School millage, bond issues face voters

New 6-mill levy asked at Bath

BATH — Voters will ballot on a request for 6 mills in additional operating revenue, and also fill two board of education posts from a list of four candidates Monday.

Supt. Roger Carlson said the millage is sought in view of increased operating expenses for the coming year. It would be for one year and bring total voted millage in the district to 16 mills.

2 millage issues on Fulton ballot

MIDDLETON — Two separate millage proposals and the election of two school board members are on the ballots in the Fulton School District Monday.

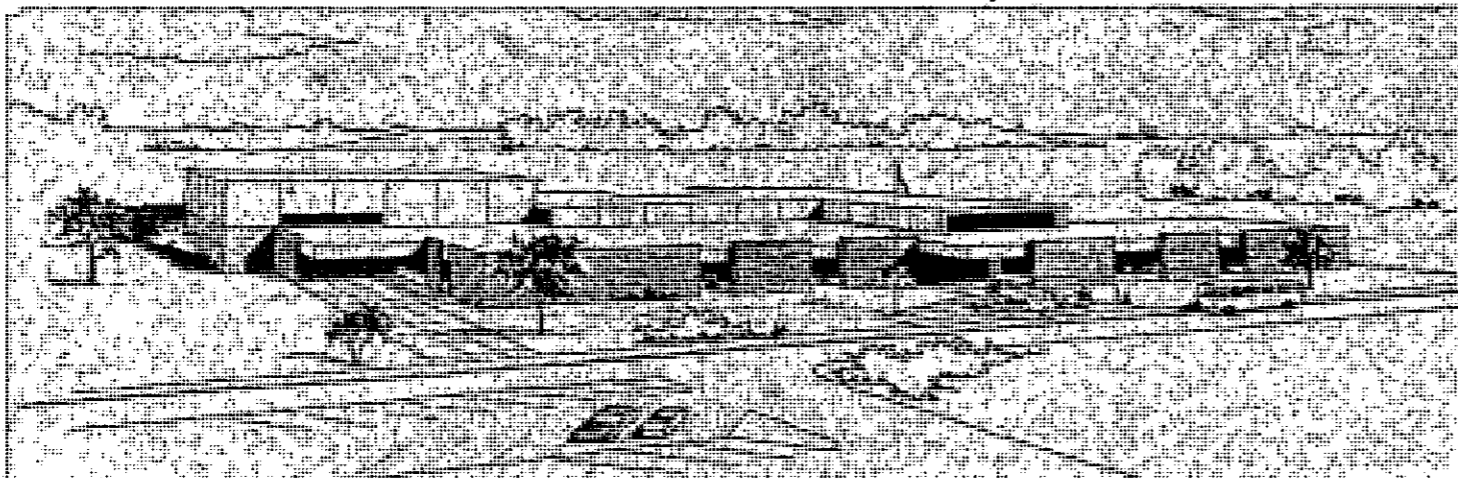

One millage proposal is for 4 mills and is a renewal of an operational levy approved for one year by voters last June. A 2-mill issue on a separate ballot is an additional amount for paving the driveways and parking lot at the Fulton High School site.

P-W board only topic for ballots

PEWAMO - WESTPHALIA — Posts of two retiring board of education members will be filled Monday.

Candidates seeking four-year terms are Francis Trierweiler, Thomas A. Droste, Donald J. Bengel and Mrs. Marie Bengel. Incumbent board President Walter Kellen and treasurer James Pung are leaving the board.

The Ovid-Elsie School Board has accepted the resignation of Gerald Meredith, assistant principal and head basketball coach at the high school. Meredith will become principal at Laingsburg High School.

PROPOSED NEW MIDDLE SCHOOL ON SCHAVEY ROAD NEAR DeWITT

DeWitt proposes $2.7 million bond issue for new buildings

DeWITT — A $2.7 million bond issue and an additional 8.5 mills for school operations are triggering expected voter interest in next Monday's school elections in the DeWitt School District.

The school board seats are also open, but there are only three candidates running for the positions.

The bond issue will be for a large-scale building program that will include a new middle school for sixth, seventh and eighth graders, and addition to the senior high school and the Scott Elementary School.

Ironically, the 10.5 mills that would be levied for the bond issue next year is a half-mill less than what is currently being levied on another debt-retirement program.

THIS IS POSSIBLE, Supt. James Ritchie said, because a state school bond loan fund makes it unnecessary to levy everything over 7 mills for debt retirement. The 11-mill levy now being retired and the proposed bond issue, which would cost about 14 mills, would require about 25 mills if it had to be paid all at once.

The state, however, will guarantee 80 per cent of the excess over 7 mills, so DeWitt needs only to levy the 7 mills plus 3 1/2 mills to meet the need. The 10.5 mills will be levied only the first year, and thereafter the millage will decrease slightly each year.

Ritchie said the bond issue would include $2,081,600 for construction, $140,000 for site and development, $124,800 for architect, bonds and legal fees, and $333,600 for equipment.

The new middle school would be constructed on 40 acres which the school district has under option adjacent to the present high school site. It would include 20 classrooms, plus library, cafeteria and gym, plus administration and conference areas. It would front on Schavey Road

THE SENIOR HIGH school addition would include two new English classrooms, two social studies rooms, an arts and crafts room, language lab, an enlarged shop area with drafting room added, an expanded cafeteria (to make its cafeteria complete with stage), and teacher workroom. The library would be remodeled and enlarged, as would the homemaking area.

The addition to the Scott Elementary School would be for six new classrooms and a conference room.

Getting back to the operational issue, the 8.5 mills would be over and above what is already being levied — 8.5 mills voted plus 7,717 allocated by the county. (The earlier 8.5 mill levy does not expire until 1969).

"Our operating money has been exceeding our income the last few years," Supt. Ritchie said.

On top of the normal increase in cost, Ritchie pointed out that the school district has been broadening its curriculum with such classes as foreign languages, while adding elementary and junior high library and art and music for all the grades.

The 8.5 mills being asked for approval Monday will be for a three-year period, Ritchie said. This is to avoid having to place the extra-millage issue on the ballot each year.

THERE IS NO competition for the school board seats. Dale P. Farhat and Mrs. Merry Sellhorn are candidates for two four-year seats and Roland Lewis is seeking election for a two-year term. Mrs. Sellhorn and Lewis are incumbents, having been appointed to the board as replacements for Mrs. Irene Zeeb and Dale Heinze, respectively.

Also a factor, Beauchamp said, is the loss of .483 mill from what the schools expected to get from the county allocation board. Instead of 8.2 mills, as was allocated last year, schools will get only 7.717 mills this year. This means a loss of $12,000 to the Ovid-Elsie district, Beauchamp said.

THE SCHOOL BOARD also wants to apply one mill of the new millage figure toward retiring the $104,000 deficit that has built up during the last two years since defeat of a 4-mill issue in September 1966.

An 8.5-mill tax levy for operations expired in December, Beauchamp reminded voters, so the 14-mill figure on the ballot represents only a 5.5-mill increase.

ALMOST LOST IN THE SHADOW of the millage issue are the opening of school next fall now rides on St. Johns vote

"It's not a question of half-day sessions anymore. Either we have school or we don't."

That was St. Johns School Supt. Earl Lancaster's view of the situation this week as the school board awaits Monday's decision by voters on a 12.8-mill operational tax levy for the St. Johns School District.

Without the additional millage, the district will not be raising enough tax locally to qualify for state aid — about $1 million worth — and likely would not be able to open its doors next fall.

The 7.717 mills allocated last week by the Clinton County Allocation Board will bring in only $344,522 on the $44.6 million valuation. By contrast the proposed "status quo" budget the board has proposed for next year is for $2,089,570.

Unless the district can levy at least 8 mills, it won't qualify for any state aid; it must levy 10 to qualify for the full amount. A 12.8 mill proposal Monday, if it passes, would give the local district 20.517 mills — more than enough to qualify for state aid but still short, the board contends, of enough to run the school system like it should be.

THE 12.8 MILLS BEING ASKED is actually only 8.3 mills more than what was levied against taxpayers last year. A 4.5 mill levy expired in December.

The school district's valuation this year is higher than anticipated, but a cut in the expected allocation didn't allow any improvement in the income picture for next year. School officials feel the 12.8 really won't do the job, but they can make do if voters will approve it.

If they don't — it failed by only 44 votes March 23 — there's a good possibility school won't be able to open in the fall unless the state takes over its operation. This is questionable, too, Supt. Lancaster points out, because there has never been an instance of such a need in Michigan before.

There would be time for yet a third vote before fall if the millage issue is turned down again. "But if we need a third election we'll lose 90 per cent of our staff," Lancaster said.

Already the school has reported a need for 38 teachers next year, much higher than the normal turnover, even with five new teachers needed to meet increasing enrollment. So far school officials haven't been able to sign up any new teachers because they don't know whether school will open or not.

Building bond issue is one

Fowler has trio of ballots

FOWLER — Three proposals will be on the ballot Monday for voters of the Fowler School District.

Heading the list is a $700,000 bonding measure for construction of a new elementary school. Bonds are for 29 years.

A second request is for 12.5 mills in operating funds for one year. This is 4.5 mills higher than millage expiring this year.

According to Supt. Donald Smith, the proposed elementary building would include 14 classrooms, library, all-purpose room and kitchen. The school district has an option on a 7 1/4 acre site in the northwest section of the village.

THE MILLAGE REQUEST is a key to retaining state aid, according to Smith. The school district has been allocated 7,717 mills by the Clinton County Tax Allocation Board. State aid is only received when school districts are levying at least 8 mills.

The state formula calls for 80 per cent of aid money if 8 mills are levied, and 100 per cent if 10 mills or over are levied. The 12.5 mills request would place the Fowler district in the 100 per cent category.

Even with 12.5 mills, Smith said "we just hope we can balance our budget." The millage request was set before county allocation was determined. No contract has been signed with district teachers.

Smith said if the millage proposal is turned down, the district will be faced with operating on only $52,000. The budget has been set at $312,000.

Balloting will be from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the high school gymnasium.

16TH TRAFFIC FATALITY RECORDED

Clinton County's 16th traffic fatality of the year was recorded just west of St. Johns Monday morning in this two-car collision on M-21. The overturned car in the foreground was driven by Israel Riojas of St. Johns, who has been charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of George L. Forist Sr. of rural Crystal, a passenger in the smashed car in the background. — Additional picture and story on Page 2-A.

We've got a new columnist ... meet Jim Fitzgerald

Fitzgerald, 41, has been editor of the Lapeer County Press about eight years, and he's worked for the paper about 17 years, spending time in all departments. The "If It Fitz..." column grew like Topsy from an advertising column.

The Clinton County News this week joins a growing family of newspapers which have enjoyed reading Jim Fitzgerald's weekly columns in the Lapeer County Press and who are now sharing him with our own readers.

"If It Fitz..." can be called a mixture of comedy, horseplay and horse-sense — and always readable. The column will be printed weekly in the Clinton County News, and it appears for the first time this week on the editorial page.

Fitzgerald never solicited a client, but the column now appears in over 30 newspapers, mostly Michigan weeklies but some as far away as California.

"I write about everything and anything — from Viet Nam to my nagging wife," Fitzgerald writes. "I try to keep the light touch, but sometimes I lose my cool and land like a hammer."

That doesn't happen too often, as his fans around the state will agree. His column won the Michigan Press Assn. column contest three straight years and also placed first in a National Editorial Assn. contest.

"So here I am," Fitzgerald says. "...with one wife and three kids and a desire to write stuff that is, most importantly, interesting and understandable."

Volunteers, hospital make pact

Clinton Memorial Hospital, the American Red Cross and the Red Cross Volunteers have reached an agreement concerning the work of the volunteers at the hospital here.

Mrs Doris Prowant, chairman of the local unit of Red Cross Volunteers, reported on the agreement at a meeting of the group May 23.

The agreement was reached earlier this spring at a meeting between Red Cross Personnel Director Miss Lillian Kumala, hospital Administrator Harold Reed, Mrs Prowant and co-chairman Mrs Lawrence Merignac.

The Clinton Memorial Hospital Assn. was asked to provide the volunteers with a more complete training program, as well as yearly x-rays, blood tests, flu shots and liability insurance.

The training program would include instruction in patient feeding, hair combing and use of wheel chairs.

The volunteers in Clinton County are a unique group, apparently, in the fact that they have more direct contact with patients than the Red Cross Volunteers serving in other units in the mid-Michigan area.

Supervisors seek delay in apportionment

Want to wait until 1970 census figures available

Clinton County supervisors are backing a Kalamazoo County resolution seeking a delay in implementation of county reapportionment until after the 1970 census figures are available.

But meanwhile, County Clerk Ernest Carter is making available signature petitions for candidates as supervisors from the 11 districts into which the Clinton County board has divided the county.

The whole matter of reapportionment, and the election of township officers, is still up in the air at the state level, and Elections Commission officials in Lansing haven't yet been able to provide any definite word on what course counties should follow.

"My advice, in the meantime," Carter said, "is for people who want to take out petitions to take them out. Then if they need them they'll have them; if they don't need them, it won't hurt anything anyway."

THE STATE LAW which provides for apportionment of county boards on the one-man, one-vote basis sets June 18 as the deadline for filing petitions, or June 17 as the deadline for filing a fee in lieu of petitions. Carter said the deadline may be extended by the state in view of the current confusion on the matter.

Clinton supervisors spent considerable time at their June meeting Monday discussing reapportionment. They concurred with the Kalamazoo County resolution which asks for either the repeal of the present act or a delay in implementation until after the 1970 census.

The contention is that the 1960 census does not give an up-to-date picture of population and so would not now be in accord with the principal of the one-man, one-vote theory. Any decisions by county reapportionment commissions, as well as state reapportionment, would be hasty in view of the deadlines, they said.

There are also certain technical questions yet to be answered. Meanwhile the present deadlines remain in effect. Carter said several petitions had been taken out by county residents. Almond Cressman, former Olive Township supervisor, announced Tuesday he had filed his petition as a candidate for the sixth district supervisor post. That district includes Olive, Riley and Victor townships.

THE CLINTON COUNTY board last year adopted an 11-man board plan, and it is under that division that present petitions are being circulated.

In other business Monday, the board lauded Sheriff Percy Patterson for his department's work being done and authorized the sheriff to seek additional help at the jail. They also authorized him to attend the state sheriff's convention this month and Clerk Ernest Carter to attend the state clerk's convention in July at Marquette.

Resolutions were passed commending the youth of Clinton County for their "Operation Clean-Up" drive along county roads a month ago, and Alan R. Dean of St. Johns for "exemplary leadership in contributing to the progress of the community" as a member of the Tri-County Regional Planning Commission.

The board approved a request from the county library board that members be paid $10 per diem for meetings, rather than for only expenses as has been done in the past. The new set-up is said to be in keeping with library boards in other counties.

Max Loudbeck was reappointed to a new term on the Clinton County Zoning Commission. He has been secretary of the commission this past year.

THE BOARD INFORMED Red Lundy of St. Johns it would participate in the cost of mosquito spray for the St. Johns park and adjoining 4-H grounds, on proper billing.

The board approved appointments to the Economic Stabilization Section of the Michigan Emergency Resource Management Plan, introduced by civil defense. W. S. (Pat) Lusk of DeWitt will be county director of economic stabilization, Martin Edinger of Fowler director of consumer rationing, Keith Blizard of DeWitt director of price control, and Roy F. Briggs of St. Johns director of rent control.

The board asked County Prosecutor Roland Duguay to investigate a complaint that county patients for the psychiatric ward at St. Lawrence Hospital were not being admitted without some difficulty.

A request from Dan Gorman, representing county 4-H horse clubs, for the county to financially aide in the construction of a horse barn was referred to the appropriations and finance committee.

The board approved the purchase of an addressograph for the Extension office at a cost of $884. They also approved the closing of the courthouse on Friday, July 5, the day after the 4th of July holiday.

GEORGE FERBER, Alan Nichols and Mrs Helen Meach presented a slide program and explained the federal food stamp plan which will start in the county July 1.

Supervisors also approved the placement of advertisements in the Clinton County News and the State Journal warning residents that they check with health and zoning departments before closing a deal on purchase of land on which they intend to build. Much land is unsuitable for building, the board warned.

Talk here next Wednesday based on riot commission study

On Wednesday, June 12, at 8 p.m., Warrington Parker will speak to interested citizens on civil disorders in our country. The basis of his talk will be taken from the recent U.S. Riot Commission Report.

Parker works for the Michigan Catholic Conference in Lansing. He has much experience in racial problems.

In his talk Parker will concentrate on the situations which led to riots in our cities. He will also discuss racial topics which are brought up frequently in conversation.

Anyone interested in a better understanding of our racial crisis or in finding ways to make a better world for our children is welcome to attend. The program, including an open discussion period, will end about 9:30 p.m.

Summaries and the complete Report of the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders will be available. Of this intensive study Tom Wicker, from the New York Times, writes in the introduction:

$50 reward offered by road men

The Clinton County Road Commission is offering a $50 reward for information leading to the arrest of persons maliciously destroying county road signs and warning devices.

The commission authorized the reward Monday. It came after a couple of weeks of excessive vandalism and theft of county signs, according to Road Clerk Robert Eldridge.

"This destruction is not only costly but it's extremely dangerous," Eldridge said.

He reported that last week's heavy rains partially washed out a bridge on Gratiot County Line Road north and west of Maple Rapids, and that warning devices put up on either side to close the road had been thrown in the river, run over or smashed.

"IF WE CAN KEEP traffic off a bridge in that condition until the water goes down, we can repair it without too much cost," Eldridge said. "But if some heavy truck had inadvertently gone over it because the signs had been stolen and had collapsed the bridge, we'd have had a real expensive job on our hands."

In the southern part of the county, road crews had put up caution signs near bad chuck holes in blacktop over the long Memorial Day weekend. Monday morning only one of the seven signs put out was left.

"We just can't afford to post men beside these spots every night," Eldridge said in announcing the reward offered by the commission. "If we can get an arrest, then we can go about getting restitution for the damages." He said it costs about $25 to replace an ordinary stop sign.

Crash kills Crystal man; St. Johns man charged

A two-car head-on crash on M-21 just west of St. Johns claimed the life of a rural Crystal man Monday morning, raising the traffic fatality record for the year to 16.

The driver of the other car involved is being charged with manslaughter.

The accident victim was George L. Forist Sr., 57, of R-1, Crystal. He was a passenger in an auto driven by his son, George L. Forist, Jr., 26, of R-1, Sheridan.

Four other persons in the auto were injured. Mrs Anna Forist, 51, wife of the victim, was reported in "fair" condition Tuesday morning at Sparrow Hospital in Lansing. Mrs Nancy Forist, 28, and children Connie, 5, and Tammy, 8 months old, were treated at Clinton Memorial Hospital for lesser injuries.

The driver of the other car, Israel Riojas, 31, of 208 Lewis Street, St. Johns, was unhurt. Clinton County Prosecutor Roland Duguay Tuesday morning authorized a warrant charging Riojas with manslaughter in connection with the death. An autopsy was performed on the victim Monday night to determine for sure the cause of death.

SHERIFF'S OFFICERS said Riojas was driving east on M-21 toward St. Johns when he suddenly swerved in front of the oncoming Forist car. Riojas' car wound up upside down in a ditch on the north side of the highway, and the Forist car stopped crossways on the highway.

St. Johns firemen were called out to the scene as a precaution, but there was no fire. The accident happened west of the Beechem Laboratories just outside the city limits.

Riojas waived examination before Municipal Judge Harold Reed Tuesday morning and was bound over to circuit court. He is being held on $10,000 bond.

SCD junior directors get House welcome

Junior directors of the Clinton County Soil Conservation District were publicly introduced to the Michigan House of Representatives during a visit to the legislative chambers May 27.

The occasion was a trip to the capitol to meet with Rep. Blair Woodman. The junior directors told Woodman about the little problem which they found "serious" during the county-wide "Operation Clean-Up" earlier this spring.

The junior directors have a litter display now which will be circulated for exhibit in towns of Clinton County this summer. The junior directors were accompanied by Orville Beachler from the Soil Conservation Service; two district clerks, Eileen Boak and Linda Marek; and William Vondrasek, vo-ag teacher from Bath High School.

The junior directors and their guests present were: Jerry Wirth, Pewamo - Westphalia; Russ Wirth, Pewamo - Westphalia; Connie Theis, Pewamo - Westphalia; Rosanne Stump, Pewamo - Westphalia; Colleen Schaffer, Pewamo - Westphalia; Bruce Harte, St. Johns; Calvin Moore, Ovid - Elsie; Carter Moore, Ovid - Elsie; Tom Nessiman, Bath; and Connie Lynch, Bath.

Agriculture is the second largest source of income in Michigan.

THE NEWS IN BRIEF

Michigan State Police officers made 23,772 arrests in April, 21,605 of them for traffic offenses and 2,267 on criminal complaints.

One lane of a short section of westbound I-96 west of Portland is closed for two weeks to permit pavement repairs at two locations on the jointless pavement. All cement work is being done during the late-evening hours, and high-intensity lighting will be used to illuminate the area.

Clinton area residents interested in putting their skills to use in developing nations around the world are invited to take the Peace Corps Placement Test at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday, June 15, at either the federal or post office building in Battle Creek, Flint, Grand Rapids, Lansing or Saginaw.

Mary H. Robinson of 1987 N. Warren, Ovid, and Ernest E. Root, 77, of 800 E. Cass Street, St. Johns, were involved in a two-car crash Monday afternoon at M-21 and Brush Street. City police said Root was turning left onto M-21 from Brush and hit the left side of Mrs Robinson's car turning left onto Brush.

Record 94 boys ready, waiting for Soap Box Derby this Sunday

Clinton County's big annual Soap Box Derby will be held this Sunday afternoon and evening, weather permitting, in downtown St. Johns.

Ninety-four boys — a record number — have entered cars in the coasting race, and that may make St. Johns the largest Soap Box Derby in the state.

Festivities will get under way at 4:30 p.m. Sunday with a parade of more than 40 units. There'll be a powder puff derby for girls, and the annual oil can race, this year between Mayor Charles Coletta of St. Johns and the village presidents of Westphalia and Fowler.

The derby races themselves will begin at 5 p.m., and Director William McCarthy said he expects the racing and awards presentation to follow will be over by around 9 p.m.

FIFTEEN BOYS WILL share in prizes. The top award for the winner will be a $500 savings bond from Chevrolet, the national sponsor of the derby, a trophy and a trip to Akron, Ohio, Aug.

24 for the All-American Soap Box Derby.

The derby's local sponsors, Bee's Chevrolet-Olds and the St. Johns Jaycees, are also awarding prizes to the runners-up. The second-place winner will receive a portable television set, a Polaroid 220 Land camera will go to the third-place finisher, a Sting-Ray bicycle for fourth place and a Wyler wrist watch for fifth.

Other prizes include: portable radio for sixth place, Polaroid Swinger camera for seventh, Caravelle wrist watch for eighth, Johnson rod and reel for ninth; baseball glove for 10th, model airplane for 11th, portable radio for 12th; Zebco rod and reel for 13th, slot car for 14th and football for 15th.

Final preparations for the derby boys will take place Sunday afternoon when the boys will gather at the Villa hall at 2:30 p.m. to receive their T-shirts and helmets and have their group picture taken.

Final inspection of cars will be this Wednesday and Friday from 7-9 p.m. at the Villa, which is derby headquarters. An inspection was held last Saturday, but a trial run on Railroad Street Hill was canceled because of rain.

HERE'S HOW THINGS will shape up Sunday.

At 4:30 p.m. aerial bombs will sound the start of events, — a flag raising ceremony by Boy Scouts and the St. Johns Senior Band. The invocation will be by the Rev. Harold Homer. At 4:40 p.m. the St. Johns Soap Box Derby queen will be crowned from among five finalists—Gail Fosmoe, Linda Cole, Christine Signs, Susan Holm and Cheryl Worrall.

The band will then march down Clinton Avenue to pick up the parade, which will start at 4:50 following three aerial bomb bursts. At 5:20 the Mayors' Oil Can Race will be run, and five minutes later last year's derby champ, Lee Smith of rural De-Will, will make his final run on the hill.

At 5:30 the Soap Box Derby race will start. The powder puff race will be at 8:10 p.m., followed by the finals of the main derby.

The presentation of awards and the crowning of the 1968 Soap Box Derby queen from among St. Johns, Westphalia and Fowler girls will be held at 8:30 p.m. The closing salute to the community will be in the form of fireworks at 9 p.m.

Bank's flower show on June 20

The Clinton National Bank and Trust Co.'s fourth annual flower show has been scheduled for Thursday, June 20, with judging of entries to be done in five general classes again this year.

The deadline for entering the show is 4 p.m. June 20, Gary A. Aube, manager and floral arranger for Smith Floral of Lansing, will judge entries between then and 7 p.m., when the bank lobby will be open for two hours for leisurely citizen inspection of the floral exhibits.

Prizes and ribbons will be awarded in the five classes—single specimens, formal arrangements, informal arrangements, miniature arrangements and floating arrangements.

Congregational Bible school to open Monday

The Vacation Bible School at the First Congregational Church in St. Johns will start next Monday and run through June 14.

All children who were in kindergarten and grades one through six this past school year are invited to participate. The school will be held each morning from 9 to 11:30 a.m.

The theme this year is "Into All the World." From stories, slides and handicraft, children will learn about the church's work in Mexico, the Philippines, South India, Greece and the United States.

The school will culminate in the observance of Children's Day on June 16, which is also Father's Day.

Traffic tickets issued in 4 city auto crashes

St. Johns police issued traffic citations in five automobile accidents within the city during the last week. None involved serious injuries, although several persons received cuts or bruises and one was treated at the hospital.

James R. Laplow, 25, of 609 N. Lansing Street, St. Johns, and Lynn D. Payne, 77, of Holt were drivers of cars that collided at Sturgis and Wight streets about 11:20 Friday morning. Payne was ticketed for failure to yield the right-of-way after his southbound car pulled in front of Laplow's.

Melody Dush, 19, of Welling Road, R-1, Elsie was treated at Clinton Memorial Hospital for cuts and bruises in a three-car accident Friday evening on Clinton Avenue north of Higham in downtown St. Johns.

She was a passenger in a car driven by Sally L. Dush, 18, of the same address. Miss Dush was ticketed for not having her car under control after it struck the rear of one driven by Dennis J. Dunkel, 20, of 1504 E. Walker Road, St. Johns. Dunkel's car was shoved into the rear of one driven by Ronnie W. Dush, 19, of Willowbrook Road, R-1, Elsie; both were stopped for other traffic on Clinton Avenue.

BARBARA A. Skorna, 26, of 405 S. Mead Street was ticketed for failure to yield the right-of-way after she pulled off Ottawa Street Sunday morning and into the side of a car driven by Joan Miller of Airport Road, R-1, St. Johns. She was going east on State Street.

A Skandia, Mich., driver, Ingo G. Helnz, 20, was ticketed for failure to yield the right-of-way and improper lane usage that resulted in a three-car collision at the intersection of M-21 and US-27 Monday afternoon. His wife, Darlene, 19, suffered bruises in the crash.

City police said Helnz started to pull to the right of a car driven by Mark B. Bennett, 17, of 210 S. Church Street, who was stopped for the traffic light. As he pulled out, Helnz's car was struck by one driven by Jan S. Komivés, 27, of 5323 Townsend Road, R-6. The impact shoved the Helnz car into the rear of Bennett's auto.

Be sure you are right—then pause a moment for reflection.

A 13th Regiment of Alabama Volunteers (authentic Confederate brigade), and sanitary engineering crew.

The "Alabama Volunteers" are noted for their authentic Confederate uniforms. The "Camden Rifles," as they're also known, are commanded by "Corp." James P. Quinlan of Reed City and includes some 19 men aged 18 to 33. All are either college students or graduates, and they come from Kalamazoo, Detroit, Grand Rapids, East Lansing, Virginia and Texas.

"Some refer to our uniforms as 'rag-tag,'" Quinlan said. "This I deplore. We represent the Southern Infantrymen as he was, as he was armed, uniformed and equipped in the late period of the Civil War.

"We wear the heavy gray and butternut wools because this is what those Americans then wore, rain or shine. All uniforms are authentic as to weight of material and pattern.

"Two of us wear shoes which were made in Viet Nam from an original pattern of shoes of that day. Shoemakers in the States wouldn't undertake the work." The great-grandfather of "Alabama Volunteer" Greg Heppie was killed while fighting on the side of the Confederacy.

PARADE CHAIRMAN Mari Livingston said the group "has been asked by ABC-TV to create several scenes for a production they will be filming in Petersburg, Va., later this month. It is entitled "The Epic of Modern Man."

The Greenfield Village pamphlet this year includes a picture of the "13th."

The group will be in St. Johns Saturday evening and will bivouac on the railroad station property Saturday night, providing "tough banjo pickin', fife, etc., battle-line formations, firing and loading (blanks)," and other entertainment until derby time.

Derby queen hopefuls collect $485 for fund

The 10 semi-finalists in the St. Johns Miss Soap Box Derby Contest have contributed $485 to the sponsoring Jayceettes fund to help emotionally and culturally deprived children.

The five finalists were selected on the basis of money which they collected as votes in the contest. The finalists are Gail Fosmoe, Linda Cole, Christine Signs, Susan Holm and Cheryl Worrall.

Mrs. Lowell Rinker, Jaycette chairman for the Miss Soap Box Derby Contest, said judges were to meet Wednesday to select the St. Johns queen, but she won't be named until Sunday. Saturday afternoon the five girls will go to Westphalia where other judges will select the county Derby queen from among girls from Westphalia, Fowler and St. Johns.

10 apply for DeWitt principal

DEWITT — At least 10 applications for the position of high school principal are being studied by the DeWitt Board of Education.

A special meeting is being planned by the board concerning the hiring. The principalship was left vacant about a month ago when Anthony Drago resigned. Frank Deak has served as acting principal.

Outside of the principalship, the turnover of teachers in the DeWitt school system appears to be "normal." Only eight teachers have indicated they won't be back; two of them are retiring. Three new teachers have already signed contracts for next year, according to Supt. James Ritchie.

Law catches up on 4 1/2 year charge

The law finally caught up with Frank D. Swartz, 43, of Detroit. He had been sought for 4 1/2 years on a charge of leaving the scene of a personal injury accident on US-27 north of Stoll Road Oct. 11, 1963. Two persons were hurt in the crash.

Efforts to locate Swartz were nil until Detroit police checked his record after arresting him last week on a drunk and disorderly charge. He appeared before St. Johns Municipal Judge Harold Reed Monday and was released on $1,000 bond pending trial.

O-E asks 14 mills on rebound

crease in taxes.

If the millage issue falls again, Ovid-Elsie will be in the same boat St. Johns and Fowler are in — there won't be enough allocated millage to make the school eligible for state school aid.

"We won't be able to open our doors next fall without state aid," Beauchamp said. He said the school board has proposed a conservative budget of just over $1.2 million for next year, and the allocated millage would produce only $188,749.

The 14 mills is being sought for just one year.

Another ballot to be given to Ovid-Elsie voters Monday will be for making a choice for the two school board seats open this summer. There are three candidates: incumbent Raymond Stewart and challengers Gilbert Boykin and Richard DePond. Francis Johnson, whose term expires this year, is not seeking reelection.

Polling places Monday will be the Elsie Junior High building for residents of the old Elsie district and the Ovid Junior High for residents of the former Ovid district. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

14 here named to President's All-American fitness team

Fourteen St. Johns public and St. Joseph parochial junior high students—10 of them girls—have been selected for Presidential Physical Fitness Awards on the basis of physical fitness tests taken over the last three weeks.

About 450 students from the seventh and eighth grades at the two schools took part in the tests.

Winners were: from Central Junior High, eighth graders Chris Beechler, Diane Sibley, Jack Spencer and Rick Sevanski, and seventh graders Sharon Barnes, Robin Lucas, Angie Sirrine and Linda Hoten; from St. Joseph School, eighth graders Jean Feld-pausch, Phyllis Ochis, Cathy Stoddard and Shirley Eisler, and seventh graders Gary Mankey and Jerry Smith.

Roger DePaape, physical education instructor, said the 14 students had to score 85 per cent or above on each of seven test items. They were named to the President's All-American team. Another 270 earned achievement certificates for being in the 50th percentile or above, and 55 earned gold seals for their certificates for attaining the 80th percentile.

ALREADY WIDELY used in schools, the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation (AAHPER) youth fitness test assesses physical strength, stamina, speed, agility and co-ordination.

Test items are sit-ups, shuttle run, standing broad jump, 50-yard dash, softball throw, 600-yard run and pull-ups for boys and the flexed-arm hang for girls.

Recipients of the Presidential Physical Fitness Award receive a certificate suitable for framing. Handsomely printed in gold and black, it bears the President's signature, presidential seal, a congratulatory message and the recipient's name.

Award emblems, three inches in diameter and embroidered in gold, red, blue and white, will also be given to be worn on sweaters, jackets and blazers.

Established by President Johnson the Presidential Physical Fitness Award program honors students who demonstrate exceptional physical achievement. It was conceived by the President's Council on Physical Fitness, and program details were developed jointly by the council and the AAHPER.

Certificates and emblems for the winners will arrive during the summer vacation period.

Pistol shooters end competition

A pistol division of the Thorny Acres Sportsman Club located on French Road, called the Star Gazers, has completed its first season of pistol competition.

Winter league trophies will be awarded June 10 at the clubhouse. Winners were: First, John Minsky; second, Edward Robinson; third, William Aldrich. During the winter competition members showing the most improvement were: first, Larry Smith; second, Gerald Kilgore, and third, Dwight Carmon.

The next project of the group will be to sponsor a junior rifle club for boys and girls 16 to 18 years of age. Instructing the youths will be a certified National Rifle Assn. instructor, Ed Robinson.

LITTLE LEAGUE TRYOUTS DRAW BIG CROWD

Nearly 100 boys were on hand Monday night at the St. Johns Little League field for the final night of tryouts for places on the new and existing Little League and Pony League teams. Managers and coaches met afterward to make their selection of players for this year. The lists of team members will be published next week.

Swimming pool opening week of 17th-at earliest

Opening of a county-wide swimming program at Veteran's Memorial Swimming Pool in St. Johns now is scheduled for the week of June 17 at the earliest and may be delayed until the week of June 24.

According to Dr Herbert Oatley, chairman of the Clinton County Memorial Swimming Pool Fund Committee, "We have our fingers crossed on arrival of equipment," Dr Oatley said filters, a heater and pumps were to arrive this week. It will take another week to install the equipment, he added.

In the meantime, the committee was to meet with the Lansing YMCA Tuesday night to discuss details of the summer program for area youngsters. The YMCA has agreed to direct swimming activities.

Although exact opening date remains a question mark, Dr Oatley said all Clinton youngsters taking swimming lessons will pay the same rate.

Scrubbing and painting the pool were under way this week, with volunteer labor. Scrubbing was by volunteers of Federal-Mogul Corp., while painting was to be done by Bellant Brothers.

Installation of equipment when it arrives will be by R.E. Benson Plumbing and Heating.

Volunteers put park in shape

A "great turnout" of volunteer help was on hand at the city park in St. Johns last Wednesday evening, and picnic tables were installed and swings put up and the park generally put in order for the Memorial Day weekend.

"We'd like to thank all the organizations for their fine cooperation in cleaning up the park," Ed Schmitt, chairman of a volunteer steering committee, said Tuesday. About 42 persons were on hand.

Schmitt said another work bee at the park is planned for next Wednesday, June 12, in which the committee hopes helpers can put the park in shape for the rest of the summer.

Schmitt, Gene Downing and Red Lundy are overseeing the volunteer work by a dozen local organizations. City finances this year won't allow operation of the park without this volunteer help.

Fortune never smiles on a man just because he expects it.

Readers have their say in letters to editor on school millage

Good education most important community service

Dear Editor:

Many words have been written in the last two months about the plight of the St. Johns School System. If words in a newspaper are effective in convincing the community that a serious threat to our children's education is about to fall upon us if the June 10 millage proposal isn't approved, then these words come very easy.

I travel extensively throughout the state in my work and often have the opportunity to discuss school systems and curriculums in other cities. The St. Johns School System has much respect from many people for its administration and its ability to produce so high a percentage of college students.

We have been very lucky in this community in the past to have so high a quality of education without having to pay an enormous cost. Now times have changed and services of any type are demanding higher payment. I don't believe that there is any service in a community that is quite so important as good education; without it we are jeopardizing the future of all our children.

Many people have stated that the only way this community will recognize the problem of financing our schools is to deprive that community of an adequate school system for a year or two. I do not believe this and hope you don't either. True, our tax system certainly needs renovating, but until that time comes let's not forget the children of this community and their future. Vote yes on June 10.

School, taxes haven't been wasted, he says

Dear Editor,

A very serious issue faces voters on June 10 in the St. Johns school millage election. Conscientious parents and conscientious citizens have no choice but to vote yes.

The temptation to vote no certainly is strong at a time when the cost of living continues to rise, when we now pay a state income tax, when those of us who work in Lansing now pay a city income tax, and we are threatened with a federal income tax surcharge.

The temptation to vote no is great because this is the only place left where we can voice disapproval for those things that hit our pocketbook.

The cost of public and private education has risen dramatically in the past five years. This is not the fault of our board of education or our administration, but rather a condition of our times that exists throughout the nation. We have been very fortunate in our school district when we compare our past millage with that of taxpayers in other school districts throughout the state. In fact, latest figures show our school district ranks 476th out of 531 in our state in per capita expenditure.

We have been very fortunate. We have not wasted any money in our school district because we have not been called upon to provide enough money to be wasted. Yet our school remains on the North Central accredited list year after year.

We are on the verge of becoming a top school district with our new high school, a building for junior high, and a solid physical foundation for an improved city and rural elementary system. It would appear to be somewhat foolhardy at this time for us not to provide the money to retain our teachers, to attract new teachers, and to keep our school doors open fulltime next September.

If we really face up to it, although things are never perfect, we can afford for the most part many of the material things of this world that we want. We can also afford to educate our children and our neighbors' children if we choose to do so.

In this matter we have no choice but to vote yes. To do otherwise might well result in a situation that would be extremely serious if not tragic. Our children are our only important heritage, and our children must not be shortchanged on this issue.

I respectfully urge you to vote yes on June 10.

Sincerely,
JOHN L. GAFFNEY

letter, so I hope this squelches the nonsense about people who are against high millage as also being against education.

OUR MAIN PROBLEM started with the taxpayers in the St. Johns District being hoodwinked into voting for an elaborate school which we could not afford. Now we are being told that if we do not come across with every dime that the board of education asks for, our children will suffer, and I say if we do our children will suffer.

I have talked with many people who have no idea as to what they are paying for schools, or how much they might have to pay. The school board will tell you that 12.8 mills is for one year, but have they told you that this will bring us up to 35.58 mills for our over-all taxes?

On at least three different occasions I have asked school board members what the cost of completing the new high school will cost - such as new furnishings, teachers, maintenance etc. - and on each occasion I have been told that this has not even been discussed as yet. Can you imagine anyone in business building a multi-million dollar plant and having no idea whatsoever as to what it was going to cost to complete and operate this plant? I would dare say this man would soon be looking for a new job.

Since the superintendent and school board apparently believe that this is immaterial and that the taxpayer will have to pay regardless of the cost, some of the responsible men in the school district have been doing some figuring and came up with the figure of an additional 15 mills which will bring a tax load of near 50 mills. Can you afford this? I cannot!

In trying to push this millage across, the school board has used a series of comparisons with other school districts, sort of a "keep up with the Joneses" campaign, so let me do the same. A few days ago the Lansing school district turned down 3.4 mills. If they can't afford this we certainly cannot afford 12.8 mills. We, the people in the school district, must continue to turn this millage down until we force the legislature in Lansing to return a small portion of the taxes we are paying to the state for their "castle in the sky" projects. Even though these men think they are little gods, remember we elected them and we can remove them from office.

This is only a small portion of what could be said on this subject. I feel I must plead with you to turn this millage down until we know what we are buying and ask the voters to vote for the new men who are running for the school board.

GERALD HENNING
East Parks Road,
St. Johns

'Negative vote won't solve problems'

Dear Editor:

This is my first letter to express my views on our school system in the St. Johns School District.

I will preface this by saying that we have two children, both a long way to go before they are ready for college. We are taxpayers in this district.

It is my firm belief that we have a good educational system in this district, in that I don't mean we agree with everything they do, but on the whole I can't see where the school board or the administration are wasting our money.

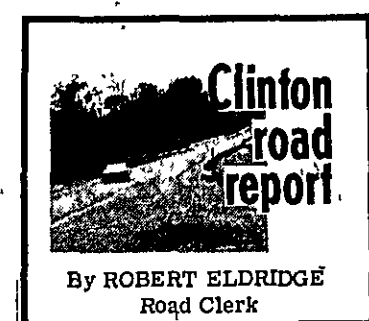

We, as taxpayers, have a responsibility not only to our children but our neighbors' children and to the future of the whole community. Our generation can and will be judged by our decisions and actions this year, next year and in the following period. We are given the privilege of controlling the destiny of this community.

Due to the millage allocated to us by the allocation board for operation of our schools it will be very necessary to vote for the 12.8 mills the school board is asking for. Although the state has increased the State Aid for the operation of the schools for the year 1968-69, without a responsible attitude from us it will not be available. I sincerely hope the school officials will lay it squarely on the table and give us the facts as to why we need this millage.

I believe we have proven that this community is a place we like to talk about; we have demonstrated our willingness to make contributions to the swimming pool fund and other worthwhile projects. We do not agree that this is the method that should be used to promote civic responsibilities. We elect people to do these things for us and I for one, firmly believe they are the ones who should make these decisions for us. If we think they are not doing the job they are supposed to do, then it is up to us as residents and taxpayers to get someone in office who will, simply a negative attitude and a negative vote will not solve any problems. It will only create new ones.

We have a good school system, we have the children and they must have an education, and we, the people of this community, must do our part and meet our responsibilities by a YES vote on June 10. I believe as long as this is for one year only we should support our school board and keep our schools open. If we do not face up to our responsibilities, we can expect the state to do it for us, and regardless of how it comes, we are going to pay for the education our children will and must have. Let's do it ourselves and keep some semblance of sanity and control at the local level.

Sincerely yours,
MRS BETTY SNIDER
306 S. Baker St.
St. Johns

There is a continuing problem in the operation of the road commission that I have mentioned before in other columns, but it is one that can stand further discussion. This is the matter of theft and destruction of road signs - particularly those placed to mark newly found, temporary hazards. These can be large holes in the road, a fallen tree, a road wash out - any one of many things that can be extremely dangerous to nighttime drivers if they are unmarked.

We try to repair or remove such hazards immediately after they are discovered, but there are times when it is impossible to do so and it is on these occasions that we place barricades, flasher lights, and road lamps to mark them through the night.

Many, many times these warning markers are stolen, smashed or thrown into the nearest ditch or stream, and the hazard goes unmarked until our repair crews arrive.

The loss of these markers makes for a very considerable expense, of course. For example, we rent the flasher lights from a rental service which keeps them in repair and replaces all stolen or broken lights. Just recently we received a very substantial boost in the rental rate solely because of these losses.

THE FINANCIAL loss, though, is insignificant in comparison to the danger that the driving public is exposed to through the thoughtless removal of these markers.

Who commits these acts of theft and vandalism? It is not any one particular age group. Grown men have been known to use a road sign for target practice as have also young boys with their first guns. Small boys, 10 or 12 years old have been seen throwing the markers into ditches, and teenage boys and girls often steal them. Drunk drivers run into them and other drivers, for reasons known only to themselves, deliberately run them over, and smash them with their autos.

Very probably, the people who so thoughtlessly expose other drivers to the very real dangers that these signals mark and warn about will not be reading this column. However, if we instruct our children about matters like this and if we report to the authorities when we see anyone destroying such warning signs, it might just help to correct the problem.

As the situation stands right now, our men feel it is almost futile and useless to place temporary road hazard warnings knowing that in all probability they will be removed before the next morning, but it must be done to relieve the commission of responsibility, at least, and just what else can be done? Frankly, we don't know; we only hope that concerned and informed drivers can help us and themselves in catching the offenders and stopping the offenses.

Calls millage 'necessary'

Dear Editor,

In recent weeks it has become increasingly apparent that the people of our community are taking a serious look at the community and its problems. Not only are we looking, but many of us are beginning to act to solve these problems.

Not the least of our difficulties concerns our children and our schools. At the present time the question is whether or not our schools will be able to open in the fall. If they open, will they be able to offer our children adequate opportunities?

The millage vote on June 10 is necessary for an adequate education. For the benefit of my two sons and the community at large, I plan to vote YES. I sincerely hope that the rest of the community will do likewise.

MRS WILLIAM C. KEMPER

Here's a plea against school millage issue

Dear Editor:

I have a few thoughts on the millage issue that I believe should be heard. First of all let's get straight who is "for" and who is "against" education. The whole theme of the propaganda, or sales pitch, put forth by the superintendent and his school board is that if you are against a raise in millage you are automatically against education which, unfortunately, many people believe. I am against a raise in millage but by no means am I - or have I ever been - against education.

I do not believe anyone could be more aware than I of the importance of a good education. For quite a few years I have been helping to support two school systems. This is by my own choice because I want my children to have a complete education and, even though the supreme court says it's against the law, I feel religion is an important part of education.

Next year we will have two children in high school and I hope they will get as good an education as possible. As for paying for their education I believe that I will be paying a far greater share than will the majority of people who read this Decision is up to taxpayers

Dear Editor:

As a result of the decision of the allocation board this week, the decision of whether or not we have school this fall rests entirely upon us, the voters and taxpayers of this school district. With less than 8 mills allocated to the schools they cannot benefit from even partial state aid.

Let us remember - we must have schools. There is no cheap way to present a child with a good education. If we fail to do so, the state will do it for us and this we know will cost all of us more.

If you disapprove of the tax system, let your legislators know; but the issue at hand for all of us, whether we have a street or rural route address is to vote 'YES' on June 10.

If you disagree, don't explain it to us, explain it to your children and/or grandchildren.

Sincerely,
DICK and HELEN KOHLS

The motto for the class of 1968 is "Prepare For the Future; you will spend the rest of your life in it." The class flower is the yellow rose, and class colors are yellow and white. School closes this Friday in the Fulton school system.

2 cars collide in Ovid, none hurt

OVID — Two cars collided at Clinton and Mill streets in Ovid late Saturday morning, but no one was hurt. The cars were driven by Patricia Hall, 25, of Corunna, and Edward A. McCormick, 61, of 208 W. High Street, Ovid.

Ovid police said Mrs Hall had stopped at Clinton Street, then started across Clinton in front of the westbound McCormick car.

Shepardsville By Lucille Spencer

Farewell dinner

About 70 members of the Shepardsville Church enjoyed a bountiful potluck Family Night supper last Saturday evening in the social rooms of the church. The occasion was a farewell dinner for Rev and Mrs John Huhtala. Rev Huhtala will be returning to the Detroit Conference sometime about the middle of June. He graduates this Friday afternoon from the Garrett Theological Seminary at Evanston, Ill.

He will be ordained on Friday evening, June 14 at the Detroit Conference Annual meeting in Adrian. Several from this area are planning to attend this service. Rev and Mrs Huhtala were presented with a monetary gift from the church.

After the supper a short program was presented, with Dale Squiers in charge. It opened with all singing "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name", followed by a brief prayer. There was instrumental music by Michael Swender, who played the organ, Lon Buckley, who played the drums, and Edwin Waters, who played the guitar. The Squiers sisters trio sang two numbers from the Sound of Music. Robert Henderson sang "The Old Brown Pants", Warren Gutshall gave a reading that he learned in 1910. It was about a certain kind of preacher who closed the church and went on a vacation. A quartet (in costume and masked) sang "The Unicorn" and "Simon Says". The quartet consisted of Chandler Gleason on the piano, Gwen Personous, accordion, singers Edith Walker and Helen Squiers.

Before the program closed Rev Huhtala said that he had a telephone call from the office of the bishop that he had been appointed to the church in St. Ignace. This is subject to change.

The closing song was "God Be With You 'Til We Meet Again". Prayer of dismissal by Clare Alderman.

Honored at the worship service Sunday morning were the seniors who are from the Shepardsville area. Those honored were Ross Baker, Norman Dunkel, Lee Hibbard, Janice Petersen and Helen Squiers. They were presented with a small gift from the church. Rev John Huhtala was also honored by the official board of the church. He received a red and white stole with gold embroidery.

Thursday, June 13, there will be a signing up time for all those young people from midget age on up (both boys and girls) who would like a softball team. Time, 3-5 p.m. Sponsored by the Methodist men of the church.

Anyone wishing to attend the ordination service of Rev John Huhtala is to contact Dale Squiers.

Citizens group to meet June 12

A citizens group will meet for the second time next Wednesday evening to consider means of helping St. Johns get back on a sound financial basis.

The meeting was called by Alan R. Dean, whose public letter a month ago urged citizen support of the city. Next Wednesday's meeting will start at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building Auditorium.

No name was chosen for the assemblage at the first meeting. The consensus expression of those present indicated further meetings should be to correctly inform citizens of the city on municipal problems, to create a better climate in which elective and administrative officials can operate, and to take positive steps to aid elected officials in solving present problems of insufficient funds so normal municipal services can be resumed.

"All of these are a part of a positive approach and outlook toward our municipal government," Dean said. THE MEETING NEXT Wednesday will cover the 1968-69 city budget recently adopted. It will be compared with budgets of the past few years in regard to size

Window vandals prevalent in city

Vandalism by breaking windows has been prevalent around St. Johns during the last week. Russell Elsea of 810 E. Cass Street reported last Thursday someone shot out two windows at his home with a B-B gun. Martin Richmond of 701 N. Lansing reported Sunday that two storm windows had been shot out with a B-B gun, too, one of them on May 26.

Bill Karber, owner of the Ranch Roller Rink, reported four windows broken out at the rink over the weekend. Stones had been thrown through them. Joe Mesh of R-3, St. Johns reported three basement windows of a new house at 806 W. Baldwin Street were broken over the weekend. He found small steel bearings inside, pointing to use of a sling-shot to break the windows.

Mennonite Bible school planned

The Bethel Mennonite Church along US-27 south of M-57, is conducting a summer Bible school again this year. The dates for the school are June 10 - 21, and the time of the day is 8:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

There will be classes for children from kindergarten through eighth grade. The theme for the school this year is "Witnessing for Jesus." The materials used are published by Herald Press, Scottsdale, Pa., and are noted for their interdenominational appeal and also for their close adherence to the Bible. An invitation is extended to all the children in the community to attend.

of budget and services rendered. There will also be discussion of appraisals and assessments relating to tax on real and personal property in recent years. A question and answer period will be included in the agenda.

"Everyone interested in progress for our municipal government is urged to attend and help get this community back on the level it has been and must be for the future," Dean said.

2 TIRES, WHEELS STOLEN

Two tires and wheels were stolen off a car at Traver's Used Autos at 1012 N. US-27, the firm reported to city police Monday.

7 receive Red Cross Volunteer service awards

Service awards presentations highlighted a meeting of the Red Cross Volunteers May 23 at the home of Mrs Forrest Swatman in St. Johns.

Eight-year service numerals went to Mrs Levi (Ruby) Blakeslee for 1,325 hours total service; Mrs Cecil (Lucille) Boak for 1,105 hours; Mrs Lysle (Dorothy) Steves for 1,160 hours; and Mrs (Doris) Swatman for 1,269 hours.

A four-year service numeral went to Mrs John (Mary) Warstler for 644 total hours and Mrs Harold (Elizabeth) Millman for 137 hours.

The awards were presented by unit Co-Chairman Mrs Lawrence Merignac.

In her Red Cross yearly report, also given to the Clinton Memorial Hospital Assn. at its annual meeting recently, unit Chairman Mrs Doris Prowant noted 24 volunteers spent 2,885 hours working at the hospital in the 12-month period ending May 1. The hours represent a labor cost savings to Clinton Memorial of $3,606.25 in the past year, based on a $1.25-per-hour pay rate, according to Mrs Prowant.

Five new volunteers will be starting to work at the hospital soon.

MRS PROWANT gave a resume of activities of the Red Cross Volunteers of Clinton County, have participated in since their last meeting in February. Included were four immunization clinics, five canteens, two chapter meetings in Lansing, a chairman's workshop involving seven counties, and capping ceremonies at MSU involving four persons from Clinton County. Fifteen Red Cross volunteers served as guides at Clinton Memorial Hospital May 19 during the open house.

Mrs Prowant told volunteers she had reminded the hospital's directors, trustees and Auxiliary that Red Cross Volunteers will not participate in any fund-raising projects while in uniform. Red Cross funds come from the Communities Chest program and not from TV rentals or the gift counter, she said; those are Auxiliary projects.

'Vietnamese haven't moral strength for independence,' ex-Elsie engineer says

ELSIE—Russell D. Taylor, son of Mr and Mrs Floyd V. Taylor of R-1, Elsie, is an engineer with a private firm operating at Da-Nang, Viet Nam, and he had some comments recently concerning the "moral strength for independence" of the Vietnamese people.

Taylor now calls his home Tucson, Ariz. He was interviewed by John Riddick of the Tucson Citizen. This is the reprinted article.

The first convoys that rolled into Khe Sanh after the road was opened carried equipment to build a new airstrip that was designed by Tucson engineer—Russell D. Taylor.

"I'm not in on tactical planning and I don't know if they will build the strip," said Taylor in his office here. "But they'll have the facilities if they decide to do so."

Taylor arrived in Da Nang the first of the year, hired by Adrian Wilson Associates as its chief engineer, with the new Khe Sanh airstrip as his first assignment.

Initially, he was supposed to go to Khe Sanh to make a survey and soil samples. But the siege began, changing this plan.

"We were prepared to go if they said so. But they wouldn't let us," said Taylor.

THE PRESENT 3,900-foot strip at Khe Sanh, with its simple aluminum matting surface, has been falling under the pounding of the cargo ships.

A rock crusher and a hot asphalt plant have been sent to Khe Sanh to lay a more durable strip of 4,100 feet. There's a rock quarry west of the base, towards Laos, said Taylor.

The future of Khe Sanh is still not announced but apparently it will continue to be used in some way.

Taylor worked on airport projects while in Tucson at both Bisbee - Douglas International and Davis-Monthan AFB.

Adrian Wilson Associates, which has designed $1 billion worth of facilities in the past three years, has done master plans for many of the air bases of Vietnam.

Taylor works with a staff consisting mainly of "third nationals"—foreigners from countries other than the United States.

He calls these men from Korea and Formosa highly capable comparable with Americans, except that they lack self-confidence and need American leadership and encouragement to use their talents.

Be a Michigan Minuteman. Take a minute to tell someone about Michigan, the nation's pantry.

In variety, volume and quality Michigan's food production constantly amazes the most incredulous and pleases the most particular.

Annually almost all the country's navy beans are grown in Michigan; 7,385,000 hundred-pound bags of 'em to be almost exact.

By resolution promulgated by House Speaker Uncle Joe Cannon in 1904, Michigan bean soup is on the menu of the congressional restaurants in Washington every day.

Michigan is first in production of red tart cherries, usually producing about 70 per cent of the nation's crop.

Michigan is No. 1 in blueberries, growing about 25 million pounds a year.

Even in a poor year Michigan is first in production of cucumbers for pickles.

In a hundred years Michigan has slipped a little in celery growing. Kalamazoo was the birthplace of commercial celery production in the mid 1800's. Now we're seventh in celery.

Fact is, Michigan comes closer to setting the family table completely—breakfast, lunch and dinner—than any other state.

Want to know more about Michigan as the nation's food supplier? Write to the Michigan Department of Agriculture, Lewis Cass Building, Lansing, 48913.

OF THE DOZEN Vietnamese on the staff, he said, "We're lucky to have more than our share of the honest ones."

Taylor is not an admirer of the Vietnamese. He says, "I never saw physically more endowed people—but they haven't the moral strength for freedom."

In his view, the Vietnamese lack the determination, dedication and strength for their task of winning and building an independent nation.

He told of men in his organization who paid 50,000 to 60,000 dollars ($1 is 118 dollars) to get out of the army and now give half their pay to their former commanders who also collect their military pay.

He told of maids who work at his office who were "shaken down" for 300 dollars on their way to work by police.

"I got so mad, I drove them to work," said Taylor.

And yet with these opinions, Taylor, a World War II pilot, also believes the United States must fight in Viet Nam.

"WE'RE FIGHTING communism; not for Vietnamese freedom," he said. "We've got to fight them somewhere. And they've decided to fight us here. We can't back up forever."

"This war is not for real estate. It is a war of philosophy—of freedom vs. slavery, democracy vs. communism."

"I think they got us over here to bankrupt the country. But I think we should be here to win, not to play around. The war should be fought in Hanoi, not DaNang. "The Communists have picked the battlefields. It would be over in three months if we fought where we want instead of where they want."

"We just have to decide to win the war and tell the military to win it. As soon as the politicians turn it over to the military, we'll have peace. As for the risk of Chinese intervention, I'd rather fight them now than when they have an atomic arsenal."

In the meantime, Taylor feels the presence of war around him in Da Nang. A short drive into the country could be fatal.

TAYLOR, WHO SAID he is here out of interest in "knowing what is going on in foreign work," adds that he finds his experience "great fun, a ball."

There is a cutting away of red tape under the pressure of war "to get things done."

As for pay, "I'd have to make $20,000 a year in the states to equal my pay here," he said. A person who stays overseas for 18 months has the first $20,000 of his pay exempted from income tax.

A graduate of Michigan State, Taylor came to Tucson in 1951, joined Johannesen Girard which later added his name to the firm, and then was a partner in Taylor, McFarland and Johnson. He sold out in 1963 and joined a California firm but continued to maintain a home in Tucson. His wife and two children live at 3407 E. Linden.

Home-makers, too, targets for spring's quacks

By HELEN B. MEACH
Extension Home Economist
It's not only flowers that burst into bloom in the spring... frauds, quacks, and other unethical types who number home-owners and home-makers among their victims appear every spring like weeds after a warm rain.

Peddling of dietary fads and special "health foods" is one of the favorite activities of the gypsies, and it is estimated that at least 10 million persons in the United States fall victim to food fads and fallacies every year.

Dr. James Goddard, commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration, puts it this way: "The woods are still full of the same quacks and charlatans today as they were yesterday. They are still there ready to prey upon the unsuspecting or frightened person who will fall for a short cut to health."

AMERICAN consumers have a food supply that is unsurpassed in quantity, variety and nutritional value. Why, then, should they believe food misinformation of the type commonly offered by food faddists and quacks?

For example, self-styled nutritional "experts" often say that "All older people should take a food supplement." The truth is that older people need a well-rounded diet just as everyone else does; and if it includes dairy products, meat, fruits and vegetables, and cereal products, no dietary supplements should be needed.

Likewise the claim that "Everyone should take vitamins and minerals just to be sure they are well fed" is false. Americans are offered enough variety in their food so there is an excellent chance of their getting the nutrients they need. In some cases, a physician might recommend additional vitamins or minerals for a specific purpose, but indiscriminate dosing without medical advice is foolish and can even be dangerous.

In other cases, alarmists, hoping to reap a profit from frightening their victims into making purchases of special foods or cooking utensils, insist that chemical fertilizers and pesticides are poisoning our soil and the plants grown upon it.

Again, their claims are far from the truth. Actually, chemical fertilizers are necessary to produce enough food to feed our nation and are not poisoning our soil or our food. As for pesticides, when they are used on food crops the FDA limits the levels at which they may be used and the amounts that are allowed to remain on the food. Limitations that are most strictly enforced.

ANOTHER COMMON food-connected fallacy is that aluminum cooking utensils are dangerous to health. Aluminum is the third most abundant element in the earth's crust and it occurs naturally in many foods. Cooking in aluminum utensils is harmless as is cooking in teflon-coated pans, another commonly cited danger. Careful testing of teflon coated cookware has proved that no danger can come from either normal kitchen use or from overheating the utensil.

Examples of food fads and frauds date back to early Greek and Roman times; but we can hope that, as our general knowledge and the quality of our food supply continue to rise, we will outgrow our superstitions and accept a four-square diet as the common sense way to good nutrition.

College Week for Women set for June 25-28

The 41st annual Homemakers' Conference, now popularly called College Week for Women, is scheduled earlier this year than in the past. June 25-28 are the dates, with pre-registration date June 10.
The date change was arranged to facilitate planning and organization for the approaching triennial meeting of the international Associated Country Women of the World, to which Michigan is serving as hostess in early September. Both College Week and the triennial meeting will be held on the beautiful campus of Michigan State University.

Twenty-four classes will be available. Assemblies and special programs contribute to the total College Week program. Informal get-togethers with old friends and new will help to make this a memorable occasion.
Pre-registration blanks and a brief brochure listing classes, cost and other preliminary information are available in the Cooperative Extension office in St. Johns. Sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service, Continuing Education Service and Michigan State University, College Week for Women is open to any woman wanting to attend.

3 applicants win OK for trailers

The Clinton County Zoning Board of Appeals has granted permission to three applicants to locate trailers in the county for purposes of living quarters. Two permits were granted to locate trailers in Olive Township to Mrs Thelma Pardee in Section 22 and to Mrs Burdene S. Weaver in Section 17. Mrs Eva Pearl Löffler had asked to locate a trailer in Section 30, Victor Township. Requests to locate trailers on lots in the county automatically come before the zoning board of appeals. The board can only grant temporary approval, however.

Following the meeting lunch was served, and door prizes were awarded to Pat Snyder and Doris Klein. Virginia Foerch's name was drawn for the kitty, but she was absent.

The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, June 26. Wanda Simon and Marilyn Halfmann will furnish lunch for this meeting, and entertainment will be in charge of Agnes Fox and Donna Piggott.

BEST WISHES, GRADS

Cool it with the cornet, Clyde. The really hip instrument is a V-M portable component system.

Really cool. Stereo amplifier, speakers, and record changer of component quality that are truly portable. They snap together in seconds and carry like luggage. They unsnap and give you the musical performance of components. Powerful Solid State amplifier. Beautifully balanced, ultra-sensitive tone arm with a diamond stylus. Quick, gentle record changer mechanism. Brilliant, wide range High Fidelity stereo speakers. Some non-portable component systems that cost a lot more don't sound nearly as good. So play this at your next recital. It'll be sensational.

VOLUNTEER HELP FOR TEACHER AT CEDAR LAKE SCHOOL

Late last winter several women in the Cedar Lake School area in the southeast part of the St. Johns School District volunteered their assistance to teacher Mrs Margaret Wyrick for helping out with the duties around the school that could be handled by a teacher's aide. The idea was to decrease "secretarial" work and allow Mrs Wyrick more time for teaching. Working with Mrs Wyrick (standing left) with some children last Wednesday were Mrs Paul Andrews, Mrs Richard Archer, Mrs Myron Farrier and Mrs Richard Nickols. The children are Gale Gantz, Ronnie Webster, Roy Webster and Jimmy Farrier. The aides divide their time, and usually no more than one is present at any given time. Walter Nickel, administrative assistant in charge of rural schools, said the four women are strictly volunteers and they get no pay from the schools for their assistance.

Reading club starts at library

Although it won't actually be summer for another two or three weeks, the schedule at Bement Public Library changes when school is out.

Boys and girls are now registering in the adult library for the "Big Top Circus Reading Club," a summer activity especially planned for those who have been in the fourth, fifth, or sixth grades during the school year just past.

The program will last from June 3 through Aug. 24, and during that time members must read a total of 15 books. All books must be checked out from Bement Public Library and must be read this summer, not at some time in the past.

Prizes will be awarded the last of August for the best book report written at each grade level. Colorful bookmarks, membership pins, and small notebooks are available at the library and will be given out to each child as he registers. There are no dues or fees.

FOR THE convenience of patrons who are leaving on vacations, books will be checked out for double the usual length of time, and may be renewed beyond that period if the patron requests.

TRIUMPHANT TRIANGLE

HOME... SCHOOL... CHURCH! The predominant influences in the life of a child. The Home provides love, security, example—to shape the growing personality. The School develops the mind, stimulates initiative, nurtures social responsibility. The Church cultivates faith and character, building the spiritual foundations of a noble life. Wise parents understand the vital importance of each of these influences in the growth of their child. They work faithfully to strengthen all three.

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Elsie people attend unique auction sale

Mrs. Floyd Betzer and Mrs. Wayne Mead of Shepardsville Road spent Wednesday and Friday at the Elmer Caywood Estate auction sale east of St. Louis.

Previous to the sale or at the gate it was necessary for each person to purchase a numbered catalogue for $3.00, which had every article to be sold listed by number and description.

type tent equipped with chairs and bleachers. From 9 to 10 o'clock each morning the articles to be sold that day were on display on double deck tables surrounded by picket fence so they could not be handled.

At 10 o'clock short the sale started with three auctioneers, Joe Helman of Carson City, Jim Sykora of Clare and Art Good of Lansing taking turns at selling. Each article was brought to the auctioneers stand by helpers, all bidding was done by one's catalogue number after which items were returned to the tables.

One dish that sold for $225 the help refused to carry back to the table so the administrator Alfred (Sam) Bush was called and he carried it to the table.

Tuesday's sale was devoted to guns, close to 500 were sold which brought in $46,467.00.

Some of these dated back to Revolutionary war days. The next three days glass, china, lamps, jewelry, clocks and watches were sold and Saturday primitives.

All conveniences were considered, lunch stand, pay phone installed in the granary and a fire truck on the grounds all of the time.

This sale was advertised from coast to coast and people were there from all over Michigan as well as Canada, Tennessee, Florida, Illinois, Ohio, and Iowa.

Friday your reporter went back equipped with two cameras to take pictures of this once in a life time event. Everyone I talked with agreed they had never witnessed anything so fantastic before and it was an experience long to be remembered.

Word came recently from Florida that Clare Stone received and enjoyed many nice cards from his Ovid-Elsie friends. He is feeling some better after undergoing treatment at the hospital for a month and expects to return home soon.

is feeling some better after undergoing treatment at the hospital for a month and expects to return home soon. June 7 is Clare's birthday and a card shower is being planned. His home address is Route 2, Box 246, Sebring, Florida, 33870. Let's all shower him with cards.

Airman 1st Class Ken Waggoner had completed Instrumentation Electronic School at Lowry Air Force Base in Colorado. He has been home on leave visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. Rex Waggoner of Maple River Road for two weeks and leaves Thursday to be stationed at Vandenberg Air Force Base in California.

Mr. Stanley Scanlon of Cheboygan, husband of Ethel Scanlon who owned the yarn shop in Elsie and Bannister, has been very poorly for several weeks and in the hospital part of the time. Their address is 323 Cleveland Street, Cheboygan, Michigan, 49721 and they would appreciate hearing from friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Randall of Indian River have been visiting friends and relatives for several days.

by Dan's Antes

We've talked about colors, the importance of choosing color-fast garments to minimize the danger of running or fading dyes, and the wisdom of sending your fine colors to a reliable cleaner who is experienced in dealing with every kind of dye and fabric.

But this week we thought we ought to remind you about another set of COLORS...the familiar red, white and blue of the American flag.

Mr. and Mrs. Luman Hall called Wednesday evening on Mr. and Mrs. Roger Clark in Lansing.

Incidentally, do you know what the colors in the flag originally stood for? Red is for hardness and valour; white, for purity and innocence; and blue, for vigilance, perseverance and justice.

To help you remember Flag Day, we're happy to renew our annual policy of cleaning your flag free for this occasion. Bring it in soon.

ANNUAL REPORT

CLINTON COUNTY DEPARTMENT OF SOCIAL SERVICES

January 1, 1967 to January 1, 1968

TO THE HONORABLE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF CLINTON COUNTY, MICHIGAN

GENTLEMEN:

We take pleasure in presenting for your information and consideration our twenty-eighth annual report of the operations of the Clinton County Department of Social Services covering the period from January 1, 1967 to and including December 31, 1967.

Respectfully submitted,
Clinton County Social Services Board

Keith D. Wright, Chairman

FOREWORD

We have had a very active year in the Social Service Department. The trends in public assistance are changing rapidly. The needs of the elderly are changing. As more persons reaching retirement age are being covered by Social Security Benefits, fewer people are in need of Old Age Assistance. This is definitely reflected in the decrease of Old Age Assistance cases each year. Although fewer persons are in need of cash assistance, more are in need of medical and hospital assistance. This need is being met by the Medical Assistance Program.

The greater need for cash assistance is now in the area of families where children are deprived of the support of a parent, by reason of death, absence, incapacity, or unemployment. The needs of this group of people is met with cash assistance, but also with better case work or social work services to help them improve their living standards.

This county has not seen the large increase in Aid to Dependent Children cases that many counties have. This appears to be a problem centered primarily in the large metropolitan areas.

We also have a Child Welfare Worker in our office. This program is becoming a larger and more important part of our agency. The legislature has recently made the Department of Social Services responsible for receiving and investigating cases of "abused" or "battered" children in cooperation with the Prosecuting Attorney and Juvenile Court. The law now makes it mandatory that certain professional persons, such as doctors, nurses and school personnel, report cases of suspected child abuse to the Social Service Department for investigation. The program at the County Infirmary is proceeding very nicely. Although our Infirmary is old physically, our Welfare Board was wisely decided to keep the building in good repair. By this statement we mean to make the repairs and improvements as they are needed and thus not to suddenly find ourselves with an exceedingly large amount of expenses which would be impossible to accept at one time. Some counties have found it necessary to close their infirmaries because of the great expense involved in repairing old buildings.

In the near future we will find it necessary to consider the construction of a County Medical Care Facility as the medical needs of our citizens must be met and the present facilities in the county are barely able to meet the present need, let alone the future.

In December of 1967 Clinton County, was approved by the United States Department of Agriculture to handle the Food Stamp Program. This will replace the Surplus Commodity Program. The tentative date for instituting this program is July, 1968.

We certainly must feel that the year 1967 has been a year of great activity in the Social Service Department, but also it has been a year of considerable satisfaction as the overall need of our needy citizens is being met more fully.

PROGRAM ACTIVITIES

STATE-FEDERAL PROGRAM STATISTICS - COMPARISONS 1967 to 1966

	Average Number of cases per mo.	Total Grant	Average case per mo.	Grant per mo.
1967	1966	1967	1967	1966
Old Age Assistance	145	157	127,057.00	73.22	71.73
Aid to Dependent Children	81	86	142,947.00	147.33	122.14
Aid to the Blind	4	4	4,498.00	93.71	72.48
Aid to the Disabled	22	21	18,929.00	70.39	68.79

Medical Assistance - Average Monthly Caseload - 99
Child Welfare - Average Monthly Caseload - 42.4

In Medical Assistance and Child Welfare, we have no statistics on costs since these are paid directly by the State.

DIRECT RELIEF PROGRAM

	1967	1966
Average Number of Cases Per Month	39	49
Average Amount of Assistance Per Month	$56.09	$40.85
Per Case

Total Amount of Direct Relief Payments in 1967 - $26,251.46

The increase in the average monthly grant is due to several factors:

- Much of the cost of physicians and medicines for persons in licensed nursing homes must be covered by Direct Relief.
- We are now using the same budgeting standards for Direct Relief as for State Programs.
- Shelter costs have increased.
- We are covering dental expenses from Direct Relief when State funds are not available.

Even though the total cost has increased somewhat, we can be pleased that the number of recipients has decreased.

APPLICATIONS - REQUESTS FOR ASSISTANCE

Requests for assistance in 1967 - 425

Disposition	OAA	ADC	AD	DR	MA	Hosp.
Approved	10	59	5	139	94	28
Denied - 85
Transferred to another county prior to disposition - 5
Pending Applications Transferred from other Counties - 18

Disposition	ADC	AD	MA
Approved	2	2	6
Denied - 7
Transferred to another county prior to disposition - 1

When a person comes to our office and requests assistance, we no longer categorize the application. We simply register it as a request for assistance. We then proceed to process the application. The social worker will approve the application to the program which will most fully meet the client's needs and for which he is eligible. If the applicant is not eligible for any of our programs, his application is denied, and the client is referred to another agency that may be able to help him if his problem is such that an agency is available that may be of assistance to him.

FARM AND INFIRMARY ACTIVITIES

FARM
We leased the land on a share basis in 1967. This appears to be the best avenue at the present time. We have had a few animals that were retained at the sale and were fed out with feed that was on hand. These have now been butchered and used for food at the Infirmary.

We keep a small flock of chickens and raise a good-sized garden. This is primarily to provide activities for some of the able-bodied residents at the Infirmary.

INFIRMARY

The average number of patients at the Infirmary was 24 during 1967.

The patients are well cared for and the Infirmary is kept clean and comfortable. The report from the State Inspection was very favorable.

The patients, besides some outside activities, have a television room and game room with puzzles and a pool table.

Different community groups have shown interest in the patients. They put on programs of different types, bring gifts and provide services such as washing and setting the hair of women patients.

Different religious organizations have conducted worship services for those who wish to attend.

SURPLUS COMMODITIES PROGRAM

The Surplus Commodity Program has been quite well supported although not all of the eligible families have actually participated by picking up their surplus commodities.

Following is a breakdown of surplus commodity activity:

Average number of cases eligible per month	159
Average number of cases participating per month	132
Average number of cases eligible but not participating	27

Average number of persons eligible per month 698
Average number of persons participating per month 482
Average number of persons eligible but not participating 104

Supervisor Nelson requested the Board to reconsider its action in regards to making a supplementary appropriation to Tri-County Planning Commission in the amount of $5,880.00 to meet their request of $22,800.00. He then moved, supported by Hufnagel, to pay them this amount. Discussion followed. Supervisor Hufnagel asked permission to withdraw his support which the chairman granted. Supervisor Austin then supported Nelson's motion. Norman Thelen then moved, supported by Underhill, to table the motion. Voted and carried.

William Coffey then presented the action taken by the Zoning Commission at the February 27, 1968 meeting. Item one Zoning change in Dallas Township. It was moved by Hufnagel, supported by Shepard, to concur with the recommendation of the Zoning Commission. Voted and carried.

Item I - Dallas Township, From Zone E, to Zone D, Agriculture: All of Dallas Township, except the East 1/2 of the Northeast 1/4 of Section 11, and the Village of Fowler; Comments and action taken: A motion was made by H. L. Brook to rezone and seconded by Clyde Morrill. Motion passed 4 to 0.

Comments and action taken: Mr. Duguay, our attorney, presented the revised restrictions and guidelines as proposed by Harold Maguire (the developer) and the Board evaluated them and made clarifications. The matter of a storm shelter was thought to be important and was discussed at great length; (no conclusion), also, the requirement for hold downs so that trailers may be anchored to the cement slab was included in the restrictions.

A motion was made by H. L. Brook to rezone from G, Industrial to D, Agriculture, also submit approval and recommendations to Board of Supervisors for trailer park permit. Motion supported by Gerald Shepard. Motion carried 4 to 0. Subject to restrictions agreed to and discussed as follows:

Item III Watertown Township on a permit to operate a gravel pit. A condition of which is a Performance Bond in the amount of $4,000.00 to guarantee restoration of the road. The Bond at this date has not been furnished. Moved by Nelson, supported by Austin, to concur with this recommendation. Voted and carried.

Item III - Watertown Township (Smazel)

An application to operate and maintain a sand and gravel pit on the following described parcel of land:

The East 1/2 of the Southeast 1/4 of Section 30, T5N, R3W, and commencing at the NE corner of Section 31, T5N, R3W, thence West 263.5 feet to N1/4 corner of said Section, thence South 1048 feet on N & S1/4 line, thence East 2563 feet with North line said section, thence North 524 feet, thence East 282 feet to East section line, thence North 524 feet to beginning.

Comments and action taken: Ed. Smazel, owner, stated that this is an existing pit and he wants to reactivate the operation. We suggest that Mr Smazel or the Contractor give a $4,000.00 performance bond to assure proper repair to road. Due to heavy traffic of large trucks and trailers the road needs extra care and repair.

"We recommend to Board of Supervisors that the use be allowed subject to suitable bond being posted to County Road Commission for performance of repair, maintenance and dust control." Motion by Max Loudenberg and seconded by Clyde Morrill, Motion carried 4 to 0.

Mr Walter Sowles, Director of Capitol Area Economic Opportunity Committee, Inc., appeared to answer questions on the following Resolution:

At a regular session of the Clinton County Board of Supervisors held at the Courthouse, St. Johns, Michigan, April 9, 1968, it was moved by Supervisor Shepard, supported by Supervisor Smith, voted and carried to adopt the following Resolution:

"BE IT RESOLVED, That in compliance with the provisions of United States Public Law 90-222 the Capitol Area Economic Opportunity Committee, Inc., the existing Community Action Agency, is hereby designated as the Community Action Agency for the County of Clinton and that recognition by the Office of Economic Opportunity of said Capitol Area Economic Opportunity Committee, Inc., as said Community Action Agency for Clinton County is hereby requested.

"BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Capitol Area Economic Opportunity Committee, Inc., shall give notice of this designation, together with all documents required by law, to every political subdivision within Clinton County which has not already given its written endorsement of this designation so that the governing officials of every political subdivision within Clinton County shall have the opportunity to respond to said notice and to exercise their options under the provisions of United States Public Law 90-222." Moved by Shepard, supported by Smith, to adopt this resolution. Voted and carried.

A request for funds from the Michigan Children's Aid Society, Farmington was read and referred to the Clerk for clarification and to secure a proper billing.

Supervisor Underhill, reporting for the Agriculture Committee and Smith Hall Building Committee, reported new rates established as follows: Use of kitchen $20.00, rental of hall for out of county commercial use $100.00, rental for "in" county commercial use $50.00. Rental for county non-profit organizations remains the same at $15.00. Chairman Nobis named the Finance and Appropriation Committee as follows: Shlabachy Chairman, Austin, Smith, Kemper and Hummel. Other committees to be appointed later.

Supervisor Underhill, reporting for the Audit Committee concerning a claim for pigs killed by dogs, stated that evidence had been destroyed so no action was deemed necessary.

Mr Werner commented on problems about Kennel Licenses and unconfined dogs, also that checking lists for licenses paid was very time-consuming.

Supervisor Coletta, reporting for Appropriation and Finance Committee concerning the Prosecuting Attorney request for an assistant, recommended that we authorize him to seek an assistant, salary to be $7,800.00 for a two-month probationary period and increased to $8,500.00. The Salary & Clerk hire then concur with the recommendation. It was moved by Kemper, supported by Smith, Voted and carried.

Supervisor Kemper called the Board's attention to the recent decision of the U. S. Supreme Court on re-appointment of County Boards of Supervisors. Some discussion followed.

Supervisor Nelson, reporting for the Airport Authority Study Committee, recommended that Clinton County endorse a Tri-County Airport Authority to assume ownership and control of Capitol City Airport.

The joint committees of the three counties involved have visited and studied operations at Minneapolis, St. Paul, Bay County, Midland, Saginaw and Kent County airports and as a result of their studies they are impressed by the importance and influence of an adequate and successful airport operation and its influence upon the economy of the areas bordering on and affected by it. They feel that such an authority represents the best possible solution to the problem.

He then offered a Resolution pertaining to the Airport Control passed by DeWitt Township Board.

Moved by Smith, supported by Dove, to refer to the Resolutions Committee and instruct them to draft a similar Resolution for Clinton County. Voted and carried.

Mr and Mrs William Schultz of Caro visited his mother, Mrs Inez Schultz, and his brothers and sisters from Wednesday afternoon until Friday afternoon.

Mrs RuthAnn Stanley and son, Mikel, expect to leave for California and Okinawa Tuesday to join her husband, Darryl, who is stationed there.

Mr and Mrs Jack Hokanson of Flint are house guests of her sister, Mrs Nellie Blemaster, and Karl.

Mrs Wendell Blemaster was pleasantly surprised when her family and friends gathered to wish her a happy birthday Sunday. A decorated cake and ice cream were served to about 20 people.

Quite a lot of building activity may be seen about town. Two new homes are being built in the Miller subdivision. The restaurant is being remodeled, the Rich-Dip is under new management and named Sweetie Pie, and a building being added to allow people to be served inside.

Miss Mary Cole is home from Carson City Hospital after having minor surgery last week.

The Amica Club has been postponed until June 11 to meet with Mrs Charles Stead.

Mrs James Husted reports that their infant son, James who is in a Detroit hospital, is gaining slowly. He will be a patient there until he has heart surgery.

The Fulton schools will be closed after this week for the summer. The Methodist Bible School will start Monday, June 10 from 9 to 11:30 for one week. The Congregational Christian Church vacation Bible school will be June 17 through 22.

Mr and Mrs Earl Starkweather and Mrs Aurelia Wright of Lansing were callers Wednesday evening of Mrs Maude Crook and Mary Cole.

(omitted last week)

The May meeting of the Maple Rapids Past Matrons met at the home of Bertha Abbott with Retha Winans as co-hostess. Prizes were won by Mina Gardanier and Nelda McWilliams. Nelda McWilliams will be hostess for the June meeting.

Mr and Mrs Preston Corson and Mrs Kathleen Boling were guests of Mr and Mrs Jack Gerhold and family Sunday evening. Ice cream and cake were served honoring all the families birthdays occurring in late May and early June.

Word has been received by the relatives of Mrs Lionel Jolls of her serious illness. She is at the Good Samaritan Hospital in West Palm Beach, Fla. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

Mrs Neva Hall is a patient at Carson City Hospital where she underwent major surgery Friday.

Now! Elevate grass silage to heights of 80 feet or more!

The Model 26 Super-Lift blower from New Holland is specially designed to elevate grass silage into silos of 80 feet or higher. The 56-inch-diameter fan provides the necessary paddle-tip speed to deliver the crop into high silos at standard 540 rpm without a speed-up kit. Capacity: Up to 70 tons per hour in wilted grass silage, 100 tons per hour in corn silage. Paddles are individually adjustable. The Model 26 features a shaker table that breaks up sticky material and prevents bridging above the auger. Result: Smooth, uniform feeding. Stop in for a demonstration soon.

Compare quality in pole buildings

James Boyd, Michigan State University agricultural engineer, says pole buildings may look pretty much alike from the outside or even the inside unless you know what to look for.

The weakest spot he found while surveying farm buildings was the joints. Good joints take lots of nails, braces or bolts. This means more labor, which is sometimes more costly than material.

Boyd says failures occur when trusses break under the weight of snow or will not stand the pressure of wind. When the snow is heavy, trusses actually "skid down" on the pole where the plates have been nailed poorly.

Trusses should be spaced at four-foot intervals on clear span buildings 50-foot wide or wider. A spacing of five feet can be used on buildings 40-foot wide and narrower. Some contractors, trying to cut costs, try to save by narrowing the trusses to eight feet apart, Boyd explains.

A GOOD GLUE job will tear the wood apart before the plate will separate at the glued joint. Boyd found out enough glue had been applied to insure the proper adhesion. In one case, a casein glue — without a mold inhibitor — had been used. Mold had deteriorated the glue and the plate failed when the load was heavy.

Glue with a mold inhibitor is not much more expensive than glue without, and it has a great advantage in moist barns, Boyd says.

Cranes and workmen dismantled 31 grain storage bins north of Elsie last week. They'll be sold at auction today.

Soil survey under way in Duplain

ELSIE — Soil surveys are now under way in Duplain Township in northeastern Clinton County. Farm-by-farm mapping of soils in this area has been started, according to Lloyd Campbell of the Soil Conservation Service in St. Johns.

The soil survey is part of a county-wide program to map all of the land in Clinton County. Campbell explained that soil borings and many detailed observations are made throughout the area. The kinds of soils, clay land, sandy land or swamp, slope and other features important to the use of the land are then plotted on aerial photographs. In addition, roads, town, churches, and other familiar landmarks are shown.

Soil maps help in the design of drainage systems and farm ponds and show areas needing erosion control. Stanley Baird, chairman of the Clinton County Soil Conservation District, said many farmers in the county have already noted the value of soil surveys in planning and carrying out their soil and water conservation plans.

"And our urban friends are becoming interested in soil surveys too" according to Baird. "We hope the soils data will help make them pick a homestead where they won't have to worry about wet basements and troublesome septic tank filter fields."

The soil survey now underway is being carried out by soil scientists of the Soil Conservation Service and the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station. They are aided in the program with financial help and assistance from the Tri-County Regional Planning Commission, and county boards.

31 grain bins going Elsie's north skyline changed

ELSIE — Elsie's north skyline has changed this week as workmen dismantle for sale 31 Commodity Credit Corp.-owned grain storage structures.

The sale will be held at 1:30 p.m. today (Thursday) at the bin site.

The sale is the first in which the ASC State Committee plans to sell between one and two million bushels of storage space around the state this year, according to William M. Smith, county ASC manager.

"We don't need the storage any more," Smith said in explaining the reason for the sale. "We've had this storage since 1953, but now that we have our feed grain program we've cut down on our surplus corn. Now we're liquidating these bins."

The 31 bins to be sold are round, 18 feet in diameter by 16 feet high and are rated at 3,250 bushels capacity each. They'll be sold at public auction today, along with some grain grading and moisture testing equipment. Three larger quonset-type buildings have been put up for sale on a sealed bid basis, and these will be opened Friday. They are 40 x 100 feet each with a rated capacity of 41,000 bushels each.

WHILE THE SKYLINE WILL

look considerably more bare with 31 bins missing, the familiar round structures won't be gone entirely. "We still have a little corn over there," Smith said, "and the price of corn is such that they don't want to sell any right now. So we're going to keep 18 bins."

"All structures that we sell must be used for the storage of agricultural commodities," Smith pointed out, "and the buyers must certify that they will use them for this purpose."

"The rapid shift to shelled rather than ear corn harvest makes the sale of these bins particularly timely. This type of storage on farms will permit farmers to harvest either shelled corn or wheat and secure price support loans at harvest time."

Smith said the ASC is encouraging farmers to reseat their loan corn on the farm, where it will be handy when they need it.

THE CCC ALSO OWNS 116 storage bins in St. Johns. They're located across Steel Street from the Mt. Rest Cemetery and are presently used to store some 130,000 bushels of corn.

Smith said there are no plans to sell the bins in St. Johns. The Elsie bins were constructed in 1953 on leased property. Smith said there was not nearly the amount of commercial storage available to the CCC at that time as there is now and the government had to go into the storage business.

The round storage structures have been dismantled, and buyers will have to remove them from the bin site within 10 days.

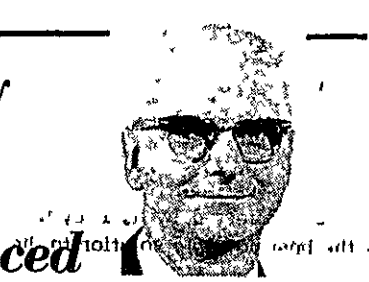

ASC PROGRAM 1968 crop dry bean support prices announced

Support prices for the 1968 crop of dry edible beans generally will be the same as those for 1967.

Prices to producers announced today average $6.38 per cwt. compared to $6.37 in 1967. Price support increase for large lima beans eliminates the area differential which has existed.

Improvements in quality of beans grown during the last several years has led to elimination of significant differences in market prices for large limas between Area I and Area II. Increases in support prices on pinto and great northern beans in Idaho and Montana reflect improved market prices there in recent years relative to other producing states.

Price support on 11 classes of beans will be available for US No. 2 or higher grade beans. Support rates are for cleaned and bagged beans with all charges, except receiving and loading out, paid through price support loan maturity dates to be announced for 1968.

W. M. SMITH County ASC Manager

DEDUCTIONS FROM loan rates for farm-stored thresher-run beans will continue at $2 per cwt. In New York, $1.50 per cwt. In Michigan for all classes except pea beans which will be $1 per cwt. Deductions cover cleaning and bagging costs.

Premiums and discounts for 1968 are the same as under the 1967 program. Premiums for US choice hand picked and US extra No. 1 grade beans will be 10 cents per cwt. for all except pea beans, on which the premium for US choice hand picked grade will be 25 cents. US No. 2 grade beans will be discounted 25 cents per cwt.

The 1968 support price for US No. 1 grade pea and medium white beans is $6.65 per cwt., dark red kidney, $8.51 per cwt., and light red kidney, $8.70 per cwt.

I want to remind wheat producers who are participating in 1968 Wheat Program and have not reported their acreage to date, that they must do so by June 15.

Area schools deserve 'yes'

These are still times that try men's souls . . . and pocketbooks.

Wise Americans keep a watchful eye on spending in an effort to make their paychecks go as far as they can at today's inflated prices. And so they all look for bargains, for something which they can get more value out of than what they actually have to spend.

Most of the time a consumer will get what he pays for. If he tries to buy a product at a real cheap price he finds he gets a real cheap product. If he puts a lot of money into a product he usually finds it's a good one.

In other words, money buys quality today; quantity is available at practically any price.

School districts all over Clinton County are asking citizens to make a purchase of quality education next Monday. And it's a real bargain at the price.

Millage amounts differ somewhat. In almost every case the millage will be for operation of the school system during the coming year. At Fowler and DeWitt there are also requests for bond issues to buy much-needed classroom and other educational space.

In St. Johns, Ovid-Elsie and Fowler, the requests for operational millage are of utmost importance — moreso now than ever, since the county allocation board reduced the amount of millage the schools will be allocated for next year. Without local support of the voters with their yes votes Tuesday, there's every likelihood schools won't open in the fall . . . at least under local control.

There will be no better bargain for area folks than what they'll get Monday. Yes, they'll have to approve spending a lot of money for education, but it will be an investment that will benefit them many times over. The cut in allocation makes the yes vote almost mandatory, unless we don't want our schools to operate. State aid will not be forthcoming unless our local school taxes are for eight mills or more. Without approval of extra voted mills, the total would be only 7.717 mills. Without state aid, the school district would be forced to operate with a quarter or less of the funds it needs, and it just couldn't.

If we're going to have schools, we should have quality. Anything less and we will have spent our money for a "lemon." St. Johns and Ovid-Elsie voters have already turned down millage proposals once, but now the situation is desperate.

'IF IT FITZ . . .'

By JIM FITZGERALD

It might have been the sudden death-playoff in Howard Johnson's. Or maybe the kid with the spray can on the Atlantic Shore. I really can't decide what furnished the biggest laugh while I motored to Miami and back with two nutty kids and one wife made giddy by her escape from the kitchen. Take your choice.

One morning I got out of bed remarking how well I'd slept. "You can't beat the marvelous sound of that ocean. It soothes me right to sleep," I said. "You can't hear the ocean from here," my wife said. "That sound was the air conditioner."

Oh well. You just can't beat this modern living. This was the first southern trip to add a little color to my normal poolroom pallor. It wasn't the sun. Many motel bathrooms now have sun lamps and I turned one on by mistake.

And then there was the restaurant which had a big sign bragging: "The best beef in town. You be the judge." So the Fitzes did a jig into the place, chanting "Here come de judge, here come de judge."

Or: my wife brought along her new wig which travels on a dummy head carried in a huge wicker basket which she bought from a retired charmer of snakes. To make room for it in our bulging car, I had to drive with my left leg and arm hanging outside the window.

The wig was necessary, Pat said, so she could swim with abandon all day and still dine well-coiffed that evening. By the sixth day she was still wading at the kiddie end of the pool. For a frustrated husband, the only answer was to throw the wig off the diving board.

MY WIFE DID A LOT OF reading. She read speed limit signs and our speedometer. Pat moves her lips when she reads and can be heard clearly by the driver. She rattles off the common 65-miles-per-hour signs in ho-hum fashion but displays considerable animation for "Radar Controlled" and "Speed Limits Strictly Enforced."

The sign that excited her the most was in Georgia. It said "Patrolled by Unmarked Cars." Pat gave that one such a dramatic reading that 8-year-old Eddie had to comment: "Boy, Mother really liked that sign, didn't she?"

And then there was that little boy who found a dead, stinking fish floating in the Atlantic. Before burying the fish he sprayed it thoroughly with deodorant. All of us at the funeral were grateful although it was disturbing when the boy's father interrupted the services hollering "Who stole my Right Guard?"

Honest, I'm not making these things up. I just run around with a strange bunch. Read on:

To amuse the kids while eating three meals a day in restaurants, I devised a new game called "Guess-the-Bill."

Contestants must not study the menu prices. You can cheat, but it doesn't help much. No one reveals his order until the menus have been safely returned to the waitress. This way you might peek at the price of your own meal but you'd have to memorize the entire menu to know the cost of every item ordered. I've seen my kids eat spaghetti for breakfast, and corn flakes for dinner, so it's impossible to plan ahead. The kids never knew if I'd have steak or a strawberry soda for lunch.

The object of the game is to then guess the total cost of all the meals, including tax. No fair changing your guess when you discover that's not lemonade Dad's drinking, it's a Tom Collins. You are disqualified if you knock down the waitress while trying to get first look at the bill. The winner gets a cash prize and the losers get to accuse the winner of cheating.

Once, in South Carolina, Eddie and I tied. "We'll have a sudden death playoff," Eddie said. "We each order another meal and guess again."

"NOT, UNTIL WE HAVE an instant playback, in slow motion, of the first game," I said. "I think you broke the three-second rule looking at the right side of the menu."

And that's how it went, meal after meal, for two weeks. When we returned home, everyone remarked how strange it seemed to eat and not play the game. And another difference was also pointed out: We were once again saying grace before meals.

"How come no one ever says grace in Howard Johnson's," Eddie asked.

I thought about our sightseeing drives off the main highways and the miserably shabby and the dirty kids and the beaten adults who sat on rickety porches at 10 o'clock on a Tuesday morning. And I thought about the goodies my kids ordered to confuse the game, and then nibbled and left on their plates.

"From now on we'll say grace in restaurants," I said.

And that's no laugh. That's Onward and Upward.

RAMBLIN' WITH RINK

True artistic talent

By LOWELL G. RINKER

A LESSON IN ECONOMICS — Courtesy California Teachers Ass.

There are among us people with artistic talent (consider those displaying at the Friends of the Bement Public Library art show during Michigan Week). There are also among us people with no artistic talent, who could not paint a wall white and have it look good.

Ever since I flunked first grade art I have placed myself in the latter category and been humble. I managed to swing easily through a mechanical drawing course in high school and enjoyed it more than a little, but the qualities of a draftsman, and an artist are not the same.

As I proceeded through the years, the lack of artistic talent made me both sad and glad. I admire people who can draw or paint pictures, and I truly wish I could. I'm sad because I can't.

In the last year or so, however, my good wife has seen what she considers to be a splash of great artistic talent and has fervently set out to make me a van Gogh. Her theory is to start slowly, working first on whole walls in order to get the "feel" of various colors.

ONCE IN AWHILE she'll show me a number painting she's working on, as much as if to say "Some day you'll be doing things better than this."

Because an artist needs confidence, I agree that someday . . .

My artistic career in the last year has been a curious mixture of gloom, discouragement, failure and occasional success. I recently tried an abstract work on my daughter's bedroom wall, but I didn't like it and so I filled in between the light purple lines with light purple paint; my wife said it looked great. I decided to "title" it "Study in Purple," and I lavishly signed it in purple paint using a Q-tip.

I soon realized that any success I would have as an artist would be because I kept my thoughts and my work on a simple plane. With loads of encouragement from my wife, I advanced on more projects—"Study in Purple II," "Study in Blue Sheen," and "Study in White."

Within the past week the Rinkers reached the final stages of a construction project in which a new bedroom at the rear of the house became ready for occupancy except for painting and flooring. Full of enthusiasm, my good wife gave me the pitch about this being a "fresh canvas" on which to display, finally, the true depth of my ability without trying to cover up anybody else's work.

It is often hard to tell about that look in my wife's eye—I never know whether it's a sparkle of enthusiasm or a gleam of cunning. But she was so excited that I could hardly wait to get at the paint.

We decided (she's my manager, and besides, I like to save my thinking and planning for the creativity of my artistic works) to do another "Study in Purple" on four different walls so that those who came to view my one-man show could feel surrounded and totally immersed in the grandeur of the work.

TO AVOID TOO MUCH gloom, we decided a "Study in White" would look nice on the ceiling of the new gallery.

This all sounded good as I took up my palette and started to create. But the more I did the more I got to thinking that this "study" should be something different, something new, something more in keeping with a new room. I decided on a new theme—"Horizon"—with the center of attention being the convergence of the walls and the ceiling. I could just imagine it—the feeling of a deep purple landscape sweeping away into the distance to the white line and sky at the horizon.

I was overcome with emotion for a moment.

I was soon overcome with wrath as I discovered my new idea wasn't all that workable. An horizon, as I visualized my great work, was absolutely level and straight. I found that my artistic talents weren't up to painting a level and straight horizon. In sheer desperation I reached for masking tape and pressed it on the wall so that I could paint the sky down to it.

But, alas, even that was not much help. Paint ran down behind the tape, and when the tape was pulled off the wall some of the deep purple landscape came with it. I touched up what I could, then stood back and looked at my "Horizon" with some despair.

Then I brightened again. I could again change the title of my work and have it represent the mood of the world . . . to put some real meaning into it. Maybe I did have some artistic ability and feeling after all. I called it "Battles on the Horizon."

My wife was overcome with emotion, too, and she fell to her knees to promise me she would arrange time and rooms for more such masterpieces. And once again I wondered — was that a sparkle or a gleam? —Rinker

Autumn audit

By W. E. DOBSON

What did we do with the time that we saved
When we jacked up our clocks double speed?
Are the savings insured and safe in the vault?
Did the move fill an actual need?
Why did we tumble and stumble from bed—
In the pre-dawn as darkness we braved?
Will someone please tell me just how we're ahead?
What happened to time that we saved?

Now that we managed that hour once again
In an effort to cheat the time zones—
Has it mattered so much in arranging our day
That we switch other times with our own?
What does the balance sheet tell that we did?
Outside of golf trophies engraved?
Just what do we prove to ourselves and the world?
Oh where are the hours we saved?

The tides of the ocean will still rise and fall
Earth turns on its axis each day,
'N clock tinkers mostly are kidding themselves
Who would give or take hours away;
We are made believe folk in a fairy tale world,
'N many a gimmick we've craved,
But when all the froth and the foam disappears
Just where are the hours we save?

Civil defense & you

By CHARLES FROST

It's necessary to understand the effects that modern weapons would have, if used against this nation, on us. In order to understand, we will have to learn the meanings of some new words.

At the risk of being accused of presenting factual inaccuracies, half-understanding, or making glib over-simplifications, I still want to try to explain some of them. The general public may have a "need to know" these words.

What is a ROENTGEN? A roentgen is a unit of exposure dose of gamma (or x) radiation. A unit is a fixed quantity or measure. "Exposed dose" is the amount or quantity received, for personal records, by individuals. We measure gasoline by gallons and a gallon is a unit (it could be water or oil). We know what an inch is; that a 60-watt bulb gives more light than a 40-watt bulb is a unit, an hour is a unit of time, etc.

Therefore, a roentgen is a measure of the amount of radiation received from an unknown source or sources received, by an individual, or, at some point or place, Mr. Wilhelm Roentgen was a German physicist who discovered x-rays. He received the Nobel prize in physics for this accomplishment in 1901.

ANOTHER TERM, "dose rate," is used to register the roentgen in units per hour, as with speed. As a general rule, this applied to a person as the amount he would receive if exposed to ionizing (or nuclear) radiation for a unit of time, in minutes or hours.

In or near an atomic burst, thermal (heat) radiation from the nuclear explosion can be felt as heat and a portion in the visible region of the spectrum would be seen as light. The human senses, however, do not respond to the full scope of nuclear radiation, and except at very high intensities (or dose rates) when itching and tingling are experienced, we need instruments to detect its presence. These instruments for (radiological) radiation detection are: The survey meter, the geiger counter, and the pocket dosimeter.

The dosimeter is an ion chamber to be worn on one's person to record the total "radiation dose." The geiger counter measures the "dose rate" in milliroentgens per hour. One milliroentgen is one thousandth of a roentgen. A survey instrument measures in roentgens. Both, geiger counter and survey instrument, are portable, and give a reading on a scale of pulses, or the radiation received, and serve as a basis for the actual determination of the "dose rate" by direct reading on the dial.

NOT MANY YEARS ago we didn't know what a freeway or toll road was and we hadn't heard of a clover leaf interchange. Now we hear super-premium gasoline, wide oval tires and lots of things! Who knows, maybe someday we'll tell Mother we've got to go to the station and get a new fuel cell for the old bus; the geiger meter says the old unit's not putting out enough roentgens.

Who knows? I'll bet, if we do, all the policemen covering accidents carry geiger counters!

Michigan is the hub of the rich Great Lakes industrial market area. Over 70 million consumers are within 500 miles of Michigan's capital.

Community planners must consider soil facts

Communities, like individuals, must plan for the future. Planning provides for an orderly development of resources to meet future community needs. One of the ingredients of effective community planning is good land use, and basic to good land use is knowledge of the soils.

Nearly all of man's activities ultimately rest on soils. "The major foundation on which community planning is developed," says Lloyd B. Campbell, work unit conservationist for U.S. Soil Conservation Service, "is the soil. The different kinds, their location, and their limitations all have an effect in determining their best use."

Today, in many of the communities of Clinton County, there is keen competition for land by various users. New houses, shopping centers, schools, factories, highways, parks, and other features need adequate space with a community. At the edge of our expanding communities, these needs compete with the needs of farming, forestry, and recreation.

To meet all the needs and to insure orderly development, many communities are planning their future growth. However, without adequate knowledge of soils, serious problems may arise in community developments. Building and roads may crack and settle. Basements fill with water. Septic filter fields fail to operate correctly. Ground water and streams become polluted. Erosion occurs and sediment fills drainage ways and streams, increasing the flood hazard. Once these problems occur, they are very costly to correct.

POOR LAND USE can be avoided if community planners recognize the important role of soils in good land use planning.

Soil maps made by the U.S. Soil Conservation Service and other agencies describe and locate different kinds of soil. General interpretations are available for each soil.

Each soil has a degree of limitation for a particular use. A well drained sandy loam on gentle slopes has few or slight limitations for buildings, roads, and other types of construction. A poorly drained clay soil, on the other hand, has severe limitations for houses, septic disposal systems, highways, and other buildings projects of a modern community. Some soil is subject to flooding and has slight limitations for developing a park or recreation area, but has severe limitations for developing a residential area.

Based on the soil map and facts provided by soil interpretations, community planners can develop general use maps. They are an effective means of showing areas on the soil map that have slight, moderate, or severe limitations for residential development without public sewers would be particularly important to planners in rapidly expanding communities. Once the map is made, the patterns can be spotted readily. Community planners can quickly select areas that have potential for residential development and at the same time exclude areas of severe limitations.

"Soil maps have been made for some areas in Clinton County," points out Bairds, chairman of Clinton County Soil Conservation District. This survey is being made by the Soil Conservation Service in cooperation with Michigan State University Experiment Station, the boards of supervisors of Eaton, Ingham, and Clinton Counties, and the Tri-County Regional Planning Commission.

ADVANCE COPIES of the soil maps of Bath, Dewitt, Watertown, Eagle and Olive townships are at the respective town halls of these townships with a legend book. Cooperators of the Clinton County Soil Conservation District have a copy of their soil map that was used to develop their conservation plan on their land.

As nearly one-half of the field work is completed in the Tri-county area, it is expected that the complete soil survey will be published in a few years. The staff of the Tri-County Regional Planning Commission have advance copies of the complete townships of this soil survey and have made several interpolation maps from these advance field copies of the field sheets.

Planning for the future is a must. Community planning that uses soil facts will avoid those costly future problems resulting from poor land use.

Michigan drivers reversing impressive traffic record

BY ELMER E. WHITE
Michigan Press Assn.

The impressive record set last year by Michigan motorists is likely to be buried in a new high of traffic fatalities for 1968. Col. Frederick E. Davids, director of the Michigan State Police, notes that traffic deaths are running already well ahead of last year—677 killed on highways as compared to the 1967 figure of 617. Holidays, which contribute the largest number of fatalities, have yet to be accounted for. In 1967, the five holidays of Memorial Day, Fourth of July, Labor Day, Christmas and New Years added 182 deaths to the grim statistics.

Police and safety organizations are understandably alarmed. Col. Davids points out that there has been an increase in the number of multiple fatalities in lower age brackets; several cases of drivers going the wrong way on freeways and other evidence of driver irresponsibility.

"The driver must learn that once he gets behind the wheel, he alone is responsible for his own safety, for his passengers and others who share the highway," he said.

PROGRESS RECORDED in 1967 makes this year's statistics more alarming. For the first time in three years, 1967 showed a decline in highway fatalities. A total of 2,123 traffic deaths were recorded, just one more than fatalities reported in 1964. This, despite an increase in the number of registered vehicles, licensed drivers and average number of vehicle miles traveled per year.

It was hoped that this trend could be continued. But the 1967 statistics still represented an appalling average of 5.8 persons killed on Michigan highways each day of the year.

About two-thirds of the traffic deaths occurred in rural areas, and slightly more than half came at night. Violations, in order of frequency, were speeding, failure to yield, driving left of center, drunk driving, ignoring stop sign, and disregarding signal.

Other facts on the 1967 traffic toll:

For each person killed, 71 were injured.

The economic loss in traffic accidents amounted to the estimated cost of four Macknac Bridges.

Of drivers involved in fatal accidents who were tested, 30.16 per cent had alcohol in their blood.

One of every 3,862 persons in Michigan was killed in a traffic accident in 1967; one of every 542 was injured; one of every 7.9 cars and one of every 9.5

drivers was involved in an accident.

For each pedestrian killed, 16 were injured.

RECOVERY FROM this year's poor start is still possible, according to Capt Don Downer of the State Police Safety and Traffic Division. "With some good luck the rest of the year and careful driving by motorists, we still could . . . have a fatality score close to last year," he said.

Highway engineers, working with state police and other agencies, seek out high-accident locations on the state highway system. The danger spots, most often intersections, are then re-designed. Other programs are being implemented to reverse the trend of mounting traffic fatalities.

But responsibility ultimately falls on each individual driver, Davids says. A motorist, in order to survive on modern highways, must concentrate on defensive driving, he emphasized.

FOOD PRODUCTS, produced and processed in Michigan, should enjoy greater acceptance in world markets because of the growing number of trade shows. One show, held April 5-21 in Tokyo, Japan, produced immediate sales of over $1 million for American exports and untold future markets.

Called the "American Festival," the show was attended by two representatives from the Michigan Department of Agriculture. The state displayed various food products including fruit juices, plums, apples, cherries, blueberries, turkey products, pudding and pie fillings.

No orders were taken but inquiries were forwarded to the state's commodity participants. Over 100 Japanese companies indicated a strong interest in Michigan's array of goods. Commodity participants paid a small fee, furnished products and paid transportation costs of getting the products to the show. In return, they are granted exclusive rights to inquiries from interested Japanese companies for a limited time. After a set period, the companies' names are made public to all American firms which request the list.

In 1967, $110 million in Michigan farm products were exported to world markets. An annual increase is expected each year because of trade shows and other programs by Michigan agencies and private enterprise. This fall, the MDA may send representatives to Munich, Germany, for another show. The success of past exhibits has proven the worth of such enterprise, the department says.

A kid's got a right to some privacy too.

If your kid's been hiding out lately when he gets on the phone, take the hint. There are probably some things he'd rather discuss without an audience around. And he's entitled. After all, asking a girl out at his age is hard enough. But when the whole family's listening in, a guy could freeze.

One call to your General Telephone business office takes care of the whole thing. We play up the gift idea by sending out a miniature toy phone with a gift card first. That's just to let him know the real phone is on its way.

When a kid feels you don't want to listen in on all his private conversations, he's more apt to tell you about them. An extension phone gives him that choice.

The 24th Precinct took on the job in earnest under Community Relations Patrolman Tom Kelly, with the backing of Precinct Captain Richard DiRoma whose office sometimes is overrun by small fry.

Upstairs in the station house, kids line up for rides on a six-foot-long rocking horse equipped with police saddle and bridle. Comic books, tours, films and lectures are more in evidence than handcuffs.

Patrolman Robert DeSuzia told one group that he hoped some day to have an electric blanket that could be plugged into a squad car's cigarette lighter so that injured persons could be kept warm while awaiting an ambulance. "One kid wrote me, 'Officer Bob, I hope you get your electric blanket.'"

Traffic laws must be enforced. However, the use of blind cars equipped with radar to trap motorists doesn't improve the police image. It's not "entrapment" but many motorists think it is.

Recently, a citizen becoming suspicious of a car parked in his neighborhood, took down the license number and asked local police for the name of the owner. The information was refused, unless he signed a complaint. He contacted police in a nearby town and the information was readily furnished. The owner of the car turned out to be a real estate salesman looking for prospects. The local police image suffered. The neighboring police received credit for cooperating with a disturbed citizen. —J.C.
