet when we use these editorial columns to discuss highway safety (there, we've said it), we can almost sense the curtain of callousness being drawn down—an invisible barrier between the printed page and the thinking mind.

THIS FAILS TO alter the fact that our highway casualty list is tragic. Perhaps even more tragic than our losses in Vietnam. In Vietnam the losses are suffered in the name of a worthy cause. On our highways, the atrocities are committed for the worst possible causes. . . such causes as "Get-there-before-the-other-guy". . . . and "Hurry-up-and-wait". . . . and "I'll-take-my-share-of-the-road-anyway."

Last year 48,500 men, women and children were killed on the nation's roadways. That represents approximately the entire population of a city such as Coral Gable, Fla., or Beverly Hills, Calif., or Hoboken, N.J., or Fargo, N.D.

Doesn't that merit your attention for a few moments?

Last year 4,100,000 persons were hurt in traffic accidents. That represents nearly half the population of New York City. Doesn't that make you stop and think?

AS A RESPONSIBLE newspaper, we are frustrated as we attempt to help alleviate this gruesome problem. We can put it on the printed page for all to read. But who's to read it? And who will take it to heart enough to do his part? How do we convince our citizens that they should stop murdering themselves on the highway?

Editorial columns do not really provide the solution. But you do. We all do—as good citizens. Every time we get behind the wheel.

Our legislators, should follow laws they created

Overall our elected representatives to Lansing are responsible people, dedicated to fulfilling their job for the benefit of the people.

There are times, of course, when doubts enter our minds as to whether these men are there to represent the people or to reap all the benefits themselves.

A case in point. We read the other day where one of our state legislators was involved in an accident. He had neither insurance nor had he paid his $35 into the state fund as an uninsured motorist.

IT WAS OUR contention that when legislation was passed it was for all the people, not for everyone but a select few.

Instances like the aforementioned, only bring to mind that possibly what our legislators are intending is that some of the legislation passed is better for a few, not for the majority.

The people of the State of Michigan do not always agree with what is done in Lansing, but they usually abide by what is passed as law. We think our legislators should do the same.

It is our belief our legislators should be the leaders in showing the rest of the state that what is passed is the best for all.

AT LAST COUNT there were about 85,000 kinds of flies, but only about 17,000 kinds live north of Mexico. Many people feel they met most of them on picnics last summer.

Broken rules

By W. E. DOBSON

There are certain rules of logic
That we fall to read the same,
For the ones who are the authors
And the others in the game;
And they fall short of convincing,
Quite as much as they should, too,
When Uncle says do as I say —
And do not the things I do.

In the realm of legislation
There's our duly elected friend
Who campaigns for lower taxes,
Once elected spends and spends!
"Try to live within your income,
Such a course will see us through,"
Says our Uncle, "Do as I say —
Never mind the things I do."

In our courts we are insistent
Guilt be proven without fail.
Yet those who would dare to question
Off are rushed away to jail;
Is a war defense or conquest?
Can we separate the two?
Says our Uncle, "Do my bidding —
Never mind the things I do!"

"Turn out lights, eat cheaper meat cuts,"
Sounds OK in time of stress,
But more "pork" still pads the budgets,
Government waste is never less
If each voter ran his business
Like our Uncle he would stew,
So he tells us, "Do my bidding,
Never watch the things I do!"

Many moons have passed since the time we should have paused here to take our hats off to the out — county correspondents who write for this paper. There are 39 of them on our mailing list, and we receive news from most of them every week.

Folks in the large cities tend to pooh-pooh the use of news items such as our correspondents send in as gossip, and thus weekly newspapers often get a subtitle of "gossip sheet" because they use such material. We don't feel it is gossip and we look on our correspondence as an integral and important part of each week's Clinton County News. In the first place, gossip is defined as idle talk or rumors. Facts are what our correspondents report, and facts are not rumors.

FACTS ARE NEWS when they have timeliness to them and especially when they involve local people. Our correspondents write about people in their localities and communities and tell what they're doing, whether it be awards, participating in community endeavors or visiting and dining with each other. It's news!

True, folks in one part of the county may not give a hoot about who is visiting whom in another part of the county; but neither are all women interested in what's on the sports page or all men interested in what's printed on the women's page.

A GOOD NEWSPAPER — and we're trying our hardest to be one — prints news items for special interest groups as well as items to interest everybody. The folks around Rochester Colony, or Alward-Plowman, for examples, are special interest groups when it comes to news about people and events in their particular locality. It's not any different than being a sports fan — a special interest reader of the sports page.

Because of the faithful work of our 39 correspondents, we feel there's something (and usually a lot of somethings) of interest to everybody in the county in every issue of the News. Because of the crush of other state, national, international and now interplanetary news, daily newspapers can't devote news space for the events that take place every day in every section of the county. We can, because the weekly newspaper is devoted to filling the void the dailies can't fill.

BUT WEEKLIES have problems similar to dailies. Deadlines are an all-important item. When we send 32 to 36 pages to press every Tuesday night, it is because we have been putting pages together all the week before. Pages have to be filled day by day. If there isn't any "live" news around, filler features go in in place. And often, when Tuesday rolls around, there's too much live news for the space that's left. Correspondence items — important special interest news — often get set aside in favor of news items of general interest to all readers.

Our correspondents, unfortunately, are the first to feel the sting of the firing squad made up of the same people who called at the last minute on Monday with the news items they wanted in and which didn't get it. (We hear about it here, too.)

WE GRANT THAT many news events our correspondents report happen over the weekend, but many others occur before that and many weekend plans could be reported to her before they are carried out. The more items our correspondents get early the more they can send to us early. And those are what we prefer to use where filler features are many times used out of necessity.

We think our correspondents do a whale of a good job under the conditions imposed upon them by our deadlines and the tardy information they get. We're trying to help them out by personally picking up their items when possible Monday to save mail-transit time. Now it is up to the reader-newsman to help her out, too.

We think she deserves that help because of her importance in our organization and the importance of her news items in our weekly product. — Rink

OVER THE LAST few days I've come across quite a few articles on the subject of trout fishing. Most of these were proclaiming the fact that May was the time of year for the man who liked to fish with flies.

These articles recalled the opening of trout season which occurred three weeks ago. The season opened on a Friday at midnight. This opening Friday was a very beautiful, warm day. That evening I took leave of my family to join my father-in-law and some friends at the Riverview Rod and Gun Club on the Manistee river between Grayling and Kalkaska. In all there were eighteen men at the club ready to start the season.

FRIDAY EVENING most of the fellows were off to one place or another and I joined my father-in-law and Pat Crowe from Grand Rapids who were off to Dingman's, a small pub located on M-72, not very far from the club.

Dad and Pat were engaged in a game of pool and I sat there looking on, when I saw a face that looked familiar. It didn't take very long to put a name with the face, even though I hadn't seen him for some fifteen years. Many of you will remember Keith Phelps.

KEITH GRADUATED from Rodney B. Wilson about 1942. He went into the navy and then to dental school and now has his practice in Battle Creek. He was up as a guest of Ron LaParl, pro at the Battle Creek Country Club, who has a place on Bear Lake.

Keith and I spent the better part of 2 hours recalling his days in St. Johns, with Keith asking most of the questions and I tried to answer them all.

THE EVENING was miserable with a steady downpour, but it was enjoyable as Keith and I hashed over the old days, our thoughts a long ways from fishing.

Saturday morning broke wet and cold. When I arose I headed for the window to check

Williams' papers shed light on bridge-naming feelings

BY ELMER E. WHITE
Michigan Press Assn.

Consideration of changing the name of the Mackinac Bridge to the G. Mennen Williams Bridge has been dropped for now, but an interesting sidelight of the proposal, can be found in history.

It is not known whether anyone asked the former governor's opinion on the question this year, but he expressed himself on the matter some years back.

Back in 1957, right around the time the bridge opened, a group of Upper Peninsula Williams enthusiasts proposed it be named after the governor who was the moving force in its construction.

They were ready to circulate petitions when they wrote to him regarding the use of his name. His answer was short and to the point: the bridge should be called the Mackinac Straits Bridge because of its location.

THIS YEAR, THE proposal for change was dropped in the Legislature.

Opponents of the idea used the same reasoning that Williams himself used back when a Williams Bridge might have had considerable political value.

The former governor's reply to the bridge naming proposal is found in the Williams Papers collection housed at the University of Michigan.

AN INTERESTING NOTE about the Williams Papers comes in conjunction with the current Democratic primary battle over the U. S. Senate nomination.

The papers were donated to the university library for their value as historical record. They are in a closed reserve section. Use of the collection is limited to historical research.

Most of the papers can be used for bona fide research purposes but some remain closed because of their controversial nature or because the people involved are still alive.

IT IS COMMON PRACTICE, as was seen, in the case on some records of the late President Kennedy, to suppress papers for a period of years or until the death of the principles if there is any chance embarrassment could come from disclosure.

Many interesting ideas behind the Williams administration over 12 years can be found in the Papers which are open for research, however.

Apparently the followers of Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh thought the papers would be good digging ground for ammunition against the former governor in the current campaign.

A member of Cavanagh's campaign staff went to Ann Arbor to go through the papers shortly after the mayor announced he would run against Williams in the primary. He was turned away. His purpose was not deemed to be worthy under the library's concept of historical research.

SUPERMAN WASN'T available so the State Board of Education found a man right here in Michigan to serve as the first appointive superintendent of public instruction.

The qualifications of Ira Polley to serve in the new $30,000 a year post are being questioned by professionals in the field, but that is a matter to be decided by the legal experts.

Worthy of note in the selection of Polley is the process itself.

WHEN THE STATE Board of Education was created by the 1963 Constitution and elected the following year, it set about quickly to find a replacement for Lynn M. Bartlett. He was leaving to accept a federal post shortly after his elective term expired.

That was nearly a year ago. As in the search some time back to get a psychiatrist to head the Mental Health Department, nationwide efforts were undertaken to get a field of candidates from which to choose.

The figure heard most during the closed-door deliberations was about 30 applicants interviewed.

NARROWING THIS field was a big job. Some of the applicants withdrew themselves and the board dropped others from consideration. When it came to a final decision, an offer reportedly was made to an out-of-state man who declined the position.

There followed several weeks of meetings during which Polley's name reportedly was the only one given serious consideration. Finally, a deadlock vote was broken when one board member changed his mind.

Said Dr. Edwin L. Novak of Flint, "We had been looking for a superman who didn't exist." Other state government units might remember Novak's observation when looking for other top level personnel.

The "Low Down"

From the Congressional Record

By Joe Crump

Natural gas supply in future doubtful

Rep. Ed Edmondson (Okla.) ... Stanley Learned, president of the Phillips Petroleum Co., recently addressed the Executives Club of Chicago on a subject of far-reaching importance — the coming crisis in supply of natural gas. (Excerpts of the address follow):

As long as the gas producer knew that his contract for sale of gas was valid and could be enforced, there never was any question of ample natural gas supply. It was only after it was decided by the U.S. Supreme Court in 1954 that the sale by a producer of this competitively produced commodity should be regulated by the Federal Power Commission that this question of adequate future gas supply developed.

GAS CONSUMERS face not plenty but scarcity, and soon. How soon depends on the answer to this question: "Will the terms of the competitively bargained long-term contract under which the gas producer commits his gas reserve again be permitted to have integrity?"

I should like to show you why you in Chicago and other natural gas consumers throughout the nation face an impending shortage of supply. Then I shall show you that your interests are best served by a fair competitive price under a firm contract which assures adequate supplies of natural gas rather than by continued regulation of the type represented by recent Federal Power Commission orders, which can only result in inadequate supplies. These Federal Power Commission orders not only fail to give the gas producer any incentive, or encouragement, to explore for additional supplies, but in many instances confront him with the impossibility of realizing his costs.

WHAT ARE THE prospects of increasing our gas reserves so as to reverse the bleak trend of exhausting our gas supply inventory? The prospects are poor due to the alarming decline in exploratory drilling.

Since 1955, when the effects of the Supreme Court decision on producers' incentives set in, through 1964, geophysical search for new structures on which to drill exploratory holes, measured in terms of crew-months worked, has decreased almost 50 per cent and total exploratory wells drilled have declined 28 per cent. As a result of this downward plunge in exploratory activity, the industry discovered only two-thirds as many new gas reservoirs in 1964 as in 1955.

What is the incentive that will stimulate the gas producer to find the necessary new gas reserves? That incentive is simply a fair price plus the confidence that he will continue to receive this price as called for by his contract. A fair price is one that is high enough, but no higher than required to induce him to go forward with adequate exploration.

A GRASSROOTS COMMENT

Before users of natural gas become too alarmed, we refer them to the 1965 Annual report of the Standard Oil Co. (Ind.), which stated, "In response to growing markets, our 1965 net natural gas production was a record 2.4 billion cubic feet per day, an increase of 9 per cent. ... Early in 1965 we signed a 20-year contract committing natural gas from our leaseholdings in South Louisiana and adjacent offshore areas to Florida markets. ..."

It would appear that some companies are not as pessimistic as Phillips Petroleum Co. — J. C.

Bobwhite quail have an annual mortality rate of about 80 per cent whether they are hunted or not.

the thermometer, it read 34 degrees and it was raining, so Dad and I went back to bed for awhile.

ABOUT 11 THAT morning Dad and I decided to make the effort and we proceeded to dress for the weather. I had taken 2 sets of winter underwear just in case and was glad of my foresight. (The just in case was, in case I stepped in a hole while wadding.) We decided to take the boat and bundled up with both sets of underwear, pants, jackets and waders, we set out in the boat.

We went upstream, intending to drift back, fishing as we came. As we started drifting and fishing it was nice, not too cold, we thought. After about an hour of fishing, actually it was after my third strike that I was too slow in setting the hook, it hit me. Man, I was just too cold. I turned to Dad and said crank up that motor and let's get back. The only reply I got was: Boy, I wondered when you were going to give up, I quit 20 minutes ago.

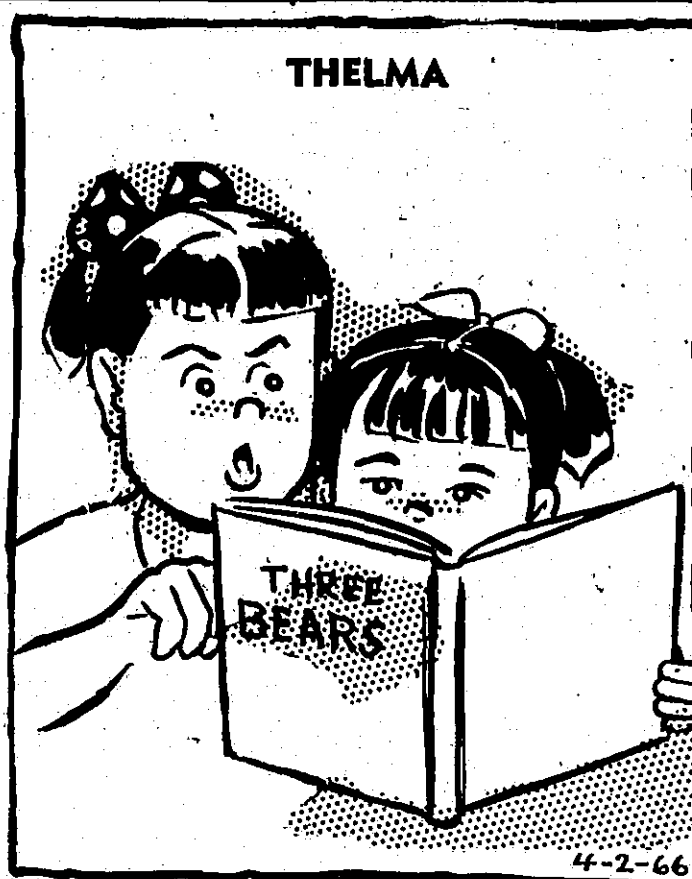

WE RETURNED to the club to thaw out and found that most of the others had given up too. The weather was just too lousy for almost anything, especially fishing.

Sunday dawned bright and clear, but about 8:30 it clouded over and for the rest of the day we had snow flurries off and on. The highest temperature reached all day was 37 degrees.

FISHING WISE IT was a bad weekend, but with eighteen fellows at the club, the fellowship was tremendous and as I took my leave and headed home my thoughts were of the great weekend I had.

Whenever you spend a weekend with a great gang of guys, it's always good, no matter how bad the weather or fishing might have been. It would be worth going back for any time.

Series E savings bonds issued between May 1941 and May 1949 have been extended twice. In their second extended maturity period, the annual rate of interest return was 3.75 per cent up to Dec. 1, 1965, and 4.15 per cent since that date, compounded semi-annually. Those still in their first extension are earning at better than 4.15 per cent for the remaining period to first extended maturity.

"I see you've looked at this book before — the pages are full of peanut butter."

Today's mail brought with it an announcement from the Mills Brothers Circus, which your C of C and the Jaycees are co-sponsoring here May 26, and which listed the international array of performers who will be featured here.

Yes—it's going to be a real circus that is coming here to St. Johns in May and we're urging you again to buy your tickets early, because the two sponsoring organizations make the profit off of the advance sale tickets. This is a fund raising activity for the two organizations, and all the proceeds will go toward community improvement projects.

NOW, BACK TO the international array of performers—coming from 18 countries—truly a traveling United Nations.

Appearing for the first time in America are The Farfan Troupe of Chile, South America, leaders of the world in flying return trapeze acts.

The Six Lizards, an outstanding acrobat group from Prague, Czechoslovakia; the Ilonas, two attractive young ladies performing an unusual double head balancing trapeze act; the Roller Skating Gijl Girls in a dizzying display of skating maneuvers featuring the men's roller skating champion of Paris, France; the Great Pillar, master of mysticism; and the Two Renzils, showing extraordinary co-ordination and balance in performing a head-to-head walk up and over a 10-foot ladder.

OTHER INTERNATIONAL stars appearing this year are: The Millets, three girls from England on rolling globe; the De Kanters from Amsterdam, Holland, contortionists; from Germany, the Juggling Williams and the famous Wallenda Musical Clowns; from south of the border, the Orta Duo, performing on a revolving wheel high above the ground, Los Giraladas, exciting aerialists; and from India, Gunga, balance artist supreme.

Bigger than ever, too, Mills Brothers promise, will be the many other imported and domestic acts, camels, trained horses, animal fantasies and traditional pageant spectacle climaxed by the world famous elephant ballet.

Here we are right in the middle of Michigan Week.

And, there just isn't any better time to brag about our state than during Michigan Week, so today we'll continue on with some of the little gems from the Michigan Week Handbook.

With more than two square miles of fresh water for every three miles of land, Michigan has a greater proportion of fresh water to land than any other state, province or country in the world.

The Upper Michigan "Copper Country" is the largest commercial deposit of native copper in the world, having yielded nearly 11 billion pounds in the past century.

THE BUSIEST waterway in the world is the Detroit River, which carries more tonnage annually than the Rhine, Thames, Seine and Volga rivers combined.

The second busiest waterway in the world is the famous locks at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. More tonnage passes through these locks in an eight-month Great Lakes navigation season than either the Panama or the Suez canals handle in a full year.

In 1957 Michigan united its two great peninsulas with the $100 million Mackinac Bridge, at that time the world's longest suspension bridge—its span 8,614 feet, its total length five miles, its cable towers rising above water the height of a 46-story building.

OPENING OF THE St. Lawrence Seaway in 1959 made Michigan the principal maritime state on the nation's fourth seacoast, on the nation's fourth seacoast. Now 80 per cent of the world's merchant fleet can reach Michigan's seaports.

Turning the furrows is affirmation of faith

HAYDN PEARSON

Plowing is an act of faith. Man, inarticulate in the presence of the verities, knows that for himself and all other forms of plant and animal life, essential food comes from a thin layer of humus.

It was an epochal day when man first learned he could stir soil with a crooked stick, plant seeds, and harvest grain. It meant that nomadic man could settle in one place instead of following flocks and herds. So far as research goes, wooden plows were used exclusively until 1770 when the first patent was issued for a cast iron plow.

TODAY A powerful machine pulls many plows. Half a century ago on a spring morning a man went forth with horses. The first day of plowing was a highlight of the season. As the horses leaned into their collars and powerful muscles rippled beneath glossy coats, the point of the share dipped into the soil and a shining ribbon of moist dark soil glistened in the sun.

Before soil conservation became the watchword, men and youth were proud of straight furrows. Men wrote their names in quiet satisfaction in the turned lines of sod. Pioneers conquered a new land with axe, rifle and plow. Beneath a golden sun and blue sky, the shining ribbons unfurled.

Robins followed to harvest worms; crows called from the woodland and bobolinks made music in the meadow.

The ripping steady monotone of the opening sod was music that struck a deep chord in a man who knew that plowing was an affirmation of faith.

If your home is a place to get away from when it's hot and humid...

IT WILL PAY YOU TO GET THE FACTS ON "WHOLE HOUSE" ELECTRIC AIR CONDITIONING

Let's face it — more and more people are working in AIR CONDITIONED stores, offices and factories. They eat in AIR CONDITIONED lunch rooms and restaurants. But the home they live in, and where they spend most of their time, is about the only place where it is not comfortable and inviting when it's hot and humid. Why not bring your home up-to-date with "whole-house," central ELECTRIC AIR CONDITIONING?

Just set the comfort indicator at the desired temperature and your entire family will enjoy perfect indoor comfort all during the in-between weather (hot and cool) and the hot summer months ahead.
