Both political parties show little interest in conventions

Only 14 Democrats have filed for 111 positions as precinct delegates to the Clinton County Democratic Convention.

Republicans, meanwhile, have only 36 candidates for 102 positions at their party's county convention.

At each party's county convention, precinct delegates select delegates to attend the state convention where delegates to the 1972 national conventions will be chosen.

Election of precinct delegates will be Aug. 4.

In neither party is there any competition and only the Republicans—in five of 29 precincts—have the maximum number of candidates. Democrats have 26 precincts.

Delegates may still be elected through write-in votes. A minimum of three votes is necessary for election.

Here are the candidates who have filed with number of delegates allowed in parenthesis:

SEN. LOCKWOOD

Lockwood makes it official

He's running for Hare's job

State Sen. Eril Lockwood, R-St. Louis, has announced he will seek his party's nomination for the office of secretary of state.

Lockwood for several weeks has made no secret of his intention to seek the post.

He has represented the 30th Senatorial District, which includes all of Clinton County, for the last eight years and is presently Senate Majority Leader.

So far only one candidate has come forth to seek his seat—State Rep. William S. Ballenger, R-Ovid, who announced about a month ago.

Lockwood kicked off his campaign at a breakfast Monday at Detroit's Cobo Hall. An estimated 300 civic, business and political leaders attended.

"My record shows unmistakably that I can win not only the

Hydrants will be flushed

St. Johns' 214 fire hydrants will be flushed of iron and other deposits beginning next week, announced the city water department.

Stanley R. Toburen, superintendent, says the process will take five days and will begin Monday, June 8.

He says the main purpose of the project, in addition to flushing, is to check that all hydrants are in good working order.

All work will be done at night, beginning at 11 p.m. until 6 a.m.

The city has been broken into five sections for the project. Here is the schedule:

MONDAY, June 8—All hydrants north of the Grand Trunk Railroad.

TUESDAY, June 9—East of Whittemore and South of the Grand Trunk Railroad.

WEDNESDAY, June 10—East of Oakland, south of the railroad and west of Whittemore.

THURSDAY, June 11—East of Lansing Street, west of Oakland and south of the railroad.

FRIDAY, June 12—West of Lansing Street and south of the railroad.

Committee work

Josephine Ballenger named with all deliberate speed

State Rep. William S. Ballenger can point to at least one committee he's served on that got something done.

The committee, though unofficial but in the best political tradition, was composed of Ballenger and his wife, Bunny.

Their purpose: To name Josephine.

Which they did a week ago Tuesday proving that even committees can move with all deliberate speed, since Josephine was born a week ago Monday (May 25).

"We had a boy's name picked out," said Ballenger, "but forgot the possibility of our having a girl."

Josephine was born at Owosso Memorial Hospital at about 12:40 p.m. and at last report mother, who is the former Virginia Lee "Bunny" Woodard of Owosso, and child were doing fine.

And Ballenger was reported doing "as well as possible under the circumstances."

The Ballengers live at 8450 Hibbard Rd., Ovid.

He currently represents the 87th House District but recently announced his candidacy for the State Senate in the 30th District.

Among 16 contenders

Clinton school board candidates sure know about kids--75 of 'em

Any politician facing the microscopic scrutiny of voters in an election campaign knows that experience is certainly a plus factor.

School board elections in Clinton County's six districts have certainly drawn a field of knowledgeable candidates in the area of school children and their education.

They have 75 children of their own—38 girls and 37 boys.

Leading all candidates with eight children apiece are Willard J. Reed, an unopposed incumbent in Dewitt, Paul E. Stoll of Bath and Benard Black of Bath.

Reed has five boys and three girls, while Stoll and Black have four of each.

Close seconds with seven children each are incumbent Carl W. Kramer of the Pewamo-Westphalia district and Marvin Simon of Fowler. Kramer has seven daughters and Simon is at the other extreme with seven boys.

William Richards Jr., St. Johns, is the only candidate with six children, three boys and three girls, while Mrs. Winifred McKean is the only one with five, two boys and three girls. Mrs. McKean is running for the school board in Fowler.

Two candidates have four children each, and both are running in the St. Johns district. Harvey French is evenly divided with two boys and two girls, while Donald C. Haske has three girls and one boy.

Candidates with three children are Bruce L. Irish Sr., in St. Johns, David J. Hill of the Ovid-Elsie district, Ronald Schafer of Pewamo-Westphalia and incumbent Cleo Friend of Bath. Schafer has three girls, Irish has two girls and one boy, while both Friend and Hill have two boys and one girl.

Wendell Waggoner of St. Johns and Gordon Brown of Dewitt have two boys each and Mrs. Shirley Hazle of St. Johns has two daughters.

Millage is the same

Millage allocated to Clinton County's governmental units will be the same next year as last.

The county Allocation Board ruled that the schools will receive eight mills, the county 5.85 mills, townships one mill and the intermediate school district .15.

Campbell warns county that topsoil in danger

By NORRIS R. McDOWELL

Hold on to your topsoil, 'cause if you don't you may be sorry, says Lloyd Campbell, district conservationist.

Campbell pointed out that topsoil in the county is being washed away at an ever-increasing rate due to rising development of land.

"It may be a fact that under Michigan law the person found responsible for running off topsoil can be prosecuted," he said. The soil eventually ends up in a river or culvert, a contribution to what Campbell calls the number one pollutant in the country, siltation (mud).

His remedy for this type of man-made erosion is a plant called crownvetch.

He explained that crownvetch, through its extensive root structure and nitrogen-absorbing abilities, succeeds in holding the soil in place.

Crownvetch is new to Michigan, with the first commercial stand located on the farm of Robert Moore. (Moore is district director of soil conservation and a member of the state soil conservation committee).

Moore is prepared to sell the plant or seed to individual farmers or to governmental units, Campbell said. It will be sold for $35 per pound and will be available soon.

"I'd like to see the conservation department buy some," he said, for cuts in state park.

He also recommended that the county road commissions use it. "There is a problem finding vegetation which will survive on the highways throughout the winters, when the salt is used heavily," he said. Crownvetch is also superior to grass which requires fertileffective at any location where the soil is too poor to grow grass. The plant grows to 12 - 14 inches, has a pink blossom all summer and is leafy, Campbell said. He pointed out that individuals who allow topsoil to "slide" now will probably end up paying a drain bill amounting to much more than the cost of preventive maintenance, namely crownvetch.

Campbell cited the Muskegon watershed, north of Marlette, Ohio, as proof of the powers of crownvetch and other conservation practices. "They've used crownvetch, along with other conservation measures, and the waters there are crystal-clear. We could have the same situation here if enough people got interested and used conservation tools now known," he said. While the plant can be grown in any soil, it can grow seed only on a poor, sandy soil, Campbell explained. "We combed this area pretty fine to find three sites where soil conditions are ok," he said. The three areas where crownvetch is now planted are on the land of Moore, Ray Warner and Joe Kurka.

Speaking again of the drainage to topsoil, Campbell warned: "It's easier to save it now than to dig it out later."

The following advice, which appeared in this year's annual report of the Clinton County Soil Conservation District, is offered to those who may want to plant crownvetch. Where possible shape the bank to 1 1/2:1 to 2:1 slope before seeding.

Seed at 4 to ten pounds per acre. Rates over this are wasteful of seed. If soil is extremely erosive, add 15 to 20 pounds of Tall Fescue seed per acre for sediment control while crownvetch is getting established.

Avoid the use of "2-4-D" sprays and do not mow more than twice a year.

Service

Service to older workers is an important part of the work of the Federal-State employment security system. During the past two years, 2.3 million workers aged 45 or older were placed in jobs. Of these, more than 135,000 were 65 or more.

PRIZE WINNING MONEY

A deal to believe in.
From a dealer to believe in.

If it takes value to make you believe in a car, believe in the new Buick Skylark. Every Buick is crafted with integrity. And filled with value.

You get things like a cooling system that should never overheat, even with air conditioning. You get an automobile so well built that its drive train and chassis are literally tuned to the bias-belted tires that are standard equipment. So that they'll last even longer and provide even greater traction.

One other point. Value also has to do with the man who sells and services the car you buy. Good service can help you maintain the value of your new car.

Check the good deals your Buick dealer is offering right now on the Buick of your choice. If you're looking for something to believe in, you'll find it there.

After all, wouldn't you really rather have a Buick?

Clinton women prepare for MSU College Week

College Week for Women, 1970, is fast approaching, say Helen Mench and Lorraine Sprague, Extension Home Economists serving Clinton, Gratiot and Shiawassee Counties, Michigan State University offers its facilities June 16-19 for this annual event when nearly 1000 homemakers become campus coeds.

As participants in College Week, homemakers will attend classes, assemblies, join tours and enjoy receptions and/or Michigan State University theatre production. Old friends of former College Weeks will have reunions and new friends are to be made.

Hubbard Hall becomes home for delegates attending the full conference. Women wishing to attend one day may secure meals there.

Following the 1970 theme of "Michigan Women Who Care" special afternoon sessions will present Dr. Cynthia Wedel, president of the National Council of Churches, Mrs. Clifford Hardin, wife of the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture, prominent ecologists and a group of Michigan women who became involved in a variety of successful community volunteer projects.

Class topics range from textiles design, landscaping and food shopping skills to society's demands on women, leadership skills and use and abuse of drugs and alcohol. Women may select two classes meeting three times each for in-depth study.

Registration, housing and meals for the four day "week" is $37. However, commuters can register for $7 for just the program. Meals may be purchased at Hubbard Hall, Thursday, designated as "visitors' day" is planned for women who can't attend the entire week. Registration for them is $4.

Though pre-registration is not necessary, say Mrs. Mench and Miss Sprague, it does help insure attendance of the classes of your choice. Pre-registration forms and more details regarding College Week are available from your Cooperative Extension offices in St. Johns, Corunna and Ithaca.

Little tykes have a fun-day

This little lad decided to give up singing and foot racing to do a little exploring on his own. Try as he may, he just couldn't get the St. Johns park bell to ring.

Wednesday was a fun-day for children of the Jack and Jill Nursery who gathered at St. Johns park for a picnic, winding up a year of new experiences and new friends.

Mrs. Robert LaBrie and Mrs. James Stiffler, nursery school teachers, led the gathering of little people, mostly four and five-year-olds, in an impromptu hootenanny. With the help of teacher aids, Mrs. John Glowacki and Mrs. Hugh Wallace, the women organized a foot race for girls and boys complete with ribbons as prizes.

Most of the mothers came along to watch the games and enjoy their picnic lunch.

The nursery began five years ago with an enrollment of 30 children. Since then participation has doubled to 60 children enrolled in four classes.

Each class met twice each week to learn about art, music, listen to stories and play games with children the same age.

The group will again gather next year in facilities donated by the Methodist Church in St. Johns.

Music awards given

Four Rodney B. Wilson junior high school girls received awards in music Friday at an assembly in the auditorium.

Denise Maier received the Freshman Award, music scholarship, honors band award and the all star band award.

Sharon Barnes, Sandy Munger and Mary Placer all received awards for music scholarship, honors band, and all star band.

Receiving honor roll awards for superior achievement were: Marla Signs and Denise Maier, ninth grade; Todra Haske and Janet Davis, eighth grade; and Renae Dittmer and Chris Signs, seventh grade.

The program was concluded with a short concert by the junior high school choir conducted by Aigle Watkins, music director.

Safety act

The federal government under the Highway Safety Act of 1966 developed national standards for state and local highway safety programs. The standard dealing with alcohol in relation to highway safety sets the presumptive level of intoxication at a 0.10 per cent blood-alcohol concentration. A presumptive level of 0.15 is still kept by 24 states. Three other states have no presumptive level of intoxication.

LUTHER JOHNSON Johnson a candidate for degree

Luther Johnson, a senior at St. Johns High School, is a candidate for a degree this month. His name was inadvertently omitted from a list of seniors published recently in The News.

The JV team was just as brilliant in taking the JV crown handing the Charlotte JV squad a 191-192 defeat.

Dave Gaffney led the scoring with a 36, followed by Chuck Green with 40, and Dan Schueller and John Estes with 49's.

Charlotte's best scorer was John Bartolacci with 59, trailed by Clark Ballard at 41, Tom Rann with 44 and Tom Whitley at 45.

Coach Mike Humphrey had mixed emotions about the final match, since it would be the last one for four of his seniors. He indicated that next year John Estes, Greg Lounds, Brian Carpenter and Ken Schueller would come out and get the job done.

Earlier last week, St. Johns tied for fifth place in the state Class B golf finals at Riverwood Country Club at Mt. Pleasant. The tournament, played in a pouring rain, went to Lansing O'Rafferty and Detroit Catholic Central.

Scoring for St. Johns were Chuck Green, 84, John Estes, 87, Dan Schueller, 87, and Dave Gaffney, 88. They missed trying for fourth place by one stroke.

Ovid-Elsie 3rd in race for All Sports Trophy

Ovid-Elsie's Marauders edged out Corunna to finish third in the Mid-Michigan B all sports competition with 44 points.

The Bullock Creek Lancers won the 1969-70 All Sports Trophy with 53 points, just squeaking past St. Louis by one point.

Trailing Ovid-Elsie, Corunna managed 43 points while Ithaca tallied 34 and Chesaning had 24.

The Marauders scored 12 points in the competition by taking the MMB baseball crown with an 8-2 record edging Bullock Creek by one full game.

Ovid-Elsie gained 20 more points by placing second in both basketball and wrestling, playing the bridesmaid to the St. Louis cagers and the Bullock Creek matmen.

In track, Ovid-Elsie came in fourth, good for six points losing to first-place Bullock Creek, St. Louis and Corunna.

The Marauders placed fifth in the cross country competition gaining only two points. Bullock Creek scored first, followed by St. Louis, Chesaning, and Ithaca.

Bullock Creek and Ovid-Elsie tied for the cellar spot in football with 1-4 records which gave them only three points. Corunna's 5-0 record was tops, with Chesaning, St. Louis and Ithaca trailing.

Only one point could be squeezed out of the last place finish in golf, racking up 370 conference meet points. Ithaca topped the league with 330 points, St. Louis at 348, Corunna at 354, Chesaning at 360 and Bullock Creek had 367.

In the major high school sports of football, wrestling, basketball, track and baseball, the top team receives 12 all sports points. Second place gets 10, while third gets 8, fourth receives 6, fifth is worth 4 and last place gets 2.

In the minor sports of cross country and golf, the scoring goes six for first, five for second and so on. In case of ties in any event, both teams receive one less point than normal for that spot in the standings.

Davis, French take top honors at track fete

By RON KARLE
Editor

Nearly 300 parents, friends and athletes paid tribute to the St. Johns High School track team last week at a banquet.

Twenty varsity letters were awarded with seniors receiving eight and Juniors and sophomores receiving six apiece.

Top honors went to senior Roger Davis who was named most valuable member of the team and junior Bill French who was voted the 101 per cent award.

Davis, who participated in the pole vault, the high jump and the high hurdles, set a school record in the vault this year when he hit 11-feet-9. He broke the previous record of 11-feet-8 set in 1961 by Larry Serrell and tied in 1961 by Linden Lade assistant track coach.

Davis was the team's second-leading point getter with 118 1/4 on the season—3/4 of a point shy of the leader, Dave Flermoen who had 119.

French, who ran the half-mile and was on the mile relay team, was the team's third leading scorer with 92 points.

Other leading point-getters were: Gary Moon 72, Rick Flegel 57, Fred Root 40, Dave Oatley 31, Tom Bentley 25, Ed SanMiguel 23, Scott Wing 22, Doug King 22, Dan McKenzie 19 1/2, Steve Mead 18, Al Rappuhn 17, Pete Motz 17, and Jim Adamski 15.

Senior letter winners were Davis, Moon, Motz, Rappuhn, Adamski, John Pier son, Tom Hungerford and Rich Jones.

Junior letter winners were Flegel, Flermoen, French, Root, Oatley and Mead.

The Redwings won three dual meets and lost five on the season. They finished fifth in competition with 18 schools at the regional track meet and qualified two individuals—Flermoen and Flegel—in three events for the state meet.

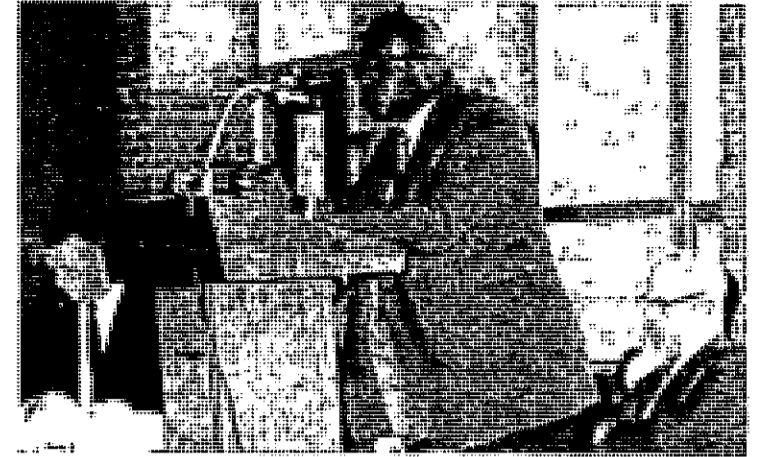

At the Conference track meet, the team placed sixth among eight schools.

In addition to competing in eight duals plus the regional and conference meets, St. Johns participated in the Ferris State College Invitational and five relays.

In addition to the new mark set by Davis in the pole vault, two other school records were broken.

Flegel's time of 10:09.2 in the two-mile run broke the previous mark of 10:23.2 set in 1969 by French.

In the 800, French set a new time of 2:00.6 breaking Dave DeGeer's record of 2:01.2 set in 1964.

Jim Bibbs, assistant track coach at Michigan State University was the main speaker at St. Johns High School track banquet last week. To the left is the Redwings' head track coach, Jeff Smith and on the right is Supt. Earl Lancaster.

The St. Johns tennis team ended the season Thursday on an unhappy note by losing to Charlotte, 3-2.

Little League tryouts set for tonight, Friday

The season hasn't even begun yet, but already the St. Johns Little League has been rained out.

Tryouts had been set for Monday but then the rains came cancelling the event.

Tonight's tryouts for the league's 10 teams are still on, however, if weather permits.

Tryouts are also scheduled for Friday night when the draft will be held.

Boys who will be nine before Aug. 1 and will not turn 13 before that date are eligible to play Little League ball.

Tryouts both nights are set for 6:30 at the Little League field located at U.S. 27 and Townsend Road, south of St. Johns.

Boys who played on a team last year will remain with that team.

The season begins June 15 and each team will play 15 games before the league tournament.

Clinton County school board candidates

EDITOR'S NOTE—Candidates are pictured if their photos were available or if they were. We regret that photos could not be obtained for all candidates.

St. Johns

HARVEY FRENCH

Harvey French, 38, 3384 N. U.S. 27, St. Johns, indicates that it's time for a change on the St. Johns school board. "We need a change on this school board, ideas as well as personnel," French said. He said that there was an "old clique" within the school system and "with the situation changing in education we need to look at both sides of the issues on taxes and the schools." French and his wife Marlene have four children in the school system. They are Gary, 17, James, 13, Julie, 10 and Sheri, 6. French, former member of the Lansing Industrial Executive Club, is a production foreman with Federal Mogul.

"I also think it would be good to have a woman on the board," she added.

Mrs. Hazle is active in several community organizations. "I am active in many phases of youth work and school affairs," she said.

She is co-chairman of the Junior Activities Committee of the Michigan Holstein Association and publicity chairman of the Clinton branch of the group.

She has been a 4-H leader for 14 years and has served on their planning commission.

Mrs. Hazle is a member of the curriculum study committee for the St. Johns schools system and served on the public information committee for school consolidation. She also served as chairman of several committees for the St. Johns Band Boosters Club.

She labels herself a housewife, but has worked with her husband for the Dairy Herd Improvement Association for 13 years.

The Hazles have two daughters, Dana, Sue, 18 and Kathy, 16.

BRUCE L. IRISH SR.

Bruce L. Irish Sr., 35, indicates that he thinks the St. Johns schools should educate the children with the money allotted to them.

"Education of the children should be the main thought of the administrators," Irish said. "The taxpayers should be told where the money is going."

Irish said that he is opposed to "bussing the children all over the district." He indicated he thought the original plan was to build schools throughout the district to avoid the bussing problem.

"They should have built the schools in St. Johns if bussing is necessary," he said.

A lifelong resident of Clinton County, Irish is a member of the Price United Methodist Church and active on several of their committees.

He and his wife Gladys are serving on the County Citizenship Committee and are active in the 4-H program.

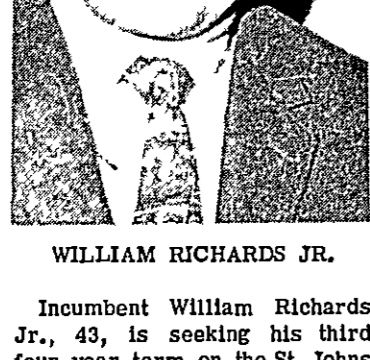

Irish has three children, two still at home. They are Mrs. Judy Matice, Bruce Jr., 15, and Annette, 11. The family resides at 4049 E. Taft Road.

"I have a real interest in this school system," he said. "I want to find out about the inner-workings of the school board."

"I had thought about it before," he said indicating that friends asked him to run for the position early in the year.

The Haskes have four children, Kim, 14, Todra, 13, Keith, 12 and Dana, 10.

Haske is a member of the Michigan State Engineering Society and former secretary of the Saginaw Valley chapter of the society. He has been a member of the local Rotary Club.

WILLIAM RICHARDS JR.

Incumbent William Richards Jr., 43, is seeking his third four-year term on the St. Johns school board.

Richards, who represented the local board in committees with the State Association of School Boards on improving communications between the two groups, labels himself a liberal.

"I believe I'm on the liberal side of issues which lends a balance to the board," he said.

He said that he would like to see a more "effective use of the school buildings and facilities for the whole community."

Richards and his wife Jennie, who reside at 302 Lindy Lane, have six children. They are Polly, 18, Lynn, 16, Chris, 14, Jill, 12, Jay, 7 and Jeff, 5.

Richards is a former member of the St. Johns Rotary Club and Jaycees and is an active member in the Congregational Church. He also was a member of the negotiating team for the Michigan Association for School Negotiations.

"We are doing some very interesting work with curriculum," he said. "I think we should get into some of these new programs, and keep working to improve them."

He said that being effective on the school board "takes about a term to find out what is going on."

Richards is employed by Select Mobile Homes in Owosso.

WENDELL WAGGONER

Incumbent Wendell Waggoner, 47, R-3, St. Johns, is seeking his second four-year term on the St. Johns school board.

"I believe in the three R's," he said, commenting on current school problems. "I think we can go overboard too much on frills."

Waggoner, manager of Randolph's Excavating in St. Johns, cited the technique of television teaching as one of the "frills."

"I don't think we have to get into that now," he said.

He indicated that he favors the new English program, stressing reading skills. He said that he would rather spend more money on children in early stages of education rather than at higher levels, although he agreed that both areas need improvement.

Waggoner, his wife Donna Jean and their two boys, Ron, 18 and Russell, 14 are members of the Eureka Congregational Church.

Waggoner is vice president of the Clinton County Intermediate School Board and a charter member of the VFW Post 4113, St. Johns.

He and his wife Eileen, have eight children. They are Mrs. Ted (Eugenia) Custick of Jackson, Mrs. Don (Rita) Davis of Jackson, Mrs. James (Sylvia) Boulas of Lansing, Thomas, 26, David, 21, Gerard, 18, Paul, 15 and Mary, 14.

He is active in the Knights of Columbus and the Elks. He also served on the Committee on Petroleum at Western Michigan University.

The family attends St. Mary's Cathedral in Lansing and resides at 13821 Hamersley, Bath.

Gordon Brown, 33, 12583 Rodic Don, DeWitt, remains unopposed for the vacant seat on the DeWitt school board.

He said that he has only been in the district several years, but has "become quite interested in the schools in this district."

"I like the district and there is not much wrong here that I can see," he said. "I just want to get involved."

Brown, suggestion investigator at Oldsmobile in Lansing, is president of the DeWitt Recreation Association. He indicated that he has been involved in managing little league teams.

He and his wife Carolyn have two children, Alan, 14, and Richard, 7.

Black, in the accounting division at the Michigan State University food stores, is a member of the Farm Bureau and is on the parish education board at the Emmanuel First Lutheran Church.

"I have no ulterior motive in running for the board," he said. "I feel that people have an obligation to serve the community."

"I'm not all out for sports," he said. "I like to see academic achievement so that the bright youngsters are not neglected."

He indicated that the present programs are "good programs. They have done very well."

Black and his wife Irmgard have eight children. They are Mary, 23, Sharon, 21, Kenneth, 20, Don, 18, Susan, 16, James, 15, Steve, 9 and Diane, 6. The four older children are attending Michigan State University.

Incumbent Cleo Friend, 47, 13764 Main, Bath, is seeking a second full term on the Bath school board.

"I feel that it is a person's obligation to the community to be interested in the schools," he said. "This is quite a complex business."

Friend, his wife Florence and children Roger, 24, Judy, 20 and Cleo, 18, attend the Bath Baptist Church, where he serves on the Deacon's Board, Trustee's Board and the Deacon Committee.

"I have an interest in the sports programs, but more important, I want to see the betterment of the education process for children," he said.

"My knowledge of construction allowed me to help in the construction plans of the new elementary schools," he said.

"Through this knowledge, I believe that I've saved the taxpayers about $75,000."

"All of these programs are challenging," he said, "especially the millage situations."

He and his wife Eileen, have eight children. They are Mrs. Ted (Eugenia) Custick of Jackson, Mrs. Don (Rita) Davis of Jackson, Mrs. James (Sylvia) Boulas of Lansing, Thomas, 26, David, 21, Gerard, 18, Paul, 15 and Mary, 14.

He is active in the Knights of Columbus and the Elks. He also served on the Committee on Petroleum at Western Michigan University.

The family attends St. Mary's Cathedral in Lansing and resides at 13821 Hamersley, Bath.

Gordon Brown, 33, 12583 Rodic Don, DeWitt, remains unopposed for the vacant seat on the DeWitt school board.

He said that he has only been in the district several years, but has "become quite interested in the schools in this district."

"I like the district and there is not much wrong here that I can see," he said. "I just want to get involved."

Brown, suggestion investigator at Oldsmobile in Lansing, is president of the DeWitt Recreation Association. He indicated that he has been involved in managing little league teams.

He and his wife Carolyn have two children, Alan, 14, and Richard, 7.

Black, in the accounting division at the Michigan State University food stores, is a member of the Farm Bureau and is on the parish education board at the Emmanuel First Lutheran Church.

"I have no ulterior motive in running for the board," he said. "I feel that people have an obligation to serve the community."

"I'm not all out for sports," he said. "I like to see academic achievement so that the bright youngsters are not neglected."

He indicated that the present programs are "good programs. They have done very well."

Black and his wife Irmgard have eight children. They are Mary, 23, Sharon, 21, Kenneth, 20, Don, 18, Susan, 16, James, 15, Steve, 9 and Diane, 6. The four older children are attending Michigan State University.

Incumbent Willard J. Reed, 40, DeWitt school board president, is unopposed for re-election, seeking a second term.

"I feel that there is a need for someone to do the work and get things done," he said. "The schools really need people who will work."

Reed, owner of Reed's Insurance Agency, pointed to the fact that only Gordon Brown and himself filed for the two DeWitt school board seats. He indicated that people just were not interested in becoming active in their schools.

"I may not have run this time had there been a number of others interested in the board," he said.

He is a former master of the cub scouts, boy scouts and explorer scouts and is a member of the Lions Club. He said that he is president of the DeWitt volunteer fire group.

Professionally, Reed is a member of the Lansing Life Underwriters Association and the Michigan Mutual Agents Association. He is also on the church board for the DeWitt Catholic Mission Church.

He and his wife Joyce have eight children at home, which is 11377 E. River Road, DeWitt. The children are Jim, 19, David, 17, Edmond, 16, Thomas, 14, Anna, 11, Joseph, 9, Coleen, 8, and Carol, 5.

Incumbent Ronald Schaffer, 40, R-1, Mulr, is unopposed in seeking his first full term, although he has filled in two years on a board seat vacated in 1968.

"I am interested in better schools for our community," he said explaining why he is running.

"I want the whole area represented on the school board," he added.

Schaffer, a farmer in the district, is a member of the Farm Bureau, Knights of Columbus and attends St. Johns Parish in Hubbardston.

He and his wife Margaret have three children, Karen, 13, Carol, 10 and Nancy, 7.

Incumbent Carl W. Kramer, 50, present school board president at Pewamo-Westphalia schools is unopposed in his re-election bid.

Kramer said he is a farmer in the district, but also works for the Michigan State Department of Administration.

"I enjoy it," he said discussing his reasons for seeking a new term.

"I would like my children to get a good education by trying to have a good school system," he said.

He indicated disappointment that the Pewamo-Westphalia "race" was labeled a no-contest district, adding that as long as "someone had to do it" he was glad to give his time in the interest of the community.

Hankey shoots an ace

DOUG HANKEY

The second hole-in-one of the season was scored at Clinton County Country Club last Thursday when Doug Hankey carded the ace on number seven hole.

Hankey's shot came one week after Gene Schoendorf scored the season's first hole-in-one playing in the Thursday five o'clock league May 21.

The second ace was scored while Hankey was playing with Red Devereaux. He used a nine iron on the par three hole and ended the round with a 36.

Hankey and Schoendorf are the only two who have scored holes-in-one this year, but other Clinton golfers have accomplished the feat in recent seasons. Jeff Geller and Dr. Beach each collected one in 1969.

Girl Scout NEWS

Girl Scout Junior Troop 22 from Central School visited the Detroit Zoo on Sunday, May 24. The girls and their families met at the zoo and had a picnic lunch. They rode the train across the park to the North African Station and spent the afternoon walking back and enjoying the many animals.

Springtime and the ending of a school year finds many Girl Scouts all over the world being introduced to an advanced level of scouting. In the jargon of the young scouts, this is referred to as "flying-up" or "bridging." The purpose of this activity is to introduce the girls to the members of the troop they will be joining and to assure them that there will be a place for them in scouting in the fall.

One of the many "fly-ups" held this past week in the St. Johns area was a candlelight ceremony at the Congregational Church on May 27. Fourteen third grade Brownies from Troop 577 at Central, along with their leader, Mrs. Richard Wagar, received their wings. Each Brownie was welcomed by a member of the sister Junior Troop 22 as they formed a horse shoe for the remainder of the ceremony.

The program was completed by the sixth grade scouts, who are bridging into Mrs. Doyle Bancroft's Cadette Troop 429. They taught songs and games suitable for around the campfire.

The girls will start learning new outdoor skills in preparation for their first three day camping experience planned for September. Even though the weekly meetings will not continue through the summer, many activities have been planned, such as marching in the parades, continuing "on-going" intertroop meetings with a Lansing troop, a Brownie playday, and Day Camp in June.

The troop members who have been in Juniors during the recent school year are making plans to tent-camp under primitive conditions at Hunter Lake near Greenville. This will be a four day camp-out in July under the guidance of their leader, Mrs. Gene Hinton.

All ideal troops consist of girls from more than one grade and are referred to as an "open end" troop. When the older girls advance to a higher level, a younger group takes their place. In this way, a troop may continue indefinitely. Quite often, the leader will advance with the

Open Letter from VAN W. HOAG

Dear Friends,
When the bereaved family first meets the funeral director, probably at the funeral home, they may question whether he truly feels their sorrow. His businesslike actions at times may appear cold, yet his profession, like that of the doctor, requires that he be reserved for the good of those he serves.

The grief of a family that has just lost a loved one is very poignant, and a funeral director is affected by it, as is any other sensitive human being.

Respectfully,

Van W. Hoag

That glass of milk - there's more to it than you realize

That glass of milk that sits next to your plate at mealtime could be likened to an iceberg—and not simply because both are cold.

The similarity is that just as there is much, much more to an iceberg than what can be seen above the surface, there is much, much more involved in that glass of milk than what meets the eye.

In fact, chances are that most people never would guess how much complicated organizational and financial machinery there is involved in getting the milk from the farm to the consumer's table.

Around this complex business has evolved a special language. Terms such as "pool," "blend," "utilization" and "classification" have their own unique meanings when it comes to milk marketing.

The dairy industry is big business in Michigan. In fact, Michigan ranks seventh among the 50 states in the production of milk. Dairy farming itself contributes more than 25 per cent to the state's $1 billion a year agricultural industry.

In Michigan, agriculture ranks only behind the automobile and tourism industries in size.

In Michigan, most dairy farmers sell their milk to dairies and other milk processors through cooperatives which they themselves own.

There are a number of such cooperatives in the state and some of these also bottle and distribute their members' milk.

Largest dairy farmer cooperative in Michigan and one of the largest in the country is the Michigan Milk Producers Association, whose approximately 6,800 members produced about 2.5 billion pounds of the state's total production of 4.6 billion pounds last year.

Producing milk and selling it to dairies and other milk processors through cooperative organizations appear simple enough. But the problems are complex.

When it moves from the farm to the dairy, milk is carried in vehicles of various sizes, ranging from straight trucks with an 1,800 to 2,000 gallon capacity to big "semi" rigs holding up to 8,000 gallons and to monstrous milk "trains" (two large tank trailers behind one tractor) holding 12,000 gallons or more.

Although it didn't used to be this way, the truck that picks up the milk milks away at the farm usually brings it directly to the dairy. For the longer hauls, milk from smaller farm pick-up trucks in pumped into larger tank transports or two tanks are hitched together in "train" fashion.

The largest of these holds enough to supply an average family of four with milk and other dairy products for 50 years.

The tanks in which milk is carried are so thoroughly insulated that they do not require refrigeration to keep the milk cold, not even on blistering summer days.

Although it is not an expressway, M 53 still ranks as the state's major milk pipeline. The route cuts through the middle of Michigan's thumb where the state's top three milk producing counties, Sanilac, Huron and LaPeer, are located. I 94, which crosses the state and extends north and east to Port Huron, is another major milk highway, as are M 24 (in the Thumb area), M 23 (the western border of the Thumb), I 96 (Muskegon, Grand Rapids, Lansing and Detroit) and I 75 (Bay City, Flint, and Detroit).

Hard to make profit growing pears here

It is becoming increasingly difficult to make money raising pears in Michigan, reports a Michigan State University agricultural economist.

"Pear growers, like other fruit growers, face increasing costs—particularly for labor—which can only be partially offset by more efficient machinery," says Dr. Steve Harsh.

Moreover, greater competition from other pear producing areas has significantly reduced prices received by Michigan growers.

An in-depth study of the problem can be found in "Economics of Pear Production in Western Michigan," a 30-page publication available from the Department of Agricultural Economics, Michigan State University, East Lansing 48823. In writing, request report number 124.

pected to average near the lowest prices received in recent years (about $70 per ton), many growers may find it advantageous to reduce or discontinue pear production, Dr. Harsh says.

Other growers may improve their profit pictures by expanding markets, growing larger fruit or increasing yields per acre.

Pears contribute a total value of $1.5 to $3 million annually to Michigan growers.

Pears contribute a total value of $1.5 to $3 million annually to Michigan growers.

4-H members are reminded that if they are interested in attending camp this summer they are urged to send in their application as soon as possible for the week they wish to attend. Application forms and information are available from their leaders or from the Extension Office. Reservations have been confirmed by the camp for the following members: Melody and Dawn Vining of St. Johns for the week of June 29-July 3; Stacy Schoendorf and Annette Zuck-schwerdt of Elsie for July 13-17; and Debora and Carla Pokorny of Elsie for July 27-31. Youth do not have to be in 4-H to attend this camp. A note from the camp office says that none of the eight weeks are full yet so a youth has a choice of any of the different weeks beginning June 29 and ending Aug. 21.

'Bread' means bread to 4-H'ers, daddy-o

It seems there is even a gap in the young generation. To some teenagers "bread" means "money"—but to another group of youngsters bread means just that.

It seems savory home-baked loaves and hot rolls made from a yeast dough, set to rise in the warmth of the kitchen, and baked to a golden brown. It means a treat for mom, dad, and the kids.

Among the group who says, "bread is bread" is a half-million 4-H members whose bag is baking bread. In the process they experiment with pizzas, rolls and coffee cakes. In order to learn the necessary baking skills, they join a 4-H group where individual projects are set up as part of the national 4-H bread program.

And this kind of bread pays off, too, in cash, companionship and demonstrations. What's more, it is generously supported by one of the nation's leading business firms, Standard Brands Incorporated.

The cash is in the form of annual scholarships of $600 each presented to the six best teenage bakers. Companionship is enjoyed on an award trip to Chicago and the National 4-H Congress with the top girls and boys from each state.

Demonstrations are given at various 4-H events on how to bake a batch of rolls, mix the bread batter, or explain nutritional value of bread products.

Medals also are very much a part of the scene. About 6,000 honor awards are expected to be handed out this year to deserving 4-H'ers as county awards. Besides all that, a lot of teens achieve popularity sharing their home baked goodies by gifting shut-ins, friends, and the needy with holiday baskets of fresh breads and cakes.

"The finished product is a beautiful sight," says an 18-year-old national scholarship winner. "And best of all, the tasty things you create are marvelous."

She completed nine years of 4-H membership before qualifying for this top award, and has used her scholarship at the University of Maryland where she is enrolled in a pre-nursing course.

With lack of adequate nutrition for teens being a major concern of parents, teachers and others, the 4-H bread program offers one solution: Get more youngsters involved. And it's easy. Simply get with a 4-H group.

Information on how and where may be obtained by contacting the county Extension Service office, or by asking classmates who are in 4-H.

The 4-H bread program is supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service with program awards arranged by the National 4-H Service Committee, Chicago.

Michigan's ag resources not unlimited

Nick Smith, Chairman of the Michigan Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee notes that Michigan's resources of soil and water, air and forests, fish and wildlife are very plentiful but they are not limitless.

Our natural resources have been called renewable but the decision on whether or not they remain so should be the concern of everyone. It would be very difficult to place a dollar value on a breath of clean fresh air—the sight and taste of pure sparkling water or the inspiration of fertile fields and towering forests.

Smith further points out that Agriculture is a vital part of our Michigan economy.

Michigan farmers received $875 million for the products they sold in 1969 plus $72 million in government payments mainly for reducing production of surplus crops on their farms.

It takes a large number of people to handle production beyond the farm such as processing, shipping and retailing. These people are directly related to and dependent on Michigan Agriculture.

In fact it's the second largest source of income in our State, Smith said. However, when we spend a dollar for food, only 41 cents of it goes to the farmer for the raw material.

Since 1936 our farm programs have helped conserve and renew our Agricultural resources mainly through its Agricultural Conservation Program. The ACP has helped eliminate the run off of millions of tons of top soil.

It has helped keep the soil where it can feed future generations and has greatly reduced pollution of the nation's waterways. This has benefited wildlife, increased hunting, fishing and other recreational opportunities for all people.

Eighty-five per cent of ACP practices in Michigan have contributed to abating pollution of streams, rivers and lakes.

In the last two years alone, more than 16,000 acres of land in Michigan were reforested. This means that approximately 12,800,000 trees were planted under the farm program during this period.

Marketing bulletin available

Resort managers who want advice on tourist lodging problems can find it in a new Michigan State University publication titled "Marketing Management... in the Lodging Industry."

Written by Robert W. McIntosh, extension specialist in tourist and resort programming, the bulletin contains chapters on managing marketing efforts, advertising marketing, sales promotion and public relations.

According to McIntosh, the most difficult and important part of the lodging manager's job is marketing—planning and accomplishing sales. Marketing is also the greatest intellectual challenge in management.

"To be effective requires imagination, understanding, intuition, knowledge and information," McIntosh says. "Marketing Management supplies some of the information needed to give lodging managers more expertise in tourist and resort area management."

Single copies of the publication Extension Bulletin E-677 can be obtained by writing to: Bulletin Office, Agriculture Hall, Michigan State University, East Lansing, 48823.

Corn silage additive ready for farmers

Michigan cattle feeders and dairymen this year will be able to obtain the new MSU-developed corn silage additive known as Pro-Sil, as the result of a distribution program being rushed into operation by Farm Bureau Services, according to William E. Callum, Jr., Vice President. Although not scheduled for general farm use until 1971, Pro-Sil has proven so successful in tests that Farm Bureau Services plans to establish distribution centers by August 1, Callum said. The product is the first liquid additive to make corn silage a complete food ration for feedlot cattle, dairy and beef heifers and dry dairy cows. Research with feeder cattle and dairy cows shows Pro-Sil, applied to chopped corn silage at harvesting or ensiling, is equal to or better than addition of urea as a nitrogen source. Tests at the MSU Beef Research Center and at selected livestock farms also show weight gains and milk output at cost ratios favorable to producers. Michigan farmers will be supplied from new manufacturing facilities at Adrian by Pro-Sil Sales and Service, Inc., which joined MSU in development research starting in 1967. The product employs anhydrous ammonia with a molasses base to increase the protein level in corn silage, balance all minerals and improve silo fermentation. Michigan produces approximately four million tons of corn silage annually, ranking among the top ten states, according to Don Shepard, feeds manager for Farm Bureau Services. Pro-Sil is applied at the rate of 50 pounds per ton of silage. Farm Bureau plans to supply on-farm storage tanks and auxiliary equipment for purchase by Michigan farmers, he said.

INDIVIDUAL WINNER

Stanley Baird, chairman of the Clinton County Soil Conservation District, presents an award to Mike Pettigrew, the highest individual winner in the district's land judging contest. Pettigrew is a member of the St. Johns chapter of the Future Farmers of America which recently won the contest for the second year in a row.

Bean purchase to aid school lunch program

More than 9.2 million pounds of dry edible beans were purchased last week by the U.S. Department of Agriculture for domestic donation according to Nick Smith, Chairman of the Michigan State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service Committee.

The entire purchase, he says, is for distribution to schools under the school lunch program and needy persons. Purchases are financed with Section 32 funds provided by law from import duties collected under customs laws to the Secretary of Agriculture to encourage domestic consumption of farm products.

About 3.5 million pounds of the 9.2 million pounds purchased were pea beans, commonly known as Michigan navy beans. Distribution of 2,240,000 pounds to school lunch programs will be in 50-pound packages while the 7.1 million pounds for distribution to needy persons will be in two-pound packages similar to the packages in local grocery stores, he stated.

Purchases were made on a competitive bid basis and two Michigan packaging firms, J. P. Burroughs, Inc. Agriculture Division and Michigan Bean Company, Division of Wickes Corporation, both of Saginaw, received orders for about 3.5 million pounds of the 9.2 million pound purchase.

The beans, Smith says, were for delivery during the months of June and July and for destinations ranging across the United States from Portland, Maine to California. Michigan destination includes location at Flint. This is a central location from which additional distributions will be made.

Smith pointed out that while this is classified as a farm program, the direct benefit in this instance is to the consumer, a fact often overlooked in discussing farm programs and a very beneficial use of funds provided to the Secretary of Agriculture.

On-the-farm is best place for dry storage

The best place to store and dry crops is on-the-farm.

All crop reports indicate that there will be a great need for additional storage space this fall. Nick Smith, Chairman of the Michigan State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, says that local county ASCS offices can make loans to farmers for the purchase of on-the-farm storage and drying equipment at 7 1/2 per cent interest per annum.

Farmers with available farm storage space and drying equipment will be able to condition and store their crops at harvest time and not be dependent upon others for this service. Price support loans will be available for commodities that are stored on-the-farm in approved storage.

Smith said that farmers with on-the-farm storage will have marketing control of their crop, will be able to sell to any one at any time, and take advantage of price increases that occur during the marketing year. If the market price of a crop remains below the loan rate during the year, loans on such crops as wheat, oats, barley, soybeans, and corn can be extended.

Storage payments will be made to the farmers for the extended period at the rate of eight cents to nine cents per bushel for oats and 12 cents to 13 cents per bushel per year for the other grains.

Storage payments and the saving of handling charges will pay for additional on-the-farm storage in a very short time. Smith emphasized that producers needing additional storage space and wanting to borrow money from CCC should contact their local county ASCS office immediately to determine their eligibility.

Angus Day next month

Members of the Michigan Junior Angus Association will hold their annual field day July 19 at Shagbark Farm near Caledonia, in conjunction with the annual adult field day, Mary Nagel, secretary of the Junior group reports.

The combined program will be designed to help persons who are interested in breeding, feeding and showing beef cattle. The Junior part of the program will include the annual meeting and election of officers. They will also present showmanship awards.

All persons interested in beef cattle production are invited to attend.

Clinton wheat is down

Clinton County farmers harvested 26,000 acres of wheat for grain in 1969, according to Phil Doctor of the Michigan Crop Reporting Service.

Production amounted to 1,066,000 bushels, an average of 41 bushels per acre. This compares to the 1968 crop of 1,188,000 bushels from 33,000 acres. Doctor says that Clinton is one of the larger wheat producing counties in central Michigan.

When the consumer spends a dollar for food at the grocery store, he buys 40 cents worth of products and 60 cents worth of marketing services. The farmer's share of America's food dollar is highest for products which require the least amount of processing and packaging.

State Crop Report

By MICHIGAN CROP REPORTING SERVICE

FOR WEEK ENDING May 23

The warm weather of the week stimulated the growth of small grains, hay and pastures.

With almost five days suitable for field work, planting of spring crops moved ahead rapidly. Soil moisture supplies during the week were mostly adequate to surplus.

Sugar beet planting was completed ahead of the usual date. Planting of oats is finished in most southern areas, but only 55 per cent of the Upper Peninsula oat acreage is planted.

About 95 per cent of the state's oat acreage is now planted compared with about 80 per cent a year ago.

Corn planting is about three-fourths finished. Usually only about half of the corn acreage is planted by this date.

Potato planting is more than 60 per cent complete compared with about 40 per cent planted at this time last year.

About one-fourth of the soybeans are planted. A considerable acreage has been plowed and fitted for dry beans.

Above-normal temperatures stimulated the growth of winter wheat, early planted oats, alfalfa, clover and pastures and speeded germination of sugar beets and corn.

Green chopping of alfalfa has started.

Heavy infestations of cereal leaf beetles and alfalfa weevils have been observed in numerous areas. Some farmers have sprayed affected crops to control these insects.

The warm weather stimulated the development of asparagus spears and their harvest is in full swing.

Vegetable planting has moved ahead at a rapid pace and is nearing completion in some areas. Early celery is developing well.

Weather conditions were generally favorable for fruit pollination this week. Tart cherries in the Northwestern Lower Peninsula varied from full bloom to petal fall and farther south varied from the petal fall to split shuck stage.

Apples ranged from the petal fall stage in the south to full bloom in the West Central counties and pini stage in the Northwestern Lower Peninsula. Peaches were mainly in the petal fall stage.

Ensilaged feeds are more efficient than dry feeds for beef cattle, according to Michigan State University researchers. In a recent experiment, cattle fed a dry hay and corn ration gained four percent faster. But they required 13 percent more feed to produce a pound of gain than the cattle fed an ensiled mixture of 20 percent alfalfa and 80 percent ground, shelled corn.

Professional drivers use their road eyes

By practicing these five steps you will improve your driving immeasurably—and your chances for survival. "You won't be the poor driver standing beside his demolished vehicle saying, 'I just didn't see the other car,'" Greening says. "You will see him in time and thereby be able to avoid the accident. This is defensive driving. Defensive driving is the safest kind of driving."

"I just didn't see the other car."

How many times has a motorist stood near an accident scene and offered this rather pitiful excuse for being involved in the crash?

"Accident investigation officers hear it all the time," says Robert Greening, Safety Director of Michigan Trucking Association, "and it just points up one of the most important aids to safe driving. They're called 'eyes.' The trouble is, too many drivers just don't use them properly."

scene, while maintaining proper spacing—more than one car length for each 10 miles per hour in speed. And get into the ground-viewing habit. This refers to the habit of glancing at the ground beside the front wheel of another vehicle before overtaking to pass or before meeting oncoming cars.

"3. Keep your eyes moving. Shift your eyes every two seconds. Check your rear-view and side-view mirrors at least every five seconds.

"4. Leave yourself an 'out.' Think ahead. Strive for a space cushion, adjust speed to visibility and in doubtful situations reduce speed and touch brakes.

"5. Always be certain that the other drivers see you. That's what horns, lights, and turn signals are for."

A birthday dinner in honor of Lee Schneider was held at their home Sunday, May 17. Guests were Mrs. Michael Schneider Sr., Mary Goodman and Florence Vance.

Mathilda Cook of Hubbardston Road was discharged from the Ionia County Memorial Hospital on Monday, May 18 after a two week's stay. She is convalescing at the home of her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. William Bushong in Ionia.

A graduation party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Davarn, Sunday, May 24 in honor of their daughter, Mary Rose a graduate of P-W High School. Relatives, friends, and neighbors were present.

The Pedro Club met Tuesday afternoon with Katherine Geller at her home May 26.

Mrs. Jerome Barker left Thursday, May 21 for an Ann Arbor hospital for observation and treatment.

Attending a graduation party in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Schneider at Portland honoring their son, Thomas, a graduate of St. Patrick's High School Portland, were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Heckman.

Spending the weekend camping at Higgins Lake were Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Simon, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Freund, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Pine and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Walter.

Professional drivers—the men who haul the nation's goods in tractor-trailers—know how to use their eyes. "They use them to get the big picture," Greening says. "And they automatically have a much bigger picture than the automobile driver—they sit up much higher and therefore can see much farther ahead."

There are five common distractions that can get in the way of that big picture, according to Greening. They are:

1. Route problems—confusion over where one is and where one is going.
2. Mental disturbances—concentrating on the "problems of life" rather than the problems of the road.
3. Distractions inside the vehicle—children, for example.
4. Scenery.
5. Unfamiliar situations.

"However, offsetting these are five basic steps used and proved out over the years by the professional drivers," Greening says.

"They are easy to learn. With a little practice they will become routine:

1. The 'aim high in steering' formula. This calls for repeated glances well ahead at the center of the intended driving lane. The eyes should sweep over the scene—a full block in the city, a half-mile on rural roads.
2. Get the big picture. Keep your eyes sweeping over the

New calendar boosts state's summer events

More than 200 community action-jammed events promise to add zest to family vacation fun in Michigan this summer.

The summer edition of the Michigan Calendar of Events, compiled and produced by the Michigan Tourist Council, lists a wide variety of ideas for family fun in both Michigan peninsulas from June through October.

Calendar offerings include more than 20 community art shows, several rated among the best in the Midwest. Late summer and early fall calendar entries feature many festivals and fairs.

Water competition, ethnic festivals, Indian pow-wows, antique shows, and even a Frisbee tournament are among the vacation fun-offerings in the two-penninsula state this summer.

Variety keynotes June listings which include the Arts and Crafts Festival, Lansing, June 5-6; The Lilac Festival, Mackinac Island, June 13-20; Frank-enmuth's Bavarian Festival, June 14-20; the Muzzle Loaders Festival, at Greenfield Village, Dearborn, June 20-21; and the Freedom Festival, Detroit, June 29-July 5.

Warning to food lovers—chuck those calorie counters.

July activities in Michigan are dominated by food festivals. Strawberry Festivals will be held at Chassell and at Manistee—the National Strawberry Festival. Traverse City will hold the National Cherry Festival and Sebawing will host the Sugar Beet Festival.

Food will be king during the Troutarama in Baldwin, the National Blueberry Festival at South Haven and the Munger Potato Festival, Munger. Additional July fare includes the Top-O-Michigan Aquathon, Cheboygan, the Blue Water Festival, Port Huron, the Summer Festival, Ironwood, the Chesaning Showboat, Chesaning, the Alpenfest, Gaylord, and the Lowell Showboat, Lowell.

Eventful happenings on tap for Michigan vacation travelers in August include the Flying Scots Sailing Race, Menominee; the Summer Singers, Ontonagon; the Ionia Free Fair, Ionia; the Waterfront Ari Fair, Charlevoix; the Saginaw Valley Live Steam Show, Caro; the Magic Convention, Colon; the Danish Festival, Greenville, and the big Michigan State Fair in Detroit.

September fun seekers can choose from a variety of Michigan activities, including the Black Gown Tree Pageant at St. Ignace, the Peach Festival in Romeo, the Annual Old Car Festival at Greenfield Village, Dearborn, and the Festival of the Forks in Albion.

Also featured in September is the annual Mackinac Bridge Walk, St. Ignace to Mackinac City—the one time each year when pedestrians are allowed on "Big Mac."

With October comes autumn weather and Red Flannel Day at Cedar Springs. Coldwater will host the Small Race, airplanes, and Howard City will have a Turkey Shoot.

In mid-October, Bellaire will stage an Autumn Color Festival and at month's end, the International Ski and Winter Sports Show will open in Detroit.

Visitors counting on a Michigan vacation can plan ahead by sending now for a copy of the Michigan Calendar of Events, available free of charge from the Michigan Tourist Council, Stevens T. Mason Building, Lansing 48926.

Q Where does our gas come from?

A Like many other states, Michigan's sources of natural gas are limited. Most of our supply therefore comes from the gas-rich area of the Gulf of Mexico, and it travels some 1500 miles, through large transmission pipelines, to reach Michigan. Upon arrival, it is either directed into the Consumers Power system for immediate use or pumped into underground storage fields for future use.

Q What is underground storage?

A Consumers Power operates six underground storage fields. These are formations of porous rock that have been depleted of natural gas. During periods of the day when demand for gas is low, incoming gas is stored in these underground fields, where it is readily available when needed. In this way, the company is always prepared with a dependable supply of gas to meet peak demands.

Q How is the gas controlled throughout the Consumers Power distribution system?

A Along the 1100 miles of transmission pipeline in Michigan, through which Consumers Power supplies customers in 213 cities and villages, regulator stations control gas pressure. Keeping an ever-watchful eye on the entire system is the Gas Control Center in Jackson. Here technicians monitor a complex data acquisition and control system that scans 600 checkpoints throughout the area. Every two minutes, computers report on all conditions at each checkpoint, thus alerting the Control Center before problems have a chance to develop.

Making Life Better

Pilot Hank Stevens knows a bad thing when he sees it. So he helps you get safe, dependable gas service.

Some pilots fly high. Hank flies low — for good reason. Hank's job is to scan Consumers Power's gas installations and pipeline rights-of-way, to make sure that all conditions are A-OK. His is one of the checks in a year-in, year-out program of safeguarding our 1100-mile natural gas system. Pipelines are continually cleaned, inspected and pressure-tested. In the air and underground, Consumers Power checks and double-checks — to help make your gas service more dependable.

Bring car for test, motorcyclists told

Michigan's estimated 400,000 motorcyclists—when qualifying for their motorcycle endorsement in the course of obtaining their first driver licenses or at normal renewal time—must also make sure they furnish a car with a licensed driver when they go to take their road test.

The car and driver will be used by the local license examiner in following the applicant over a prescribed route during his motorcycle driving test.

In the case of the person applying for his first driver license, he must also make sure that the cycle he is going to test on is brought to the exam station. He may not ride it there.

ways for at least 1,000 miles during the last 12 months prior to application.

However, certification may not get the applicant out of taking a road test. His driving record is checked. If found unsatisfactory, he will be required to take a road test.

The applicant's road test may be waived also if the person has qualified for a special motorcycle license or endorsement in another state and has a valid permit or license at the time of application.

Under the new law, it will be three years before all motorcycle operators are qualified.

In the case of the renewing driver, he may drive his cycle to the exam station providing it is before or on the day of normal renewal. If he is late, he must also see to it that the cycle is brought to the test area.

Under Michigan's new motorcycle laws which took effect June 1, persons who have proven experience in riding a cycle may have the driving test waived if they meet certain criteria.

According to Secretary of State James M. Hare, the road test may be waived if an applicant can certify that he or she has actually operated a motorcycle on the public streets and high-

Persons who renewed their licenses in late May, will have until their licenses expire before they have to qualify for a cycle endorsement, explains Hare. This is either three years on a regular operator's license or one year in the case of persons with chauffeur licenses that they may legally operate a motorcycle in Michigan without the new endorsement.

Hare said the special cycle endorsement is the first step in Michigan toward classified licenses in which persons must qualify to handle the motor vehicle they drive.

County roads

Officials of Clinton County Road Commission recently made formal announcement of their plans to accelerate a five-year construction program to two years in efforts to allay increasing costs.

In these times, when there are tendencies for quick denial of shouldering further costs, it is of great importance that county residents be fully aware of all aspects of proposals involving added expenses.

The program outlined by the commission involves the entire county and is designed not only to provide improvements but to involve entire rebuilding of roadways in some locations.

We support the concept of the accelerated plan and, win or lose, the road commission should be commended for sound planning with attentiveness to rising costs.

Register

This year is an important election year. In these critical days of unrest and uncertainty, the one reassuring reality that every U.S. citizen can fall back upon is the all-important right to walk into a polling booth and express his choice.

But to exercise the right for selection voters must be appropriately registered. Don't be a political dropout in this important election year. Check your voting status soon to insure your eligibility on election day.

Construction workers

There have been few things which have impressed us so strongly in recent weeks as did the actions of construction workers in New York City. Too long the giant silent majority has merely shaken its head in disgust while dissent and destruction eroded away physical and philosophical foundations of our country and our society.

In confronting the radical demonstrations of the students, the workers themselves became symbols of the moral fibre upon which our system has grown. Their actions were, by far, louder than the irrational cries of the young dissenters and should go far in re-establishing the presence of the wholesome aspirations and desires of the majority.

Common courtesy and a regard for the opinions of others is not merely a decoration on the pie crust of society; it is the heart of the pie. Too many youngsters are egocentric boors who will not listen or discuss but, like four-year-olds, will throw rocks and shout.

There are many good things about our government, our society and our economy which those in opposition fail to consider. One of those good things happened to be the construction workers in New York City.

'IF IT FITZ ...'

Cut down by a 'putt-putt'

By JIM FITZGERALD

I bought a lawn mower. Oh, how the mighty have fallen. A man earns only a few claims to fame in the ordinary lifetime. My claims have always been negative. That is, I've been proud of myself for the things I HAVEN'T done. Anybody with the usual quota of bones and brains can do things. It takes a man of real character to resist all temptations and NOT do things.

For instance, I have never seen Bonanza. Not once. Can you imagine? This has been one of the nation's most-watched TV shows for years. Everyone who is anyone knows about Pa Cartwright and his boys on the Ponderosa. I've read reams about them. I've even heard Pa sing on the Johnny Carson show (anyone who sings like that should carry a gun).

But I've never seen a Bonanza show. The reason is simple. By the time I was 12 years old, I'd seen umpteenth-thousand cowboy movies. They starred guys like Hoot Gibson, Buck Jones, Ken Maynard and Johnny Mack Brown. They were real men. Then along came Gene Autry and Roy Rogers and the Sons of the Pioneers. They sat around on their horses and sang, for gosh sakes, Can you imagine Buck Jones singing "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer"?

It was then I swore off cowboys shows for good. I haven't seen one since. Especially I haven't seen Bonanza, no matter how many awards and rating races it wins. I suspect Hoss Cartwright is hiding something under that ridiculous hat and it might be Gene Autry. BUT I DIGRESS. This started to be about a lawn mower. That has always been my proudest negative. In over 15 years of home-owning, I never owned a lawn mower.

In the first place, what's wrong with long grass? If God had wanted the grass short, He would have given us goats instead of children.

In the second place (my wife's rejection of first wedding was inserted in her wedding vows), the boys in our neighborhood needed the money they earned cutting my lawn with their mowers. And I didn't mind limping horribly whenever I paid them so they'd understand I'd be doing the job myself if it weren't for the German strapnel in my knees.

In the third place, I had no place to keep a lawn mower. Another negative claim to fame is that I've never owned a garage. A man can't be too careful. Every garage I've seen is full of shovels and saws and drills and hammers and other terrible tools of slavery. I much prefer a carport that converts into a porch for the summer. If I can get someone to convert it.

And in the last place, I'm lazy. I remember when the self-propelled mowers became popular. "You don't even have to push it," my wife said. "Yes," I answered, "but I'd have to follow it."

But despite all these sterling reasons for not owning a mower, last week I bought one. I got it for my son who said he was embarrassed when I hired boys half his size to cut the lawn. He wants to mow it himself and he'd also like to make money cutting neighbor's lawns. This kid has obviously picked up some weird ideas from his mother who washes his brain more than his socks.

So anyway, now there's a mower in the family. It cost $190, for Lord's sake. And no garage. Which gives my son a claim to fame: the only kid in town whose dad makes him sleep with a lawn mower. Onward and upward.

TAKING FIVE

Sick at the thought

By RON HUARD

Drug addiction among our young people is of growing consequence and incidents of drug use are not uncommon even among junior high schoolers. Despite the obvious detriments there are those who would have some drugs legalized. I get sick at the thought.

I have never smoked marijuana, injected my arm with heroin or even sniffed glue and as far as I know I've never even talked with anyone who has. Despite standing in this vast forest of ignorance, I find it hard to be objective enough to reach the point of supporting the dope fad. These feelings might drip with reflections of Volstead-type thinking, but I fall to see any benefit in having dope become part of our economic and social system.

Those who advocate freedom of narcotics often resort to the argument that prohibition was of a greater harm to the country than good and I suppose they are right. But when liquor began to flow after repeal, kids in the seventh and eighth grades didn't lap it up during their lunch hours.

Things are a bit different with drugs. Most any law enforcement officer, medical man or legal advisor will readily admit that drug problems are more rampant than we realize and they are not confined to persons over 21. Maybe legalizing the stuff would erase the glamor and youngsters would go back to smoking corn silk, but I doubt it. Legalizing drugs, in my book, would only enlarge what already is a monstrous problem.

But drugs themselves are not entirely the problem. One of the reasons given for their use is escape from reality and the pressures of life. In the case of teenagers, this reason, to me, is enough to support the belief that parents and home life are a major contributing factor to our disintegrating society.

As parents we're either too protective or too aggressive.

We either want the kid to have everything we didn't have or we want him to work his fanny off to appreciate what he earns. We'll give him five bucks to go to the show yet cut him into ribbons if he strikes out in a little league game. The kid sometimes finds it hard to know a "happy" medium.

We are frequently demanding of the wrong things. Instead of belittling the kid with poor grades we should encourage. Instead of chewing out the kid who drops a pass a parent should give him a perspective of how playing the game is merely a small part of life itself. Instead of issuing demands we should nurture freedom of expression, exchange of ideas and a respect of accepting one's best efforts when they are sincerely put forth.

There's a lot of dope being needed into arms and inhaled into lungs, but all the blame is not on the kids or their pushy associates. Some of the fault lies with us pushy parents.

Mr. Dobson visits

By RON KARLE, Editor

An old friend of yours dropped by the office the other day.

That would be Warren Dobson whose poems have attended this page for the better part of the last 10 years.

Mr. Dobson, who is getting on to 74 years, brought us news, both good and bad.

His eyes have been giving him trouble and so he'll be going into the hospital, probably this week for an operation.

With his eyesight being what it is, he says it has been difficult for him to write his poetry.

"It isn't something you can dictate like a letter," he told me. "I like to be able to look over what I've written."

So while he's in the hospital the News will be without his weekly thoughts. I asked Mr. Dobson when we might expect him back on this page and he said, "It's indefinite at this time. It all depends on how soon they get my eyes fixed up so I can see."

In the meantime, I thought you would like to know the News is publishing a book of Mr. Dobson's poems.

The collection, called "Random Rhymes," contains about 85 selections, most of which have appeared in the News at one time or another over the last decade.

It is hoped that the collection will be off the presses sometime next month.

wishing him well in the days ahead.

And in thanking him for his contribution in the decade behind.

WARREN DOBSON

Details haven't been finalized yet, but copies will be available at the News office.

Mr. Dobson hasn't set a price on the collection but that too will be announced when the book is ready.

"I don't expect it to make any money for me," he once told the News when considering the possibility of publishing the book, "but I would like to have it pay its own way."

"It's not a highly paid profession," he added with a chuckle. "It's more for the fun I get out of it."

Although I don't know Mr. Dobson well, I suspect I speak for more than a few readers in CUERO, Tex., RECORD: "With each passing day we become more and more convinced the only way to get a large segment of the American population to go to work is to drastically reduce the poverty programs and doles that support them. There is no logical reason, we feel, why business and industrial firms and their employees who work day by day for a livelihood should have their earnings taxed to the extent that sufficient federal and state funds are available to take care of the needs of several million Americans who do not choose to work. It is our feeling this condition will continue to exist and to expand until the federal and state governments drastically cut down on their doles and free food handouts and sensibly amend the rules and regulations which qualify hundreds of thousands for the relief rolls, food handouts and unemployment compensation who do not deserve it."

Needed Help

By W.E. Dobson

It's nice to have a chauffeur
 When your eyes are on the bum
 When you fail to measure up to
 All the traffic's go and come;
 But no matter how you rated
 In the old days ebb and flow
 It's nice to have a chauffeur
 Take you where you want to go.

It's great when you're exploring
 Unknown paths to have a guide
 Who can take you on your journey
 Through the jungles dense and wide
 There's an extra feel of safety
 You alone can never know
 With a trusty guide beside you
 To show you where to go.

In the quest of unknown future
 To the goal of the unknown
 It is best to have a Pilot,
 Who will not leave you alone,
 You need only make the effort,
 Let your wants be known anew
 There's a Pilot there to greet you
 And to see you safely through.

2,013 to be drafted from state in June

All available 1-A registrants with random sequence numbers 170 and below will be ordered by Michigan local boards for induction into the army during June, it has been announced by Arthur A. Holmes, state director of Selective Service.

Local boards have also been directed to order for induction during May all 1-A registrants with random sequence number 145 and below.

Specific calls for 2,013 registrants for June induction have been issued to local boards, based upon registrants reported available at this time.

The blanket order to all local boards to deliver every available registrant within the random sequence ceilings in May and June is an effort to make up for the shortfall in deliveries since January. During the first four months of 1970 Michigan delivered 3,338 men for induction against net calls for 3,936.

National Selective Service headquarters has requested the state to make up the deficit of 600 inductees along with current calls. With a maximum random sequence number imposed each month, local boards have found it difficult to fill calls during the early months under the random selection system. Heavy direct enlistments of 6,679 men since January have also limited the available draft pool. No new registrants are coming into the manpower pool for selection in 1970 except those registrants whose deferments expire.

Reclassification of many graduating students this spring may add significantly to the available manpower pool. Recent changes in the regulations prohibiting new paternity and occupational deferments will also help some in future months.

In the meantime, all local boards have been requested by the state director to reclassify registrants as rapidly as possible when the basis for deferment ceases to exist. Hearings and appeals are also being expedited. Local boards have also been instructed to apply a strict application of current requirements of the Selective Service Act and regulations to all requests for deferment.

All registrants whose deferments will expire in 1970 have been ordered for preinduction physical examination during May and June if their random sequence numbers are 215 and below.

Dampening the fuse

By REP. DICK ALLEN

Should the restrictions on the sale of firecrackers and other fireworks in Michigan be removed? My guess is you'll say no. In States without restrictions there are a fair number of accidental injuries, a few deliberate malicious injuries and some property damage.

On the other hand most anyone with cash can buy dynamite, TNT, nitroglycerin, and black and smokeless gunpowder. We restrict firecrackers but willingly sell explosives in volumes capable of mass destruction!

Last week the House passed a bill placing stiff controls on the sale and use of explosives. Persons under 18, those judged insane, and those convicted of a felony within the last five years would be barred from purchasing explosives.

For others, a one year purchasing permit will be issued at the discretion of local authorities for a one dollar fee. Persons seeking the permit would have to indicate the intended use of the explosive.

There was some initial resistance to this legislation by sportsmen who load their own shells. Last year they convinced the governor a similar bill should be vetoed.

They are not so much concerned with the provisions of this particular bill but have a general fear that this might be an opening wedge in an attempt to restrict the right of private ownership of guns and ammunition.

I don't believe the dangers are this severe and, of course, they have to be balanced against the dangers of a militant radical few with easy access to explosives.

Most sportsmen have come to the conclusions that they will put up with the inconvenience of a one dollar permit if the State Police, FBI and other agencies are convinced this law will be aid in law enforcement.

I wish we didn't need a law restricting the sale of explosives. But the violence in our society cannot be ignored. And it apparently cannot be stopped simply by imposing severe penalties on the rather small percentage of the perpetration of violent acts who are caught and convicted.

We'll hope for a better day but until then, we should treat dynamite with at least as much respect as firecrackers.

Take heart, Mr. Taxpayer

By REP. WILLIAM S. BALLENGER

One of the most important responsibilities of any public official is to keep the cost of government from rising any more than it must and to reduce the cost wherever it may be reduced without affecting the delivery of services.

Efforts to save taxpayers' money take on added urgency in a period of inflation such as the one we are now living through. So what steps have been taken to reduce the costs of government wherever possible?

One of the steps taken by Gov. Milliken has been to create a management sciences group within the Executive Office to cut operating costs through the use of modern, scientific business techniques. After a six-month search, the Governor appointed an outstanding director for this group—Glenn W. Goodman, former director of the Army's largest data processing command.

In another move to cut state government costs, the governor recently expanded the membership of a committee called Total Research in Improved Management (TRIM). This committee, composed of outstanding business and professional men who volunteer their services, advises him on ways to make state government more efficient and effective.

In a third step, Milliken initiated a new system of coordinated program evaluation to be used by all the major departments in devising their budgets. This new system is designed to eliminate programs which may have been desirable in past years, but which cannot be justified in terms of today's priorities.

All of these steps—and others—are showing results. Here are just a few examples:

—Through new space standards, 20,000 square feet of additional office space in one state building has been acquired at a savings of $100,000;

—By hiring outside contractors to provide janitorial service in certain state buildings, annual savings of $100,000 have been realized;

—By leasing telephone lines to certain cities where state business calls are frequently made, there has been a savings of $1,200,000 in telephone tolls. Projections show that this saving will actually rise to some $2 million;

—By consolidating most duplicating and printing operations into one shop, we are saving $200,000 a year;

—A new policy providing for competitive bids on the purchase of magnetic tape for computers has produced a savings of $127,500 annually;

—During the past year, alternative methods of shipping salt were adopted, resulting in a savings of $251,351;

—By initiating a state mail run to Detroit, some $15,000 in postage is being saved every year.

In closing, let me mention a couple of the more interesting bills passed by the House during the last week:

—Elimination of the property tax exemption for mobile home owners. This would then require residents of mobile homes to pay property taxes. At the present time, they have to pay such local taxes only if they own the land on which their portable home rests. Proponents of the bill claim that, since they benefit from the same services as permanent housing residents, mobile home dwellers should participate in local taxation. Opponents say that since they have to pay a sales tax when they purchase their mobile homes, requiring them to pay local property taxes would amount to a form of double taxation.

—Prohibition of racial and religious considerations in adoption proceedings. Present law requires that courts consider a child's racial, religious and cultural background before approval of adoption. It is thought that this clause has frustrated the attempts of persons to give homes to minority group children, for whom it is often hardest to find permanent family environments. Countering arguments against the bill, proponents said it does not prevent persons seeking adoptions to consider racial and religious factors in making their personal choice. Passage of the bill follows a recent State Appeals Court reversal of a lower court decision preventing a white couple from adopting a black child. The court's very significant opinion stated that adoptions could not be refused due strictly to racial considerations.

These two bills must now be considered by the Senate.

WINFIELD, Kan., COURIER: "Among people now in middle age and beyond there is much puzzlement—along with other feelings which range from mild irritation to snorting outrage—as to what makes today's college generation so feisty. . . Some insight can be found, though, in the reflections of John Sloan Dickey on the occasion of his retirement as president of Dartmouth College. During his 25 years as head of the nation's ninth oldest institution of higher learning, Dickey has witnessed at first hand a period of enormous change. He sums up his conclusions, so far as they relate to present-day students, in this perceptive sentence: 'More of today's college generation are more aware of the gap between human ideals and human performance than any college generation I've ever dealt with.' That does not fully explain the problem; certainly it does not provide means of dealing with the problem. It does shed light on the matter, and reminds us that while the problem confronts society with difficulties it also contains seeds of hope and challenge."

In this day and age when the need to bring knowledge to our young people is so important, we, the senior members of the community area, owe a debt of gratitude for the many hours expended by both Ken Lashaway and Jack Down in making the vocational department's home building project a reality. We owe thanks, too, to the many local people who served on the advisory committee and the St. Johns Board of Education members for their farsightedness.

It pleases us, here at the bank, to say, "Well done." We urge everyone in the community to visit the home that the high school students of our community built with their own hands. We also are pleased to publicly acknowledge the splendid efforts of the Homemaking class in doing the interior work and the Agriculture class in taking care of the landscaping.

They had a dream: build a house

By TIM YOUNKMAN
News Staff Writer

Slightly more than 10 months ago 16 St. Johns High School students had a dream.

They wanted to build a house. Not just any house, but a well-constructed and modern ranch-style home. That dream will be fulfilled Saturday at open-house festivities marking the completion and the final chapter in "The House That Students Built."

The open house ceremonies will start Saturday at 2 p.m. and run continuously until 8 p.m. Sunday's hours are set at 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. at the house, 606 S. Lansing Street.

When asked if the house will be completely ready in time, Ken Lashaway, vocational education director at the high school, indicated everything should be in perfect order.

"It was nip and tuck right along, but I'm sure that everything will be completed by the open house date," he said.

The house building project represents a new concept in vocational training at the high school level, Lashaway noted. Most of the work was done by students with technical assistance from area sub-contractors in masonry, electrical, plumbing and heating.

Students in the vocational building trades class did the majority of the construction work, supervised by instructor Jack Down. They worked three to four hours each day since September, receiving regular high school credits, just as they would in a classroom setting.

The program was initiated this year as part of the new high school's curriculum expansion program.

"The program has been very successful," Lashaway said. "We had 16 boys at the start of the project and we still have 15."

Next fall, Lashaway said his department is planning to expand to two sections with a total of 20 to 25 students.

"The key to this program is giving proper training which is practical and similar to the type of work needed on the job," he said.

"This type of vocational training is relevant to the students because it offers on the job experience instead of classroom work," Lashaway said.

Lashaway had stated at the beginning of the project last fall that "to get a job, you've got to know a little bit to get started. I don't think they'll come out of this as finished carpenters, but it will help them get a foot in the door—then the students will be more valuable to tradesmen."

"Through this project several students will go on in higher vocational programs," he said Sunday. "In fact, this is what they should have in mind when they join the class in the first place."

"There are building trades schools at Lansing Community College and Ferris State College," he said indicating schools some of the boys may attend.

Pointing to the impact the program has had Lashaway said that several boys stayed in school to take the course instead of dropping out. "In fact, some of them made the honor roll for the first time," he added.

A building trades advisory committee was established to guide the students and aid in the project's development. For example, Mrs. Winnie Gill, of Briggs Realtors, found the building site at no charge for services. Roy Briggs, owner of the firm, is a member of the committee.

Other members of the committee besides Lashaway and Briggs are Jack Down, Ken Munger of R. E. Benson Plumbing and Heating, James Moore, who is an attorney for the Clinton National Bank, Edward Schmitt of Schmitt Electric, Tom Hundley, who is the city building inspector, Norman Rademacher of Rademacher Construction Co., and Earl Lancaster, the superintendent of St. Johns schools.

Also involved in the project were Richard (Sonny) Cornwell, masonry contractor and Oliver Gillespie, excavating contractor.

Lashaway said that many local merchants were helpful in purchasing supplies and materials by giving discounts and by spending time with the boys and talking with them.

Planning will start in earnest for the next project, after the open house festivities, Lashaway said. "We have to decide where to build the next one."

Estimated costs for the current project could run as high as $20,000, including the $4,000 lot price, Lashaway said, but added that a precise cost analysis will be conducted soon.

Lashaway said earlier that the market price of the modern house should be about $25,000, with any profits going into next year's project.

Despite the apparent success some changes are in store for the program.

"We will make changes since we learned quite a bit from this job," Lashaway said. "For example, this year a sub-contractor put in the basement, but we plan to put the basement in ourselves on the next one, if someone will donate the concrete blocks."

"We will be able to do more of the work next time," he added.

The non-classroom on-the-spot learning has captured the imagination and the hearts of many of many educators throughout the nation. In Michigan, 31 other school districts have initiated similar construction projects.

Lashaway said that he would like to see this type of education spread to other academic areas.

"It is about time we've done something like this," he said. He noted that the school board has been extremely helpful and interested in the idea.

Besides the building trades class, other students participated in the project. Don Munger's agriculture classes sodded the front lawn and seeded the back yard. Students in the house and home furnishing classes under Mrs. Martha Foust selected paint colors and carpeting.

The three-bedroom house is extensively carpeted with the added features of built-in kitchen appliances and a two-car garage.

Persons interested in buying the house can talk to representatives from the St. Johns Realtors and Brokers offices who will attend the open house.

Jack Down - - the driving force

The driving force and gentle persuader behind the house building project is Jack Down, building trades instructor.

"Basically, this program is an excellent idea," Down said. "I had never thought of it before this year."

Down indicated that he would have like to see the class attempt constructing an ultra - modern structure. "I had proposed something along those lines," he said, and noted that this may be a possibility for the next project in the fall.

"Improvements in this course are not only possible but are currently being planned," he said. "We will have two classes next year so that there will be time to go on field trips for instruction besides working on the project."

He said that another improvement would be incorporating more of the students in other classes. "We could use students in architectural drafting, home economics and business," he said.

Some students did help on this project. The home economics students picked the decorating colors and carpeting styles, and some of the agriculture students worked on the landscaping.

"This is a good experience since everybody takes a turn at running the crew as foreman," Down said. "One boy, who is really a hard worker, found out that he hated being foreman, and it is something worthwhile to know. He was lucky to find this out so early," he said.

The daily foreman grades each worker on performance and the instructor gives a daily grade, so that each week the student receives 10 grades. Down indicated that the student can accurately judge his progress through this system.

"The boys worked hard," Down said. "We had days, though, when nothing seemed to get done and then other days we looked around and asked if we really did all of that."

Down attends Michigan State University and is working to complete his requirements for a Doctor of Philosophy degree in international education. He said that he is leaving for Japan and Vietnam at the end of June to complete work on his dissertation.
