Finish line officials shout "Hit your brakes, hard!" as three Soap Box Derby racers flash across the finish line. Dan Pline of Westphalia emerged the Soap Box Derby winner after 69 heats of racing.

Westphalians place 1, 2 in 4th Soap Box Derby

Westphalia boys finished one-two Sunday as a record field of 67 raced down Clinton Avenue in the fourth annual Soap Box Derby.

Taking top honors was 13-year-old Danny Pline, son of Mr and Mrs Gus Pline. He edged out John Bengel, 12, son of Mr and Mrs Edward Bengel of Westphalia, in the final heat to win a $500 savings bond, first place trophy and the right to represent St. Johns in the All-American Soap Box Derby in Akron, Ohio, Aug. 6.

It was Danny's first year of Soap Box Derby racing, and he and his car, "Fire Fly," never lost a race as they rolled smoothly down hill five times. He had built the car since about the last of April, working on it about two hours a night.

THE WINNER WAS mobbed by congratulating fans and fellow derby boys after he rolled across the finish line less than a car length ahead of Bengel. He was next hoisted up on the shoulders of several adults and after a few minutes placed in an open convertible for a victory ride up Clinton Avenue.

At the Derby awards luncheon at St. Joseph Social Hall, Dan was called up to the front several times. Once was to receive a $500 savings bond from Mary Streit and Bill Gray of the Chevrolet Division. Another time he received his large, first-place trophy. And again he was called upon to receive the John Lynam Memorial traveling trophy, presented by Mr and Mrs Ralph Lynam to represent the spirit behind the Soap Box Derby.

BENDEL, as runner-up, received the second-place prize of a portable television set. Other top finishers and their prizes were:

Third place, Dave Feldpausch, Polaroid Land camera; fourth place, Gary Haynes, Croton Data-Matic wrist watch; fifth place, Grant Russell, Sony transistor radio; sixth place, Dean Kieffer, Croton wrist watch; seventh place, Bill Jolly, bicycle; eighth place, James Conley, spinning rod and reel; ninth place, Chris Hettler, Instamatic 104 camera; and 10th place, Donald Pung, baseball glove.

In addition, all 10 boys will receive a free trip to Akron for the All-American derby, although only Dan Pline will compete in the races.

The track—Clinton Avenue from State Street to the railroad—was described as "fast," and the racers had a tailwind and the shouts of thousands of spectators to speed them along.

Sunday. Temperatures were in the mid-to high-80's all afternoon under partly cloudy skies.

ALL THE RACES were run in remarkably fast time. The first heat was run at about 2:45 p.m., and the last of 69 heats was over at about 4:40. This was 45 minutes "faster" than 51 heats' last year.

A good-sized crowd—estimated variously from 3,000 to 10,000 people—was in town for much of the afternoon. The pre-race parade, under the direction of Don Bast, drew the most spectators, with 31 separate units moving up Clinton Avenue in front of crowds that lined both sides of the street for 3 1/2 blocks.

Judith Pung, 11, daughter of Mrs Gladys Pung of 505 Church Street, was crowned Soap Box Derby queen prior to the start of the parade, and then she and her court of Virginia DeLong, Debbie Huss, Kelly Spicer, Mary Ellen Albers and Anita Rositas rode atop the huge derby racer float sponsored by the St. Johns Jaycees.

Judges for the Derby queen contest were Lucy and Tom Norris and Joyce and Mary Howell, all of Lansing Jaycees. The queen was selected Friday night at a special judging dinner.

IN THE FIRST Powder Puff race in history, Angela Sirrine, driving a car she made herself, outran Loreen Cobb and Jean Feldpausch.

Russ Allman, driving his Saylor-Bell special, won the annual Oil Can Trophy Race, coasting across the finish line ahead of Ed Idzkowski of Federal Mogul and Larry Sexton of Sealed Power.

Soap Box Derby Director Bill McCarthy of the sponsoring St. Johns Jaycees and dealership Director Bernard Feldpausch of Bee's Chevrolet-Olds received many congratulations following the race for the smooth pattern the events took.

THEY EXPRESSED their appreciation to the more-than-100 persons involved in various phases of work on the derby, and Feldpausch called the team-

WILLIAM GRAEF

William Graef, St. Johns manager for the General Telephone Co., has been elected president of the Clinton County Communities Chest for the coming year. Other officers are Robert Sirrine, vice president; Helen Kohls, secretary; and Charles Huntington, treasurer. New board members are Roman Koenigsnecht of Fowler, Stan Loznak of Elsie, Harold Green of Ovid and Ed Idzkowski and Mrs Kohls of St. Johns. Retiring board members are Ink White, Fraser MacKinnon, Wayne Cook and Donald Gilson.

Variety of proposals await school voters

Next Monday will be school election day, and registered voters in all the school districts of Clinton County will have an opportunity to go to the polls to vote on a variety of proposals.

All districts will be electing or reelecting members on their boards of education, and several of the districts have proposals that promise to bring out a good vote.

Perhaps the most important of the proposals are at DeWitt, where the board of education is asking for a $400,000 bond issue and renewal of operating millage.

Both the St. Johns and Pewamo-Westphalia districts will be voting on three proposals that, if passed, will result in annexation of the two districts to the Lansing Community College District. Fowler is voting on operational millage.

DEWITT SCHOOL DISTRICT Revenue from the proposed $400,000 bond issue would be used to add seven rooms to the Scott Elementary School, re-furnish the old high school for use in elementary and junior high, and complete the new high school site work, which includes outdoor athletic facilities, parking lot and driveway paving.

The bond issue would require a tax of 4 mills, but a surplus in the present debt retirement fund will reportedly be enough to take care of the bonding cost without any new tax for at least four more years. It is hoped that at that time all the DeWitt school debt can be refinanced at a rate that will mean no new tax at all.

A 10 1/2 MILL operational tax levy expires this year, and the school is asking that only 8 1/2 mills be renewed for the next three years. If passed it would mean a decrease of two mills from the levy that has been in effect.

Candidates for the two vacant seats on the board of education are Dale Hines, Jake Lenk, Willard Reed, William Owen and Robert Taylor, all newcomers. Incumbents Herb Hardtke and Marshall Warren are not seeking reelection.

FOWLER SCHOOL DISTRICT There are three vacancies on the Fowler Board of Education. Gerald Wieber is running unopposed for a two-year term, and Andrew Luttig, Charles Mathew and Marvin Thelen are candidates for two seats with four-year terms. The terms of Norbert Pohl and Claire Snyder expire this year; they are not seeking reelection.

Fowler has one other proposal for voters. It is a request for 5 mills for operational purposes and would replace the current 4-mill operational levy which expired with the 1965 tax year.

PEWAMO-WESTPHALIA Allen Wood and Carl Kramer Jr. will be seeking voter approval for four-year seats on the Pewamo-Westphalia Board of Education. Kramer is an incumbent. The other board member whose term expires is Phil Vance; he is not seeking reelection.

P-W voters will also be asked to vote on three proposals which would result in annexation of the district of the Lansing Community College District. Each of three propositions must pass for the annexation to be effective. The proposals are:

Annexation of the P-W School See VARIETY, Page 4-A

4 issues, 5 candidates on St. Johns district ballots

Monday's school election in the St. Johns district will see four different issues facing voters, in addition to selection of two of five candidates for the vacant school board seats.

Three of the four issues involve annexation to Lansing Community College. The fourth will be for the transfer of money remaining in two debt retirement funds to the school's general fund.

THE CANDIDATES for the two school board seats are incumbent William Richards Jr. and first-time candidates George J. Hazle, Darrell L. Martin, Mrs Eunice Marzke and Wendell E. Waggoner.

The two candidates compiling the most votes will be elected for terms of four years, ending in 1970.

Proposition No. 1 facing district voters will be to authorize the board of education to transfer the balances of about $594.84 remaining in the 1954 debt retirement fund and about $555.45 remaining in the 1958 debt retirement fund.

THE MONEY IS that which was collected in taxes in excess of the exact amounts needed to retire building debts. School officials point out it is impossible to levy millage to provide just the exact amount of money needed; the millage is figured as closely as possible, but an excess is provided for.

Propositions No. 2, No. 3, and No. 4 have to do with annexation to Lansing Community College. One asks simply shall the St. Johns Public Schools be annexed to Lansing Community College? Another would give the LCC board of trustees authority to levy a tax on real and tangible personal property within the district not to exceed the annual rate of 1 mill on each dollar of state equalized valuation. The other proposition asks voters to assume their pro-rata share of the bonded indebtedness of the college.

COLLEGE OFFICIALS point out the one-mill tax per year includes the bonded indebtedness, so Proposition 4 involves no extra tax above the one mill. All three college propositions must pass for the annexation to take place.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday at the normal district polling places: Room 113 of Rodney B. Wilson High School in St. Johns for Precinct 1, East Essex School for Precinct 2, Eureka School for Precinct 3, Olive Center School for Precinct 4, and Riler Town Hall for Precinct 5.

All registered voters may cast ballots on the first three propositions, and the school board candidates, but only property owners can vote on Proposition 4.

Merger OK'd, Fowler, Clinton banks are one

The former Fowler State Bank in Fowler opened this morning (Thursday) as a new office of the Clinton National Bank & Trust Co. of St. Johns. Merger negotiations between the two banks, in progress for the past six months, were given final approval this week.

Actual merging of accounts for the two banks was to occur following the close of business Wednesday. The resulting bank has resources in excess of $27 1/2 millions and becomes one of Michigan's largest rural financial institutions.

THE MERGER increases to four the number of Clinton National offices serving the Clinton area: two in St. Johns and one each in Elsie and Fowler. A fifth office, to serve the southern section of the county, will open in the Big E Shopping Plaza on US-27 at Valley Farms later this month.

Regardless of which Clinton National office carries a customer's account, he is welcome to transact business at any office he may be near, say bank officers. Special telephone installations provide direct connections to all offices from each location.

Clinton National officials say there will be no changes in personnel at the Fowler office because of the merger. "We do plan expanded service to Fowler community people and improvement in physical facilities at the Fowler bank," says W. S. Lusk, Clinton National president.

ROMAN P. THELEN, former president of the Fowler bank, becomes a vice president of Clinton National. Fred H. Tiedt, former Fowler cashier, becomes an assistant vice president, and Charles J. Halfmann continues as assistant cashier. Others on the staff are John C. Rademacher, teller, and Mrs Agnes Fox, relief teller.

Thelen and Tiedt will also serve on Clinton National's 16-member board of directors along with Charles J. Mathews of Fowler and Dr Bruno Cook of Westphalia, former directors of the Fowler bank. Named as honorary directors of Clinton National are John Kramer and James H. Whitaker Sr., both of Fowler, and W. M. Luecht, St. Johns, also former members of the Fowler board.

PLANS FOR BUILDING improvements at the Fowler of-office will include the installation of an outside walk-up teller window and an after-hours depository for the convenience of customers, Clinton National officers say.

The enlarging and remodeling of present Fowler banking quarters are likely to involve part of a store building to the north which is owned by the bank and is now occupied by a self-serve laundry.

Fowler banking history dates back to 1892

Merger of the Fowler State Bank into the Clinton National Bank & Trust Co. of St. Johns this week marks the end of another chapter in Fowler banking history.

The original stockholders included Otis Fuller, John H. Corbit, George S. Corbit, Austin E.

Dutcher, Maria S. Bromley, John N. Fedewa, Michael Spitzley, Peter Thome, Joseph Arens, Frederick Scherer, Constantine Grueler, Joseph Cook, Frank Grueler, Raymond Bauer, Constantine Feldpausch, George F. Martin and John Patterson.

THE NEWLY-organized bank purchased the firm known as D. H. Powers and Co., Bankers, which had done business in one corner of the furniture store on the east side of Main Street

The bank experienced a steady growth in resources over its 72-year history and had reached $4,800,000 in 1966. Capital stock had been increased from the original $15,000 to $200,000 at the time of merger.

LaFave to manage bank at Valley Farms

ROBERT LAFAVE
Manager at Valley Farms

Robert LaFave, who has been associated with the St. Johns office of Clinton National Bank & Trust Co. since last July, has been named manager of the Valley Farms office of the bank which is scheduled to open during the week of June 20.

The new banking office will be located in a building now under construction at the intersection of Northcrest Road and US-27, near the Big E Shopping Plaza. The office now being erected is a temporary structure which will be replaced later by a larger permanent building east of the present location, bank officials say.

work "just fantastic." Feldpausch was awarded a surprise plaque at the awards luncheon. It was presented by McCarthy on behalf of the Soap Box Derby Committee in appreciation for the work Feldpausch has done in promoting and making a successful Derby for local youngsters over the past four years.

DERBY SIDELIGHTS

Derby officials were notified that the local derby, with its 70 boys entered and 67 racing, was the largest derby in the state of Michigan for the size-area the local derby encompasses.

Westphalia had 10 representatives in the race, and three of the boys finished in the top 10. In addition to the first and second place finishers from Westphalia, Don Pung, 15, son of Mr and Mrs Lewis Pung, finished 10th. It was his third year as a Derby racer; he finished ninth and second the previous years.

Maple Rapids tightens traffic regulations

MAPLE RAPIDS—The Maple Rapids Village Council has adopted the State Uniform Traffic Code and a village ordinance controlling traffic, replacing an "outdated" ordinance passed in 1952. Maple Rapids is also making arrangements to employ a full-time deputy marshal. An increase in traffic violations and motor noise made the new control measures necessary, the council said.

Clinton Theater opens Friday

The Clinton Theater in downtown St. Johns will reopen Friday after a two-year shutdown, and Manager Howard Kortes has scheduled a family comedy, "The Trouble With Angels," for the first weekend showing.

The movie, starring Rosalind Russell and Hayley Mills, will be shown Friday, Saturday and Sunday. There will be Friday and Saturday evening performances at 7:15 and 9:15, a Saturday afternoon matinee at 1:30 and one Sunday evening showing at 7:45.

Miss Russell plays the mother superior of a convent school, a strict disciplinarian, sympathetically understanding of the high spirits and prankish behavior of some of her adolescent charges. Miss Mills stars as the most undisciplined, prankish and troublesome of the school's student body.

High school memories recalled at commencement

2 couples hurt in fatal crash

Two area couples were injured Sunday morning in an accident which claimed the life of an accompanying motorcyclist in Gladwin County.

Mr and Mrs Allen DeZess of Dewitt and Mr and Mrs Arlen DeZess of Laingsburg were treated overnight Sunday at Clinton Memorial Hospital in St. Johns after injuries received in the crash that morning became too painful to continue their trip home.

Kenneth L. Sulkowski, 29, of Perry was killed in the accident and his wife, Kay Frances, 26, was critically injured. The Gladwin County sheriff's office said their motorcycle struck a car about nine miles southeast of Gladwin.

THE SULKOWSKI motorcycle and those of the two DeZess couples left the roadway. Only Sulkowski's struck the auto, which was driven by James Eichhorn, 19, of Beaverton.

Details of the crash had still not been learned Tuesday morning. The sheriff's office at Gladwin reported they had been unable to talk to Eichhorn, who was seriously injured. The crash occurred near M-31 and M-61 in Gladwin County.

Variety of proposals . . .

PEWAMO-WESTPHALIA . . .
District to Lansing Community College; authorization of the board of trustees of the college district to levy an annual tax of not to exceed 1 mill on the qualified valuation of the property of the district for Community college purposes; and assuming a pro rata share of the bonded indebtedness of LCC.

The polling place will be the P-W high school, with the polls being open from noon to 8 p.m.

FULTON SCHOOLS
Fulton voters will have five different ballots to mark. One is a proposal for three mills for operational purposes that would be added to the present two mills now in effect. School officials pointed out some $32,000 is needed to meet salary and other operational needs, and no spot can be found in the existing budget from which to take the money.

Another proposition is for the former Wood and Bridgeville school districts to assume the bonded indebtedness of the Fulton District. A three-year moratorium for those districts is now up. Only property owners of the Fulton district can vote.

TWO OTHER PROPOSALS are for three-quarters of a mill tax to equip the football field with lights, and to transfer to the general fund excess money in the debt retirement funds for the former Ola and Stoddard schools.

Seven candidates are seeking two seats with four-year terms on the board of education. They are Miles Zimmerman, Albert Absnagen, Richard Braman, Harry Vaughn Jr., Clare Chick, John Garner and Maynard Falling. The terms of Romalyn Brauer and Harry Bolyard expire this year, and they are not seeking reelection.

Henry Wiseman is seeking election for a one-year term to fill out the unexpired term of Wayne Roberts, who resigned last February. Wiseman has been serving on the board by appointment.

Polls in the Fulton district will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. in the Fulton High School student commons.

OVID-ELSIE AREA SCHOOLS
Five candidates are seeking the one vacant seat on the Ovid-Elsie School Board this year. They are incumbent Frank Rivest of Elsie, whose term expires, and LeRoy Vincent of Elsie, Kenneth Austin of Ovid, Eugene Stauffer of Elsie and Jack Schwark of Ovid. The term is for four years.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the two precinct spots, Ovid High School and Elsie High School.

LAINGSBURG SCHOOLS
Three school board positions will be filled at Laingsburg Monday. Candidates for two four-year positions are Glenn Deisler, Max MacGuinness, Leonard Morgan, Lawrence Sparkes and Roger Stevens. They are seeking positions being vacated by Reinhardt Hauser and James Scrippler.

Seeking one-year terms to fill a vacancy are John Carroll Jr., Elmer Smith and Joe Volsinet. MacGuinness is presently holding the office by appointment.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. in the Laingsburg fire hall.

ASHLEY PUBLIC SCHOOLS
Keith Demott and Mrs Martha Cordray are candidates for a four-year school board term presently being held by Mrs Cordray. District voters will also be asked to renew for one year a six-mill levy for operational purposes.

BATH SCHOOL DISTRICT
Terms of Cleo Friend and Paul Seeger expire this year, and both are candidates for reelection, along with Max Green and Jack Walker. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the junior high school gym.

BATH 6 FRL DISTRICT
Mrs Harry Waltz of R-1, Laingsburg has been nominated for a new term on the Bath 6 Frl. district board of trustees.

GRAND LEDGE
There will be no apparent contests in the Grand Ledge district. Charles A. Barbeau Jr. and Leon Hayes are candidates to succeed themselves for new four-year terms, and Jane Butterick is seeking reelection for a two-year term. There are four district polling places, with Waconsta School being the site for residents of the district living in Watertown, Eagle, Westphalia and Riley townships of Clinton County.

DRAWS 2 JAIL TERMS
Delford D. Smith, 22, of Lansing was sentenced to consecutive five-day jail terms in the Clinton County Jail by Justice of the Peace Roy Decker of Dewitt over the weekend. Smith also drew a $25 fine and $10 costs for improper license plates and a $20 fine and $10 costs for driving without lights.

Chamber's annual meeting June 15

James Hall, executive secretary of the East Michigan Tourist Assn., will be guest speaker at the St. Johns Chamber of Commerce's annual dinner meeting next Wednesday, June 15.

Hall will speak on tourism, how tourism can economically benefit a community, and on the East Michigan Tourist Assn. and its functions. The dinner meeting will begin at 7 p.m. at Smith Hall. A record attendance is expected.

ALSO ON THE PROGRAM is James A. Trierweller of Portland, who will provide entertainment. Trierweller is a well known central Michigan singer who has appeared at numerous events in the St. Johns and Portland area. He has also appeared on area TV and radio programs.

President Don Gilson will open the meeting, briefly reporting on Chamber of Commerce activity during the past year. Closing the meeting will be Leon Brewbaker, newly elected president, who will discuss what he hopes the organization will accomplish in the year ahead.

The main speaker, Hall, first came to Michigan to attend the Motel Management School at Michigan State University in 1949. After two years of Army duty in the Far East, he returned to MSU's College of Agriculture, where he received a master's degree specializing in tourist travel, education and development.

HE SERVED THE East Michigan Tourist Assn. from 1955 to 1959 as educational consultant and publicity director before becoming manager of special services for the Florida Motel Assn. He served on the MSU faculty from 1960-61 in the resource development department as research assistant on a study of the "Quality of Outdoor Recreation Areas in the U.S.A." for the Outdoor Recreation Resources Review Commission in Washington, D.C. This involved the study and visits to 24 recreation areas in the U. S., involving 25,000 miles of travel.

He became the third secretary-manager of the East Michigan Tourist Assn. (in 55 years) in May of 1961. As secretary-manager, he directs the tourist promotion activities of a 29-county region of eastern and central Michigan. The basic program includes advertising and publicizing the recreation and vacation attractions, facilities and services of the region.

Hall also serves as a permanent member of the State of Michigan Tourist Council.

Education variety at lowest cost is aim, LCC contends

(EDITOR'S NOTE): Voters in the St. Johns and Pewamo-Westphalia school districts will vote Monday on proposals that could annex their districts to the Lansing Community College District. This is the last of four articles examining the college and its operations.)

A wide variety of education and training courses are available at Lansing Community College at the lowest cost possible to individuals who live within commuting distances. This is one of the major objectives of the community college.

To meet this objective successfully it is essential for two conditions to exist. First, there must be a sufficient number of interested applicants to meet the enrollment standards. Ten students are required to form a class. Class sizes average 26 students; the maximum is about 35. Second, the district served should have a large enough geographic and industrial breadth to keep the local tax levy and tuition to a minimum.

THE TRI-COUNTY Citizens Committee which studied the community college needs in 1964 felt that an all-purpose one-mill tax under the state equalized formula, plus other revenue, would provide adequate resources to meet the financial requirements through 1970. Local taxes accounted for 13 per cent of the total college operating budget for the 1965-66 school year. State aid provided 45 per cent, tuition 32 per cent, federal vocational-technical funds 6 per cent and other sources 4 per cent.

It is estimated that residents of the college district receive about one and one-half mills of benefit for the one mill tax they pay into the college budget. State and federal aid funds are divided among the districts which are providing educational programs.

THE PRESENT COLLEGE tax base is about $880 million, producing $880,000 in revenue for capital outlay (site, buildings, equipment, etc.) and operations (light, heat, salaries, insurance, etc.). Approximately $400,000 is required to pay the principal and interest for the $7.5 million bonded indebtedness. These capital outlay funds are being used to buy and remodel "Old Central," acquire site for the urban campus; remodel the technical center; make additions to "Old Central" such as new science laboratories, a lecture hall, and faculty offices.

These funds will also be used to construct a new Health Science-Liberal Arts and Science building which will accommodate 2,500 full-time students. It should be emphasized that the pro-rata share of the bonded indebtedness is within the capital outlay portion of the all-purpose one-mill tax levy; and, therefore, is not an additional levy.

EVERY YEAR SINCE the Lansing Community College began in 1957, resident students have been given enrollment preference until July 1. After that date students are enrolled on a "first come, first served" basis as long as space permits. Planning and future development of vocational-technical and transfer programs is predicated on serving the residents within the college district.

Beginning next September resident tuition rates will be $5 a credit hour up to 15 credits for a maximum tuition cost of $75 a term. Non-resident tuition fees will be $7 a credit hour for a

Green Tea group golfs at Alma

Eighteen Green Tee golfers of the Clinton County Country Club were guests, along with others from Ithaca, Portland and Clare, at the Alma Country Club's Ladies Day June 1.

Rolls and coffee were served the golfers at 8:30 a.m., after which the guests played nine holes of golf. Four golfers were on each tee of the 18-hole course at 9 a.m. and started play at the shot of a gun.

After play luncheon was served. Golf prizes were then awarded to the various clubs. Elsie Bancroft won low net for St. Johns, with Edna Seim winning low gross and Jollie Becker low putts. A number of the guests stayed during the afternoon for bridge and more golf.

Legion draws 2 fines on gambling charges

The Michigan Liquor Control Commission has ordered American Legion Post 153 of St. Johns to pay fines of $50 each on charges of gambling on the premises and gambling devices on the premises. The charges were placed against the Legion club Dec. 30 last year and later acknowledged by the Legion.

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES of the college has gone on record desiring not to widen the gap between resident and non-resident tuition fees until all school districts within the college service area have had an opportunity to annex to the college district.

School districts annexing to the college will be making it possible for the college board of trustees and the administrative staff to plan a truer course in constructing and financing future facilities and educational programs. All three issues on the annexation referendum must be approved by the voters before the local school district may become a part of the total college district.

C of C considering extra open hours

The Chamber of Commerce Retail Division will conduct a postal card survey of its members concerning additional opening hours.

President Bill Barber last week appointed a project committee headed by Leo Smitgen as chairman and including Bill Chalmers, Ray Parr, Kurt Becker, Fraser MacKinnon and Gordon Stoner. The committee is to appraise past promotions and make recommendations for promotions for the coming year.

OES marks 75th anniversary

Radiant Chapter No. 79, Order of the Eastern Star, entertained the grand family of Michigan Friday in honor of the 75th birthday of the local chapter.

The grand family and the members of the St. Johns chapter sat down to a potluck supper at 6 p.m. At 7:15 the members of the grand family formed a receiving line and were greeted by members from Lansing, Dimondale, Okemos, Wacousta, DeWitt, Elsie, Ovid and St. Johns.

AT THE CLOSE of the meeting, Mrs John Hoag gave a humorous reading entitled "Come Home Early, Henry Dear." Coffee and a four-tier decorated cake with the numbers "75" on top, were served in the dining room.

Amateur acts tryouts will be held in Peet Community Center in Chesaning three evenings, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, June 15, 16 and 17. Again this year, five acts will be picked for each of the first five nights of Showboat, Monday thru Friday for a total of 25 acts. For each of those five nights, first, second and third cash prizes will be $25, $15 and $10 respectively.

Lutheran Bible school in session

This week marked the opening of the vacation Bible school at St. John's Lutheran Church. Running each weekday morning from 9:30 to 11:30 through June 17, the theme of this year's material is "My Savior and I".

Each day the program includes lesson and workbook materials, a filmstrip presentation, and project activity. Recess time is concluded with snacks provided by the Ladies Guild of St. John's.

The addition of an early service each Sunday during the summer months has been adopted by action of the board of elders of Saint John's Lutheran Church.

In former years the Sunday school had closed for the summer and services moved up. However, it was felt that this new schedule would meet both the needs of sustaining program of Christian education and the preferences of earlier worship service.

OCCASIONAL "WEEKENDER SERVICES" have also been planned for scattered weeks during the summer. Vespers on Thursday evening at 7:30 p.m. are provided in these instances for the vacationing or weekending members.

I wish to express my appreciation to the Fulton Parent Teacher Association for the open house given in my honor May 22. It was indeed a very happy experience to meet so many former students and friends and associates. The program with Mr M. J. My thanks to them for their part in adding to my cherished memories. I wish to thank each and every one for any part they may have had in making this day such a wonderful day for me. Series H savings bonds issued between February 1967 and November 1965 have not been granted an extension, since the first of these do not reach maturity until February 1967. Their earnings from Dec. 1, 1965, to maturity are at least 4.15 per cent.

Osgood Shows Films for Students

Glenn Osgood, St. Johns funeral director who has done a lot of travel and picture taking, showed his slides and movies on Alaska, Hawaii and Canada on four recent afternoons at Perrin-Palmer School. The showings were related to the students' study of those states and nation. Here Osgood explains one of the scenes for Jim Viers, John Herrell, Mrs. Margaret Hicks, and Mark Zimmerman. His pictures showed, among many other things, the beginning and development of a volcano. Slides and movies shown to children by the people who have taken them often mean more to children, teachers feel, than the usual teaching films.

Farmer Peck's Wife

Homespun-Philosophy of a Duplain Township Housewife

Rose, arbor — a dream come true

There! Finished at last, And it's a good feeling.

MANY YEARS ago when I was a tiny girl I dreamed of an arbor and fence with climbing roses. Red ones! This picture got stuck in my mind. It wouldn't go away. Someday, oh, someday if I lived long enough.

Though it was not blazing forth for ALL to see it was always there in my mind... and some will know what I mean when I say that the vision of things to be is very, very nice and as real as can be. Sometimes it's the best part of the wishing!

NOW TODAY is one of the times that I said aloud, "Oh, Mother, I wish you were here! There is my arbor and roses. You said that if I wanted one bad enough that some day I'd have it." As the children have grown up along how often I've half-turned ready to tell her something. How I've missed telling her little happy and big happy things because there just is NO ONE like a mother to whom you can tell about your children without bragging.

SHE WOULD love this arbor too. And laugh and be happy with me.

But it's more than wood, paint and nails.

It's also a banner to the whole wide world of hope, courage and faith. It looks like a 'thing' that some woman nailed together. But into it went the soul of me, almost.

I started it last summer. It was a struggle, a mighty struggle that often had me sitting too weary to care about how dirty and awful I looked. But, the building of it, the juggling boards and pounding nails gave me a feeling that somewhere in me there must be more than a body... and that life was not meant to be discouraged at. But to smile - to keep going.

SO I went to the lumber yard.

MORE laughs. Maybe if I worked in a lumber yard I'd laugh too to see a little old lady rambling up in her pickup.

Home I went.

More laughs. Pete and those three kids! They wondered if I were delivering lumber and posts. My posts, by the way, were too small. They had to go back. And we had sorted and sorted to get 'straight' posts. How could I face those lumber yard men again???

Now I don't expect a farmer husband to stop farming to make a posy yard. I've built a lot of things and started a lot of things.

I WOULD start with the arbor.

WITH A HEART heavy as lead, I proceeded to nail it telling them that they should hold their derision... that it was going to be different with roses.

Then it happened!

The whole shebang started to shift to the north and with a scunching sound it all went down in a heap. Wh! they all turned on more laughter (they said they couldn't help it) I sat bent over and engulfed in tears and lumber.

But that was last summer. For weeks I worked on it. Came my birthday in the fall and Pete gave me money for roses for the arbor. Came Mother's Day and more roses. By Pete's birthday the vision had grown until I duplicated the same amount of roses for the fence.

NOW THEY are in and red as I ever hoped they'd be. There is Paul Scarlett for Pete and Blaze for me.

Did you ever hear the story of the Little Red Hen?
Who likes to sit in the arbor now?

Several help gather aid for family

A number of volunteers were involved in last week's gathering of aid for the David L. Husted family, burned out of their home at 610 N. Ottawa May 29. They included Bessie Smeaton, Mrs Doris Orson, Mrs Erma Burk and Mrs Mary Ann Mills.

The women acknowledged a fine response by local residents with clothing and furniture and said enough had been received a couple of days after the fire to meet the needs of the Husted family. Cash contributions to help with expenses are still being sought and can be mailed to the David Husted Fund in care of the St. Johns Post Office.

Belles On Their Toes
 By Frank B. Gilbreth Jr. and Ernestine Gilbreth Carey

Climb aboard with the Gilbreths in further adventures of this uproarious clan! "Belles On Their Toes" tells what happens when the Gilbreth Boys get growing pains and the girls discover romance.
 When Mother Gilbreth decided to carry on the unique engineering career of her husband, the children pitched in, set up a family routine that was hair-raising as well as hilarious. With mother away on frequent business trips, Anne, the eldest, was naturally elected mother hen to the mighty brood, with Tom, the hired man, in joint command. Tom boasted that he had never followed a recipe in his life, and the meals were a convincing testimony.

WHEN CHICKEN pox hit the household—on-masse-it was Tom who played nursemaid, administering the only drugs in his medical bag—quinine and castor oil!

When it came to romance, everything was decided by the family council—a panel of highly partial judges that more often than not obstructed the course of true love. Ernestine's adolescent romance was threatened by her brother's flourishing manure business. Fourteen-year old Martha paraded her charms within father's beachwear regulations (shirts to the knees, black stockings), while her brothers patrolled the beach like Decency Leaguers. Anne couldn't even get engaged without children on her lap!

WITH ALL THE shenanigans of the lively crew, Mother Gilbreth's sparkling personality comes through on every page: Mother supervising the younger boys on a shopping expedition, 5 suits, 15 neckties, 20 suits of underwear, 25 pairs of socks, 20 shirts, 5 pairs of shoes—all subject to the approval of the brother next in line. If mother didn't need a rest cure, the sales clerk did. You will remember Mother on the first Christmas without Dad, creeping down in the middle of the night for a sneak preview of the presents; or sitting at Jane's graduation, when her dreams of sending all the children through college was fulfilled at last.

 "Belles On Their Toes" is as lively as "Cheaper by the Dozen." In fact, it is one of the few sequels that is more entertaining than the original.

Smoking dangers told

Recently a letter was received at the high school from a former Rodney B. Wilson student. Included with the letter was a bylined clipping taken from the Arizona Republic.

The newspaper story was written by Mark Waters and it told of his acquaintance with cigarettes. He told of smoking many exotic brands in his teens and of the depression coming and having to resort to picking up butts off the street and making his own.

AFTER A 20 year tour of duty with the Navy he enrolled in the University of North Carolina and graduated from there. September of last year he came down with a bad cough which forced him to go to the doctor. An x-ray was made and it was found he had lung cancer. He was operated on four days later and he quit smoking then, after 46 years.

January of this year he caught what he thought was a cold and found that his time was drawing to an end.

THIS STORY was his last bylined one as he died four days later.

THE VETERAN Honolulu Star Bulletin reporter Mark Waters pointed out that heavy smoking (20 or more a day) is just like playing Russian roulette with yourself.

The former student who sent the clipping and a letter telling of her own experience with cigarettes was Mrs June (Laity) Cafaro, now of Phoenix, Ariz.

SHE TOLD OF beginning her smoking career as a freshman at Rodney B. Wilson. By 16 she said she was a chain smoker.

Mrs Cafaro told of sneaking behind the bushes with the girls after GAA or some other school event to have a couple of cigarettes.

She said she was sending the clipping and her letter not for any publicity but rather to try to help a few students not to make the same mistake she did.

WHEN SHE AND her husband read Mark Waters' story, they both quit smoking.

She said she now wonders whether her recent bronchitis attacks were bronchitis or possibly something more serious.

THE LETTER AND clipping were read by several of the teachers to their classes.

Mrs Jerry Kramer, girls physical education teacher, read it to her classes and said she thought the sophomores were more interested in it than the freshmen.

"The impact of the clipping vs the letter were just about equal," she said.

THE CLASS related its situations in their own family, such as an aunt or uncle having cancer.

Mrs Kramer told her students not to start smoking because that was easier than having to quit.

WILLIAM F. BROWN teaches physical education. This is his first year teaching since graduation from Michigan State University last summer.

In his classes he read the letter and passed the clipping around. There was no discussion in the class because it was an exam day.

He said he found the students very attentive and some of them waited after class to read the Waters' article.

Brown said possibly the situation might be a little too far removed from his students. They need someone closer to them for it to have an effect.

ROBERT LA BRIE teaches French and Spanish and has been at Rodney B. Wilson for 10 years.

He told his students, "I have a letter and I think it is worth the time to read it."

"I HAD THE girl (June Laity) in my class," he said.

He then read the letter and the clipping to his classes.

La Brie said he noticed heads nodding in assent when he read the part of the letter concerning smoking behind the bushes at Rodney B. Wilson.

NEXT WEEK: STUDENTS REACTIONS.

June is month of "green pastures"

by HELEN B. MEACH Extension Home Economist

June is dairy month and the month of green pastures.

Green pastures where herds of dairy cows work industriously to produce our most nearly perfect food.

Green pastures broken with squares of freshly tilled soil soon to turn green again with crops just seeded.

Green meadows, the pastures where the wildlife nourish their young.

A GREEN WORLD full of bird songs, perfumed flowers and the breath of spring—all ours to renew and maintain our souls and bodies.

Our "green pastures" and the men who till them have a tremendous challenge—there are an ever increasing number of mouths to feed. The "green pasture" acreage is continually invaded by broad bands of highways and carpets of cement upon which cities are founded.

The winds, waters and frosts often have concerns other than raising food. And within our lifetimes we will look back and marvel at the days when "surplus" food was a problem. Already this year, the frosts have delivered a damaging blow "square-on-the-jaw" of the Southwestern Michigan fruit and vegetable producing areas.

BUT WE'VE learned to become a flexible people and we're fortunate enough to have the food abundance and purchasing powers which allow us to make alternate choices.

Our June abundance will include more fresh garden produce, salad greens, including beautiful lettuce. The current lettuce harvest is up 18 percent. Green peppers are demanding more space, with production up eight per cent. "New" potatoes are selling at about one half of the price they were when they first hit the market a month or so ago.

CELERY STALKS are big, juicy and crisp again. Strawberries and asparagus dominate spring produce counters.

Beef supplies are larger and probably will remain larger through the summer. Demand for quick-cooking, outdoor style cuts, is increasing as summer arrives. This usually results in lower costs on long-cooking, less tender cuts.

Broiler supplies are above those of a year ago and prices should drop a little.

Large, size eggs are expected to go down a bit in price during June.

PRIVATE STOCKS in local warehouses will determine your store price, on much of the processed foods, as last year's supply is closed out to make room for this year's pack. Canned green beans prove the "biggest bargain" in most areas.

During June most of us will be "Eating-from-our-gardens"—or the gardens the producers near us are raising.

June is the month when Mother Nature gives sustenance for new life. It is the month of green pastures where our own shepherd leadeth us to restoreth our souls.

Other plays and dates scheduled are: "See How They Run" July 5-9; "Ah, Wilderness" July 12-16; "A Midsummer Night's Dream" July 19-23; "Under Milkwood" July 26-30; "King Lear" Aug. 2-6; "The Late Christopher Bean" Aug. 9-13; "Come Blow Your Horn" Aug. 16-20; "Private Lives" Aug. 23-27; and "Waiting for Godot" Aug. 30-Sept. 3.

THE ENTIRE playhouse theater is being refurbished this season, according to Business Manager Richard Thomsen. The lobby art gallery has been redecorated, the house brightened up and the stage has been redesigned so that every seat in the house is "the best seat."

Artistic Director John Peakes has assembled a newacting company from all over the United States. The exceptionally large company will perform all the parts in Ledges productions. According to Peakes, who has performed at a number of summer theaters in the East, the Ledges Playhouse company is on a level with the best in the country.

Michigan has pioneered in the development and use of heavy motorized equipment for fighting forest fires. The Federal government and many states are now using ideas developed at the Michigan Conservation Department's experiment station near Roscommon, only one of its kind in the nation.

From the looks of the smiles, it would appear these youngsters at Swegles Street School are happy with what they're reading and hearing. They are listening to a tape recording of what they are reading, one of the new techniques used in the St. Johns schools' reading improvement program. The teacher is Mrs. Ella Mae Beck; the smiling children are Renee Glowacki, Randy Dilday, Linda Gilbert and John Cheeny.

Teacher Mrs. Norma Hagg goes over junior high school reading improvement work with Joé Kasper, Kris Murray, Jack Purvis, Verna Slagell and Kim Patterson.

Special reading program ends 1st semester

Reading is the most important subject to be learned by children, educators point out. A child will learn little else in today's world if he does not first learn to read properly.

St. Johns Public Schools have a program of reading improvement classes that has been under way since February. Some 160 students in the system are now taking the course with the aim of improving their reading and comprehension.

Elementary reading improvement classes were the first to get under way in February, and during the second semester there were 53 elementary students enrolled. The job of teachers was to find individual problems and the child's specific reading disability.

THE READING CLASSES at the elementary level use various methods to improve children's reading. In some cases, recordings heard through head sets are used to improve listening skills.

The good listener tends to be a good reader. Good listening habits are important for efficient learning.

Children have access to tape recorders, pre-recorded tapes, film strips, records, tachistoscope, SRA laboratory and a large selection of library books on their level.

In the reading program, word recognition, work analysis, phonetic analysis, structural analysis, word meaning, dictionary skills, comprehension, oral and silent reading skills are stressed. Teachers attempt to provide reading material suited to each child's reading level. Working in small groups enables them to do this.

THE READING improvement classes in the junior high school were developed on the theory that many children can be much better readers than they are with a little extra help and attention. It is also felt it is better to get reading problems under control at this stage of their education than wait until high school when the required reading load is so heavy they become completely frustrated and no longer try to keep up with their studies.

Reading improvement classes in junior high began Feb. 21 with a tentative enrollment of 60 students. On the basis of teachers' recommendations and achievement test scores it was decided to select those who it was felt could best profit from the kind of intensive, individual instruction such a program could offer.

CLASSES WERE limited to six pupils, and they met one hour a day on alternate days. Many new books, workbooks, filmstrips and reading laboratories were acquired.

The program during the past semester has been largely experimental to see which areas would produce the greatest results from time spent. Considerable attention was given to phonics, syllabi-cation, prefixes, suffixes and comprehension. Outside reading was encouraged by the acquisition of new high-interest books, and a minimal number of book reports were required. Students were allowed to work at their own pace in various workbooks and reading laboratories.

Next year's program will be extended and broadened in scope, and it is hoped that much more can be accomplished by having it spread over a full school year rather than just part of a semester, as was necessarily the case this year. A testing program will be initiated by means of which a pupil's progress can be noted from the beginning to the end of a year.

THE HIGH SCHOOL program was the last to commence and has been in existence nine weeks. Through faculty recommendations and test scores, 47 students were placed in the reading program.

Students receive one hour of instruction, five days a week. Within small groups the instruction is individualized according to a student's needs.

Not all students in the program are poor readers. Some of them enrolled are on college preparatory courses. These students are receiving instruction to develop their speed in reading. A variety of methods and materials are being used which emphasize skill development in reading. Emphasis has been placed on work analysis, vocabulary, comprehension and study skills.

TEACHERS FIND IT difficult to evaluate a program of this kind in such a short span of time. But they have found satisfaction when students react with such exclamations as "Boy! I never realized how much there was to be learned about reading!"

Altar vases of brass were dedicated at the Elsie Methodist Church as a memorial to the late Mrs Ralph Woodard during Sunday morning's worship service. The presentation was made by Clayton Woodard of East Lansing, the eldest of the 10 children. There were thirty members of the family in attendance when Robert Bloomer accepted the gift for the sanctuary.

REP. CHAMBERLAIN
Chamberlain to run again

Congressman Charles E. Chamberlain, Republican of East Lansing, has announced he will seek reelection from the Sixth Congressional District, composed of Ingham, Jackson, and Shiawassee Counties and the townships of Dewitt and Bath in Clinton County.

In making his announcement, the Congressman said, "Viet Nam overshadows everything today. To be working with his complex problem, as a member of the Armed Services Committee provides a great opportunity to serve our country."
Chamberlain, who has been twice to the war zones of Viet Nam on special assignments recently, is working with his forces have made impressive progress during the past year. I am deeply disturbed over the prospects of a long drawn-out struggle which is being extended not only by the political instability within South Viet Nam but also by the lack of effective efforts by the administration to choke off the supplies flowing to the enemy from so-called friendly sources."

BORN IN INGHAM County on a farm his family has operated for more than a century, Chamberlain was educated in Lansing Public Schools and attended the University of Virginia where he received degrees in both commerce and law. During World War II, the congressman served as the commanding officer of Coast Guard vessels in both the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. He is now a Captain in the U.S. Coast Guard Reserve.
Prior to his election to Congress, he served as city attorney for East Lansing, legal counsel for the Michigan Senate Judiciary Committee and as prosecuting attorney of Ingham County. The Chamberlains reside at 818 N. Harrison Road, East Lansing, and have three children, Ellen, Christine, and Charles Jr.

Livestock can survive fallout

"Your livestock can survive fallout radiation," William M. Smith, chairman of the Clinton USDA Defense Board, said this week. There have been confusing statements to the effect that radioactive contamination from severe nuclear disaster would make it impossible for the farmer to continue the production of food. Such statements are false, Smith said.

In any major, widespread emergency, the economy of the nation would depend on the ability of the American farmer to maintain farm production. There are definite, practical measures that can be taken to protect livestock feed, soil, water, and crops—and insure ability to continue the important job of producing the nation's food.

FARMERS CAN prepare now for such an eventuality. Information is available from Clinton USDA County Defense Board at the ASCS office, 100 S. Ottawa Street, St. Johns.

One or more USDA monitoring stations are established in every county in the United States. Each USDA monitoring station will report to its USDA County Defense Board, and this information will be available to local civil defense officials. All monitoring activities would be closely coordinated with the activities of state and local government.

Any farmer who has a question about the detection of harmful radiation should contact Lloyd Campbell or a local civil defense official. Numerous booklets on protective measures are available from these sources.

Wither boards part of free-stall housing

Michigan dairymen have found it easier to keep stalls cleaner in a free-stall dairy housing barn if a board or bar is used across the top of the stall.

Michigan State University dairymen say the wither board definitely aids in keeping stalls cleaner. They recommend that the board be five feet to five feet six inches from the alley.

As cows stand, their withers touch this cross member and causes them to step back. The slight movement back is all that is necessary to result in the manure being deposited in the alley rather than in the stall.

Get early start on fly control

Get an early start on control of flies that infest dairy barns and milk houses, including the house flies, stable flies and other closely related kinds. According to George McQueen, County extension agricultural agent for Clinton County, Pyrethrum can be used to control flies. Mist sprays are most effective.

Dairymen should remember that chlorinated hydrocarbon insecticides are not allowed under state and federal regulations. Directions on insecticide containers should be read and followed.

Description of flies and their best methods of control can be found in the Michigan State Bulletin E-381, "Controlling Mites and Insects of Dairy Cattle." This publication can be obtained from the Clinton County Extension Office in the courthouse.

Greens' Holstein rated 'excellent'

Dora Meadowlane 5396810, a Registered Holstein cow in the herd of Duane and Velmar Green, Green Meadow Farm, Elsie, has been officially classified "excellent"—the highest designation attainable in the type classification program of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

This highly select designation is applied only to animals scoring 90 or more of the 100 points representing theoretical perfection in body conformation. Of nearly 72,700 Registered Holsteins officially classified for type last year, only 785 were rated "Excellent."

Research at Michigan State University has helped Michigan's muskmelon crop become the fifth ranking in the United States. Latest is a new variety, Spartan Howell.

Research triples pickle yield

Michigan's pickling cucumber yields have tripled in the last 15 years, thanks to research.

In 1950, the average yield stood at 50 bushels per acre. Then, with the elimination of virus and fungus diseases, yields began to climb upwards to the current level of around 150 bushels.

In recent years, production rose again with the development of Spartan Dawn, a cucumber with all female flowers, by Dr. Clinton E. Peterson, Michigan State University horticulturist.

SINCE THE FEMALE flowers are the ones that bear fruit, the Spartan Dawn concentrated production and increased yields by 30 per cent over open pollinated varieties.

This method of developing the Spartan Dawn has also been incorporated into other hybrids which are rapidly being used around the world. The varieties—with their higher production and quality—are estimated to be worth about one-half million dollars a year in Michigan alone, according to MSU Agricultural Experiment Station scientists. The scientists further estimate that the potential value of these varieties—when modified for mechanical harvesting—will be about $3 million per year.

YET, THE TOTAL cost for cucumber variety research during the past 10 years has been just $200,000.

Continued improvements in cucumber production and harvest efficiency are expected in the years ahead. Michigan cucumber growers are expected to double production per acre within the next decade.

Plant fertilizers termed bargain

Plant food is a bargain. There's been very little change in the cost of fertilizer over the past decade, while costs of other crop production "tools" have continued to soar upward, according to Michigan State University soil scientists.

For example, farm investments have gone up more than 100 per cent; farm wages and machinery, up more than 30 per cent; and crop production, more than 25 per cent.

Increasing demands for greater production per acre are expected to increase fertilizer needs 17-fold by the end of the century, MSU soil scientists believe.

Hog raising: not how big, but how good

Bigness and volume do not always add up to efficiency, thinks Edward C. Miller, Extension swine specialist at Michigan State University.

But if hog farmers are going to compete in the years ahead, they must increase the size to the point where they will give the enterprise the attention it requires. "This means that one man will have as his first responsibility the job of looking after the hogs. It must be done as regularly as milking the cows, night and morning, Miller thinks.

MILLER BELIEVES the maximum size of the business is limited by the managerial ability of the operator. "Any good farmer can direct his own activities. Most good farmers can direct the work of themselves and one hired man. But directing two hired men is more difficult and the third often costs more than he produces," Miller commented.

Speaking of efficiency, he believes that a farmer who cannot operate to a relatively small hog operation efficiently will not normally improve his earnings materially by increasing his volume.

THE EXTENSION swine specialist thinks that in Michigan the traditional hog farm will include good crop and livestock production. Complete hog production programs are usually most successful, but often specialization can prove successful. If the farmer does not have adequate acreage to produce plenty of feed, perhaps a specialized feeder pig operation is for him. It will require more managerial skill and closer supervision than a finishing

ASC PROGRAM

Reseal programs on corn announced by Washington

W. M. SMITH
County ASC Manager

1965-crop corn in farm storage, both under loan and for purchase, may be continued under the reseal program announced by the U.S. Department of Agriculture May 12.

Corn from the 1964, 1963 and 1962 crops now under resale may also be continued under price support loans. 1961-crop corn presently under resale loan will not be continued for another year. These resale loans are being called immediately in view of increased need for CCC-owned corn. This is primarily due to dollar exports which are at record levels. Early call of 1962-crop corn loans extended for the 1966-67 program year may be necessary if corn exports and other utilization continue at the same level in the months ahead.

THE AVAILABILITY of the resale program on 1962, 1963, 1964 and 1965-crops corn was authorized by the Michigan ASC State Committee. In making their decision, they considered the feasibility of safe storage of grains on farms for the resale period and determined it will be advantageous to producers and CCC to make resale loans available.

Storage rates for the 1966-67 storage period will be announced at a later date. If a farmer delivers or redeems resale grain prior to the end of the 1966-67 storage period, the storage payment will be prorated.

All resale loans are subject to call by CCC at any time. This year it is to the advantage of the producer with 1962, 1963, 1964 or 1965-crop corn under price support to decide as soon as possible after July 1 whether he wishes to continue his corn under price support for the 1966-67 program year. Loans may be repaid at any time, and early delivery may be authorized in the event the producer feels this is necessary prior to the new maturity date. Additional information on resale loans may be obtained at the county ASCS office.

WE SOLD 1,800 BUSHELS of corn from our Elsie bin site May 26. High bid accepted was $1.27.

Good corn handling system essential

A good corn handling system is important to Michigan farmers. Corn has become Michigan's major grain crop and as planting nears completion many farmers are thinking—and hoping—about harvest this fall.

George McQueen, Clinton County extension agricultural agent, says harvest losses range from 5 to 25 bushels an acre based on a 100 bushel an acre total yield. That means leaving from one to five $5 bills in the field, and a good corn handling system will keep this loss at a minimum.

FARMERS ARE showing great interest in improving their corn harvesting storage system. A number are building new grain centers this year. Agricultural engineering extension specialists at Michigan State University say there will be more shelled corn harvested this year as a greater number of corn growers are selling their corn rather than feeding it on the farm.

The agricultural agent lists three basic systems.

- 1) Ear corn harvest with natural air drying through ventilated cribs.
- 2) SHELLED CORN harvest either using a sheller-picker in the field or shelling corn at the storage bin with some type of a drying system.
- 3) Harvesting high moisture low bid accepted was $1.26. On June 2 we are offering 4,600 bushels at the Elsie bin site; bids must be in our office by 3:30 p.m. Thursday, June 2.

Just a reminder to those who are signed up in the 1966 wheat program. You must come to our office by June 15 to certify on your acreage; if you wish to receive payment.

corn either as ear or shelled corn and storing it in a silo ready to feed livestock. McQueen says there are some keys or anchor points that farmers should recognize in planning storages. These involve both the volume and the moisture at which corn is harvested. Storage up to 10,000 bushels can easily be handled as ear corn storage. However, some farmers find that when they have more than 7,000 bushels storing as shelled corn has some advantages.

Weeds take big toll in crops

Weeds reduce crop value for the United States an estimated 4 to 5 billion dollars each year. This is greater than the losses caused by diseases and insects combined. Weeds compete with crop plants for water, nutrients and light. They also harbor insects and diseases and generally reduce yields and crop quality. According to George McQueen, extension agricultural agent, a recently revised bulletin brings up-to-date the measures now being used for chemical weed control in horticulture in Michigan.

THE SAFE USAGE and the limitations of the chemicals are discussed with the safe application and storage practices.

The grower should take special care and read directions to prevent possible injury to persons, crop plants and animals.

Further information is available in the MSU Extension Bulletin 433 "Chemical Weed Control for Horticultural Crops." This publication can be obtained from the Clinton County Extension office at St. Johns.

Michigan State University home economists warn that the washability of today's blended fabrics depends upon the finish and the fabrics involved. To avoid shrinkage and warping of fabrics—always read the washing instructions. If one yarn in a blend is washable and the other is not, the garment shouldn't be washed.

Better spent on the moon than . . .

Last week the United States accomplished a great feat. They made a soft landing on the moon. The surveyor moon vehicle, after landing began reacting almost instantly to commands from the control center here on earth and began sending back hundreds of very clear pictures.

This accomplishment was made even greater when it was compared to the attempts made by the Soviet Union. For them it took about seven attempts before they made their first soft landing last April.

This moon feat, as you look back on it, took many hours of work, many of our tax dollars and many anxious moments to accomplish. But this was done by Americans, qualified to do a specific job. Some jobs were very minute compared to the overall accomplishment, but still each man was an expert in his field. He didn't get the job because of his political background, race, creed or color.

Many people will say that this so-called moon race is foolish and a waste of money. Years ago many people said the same thing of Columbus.

Trees—gifts that can be remembered always

The best gift usually is one which makes a lasting impression on the recipient and will be remembered and enjoyed for many years.

In this category, trees and shrubs as gifts strike a happy note, because they offer not only enjoyment, but changeability from one season to the next.

What gift would be more enjoyable to an aged person than the gift of shade in hot summer weather?

Or a gift of rose bushes whose incomparable blooms for years will adorn the person of a beloved woman, whether mother or sweetheart?

FOR CHILDREN THERE are gifts of young trees to watch grow from season to season, maturing as the child matures, a tree climb up and climb down; a tree to enjoy for a whole lifetime.

An industrialist we recall once planted a tree for each of his five children and it seemed the children always remained with him though one had died in war and another from sickness. At considerable expense he moved the trees when they were mature because they had grown so precious to him.

Gifts of memorial trees by local clubs will beautify a community for hundreds of years. Flowering beauty as well as shade adds dignity as well as beauty.

MEMBERS OF GOLF clubs often give trees not only to beautify the course, but to make it more challenging.

Industrial firms and other businesses donate trees to beautify communities. Retail businesses give trees to dress up drab trading areas. Newspapers run campaigns for street tree plantings.

In planting a tree or shrub, every home owner adds to the beautification of his home, his community and his country. Whether planting for pleasure, for a gift, or planting for memory, the results are the same—a more beautiful America.

AUTOMOBILE DRIVERS should recognize bicycles are vehicles, too, and have as much right-of-way at intersections as automobiles do. Drivers entering an intersection should look out for bicycles as well as autos. Failure to do so could mean death or injury to the cyclist. Likewise, cyclists should realize their responsibility.

This moon shot did cost the people of the United States many tax dollars. But, when you stop to consider the tremendous feat accomplished, we would say that our tax dollars were spent better on this project than on many other government projects.

At least in this area of government spending, the jobs go to the people who are qualified to handle the situation. This is much better than some of our other government agencies who will put a man in charge, not because he is the best qualified, but because he belongs to the right political party, or has a friend in the right places.

Take the couple in Detroit, who were making $11,000 per year and applied for and received a poverty loan for $25,000. This was not handled by qualified or responsible people, or it wouldn't have happened.

This area, not our space program, is wasting more of our tax dollars. We think it would be to our best interest if some of our other government agencies would take a hint from our space agency.

RAMBLIN' with Rink

By LOWELL G. RINKER

Those bleary eyed things wandering around last Thursday with the big grin from one side of the face to the other were the kooky Americans who stayed up half the night to "help" Surveyor I soft-land on the moon.

It was quite an evening, one that can't be duplicated on video tape, because that extra dimension—the anxiety of the watcher on this end of the TV network—has things actually took place—can't be recorded.

Perhaps I'm more of a space bug than most people, but that was one of the most thrilling and exhilarating few minutes I've put in. I've had to resort to TV, but I have been in on most of the big space achievements of U. S. since Alan Shepard took his short trip up and down.

LAST THURSDAY morning's almost unbelievable first-time success was one of the high points in this space-watcher's historybook. The single high point, however, continues to be the five-second interval live TV pictures of Ranger 9's beautiful swan dive onto the moon a year ago.

Surveyor I didn't miss Ranger 9 by much as an excitement producer. I stayed up for the late movie that night, and from the moment coverage began at 1 a.m. I was glued to the TV until 3 a.m.

The touchdown was fabulous. Throughout the final minutes there was always the feeling that something should go wrong; the percentages demanded it. With almost monotonous regularity, though, the mission director at the Jet Propulsion Lab would call out the orders being radioed to Surveyor and 4 1/2 seconds later confirmation would be received.

WHEN THE MAIN retro rocket fired 15 miles above the moon's surface, I had my first real feeling of complete success. The excitement grew as the controllers here on Earth—230,000 miles away—called out the lowering altitude of the Surveyor and, more importantly, the decreasing velocity as the small radar-computer controlled retro rockets slowed the ship up.

Sixty thousand feet, the 25,000, then 10,000, the 5,000, then 1,000, the 500, then 100 feet. I was already restraining myself from applauding that probably would have awakened the whole neighborhood. Then 60 feet. When they announced the rate of deceleration was only 13 feet per second, the JPL room burst into applause, and I leaped to my feet. Then—a soft landing.

MORE ORDERS SENT across the vacuum of space—and more confirmations received. These were almost an anti-climax after the landing. Finally the pictures were flashed on the screen, and there was more jubilation. And why not? This was a great scientific achievement, and I take my hat off to everybody who had a hand in it, even though I might not agree with the long-range philosophy for the need for such expenditures.

The achievement was great. Surveyor I landed only one second off the planned time and only eight miles from the site aimed at from Earth when Surveyor lifted off. There were intricate, mid-course maneuvers, and there were a lot of delicate maneuvers prior to landing. Scientists said they can learn a lot from not only the good TV pictures but also from telemetry on such things as the strength of radar echos as the spacecraft approached the moon, on the temperature measurements inside Surveyor, and on strain gauges on the tips of the three legs that measured the impact of the landing, and on . . .

AND TV PICTURES will be available every night here on Earth until the two-week lunar night sets in that will, with its bitter cold, likely end, Surveyor I's useful life.

Everything about the flight was perfect, except one thing: one of the "omni-antenna" failed to pop out in place during the flight of Surveyor. But almost as if it didn't want to be the lone "bug" in the whole project, the antenna popped out into position when the craft impacted on the moon!

All this will be familiar, week-old history by the time you read this column, but as of last Thursday morning I can't think of a thing more exciting to write about.

STRICTLY FRESH

The man across the street has found a way to make his wife drive more carefully.

fully. He told her that if she had an accident the newspapers would print her age.

Did you hear about the lady who has her own way so much she writes her diary in advance?

The fellow who thinks he knows it all is especially annoying to those of us who do.

Westphalia reader blasts annexation

I WRITE TO explain why I feel the Pwamo-Westphalia School District must vote NO on the proposed annexation to the Lansing Community College District. The Jaycees seem not to understand the proposition or they would oppose the annexation and enhance the welfare of the people of their own community.

The whole reason for annexation is to get more taxpayers to pay for a future $10 million expansion. The tax is based on property—which means directed against our local farmers. Why should the local farmers, instead of high-income people of Lansing (many of which are GM executives) pay for the college expansion. Perhaps Westphalia Jaycees can answer this.

WE MUST OPPOSE all school taxes. If schools go bankrupt (which is becoming the case in the Northern District in Detroit), Governor Romney will have to take time out from national politics and come back to Michigan to give us tax reform. Although he presently favors a "straight-line" income tax, this is not tax reform, and I hope the Democrats continue to oppose it. With an adequate state "graduate" income tax we would soon have enough funds to make our schools the best in the nation.

But I say, let the 2 per cent of the population that gets most of the $2 billion in GM profits as well as all HIGH-INCOME Michiganders pay their just share of the taxes, and not the already over-taxed Pwamo and Westphalia farmers.

IT SEEMS unreasonable that people oppose the few extra dollars it costs them to give our Legislators a pay increase—and yet favor unjustified school taxes (that will ensue annexation) that can cost them as much as $200, $500, $1,000, and more per year.

The future of Michigan farmers, and quality of future Michigan schools are at stake. Be sure to vote June 13. The few minutes it takes you to vote can save you thousands of dollars in unfair taxes in future years. Vote NO on annexation and tax issues.

Reader wonders where justice went

JUSTICE—IS THERE any justice or fair play in our city of St. Johns any more? At least a very little, I'd say. Since when does the might of a few make right for the general public. Aren't we supposed to live by the Golden Rule? . . . "Do to others as you'd like to be done by."

Here in St. Johns a few are trying to make all do as the few wish—am I not correct? Be truthful, and anyone can see that the few are doing the people. Weren't public officials put into office to work for the good of the people? We, the public, are considered by those officials as such dumbbells, dumadoras, saps, rubes, etc., that they can put over on us anything and we'll keep our mouths shut and quietly take their sayings and abuses. We are expected to pay anything (reasonable or not) for taxes, water, sewerage, etc.—just accept them as fine or OK.

MOST OF US, whether college educated or not, know when bills we receive are excessive and beyond common sense and judgment. I very recently had a very hidden water leak in my basement. My plumber told me that no common person and only persons in the plumbing business would recognize or realize what was happening.

Of course, as soon as possible I had the conditions taken care of. Nevertheless, I was charged an enormous amount for water that went through meter and for sewerage (never used), too. I live alone and have never used all of the minimum amount I usually pay for. I took the matter up with the city manager and city commissioners. You should see the little amount they

By STEVE HOPKO

A while back there were demonstrations and complaints from some college students protesting the tests pertaining to draft deferments.

It was during this time that Secretary McNamara decided it was time to pick up his ball and go home. McNamara tossed out the suggestion that maybe it would be better to draft all our young people into government service, either the military or one of the volunteer services, such as the Peace Corps.

This strategy reminded me of a group of youngsters playing ball. The one who owned the ball gets in an argument with one other player. He doesn't like it because he won't play his way so he takes his ball and goes home. Because of one individual, the group is without a ball and everyone has a bad day.

Projecting this to the issue, the team is the college students, McNamara owns the ball and those objecting to the tests are those who are arguing about Mc's rules.

Mc DOESN'T LIKE it because they don't all want to play ball his way, so he made the above statement.

It was an odd way for the Secretary to react because a genuine universal military training practice with civilian service thrown in would not change the situation in the least.

THE DRAFT HAS been with us for about 26 years and in this time there have always been discussions and arguments as to whether it was right or wrong.

Over the years it seems that our government, in drafting its young men, always took those who should have stayed home and left home all those who should have been taken.

BUT IT COMES down to one point. Most young men do not want to go into military service. This goes back to WW II, Korea and now Viet Nam. Their reasons for not wanting to be drafted varied from, not wanting to die (we all seem to regard dying as something to stay away from) to interrupting his education to getting married and raising a family.

Back in WW II when we drafted approximately 15,000,000 young men it was considered a necessity. We were in an all-out war and we needed everyone we could get. At the beginning of the WW II draft we turned down many for medical reasons who, before the war was over, were re-examined and taken anyway.

IN TODAY'S draft we do not need as many men, at least at the present. Thus we are more selective as to who will go and who will stay home. Our draft has always been based on our nation's need, for necessity is the only reason for any draft at all.

Thus under Mc's "universal service for everyone" we would not really gain anything. If it came to this, we would still have the same old complaints. Those who were sent to the Peace Corps should have gone to the military, those sent to the military should have gone somewhere else and so on.

SO AS FAR as I can see, we would gain nothing in a universal draft with the exception of costing us more money to train all these young people, unless it were to reduce the complaints from those small privileged groups on campuses. Then again I doubt if this type of gain would really be worth it.

State-sponsored scholarship program on schedule

BY ELMER E. WHITE
Michigan Press Assn.

Michigan's state-sponsored scholarship program is progressing much the way it was anticipated in 1964.

It started at $300,000 that year and higher education officials hoped to boost the legislative appropriation to $1 million the following year. This year $1.6 million in scholarships were awarded under the competitive program.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Ira Polley said nearly 10,000 scholarships have been awarded since the start of the program. Some 4,221 of these were awarded this Spring for Fall college enrollment.

STUDENTS ARE selected for the financial assistance under the program primarily on the basis of need. Amounts of the scholarships vary, from $80 to $800, depending on the individual need and costs at the school the applicant plans to attend.

Demonstration of college ability is also required.

Polley's office said this year's scholarships went to students planning to attend 82 different institutions in Michigan, including both public and private colleges and universities and some community colleges.

A YOUNG MAN on the way up is the description given William G. Milliken since he was first elected to the State Senate in 1960 from the Traverse City District.

His father served in the Senate before him and Milliken came in with the energy instilled in youth who has closely observed the legislative process.

He quickly became one of the leaders in the Senate group dubbed the Moderates, who had their difficulties but also won some important victories and great influence in the 1961 and 1962 sessions.

EVEN IN HIS FIRST term in the Senate, there were many observers who predicted Milliken would rise to the Governor's chair one day. Now he is just one step, and potentially less than four years, from the spot.

Gov. George Romney surreptitiously tapped Milliken as his running mate in 1964 when the new Constitution provided that the chief executive and Lieutenant Governor run on a team ticket.

Reorganization of state government this year gave Michigan's No. 2 man a few important responsibilities in addition to presiding over the Senate.

NOW ROMNEY has once again given him the nod for what appears to be an almost certain second term, this one for four years under the Constitution.

With more and more national attention being given to the Governor's potential in national politics in 1968, and Romney hedging carefully with every word of comment, Milliken stands in the best possible spot to step into the No.

1 spot to fill out an unexpired term.

An incumbency label and a short period of getting used to the job are strong factors to broadcast when running for office.

PROOF THAT MICHIGAN week is fast becoming a year-round promotional effort came quickly from the greater Michigan Foundation office in Lansing this year.

The 1966 observance ended May 21. Three days later the Foundation, which sponsors the annual brag week, put out a news release noting that the same theme will be carried by the 1967 event.

It will be the third year that the theme "Michigan: Dynamic in World Progress" will be used. Theme Committee Chairman Michael Radock, a University of Michigan vice president, said the impact of the theme and demand from local organizations led to the decision to use it again.

IT'S A TRIBUTE to many thousands of committee workers that the 1967 event planning is already under way.

Radock said announcement of the theme at this time was contrived to get citizens to use it actively throughout the months before next year's official observance. The theme is frequently used during Michigan Week on business letter-heads, postage meters and other printed matter.

"Tens of thousands of summer visitors from all over the nation and many parts of the world will be our guests during the next three months and all of us should help show Michigan's advantages and friendliness to them," said Radock. "This theme gives us both inspiration and opportunity."

Michigan's highest and lowest points of elevation are only a few miles apart. The highest peak rising 1,990 feet, is in Baraga County. Nearby, the bottom of Lake Superior is 1,333 feet down, 733 feet lower than sea level.

Vocabulary

By W. E. DOBSON

Sir William Shakespeare owned a large
And lush vocabulary,
Not many folks these days confess
To more than they can carry;
But Wm. made friends of each word,
And much more oft than not,
He'd come up with a candidate
That always hit the spot.

Now words have meanin' more or less
Accordin' as we use 'em,
N they kin get shop worn 'n dull
If we too much abuse 'em;
Unless we frequently re-stock
Our language with new words,
We find our word cupboard quite bare—
Our discourse "for the birds!"

Some folks fill in the missing links,
With cuss words bold 'n strong,
As substitute for song;
Some others gally gabble on,
As though they were "in clover",
Their stock of words is limited—
But look at the turn-over!

COUNTRY FLAVOR

Whittling: to help keep the nation's ship on steadier keel

HAYDN PEARSON

Since man first learned to fashion a sharp-edged blade he has enjoyed whittling. One of the deplorable aspects of what on a bit hesitatingly calls modern civilization is the passing of this art. Only a few dedicated whittlers are left today and all men should unite to foster a renaissance of the craft.

There are two kinds of whittling. A man can whittle with a purpose. In pioneer times, men and boys whittled implements for home and farm use. In cabins in the woodlands, craftsmen made bowls and plates, spoons and forks; they made handles for hoes and axes, hooks for hanging harness and fashioned shovels and pitchforks. They whittled spiles for tapping maple trees and latches for cabin doors.

THERE IS another kind of whittling—the kind we need today. That is whittling for whittling's sake. After a noon dinner of fried salt pork, milk gravy, bottled potatoes, and a quarter of a juicy strawberry pie, it is good to sit on a box in the barn doorway and whittle for a few minutes before getting back to work.

A man needs a sharp knife and the wood of his choice. The countryman prefers straight-grained, soft white pine. A period of leisurely nonpurposeful whittling does something for a man. It calms and relaxes; it puts him in tune with the season and helps to dissipate tensions and frustrations.

AS LONG, SMOOTH shavings peel away, a man can feel his perspective returning. We wish that our law makers in Washington would take up whittling, and after a session of oratory would adjourn for an hour while they whittled. Whittling won't cure all the nation's problems, but it would help keep the ship on a steadier keel.

The "Low Down"
From the Congressional Record

By Joe Crump

U.S. uniform not modern dunce cap

Rep. C.E. Gallagher (N.J.) ... With the completion of the first rounds of the Selective Service qualification test, the new criteria to determine draft deferments are receiving increased attention. The criteria I speak of are class rank and test scores, which have been established by the Selective Service System as guidelines for local draft boards to use when it becomes necessary to lift the deferment status of a certain number of college students in order to replenish our national supply of men eligible for the draft.

"A recent study by the American college testing program has found that virtually no correlation exists between the marks made by a student in college and his later success. Albert Einstein, for example, was considered dull in school and had a terrible time passing his examinations.

"CERTAINLY, THE validity of the class-rank criterion is highly tenuous, if only on the basis of the nature of higher education. The academic standards at some universities and colleges are simply lower than at others.

"In addition, the Selective Service college qualification test is admittedly predisposed toward mathematics and this is initially weighted against the large number of students studying the liberal arts...

"The new system for selection is most unsatisfactory, however, in its injustice to those who must already bear the brunt of the draft: the low-income groups who rarely have the opportunity to pursue a higher education on a full time basis and at a fully accredited university...

"UNDER THE NEW system for selection, however, any man who has not had the opportunity to go to college is automatically deemed to be of less concern to his country than his more fortunate friend who can financially manage a college degree. What little college he might be able to afford on a part-time basis is denied him, because under the new system, he is expendable and so is plucked out of school and tossed into khaki, while his full-time college classmate is not...

"THE PROPOSED system is discriminatory to the student, it imposes an unfair and unwanted burden on the college authorities, and it tends to downgrade service in our Armed Forces. For these and many other reasons, it is my hope that the Selective Service System will reappraise and re-evaluate the new criteria for draft deferment."

A GRASSROOTS COMMENT

The class-rank and test system finds the college professor acting as a member of the draft board. 142 Chicago professors didn't like it.

From the financial angle, the G.I. Bill was designed to assist those individuals whose education was interrupted by being drafted into the Armed Services.—J. C.

took off my bill and called it a generous consideration; no one else calls it generous but just plain meagerly.

THAT GROUP doesn't know the meaning of the word generosity, only when it affects their own pocket books. The city manager and city commissioners are very afraid to give any consideration on bills as others will get on their necks, too. They say so themselves. I say the more people get on their necks and the harder they jump on them the better.

We the public must stand up for our just rights and for ourselves, or no one else will. Come one and all, let's all stand together and show those people we aren't afraid of them and mean business—real business—and won't be hoodwinked by the dominating few. A time of reckoning is coming when the present officers can and will be replaced by those interested in serving the public.

Children enjoy seeing chickens hatch

THIS LAST semester at East Essex School, grades kindergarten and first have been given the opportunity of observing two chickens hatch from eggs.

The children have made charts, pictures, books and helped run the incubator. The chickens, which were named "Dicky" and "Chicky," are thriving under all the attention.

The room enjoyed the project immensely and would like to take this way of thanking Mr Amstutz for the eggs.

Sincerely,

Holy Communion is celebrated on the first Sunday of each month in the early service, and on the third Sunday of each month in the late service. Adult Information Classes, which also prepare for membership in the church, are held as much as possible at the convenience of the inquirer. Phone 224-3178 for information.

Who doesn't dream, sometimes? Who doesn't stand gazing into the future, picturing that new house, that graduation day, that wedding ceremony, that deluxe-model car . . . the thousand and one dreams that man holds in his heart?
We realize that a worthwhile life must contain more than just material satisfactions. Without a confident frame of mind, our future will be nothing but tension and uncertainty. Where can we find this inner feeling of courage that will make things easier for us every hour of every day?
Millions of people find it in the Christian faith. The apostle Paul said that he was strengthened in everything he did by faith in Christ . . . and this truth is constantly being rediscovered by men and women urgently in need of something they can trust.
Faith is the key to peace of mind. With faith, you will be able to move mountains of frustration.
