Humorous exchange between senior citizen king, queen

City budget lower; tax rate of $16 set

Memorial parade Monday

St. Johns' annual Memorial Day parade will be held this Monday at 10:30 a.m. along the usual route to Mt Rest Cemetery where services will be held. Martin McCausey, parade marshal, said all service units that will march in the parade are to form at the Grand Trunk depot on Railroad Street at 10 a.m. All ex-servicemen, Scouting units and other service groups are invited to participate. At 10:30 a.m. the parade will move up Clinton Avenue to State Street, then proceed east to US-27, north along the highway to Steel Street and thence east to the cemetery.

The 1966-67 St. Johns city budget was adopted last Tuesday evening and calls for a tax dollar rate only slightly more than half of last year's rate.

The new budget of $965,561 will require a tax rate of 16 mills, or $16 per thousand dollars of state equalized valuation. Last year's tax rate for the fiscal year July 1, 1965, to June 30, 1966, was $30 per thousand of assessed valuation.

The total budget is considerably lower than last year's plan for $1,424,003 and reflects the near-completion of the city's $1 million water system improvement program.

While the tax rate is lower, property owners will be paying just about the same, or slightly more, money in taxes. Last year's $30 rate was figured on assessed valuation—then about 25 per cent of a property's market value. This year's $16 rate is figured on state equalized valuation—50 per cent of market value.

PROPERTY TAXES will bring in an estimated $300,988 to the city treasury, slightly more than half of what will be spent from the general fund—$582,261. The balance of the revenue in the general fund primarily comes from state-collected locally-shared taxes and from other numerous miscellaneous accounts.

The water and sewer department revenue received for services amounts to $225,800, and the balance of the revenue for the department's $271,306 budget comes from house services, special assessments and hydrant rentals.

"THIS BUDGET does not propose any unusual projects and is in reality merely continuing the basic policies of growth of the City of St. Johns," City Manager Ken Greer said.

"No attempt was made in this budget to include the building of a new fire hall or enlargement of the library or any of the necessary urban renewal costs required when we enter into a contract on the central business district."

In a letter to the city commission last month, Greer said he "would not hesitate to say that the most crucial public need of the City of St. Johns at the

Fireworks donations top $1,100

A big Fourth of July fireworks show is in store for St. Johns area folks planning to stick around home for the long weekend. Firemen got a huge and heartening response from area people and businesses last week and received $1,000 in donations to put on the fireworks show.

As of last week Monday only $300 had been received. Several "sizeable" donations and a lot of smaller ones over the weekend pushed the total of donations beyond what the firemen were shooting for.

AS A RESULT, the firemen will shoot the money in a giant fireworks display on the evening of the Fourth of July. The $1,100 worth of fireworks was ordered over the past weekend, and the firemen plan to begin building the displays within a week as soon as the material arrives.

Last year's fireworks display cost about $1,000, the firemen said.

The firemen, St. Johns Rotary Club and St. Johns Lions Club will co-sponsor the Fourth of July events which include already an amateur talent show in addition to the fireworks. The Crown Amusement Co. will set up a carnival show over the Fourth of July weekend.

Car rolls over

Kenneth Kuhns, 17, of 306 S. Church Street, St. Johns, complained of pains last Thursday evening after he swerved to miss a dog in the roadway and rolled his car over in a ditch. The accident occurred on Krepss Road just south of Colony in Greenbush Township about 6:15 p.m.

Other members of the board of directors are Bob Gay, Kenneth (Red) Devereaux, Roger Hammonree, Bob Dittmer, Steve Hopko and Max Field. Ashley-Fulton merger vote set Ashley and Fulton school district voters will decide next Thursday on whether or not to accept a Gratiot County School Reorganization Committee proposal that the two districts be combined.

A simple favorable majority of all the votes cast in the two districts will result in a merger, immediately, in which case the intermediate board of education will appoint an interim school board to serve until an election of a permanent or regular board.

Holiday news, ad deadlines

With Memorial Day falling on Monday this year, the Clinton County News staff will have only Tuesday next week to make final preparations for the June 2 issue of the paper. Advertising and news deadlines will be set ahead to the weekend. Correspondents are reminded to mail early since there will be no route pickups or mail deliveries Monday. IF THE PROPOSED merger fails, the two schools will continue to operate as they are now.

In the Ashley-Fulton voting, precincts will be the Ashley school gym for voters in the Ashley district and the Fulton student commons for Fulton voters. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

With other seminarians he worked out information programs for boys interested in becoming Catholic priests, and helped conduct summer camp and study sessions for prospective seminarians. While studying Spanish in Mexico City, he spent two months working with the people of a slum-area parish. For the past two summers Rev Spitzley has been active in programs of special services to migrant farm workers in southwestern and central Michigan.

Witness' convention set June 22

"Off to Canada" is the summer call for the St. Johns congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses who will be leaving shortly for their district convention to be held at Toronto, Canada. It was announced this week by Raymond Parker, presiding minister of the congregation that a delegation of 40 from here will attend this international gathering to be held June 22-26 at Exhibition Park, Toronto.

"We are expecting an attendance of over 50,000 from the Great Lake States of United States and Ontario," Parker explained. "This convention will be the beginning of a series of 11 North American assemblies scheduled for 1966. There will be six in Canada, four in the United States and one in Alaska." The convention is called "God's Sons of Liberty" District Assembly.

SINCE APRIL 24 3,500 Jehovah's Witnesses in the Toronto area have been busy in a massive campaign of visiting homes to arrange accommodations for the delegates, to supplement hotel and motel facilities to care for the large gathering.

An interesting feature of the convention will be a mass baptism when it is expected over 800 candidates will be immersed in water in symbol of total dedication of their lives to the service of Almighty God, Jehovah.

The convention is arranged by the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society through its Canadian branch. John O. Groh of Brooklyn, New York is the convention manager.

Michigan was the first state to name counties for a President and his entire cabinet—Jackson, Barry, Eaton, Ingham, Livingston, Van Buren, Calhoun, Berrien, Cass and Branch.

Young Republicans get member ideas

The Young Republicans of Clinton County got some ideas recently on how to attract and keep members. In answer to a number of such questions at the recent joint meeting of the Clinton and Shiawassee groups, guest speakers there suggested these promotions:

Coffee or cocktail hours in homes before the meetings, newsletters "that jump out and bite at people," telephone calls, picnics, charging $2 each for money-making, theater parties, teenage dances and questionnaires to members to see what they desire.

Road Commission Weekly Report

The Board of Clinton County Road Commissioners held their regular meeting Wednesday, May 18. The Commission discussed two preliminary plans for new subdivisions in Bath Township. One was rejected because of inadequate drainage plans and one was approved subject to several recommended changes.

THE COMMISSION again took up the problems of the many right-of-way encroachments, especially the improperly installed driveway that blocks drainage. The board ordered any obstruction that blocked drainage to be cleared. Warnings will be issued as soon as surveys can be made to determine locations and persons responsible for the violation.

YOUR ROAD clerk will be missing from the office Tuesday and Wednesday, May 24, and 25, to attend the Road Commission's accounting seminar at Traverse City. This is a statewide meeting devoted to standard accounting procedures for road commissions.

The St. Johns Track team defeated Lakewood but lost to Ionia in a triangular meet last Wednesday evening in Ionia. Final scores for the teams were Ionia 67, St. Johns 41 and Lakewood 28.

The Redwing distance runner provided the bulk of the points for St. Johns by capturing the first three places in the mile run, the top two places in the half-mile, the first two places in the quarter mile, and a win in the mile relay.

RESULTS OF THE mile were Albert Moore, first; Dan French, second; and Smith third. Duane Downing and Al Koengsknecht finished first and second in the 880, and Tom McKenzie and Dan Hynes were the top two runners in the 440. Members of the winning mile relay team were Don Palmer, Duane Downing, Al Koengsknecht, and Dan Hynes.

Jeff Blackman (left) and Dick Cornwell smile as they show tennis Coach Bill Swears the good news someone has proclaimed following the pair's regional championship Saturday.

Cornwell, Blackman regional net champs

Dick Cornwell and Jeff Blackman, who played tennis all season long as the No. 1 and No. 2 singles players for the St. Johns Redwings, won the regional doubles title Saturday in the Class B tournament at Flint.

The pair played "perfect tennis," according to Coach Bill Swears, in defeating No. 1 seeded Holt 6-4, 6-4 in the finals Saturday. The victims were Van Heuten and DeChelber.

It was the second year in a row St. Johns has had a regional tournament winner. Last year Kurt Acton won the singles title, and Al Werbish and Bob Vollbracht were runners-up in doubles.

CORNWELL AND Blackman now qualify for the state Class B tennis tournament June 3 and 4 at Kalamazoo.

St. Johns as a team finished third in the regional tournament with 8 1/2 points. Mason won the tournament with 15 1/4 points, while Holt was second with 8 3/4 points. Finishing behind St. Johns, in order, were Waverly, Stockbridge, Fenton, Holly, Okemos, Flint St. Michael, Lansing O'Rafferty and Crosswell-Ludington.

Cornwell and Blackman were seeded No. 2 in the doubles tournament. They drew a bye in the first round, and then Friday beat Mason's No. 3 doubles team 6-1, 6-0 and Holt's No. 2 doubles team 6-3, 6-2.

IN THE SEMI-FINALS Saturday, the St. Johns duo took only half an hour to polish off Mason's No. 1 team 6-1, 6-0. Then in the finals they dumped Holt's No. 1 seeded team of VanHeuten and DeChelber 6-4, 6-4.

Last year Blackman and Cornwell lost in the first round of the regional doubles tournament when they played as the St. Johns No. 3 team. Graduation of other players allowed them to play No.

Swim Club gets more good times in mile races

The St. Johns Swim Club turned in some more good times Saturday as they continued qualification timing for the Michigan Mile Championships.

All-Sports banquet next Thursday, June 2

High school athletes in St. Johns will be honored next Thursday evening when the St. Johns Jaycees sponsor the annual All-Sports Banquet at Smith Hall.

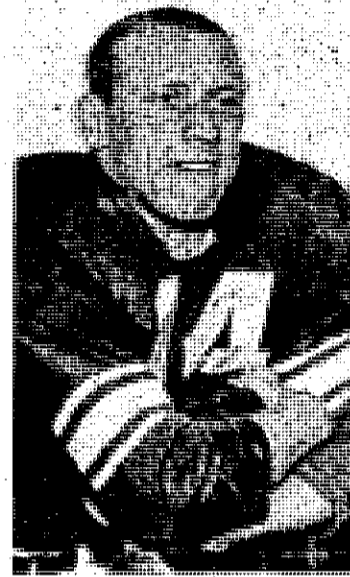

Don Japinga, Michigan University football co-captain in the past year, will be the speaker.

The banquet will begin at 7 p.m. with a meal served by the Jaycees and their wives and prepared by Central School Principal Sam Serrell and a Jaycee staff. Tickets are still available for the public to attend; they may be obtained from any Jaycee member.

THE WILSONAIRES will provide several musical selections, and then each of the coaches at Rodney B. Wilson High School will present awards to the most valuable players in each of their sports.

Jaycee President Don Roesner will award pins to all the senior varsity athletes. Jim Moore will be master of ceremonies for the program.

Japinga, the speaker for the evening, is a 5-7, 160-pound senior from Wayland and was a regular in the MSU Spartans' defensive backfield last season. He and quarterback Steve Juday were co-captains of the football team.

HE IS SMALL AS defensive backs go, but this lack of size has never been a handicap. He is extremely tough on one-on-one situations and has often stymied much bigger receivers.

Japinga is an extremely valuable punt returner. He led the Big Ten in 1964 in total returns with 13 and in average with 9.4 yards per return. He also had three interceptions.

He graduated from Wayland High in 1962 and was one of its great athletes. He lettered three years in football at Wayland. He was second team all-state as a sophomore, and first string all-state in his junior and senior years. He also lettered two years in basketball and three years in baseball and tennis. He hit .530 in his senior year in baseball and made it to the Class C semi-finals in doubles in tennis.

"MY GREATEST thrill was being named co-captain at MSU, after coming from a small town, with my small size and no scholarship," said Japinga, "Saturdays are always a thrill for me, and sometimes I don't believe it myself that I'm actually playing."

He came to MSU hoping to make it on offense, with little thought of defense. After making the change, he says he likes it 100 per cent more than offense because of the challenge involved.

He is a PE major with the hope of entering into some phase of recreation in business. He plans to stay at State after graduation for his masters degree. He belongs to the senior honorary club, Excelsior, in addition to the Sparta, Blue Key and Varsity clubs.

ROGER FEEMAN, St. Johns Jaycee secretary during the past year, is heading up arrangements for the All-Sports Banquet; other committee men are Leroy Hansen, John Briganti, Rod Brown, Jack Hart, Mart Livingston and Mike O'Conner.

FINED FOR HAVING GUN Robert J. Thelen, 22, of 340 State Street, Pewamo, was arrested Friday for carrying a loaded firearm in a vehicle. He was fined $25 plus $24.80 costs and sentenced to two days in jail by Municipal Judge Alba Wert.

The proof is on ice

Dick Miller (left), linotype operator at the Clinton County News, hooked this 10 1/2-pound, 33-inch Northern Pike Sunday afternoon while fishing at Houghton Lake. Tom Walker (right), boated the big fish with a landing net 20 minutes after the fish struck. It was Miller's biggest fish catch. He used night crawlers for bait and had an eight-pound test line. Two of the three hooks on the lure were broken off by the time the fish was in the boat.

43 kids sign for baseball

Forty-three potential new Little League players signed up Monday evening for league try-outs Tuesday and Wednesday and got some tips from high school players and coaches about how to play the game of baseball.

In addition, 17 young men signed up as interested in playing in a Pony League, but William Smiley, high school coach who instigated Little League here several years ago, said at least 17 more are needed to form a league. Boys interested in playing in a Pony League are urged to call Smiley or Jack Downing as soon as possible.

SMILEY CONDUCTED a clinic for Little Leaguers with the help of high schoolers Gene Rademacher, Dave Hill, Gary Boyce and Dennis Springer. Demonstrations in batting, bunting, pitching and sliding were featured.

The Little Leaguers were assigned numbers Monday night which they will use this week during tryouts at the city park. Little League managers were scheduled to "draft" players Wednesday night for the holes in their team rosters. Some 75 youngsters will play Little League ball this summer.

7th grade at Arboretum

ELSIE—The seventh grade of Elsie Junior High had a field trip Saturday at Lansing Arboretum Park. They were accompanied by their science teacher, Robert Gleason, room teachers, Mrs Lester Woodard and Rodney Pederson and room mother, Mrs William Albaugh.

They left Elsie by bus at 9 a.m. and returned home at 4:30 p.m. after a fun-filled as well as educational outing. First they toured the Michigan State University campus.

Upon arrival at the arboretum the boys and girls separated into groups to follow several of its trails. Through the woods and fields, they saw several small animals, birds, many wildlife feeding stations, campsites and marked trees and flowers for identification.

OF PARTICULAR interest were the American eagles, buffalo, goat and prairie dogs. The replica of a pioneer cabin and the Nature Museum were also of special interest with everything from rattlesnakes to rocks.

They saw many kinds of snakes—python, boa, rattlers; snapping turtles, crawfish and frogs; and a bee hive where they could watch the bees at work. In the library they viewed the many bottled specimens of small amphibians, nature books and rock specimen. A sack lunch was enjoyed at noon along with ice-cold soft drinks and potato chips brought from school. There was more trail hiking after lunch.

This trip climaxed Michigan Week and a four-month study project on Michigan. The boys and girls had each completed scrapbooks concerning their state last week. There were many fine books with top-honor going to Keith Reha, who had collected nine volumes of pictures and information pertinent to Michigan.

Mrs Galehouse is honorary Kappa Delta

ELSIE—Mrs Ivah Galehouse, former Elsie resident, became an honorary member of the Kappa Delta Alpha Chapter of the Kappa Delta Sorority at Michigan State University last Sunday when the members entertained their mothers at the Jack Tar Hotel.

Mrs Galehouse, mother of two sons in Elsie, became the house mother for 79 girls last September, when she accepted the position.

In paying tribute to Mrs Galehouse, the president, Miss Kathy Thompson, told how she had added that something to the Kappa Delta House that changed it from a house to a home. "She takes care of us when we're sick and spends hours making the rounds from the house to Olin Health Center" and there are also trips to the bus station, airport, grocery store and School for the Blind, she added.

MRS GALEHOUSE is "one of us and not like many a housemother who merely runs the house and sees that rules are obeyed."

Mrs Galehouse was presented with a framed certificate of award and a white rose at the same time each mother received a rose from her daughter.

Just previous to this luncheon Mrs Galehouse had been pleasantly surprised with a birthday cake and corsage from "her girls".

Baptists

honor graduates

ELSIE—The Elsie Baptist Church honored its members of the Elsie High School graduating class of 1966 Wednesday evening, May 18, at a fellowship supper sponsored by the B.W.C.S.

The senior class colors of blue and silver decorated the dining room and tables. The graduates' table was centered with a large book-shaped decorated cake inscribed with the graduates' names and the class motto, made by Mrs Shirley Baese. Small diplomas and caps marked the places of the graduates. Corsages and boutonnières also were laid by their places. All decorating was done by Mrs Sheila Morey.

IN BEHALF OF THE B.W.C.S. books of devotional readings were presented to Cindy Kelley, Judy Kaufman, Herman Kaufman, Kim Geiger, Terry Loznak, Randy Daley and Dennis Herron. At this time, honor was also given to the choir members.

Following the supper hour, Miss Paula Brown with a group of students from the School for the Blind at Lansing gave a very interesting demonstration of the work being done in that area of teaching. Various methods and teaching aids were shown and explained with the pupils doing the work connected with these, such as reading, typing, playing musical instruments, map work, math, etc. They also wrote in Braille the names of those present. About 60 were present.

Some prospects' are misers; they let the rest of the world go buy.

ELSIE—Mothers of the Elsie High School graduating class were hostesses for the annual senior breakfast early Thursday morning.

Mrs Thomas Horak, Mrs Norval Thornton and Mrs Lawrence Hess were in charge of the arrangements while Mrs Ralph Herron, Mrs Clarence Geiger and Mrs Russell Robinson made the favors and decorations and Mrs Thornton and Mrs Paul Jones planned the kitchen schedule.

Ass't. Supt. Earl Seybert gave the invocation before the guests were seated at long tables marked with tiny plaques of spun sugar and inscribed with "Class of '66", and a miniature yellow rose. Larger replicas with "The last class of EHS" arranged with the class colors and flowers centered the tables.

THE HAM AND EGGS breakfast was relished by the hungry group of young people after which the class president, Kenn Sperrl on behalf of the class expressed thanks to the mothers.

Special guests were Mr Seybert, Principal Blaine Lentz, Mrs Lentz and Robert Brien, senior class sponsor.

After the students left for their morning classes, the 20 mothers enjoyed a second breakfast and social visit.

Dr and Mrs G. W. Bennett and daughter, Linda, spent Friday and Saturday in Detroit. Dr Bennett attended the annual all-day scientific session of the Medical Society of Anesthesiologists at the Sheraton - Cadillac Hotel. Michigan has more than 112,000 miles of public roads and streets — enough to go around the equator four times.

that was a low blow

Farmers got a low blow from the National Administration recently. And we don't deserve it. Read the facts and judge for yourself.

Late in March, the U.S. Department of Labor announced that the Cost of Living Index had increased one half of one percent (.005).

On March 31st, President Johnson said "food prices and three metals are responsible for 80% of inflation." He said farm prices must come down.

Now it is true that the retail price of food, after being stable for years, did increase 6% during the past year—more than in any recent year. But it was long overdue. In fact, during the past ten years food prices have been the only item in the Cost of Living Index that have not shown a substantial increase.

Here are the official U.S. Government figures for the past ten year period (ending February 28, 1966):

	INCREASED
COST OF LIVING INDEX	11.6%
Representative Items Include:
Cost of Services and Housing	20%
Cost of Medical and Health	25%
Cost of Recreation	16%
Cost of Food	.4%
U. S. PER FAMILY INCOME	40%
	DECREASED
PERCENT OF FAMILY INCOME SPENT FOR FOOD	5.7%

The facts speak for themselves. Food prices and farm prices are not responsible for inflation. Just the opposite is true. Increased farm efficiency has kept food prices down while other prices went up and up. During the past ten years, in fact, low food prices have been primarily responsible for keeping the overall cost of living from skyrocketing—because low food prices have offset the substantial increases in other cost of living items. But this situation cannot go on. Food prices cannot continue to bear the burden of inflation. Thousands of farmers—caught between rising costs and low prices—are going out of business.

The situation is critical. Farmers must get a fair return for their product—a return that is in line with their costs. There is no other way for them to stay in business. There is no other way for them to continue to produce the food your family needs every day.

Conservation-education site for schools dedicated

Suggested development plan for Woldumar conservation-education area

Woldumar, the new outdoor conservation-education center that will serve the schools of Clinton, Ingham and Eaton counties, was formally dedicated last Thursday morning.

It is a 160-acre tract of land along the Grand River southwest of Lansing and has been donated for public use by its owner, Mrs. Gladys Olds Anderson. Along Lansing Road south of the Lansing Drive-In Theatre, it includes open fields, wooded areas, lagoons and a great variety of vegetation.

Eaton County's Intermediate School District has obtained a $33,400 federal grant which will be used to develop the land in cooperation with the schools of Clinton and Ingham County.

The education use area would be used most but would serve only controlled student groups and would not be a recreation area.

Nature Way officials said Woldumar would be used for interpretive instruction, with nature experts assisting teachers of the touring groups with instructions about the various parts of the forested site.

Plans call for deeding the land to Nature Way Assn., which in turn will work out management of the center with the three county school districts.

THE management area would be used for agriculture experiments, with such things as development of a sugar bush anticipated. In these experiments students would be able to participate and learn.

The natural area would be for a use controlled more strictly than the other areas. Officials contemplate only one trail into the area, and everything would be left in its natural state, except for the building of two bridges and a photography blind.

There would be no recreation in the area, and no picnicking would be allowed, officials said. The idea in the formation of Nature Way Assn. about three years ago was to find an area that could be devoted strictly to research and education in outdoor-conservation and natural science education.

ABOUT 500 PERSONS were on hand last Thursday for the dedication, which included a tree-planting ceremony in which youngsters from all three counties took part.

Prof. Louis F. Twardzik of Michigan State University's department of resource development, speaking in place of Mrs. George Romney who was ill, praised the public officials and private organizations of the three counties who helped bring the nature center to reality.

"I stand somewhat in awe of people of vision and especially when that vision pertains to the sensitive qualities and needs of man," he said.

"THIS I FEEL is what this nature center represents, and only people with foresight could perceive it and work towards it." He said it would provide an opportunity for children to study and wonder and understand about nature.

Woldumar's benefactor, Mrs. Gladys Olds Anderson, spoke briefly to the crowd and expressed

Bath

By Mrs Alice Loomis

See elementary room shortage

BATH — An impending elementary classroom shortage faces the Bath school District, Supt. Lloyd Latchaw told the board of education last week. Elementary facilities are now in maximum use, and a large enrollment is anticipated next fall, he said.

In the long run Bath will probably need another school building to serve the growing number of elementary pupils resulting from an expected heavy residential build-up, he said.

Board members Paul Seeger and Cleo Friend, whose terms expire this year, will seek reelection June 13. Max Green and Jack Walker are also seeking election to the two seats.

ABOUT THIS QUESTION

If the war dead could speak, they would certainly all agree on one plea—an end to war. On this Memorial Day, let us, the living, dedicate ourselves to pray for peace, to work for peace, to help the governments of men solve their problems without resort to the horror and devastation of war.

Michigan Week wound itself up in Clinton County Friday evening with a big parade and two street dances in downtown St. Johns. The parade drew a large crowd which lined Clinton Avenue two or three deep for three blocks.

Olive adopts zoning

The Olive Township Board adopted interim zoning under the township rural zoning act at a special meeting Monday evening.

The meeting was attended by approximately 60 residents of the township. Also in attendance was Joseph Parisi, executive director of the Michigan Township Assn., John O'Brien, attorney for the people, and Norman White, attorney for Clinton County.

THE INTERIM zoning act was adopted by a 3-2 vote of the township board. Those voting in favor of the zoning act were Hillary Simon, Neil Harje and Charles Falvor. Voting against the act were Gayle Boron and Almond Cressman.

Appointed to the zoning board by the township officers were Harold Lietzke and Ronald Taylor for four years; Alfred Merignac and Melvin Rademacker for two years.

THE NEW TOWNSHIP zoning board now has 90 days in which to write the new township zoning ordinance. It must then be submitted to the Clinton County Zoning Commission for approval. If approved by the County, it then returns to the township for approval by the landowners.

PAPA'S WIFE by Thyra Ferre Bjorn

One day just after the turn of the century, a blonde, blue-eyed young girl named Maria presented herself at the door of the parsonage in a tiny town in Swedish Lapland. She had come to apply for a housemaid's job and the handsome bachelor parson, Pontus Franzon, hired her on the spot.

Maria was only 16 and Pastor Franzon over twice her age, but Maria was determined to become Mrs. Franzon. And she did. When Mama Franzon made up her mind to do anything, heaven and earth were powerless to stop her.

PAPA'S WIFE is the delightfully fresh and unaffected story of the Franzons' life together over a long period of golden years; a life lit by love and limitless trust in God. It is also the story of the eight Franzone children.

THE CHILDHOOD of the little Franzons in Lapland is a period of almost uninterrupted joy for all the family—except Mama. She had been to America and knew that only there could she ever hope to educate her large brood in the manner they deserved. Lightly and deftly, she dropped hints, sent for folders, taught her children to sing "America"—and, of course, Papa gave in.

The final section of the charming book is devoted to the Franzons in New England—the new parsonage, their new friends, their troubles with the language and, inevitably, the gradual dispersal of the family.

PAPA'S WIFE is a warm, often funny, chronicle of a happy family, a wholesome and inspiring story. And the susceptible reader must be warned that wherever Mama Franzone went, the entire house soon smelled of the delightful odors of Swedish cooking; PAPA'S WIFE is a story with the same appealing, old-fashioned fragrance.

"That's what I call a pop up!"

Post office may accept larger, heavier packages

Residents of St. Johns would save thousands of dollars annually on heavier packages under parcel post reform legislation pending in Congress, Postmaster J. D. Robinson said this week.

The saving could be $2 to $3 a parcel, or more, he explained.

Equally significant, the postmaster said, there are many instances where mailers decide not to send such parcels at all, with resulting losses of much business by the St. Johns Post Office.

THE POSTMASTER'S report was based on a new analysis of parcel post reform legislation, H.R. 12387, sent to him from Washington, D. C., by President James O'Toole of the National Association of Postmasters.

At the same time, the postmaster reported the parcel post reform measure would help the postal fund deficiency to its lowest level since enactment of the Postal Policy Act in 1958—from the present $376 million deficit to $187 million.

On behalf of the Postmasters Association, which has thrown its full support behind legislation introduced at the request of P. G. Lawrence F. O'Brien, the postmaster made these points of particular interest to residents of St. Johns:

AS A FIRST CLASS post office, the local office cannot accept most parcels of more than 20 pounds or more than 72 inches dimensions if they are going to another first class post office 150 miles or more away.

Such parcels sent by private express, at much higher charges, often cost several dollars more than by parcel post.

However, H.R. 12387 would provide new parcel post limits of 40 pounds and 100 inches, with resulting savings for mailers at the St. Johns Post Office.

An increase of 14 cents a parcel would be needed to offset the parcel post deficit, but, if H. R. 12387 is enacted into law, a much more moderate increase averaging 8 cents a parcel would be provided, the postmaster said.

MORE THAN 100 smaller size post offices are raised each year from the second class to first class. When they are raised, parcel mailers under the present restrictions must often suffer added costs involved in private express company handling of the heavier parcels.

Residents of smaller post offices enjoy limits of 70 pounds and 100 inches for parcel post packages.

In a recent typical example, Roanoke, Alabama, a second class office, was raised to first class. A parcel of 21 pounds was formerly sent to Bainbridge, Ga., about 155 miles away, for $1.59. Now, if it is sent at all, it is sent by a more expensive means. In the case of the Railway Express Agency, it would be $4.70.

RESIDENTS OF SMALL communities who do not have the limitations imposed on first class post office mailers suffer nevertheless as a result of the limitations on parcel post, provided 14 years ago under a law favoring REA, the NAPUS report indicated.

Because of lost volume in first class offices—which today serve 140 million Americans—parcel post rates (or taxes) for everyone have been raised about $500 million since 1951. Overall increases in parcel rates have totaled about 130 per cent.

Some post offices more than 150 miles away from St. Johns which are now affected by the limitation here include: Cheboygan and Mackinaw City, Mich.; Chicago, Ill.; Cleveland and Cincinnati, Ohio.

For parcels going less than 150 miles, the present 40-pound limit would be retained, but a new size liberalization to 100 inches from the present 72-inch limit would be beneficial for these parcels, the postmaster explained.

Rustic bedroom in the making

Mr and Mrs Donald Wiseman of 8649 W. Hyde Road, Maple Rapids, have found a unique and inexpensive way to decorate a boy's bedroom.

Their son, Dennis 11, is a "wild west" fan. So, Mr and Mrs Wiseman decided to do his bedroom in a bunkhouse motif.

AT ONE TIME they considered building an addition to their home which would include a bedroom for Dennis, as the room was rather small, nine feet by nine feet to be exact.

To be able to take advantage of as much of the floor space as possible the first thing they did was to build in a bed. The placement of the bed is a little out of the ordinary, however. It is over five feet from the floor with a ladder, of course.

Future plans call for a desk and other odds and ends to be placed under the bed.

"It will be a few years before he will have to duck to get under the bed and until that time he will have unrestricted use of all the floor space," Mrs Wiseman said. "Even when he is too tall he will still be able to use the desk," she said.

IN KEEPING WITH the rustic look, one of the walls is covered with tongue-and-groove "barn wood." The other walls are covered with burlap. Mrs Wiseman said the curtains will also be made of burlap.

On the ceiling, egg crate dividers will be used. Mrs Wiseman will paint them with white flat paint. Each divider will then be glued to the ceiling.

WHEN ASKED WHICH side will be the right side of the "ceiling tile" Mrs Wiseman said, "It depends upon which side takes the paint the best."

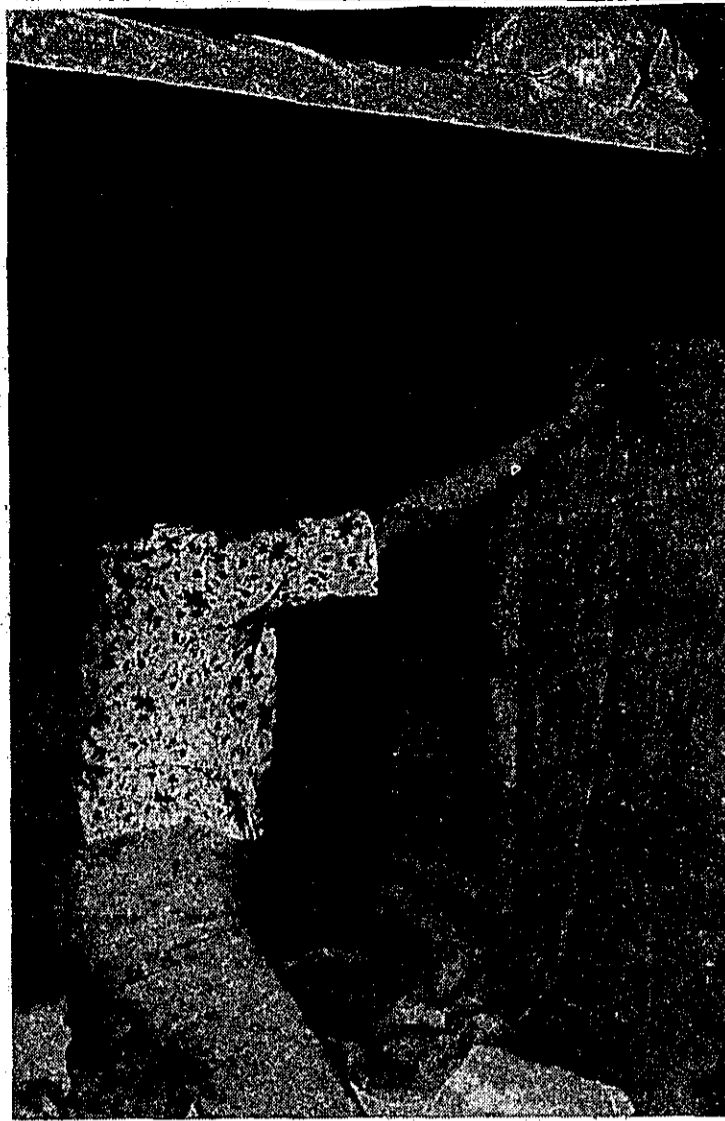

The Wisemans hope to have the bedroom completed in about a month and at that time pictures of the finished "bunkhouse" will appear in News.

The bedroom for Dennis is not the only project going on at the Wiseman household. A family room, dining area and utility room addition is also under construction.

MR AND MRS Wiseman, Dennis and his twin sister, Denise, moved to the Maple Rapids area about two years ago from Detroit. They moved to their present home about a year ago.

Both Donald and Vivian Wiseman are natives of the Detroit area.

"ALWAYS HAVING neighbors living so close to you makes our 20 acres seem more like a 1000," Mrs Wiseman said. Wiseman is a passenger elevator inspector for the Department of Labor in Lansing.

Care of bulbs... after flowers bloom

BY HELEN B. MEACH Extension Home Economist

After the flowers bloom in the spring, what then? How do you care for the bulbs of daffodils, tulips, hyacinths and crocus?

First, cut the faded flowers. This will prevent undesirable formation which will take stored food from the bulbs.

DO NOT CUT THE leaves... let them die naturally. The green leaves build next year's bulbs. If you're going to dig up the bulbs, do it after the leaves die.

When digging tulips and hyacinths, uncover a few bulbs without disturbing them. If the bulb coat is light brown, they're ready to be dug.

Keep bulbs out of direct sunlight, particularly just after digging. Spread them on shallow trays and dry them in an airy, shaded spot.

Daffodils and iris must be dried as quickly as possible to prevent rotting. You can use an electric fan to hasten drying.

When the outer scales are dry, move the bulbs to a cool, dry, dimly lit area, such as a garage or cellar. Be sure not to leave any soil on the bulbs during storage.

Look at the bulbs at least once a week and remove any that are rotted or diseased.

NOW HOW ABOUT the flowers that bloom in the summer and fall? Many people are under the impression that a flower that's a perennial is really everlasting, more or less. That's not quite true. Most perennials should be lifted from the ground and divided every two or three years. A perennial needs dividing if its flowers are small... the stems have little vigor and fall over easily... the bottom foliage is scant and poor... the root center is hollow and dead... and the roots have many undeveloped shoots. If your plant shows any of these symptoms, it's time to dig up and divide. Lift the plant from the ground and wash most of the soil from the root system. Then pull or cut apart separate divisions: A division has an old stem, some little green button-like shoots and a root system. Plant the divisions into prepared, good soil... with proper drainage.

YOU CAN EXPECT flowering perennials, such as chrysanthemums, asters, peonies and delphiniums to grow tall and need staking. Stake from the beginning... don't wait until the plants grow tall and fall over. Use a stake six or twelve inches shorter than the final height of the plant. And get a green stake or paint one green... it looks better. To tie the plant to the stake, use green plastic strips or wire covered with green paper strips. Never use wire alone as it breaks the stem. And string's no good either. It shows up unattractively and eventually rots in the garden. When tying the plant to the stake, put a knot between the plant and the stake together because as the plant grows bigger, it will break off at the point where it's pinched-in to the stake. A plant needs room to grow.

Health problems discussed at Detroit meeting

Ralph K. Loveland of Clinton County sanitarium for Mid-Michigan District Health Department attended the Michigan Public Health Assn. meeting in Detroit May 11 and 12.

Highlights of the meeting in the environmental health section are as follows: Michigan's "New Migrant Health Program" was explained and discussed. This program involves a closer supervision of the camps that house migrant workers. Not only is the health department interested in the housing as far as sanitation and fire protection are concerned, but also the aspects of safe water, proper sewage and garbage disposal, etc.

TYPES AND PROPER installation of wells were discussed with the conclusion that many wells now in use are two shallow and close to sources of contamination. Wells should be at least 150 feet from areas where the preparation or storage of spray materials, fertilizers and other chemicals may result in contaminating the soil.

Additional information concerning well casings, pump rooms, and other general requirements may be obtained at the Mid-Michigan Health offices in Stanton the booklet "Regulations for Certain Water Supplies in Michigan" will be mailed at no cost.

Other areas of public health such as use of pesticides, herbicides eradication of TB, and brucellosis in cattle and solid waste disposal were discussed.

All about warts

Warts, which are harmless, benign, virus-induced tumors, are giving medical scientists new information on cancer - malignant virus-induced tumors. How a wart is formed is one subject under study in a University of Wisconsin project designed to give scientists more knowledge about the growth mechanism of virus-induced tumors.

Water use down sharply in April

St. Johns' water use tumbled sharply during April, compared to the same month a year ago. A total of 33,571,000 gallons was pumped this year compared to 38,570,000 a year ago.

This year's average rate per day during April was 1,119,033 gallons, or 777 gallons per minute. The lowest daily amount was about 910,000 gallons on April 23 and 24, a Saturday and Sunday; the highest amount pumped on any one day was 1,318,000 gallons on April 4, a Monday.

MSU bulletin tells kitchen pest control

Been bothered by the kitchen pests lately? They're the insects and mites that infest your cereals, spices, and dog food.

Of these pests, probably the cockroaches are hardest to control, according to Extension specialists at Michigan State University. They are found in basements and bathrooms as well as kitchens where they feed on a wide variety of foods. These include meats, cheese, in addition to cereals. They are most active at night and run away from light. Cockroaches also give off an offensive odor and are suspected of being disease carriers.

SINCE COCKROACHES live best in dirt and moisture, the best method of controlling them is to keep your kitchen immaculately clean and free of dampness. Eliminate all cracks behind baseboards by caulking them with plastic wood or putty or other suitable materials. If cleanliness isn't sufficient for keeping the cockroaches out, use chlordane, dieldrin, or diazinon to dust the places where they hide or have their runways.

A new household insect control publication of the Cooperative Extension Service at Michigan State University gives detailed information about insect control and using insecticides. The bulletin is titled "Kitchen Pests" (528) and lists control measures for beetles, mites, moths, silverfish, and book lice in addition to cockroaches. Copies of this bulletin are available at your county extension office.

Bible school slated June 6-17

Bethel Mennonite Church of R-1, Ashley, is conducting a Summer Bible School again this year. The date of the school has been set for June 6-17. There will be classes for all ages during the two weeks.

This year there will be a new time schedule. Instead of morning sessions all grades, kindergarten through grade 8, will meet from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. The teenage and young people's class will meet in the evening as usual and there is a possibility of having an adult class.

THE THEME FOR the grade school session is, "Walking With Jesus". The materials used are published by the Herald Press, Scottsdale, Pa., and are noted for their interdenominational appeal and also for their close adherence to the Bible.

The theme for the young people's class has not been chosen yet. A period of recreation will follow their evening's session.

This is the 28th summer of Bible School. The community has always responded well to the Bible schools conducted in former years at the Bethel School and the sessions will be open to the children and youth of the community to join in another two weeks of sincere Bible study and recreation. A. L. Longenecker, pastor of the church, is also superintendent of the Bible school.

The fourth R: RELIGION

Catholics add a fourth basic to the public high school education of their parish students . . .

There's a fourth "R" that goes along with 'readin', 'ritin' and 'rithmatic'. And the Catholic Church feels it's a phase of education that shouldn't be overlooked. The fourth "R" is religion.

Two hundred thirty-one high school-age youths in the parish of St. Joseph Catholic Church of St. Johns are winding up a year of study in the parish high school of religion. Wednesday was the final evening of classes for the year.

SUNDAY THE SENIORS of the parish will receive their Confraternity of Christian Doctrine diplomas from Bishop Joseph Green at a breakfast following their 7:30 graduation Mass.

The parish high school of religion is aimed at the formation of teenagers into young adult Christians and has been held each Wednesday evening at St. Joseph Catholic School. The classes lasted only one hour each night, but attendance was required unless the student was ill.

"We feel the students must have an adult knowledge of religion," Rev. Edwin Schoettle, principal of the school, said. "Since there is no religion taught in the regular high school, this parish school of religion was designed to fill the void."

THE PARISH HIGH school of religion is nothing new. It has been functioning a number of years as a part of catholicism all over the country. More emphasis has been placed on it, however, in the last nine years, and now attendance of high school students is required and is checked closely.

Thirty-four classes are held each school year, including four scripture services in the church at the opening class, advent, Lent and the final class. While attendance at classes is mandatory, attendance at 7:15 p.m. Mass is voluntary. At this Mass the students from a different class each week are in charge of serving, reading and commentary, singing and the offertory procession.

THE RELIGION subject matter varies from grade to grade. Freshmen study "Creed: Truths Catholics Believe"; sophomores study "Sacraments: Ways Catholics Worship"; juniors study "Commandments of God and Church: Laws Catholics Should Keep"; and seniors study "Christian Ways of Adult Life: Husband, Wife, Priest, Brother or Sister (Nun), single."

"The things the students learn would be the same or similar to what they learned earlier in (parochial) grade school," Father Schoettle said. "But the approach and the application of what they learn would be different."

The students receive instruction one hour a week in 10 classrooms, each averaging about 23 students. Boys and girls study in separate rooms. Thirty adults have been CCD teachers during the past year in the St. Joseph parish, but the regular faculty consists of 10 persons.

THEY INCLUDE: Robert LaBrie, high school teacher at Rodney B. Wilson High School; Brother Michael of the Franciscan Retreat House at DeWitt; Mrs. Robert Dianda, public school first grade teacher; Mrs. Ronald Motz; Rev. John Young, assistant pastor of the church; Sister Mary Gordon, teacher at St. Joseph Catholic School; Norbert Kuntz, who is working on his PhD at Michigan State University; Mrs. Gerald Jorae, rural teacher in the St. Johns Public School District; Rev. Schoettle, assistant pastor of the church; Sister M. Margaret, teacher at St. Joseph Catholic School; and Mrs. David Fenner.

Others who have assisted with the classes have been Sister Marie Jane, Sister Salvatore, Sister Immacula, Sister Fidelis, Brother Gregory, Brother Xavier, Mrs. Robert LaBrie, Mrs. James Moore, Mrs. Robert Langlois, Mrs. Jack Martin, Mrs. James Durner, Mrs. Robert McInnis, Miss Ann Hatta, Miss Sharon Cleeland, Mrs. Miguel Medina, Mrs. Robert Merrill, Mrs. Alan Thelen, Mrs. Steven Hopko and Mrs. Stewart Salters.

NOT JUST ANYONE teaches the religion classes. Ninety-six hours of instruction in religious education is provided by the Diocese of Lansing leading toward a Confraternity of Christian Doctrine degree. Instruction for the teachers includes doctrine, methods and practice teaching.

Grading a student on religion is a hard thing for teachers to do, Father Schoettle pointed out. Report cards are issued four times a year, but the grading is not done in the normal way. The students are marked "very good," "good," "fair," or "unsatisfactory" in three topic areas: knowledge of religion, cooperation, and doing the required home assignments.

They are also marked on attendance on the report cards. If students in the 9th, 10th or 11th grades have attendance problems, Father Schoettle usually confers with the parents; with seniors "we feel they are adult enough to discuss the problem directly with them."

FATHER SCHOETTLE said a noticeable change takes place in the attitude of the students toward religion at about the middle of their junior year. He said he feels the teaching begins to really mean something to them at this point in their life and they become more serious about religion.

A counseling and guidance program with the CCD students is in its second year and is now an integral part of the high school of religion. The counseling takes place not only on the evenings the classes are held but also on other days after school and even during school.

"We've had real fine cooperation between the public schools and our church on this," Father Schoettle said. High school students are permitted to make appointments with Father Schoettle during their high school study periods, but a certain procedure is followed.

FIRST THE STUDENT asks for an appointment with a priest in writing, for religious guidance and counseling. The priest signs a form requesting that the student be dismissed from his study period. This has to be approved by the assistant principal's office at the high school. Following the guidance or counseling session, the priest again signs a form, stating the student was there and the time he or she was dismissed.

This Sunday morning 43 of the students will receive their CCD diplomas signifying the completion of four years of high school of religion training. Most of them are Rodney B. Wilson High School seniors, who will also get their regular high school diploma next Wednesday evening.

THE CCD GRADUATES are: David Barker, Dennis Boncha, Paul Geller, James Gurski, Gordon Harris, Donald Hungerford, Richard Irer, Patrick Jorae, Stephen Jorae, Alan Koeningknecht, Chris McKinney, Thomas Maier, Warren Moeggenberg, Terry Ordway, Roy Pline, James Price, Michael Pung, Eugene Rademacher, Daniel Redman, James Rehmann, Elliott Smith and John Teams.

Brother Michael of the Franciscan Retreat House at DeWitt helps answer a question in the freshmen boys class of the high school of religion at St. Joseph Catholic School.

George Washington's advice-III

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of three prize-winning essays written on this subject in the DAR's American History Month essay contest in February. Seventh and eighth-grade winners' essays were published the previous two weeks.)

By MARY ELLEN MIHALYI
Fifth Grade
Central School

In September 1796, George Washington issued his famous farewell address. He wrote to a friend, explaining why he had not done so earlier, and that he was sorry he hadn't.

"Having from a variety of reasons (among which a disinclination to be longer burdened in the public prints by a set of infamous scribblers) taken my ultimate determination to seek the post of honor in a private station, I regret exceedingly I did not publish my valedictory address the day after the adjournment of Congress. . . It might have prevented the remarks which, more than probably, will follow a late announcement—namely, that I delayed it long enough to see that the current was turned against me before I declared my intention to decline."

THIS ADDRESS was a type of letter of resignation. It was written to save Washington from the fact that people thought he was being thrown out of office when he found out he couldn't be elected again.

When people are under one government like you are, they are one group, or people, Washington told the Americans. He told them not to let any section be separated. He said that the name of their country—America—was more important than the name of their state or city. He also said to be sure that the people were not too enthusiastic about political parties.

HE WANTED THEM to keep law and justice in America, and when in business connected with other nations, do what we say we'll do. Don't let other nations do real favors for you, but trade peacefully with them, he said. He told them not to make bargains with Europe.

This was important then because we were a new nation and just making our government, laws, etc. We needed some advice in doing it, although Washington's critics and "infamous scribblers," as he called them, saw only the bad things about this. They tried to tear his advice to shreds. "They're not his own words," they argued. "He couldn't have written it that way. Hamilton must have told him what to say." It was true that Hamilton, Madison, and other friends of his had read this and said perhaps he could say this or that.

BUT AS SOON as people realized Washington was really going to retire, people spoke of him with respect. Some of the very people who did this were ones who had been criticizing him before.

Washington's advice still means much to us today. Our 50 states still have to keep united. We still have to have law and justice in America. Also, we have to keep our promises to other nations. We would still profit from following George Washington's advice in 1796.

LCC student body primarily from within 25 miles of campus

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of articles informing residents of the St. Johns and Westphalia school districts about Lansing Community College. The purpose of the series is to provide information on which the residents can decide June 13 whether to annex to the college district.)

Lansing Community College serves a student body that is predominately composed of those living within 25 miles of the college. Last September, 3,937 students were enrolled in a wide variety of educational programs. Officials of the college estimate well over 20,000 different people in all walks of life have attended Lansing Community College since it was founded in 1957.

Statistics in the registrar's office show over 1,800 students were new to the college last year. Approximately 45 per cent of the students enrolled are from outside the Lansing city limits but within the 25-mile service area, and 50 per cent of the college-bound students in the Lansing metropolitan area attend Lansing Community College.

IS THERE A LARGE college drop out? Kenneth Sproull, dean of student personnel services, thinks not. He explains it this way. "Eighty per cent of our students work either full or part time. In many instances being a part-time student is the only way the individual can continue his education. His employment obligations may force him to omit a term then reenter. It may take this student three or four years to complete a two-year associate degree course."

Dean Sproull also reports that many students do not sign up for programs but for individual courses such as economics, history, art, etc. When they have completed the particular course for which they enrolled, they leave and cannot be considered "drop outs."

THERE ARE NEARLY twice as many part-time as full-time students. Thirty per cent of our students are over 25 years of age. These students have been out of high school and perhaps working for several years before they realize that more education or training is necessary to enable them to meet the qualifications for the technical employment they want. The position may require a one or two year course in business, dental assistance, or drafting.

In many cases college was not seriously considered when they were in high school because of family financial limitations, lack of interest, or a strong desire to become independent. However, several years after high school graduation, latent talent was recognized and a career as an accountant, an engineer, or a teacher was visualized by the student.

STUDENTS CAN WORK off the requirements for an associate degree (2 year college course) by attending college part-time and continuing work. They can save enough money to transfer to a four-year college or university and complete their baccalaureate degree.

John Bogner, chairman of financial aids committee, reported other students take advantage of a number of financial aid programs that are available. Bogner said so far this year 127 students have received financial assistance. At the present time arrangements are being made to have scholarships available for every high school in the college district to send students to Lansing Community College.

HAROLD WALPER, chairman of the apprenticeship department, reported 412 apprentices were being trained in approximately 30 different apprenticeship trades involving about 100 industries. The cooperating industries extend throughout the 25 mile service area.

Mrs Gloria Bouterse, chairman of health occupations, said the College presently offers courses in practical nursing and dental assistance. Both of these are one-year courses. In the practical nursing program, the students' age range is from 18 to 50 years. The average age of the two practical nursing classes is about 25 years. This means quite a few of the students are in their 30's and 40's.

NEXT SEPTEMBER the college is starting a two-year registered nursing program. Mrs Bouterse said, "After students complete the requirements for an associate degree, they are eligible to write the state board examinations to qualify for certification. Many of the applicants for training are married and their children are either in high school, college, or are married and have left home.

Lansing Community College is providing vocational-technical and transfer programs to meet the occupational and professional needs of students throughout the district.

PHILIP J. GANNON, president of Lansing Community College, pointed out that as soon as student enrollment increases to the extent that it is feasible, branch units of the community college will be established in the neighboring communities. The purpose in setting up such branches of the college would be to make college courses as available as possible to all residents within the college district.

This diversity of educational opportunities is financed at Lansing Community College by a one-mill district tax levy, student tuition, state aid, and federal funds.

Sliced and fresh
Consumers may soon be able to buy sliced fresh peaches at the height of their color and flavor, thanks to a new process involving refrigeration, devised by Georgia Agriculture Experiment Station scientists. Though made from fresh freestone peaches that are too ripe to ship for the fresh market, the new product can be held for about 12 weeks. The process involves washing, peeling and slicing the peaches; packing them in glass jars; covering them with a light syrup and protecting them with a weak preservative. Refrigeration is required because the peaches are not cooked.
To err is human—not to air your neighbor's errors is divine.

A YOUNG MAN'S FANCY...and a girl's too

Spring is taking its romantic toll once again! But there's more to be shared in life than a cup of cola. Who knows whether this new-born affection will last — or, indeed, whether it should? Where character and conviction are formed, there the foundations of true love are fashioned. Perhaps then the Church makes a more significant contribution to romance than the warm breeze of May. For with the help of the home and the support of the community, the Church is training the brides and grooms of some later June to realize in a deep affection their responsibilities to themselves, to one another, and to God.

The theme is "Destination—Understanding." Understanding by being involved through better communications with parents and other teens, by better human relations—will occupy the young people from all over Michigan for four days. Delegates to the special event are selected for their outstanding contributions to 4-H in their home counties, according to Alvin F. Root, extension 4-H-youth agent for the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service.

MOST OF THE programs are conducted by closed circuit television. The 4-H'ers will be divided into groups of 30 and subdivided into smaller groups of 10. They will be led by 90 specially trained teenage "leader-developers." The program is planned by the 4-H'ers themselves, most of whom are chosen from last year's delegates.

Volunteer adult leaders will be used for the first time this year, instead of professional leaders. They will be selected from all over Michigan and will be serving in advisory capacities.

In addition to the studies of human relations, communications and world understanding, the youths will be exposed to the facilities of MSU, and will have use of the pools, tennis courts, baseball fields and other sports and recreation facilities.

Frosts underscore farm tax relief need, leaders contend

Michigan's unseasonable cold weather and late frosts threaten a near total loss of many fruit crops, foretelling another year of depressed incomes for Michigan farmers.

That's the view of the farm leaders from all parts of Michigan who make up the board of the Michigan Farm Bureau and see this most recent setback as another strong reason for farm property tax relief.

Meeting in Lansing, the board noted that farmers presently pay an average of 13.6 per cent of their income on real estate taxes and that the burden is even heavier when personal property taxes are added. In sharp contrast, they noted a 1965 study by the Michigan Citizens Research Council, showing that urban families with annual incomes of from $4,500 to $18,000 pay from a high of around 4 per cent to a low of 3 per cent of their incomes in such taxes.

"THE PERSONAL property tax especially cannot be justified in terms of benefits received or taxpaying capacity and bears little relationship to income. Farmers are especially vulnerable as large investments are required to operate the modern farm," the Farm Bureau leaders said.

"Unlike most other types of businesses, farmers cannot shift the tax forward to the consumer, but are rather the victims of tax shifting through higher production costs," they added.

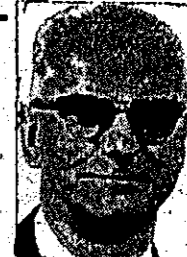

The Farm Bureau board members stressed farmers' continued support of legislation still under consideration to relieve many of these tax inequities. The group pointed out that many other states have totally eliminated taxes on farm personal property and growing crops such as Christmas trees, fruit trees and berries.

THEY URGED THE legislature to "complete passage" of the governor to sign, of two Senate bills, S. 352 and 710, both dealing with phases of tax reform which the farm leaders feel will relieve some inequities of Michigan's tax structure.

For decades, the shooting industry has supported legislation aimed at the criminal misuse of firearms. It has also urged stronger enforcement of the laws already on the books.

ASC PROGRAM

Loan maturity dates set for price support loans

W. M. SMITH
County ASC Manager

Maturity dates for price support loans on 1966 crops have been announced by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The dates for corn and soybeans are unchanged from those for the 1965 crops, while for others the dates range from one to four months later.

Applications for price support loans will not be required for 1966 crops. Loans can be obtained on eligible crops up until one month prior to the respective loan maturity dates. Commodities not placed under loan may be purchased by Commodity Credit Corp. upon timely notification at county ASC offices.

seasonal price increases. Giving producers as much time as possible to market their commodities placed under price support should tend to encourage redemptions of loans, and thereby reduce price support program costs of Commodity Credit Corp.

Loan maturity dates for 1966 crop commodities placed under price support are: barley, dry edible beans, rye, and wheat, April 30, 1967; oats, May 31, 1967; and corn, grain sorghum, and soybeans, July 31, 1967. WE SOLD 4,800 BUSHELS of corn from our Elsie binsite May 19. High bid receiving corn was $1.27; low bid accepted was $1.26. We are offering 3,800 bushels for sale May 26 at our Elsie binsite; bids must be in our office by 3:30 p.m. May 26. Anyone interested in bidding on this corn can contact our office at 100 S. Ottawa Street, St. Johns. Shop in Clinton County.

THE LOAN MATURITY dates for 1966-crop price support loans have been re-examined and new dates were set so as to give producers maximum opportunity to take advantage of

Fresh Tomatoes: great marketability

Michigan growers have an excellent opportunity for marketing fresh tomatoes, a marketing agent for the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service reports.

Glenn Antle, marketing agent for southwest Michigan, says the first step is for the grower to determine the market he will serve. A number of different outlets are available, but each want something different, Antle related.

Chain stores generally want medium sized fruit that is uniform, evenly ripened and blemish free. Other desired qualities are:

-TEN AND 20 pound two-layer cartons, or bulk filled 20-pound cartons.

- Film over-wrapped pulp trays in one, two- and three-pound sizes.

-Large slicer tomatoes packed in 10- or 20-pound cartons for special outlets.

-Shallow flat cartons, bulk filled with accurately sized fruit.

Wholesalers generally service small chains or individually owned stores, Antle says, and requirements will differ from those of the larger chain stores. Accurate sizing—so tomatoes may be sold singly or three for a given price—is desired by some wholesalers. Other wholesalers want:

-MIXED SIZES in one carton to give the customer a choice.

-Round, firm, solid fleshed tomato with good keeping qualities is generally preferred.

-Full truck loads of like quality and packs are not as important for wholesalers as when servicing chains.

Roadside markets and stands are very good outlets for quality tomatoes at many locations around the state. Roadside markets want these qualities:

-Firm, good quality fruit, ripe enough for immediate use.

-Separate small, medium and large tomatoes.

-Containers may be open wood tins, baskets, pulp trays, paper bags with handles, and half-bushel and bushel baskets.

ANTLE SAYS that regardless of the market serviced, the first determination is-making sure you are aware of the market's wants and needs. The grower who has what the buyer wants, packages it attractively and handles it properly has very little trouble making a sale. The marketing agent notes that he is also very likely to have a profitable business.

Bigger farmers by merger

There are many ways for a dairyman to expand his business. The most direct is to increase his milking herd. However, more cows usually mean adding to existing buildings, milking facilities and feeding programs. This calls for capital, sometimes more than one man can raise.

There is another way to grow... by merging. Farm Quarterly editors interviewed three farmers near Earlville, N. Y. who have taken this route to combine individual assets into a single, viable, moneymaking unit that is larger now than the total of the three individual farms.

BEING BROTHERS helped ease the way for farmers Dominick, Bill and Ross Iannello Jr. Their combined forces permitted them to develop a modern efficient dairy operation from three not-so-efficient units. The formula called for increasing milk production while reducing per-unit costs. Results are showing up in the form of greatly reduced labor and machinery costs, in spite of the cost-price squeeze.

One of the major problems in means to find ways and means of consolidating the existing debt and of financing the construction to mold the combination into a profitable single unit.

ALTHOUGH THE merger offered organizational and management advantages, the principal benefits are the improved technology which the merger permits and the savings in labor as a result of more efficient work on the part of the brothers.

Net profits from annual operations are either distributed equally among partners or are held for reinvestment. Increases in net worth of the partnership are shared equally. Each partner receives a fixed weekly salary. "We receive enough to live well and handle our home expenses. Because each of us contributes the same amount of labor, our salaries are the same," Ross said.

FOR MUTUAL protection, each partner has taken out insurance policies on the others. The policies are payable to surviving partners and would allow survivors to buy a deceased partner's interest.

The Iannello brothers are paying off a bigger debt; hence they are building up their net worth more rapidly. They are receiving more wages and have built toward healthy expansion.

Merger was the answer for these three farmers and it may be the answer for others.

Federal and state agencies expect to hire 50 per cent more professional personnel to work in the outdoor recreation field by 1968.

USDA rural emergency services are varied

"In preparing for a national emergency, the farmer may obtain guidance and assistance from his USDA County Defense Board," William M. Smith, chairman of the Clinton County Defense Board, pointed out this week.

The Clinton County Defense Board is composed of key USDA representatives. Smith of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service serves as the defense board chairman.

OTHER BOARD members include Earl Haas of the Cooperative Extension Service; Roland Whitney of the Farmer's Home Administration; and Lloyd Campbell of the Soil Conservation Service.

Representatives of the Forest Service, Agricultural Research Service and the Consumer and Marketing Service are also members of the board when they are located in the county.

Each USDA county defense board is equipped to serve the farmer in many ways. The board chairman, office manager of ASCS, is responsible for food production programs. In an emergency, he will see that guidance is available in emergency farming practices and in conserving farm equipment, fuel and manpower. He will also help obtain necessary services or material.

More change in dairy cattle housing ideas

Dairy cattle housing systems in Michigan have been undergoing change for the past two decades. The switch has been from stanchion to loose housing, then to free-stall housing. The new trend is toward a covered, fully-roofed housing operation that combines the free-stall and a covered, wind protected feeding area.

Several leading Michigan dairy farmers along with some county agricultural agents recently visited New England to investigate the covered, enclosed dairy housing systems. Earlier, three MSU dairy housing authorities visited the same area. They were James Boyd, agricultural engineer; Ray Hoglund, agricultural economist and John Spelcher, dairy extension specialist.

COMMENTING ON changes taking place in dairy cattle housing, Spelcher commented "It has been going on for years. There's no reason to assume the change is going to stop, or even slow down."

The trend toward the covered system could include a fully-roofed, insulated, mechanically ventilated structure or fully roofed with an open southern exposure. The milking center would be attached to or included in the building as loafing and feeding area.

The MSU authorities say the current system used in Michigan is not too satisfactory on bad days, particularly cold, windy days with driving cold rain. Cattle refuse to travel to the feed bunk and consume the maximum quantities of feed necessary for adequate milk production. Without adequate feed, cattle will not produce milk in quantities enough to pay the cost of operating a dairy farm.

HOGLUND ESTIMATES that on the basis of an 80-cow dairy herd, a fully covered area with an open front costs only a few dollars more a cow annually for depreciation and interest than a partly roofed housing system. On the other hand an enclosed, fully insulated system would cost many dollars more per animal than a regular loose housing system. The cost per cow annually would run $50 for regular loose housing, $52 for covered open front housing and $62 for enclosed insulated housing.

In either of the enclosed buildings all silage, haylage and grain would be fed under roof.

IF THE HERD size was doubled to 160 cows the annual cost of depreciation, repairs, insurance and interest on investment in housing, concrete, milking parlor and equipment, milking equipment, silos and feeders would be $41 per cow for regular loose housing, $43. a cow for covered, open-front housing and $52 a cow for enclosed, fully insulated buildings.

Few fully insulated, fully enclosed housing systems exist in Michigan today on dairy farms, but MSU dairy authorities know several farmers are investigating this new type system in planning remodeling of present facilities or building of new dairy enterprises.

More farmers keep records

When Michigan State University agricultural economists started their TelFarm electronic data processing record system, some thought it might be the end of the old MSU Farm Account books.

Thousands of Michigan farmers had used the farm account books annually. Instead of decreasing, the demand for farm account books increased from 30,000 to 35,000 copies the first year the new electronic TelFarm program was in use.

MSU agricultural economists say more farmers are finding that good records are a necessity. Michigan bankers have cooperated with the record keeping program and in many counties have provided the books for their clients.

Local Holsteins earn 2E designations

Duane and Velmar Green, Elsie, have been notified by Holstein-Friesian Assn. of America that Registered Holstein cows in their herd have received an "E" designation for body type conformation.

On the basis of their previous classifications of "excellent," Dehime Progress Mabel 5737841, Green Meadow Rag Apple Oga 3925891, Marbro Emily Matchless 5278284 and Marina Peel Lodge Reflection 5213127 have been awarded 2 E designations.

This new phase of the Holstein Assn's long-time breed improvement program provides additional recognition for "excellent" cows that are reclassified "excellent" beyond the age of maturity. A cow may be designated 2, 3, or 4E according to her history of previous "excellent" classifications within specified age brackets.

Student Council Puts Sales Money To Good Use

The Central Junior High School Student Council put the money realized from this year's magazine sales to good use this spring by purchasing a number of items for the school. Included were 10 new American flags for the junior high rooms, a record player and several games for the noon hour students who must eat at school on rainy days. Junior high students sold more than $3,000 worth of magazines. The student council this year has also bagged more than 700 pounds of clothes for the Save the Children Federation, donated money to CARE and is buying a new basket and backboard for the school playground. They also help support the eighth grade banquet which will be May 31.

By ALVIN ROOT, Extension 4-H Agent in Clinton County

One of the most popular 4-H Club projects in Clinton County is the 4-H Foods Project. Girls learn to cook, yes, but much more than that. Nutrition is a big part of the foods program—how to select foods for correct diets and learn to like to eat new as well as different foods. Girls learn the importance of cleanliness when working around food. Their own habits are examined and plans made to improve them.

Highlighting the summer food activities is the county-wide "Food Frolic" set for Thursday, June 16, at Smith Hall, starting at one p.m. Helen Meach, extension-home economist, has made arrangements for an interesting and educational meeting of all 4-H Club foods project members and their leaders. The place is Smith Hall in St. Johns, and I hope 4-H foods project members won't miss this meeting.

OUR NEXT CLINTON county 4-H council meeting is set for Monday, June 20, at the home of Mrs. Ray Peck. The committee on the Clinton County fair and the honor roll committee will report at this meeting. We will also have a report of the area program planning Committee. This committee met May 23 with representatives from Clinton County, Shiawassee County and Gratiot County. Stevens T. Mason, then only 19, was appointed secretary and acting Governor of the Michigan Territory by President Jackson in 1831. He is believed to be the Youngest American ever accorded such an honor.

Says farmers should have fallout data available

"If the United States ever suffered a nuclear disaster, the American farmer would be depended upon to supply the food and fiber needed to keep the economy going. One of the greatest problems he might face would be radioactive fallout," Lloyd Campbell of the Soil Conservation Service and a member of the Clinton USDA County Defense Board said this week.

Campbell said monitoring services would be needed immediately after a nuclear disaster to determine the intensity of radiation on local farms. These services would be needed later to determine when radiation has decreased to a point where farming could be safely resumed. Expert personnel and special instruments are required for this type of work.

THE SOIL conservation member will advise and assist in the proper use of water during an emergency, and the Farmer's Home Administration member will help the farmer in any credit problems that may arise. The county extension agent provides education on survival practices and protective measures for the farmer, his family, and his livestock.

UNDER THE DIRECTION of USDA state and county defense boards, an emergency radiological monitoring program is set up to function immediately if needed in a national emergency. Trained monitors are ready to aid in handling the radiological problems that would exist following a nuclear accident or attack.

Some of the problems which might arise under nuclear emergency conditions are the detection and measurement of radiological contamination of farm lands, harvestable crops, stored crops, forest land, and water, and the protection and handling of farm animals.

The board members also advise farmers regarding programs of USDA agencies that are not represented on the board. This might include, for example, assistance in rural fire defense or in the protection of livestock and crops against radiological or biological warfare.

MORE THAN 3,000 county defense boards are operating throughout the nation, and they work closely with county civil government authorities. The county defense boards receive direction from the USDA state defense boards.

Early warning saved pig crop. Moldy corn caused swine growers no small problem during the past winter. But county extension agents, Michigan State University specialists and commercial feed dealers caught the problem early enough to avoid disaster in the 1966 spring pig crop.

Swine raisers were warned not to allow breeding sows or gilts to have moldy corn.

MSU swine specialists say no large number of problems were reported by farmers with the spring pig crop. Most swine breeders were able to buy old crop corn to feed breeding animals and avoided difficulties.

A conservation revolution reveals a spirit of 1966

Michigan's first soil conservation district was brought into operation in 1938. Thus at Grand Haven was formed a body of state government destined to have far-reaching effect.

There was a dire need to stop the erosion that was burying farm land, forests, orchards, houses, roads, railroads and all of men's works.

SINCE THOSE early days, 82 other SCDs have been formed in Michigan. Through their activities many conservation practices have been installed on the land.

Life in the megalopolis is becoming increasingly more complicated, costly and less satisfactory. People are seeking out the countryside as a place to live and work.

WHAT PEOPLE PLANT themselves they are interested in protecting. This is not, however, the end of it. According to Verne M. Bathurst, State Conservationist, USDA, Soil Conservation Service, East Lansing, a great body of technical know-how in land management has been built for people to use.

Steps must be taken to fulfill the best that can be had in American rural and urban life. Like it or not, we live with history. It can tell us of once-proud nations that have decayed through careless neglect of the nature that fed them.

Boondoggle

Reprinted from ST. JOSEPH COUNTY OBSERVER, Centreville, Mich.

Perhaps some of the younger generations do not know what a "boondoggle" is. Best demonstration is the current spilling of public funds into the thing called "Highway Beautification."

While Mrs Johnson's multi-million dollar whim has become a law of the land and groups are busily flitting about planting trees to beautify the countryside, the state has announced it will put the chain saw to every tree within 20 to 30 feet from the paved highways and byways.

SEVERAL MILLIONS WILL go into the chopping program to save drunk, incompetent and irresponsible auto jockeys from colliding with trees guilty of getting into their way!

The fact that these assorted drivers will find trees 50 to 100 feet off highways with comparable ease when they start rolling, catapulting and skidding their cars off the roads at high speeds has no bearing on the matter.

That is Boondoggle in the finest tradition. Spending tax money on directly opposite programs. Working from the ends to the center . . . where the programs end up at zero. And the highways will end up no more beautiful, and no less bloody.

The Price of Freedom

RAMBLIN' with Rink

By LOWELL G. RINKER

Friday night in St. Johns was given to parading and dancing. There was even live music from two bands. Bands or combos? It's all a matter of interpretation, I guess, but the following column written by Dan Marlowe in the Lapeer County Press might shed a little light on the real answer.

If you were born any considerable number of years later than 1920, turn the page; this column is not for you. Each generation consistently "puts down" its elders. My hair felt a good deal more gray the other day after a conversation with a young acquaintance who informed me he was going dancing that evening.

"LIVE ORCHESTRA? How many pieces?" I asked. He shrugged. "Four or 5, I guess." "And how many people will be at the dance?" "Oh, probably 30 or 40 of us."

"I should have known better, but I couldn't resist. What would you think about 40 or 50 piece orchestras and 2,000 people on the dance floor?"

His level stare was intended to put me in my place. "You've got to be kiddin' pops,"

BUT IF YOU were rocked in a post-World War I cradle, you know I'm kidding. When we went dancing in the '30's and '40's, it was in state armories and open-air ballrooms, and it was the beat of the Big Bands. Tommy Dorsey, Duke Ellington, Tony Pastor, Glenn Miller, Charlie Barnett, Lionel Hampton, Charlie Spivak, Alvino Rey, Artie Shaw, Sammy Kaye, Ben-Charlie Spivak, Alvino Rey, Artie Shaw, Sammy Kaye, Bennie Goodman, Charlie Barnett, Lionel Hampton, Claude Thornhill; those were BANDS.

And they all had theme songs known from Maine to Baja, California. Flying Home, Snowfall, Goodbye, Make Bellevue Ballroom, Nightmare, Swing and Sway, Stardreams, Nighty Night, Blossoms, Moonlight Serenade, I'm Gettin' Sentimental Over You, Take the "A" Train: how many of these theme songs can you match up correctly with the band leaders named in the preceding paragraph?

IN 1936 FREDDIE Martin was playing These Foolish Things Remind Me Of You and Eddy Duchin was playing Moon Over Miami. In '37 it was Hal Kemp playing The Dipsy Doodle and Guy Lombardo playing That Old Feeling. In '38 Larry Clinton was playing I Double Dare You and Jan Savitt was playing You Go To My Head. In '39 Tommy Dorsey was playing Music Maestro, Please and Benny Goodman, was playing Be My Blue. In '40 it was Bunny Berrigan playing Moonlight and Sadness, and Shep Fields and his Rippling Rhythm Orchestra, (hi, there, Lawrence Welk) playing Goodnight, My Love.

And the vocalists! Sinatra, Clyde Rogers, Martha Tilton, Billy Williams, Carmen Lombardo, Edythe Wright, Bea Wain, Helen Forrest, Harriet Hilliard (now Mrs Ozzie Nelson), Carliotta Dale, Yvonne King, Lew Sherwood, Ray Eberle.

FOR THE NEXT few years the country was otherwise engaged, but in the mid '40's people were dancing to Vaughn Munroe's There, I've Said It Again; to Hal Monty's Sentimental Journey; to Abe Lyman's For Me and My Gal; and to Enric Madruguera's Brazil. And to Symphony, It's Been A Long, Long Time, It Had To Be You, Blue Rain, You Always Hurt The One You Love, Poinclana, There Goes That Song Again, Pink Cocktail For A Blue Lady, and All or Nothing At All by all of them.

I had all I could do to refrain from telling the boy how sorry I felt for his underprivileged generation.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Reader wonders about donations

I READ WITH interest your editorial of May 12 ("Fireworks fund for 4th deserves your support.")

The raffle method previously used is against the law. How true, and I admire the Ministerial Assn. for taking the initiative against raffling as a means of raising money for 4th of July fireworks.

Nothing is mentioned about who is to receive donations for this cause. The Lions and Rotary clubs are mentioned. They surely must have a person in charge or have they already received enough donations? If not, please state who is to receive the donations.

I wonder what our forefathers would think about raising money in this matter to celebrate our cherished independence day? Yours truly, MRS PEARL BLANK

(Editor's Note: Mrs Blank's letter arrived too late for publication last week. The deadline for submitting donations was May 20, to give the firemen time to order and build the fireworks. Donations, as described in the May 5 issue, and last week, could be sent to Ray Kentfield Jr., secretary of the fire department, or to Box M c/o Clinton County News.)

Shortly after 1903, Hoyt Pierce, who had owned the store under the present Clinton National Bank site pictured several weeks ago, moved his business to the corner of Price and Chandler roads. He used this rig to make deliveries and sales in St. Johns. Pierce is at the back of the wagon; the other man is unidentified. Gale Boron of 2775 E. GUEST EDITORIAL

Dear Kid

Reprinted from BELLEVUE GAZETTE, Bellevue, Mich.

Once in a while an editor gets a piece of copy in his hands that just pleads to be published, and such is the case with this one. It is written by one Donald E. Wood and may or may not have originated in Big Rapids. It was given to me by Principal Clara Bradley who came by it from Principal Bob Arends who got it from Harold Beebe, and so on.

It is entitled simply— DEAR KID Today you asked me for a job. From the look of your shoulders as you walked out, I suspect you've been turned down before, and maybe you believe by now that kids out of high school can't find work.

BUT I HIRED a teenager today. You saw him. He was the one with polished shoes and a necktie. What was so special about him? Not experience; neither of you had any. It was his attitude that put him on the payroll instead of you. Attitude, son. A-T-T-I-T-U-D-E. He wanted that job badly enough to shuck the leather jacket, get a haircut, and look in the phone book to find out what this company makes. He did his best to impress me. That's where he edged you out.

You see, kid, people who hire people aren't with a lot of things. We know more about Bing than about Ringo, and we have some Stone-Age ideas about who owes whom a living. Maybe that makes us prehistoric, but there's nothing wrong with the checks we sign, and if you want one you'd better tune to our wave length.

EVER HEAR OF "empathy"? It's the trick of seeing the other fellow's side of things. I couldn't have cared less that you're behind in your car payments. That's your problem, and President Johnson's. What I needed was someone who'd go out in the plant, keep his eyes open, and work for me like he'd work for himself. If you have even the vaguest idea of what I'm trying to say, let it show the next time you ask for a job. You'll be head and shoulders over the rest.

Look, kid! The only time jobs grow on trees was while most of the manpower was wearing G.I.'s and pulling K.P. For all the rest of history you've had to get a job like you get a girl: "Case" the situation, wear a clean shirt, and try to appear reasonably willing.

MAYBE JOBS aren't as plentiful right now, but a lot of us can remember when master craftsmen walked the streets. By comparison you don't know the meaning of "scarce."

You may not believe it, but all around you employers are looking for young men smart enough to go after a job in the old-fashioned way. When they find one, they can't wait to unload some of their worries on him.

For both our sakes, GET EAGER, will you?

A WEEK AGO, Joan and I spent a very enjoyable 2 hours at Rodney B. Wilson High School. The occasion was the program put on by the vocal music department of the high school entitled, "With a Song," under the direction of Gordon Vandemark.

Featured in the presentation were the Concert Choir, Wilsonaires, Chorus I, Boy's Ensemble, and the Wilsonettes.

THE SELECTIONS were varied from modern to spiritual and everyone involved was superb. It seemed as though it was over shortly after it began and I had to look at my watch to verify that we had been in the auditorium that long.

As hard as those seats are to sit on for any length of time, at least for me, the show had to be the best for me not to realize that the time had flitted away.

I WOULD LIKE to add congratulations to a fine director and to an equally fine group of students for this great program. I realize that to put together a presentation such as this took many, many hours of hard work by many people. So to every one concerned, well done.

FOR A NUMBER of years now, my wife has been making an annual retreat to Portincula in the Pines. The retreat begins on Friday evening and lasts until Sunday afternoon.

This is one weekend when "ole dad" has the project of running the household and minding the children.

ACTUALLY THIS isn't too bad a job. But, over the years it seems that whenever Joan has gone on her retreat, one of the children gets sick.

This year was no exception. Joan left Friday afternoon at about 5:30 p.m. and things went great until about 6:30 p.m. when Steffie, our smallest, decided Mother had been gone long enough and proceeded to get sick. Tammie had had a cold, but she seemed to be coming along real fine, that is until I put them both to bed. Then the fun began.

FOR THE REST of the night, between running noses, coughing and tummy aches it seemed that I was out of bed more than in. Saturday morning I knew it. But I kept telling myself, one more day and one night and Joan would be home.

Actually Saturday went fine. I was at the office all morning getting home about 1:30 p.m., everything was fine so I proceeded to do some of the small jobs around the house. They were just small jobs like mowing the lawn, putting up the clothes line (Joan asked me to do this 6 months ago, but I wanted to surprise her) and a few other little odds and ends. It was a beautiful day so all the outside work was finished.

BOTH GIRLS WENT through Saturday with flying colors and I looked forward to a quiet evening. I put the girls to bed at their regular time and things were quiet all evening, that is until I went to bed. Then it began, Tammie with an earache and Steffie with a coughing spell. Between the two it was a long night. Steffie finally settled down, but Tammie's earache continued. It was long after daylight when I was able to curb the earache and get her off to slumberland.

"Ole dad" was ready to drift off with her, but I remembered that I had promised to go to 9:00 a.m. church and work on the Diocesan Development Drive. So this I proceeded to do.

SUNDAY THINGS were again normal and we drove over to DeWitt to pick up Joan. She received quite a welcome from the girls but I think "ole dad" was the happiest to see her. So the weekend came to a close with me hitting the sack early Sunday night and thinking, before I dropped off well this was this year. Next year couldn't possibly be any worse. Of course I've been saying this, every year.

As in the case of the Kentucky Institution, Northern Michigan will be able to take only the cream of the high school graduate.

lative session turned out to fit essentially the term.

Despite the fact it is an election year and the Democrats wanted badly to find major battlegrounds to be refought at campaign time, they and Gov George Romney were remarkably amiable throughout the session.

Prediction of the honeymoon atmosphere was largely based on the pre-session agreement between Gov Romney and the majority legislative leaders to leave tax reform off the agenda for 1966 action.

MAJOR FIGHTS, WOUNDS of which will remain open through November at least, centered around veterans' and senior citizens' tax relief.

Aside from these areas of difference, the only point on which the Democrats found much success in needing the governor was on his choice of individuals for appointment to several important government posts.

On this point, the governor took his licks even from some Republican lawmakers.

Since the veterans-senior citizens questions have been in the fire for several years, Democrats will be digging deep to come forth with real issues for the coming campaign.

FIGHTS WHICH gained little public attention during the session will be magnified for purposes of the campaign. Democrats at this point seem almost to have abandoned hope of recapturing the governor's chair and instead are concentrating on keeping the U. S. Senate seat now filled on appointment by aspiring Republican Robert Griffin.

COUNTRY FLAVOR

Stump-sitting gives man opportunity to catch up

HAYDN PEARSON

Something has gone agley in the contemporary sociological situation. In recent years man has been inventing all kinds of gadgets and trinkets that are supposed to afford citizens leisure time. But instead of having leisure time on his hands, a man has to hustle to earn enough to keep his labor-saving contrivances in order.

What this country needs is a new psychological approach. Instead of congregating in numbers to watch sporting events, sitting in front of a machine that shows moving pictures, or jumping in a car to hurry somewhere so he can hurry back, a man should try stump sitting.

THERE ARE advantages to this form of recreation. A person can be by himself for a period and get away from the nerve-wearily cocoon of the market place. It is inexpensive. It affords opportunity to think thoughts that do not come when one is mixed in a group of his peers.

Find a quiet woodland and search until you find a stump that is comfortable. Sit for a quarter hour and soon the sounds of woodland life will begin. Appreciate the satisfying, heady fragrance of primal humus. An ovenbird may call "Teacher-Teacher-Teacher." A woodpecker may start riving nearby. Perhaps a mother partridge will lead a brood of beady eyed chicks among the aisles of trees.

STUMP SITTING is not a spectacular form of recreation. It is a way to escape the elbow-rubbing of man's competitive society. Alone in a serene woodland where Nature's peace prevails, a man can catch up with himself and glimpse an ordered way of life that is in tune with the deep meanings.

Plan program for Fuerstenu

DeWITT — A June 5 program is being planned to honor C.H. Fuerstenu, superintendent of DeWitt Public Schools, who will retire at the end of the current academic year.

The program and open house will start at 2 p.m. at the junior high school building. Tribute to the retiring school chief will begin at 3 p.m.

Postmaster Art Newman is chairman for the program, and board of education President Herbert Hardke will be master of ceremonies. Efforts are being made to invite former students and associates of Fuerstenu.

He came to DeWitt as a teacher in 1925 and has served as superintendent since 1928.

protect their sales position. Standard weights for various size packages appear to be in order.

The "Low Down" From the Congressional Record

By Joe Crump

Pig-in-a-poke packaging

Rep Edward R. Roybal (Calif.) "... I would like to cite a recent editorial commentary by Mr Alan Harvey of Los Angeles radio station KPOL on the status of the truth-in-packaging consumer protection legislation now pending in Congress." (The condensed editorial follows):

There it sits, still bottled up in the Senate Commerce Committee, just a single vote shy of approval and movement to the floor for full Senate consideration.

IT'S FORMALLY called Senate bill 985—the fair packaging and labeling bill—and with it ride the insecure hopes of the U. S. buying public for a better break in the turmoil of the commercial marketplace.

The measure is a controversial one. It might be said that only the people are for it. Civic groups and trade unions with a total membership of 42 million have endorsed it.

Ranged against the prospective law—sponsored by Michigan Democrat Philip Hart—are such big guns as the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, the National Association of Manufacturers, and the Grocery Manufacturers of America.

THERE ARE VARIOUS ways to raise a price, some devised so that the poor consumer doesn't even know he's been had. Plenty.

For instance, the price of a 25-cent bag of potato chips stays the same but the quantity contained drops from 3 3/4 ounces to 3 1/4 ounces. Does that half-ounce reduction make much difference? The price goes up a cent an ounce—16 cents a pound.

A seemingly more deliberate attempt to totally confuse the shopper can be seen in the new packaging approach by one of the major national bakeries with a complete line of cookies and crackers. The standard package sizes for the type of dinner cracker affected is normally a half pound, the three quarter pound "stack pack" and the full pound package. Now that comparatively simple roster of sizes has been completely scuttled.

THE NEW package size is—figure this one out—13 3/4 ounces. Bring along your IBM computer to the neighborhood market so that you can determine whether—at its posted price—the new package represents the best dollar buy or not.

Another area of flagrantly inspired confusion is the famous cents-off mark on the label. For example, 6 cents off what? Presumably the former price. But, how can you tell you're really paying a lower price?

If you think that—as a shopper—you're entitled to know what you're buying without becoming a slide rule expert, then make those feelings known to your ected representatives in Washington.

OF COURSE, truth in packaging won't keep prices down. It can and must keep you adequately informed about what you pay.

The time to get weights and prices clear is now. Until that happens every day the confusion is compounded, and money that's wasted is yours.

A GRASSROOTS COMMENT

The transition of bulk sales of groceries from pounds, half-pounds, and quarter pounds to various size packages has encouraged some shifty merchandising practices.

Undoubtly, many manufacturers to meet this tricky competition have had to follow suit to
