

Renewals, reelections main issues

Polls will open Monday throughout Clinton County for the annual spring school elections, which include several board of education races and millage increases.

Here is a rundown on the area elections.

ST. JOHNS

The voters will be asked to decide the fate of a proposed 2.5 mill increase for school operation for one year.

Two board member positions will also be determined. Candidates include Bruce Irish Sr., Alden Livingston, Leon Schumaker and Gale Van Burger. Livingston and Schumaker are incumbents.

Any registered voter may vote at the following polling places:

Precinct one—St. Johns, Bingham and Bengal Townships will vote at Rodney B. Wilson school in rooms 111 and 113.
Precinct two—East Essex school.
Precinct three—Eureka school.
Precinct four—Olive Center school.

Precinct five—Riley Township hall.
CLINTON INTERMEDIATE DISTRICT
There is one question on the ballot from the county intermediate district asking for a three-fourths mill tax limitation increase. If approved the increased revenue would provide continued education of the county's handicapped children.

FOWLER
Fowler voters will decide the continuation of the current 14 1/2 mills for operating purposes which expired with the 1970 tax levy. The board is also asking for an increase of the operating millage of 1 1/2 mills which would bring the total tax to 16 mills for 1971.

Gerald Pohl is the only candidate for the four-year board of education position.

PEWAMO-WESTPHALIA
The board of education is asking for a renewal of the present 14 1/2 mills for operating purposes which expired with the 1971 tax levy.

Eugene Cook is the only candidate for the four-year board of education position.

OVID-ELSIE
Voters are faced with two separate millage questions this year with the renewal of the 14 mill operational levy for another year, plus a request for two mills for transportation and school supplies. The transportation request would be for one year.

Six candidates are listed on the ballot for two vacancies on the board of education. They are Merle Green (incumbent), Robert Bloomer, William Grant, Thomas Winkler, Richard Semans and William Staples.

BATH
The board of education is asking for a continuation of the current operational millage of 18 mills for another year. Eight candidates are listed for two seats on the board. They are James Cramer, William Fouch, Nina Fineis, Gerald Feguer, Cleo Friend Sr., Marilyn Markham, Claude Vall and Maude Martin.

DeWITT
The board is asking for a renewal of the current 8.5 mill levy for operational purposes. James Decatur, an incumbent, is seeking reelection for the board of education position.

LANSING COMMUNITY COLLEGE
DEWITT AND BATH ONLY

The Lansing Community College board is seeking a one-mill increase from Bath and DeWitt voters for operational purposes. The increase will permit the college to update laboratory equipment to meet state safety requirements and to fund the initial phase of facilities for various types of vocational-technical training now offered under a space handicap, according to LCC officials. The increase would bring the total tax to two mills.

Antique autos here Saturday

ST. JOHNS—Chamber of Commerce officials here are putting the final pieces together this week in anticipation of the 17th Annual Woodland Antique Auto Tour which will pass through St. Johns Saturday.

According to event chairman Bill Barber, the tour will spend a three-hour period in the city for a luncheon break, auto display and costume judging. All of the activities will take place on the courthouse lawn and surrounding streets where the antique autos will be parked.

Barber indicated that in addition to the expected 500 persons in the tour, chamber officials expect a large number of auto buffs to visit the display and observe the festivities. Also several St. Johns merchants are planning special sales on selected merchandise as part of the day's events.

The Woodland tour will be a two-day affair originating in Grand Rapids on Saturday with stops in Ionia, St. Johns and Lansing. Sunday departure from Lansing will be followed by a stop at Lake Odessa and return to Grand Rapids.

Chamber names six for board election

ST. JOHNS—Six candidates for board positions on the St. Johns Area Chamber of Commerce were named last week in preparation for the organization's annual election held during June.

They are, Bill Swears, St. Johns Schools; Ben Karlson, St. Johns Furniture; Norbert Rehmann, Rehmann's Clothing; Wayne Hicks, Central National Bank; Rollin Huard, Clinton National Bank; and Max Field, The Reminder.

Election ballots will be sent this week to all members of the chamber with a return deadline of June 18. Announcement of the winners will be made the following week.

Four of the six members who will be chosen will serve on the board for a period of three years. The twelve member board votes annually to select officers.

Jaycees install officers

FOWLER—Installation of officers and the presentation of awards were the order of the night May 22 when the Fowler Jaycees held their annual installation and awards banquet.

Given the gavel for the coming year was Frank Hufnagel, a charter member and former internal vice-president. In addition he has held the offices of local secretary and state director and has been active in Jaycee work since the group was formed in 1964.

Hufnagel, 32, is employed as a corrections officer at Michigan Training Unit in Ionia. He and his wife, Kay, and three sons, live on R-2, Townsend Road.

Other officers installed during the ceremonies were: Donald Martin, internal vice-president; Clem Thelen, external vice-president; Ralph Goerge, secretary; Louis Koenigskecht, treasurer; James Koenigskecht, state director; Phil Tiedt and Gary Weber, local directors and Ken Hungerford, a second term as state director.

Outgoing president Clare Koenigskecht presented the following awards:

Sealed Power celebrates 25th year

ST. JOHNS—It all started as a project to invest in the "futuristic" automotive assembly industry. C.E. Johnson and P. R. Beardsley decided to join forces to establish a factory in Muskegon for the manufacture of piston rings exactly 60 years ago.

The automotive industry, fired by the imagination of a post-war generation grew, and with it the Johnson and Beardsley firm of Sealed Power Corp.

After World War II, the firm needed room to expand, and established another base of operation in St. Johns. That was exactly 25 years ago this week.

And the local plant will celebrate the event Monday, June 14, with an open house complete with tours, displays and refreshments. The plant, located at 916 W. State St. in St. Johns will open the building to visitors beginning at 1:30 p.m. until 4 p.m. and again at 7 p.m. until 9 p.m.

Further details on the open house appear in a full page announcement in Section A of this week's News, with 25-year and 30-year employees featured.

The firm's home plant opened its doors in November, 1911, amidst the skepticism of the public and investors, calling their new company "The Piston Ring Company." Johnson, who was the first president of the company, had been a successful farmer, woodworker, cabinet maker, tool-maker, mechanic, designer and plant superintendent at Continental Motors of Muskegon.

Beardsley, the firm's treasurer, left a job as bookkeeper in a department store to start the new enterprise with Johnson.

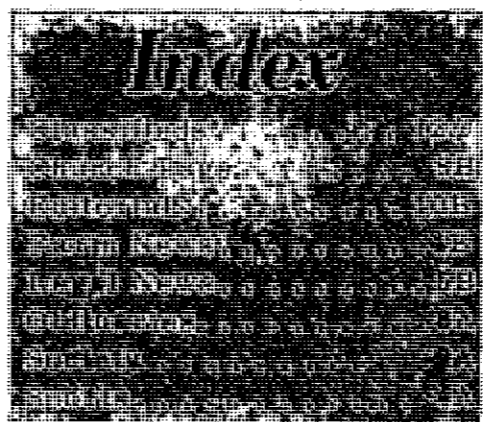

From this start, the company has become one of the largest producers of piston rings in the world. The success of Sealed Power is due to the quality of products and the high standard of mechanical and product engineering the founders established. Sealed Power has had close business relationships for more than 30 years with leading engine builders and have utilized excellent research and testing facilities. The firm has pioneered many piston ring developments, accounting for their position of leadership in the industry.

In addition to piston rings, Sealed Power also manufactured a complete line of pistons and cylinder sleeves in their Muskegon plant, which was started into production in 1932.

Sealed Power, after carefully surveying some 35 small Michigan cities, selected St. Johns as the location for its new piston ring plant. The decision to locate here was made because it was apparent that St. Johns, with its fine community facilities and sound city government was an ideal location for a new industry.

The plant opened in St. Johns in 1946 with 39 employees. The present plant site occupies 102,500 square feet with 246 employees. The investment at St. Johns now totals more than $4 million.

LAST RITES

A tornado touched down near Shepardsville Monday causing property damage and a power failure. During the storm this stately tree was shattered leaving a unique bit of architecture for the east Clinton landscape, backed by an angry sky.

New East Lansing coach

Jeff Smith resigns

ST. JOHNS—Jeff Smith, St. Johns High School head football coach, announced today that he was resigning to accept the top coaching duties at East Lansing High School.

Smith, who had compiled a 22-4-1 record as the Redwing mentor over three seasons, guided his teams to two West Central Conference championships and one second place finish.

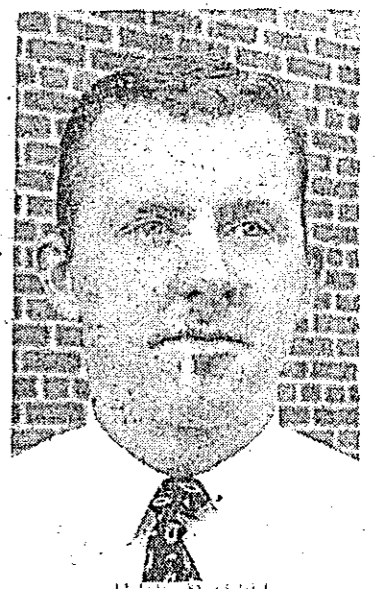

Smith isn't unfamiliar with the East Lansing brand of football since he was an assistant coach there for one year before coming to St. Johns.

"They approached me about a month ago and it was really a hard decision to make," Smith said. "I really hated to give up my job here—things have been real good here. In fact, in my opinion, this has got to be one of the finest schools in Michigan."

Smith will replace Phil Brooks at East Lansing, who resigned to accept a head football coaching assignment at Alma College.

"The league the East Lansing plays in is real tough and it's going to be a challenge, but isn't that what football is all about?" Smith asked.

Smith didn't wish to take credit for his team's impressive record. "You have got to have talent to have winning teams and I was fortunate enough to have fine, talented and dedicated boys turn out each year," he said. The Redwings finished in first place in the West Central league the first season they played for Smith, in 1968. They rolled up an 8-1 overall record. In 1969, the Red Machine finished second with a 7-1-1 overall mark, good enough for second spot in the final standings. This year,

The millage question: officials talk back

ST. JOHNS—Public school officials here have compiled a series of questions they feel the voters are asking, and have issued replies to them. Here are 14 of the questions.

Q. Where does the St. Johns School System obtain the money to operate?

approximately 56 percent comes from state aid and about 38 percent comes from the local property tax. The balance of about 6 percent comes from the Intermediate School District and Federal Funds.

Q. How much will state aid be increased next year?

positional calls for an increase of only $5 per student. With 4100 students, this means slightly over $20,000. During the year 1969-70 the increase was $60 per student or about $200,000 and in 1970-71 (this year) the increase was $70 per student or about $280,000. This was why the Board could operate for this year without an increase in the local property tax.

Q. Does the District take advantage of all Federal and State funds for which it qualifies?

A. Yes. There is some reimbursement from state and federal sources in vocational education. This is figured as part of our income for normal operating expenses.

Q. What is the revenue which the District receives used for?

A. 74.49 percent goes for instruction—Teacher and Principal's salaries, books, supplies and all things necessary to operate the school instructional program.

Q. Does operating the hot lunch and cafeteria program cost the District any money?

A. No. The food service program is entirely self-supporting at this time.

Q. How much does transportation cost the school district from local operating funds?

A. About 75 percent of the transportation cost is reimbursed from state funds. It costs the district about .8 of a mill or about $40,000.

Q. Can the Board continue the present excellent and diversified program with the additional 2.5 mills being requested?

A. Yes, with economies in using aides instead of teachers in supervising study halls and lunch rooms, curtailing almost all expenditures for capital outlay, cutting back on maintenance activities, reviewing the use of student cooperative workers, and purchasing an absolute minimum of supplies. The Board points out that curtailing maintenance and capital outlay for an extended time really increases the cost of running the school.

Q. Is the Board planning any staff increases next year?

A. No. There will be fewer staff members because our estimated enrollment will be down about 100 students.

Q. Will the Board "make ends meet" during the current year?

A. No. A deficit of about $100,000 is expected. However, this is not included in the additional millage being asked for. The Board hopes that the Governor and the Legislature will by 1972-73 enact the necessary legislation to finance education through more equitable methods than the property tax.

Q. Does the increase in the state equalized valuation of the District bring in more local tax money?

A. The answer is no. While more tax is collected, the amount is deducted from state aid. So there is no increase in total revenue to the District.

Q. Will all students be in school full time if the millage passes?

Yes. All students have been in school full time since the junior high was moved from Central to Rodney B. Wilson.

3.27 percent goes for administration. This includes salaries of the central office staff and all supplies and equipment needed to administer the program.

10.14 percent is used for operation of school buildings including heat, light, water, telephone service, and custodial supplies and salaries.

6.35 percent of the budget goes for transportation with over half of the students being transported.

2.78 percent goes for fixed charges. This includes building insurance, employee health and hospitalization insurance, workmen's compensation and rent for portable classrooms.

2.39 percent is used in maintenance of buildings and grounds and keeping them in the best possible condition.

.56 percent goes for health services. This includes nurses and clerical help, keeping health records up-to-date, checking or physical examinations, making home calls etc.

Q. Will the Board "make ends meet" during the current year?

A. No. A deficit of about $100,000 is expected. However, this is not included in the additional millage being asked for. The Board hopes that the Governor and the Legislature will by 1972-73 enact the necessary legislation to finance education through more equitable methods than the property tax.

Q. Does the increase in the state equalized valuation of the District bring in more local tax money?

A. The answer is no. While more tax is collected, the amount is deducted from state aid. So there is no increase in total revenue to the District.

Q. Will all students be in school full time if the millage passes?

Yes. All students have been in school full time since the junior high was moved from Central to Rodney B. Wilson.

EXCHANGE GAVEL

Bob Cole, left, outgoing Westphalia Jaycee's president, presents the gavel to newly elected president Stan Smith after the group's annual election last week. Other officers include Jay Caldwell, vice-president; Duane Blatt, secretary; Joe Schmitt, state director; and Cole, chairman of the board.

Q. Has the program been diversified during the past three years to better meet the needs of children?

become acquainted with more subject areas. More counseling service has also been added. Regular gym classes are held, as well as publishing a school paper. A program in the 7th grade allows each student an opportunity to take 9 weeks of art, homemaking, crafts and vocal music.

A. Yes. As far as room will permit, 6th graders will all be at R.E. Wilson, Jr. High. This has allowed for partially departmentalizing the 6th grade so that teachers who are better qualified in social studies are teaching social studies, those better qualified in science are teaching science etc.

S. Is the High School in danger of losing its North Central Accreditation?

A. No. Not as long as the present program is continued.

Q. Many people ask, why not eliminate all the frills in the program?

A. There are no "frills". Every part of the school program, during school hours, after school and on weekends meets the needs of students in the school. What may be a frill for one student may be the thing that keeps another one in school and enables him to graduate.

Q. The high school English Department was also reorganized into some twenty one semester classes rather than the four full year courses previously offered.

What many people consider frills are financially the cheapest part of the program. Athletics are almost entirely self-supporting.

Q. In the junior high school, many elective classes have been added to the program to help children

A band of over 100 people would require at least 3 teachers if they were in other classes. A gym class of 45 students would require two teachers if they were enrolled elsewhere.

With over 1200 students in the high school it takes a certain number of rooms and teachers.

Junk collection awaits 'crusher'

ST. JOHNS—Junk car collection is moving along at a steady pace and the county should be in good shape when the portable car crusher comes to Clinton County early in July, according to Bruce Campbell, temporary project director and chairman of the county's Keep Michigan Beautiful committee.

Local youth groups have been busy for the last few weeks obtaining releases from the owners of the junk cars in the county. After the vehicles have been released volunteer wreckers and workers will pick up the junk cars and take them to central collection points where they will be crushed next month.

It has been bought to the attention of some of the leaders of the youth groups that some adults have been openly hostile to the youngsters who were attempting to have them sign their car over to be collected.

What these "adults" don't realize is that they are breaking the law by having junk cars on their property and that they could be ordered to appear in court on a public nuisance charge with fines up to $100 and 90 days in jail.

The main objectives of the junk car project is to rid the county of unsightly junk cars at no expense to the owner, to help clean up the county and to help youth groups who will receive two dollars for each car that they sign up.

Release forms can be obtained from the Zoning office and the Sheriff's office.

The money will not be paid to the youth group until the project has been completed in the county, this should take about a month, according to Campbell.

Anyone wishing to have their car picked up or to volunteer their time or wreckers should contact Fred Lance (224-7182), project coordinator. Those in the southern part of the county should contact Mrs. Betty Eitelbusch, 641-4487.

Flermoen wins track scholarship Huskies honor Harper

ST. JOHNS—Dave Flermoen was chosen by his teammates last week to receive the new annual Brent Law memorial scholarship for his contribution to the 1971 Redwing track team.

Flermoen, who finished second in total points scored behind Steve Mead, is a runner in the 220-yard event, 100-yard dash and a member of the 880-relay team. Flermoen's best time this season in the 220 was 23.5 tying him with Dennis LeVeck in that event, which was the fastest mark of the season. His best in the 100 was 10.45, a season high.

His relay team also recorded a season speed mark of 1:36.6, two seconds short of a school record. Other members of the relay team were LeVeck, Mead and Rick Judson.

The announcement of the award was made during the Track Banquet held Thursday night (May 27).

Mead finished the season scoring race on top with 131 points. Flermoen was second with 129 points and LeVeck came in third with 73 points.

According to Coach Jeff Smith, all three were in consideration for the scholarship, which is awarded in the memory of a former Redwing track team member who was killed while on active duty with the armed forces in Vietnam, last year.

Resigns

St. Johns ended the season in a tie for the title with Grand Ledge with a 7-2 overall record.

Smith said the 1971 Redwings should be fairly well set, although the new coach is going to have a rough time if he doesn't know the players. "But there is some great young talent coming up and they all have good attitudes," Smith added.

Smith, who played defensive end for the University of Michigan for three years, reminisced about his first season at St. Johns.

"We lost the very first game 14-7. We were inside the five yard line three times but couldn't score. The second game we were behind 13-7 going into the fourth quarter, but we came from behind and scored 20 points in the fourth and won 27-13. After that it was easy going. We finished the season with an 8-1 record."

He summed up his feelings and memories with a reserved smile instead of his usual grin. "I am going to miss this school," he concluded.

If we could just wrap it all up.

Litter is a complex problem. And solving it calls for understanding and united action.

- Litter isn't caused by bottles or cans or convenience packaging. Litter is caused by the thoughtless man. The thinking man can stop it.
- The natural first step is individual action. Let's all be a little more thoughtful. Let's make sure that we, ourselves, are not adding to the litter problem.
- The thinking man takes active steps to keep his community clean. The tools are at hand.
- The United States Brewers Association is ready to help you. We're working at the local and national levels to create greater public awareness. To attack apathy. To help Keep America Beautiful.
- If we tackle this problem together we can soon have it all wrapped up. Write us today and we'll help your community develop a campaign against litter.

Open Letter from VAN W. HOAG

Dear friends,
Many clergymen and doctors, while attending the dying, have reported seeing the apparition of the spirit leaving the body at death. Many survivors have reported the momentary appearance of the spirit of a loved one at the moment of death. If these marvels were more generally known, the doubting Thomas would find greater conviction in the resurrection of Christ and of our own promised resurrection which we celebrate this glorious Easter Season.
Sincerely,
Van W. Hoag

By LUCILLE SPENCER, Correspondent

Mrs. Charles Walker attended the 45th anniversary of her high school graduation class at Lake Mills, Wis. the weekend of June 4. She returned home on Tuesday.

The Shepardsville United Methodist Church was host to the Gospel Team of Bob and Daisy Tibbits along with Steve Simpson and Sue Babcock on Wednesday evening, June 2. Over half of the people in attendance were under 25 years of age. Many came to the altar at the close of the service.

Among the visitors that Mrs. Effie Wilson had over the Memorial Day weekend were her granddaughter, Mrs. Ronald Freeman, her husband and family of Keego Harbor.

Members are reminded to bring their old Christmas cards with Bible scenes, ready and trimmed for mounting. These will be sent along with other material, to Mission in Mozambique where Mary Jean Tennant is a missionary.

There were 15 members present when the OVID-DUPLAIN LIBRARY CLUB met at the home of Mrs. Glen Parks for their annual picnic. Mrs. Chaucer Green gave the invocation, then all enjoyed a delicious potluck dinner. Hostesses were selected for the 1971-72 season. The remainder of the afternoon was spent in conversation.

Guest speaker for the Price and Shepardsville United Methodist Churches was Walter Nickel of the St. Johns United Methodist Church.

Students graduating from this area—Sue Alderman, Sue Austin, and Larry Squiers, were remembered with a gift from the church.

Sunday, June 13, will be Rev. Wittrup's last sermon for the Price and Shepardsville Churches.

Vacation Church School will be held on June 21-25 from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

Mary Ann Davis now Mrs. Mark Chartrand

LANSING—Mary Ann Davis became the bride of Mark Allan Chartrand Saturday, June 5 in St. Gerard Catholic Church. The bride's great-uncle, Rev. Ralph E. Kowalski of Detroit performed the double ring 1 p.m. ceremony.

Mrs. Robert Valentig of Detroit was organist for the service and guitarist was Lynn Loichinger of Okemos.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall E. Davis of 3925 Barton Road, Lansing and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Chartrand of 3504 Snowglen Lane, Lansing.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and approached the altar wearing a white dotted swiss gown over taffeta trimmed with white Venetian lace. The gown featured a fitted bodice with a sheer wide square yoke edged with Venice hall fringe. Daisy motifs were scattered over the entire gown and the wide cuff Bishop sleeves were trimmed with ball fringe. A band of lace encircled the A-line skirt and fringe trimmed the high waistline of the gown. Her headpiece was a shallow pill box hat of pleated imported French illusion which secured her mantilla veil which floated over into a wide chapel-length train and she carried a bouquet of white carnations and yellow baby breath.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Donald A. Pribble of Dimondale and assisting as bridesmaids were Bernadette Davis of Lansing, sister of the bride and Mary A. Davis of Ithaca, cousin of the bride. The attendants wore identical gowns of pastel yellow dotted swiss over taffeta with a high rise waistline, stand-up collar, encircled with lace, and long full sleeves ending in lace trimmed cuffs at the wrists. Their headpieces were white straw picture hats, banded with yellow ribbon and white daisies and they carried arrangements of daisies.

Donald A. Pribble of Dimondale was best man and assisting as groomsmen were Dr. Gary T. Chartrand of Kalamazoo, brother of the groom and Thomas E. Vitovsky of Dimondale. Ushers were Mark E. Davis, brother of the bride, Stanley Flegler, Bud Underhill and William McCullough all of Lansing.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held for 400 guests at Majella Hall in Lansing. Special guests at the wedding and reception was the grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Martin J. Handley.

Following a wedding trip to Florida and New Orleans the couple will make their home in the Lansing area.

The couple are both 1964 graduates of Sexton High School in Lansing and both are 1968 graduates of Michigan State University. The bride is teaching at Holy Trinity in Fowler and the groom is employed as a teacher in the Hubbardston School system.

Financial future

Rep. Douglas Trezise
87th District

Last week we reviewed in this column the statistics concerning the state's financial problems of the current year in an effort to analyze expenses and determine where our money went.

Now let's take a look at next year and try to determine how much money should be spent and where we want the emphasis put.

Everyone in Lansing seems to agree on one thing. The cost of continuing with state programs as they now are—without any additional ones being added—will exceed the amount of money we can expect to receive through our present tax structure. That leaves two alternatives, either reduce the programs or raise the taxes.

I don't like to conclude that the only way out is to increase taxes. But when I look at the magnitude of the problem I have to lean in that direction, and the question becomes not "whether" but "when and how much."

Let's take a look at the General Fund Budget of the state as presented by Governor Milliken. (By general fund I mean the budgetting of all state-raised revenue which is not earmarked for special purposes such as highways or local government, and excludes federal grants for specific programs, including education and welfare.)

The Governor's budget provides for expenditures of $1,974,400,000. That's almost 2 billion dollars. Of this, $975 million, or almost half, is allocated to education at all levels. Bear in mind that this is in addition to another $472 million of earmarked funds, principally from the state sales tax and statewide utility property taxes.

The proposal includes no major change in financing education next year, but does assume that the Spencer-Ryan plan, which was adopted last year and would sharply increase state support if implemented, will not go into effect this year. Estimates are that an additional $180 million would be required for 1971-72 if this act is not repealed or delayed.

THE BUDGET calls for $401 million to be spent in the area of Health and Medical Assistance. While this includes the Public and Mental Health activities, it also provides approximately $150 million of state money for medical aid to those people requiring public assistance. This total represents 20 per cent of the General Fund Budget.

By far the fastest growing item in the budget is financial assistance to needy individuals and families. In 1971-72 this was originally estimated to be $358.4 million in state funds which represents another 18 per cent. Recent figures reflecting the increased number of cases indicate the Governor's estimate may already be $45 million short of maintaining the present level of program.

Sincere efforts are being made to bring these costs into line. Because the standards for assistance are set by the federal government, we may not have much luck, but any effort is worth it. A bill has been introduced in the Senate to restore a one-year residency requirement which was removed some time ago by a Supreme Court decision.

This is one of the most sensitive areas among the taxpayers, one which reached a climax last fall when over $6 million was spent on direct benefits to striking General Motors workers.

Yes Virginia, there is a Jolly Green Giant. And you can see him Thursday, June 10 during Andy's IGA Moonlight Madness Sale.

Andy's will close at 6 p.m. Thursday and reopen at 7 p.m. with the Green Giant, Robin Hood and who knows who or what else. All the employees will be decked out in long red flannel night gowns so unless you want to be mistaken for an employee, don't wear a long red flannel night gown shopping Thursday. Cliff and Vera Loesch of G & L Sales are going to wait till October to celebrate Cliff's 39th birthday. And then, because of the excellent sales record the Simplicity company is sending them to the Bahamas for a week.

WANT TO SEE yourself on TV? You can if you do just two things Saturday. First attend the Woodland Antique Auto Tour that will arrive in St. Johns about noon thru 3 p.m. Roughly 135 classic cars—will be parked for your inspection. Then watch Channel 8's coverage of the tour at 8:30 Saturday evening.

IF OUR UNCLE were alive today he wouldn't believe what we now have in our back yard until he saw it. . . and then he would disavow any kinship.

Our uncle, Vere Ferguson, was a hunter, fisherman and outdoorsman. The only pets he ever owned were rabbit hounds. He was one of the rare few who could, if he had to, walk into the woods and survive.

Long ago and far away he taught his favorite (and only) nephew how to hunt, fish and get along outdoors. But in his own way he was a bit of a fanatic. We've watched him toss back legal brook trout. "Planters," he'd say, "Taste funny."

We hate to tell on him after all these years, but anything that wasn't wild didn't taste good to him. . . and he dined on native trout, venison, rabbit, partridge pretty much all year round.

All of which leads to what's in our back yard. Rabbits. Four tame rabbits. Named Ralph, Smoke, Willie and Thumper. Our boys conned Big Mama with the skill of professional touts. They built a halfway decent hutch. . . and after all, all the rabbits were male.

Big Mama didn't check that bit about four males. She should have. After observing some unusual behavior we did. Smoke is alright, in fact if rabbits could smile, he would, for Ralph, Willie and Thumper are not as advertised.

MAJOR APPLIANCE

The first major appliance to be introduced since the clothes dryer is the new Whirlpool Trash Masher compactor. Designed to compact a week's worth of trash into a neat little bag, the Whirlpool Trash Masher compactor requires no special wiring or plumbing and operates on regular household current.

Kroger reveals state expenses

GRAND RAPIDS--The Kroger Co. has reported that its purchases of Michigan products and services last year totaled more than $265,035,063 according to David A. Burt, vice president of the Grand Rapids Division.

For example, among the Michigan products which are found on the shelves of Kroger stores throughout the midwest and south are canned cherries, applesauce, spaghetti, and potato chips.

Approximately $167,793,000 of the company's total purchases in Michigan was spent for products of Michigan farms and plants. Included in this total are:

- $40,250,273 for meats and poultry
- $7,205,208 for dairy products and eggs
- $89,795,458 for canned and packaged foods
- $9,364,804 for fresh fruits and vegetables
- $21,117,706 for products other than food which are sold in supermarkets.

In addition, the company paid rent of approximately $3,657,203 for stores and other facilities owned by Michigan landlords. Most Kroger stores are locally owned, Burt noted.

Other businesses in the state benefited from the needs of Kroger stores also. For example, Kroger wrote out checks in the amount of $39,521,867 for such everyday needs as heat, light, power, newspaper, radio and television advertising as well as other goods and services.

Businesses in communities where Kroger stores are located also benefited from the wages paid the 7,379 Kroger employees in the state and dividends paid the company's 2,775 shareholders who live in Michigan. Most of the $57,149,400 in Kroger wages and salaries and the $690,347 paid in dividends was returned to the local community, Burt pointed out.

Tips to new Clinton grads from 'old pros'

By DEBORAH WITGEN
MSU Correspondent

EAST LANSING—Around the corner from graduation lurks a frightening moment of reckoning when the high school graduate must decide, at least tentatively, on a life style. Some Michigan State University students recently offered bits of advice to those who choose college.

Lois Miller, Fowler freshman majoring in biological sciences, said the biggest thing to learn is how to adjust to teachers. "Each one is an individual, and you have to find out what he wants, or you don't pass."

She said, "Ask around to find who is a good teacher; hear what others have to say. Shop around, because you can get some really bad teachers."

Miss Miller also has a list of things a girl should bring to college with her: a softball glove, lots of books and pictures, "lots of paper and a good wastebasket!"

Kent Armstrong, DeWitt junior majoring in landscape architecture, warned against getting depressed: "Just do your best. Don't always measure yourself with others and wonder if you're as good as the other guy. In college, you're among and dealing with an elite group and just to be average in that group is pretty damn good."

Armstrong emphasized the value of waiver examinations for a student who dislikes basic university courses. He said the student should read over the summer and take the waiver exams so he won't have to take the course.

A change of scenery between terms and during the summer is good therapy, according to Armstrong. "Some people think a trip to Miami over Spring break is unnecessary, but with all the pressures college puts on, that trip is a good thing."

He added, "You just have to feel your way along and it will come."

LUKE SCHAFER, Fowler journalism major, warned the graduate not to let college become "like a womb." He said, "It's easy to become cut off from the rest of the world, and since you don't watch much television in college, you're even out of touch with the news."

"With a multitude of beliefs and cultures to cope with, a student may find himself having to take a stand on his own beliefs, and defending it," Schaffer said. He believes the student from a small town, where the people are somewhat homogenous, will have more difficulty in that situation. But the student, he said "shouldn't be shocked with other people's views and beliefs."

"The most important thing," he said, "is to enjoy it here (at college). These are the best years of your life. There is so much to do and so many people to meet, that if you don't enjoy it, you've lost four years."

Mary Austin, St. Johns freshman in Justin Morrill College at MSU, said "Read every book you can get your hands on!" She said reading enables a person to talk better with others, and on their levels.

Miss Austin thinks one of the problems a college student will encounter is regulating himself.

"There's a tendency to spend a lot of money on nothing or to do so much that you don't get enough sleep."

She said, "Bring a pair of jeans, a workshirt, and a smallet that will get you farther than anything else you can bring! Be prepared to be messed up for a term, and don't take it too seriously. Have a good time; college is a lot of fun."

She added, "College is the greatest thing to make a person more self-sufficient and responsible. You have to be responsible or flunk out."

MIKE LEWIS, St. Johns sophomore in James Madison College, said a good attitude is one of the best things to bring to college. He advised the student "not to study all the time and to have a good time once in a while."

"College is half and half; you have to get out and meet people and study too." He sees self-regulation as a possible problem for students, the danger being in too much social life and not getting enough education. "You have to get yourself down into the right kind of system," he said.

The biggest surprise for Lewis, which he feels others may experience, is the kind of tests given in college. "The tests are extremely hard; it's not so much knowledge as reiteration. I didn't think it would be like that," he said.

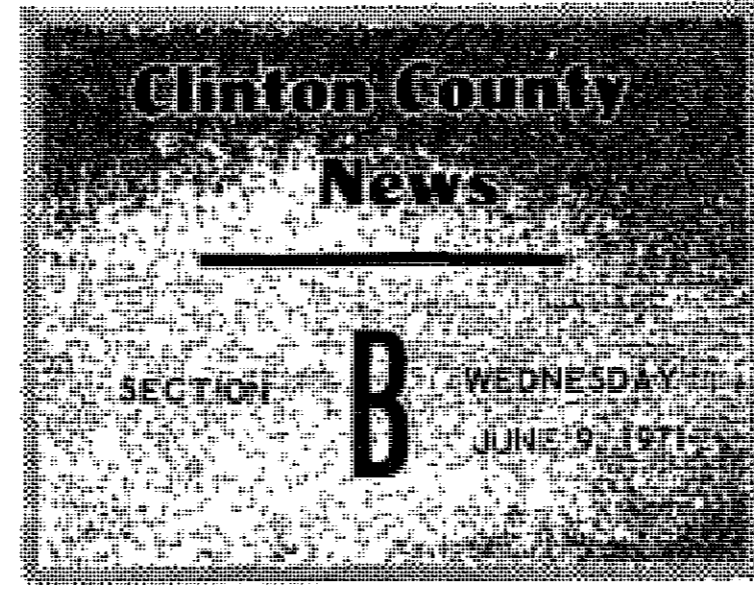

According to Diane White, Bath senior in human ecology, "College has to be something you want to do, not something your parents want you to do." She explained that the student who is forced to go lacks initiative, and college ends up more fun than studying.

"Don't think it's a lot of fun and games. The first term is easy, but don't slack off," she said. "People say college is hard," Miss White said and explained one of the greatest adjustments. "When they say read something, you read it. Many kids think they'll discuss it in class like they did in high school. They don't, but it still will be on the test." Some people think college is not a good idea when they see college graduates unable to get jobs. She said, "They think there is no need to go to college. I think there is. I don't think the job market is good for anyone, so they may as well go to college."

A person does have to study, but it can be enjoyable, she said. "If you put your mind to it, it (College) is as easy as anything else you do."

Miss Slagell wins Goshen honor

GOSHEN, Ind.—Barbara Ann Slagell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Slagell, 108 W. Lincoln St., St. Johns, was among 127 full-time Goshen College students named to the Dean's List for high academic performance during the winter trimester in April. Miss Slagell, a sophomore, is a 1969 graduate of Rodney B. Wilson High School.

To be named to the list the student must finish the trimester with a standing of 3.6 or higher on a scale of 4.0 and have no grades lower than C.

Goshen College is a fully-accredited four-year liberal arts college owned and operated by the Mennonite church.

JOHN RUMBAUGH

meet John Rumbaugh
of Clinton National

When it comes to years of banking service, our executive vice president and assistant trust officer John Rumbaugh takes all honors. John began his banking career at the State Savings Bank of Elsie in October 1935. That adds up to just about 36 years come next fall. And that's a fair span of time by any man's measurement.

Most of those years were spent in Elsie where John and Catherine reared two daughters, Janyth, now married, is a first grade teacher in the public school system at Norfolk, Va. and Karen is a senior studying interior design at M.S.U. The Rumbaughs now live on Meadowview Drive in St. Johns.

John's hobbies complement his quiet and friendly manner. He enjoys fishing, camping, gardening and antiquing. We mean nothing beyond a good-natured jest when we say he should be well experienced in the latter. In fact, almost as well versed as banking, so if you have either banking or antiquing questions, you might stop in and chat with John. We think he knows quite a bit about both.

Two St. Johns students to attend FB seminar

BIG RAPIDS - Ferris State College here will be the scene of the 1971 Farm Bureau Young People's Citizenship Seminar July 19-23.

Selected to attend this year are two students from the St. Johns High School. They are Kevin Hayes, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hayes and Michele Lenon whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lenon.

The two were elected from a group of St. Johns High School juniors and were invited to compete in an essay writing contest the theme being "Why I would like to attend the Citizenship Seminar."

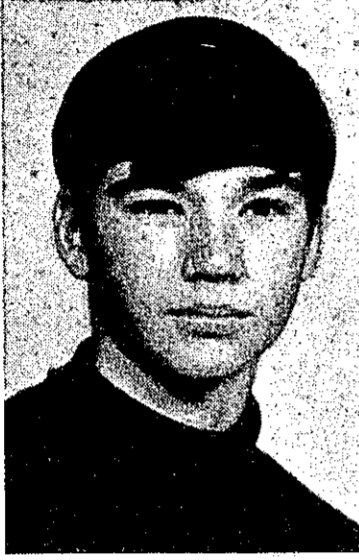

The essays were judged by the Clinton County Farm Bureau Citizenship Committee, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Irish, Chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Grams, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schaefer, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reese, Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Moore.

The five-day long seminar is being conducted under the direction of Michigan Farm Bureau and will involve outstanding specialists who will conduct discussions on several facets of Our American Way of Life. There will be presentations by each of the specialists, discussion workshops and real life activities in the political area. There will be time for recreation, relaxation and friendship. Approximately 190 young people from all over Michigan representing various county Farm Bureaus are expected to attend.

This is a seventh consecutive seminar. In the past years students have attended from Bath, Fowler, Ovid-Elsie, DeWitt, Grand Ledge and also from St. Johns High School.

St. Johns students do well on tests

ST. JOHNS—St. Johns Public School fourth and seventh graders did very well on the state testing program in January, according to school officials.

On the composite score, a total of all four parts of the test, 63.2 percent of St. Johns fourth graders scored as well as or better than half of the students in Michigan who took the test.

35.7 percent of fourth graders in St. Johns scored as well as or better than 3/4 of the students. In the seventh grade, 62.5 percent of St. Johns students scored as well as or better than 1/2 of the students who took the test, 30.0 percent equalled or exceeded the scores of 75 percent of students in Michigan taking the tests.

In a normal distribution of scores 50 percent would score above the midpoint and 50 percent would be below. Virtually the same percentages held true on each part of the test - Vocabulary, Reading, English and Math.

St. Johns junior and seniors who took the College Board tests also scored above the national averages.

In 1968 the fourteen students who took the Scholastic Aptitude Test had an average score of 530.14 on the verbal test. On the math test it was 534.02. National means of 887,465 students over the country who took the test were 463.5 and 488.0.

In 1969, 18 students took the test. The average verbal score was 455.8 compared to a national average of 461.0 representing 911,666 students in the country. On the math test, St. Johns students had an average score of 506.3 compared to the national average of 488.0. Forty-four 1970 graduates took the test. 94,025 students nationwide took the test.

On the verbal score the St. Johns average was 462.4 compared to the national average of 391.5. In math local students averaged 497.9 compared to the 402.0 nationally.

While not many people took these tests, the same is true of other schools. Only students who are seriously considering college take the tests which are given in centers around the state. Therefore the comparison is valid.

Students honor Evelyn Connor

MAPLE RAPIDS—A scrapbook containing signatures of many of her former students was one of the many gifts that Miss Evelyn Connor received Wednesday when the town honored her upon her retirement from teaching.

The scrapbook was compiled by Joyce Rumsey, who said that she had collected more than 200 signatures.

Miss Connor has devoted 44 years to teaching, the last 22 in Maple Rapids teaching grade school.

Many of her former students attended the picnic held at the city park.

Miss Connor was raised in Mt. Pleasant and attended what is now called Central Michigan University and received her Bachelor of Arts degree.

She said that she has enjoyed all the years of teaching. Her first school was at Ashley, then she taught at a rural school and decided she liked that type of teaching better. For many years she taught at rural schools in Isabella, Clare and Osceola counties.

She began teaching in Maple Rapids in 1949. She said, "I have enjoyed the school and the many friends I've had in the village and it has become a second home to me. I have many pleasant memories of my years here."

She plans on retiring to her farm home north of Remus.

Elmer Taylor, District Conservationist, U.S. Soil Conservation Service, Corunna and Kenneth Houghton, counting corn kernels per foot to make sure planter is putting 22,000 corn kernels per acre on no-till corn planted in a thick quack grass sod. Note the dying grass for mulch—a good system of sediment control.

"No-till" plan helps ecological movement

by LLOYD B. CAMPBELL
District Conservationist
U.S. Soil Conservation

If all producers would become concerned about sediment, our Grand River would be as clear as when the Indians bartered beaver belts at Maple Rapids and DeWitt. It's not too late to control your soil losses with conservation practices.

"No-till" of corn in a conservation practice to control sediment in the district watershed. George E. Pardonnet and Kenneth L. Houghton, 6801 E. Wilkinson Rd., Corunna, Michigan have used this conservation practice for two years with success. Last year they harvested over 118 bushels of shelled corn per acre with this no-plow method of growing corn.

They sprayed an alfalfa field with one pound of 2-4-D, and two and 1/2 pounds of Atrazine before planting. After sowing 22,000 kernels of a recommended hybrid corn to the acre, they sprayed two and a half pounds of Atrazine, one pint of Parquat in two quarts of crop oil and one half to one pint of Surfactant (a spreader material) to an acre. They use enough water mixed with these materials, and travel the exact speed to get the needed amount on each acre.

Some of the land they rent has been in the Soil Bank for over ten years, and they are using their mini soil preparation on this land for some of their 1100 acres of corn. Dead grass and other plant materials serving as mulches on their corn fields means less sediment will run into the streams of the district when there is a heavy rainfall.

A nearby cooperater of the Soil Conservation District, Cecil Gale, Route 3, Owosso, Michigan, is planting corn after corn with a no-till system. The old corn stalks, dying winter cover crop, and animal manures make the mulch to make his "no-till" system work.

These men say the savings in money most food producers spend for seed-bed preparation will more than pay for the materials needed to control the unwanted grasses in their cornfields. They like the way the mulch holds the moisture, and keeps their top soil on their land. They like to use the no-till system along with winter cover crops of domestic rye grasses in their corn production systems to control sediment.

Each bit of soil that many growers let move from their bare fields has to be removed some day from the drains and streams of the district. Drain taxes could be reduced using the no-till practice to control sediment.

These men have copied a method of corn production used successfully by the American Indian. The Indian burned the grass with fire before his planting of corn. The white man has now learned to burn the grass with several no-smoke producing materials.

Harvest

Clinton County farmers harvested 20,900 acres of Wheat for grain in 1970, according to Arvin Budge of the Michigan Crop Reporting Service. Production amounted to 836,000 bushels, an average of 40.0 bushels per acre.

This compares to the 1969 crop of 1,066,000 bushels from 26,000 acres.

Here's a tip for you other soybean growers...

Lasso plus Lorox tank mix is your best bet for great weed control

Just tank mix Lasso liquid from Monsanto, with Lorox 50W for broad spectrum control. Yes sir, Lasso plus Lorox gets grasses such as the Foxtails, Crabgrass and Fall Panicum, and tough broadleaves like Pigweed, Buttonweed, Ragweed, Smartweed and Lambsquarters.

Lasso EC plus Lorox has proven to be the ideal broad spectrum weed control combination for soybeans in the Midwest. If you used Lasso before, you know how well it works. Now get even better grass and broadleaf control with a Lasso plus Lorox tank mixture. It could be one of your wisest decisions this year for higher soybean yields and better profits.

For the correct ratio of Lasso to Lorox best suited to your soil and crop, see your Farm Chemical Supplier now. Ask him for one of the Lasso handy rate and application booklets.

Planting home gardens

It's planting time and more families are planting home vegetable gardens.

Why raise a garden? One answer could be to reduce food costs. A well-tended home vegetable garden can produce 100 to 200 per acre at the rate of $2,000 per acre when the value is figured on a retail store cost basis.

Admittedly very few families can use the entire output from an acre of vegetables.

Some vegetable gardens can provide hard-to-find fresh quality foods when they are in season without a trip to the store. Home gardeners can have unusual and best liked foods which are not always available at the food stores.

Long season beans, edible pod peas, Swiss chard can be grown successfully at home but they are often hard to find at the grocery.

A few leaves of lettuce, a couple of tomatoes or peppers, some parsley, some scallions or a bit of mint can be right in your garden—fresh and tasty to eat—right in your own back yard.

Home gardeners will probably never agree to the relative importance of plants grown in their gardens. Some folks brag about the size and flavor of the sweet Spanish onions they grow while others brag about the size of their tomatoes. It is hard to equal their special variety of sweet corn.

HELEN B. MEACH
Extension Home Economist

THE FIRST TIME gardener is almost always inclined to plant too much. A dozen tomato plants will provide all the tomatoes a good sized family can use. A 20 foot row of leaf lettuce will be only half harvested before it goes to seed. Early and late or first and second plantings can be the happy answer to over supply.

Try a home vegetable garden this summer. Make it small enough so that your work in it will be pleasurable. Plant early and replant for late harvests. Keep ahead of the weeds. Plant some of the different species and varieties such as okra, endive, cool lettuce, buttercrunch lettuce, long season beans, edible pod peas, two-tone sweet corn, white radishes, gold nugget bush squash, vegetable sprouts, Swiss chard, and yellow, ruby-red, and asparagus roots, sweet potatoes.

Pre-cut apparel

BY LORRAINE SPRAGUE Extension Home Economist

They are building dresses like they build houses. How about that! It's true, pre-cut apparel is available in some of the most limited fabrics, styles and sizes and in only a few market areas at this time. However if the idea catches on, there is no reason to doubt that such kits will be available in greater variety.

The self contained kits include pre-cut fabric pieces, sewing instructions, and all the notions, bindings, belts, etc. in a few instances a few garments may be all pre-trimmed or stitch-decorated. Some kits will contain prefabricated placket openings, bound buttons and pockets all ready to attach. In some styles its possible pockets could already be pre-attached.

Then "modular" clothing kits (like "modular homes") are presently found mainly in fashion boutiques and specialty shops. But larger fabric departments will not allow for major alterations.

—Can you be sure the pre-cut fabric has been selected, cut and marked as accurately and carefully as you may have done it?

—Is information given about potential shrinkage, if any, or shape and color retention?

—Do the kits give you information regarding fiber content and care recommendations?

Outdoor notes

MARQUETTE—Last winter's 3,800 square miles out of a total deer losses from all causes in major yarding areas of the Upper Peninsula has been estimated at 20,470 animals, based on a month-long survey completed this week by the Department of Natural Resources.

DNR wildlife officials explain that the mortality figure is a "minimal" one because the deer search covered only 24 percent of the Upper Peninsula, some 3,800 square miles out of a total of about 16,000 in the region.

"We didn't have the manpower or time to survey a larger part of our region so we concentrated our efforts in winter-deer-yarding areas where last season's major losses could be expected," points out Ralph Bailey, the DNR's regional wildlife biologist for the Upper Peninsula.

"As a result," he continues, "our survey doesn't give us total picture of last winter's deer toll in the Upper Peninsula and, in particular, it doesn't tell us much about crippling losses and illegal kill, which occurred during last fall's deer season."

He adds that only about half of the dead deer which DNR wildlife biologists found in the Upper Peninsula this spring were actually counted in arriving at the loss estimate for last winter. The other half not figured into that tally were animals which were discovered outside random survey plots and autopsied white-tails which apparently had died before the November 15 firearm opener.

Last winter's deer losses are conservatively estimated at 24,000 animals in the Baraga District, 14,270 in the Crystal Falls District, 4,560 in the Escanaba District, and 1,300 in the Newberry District.

AMONG KNOWN causes of death, antelope by DNR wildlife biologists revealed that 9,000 deer fell victim to starvation in the Upper Peninsula's major wintering areas. Another 1,940 white-tails died from bullet wounds suffered after the start of the 1970 firearm deer season. Dogs and predators killed 850 deer in Upper Peninsula survey areas last winter while accidents, mostly car-deer collisions, claimed 1,540 white-tails.

Listed under unknown causes of mortality are 2,340 deer which are believed to have died late last fall or early winter and 4,500 which were lost late in the winter or early this spring. Also in this unknown category are 5,280 animals whose time of death could not be pinpointed, except to say that it probably occurred after November 15.

DNR wildlife specialists, in their autopsy efforts, were unable to determine when those deer died last winter because the work of scavengers had left little of the animals except "skin and bones."

Bailey observes that the DNR's deer loss estimate for his region would have been magnified if its survey had been able to cover more ground this spring.

"However," he adds, "we've already learned enough from this survey to show that a good number of the deer lost last winter could have, should have, been harvested by Upper Peninsula hunters during the early fire season."

He notes that the Upper Peninsula lost more deer from the rigors of last winter than sportsmen have harvested since that time. "There's been a moratorium on antlerless deer shooting throughout that part of the state."

Bailey reflects: "With last winter being such a rough one on deer we still would have lost some animals even without a moratorium. However, we wouldn't have had the complete waste that occurred, and the starvation losses wouldn't have run so high if antlerless deer hunting had been allowed. He explains that last winter's starvation toll could have been trimmed by taking several thousand antlerless deer during the season to leave more food to carry unharvested animals through the cold and snowy winter.

Paying for education

There will be many area persons going to the polls next week to decide the fate of several school millage proposals as well as electing school board representatives.

With school millage issues about the only voice left for the public to decide how their tax monies will be spent, education takes the cruel brunt, unfairly many times.

We cannot argue the point that property tax increases are causing real hardships on some. And to these people, a "no" vote on any tax increase proposal, seems legitimate. And it is too bad that our state legislature can't move faster in at least relieving property tax burden as it relates to school operating budgets. But if we sacrifice our educational systems, we will surely live to see the day we will regret turning down legitimate millage requests.

It comes down to a couple basic points, we believe: We must educate our children, and the quality of this education is pretty much in the hands of the voting public; also, we must conscientiously weigh all aspects of what our vote will ultimately do.

Certainly there are few, if any, who are against education. Some are just reluctant to pay the price. The important thing is to vote.

Great task remaining...

(State Representative Richard Allen presented the following address at a Memorial Day service last week. We think it speaks directly to the times and is one of the better Memorial Day speeches we've heard in some time.)

MEMORIAL DAY is that special occasion when each of us remembers our departed loved ones. With each amongst us, the list of the especially and deeply missed is an individual list, varying, depending on circumstance and God's Will.

But there is another list, a larger list; the same in number for each of us. These are the one-million who have died in our nation's conflicts. While death is the great equalizer, these are the honored dead, for they gave their lives that we all might live in a special way.

The veterans in our midst have a particular kinship with their fallen comrades for they stood nearby and know the difference between living and honored dead. Death was often the uncertainty of a bullet's trajectory, a bombardier's hiccup, or the even more accidental assignment to a typewriter while another drew a machine gun.

But in a way, we all share this kinship though the accidental difference may be to have been born in a different decade, of a different sex, with flat feet or into a critical family occupation.

Whether due to extreme heroism or accident, the central fact remains. They are the honored dead and we are the living.

A country boy turned President said it best at a battlefield in Pennsylvania—

"It is for us the living—to be here dedicated to the great task remaining..."

The task before our nation today appears as difficult as at any time during most of our lives. Many of our beliefs have been challenged and shaken— young men lie down in the streets of Washington—perhaps wrapped in our flag, rather than march off bravely under it. Yet they call themselves American.

It is fitting to recall that Memorial Day or Decoration Day began just after the Civil War and that it was to honor the fallen of both sides. At that time, many obviously had extreme differences of opinion as to the best course for our country. Perhaps history has judged the leadership amongst the Generals and Senators, assessing guilt and praise; determining right and wrong.

The rest of the people were not judged by history as to whether they were on the right side or not, but only by their devotion to what they truly believed was right for them and their country, and by the actions they took in behalf of those beliefs. Those men making the ultimate sacrifice did so with equal honor on both sides.

Again our country is at war and again there is deep division amongst us as to our best course.

This war also will end. Our leadership must wait for history but most of us need only be judged as to the sincerity of our actions in support of our convictions.

If Lincoln could ask at that time that Blue join with Gray for the task at hand, certainly today he would ask that crew-cut but greying veteran join with long-haired bearded protestor.

We can hear it in his more eloquent words, "...that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead have not died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and that government of the people, by the people, for the people shall not perish from the earth."

TOWNSEND, Mont., STAR: "From time to time legislators attempt to insist on a requirement that all newspaper editorials and columns be signed by the person writing them. Actually most are signed but once in awhile this old issue comes back to life. If this is a necessary requirement, then perhaps we should demand to know the name of a politician's speech writer, and even require judges to reveal the law clerks or attorneys who prepare their decisions."

Economy Move At City Hall

Graduation '71

By TIM YOUNKMAN

The scene was played and re-played thousands of times last weekend.

The same droned speeches—the same sweltering audience—the same polite applause, Graduation 1971.

The weary procession of gowned grads will trek hundreds of miles in every high school gymnasium to pick up simulated sheepskin diplomas. The end of an era and the start of a new one.

The resounding echoes of the speaker's remarks will barely fade away, with all the advice about challenges and shaping destinies, when the young graduates will begin to notice (some for the first time) that they've been cheated.

What do they see around them when they make their decisions for the future?

They look on a world of war—speechmakers and hate mongers from the extremes bending values and creating a no-man's land in the center. They see Vietnam, Cambodia, and Laos in flames and many of the young men may become a part in it before the next year is out.

Colleges and universities are flooded with talent but their graduates cannot find jobs. Factories are not hiring and most are laying off workers—while the unions are crying for more money and a strike vote.

The waterways are polluted with sewage and industrial waste; the air is reaching poisonous levels in many areas from autos, factories and airplanes.

Many older friends and relatives return home from the war zone in such a battered mental condition they cannot function properly.

The graduates sit through the same type of speeches we heard 10 to 50 years ago—"The road is long and the right path is difficult, but truth and happiness win out in the end."

They hear that they have to sell themselves to the world and become successful through hard work and self sacrifice. It's the "Do as I say and not as I've done" routine. Make the world a better place, they are told.

We all hope that those of future generations will be able to correct and learn by our mistakes, but it seems to be a growing realization of the young that the same mistakes are made over and over again by each generation. They also realize that a big mistake by someone in a plush office in Washington can kill a lot of young men from the Detroit ghetto.

They know that things have gone too far and time is short to set out on a course of correcting the wrongs of the world. Survival rather than success could become a lifetime project.

Speakers at a graduation ceremonies often talk about the distinguished alumni and wonder how many from the present class will become scientists, doctors, lawyers, etc. Looking into their faces this past weekend, one can't help but wonder if one of them will be the last soldier to die in Vietnam or the first one to die in a world war.

And maybe one of these young people will be the last person to breathe uncontaminated air or the first to be poisoned by tap water.

Through the cooperation of B. Stoddard of the Michigan Associated Telephone Company arrangements were recently completed which has made it possible to transfer the location of the DeWitt public library to the building formerly owned by the phone company.

'IF IT FITZ ...'

A racial confrontation

By JIM FITZGERALD

There were over 53,000 people at the ball park that Sunday, which meant waiting in a long line to buy a beer, I came away from the counter wondering if a race riot could be caused by a barmaid who had only Stroh's, no Budweiser.

It was the guy in front of me who wanted a Bud. He was a fat black man who smiled at my redheaded son and made friendly conversation as the line edged slowly forward. The trouble began when Fatty finally reached the barmaid and requested a Budweiser.

"Go to the next stand," she said curtly, "all we have is Stroh's." She was white.

Many of the concession stands at Tiger Stadium sell only Stroh's on draft. It is no coincidence that Stroh's sponsors the baseball broadcasts. And it is probably no coincidence that there is no large sign at these stands, warning thirsty patrons that they shouldn't waste time standing in line if they want something besides Stroh's. An uninformed customer is good for Stroh's business. By the time he reaches the counter he has already missed 2 home runs and his thirst has grown fatter while his patience has thinned. He'll take whatever the barmaid is handing out, as long as it's cold and quick.

That's how black Fatty felt about the situation. He told the barmaid he'd buy whatever she was selling, rather than buck another long line. But he couldn't resist commenting on her impolite dismissal. "That's no way to talk to a man," he told her. "Don't tell me to go somewhere else. Ask me if I want Stroh's." The barmaid wasn't going to take any of his lip. She slipped right back. With great nastiness, she informed Fatty that he couldn't tell her what to say, and what she had said was perfectly OK, she had no Budweiser, and so on.

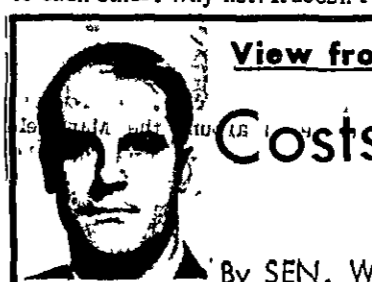

Now Fatty was angry. He out-nastied her. He accused her of talking down to him because he was black. He said "you people better get off your high horse or we are going to knock you off." He looked ready to climb over the bar and start knocking right then.

So all of a sudden, there it was: a racial confrontation in all its ugliness. Dozens of people, black and white, were crowded around the 2 antagonists. Thousands of people, black and white, were just a few feet away. The sun was hot and the booze was flowing I wished my son were someplace else—and I were there with him.

But there was no riot. Not this time. The barmaid's boss whistled in her ear and she quickly shut up. Someone told Fatty that overworked barmaids, with 53,000 customers, are often rude to everyone, regardless of race, creed or religion, and he shouldn't take it personally. He took his Stroh's and left. Whew! It was true about the barmaid. I observed her twice more throughout the doubleheader. She was nasty to 2 youngsters—both white—who had innocently sweated out a long line only to reach the dragon at the end and learn that she wouldn't sell them pop. "Y'er in the wrong line, kid. (But there's no sign warning the kids.)"

I told my son there was something important to be learned from what we'd seen. It is the importance of politeness. Everyone should smile more. They should always say "please," and "thank you." They should be kind to each other. Why not? It doesn't

Costs: going up

By SEN. WILLIAM S. BALLENGER

A lot of people ask me where all the ideas come from that result in state budgets and state taxes rising year after year? Well, the answer is: From the people, mostly—and a good majority from people who complain that their government costs too much.

For instance, a few days ago a bill was introduced in the House of Representatives that even its sponsors admit will cost Michigan taxpayers $250 million the first year of its operation.

The bill, backed by school interests and pushed by their lobbyists in the Legislature, would pay state aid on a basis of the ratio between pupils and teachers and other professionals.

In other words, the fewer the pupils in a classroom, the more state aid the school would get. A fine idea—but costly.

About the same time that bill appeared in the Legislature, the State Superintendent of Public Instruction was lobbying before a U.S. Senate special committee for schools to provide not only hot lunches for children but also in-school breakfasts and dinners for children in deprived areas.

No price tag was put on this proposal to put public schools into the restaurant business, but it's a good guess that the cost would be substantial, even with the federal government picking up a good share of the tab.

Then comes the announcement by the Speaker of the House of Representatives that he intends to have welfare payments for food and personal items raised by 56 per cent.

He would raise the food and personal care (haircuts, laundry, clothing and transportation) payments from the current $532 a year to $787 a year.

The added cost of this proposal to the taxpayers again would be substantial but the Speaker said lawmakers should not talk about welfare merely in terms of saving dollars.

When bills are introduced in the Legislature, state departments affected by them must supply legislators with analyses, which are supposed to tell the purpose of the bill and the budgetary implications, among other things.

A cursory glance at some of the bills now pending and their estimated cost makes interesting reading.

A bill to liberalize the conditions under which a physician may terminate a pregnancy would cost the state health department an estimated $25,347 to administer the first year.

Another measure, designed to require that a hospital service corporation enter into contracts with all hospitals licensed by the state, would have "significant budgetary implications" for the state "since it would remove all existing control on the number of hospital beds in Michigan."

A proposal to provide for annual cost-of-living pension benefit adjustments for state employees' an estimated $9 1/2 million more in contributions next year. The Treasury Department reported that "automatically tying the retirement payroll to the consumer price index will make it impossible for actuaries to predict future demands on the fund."

And so it goes. These are just a very few of the bills before the Legislature which, if passed, could add to the cost of state government and to everyone's taxes.

Like almost every bill introduced in the Legislature, these bills are strongly supported by a variety of individuals as well as organizations.

Put them all together and they give you an idea of why the cost of government constantly goes up, even though only a small number of the bills introduced ever become law.

GRASSROOTS OPINION

ELLSWORTH, Iowa, SOUTH HAMILTON NEWS: "Things have come to sad state in this country when a federal official will come to Congress and ask for more money so that the inmates of federal prisons can be fed more meat per day than the average law-abiding citizen consumes. Yet that's exactly what happened. The officials of the Bureau of Prisons also wanted money from the taxpayers for prison facilities that would cost $64,000 per inmate. At this point, this member of Congress was ready to admit he had heard just about everything in the way of sheer gall, when I was informed that prison officials also wanted more money to provide lawbreakers with fresh orange juice instead of the canned variety they have been getting and didn't like."

We're legalizing petty larceny, reader claims

Editor, I hesitate to write again so soon after my lengthy letter which you so kindly printed with the omission of only one line; doubtless a typesetting error, only 3 weeks ago.

But I have been following with disgust the printed arguments of the St. Johns school district officials for more millage, and since the sum total of the front page space you have given them is now much more than the inside space you have given to those of us who stand to be unjustly penalized if this millage increase passes, I have these additional thoughts:

should teach the kids? But then I guess it isn't so hard to step up to the victimization of our senior citizens, retirees and other poorer home owners as well as our farmers when we consider all the other things we teach them.

On Sunday, May 30, Rev. and Mrs. H.E. Rossow hosted an open house from 5 until 8 p.m. at the St. Paul Lutheran Parish Hall at Fowler. They honored their son, David, who was graduated from Fowler High School on Wednesday evening, May 28, Mrs. and Mrs. Paul Graff, Jr. of Lebanon were co-hosts with the Rossows.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Warren and sons from Lansing were recent Sunday supper guests of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Pasch.

Our legislators can be reached; I've found that out by painstaking unpaid personal effort. But they have probably too often been reached in the past by people who did not really have the long term best interest of our school system at heart, so they cannot spare time for any more nonsense.

Washington Reports Appropriations

Rep. U.S Garry Brown 3rd. Congressional Dist.

WASHINGTON, D.C.-- Following is a summary of action in the Congress last week and scheduled action this week.

Action in the House: Supplemental Appropriations for Fiscal Year 1971: In response to an Administration request for supplemental appropriations totaling $7.7 billion, the House approved allotting $6.9 billion, including an amendment from the floor to the House Appropriations Committee recommendations adding $8 million for medical care for veterans.

SST: By a 201-197 vote on an amendment to the Supplemental Appropriations bill above, funds originally intended to finance termination of the SST project were reallocated to continue the program. This House action gives new but still faint hope to the SST project, which earlier this year had been denied further funding by both the House and Senate.

Even should the Senate defeat the proposal, this legislation will go to a conference committee where the House and Senate members will probably be favorably inclined to report out a compromise continuing at least limited funding of the project.

Continued last week. Controversy centered around the Mansfield Amendment which would prohibit the use of funds to support U.S. military personnel in Western Europe in excess of 150,000, greatly reducing our present troop strength of nearly 600,000. The Administration strongly opposes this amendment. A vote is expected this week.

Senate Pages: The Senate acted to provide that Pages might be regardless of sex, opening the way for the appointment of three girls as Senate Pages, the first ever.

Scheduled Action in the House This Week: The major legislative proposal to be debated and acted upon is the Emergency Employment Act of 1971 discussed above. Other action includes the following: Civil Rights Commission Authorization National School Lunch Act Amendment Commission on Government Procurement Extension Removing Certain Limitations on Lost or Stolen Bearer Securities Cost of Living Adjustment for Civil Service Retirement Annuities National Environmental Data System Water Resources Planning Act Amendment Matters Pertaining to House Affairs

From the State House Lower taxes?

By REP. DICK ALLEN

Lower State taxes?? No way! The answer to the vital question why is threefold. An increasing population with more young people requiring more education and other services.

An increasing standard of living resulting in more wastes to dispose of, more cars requiring more roads built through more expensive property, etc. You've heard all those before, but the next reason will startle you.

The people of the 88th District do not think present levels of State spending are adequate! Hard to believe? It was for me, but this is the clear conclusion drawn from the returns of my recent questionnaire. The questionnaire divided the State budget into seven major headings and twenty-four subdivisions. The question asked the respondent to state whether he felt State financial support in each area should be increased, decreased, or maintained.

over half the budget areas, there was substantial opinion that State spending should be increased. Two-thirds of those responding feel State aid to local schools should be increased. Forty percent or more believe spending should be increased for Public Health services such as maternal and child health, mental health programs, traffic safety and crime control. Even in the welfare areas, some programs such as old age assistance receive strong support.

Environmental Quality is a popular area with enthusiasm for higher spending for water and air quality and recreation. A slight majority favors higher spending for industrial and agricultural development and a large majority would further support consumer protection.

All in all, I was surprised at the general support for increased spending. I knew, of course, that in each individual area there is generally a highly vocal group favoring increased spending. Some of these groups are strongly serving their own interests; others less so. But I had the opinion that most people felt we were over-spending in most areas. I have always known the difficult problem of the politicians was to serve both those who want more spending and those who want lower taxes. Only now do I realize the true difficulty. For the same people are in both groups.
